Doctor Koo Says Europe Still Pointing Toward War

Last Religious Talk Will Be Given Tonight

Speaker Thinks Next War Will Be Longer Than Past Conflicts

By JUANITA MITCHELL
(Editor's note—Dr. T. Z. Koo, famous Chinese religious leader, will deliver the last of the public lectures of Religious Emphasis week in Macbride auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight.)

"The next war will be a much more prolonged one than any in the past," Dr. T. Z. Koo, Religious Emphasis week speaker, told me yesterday.

He arrived at that conclusion after a consideration of facts brought to light in recent European happenings. Europe is still tending toward war, according to Dr. Koo. The Munich settlement only diverted it by shifting it, so that nations will have time to arm. The settlement, in his opinion, was one-sided and founded entirely on force.

Dr. Koo predicts that Germany will in three or four years be the leading power in Europe, due in part to the added resources and manpower gained from Czechoslovakia.

"The attention of the western world has been temporarily shifted from western to southeastern Europe, where Germany has no serious rival," Dr. Koo pointed out.

"Secondly, with the Munich settlement, England and France have been reduced to a secondary status in Europe, and the totalitarian states, Germany and Italy, are now the dominating powers. It is a conflict between democracy and totalitarian countries of Europe."

The Munich settlement, in spite of the fact that it is a postponement of war, has definitely resulted in stepping up rearmament programs. In fact, this settlement has encouraged the totalitarian states.

"In the future we will see a great expansion on the part of these two countries, both in ideology and in program. There will be a spurt in propaganda, in Moslem and Arab work, a continued attack on the freedom of the church, accentuation of the racial policy, and an expansion of the political program in a demand for colonies."

Dr. Koo chatted with me in the lobby of the Jefferson hotel at which he stayed during his visit. He descended the elevator and advanced a small, well-formed hand in greeting. He was dressed in Oriental fashion, grey serge trousers and coat which extended below his knees. The coat was fastened by ties along the right side from the neck to the bottom. On his feet were black silk hose and black kid pumps.

Although his world-wide experiences are those of an older man, Dr. Koo appears to be a rather young man. His hair is black and straight, his brown eyes twinkling, and his cheeks and lips (See DR. KOO page 3)

Neighboring Husker Wins National Corn Contest for 2nd Time

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Nov. 3 (AP)—Ted Balko of Redwood Falls, Minn., romped into agricultural hall of fame a second time by winning the 1938 national cornhusking championship today.

The 33-year-old Minnesotan, who was credited with husking 22.24 bushels during the grueling 80-minute contest, was more than three bushels short of the 25.78 bushels which won the national title for him in 1934 at Fairmont, Minn.

New Deal Becomes Main Issue in New York Election

Parties Aware That Political Prestige Is at Stake With Possible Future Repercussions

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—The new deal, accentuated by neither the democratic nor republican candidate for governor of New York, came into sharper relief as a campaign issue today as both camps awaited President Roosevelt's heralded radio address and a definite statement from Mayor F. H. LaGuardia on the admittedly tight contest.

Mr. Roosevelt kept his engagements to a minimum at the temporary White House in Hyde Park to work on his speech for tomorrow night, his only address a strong endorsement of Governor Herbert H. Lehman and the democratic state ticket would come from the president, in the hope it would help keep the president's home state in the democratic column.

Both republicans and democrats were acutely aware of the political prestige at stake in the New York election next Tuesday, and the possible future repercussions. LaGuardia, who thus far has declined to name his choice as District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, the republican candidate, was said authoritatively to have decided to support Lehman.

So far as LaGuardia was concerned, the new deal was the main issue. Earlier, he had displayed a coolness toward the governor because of Lehman's apparently lukewarm attitude toward the new deal. At the same time, Dewey was understood to have gone against LaGuardia's advice when he decided to run for governor after serving less than a year of a four year term as prosecutor.

After LaGuardia demanded that Lehman state his position on the new deal the governor urged support of congressmen who would aid "our great president in his program of progressive and humane legislation." Dewey has directly criticized the new deal infrequently and not so vigorously as some republicans would like to have him.

Even the democrats admit Dewey's strength in upstate New York, and the republicans recognize that Lehman has impressive support in the metropolitan area. The effect of a statement by the mayor would be closely watched since he commands a strong following of coalitionists.

The same is true of President Roosevelt's address, since a democratic defeat in his home state would be interpreted as a blow to the new deal, while a republican victory, after 16 years of democratic governors, would enhance republican prestige throughout the country.

Associated Press Vote Forecast Shows Record High Turnout for an "Off Year"

George L. Falk Dies at Home

Lingering Sickness Ends Life at Age 73 For Former Banker

George L. Falk, 73, 225 E. Daventport street, former Iowa City banker, died late yesterday afternoon after a lingering illness.

Born July 27, 1865, in Iowa City, Mr. Falk early became prominent in local affairs. He was president of the Johnson County Savings bank, having joined the bank in 1889 as assistant cashier.

Mr. Falk was married Feb. 17, 1914. He was a charter member of the Elks and also belonged to the Zion Lutheran church.

He is survived by his wife. Preceding him in death were a sister, Mrs. Emil Grimm; a brother, William J. Falk of Hastings, Neb., and his parents, John and Minnie Warner Falk, both natives of Hessin, Germany.

No funeral arrangements have yet been made. The body is at McGovern's funeral home.

Close Friends of Colonel Lindbergh Say He Is Carefully Considering Ending His Long, Voluntary European Exile

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (AP)—he saw to it that his youngest son, Land Morrow Lindbergh, was registered as an American citizen.

The baby was born May 12, 1937, in a London nursing home. Within a few days, the Colonel appeared at the United States embassy to register the birth, thereby preventing any claim of British sovereignty over the boy.

The Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh last were in the United States from Dec. 5, 1937, until March 12, 1938. Most of the time they were with Mrs. Lindbergh's mother at Englewood, N. J.

Unsolved Peter Levine Slaying Linked to 'Kidnap Syndicate'

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—The long unsolved slaying of 12-year-old Peter Levine, kidnaped from his New Rochelle, N. Y., home last Feb. 24, was reported near a "break" tonight as federal agents sought to link the crime with three captured members of an alleged "kidnap syndicate."

Dwight Brantley, New York FBI chief, disclosed that federal sluths working on the Levine case ran across clues which put them on the trail of another unsolved mystery—the kidnap-slaying of Arthur Fried, young White Plains, N. Y., business man, last December.

"Those clues," Brantley said, "led to the uncovering of the so-called kidnaping trust."

Meanwhile, police with picks and shovels dug up the cellar of a lower east side building known as Ukrainian hall—cited by G-men as the hideout where Fried's body was cremated in a furnace—in quest of new clues to support a theory it might have been used as a gangland execution chamber.

Fragments of bone and teeth which police first believed to have been parts of Fried's body, exhumed from a freshly-cemented "bomb" in the cellar, were analyzed and found to be chicken, beef and rabbit bones.

Investigators, however, already had discovered dark stains, as of blood, on a coal chute leading to the cellar, as well as a secret room and a machine-gun.

Police Lieut. Thomas Curley said the walls of the hidden chamber were pocked with bullet holes.

The captured trio, held without bail, gave their names as William Jacknis, 27, who said he was a former WPA playground instructor; John Virga, 34, a clothes presser, and Demetrius Gula, 28, a pinball operator.

Predicts Forty Million Votes

Battles Over Issues, Candidates Expected To Increase Balloting

By The Associated Press
1938 indicated vote 40,158,238
1936 presidential vote 45,646,817
1934 congress vote 32,804,098
1932 presidential vote 39,816,522

A survey indicated today that approximately 40,000,000 ballots would be cast in next Tuesday's election—a record high for an "off year."

This total would represent 73.9 per cent of the estimated eligible vote, listed in the survey at 54,324,930. In the 1936 presidential election, 45,646,817 votes were cast, or 82.3 per cent of the estimated national voting strength.

The compilation, made by The Associated Press, indicated that vigorous battles over candidates and issues in a half dozen major states might bring out a vote approaching or exceeding that of 1936.

South Voting Light
A light vote was forecast for the south—where interest centered on the democratic primaries—but substantial increases over the 1934 "off year" election were listed for most other states. The 1934 vote aggregated 32,804,098. Among the key eastern states, New York's vote this year was estimated at about 4,900,000. A total of 5,557,845 persons registered in that state.

The empire state's estimated vote this year is 696,398 under the 1936 vote, but tops that of 1934 by 967,594. The New York campaigns this year have been unusually hard-fought, with two senate seats and a governorship at stake.

The indicated vote of Pennsylvania, where a bitter fight has been waged since the primaries, is 4,100,000 out of 4,656,823 registered voters. The 1936 Pennsylvania vote exceeded the vote forecast for this year by only 38,105.

California High
Another politically important state, California, has an official registration list of 3,611,416—the largest in history—and an estimated vote of 2,628,000.

In the midwest farming belt, major increases over the 1934 vote have been estimated for several states. Iowa, with an estimated eligible vote of 1,400,000, may cast close to 1,000,000 ballots, the survey indicated.

Fights between third parties and democrats and republicans were factors in the estimates of large votes in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

The vote forecast was compiled on the basis of official registrations in states where these were available, past voting trends and official and unofficial estimates.

In American Debut

Robert Virovai, above, young Hungarian violinist who will appear in Iowa City as the second concert course attraction Dec. 5, appeared in concert for the first time in America last night with the philharmonic symphony orchestra at Carnegie hall in New York. The young violinist is considered, next to Yehudi Menuhin, as the world's greatest violinist.

Virovai And His Violin Artist Who'll Appear Here In Triumphant In American Debut

(Ed. note—Robert Virovai will appear as the second artist in the university concert course series here Dec. 5.)

By HUMPHREY DOULENS Of Newsweek Magazine

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—A new and amazing genius of the violin was introduced by the New York philharmonic symphony orchestra at Carnegie hall tonight in the youthful person of Robert Virovai, 17-year-old Hungarian virtuoso and pupil of the late master, Jeno Hubay.

Not only did the serious-minded artist reveal all the technical mastery of his instrument which has come to be accepted as necessary since the advent of Heifetz, but he exhibited at once a powerful and arresting command of its most difficult music.

The rarely played Vieuxtemps Concerto was wisely chosen for its all-important debut and in its performance Virovai dazzled the audience with his nobility of (See VIROVAI page 3)

Replacement Of Treaty Seen By Spokesman

Pact Guaranteeing Territorial Integrity Was Signed By U. S.

TOKYO, Nov. 4 (AP)—(Friday)—Japan's foreign office spokesman today disclosed that Japan considers obsolete the nine-power treaty, of which the United States is a signatory, guaranteeing the territorial integrity of China, and intimated Japan may denounce it.

The spokesman revealed Japan is considering replacement of the treaty, signed at Washington in 1922, with a new three-power pact among Japan, her puppet-empire of Manchoukuo and a new regime in China, envisioning displacement of the Chiang Kai-Shek government.

Such a new pact ostensibly would be to guarantee China's territorial integrity after cessation of the present Japanese-Chinese war.

"Japan considers the nine-power pact obsolete. Whether we will denounce it or withdraw has not yet been decided," the spokesman said.

Tri-Power Pact?
The government is examining the advantages of creation of a tri-power pact."

