Hold Daughter On Charge Of Illegal Burial

Discover Pensioner's Coffin in Yard Of Le Mars Residence

LE MARS, Nov. 12 (AP)—Len Trow of Huron, S. D., tonight identified the body found buried in a shallow grave here today as that of his mother, Mrs. L. A. Trow, missing 80-year-old widow pensioner of a Civil war veteran.

Trow told Sheriff Frank Scholer he was positive the body was that of his mother after he examined the teeth.

Mrs. Trow's body was found in a two-foot grave in the back yard of a home here where she lived with her daughter, Mrs. Summer Knox.

Sheriff Scholer said a Sioux City pathologist tonight removed a portion of the body's stomach and sent it to the University of Iowa, Iowa City, for analysis.

Washington Demands Vote

While the rest of the country's citizens exercised their American privilege, residents of the District of Columbia staged a protest against their lack of franchise.

Daladier Government Issues 32 Decree Laws; Revalues Franc, Modifies 40-Hour Week Limit

Requiescat For 'Typhoid Mary' In New York

By JOHN FERRIS
NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—The frail, wasted body of Mary Mallon, who in the hearty plumpness of her middle years became known as "typhoid Mary," innocent agent of death, was lowered into a grave in a Bronx cemetery today.

The dubious fame of being known as the country's oldest medical prisoner—officially isolated as a typhoid carrier—had brought her bitterness at first and finally resignation.

Today, as the Rev. Vincent S. McCambley pronounced the last "requiescat in peace" in St. Luke's Roman Catholic church, there were only nine to whisper the response, and they declined to identify themselves.

For 31 years, since that day when health officials, puzzled by recurring outbreaks of typhoid fever in wealthy Westchester and Long Island neighborhoods, discovered Mary was the source and plucked her from the living, she had remained in isolation, save community into excitement tonight.

Calls Measures 'Last Opportunity to Avert Fall of Government'

PARIS, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Daladier government, backed by the demand of 7,000,000 World War veterans for a strong government, tonight issued 32 decree laws to rebuild France within her democratic framework.

Premier Daladier declared they were the strongest measures that could be drawn without violating "traditional" principles of the French government. Some members of the chamber of deputies called them the last chance to avert collapse of the democracy.

Among the laws decreed two days before expiration of semi-dictatorial decree powers granted by parliament was a measure revaluing the gold reserve of the Bank of France at the rate of 170 francs to the pound sterling, or 37.69 to the dollar.

The revaluation gave the government a paper profit of about 22,550,000,000 francs. Before the decree there were 55,806,000,000 francs worth of gold in the bank's vaults calculated on the basis of 43 milligrams of gold to the franc. Before the gold was revalued the franc was figured at 22.96 to the dollar.

Decrees drawn by the labor ministry did not officially change "the principle" of the 40-hour week but said there would be "certain modifications" of the 40-hour week law for a period of three years.

The principle of the five-day week, however, was junked in favor of either six days or five and one-half days with 40 hours staggered on the extended basis.

Employers were given "credits" of supplementary work hours over the 40-hour week limit and empowered to ask women to remain on their jobs for extra hours simply by advising the ministry of labor.

Direct taxes were increased. Taxes on production were raised from eight to nine per cent. New indirect taxes were imposed on coffee, gasoline, tobacco and face powder.

'The Little Nun' Rests

Pope Pius Will Issue Beatification Decree For Mother Cabrini Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—At 5 o'clock tomorrow morning, the gold-plated, bronze casket bearing the body of Mother Francesca Saverio Cabrini will be laid beneath the altar in the chapel of Mother Cabrini high school in upper Manhattan.

The eerie gray of the dawn will envelope New York, but it will be bright mid-morning in Rome at that hour when Pope Pius XII will issue his decree of beatification for "The Little Nun," Mother Cabrini, the first United States citizen to attain beatification, the last step before sainthood.

Mother Cabrini's body can be seen reposing on a gold-embroidered satin cushion, worked by the novices of her order. Her features are covered by a waxen mask, lightly tinted and resembling photographs of the holy woman. The casket is to be laid in an onyx-lined, glass-fronted tomb, contrasting sharply in its opulence with the simplicity of the "little nun's" life.

Almost from her birth, July 15, 1850, in the Italian village of St. Angelo Lodigiano, she seemed destined for the church.

Says C.I.O. Still For New Deal And Liberals

New Understanding Necessary Between Democrats, Labor

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12 (AP)—On the eve of the first constitutional convention for CIO industrial unionism, CIO leader John L. Lewis suggested today "concerted action among the liberal forces" and renewed support for the new deal in the wake of republican gains in the November election.

Lewis' remarks, covering in broad terms questions of labor's role in politics and government and the outlook for labor peace, were regarded in some sources as indicating the political liberalism CIO unions will adopt in convention next week as the vehicle for their future activities.

At a press conference Lewis said in discussing last Tuesday's balloting that the democratic party organization needed house cleaning in some quarters and that if there was to be a coalition between the democrats and labor "certainly there must be an increased understanding as to policy and administration."

Lewis said President Roosevelt had been invited to attend the CIO convention but indicated there was little likelihood the chief executive would come.

Instead of making a personal appearance, it was expected Mr. Roosevelt would send the convention a message Monday.

Children Smothered

DAVENPORT, Nov. 12 (AP)—Three teen age children of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hayden, who live near Buffalo Prairie, Ill., were smothered to death late this afternoon in a sand bank near their home. The children are: Doris, 10; Dorothy, 7; and Robert, 5.

Mackay Dies

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Clarence H. Mackay, capitalist and chairman of the Board of Postal Telegraph Cable company, died tonight at his home.

In poor health for several months, Mackay underwent an operation for appendicitis in December, 1937, but was reported to have come through it satisfactorily. In July of this year, he returned to the hospital for a general examination. On Tuesday, he was brought to his New York home from his estate at Roslyn, Long Island. He was 64 years old.

Vatican to Protest

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 12 (AP)—Vatican circles indicated today that a protest would be forthcoming against the Nazi attacks on the palace of Michael Cardinal Faulhaber, archbishop of Munich.

These circles declined comment on reports of violence at Munich but on prelate said the reaction at the Vatican was the same as when Theodore Cardinal Innitzer's palace was wrecked by demonstrations in Vienna Oct. 8.

La Guardia, Murphy, Bulkeley Plan Drive to Unite Nation's Progressives Under Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—A drive for solidification of the nation's progressive forces under President Roosevelt's leadership was started today at the first of a series of conferences stemming directly from last Tuesday's elections.

Third-term talk at the meeting of Mayor F. H. LaGuardia with two democrats, Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan and Sen. Robert J. Bulkeley of Ohio, both of whom failed of re-election was denied, Murphy said afterward:

"I think our minds should remain open on that entire question."

Bulkeley said, however, he believed the people have a fixed opinion against a third term and that "there is quite a sentiment against it."

Organization of a third party was frowned upon by Bulkeley while Murphy emphasized that a new policy would have to be formulated by leaders of the progressive movement and that it would have to center around President Roosevelt.

More definite proposals will be discussed in Washington next week. La Guardia, Murphy and Bulkeley plan to be in the capital for further conversations with others who think along the same political and economic lines.

Spearhead of the movement was La Guardia, who described the election results as a "decided set-back" and immediately started writing and telephoning recognized progressive leaders in appeals for action.

Some ideas expressed by the conferees here found concurrence in the remarks of CIO chairman, John L. Lewis, in Pittsburgh.

"I think the general elections indicate the need for greater cooperation and concerted action among the liberal forces of our country," Lewis said. "I think the liberal element of the democratic party, labor and other progressives have a definite incentive to cooperate."

Lewis added he believed the "great majority are overwhelmingly behind President Roosevelt and his general policies."

Murphy said the progressive movement, in order to be a success, must be centered around the president "because he has done more than any person to make it possible."

CHRISTOPHER PAGET MAYHEW
CHRIST CHURCH—OXFORD

PHILIP R. NOAKES
QUEENS COLLEGE—CAMBRIDGE

These gentlemen are Christopher Paget Mayhew and Philip R. Noakes, representatives of the English universities, Oxford and Cambridge, who will appear here Tuesday night in the traditional international debate with Iowa. The representatives of the Hawkeye university who will appear against Mayhew and Noakes are

George Hill, A4 of Burlington, and Loren Hickerson, A3 of Iowa City. The debate is scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday in Macbride auditorium. Three western conference debates Thursday in which Iowa teams will participate, and the international debate all will have as their subject the practicability of an Anglo-American alliance.

British Debate Team to Arrive Tuesday to Discuss Question Of Anglo-American Alliance

Mexico Pays Farm Land Payments Start in May

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—The state department disclosed tonight that the Mexican government had agreed to make an initial payment of $1,000,000 next May, in settlement of claims for seized American farm land, and additional annual payments of not less than $1,000,000 until all adjusted claims were paid.

The agreement was reached after a long controversy that threatened to impair relations between the two countries.

A joint two-man commission will begin work Dec. 1 in Mexico City to adjudicate the claims of all Americans who have lost agrarian property since 1927 under Mexican expropriation laws. It must complete its work by next May 31, and any claims unsettled then will be submitted to a third person who must reach a verdict within two months.

President Roosevelt announced he had chosen Lawrence M. Lawson of El Paso, while President Cardenas was understood to have named Gustavo P. Serrano as the Mexican commissioner. The two men now form the international boundary commission between the United States and Mexico, and have worked together on joint commissions for many years.

There was no commitment by Mexico to discontinue further seizures of American-owned lands.

Notes made public by the state department dealt solely with agrarian claims for $10,132,388, which amount is generally expected to be scaled down.

They made no mention of losses arising from Mexico's seizure last March of American oil properties valued by their owners at between $125,000,000 and $175,000,000, and by the Mexican government at about $50,000,000.

The Mexican government specified that the farm land agreement should establish no precedent for settlement of any other claims.

Cambridge, Oxford Debaters to Meet Hill and Hickerson

Christopher Paget Mayhew and Philip R. Noakes, representatives of Oxford and Cambridge universities in England respectively, will arrive in Iowa City Tuesday for their international word conflict with the University of Iowa Tuesday night.

Loren Hickerson, A3 of Iowa City, and George Hill, A4 of Burlington, will meet the English team that night on a question which involves the practical aspects of an alliance between the United States and Great Britain.

The team from England is on a tour of United States universities and colleges and will come to the University of Iowa following a discussion tomorrow night with a team at Iowa State Teachers college in Cedar Falls. They are traveling under the auspices of the National Student Federation of America in New York.

Mayhew is the son of Sir Basil and Lady Mayhew, Felthorpe hall, Norwich, England. He is 23 years old. Educated at Haileybury college in Hertford, Mayhew was head of his school. He is a classical scholar, and was captain also of rugby and hockey teams at Oxford, representing his school in those sports.

