Roosevelt to Ask Congress for Mighty Air Fleet

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (AP)—Administration circles heard today that President Roosevelt intended to ask congress to authorize for the army one of the world's mightiest air fleets, numbering from 7,000 to 10,000 warplanes.

His far-reaching plans to bolster national defenses were reported authoritatively to include also full war equipment as quickly as possible for a nucleus army of 400,000 or more men.

It was estimated that the program involved outlays next year exceeding by more than $300,000,000 this year's appropriations for military purposes, including naval.

The projected reinforcements, the outcome of an extensive survey of defense needs which was intensified by Europe's recent crisis, were said to be chiefly for the army and air corps. Also in prospect, however, is a request for increased appropriations to carry out this year's billion-dollar fleet expansion act, which laid out the navy's course for a decade.

Details of the new rearmament program were hidden in confidential budget estimates, but in well informed quarters it was believed the president's recommendations to congress early next year would follow this general outline:

1. At least tripling the army air corps' present goal of 2,320 first line fighting planes, fixed in 1935. New planes would be added by mass production methods over a period of several years. There has been no hint of a proposal to increase the navy's new goal of 3,000 planes, set in the expansion act.

2. Undertaking immediately to equip the army's "initial protective force" of about 400,000, which includes the regular army and national guard, with "essential" semi-automatic rifles, anti-aircraft guns, bombs, tanks and gas masks.

3. Hastening the acquisition of war reserves for a force of 1,000,000 which, under war department plans, would take the field within a few months in the event of United States' involvement in a new world war.

4. Various means to prepare industry to shift quickly and effectively in an emergency from peace-time production to mass output of planes and munitions.

Political Charges Fly In Last Minute Appeals

New Deal Is Major Issue

Hoover Makes Final Campaign Speech; Charges Negligence

By The Associated Press

Charges and counter-charges of responsibility for the country's economic woes came last night from republican and democratic orators making last-minute appeals for popular support at the polls Tuesday.

Both sides assumed that the paramount issue before the electorate in choosing new governors and congressmen, was the new deal. Democrats rose vigorously to its defense while republicans as spiritedly criticized it.

Former President Hoover, speaking in Spokane, Wash., charged the Roosevelt administration with hamstringing its own efforts to restore prosperity by the use of "coercive" methods. He made this appeal:

"Give us the election of a new congress of independent men and watch America come back."

Across the continent at Greenwich, Conn., in his home state, Attorney General Homer Cummings appealed for support of the administration in an address entitled "America Must Not Turn Back." His theme was much like President Roosevelt's of Friday night, that continued "liberal government" is necessary to preserve new deal enactments.

Hoover making the last of three campaign speeches, traced recovery measures from the start of the 1929 depression and said the democratic charge that the people were "neglected and starving" when his administration ended six years ago "is a lie."

Democratic Chairman James A. Farley, commenting yesterday on President Roosevelt's appeal from Hyde Park for the election of candidates "known for their experience and their liberalism," declared it was "devastating" to republican chances in New York state.

Meanwhile, other leaders of both major parties assayed their prospects and issued optimistic predictions as to the outcome of congressional races.

WHAT A DAY! No Gas, No Water, No Farm House

SWAN LAKE, N. Y., Nov. 5 (AP)—When a farm house near here caught fire, the fire siren sounded after a prolonged delay. When volunteers responded they found their truck had no gasoline. They got gas and—

Arriving at the farm, discovered they had no extinguishing chemicals, so—

They summoned fire companies from Liberty, N. Y., and White Lake, N. Y., who upon reaching the farm, found there was no water with which to quench the blaze, meanwhile—

The fire destroyed the house.

Address Final Bids to Voters In New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (AP)—Spurred by President Roosevelt's participation as a "citizen" in his home state campaign, rival candidates tonight addressed their final appeals to New York City's 2,434,137 registered voters.

Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, seeking a fourth term, and the entire democratic state ticket headed for the Metropolitan opera house for their wind-up rally, enthused by Mr. Roosevelt's warm endorsement in his speech last night.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, the republican candidate, moved into the Academy of Music in Brooklyn, where last night Gov. Lehman bid for Brooklyn votes. Dewey, except for finishing touches Monday, closes his campaign tonight with a reply to president Roosevelt. His text is a line from the president's speech: "By their promoters, ye shall know them."

Republicans as well as democrats represented themselves as being well-pleased by the president's remarks and his direct appeal for Lehman and the two democratic senatorial candidates, Senator Robert F. Wagner and Representative James M. Mead.

Democratic leaders said if there was ever any doubt about the outcome of the election, that doubt had been removed by the president.

U. S. Watches Iowa's Election

Tues. Will See Test Of Party Strength; Everyone Confident

DES MOINES, Nov. 5 (AP)—Iowa republicans will rally out of their courthouse strongholds Tuesday in an off-year general election effort to capture a senatorship, the statehouse and other political prizes from the thrice-triumphant democrats.

The "ins" face the voters for the second time in the new deal era without the magic of the Roosevelt name on the ballot to assist them.

Iowa democrats won "on their own" in the 1934 off-year test after they had ridden victory with President Roosevelt in the 1932 upheaval. The president's 133,000 margin in 1936 also was accompanied by a democratic state ticket victory.

Political leaders the country over are awaiting the tall corn state voters' ballot-box answer to the question:

"Is Iowa swinging away from the new deal?"

Headlining Tuesday's battle is the duel between democratic Senator Guy M. Gillette, seeking reelection, and L. J. Dickinson, republican nominee and bitter Roosevelt administration foe. Dickinson, senator from 1930 to 1936, is attempting a comeback after losing to Clyde L. Herring two years ago.

Teachers Elect Deamer

DES MOINES (AP)—Arthur Deamer, Cedar Rapids superintendent of schools, yesterday was elected first vice-president of the Iowa State Teachers association.

World Arms Feverishly

Nations Prepare To Fight; All But U. S. Use War Economy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (AP)—The world enters Armistice week—20 years afterward—preparing feverishly for war at a cost which may reach $20,000,000,000 this year and even more in 1939.

In totalitarian and democratic countries alike the economic structure is burdened by the staggering cost of the arms race which has blotted out hopes and expectations of Nov. 11, 1918, when the World war ended.

Many foreign nations are devoting nearly 50 per cent of their budgets to arms costs, paying none of their arms bill out of current revenue.

Excepting the United States, virtually every strong nation is operating on a war economy, diverting capital and savings into non-productive enterprises and forcing an expansion of heavy industry beyond peace-time requirements.

Declare Four Day Recess In Convicts' Trial

Trial of Two Alcatraz Desperadoes Proves To Be Full of Thrills

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5 (AP)—A four-day recess began today in the murder trial of two Alcatraz prison desperadoes, after the prosecution's first inning, which was packed with enough blood and thunder testimony to fill a dime novel.

The interval will be passed in the county jail—brief change, at least, from the grim routine of "The Rock"—by James C. Lucas and Rufus Franklin, on trial for their lives for their part in the desperate prison break attempt last May 23.

The jurors listened to the first-hand account of the escape attempt as told by Harold B. Stites, the man who blocked the break. The Alcatraz guard recounted how he emptied his .45 revolver and then used a Springfield rifle firing at the three convicts who broke a window in a carpenter shop and climbed to the roof.

Franco's Troops Charge Government Defenders Remaining Along Ebro River

HENDAY, France (At the Spanish Frontier), Nov. 5 (AP)—Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's commanders hurled their powerful fighting machine today against remaining Spanish government defenders on the right bank of the Ebro river.

Insurgent dispatches, reporting Franco's forces already had conquered half of the government territory on the right bank, said the government troops were fighting desperately to retain the hold on that side of the river which they won July 25.

Fierce fighting raged in a 15-mile semi-circle around Mora de Ebro, a major objective in the heart of the Ebro battlefield in northeastern Spain. Insurgent troops stations last night reported capture of this town, but today's official insurgent dispatches failed to confirm it.

Advances from the insurgent front near Caspe said the red and gold insurgent flag now was flying along an eight-mile stretch of the Ebro right bank which had been held by the government since July.

U. S. Business Shows Gains

More Than a Million Workers Have Been Restored to Payrolls

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (AP)—The nation's business, entering the fifth month of recovery, had reclaimed today nearly half that ground it lost in the slump from the relatively high industrial levels in the spring and summer of 1937.

Employment estimates indicated well over a million workers have been restored to factory payrolls and pay envelopes fattened through added working hours as plants on curtailed schedules speeded up production.

October figures, in sharp contrast with the rapid decline of industrial barometers in that month last year, showed the vast building industry far ahead of 1937 levels.

Heavy construction awards, trade sources reported, were the largest for the month since 1929. The Associated Press index of residential building, where signs of vigorous revival first were visible last spring and early in the summer, by the end of October had more than doubled the figure at the 1938 low point.

Building has been industry's sleeping giant since 1931. Business men have waited for its reawakening as probably the strongest assurance of an enduring rise in employment and payrolls.

Moore, Franck and Christiansen Stand Out As Gophers Drive Through Iowa For Four Touchdowns

By JAY VESSELS

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 5 (AP)—Tuning up for a comeback bid against Notre Dame next Saturday, Minnesota smothered Iowa's hapless Hawkeyes, 28 to 0, before 42,000 persons today.

The Golden Gophers, still in the Big Ten title race by virtue of losses by Northwestern and Ohio State, won as they pleased, leading 14 to 0 at the half and using regulars sparingly.

Coach Bernie Bierman, hard pressed for reserve strength, used 37 men with such backfield stars as Wilbur Moore and Van Every seeing very little service. Moore went in early in the second quarter for a nine-yard touchdown gallop to start the Minnesota scoring spree.

Iowa never threatened, getting only four first downs to the victor's 19 and reaching Minnesota territory once. That was in the second period and the drive ended at the Gophers' 41 when Franck intercepted Nile Kinnick's forward.

The winners got most of their tremendous yardage on straight football although a plunge by Christiansen followed by a lateral to Bob Paffrath, sub back, gained 45 yards and set up the third touchdown. A 30-yard forward from Wojcik to Paffrath produced the fourth and final score in the last period. The other touchdown came on Christiansen's plunging from the two-yard line in the second quarter. Christiansen's plunging was a high light.

Investigate Wells' Play

May Limit Use Of 'Flash' and 'Bulletin' To Bonafide News

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (AP)—Terror caused by a simulated news broadcast led Chairman F. R. McNinch of the communications commission to issue a call today for a conference with radio chain presidents on the question of limiting radio use of the terms "flash" and "bulletin" to bonafide news.

