FIRE IMPERILS SHIP PASSENGERS

Japanese Troops March Into China's Industrial Center

Japan's Armies Are Resisted In Burning City

Chinese Withdrawing Westward by Boats As Vanguard Enters

SHANGHAI, Oct. 26 (Wednesday) (AP)—The Japanese vanguard today marched into burning Wuchang, one of the tri-cities, Japanese dispatches from the front said, and met sanguinary resistance from Chinese detachments who engaged in street fighting.

The occupation of Wuchang began after another advance guard from the north had entered the outskirts of Hankow, across the river. The main body of Japanese still was about 10 miles from Wuchang.

The advance guard entered through the Paoyang gate and began a slow mopping up process, with the fighting gradually spreading throughout the walled city.

Chinese stragglers were withdrawing westward by boat as the Japanese entered.

Explosions Rock Cities

Explosions still rocked the three Wuhan cities—Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang—China's rich industrial center, and flames stabbed the sky as unchecked fires spread a trail of ruin and ashes for the invaders to seize.

Along a semi-circle from north to south the Japanese were arrayed for occupation of the great inland port and commercial center—a principal goal in the undeclared war that started July 7, 1937.

The city, erstwhile provisional capital and heart of Chinese resistance, already was threatened by spreading flames, apparently the result of the Chinese "scorched earth" policy applied in the face of Japanese conquest.

General, Wife Leave

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his American-educated wife were said to have left Hankow by plane Monday night, after a mass exodus of other members of the government and civilians of Hankow and the sister cities of Wuchang and Hanyang.

Well-informed quarters in Shanghai believed Chiang had gone to the mountainous region of southeastern Hunan province where he might attempt to reorganize his central armies to meet an expected Japanese thrust toward Changsha, Hunan's capital, 180 miles south, southwest of Hankow.

Warns Foreigners

Concurrently with the closing in of Japanese Hankow forces, Masayuki Tani, Japanese minister-at-large, in Shanghai conveyed a reiterated warning from the naval command to foreign diplomatic representatives.

The warning urged neutral authorities to see that vessels bearing their flags proceed from Hankow to safer zones in the Yangtze river.

The note said it had been discovered that "many Chinese junks carrying soldiers were moving near neutral ships on the Hankow waterfront."

Tani reiterated that Japan desired to avoid possible incidents and added, "It is difficult to give assurances that Chinese troops who thus take advantage of the presence of neutral vessels will not be attacked by reason of their proximity to such vessels."

Young People Are Following 'Primrose Path to Hell'

'Jam Sessions, Jitter-Bug Orgies Corrupting Morals of Young People'—Rev. F. J. L. Beckman

BILOXI, Miss., Oct. 25 (AP)—Jam sessions and jitter-bug "orgies" are wooing young people "along the primrose path to hell" the Most Rev. Francis J. L. Beckman, Archbishop of Dubuque, tonight told the National Council of Catholic Women.

The archbishop's address, dealing with "Art for Youth and the Church," was read by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. T. Conry, V. G., of Dubuque, Ia.

Pleading for action by the church, the archbishop said in the paper that "evil forces" were fostering a type of art "embodying evil and malicious propaganda."

"Today," he said, "while the church pursues as zealously as ever she has in the past her policy of motivating, conserving and drawing to herself the best of modern art, evil forces are hard at work endeavoring to undermine its Christian status, debauch its high purpose and harness it to serve individual diabolical ends."

"Under the captions of 'sur-realism,' 'neo-paganism,' etc., we find whole groups and organizations fostering within our very borders a type of art embodying evil and malicious propaganda as its central core," Archbishop Beckman said.

"A degenerated and demoralizing 'musical' system is given a disgusting christening as 'swing' and turned loose to gnaw away the moral fibre of young people."

"We permit, if not freely indorse by our criminal indifference, 'jam sessions,' 'jitter-bugs' and cannibalistic rhythmic orgies to occupy a place in our social scheme of things, wooing our youth along the primrose path to hell."

"In such a setting, art has been robbed," he concluded, "as was the man of Jericho, of its beautiful essence and meaning, and left to die along the high-road of communistic endeavor."

Swift Opening Asked of State

Violence to Private Property Endangers Women and Children

SIoux CITY, Oct. 25 (AP)—An appeal to Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel to take steps to open the strike-bound Swift & Co. packing plant here was made in a telegram sent to Des Moines this evening by the chairman of a back-to-work group.

The telegram, signed by Harry F. Nourse, the chairman, said: "I appeal to you in behalf of some 180 petitioners and voters, hourly paid employees of Swift & Co., to take steps to enable the management of the plant to re-employ us immediately."

"These people are during the past three weeks being subjected to the most vicious intimidation and coercion," it continued, "culminating in last night's violence to private property in the numerous sections of Sioux City which endangered the lives of innocent women and children."

The homes of four of the more than 100 workmen inside the plant have been attacked in the last two days. Wives of the workmen have reported to police that windows have been broken by bricks thrown by unknown persons.

Union officials have denied that strikers were responsible. The new Grand avenue viaduct, which stretches across the railroad tracks back of the plant, was blocked off by officers tonight. Sheriff W. R. Tice said the action was taken because of fears the strikers would repeat their attacks of a week ago Tuesday night when bricks and stones were hurled at the plant during a riot.

Adj. Gen. Charles H. Grah, commander of the Iowa national guard stationed at the plant, said tonight that he as yet had no announcement about another negotiation meeting between company and union officials. He has been attempting to make arrangements for another meeting.

F. D. R. Asks Cooperation For Success of Wage-Hour Measure

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt suggested today that the government and employers join hands in making the new wage-hour law work.

He said at a press conference that experience had proved that social legislation affected some persons adversely at the start, but not permanently. For example, he said, the pecan shelling industry, virtually shut down since the law went into effect yesterday, would not go out of business permanently.

The president remarked, too, that it was unfortunate that the scattered suspensions at some plants affected by the new act should come just two weeks before general elections.

He added that he and Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, were in agreement on that point.

Andrews made a progress report to Mr. Roosevelt earlier in the day and discussed with him the administration's need for additional funds.

Congress appropriated $400,000 to get the wage-hour admin-

Rival Candidates Meet in Fourth Campaign Debate

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 25 (AP)—Robert A. Taft, campaigning to unseat new deal Senator Robert J. Bulkley, declared tonight the election of "men like Bulkley" would mean that in a short time "all powers of government would be concentrated in one man's hands."

The rival candidates met here in the fourth of their six "Lincoln-Douglas" debates, centering around the new deal. The debates have focused national attention on Ohio as a possible testing ground of administration popularity in the Nov. 8 elections.