The spokesman hinted Japan might make a definite statement on this line when he replies to the United States note of October 6 protesting against what the American government termed interference with American interests in China.

When a reply could be expected was not known.

Follows U. S. Action
The foreign office disclosure came soon after the state department in Washington made public a reminder that last year's nine-power conference in Brussels had served notice final settlement of the Chinese-Japanese war must be "satisfactory to the conference powers."

The reminder was among hitherto unpublished documents concerning the conference which sought unsuccessfully to end war in the far east.

An official statement issued November 2 outlined Japan's aims in the current war as creation of an economic and political bloc embracing Japan, Manchoukuo and China for domination of East Asia.

Questioned whether Japan would be willing to negotiate with the powers separately rather than as signatories of the nine power agreement regarding rights and interests in China, the spokesman replied "yes, that would be quite possible."

Mystery Explosion Sinks German Steamship Vancouver; Officials Think Sabotage Involved

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 3 (AP)—Her steel hull pierced by a terrific explosion, the German steamship Vancouver sank today in the estuary where investigators sought evidence of sabotage and said bursting boilers did not cause the blast.

Four crew members were injured in the blast, which ripped a large hole in the hull, flooded the engine room, and caused the 447-foot ship to be beached as she slowly sank.

Chief Engineer C. Diederich said the force of the blast, which sounded to him like a cannon, bent the hull plates inward, indicating that the explosion came from the outside.

District Attorney Earl Warren, one of many investigators, reported it could not be determined whether the explosion came from the outside or inside, but he said bursting boilers were not responsible.

Dr. W. Manger, surgeon of the ship which was San Francisco bound, treated the injured crew members, three of whom were badly hurt by flying particles.

About the 5,018-net-ton vessel were seven passengers and the crew of 54. Another 30 passengers were scheduled to board the boat at San Francisco, and she was to have left tonight for Antwerp by way of the Panama Canal.

While investigators, including seven department of justice agents, said international aspects made discussion of sabotage impossible until the ship was raised and the hole studied, the master of the vessel hinted at dirty work

Captain E. W. Moessinger said the explosion looked "damned suspicious," and claimed a column of water shot up outside the vessel just before he heard the blast.

Manfred Von Killinger, German consul general here, launched a separate investigation, but declined to make a statement.

The explosion occurred just a few minutes before the vessel would have passed from the estuary into the deep water of the bay. A telephone call to the Oakland Tribune lent credence to a possible theory of sabotage.

"Do you want some good news?" an unidentified persons told the Tribune city editor. "A bomb just went up on a German ship."

He hung up immediately, and a few minutes later the blast occurred.

Spanish Rebels Resume Drive Toward Madrid

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier), Nov. 3 (AP)—Spanish insurgent commanders reported tonight their advance forces had pushed the government's Ebro river defenses back to the west bank of the stream in lower Catalonia.

Advices from the front said the insurgents fought their way to a broad bend in the stream after capturing Pinell, a village on the southern extreme of the Ebro front.

While the insurgent right wing made this gain, estimated at more than two miles, attacking troops farther north were reported driving eastward toward Mora de Ebro, target of the drive which picked up speed after three months of futile counterattacks.

The insurgent commanders indicated their campaign would not halt at the west bank of the Ebro, but would attempt to cross the river and gain quick control of both shores.

Supposed Gangland Execution Chamber Searched by Police

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—The long unsolved slaying of 12-year-old Peter Levine, kidnaped from his New Rochelle, N. Y., home last Feb. 24, was reported near a "break" tonight as federal agents sought to link the crime with three captured members of an alleged "kidnap syndicate."

ON THE AIR President to Speak On 2 Programs

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt is to speak twice on the radio networks today.

At 2 p.m. (Central Standard Time), on WJZ-NBC, WABC-CBS and WOR-MBS he participated in the dedication of the Will Rogers memorial at Claremore, Okla., in which Gov. E. W. Marland of Oklahoma, Jesse Jones, Fred Stone, Eddie Cantor and others are to speak.

At 6:30 (CST) on WJZ-NBC, WABC-CBS, WOR-MBS, WMCA-Intercity he talks for half an hour as a "voter of New York state."

Frustrated Plot To Assassinate Vargas Revealed

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 3 (AP)—Police Chief Filinto Muller disclosed today that police had frustrated a plot to assassinate President Getulio Vargas last Sept. 7—Brazil's independence day.

The police chief said Belmiro Valverde, a leader of the unsuccessful integralist (fascist) uprising of May 11, had confessed that "an attempt against the president was prepared for Sept. 7. A powerful bomb with a clock attached would have been placed under the pavilion in the plaza of Paris, set to explode 24 hours later."

But a close watch maintained by police prevented the terrorists from approaching the pavilion and the attempt failed.

Scholar Hits Education Neglect As Soldier Flays 'Spy' Trials

DES MOINES, Nov. 3 (AP)—The state of Iowa, as such, "has not done its part" toward aiding the development of education and the teaching profession, Dr. Barton Morgan of Ames, president of the Iowa State Teachers association, asserted tonight.

Delivering the annual message of the president to teachers at the 84th convention of the association, Dr. Morgan declared the caliber, security and income of Iowa teachers must be improved if the state's half million school children are to be properly educated.

Sharing the platform with Dr. Morgan at the first general meeting of the convention was Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler, outspoken retired marine officer, who called for investigation of "French and British spies in this country."

Major General Butler declared "the woods are full of them (spies). The only difference is that when they are French or British, we call them statesmen. If they are Germans, then they are spies. For that matter, we've got our agents all over the world."

Major General Butler scolded at the current Nazi spy trials and said "they are all part of a vicious propaganda to get the United States to fight on foreign soil again."

"It is the state's failure to pull its share of the load that is holding us back and is causing Iowa's rank in education to fall in comparison with other states," Dr. Morgan declared.

The association president outlined "seven of the state's responsibilities for education which are now neglected."

1. A minimum of two years college work for all persons entering the teaching profession.
2. A state teachers' annuity law.
3. A state law fixing a minimum salary standard for teachers.
4. Ten million dollars state support for education so that educational opportunities can be equalized.
5. Assessment of special taxes for state school funds, leaving the general property tax for use in local school districts.
6. The setting up of school administrative and attendance units.
7. Improvement of the state department of public instruction through increased salaries for department employes, a larger staff, and the establishment of the office on a non-political basis.

"These problems," said Dr. Morgan, "cannot be solved in any one year. They represent a long-time program. It seems wise to take only one problem at a time."

Plight of Hill Country Americans Needs Remedying

One of the chief propagandists in vogue in Europe today for the purpose of keeping dissatisfied Europeans from making plans to a new life in the United States has been the printed interpretations of the American news.

Unemployment and labor violence, political flare-ups, crime waves and race riots are blasted over the front pages of the European papers along with floods, storms, earthquakes and other natural phenomena.

Since this latest propaganda campaign has been in effect, Europeans have changed their impressions of Americans from bloated millionaires to a form of wealthy, depraved morose. Every out-of-the-way event is exploited to the heights in Europe in order to paint an unfavorable picture of the United States.

An event of this nature took place only a few days ago and the German and Austrian papers have been giving the story prominent space on the front pages of their home editions. Fleming Hackett, a 34-year-old Kentucky coal miner, "married" 10-year-old Rosie Columbus and took her to his two-room cabin as his "bride."

Flem today can't understand why the authorities raised such a fuss over the fact that he took the unschooled daughter of Mrs. Grace Columbus for his "bride." This little log shack in the hills may appear miserable to the outsider but to Rosie and her kin-folks who had spent the last two winters under a rock cliff on the adjoining hillside it must seem like a castle.

In the hills of eastern Kentucky, the marriage ceremony doesn't amount to much. Mrs. Columbus simply asked for a license and swore that her daughter was 15 years old. The bridal party didn't even bother to come to town. The local mine blacksmith, "Reverend" W. G. Ratcliff, performed the marriage rites and didn't ask any questions. The minister didn't ask any questions, but the Johnson county (Ky.) health authorities did when a check on the birth records found the child to be only 10 years old, warrants of rape were issued.

These child marriages in the hill counties of the United States are not at all unusual, but it is only when these infrequent investigations are brought up that the situation gains any attention. Poor white families in the barren foothills of Tennessee, Kentucky, the Carolinas and Virginia have standards of living and ideas of marriage which are far below the general ideas of American civilization.

India has long been looked down on because of the squalor of the low caste Hindus and the prevalence of child brides, but the situation among the poor whites in the deep south is very similar. For every child marriage which comes to light in the south, dozens are overlooked simply because the man and wife haven't taken the trouble to get a marriage license or have a legal ceremony performed.

America's 'Good Neighbor' Fleet

THE S. S. Argentina leaves from New York tomorrow for Brazil, Uruguay and Argentina, completing the maiden sailings to South America of the "Good Neighbor" fleet.

Six weeks ago the Brazil inaugurated the new service, recommended by President Roosevelt and the first to receive the attention of the Maritime Commission in its program to rebuild the American merchant marine.

The Brazil, the Argentina and the Uruguay, modern 18,000-ton liners well-known in the inter-coastal trade as the Virginia, the Pennsylvania and the California, were recently purchased from the Panama-Pacific company by the Maritime Commission.

Reconditioned at a cost of $2,000,000 and renamed after the countries they are to serve at the suggestion of the president, they were assigned to the task of strengthening relations between the Americas and of competing with Europe for the rich commerce of Latin America.

When the Brazil made her initial visit to Rio de Janeiro, a banquet was held aboard the liner to celebrate the occasion. Oswaldo Aranha, Brazilian foreign minister, was the principal speaker. His message was momentous.

Speaking on behalf of the Brazilian government, he declared that his country is desirous of reaching an agreement with the United States to restrict Brazil-United States trade to vessels flying the flags of the two republics.

If such a pact is made it would mean that Brazil had definitely cast her lot with the United States rather than with Italy and Germany. Senor Aranha's proposal may presage a new deal in the relations between the United States and all the other Latin American states, also.

The "Good Neighbor" fleet is significantly named—that its intention is recognized and reciprocated is indicated in Senor Aranha's cordial reply.

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

IT IS STRANGE and disturbing that thousands of Americans, secure in their homes on a quiet Sunday evening, could be scared out of their wits by a radio dramatization of H. G. Wells' fantastic old story, "The War of the Worlds."

We're sure the 23-year-old actor, Orson Welles, didn't realize the panic he was spreading from coast to coast among people who believed that monsters from Mars actually had invaded New Jersey.

Yet young Mr. Welles, a student of Shakespeare, might have remembered Hamlet and, remembering, might have foreseen the effect of too much dramatic realism on an audience already strung to high nervous tension.

Hamlet, it was who staged a play to "catch the conscience" of the King of Denmark, his uncle, who had murdered Hamlet's father, seized the throne and married the widowed queen. This play within a play also concerned the murder of a king. And, as Hamlet had intended, his uncle and his mother were driven to such hysterical terror that they refused to watch it to the end.

"What, frightened with false fire?" exclaimed Hamlet with bitter scorn, certain now of his uncle's guilt.