Using a news bulletin technique, the Columbia Broadcasting system presented last Sunday night an adaptation of H. G. Wells' play, "The War of the Worlds."

Although it was explained at the start of the program and subsequently that the story was a dramatization, the broadcast account of the landing of strange men from another planet caused mass hysteria in many sections of the nation.

McNinch, who commented immediately that the incident was "regrettable," announced today that he had asked William S. Paley, president of Columbia; W. E. MacFarlane, president of the Mutual Broadcasting system, and Lenox Lohr, president of the National Broadcasting company, to meet with him next week. While McNinch did not specify the day, it was indicated the meeting might be Tuesday.

The purpose of the conference, McNinch said, would be to discuss "subjects pertaining to broadcast programs and especially the frequent and, at times misleading, use of the newspaper term 'flash' in radio programs of various types," he added.

"I have heard the opinion often expressed, within the industry as well as outside, that the practice of using 'flash' as well as 'bulletin' is overworked and results in misleading the public.

"After having discussed this matter with the three national networks, I shall have further conferences with others in the industry along the same general lines."

Prior to the conference, the commission is expected to listen to an electrical transcription of "The War of the Worlds" broadcast which arrived here several days ago.

The game was enlivened in the third quarter when Coach Irl Tubbs protested after halfback Busk had intercepted a Minnesota lateral, tossed by Christiansen following a short plunge. The officials ruled the ball dead where the Minnesota fullback stopped. Coach Tubbs ran out on the field and complained to Referee Frank Birch. He waved his arms in disgust as he walked back to the Iowa bench.

The game offered Minnesota the opportunity it needed to regain confidence after losing a Big Ten engagement to Northwestern a week ago. The Gophers, once again the thundering herd after last week's lapse, took it out on the impotent Hawkeyes with an astounding total of 430 yards by rushing, against 88 yards for Coach Irl Tubbs' lads.

Minnesota was down to its fourth team by the time the game ended. The Gophers used 37 men in all.

For the last quarter Iowa looked like the fighting team that held Purdue to a scoreless tie last week. The Gophers ripped the Hawkeye forwards to shreds in a march down the field, only to have Iowa take the ball on downs on the 2-yard mark.

Prepare Framework of New Central Chinese Government

PEIPING, Nov. 5 (AP)—At least preparatory framework of a new central Chinese government under Japanese auspices and the nominal leadership of a retired Chinese warlord is expected to be announced shortly.

This was learned today from sources which said Japan's ac political manipulator, Lieut. Gen. Kenji Doihara, conferred for two hours yesterday with Gen. Count Juichi Terauchi and emerged triumphant, having reached an agreement on the plan.

Terauchi is commander of Japanese forces in North China.

These sources predicted the new regime would mean eventual elimination of western, including American, economic interests in China.

Considered noteworthy by informants was the fact that Maj. Gen. Seicchi Kita, Japanese military attaché for China and often called father of the Peiping provisional government, did not attend the Doihara - Terauchi conference.

Kita was in Nanking at the meeting of the united council of China. The council was organized to supervise affairs common to the Japanese-sponsored regimes at Peiping and Nanking.

With Kita were Wang Keh-Min, Chinese head of the Peiping regime and chairman of the new council, and other Peiping officials.

It was said the new central government would absorb the Peiping and Nanking governments. It was understood it would not be proclaimed until after a "people's council" had been convened.

The prospective head of the new government is Wu Pei-fu, 60 years old, who gained the rank of general in hostilities in China since the turn of the century.

Appear in Recital This Afternoon

Troops Occupy Slovak Regions

BUDAPEST, Nov. 5 (AP)—Hungarian troops crossed the Danube today for the first time in 20 years in beginning the re-occupation of 4,875 square miles of their former homeland awarded Hungary from Czechoslovakia through Italo-German arbitration.

The soldiers advanced with flowers bobbing on their shiny helmets or falling underfoot and by nightfall they had moved approximately 12-12 miles into Slovak regions north of the Hungarian towns of Győr and Magyaróvár.

Fourteen communities bedecked with the red, white and green Hungarian colors fell to Hungarian control.

Military administration was applied at once.

Passage between the old and new Hungary was permitted only on military passes. Assemblies were forbidden. Inns and cafes were ordered to close by 1 a.m. each night.

Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, who commanded the Austro-Hungarian World war fleet, was scheduled to lead Hungarian troops into Komarno tomorrow and occupation of the entire territory awarded this nation is to be completed by next Thursday.

Mary A. Baker Is Elected To Presidency of Teachers' Group

DES MOINES, Nov. 5 (AP)—Mary A. Baker, a first grade teacher at Davenport, today became president of the Iowa State Teachers' association.

Miss Baker, a former president of the Davenport Teachers' association, is a member of the legislative committee and executive committee-at-large of the state association. She succeeds Dr. Barton Morgan of Iowa State college.

Results of the balloting in the delegate assembly on the association presidency were announced as follows: Miss Baker, 206; Chester Jones, Des Moines high school teacher, 181; and Mary S. Jordan, sixth grade teacher of Sloux City, 84.

Burton Jones of Creston today was elected to the executive committee, and E. A. Zellott of Des Moines was elected treasurer.

The delegate assembly unanimously approved a statement aimed to prevent the teachers' annuity from becoming a political football.

C. W. Bangs of Manchester, explained: "We've been accused of political activity."

The statement said: "Neither the state organization nor the legislative committee have participated in, nor can they assume any responsibility for any statements made by any political party for or against the teachers' annuity bill or for or against any candidate for public office."

About Those Week End Dates

LAST EVENING the Silver Shadow began its third year of providing a suitable and attractive environment within which students can dine and dance. It began as an experiment and continues as a successful function of university life.

You Can't Take It With You

"MY FRIEND, you have millions of dollars, but you haven't a friend in the world. When you die people will say, 'Good riddance' and you'll soon be forgotten. What good will all your money and your power be then? Money isn't everything in the world because you can't take it with you," said Grandpa Vanderhoff to THE Mr. A. P. Kirby in the stage and movie success, "You Can't Take It With You."

Friday, 20,000 people, including cowboys, actors, aviators and the president of the United States joined in the dedication of a memorial to the late Will Rogers.

This large audience, unprecedented in the history of tribute to a private citizen, gathered to pay its respect to a man who had done nothing but make the world smile.

Will Rogers never made a lot of money, but he did make a host of friends. He never conquered a city, but his homespun philosophies swayed the opinions of thousands.

President Roosevelt, in a national address, paid his "grateful homage to the memory of a man who helped the nation to smile."

"After all," said Roosevelt, "I doubt if there is among us a more useful citizen than the one who holds the secret of banishing gloom, of making tears give way to laughter, of supplanting desolation and despair with hope and courage. For hope and courage always go with a light heart."

ing down from the blue of the heavens must have gazed at the 20,000 friends gathered on the wind swept Oklahoma hill and then at the proud courts of Hitler and Mussolini and in his own dry humor remarked, "Well boys, you're in the driver's seat now, but it won't do you any good in a few years. You can't take it with you, Adolf and Benito."

Five continents, 32 foreign countries, two territories, 48 states and the District of Columbia are represented in the Cornell university student body.

Letters To The Editor

Editor, of The Daily Iowan Dear Sir: The Townsend club of Iowa City wishes to correct some of the inferences drawn from the comments printed by you of a letter directed to James P. Gaffney by this club.

This letter was read and passed at a regular meeting of the club and signed by the president, in matter of form.

This letter was not of a personal nature, neither a direct accusation but was a question of what Mr. Gaffney thought. He evades the question by saying he never said it was crude, illogical or a disgrace to be a member. But is this true? Please note the next paragraph:

He said that the general welfare act, if it passed, would destroy itself and also hinder all other Social Security acts. We contend that any bill that would do this is very crude and illogical and a disgrace to any American citizen to be associated with.

It appears to us there is a direct contradiction in these two statements and our question is still unanswered. We further claim that all this is unnecessary and irrelevant.

The Townsend club does not endorse the person nor the party except as far as the principals of the Townsend bill are affected. That is why we can endorse candidates from any party. If Mr. Gaffney and Mr. Martin have a political scrap, why not scrap it out by themselves—why bring in the Townsend club?

We have as many democrats as republicans endorsed by the Townsend organization. It is PRINCIPALS, and not personal friends nor political parties that the Townsend club is interested in.

Neither do we advocate a $200 a month pension. We do advocate a two per cent transaction tax paid pro-rata monthly, not to exceed $200 a month.

Yours sincerely, Townsend club number one, Iowa City, Iowa.

EXHIBIT A FOR HAGUE GRUDGING, diehard and defiant, Frank Hague's government in Jersey City refused to permit a group from the Civil Liberties union to speak in a public park last night, and the local war veterans again have been aroused as a clique by Hague's political minute man, Col. Hugh A. Kelly, to support this policy.

Kelly, indeed, has outdone himself with the definition that "by free speech the founding fathers meant that a man could say what he wanted to in his own home as long as he didn't propose to overthrow the government." And, furthermore, his remarks carried the unblushing implication that overthrowing the government is the program of the American Civil Liberties union.

More graphically and impressively than any lawyer's brief, these antics present to Federal Judge William Clark the situation with which American principles have to cope in Hague's bailiwick.

The meeting at which Roger Baldwin, Harry F. Ward and citizens of similar caliber were to have spoken last night was called off. Temporarily, at least, Hague retains his iron grasp on his own territory. He's still the law.

Under such circumstances Judge Clark certainly can have no illusions as to the need for backing up his free speech decision of last week with a sweeping and bristling decree. Hague and his henchmen have shown themselves to be unchanged, and certainly any trust in their respect for public decency is misplaced.

The hearing in Judge Clark's court today is for the purpose of considering the suggested decrees and findings of facts and of law which the opposing lawyers have been preparing since the decision. The decree to uphold free speech and the rest of the bill of rights in Jersey City must have teeth in it. Otherwise it will be worse than useless.

—New York World-Telegram Years ago, when I was a cub

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER NEW YORK—One may admire truth as a virtue but I am afraid it imposes certain penalties at times on those who write columns for a living.

I was thinking of Washington Irving in the musical comedy "Knickerbocker Holiday." The action opens with Irving musing over the misspent years of his youth and villifying himself for not having written any creditable books before his 30th birthday.

There, in the dusky glow of the footlights, he determines to write an historic account of the first Dutch settlers in New Amsterdam; of Peter Stuyvesant, the congenial tyrant; of the beginning of that part of America which is now New York.

So he flourishes a goose quill, steel pens being unknown in those times, and begins to write. As he writes the action of his book comes to life on the stage. That is the set-up.