Bulkley said his opponent had failed to say what new deal laws he would change "except perhaps the Guffey coal act."

Purse Found 'Diogenes' Successful In Cedar Rapids

CEDAR RAPIDS, Oct. 25 (AP)—Diogenes may as well put his lantern away in the antique closet. There are still honest persons in the world.

Mrs. Charles J. Stewart of Cedar Rapids reported to police early tonight that she had lost $9,300 in fifty and one hundred dollar bills in the city's business district some time between one and five o'clock this afternoon. Her report showed that she was carrying the sum in a "dirty pink rag purse."

Later tonight an unidentified woman returned the money to Mrs. Stewart intact, having found the purse on a downtown street according to a report to the police.

NILE NAVY Egypt to Build Fleet For Defense

CAIRO, Oct. 25 (AP)—Egypt, situated in one of the most strategic spots in the Mediterranean, decided tonight to build a fleet to defend her territory.

The council of defense voted to start building an Egyptian fleet of 36 vessels at a cost of 3,500,000 pounds ($17,500,000). Light cruisers mine layers and submarines will be the bulk of the fleet. The vessels will be built in England.

Letter Threatening Ensign Is Identified in Trial of Nazi Spy

German's Letter Tells Brown To Be Silent About Offers

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—A red-haired young U. S. navy ensign, stationed aboard the aircraft carrier Enterprise, today identified in federal court a letter from a German spy threatening him with "dire consequences" if he divulged overtures made to him for American military secrets.

The witness, Ensign William B. Brown, said he was stationed aboard the U. S. aircraft carrier Saratoga last January when he received the letter. He ignored it at the time.

Two Minute Witness
Appearing as a "two minute witness," Ensign Brown interrupted the cross-examination of Guenther Rummrich, 32, confessed Nazi spy, who previously testified that he sent a threatening letter to Ensign Brown urging him to "wise up" and telling him there were "certain ways" an enterprising naval officer could make money.

The letter advised Brown to communicate with Rummrich through an advertisement in the New York Times.

Rummrich also acknowledged that this attempt to lead an American officer into betraying his uniform and flag was only one among many "penny dreadful" plots which failed to materialize.

Cross Examined
As Rummrich resumed the stand, George C. Dix, attorney for Fraulein Johanna ("Jenni") Hoffmann, 26, one of the three defendants on trial, subjected the witness to a searching cross-examination on what promises, if any, he had received in return for testifying for the government.

"I received no promises," said Rummrich, who pleaded guilty at the start of the trial.

Dix referred to previous testimony that Leon G. Turrou, former FBI agent who helped "break" the spy case, told Rummrich "if you play ball with me, I'll play ball with you."

"What did you understand about Turrou saying that?" "I don't know," Rummrich answered.

Accuses Committee Of Unfair Attempt To Change Election

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt came to the defense of Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan tonight against charges of "treason" leveled at the governor by witnesses before the house committee on un-American activities.

And in doing so, Mr. Roosevelt took occasion to give the committee a severe dressing down, which included an accusation that it had let itself be "used in a flagrantly unfair attempt to influence an election," and had "made no effort to get at the truth."

Americans Hope
"Most fair-minded Americans," said the president, "hope that the committee will abandon the practice of merely providing a forum to those who for political purposes or otherwise, seek headlines which they could not otherwise obtain."

Mr. Roosevelt referred specifically to testimony last Friday by Judge Paul V. Gadola of the Michigan circuit court and John Barringer, former city manager of Flint, Mich., that Murphy had prevented the execution of a writ for the ejection of automobile sit-down strikers and had failed to give the city needed assistance. Barringer called the governor's actions "treasonable."

Defends Murphy
On the contrary, the president said in a formal statement, Murphy by "pains-taking and statesmanlike efforts," brought about a settlement of the strike without bloodshed or the use of force, which "elicited the commendation of all the important motor manufacturers involved."

The chief executive's statement was issued at the close of a day which saw the committee receive testimony accusing Secretary Perkins of the labor department of "dereliction of duty" for not pursuing a more vigorous course in the deportation of communist aliens, and a suggestion that impeachment proceedings were in order. The witnesses were Harper Knowles and Ray E. Nimmo, of the radical research committee of the American Legion in California.

They also told the committee that communists had organized agricultural and cannery workers of California for the purpose of tying up food supplies at a time of general strike or revolution, and that communists were working in the schools and among the professional groups in California.

Opens 1938-39 Lecture Series

Linton Wells, left, is shown with Prof. Benj. P. Shambaugh, superintendent of the State Historical society and chairman of the senate board on university lectures, just before he spoke last night in Iowa Union. Wells, who returned recently from his seventh trip to Latin America, told his audience that President Roosevelt's "good neighbor" policy among the Latin American nations had removed almost completely the feeling of antagonism which formerly existed between those nations and the United States. He urged that Americans should do all within their power to extend American politics, finance and culture to the Latin Americas.

Hero's Role Blights Screen Career Of Talbot

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 25 (AP)—Lyle Talbot played a real hero's role today which probably will blight his screen career.

Talbot's hands, neck, and arms were burned so severely in a $50,000 fire that destroyed his home he may never appear again before a camera. He dragged his house guest, Franklin D. Parker, filled bedroom to safety on a second story ledge.

Witnesses saw Talbot, trapped on the second floor by flames that started at ground level, trying desperately to drag Parker, who was unconscious, out on a porch roof from a bedroom. Talbot, choking with smoke, his pajamas aflame, finally got Parker to safety and then leaped 20 feet to the ground to assist firemen.

Parker suffered severe burns on his back. The condition of both men was critical, said physicians at Cedars of Lebanon hospital.

Firemen said a party was in progress at the Talbot home until early this morning. Parker was the only guest who remained.

Some of the personal effects of Talbot and his wife, the former Marguerite Cramer of New York, were saved by firemen, and $1,000 in cash and jewelry valued at several thousands of dollars was found in a sock hidden in Mrs. Talbot's closet. Scores of her costly gowns and 40 suits, 100 shirts and about 400 neckties of the actor were brought out of the fire-gutted residence. Mrs. Talbot, who had spent the night with a friend, Mrs. Billy Snyder, hastened to the hospital as soon as she heard of the fire.

Does Not Foresee Success of 'isms' In South America

By LOREN HICKERSON Daily Iowan Campus Editor

With the declaration that only through the maintenance of the largest army, navy and air force in the world can the youth of America keep out of war, Linton Wells, RCA's roving reporter, opened the 1938-39 university lecture series in Iowa Union last night.

Wells foresaw only a slight threat of the success of "isms" in the South American countries, because of the nature of the peoples themselves, despite the fact that Germany, Italy, Japan and Russia are infiltrating those nations with propaganda.