Last year he won the university award in economics, and was elected president of the Oxford Union society. He has travelled extensively in France, Scandinavia, Ireland, Soviet Russia, Belgium and Switzerland. He is a socialist and member of the British labor party.

Noakes is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Noakes of Chipstead, Surrey, England. He is 22 years old. Educated at Wycliffe college, Stonehouse, Gloucestershire, England, he was also head of his school, captain of the rugby football team and a player in the school cricket eleven.

He was the winner of history, English essay and Latin prizes at his school, and won the open exhibition at Queen's college at

91 Hurt, Others Rush to Notre Dame Gridiron

Thousands Rush To Overturned Coaches; Rescue Is Hindered

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 12 (AP)—Collision of two "football special" trains — each jammed with nearly 500 fans bound for the Notre Dame-Minnesota game — injured 91 persons and shook up 950 others an hour and a half before game time here this afternoon.

Twenty of those hurt had injuries severe enough to keep them in hospitals. Those uninjured, after recovering from shock, hired taxicabs and private automobiles and hurried off to the game.

The train — New York Central and Grand Trunk — were not traveling fast, but the impact was sufficiently hard to topple over a bar coach and a passenger coach of the New York Central "special." Entrances to the overturned coaches were in such positions that rescuers had to use step-ladders to get to the injured. More than 100 persons were in the upset coaches.

Witnesses said the Grand Trunk "special" was going east on the main line a mile from the Union station in the southwest part of the city, plowed into the New York Central "special," headed north on a siding, just behind the New York Central's first coach.

The noise of the crash was heard for several blocks. Word of the accident spread like wildfire and drew thousands of persons to the area, complicating the work of rescue. Fifteen ambulances which rushed the injured to Epworth and St. Joseph hospitals had difficulty in getting through the heavy downtown traffic. The influx of some 55,000 persons for the football game created unusual snarls throughout the city.

Most of those aboard the trains were from Chicago and vicinity. Those whose injuries kept them in hospitals were: from Chicago—Mrs. Myrtle Younger, 34, left arm lacerations; Jerry Dixon, back injuries; Peter Demetriakakis, ankle and leg injuries; Edward Kelly, leg and chest injuries; Edward and Charles Quill, back injuries; Helen Rumatz, foot and leg injuries; Otilia Kleteka, back injuries; John Ahearn, knee injuries; Ray Kenzie, leg and back injuries; Alice McGee, back injuries; George Tangredi, back injuries; John Fitzgerald, broken leg; Mrs. James Healy, 33, serious right thigh contusions; Stephen Parick, 39, bruises, Mrs. Dorothy Sanders, 33, concussion, and from Oak Park, Ill. — Mrs. Elsie Meyers, chest injuries.

Appointment of Supreme Court Justice Tests New Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt's forthcoming appointment of a new supreme court justice may provide the first test of administration strength in the new congress.

Some politicians look to the appointment also for an inkling as to whether last Tuesday's election returns may influence Roosevelt policy.

They predict that, he intends to pursue a conciliatory policy as the result of increased republic-can success at the polls, he will appoint a justice of "moderately liberal" leanings and thus lessen the likelihood of a bitter senate controversy over confirmations of the appointment.

On the other hand there has been some speculation that, if Mr. Roosevelt is determined to continue an aggressive fight for his entire program, he will appoint a "militant liberal" and force a showdown at once with conservative democratic senators.

Additional Punitive Measures Taken Against German Jew

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

BERLIN, Nov. 12 (AP)—Nazi Germany today practically wiped out Jewish business, barred the nation's 500,000 Jews from public entertainments and fined them $400,000,000 for the slaying of a German diplomat by a young Polish — German Jew in Paris.

In addition, the government required that Jews whose 1,000 Berlin shops were wrecked or looted Thursday in mass demonstrations must pay for the damage themselves. Insurance claims by Jews for wrecking of their properties must be paid to the state.

Officials promised "further decisive measures" and Jews feared that the Ghetto, unemployment or concentration camps were in store for them as the result of the most violent government and private anti-semitic actions Nazi Germany has yet seen.

Police made wholesale arrests among Jewish moneyed, educated and cultured classes, 1,600 being taken into custody in Berlin alone. In Vienna it was estimated that between 18,000 and 20,000 Jews had been arrested since Thursday. Many of them were released, but thousands still were in custody.

While the anti-semitic campaign was intensified, there were new manifestations against Catholics. Aroused nazis at Munich shattered many windows in the palace of Michael Cardinal Von Faulhaber at Munich.

The fine of 1,000,000,000 marks ($400,000,000) against German Jews "in their entirety" for the slaying of Ernst Von Rath, secretary of the German embassy at Paris, represents from one-fourth to one-fifth of the estimated Jewish wealth in Germany, excluding Austria and Sudetenland, before Thursday's outbreak.

When and how the fine would be collected was not announced, but since Jewish business must be given up, it was assumed part of the sum would come from this source.

Decrees issued against Jews today:

1. Prohibited Jews from conducting retail businesses, mail order and commission houses and independent handicraft enterprises after Jan. 1.

2. Barred Jews from heading any industrial or commercial concern.

3. Ordered Jews excluded from theaters, movie houses, concerts and other public presentations.

Hermann Wilhelm Goering, director of Germany's four-year plan for economic self-sufficiency, issued the decree providing the $400,000,000 fine.

"Jewry's hostile attitude toward the German people and the reich, which does not stop at cowardly assassinations, requires decisive measures and a severe penalty," the decree said.

"I, therefore, decree on the basis of the four-year plan regulations of Oct. 18, 1936, the following:

"First, upon Jews of German nationality in their entirety is imposed a payment of 1,000,000,000 reichsmarks.

"Second, carrying out of the order is left to the finance ministry in consultation with other ministers concerned."

The decree forcing Jews from retail and other business was not published in full, but it was disclosed that it provided for dismissal of Jewish employes on six weeks' notice, after which a Jew would have no claim on his employes.

It also plugged another hole by which Jews might carry on business by stipulating that after

Jan. 1, 1939, no Jew could be a partner in a business and that all Jews now partners must quit before then.

A decree of April 27 required registration of all Jewish bank balances, savings accounts, bonds, stocks, real estate and other property.

The Nazi regime therefore knows exactly what each Jew possesses, and has the data on which to base confiscation of enough Jewish property to make up the $400,000,000 fine.

Who's to Blame

For These 'Undeclared' Wars?

WHILE SEVERAL hundred speakers denounced war and voiced their hopes for peace in America last Thursday, several thousand Chinese and Japanese were killed in the "undeclared" Sino-Japanese war.

Although most military authorities agree that a foreign invasion of the United States, especially by Japan, would be doomed to failure, the fate of China may have a great bearing on the future of the world.

Economically, China is one of the greatest potential "gold mines" in the world. Trade with China annually brings gold into the coffers of the nations of the world.

If, however, China was to become a puppet state of Japan, much of the trade would be lost to the world. The United States, along with England, France, and Germany, has large industrial interests in China.

It is believed that Japanese control of China would mean further expropriation of American property in the Far East.

It would be to the advantage of the civilized world to have China free from Japanese influence, but many of us believe that it is not worth a war.

The answer to this question may lie in the use of the Neutrality act. This act, provided for the complete embargo of all war materials shipped into the warring countries.

Under our present system of war regulations, the Neutrality act cannot be enforced until the countries actually declare a state of war exists, thus "undeclared" wars may go on forever as long as no formal declaration of war is made.

Thus, we may continue to ship munitions to Japan and China to be used to prolong the struggle—a struggle which may have a definite bearing on the future of "foreigners" in the Far East.

As one Chinese speaker once said, "We Chinese appreciate the money and bandages you Americans send us to aid the wounded and the starving, but we don't appreciate the machine guns and bullets you Americans send the Japanese."

Today, the civilized world needs a more liberal interpretation of the Neutrality act to cover such emergencies as we have today in China and Spain. After all, when an "undeclared" war lasts for more than a year, it would seem to warrant more consideration than just a passing "incident."

The war in China or Spain could not last more than two months, it is estimated by observers, if outside help were withdrawn. It is up to the nations of the world to unite and end this needless slaughter by enforcing strict embargoes on all war materials to the warring countries.

Etiquette experts are divided over the proper way of dunking a doughnut. Any methods that will keep the coffee from streaming into a man's shirt-sleeves are probably all right.

Soldiers are to receive uniforms of unshrinkable material. But it's a safe bet the army still will carry the two standard sizes, too large and too small.

What Have We

To Offer?

IT MAY APPEAR ungracious, amid the general applause and delight of Washington socialites, to subject the coming visit of the British king and queen to the cold light of political analysis, but we cannot help but feel there is something behind this precedent-breaking action on the part of their majesties.

A short time ago the king and queen visited France, where they were greeted with tremendous demonstrations of friendship by the French public. Almost immediately thereafter came Hitler's long-expected threats to plunge Europe into war unless he was given his way, and the Munich pact, aptly termed the "Peace to End Peace," was engineered by Chamberlain and his allies, the Daladier-Bonnet government.

It cannot be doubted that the public acceptance of this pact, so obviously against the interests of the majority of the British and French people, was made easier for Chamberlain because of the warm after-glow yet strong in the minds of the English and French peoples, caused by the British monarch's visit.

The question in our minds at this moment is what the Chamberlain government is going to try to sell us after the visit of the British figureheads. It cannot be doubted that George VI is coming as a salesman of good-will. That is an openly avowed fact. But why the sudden decision that Anglo-American relations needed such a tonic?

In this connection it is well to remember that the vast power and wealth of the United States will be crucial importance in the coming world struggle for power. Will Chamberlain succeed in swinging the United States into the Franco-British radius which has demonstrated its subjectivity to the influence of the Rome-Berlin axis? Certainly it cannot be doubted that he will make the attempt to align the United States with Britain and France in an accord on policy. Is the impending royal visit the beginning of a high pressure sales campaign?

We believe, with President Roosevelt, that collective international action to quarantine aggressors is the only way to world peace. Chamberlain's policy is obviously directed in the opposite direction. The royal emissaries may well prepare the stage for a Franco-British-American accord, which, considering the positions of the sponsor, Mr. Chamberlain, we cannot help but view as against a policy of true Americanism.

It is, therefore, for more than provincial isolationist reasons that we look upon the ballyhooed visit of their majesties with considerable doubt.

The town of Kennett, Cal., is to be submerged by a new dam. Not much for the chamber of commerce to do except promise immunity from dust storms.