Now a musical comedy is usually longer than a straight drama. It is a full evening's chore, and so from 8:30 to 11 Master Irving sits at a small desk on one side of the stage and writes. He is the busiest looking writer you ever saw, and when I caught the play I was so impressed by his diligence that I imagined he must be really writing. In my imagination I had him composing letters to friends, catching up on his correspondence. Maybe he was writing a story, or even a play.

I should have felt well enough alone and recorded my theories, but in a weak moment I went to see the young man and asked him how he found so much to write about. And the moment I spoke I knew that I had wrecked a column.

He looked at me in amazement. He said, "Of course I am not really writing. If I were to write a letter or anything serious I should become so absorbed in it that I should probably miss a cue, thereby leaving Walter Huston floundering around on his silver leg, and the Indians might get him. That wouldn't be so good, for he would be made to appear ridiculous in the eyes of the Dutch council, and without dignity there can be no real authority. And without authority, old Peter Stuyvesant would lose his significance, and then Maxwell Anderson would have no play. Indeed, he might even have no Washington Irving, which would be very sad for me, for then I should be out of a job."

"No, I merely scribble. I draw innumerable but not very expert ovals. I do hen-scratching. I make weird hieroglyphics that would baffle and confuse the most learned students of human behavior. Sometimes they confuse and baffle even me. I hope I haven't destroyed your faith in make-believe."

"RE-WRITE MAN"?

Bill is a nice guy, and he knows a lot about music from a listener's standpoint, but he has some peculiar ideas about what constitutes good taste in music.

MUSIC IN THE AIR

By Harold Kirshenblit

I met Bill in Iowa Union's music room, where you can, at one time or another, find all the music lovers hereabouts. I was listening to a recording of "The Mikado" when Bill walked in and promptly turned up his nose in disgust.

I saw what he meant. To make sure, I asked for Prokofiev's Third Concerto. Bill's face lighted up: "Good taste," he exclaimed, "Good taste!"

Bill is typical of most music lovers who have been listening to good music for some time. For musical lovers are inveterate intellectual snobs. No sooner do they discover Bach, Brahms, and Beethoven than they begin tossing bricks at Tschaiakowsky. Verdi gives way to Wagner, and Shostakovich becomes the Great White Hope.

The trouble with Tschaiakowsky, it appears, is that he is too popular for the tastes of the musical snob. Tschaiakowsky is too melodious, too easy to understand and too easy to like.

He is so easy to like, in fact, that even a person who has never listened to any sort of classical music, who may even have a violent dislike for classical music as a whole, has no difficulty in enjoying Tschaiakowsky.

I am inclined to think that every music lover goes through a series of stages in his tastes. In my own case, my collection of phonograph records tells the story. When I first became interested in buying phonograph records, I confined myself to coloratura soprano arias, as being the type of music in which I was almost exclusively interested.

From this point, I progressed by easy stages to tenors' overtures, Wagnerian preludes, concerti, symphony and symphonic poems. Chamber music and the music of recitatives came last of all.

For me, and, I think, for most music lovers, music is a changing thing. Individual tastes change, even more frequently than group tastes and this is to be expected. When you have heard a certain type of music over and over, you must inevitably grow tired of it.

reporter sitting at the feet of Hugh Fullerton, one of the greatest raconteurs the news writing craft ever developed. Hugh said one day, "Son, honesty is a mighty fine policy, but you should never let the truth spoil a good story."

Of course his tongue wasn't actually in his cheek when he said this. It was way out around his ear. But I never forgot it. He sure spoke words of wisdom that day.

Glady's Swarthout (now working in "Ambush," her first non-single) says she wishes that tomato scene had been left in her last picture, "Romance in the Dark." . . . After she actually took the tomatoes in the face, in full view of press and photographers, you can't blame her for being sore.

Horror movie, thanks to twin-bill revivals of "Dracula" and "Frankenstein," are "in" again. . . . Boris Karloff will be busy soon on "The Return of Dr. X."

Humphrey Bogart, a big, bad plainman from the Broadway stage, made his movie-western debut eight years ago as the villain in a George O'Brien loss op'ry. . . . In order to look at least capable of menacing the Bulky O'Brien, Bogart had to wear high heels. . . . Now back in the saddle again for "The Oklahoma Kid," Bogart needs no heels to bully the hero. . . . It's not-so-tall Cagney.

The show world's most famous telegram sender, Flo Ziegfeld, sent his last to Bert Lahr. . . . Lahr was playing at the time in Ziegfeld "Hotcha" and the producer ill in Hollywood, heard that Lahr was doing some forbidden ad-libbing. . . . The wire instructed the comedian to stop it. . . . Lahr plans to give the memento to Billie Burke, Ziegfeld's widow.

Does this brunette Louise Campbell of "Men With Wings" remind anybody of Helen Hayes? . . . Folks hereabouts say she talks like Jean Arthur, anyway.

Annabella (just Annabella) clicked in "Suez"—and you could understand every word she said—but she isn't being re-pewed at 20th Century-Fox. . . . Scarcity of likely parts for her here is the reason.

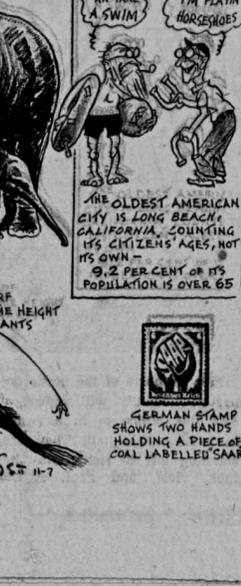

It had to happen: There's to be a "Girlston" movie. . . . Peter Holden, Broadway's boy wonder of "On Borrowed Time," is carrying on in Hollywood, in "The Great Man Votes." . . . Garson Kanin, directing, was trying to explain to Peter, in simple 8-year-old terms, how he should speak certain lines. . . . "Just throw them away—say them as if you didn't care much"—and so on. . . . "Oh," said Peter, "you mean 'casually,' don't you, sir?"

With a deficit of $405,000,000, France claims to be facing a financial crisis. Sounds like bragging to us.

Jascha Heifetz is reported to have received $50,000 for playing six compositions during a movie. That's fiddling on a grand scale.

An Ohio sociologist says women must speak for themselves. Don't tell us that after all these years they're going to break silence.

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

Every machine accumulates some waste products in the course of its operation. The body is no exception. Every time glucose and oxygen unite in a muscle to produce muscular energy, some water, some lactic acid and some carbon dioxide are formed. Every time a molecule of one of the 78 elements of protein, which are estimated to be the daily minimum requirement, is broken down, some nitrogenous products are formed. They are useless and even dangerous and must be removed from the blood stream.

To accomplish the excretory functions of the body there are four sets of organs—the kidneys, the lungs, the skin and the large bowel. The large bowel gets rid of the end products of digestion, excess bile and a great mass of bile and a great mass of bacteria. Skin's Function The skin gets rid of water and salt. The Egyptians practiced the art of prolonging life by the routine use of emetics and sudorifics (drugs to induce sweating) at definite intervals.

This tradition has come down to our own day. The hearty golfer rejoices when the sweat breaks out, and he says with satisfaction that he is getting rid of the poisons. The man about town and the strenuous business executive, both male and female, resort regularly to the establishments where they sit in cabinets with their heads sticking out of the holes in top, like the 40 thieves in the Arabian Nights, and are cheered inwardly to think that the toxins generated in the cause of super-ardent industrialism are seeping out of their very pores.

Doesn't Rid Poisons It is almost inhuman to disillusion these trustful souls, but the stern fact is that perspiration does not get rid of any real poisons from the body at all, except water and salt. And usually with induced sweating, too much is eliminated and has to be replaced. Austin and Miller some years ago studied the effects of sweating in patients with partial uremia. The nitrogenous poisons were high in their blood. These substances can be accurately measured by modern methods of biochemistry. Active and prolonged sweating did not reduce them at all. Sometimes, it is true, certain drugs are eliminated in the sweat. Undoubtedly garlic is, which is the reason for that mellifluous aroma which pervades the neighborhood of the garlic consumer. The lungs excrete water, getting rid of even more than the skin, and also carbon dioxide. This latter is most important, especially in preserving the buffer action of the blood and in maintaining the body's neutrality.

For most of the useless by-products of nutrition, the kidneys are the main route of excretion.

Music Department of Woman's Club to Hear March Program

Origin, Influence Of Martial Music Will Be Given Tomorrow

"The Great Marches of the Country" will be the theme of the meeting of the music department of the Iowa City Woman's club when they meet tomorrow at 7:45 p.m. in the Union Board room of the Iowa Union.

Mrs. G. E. Johnson will present an outline of the origin of and the influence of marches in various phases of civilization, both sacred and secular.

Since this year marks the sesquicentennial anniversary of the ratification of the constitution, the first part of the program will include two marches composed by early Americans, celebrating the signing of the constitution and the inauguration of President Washington.

Dressed in period costumes, a sextet will present three old familiar hymns, "Faith of our Fathers," "Crusader's Hymn," and "Old Hundredth." The group includes Mrs. C. J. Koser, Mrs. Cora Chapman, Mrs. J. G. Sentinella, Mrs. T. N. Wagner, Mrs. L. C. Jones and Mrs. Johnson. The club members will join in singing some familiar marching songs of the Civil War period.

The following instrumental program will be presented: "Beautiful Colorado" De Luca, Baritone horn solo, Russell Sepp, "Federal March" Reinagle, "President's March" Philip Phile, Mrs. Gerald Buxton, "Clayton's Grand March" C. D. Blake, "National Emblem March" Bagley.

Mrs. Roy A. Mushrush "Funeral March" Chopin, "War March of the Priests" (from Athalia) Mendelssohn, Mrs. Maud Whedon Smith "Military March" Franz Schubert, Piano duet by Mrs. Mushrush and Mrs. Buxton. Mrs. E. W. Chittenden will present "Music News of the Month." The committee in charge of this program are Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Buxton and Mrs. Johnson. Members of the club are invited to bring their friends to this program.

HOSTESS HINTS

There are lots of ways to prepare meats, salads and desserts in new, attractive ways but let's try some new ways to fix the ordinary every day old favorite—almost a necessity—the potato. Mashed and boiled potatoes with butter and parsley are very nice in their place but we admit we do get bored when their place is every day at dinner in the same dress. So for dinner tonight, surprise the family with one of these suggestions.

Potato Souffle
Remove pulp from baked potatoes. Season well with hot cream, pepper, salt and celery salt. Add one egg yolk for each potato. Beat well and lightly fold in the beaten egg white. Roughly refill the potato cases. Sprinkle the tops with parsley.