Radio, which the speaker termed the greater disseminator of information of all such media, is a vital factor in the Latin American situation, Wells said. It is by means of radio that Nazi and fascist doctrines are extended to the southern part of the western hemisphere.

More important, however, he pointed out, is the interference by those powers with American radio transmission to South America.

The speaker, who recently returned from a 26,000-mile flight to 18 of the 20 countries in Latin and South America, predicted the early entrance of government into radio, because of the expense and lack of revenue of radio activities in the Latin American countries by private American corporations.

Opening his lecture by reading the Monroe doctrine, which more than 100 years ago established under an American protectorate the sanctity of South America, Wells (See WELLS page 8)

German Liner Afire During Atlantic Storm

Fire Under Control After Crew Fights Flame for Two Hours

(Copyright, 1938, by The AP) NEW YORK, Oct. 25 — Fire sweeping below decks of the German liner Deutschland imperiled the lives of 1,000 persons tonight in a north Atlantic storm off Newfoundland before it was controlled.

After a frightening two hours of fire-fighting, the captain radioed The Associated Press this laconic message:

"Fire under control." Other ships were racing through the dark, gale-whipped waters 200 miles southeast of Cape Race to her assistance, answering calls frantically seeking help in the ship's dire need.

591 Passengers
Aboard the big ship were 591 passengers and about 400 crew members. Included among the passengers were 350 Americans.

Five passenger liners swung swiftly from their courses to go to the burning ship's aid. United States coastguard cutters from as far distant as Boston, 700 miles away, and New London, Conn., put out to sea.

Heavy seas and rains buffeted both the beleaguered liner and the ships offering succor.

Off Newfoundland — the Deutschland reported her position as 200 miles southeast of Cape Race — a southeaster was raging. High, choppy waves were battering the ship as she fought for her life in the night.

Capt. Karl Steincke, the Deutschland's veteran master, sent out his first alarm at 5:22 p.m. (CST).

There had been an explosion in a compartment of number 2 hold. Flames and smoke swept upward in a sudden blast. The ship's fire squads rushed into the battle.

Above, the passengers were in the cocktail lounges, at dinner, dancing. The crew's first attack on the fire failed. The flames steadily spread. Captain Steincke ordered every available sailor into the fight.

It was not the first time the 15-year-old ship had lived through a fire. Eight years ago a fire broke out at sea and was extinguished without a passenger being the wiser.

This fight, though, was not so tame. The fire fighters were driven back for a time. Captain Steincke radioed nearby ships: "Assistance necessary urgently."

Fire Under Control
Then, at 8:15 p.m., Captain Steincke radioed The Associated Press: "Fire under control."

Within half an hour the Boston office of the Hamburg-American line had received confirmation of this report. But there was no immediate indication that the rescue ships would stop their race to the Deutschland.

Neither was there any immediate indication as to how serious was the damage.

The Deutschland, which left Hamburg Oct. 20 and Cherbourg the following day, was due at her Hudson river pier at 8 a.m. (CST) Friday.

A Step

But In

The Right Direction

THE PECAN factories of the south have closed their doors in protest against the new wage and hour law. They state that it is impossible for them to pay the minimum wage specified by the new law of 25 cents an hour and offer the revealing information that the prevailing rate in the pecan industry is ten to fifteen cents an hour. Even if they employ their workers on a 60-hour week, which isn't possible under the new law, they would only be paying a maximum wage of $9 a week. If these are the facts, we are glad that they have closed their doors and they should remain closed until they agree to pay the minimum rate specified by the wage and hour law.

The criticism of the new law will be severe. Much of it will be as revealing as that from the pecan industry and will show up those businesses that have been paying starvation wages. It has been a long fight to secure legislation in favor of the common laborer. This is most certainly a step in the right direction. If there are industries that can't pay the minimum rate because prices are too low, the prices must be adjusted. No business has a right to operate on sweat labor.

One clause of the law provides that no one under 14 years of age shall be employed and in most industries, no one under 16. It would seem that such a provision would be unnecessary, that no industry would take advantage of child labor to lower prices or increase profits, but such is not the case and this provision will affect a number of unscrupulous businesses. Probably one of the best features of the law and the one that will come in for the most criticism is the clause that provides for the raising of the minimum rate to 40 cents an hour by 1945 and the reducing of the maximum number of hours from 44 to 40. This gives fair warning and industry can begin making the necessary adjustments for the government intends to see to it that the laborer gets a square deal.

With this law, however, the job is not finished. All industries and places of business are not affected by the new law as it applies only to those engaged in interstate commerce. The time must soon come when no man need work for starvation wages and to this end, the government must enact further legislation.

One of life's little inconsistencies is noted in New York where Governor Lehman told his friends he didn't want a fourth term, and now finds he has a fight on his hands to get it.

Harvard professors have found that golf was played originally in the Netherlands, not Scotland. And a dub missing his drive probably furnished the idea for the windmill.

Autumn Beauty

Versus

Tyrant Soot

MID-AUTUMN—the tang of winter in the air; dabs of color interspersed amongst the drab bark of the nearly naked tree limbs; brownish sod, tinted enough with green to evidence the passing presence of "injun summer"; thick lowering clouds bearing snow cargoes; contrasting nature-blue skies; savory, zestful air—and embracing it all, Iowa City's shroud of smoke.

For us—few of these autumn glories. For us—the harsh, scorching stench of burning coal that is poor in quality and even more poorly consumed.

Smoke sticks over, in and throughout Iowa City, polluting the air and our lungs, blackening buildings and houses, blotting out the distinctiveness of these autumn nights.

Yet the gray blanket we smother under now is only a foretaste of worse to come.

On the heels of winter, his highness Black Soot will envelop Iowa City, as unending streams of waste coal pour from downtown chimneys in ebony clouds of filth. Once again, his black legions will effect their annual conquest and occupation of Iowa City.

Breathe deeply, citizens, while you yet may enjoy some fresh autumn air, for Black Soot's reign is a long and unpleasant one.

Another Slant On the Dies Investigations

NEWS REPORTS indicate that the Dies committee (America-Is-About-To-Go-Red-If-We-Don't-Save-It) will make further attempts to pry into the activities of left-wing student groups and youth movements if its requests for increased funds is granted by congress. These organizations have come under the watchful eyes of the investigators because of their spreading of "subversive" and communistic doctrines in the universities of the country.

We hold little sympathy for un-American groups who seek to transplant European politics in this country, but this growing habit of congressional snooping into every organization and its business makes us wonder just how American Mr. Dies really is himself. Or would it be possible that this is Americanism so long as the holler-than-thous are the ones who violate the principle of individual freedom?