NOBEL PRIZE WINNER

PEARL BUCK has won the Nobel prize and she deserved it. There is a little irony in the justice. "The Good Earth," which first brought her to fame, had the misfortune to be a best seller, a class of works which she has roundly denounced. It also got the Pulitzer prize. The broad humanity of the book, the passion for the land, the struggle with crop failure and famine, the pictures of family life and custom, the good and evil fortunes of Wang Lung and his household had much more than the charm of unfamiliarity.

The book and its successors in the trilogy deal with the roots of existence, the everlasting fight of the farmer against nature and, worse than that, the primeval and contemporary insanity of war. A Chinese scholar has objected to Pearl Buck's portrayal of peasant life. The majority of Chinese are peasants, but they "are not representative of China." Apparently not the majority but only persons with "ink in their stomach" are fit to represent. Objection has also been made to Pearl Buck's depiction of Chinese custom in the class which she describes. Her long residence in China, her familiarity with its language, which she learned before she knew English, and with the people of whom she writes, sufficiently guarantee her accuracy. Probably she and her critics are talking of different customs, geographical and social.

The style of the trilogy has sometimes been criticized for being simple and even scriptural, a censure which is sufficient praise. We like to think that the little girl who from the hill bungalow of her parents used to look down on the Yangtze and the tiled roofs of Chinkiang is now laureate with international renown.

Still another hotel, and a big one, provides such excellent chaperone for young women traveling alone that girls' schools frequently make mass reservations for their students when major football games or other events call them to the city. Their rooms are assigned and a matron checks up each night at curfew.

TUNING IN

By Loren Hickerson

SHAKESPEARE'S immortal "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be presented at noon today by the affiliated network stations of the National Broadcasting Company. Need we say, worth while.

It's one of NBC's "Great Plays," presented at the same time each Sunday. Today's is the first of three Shakespearean works. Next week, the history, "Julius Caesar," will appear. The week following, the tragic "Othello."

NBC's "Great Plays" manual, which listeners may profitably use in hearing the shows, has this to say: "Edgar Allan Poe once wrote, 'When I am asked for a definition of poetry, I think of "Titania and Oberon" of the "A Midsummer Night's Dream."'"

"So, in presenting this charming vehicle, the National Broadcasting Company will set its aerial stage and invite the radio audience to a performance of the "Dream" at the Blackfriars, famous Elizabethan theater in the most exclusive and fashionable section of London where the illustrious persons of that romantic age at some time or other were patrons of that great playhouse.

"The date of the performance, as will be described by the commentator, is a late afternoon in February, 1596. On this occasion some authorities believe Queen Elizabeth witnessed 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' which, we are told, was performed as a part of the wedding festivities planned in honor of the approaching marriage of Thomas Berkeley and Elizabeth Carey.

"For more than hour, according to custom, before the performance an orchestra back stage had played a delightful program while courtiers and their guests were being seated in the balconies and on the lower floor. Boys lighted candles in chandeliers on the stage and about the great hall. Every available seat was occupied by fashionably dressed gallants.

"Jewels, gold lace, and court trappings flashed in the mellow glow of the candle-light. The stage of the Blackfriars compared to the Globe, Fortune or Swan, was narrower and increased in width, extending clear across the hall.

"When the boys lighted the last candles a hush fell over the audience and the play was ready to begin."

THE PHILHARMONIC concert this afternoon will be another worthwhile program, beginning at 2 o'clock over NBC.

John Barbirolli and the orchestra will present Joseph Schuster as cello soloist. Schuster will play Schubert's "Cello Concerto in A Minor," and the orchestra will play Schumann's "Symphony No. 7."

Charles Boyes will appear in "The Prelude" on "Hollywood Playhouse" at 8 tonight.

EDDIE CANTOR will usher in his eighth year of broadcasting at 9:30 p.m. tomorrow over CBS.

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Just the way you and I love a parade, Victor McLaglen must detest on uniforms.

Vic won't admit it. He even denies it. He says he had enough of uniforms during the war. And he surely should have had enough of uniforms in pictures. In pictures, he's been the dumb sergeant and the not-so-bright captain so consistently that he doesn't look natural in civvies. Oh, yes, he's tired of uniforms.

Just the same, when Vic gets at the head of his lighthorse troop, his big chest, sticking out under the uniform, and his head "rared" back, you can tell it's not just the horse that's strutting.

So Vic, at lunch today, was telling about a friend of his, a retired officer in the Scottish Guards, who is organizing a Scotch-Irish troop to join the McLaglen forces. The new unit's uniform will be kiltie.

"And won't that be a sight to see?" asked Vic, beaming all over that prodigious pan.

We got to talking about uniforms and what makes them popular, and Vic had the explanation at hand:

"Oh, you know how it is. These old army birds—they get used to it—and they're not happy unless they can put on a uniform and strut."

And I'm sure the big bruiser didn't see anything funny in that, coming from him! Just finished McLaglen, has just finished "Gunga Din" and now he's in naval uniform for "Pacific Liner." Then he's going over to Hal Roach's place to make "Captain Midnight," which sounds like another uniform but, he says, isn't.

This McLaglen is a physical specimen to top most others in Hollywood. Like the lady in the ads, he's over 40. In fact, if you inquire, you'll find he's over 51, not quite 52. And tough as nails. How does he stay that way?

"Sports, just sports," he says. "That's the why, he says, of his pet hobby—the McLaglen lighthorse troop. He sank $150,000 into the grounds, stables and clubhouse of his organization, which by now has taken on some aspects of a circus. It puts on shows, periodically, with its fancy drills, its amateur sports teams, which include a women's water polo outfit."

The organization isn't costing him anything now, and he owns the property—except for that little section the Los Angeles river purloined in last spring's floods. Latest sport he's fostering is rugby.

His other hobby—the expensive one—is his magnificent estate in the foothills. Here he has a beautiful English-type home surrounded by lawns and gardens, swimming pool, and a small zoo. The estate's facilities include a smokeroom for curing hams, which is a fine thing for an academy-award winner to have handy.

Vic keeps on making pictures, after 16 years of Hollywood stardom, because he likes it. Won't quit, he says, until he's kicked out. But here's an amazing thing: McLaglen can dish it out but he can't take it. He shies away from seeing his pictures, his previews, his daily "rushes." If he saw them, he says, he'd get so sick of himself he'd have to quit making pictures.

Under his guidance, a dozen top-flight stars have risen from the ranks—Jimmy Wallington gives him credit, Gracie Allen, Farkyarkus, Bobby Breen, Deanna Durbin.

He invited Joe Penner and Jack Benny, rival comedians, to his program one night. Soon Bernie asked Winchell and Fred Allen invited Jack Benny.

Charity drives, public welfare movements began to roll under his guidance. The last thing one would expect to find on a comedian's broadcast were Cantor's safety campaigns, "Drive safely, we love our children," and "the march of dimes," the drive for funds to combat infantile paralysis. Intensely sincere, they were immensely effective.

All these things seem old now. We're used to them. But they were unknown before Cantor introduced them.

WASHINGTON WORLD

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Harry L. Hopkins' Work Progress Administration is pretty sure to be searched by Congress in the course of the legislators' next session, beginning in January. The White House will not like it, of course, but it is hard to see how it can squelch the quiz. The republican lawmakers naturally will be ravenous for it. So will those democrats who believe that the administration unsuccessfully sought to "purge" them out of renominations. So also will those democratic senators whose seats were not at stake this year, but who surmise that they will be on the "purge" list in the 1940 primaries—or in 1942, if the new dealers still are in power then.

Just as naturally, the new dealers on Capitol Hill will object to an inquiry. They won't admit that they are afraid of it, and maybe they will not be afraid of it, in fact, but they will argue that it is wholly unnecessary, and will be a pest—just reactionary political "medicine making."

However, the republicans and old deal democrats will be in a majority, combined, and it's big odds that they'll have their way. The Dies quiz has muddled up the situation considerably. For myself, I think it has been an asinine performance, but it appears to have been popular. A few nights ago Representative Dies went on the air in defense of his investigation. Paul Y. Anderson, a newspaperman, was drafted by the new deal to answer him—though Dies is a democrat too. Fan mail, broadcasters tell me, has been 10 or 20-to-1 pro-Dies—literally overwhelmingly pro-Dies.

As to Hopkins? But as to Harry Hopkins? He and his WPA particularly will be investigated. I don't imagine that Harry will be caught in any deliberately-intended irregularities.

He has an enormous organization under him. He can't keep track of it in detail. In a general way, I'm convinced that he wants to keep it according to Hoyle, like Sheppard's a new dealer. The honesty of his campaign findings is enough to semi-restore one's faith in the integrity of public men. It will be a hard task for hush-hushers to ignore his story at day methods. Big batches of indictments in a couple of states, and pending grand jury activities in several others foreseem more of the same. True, the indicted individuals are not guilty until they are proved to be so—but it's smoke, and a smudge, more of it arises in the background. Something like eight or ten seats are certain to be contested in the next congress, upon grounds of primary or election irregularities. It used to be that ONE such contest was a public scandal. Now they're due wholesale.

Notre Dame Puts Crusher on Gophers, 19-0

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 12 (AP) — Notre Dame's football forces moved a scale higher in their march toward the national championship today by overwhelming Minnesota, 19 to 0, before 56,000 astonished spectators who filled the Irish bowl.

The Fighting Irish, superb in open field running, passing and blocking, opened the flood gates of their scoring power in three quick thrusts to achieve their seventh victory of the season. The first was an 84-yard gallop by Lou Zontini, fleet Notre Dame half back, within six minutes after the opening kickoff. The other two were touchdown passes hurled through the autumn air by Bob Saggau, sensational 18-year-old sophomore halfback of Denison, Ia.

Defense
To offset these lightning charges, Minnesota could not get past the Notre Dame 25-yard line, so staunch was the Irish defense. The Gophers tried twice to score with goals from the field in the first period, failing in both instances.

The most spectacular high spot of their attack came as the seconds ticked off the second period, when they exploded a tricky triple lateral pass, Christiansen to Buhler to Faust, who struggled to Notre Dame's 28-yard line before he was brought down.

The play covered 89 yards and was the only time the Gophers had a chance to get a runner into the clear. Notre Dame tacklers, however, swarmed all over Faust, and Minnesota never was dangerous after that. The Gopher backs appeared to be altogether too sluggish for their speedier and higher spirited foes.

Strangely enough the Irish were able to chalk up only two first downs, one on a double offside penalty, the other on a pass. The Gophers, meanwhile, rolled up six first downs, mainly due to the efforts of Larry Buhler and Halfback Wilbur Moore. Notre Dame tried only five passes with Saggau tossing three of them, two for touchdowns, and the other for 17 yards.

The issue of the game never seemed in doubt after Zontini broke away during the first few minutes on his 84-yard dash to start the Notre Dame rooters screaming with excitement. Breaking through tackle from his 16-yard line, Zontini ran behind superb blocking, veered to the right of the field, picked up more blockers, and sped toward the Minnesota goal. The only Gopher tackler who had a possible chance to bring him to earth was Harold Van Ery, but Steve Sitko, Notre Dame quarter, raced him off.