Baked Eggs in Nest
6 large potatoes
2 eggs
2 tablespoons butter
6 slices American cheese
Salt and pepper

Choose nice large potatoes and bake until soft. Cut off caps and scoop out. Use two thirds of the pulp. (Keep the other third for soup.) Mix one tablespoon of butter, salt and pepper with the potato and return to cases. Put a thin slice of cheese in each stuffed shell and break an egg into it. Dot with bit of butter and return to the oven. Bake for 15 or 20 minutes at 400 degrees F.

Hashed Brown Potatoes
4 tablespoons fat
3 cups cooked sliced potatoes
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika
1-2 teaspoon minced onion
1-4 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon minced parsley
When fat is "smoking" in frying pan, add the potatoes. After two minutes, leaving potatoes in the pan, chop them in small pieces. When a brown crust forms on the bottom, sprinkle the rest of the ingredients over the potatoes and, using a pancake turner, carefully turn half over

Hundreds of Hangers!

Eight hundred seventy five dozen coat hangers!

That's how many Mrs. E. T. Hubbard (above) had to sort yesterday when the Music auxiliary of Iowa City high school sponsored a rummage sale at the community building.

Since additional rummage was brought in late yesterday, the sale will be continued Tuesday. Mrs. E. D. Plass and Mrs. Lloyd Swartley will be in charge. Anyone who has any article which has been overlooked is asked to call Mrs. Ingalls Swisher.

Won't Get Fur' Without Fur

Persian Lamb, Mink, Fox, Beaver Will Decorate Milady's Wardrobe

You won't get far in the sartorial swim this season without fur.

Never has there been a year when furs were so important, so opulent and so imaginatively used. Wee little hats of furs with bright colored birds perched in the center, for all the world like nests, coquettish little muffs and huge big ones that have a trick of making one appear fragile and utterly feminine are just a few of the accessories that go along with coats furred to within an inch of their fabrics.

Then, of course, there are the like an omelet. Quickly transfer to a warm platter and serve.

Baked Potatoes Autumn Style
4 large potatoes
2-3 cup grated raw carrots
Salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika
1-4 teaspoon celery salt
1-4 cup hot milk
2 tablespoons butter

After potatoes have baked, cut off ends and remove pulp; add rest of ingredients and mash potatoes until fluffy. Roughly refill cases and set upright in shallow pan. Bake for 15 minutes in moderate oven.

short fur jackets" that are becoming almost ubiquitous to well assembled winter wardrobes.

But, fortunately, furs are more attractively priced that for many seasons and there are a number of so called "budget" furs on the market this season designed for the girl who must shop economically.

In this class is the new guanoco, a South American fur, which is dyed to look like blue fox and made into short chunky jackets that are as smart as can be and amazingly low priced. There is also sable dyed fitch which is soft, silky and has a deceptively expensive look. Beaver is a medium priced fur which is high on the list of fashion favorites this season. It is sheared and thinned to make it one of the most supple of furs. Sable dyed opossum is another frugal fur which is used for smart little jackets and for huge collars on cloth coats.

Many of the cloth coats have great swags of fur swooping down the front to make them look extravagantly luxurious. Others have stoles of fur that form collars and continue down the front to the hem. Sometimes these stoles widen out to such proportions that the entire front of the coat is of fur. Others have sleeves and plastron fronts of the shorter haired furs, Persian lamb being particularly smart when used like this.

When you are ready to go shopping for your fur trimmed cloth coat, your fur jacket or coat this season remember these things—mink makes the skin look white, silver fox makes you look fragile, Persian lamb will give you that chic streamlined look and beaver will stamp you as being up to the minute on fashion news.

Eight Fined By Judge Saturday

The following law-violators appeared before Police Judge Burke N. Carson yesterday:

H. E. Bradshaw was fined $1 for having his left wheel on the curb; Lester Parizek parked in a prohibited zone and was dismissed; Cleo Thomas was not carrying a driver's license but was discharged after license was produced. Curtis A. Hugg and Milton E. Griffith were each fined $10 and $1 costs, but $6 was suspended when each agreed to attend traffic school; Herman Willman was fined $2 and $1.50 costs for failing to stop for arterial highway; Gene Carroll was sentenced to two days of labor in the city park; Eddie Goodwill was fined $1 for being intoxicated.

M. K. Kincaid, John Vlasman, and E. Choquette were each fined $1 for parking overtime. Rubber sheeting has been successfully used for stage costumes.

'Old Curiosity Inn' Provides Setting for Antique Collection

"I've always wanted all my lovely old things gathered together in one place so that I might live with them," explained Mrs. Frank Unrath, 923 E. Market street, gazing lovingly about her quaintly modern living room.

"The Old Curiosity Inn" as Mrs. Unrath calls her home, provides a modern setting for one of the city's loveliest antique collections. Most of the larger pieces of furniture in this new home are heirlooms from either Mr. or Mrs. Unrath's family. Much of this furniture has been refinished by the Unrath's themselves.

There are no modernistic furnishings in the house. From the fireplace in the living room to the sugar box in the kitchen, all of Mrs. Unrath's things have their own histories.

One of her most interesting possessions is a small oil lamp which dates from the time of Lincoln's administration. It is now electrified and adds to the picturesqueness of the bedroom.

"This belonged to my mother's great grandmother," Mrs. Unrath said, displaying a two-hundred-year-old paisley shawl which came originally from Czechoslovakia. In her living room in addition to a number of other old articles of furniture Mrs. Unrath has two pie crust tables, a father's chair, an interesting old Czechoslovakian spinning wheel and a German music box of considerable age which plays eight tinkling tunes.

Her dining room is highlighted by a china cabinet which was made from an old walnut wardrobe which belonged to Mrs. Unrath's mother. Her china collection includes Dresden and Wedgwood ware as well as many other old dishes. She also owns a water jug which was used during the Civil War, and another water jug with a carved stopper resembling a man's head which came from Germany.

In her kitchen Mrs. Unrath has gone more modern but her spices and staples are kept in old-fashioned firkins, and even the clock which ticks on the kitchen wall is one of the old Seth Thomas models. Both bedrooms are furnished with antique furniture, old fashioned rag rugs and appropriate accessories.

"Yes," Mrs. Unrath concluded, "I built my house around my furniture. I wanted a place where my things would be shown at their best advantage."

corrected by formal education, but only after the speech pattern has been firmly established, he concluded.

Following the discussion, Dr. Obermann answered questions of various members of the club. Announcement was made of the December meeting when a book display will be part of the program.

Dr. Obermann Talks to Child Study Group

Tells Importance Of Good Speech; Gives Reasons For Defects

"The best method of correct speech stimulation for children is to make it incidental through exposing them to the correct speech in the home," was the advice Dr. C. Esco Obermann of the speech department gave to members of the Child Study club at their luncheon meeting yesterday afternoon in Iowa Union.

Discussing the topic "Speech Hygiene for Children," Dr. Obermann first pointed out the importance of good speech since nothing reveals the personality as one's manner of speaking. He also cited cases from the studies made in the university speech department where children developed speech defects as a result of the over-anxiety of their parents or the discovery of the attention-getting value of the trouble. These included stuttering, hesitations and repetitions and word tie-ups.

If later in maturation definite defects are evident, they may be

Boilermakers Upset Buckeyes in Surprise 12 to 0 Victory

Wreck Ohio State Title Hopes With Final Period Touchdowns

Brock Stars As Purdue Avenges String of Defeats

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 5 (AP)—Purdue punctured the Buckeye bubble today, 12 to 0, virtually wrecking Ohio State's Western conference title aspirations with a pair of last-period touchdown thrusts which left a crowd of 54,365 gasping.

Louis Brock, 185-pound junior fullback from Stafford, Kan., was the spearhead of the Boilermakers brigade, aided and abetted by a stalwart line and a couple of great running mates.

All Brock
The Kansas flash cracked off a 50-yard run, longest of the day, to set up the first touchdown, which he carried over from the three-yard mark. A few minutes later he punted 80 yards from behind his own goal to put the Bucs deep in their own territory. Next he intercepted a pass, and then carried the ball to the one-yard mark from where Leon DeWitte, junior fullback, scored the second and game-clinching touchdown.

Frustrated
Ohio, frustrated at every turn by the Boilermaker squad, was outclassed in all departments. Purdue gained 283 yards on the ground to the Bucks' 159, and the invaders completed three of seven passes and permitted the Ohio tilters to make connections on but five of 18. Three Ohio heaves fell in Purdue hands, all in the last period, while the Bucks failed to snatch any of the Purdue aeriels.

Buckeye Threat
Only once in the entire game did Ohio threaten the Purdue goal. Late in the third session, Mike Kabealo recovered a fumble on the Boilermaker 34, and Ohio romped to the seven, from where Strausbaugh's attempted place kick was short and wide. That was the only time Ohio got within the Purdue 20-yard line.

The Boilermakers made 10 first downs to Ohio's five, nine coming by rushing and one on a forward pass. The Bucks rushed for four and the other was awarded on a pass interference penalty.

Long Punts
Brock combined with left-footed Jack Brown of Indianapolis to punt the Boilermakers into a 45.5-yard average from the scrimmage line, the long boots keeping the Bucks at bay throughout the contest.

Brock's touchdown was the first ever scored by a Purdue team in seven games with the Bucks, Ohio squads having held the Indiana crew impotent for 27 consecutive periods.

The Purdues, in winning, kept a promise they made yesterday. Coach Mal Elward said: "My boys believe they can beat Ohio, and they told me so. I think they can do it, too."

State Teachers Beat Emporia With Passes

EMPORIA, Kan., Nov. 5 (AP)—Outgained all afternoon, the Iowa State Teachers turned two forward lateral plays into touchdowns today to defeat the Emporia Teachers 14 to 13.

Trailing 7 to 13 with three minutes to play, the Iowans completed a forward-lateral from their own 30 to the Emporia 10 and two plays later Indvik took a pass to score. Shirk kicked the winning point.

Hoyt scored first for Emporia in the opening period, but Petty missed the point which proved the eventual margin of defeat.

That one touchdown margin was erased by some Iowa magic in the third, Indvik passing to McCabe who lateralled to Dutcher for the score. Shirk converted.

The Cedar Falls eleven held on its one-foot line early in the fourth, but Petty ran back the resulting punt for a touchdown and then kicked goal. Emporia scored 13 first downs to the Iowans' 3, had a rushing edge of 185 yards to 72, and a passing advantage of 82 yards to 66.