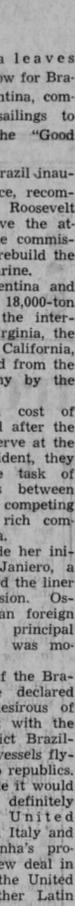

Unlike Hamlet, young Mr. Welles did not plan deliberately to demoralize his audience. And no guilty consciences, but nerves made jittery by actual, though almost incredible, threats of war and disaster, had prepared a good many American radio listeners to believe the completely incredible "news" that Martian hordes were here.

Of course it should never happen again. But we don't agree with those who are arguing that the Sunday night scare shows a need for strict government censorship of radio programs.

On the contrary, we think it is evidence of how dangerous political control of radio might become. If so many people could be misled unintentionally, when the purpose was merely to entertain, what could designing politicians not do through control of broadcasting stations.

The dictators in Europe use radio to make their people believe falsehoods. We want nothing like that here. Better have American radio remain free to make occasional blunders than start on a course that might, in time, deprive it of freedom to broadcast uncensored truth.

"TWAS THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS!"

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Neil MacMillan, who became lost in the British Guiana jungles and nearly starved after a six month diet of cassava root, has returned to New York with some highly enlightening opinions of the natives down there.

"Those Indians among whom we lived," recalled the still somewhat wan but now well-fed member of the Holden expedition, "were a fascinating lot. Most of them look old, due to the privations and that poisonous cassava root. They can't count above three. With them 'four' is a word compounded of two 'twos.' I asked one old man how old he was and his reply was: 'I am two men and four on the other hand.'"

"This meant nothing until I learned their way of reckoning. They use their digits, beginning with one hand. One hand means 5. One hand and one on the other means 6. Both hands equal 10. One on one foot means 11. One foot means 15. One on the other foot means 16. One man, that is to say, two hands and two feet, means 20. With this as a table I was able to figure out the old man's age as 49, which wasn't old at all. That was the total of the 'two men and four on the other hand.' Am I clear?"

We mumbled politely that it was all very clear, but it wasn't, and so we reached for our bonnet and were really get tough and take up long division.

One night I was strolling along a boulevard in Paris and I ran into Bob Christenberry. You must not think I have been abroad when I mention Paris, for on Broadway there is now a vast enclosure that is known as the sidewalks of Paris. This is an adjunct of those two Parisian revues fashioned so expertly by Clifford C. Fischer at the International Casino, and it affords the clientele an opportunity to sip their aperitifs in an authentic atmosphere of the French capital.

But I was talking about Bob Christenberry. He recently won a golf tournament—although he has only one hand. When you talk with him you come away with the impression of having been with a man thoroughly versed in anything you choose to talk about.

This is true, and a peek into his personal records reveals why. He was in the war and a U. S. marine. He was vice consul in Vladivostok and also in Santo Domingo. He has been a newspaperman and a deep water fisherman. He is the manager of the Astor hotel at Broadway and 45th street.

He is also the managing director of the International Casino, which explains, perhaps, how I happened to bump into him across from a very intriguing postcard stand on the Rue de la Paix. As for those postcards—well, I wouldn't know. I was afraid they wouldn't muster up to snuff and so I passed them by. After all, we gababouts must preserve some illusions.

I have a new black cat and his name is Friday. He's the fifth black tom I've had. One was named Rasputin and he died. Another was Toby and he died under the wheels of a truck. A third we call-

MUSIC IN THE AIR

By Harold Kirshenblit

I should like to say a few words about the music room at Iowa Union. But, unfortunately, the words which I have in mind are rather frowned upon by what is laughingly called society, and so I refrain. But it is with an effort of the will, I assure you. A lesser man would give way to his emotions. For my grievance is one of long standing, and time has irritated, not healed the wound.

It is not merely that the room selected as the music room could not have been more disadvantageously chosen had the Union deliberately set out to find the worst possible home for its machine and records. It is not merely that the attendants who play the music have neither a love of nor appreciation for the music they play.

No, it is none of these, and yet it is all of them. Nor does this exhaust the list. Daily, new occurrences add coals to the flames. And regular listeners at the music room don sackcloth and ashes and raise their tear-stained faces to heaven and cry out, "How long, how long?" Yea, verily and even so.

Why, for example, is the music room the step-child of the Union, having been shunted, in the short span of six months, into no less than three different abodes? Why, for example, is the schedule of hours during which the room is open at the mercy of any event, major, minor or insignificant, which may take place at the Union.

Why is nothing done to stimulate interest in and understanding of music, by having two or three regular programs each week, scheduled and announced, complete with program notes, in addition to the regular daily request programs? Will wagers that close to a third of the music in the collection has never been played, partly because much of it has only historical interest, and partly because many listeners are naturally reluctant to request works with which they are unfamiliar.

Culture is good for you, like spinach and vitamins. Or so they tell us. So the Union purchases a collection of books and a collection of records, and then sits back self-satisfied. Come and get it!

With the reading room, I have no quarrel. There may be some who have as low an opinion of the reading room, as I have of the music room. I am not one of them. But just contrast, if you will, the way in which the two rooms are handled. In the one case, you have two fairly large, comfortable rooms, rarely, if ever, filled to capacity, the lighting good, and the general atmosphere conducive to reading and study. In the other case, you've a single,

Would Not Allow Fire To Spoil Spaghetti

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Florence Tatum tried to make the firemen wait until her spaghetti was cooked—in fact she tried so hard they had to put her in jail.

She obstructed the firemen when they arrived to put out a fire on the second floor of a 35th street address. Her spaghetti was cooking and she didn't want it disturbed until it was done.

They did not disturb the spaghetti but they insisted on putting out the fire. Everything would have been all right to that point but as the firemen started to leave Mrs. Tatum threw the spaghetti, pot and all, at the chief. It was then that they put her in jail.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—Hollywood never turns its searchlight off.

You can count on it. Year in, year out, the town is searching. It wouldn't be Hollywood without a search.

Latest face the light shone on, with triumph, was Sidney Toler's. Why they had to search for Toler, who's been around nearly 10 years making movies, is inexplicable, except in Hollywood. They had tested 34 actors to replace Warner Oland as Charlie Chan before Toler. It just happened that Sol Wurtzel saw him at the right moment. So it develops that a Scot will take up where a Swede left off—in playing a Chinese.

The searchlight still plays on, however. It has found a Chan, but what about a Tarzan junior? Metro wants a five-year-old who can swing from trees, rattle animals, swim and cut up like his screen daddy Johnny Weissmuller.

The grandma of all searches, by now, is Selznick's. He's been looking for a heroine for that Civil War novel whose name eludes me presently. Gable's the hero, of course, and Norma Shearer was the gal—but only temporarily. Until Selznick names Lombard or Pauline Goddard finally, you can say the search is still on. If you care to say.

It's a funny thing, but Hollywood's searchlight always, in the end, gets its man, girl, or child. It has to succeed. Somebody always plays that part. And it has started many a career. Weissmuller's was one. He hasn't played any more but Tarzan roles, but he seems to have made it impossible for anyone else to play the ape-man. Glenn Morris, another searchee, lasted as ape-man only briefly.

Swimmer Larry Crabbe, when he was plain "Buster," left the water for the studios because Paramount needed a Lion Man. For long now, Larry's been out of the jungle. Gail Patrick, a runner-up in another search—for a Panther Woman—never got into the wilds at all but has done better in pictures than Kathleen Burke, who won the contest.

The same studio covered every state and many foreign countries in its search for Beauty. A dozen movie recruits came to Hollywood as certified Beauties. Today only one, Colin Tapley, is left at Paramount. Another, going over to Warner Bros., became a star, Ann Sheridan.

Jon Hall in "The Hurricane" was the result of an informal though wide search. Another search product is attracting attention during shooting of "The Pure in Mind" at RKO. He's Roger Daniel, an orphan boy from near-by Glendale. This is his first big role. In the same picture is Anne Shirley, who was the answer to prayers for an "Anne of Green Gables."

In "Angels With Dirty Faces" there's a "young Cagney" whose resemblance in appearance and speech to the one and only Cagney is amazing. He's a searchee, too. He's been in training for the role for four years, although neither he nor the studio knew it until the call went out. Frankie Burke had given up hope that his ability to impersonate Cagney would land him in films. He was a hotel bell hop in Las Vegas when he heard about the picture opportunity.

It looks from this end, though, as if he's had his day in the sun—unless they write more film stories requiring juvenile Cagneys.

Health Hints: By Logan Clendening, M. D.

A case of paralysis following the bite of a wood tick has been reported from South Carolina. Some of the eastern states have previously reported such cases. Wood tick infestation with poisoning has frequently been reported from the Rocky Mountain states. In British Columbia it is also common. The condition is sufficiently serious that a warning is in order. Several varieties of wood ticks cause the paralysis. They are large, brown, ugly-looking bugs that swell up to three or four times their size after feeding. In sheep countries paralysis of sheep and of children has often been observed following their bite.

Toxin Is Cause: The paralysis is presumably caused by the introduction into the body of a non-infectious toxin which is liberated into the blood of the host while the tick is feeding. The toxin has an especial affinity for the nervous system. It has been found possible to produce the paralysis experimentally in animals by allowing female wood ticks to feed on them for a period of one or two weeks.

It is assumed that a feeding period of five or six days is required to allow the tick to inject enough poison into the host to cause paralysis, so there is plenty of time to remove the tick and prevent the consequences of prolonged infestation.

May Lead to Death: If, however, the tick is allowed to remain, the paralysis of the throat may lead to death. A typical case is that of a farmer who went to a neighboring community to inspect some prize pigs. Five days later he noticed numbness and tingling in his legs. Two days later the legs would not support the body, and there was some weakness of the arms and hands. He was taken to the hospital where definite nerve changes could be made out. A few days later the speech became thick and slurred. He called attention to a lump on his scalp. This was found to be a fully-distended wood tick. This was removed, just nine days after the prize pig inspection. The next day the paralysis was better and three days later he was dismissed from the hospital with all signs of paralysis gone.

Dean Emeritus Will Give Talk

Dean Seashore To Speak in Chemistry Auditorium Monday

Dean emeritus Carl E. Seashore will speak at a general university lecture on "New Approaches to the Science on Voice" in the chemistry auditorium at 7 p.m. Monday.

In his lecture, Dean Seashore will describe and illustrate with slides the new scientific approaches to the study of music and speech. He believes that more has been accomplished in this field in the last 20 years than in all preceding eras.

The philosophical club, jointly organized by the philosophy, child welfare and psychology departments, is sponsoring the lecture.

The lecture will be concluded in sufficient time to allow the audience to attend the university play being presented the same night.

Dr. Koo--

roy. His smile is quick and contagious.

As for the Chinese-Japanese war, Dr. Koo believes that the issue has been narrowed down to a fundamental one—that of reducing China into a vassal state of Japan. It is a war for independence, in which China is striving to maintain her status and initiative as a free nation.

"It is now a struggle for and against time," Dr. Koo said. "China needs time to drag out the war, to drain Japan of her resources. Japan wants to terminate the war as quickly as possible."

Dr. Koo went on to say that China will lose, no matter how the war comes out, but that if she can make the war long and unprofitable to Japan, she may receive better terms from Japan. If she is rendered powerless quickly by the war with Japan, then she stands to lose a great deal.

The more optimistic side to this perplexity of world problems, is expressed in Dr. Koo's belief that the foundations of peace are being laid today. People with a religious background—not only Christians—think in terms of peace, stated Dr. Koo. It is the people who have abandoned religious backgrounds who are keeping the war spirit alive.