Saggau's thrilling two touchdown passes were hurled in the second period and the fourth. Notre Dame had not tried a pass until the second period when Saggau, in a surprise maneuver, hurled a 33-yard shot to Brown, who took the ball behind the Minnesota secondary and ran 15 yards to score without a Gopher laying a hand on him.

Michigan and Northwestern Battle to Scoreless Deadlock

80,000 Spectators Watch Game That Sees No 'Breaks'

By GEORGE STAUTER
ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 12 (AP) — Michigan and Northwestern fought furiously to a scoreless deadlock before 80,000 fans here today, tarnishing the Western conference football championship hopes of both teams.

Big 10 Standings

Team	W	L	T	Pct.
Minnesota	3	1	0	.750
Wisconsin	3	1	0	.750
Ohio State	3	1	1	.750

Indiana	1	3	0	.250
IOWA	1	3	1	.250
Illinois	0	3	0	.000
Chicago	0	3	0	.000

The Wolverines, with two victories, one defeat and one tie, were left with a mathematical chance of capturing top honors. The Wildcats, with two victories, one defeat and two ties, were virtually shoved out of titular consideration.

No "Break"
The crowd that all but filled the huge Michigan stadium alternately gasped and cheered as the two teams battled back and forth, seeking a "break" that never came.

'Dream' Backfield Upsets All Husker Hopes of Victory
By DWIGHT E. McCORMICK
LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 12 (AP) — Pittsburgh's "dream" backfield, minus the famed Marshall Goldberg, quashed Nebraska's dream of an upset victory by defeating the Huskers 19 to 0 here today in their 13th annual gridiron contest.

Each team reached the shadow of its enemy's goal posts in the thrill-packed second half, but lacked a winning punch.

A crowd of 34,000 persons, the largest home game attendance of the season, watched Nebraska march to the Panther's 14 yard line near the end of the first quarter, but there the Huskers' only threat ended. Pitt took command at that point and scored in each of the next three periods.

Tough
A 51-yard run by Bernie Jefferson, Northwestern's Negro halfback, on a pass from Halfback Oliver Hahnstein, gave the Wolverine defense its most grueling test early in the third period. Jefferson's run put the ball on Michigan's 11.

The Panthers opened the contest by jogging down the field 42 yards in 10 plays, but Nebraska took over on its 44 yard line and soon afterward started what appeared might be a successful goalward drive. The advance was highlighted by a 22 yard pass reception and run by Halfback Herman Rohrig, who took a slip from sub quarterback George "Bus" Knight. The star sophomore halfback, with little interference, zigzagged across the field before being brought down. A moment later he made an unsuccessful attempt for a field goal.

No Score
With only a minute to play, Purucker faked a punt and ran 44 yards to the Northwestern 25, but an alert Northwestern defense frustrated Michigan's final desperate passing attack to keep its four ties unswayed.

Soon after the second period opened, Pittsburgh backed Nebraska up into the shadow of the Husker goal. Fullback Bill Callahan fumbled a fake punt and sub end Joseph Rettinger recovered for Pitt on the Nebraska 10. On the second play Halfback Richard Cassiano swept over right end for a touchdown. End William Daddio's placement went wide.

Feature Frankie Masters' Band At Sophomore Cotillion Dance

Tickets Go on Sale Tomorrow Morning At Memorial Union

Dancing to music styled by Frankie Masters, the famous "hello, hello, hello" swing maestro, will officially open the formal dancing season on the university campus when he brings his band here for the Sophomore Cotillion Friday night.

Campus daters who may take warning from the old saying, "The early bird catches the worm," will be able to purchase their tickets at the main desk of Iowa Union tomorrow at 8 a. m.

The party, which will be given in the main lounge of the Union, will be from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m., as this is one of the four university parties for which hours for women are extended to 1:30 a. m. "Junket"

"Junket," an added feature of the Sophomore Cotillion, will be an informal "swing session" Friday afternoon for all holders of Sophomore Cotillion tickets. It will be in the main lounge from 4 until 5:30 p. m.

Frankie Masters, a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity, first organized his orchestra while attending the University of Indiana. Since then he has played on an around-the-world engagement, on the vaudeville stage for six years, and in other parts of this country. He comes here from a week's engagement at the Chicago theater.

Radio Stars

Lovely Marion Frances, featured at one time on such radio programs as "Swing and Sing," "Bon Voyage" and Harold Stokes and his WGN orchestra, is now vocalist with Masters' band.

"A Sweet Dream of You" introduces Frankie Masters' orchestra every Wednesday evening on the Edgar Guest program.

Season Ticket Sales Reported

450 Tickets for City High Concert Course Sold; Sale Continues

Four hundred fifty season tickets for the Iowa City high school music department's concert course have been sold during the recent sales drive, according to Mrs. E. D. Plass, president of the music auxiliary of the high school.

"We are very pleased with the response on the part of townspeople to the new idea of a concert course presented by the high school pupils," said Mrs. Plass.

All mothers, who have not turned in a report on their ticket sales, may do so when they have finished. Reports should be made to Mrs. Lloyd Swartley, chairman of the drive.

Beginning tomorrow officers of the various music groups will continue the sale of tickets. Pupils who will carry on this work and the groups they represent include John Whinery, band; Betty Ivie, orchestra; Joan Joehnk, chorus; Dorothy Gay, girls' glee club, and Don Goodenow, boys' glee club.

The first concert in the series will be a cantata, "The Rose Maiden" (Frederick H. Cowen) which will be presented Nov. 23.

Mrs. Irl Tubbs and her daughters, Sally and Helen, 100 Koser avenue, attended the Iowa-Indiana game at Bloomington, Ind., yesterday.

HOSTESS HINTS

Whenever I hear a mother say her little children refuse their vegetables, it makes me very short on patience. In almost every case of this sort, it is the fault of the cook and not due to balky appetites.

Even purees which are not notably attractive to look at, may be made attractive and appetizing through use of proper seasoning and service that is dainty. And as the child grows old enough to eat cooked vegetables in solid form, there is no end to the interesting ways in which to serve them.

If children are fond of the flavor of bacon, use it to season shredded green beans. Cook the beans first until almost tender. Then, if you have a cooker or top-stove oven put the beans in a baking dish with a little juice they were cooked in and which you have thickened ever so slightly with a paste of butter and flour. Over the top lay strips of bacon and place uncovered in the oven. Cook until the bacon is crisped and only slightly brown. This makes a delicious meat and vegetable dish to serve with creamed potato or buttered rice.

When you have cooked young beet tops in boiling salted water until tender, drain them and chop them rather fine. Season well with a dash of sugar, more salt and plenty of butter. Serve in a nest form with four little eggs made of mashed egg yolk mixed with mayonnaise or boiled dressing to a consistency to form into balls. Children are tremendously intrigued by this dish which is so good for them but as served in many homes is so unappetizing. The next day with cooked beets cut in small balls with a French vegetable cutter, and heated in butter, you can make a potato basket of mashed potato filled with the beet balls and fitted with a handle of green pepper. Sprinkle the potato which will form into baskets nicely if you quickly pack it hot into a buttered teacup; turn it out on a plate and scoop out some of the center.

Spinach packed into little rings while still hot and the centers filled with chopped hard cooked egg and white sauce looks much better to the child than plain spinach. Or you may put creamed peas and carrots in the center of the spinach.

Often combinations of vegetables to form color contrasts and flavor contrasts will perk up appetites that were indifferent to such foods before.

But remember when the food is presented attractively so its appeal can't be resisted, the child will form an entirely new attitude toward all vegetables and will come back for second helpings.

And the results certainly justify the little amount of extra care that you take.

Mrs. Jahn Will Entertain Book Review Group

The Book Review club will meet at the home of Mrs. T. L. Jahn, 1601 Jackson street, Tuesday at 2:30 p. m.

A pot-luck supper will be followed by the business meeting and initiation of new members.

Mrs. Ann Smith is chairman for the meeting.

To help World Fair employees in impressing visitors next year, Dr. Walter O. Robinson of St. John's university, Brooklyn, is conducting a course in grammar and diction for the administrative officers and guards.

Margaret Kaveny Becomes Bride

Margaret Kaveny, daughter of Mrs. Charles V. Davis of Waukon, became the bride of Attorney Glenn D. McCarty, son of C. F. McCarty of Leon, yesterday morning with the Rt. Rev. Msgr. A. J. Shulte of the St. Mary's church officiating at the wedding service.

Attending her sister as maid of honor was Eleanor Kaveny of Aurora, Ill. Edwin J. Bisenius served as best man.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of black velvet, fashioned with a square neckline and elbow-length sleeves edged with white lace. She carried a corsage bouquet of white gardenias.

The maid of honor was gowned in changeable taffeta and carried a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to 15 guests.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McCarty are graduates of the university. Mrs. McCarty for the past year has been assistant to the editor of University publications.

The couple will make their home in Iowa City, where Attorney McCarty is a member of the law firm of McCarty and Hutchinson.

Royal Neighbors Will Meet In K. of P. Hall

The Royal Neighbors of America will meet in the K. of P. hall Wednesday at 8 p. m.

A pot-luck supper will be followed by the business meeting and initiation of new members.

Mrs. Ann Smith is chairman for the meeting.

WINDSOR, England (AP)—Courtship couples in this royal town are alarmed because the borough council threatens to close the "lover's lane" where for generations romance has budded.

Because a group of residents complained, a solemn procession of magistrates, town clerk, and borough engineer inspected the lane. The council now is considering the case.

One old dame whose grandmother spent happy hours in lover's lane says "my father and mother became engaged here, and I was courted beneath the trees. My children and other young people would like it too."

Quite the last gasp in accessories are the tricky wooden "Slide of Hand" compact and cigarette cases at STRUB'S! Looking like flat little trunks, with smart leather strap trim, they pop open in a most intriguing way. Also we grow lyrical over STRUB'S swank compact and cigarette cases of alligator calf, as advertised in Harpers Bazaar. You'll find a stunning selection at $1.00 up!

Music, flowers and dancing! This week end calls for glamor. Under a sheer formal swish a taffeta formal slip or one of satin, half or full length. Also you'll need one of those detachable strap, form - fitting formal bras. Besides these necessities the ZIMMERMAN HAT SHOPPE has smart black lace dance sets to go under black formals.

Ray Walters is at last in training—please note the haircut.

WITH wintry gales blowing and more snow on the way—it's time to get your new snow boots at TOWNER'S! TOWNER'S boots of creamy elk, with their warm sheepskin cuff that turns up or down about your ankle, are particularly smart. You can select them in white or brown, too—and in the new Barge style. Select your snow boots now! Sturdy and warm, they'll serve you well all winter, and eliminate the necessity of galoshes, too. Only $2.95 at TOWNER'S!