Prep Star Sets Record

KINGSPORT, Tenn., Nov. 5 (AP)—Bobby Cifers, Kingsport high's sensational halfback, scored 33 points in a high school game tonight to eclipse the 211-point total amassed last year by Chicago's Bill de Correvont.

Bobby, 183-pound triple threat star, scored five touchdowns and placekicked three extra points to lead his team to a 41-0 victory over Bristol and run his total for the season to 213 points.

Homecoming Whizzer Comes Home To Play Game

COLORADO SPRINGS, Nov. 5 (AP)—Back to the high mountain country where he raced to All-America fame in football shoes comes Whizzer White next week.

He returns to the Rockies as a $15,000 "freshman" in professional football, at the head of his Pittsburgh Pirates team for an Armistice day exhibition fray with the Los Angeles Bulldogs here next Friday.

This will be the pass-tossing Rhodes scholar's first game in front of a Colorado crowd since he skipped to three touchdowns and threw two scoring passes against Denver university last Thanksgiving day.

Homecoming
His homecoming, however, will be staged more than 100 miles south of the Boulder stadium where he starred in the silver-and-gold uniform of Colorado university the last two seasons.

Friday's game will be played at the Will Rogers Memorial stadium, tucked back of the Broadmore hotel just south of Colorado Springs.

The stadium, more than 6,000 feet above sea level, is a horse-shoe stuck at the foot of Cheyenne mountain, below a stone shrine in which chimes strike the quarter hour in memory of the cowboy humorist.

First Game
This will be the first football game held in the enclosure, which was completed and the playing field sodded only this fall. The stands will hold 15,000.

The two professional elevens will command a top of $4.40. This may not seem so much to eastern ticket buyers, but it is a fancy price in the mountain country where the highest price for college games is $2.

Although his team has won only two of its seven National Professional league games this season, White already has proved his class as a salaried performer to the satisfaction of veteran observers on the pro front.

Greatest Star
Ray Flaherty, coach of the Washington Redskins, defending pro champions, declared this week White could be the greatest star in the business if he would give up his studies at Oxford and stick to the pro league for three years or so.

On past performances Los Angeles appears to hold an edge over Pittsburgh, as it recently gave the Cincinnati Bengals a bad lacing after Cincinnati trimmed the Pirates earlier. Gordon Gore, 200-pound fullback, and Ed (Crazy Legs) Stark are the Los Angeles backfield luminaries.

But win or lose, next week's game is the Whizzer's homecoming.

Stanton Stars For Fordham In 3 to 0 Win

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (AP)—Wilbur Stanton of Malden, Mass., enjoyed a fleeting moment of football fame today when he trotted out on the Polo Grounds before 44,000 hushed spectators and carefully kicked a 32-yard field goal to give Fordham a 3 to 0 triumph over the St. Mary's Gaels of California.

That was all anybody saw of Stanton, because he went right on back to the bench. But it was enough to justify the long hours he has spent practicing his specialty the last three seasons and to keep the Rams at the forefront of the nation's football teams. Fordham proved in every respect a better team than St. Mary's, but it took Stanton's boot to make it official.

A pair of beautiful runs by Mike Hearn and Dominic Principe prepared the ball on St. Mary's nine-yard stripe.

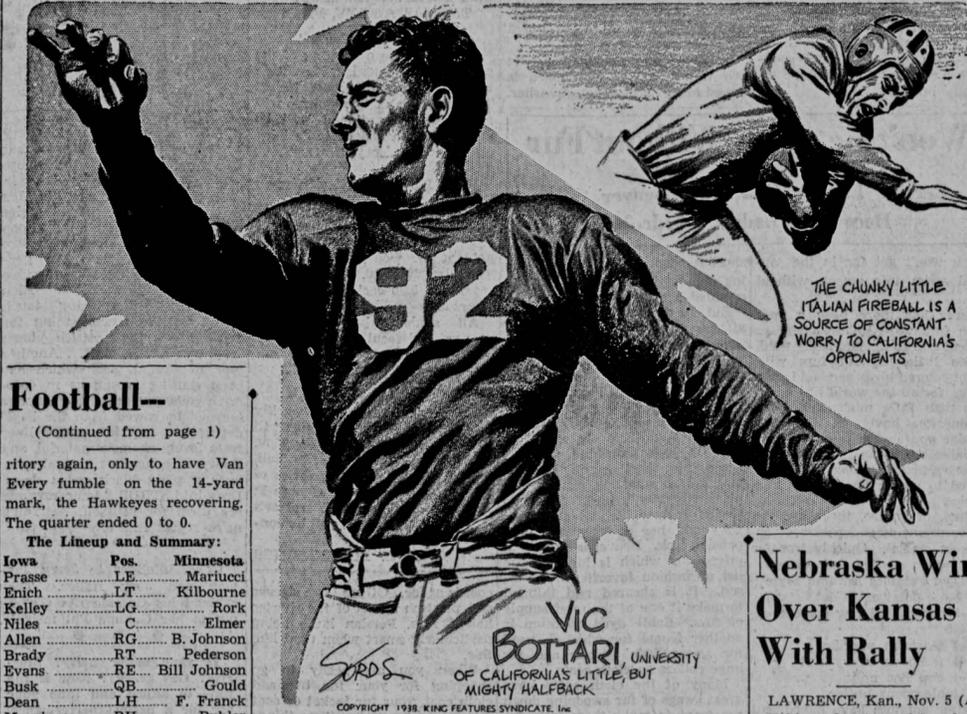

The Gaels dug in then, though, and in three plays tossed Len Eshmont for a loss of eight yards, placing the pellet on the 17-yard line, and fourth down. That was when Stanton got his cue. The ball was placed on the 22-yard line and Angelo Fortunato took the snap from center. Stanton's kick split the posts. That was the only real scoring threat of the game, which otherwise was on the dull side.

Tigers Fall Before Rutgers For First Time

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 5 (AP)—Rutgers scored a 20 to 18 football victory over Princeton today—the first for the Scarlet over the Tigers since the two universities inaugurated the inter-collegiate game in 1869.

While the bell in the old Queens on Rutgers' historic campus pealed out in victory, students snaked down the field of their new million dollar stadium and tore down the goal posts to be splintered later into souvenirs.

Iowa State Defeats Drake Bulldog 14-0

By IKE SKELLEY
AMES, Nov. 5 (AP)—In a viciously fought game Iowa State rolled over Drake, its traditional state football rival, 14 to 0, here today to establish an all-time winning streak at nine straight games.

The Cyclones, saving their trickery for Kansas State and Oklahoma, teams remaining in their drive to a Big Six championship, used little except power to smash through the willing, but inferior, defense of the Missouri Valley conference school.

The big Iowa State line beat back every Drake offensive gesture and late in the game had the Bulldogs weary and lame in the front wall as the Cyclones drove seventy yards without using a pass for their second touchdown.

Some 14,000 fans sat under chill, dreary skies to watch the Cyclones score their seventh straight victory this fall and create the new Iowa State consecutive winning streak with the carry-over of two triumphs from the tag end of the 1937 season. Back in 1903 another Cyclone team won eight straight to mark up the record which stood for 35 years.

Wilder Out
The Cyclones won without the services of Hank Wilder, the smashing fullback who was sidelined by injuries. They didn't need Big Hank in their today. Gordon Reupke, a 200-pound regular halfback, switched to the

Missouri Batters Spartans In Final Quarter Drive

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 5 (AP)—The University of Missouri cracked a battered Michigan State defense for a touchdown in the fourth quarter and weathered a stormy last minute Spartan attack to gain a 6-0 victory today in their intercollegiate football game.

Approximately 10,000 spectators saw the Missourians open the fourth period touchdown drive over the Spartans in three straight years of rivalry.

Paul Christman, sophomore aerial artist, started Missouri's touchdown attack with a long pass from his own 29 yard line to Stillman Rouse, who caught the ball on his 43. As Spartan tacklers pulled him down, he lateralled to Orf who carried to Michigan State's 30.

From that point Miron Council, Clay Cooper and Christman drove and passed to the seven yard line to set the stage for Christman's touchdown plunge. Less Pieper's place-kick was wide.

The Spartans came back with a desperate rally that carried the ball to the Missouri 20. Passes by John Pingel failed to function and the Tigers took the ball on their own 4 and moved it out of danger.

Nebraska Wins Over Kansas With Rally

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 5 (AP)—Taking advantage of two fourth quarter breaks, the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers picked up 10 points to give them a 16 to 7 victory today over the Kansas Jayhawkers before a homecoming crowd of 16,000. It was the first Husker victory in six starts this season.

The Jayhawkers, gunning for a victory, saw their 7 to 6 early fourth period lead fade out quickly. Not since 1916 has a Kansas team won from Nebraska and when the Huskers forged ahead the thud of Jayhawkers spirits falling resounded in the stadium.

A soggy field made ball carrying a problem and the net yards gained from scrimmage by both teams was unusually low.

After see-sawing in the early minutes of the opening quarter, Jack Dodd, fleet Husker halfback, ran a Kansas punt 60 yards for the first touchdown. Hermann Rohrig had received the punt and shoved it into the arms of Dodd, who reversed his field and went on a beautiful run. Rohrig's attempt for placement went wild.

The lone Jayhawk touchdown that raised hopes so high was set up in the third period and made in the fourth. Paul Masoner, senior quarterback, picked Harry Hopps' punt out of the air, evaded a group of tacklers and went 39 yards to the Nebraska 31.

In the opening two minutes of the fourth, Dick Amerine, swivel-hipped Jayhawk back, made 16 yards on a reverse to the Huskers' 3. Eldreth Caldwell, reserve back, plunged center for the tying goal. Chester Gibbens entered the game and dropkicked the extra point, that put Kansas in the lead. The stands vibrated with excitement.

Cadwalder fumbled the ball on the Kansas 27 with only about four minutes to play and Bill Callihan dropped on the ball for Nebraska.

Several attempts at the line failed, then George Knight passed to Lloyd Grimm which gave a first down on the Kansas 14. Nebraska advanced to the 8 and then Bill Anderson made his field goal, with Dodd holding the ball. The three points by the Plainville Kansas Cornhusker turned the tide.

Kansas resorted to the air and two pass attempts went incomplete. As Bill Bensen poised on his eight yard line to try a third, Bob Mills, Nebraska tackle, grabbed the ball off his fingertips and ran over to score. Anderson's placement again was good.

The Peacocks fell before the Wesleyan Tigers, 19 to 7, for the first Upper Iowa defeat since 1936. Wesleyan knocked off Upper Iowa in the latter team's next-to-last game in that year. Since then the Peacocks have played 11 games without tasting defeat.