An economist says that we'll wake up some morning and wonder under the depression has gone. And for how long?

The golfer who recently married a sewing machine heiress is reasonably certain he never will see the seamy side of life.

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

Motors have led the United States back to prosperity before. And the joyful acceptance of the news that General Motors has recalled 35,000 workers and restored pay cuts for 30,000 shows the general conviction that automobiles again will take their rightful place in the current movement toward better times.

The motor vehicle industry alone, of course, could not have brought recovery. Modern economy is too complex for any single industry, however large, to do that.

Automobile manufacturers suffered from a complication of troubles. Among the foremost were labor disturbances, a market glut of used cars, and lack of sufficiently widespread purchasing power to encourage the movement of new models.

One by one these obstacles have been surmounted. Labor and managements have gradually improved their relations. Intelligent action on the part of the automobile industry, aided by newspaper cooperation, has helped move the surplus of used cars.

The spending program of the national administration has made money available and has restored confidence.

Motor car manufacturers of America have always been outstanding in their never-ending quest of finer products. Each year they offer to the American people models incorporating the result of constant and brilliant research.

This year is no exception. On the contrary, the new models being presented this month record a new high mark for an industry accustomed to superlatives.

They are more beautiful automobiles; they are more efficient automobiles; they are more comfortable automobiles, and they are safer automobiles.

Not all our problems have been solved. But the motor vehicle industry is a good example of how solutions may be found.

Labor, business, government and the public have demonstrated their ability to cooperate. The demonstration adds to confidence that they will continue to move together on an ever broadening front.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Movie people with boats are, by and large, all in the same boat. And it's a very nice, if expensive, vehicle.

To own a boat means, among other things, that the sailor in grease-paint has arrived. It means, socially and financially, he is "in." He has to be in, financially, or he couldn't own a boat. He usually gets in, socially, as soon as he does own one. Boats are such nice places to spend weekends and holidays. The boatowner finds that out, unless he's cagey, very soon after the downpayment. He finds that he has friends he never knew he had.

Owning a boat for show purposes is practically passe, however. The people who have yachts—schooners and yawls and ketches—support them because they like them.

Errol Flynn, naturally, would have to have a boat, if only to justify his biography. What's life to Flynn without adventures?

When he came to Hollywood he didn't know he'd have one, but here he is with that 75-foot schooner Sirocco and crew of five. It's his pet.

John Ford, the director, has a boat too. No show, although the Araner is a slick vessel. Ford and family spend vacations aboard cruising. Ford and Dudley Nichols whipped up the script of "The Informer" aboard it. He's a good sailor.

Jimmy Cagney's boat, the Martha, is an old-timer. Thirty-five years old, it's a 64-foot schooner. Jimmy used to suffer from seasickness but got over it. After all, a fellow who owns a boat can't put up with seasickness. The Martha is his hide-out. He can catch up on sleep there.

Flynn and Cagney and Ford and most of the others are catch-as-catch-can sailors when it comes to costuming. They wear old clothes, or white ducks, and jersey sweaters.

Not so Dick Powell. Dick dresses the part like the musical comedy star he is. When Dick boards the 48-foot power cruiser Eroica he is usually in uniform, gold braid, brass buttons and all the trimmings. I imagine Dick is surprised every time he gets aboard. He didn't want a boat, at first. He and Joan Blondell both got terribly seasick when they were boat-shopping. They didn't last the trial cruise. They thought the boat was very nice, oh yes, but if the salesman didn't mind would he tack in toward shore—and quick! Well, Dick got over it, and Joan has acquired a new set of sea legs.

Allen Jenkins' boat isn't in the social register—not quite. He built it himself. For four years it rested, being worked on, in the Jenkins garage. At least one end of it did. At 18 feet, it stuck out a bit. Jenkins doesn't aim at world cruises. He skits around pretty close to shore. The name of the midget craft, incidentally, is the Normandy.

WASHINGTON WORLD

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, D. C. — An essential article of manufacture; his essential aim is to be the main thing in a spectacular, popular investigation.

Senator O'Mahoney's effort appears to be in a class by itself. Had the Wyomingite chosen, he could have been practically the sole inquirer. Instead he made his committee a three-jointed affair—senate, house of representatives and executive. Indeed, he has somewhat obscured himself.

Moreover, if he had any partisan motives, he would have stated his hearing ahead of Nov. 8, in order to influence election day results. He didn't do that. He deliberately postponed his body's activities until after election, to keep the partisanship taint entirely out of them. He specifically gave that as his reason for the delay—and I imagine that the administration would have been glad to have him begin sooner; his probe might have generated some strong new deal medicine.

Principally O'Mahoney is a new dealer. He fought supreme court packing, but he's exceptionally on the square. Here's his philosophy: This country, originally the most individualistic on earth, gradually and imperceptibly has become corporatized. It's almost as much so as Germany or Italy.

Yet there's a distinction. Germany and Italy (yes, and Russia) are GOVERNMENTALLY corporatized. There's a modicum of corporate responsibility to the public. It's a bad system, but it isn't entirely irresponsible. Whereas our big corporations, being private, are responsible to nobody.

Senator O'Mahoney's theory is that they must be subjected to some minimum of regulation or there's danger that they'll be centrally swallowed up, as in the totalitarian countries.

The senator wants to ascertain what this minimum is, so preserving democracy. It's as complicated as sixty.

She is looking very feminine. . . But the photographers aren't very pleased. . . The young man who is dancing with her refuses to reveal his identity. . . After a while the photographers attempt to discover the young man's identity through the ruse of having a pretty cigarette girl pause and ask for autographs. . . Mrs. Moody says, "Sure, you may have mine, but not his—he can't write." . . . Which leaves the photographers just where they started.

Eddie LeBaron, the orchestra leader and motion picture producer, comes in. . . At the moment he is unable to recall our name, so he covers up by slapping us on the shoulder and yells, "Hyah, you rat!" . . . LeBaron is the man who says, "If you can't learn to tango in 30 minutes, you can't learn in five years."

At an adjacent table a man who made a fortune out of hairpins is saying to a columnist: "I was in Shanghai when Ronald Colman visited there. . . His brother is a customs official. . . After he arrived, he told the newspapers he hoped they wouldn't bother him too much, as he needed a rest. . . So they ran a small item announcing that he was in the city. They never mentioned him again all the time he was there."

The music is playing again now, but only a few of the guests are dancing. . . Everybody seems bent on satisfying their hunger. . . Estell and LeRoy, the dancers, are attacking club sandwiches. . . They have been away from New York 18 months, and seem glad to be back.