A WORD to the wise . . . STRUB'S has a group of the smartest looking sweaters we've clapped eyes on for a coon's age, at $1 and up! Good looking slip-ons, twin sets, cardigans, of soft, lovely wool, in an array of the newest colors . . . grand "mixers" in a coed's busy wardrobe. You'll want to snap them up!

Tell us, Bob Whalen—was it the "hot foot" that prompted your stockingless feet Friday—or was it Mother Necessity?

Let the RIES IOWA BOOK STORE pep up your term paper grades. Here is your authorized agency for Underwood Standard and Portable Type-writers. Each machine is covered with a guarantee backed by "nation-wide, company-owned service facilities." Special arrangements are made for students to make a small down payment and to complete the balance at as low as $1.00 per week. Get yours tomorrow.

For your next social gathering, don't forget to ask your friends to meet you at the CASINO. You're guaranteed to have fun, and for private parties of your own particular thums, it's the place to go!

The third best-dressed woman on the campus will be announced next Sunday. Watch for her.

Girls, this week end calls for glamor and gayety. To feel and look your best you must have an attractive hair dress. Let the ETHEL GILCHRIST BEAUTY CRAFT give you a Riling permanent and design a flattering hair style suited to your personality.

Hot from Hugh Harper—"great sport, this riding your date 'piggy back'". Better start dating mid-gets, Hugo.

High fashions for low temperatures, at STRUB'S! Clever flourishes for your fingertips that will keep you toast warm—STRUB'S smart gloves by Bradley of velvety chenille, in the rich colors of the season. STRUB'S fleecy wool hood and mitten sets, also by Bradley, win our approval, too. Stop in and see them!

Barbara Dodsworth, Theta, has mid-week week ends, but they're not so hard to shake off.

TOMORROW begins McNAMARA'S big Pre-Holiday Event which features all furniture at the lowest prices. Now is the time to get that extra ash tray or those ever-needed book ends. If you are planning to have guests, make your room as attractive as possible with the clever knick-knacks at McNAMARA'S.

Years of dependable service stand behind FUIKS', JEWELER AND OPTICIAN. FUIKS' serve you best, whether you are selecting a charming new bracelet or ring—replacing your broken lenses, selecting new glasses—buying a watch or having one repaired. You get what you want at FUIKS' . . . one of the reasons they have served Iowa City for 38 years!

Have you seen the JUNIOR pictures that ANDERSON'S are taking? You ought to stop in and look them over—they're beautiful. Have yours taken and then have some made for your family and friends. ANDERSON'S STUDIO will make you a picture of which you will be proud.

YES sir! You're going to be swinging out to the Cotillion Friday and you'll want to look your charmingest. Have the STAR BEAUTY SALON do your hair for you in one of their gay new up-swept styles for the occasion. Just dial 2233 for an appointment.

Who said who was a guinea pig at the Pi Phi house?

Thanks-giving is near and the first thing that approaches our mind is what are we going to have to eat. The most important thing to determine the taste of the food is the way we cook it. Be sure you have a good roaster for your fowl. GADD HARDWARE has a genuine Lisk enameled roaster with tray in six sizes priced as low as a dollar. See them before the holiday.

LATEST flash from the front. Helen Riles has put Bob Osmondson's Sigma Chi pin on again, next her arrow.

Go to TOWNER'S and make your present evening gown look entirely new, if you dress it up with some of the stunning new costume jewelry which is on view at TOWNER'S! Bracelets, earrings, rings and necklaces, in fascinatingly new colors, in rhinestones and brand new types of beads. Be sure to have a matched set!

Betty Lee Rosier and Courtney Kline sort of got mixed up on the Spinster Spree date. Virginia Priebe and Alf Beardmore got injected into the deal somehow. Afternoons are bad beginnings!

MEREDITH'S TEA ROOM for really wonderful food. Most S. U. I. students miss mother's cooking, but there is no reason why they should when they can go to MEREDITH'S TEA ROOM. The food served there competes with the best of homemade dishes. Eat at MEREDITH'S for Sunday suppers.

And if you want to be popular send mice to the D. G. house. Everyone rushes up to you with a knife.

If you're a "beaver", a "beaver", or a "beaver" of the corporation, don't fail to miss the weekly chapter meetings held on Wednesday nights at the GABLES with a real live orchestra as a background for the fun!

First you see it; then you don't—but now you do see Newman Toomey's pin back on Jane Norman, Pi Phi! Why don't they make up their minds?

ATTENTION! Another vast spectacle from the producers of "In Old Chicago" awaits you at the STRAND THEATER . . . "SUEZ" starring Tyrone Power, Loretta Young and Annabella! Thrills, chills and excitement accompany this gripping story of the romance in the building of the Suez Canal! Acclaimed as one of the most startling, vivid pictures of 1938, "SUEZ" will remain in your memory as a really great movie! Be sure to see it! At the STRAND starting today.

54 Cadets Qualify for Membership in Pershing Rifle Units

Company Will Initiate Group Thursday Eve.

Col. George Dailey, Maj. James Butler Will Be Members

The University of Iowa's Pershing Rifle unit, company B, announces today that 54 cadets have qualified for membership in the society. The initiation ceremony will follow a banquet in Iowa Union Thursday.

At that time, Col. George F. N. Dailey, head of the department of military science and tactics, and Maj. James F. Butler, faculty advisor of Pershing Rifles, will be initiated as honorary members of the society.

Pershing Rifles is an honorary organization for infantry basic students, which was organized in 1894 at the University of Nebraska by Gen. John J. Pershing when he was a lieutenant in charge of the military unit there. The group first served merely as a crack drill unit, but after the World War it was reorganized and has since become a national society.

Company B was established at the University of Iowa in 1928.

Pershing Rifles has for its objective a more thorough research in the military art, to assist in qualifying suitable men for enrollment in the advanced course, and to set a military example for raising the standards of basic course students.

The organization wears a special blue and white fourraguere with the uniform to distinguish its members.

The men qualifying for initiation were selected through competitive tryouts held before a board of officers consisting of Company Commander Jonathan A. Wolcott, A4 of Denver, Col.; Lieut. Bob Johnson, A3 of Iowa City; Lieut. Leslie Boatman, A3 of Montezuma; and Lieut. Dwight Hunter, P1 of Iowa City.

The following men will be initiated into the society Thursday: Edward H. Allport, A1 of Iowa City; Boyce L. Austin, A1 of De Queen, Ark.; Paul B. Blomgren, A1 of Winterset; Dale E. Boyd, A1 of Pocahontas; Gene H. Brownell, A1 of Fayette; Arthur F. Butterstein, A1 of Fishkill, N. Y.

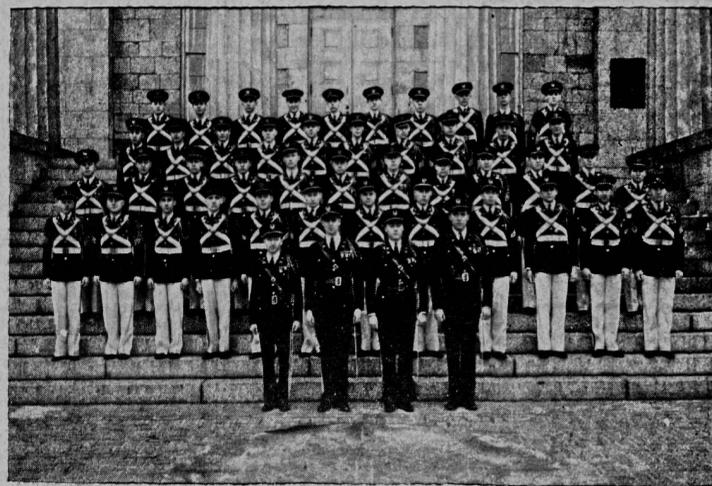

William E. Cody, A1 of Denver; Col. Robert M. Bickel, P1 of Vinton; Ervin Chesley, A1 of Spencer; Robert J. Eiel, A1 of Osage; Robert M. Donhove, A1 of Des Moines; Harry M. Fischer, A2 of Lake View; Michael Fody, A1 of Fishkill, N. Y.

John W. Fordyce; James W. Hakeman, A1 of Sanborn; Robert C. Hanev, A1 of Independence; Welcome L. Hanna, A1 of Tipton; William W. Henthorne, A1 of Marquette; Robert M. Jenkins, A2 of Montezuma; Donald C. Jensen, A1 of Audubon; Fredric H. Jess, A1 of Eldora.

Norman R. Johnson, P1 of Manchester; Frank L. Johnson, A1 of Des Moines; Edwin F. Kalenbug, A1 of Union City, Tenn.; August G. Kegler, A2 of Bellevue; David L. Kinsey, A1 of East Cleveland, Ohio; Dale M. Lawrence, P1 of Newton; Clarence Langerak, A2 of Pella.

Herrick K. Lidstone, A1 of Denison; Robert P. Livingston, A1 of Des Moines; Dudley Lowry; Hugh J. McCaffrey; Glenn K. McKean, A2 of Newton; John O. McKinstry, A1 of Washington; Max L. Memler, P1 of Iowa City; Earl R. Meyer, A1 of Sigourney.

The Pershing Rifles, Iowa's company B of the national society, will initiate 54 new members into that organization at a dinner meeting in Iowa Union Thursday. Highlight of the affair will be the initiation of Col. George F. N. Dailey, head of the department of military science and tactics, and Maj. James F. Butler, faculty advisor of Pershing Rifles, as honorary members of the society.

The Iowa unit is pictured in the above picture. The National Society of Pershing Rifles was founded by Gen. John J. Pershing when he was a lieutenant in charge of the military unit at the University of Nebraska.

Symphony To Appear in Fall Recital Tonight

Professor Clapp To Conduct Orchestra At Memorial Union

The University of Iowa symphony orchestra will appear in concert at 8 o'clock tonight in the main lounge of Iowa Union, with Prof. Philip G. Clapp conducting.

The group, which is rated among the two or three finest student orchestras in the country, is composed of 96 members.

The orchestra will play the overture to "Leonore" by Beethoven, Haydn's "Symphony in C Major," "Symphony No. 3 in F Major" and "Academic Festival Overture" by Brahms.

Prof. Arnold Small and Lorene Lieton, violinists, and Prof. Hans Koebel, cellist, will play the concertante parts in the Haydn symphony tonight.

Tonight's concert is the regular fall appearance of the university symphony.

Directs Tonight

Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department, is director of the symphony orchestra, one of the best in the country, which will appear in concert at 8 o'clock tonight in the main lounge of Iowa Union. The group will play numbers by Haydn, Brahms and Beethoven.