Stebbins Races 97 Yards to Score On Opening Kickoff

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5 (AP)—A valiant band of Carnegie Tech gridmen rose up today to pull mighty Pittsburgh from atop the nation's football perch and accomplish a feat other teams from coast to coast have been trying unsuccessfully to do for two years.

The Tartans, 3-1 short ends in the silver anniversary meeting of the neighboring schools, made the Pitt forward wall look like a pile of cards and the three pile-drivers in Carnegie's backfield, Merlyn Condit, Ray Carnely and George Muha, played and drove furiously to accomplish the unbelievable.

The game left most of the huge throng of 61,000 in the big hill-top saucer stunned. It was crammed with thrills from the minute Curly Stebbins took the opening kickoff and ran 97 yards for a Panther touchdown until the final seconds when the desperate Panthers took to the air.

Tartan courage bested Panther prowess. Any other club might have taken it lying down after that heart-breaking (for Carnegie) dash of Stebbins. But six minutes later, Condit faded to Pitt's 33 yard line and looped a high pass over the goal to Muha.

Carnely's placekick knotted the count. A few plays later in the same first period, Bill Daddio, who rarely misses, booted a neat field goal from the Carnegie 12, sending the Panthers in front again.

That was the Panther's final tally of the game and the signal for an inspired Tartan eleven to start clicking.

With seconds to go before the whistle neared the half, Kern shot Karl Striegel, end, into the game. Carnely's pass from the Pitt 33 landed in the arms of "Chick" Chickierne and carried off into Striegel's hands, over the goal.

Two more scoring thrusts in the third period, with Carnegie advancing the ball on separate occasions to the Pitt 17 and 9, were turned back by the fighting Pitt line.

In the last period Carnegie struck pay dirt again. Pety Moroz, reserve back, got off a beautiful punt to the Pitt third yard line and Larry Peace, reserve Panther back, responded with a sad return boot from behind his goal to Pitt's 22. Six plays later Muha rammed over from the two-yard line.

The Panthers, with the game drawing near its close, opened up but the game was already lost.

Dick Cassiano broke loose for a long dash to the Tartan 47 and a series of passes advanced Pitt to the 16 but four more passes over the goal fell incomplete behind the goal and the game ended with Carnegie in possession of the ball.

Carnegie Tech out-gained Pitt, 196 yards to 135, rushing the ball and made 13 first downs compared to Pitt's nine.

Biggie Goldberg, the Elkins (W. Va.) Express, played only five minutes in the first period because of a leg injury.

Brady Romps 59 Yards For Winning Score

GRINNELL, Ia., Nov. 5 (AP)—Brady, Washburn's Negro back, broke loose on a 59-yard run for a touchdown in the first quarter here today to give Washburn a 6 to 0 victory over Grinnell in a Missouri Valley conference football game.

Names Final Cast of 'Tovarich'

First Play Of Year to Open Tuesday Night

Winbigler, Westrum Play Grand Duchess, Free, Grand Duke

The final cast for "Tovarich," University theater's first 1938-39 community production, was announced yesterday by Prof. Vance M. Morton, director of the play.

"Tovarich" will be presented at the theater in the evening Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, and Saturday afternoon. It is the story of a Russian grand duchess and her husband who are employed as servants after the revolution.

Mary Elizabeth Winbigler, U of Iowa City, and Jean Westrum, A3 of Glendale, Cal., are cast in the leading role—that of the Grand Duchess Tatiana. Playing the part of her husband, Prince Mikail, will be Joseph Free, G of Clayton, Ohio.

Louise J. Rietz, G of Morgantown, W. Va., will appear as the wife of the royal couple's employer, and her husband will be portrayed by James E. Waery, A4 of Iowa City. Mary K. Waldron, A3 of Milwaukee, Ore., will take the part of Olga, a French spy. The employer's son and daughter will be interpreted by Leonard P. Marshall, A3 of Carthage, Ill., and Catherine Cobb, A3 of Marshalltown.

Other characters in the play are Max Ellis, G of Ft. Madison, as Count Feodor Brekenski; Sherman Paul, A1 of Lakewood, Ohio, and Frank Marlow, A3 of St. Louis, as Chauffourier-Dubieff; Stanley K. Hamilton, A3 of Wichita, Kan., as Martelleu; Ruth Henningsen, A3 of Cedar Rapids, as Louise; Walter D. Rouzer Jr., A2 of Kansas City, Mo., as the concierge; Helen Force, G of Howard, Kan., as Madame Van Hewert; Helen Kircher, A3 of Butler, Mo., as Madame Chauffourier-Dubieff; and Robert L. Frederick, G of Sparta, Wis., as Commissar Gorotchenko.

Notice is hereby given that there is now on file for public inspection in the office of the City Clerk a plat and schedule marked "Plat CG" of the sidewalk improvement on the following named streets and parts of streets to-wit:

Van Buren Street—On the West Side of Van Buren Street from the north end of the foot-bridge north 160 ft. to the C. R. I. & P. Railroad Tracks and from the C. R. I. & P. Railroad Tracks north 50 ft. to the sidewalk in place 32 ft. north of the south line of Lot 9—Lyman Cook's Subdivision of Outlot 25. Muscatine Avenue—The South Side of Muscatine Avenue from the sidewalk in place on the Ralston Creek Bridge to the sidewalk in place on the west side of Rundell Street.

Washington Street—The North Side of Washington Street commencing at a point 42 ft. east of the east line of Dodge Street, east 92 ft. to a point 26 ft. west of the east line of Lot 6—Blk. 20—O. T.

Seventh Avenue—The West Side of Seventh Avenue in front of Lot 16, 17 & 20—Block 12—Rundell Addition to Iowa City. Clinton Street On the east side of Clinton Street from the sidewalk in place 40 ft. north of the north line of Harrison Street to the sidewalk in place 60 ft. south of the south line of Court St.

all in the City of Iowa City, whereon sidewalk improvements constructed under a contract with Al T. Crawford dated October 10th, 1938, have been completed. Said plat and schedule shows the separate lots or parcels of ground or specified portion thereof, subject to assessments, for such sidewalk improvement, the names of the owners as far as practicable and the amount to be assessed, against each lot or parcel of ground and against any railway or street railway.

Notice is further given that within 20 days after the first publication of this notice all objections to said plat and schedule or to prior proceedings on account of errors, irregularities or inequalities, must be made in writing and filed with the City Clerk; and the City Council after the expiration of said 20 days at the first regular meeting held thereafter or at a special meeting called for that purpose, having heard such objections and made the necessary corrections, will then make the special assessment as shown in said plat and schedule as corrected and approved.

Dated this 7th day of November, 1938.

ED. SULEK, Auditor of Johnson County

Alpha Chi's Will Fete Pledges At Dinner Tonight

Robert Virovai To Play Here

Robert Virovai, young Hungarian violinist who will be heard here as the second artist on the university concert course, is to make his radio debut as soloist with the New York Philharmonic orchestra this afternoon.

Virovai will play the Brahms concerto with the orchestra in a program which will include in addition, the Academic Festival Overture by Brahms and the Sibelius Symphony No. 2. The broadcast will be over the CBS chain at 2 o'clock.

Following his American debut in four performances with the New York Philharmonic orchestra this week, the 18-year-old Hungarian violinist will embark on a three-month concert tour which will include solo appearances with the Chicago and Montreal Symphony orchestras.

Virovai, last pupil of the renowned Hubay, made his first appearance with the New York orchestra Thursday evening at Carnegie hall playing Vieuxtemp Concerto in D Minor. He repeated the work at the Friday afternoon performance.

The youthful musician, born in the mountains separating Hungary from Yugoslavia and childhood soloist in the court of King Alexander in Belgrade, later for Queen Mother Elizabeth of Belgium, begins his concert tour Nov. 15 in Akron, Ohio.

MacLeish, Pulitzer Prize Winner, To Speak at Old Capitol

"The Poet's Place in Modern Life" will be the subject of the lecture by Archibald MacLeish, winner of the Pulitzer prize for poetry and former editor of Fortune, in the senate chamber of Old Capitol at 8 p.m. tomorrow night.

The noted author came to Iowa City Friday.

Tickets to the lecture tomorrow evening may be secured without cost at the office of the school of letters, 101C University hall, at the office of American Prefaces, 101A University hall, or at Iowa Union.

MacLeish won the Pulitzer prize for poetry with his "Conquistador." He has written a great deal in the fields of poetry and verse, having contributed more recently to verse dramas for radio.

He appears at the university under the auspices of the school of letters.

West Texas State college is constructing exhibits showing animal and plant life from its earliest known existence — an estimated 400,000,000 years ago, to the present.

University Women's Hockey Team Loses To Chicago 9-0; Tea Follows Contest

The women's hockey team from the Chicago Field Hockey association defeated the university team by a score of 9-0 on the women's athletic field yesterday from 2 to 3 p.m.

Showing superiority in stick work and team play, the Chicago players took the ball into the Iowa territory time and time again, scoring often. The local team played a good game, however, getting the ball within scoring distance a number of times, only to be turned back by the efforts of Helen Bina, goal keeper of the Chicago team.

Two of the women taking hockey umpiring were awarded local ratings during the morning session. Josephine McCarthy, A4 of Huntington, N. Y., was given a "local B," and Jane Bond of Iowa State college was awarded a "local C."

The rating committee was composed of Prof. Elizabeth Halsey, head of the women's physical education department, Esther French and Loraine Frost, both of the women's physical education department, and Isobel Smith of the association team.

In the college games played during the morning period, both the Cornell-Iowa game and the Ames-Cedar Falls tilt ended in scoreless ties.

At the luncheon at Iowa Union, Miss McCarthy, president of the Iowa City Hockey club, and Amy Hoop, president of the Chicago Field Hockey association, explained the organization of the association.

Professor Halsey, the members of the Chicago team, members of Iowa City Hockey club, and captains of the visiting teams were introduced. Table favors were black and gold ice box flowers presented with the compliments of William's Iowa Supply.

Following the exhibition game, tea was served in the social room of the women's gymnasium. Dr. Lois Boulware presided at the table.

Eduard Benes, former president of Czechoslovakia, has accepted an invitation to lecture at the University of Chicago.

ROMANCE IN

ROMANCE IN
BY DREN ARNOLD
SARA SUE DAVIS, attractive young widow, with the aid of her mother-in-law, rents a cottage near the campus of Rice Institute, in Texas, in preparation for the launching of a unique business venture. Bob Towne, football end and campus hero, and some of the other students, are arrested by the new sign in front of the "DAVIS COTTAGE" announcing a "COUNSEL IN ROMANCE."
(Now Go On With the Story)

CHAPTER 3

SARA SUE DAVIS, the girl, and Sara Sue Davis, Inc., were individually and jointly as nervous as possible. She peeked every few seconds through her front curtains to see the group of Rice boys and co-eds staring at her sign and cottage, reading the student newspaper, laughing and speculating as to her advertised "Counsel in Romance."