I am giving my attention to an order of the hottest chili con carne you ever saw. . . I like it hot. . . The hairpin king, behind dark glasses, and his companion will have nothing but champagne. . . It seems to be that champagne is really an over-rated drink. . . Maybe I'm wrong. . . But I would rather have one thimble of Metaxa brandy than a magnum of champagne. . . That's Greek brandy, you never know whether you're tasting or smelling it.

Can that be John Buckmaster dancing with the girl in red? . . . It can be and is. . . John Buckmaster is the English actor who plays the role of Lord Alfred Douglas in "Oscar Wilde." . . In the printed text of the play he is described as "a strikingly handsome youth," and he is.

Billy Rose thrusts his coal-black noggin through the door. . . It is the first time I've seen him in a nightclub that isn't his own in three years. . . Whither, Monsieur Rose? . . . I'm looking for a bar. . . He says, "Several bars. . . No, not THAT kind of bar," indicating the rail where the drinks are made. "I want bars in waltz-time. . . I'm writing a song and I'm stumped. . . I've got about five or six bars to go."

People come in, others go out. . . Some you know, others you never heard of. . . It happens this way every night of the week, every week of the month, every month of the year. . . It's just a typical, every day nightclub scene in New York.

Men Cry 'Foul' When Rouge Banned GRINNELL (AP)—Freshman girls of Grinnell college are biting their lips and pinching their own cheeks while men students complain about unfair competition.

That's because the women's self-government league ruled out lipstick, rouge, powder and emerald polish for all freshman girls until after Thanksgiving.

The male students say it is spite work by the older girls competing for dates. Faculty members say "it's the best-looking group of freshman women in years."

City Has 100 Pounds Of Soot Per Person CLEVELAND (AP)—A WPA study of Cleveland smoke conditions reveals that 50,000 tons of soot float in this city's atmosphere within a year.

These figures were broken down to about 100 pounds of soot for each of the area's million inhabitants and the annual smoke bill was estimated to total $10,000,000.

Health Hints By Logan Clendening, M. D. Protein food is that which is good animal protein. There will never any human being who lived from birth to death a strict vegetarian. Everybody got protein in mother's milk, or whatever milk was fed to infancy. It would be pretty hard to arrange a diet for a baby without milk. Pretty hard!

Theory is Nonsense The idea that animal proteins ferment in the intestine and are poisonous is sheer nonsense. If proteins are poisonous, we are living in a lake of poison because we are breaking down animal proteins in our bodies every day.

Meat has somehow gotten a very bad name. Why, it is hard to tell because it is a splendid food, and it appeals instinctively to the human appetite. It can be said quite definitely that it does not cause kidney disease, arthritis, hardening of the arteries or high blood pressure. In fact, many of my friends in the medical profession have abandoned the old idea of withholding meat from their kidney and high blood pressure cases, and now are feeding them meat.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS W.: Please advise in your column if it is safe to take mineral oil and agar agar for a condition of rectal fissure and one sentinel pile. I have heard that a rectal specialist said that the continued use of mineral oil would cause piles. Is this true?

Answer: Mineral oil is a good palliative in the condition described. It is not a sufficiently drastic cathartic to cause piles. But why not have them removed surgically? The operation is simple and the relief instantaneous.

Subject of Debate The question as to what form of protein we should select for our regular food is the subject of debates, usually conducted with more emotion than science.

Meat is the central part of this battle ground. All vegetarians eschew meat. Strict vegetarians do not eat any animal protein on the grounds that they are all poisonous. Ethical vegetarians forbid only meat, because of the cruelty of slaughtering animals, but they eat milk and eggs. So they get

Three Day Dolphin Show Starts Tomorrow

Basket Squad in Fast Drill; Sophs Look Good Show Promises To Be One Of Best in Long Line of Good Ones

Hawkeye Netsters Sharpen Basket Eyes in Session

Anapol and Ward Display Good Form; Lind Flashes Speed

Showing some improvement over last week, university hoopsters last night went through a lively drill in the third of their bi-weekly practice sessions.

The greatest improvement in the varsity performance was in the matter of shooting. The boys seemed to be recovering from their long layoff and were hitting the hoop with something like their ordinary regularity. A sophomore, Angelo Anapol tossed in a few trick one handed goals. A second sophomore forward, Bob Ward, of Cedar Rapids, also exhibited a good basket eye, as did Howard Irvine, a sophomore guard.

The one big flaw in the session last night was the floor work. This, however, was excusable in view of the fact that several of the men being used on offensive formations were sophomores who are unfamiliar with the plays being devised by Lawrence "Pops" Harrison. The work of Tommy Lind, veteran forward and Hobbs, a holdover guard from last year was outstanding. Lind, one of the smallest men on the squad, is an exceptionally smooth ball handler and seems destined to see a great deal of service this year.

While an abundance of material is available for all of the other positions, the center post has Harrison rather worried, although Charles Plett, a minor I winner of last year, is showing up well in practices to date. The only other pivot man available at present is Kenneth Bastian who saw some service last year before becoming ineligible after the first semester. After the football season ends, the pressure will probably be relieved somewhat by the return of Dick Evans to the squad, and it is possible that in this trio will be found the man to fill the shoes left vacant by the graduation of Jack Dres.

U-High Gridders, In Fast Session For West Branch

Light signal drills and the addition of several plays gave University high's gridders a busy Tuesday afternoon as the Blues sped preparations for their tilt at West Branch Friday.

With Burns doing the heaving, the Blues passed through and around the opposing second team. Well executed laterals usually were forthcoming when a tackle was eminent. With the present combination in the backfield and at the ends, Coach Brechler's protégés will be a threat to any pass defense.

West Branch, whose season's record is comparable to that of the Blues, presents a team also very similar. Both teams are light and will depend upon razzle-dazzle gridiron play for a good share of their yardage. As neither pass defense has been tested, an alert secondary may mean the difference between victory and defeat in the coming battle.

A long workout with plenty of scrimmage play will feature today's practice, while Thursday the team will take it easy prior to the following day's game.

MAL ELWARD - PURDUE COACH

Wait Till '40, Cry at Texas Coach Bible Puts Blame for Poor Showing on Reserves

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 25 (AP)—Failure of Dana X. Bible's University of Texas football team to get in the win column this season has caused a dribble of whimpers in some quarters but the howls apparently are falling on deaf ears among those in power at the school.

Accustomed to dominating the Big Six conference with potent Nebraska eleven, the bald mentor sits tight at Texas where he is beginning his second year and offers alibis only if pressed.

He was lured from Nebraska at a reported salary of $15,000 annually. Last year, his first, the Longhorns finished in the south-west conference cellar and have failed to win a game this season.

Bible admits he is receiving complaints but expressed himself as "happy" over the loyalty of serious-minded alumni, school officials, students and squadmen.

