Rocky Mts. States Blasting Administration

Attempting to Shake Off Domination Of Democrats in Region

DENVER, Nov. 1 (AP)—Republicans in eight Rocky mountain states are blasting at the Roosevelt administration's farm, foreign trade and relief policies and at "rubber stamp" adherence to the new deal in an effort to shake off democratic domination of the region.

The mountain states—Colorado, Arizona, Idaho, Nevada, Utah, Montana, Wyoming and New Mexico—will choose five senators, 14 members of the house and six governors in the Nov. 8 election. Only one republican, the veteran senator, William E. Borah of Idaho, now holds a major office in the eight states. His term will expire in 1942.

Direct lawmaking by the voters has drawn some attention away from the fate of the parties and candidates. In Colorado, a proposal to repeal the state's $45-a-month old age pension will be on the ballot. Arizona will vote on exempting from taxation all homes valued at less than $5,000, Montana on prohibiting sale of liquor by the drink.

Rotten eggs and dishwasher have been showered on loud-speaker trucks employed by repeal advocates in Colorado and the truck operators beaten by irate champions of the $45 pension system.

The amendment, voted into the Colorado constitution in 1936, calls for minimum $45 monthly payments to needy residents over 60 years of age, the most generous pension plan in operation in the country. Repeal proponents, endeavoring to restore pension control to the legislature, emphasized that the state was able to pay full awards to the aged only once this year.

Some democratic senators, criticized within their own party for opposing certain administration legislation, have in turn faced republican accusations that they went too far down the new deal trail.

Representative D. Worth Clark, self-styled "independent democrat," who won the Idaho senatorial nomination over the new deal agricultural spokesman, Sen. James P. Pope, was the target of attacks similar to those he had used successfully in the primary. "The price of wheat beat me," said Pope. Clark may have the same explanation if he loses to his republican adversary, State Senator Donald A. Callahan. The republican aimed his oratorical guns at Clark's vote for the 1937 farm bill and at reciprocal trade treaties.

Colorado's senator, Alva B. Adams, scored by some democrats as "only a 50 cent new dealer" because he failed to support the Roosevelt executive reorganization and court bills, has been challenged by republicans for bowing to the administration's will.

Anti-American Feeling Sweeps Arab Communities in Holy Land

Angered by Leader's Action; Danger Of Boycotting America

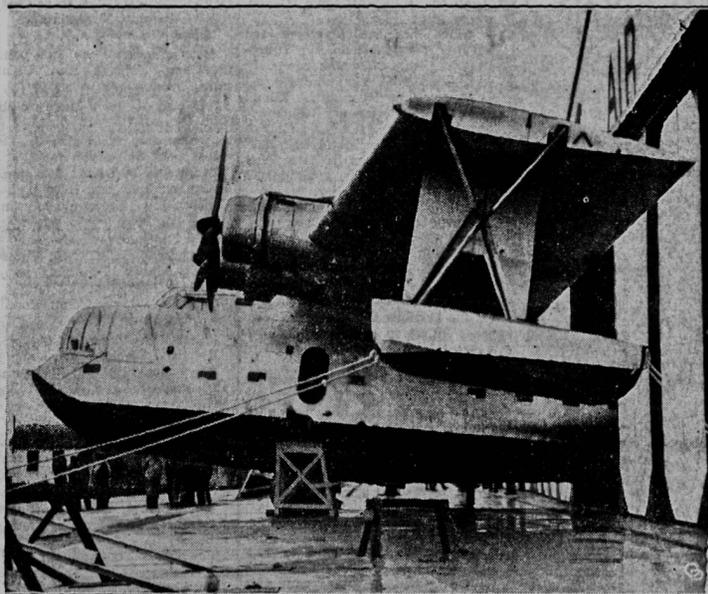

JERUSALEM, Nov. 1 (AP)—A wave of anti-American sentiment swept Arab communities of the Near East today.

Anti-American feeling was aroused by the action of a large number of American governors, senators and representatives and prominent churchmen in submitting a memorandum to President Roosevelt urging him to intercede with Great Britain to maintain the Jewish national home in Palestine and permit undiminished Jewish immigration to the Holy Land.

Arab political and religious leaders, as well as leading lawyers, judges and business men, spoke openly of the danger of a boycott of American goods, schools, religious missions and other institutions by the entire arab world if Americans continued to espouse the Jewish cause to the detriment of the Arabs.

Within a few days no fewer than four delegations of prominent Arabs have called on the American Consul-General, Gorge Wadsworth, and lodged strong protests against the reported pro-Jewish attitude of some American officials.

24 Tons of Fighting Power—Too Big for Hangar

The navy's new $1,000,000 experimental bomber is pictured, half in and half out of a hangar at the Anacostia Naval air station, Washington, after completing a 14-hour non-stop flight from San Diego, Cal. The ship has a wing span of 115 feet, is 77 feet 3 inches long, and 28 feet 3 inches high. It has retractable wing tip floats, which "streamline" into and form the tips of the wings in flight.

To Settle Czech Border Strife

Disputants Have Three Hours to Cite Views In Arbitration Plan

VIENNA, Nov. 1 (AP)—An official announcement tonight said an agreement in the Czechoslovak-Hungarian territorial negotiations could be expected at 6 p.m. (11 a.m. CST) tomorrow.

The announced program for arbitration of the border differences by which Hungary hopes to reclaim the purely Magyar portions of Czechoslovakia as well as some mixed sections, gave the disputants just three hours to present their views.

Hungary and Czechoslovakia will begin exposition of their arguments at 11 a.m.

After a luncheon, the German and Italian foreign ministers, Joachim von Ribbentrop and Count Galeazzo Ciano, will confer until 4 p.m.

The signing of an agreement was scheduled after the session of Ciano and Ribbentrop, as both Hungary and Czechoslovakia asked Germany and Italy, two of the four powers represented in the Munich accord, to arbitrate the dispute and agreed to accept their decision.

James Reese Dies of Injury From Car Crash

Boone, Nov. 1 (AP)—James Reese, 32, of Des Moines, died in a hospital here late today of injuries which resulted when his automobile collided with another car on highway 30 west of Boone.

Reese, an Iowa state employment service district manager, was the son of Chris Reese, a former state senator from Marshalltown, and now assistant superintendent of the state printing board, and a son-in-law of Chief W. W. Akers of the Iowa bureau of criminal investigation.

Sheriff F. L. Wilkins said John F. Stumbo, 28, of Boone was arrested in connection with the accident. He said Stumbo was the driver of the car which collided with the Reese auto early today.

Reese has been manager of the Des Moines district office of the state employment service for about two years. He previously had been in charge of the Sioux City district office.

Ebro River Battle Of Spanish War Causes 130,000 Casualties

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier) Nov. 1 (AP)—The battle along the Ebro river front in northeastern Spain, which has been raging intermittently since July 25, was estimated in insurgent dispatches tonight to have caused more than 130,000 casualties among government and insurgent troops.

The casualty figure, embracing dead, wounded and missing, was described as twice the total losses suffered in the battle of Teruel, one of the greatest of the Spanish war.

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain held out his hand anew tonight to Adolf Hitler in behalf of economic peace and a curb on armaments.

Interpreting to a critical house of commons his course "after Munich," the prime minister also sought quick parliamentary approval of his decision to bring the eastern friendship pact with Premier Mussolini into force. He gave commons one day to debate and decide.

Economic Conditions Deplorable in India Says Visiting Speaker

"The people of India are the most delightful people in the world, but bound by their beliefs and customs," was the sincere belief expressed by Dr. Sam Higginbottom who spoke to the Religious Emphasis week audience last evening at Macbride hall.

Dr. Higginbottom began his life work in India 35 years ago, when he was appointed by the Presbyterian board to do evangelical teaching in that country.

At Allahabad, located 514 miles west of Calcutta, Higginbottom established an agricultural college in which he conducted researches indispensable to the welfare of the people of India. Studies were made regarding the utility of India cows, which constitutes a major problem. Bound by their religious belief that all animals are sacred and should be allowed to live, the natives of India will not obtain their living in any other way.

Instead they eat a few grains of food by using these animals as food, uncooked millet.

Deplorable economic and health conditions exist in the country of India, stated Dr. Higginbottom. In the majority of villages, no sanitary system is provided, causing all kinds of incurable diseases. Flies collecting on small children's faces cause more than 600,000 cases of blindness, while 30 per cent of children's diseases are due to malnutrition.

Dr. Higginbottom believes that with "slow patient methods of education" an escape from poverty can be shown to the people. When told that it was his position to care for the lepers, he replied, "I'll do the best I can for them."

With this attitude he attacked the discouraging job of cleaning up the leper asylum, inhabited by loathsome repulsive cripples, unable to feed or care for themselves. He used his knowledge of agricultural methods to provide proper food and nourishment for the inmates of this asylum during the 33 years of service to them.

J. Edgar Hoover Announces Solution of Three Kidnapings And Arrest of Four Suspects

Bad Heart White Says Be Free From Fear

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1 (AP)—A specialist on diseases of the heart told the interstate post-graduate medical association today that "freedom from fear" was the greatest necessity of a majority of sufferers from cardiac ailments.

Dr. Paul D. White, lecturer in medicine at Harvard university, declared that a damaged heart "has been looming up as the great ogre in public and private health and narrow-minded publicity concerning it as the greatest cause of death has sprouted tens of thousands of cardiac neuroses."