She wanted to go hide in the attic and bite her finger nails, she told herself. But she was a mature widow of 23, and a business woman. True, some of those collegians were as old as she, especially the seniors, but she had to act older and "go out after business." These were recession times, her banker had told her; she must not sit down and idly wait for customers, she must be aggressive.

Sara Sue Davis, personally and incorporated, therefore fluffed up her curls—Sara Sue's curls really were almost red—and hastily added a touch more of rouge. She smiled at herself in the entrance hall mirror, a practice corporate smile, then instantly changed into what she fancied was severe business-like manner. She cleared her throat, opened her front door and stepped determinedly out.

"Good afternoon!" she greeted the crowd of students.

A chorus of hellos and how-are-you's answered.

"Are you—can't you—won't you come in? Mother's—mother's inside. And—" It was a very lame invitation. The prim speech she had imagined, now refused to jell.

A big tall collegian was first to answer. A handsome youth, with black hair, and a contagious smile. His leadership seemed to be unconscious, habitual. He stared hard at Sara Sue as he spoke.

"Thanks, Thanks, we'd like to," said Bob Towne. "We were just reading the sign. And the Thresher ad. We'd like to meet her, I'm sure."

That's all that was needed. The sign itself said "Come in." And the pretty girl had said it. Curiosity already was at high pitch. The group swarmed into the cottage quietly, speaking in interested undertones.

"How do you do—all of you?" Mother Davis' manner was almost benign. Past middle age, this mellowed soul could show calm and genuine friendliness.

Again came a chorus of polite answers.

Sara Sue had followed them in, of course, and felt now that she simply must take charge, despite her stage fright. She swallowed hard, blushed and pitched in.

"I want to welcome you again," she began. "Won't you find seats? Anywhere. I have put in a great many chairs, and a lot of extra cushions. Just sit on the floor if the chairs run out."

"Now, perhaps I'd better offer to answer any questions. You read the Thresher announcement. Does anyone—anyone want to inquire further about the plan?"

"Is it really a date bureau?"

"Can we have parties here?"

"Can you find me a sweetheart?"

The questions came in a flood, some serious, many in humorous vein. Sara Sue bit her lip, and kept smiling. Bob Towne was staring at her still, and she noticed that. She didn't mind, but his gaze was so rap—

"Maybe I'd better tell you all about it," Sara Sue resumed.

"No, I'm not going to run an escort bureau, or a gigolo service, or anything like that. But I have planned—"

"Pardon me," Bob Towne broke in, "but you say 'I. Will you be one of the assistants or something?'"

"No, I'm—I'm the corporation. I am Sara Sue Davis. OH, I am so sorry I overlooked introductions! Please forgive me. Will—will each one of you tell your name now?"

"YOU'RE Miss Davis?" Bob Towne jabbed his question at her.

"Mrs. Davis. And this is my mother-in-law, Mrs. Davis also."

"Oh," murmured Bob. "You're married. Married."

"I was. Mr. Davis—passed away. Four years ago. He was a Rice student, too. But am I not to hear your names?" She smiled engagingly at them.

Something very positive was happening to young Bob Towne while introductions were under way. First a liddown, then a revival of spirit. A revival when he learned that this utterly fascinating girl was a widow.

The dress she wore was blue, he noted. Blue with some white doodads on it. Beautiful. Her hair was nestly. He'd bet it was soft, and pleasant to touch. But most striking of all were her cheeks.

Cheeks are seldom given their due, in appraisal of feminine beauty. Poets sing of eyes and lips. Artists create busts and limbs. But cheeks—Mrs. Davis' cheeks were like—like peaches. No! That sounded like Peaches Pomeroy, and hers were hollow. Sara Sue's plump, rounded, like apples in shape and tint. No, Bob told himself, that sounded silly. Why think of fruit? They were—gee!

His racing thoughts were interrupted by her speech again.

"—the result of careful investigation, which revealed a definite need for a plan of this sort." She was going well now, sure of herself. "I want my cottage to be an intimate social home for students away from their own homes. I know you have some fine characters. I know you want to build those characters, and I know you will be having many thoughts about—love."

"I believe in love. I—"

"Me, too!" That was Bob Towne's voice. Laughter trailed him.

But Sara Sue squelched him with a look. "I am not joking, Mr. Towne. I mean it! I believe in love. I believe it is the most important thing in the world. I believe it is the key to all happiness. It is much more important than—than football. Or even than classroom studies. And colleges pay too little attention to it. I mean, they don't offer guidance and help in bringing young people of the right sort together, under favorable circumstances. They don't enable boys and girls to meet the kind of mates they could be happy with."

"Now I am not able to solve all the problems of young lovers, surely. But I can be a confidante. I can keep secrets," she paused to smile at them, sweetly. "I really can, and I will. I expect I shall be of most value to co-eds, rather than to boys, for I can talk girl talk with them and help them with their personal problems. But I will try to help the boys all I can, too. I am mature, and— and experienced."

Mother Davies quietly smiled at this, but said nothing.

"I want you all to make this cottage a loafing place. We have a piano. And a radio and phonograph. This is a big living room, where we—where you could dance. You can arrange parties, even using my kitchen for refreshments. I can act as chaperone when needed. Our garden is lovely, too. I will take you out there presently. And you can come to me privately with any personal problem you may have. I'll give the very best advice I can."

"But you will have to pay just a little for all this. The cost will be $3 a month each. For memberships. No more. I want only 100 members. Out of 1,400 Rice students I think I can get 100, and—"

"Goodnes, Mrs. Davis, you'll get a thousand!"

The interruption came enthusiastically from a co-ed. But Bob Towne was nodding. This aggressive fellow stepped forward now, holding out a $10 and $5 bill.

"Sign me up at once, please, Mrs. Sara Sue," he boomed. "I'm paying five months in advance."

That flustered Sara Sue again. She hadn't expected such prompt action. But she was delighted.

The crowd began to drift over the cottage and garden, ohing and aching in delight at the bright cheeriness of all the rooms, pausing to poke fun at grinning Cleopatra Jones, colored queen of the kitchen. Sara Sue had fluttered away to her tiny private office, where she had receipt blanks in her mahogany desk. She was thrilled pink. Her first business was actually beginning, on the first day of school! She invited Mr. Towne in, showed him a chair, and then wrote out the receipt for him.

"Thank you very much," she said, professionally, handing him the slip of paper.

"Surely. And—can the service start immediately?"

She stared blankly at him, looking up a little, for Sara Sue was just five feet three. "You mean—?"

"I mean, please Sara Sue, that I think your plan is wonderful. I want your expert counsel at once. I want—I want to take you to the theater tonight! May I?"

He leaned forward eagerly.

To Station Nurses at Banks During Red Cross Roll Call

Johnson County Will Share in Proceeds From Annual Drive

Two uniformed nurses will be in each Iowa City bank Nov. 12 and 16 to enlist members in the annual Red Cross membership drive beginning Armistice day and continuing through Nov. 24.

All but a small amount of the proceeds will remain in Johnson county to be used for local instruction in first aid, life saving, home hygiene, educational programs and relief in case of emergency. Walter Meinzer, chairman of the Red Cross roll call, announced.

Lois Corder, director of nursing at University hospital, and Mother Rita, sister superior and director of nursing at Mercy hospital, have cooperated with the Red Cross in furnishing the nurses.

Hospital Workers Schedule Meeting

University hospital employees who are members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees affiliate of the American Federation of Labor will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in Eagles hall.

One hundred per cent attendance is urged. The Nov. 9 meeting has been cancelled.

Senior Scout Troop Planned

Owen B. Thiel Sends Invitation to 60 Scouts Over 15 Years Old

Owen B. Thiel, local Boy Scout executive, announced yesterday that invitations have been sent to 60 scouts and former scouts over 15 years of age to meet with him Tuesday night for the purpose of organizing a senior scout troop.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in Thiel's office.

Any scout or former scout past 15 years of age is eligible to take part in the senior program. The program is divided into two distinct groups, the sea scouts and the explorers.

Moves Office Commerce Group Donates Rooms

Headquarters for the local community chest campaign have been moved within the Jefferson hotel from room 403 to the chamber of commerce office on the mezzanine floor, according to Roscoe E. Taylor, director of the drive.

A large majority of the cards have been turned in by the divisional directors, and the office force, having made necessary records, has transferred these cards to the permanent files.

This makes it possible to use smaller quarters, and through the courtesy of the board of directors and staff of the chamber of commerce the change has been made.

Solicitors or subscribers wishing to contact the chest may do so personally or telephone 3534.

Director Taylor anticipates that another two weeks will be needed to complete affairs of the campaign, and he urges all solicitors to wind up their work and turn in all cards in their possession as soon as possible.

The total of contributions remains at $15,674.30, no additional funds having been reported the last two days.

The Iowa City fire department

The sea scout division is designed for young men who are interested in water activities, such as boating and ship building.

The explorer group is promoted for the benefit of young men interested in hiking, camping and professional or trade fields.

Mothers used to "Wear Out" at 40

AND THEN CAME CHEAP ELECTRICITY

and brought them playtime hours—

40... and worn out. What a tragedy! Mothers and grandmothers of yesterday slaved in their homes. They were gallant women... but "worn out" at 40.

and then came CHEAP ELECTRICITY

Now, playtime hours are mother's. She has time to do the many things she has always longed to do. Cheap electricity has made her a full-time mother for her children's sake. Are you a full-time mother?

Electric rates are LOW

Lucky mothers can use electricity for many of their tiresome home duties. Cleaning, washing, ironing, cooking, refrigerating... all these things can be done at a surprisingly low cost.

Squeeze Play
Schmitz of Wisconsin's Badgers and one of his interference runners were effectively sandwiched to a sudden stop when four Pitt Panthers held this play through the line for little gain.

From Two Sides
... came these Army tacklers to put a stop to this run by Seidel of Columbia's Lions. Notice how Seidel hurdled his own interference.