"Anyone who is a Christian has an international basis for peace—his love of country is second to his love of God," the religious leader said.

This is the only basis on which you can build any peaceful kind of order. That is why totalitarians must attack the church, which teaches faith in something greater than country. These people with religious backgrounds will be the nucleus to lead the world into peace."

He stressed the fact that formerly emphasis has been laid upon either disarmament or pacifism, (the latter is only an attitude) and that neither of these touches upon the central issue of peace and war. The practical issue, whether or not nations can work together through some international agency toward peace, has already been neglected. This is why we have such insignificant results in trying to arrive at a more permanent peace.

The League of Nations was founded for that purpose, Dr. Koo pointed out, but they got the problem during the Japanese-Manchuria affair of watching a nation refuse to allow the league to settle the problem peacefully. The league tried to stop the war, but it did not face the reason—in other words, it rushed into the fray with no groundwork to support it.

This makes it necessary in peace work to lay the groundwork among the people in nations today. Projections of the program especially to young people is important.

Dr. Koo was educated in Shanghai, where he was born. He attended family, or private, schools until his university career at St. John's university.

The education system at that time consisted of no governmental supervision, except that students in the private institutions were examined by government officials to see whether or not they met certain educational standards in their work. In 1906 the government abolished this system and began public schools.

Dr. Koo was in the first class to be graduated from a university in China with A.B. degrees. There were three people in that graduating class.

He worked in railroad administration for 10 years, and then became interested in the Y.M.C.A. movement. He was made national secretary for student work and began his international contacts at that time.

He first came to the United States in 1921, when he passed through the country on his way to Europe. In 1923 he was working in India. He attended the opium conference of the League of Nations in 1924, and returned to the United States in 1926 for the Chinese Chamber of Commerce good-will mission to the American Chamber of Commerce.

In 1931 he was in Australia and New Zealand. Since that time he has returned only infrequently to China, for his work as secretary of the World Christian federation, international organization of the Student Christian association, keeps him traveling in 28 countries.

Dr. Koo leaves for India Nov. 18. He will spend February, March and April in Europe and will then return to the United States for the summer months. His next stop will be South Africa, and he will return to China in 1940.

Dr. Koo feels at home in Iowa for, he told me, the state's plains and farming lands remind him of his native home.

On Other Campuses

Mad About Durbin

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Another world's record holder has been discovered in the ranks of the class of '41 at Howard college. It is none other than Theodore Held, who has seen Deanna Durbin's picture "Mad About Music" 144 times.

This startling disclosure was made after representatives of the Howard Crimson, tracking down a rumor, had submitted Held's roommate, Barclay Feather, '41, to two and a half hours of merciless grilling. Feather finally broke down and admitted the story was true.

After this initial statement, Feather was quite willing to speak without further pressure. "The first I knew about it," he gasped, "was when he began disappearing just before the exam period. Ted would be gone for hours. I was terribly worried."

"He was very secretive about the whole matter. I was unable to extract any information from him as to what was the object of these mysterious absences."

Feather remarked that finally he trailed Held to one theater six times in four days, adding that Held would stay through as many as three shows per day. After the Durbin picture left the Square, Feather followed Held to the Excelsior theatre in Boston.

"Then he began going to the Tremont. By that time he knew that I knew, and he confided to me that he was pretty fond of the girl. After the Tremont," Feather said, "he even contemplated going to Brookline."

It was after the 84th performance that Held began to have strange interludes. Often he would interrupt discussions on the tariff and international law, so typical of Adams house discussions, with remarks like "No, I mean yes," "Good night," he would carol in a silvery tone.

Research into Held's accomplishment shows that he saw in the neighborhood of 169 shows while here last spring. He took in the rest in Columbus and the surrounding cities, Cincinnati, Cleveland, and San Francisco, after school closed.

Considering that Held paid on an average of 40 cents each show, it is estimated that he must have spent around $45 to establish his record, even allowing for occasional repeats on the same ticket.

Luck for Listeners
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Everyone has squirmed while some after-dinner speaker blissfully ran overtime.

Some day Wayne Shaffer, mechanical engineering junior at the University of Minnesota, may do a little speech-halting on his own hook. Wayne has just invented a "stop and go" signalling device to aid in limiting speeches of classmates in his technical discussions class to five minutes.

Built of scraps of electrical material, the semaphore is now replacing tapping pencils and flashing cards which distracted both the speaker and the class.

Wayne's "stop and go" light, a comparatively simple device, works on the same principle as a regular traffic signal. Containing three bulbs mounted on a board fastened to a wooden base, it is operated by a class timekeeper. As the speaker begins his discussion, the timekeeper switches on the green light. When 4 minutes have elapsed, the amber bulb signals a warning to the speaker.

'No Royal Road'
"Education must come from within you. You must be receptive to it. Education cannot be poured into you, nor is it a cloak that can merely be put on and worn." University of Wisconsin's President C. A. Dykstra re-asserts an axiom that knowledge cannot be spoon-fed.

"Don't resent it if the faculty does some back seat driving, for they have been over the route before." Minnesota's new president, Guy Stanton Ford, tells education's passengers about the guide-post duty of professors in directing us down the road to knowledge.

"A change of emphasis on the values of campus life is necessary. High scholarship should rank as the most valuable achievement a student can make. This means that useless organizations and activities ought to be discarded, others revitalized, and campus life reoriented." Norris T. Pritchard, Iowa State Teachers college, calls for a searching study of extra-curricular activities.

as well as his impeccable musicianship.

A few years ago Virovai was a child prodigy in a small village in the hills that lie between Hungary and Yugoslavia. Tonight, with eight tumultuous curtain calls, New York's artistic elect hailed him as the year's most brilliant discovery.

The musicians in the great symphony orchestra joined in the reception as the boyish figure was recalled again and again. In a front row seat, his mother, a simple country woman who was his first music teacher, saw John Barbirolli, distinguished conductor, clap her son's hands.

Graduated from the conservatory of music in Budapest at the age of 13, Virovai became the last pupil of the renowned Hubay. A year ago he won first prizes in the international contest for violinists held in Vienna.

Still he was practically unknown to New York music-lovers until tonight. Tomorrow his name will be discussed in art and music circles across the country. He will be soloist again Friday and Saturday with the philharmonic and on Sunday afternoon at 3:15 P.M., a nationwide CBS network will broadcast his performance of the Brahms Concerto with this orchestra.

On Nov. 15, Virovai begins his first American concert tour in Akron, Ohio. He will be soloist with the Chicago orchestra Dec. 27, 29 and 30.

Rebels Punished
CORAVLLIS, Ore. (AP)—When Oregon State college freshman fraternity pledges decided to walk out on their newly-found "brothers," they failed to reckon with the punishment for their sins. After the neophytes decided they'd put their older members in their places by staging a mass exit, they finally returned to find the following "duties" awaiting them:

The Alpha Tau Omega's polished up all night waxing floors, polishing furniture and trophies. Of course, hacks and cold showers were in the offing. At the Kappa Sigma house a nice lively lamb was left for the boys to take care of, along with sawdust inches thick on the floor to be cleaned by 6:30 o'clock in the morning.

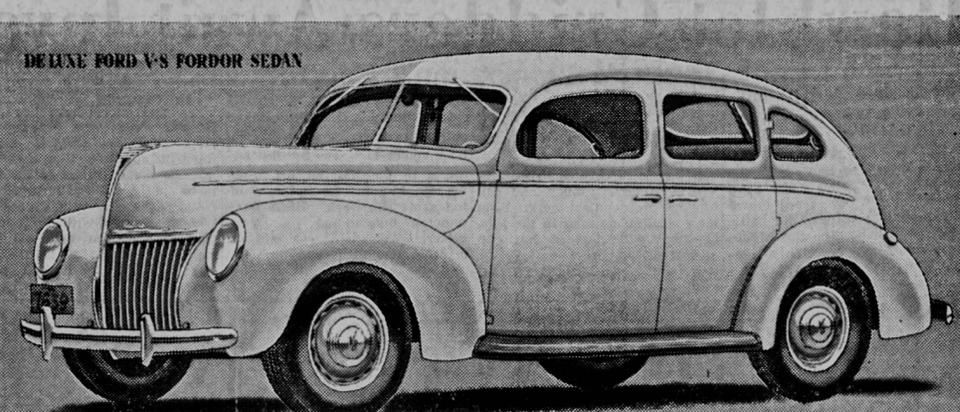

Now to get to the girls' punishment. The Kappa Kappa Gamma girls ate onions and brains and left their make-up kits at home the next day. They also cleaned house until early in the morning and slept on hard floors all night. The Alpha Gam's managed to get cold baths from their members and all the fraternities around joined in and gave them good duckings. Alpha Chi's were given a good tubbing and brought up before their president to drink a mysterious potion. The Chi Omega's cleaned all the dishes and clothes for the members.

Coeds Improving?
PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—"If you trust a girl, she will respond to that trust."

That is what Mrs. Mabel Cooper believes. And Mrs. Cooper should know, for she is celebrating her 18th anniversary as housemother at the Kappa Alpha Theta chapter house at the University of Pittsburgh.

"American college girls have changed considerably in the last 18 years," Mrs. Cooper says. "Eighteen years ago girls were a little more thoughtful and more deliberate. Now they do most things on impulse, but they have pretty fair judgement."

Mrs. Cooper contends that the behavior of Pitt girls in the last five years shows a marked improvement over the "jazz age" group. Coeds today take college work seriously, she says.

Announcing the NEW FORD V-8 CARS for 1939

GREATER VALUE for every motorist has been built into the two new Ford V-8 cars for 1939. They further express the forward-looking policy of the Ford Motor Company—traditional Ford dependability and economy plus progressive engineering.

Each car is distinctive in design, yet each has something of the fine streamlining of the Lincoln-Zephyr—recognized style leader for the industry. Interior appointments are in keeping with outward beauty. Every detail is styled for good taste and good service.

Both are big, roomy cars, equipped with hydraulic brakes and powered with the V-8 engine that gives you so much extra smoothness and efficiency. This year, the quiet performance of the V-8 engine has been matched by the new quiet built into every part of the car.

The 1939 Fords bring you greater riding ease on every road. New seat construction, flexible transverse springs, and big, hydraulic shock absorbers provide triple-cushioned comfort.

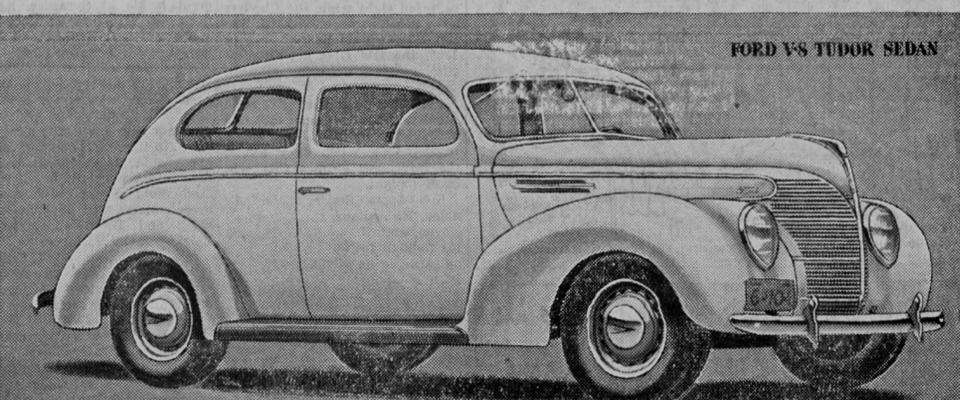

Both 1939 Ford cars are Ford-priced for greater dollar value. Both bring new meaning to the Ford phrase, "The Quality Car in the Low-price Field."