In the past decade, he said, it has been learned that the heart can recover from damage to the coronary arteries and patients can continue normal lives.

Dr. Alfred W. Adson, professor at the Mayo foundation graduate school of the University of Minnesota, told the doctors a large forehead often indicates "physical disorders."

He said "the size of the forehead has nothing to do with the ability of the brain," and added: "Sometimes if it reaches considerable height, it may be an indication for study by the neurosurgeon."

Daladier Hastily Smooths Over Cabinet Affair

PARIS, Nov. 1 (AP)—Premier Eduard Daladier tonight hastily patched up his cabinet affair, a short-lived crisis, and his new finance minister started another search for the way to French financial and economic recovery.

The resignation of Paul Marchand as finance minister because the rest of the cabinet refused to accept his program of reforms split the ministry momentarily.

Daladier, however, persuaded Marchand to stay in the government as minister of justice, exchanging posts with Paul Reynaud. Now shelved, were virtual exchange control, an extraordinary income tax and a special levy on stock earnings.

SPELTER, W. Va., Nov. 1 (AP)—Brawny miners who have dug and dynamited for 10 days in an attempt to rescue a five-year-old beagle hound entombed in a mine "sink" hole, expressed doubt tonight the dog was still alive.

"We haven't heard any whines or barks," one weary laborer said. "It looks as if that long wait was too much for him."

Scores of reinforcements tramped today to the brush-covered hill where "Sport," known as a "community" dog because he played with the children and

Takes Suspects Into Custody Over Week End F. B. I. Chief Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—The kidnap-slaying of a suburban business man and the cremation of his body in New York, and the hitherto unknown abductions of two Brooklyn men ransomed for a total of $14,900 were announced tonight by J. Edgar Hoover, F. B. I. chief.

He said four men were under arrest and that "certain ones had confessed."

Hoover said the body of Arthur Fried, executive of a sand and gravel company in nearby White Plains, who disappeared last Dec. 4, had been destroyed.

Those kidnaped and ransomed without their disappearances being made public were Benjamin Farber, 33, and Norman Miller, 19, both of Brooklyn.

The prisoners were identified by Hoover as Joseph F. Sacoda, Demetrius Gula, William Jacknis and John Virga.

Farber, a coal dealer, was seized by kidnapers last April 18 in front of a national city bank branch in Brooklyn and released upon payment of $1,900, Hoover said.

Miller, son of the head of a stevedoring company, disappeared at midnight last July 24 and was freed for $13,000. Fried was manager of the cinder department of the Colonial Sand and Stone company.

Jacknis, Gula and Virga, all of Brooklyn or New York City, were taken into custody over the week end.

Sacoda is in Sing Sing prison for parole violation, Hoover said.

The place in Westchester county where Fried, 32 year old, was seized is not far from the scene of the unsolved kidnaping of Peter Levine, 12, who disappeared from New Rochelle last Feb. 24 and whose headless body was found washed ashore nearby on Long Island sound on May 29.

This gang had intended to kidnap Fried's brother Hugo, but they made a mistake," Hoover said.

"They got a car and forced Arthur to a curb while he was driving to his mother's home.

"Gula got out of the car and drove Fried's car a few blocks. Fried was put into Gula's car which Sacoda had been driving. They took Fried to 240 East 19th street (New York City) where Joseph Sacoda had an apartment. They arrived there early on the morning of Dec. 5.

"Fried was compelled to write to his brothers and sisters stating that a ransom of $200,000 was demanded. The ransom was never paid."

Howard Walls, owner of the dog who has stayed at the hole for days supervising the rescue work, called for more dynamite and grimly observed he would not give up.

When the rescue work started, "Sport" barked fiercely to draw the diggers' attention. Then as the hours passed, his barks sank to a piteous whine. For a day there has been no sound from him.

Miller, son of the head of a stevedoring company, disappeared at midnight last July 24 and was freed for $13,000. Fried was manager of the cinder department of the Colonial Sand and Stone company.

Although there was no official confirmation of the reports, the Foochow populace was said to be evacuating hastily in the face of 30 Japanese war vessels and transports off Futsing.

(Foochow and Swatow, of minor importance as supply gateways by comparison with Canton, captured Oct. 21, were regarded still as commercial footholds of the Chinese on the Pacific. Swatow is about 215 air miles east of Canton and Foochow about 260 miles northeast of Swatow.)

(A district from Shanghai reported that military observers had foreseen the possibilities of invasion from the sea near Foochow, Swatow and Ningpo.

(Ningpo, on the eastern coast, lies about 20 miles inland and about 100 miles south of Shanghai across Hangchow bay in Chekiang province.)

King George Accepts President's Invitation To Visit White House

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Daily Herald said today that a letter from King George accepting President Roosevelt's invitation to pay a visit to Washington next summer was en route to the White House.

Ships of the Canadian, United States and French navies will meet the royal liner when she reaches North American waters, the paper added.

Hits Idea Of Trade Isolation As Necessity

Self-sufficiency Plan Will Not Succeed, Hull Says at Dinner

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—Cordell Hull, secretary of state, declared tonight that the world "is at a cross roads," but has not lost its "power of choice" between rule by armed force and rule by law.

He warned the nations that, if they place "increased reliance upon armed force as an instrument of national policy they will be marching toward the final catastrophe of a new world war, the horror and destructiveness of which pass human imagination."

Speaking at the world trade dinner of the twenty-fifth national foreign trade convention, Secretary Hull said nothing had happened in recent weeks—meaning the "peace of Munich"—to cause him to abandon his trade-agreements program. On the contrary, he declared he would "put redoubled vigor into our efforts to enlarge its scope and effectiveness."

Denies Contentions
He denied the contentions of some commentators that because the totalitarian states, with their drastic trade controls and attempts to become economically self-sufficient, have extended their geographical sway, other nations will have to fall back on a system of increasing economic isolation.

This, Hull said, is "a counsel of despair."

He emphasized that an economy of self-sufficiency is bound to fail in the long run. In this connection, he did not mention Germany specifically, but officials said he had that country particularly in mind.

Hull blamed economic autocracy on the construction of armaments to be used "as an instrument of national policy." This, he said, "is an ever more complete regimentation of national life, an impairment of personal liberty, a lowering of every standard of material, cultural and spiritual existence."

But he saw some hope in the present outlook. "The draft toward complete national self-sufficiency," he said, "is far from making ready headway in the world as a whole. While excessive barriers to trade continue to weigh heavily upon international commerce, the major part of world trade is still carried on by countries which are not attempting to be self-contained regardless of cost."

He pointed out that the very countries which proclaim autocracy as their avowed purpose are, "at the same time, making desperate efforts to enlarge the volume of their foreign commerce."

He was believed referring to Germany's intensive trade offensive in central Europe since the peace of Munich.

Rain Threatens National Corn Husking Contest

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Nov. 1 (AP)—Grey-blanketed skies that earlier dripped light rain and a forecast of more rain and colder weather tomorrow threatened tonight to make difficult going for the nation's 21 leading cornhuskers in the national championship contest near here Thursday.

As the rain ceased meet officials said it had just "settled dust" on the 1,300 acre tract. Precipitation did not interfere with practice rounds of the state's entries, Richard Anderson, Sioux Falls, state champion, and Earl Henry runner-up. Anderson, at intervals snapped ears against the bangboard at the rate of 60 a minute.

The remaining 19 entries from 10 other states began arriving today and expected to enter the practice fields tomorrow.

A checkup of marks by various state champions in winning their way to the national contest failed to disclose any outstanding threat to the record 41.25 bushels set by Elmer Carlson, Audubon, Ia., in 1935.

An Attack

From Mars
SUNDAY NIGHT'S most misunderstood "War of the Worlds" brought a number of ideas to our mind. We mentioned one yesterday.

It also reminded us, certainly, that the American people have proved conclusively and dramatically that they depend upon the radio to disseminate the truth. The radio play was done so realistically that thousands of people throughout the United States became frenzied and hysterical with fear. No one would have believed it possible for radio to broadcast such a fantastic story and have it believed. Fortunately, Charlie McCarthy's hour was also in progress and consequently the majority of us did not hear the terrifying report. If we had heard it, we, too, probably would have accepted it as the truth.

This dramatic happening sheds light on the action of Germany, Italy and Great Britain in attempting to influence their own and foreign people through the radio. Apparently the spoken word can be powerfully used, and, where we hadn't placed much importance on the propaganda broadcasts of foreign powers, we have been realistically shown how influential they can be.

Too, it should warn us here in this country. It proves that it no longer takes weeks or months to prepare our minds for the idea of war. Overnight the government could have us ready and willing to wage war. Germany has already taken advantage of the radio for such uses. Italy used it to get the support of her citizens in her war against Ethiopia. The people of England, reportedly, would not fight unless invaded. Suddenly they were informed of Hitler's determination to rule the world by force, and overnight the people of Great Britain were ready to go beyond their borders to defend their island kingdom. Fortunately, the catastrophe was averted. However, there may come a time, and soon, when a broadcast such as that of Sunday evening will not be interspersed with "this program is fictional."

When England's king and queen visit Canada they will see the Dionne quintuplets. Which brings us up to today's quiz: Suppose the quintuplets were boys, and the first born of the British rulers would England have five kings? At least a full house!