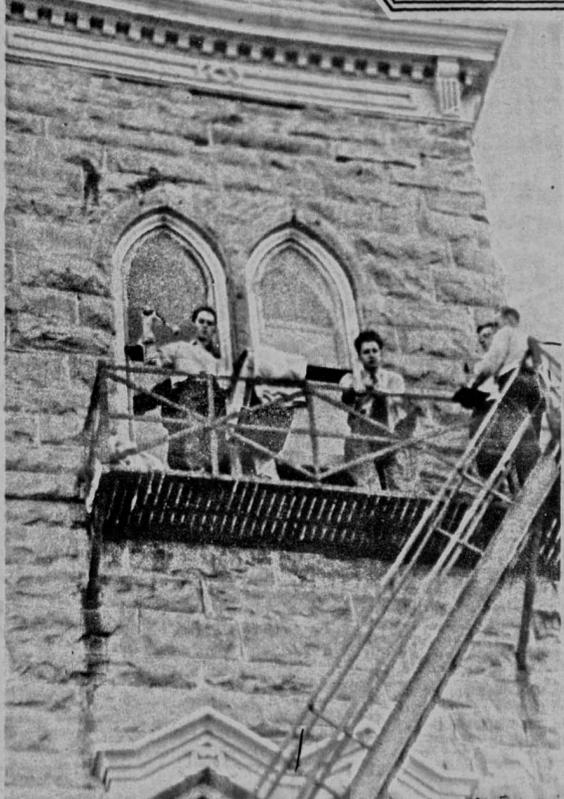

"Get at the Ball"
... is the slogan of many tacklers, and here a University of Virginia player effectively came out the order in stopping Clifford Lentz of the Navy.

"Power"
The struggle of the two opposing forces is effectively portrayed in this photo of Stanford's Calvelli and Anderson holding Washington State's Karl Giguere after a three-yard gain.

Aerial Encounter
A Purdue Boilermaker caught Fordham's Peter Holovak in mid-air to stop him in the second quarter of the six-all battle on New York City's Polo Grounds.

Tom-tom Beats Wake College Spirit
To raise student pep for a coming football game, Daniel Baker College pepsters maintained a steady beat on a drum atop a college building for 24 hours. They struck 40,124 beats during the around-the-clock vigil.

Celebrate Anniversary
Catholic dignitaries from throughout the U. S. headed the procession that preceded the golden jubilee convocation at Catholic University.

First Lady Dedicates New Dormitory
Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt is shown chatting with other state and national dignitaries who attended the dedication ceremonies for the dormitory on the Rhode Island State College campus named in her honor.

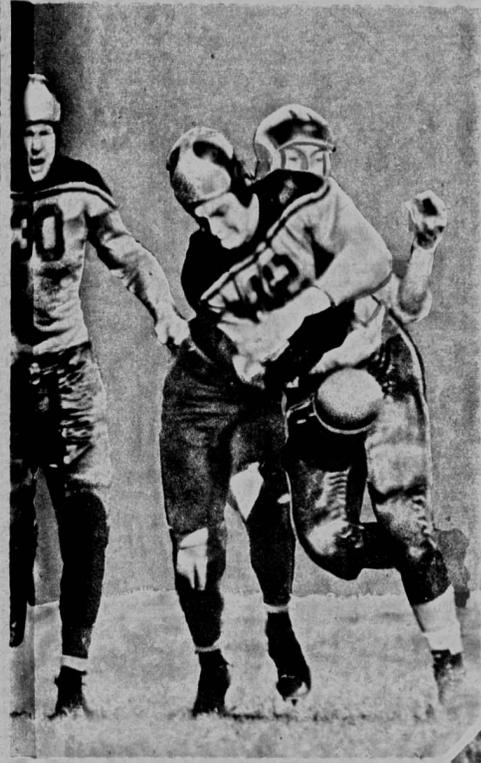

"Be Neater Dressed"
... was the slogan of a special week at Wheaton College, and the Scott twins modelled this photo to demonstrate how and how not to dress on their campus.

Sign Pointed the Way for the Winners
Lordly Temple University sophomores pulled the lowly freshman fire-hydrant stream of water to win the annual tug-of-war contest.

ELECTION TO Brisk Political Fight For

Heavy Rain, Late Snowfalls Hinder Voting

Chairmen Announce Free Transportation Available to Voters

The heavy rain and snow falls of the past two days are expected to greatly reduce the voting in all rural precincts in Johnson county today.

In many districts the wet weather has rendered country roads practically impassable. However, both republican and democratic workers have arranged for the transportation of voters to the polls. Chairmen of both parties have announced that all Iowa City voters desiring transportation to the polls should call their party headquarters.

Although Johnson county has, with the exception of the election of Harding in 1920, voted consistently democratic since the Civil war, political leaders expect a brisk fight between the opposing parties for all offices.

Of particular interest will be the race for congressman between Attorney Thomas E. Martin and Judge James P. Gaffney. Following the past week of intensive campaigning both candidates are expected to total a high vote at the polls.

Another close battle is anticipated between Attorney Harold W. Vestermark and Attorney E. A. Baldwin as they run for county attorney. Vestermark, the incumbent, nosed Baldwin out of the position at the last election.

Many voters believe that the outcome of the gubernatorial contest will be based on the action taken by Governor Nelson G. Kraschel in regard to the past industrial crises that have occurred in Iowa. While his support is considered strong, an army of opponents is looking forward to the election of George A. Wilson, republican candidate.

In Iowa City the polls will be open from 7 o'clock this morning to 8 o'clock tonight. Other precincts in the county will open their polls one hour later.

Polling places for Iowa City are as follows:
First ward, first precinct, courthouse; second precinct, Engineering building, corner of Washington and Capitol streets.
Second ward, first precinct, city hall; second precinct, Reichard's pavilion, at City park.
Third ward, C. S. P. S. hall, 524 N. Jefferson street.
Fourth ward, first precinct, former Alert Hose house, 204 N. Gilbert street; second precinct, Iowa City Community building, Gilbert and College streets.
Fifth ward, first precinct, Iowa City Bottling works, 525 S. Gilbert street; second precinct, Villauer's garage, 813 7th avenue.

Circus' Labor Troubles Settled

'Big Show to Hit Road Next Spring,' Says John Ringling

ATLANTA, Nov. 7 (AP)—John Ringling North, president of Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey, announced tonight the circus' labor troubles were "settled" and the "big show" definitely would hit the road next spring "bigger and better than ever—and air-conditioned."

The youthful head of the Go-liath of the outdoor show world confirmed rumors he had reached a tentative agreement with William Green, American Federation of Labor president, to re-open the show which was closed last June 22 after employees balked at a 25 per cent wage cut.

"I talked with Mr. Green and Matthew Woll (A. F. of L. vice president) at the A. F. of L. convention in Houston," North said. "We reached an amicable oral agreement. Details will be worked out when I come in New York."

In an interview with the Floto circus enterprise North said the "big show's" modernization "plenty of interesting effects—"

Eclipse of Moon Seen as Sun Shines; Airline Passengers Watch Despite Rain

An eclipse of the moon while the sun still shown was witnessed in many parts of the United States yesterday evening.

In some portions, notably the southern seaboard and the mid-west, clouds and rain obscured the phenomenon from watchers on the ground, but airplane passengers obtained a remarkable view.

Along the Atlantic coast, the moon rose, in partial eclipse, at 3:43 p.m., (CST), just seven minutes before sunset.

Such an eclipse is caused by the shadow of the earth passing over the moon, scientists explained it was possible before sunset because of the refraction of light in the earth's atmosphere.

In the east, the eclipse became total just five minutes before the sun set at 3:40 p.m. The total eclipse ended at 5:07 p.m. The moon left the umbra, the black earth shadow, at 6:12 p.m., and passed out of the penumbra, the hazy shadow, at 7:14 p.m.

Royalty May Meet in Paris As Step Toward Reconciliation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Complaints against employers for violating the minimum wage and maximum hour requirements for the fair labor standards act will be held confidential, the wage-hour administration said yesterday.

President Roosevelt selected the committee several months ago. Other members are M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania; B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, and D. B. Robertson, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

PARIS, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Gloucester may meet the Duke and Duchess of Windsor Friday in Paris as a first step toward reconciliation between the British royal family and the abdicated king.

Such a reconciliation might eventually be followed by the return to Britain of the Duke of Windsor and the American-born wife for whom he abdicated.

Down in Dixie, the official prognosticator thought the weather would be on the cool side. Rains were predicted for some sections.

Continued mild temperatures were forecast for much of the east. In Iowa, freezing weather might harden some rain-soaked roads over which the farm vote moves, the forecaster said.

Reconciliation talk immediately followed. Such a meeting would be the first the Duke of Windsor has had with any member of his family since his marriage May 3, 1937, to the former Wallis Warfield. It would be the second meeting since his abdication December 10, 1936. His sister, the Princess Royal, and her husband visited him at Vienna on the following February 7.

A meeting now of the Windsors and the Gloucesters would foreshadow an eventual welcome of the ex-king back into the family circle, some quarters believed.

Failure of the Duke of Kent, the youngest brother, to visit Windsor in August, 1937, while he was vacationing on the continent caused widespread comment.

Spanish Insurgents Report Capture Of Right Bank of Ebro

HENDAYE, France, Nov. 7 (AP)—Spanish insurgents reported today they had virtually completely recaptured the right bank of the Ebro river, with the government forces split in two and all important insurgent objectives reached.

Government troops remaining on the right bank were said to be isolated.

The insurgents reported they had recaptured about 60 square miles of territory in the bend of the river which had been elaborately fortified by the government.

VOTER FAVORED Fair Skies Forecast By Weather Man

The weather man's predictions generally favored the voter in today's elections.

Fair skies but cool temperatures were forecast for many sections of the nation.

"Very good weather," said the forecaster for the Pacific coast and Rocky mountain states. He added, however, there might be some scattered showers and snow flurries near the Canadian border.

Down in Dixie, the official prognosticator thought the weather would be on the cool side. Rains were predicted for some sections.

To Be First Meeting Since Abdication Of Former King

Such a meeting would be the first the Duke of Windsor has had with any member of his family since his marriage May 3, 1937, to the former Wallis Warfield. It would be the second meeting since his abdication December 10, 1936. His sister, the Princess Royal, and her husband visited him at Vienna on the following February 7.

Rail and Labor Representatives Meet to Draft New Program

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Representatives of rail management and labor sat down at a conference table once more today to tackle the job of drafting a legislative program of rehabilitation and relief for the nation's ailing railroads.

The three railroad representatives and three labor officials appointed by President Roosevelt to make legislative proposals discussed the subjects to be considered and the form of the report they will present to the president.

Both Carl R. Gray, vice chairman of the Union Pacific's board, and George Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association, reported they would have nothing to say publicly about the subject matter until they reported to Mr. Roosevelt.

Gray and E. E. Norris, president of the Southern railway, predicted the group would complete its work before the new congress convened in January, but Harrison was not so optimistic.