Hawklet Gridders Await Invasion of Davenport's Blue Devils

Confidently awaiting the traditional battle with the Davenport Blue Devils, Iowa City's Little Hawks were all set last night for their Homecoming battle with the Daymen on Shrader field at 8 o'clock tonight. A record crowd is expected to witness the battle which will determine the Mississippi Valley conference championship.

Injuries have played havoc with both squads but have not slowed down practice in either school. Both the Hawklets and the Blue Devils were given hard drills during the week.

In the Iowa City camp injuries kept Clarence Crumley and Stu Mueller from contact work. Both have strained muscles in the legs. Crumley will start at left end against Davenport but Caywood will take over Mueller's guard position.

At Davenport the whole left side of the line has been taken out by injuries. Johnny Welchman, senior end, was the last addition to the hospital list when he injured his knee in the Clinton game last week. He is Davenport's outstanding pass receiver. Welchman was still on crutches last night and probably will see but very little action against Iowa City.

Lancaster and Swanson, left tackle and guard, have been out for two weeks with injuries but may see action tonight. Last night it appeared that Swanson may be the only one of the two to be in the starting lineup.

Warren Porter will take over Welchman's post with the help of Gadiant, Johnson and Sanford, capable reserves. Staak and C. Baker will help the injured guard and tackle.

The type of play to be used by Iowa City will not be known until the Hawklets begin actual playing. The Iowa City boys have proved themselves very versatile this season. Against Mt. Vernon, Miller led the Red and White forces to victory with his great line plunging. Against Clinton, Iowa City sent Lewis and McLaughlin out on wide end sweeps and off-tackle thrusts, Lewis scoring twice on jaunts through the tackle.

Against McKinley the Little Hawks' offense was marked by its passing. At Dubuque the locals used a razzle-dazzle style of play.

Defense

And on the defense the Little Hawks have been just as variable. In one game they lined up in the 6-3-2 formation, in another the Red and White boys would use a five-man line with a 3-2 formation in the backfield. At times the 6-2-2 and 7-2-2 formations were used. In the second half of the Wilson game last week, the Iowa City boys lined up in what was approximately a 6-1-2-2 formation. This defense bottled up the Wilson passing attack very effectively.

Davenport's offense will be led by the fast running and accurate passing of Bob "Spotsy" Bender. Powerhouse Tony Wulf will also do plenty of running.

A great battle in the line is expected as Coach Jesse Day has developed one of the strongest lines in Davenport's history and Iowa City's forward wall has rarely been outplayed this season. Outstanding in the Iowa City line are Jack Hirt, tackle, and Dave Wright, center.

Mid-west football fans have been hearing much for many years—of the traditional football battles in the east, battles clothed in tradition accumulated through many years of grid warfare. However, it seems that that sort of thing isn't confined to the east. Our own Big Ten can produce several rivalries well along in years, and among them the Iowa-Minnesota series which started back in 1891.

Saturday's game will be the 32nd contest engaged in by the two schools. Of these, Iowa has captured eight while the Gophers have come through with 23. The last Hawkeye triumph was in 1929, the Old Gold romping off with a 9 to 7 decision.

Iowa City grid fans will get a preview of a young man that will probably be sporting Notre Dame regalia soon when they attend the Davenport - Iowa City grid clash tonight.

Bob "Spots" Bender is the lad's name. He captains the Davenport eleven, and, if reports concerning his football future are true, he'll be gathered in by Elmer Layden's Irish soon.

The Louis, Lewis heavyweight championship battle scheduled for January probably won't draw "files" at the box office. Not because of the all-colored angle, as many seem to think, but rather because few fight experts will give John Henry even an outside chance of dethroning the heavy-hitting champion.

Fight fans, getting rather finicky about what they lay the scratch on the line to see, no longer pay through the nose merely for the opportunity of seeing a champion in action—not if that champion isn't fighting an opponent give a fair chance of copping the crown. If Mike Jacobs can make this one pay he'll have to be a magician—not merely a promoter.

'On the Prowl' Wildcats Stalking Gophers' Title

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 3 (AP)—Northwestern's Wildcats are "on the prowl" — heading toward the dominating position clenched so long by Minnesota in the Big Ten football wars.

In his fourth season as Northwestern's coach, Lynn Waldorf has a well-balanced team which is driving toward the western conference title. But more than that—Northwestern is showing signs of producing, within the next few years, powerful teams which may at least rival the remarkable record Minnesota eleven compiled under Bernie Bierman.

Undefeated

Northwestern, with a string of four victories and one scoreless tie with Ohio State this season, has one of the most sound defenses produced by a midwest team this season. Waldorf, a great tackle at Syracuse, has a flock of fast-charging forwards and a backfield thoroughly grounded in defensive play.

Regardless of how Northwestern finishes this season, the Wildcats will be in the upper bracket of 1939 Big Ten teams and may come up with one of the strongest teams in the school's history. Only one regular backfield man, Bernie Jefferson, will be lost by graduation. From the line, only three starters will be gone—Cleo Diehl and Tom Eby, and Bob Voigts, tackle. Returning star forwards such as Nick Cutlich, Don Guritz, Hal Method and John Haman will be aided by a wealth of promising reserves.

Reserve strength, according to Waldorf, enabled Northwestern to upset Minnesota last Saturday, and the Wildcats have a wealth of replacements on which to build during the next two seasons. Sophomore stars include Francis Purtell, Erwin Madsen and Oliver Hahnenstein, while from the freshman squad will come Bill de Correvont, the high school flash.

Waldorf succeeded Dick Hanley and took charge of the Wildcats in 1935, when his team won four games, lost three and tied one. Northwestern won the Big Ten title with six victories and no conference defeats in 1936 and last year won three Big Ten games and lost the same number.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 3 (AP)—Coach Fritz Crisler stressed offense today as he drilled the Michigan gridders for Saturday's encounter here with Pennsylvania.

Archie Kodros, injured last week, returned to duty at center—on the third team—and Crisler said he would not use him unless "absolutely necessary." Injuries kept Forest Evashevski, quarterback; Ralph Heikinen, guard, and

Big Ten Briefs

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 3 (AP)—Defenses against Purdue passes occupied Ohio State university's gridiron Buckeyes today. Simone did the tossing for the white-shirted bogus Boilermakers, while a variety of backfield talent, including Kabealo, Langhurst, Fordham and Strausbaugh, studied ways to break up the plays. The two Big Ten rivals meet here Saturday.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 3 (AP)—Preparing for the possibility of a wet field against Iowa Saturday, Coach Bernie Bierman today sent his Minnesota squad through a ball-handling drill designed to acquaint them with a wet ball. While most of the two-hour workout conducted in the fieldhouse, Bierman sent his squad onto the rain-swept practice field for a short session of running plays. Later, indoors, the Gopher mentor gave his squad a ball that had been soaked in water and they ran plays with it. For the second consecutive day Captain Francis Twedell was on the sidelines with a cold. Allen Rork, veteran linesman, was at right guard in place of Twedell.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 3 (AP)—Steamed up with the hope of scoring an upset victory Saturday over Northwestern at Evanston, Wisconsin wound up its week's football drills today with a brisk workout and a review of Northwestern's attack.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher said he would take on the trip 13 sophomores, 10 juniors and 12 seniors, or three complete teams with an extra center and right tackle added. The squad leaves tomorrow afternoon, and will have headquarters in Chicago.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 3 (AP)—Illinois, which has no game scheduled for this Saturday, saw the end of three days of light workouts topped today by a long offensive scrimmage. Ralph Ehn, Bo Burris and Cliff Peterson each broke loose for long runs against the freshmen. Twice Peterson slashed off tackle for long touchdowns with the second team, did his first ball carrying since injuring his knee.

Vincent Vawe, end, on the sidelines.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3 (AP)—A short offensive rehearsal, chiefly of passing plays, preceded the University of Chicago's entrainment today for Cambridge, Mass., where they play Harvard Saturday.

Coach Clark Shaughnessy was a bit depressed over the Maroons' prospects and predicted "a troublesome afternoon" for his squad.

The light drill and its emphasis on passes culminated a week of preparation for the eastern invasion. The Maroons have scored all of their touchdowns against major opponents this season with aerials.

The Maroon starting lineup against the Crimson Saturday will be lighter than that which faced Bradley Tech, Michigan and Iowa in the Maroons' first three games.

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 3 (AP)—A search for "scoring punch" high-lighted Northwestern's last long drill today before facing Wisconsin Saturday. Still worried about the Wildcats' failure to capitalize on scoring chances in previous Big Ten games, Lynn Waldorf gave his first stringers the ball inside the freshman 10-yard line with the terse order—"Put it across." The long workout on scoring plays was followed with another look at the Badger attack.

Indications were that Busk would get the call at quarter, Kinnick and Murphy at halves and Balazs at fullback.

If Iowa is to emulate the performance of the last Hawkeye team to win on Minnesota's home soil, it will have to pile up quite a score as the '21 Hawkeye edition literally ran wild against the Gophers, piling up the top heavy total of 41 to 7.

Aubrey Devine

It was in this game that Aubrey Devine led his mates, gaining all-American recognition for himself and a Big Ten title for the Hawkeyes.

There is, however, no Devine on the present squad, success depending more on team play than on individual performance.

Rough Afternoon

With the Gophers smarting under the beating handed them by Northwestern's rampaging Wildcats last week, the Iowa brigade will have a rough afternoon ahead should a let down follow the fighting stand made against Purdue. On the other hand, the Hawkeyes may once again beat their opponents to punch in the line and have the Gopher appear as impotent as did the Boilermakers last Saturday.

With Frank Balazs back in top shape the offense should display more power than at any time this season. His presence seems to fire the team to greater efforts, and his plunging is a constant threat to the opposition's goal line.

Entrain Today for Northland Seeking Second Win of Season

Squad in Good Physical Condition for Battle With Bernie Bierman's Gophers At Minneapolis

Seeking their first victory on a Minnesota gridiron since 1921, Iowa's Hawkeyes entrain for the northland today, set to give the Gophers a real battle.

With the exception of Carl Blandin, suffering with a strained back, and Eddie McLain and Erwin Prasse who still feel the affects of stubborn head colds, the squad is in fine physical shape for the clash with the Gophers.

Brief

Yesterday's practice session was brief, Coach Tubbs calling in his men after a short signal drill.

Jerry Niles and Mike Enich, sophomores who played their first game in the line last Saturday, seem certain to be in at center and tackle, positions they occupied in the Purdue encounter. The remainder of the line was to be composed of Chuck Brady at tackle, Prasse and Evans at ends, and Allen and Kelley at guards.