Ho Hum, Another Investigation Approaches the End
CHAIRMAN DIES of Texas yesterday announced that the house committee of un-American activities would probably end its hearings soon because of lack of sufficient funds.

With the exhausting of the $25,000 appropriation, another chapter in American politics will have been written.

From time to time congressional committees have been granted appropriations to investigate "evils" in our political and economic picture. Many of these groups have succeeded in doing nothing but consuming the appropriation. This latest governmental effort was no exception, it seems. Political organizations have been "investigated"; universities have been charged with harboring "reds"; "spies" have been ferreted out of their hiding places and what has happened? Practically nothing!

The committee found that there were communists living in this country and attending our universities. So what? We have little to fear in the way of communist or fascist invasion as long as we let these persons believe as they see fit. The real danger of oppression appears when we empower our government to stamp out political faiths which differ from the faith held by those in power.

These United States were founded to provide a haven for political and religious oppressed. In "investigating" every little move, we are not protecting this liberty but rather we are curtailing it.

Whatever Chairman Dies thinks of this country, no matter if he does believe that we are soon to be a colony of Russia, it is safe to say that these United States will continue to be "the land of the free and the home of the brave" in spite of men like Representative Dies and not because of him.

Indian summer has come and gone, but we can't forget the aborigines. They used to stick feathers in their headdress, and knew a thing or two about makeup, too.

Diseases run their course, pestilences finally pass, peace and death come at the last and it's only natural to expect that the day will come when radio comedians quit using "killer-diller."

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

REDUCTIO AD ABSURDUM
VICIOUSNESS of the new deal formula of jamming legislation through congress in a hurry and then letting dictatorial bureaucracy say what it means and how it shall be enforced is again made plain in connection with the wages and hours act.

At the time of its adoption The Daily News pointed to a joker in the act's section 18, which states: "No provision of this act shall justify any employer in reducing a wage paid by him which is in excess of the applicable minimum wage under this act."

It seemed more than possible that an arbitrary administrator might one day read into this section a provision that all wages in force at the time when the law went into effect must — no matter how much they might exceed the statutory minimum — be permanently "frozen." Such an interpretation must, of course, result in a degree of inflexibility hazarding the whole economic system.

Exactly this interpretation seems to have been put upon the law by Administrator Andrews, who, however, goes farther. He insists that section 18 must be applied in connection with section 7 (a). Section 7 (a) requires that workers employed more than 44 hours a week be paid for overtime at a rate one and one-half times "the regular rate" at which they have been employed.

This, in the hands of Mr. Andrews, is a sword which cuts two ways, to the detriment of both worker and employer. For, by such an interpretation, a worker previously employed 48 hours, at a dollar an hour, would, if he continued to work such a schedule, have to be paid a dollar and a half an hour for the four extra hours. If conditions of a particular industry made it desirable that the 48-hour week be maintained, the pay of the worker would have to be raised from $48 to $50 a week.

The most generous employers would suffer most, for they would be compelled to raise wages, even though they might already be paying much better wages than their competitors.

Who can doubt that, in many such instances, the employer would decide to place the employee on the 44-hour week, no matter how inefficient or undesirable that might be, and cut his pay from $48 to $44, which is permissible under the act?

But why stop here? Why does not Mr. Andrews apply a similar interpretation to the remainder of the "joker" section? Here is the full text of the disputed clause: "No provision of this act shall justify any employer in reducing a wage paid by him which is in excess of the applicable minimum wage under this act, or justify any employer in increasing hours of employment maintained by him which are shorter than the maximum hours applicable under this act."

If wage levels are to be frozen as of Oct. 24, why should not hour levels be frozen also? Why should not a factory which happened, on that date, to be running on half schedule — due to lack of orders, a slack period in the industry, or just punk business conditions — be compelled for all time henceforward to maintain that half schedule? Employees working three days a week must never again be permitted to work longer than that. If business booms and orders come in requiring a six-day week, why, that is just too bad. A complete extra shift will have to be hired. There must be two complete half-schedule shifts working one full-schedule week.

Absurd? But is it not precisely in accord with the interpretation put upon the rest of the section?

—Chicago Daily News.

MUSIC IN THE AIR

By Harold Kirshenblit

Paul Whiteman, dean of modern music, has accepted the chairmanship of a new national group which was formed to suppress musical bigotry. Whiteman will serve as chairman of the Non-Partisan Committee to Suppress Musical Bigotry, together with such luminaries of the music world as Benny Goodman, Artie Shaw, Count Basie, Al Donahue, Bunny Berrigan and Gene Krupa.

The committee was brought into being as the result of the action of Alfred L. Dennis, president of the New Jersey Branch Society, asking the Federal Communications commission to suspend licenses of stations allowing the "swinging" of classics, with revocations for second offenses.

The anti-bigotry organization will combat this movement and other similar "crackpot suggestions." The musicians will stage a nationwide publicity and educational campaign to prove not only that swing is not harmful, but has been enormously beneficial in opening up new avenues of musical development.

This meets with my heartiest approval. While some of the swing versions of classics which I've heard have been strictly on the alkaline side, the ridiculous demand of Mr. Dennis should have some form of antidote applied before infection sets in.

Tommy Dorsey, who started all the trouble with his swinging of "Song of India," apparently isn't represented on the committee. Tommy has had experience with these people before, however. Last year, one station of the NBC red network threatened to cut him off the air if he tried swinging any of the classics again. So on his next program, and as his opening number, Tommy sailed right into "Annie Laurie." Did they cut him off? You bet your bottom dollar they didn't! That station collects something like $750 every week from Tommy's sponsor. When it comes to a matter of losing money, even radio stations drop ideals.

But seriously, there's nothing

Want More Quartets

Bad Penny Traps Youthful Burglar
PUEBLO, Col. (AP)—Al Voss' bad penny came back, and brought the burglar with it. Voss, a filling station operator, reported somebody broke into his place during the night and robbed the cash register, including a bad penny.

Boys Of Today Don't Yearn To Be Cops
EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Modern times have changed little Willie's mind on what he wants to be when he grows up. A survey made by Northwestern University school of education professors of 3,400 school children showed that the young boy of today wants to be an aviator, engineer, athlete, doctor or cowboy. No one wanted to be a cop or motorman, as in the old days. The girls were more conventional. They wanted to be teachers, nurses or actresses.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

HOLLYWOOD—Isa Miranda is an Italian and blonde—but her handshake is thoroughly American; the strong, firm, I-mean-it type. She looks somewhat like Dietrich, somewhat like Garbo, more alive than either.

Since her arrival some ten months ago, she has been studying English. Now she can sling a sentence with fair assurance and little groping for words. That means—or Paramount thinks it means—she is ready. They're putting her into "Hotel Imperial" to atone for an earlier false start in "Zaza," where her linguistic deficiencies tripped her.

All this time, of course, she's been drawing salary—some reports say $2,500 a week—and there will be the usual fuss about studio wastefulness in hiring foreign talent. The same sort of furore prevailed all those months while Danielle Darrieux of France was idling on salary (while Universal tried to whip up a script for her).

And the end, probably, will be the same. Since the fans saw Darrieux, nobody has mentioned those expensive pre-production weeks. When they see Miranda—if Miranda is as good as her tests and her foreign work indicate—nobody will care how much it costs to keep her here.

Many an actor has begun a picture without knowing the story it would tell. Few actors finish a movie without some vague idea what it was about. That puts Jascha Heifetz in a class by himself.

Heifetz began—and finished—the starring role in his first movie without benefit of script. Even today, if you met him somewhere on his current tour and questioned him, he could truthfully say he hadn't the slightest idea what kind of story he finished.

For that matter, neither has Sam Goldwyn, the movie impresario. Goldwyn would like to know, even more keenly than Heifetz, Heifetz, after all, has collected his $75,000. Goldwyn has to make a picture from Heifetz's film work or count the $75,000 wasted. Sam doesn't like to count that way.

Violinist Heifetz, long contracted for the movie, had to make his scenes now in order to meet other engagements. On the Goldwyn lot, neatly cut and assembled, with sound track to match, the Heifetz performance is stored away in the usual tin cans.

There are seven numbers in all—three show him in usual formal concert attire, the rest reveal the great fiddler dressed in white jacket and blue trousers as for an open air performance.

Goldwyn's scripters have that much, at least, to go on. They know that Heifetz will play the role of a concert violinist.

Leo Carrillo, himself a comedian of sorts, is with Joe E. Brown in the comic's new picture. Since Brown must star, and since Carrillo—nominally at least—is "in support," there is free conjecture that our 'bes' dam' calbalero in all Me-hico' has not been too amused.

At any rate, when a still man approached Leo for publicity pictures, Carrillo quickly suggested: "Yes. Take a picture of men and my horse—in Joe E. Brown's mouth!"

They take their movies seriously here. In a maternity hospital, over the plate glass partition behind which proud paps first see their new offspring, there appeared this sign: "Motion Pictures Are Your Best Entertainment."

He Who Laughs Last Is The Professor
STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Students of Tarleton college chuckled when they invited Prof. O. H. Frazier to take part in an amateur program for trick shooters. They never had seen him with a weapon. On the night of the show, he stepped to the stage with portable backdrop and two large automatic pistols. Then, with bullets, he began to dust the ashes from lighted cigarettes; smash moth balls; put out candles and to light matches. When the applause died and the students demanded a speech, the professor explained shooting had been his secret hobby for years.