Iowa Women Begin Hockey

University of Iowa hockey enthusiasts began competition yesterday at Evanston, Ill., where the mid-west hockey tournament is being held.

Other clubs entering the tournament will be from Madison, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Chicago, North Shore, Wetomatchek and Kansas City.

Professor Halsey, Professor French and Professor Frost will also umpire.

Prof. G. Burr Will Lecture Here Tuesday

Minnesota Instructor To Speak on 'Fats' At Graduate Speech

Prof. George O. Burr of the University of Minnesota will present a graduate college lecture at the chemistry auditorium Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. His address will be on the subject, "The Chemistry and Spectroscopy of Fats."

After Professor Burr received his Ph.D. degree at the University of Minnesota in 1924 in the department of agricultural biochemistry, he began studying with Dr. Gortner. Together they studied the formation of melanin pigments during the acid hydrolysis of proteins and showed that some of the aldehydes produced from the sugars in the natural material combine with indole, which arises from the proteins in these materials, to form highly complex pigmented substances.

For the next few years he was at the University of California where he was associated with Dr. H. M. Evans and is co-author with him of a monumental monograph on vitamin E. His experiments have shown that animals can not be normally nourished on diets which are devoid of fats even if all the other requirements are met fully. The requirement for fats seems to be highly specific in that linoleic and linolenic alone will satisfy the requirements. The absence of these two fatty acids from the diet ultimately results in fatal termination.

Since coming to the University of Minnesota, Professor Burr has given his attention to a study of the ultra violet absorption spectra of fatty acids and is thereby pioneering in a relatively new field. His address Tuesday night will

Census Bureau Flooded With Age Inquiries

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Social Security Act is bringing the U. S. census bureau a thriving business in requests for information about old age.

The bureau received 104,500 such requests in fiscal 1938 compared with 4,166 in 1930 before the act was passed. The year in which the act became law, fiscal 1936, the number jumped to more than 37,000 and increased the following year to 94,000.

As requests pour in the bureau pulls the answers out of 1,200 steel files containing 76,500,000 names on 33,000,000 cards.

G. O. P. Leaders Ready to Balk Job Hunters

Patronage Brigade To Meet With Cut State Payroll

By GEORGE S. MILLS
DES MOINES, Nov. 12 (AP)—Iowa republican leaders today worked on plans to beat the patronage brigade to the punch in the always difficult task of cutting the state payroll.

The G. O. P. takes over the statehouse Jan. 1. Governor-elect George A. Wilson is committed to a program of the elimination of "useless bureaus and commissions" through a program of consolidations.

The party leadership recognizes the trouble it would have to achieve a curtailment goal once the faithful of the recent campaign become entrenched in state jobs.

"May Not Succeed"

"We've got to act quickly or we'll not get the job done," one G. O. P. spokesman said. "We may not succeed anyway."

The state employs approximately 9,600 persons, most of whom, however, work in board of education and board of control institutions or for the highway commission. Approximately 3,000 of the number are employed in regular state administrative jobs.

Political leaders view the coming shift in power as an ideal time to reduce the administrative force because of the wholesale change in officeholders that always follows a political upheaval. The fact that the legislature, a top-heavy republican organization this time, meets soon after the first of the year is expected to help the curtailment program.

Legislation Needed

Legislative action is needed to eliminate what is called the "patronage brigade" by the governor-to-be. The general assembly convenes Jan. 9.

Two years ago Representative Dean W. Peisen (R) of Hardin county momentarily had the Iowa house talking into consolidating the state's police functions into one department. Peisen claimed the consolidation would have resulted in the elimination of several dozen employees from the state payroll. The employees holding those jobs, however, got to their friends in the legislature and Peisen's bill was beaten.

Meanwhile, Iowa democrats sadly gleaned some crumbs of comfort from the decline in last Tuesday's total vote compared with the state's 1,139,000 turnout in the 1936 elections.

Blame Small Vote

Looking over the wreckage for a place to begin rebuilding for 1940, they wistfully expressed the opinion that things "would have been different if we could have gotten out the vote."

The victorious republicans, on the other hand, snorted and said the G. O. P. runaway would have been even more one-sided if more of the voters had cast ballots. Final unofficial tabulations show United States senate candidates polled around 830,000 votes, or more than 300,000 under the Iowa vote for president in 1936.

Examination of the debris from the recent election discloses only federal power and patronage on which to reconstruct the democratic state machine for the presidential elections two years hence. The party will hold two United States senatorships and two of the nine congressional seats if the official canvass corroborates unofficial election totals.

Isolated on North Brother island in the East river, she brooded. In 1909 she tried to regain her liberty in the state supreme court, but was detained because the city charter empowered health officials to confine indefinitely any person suffering from an infectious disease, and while Mary was not actually suffering from typhoid an examination had disclosed she was a carrier.

The following year, 1910, she was released. A few years later an outbreak of typhoid occurred in a New Jersey health hospital and another in a New York maternity hospital. More than 225 were affected.

The authorities learned that "Mrs. Brown" had worked in both places, and they discovered "Mrs. Brown" was "Typhoid Mary." So Mary, sorrowing, was returned to the island. She tried to escape and failed.

In 1932 she suffered a paralytic stroke, but recovered. Her health, though, was affected and only religion brought her solace as she waited for the end. It came in Riverside hospital.

Book Week Begins Today

Celebrates 20 Years Of Creating Interest In Juvenile Reading

This week many people throughout the country are putting aside ideas about football, about the recent election and about future wars. For this week is the 20th anniversary of Book week.

Book week was originally called Children's Book week. It was created by librarians, Boy and Girl Scouts and others interested in stimulating an interest in children's reading. It was begun by those who believed that reading and traveling have been the two shortest roads to education.

At present Book week applies to everyone from the cradle to the rocking chair. All ages are urged to add to their libraries. Libraries and book stores throughout the country will have the best readings on display.

Much emphasis is given to the age of youth — that certain age when ideas and prejudices are moulding themselves in the child's mind. Children's books—books of pictures, of adventure, of nature — fictional and non-fictional — they all will be within easy reach this week.

Parents who recognize the importance of their child's reading will have an opportunity to discuss and examine thousands of books. There are books for adults as well as children. The choice is vast.

The local book stores will have books on display all this week. The city library will offer its collection in the board room, which will be open until 9 o'clock each evening.

The medical aptitude test for University of Iowa applicants for admission to any medical school belonging to the American Medical Association, for the year 1939-1940, will be given promptly at 3 p.m. Friday, Dec. 2, in the main auditorium of the chemistry building.

Each such prospective applicant is notified to call at the office of the registrar in order to obtain the fee card for the prescribed fee of one dollar ($1) which goes to the Association of American Medical Colleges for the purpose of meeting the expenses of conducting the examination, reading the manuscripts, tabulating the outcomes and making these outcomes available to the respective medical schools.

This fee card should be presented immediately to the treasurer's office, which will issue to each student who pays the fee indicated a card testifying that the fee has been paid; and this second card is to be presented to the student as he enters the main auditorium of the chemistry building, just before 3 p.m. Friday, Dec. 2. An attendant will take up these cards as presented.

ROMANCE

Sara Sue Davis, attractive young widow, creates a furore on the campus of Rice Institute, in Texas, when she erects a sign in front of her cottage announcing "COUNSEL IN ROMANCE." Her plan is to help guide 100 student "members" in their social and love affairs for a small fee. Bob Towne, campus football hero, attracted by Sara Sue, is the first to enroll. This enrages Peaches Pomeroy, a senior, who regarded herself as "Bob's girl" the previous year. Worthington Gurley, unprepossessing freshman, provides another interesting problem for Sara Sue. But the climax in her Cottage Plan occurs when Dr. Thornton Holgate, new member of the faculty, begs Sara Sue to help him. In love with Peaches Pomeroy, Gurley obtains a date with Sara Sue for the freshman ball, which displeases Towne; but Bob accepts it gracefully.

(Now Go On With the Story)

CHAPTER 9

LIFE, THOUGHT Sara Sue Davis, is an extremely complicated process.

This morning she was working as if Simon Legree stood over her with a whip. She swept and mopped, shook rugs, scrubbed the two bathrooms in her cottage, washed some blankets, and raked in her yard. She hardly spoke a word.

"Stop all that hard work, chile," Cleopatra Jones ordered her, twice. "Ah makes this good-for-nothin' Calc'us do ever' bit of that, ma'am."

"I need the exercise, thanks, Cleo."

Cleo went back to her baking, muttering protests. The middle-aged Negress maintained a self-appointed guardianship over Sara Sue. She knew the white girl was disturbed.

But Sara Sue had a deal of thinking to do, and thinking comes best sometimes when accompanied by physical action. She had started first to go to Hermann park golf course. Hermann park, a vast and beautiful woodland, began just one block back of her cottage. She could walk to the first tee in 10 minutes. Or she could walk to the park tennis court in even less time. But at either place she was sure to meet someone she knew and so have to be sociable. She wanted to think, alone.

By 11 a.m., though, the mood changed, and she wanted someone to talk to. She called her friend, Mrs. Powell, on the phone. "Roxie, come out and let's play a set of tennis, can't you? You can leave the baby here."

Roxie Powell had the cutest two-year-old, nicknamed Bounce. He and his mother arrived in half an hour, but he declined to be left in Cleo's charge. He declined vigorously, and so Roxie and Sara Sue took him to the tennis courts. He got in the way and was all manner of trouble, and fun, which was ideal, for it helped Sara Sue regain her good humor, in some measure.

Sara Sue played excellent tennis, but she had been tired when she started. For one thing, she hadn't slept too well. Dr. Thornton Holgate had sat in her living room until after midnight. What he had told her had upset her a great deal. She lay awake until 2 a.m. thinking about it, and dreamed fitfully after that. She was up at 7. When the set score reached four-all, fatigue overtook her and Roxie won the last two games.

"Darn!" said Sara Sue, flopping on a sideline bench.

"Yeah, you're slipping," Roxie chided. "Old widdler woman." Roxie was a month younger than Sara Sue.

"Don't please, Roxie."

Roxie turned to look at her friend. Sara Sue never took defeat at tennis seriously.

"Is—is anything wrong, honey?" Roxie asked quietly.

"Yes. No. I've just got the blues. They came back to me last night. Rox. I was a little bit lonely. I guess, and wanted to see you. You've been so good, always."

Roxie surveyed her friend carefully, searchingly.

"Is the new business all right?"

"Oh, yes. Better than I expected."

"What is it, then? Love? You're so young and sweet, Sara Sue, you're bound to find happiness again. So pretty. Tell me, what is it?"