His chief explanation of Texas' defeats—few of them top-sided, however—is a lack of reserve strength. His current squad numbers 30-odd, smallest in the history of the school and possibly less than half that of other conference schools.

Among alumni generally the theme song is "Wait for 1940." They point to a gigantic squad of freshmen, including former mythical all-state school boys brought here as a result of the Bible plan, which claims to offer boys of outstanding athletic ability "more" than other schools by way of educational prospects and permits minimum wage for working students. It has been in operation only one year.

Big Ten Briefs

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 25 (AP)—Passes and two 40-yard placekicks by quarterback George Faust featured the University of Minnesota football team's workout today.

The Gophers spent more than an hour working on their aerial game, with halfback Harold Van Every doing the tossing. George Nash and John Mariucci at ends made several fine catches during the drills.

AN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 25 (AP)—Michigan indulged today in its first formal scrimmage in a month with Coach Fritz Crisler declaring he expected "an awful fight" from Illinois Saturday. Dave Strong, former Illinois quarterback, threw one touchdown pass against a reserve eleven and Tom Harmon threw two of the same. Halfback Norm Purrucker and guard Ralph Heikkinen rested injuries on the sidelines.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 25 (AP)—Lyn Waldorf doesn't intend to have Northwestern lose to Minnesota Saturday through a fumble. The Wildcat backs went through a long drill today in ball handling before they faced Gopher plays run by a freshman team.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25 (AP)—Coach Clark Shaughnessy shifted Ed Valenz, a halfback with drive and speed, to end today where Shaughnessy said he might be of more value to the Chicago Mar-on aerial offense which brought scores against Michigan and Ohio State. Mort Goodstein, another back, was shifted to right tackle yesterday, replacing Hugh Rendleman, who moved to center. The Maroons will play De Pauw Saturday.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 25 (AP)—George Rettinger, regular Illinois fullback, was moved down to the third team today as Coach Bob Zuppke gave his first stringers a light workout and prescribed heavy duty for the second and third elevens.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 25 (AP)—Coach Mal Edward of Purdue university tried today to build a strong forward line to use in the football game at Iowa Saturday. He tested Al Rossi at left tackle and Jim Maloney at right guard in place of Captain Joe Mihal and Carl Verplank, hurt in the Wisconsin game last week end.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 25 (AP)—Indiana university's football Coach Bo McMillin set out today to find a new backfield combination and remarked he wasn't worried particularly about Saturday's Wisconsin game because "our remaining games couldn't be any tougher than the ones we've played."

Some of the boys are forgetting we lost Joe Szabo, our best guard, even before the season started," Bo said in answering critics, "and have been without our two best backs, Cobb Lewis and Joe Tofel, since the Ohio State game and without Petrick and Harris two weeks."

Phi Deltas Cop Decision From Phi Epsilon Pi

Phi Delta Theta, displaying a strong aerial attack subdued a fighting Phi Epsilon Pi, 21-6, to remain undefeated in interfraternity class A touchfootball.

Featuring a long passing attack with Delzell doing the pitching the Phi Deltas were a constant threat. Landsberg and Naekel received long tosses for touchdowns, while another came on a 40-yard run by Newbold.

Backs Loaf

LINCOLN (AP)—Defensive line play was given a thorough going over in yesterday's workout of Nebraska's Cornhuskers footballers, and the backs were allowed to take it easy.

Little Hawk Gridders Finish Heavy Work for Wilson High

Display Good Form In Final Workout For C. R. Contest

Coach Herb Cormack's Iowa City high school Little Hawks last night finished their heavy work in preparation for their game with Wilson high at Cedar Rapids tomorrow night.

Cormack gave the boys individual work and followed with a long scrimmage. The Hawks looked good in last night's practice but Cormack has no hopes of an easy win from Wilson.

Iowa City will flash a powerful running game against the Cedar Rapids club. Miller, Lewis, McLaughlin and Buckley will carry the brunt of the running while McGinnis and Buckley will handle the passing duties. Joe McGinnis will do the punting.

Iowa City's probable lineup will see Walsh and Crumley at ends, Beck and Hirt at tackles, Fetig and Mueller at guards and Wright at center. The backfield combination will include McGinnis, Buckley, Lewis and Miller.

Wilson will be paced by the slippery running of Tom Farmer, the invader's fast charging backfield ace. He will be bolstered by a fast but light line.

Early California Indians did not use drums, but had flutes, whistles and panpipes.

Frank Balazs Returns To Iowa Lineup

Iowa's Hawkeyes had a menu of fundamentals served them yesterday as Tubbs put the team through a tackling drill against freshman ball carriers.

Several of the players were confined to light limbering up exercises, not having fully recovered from injuries received in the Colgate game.

Frank Balazs, on the injured list for more than two weeks, returned to active duty and gave every indication that he would be in shape to face the Boilermakers in the Dad's day game, Saturday.

Several more shifts in the lineup found Carl Sullivan performing at one of the halves while Jerry Niles continued to hold out at center.

Nile Kinnick may or may not see action in Saturday's game, much depending on how well his ankle, injured in an early season game, responds to the rest cure.

Defense AMES (AP)—Defensive scrimmage against Marquette university played run by freshmen was the practice menu for Iowa State Cyclones yesterday as they prepared to meet the Milwaukee team there Saturday.

Dutton Discus Event Won By Dick Hein

Other competitors were: John Nichols, Jim Van Heel, Winston Lowe, John Clemens, William Bell, Garfield Hiller, Warter Rouzer, Leo Scallon, Otto Boetche, Harry Elsborg Keith Bieschke, Bob Mohner, Jack Alexander and Jack Whitehurst.

Marcus Bach Writes Book Of Religious Plays

Marcus Bach, widely known as a religious playwright at the University of Iowa and in Chicago, now is an instructor in English at Carleton college, is the author of a new book entitled "Vesper Dramas" which has just been published by Willett, Clark and company.

He is an alumnus of the University of Iowa, having received his B.A. in 1936 and his M.A. in 1937. Mr. Bach is known for his work in the field of drama, having been for several years associated with the university's experimental theater.

In 1937 he won a national creative writing award for his play, "Happy Menger," and last year his religious pageant spectacle, "Light of Ages," was produced by the Chicago Centennial Festival of Religion in the civic opera house.

"Vesper Dramas" contains 10 short religious plays designed for presentation in the chancel of the church. In connection with each of the plays the book presents a suggested worship program of selected music, prayer and scripture arranged by William H. Leach for the purpose of announcing the theme of the play and providing the proper atmosphere.

All of the 10 plays have had successful experimental production in Chicago and Cleveland, notably in the Church of the Covenant, Presbyterian and the First Baptist church of Cleveland.