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

During the past few years there has been the most extensive and persistent migration of white people in the history of the United States. Most of this migration has been from the central southern states to California. The causes of this migration have been drought, flood, crop failures and resulting economic crisis.

The result has been that California has over 200,000 extra population, people who are not self-supporting, who are not housed and who have no way of getting food, except by manual labor on the farms. There is a definite need for seasonal agricultural labor in California, so there is at certain times work for these people to do. Their presence, however, constitutes a distinct health problem. I have before me the report of Dr. Walter M. Dickie, director of public health of California, and it is a most interesting document.

Food Problem Pressing
The most pressing of the migrant's health problems is food. They have been accustomed to eating the usual food of the share-cropper—pork, cornmeal, potatoes, with a few green vegetables and fruits, with little or no variety. Examination of these migrants in California showed very general malnutrition. The children's food was lacking in vitamins and protective substances. Naturally, deficiency diseases were frequent, as well as emaciation.

Due, of course, primarily to the low economic status of the families, this condition was also partly the result of ignorance. The mothers of the families had never learned to cook anything but the monotonous routine foods, and were entirely ignorant of what a balanced diet should be.

The Farm Security administration and the California department of public health have been educating them and furnishing them with food of a wide variety and teaching cooks how to prepare it.

Hawkeyes Drill For Minnesota

Coach Tubbs Works Hawks On Defense

Balazs, McLain Given Day Off; Old Gold Line Faster

Work began in earnest yesterday as the Hawkeyes settled down to the task of formulating a suitable defense for Bernie Bierman's Gophers Saturday.

Frank Balazs, plunging fullback, was granted an additional day of rest as a reward for his fine play in the Purdue game and also to give his still weak knee a chance to mend completely before the Gopher encounter.

Eddie McLain, who played throughout the Purdue game, though suffering from a severe cold, was excused from the drill.

The frosh, using Minnesota plays, were unable to gain through the varsity line with any consistency.

When the Iowa squad invades Minneapolis Saturday it will be seeking to prevent a repetition of what has happened to Iowa's football representatives the last six times Hawkeye teams have played in that city. That is, put an end to the six game victory string compiled by the Gophers during that time.

That is the reason Coach Tubbs is concentrating on defense, a defense against the devastating sweeps of Wilbur Moore, and the line smashes of Larry Buhler.

The line, which performed so well against the surging thrusts of the Boiler-makers, is being schooled to give the Gophers much the same treatment they experienced in their game with Northwestern last week.

Against the Wildcats, the Minnesota machine displayed anything but the speed which has characterized its play during recent seasons. Power, ever a Gopher product, is still there in abundance, threatening any and all opponents.

Iowa's line, with Niles and Enich holding down at center and guard, has plenty of maneuverability and speed, enough of the latter to give the Gopher backs many anxious moments should it play the same crashing game against the Bierman brigade as it played in the Purdue tilt.

Nine Players For Practice

Training Regulations Irk Irish; Miller Shows Fighting Heart

Evidently satisfied with one victory, the St. Pat football squad dragged through a listless practice yesterday. Notwithstanding the fact that they have had three days rest, the Irish acted as if they had just completed a hard afternoon of football.

Non-observance of training rules was evident as the team took it easy throughout the short workout. On top of that only nine men reported for practice. The only man exhibiting any pep was "Red" Miller, spark plug of last Friday's game at Wilton Junction.

The team is picking the wrong time to let down, because it meets its toughest opponent of the season in St. Joseph of Rock Island, Ill. Last year's meeting of the two teams saw St. Joseph score four touchdowns in the first quarter. Jack Fitzpatrick's running and Ed Rohner's punting might serve to keep St. Pat's in the game for a time, but the Rock Island squad will make short work of the Green and White if this listless feeling persists.

The Irish left the Wilton game practically unscathed. "Whizzer" Black and Love, center and fullback respectively, were slightly injured during the fray, but both had completely recovered by last night.

U-High Plays Final Today

Blues Face Fleet Backs, Heavy Line In Tipton Eleven

Contending with a far heavier Tipton eleven playing on their home field, University high makes its final gridiron bid of the season this afternoon.

Only one loss has been recorded against the Blues to date. The trouncing of Mt. Vernon and an impressive win over West Branch in their last two games give them by far the odds over the home team.

Nevertheless, an exceedingly fast backfield and a line ten pounds heavier in every position must be dealt with before a victory may be conceded. Not lacking in material, Tipton presents a squad which is well able to hand the Blues an upset if the game is taken too lightly.

Both Monday and Tuesday practices saw University high smoothing the rough spots out of a few pass and combination plays against the reserve opposition. Long gains were made on nearly every play and the team, in excellent physical shape, seemed ready for its second game in less than a week.

Playing their last game for University high will be seven of the regular starters and three reserves. In the line, ends Ernie Krogh and Bill Rarick will be lost; together with Scott Larew, tackle; Ed Bender, guard; and Bill Boiler, center. From the backfield will be lost Ed Burns at full; Duane Carsons, halfback; and Don Bridenstine, quarterback. Reserves to be lost are Bob Berry, Howard Berry, and John McAllister. Only regulars Clarence Hightshoe at halfback, Si Beyne at guard, and Owen Morgan at tackle will return next fall, leaving plenty of open positions for new men. The presence, however, of a strong second team makes the Blues' coming football hopes better than they may seem.

With no particular stand-out, the line presented a well-balanced combination that stood up successfully all season. Ernie Krogh and Bill Rarick have been all to be asked for as wingmen, the center of the line, bolstered by the presence of Owen Morgan and Bill Boiler, has been one of the best in the conference. In the backfield the Blues present for the last time tomorrow a quartet that has been hard to stop and harder to hold as the season has progressed. With basketball stars and track record holders in every spot, the backs have tossed the ball around and skirted the ends in a fashion superior to any team in the conference. The absence of Ed Burns' passes and the running of Carsons and Bridenstine will be sorely felt, with only Clarence Hightshoe remaining for next year's squad.

Star Quits Dartmouth Griddier Joins Cult

BOSTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Dean Lloyd K. Neidlinger of Dartmouth tonight announced that Harrington K. Gates, Dartmouth's star blocking back, who reported for football only last Wednesday but scintillated in the Big Green's victory over Yale last Saturday, had suddenly resigned from college to enter a religious cult.

The cult was named by the dean as "The Legion of God," with headquarters at Amherst, N. H., not far from Manchester, N. H. A spokesman for the college asserted that Gates, when seen at the headquarters, was dressed in dirty overalls and a ragged coat, and appeared to have passed through a period of "severe mental stress."

The football star was described by this same spokesman as apparently normal and happy when dining last Sunday with his football team mates, with much of his conversation directed toward Dartmouth's coming game against Cornell. He suddenly left the college four hours later.

A written statement, signed by Dean Neidlinger, said in part: "I understand that he has given up football because the aggressive character of the game has been interpreted as contrary to the tenets of his faith."

Armstrong Out Of Title Bout With Garcia

Injures Self In Fall To Ring Floor To Postpone Fight

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—Hammerin' Henry Armstrong decided to hold a final light limbering up workout today, felt something "pop" as he slipped on the canvas — and there went tomorrow night's welter-weight championship fight with Ceferino Garcia.

The accidental fall, coming from a combination of too little rosin on his shoes and a temporary ring which was not secured tightly enough, caused an injury to Henry's sacro-iliac joint which will prevent the fight from going on for more than three weeks, at least.

Promoter Mike Jacobs, who up to the time of the accident this afternoon had been beaming over the possibilities of a sellout gate of $100,000 for the 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden, announced he would decide tomorrow on a new date, but he set Nov. 25 tentatively, subject to the approval of the boxing commission and the fighters. He explained he would have to wait until Henry visits his physician again tomorrow before making a final decision.

He was advised by Dr. George Washington Riley, who treated Armstrong twice after the accident, that the little Los Angeles Negro champion would be unable to return to even light training for one week, and could do no heavy duty fighting before three weeks. In that event, the bout would have to be carried over until December, with the possibility that one of Jacobs' other scheduled shows would have to be called off to make room in the garden's crowded winter schedule.

All concerned were greatly disappointed over the mishap, which occurred so suddenly as Armstrong concluded his workout that few knew he was injured until his handlers rushed down from his dressing room a few minutes later to ask that a doctor be summoned.

"I slipped backward and to the right just when I was finishing up," Henry explained. "My back was wrenched just as I fell, and I felt something 'pop.' At first I didn't notice it, but when I tried to exercise, I was sore near the base of the spine.

"That temporary ring (a canvas spread over heavy mats) seemed to be a little loose. And I guess I didn't have enough rosin on my shoes because they wouldn't grab as I moved around. Anyway, I slipped off the canvas and fell back onto the cement floor, landing on my right arm."

Dr. Riley and Dr. Alexander Schiff, New York state athletic commission physician, both hurried to the hippodrome, scene of Armstrong's training. After treating Henry a second time, Dr. Riley explained that the fighter had "slipped his right sacro-iliac articulation." This articulation is the joint joining the base of the spine to the side of the hip bone and the pelvis bone.