Donald Parrish Wins University Triathlon Title

Adding a first place in the high jump to the points he had amassed by a tie for first in the pole vault and a third in the broad jump, Don Parrish of Des Moines last night captured the all-university jump triathlon.

Parrish's 2,020 points in the three events exceeded by exactly 200 the score of Andy Kantor of Missouri Valley who finished second. Fred Teufel of Davenport ended up in third position with 1,482 and Don King captured fourth with 1,276 points.

The Ol' Professor Listens In Hears the Pleas of Those Fans Whose Favorites Aren't Rated Tops

By PAUL MICKELSON
NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—The old professor's soap box championship for the week was won by Holy Cross with Duke and Tennessee the runners-up. The postman rang 32 times with letters from Holy Cross fans, all of them irate because the national football ratings failed to place the Crusaders among the first 10.

Bits of readable and printable quotes from the soap box, open to all the peepul who wish to write or wire why they think their teams of favorite players are tops:

Don't Need One

Jeff Price, Worcester, Mass.: "We may not have any high-priced press agent to do Holy Cross' tub thumping for us but we really do play football up here. You refuse to rate in your first 15 teams a Holy Cross eleven which, in the past three years, has been twice undefeated. You rate Duke 11th. Duke barely beat Colgate. Holy Cross licked Colgate, 21-0, with 19 first downs to Colgate's 3; 278 yards rushing to Colgate's 54."

Ted Mann, Duke press agent: "Why Duke 11th? Don't you pay off on defenses, professor?"

Sure, Sure

Al Sharp, Chattanooga Times: "Please take another look at Fordham's record. Rank 'em all above Tennessee — let Pitt rule the football world — give T. C. U. anything — but Fordham, Well, I'll play you 18 holes of golf to see whether Fordham is placed 16th or 19th. I'll take Tenn. I'm telling you they play some tough football in these parts. If Tenn makes the Rose Bowl, watch Bob Andridge go on catching and running with passes. He once did the 100-yard dash at an Atlanta track meet in 9.5, according to five clocks."

Quite Right

John Murphy, Tulsa, Okla.: "Reference to the referee's error

Louis, Lewis Meet Jacobs Iron Out Details Of All-Negro Title Fight January 27

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—Joe Louis, heavyweight champion, and John Henry Lewis, who is recognized as the light-heavyweight ruler everywhere except in this state, met at Promoter Mike Jacobs' office here today and ironed out the details of their 15-round fight at the Garden on January 27.

All Negro The pair, who will be the first to meet in an all-Negro heavyweight championship fight in this country, did everything except sign the official contract. They will attend to that on November 25 at the offices of the state athletic commission.

Griffith Flays Football Critics For "Hastiness"

CHICAGO, Nov. 3 (AP)—Major John L. Griffith, conference athletic commissioner, asserted today critics who accused college football of overcommercialization were hasty and uninformed.

He declared that in his judgment very few colleges placed an undue emphasis upon the profit motive. "There are," he continued, "some one thousand institutions above high school rank in the United States and fully 90 per cent of these senior and junior colleges conduct their football operations annually at a loss, yet these institutions year after year promote intercollegiate football."

Rock Island Squad Favored to Defeat Father Ryan's Team

Forced to cancel yesterday's practice because of rain, the St. Pat's football squad lost another day in its preparation for Sunday's game with St. Joseph's of Rock Island. The St. Joe game, St. Pat's only meeting with a parochial school this season, will conclude the Irish schedule.

Sluggish team drills combined with cancelled practices seem to forecast a defeat for the Green and White Sunday. Coach Father Ryan has been pointing for this game all season, but his boys appear due for another loss. Only a decided upset would see the Irish return from Rock Island victorious.

Gillette Hits G. O. P. Regime

Speakers Urge Straight Ticket

G. O. P. Regime Termed Period Of 'Inflated Prosperity'

Condemning the republican regime of 1920-32 as a period of "inflated prosperity" with a subsequent "joy ride down the hill," Sen. Guy M. Gillette delivered a ringing appeal to some 300 persons at the Gillette - Gaffney rally last night in the community building to vote the democratic ticket Nov. 8 and maintain the "forward march to recovery."

The rally was the climax to the democratic campaign in Johnson county, with Judge James P. Gaffney, candidate for congress from the first congressional district, and State Secretary Dr. Robert E. O'Brien supplementing the remarks of the chief speaker, Senator Gillette.

Opens Gathering
Dr. O'Brien opened the gathering with an appeal for a straight democratic ticket. "We cannot carry out our program," stated Dr. O'Brien, "unless the entire group is elected, that we may work together. A good program is ruined when you don't have complete cooperation of state and county officers."

Senator Gillette vigorously attacked the republican program, explaining and defending the legislative action of the new deal. He did not indicate complete support of Rooseveltian doctrines, but maintained "we have been measurably successful, because we refused to stand idle and wait for an elusive prosperity. Instead, we worked for it."

Attacks Republicans
"After a long career of 12 years as the dominant party, the republicans became smug. The party was taken over by big business and those interested purely in selfish and personal gain. Therefore, in 1932 they turned the nation back to us after the national income had shrunk from $6 billion to $2 billion."

"They turned it back to us with the auctioneer's hammer ringing in every county in Iowa. They turned it back to us with hunger lines stretching across the nation, with 10-cent corn, with boys on every freight train. They turned it back to us without having done a single thing but prophesize that 'prosperity was just around the corner.'"

Proposes Ultimatum
In summarizing his castigation of republican inactivity, Senator Gillette likened a republican vote in the coming election to returning to a doctor who had done no good in 12 years of haphazard effort. "What do you think of their stewardship?" he challenged. "Do you want it again?"

Senator Gillette proposed an ultimatum to the audience in closing his address. "It isn't a question of whether I, Guy Gillette, go back. If you want to repudiate the only farming law, the only sane and sensible recovery program on the statute book, then don't vote for me. If you feel that real progress has been made, I welcome your ballot."

Lauds New Deal
Senator Gillette reminded the audience that although he had no intimate friendship with either Judge Gaffney or Tom Martin, republican candidate for congress, one conditioning factor must be kept in mind.

"This is a democratic congress. If you want real representation in that congress, remember that only a democratic congressman can get it for you. A minor sentiment, that which is expressed by a republican, can have little weight in securing desired reforms for your district."

Judge Gaffney devoted his remarks to an appraisal of the "success of the new deal, with its specific benefits to residents of Johnson county." He advised "not to forget that what Tom Martin calls wasted funds, have resulted in unlimited benefits to the residents of this county."

Gaffney Assails Critics
In climaxing his address, Judge Gaffney reminded the audience that he "has no bone to pick with the Townsend party. I do not feel it is a disgrace to belong to such an organization. However, I do believe that adequate social security can and should be obtained not for a special group over 60 years old, but for everyone — the sick, the unemployed, the incapacitated."

Standing firmly behind the new deal program, Judge Gaffney assailed critics of the program in general and Tom Martin, his opponent, in particular for "unwarranted attacks. I appeal to your reason. I beseech you to tell me what the starving shall eat, what the freezing shall wear, where the homeless shall sleep if the government ceases its grants and work projects."

Attorney William J. Jackson was general chairman of the gathering and introduced the speakers.

War Declared On Overparked Cars

Police Judge Burke N. Carson declared war on overtime parkers yesterday, fining three offenders $1 apiece.

AROUND THE TOWN

With MERLE MILLER

TO SPEAK OF MANY THINGS — Sorry, Ted Ashby, but your "if you don't pick me up, I'll vote for him again" appeared in this column 10 months back... And was recorded in Newsweek for the Aug. 14 period...

Nice column, though... The one you're turning out daily...

You'll know what I mean, localities, reporting that the political bombshell did explode yesterday afternoon... Or was it only a fizzle?...

Anyway, the whole town's talking...

Regards the Pennsylvania political letter—it may be true... But every local WPAer has a letter from Harry L. Hopkins stressing against any political action, urging that none attend political rallies, forbidding political discussion while at work and suggesting that relievers not discuss how they're voting...

Just in passing, put down a quiet interrogation mark for the one who drives the I. C. patrol car... That court reports there were three U turns in front of our Daily Iowan yesterday... Or is that legal now?...

One note flooded yesterday's column, and signed and documented (and similar in nature to half-a-dozen unsigned in the last weeks)... It's authored by a M. M. Price, as if it mattered...

"May I," it questions, "Plaintively ask why The Daily Iowan will not make public the fact that the Dresden boys' choir is on a Nazi-sponsored tour? (See New York Post radio column.)"

We weren't surprised to know that George Sokolsky is on the National Association of Manufacturers pay roll...

We weren't surprised, and we didn't care... We believe in the democratic way... You know, Price, giving even the fellow whose opinions you abhor a chance...

Finally, don't be a Dies-hard, Price... Won't you enjoy the voice quality of the choir as much,

A simple answer, Price... We print the news... That's not... We knew it all along...

We saw the New York Post radio column of Oct. 27, the one so many of the campus "liberals" are worrying about... It declares:

"Stations which make a policy of carrying programs in German and Italian have an admittedly difficult problem."

"WBXN has been in hot water frequently... Two weeks ago, for example, WBXN aired a program of recordings specially made for that purpose by the Dresden Boys' choir, now on a Nazi-sponsored tour of the United States."

Sure, it's Nazi-sponsored... From Germany, isn't it? Name three orgs from that Insanity Fair that aren't?...

Yes, really, we knew it all along... We knew that Linton Wells is on contract from NBC (and slipped in a little propaganda for "the American Way" of broadcasting)... We know that Kernsky has special reasons for not being pro-Soviet...

We weren't surprised, and we didn't care... We believe in the democratic way... You know, Price, giving even the fellow whose opinions you abhor a chance...

Anyway, see you at the Dresden Boys' choir concert, Price?

Am I alone in hoping the university orchestra one of these years might feature a "pops" concert?... All the city symphonies do...

I repeat a life-long suspicion

Election Day 'Don'ts' for Vote Casters

How to Vote—Procedure Explained From Beginning to End

Was your election ballot among those not counted in the last general election, Nov. 3, 1936?

If you want your vote to count this year, then, observe the following "don'ts."

Don't write your name on the ballot.

Don't put any mark or sign upon it by which it can be identified as the ballot which you have voted.

Don't use any mark other than a cross (X) in marking your ballot.

Don't return a spoiled ballot to the election judge. Any erasures or improper marks defacing it will render it invalid.

Don't mark a cross in the square before the name of more candidates than can be elected to any single office.

The first step in the voting procedure is to give one's name and place of residence, if required, to the judges of election, one of whom will announce the name in a loud tone of voice. If the voter is duly registered and his right to vote is not challenged, he will be permitted to go inside of the guard rail.

Inside of the guard rail, he will receive from one of the judges an official ballot.

Having obtained a ballot, the voter retires, alone, to one of the voting booths and marks his ballot and folds it so as to conceal the marks made, and expose the official endorsement on the back, and delivers it to one of the judges of the election.

If, in marking one spoils the ballot, he should deliver it to the judge from whom he received it, and he will give the voter another. If that too is spoiled, another ballot can be obtained in the manner just mentioned. Should a third ballot be spoiled, it must be returned to the judge, and the voter can not receive another.

Voters desiring to vote a straight party ticket may do so by marking a cross in the circle at the head of the ticket. No other mark of any kind should be put on the ballot, or crosses in the square opposite the names of the candidates for whom one is voting.