"Vesper Dramas" was written with the idea that drama is an integral part of the worship service and each play has a spiritual message. The plays are varied in theme but all are basically designed for presentation at an ordinary vesper service.

The dramas are simple in setting and action, practically all of them requiring only from three to six players. Emphasis is placed on modern problems and the time of action for five of the plays is the present day. Four have setting in early Christian times and one in 1535.

It's Heather But It Came From Old Scotland

By ANNE MARIE SHEELEY
Scotch heather in Iowa!
No, it's not impossible, because Barbara Murchison, A1 of Sidney, has several sprays of the real thing.

Barbara's heather is the purple variety. It looks much like an evergreen branch with small lavender buds which grow close to the stem.

The heather was sent to Barbara by her grandmother Mrs. Donald Murchison, who lives in Edinburgh, Scotland. She also sent some of the rarer white heather which is supposed to bring good luck.

"Heather blooms late in August," Barbara said, "so my sprays are almost two months old. My grandmother picked it herself and then sent it to America on the Queen Mary."

Barbara's mother was born in Scotland, and many of her relatives live in or near Edinburgh. Every year some member of the family or friend sends a box to the American Murchisons.

"Yes, I saw the heather growing and blooming," Barbara said, describing her own trip to Scotland two years ago. "It grows about four inches from the ground. It covers the rocks like a carpet, and it is very spongy to walk on."

HOSTESS HINTS

Bright sunny days in fall always bring out gay parties of people bent on hikes or picnics. The exercise and keen air builds up hearty appetites and besides everything always tastes twice as good in the open air.

Here are some dishes you can either prepare at home and take with you well wrapped in papers to keep them hot for hours or you can take the ingredients and go in for a little informal cooking on the spot.

Broiled Meat Cakes
1 pound ground beef
1-2 cup dried bread crumbs
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 tablespoon chopped onions
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika
1 egg yolk
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter

Mix together the meat, crumbs, seasonings and yolk. Shape into cakes half an inch thick. Sprinkle with flour and dot with butter. Broil for five minutes. Turn and cook other side. Serve barbecue sauce.

Barbecue Sauce
1-4 cup catsup
1-4 cup chili sauce
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1-2 teaspoon granulated sugar
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons vinegar
Let the ingredients simmer together for three minutes. Serve hot.

Escalloped Corn
4 cups cooked corn
1-2 cups crumbs
1-4 cup chopped celery
1-2 teaspoons salt
1-2 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon granulated sugar
3 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 eggs, beaten
2 cups milk
1-2 cup butter, melted

Mix corn, crumbs and seasonings. Add rest of the ingredients which have been mixed together. Pour into shallow greased dish. Bake for 25 minutes in moderate oven. Wrap up in several layers of cloth or papers and this dish will keep hot for hours.

Brazil Nut Orange Bread
3 cups flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 cup finely cut Brazil nuts
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
3-4 cup orange marmalade

Blend well and pour batter into well-greased bread pan and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees F. for one and one-quarter hours. Slice thin and it makes fine sandwiches for a picnic with cream cheese as filling.

Vocalists With Art Kassel

Featured with Art Kassel and his "Kassels in the Air" orchestra which will play here Friday night for the I-Blanket Hop will be Billy Leach and Marion Holmes, vocalists. The orchestra, which has just completed an engagement in the Cosmopolitan hotel in Denver, has previously played at university parties and has enjoyed widespread popularity.

The informal party to be held from 9 to 12 p.m. in the main lounge of Iowa Union is a part of the Dads' day festivities. It is being sponsored by A. F. I., senior men's honorary organization.

On Other Campuses

Want Peace

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (ACP)—A new and novel peace education program has been established by the Society of Friends, a program that calls for a series of "peace retreats" for college students in various sections of the United States.

At these retreats students will plan peace activities for the year, and delegates will assume responsibility for leading campus-wide peace programs in addition to an off-campus program.

More Military

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (ACP)—War scares and international crises have brought enrollments in military and naval training courses to new highs.

At Harvard university there undergraduates are flocking to the two courses, with naval science enrollment almost double that of a year ago and military science registration up more than a third.

Enrollments Up

(By Associated College Press)
A new high in college and university enrollments has been set this fall with an increase over last year of 4.8 per cent, preliminary registration surveys reveal.

Increase in college registration in 1937 over 1936 was 3.9 per cent, but the largest sectional increase this year was in the south, where the gain was 5.7 per cent. Eastern college enrollments have increased 5.2 per cent and the west 4.3 per cent. Increases last year were 3.3 per cent and 3.8 per cent, respectively.

Corned Beef

ITHACA, N. Y. (ACP)—Modern Americans still like their corned beef and cabbage with the odor left in.

At least that is the conclusion of Cornell university's Prof. C. H. Myers, who has developed a new type of cabbage that does not give off objectionable odors when cooked. He came to his conclusion after surveying the sales reports on his new cabbage, which are surprisingly low.

Bill Would Extend Business District on Capitol Street

Shulman, who has a business establishment on adjoining property, told the council he wishes the change because he wishes to remodel his present place of business.

Other business for the council will be the introduction of a resolution to certify the unpaid poll tax and the unpaid assessments from the engineer's office for cutting of weeds on vacant lots in the city.

OUR INQUIRING Reporter ON Topics Of The Day

Gene Rivkin Asks:

SHOULD THE DAILY IOWAN CONTINUE TO WRITE UP FOOTBALL AS IT SEES IT, OR SHOULD THE STUDENT BOARD OF PUBLICATIONS, INC., WHICH MEETS TODAY CRACK DOWN ON THE EDITORIAL STAFF?

Virgil Rittenmeyer, Al. Iowa City — "The Daily Iowan is only an experimental newspaper and as such should be under the control of the Student Board of Publications."

"It is just like the University experimental theater — an experiment."

"Given a free hand, the editors will not stop at just football. They'll go into other things like politics, for instance, both local and national, and I don't want to pick up a propaganda sheet in the morning and read all about how nice the Reds are."

Bill Johannsen, 416 S. Dodge street — "What's a newspaper for? Look in the United States Constitution and see what it says about the press and then act accordingly."

Jean Reddick, 411 S. Dubuque street — "If the shoe fits, wear it. Otherwise, it's the truth that hurts."

Joe Park, 1019 E. Washington street — "A journalism school should sponsor a free press. If you don't want a school paper, padlock the door."

Bud Fink, U. of Iowa City — "The editorial staff of The Daily Iowan is certainly in the right in trying to do what it can to get at the bottom of this mess. I for one, certainly am in favor of the present policy, as I believe many like me are, and I see no reason why any little faction should wield a lot of influence over the people's policy."