"This 'slip,' Dr. Riley added, "caused a slight separation at the joint, which created an apparent difference of half an inch in the length of Henry's legs."

"The sciatic nerve is in direct relation with the articulation, and that is affecting the nerve to the leg."

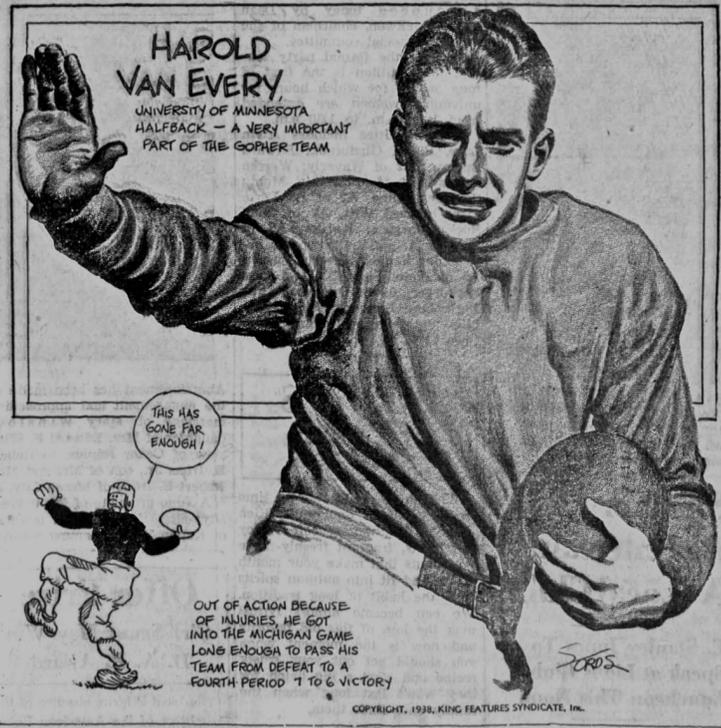

He strapped Henry around the body, to hold the "separation" in place. Armstrong, who had to be helped into a car when he left the hippodrome, limped noticeably and complained that his right leg was numb.

Perhaps the most disappointed of all concerned was George Parnassus, manager of Challenger Garcia, who earned the right to the title shot by stopping 11 of his last 12 opponents with a combination of a dangerous left hand and his famed right hand "bolo punch."

"Why," he asked—and in asking he repeated a query on the minds of several other persons—"did Armstrong have to work out today, the day before the fight? He didn't have to make weight or anything. It seems ridiculous."

Garcia visited his training

Claude Crist Winner Of Cross Country

Claude Crist, star runner of the Gables, last night came home with a first in the co-op dormitory cross country run after out-running Don Lettow of Jefferson over the nine tenths mile course.

Berryhill of Jefferson, a team-mate of Lettow finished third, while fourth and fifth places were taken by Miller of Gables and Still of Manse.

Time for the event was 5:02.5.

Williams Frets About Basket Center Position

There is an old saying to the effect that a basketball team is just as strong as its center, and the saying has Coaches Rollie Williams and Lawrence "Pops" Harrison wondering about what that might mean to the Hawkeye cage team this season.

The loss of Jack Drees, one of the best defensive centers in the Big Ten, leaves a big question mark over the pivot position on the Iowa quintet. Although Kenneth Bastian and Charles Plett of last year's squad are already in uniform, and Dick Evans will return at the end of the football season, Evans is the only one of the trio who has been tested to any extent in Big Ten competition. Plett being only a midget-let winner last year and Bastian having been lost to the team at the start of the second semester through scholastic difficulties. With the cage season beginning very shortly after the football squad finishes its fall work, there will be very little time for Evans to round into shape, so Plett and Bastian will have to bear the main burden through the early season games at least, and, although they show improvement since last year, the extent of the improvement will not be known until after the season gets under way.

The practice session last night saw lots of action for all members of the squad except Angelo Anapol, sophomore forward, who has been excused from scrimmage and contact work until he recovers from injuries to his thumb and nose.

quarters today to check on his weight, and tipped the scales at 147 pounds, indicating he would have weighed in tomorrow at 145. Armstrong had expected to scale between 134 and 136.

Work Late For Davenport Grid Contest

Giving his boys their last hard workout before the Homecoming game with Davenport Friday evening, Coach Herb Cormack kept the Little Hawk gridders hard at work after dark again last night.

The Hawklets looked fast and classy yesterday. Within a short time various combinations of regulars ran through the reserves for six touchdowns.

Outstanding were Dave Wright, Iowa City's candidate for all-state honors at center, and Miller, Lewis, McLaughlin, McGinnis and Walden in the backfield.

The first part of the practice was again devoted to pass defense as Cormack sought a combination that would bottle up the accurate tossing of Bob Bender, the Blue Devil's great half back.

Iowa City will employ both a running and a passing game against Davenport. The passing duties will be handled by Joe McGinnis, Bob Buckley and Jay Walden. Should he play in the backfield, Junior Heacock will also be available as a passer.

"Hammering Herman" Miller, Ted Lewis, Buckley, McGinnis and Ted McLaughlin will bear the brunt of the running game. Ted Lewis and "Hammering Herman" probably will carry the mail most of the time for the Hawklets.

Iowa City's line will undoubtedly contain the same faces as it did against Wilson last week with the possible change of Fetig in at guard instead of White though the latter has been holding down the first string post most of the week.

Crumley and Mueller were excused from contact work again last night as Cormack wished to give their injured legs as much rest as possible. Jim Swaner was in Crumley's end spot while Vergil "Seth" Parker and Jack Fetig took over Mueller's guard slot. The injured two will be back in the starting lineup against Davenport, however.

'I' Men's Day Plans Approved by Board

Meeting for two hours yesterday afternoon the board in control of athletics discussed the various reasons why the Iowa team was able to rise from previous defeats to tie Purdue and win a moral victory.

The board besides briefly discussing the football team and coaching staff, approved plans for the observance of "I" men's day here Nov. 19—the day of the Iowa-Nebraska game.

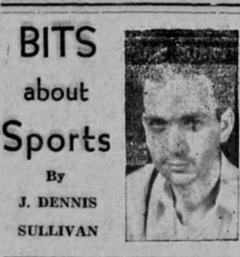

As was planned, a feature of the celebration will be a mass initiation of new "I" men between the halves of the game.

When queried as to what had been discussed, Athletic Director E. G. "Dad" Schroeder said, "We discussed the matter of why Iowa has been losing so many football games. Both pros and cons were presented. We did not fix any blame."

Biscuit Matches War Admiral's Early Speed, Wins in Stretch

Breaks Record Set By Pompoon for Mile And Three Sixteenth

By ORLO ROBERTSON
BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 1 (AP)—Seabiscuit, the cinderella horse, wrote the most dramatic chapter in his rags-to-riches story today when he left the great War Admiral struggling far behind with a record-smashing performance in their long-awaited match race at Pimlico.

The one-time selling plater, carrying the red and white silks of Charles S. Howard of San Francisco, matched the Admiral's famed early speed with more speed, stuck to his rival like a leech mid-way of the backstretch and then pulled away with a final drive that sent him under the wire three lengths in front with a new track record for a mile and three-sixteenths.

The "something or other" that Armstrong busted in his leg necessitates a refund of something close to approximating $100,000, which is one bucketfull of money.

One of Dartmouth's crack athletes, Harrington K. Gates who had more than a little to do with the Big Green's victory over Yale last Saturday, withdrew from school yesterday to join a religious cult. It was only last Wednesday that the blocking back reported for football, three days later he led his mates to victory.

His reason for dropping school work was simply that football was contrary to the tenets of his faith, and he felt he couldn't resist the temptation to play if he remained where the game was being played.

Dean Neidlinger said the cult operated as "The Legion of God." He further stated that Gates had dined with his grid mates but four hours before withdrawing from school and talking of little else than the forthcoming football game with Cornell. Strange?

The Biscuit, held at slightly more than 2 to 1 as the crowd of 40,000 sent the odds on Samuel D. Riddle's star tumbling to 1 to 4, reeled off the distance in 1:56 3-5. The time clipped one-fifth second off the track mark created by Pompoon last spring at Fair Seabiscuit himself had hung up a new record of 1:57 2-5 last fall. In the mutuels, Seabiscuit paid $6.40 for $2.

And so in less than two minutes, Seabiscuit settled a year-old argument, won $15,000 and skyrocketed into second place among the world's leading money-winning horses.

Earnings Boosted
The clean-cut triumph boosted the Biscuit's earnings to $340,480, only some $86,000 short of Sub Beau's world mark of $376,744, and gave him a record of 32 wins, 12 seconds and 13 thirds, in 84 starts during four years of campaigning from coast to coast.

His greatest successes have been since Howard took him out of the Wheatley stable for $8,000 late in 1936 after he had met with little success and spent much of his time as a work horse for more highly regarded stablemates.

For War Admiral, the defeat meant the loss of a chance to again be acclaimed the horse of the year as he was in 1937, when he nosed out Seabiscuit in a nation-wide poll of sport writers. It was only the second time in two years that the four-year-old son of Man O' War had bowed his head in defeat.