Sara Sue laughed now, almost gaily. Then she yawned, stretched, threw a tennis ball at Bounce, got up to play with him. Roxie did not press her questions. She knew Sara Sue intimately. She waited, and played with Bounce, too. Pretty soon Sara Sue wanted to talk, but it was about clothes, babies, hair waves, new desserts, tennis strokes, department store sales, football, all manner of impersonal feminine things. In half an hour she acted, and felt, more like her normal self. Roxie had given just the touch of sympathy and intimacy needed, inviting confidence without prying.

"I've got to feed Bounce," she stated. "He'll be howling soon. It must be after noon anyway."

It was. When they returned to the cottage, Rice classes had adjourned for the day (except for afternoon laboratory sessions) and a gang was already in Sara Sue's living room. She introduced Roxie to the collegians. All of them chatted a bit and then Sara Sue and Roxie ate lunch in the rear dining nook.

"I think it's wonderful!" Roxie gushed, and meant it. "Don't you just have the most fun? I mean with your work and all. I should love it. The gang acts like a party. But tell me, Sara Sue, have any romances developed?" She giggled at the thought.

"Yes. I'm afraid so."

"Afraid? Didn't you advertise counsel in romance? I was thinking of hiring you, next time Jimmy and I had a fuss. I shall tell him you can get me a better husband."

"Oh, hush, Roxie. You know Jimmy worships you, and you worship him. But what I meant was, I'm getting more romances than I can handle. I'm not as smart as I thought I was. Unfortunately I—I have likes and dislikes; prejudices, I guess."

"Oh!"

"Yes, Roxie, would you believe it—two of my best customers are in love with me! Me!"

"No! Why, Sara Sue—!"

"Yes. And that's not all. The funniest thing—last night after I was already getting in the bathtub at 11 o'clock, Roxie, the door bell rang and there in the rain stood—Oh I forgot. It is strictly confidential. He said so. And it should be, of course. Forgive me, Rox."

"Surely. But I'll admit my curiosity is popping."

"Nothing happened, honey. Really. It was just a funny coincidence. I can tell you a little, without mentioning names. This man, this customer—you'd never guess who it was—was so earnestly in love that it hurt. He wants my closest guidance. He—"

"What, three lovers? Why, Sara Sue!" Roxie laughed, beaming.

"No! Not in love with me! With somebody else. That's the funny part—I just hate the girl he thinks he loves, and I've got to help him make love to her!"

"I'd give a year's growth and wear freckles, to know who it is," said Roxie.

"I won't tell. I didn't mean I actually hate her. I don't believe in hating anybody. But I've got some sense, I hope, and I've met this girl once and I know a lot about her already, and one of the boys who is courting me used to be in love with her and she is still in love with him, and—oh, it's the most complicated thing!"

Roxie sighed elaborately. "I should say it is! Goodness! But aren't you just thrilled with it all? I mean, isn't it all fun? Goodness, Sara, at least you don't have to wash baby bottles and change diapers and worry about croup! Croup is the most unromantic disease, Sara Sue!"

They laughed together gaily. Even young Bounce, sitting high on a kitchen stool and pillows in lieu of a high chair, contributed some laughter, spraying the girls and the table with most unromantic party-chewed food.

"What will you do, though, honey? You've got to be fair to everybody. Yourself included."

"I am not in love with any of them," Sara Sue declared. "I wish they weren't in love with me, or didn't imagine they were. There's two—you won't tell, Rox?—and both are dears. Bob Towne is positively—"

"The football hero?" Roxie jabbed a spoon at her.

"Yes. And the cutest freshman, but he's so—"

"If it's that Bob Towne," Roxie interrupted, "then the other girl is Peaches Pomeroy, my darling! So there! Don't forget I went to Rice, and keep up with all the gossip."

That deduction, too, correct, evoked more talk. More heart talk, between good friends. Roxie promised to keep it confidential, and Sara Sue Davis was not shallow, nor dishonest in any selfish way.

When Roxie had to go home, Sara Sue was a different person, though. She had gotten away from the crowd for a while, and been intimate with a trustworthy friend. She had talked. She had regained strength and poise from that friend.

Vailala Madness Attacks Natives Again

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—Reports from New Guinea say the "vailala madness," which has occurred intermittently since 1919, is still prevalent among natives in the gulf districts.

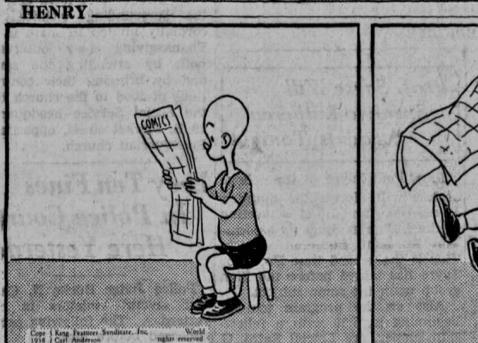

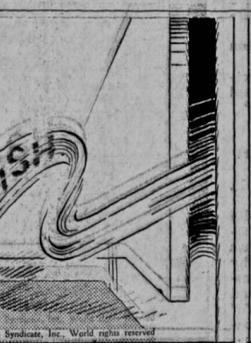

A distinguishing feature of the mass hysteria is the belief that some white man reincarnates the spirit of their ancestors, and hundreds of natives insist on accompanying him wherever he goes and doing him various services.

Those afflicted by vailala also stage long singing meets, and celebrate until they drop from exhaustion.

Makes Rich Strike But Can't Claim It

GERLACH, Nev. (AP)—T. H. Stoelling has made a strike of ore running 60 to 70 per cent gold, but is unable to take possession under mining law because he is still a citizen of Germany.

In attempting to keep the spot secret until he can complete his naturalization, Stoelling has been trailed, threatened and even assaulted by persons trying to learn the location.

You'd Better Be Good

Santa Claus Will Make Appearance Here November 26

Santa Claus Land, North Pole, Nov. 13, (by radiogram). . .

"I am very pleased to accept the invitation of the merchants and business men to come to Iowa City Saturday, Nov. 26, to appear in a gigantic and colorful pre-Christmas Santa Claus pageant. I will bring with me many characters, animals and subjects from Storybook-land and from Fairyland. Mother Goose and many of her followers will appear in the parade, gorgeously and colorfully costumed. I will soon begin my trip toward your city, bringing with me some of my real live reindeer. I hope every single child in your entire community will be present to view my parade and to throw me a kiss or wave to me. I shall be looking for you, so don't fail to be there."

Here is a personal invitation from jolly old Santa Claus for everyone to greet him when he appears here under the auspices of the merchants and business men of Iowa City for his spectacular Santa Claus parade and pageant.

With a wealth of surprises selected from his vast storehouse of delightful marvels and assembled into a mighty, mammoth entourage, Santa Claus will visit Iowa City for only the one day of Saturday, Nov. 26. He has promised to make this visit an event long to be remembered by the vast crowd that is expected to greet him and to witness the pageant.

Santa Claus has promised that there will be everything from clowns to Eskimo dogs in the parade, including floats resembling storybook fables.

Just how many hundreds of years Santa Claus has been visiting good children at Christmas time, no one seems to know.

But it has only been recent years that he has been making tours of the country a short time in advance of Christmas. Now, each year, he favors a few lucky communities with his actual presence and this year Iowa City is to be one of those lucky places.

The local committee in charge of Santa's visit to this city has invited everyone who desires to do so, to participate in Santa's great pageant - parade. If you wish to be in the parade, get in touch with Hiram S. Ivie, the manager of the local J. C. Penny store whose home address is 120 Grand avenue court, and he will tell you what you must do to be in the parade. A hundred local boys and girls of all ages will be able to march in the pageant, wearing some of Santa's gorgeous Fairyland costumes or carrying some of his flags, banners and pennants.

Santa Claus will have more to reveal about his pre-Christmas visit in future radiograms and stories which will be released through The Daily Iowan. Be sure to watch for them every day.

Dr. Iilon T. Jones Will Speak At Thanksgiving Day Service

All Denominations To Participate In Holiday Event

As has been the custom in years past there will be a community Thanksgiving day service in the Methodist church Nov. 24. Members of all churches are invited to attend this mass observance which will begin at 10 a.m. Dr. Iilon T. Jones, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will be the speaker. He has chosen for his address the subject, "A Thanksgiving Document."

For the past eight years this community service has been one in which all faiths, Catholics, Jews and Protestants, have had some share and participation. In the religious sense it has been a service of thanks for all the blessings of life. In the practical sense it has used its offering, both of money and of gifts of food and vegetables, in furthering and helping the Social Service board provide for some of the needy families of the community.

All residents of Iowa City and the surrounding vicinities are cordially invited to share in this Thanksgiving day observance, both by attending the service and by bringing their contributions of food to the church or to the Social Service headquarters, 19 E. Market street, opposite the Presbyterian church.

Prof. Sayre Will Speak to Lutheran Students Tonight

Prof. Paul Sayre of the college of law will discuss the question of marriage tonight at a meeting of the Lutheran Students association at Zion Lutheran church. This is the second time Professor Sayre has talked before the Zion group upon the same subject.

Also on the program tonight, beginning at 5:30 with a fellowship supper, are Lowell Satre, G of Webster City, who will lead the devotion and William Lichte, G of Fremont, Neb., baritone soloist. A cordial invitation is extended to all Lutheran students.

Leola Nelson, G of Northfield, Minn., is president of the organization.

Association Makes Report on Cost Of 1936 County Poor

The cost of poor outside county homes in Johnson county in 1936 totaled $92,523, according to a report of the Iowa Taxpayers association issued yesterday.

The average cost per person in the county was $3.06 in 1936 and $3.25 in 1935. These figures are slightly higher than the average for the entire state.

It cost Johnson county $90,000 to run its administrative county offices for the year 1936. The per person cost for that year was $2.01 as compared with $1.94 in 1935.

For the entire state in 1936 the cost of county homes was $6,585,927, a decrease of $1,340,478, or 16.92 per cent as compared with the previous year. The average cost per person was $2.67 in 1936 and $3.21 in 1935.

These costs do not include aid given by the federal government under PWA or WPA programs but does include amounts contributed by the Iowa Emergency Relief administration to counties and funds paid out by the various counties to relieve unemployment.

I wish to thank the voters of Johnson County for the support that they gave me in the recent general election.

to ease her aching back

A bend in this corner to pick up that piece of red string... a bend in that corner to sweep dust into a germ-laden dust pan. Bend... bend...

... and then came CHEAP ELECTRICITY

That great labor-saver, the electric cleaner, has not only eased mother's aching back—but has saved her rugs. The cleaner is just one of the many electrical appliances that has made Mother a Homemaker instead of a housewife!

Just think... you can clean several full-sized rugs electrically for the surprisingly low cost of only a few pennies.