"The Iowan has called the plays as they see it, I think. They certainly went out on a limb at the start of this present football campaign and predicted great things for the Hawkeye grid team."

"Instead of giving up after the U.C.L.A. and the Wisconsin games, they continued to stick by the team. Iowa's athletic set-up reminds me of a used car. You can add new parts, but it would not make a new car. The only thing that remains to be done with the team is to jack up that radiator and shove in a bright new bit of shiny machinery."

"Just because the paper wrote up the Colgate game as it was, the football team and some other small insignificant people start yelping for scalps. I am behind the Iowan."

Tom McDowell, C4, New York City — "There's no doubt about it, something is definitely wrong with the set-up in the football situation. A newspaper is supposed to be more than a news peddler — it should present opinions."

"It has a right — in fact, it is the duty of a paper to get at the bottom of any mess. This is even more so true if that paper is a student paper dealing with student problems. The Iowan is a student paper and yet it is more than that. As such it should do its job even more energetically."

Jerome van de Erve, G, Sloux City — "It's a nice sight — people always yelling about freedom of the press, and when something is written in the paper that some of them do not like, they yell even louder."

Boy Scouts Aren't 'Sissies'

Boy Who Shows His Knees Is Real 'He-Man' Says Linn Bristol

By TIM BRISTOL

Boy Scouts aren't "sissies"! citizenship in such a way as will develop character, under the guidance of good men of the community.

The leadership of the Boy Scouts of America is carefully picked from institutions that are interested in the welfare of the human race. The men who serve are men who are willing to give hours of their time that scouts may be trained to become fine upstanding citizens of our nation. These men spend hours planning programs of interesting activities which will give a scout a chance to practice the ideals of citizenship.

All of the activities of the Boy Scouts of America are so planned that they are a means to this end — citizenship and character development. Scouts are guided in their preparation for citizenship by the use of the scout oath and law. Any boy at the age of 12 who will take this scout oath and law as a guide through life and make an honest attempt to live up to these ideals cannot go far wrong and will become an outstanding leader in later life.

And leaders aren't "sissies" either. Ever since its inception the great final objective of the Boy Scouts of America has been the development of citizenship and the building of character. These objectives are obtained by getting groups of boys together and giving them the opportunity to practice spoke in detail of the Latin and South American nations, dealing with their peoples, their rulers, their social activities and their political views.

He launched an attack against the "subtle, damnable and destructive propaganda" of European nations, directed at South America, which upholds the "idyllic life of the totalitarian regime." He pointed out that such activities are destroying American trade in South America, where trade is carried on extensively by a system of barter of Latin American goods for European products.

America, Wells said, has lost her position of preeminence in many countries there regarding trade. The travelled speaker, who has been 12 times around the world and visited, at one time or another, all of its diverse nations, spoke of South America as the richest field of American endeavor.

"There are more opportunities waiting there for people to grasp them than in any other place I've ever seen," he said.

Although he discounted the possibility of European dominance of South America, Wells pointed out that only two nations there are true democracies — all others are more or less totalitarian and dictatorial.

Yet these states are not receptive to the ideas of a totalitarian state, reserving always the right to "kick out" the dictators whom they do not like. Furthermore, he revealed, they exercise that privilege with frequency and finesse.

Mexico, the "bad boy" of the Latin Americas, contrary to popular views, is not communistic, Wells said. "Confiscation" of properties for the poor is rather the by-word of the nation, he remarked.

Salvador, the speaker revealed, is pro-Japanese, while the cross-country canal in Nicaragua extends to America an exceedingly worthwhile opportunity for construction as a protective and economic endeavor.

Columbia, the only true democratic state in the Latin Americas, is fabulously wealthy, with its emerald mines, rich oil deposits and extensive coffee plantations, the speaker said.

The highest highway and railroad in the world are to be found in Peru, where complete freedom of foreign exchange flourishes. The only true nazi party exists in

AROUND THE TOWN

With MERLE MILLER

A REPRINT

(Editor's Note: This article was written during the London stay, written and printed in an Iowa weekly paper of March 3, 1938. . . I'm reprinting it today because what I said then is true now. . . And made more poignantly realistic by time.)

Why did Anthony Eden resign?

That's one of the questions every Englishman is asking himself these days, one of many. . .

Others are — What about Hitler and Czechoslovakia? . . . Will France line up with Great Britain in the almost inevitable attempt to delay the certain war for a year or so? . . . Will Italy continue to take no stand at all? . . .

These are serious questions to any Englishman today. They may still be so six months from now. (Ed—They are.)

Walk into Hyde Park any afternoon, and you'll find a dozen soap-box orators shouting their private opinions. Stroll down the Strand, and you'll see a score of old men hawking penny pamphlets each with the guaranteed "look-in story" — and each one different. . .

At the theaters, over the tea cup and in the buses, people are discussing the sudden and surprising resignation of one of the most popular foreign ministers England ever had. . .

No one seems to know the real answer except Eden himself. . . And he isn't talking. . . Tonight, though, several possibilities do appear generally obvious. . .

The present conservative government has been too consecutively friendly with Europe's two dictators for any real liberal's comfort. . .

Here both Mussolini and Hitler are more generally hated than in America. . . When their pictures are flashed on the screen of any downtown movie theater, the entire audience breaks into cat calls and hisses. . . Eden shared that view. . .

For it is either Germany or Italy or both (but probably the former) who, the people believe, will lead their country into a certain war. . . The Sino-Japanese conflict is, after all, the British believe, only a local conflict. . .

The fascist states of Europe are another problem. . .

Italy is negotiating for a loan. . . Germany is looking to the east and Czechoslovakia. . . Austria is also in the plans for the future. . . Which comes first only Hitler can tell. . .

The Chamberlain government fears opposition to the dictators because it fears revolution in either Germany or Italy. . . Either would be disastrous to the very right-wing Neville Chamberlain crowd (which is the same as that of Nancy Astor, the better-for-gotten American woman). . .

Eden on the other hand, believes that further encouragement to either Duce or Herr Hitler will strengthen the fascist mind and pave the way to further demands.

If the Chamberlain government remains in power (and that is very probably possible) the coming months will, the London newspapermen I've met believe, mean a closer alliance with fascism. . .

There will be ready assent to further demands by the dictators. . . Anything for peace. . . At least until the British armament program is complete. . .

There will always be a turn to the right rather than to the left. . . England will certainly prefer Germany and Italy to Russia. . .

As my leftist friends say, "You can't tell about Neville."

In any case England isn't easy

Chile. The most progressive of the nations is Uruguay, with its myriads of social reforms. Brazil exists under the Americas' only absolute dictatorship.