Babe Ruth must be a glutton for punishment. During the past baseball season he was forced to watch the antics of the "Daffiness Boys" from the Brooklyn ball orchard. Yesterday, if Don Barnes, president of the St. Louis Browns speaks the truth, the Bambino filed his name along with the legion of those seeking the managerial berth down in St. Louis. If the Babe can't take it, who can?

On and Off The Field

By "HOOKER" HOHENHORST
Andy Kantor was selected on the All-State Amateur Baseball second team this year. "Missouri Valley will shine tonight."

"Wee Willie" Frey is probably one of the most energetic and alert trainers in the country. Iowa athletes can be assured that "Doc" Hayne and "Willie" Frey are tops in their respective professions. You break them, we fix them is their motto.

They say Vic Seigel, the Davenport hoopster, is really a good "man on the flying trapeze." Besides this he is a classy performer on the hardwood.

It is popular conception among sports writers to refer to tackles as "halfbacks with their brains kicked out." However you can't say Mike Enich wasn't using his head in that Purdue game.

"Albino" Evans is looking forward to the Iowa-De Paul basketball fiasco which will take place in the Windy City Dec. 19th. The reason is that "Whitey" was coached in high school by Tom Haggerty who is at present De Paul university coach.

Triathlon To Be Tonight

A triathlon of field events—the broad jump, high jump and pole vault is on deck for University of Iowa trackmen tonight, with all except former winners in the event eligible.

Minnesotans Work On Pass Offensive

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 1 (AP)—A dummy scrimmage to perfect a passing offensive to be used against Iowa Saturday marked football drill at the University of Minnesota today.

Warren Kimbrouse was promoted to first string tackle, replacing Allen Rork. George Faust and Harold Van Every, quarterback and halfback, respectively, injured in the Northwestern game last Saturday, spent a large part of the time on the sidelines.

Wilbur Moore, star halfback, twisted his injured left ankle and retired from practice early to prevent further aggravation. Outside of Faust and Van Every the Gophers will be in good physical condition for the Iowa invasion next Saturday.

Bernie Cummins and His Band to Play for Spinsters Spree

Chicago Billing Causes Change In Orchestras

Cummins to Replace Masters at U. W. A. Party November 11

Coming directly from the famous Bismarck hotel in Chicago, Bernie Cummins and his orchestra will play for the annual Spinsters Spree Nov. 11 instead of Frankie Masters, as was previously announced.

Masters and his orchestra were offered the opportunity to open a permanent engagement at the Chicago theater in Chicago Nov. 11, the same date as set for the Spinsters Spree, so the University Women's association, which is entertaining at the party, waived his contract.

The informal party at which university women will wear long dresses will be from 9 to 12 p.m. in the main lounge of Iowa Union and will be a girl-takes-boy affair. Highlight of the evening's entertainment will be the presentation of Iowa's most eligible bachelors.

Tickets will go on sale at the main desk of Iowa Union Monday at 8 a.m.

The dapper young maestro, Cummins, made his debut at the head of his orchestra shortly after graduating from high school. But because he had been an outstanding athlete at St. Vincent's academy, he enrolled in the Notre Dame university in order to play football under the late Knute Rockne. He aspired to become an architect, but circumstances made his ambition impossible. Music became his career.

Bernie and his band have played for three seasons at the exclusive Bellevue-Biltmore hotel in Belleair, Fla. Triumphant in competition with 57 other orchestras he was selected to play at the Hotel New Yorker in New York City. Since that time he has appeared at the Edgewater Beach hotel in Chicago; the Roosevelt hotel in New York; the Rice hotel in Houston, Tex.; the Lowry hotel and the St. Paul hotel in St. Paul, Minn., and the Congress hotel in Chicago.

Featured vocalist with the orchestra is Cummins' brother, Walter.

HOSTESS HINTS

What to do—and now's the time to do it—about doughnuts. Rich crusty doughnuts, soft spicy doughnuts, fragrant freshly-made doughnuts that make your mouth water and fit into autumn spirits with the habit of long tradition. We can become almost lyrical over the joys of this old favorite and now is the moment when you should get out your trusty recipe and start a big batch for they won't last long when the family once finds them.

The flavor of doughnuts may be varied in many ways. Nutmeg is the favorite spice but cinnamon, cloves and mace are also popular. Flavorings such as vanilla, lemon extract, and almond extract are added to the dough to suit individual taste and add to the richness.

When rolling out the dough for doughnuts the board is lightly floured. If too much flour is used, the crust will be lumpy and irregular. Therefore, in case the dough is too soft to handle, it is better to add flour to the mixture rather than roll out the dough on too heavily a floured board.

Since a soft dough is best for making doughnuts, it is simpler to work with small portions rather than with the entire mixture when making doughnuts. Roll out part of the dough to about one-fourth inch thickness and cut with floured cutter. It is best to fry these before rolling and cutting any more.

The temperature of the deep fat for frying doughnuts is important. According to the most recent tests, 350 degrees F. has proved to be the best temperature for the fat. At this temperature the doughnuts become thoroughly cooked inside and the crust is a delicate brown.

Variations in doughnuts are not limited to the flavorings and spices used in the dough. They may be dressed up with different coatings and frostings. Confectioners' sugar icing, plain, tinted and flavored or chocolate and maple icings may be used. Finely chopped nut meats or just plain powdered sugar may all be used to dress up the taste and appearance of freshly made doughnuts.

Not Even Scratched MARENGO, Ill. (AP)—C. H. Williams emerged without a scratch after he fell from the chair on which he stood and plunged through a plate glass window at his variety store.

Singers Will Appear In Main Lounge Of Union November 10

The famous boys' choir of the Church of the Holy Cross, Dresden, Germany, is coming to the University of Iowa campus Nov. 10 under the direction of Prof. Rudolf Mauersberger.

The choir will appear in the main lounge of Iowa Union at 8:15 p.m.

Professor Mauersberger was born Jan. 29, 1889, and is the son of Cantor Mauersberger of Mauersberg, near Annaberg, Saxony. He was educated at the Leipzig Conservatory of Music under Straube, Krehl and Teichmuller.

He was organist and conductor of the Aix la Chapelle choir there, where he founded the Bach society and became first assistant to the general music director, Dr. Peter Raabe, conductor of the Municipal choir at Aix la Chapelle.

In 1925 he was elected Cantor of the Choir of St. George at Eisenach, Thuringia. There he founded the mixed St. George church choir and promoted principally Bach music and wrote a new official compendium for choral music.

He has been "Kreuzcantor" since 1930. Under his baton the repertoire of the choir has been enlarged by many half forgotten or hitherto unknown master compositions, such as those of Brahms, Regner and Mendelssohn and the modern works of Kanminski.

will make their first appearance in Iowa City this month. Professor Mauersberger founded the Bach society, and was conductor and organist of the Aix la Chapelle choir at the Leipzig Conservatory of Music.

The choir first made its appearance in America in 1935. Beginning with New York, concerts will be presented in principal American cities during the present tour.

The "Dresdner Kreuzchor" is composed of 66 boys and young men from 10 to 19 years of age. The "Dresdner Kreuzchor" college offers a combination of academic and musical training of foremost rank to those naturally gifted with fine voices.

The choir is recognized for its distinction as the world's oldest choir. It boasts a history of over 700 years.

Physicians and surgeons of Iowa will convene for the 27th time at the annual medical clinic at the University of Iowa on Nov. 11 and 12.

For the purpose of improving their knowledge of modern methods and discoveries, the visiting doctors will come to the university from many sections of the state.

A series of clinical demonstrations, lectures and ward walks will be in charge of members of the university medical faculty and doctors in the university hospitals.

Farmers, Business Men's Dinner To Become Annual Affair Here

800 Attend Event In Community Building; Proceeds Go to 4-H

Following what officials termed the "huge success" of the farmers-business men's dinner last night in the Iowa City community building, C. A. Bowman, secretary of the local chamber of commerce, announced that the dinner will be "a regular affair every fall."

Eight hundred persons, besides republican and democratic political candidates, attended the dinner and dance, partaking of the prize baby beef, purchased from the 4-H show last August. Tables were cleared away after the dinner, and Bill Meardon's orchestra played from 9 o'clock until midnight.

Those in charge of the dinner wish to give public recognition to the republican and democratic parties in Johnson county for their assistance in acquiring the baby beef, to the retail trade division of the chamber of commerce for its general management, and to E. L. Hegg, representative of the Farmer's Live Stock Marketing association, for his "great efforts in making the dinner a huge success."

The proceeds of the ticket sale, which have not been determined, will be given to the 4-H boy and girl clubs of the county.

The program for the dinner follows:

Xylophone solo by Arthur Erent. Ladies Farm Bureau chorus, directed by Mrs. M. M. Crayne. Liley-Larson trio. Impersonations by Ronald Van Arsdale. Girls 4-H club chorus, directed by Mrs. Crayne. Attorney William Hart was toastmaster at the banquet.

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART WASHINGTON, D. C.—Diplomatic relations between Washington and Berlin are beginning to verge on the rather unpleasant. There is no definite friction or any prospect of it in the immediate future. Nevertheless Germany is perfectly aware that Uncle Sam's administration is not overly friendly to nazi-ism, and our own government is equally aware that the nazi reciprocate its tactful dislike of their system. Italian fascism also doubtless is looked on somewhat askance by the state department. However, Signor Mussolini never has been quite so cross as Herr Hitler. Japan, the third of the world's totalitarian powers, has been tolerably civil in its relationships with the United States. True, we sympathize with China and the Mikado unquestionably knows it. And there have been some little "incidents" between us in connection with Nippon's activities on the Asiatic mainland and its rivers. All the same, Washington and Tokyo mutually have preserved the amenities.