Those not desiring to vote a straight ticket may mark a cross in the circle at the head of one ticket and a cross in the square opposite the name of any candidate on another ticket for whom he desires to vote, or he may place a cross in the square opposite the name of each candidate for whom he desires to vote without marking a party circle.

If one wishes to vote for some person whose name is not printed on the ballot, he may write his name in the appropriate blank space and mark a cross in the square preceding the name.

Electors who anticipate an absence from the county on election day, or those who would be prevented from attending the polls by disability, may apply to the county auditor, either in person or by mail, on any day not Sunday, election day or a holiday, and not more than 20 days prior to the election, for official ballots, to be voted at the election.

The county auditor must give a ballot to any qualified elector who so applies for it in person not more than 15 days before the date of the election. This ballot must be secretly voted immediately, and subscribed to before the county auditor or his deputy.

Ballots which are mailed to qualified electors must be secretly voted and then subscribed to before an official qualified to administer oaths, and returned to the office of the county auditor either by mail or in person prior to election day.

The county auditor is prohibited by law from issuing or receiving an absent voter's ballot on election day, nor is the county auditor qualified to administer oaths outside his office.

An unusual situation arises when there is a vacancy to be filled in an office, in that candidates elected in the general election do not assume their duties until six weeks afterwards.

Robert E. O'Brien, for example, is the present secretary of state in Iowa, appointed to fill the vacancy left in that office by the death of Mrs. Alex Miller. That appointment holds until the election Nov. 8.

Even though O'Brien is the present secretary of state and even though results of the election next Tuesday should reveal that he had been elected to that office on the democratic ticket for the next two years, he will not serve in that capacity during the six weeks following the election unless voters write his name in the space provided and place a cross in the square preceding his name.

This discrepancy arises, because, according to Iowa law, a person filling a vacancy remains in office just to the day of the general election.

The election polls will open next Tuesday at 7 a.m., and will remain open until 8 p.m.

The counting committee will begin its work two hours after the polls open and continue until all votes have been counted.

HOSTESS HINTS

November always, to most of us, means football games, Thanksgiving, cool, stimulating weather and ravenous appetites. And pork sausage is a perfect accompaniment for the season when the frost is on the pumpkin and a tang is in the air. The delicious aroma of frying sausage in the morning to eat with waffles or pancakes, broiled sausage with squash and golden butter for dinner are among the gastronomic delights of the season. So let's plan on having it soon and often from now on.

There are several varieties of sausage. It comes in links, cellophane rolls of bulk sausage, and reusable bowls of glass carefully sealed with cellophane tops. And if you like your sausage with sage you can get it that way from some packing companies also.

Remember, though, to look on the package that you buy and see that it bears the label 100 per cent pure sausage or you may be disappointed in the quality and get that type not approved by the government.

Here's a grand combination for serving sausage for dinner: Scalloped corn and sausage patties. Apple and celery salad. Savory beets. Bread and butter. Gingerbread with whipped cream. Coffee.

Fry a pound of pork sausage patties six or seven minutes until lightly brown. Make one and one-half cups of white sauce by melting two tablespoons butter, three tablespoons flour and one and one-half cups milk. Season with salt and pepper and add one pimiento chopped. Open a No. 2 can of whole kernel corn. Roll one cup of cracker crumbs very fine. Arrange crumbs, corn, sausage and sauce in alternate layers in a casserole topping with buttered crumbs and a row of five or six of the patties.

Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees F. Serves five. Another favorite of the fall season is Brazil nuts that just now are appearing in ever increasing favor in many dishes that you can prepare or for just plain good eating.

Why not try them in one of these ways and find a new flavor combination that you will be glad to repeat?

Brazil Chocolate Souffle
5 egg whites
1-2 cup sugar
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1-2 cup ground Brazil nuts

Beat egg whites until stiff and dry. Fold in sugar carefully. When well-blended, fold in chocolate and finally fold in nuts. Pour mixture into well greased top part of double boiler. Cover and cook over hot water three quarters of an hour. Turn out on platter and serve with pudding sauce or whipped cream.

Brazil Nut Bread
3 cups whole wheat flour
1 1-2 cups bread flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons soda
1 1-2 teaspoons salt
1 1-2 cups brown sugar
1 1-2 cups sliced Brazil nuts
3 cups sour milk or buttermilk

Mix dry ingredients together. Add Brazil nuts and mix well. Add milk and stir well. Pour into greased loaf pan and bake about an hour in a slow oven (325 degrees F.).

The Triangle club will have a picnic supper Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. for members and their wives in their clubrooms of Iowa Union. General chairman for the party will be Mrs. George Stoddard, and assisting her as table hostesses are Mrs. John Ashton, Mrs. Clyde Hart, Mrs. Walter F. Loehwing, Mrs. E. T. Peterson, Mrs. William Petersen, Mrs. Ted Rehder, Mrs. Clarence Updegraff and Mrs. Emil Witschi.

Emil Machu, night counterman at a Temple, Texas, cafe for 17 years, recently estimated he has served 5,000,000 cups of coffee, an average of 603 cups nightly or 17 gallons. He says he has taken in more than $250,000 for coffee alone.

Dinner Fetes Initiates

Gaily colored Mexican pottery, linens and table decorations provided the fiesta motif for the initiation dinner given last night by the University of Iowa Dames. Preceding the dinner, 28 members were initiated into the organization. The initiates were Mrs. Emmett Ayers, Mrs. Clifford Bauer, Mrs. John Blumgren, Mrs. Dean Clapsaddle, Mrs. Esmond Crown, Mrs. Thayer Curry, Mrs. Robert Fousek, Mrs. Alvin Green, Mrs. Charles Green, Mrs. Robert Harris, Mrs. Earl Harrington, Mrs. Wayne Heil, Mrs. Logan Huiskamp, Mrs. James Jacobs, Mrs. Neph Jorgenson, Mrs. Wayne Kestler, Mrs. R. L. Loken and Mrs. Tom McElhinney. Also Mrs. Howard McLaughlin, Mrs. Carroll Martin, Mrs. Don Moore, Mrs. Marcus Powell, Mrs. Ralph Reynolds, Mrs. Robert Schulz, Mrs. Earl Strong, Mrs. Wendell Taylor, Mrs. Clarence Williams and Mrs. James Williamson.

On the after dinner program Mrs. Warren Tucker spoke for the associate members who are no longer active in the organization. Mrs. J. Myrlyn McGuire represented the active members, and Mrs. Logan Huiskamp addressed the group for the initiates. Mrs. Richard Bowlin served as toastmistress.

Later in the evening the group enjoyed dancing.

Music Dept. of High School To Sponsor Rummage Sale

What do you need? What do you want? A new dress? A dictionary? A lunch box? A picture frame for that photograph of your best girl?

Whatever it is that your heart desires from clocks to clothes, you'll find it at the rummage sale which the music auxiliary of Iowa City high school is sponsoring tomorrow in the basement of the community building.

Clothing fills a large portion of the room. Included in the collection are 125 men's coats, 25 women's coats, 25 pairs of men's trousers, 100 women's cotton dresses, 100 women's silk and wool dresses, 200 children's suits and dresses, 300 pairs of shoes, 100 women's hats, 25 men's hats, 25 shirts and 10 bathrobes.

Eight hundred five dozens of coat hangers in good condition were also collected and sold to a local cleaning establishment.

On the novelty and miscellaneous table are to be found lampshades, picture frames, clocks, a carboard, a large Funk and Wagnall dictionary, a child's desk and blackboard, an old-fashioned bustle, boxing gloves, a lunch box, various kitchen utensils, China and glassware and an ironing board.

The sale will begin at 8:30 a.m. tomorrow morning. Women who will help in selling articles include Mrs. E. T. Hubbard, Mrs. B. M. Ricketts, Mrs. P. O. Norman, Mrs. Charles Gill, Mrs. C. J. Koser, Mrs. P. R. Key, Mrs. George Cassat, Mrs. Carl Strub, Mrs. C. E. Wilson and Mrs. Adolph Glaser.

Harper Talks At Music Club

Discusses 'Making Of a Hymn Book' at Music Study Club

"The Making of a Hymn Book" was the topic discussed by Dr. Earl Harper, director of the school of fine arts, when he spoke at a meeting of the Music Study club Tuesday afternoon.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Vance Morton, president of the club, who cited Dr. Harper's wide experience in the field of religious music. Author of "Church Music and Worship" and "Progress in Church Music," he is a member and officer of the commission which edited the "New Methodist Hymnal" and the composer of the music for the hymn "Shirley." Dr. Harper has also edited the "Abingdon Hymnal," "Best Known Choral Book" and the "Junior Intermediate Anthem Book."

Dr. Harper first discussed the two reasons for people to be interested in the making of hymn books. These were the important influence of music in religion as a means of firmly establishing the fundamental principles of belief in people, and the literary standard involved as hymns are a kind of powerful, persuasive poetry that reaches multitudes of people otherwise untouched by literary appeals.

He then went on to discuss the mechanics of selecting material for a hymn book and analysis of the hymn itself. This included a study of the poetical mechanics of the hymn which are important in its final effective appeal to those who sing it.

He concluded his discussion with a study of the make-up of a hymnal and listed and discussed the ten indices of such a book.

Mueller's Shoe Store Analyzes Foot Trouble
Ending Saturday night, Mueller's Shoe Store offers free advice on shoe-fitting problems by Mr. Lloyd Lohft, special representative from the Foot and Shoe Research Institute of Danville, Ill., at their store.

A special feature of this demonstration is the Free Foot Balance Test on the FOOT BALANCE INDICATOR, which shows the importance of foot balance to body balance. Foot balance and foot comfort are closely related and this instrument gives valuable knowledge that is needed to fit shoes correctly for maximum comfort. You are cordially invited.

Hockey Game Will Feature Play Program

Chicago, Iowa City Teams to Clash In Demonstration Game

Headlining the program for the play day being offered tomorrow by Hockey club of the Women's Athletic association will be the demonstration game to be played at 2 p.m. between a team from the Chicago Field Hockey association and a picked team from Hockey club and the Iowa City Hockey club.

The players on the Chicago team are a group of the best players from the association, having played first on color teams, play an exhibition game at 2 being chosen for club teams, and the best women from these teams having been chosen for the association team.

Most of the players on the association team are instructors of physical education. Four of them are on the staff at the University of Chicago, one is from Purdue university, and the others are instructors of high school physical education in and near Chicago.

Helen Bina, goal keeper for the Chicago team, was a former Olympic skater and has been selected as the best goalie in the middle west for several years. Vera Trayford, also a member of the association team, was a member of the touring team of the United States Field Hockey association last year.

Besides playing in the exhibition game in the afternoon, the Chicago players will give advanced coaching and demonstration of techniques for each team position, to the women participating in morning games.

The Chicago team members will be entertained at the homes of the members of the Iowa City Hockey club overnight.

First Concerts To Begin Sun. In Music Hall

The faculty of the music department of the university will open a series of chamber music concerts at 4:15 p.m. Sunday in the north music hall. This series is the first of this kind to be presented officially by the music department faculty.