Shifty Traveling

Step-by-step Record of a Play

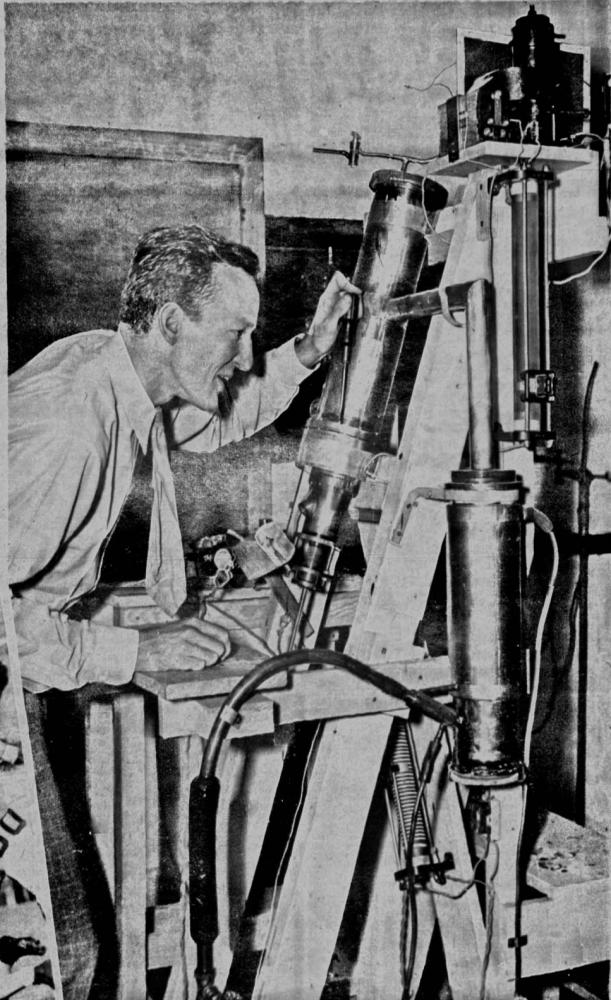

The Magic Eye Camera follows Redvillas (22), Columbia star, as he bores deep into Colgate territory for a considerable gain in the game which ended in an upset victory for Colgate, 12 to 0. The Lion star has to do a shifty bit of traveling to gain against the stiff Colgate opposition. First he straight arms Wemple (53) out of his path, to get into the clear. But the combined efforts of Van Loan (65) and Herman (80) finally bring him down.

War Widow's Death

LE MARS, Nov. 14 (AP) — Mrs. Sumner Knox vigorously denied tonight, Sheriff Frank Scholer said, any connection with the death of her mother, Mrs. L. A. Trow, 91, whose body was found Saturday, buried in a kitchen cabinet in the garden of the Knox home.

The sheriff said Mrs. Knox, who had not been informed previously of the finding of the body, denied she knew anything about the circumstances of the Civil War widow's death or the shallow grave in which the cabinet was found.

Sheriff Scholer and other county and state officers informed Mrs. Knox of the finding of her mother's body when they went to a county home, where she has been in technical custody for several days, to serve a warrant charging her with forgery.

The forgery warrant charges Mrs. Knox with forging the signature of Mrs. Trow on pension checks sent to the woman by the federal government.

Sheriff Scholer said Mrs. Trow had not been seen since May.

Mrs. Knox, the sheriff said, did not fully explain why she endorsed her mother's pension checks, but steadfastly maintained she knew nothing of the older woman's mysterious death.

Previously Mrs. Knox had told officers her mother was visiting friends and relatives in other places.

Mrs. Knox was to be taken to Sioux City tonight for detention in the women's section of the county jail.

Officers present when Mrs. Knox was informed of the finding of the body said the woman appeared nervous, but did not break down.

Meanwhile officers discontinued digging in the garden of the Knox home after a day spent in an unsuccessful search for trace of an unidentified woman, who they said had impersonated Mrs. Trow.

The sheriff said Mrs. Knox admitted engaging an unidentified woman to impersonate her 91-year-old mother to quiet the suspicion of neighbors.

Authorities also were continuing their widespread hunt for Sumner Knox, son-in-law of the woman whose body was found in the kitchen cabinet.

Leib, Schroeder Deny Action on Local Coaching Situation

Despite emphatic denials by Karl E. Leib, chairman of the board in control of athletics, and Athletic Director E. G. (Dad) Schroeder regarding the reported resignation of Coach Irl Tubbs and the choice of his successor, Dame Rumor and her legions of sources continued to hold sway on Iowa City street corners late last evening.

Late last night, Schroeder informed newspapermen that "to the best of my knowledge" the board in control of athletics did not plan any action either way until after the close of the Iowa football season.

"As far as any knowledge I have on the matter is concerned," Schroeder said, "you may take this statement as official."

Leib went even farther, than Schroeder, saying that the bi-weekly meeting of the athletic board this afternoon was purely a "routine meeting", and denying that any action was contemplated by the board as far as he knew.

In spite of these comments to the contrary, street corner gossip was rampant that there was more in the air than just the scent of burning leaves.

Cross sections of the street corner opinions were that Irl Tubbs and his assistants, Pat Boland and Ernie Nevers, were "definitely out" as far as the University of Iowa was concerned; that a successor to Tubbs was already approached, if not already hired; that Irl Tubbs already had an offer from another school; that Tubbs' successor had just completed a very successful season in an eastern school; that whoever the coach was, he was certain to be a "big name" coach; that the board in control of athletics would ratify the resignation of Coach Tubbs and approve the hiring of this new coach at the athletic board meeting this afternoon; that the announcement of Tubbs' resignation of a new coach would be announced to the "I" men immediately after the Nebraska game this Saturday.

A petition, supposedly originating in Cedar Rapids, which was to have been circulated within the Iowa football squad urging the board to renew Tubbs' contract, did not make its appearance yesterday afternoon.

Meanwhile, it becomes more and more apparent as the time rolls by that everyone knows something and no one knows anything about the troubled athletic system on the University of Iowa campus. The board meeting today may clear up the whole situation one way or the other; it may take weeks, maybe months before the wishes of the athletic board are revealed to the (See RUMORS page 6)

C. I. O. Group
To Consider
F. D. R.'s Plea

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14 (AP) — The Committee for Industrial Organization tonight summoned its peace committee into consultation in the wake of President Roosevelt's renewed plea for peace and unity within labor's ranks.

Seeking an end to the three year warfare between the C. I. O. and American Federation of Labor, Mr. Roosevelt in a letter called upon the first C. I. O. constitutional convention to leave open "every possible door to access to peace and progress in the affairs of organized labor in the United States."

C. I. O. Chairman John L. Lewis said the letter would be given "earnest and profound consideration." One high official of the C. I. O. who refused to be quoted, said the peace committee would draft a report for the convention and recommend some definite future course.

Was Second Message
The chief executive's message was his second in recent weeks and substantially the same as that sent to the A. F. L. convention in Houston where it was received without demonstration.

"If the great gains already made are to be consolidated for the benefit of the workers as well as the management," Mr. Roosevelt wrote, "it is essential that there be cooperation among the wage earning groups, and because of this, I venture to express the hope, as I did to the American Federation of Labor, that every possible door to access to peace and progress in the affairs of organized labor in the United States be left open."

"Continued dissension can only lead to loss of influence and prestige to all labor. On the other hand, collective bargaining will be furthered by a united labor movement making for cooperation and labor peace which will be in the interest of all Americans."

After Lewis read the president's message, the delegates cheered for several minutes.

Tried Before
The C. I. O. peace committee, headed by Phillip Murray, a leader of the steel union drive and vice chairman of the C. I. O., participated in the unsuccessful unity negotiations carried on in Washington with an A. F. L. committee in November and December last year.

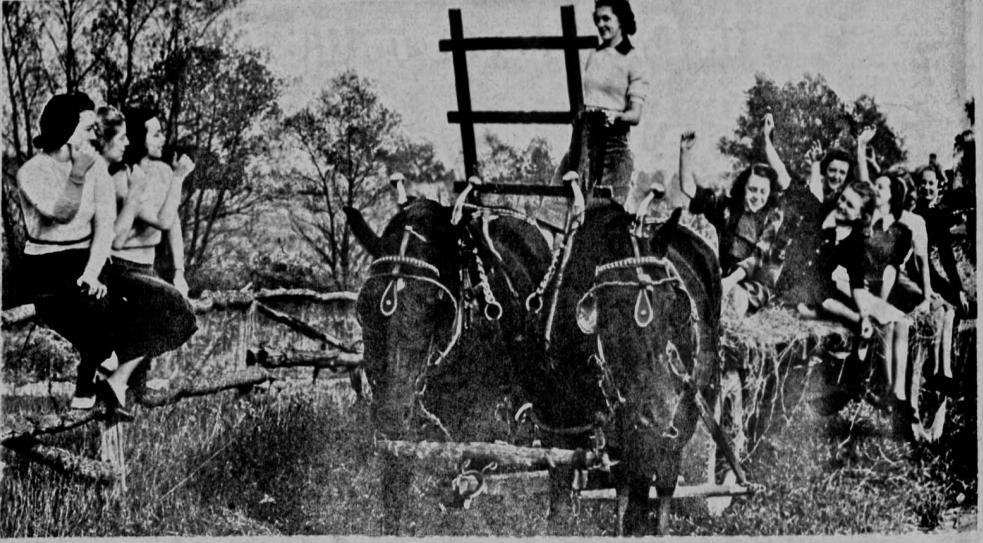

The conferences collapsed at that time after Lewis and A. F. L. President William Green met face-to-face and threshed the subject out.

Since the 1937 peace conference Lewis has held to the position that peace could not be attained unless all C. I. O. unions were taken back and chartered by A. F. L. before jurisdictional conflicts were settled.

In his report to the convention, he said C. I. O. was willing to be made another Czechoslovakia "to be dismembered" by those who sought peace.

French Leftists, Labor Unions Oppose 'Guided Economy' Plan

PARIS, Nov. 14 (AP) — Premier Edouard Daladier's plan of "guided economy" to pull France out of a financial mire became ineffective today amid rising opposition from left wing politicians and French labor unions.

The government recognized potential dangers in additional measures now which might add new costs to French living, and passed up a projected second group of decrees which were to have been issued today to supplement the 32 adopted Saturday and effective today.

A communique announced no more decrees would be promulgated and that parliament would act on any other measures deemed necessary to cope with France's financial problems, including the national debt, growing at the rate of 12 per cent a year and expected to be 570,000,000 francs (about $15,162,000,000) at the end of 1938.

Saturday's 32 decrees, which Finance Minister Paul Reynaud declared would give the government an extra 20,000,000,000 francs (about $532,000,000), in effect abolished the 40-hour week, increased income taxes, and increased the price of sugar, tobacco, bus and subway fares.