Russia Friendly
Among the dictators I think Russia is the country toward which our officialdom entertains the kindest feelings. Even that isn't so very kindly either, but it's notorious that Germany and Russia are hostile to one another, and, of the two, at present we most dislike Germany.

There is evident a sentiment in our foreign office to the effect that Britain and France have "dumped" democracy; but that's a feeling of sorrow, not anger.

Of course this country is scandalized by nazi treatment of the German Jews and Catholics, and by Hitlerism's domestic methods generally.

But all that's not our business. It's when nazi-ism tries to set up its organization in our own midst that it becomes irritating. The movement may not have been inspired from overseas, but there's a suspicion of it.

There has been, too, this German spy trial in New York. It's been ridiculous—with its revelations of amateurishness and of $50 monthly salaries to espionage agents—but it has succeeded in "sideswiping" German Ambassador Dieckhoff, in Washington. It's reported that he shortly is to go home in consequence. That's quite a major development.

Then, there was the case of our late ambassador to Berlin, William E. Dodd. After a short stay in the German capital he was so disgusted with nazi-ism that he resigned, returned to the U. S. A., and, ever since, has been "panning" Hitler unmercifully.

Before that, it will be recalled that Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York urged that Herr Hitler's image ought to be displayed in a "chamber of horrors" at New York's 1939 world's fair.

Yet more recently Bernard Baruch has dwelt upon the necessity for a world-wide democratic armament against totalitarianism.

Whose Business Is It?
Herr Hitler doesn't like this kind of anti-nazi chattiness in non-German countries.

He suggests that folk like La Guardia, Dodd and Baruch ought to be muzzled, and that our newspapers ought to be muzzled likewise.

Answered to the effect that President Roosevelt hasn't the authority to muzzle such spokesmen or the press in the U. S. A., Hitler rejoices that HE can do it in Germany. Why can't President Roosevelt do it here? If he can't say Hitler, he should be able to.

Why, he queries, isn't our government able to do so?

Incidentally, Adolf sketches governments in Britain, France and elsewhere that will be acceptable to him. He hasn't dictated to Uncle Sam yet, but he may presently.

He has a pretty clear idea already as to what our policy should be in Latin America.

Absence of Eyestrain Features Light-Conditioned Room

A lamp at every easy chair creates proper balance in lighting as well as in furniture arrangement.

In the old days, logs for the fireplace and big red apples helped to make the evenings more pleasant. Today we may or may not have logs on the hearth... but we can have cheerful room-light that defies the spirits, defies the outer darkness and increases our eye comfort while we read or listen to the latest swing music via radio.

Lighting scientists have a new technique for creating this kind of illumination. They call it light-conditioning. It means the provision of the right amount and the right kind of light for seeing wherever the eyes are used for work or play.

And although the lighting specialist uses sets of carefully worked-out standards to fit light conditioning to a room, there are several rules that any person might put to use in his own home.

Lamp light at every easy chair is one of these. This helps to create the balance that is needed in lighting as well in furniture arrangement. In a sense, too, a lamp at every chair or at least between two that are close together, enlarges a room's usefulness because it makes every chair available.

Most important, of course, a lamp at each chair furnishes localized light that helps to prevent eyestrain while reading or sewing.

A second fundamental rule contains white-lined shades. If any of your shades have a dark lining try this experiment: fit a strip of white paper around inside, and see how much more light will thus be reflected. That is why all white or light tinted linings are found in all the floor, table or wall lamps that bear the tag of approval of the Illuminating Engineers society.

A third important rule hinges on the right-sized bulbs in the lamps. Just what size you need has been worked out by lighting scientists.

A reading lamp, for example, should be equipped with not less than one 100 watt bulb or two 60 watt bulbs or three 40 watt bulbs. Right lamp charts, which tell you in a second the right size, can be consulted in most stores where bulbs are sold.

Finally, a fourth thing to watch in making your home pleasant for the long evenings ahead, has to do with "general" room light. A single island of light in an otherwise dark room is not only hard on the eyes but hard on the appearance of the room. The rule of the lighting scientist is to have at least a fifth as much light through the room as is localized beneath a lamp. Ceiling lights help give this general illumination. So do the new scientifically approved lamps with their inner diffusing bowls that reflect light upward.

They're Emphasis Week Leaders—

These two men complete the roster of Religious Emphasis week speakers who are leading discussions, seminars and other meetings on the campus of the university and in Iowa City this week. Max Kadushin, left, is director of the Hillel foundation at the University of Wisconsin in Madison. Herbert King, right, is national secretary of the Y.M.C.A. in New York. Of special note during Religious Emphasis week are the afternoon seminars at 4 o'clock each day. The subjects discussed in the meetings include "The Meaning of Christian Faith," "Cultivation of the Spiritual Life," "Marriage," "World Christianity," "Religion and Labor," "The Choice of a Vocation" and "Understanding the Jewish Tragedy." Mr. Kadushin is the leader of the last seminar.

bottom in his war against leprosy was his wife, formerly Jane E. Cody of Davenport, and a cousin of the well-known Buffalo Bill, Mrs. Higginbottom's work in child welfare has been so effective that 98 per cent of the children born of leper parents in the asylum have been reared without incurring the fatal disease.

Dr. Higginbottom concluded his lecture by stating that his inherent desire to benefit mankind was being fulfilled in his attempt to direct the rehabilitation of agriculture and to establish improved methods of caring for victims of leprosy in India.

Lectures, similar to the one given by Higginbottom, are being presented every evening at 8 o'clock at Macbride auditorium as part of the program of Religious Emphasis week. Tonight

Mrs. Grace Sloan Overton will speak on "Marriage."

Higginbottom Advises Authority for States

"If we are ever going to get rid of war, we must have someone above the sovereign states whom they will recognize as an authority," Sam Higginbottom, agricultural missionary to India, said at a seminar held in Iowa Union yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Higginbottom declared that the league of nations was the hope of the world and until European nations would recognize and submit to an authority, no hope can be held for permanent peace.

"Almost all crises," he said, "are caused by either economic or racial problems." The race problem is especially dangerous when one race regards itself as superior to another and the whole aspect is contrary to Christianity, he revealed.

A Christian should, whenever he has contact with a person of another race, treat him as an equal.

Dr. Higginbottom has been living in India since 1903 and speaks from experience when he advises the equality of all races. He is a warm personal friend of Mahatma Gandhi as well as of all the Indians with whom he comes in contact.

He is president of the Christian college in Allahabad, India, an institution attended by 1,800 students and is principal of the Agricultural Institute.

For 33 years, he has been in charge of a leper asylum at Allahabad which now has 600 patients.

The seminar at which Dr. Higginbottom spoke will continue today and tomorrow at 4 o'clock in Iowa Union. Its topic is "World Christianity."

Her Hobby Is Caring For Aged Persons

DENISON, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Elizabeth S. Frost, who likes to care for aged persons, has a hobby that has grown into a full-time job.

Twenty years ago she began visiting the sick among elderly people, whose children were unable to care for them. Occasionally she brought them to her home for care.

After the death of her husband she constructed a small "hospital" near her home, with dormitory rooms, kitchens and a laboratory. Old people can live there as long as they desire.

Lodewyk Zimmer has made a 16-foot high, 93-dial clock that is now on view at the New York Museum of Science and Industry.

Political Rally Once a Holiday

In 1838 Rival Candidates Went in a Body To Address Countrymen

A century ago, a political rally was an occasion for a public holiday. That is the information offered by Jack Johnson of the political science department, who made a study of the campaign of 1838.

Political candidates today address rallies just as fervently, but are seldom the signal for festivities. In 1838, however, it was found that rival candidates went in a body on schedule and in succession each addressed the crowds from all over the countryside.

Since any sort of amusement was scarce, the speeches aroused hot debates and bitter fights among the pioneers, who found this personal competition very exhilarating.

After the smoke of the battles had lifted, it was found that the first legislative assembly of the Iowa territory was composed mostly of farmers, whose oratorical efforts had brought in the votes.

Johnson found that in the legislative assembly of 100 years ago were 13 members of the council, elected for two years, and 26 members of the house of representatives.

Horses Electrocuted By 110-Volt Charge While Crossing Pond

HEREFORD, Tex. (AP) - It takes but 110 volts of electricity to charge a small pond sufficiently to electrocute a horse, investigators here discovered.

Two stockmen, M. C. Hancock and Woodson Harris, started through a puddle on horseback. To Hancock's amazement his horse relaxed and fell. Harris rode to the rescue and his horse tumbled dead beside the other one.