Prof. Hans Muenzer and Prof. Arnold Small will play violin; Otto Jelinek, viola; Prof. Hans Koebel, cello, and Prof. P. G. Clapp, piano. Mr. Jelinek was formerly the principal viola player of the Kansas City symphony orchestra. Professor Koebel will play a cello solo, "Suite No. 1 in G Major," by Bach. Other selections are "Quartet in D Major" by Mozart and "Quintet in A Major" by Dvorak.

Wind instruments will also be included in the concerts, which are to be continued throughout the year.

1st Floor Girls At Currier Hall Will Give Party

Iowa Not Bad in '38

Hawkeye State Only Eight Per Cent Off From 1937 Business

For Iowa: a decline in 1938 business of only seven or eight per cent in comparison with 1937 marks; for the nation: a 30 per cent decrease in the same period.

Thus does Prof. George R. Davies summarize the situation after his University of Iowa business research bureau report month after month has shown Iowa to be far better off than the nation as a whole.

"The rapid national improvement in recent months is already checking the Iowa decline and should turn it into a forward movement," Professor Davies said.

He also pointed to the important fact that despite declines elsewhere Iowa farm income through August is reported as 6.8 per cent above the same eight months last year.

In the nine months' comparison, 1938 with 1937, other lines registering improvements are building contracts, 9.9 per cent; railroad carloadings, 6.9, and electric power production, 4.2.

After starting early in the summer, the national business upswing has gained momentum, Professor Davies declared. It has cancelled a third or more of the 1937-38 depression, as far as industrial production is concerned.

The outlook for further advance is considered favorable, for a great building deficit has accumulated, large capital funds are seeking investment, bank credit is abundant, and consumer buying is advancing, according to the university expert.

Scout Fraternity Plans Hike For Sat. Afternoon

Members of Alpha Phi Omega, honorary scouting fraternity, former members, and others interested in the activities of the organization will go on a hike tomorrow afternoon.

The meeting time and place have been set at 1:45 p.m. tomorrow in the lounge of Iowa Union. The group will present a program and have refreshments.

ROMANCE IN

CHAPTER 1
SARA SUE DAVIS dropped her brush back into the paint can and ran to the attic window. Outside, a banshee had wailed, or a panther had screamed, or both. "EE-YEA-A-A-A-HAH - ah-ah-ah-yeow!"

For a half minute Sara Sue stared, enraptured. Her heart picked up tempo. Through a cobwebby, atticky fuzzi she watched a bus across Main boulevard disgorging its animated cargo. From its maw came an incredible number of boys, and a few even came from its windows. All of them seemed hopelessly entangled in suitcases, raincoats, handshaking, backslapping, laughter, whistling, camaraderie de luxe.

"Mother!" Sara Sue shrieked down the stairs. "They're coming! The first bus is here!"

"Yes, darling!" Mother Davis had been at a window, too.

A third party, highly interested, protruded his ebony neck from a kitchen door. He was Raymond Jones, long since rechristened Calculus.

"Lawd, lawd, ah oughta be over there mah own self, Miss Sara Sue!" Calculus called now. "They sho come a hellin', don't they?"

"You stay where you are, Calculus, or I'll come a hellin' myself!" Sara Sue ordered good-naturedly. "You're not a sophomore, remember. You've been at Rice 10 years at least, haven't you?"

"Fo'teen, ma'am. But ah still likes it."

That was true. Calculus Jones, happy odd-job man, had been nicknamed by the class of '24 when he was a "freshman". He reputedly knew more about the university than its president did. And for five summers he and his enormous wife, Cleopatra, worked for Sara Sue Davis. He and Cleo had been loud and sincere mourners when Sara Sue's young husband had been accidentally killed in 1934. He and Cleo often said they "belonged" to the young widow.

"I don't blame you, Calculus," Sara Sue had come downstairs now. "I like it, too. That's why I'm here."

"You wouldn't went to Rice you' own self, if you hadn't failed in love, ma'am."

He said it tenderly. He was remembering when pretty Sara Sue Lanning, fresh out of Houston high school, had eloped with a Rice athlete. But he thoughtfully turned the talk back to current interest.

"I sees Mistuh Bob comin' outa that bus, heh heh! Football sho gonna pick up now. He been late for practice."

"Who?" asked Sara Sue.

"Mistuh Bob" the end man, ma'am.

"Oh, Bob Towne. Towne, mother. We saw him play last fall, remember? Right end. Best end Rice ever had."

"Yes'm, sho is."

In this autumn of 1938, Sara Sue Davis, along with practically everybody else in Texas, was doubly interested in Rice Institute. Rice had won championships last year in both track and football, despite the fact that its enrollment was smallest of all the Southwestern conference colleges. People just naturally like to see a small fellow win. And people couldn't criticize Rice; it maintains high scholastic standing, is independent of such things as politics, is privately endowed as a free college for the more worthy southern youths.

"And ther's Miss Peaches' long car slinkin' up over there now," Calculus resumed, grumblingly. "Doggone, she can sho tell when Mistuh Bob arrive in town! He hardly git here when she—"

"Hush, Calculus!" Sara Sue chided the colored man. "You're an old gossip."

"Yes'm. No'm, I mean." He grinned his apologies, and resumed work. His task for the morning was to make the cottage super clean. With students arriving, customers might start coming any time, Sara Sue reminded him.

The girl thrilled a little at the very thought of customers. She had never been in business before. She had held a few short-time jobs, but mostly she had lived on the insurance money her husband had left. It had run low, and someone had suggested that she open a tea room near the Rice campus.

But it wasn't going to be a tea room.

Somehow, Sara Sue Davis—the extraordinarily youngish and lovely widow Davis—did not like the idea of a tea room. It had been suggested to her, not by her.

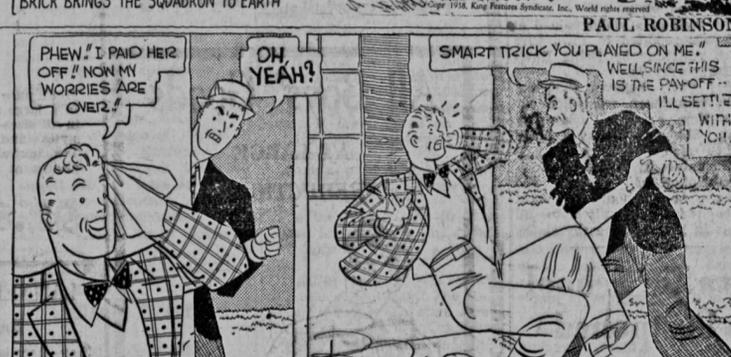

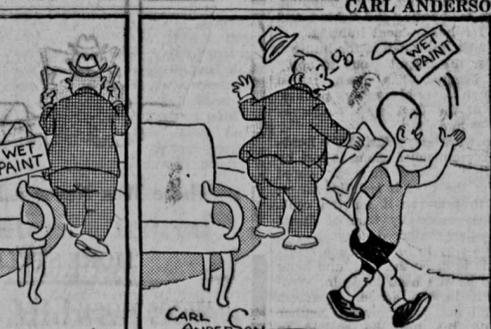

"Tea room! It sounded too dainty.

I. C. Council Meets Tonight

Zoning Amendment Entered by Shulman To Be Acted Upon

Meeting in the city council chambers tonight at 7:30, the Iowa City council will act on the zoning amendment entered by Harry Shulman Oct. 10.

Only matters of immediate importance will be brought up for consideration at this evening's session. A special meeting will be announced in the near future.

Game License Receipts In Information Offered To Hunters by Iowa Conservation Heads

Receipts from game licenses issued in Johnson county for October totaled $341.50, according to a report sent to the state conservation commission at Des Moines by R. J. Jones, county recorder.

Of the 310 licenses issued, 286 were for hunting, 10 for trapping, seven for hunting and fishing, and two for non-resident hunting.

Timely information for hunters, by far the largest group to apply for licenses, has been issued through the bi-weekly publication of the Iowa state conservation commission.

On warm days during the hunting season, much game is lost by spoiling. Game must be cared for at the time it is killed in order to preserve it for the cook. This is especially true of ducks and other feathered game.

One way to prevent such spoilage is to draw the bird, and hang it up by the neck to drain, keeping it in the shade. Feathers should not be removed. Neither should the bird be soaked in water after the entrails are removed.

If the game is permitted to hang in a cool place after being drawn, a protecting glaze will form from contact with the air.

It should be placed in a loosely woven burlap bag to keep out flies, with precaution being taken not to wrap the game tightly so that air is excluded or place the bag in an automobile trunk or closed car.

Violin Theft $500 Instrument Is Taken From Car

Lost—one violin.

The theft of a violin valued at $500 was reported to Iowa City police yesterday by Nellie Davis of Crawfordville.

Miss Davis believes that the violin was taken from her car some time Friday or Saturday night. She said it was a black leather case decorated with a Drake university banner.

Description of the violin and case was broadcast over the local police radio transmitter to all points in Iowa and nearby states.

Traffic School Is Postponed

The first of the weekly traffic schools, scheduled to be held last night in the council chambers of the city hall, was postponed until next Thursday.

This school will be sponsored by the city and directed by Police Judge Burke N. Carson and Patrolman Laurence Ham.

Rummage Sale To Be Sponsored By City Music Auxiliary

The annual rummage sale of the Iowa City music auxiliary will be held tomorrow in the basement of the Iowa City Community building at 8:30 a.m.

Aided by the manual training department of the high school, it was announced that the merchandise will be displayed better this year than in the past.

Mrs. B. M. Ricketts and Mrs. E. T. Hubbard, co-chairmen of the sale, expect the largest rummage sales ever held.

Girl Scout Troop 6 Conducted Through P. O. Wednesday

Girl Scout Troop 6 visited the post office Wednesday afternoon and were conducted through the various departments by Frank Mezik, superintendent of mails.

The group saw the sorting of mail, stamping of letters, weighing and handling of parcel post and examined many different kinds of stamps.

Mrs. Helen B. McMahon was in charge of the trip and was assisted by Helen Lewis.

Rally Day to Be Observed Sunday

Rally day will be observed Sunday by members of the Nazarene Sunday school.

The Rev. C. M. King and Supt. Paul A. Clippinger are in charge of the affair, only one of the many to be conducted throughout the state.

Charles Gill's Pockets Picked Of $238 Cash

Charles W. Gill, 522 E. Bloomington street, reported to police yesterday that his pockets were picked of $238 as he left the Clinton street entrance of the Iowa State bank building about 10 a.m.

Gill said that he was carrying the money in two envelopes inside his coat, and when he stopped to help a man retrieve a pair of colored glasses from the sidewalk he was bumped by another person. He noticed the loss of the envelopes almost immediately. Gill could describe only one man whom he said was heavy set and had broad, square shoulders.

Concert Ticket Campaign Ends

For several days mothers of Iowa City high school music students have been conducting a ticket sales campaign for the high school concert course. Sponsored by the music auxiliary, this ticket drive will end Monday at 7 p.m.

The tickets are for six concerts which will be given during the winter by the high school band and orchestra. Proceeds from these tickets will be used for uniforms and contest trips for the musicians.

Community Chest's Funds Near $16,000 As Donations Mount

The grand total of contributions to the local community chest campaign jumped to $15,674.30 yesterday afternoon with directors of the employes and business divisions reporting additional solicited funds of $115.25 and $108 respectively, according to latest figures issued from chest headquarters.