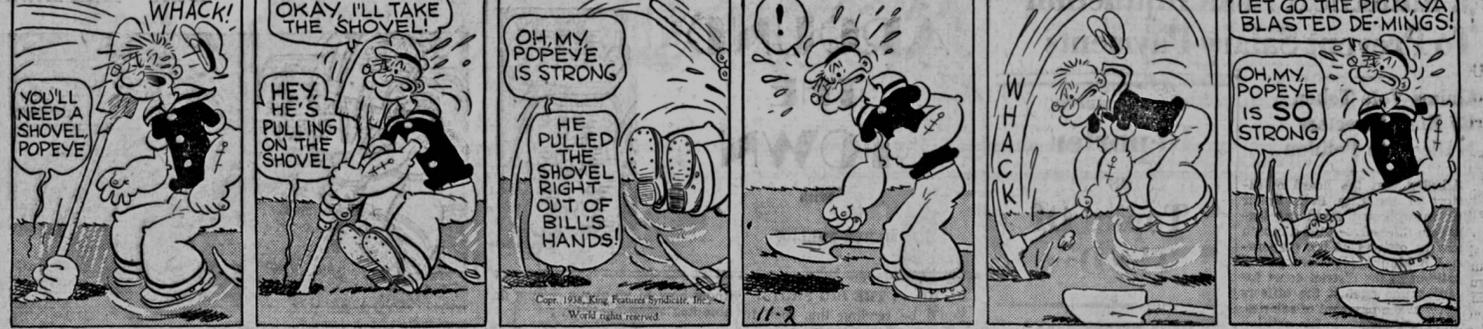

H. V. Hennen, supervisor for a power line, said a 110-volt line in an underground conduit charged the water. When the horses placed their forefeet in the water with their rear feet on the ground a circuit was formed. They were electrocuted but their riders were unharmed.

"It requires but one-tenth as much electricity to kill a horse as it does to kill a man," Hennen said.

Ore Output Increased

J. Munkhoff Asks Injunction To Prevent Salary Payments

Claims Vote Taken By Rink Directors Is Illegal in Petition

Alleging that the board of directors of the City Park Roller Rink incorporated could not legally vote themselves $100 a month salary as officers of the corporation, J. A. Munkhoff yesterday filed a petition in the district court for an injunction against the officers to prevent the payment of salaries.

Munkhoff claims in his petition that the directors, Otto J. McCollister, J. F. Fairbanks, M. E. Frutig and W. O. Herten, each own a sixth of the stock in the corporation and he owns the remaining third. He maintains that his stock was not represented in the voting on the salary resolution.

The plaintiff asks that the court issue a temporary injunction to prevent the payment of the salaries because the payment is designed to prevent dividends being paid on the stock owned by Munkhoff and to endanger the solvency of the corporation.

Judge James P. Gaffney has not set the date for the hearing on the temporary injunction. Attorney William R. Hart represents Munkhoff.

Talks Explain G. Scout Week

Phases of Work To Be Stressed During National Celebration

Thousands of American girls will meet with their respective organizations today, thrift being uppermost in their minds as they convene to observe national Girl Scout week celebrated Oct. 31 to Nov. 5.

Mrs. Evans A. Worthley, member of the local council, conducted one of the introductory events in Iowa City for the week in an interview over WSUI last night.

Those questioned were Mrs. F. D. Francis, local commissioner, who explained the re-organized program for Girl Scouting, and Betty Keyser, first class scout, who told what scouting means to girls engaged in the work.

Special emphasis on one of the phases of the general program for girls is stressed each day during the week, Monday and Tuesday having been devoted to home making and to the arts and crafts respectively.

Tomorrow will be hostess day, with citizenship and health and safety motivating Friday's and Saturday's meetings.

GENE RIVKIN ASKS: Do you believe that Senator Clyde Herring is justified in his desire to censor "horror shows" over the air?

THE ANSWERS

Larry J. Friedman, G. Brooklyn, N. Y.—"Baloney should be confined to grocery stores, and not peddled off as a broadcast. Personally, I don't care very much for so called 'horror shows' anyway, but neither do I like the prospects of having a censored broadcast."

"If persons object to certain broadcasts, there is no reason whatever for listening to them."

Frank Gilloiti, A2, Des Moines—"There goes Herring, blowing his mouth off again. The only thing he's done for Iowa is to get a stamp printed."

"There is no reason why any broadcast should be censored. The radio companies realize that programs must be in good taste if they are going to be listened to. Phooey on Herring!"

Harry Langland, A3, Nevada—"Why censorship? These shows aren't so bad."

"As long as the broadcasters make it plain that shows are fictional, there is no need to become alarmed."

Miriam Morrison, A2, Newark, N. J.—"As yet, I've heard no complaints from home and they were supposed to be in the center of the invasion."

"It would be silly to censor 'horror shows.'—In the first place, the Welles broadcast wasn't a 'horror show' and in the second place the only ones these broadcasts can scare are children, and they should have been in bed at that time."

Mary Robinson, A4, Grundy Center—"Yes, I believe that the time has come for a more rigid censorship of radio."

"Radio is a more perfect medium than newspapers are, since it reaches people who cannot read, and as such it has more influence."

Local Townsend Club Increases Size 48 Per Cent

The local Townsend club number 1 stepped up in the front ranks of clubs in Iowa for membership, increasing its size 48 per cent last month.

Part of this success has been the result of a drive which will continue through the month of November. The club is divided into two groups, the loser for last month having to provide the winners with an oyster supper in the near future.

A report from the sign board committee reveals that two more signs have been completed, thus there will be one sign north, south, east, and west of the city on the leading highways.

The ladies auxiliary finished its first quilt, Mrs. William Schuker holding the lucky number. The second quilt is completed and will be disposed of soon.

AROUND THE TOWN

With MERLE MILLER

HI, HO... THE BIG SHOTS!

You'll be reading this soon in Scribner's... The local representative has made a survey for part of a nation-wide Scribner's Examiners on "Campus Leaders."

He took 12 who are representative on the Iowa campus... And I present the results herein, without comment, without editorial opinion... It seems, somehow, so unnecessary...

These, then, are the campus "smoothies," the "big-shots," the "politicians"... What, after all, do you think?...

One attends university lectures regularly; the other 11 had each been to at least one during their campus careers, three had attended four and five...

Only two had ever heard a university concert... Only one had ever visited Iowa Union music room... Four had "looked in one afternoon."

Four had three-point grade averages, one a near four-point. Seven had only "average" grades... All had attended at least a dozen university parties...

Six had missed only one football game during their undergraduate careers... Four are presidents of campus organizations... One is president of her sorority, one of his fraternity...

But only three had "thought much about" the C.I.O.-A.F. of L. conflict... Two had definite opinions about the Neville Chamberlain foreign policy... Eight said, "It's all right, isn't it?..."

Five could name all the members of the Roosevelt cabinet... And everyone said, when asked what reading he had been doing, "Gosh, I don't have the time, with studying and all..."

Two, though had read outside books during the summer... One had begun "Inside Europe" since school opened — although it isn't required...

Three regularly attend university theater... Only one had ever attended a Baconian lecture...

When asked why they were attending college at all, exactly half wrote, "To get an education, I guess."

All 12 think they will — certainly "ought to" — have more money "when we get out of school."

When asked what they read first in their daily newspaper, four listed a column of trivialities... One mentioned the comics... The rest just said, "The headlines."

Not one follows a daily newspaper editorial page...

All of the boys — there were six — (Were you one. Don't admit it, but I know who) — expect better jobs as a result of university attendance...

Only one girl will be a "career" woman... The remaining five will "get married, I guess."

Not one named reading or listening to music or attending the theater as a favorite pastime... A girl president did "like to go to the movies."

The others prefer sports, dancing, bull-sessioning...

One boy will go into politics, he says... One will take over his father's business... One will be a C.P.A... One will be a chemist... Two are just "majoring" in advertising...

Three haven't "quite made up" their minds... Three more replied "why worry?..."

The eight who can vote next Tuesday won't... Only four know how to go about getting an absentee voters' ballot...

Not one would care to define the basic principles of the new deal... When asked the reason for their political philosophies, seven had chosen that of their parents...

Two are undecided... The rest wondered if "it really matters."

Clay feet—clay heads...

In Grandpa Vanderhoff's stage "You Can't Take It With You," he comments of the college generation... "Twenty-five years from now they'll wake up and ask, 'Where am I?'"

What say you, gentles of readers?...

(P. S. Wilbur Schramm yesterday mentioned half-a-dozen campuses he thinks are beginning to create important literature... You wouldn't recognize a single name if I mentioned them—NOW...)

Dine—And Dance

Iowa City business men and Johnson county farmers joined last night to dine, dance and get acquainted. It was the second annual farmer-business men's dinner at the community building, and as last year the 800 guests ate prize baby beef. night, C. A. Bowman, secretary of the local chamber of commerce, announced that the dinner will be a regular fall event for the city.

More than 20 different kinds of Georgia wood have been used in the new University of Georgia forestry building.

Dr. A. Muste Speaks Before Kivans Club

The Iowa City Kiwanis club at its weekly meeting at the Jefferson hotel yesterday heard a speech delivered by Dr. A. J. Muste of New York City. Dr. Muste's talk, entitled "Religion and Democracy," was one of several being given by various men during Religious Emphasis week.

Dr. Muste asserted that our high form of democracy cannot stand alone without regard to religion. He said that a democracy and the Christian life are closely integrated. He declined to choose between communism and fascism because he said he would be merely choosing between the lesser of two evils.

Guests at the luncheon included Glenn Hope with President H. J. Dane; Leroy E. Caldwell with William T. Hageboeck, and Earl Webster with S. T. Morrison.
