PRESIDENT SLAPS AT NAZI ACTIONS

Cummings To Leave Cabinet In January

James Roosevelt Also Announces Resignation Plans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Homer S. Cummings, 69-year-old attorney general, will leave President Roosevelt's cabinet in January to resume the private practice of law.

The president disclosed at his press conference today that Cummings had asked to be relieved and said the resignation—which has not yet been formally presented—would be effective early in the new year. The date has not been determined.

At the same time, Mr. Roosevelt said his 30-year-old son, James, had resigned from the White House secretariat pending his complete recovery from an operation he had last September. James, now recuperating on a California ranch, is expected to return to his post in the spring.

Successor Not Known
The president said he had not considered, so far, appointment of a successor to Cummings. James' post probably will not be filled during the interim.

In announcing Cummings' intention to resign, the chief executive took cognizance for the first time of persistent reports of possible cabinet changes. He left the door open for other cabinet replacements when he told inquiries there were no other resignations as yet.

There have been reports that Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper might leave the cabinet, as well as Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring, Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson, Postmaster General James A. Farley and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

The president told reporters he was sorry to see Cummings go because he had made a splendid record during his five and a half years service in the nation's law department.

Entered in 1933
Cummings, who appeared personally before the supreme court in several new deal cases, including the litigation resulting from reduction of the dollar's gold content, entered the cabinet in March, 1933, when Mr. Roosevelt was first inaugurated.

A Stamford, Conn., attorney, Cummings was active in the Roosevelt campaign for the democratic presidential nomination. After the election, Mr. Roosevelt announced he would be appointed governor general of the Philippines.

Sen. Thomas J. Walsh of Montana was the president-elect's choice for attorney general. When Walsh died suddenly two days before the inauguration, the attorney general's post was offered to Cummings.

Mr. Roosevelt said today that Cummings accepted with the intention of remaining at his post only two years, but that at the end of this time and on several occasions thereafter he prevailed upon the cabinet officer to stick.

Quiz Mrs. Knox; No Development In Strange Case

SIoux CITY, Nov. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Sumner Knox, arrested at Lemars, Ia., and brought to the Woodbury county jail here following the discovery of the decomposed body of her missing aged mother, Mrs. L. A. Trow, buried in the back yard of the Knox home, was questioned at length tonight by authorities.

State Agent George Dickey and Plymouth and Woodbury county officers quizzed the woman for nearly two hours but early tonight had made no announcement of any developments in the strange case.

Mrs. Knox, showing evidence of extreme nervousness and fatigue was brought here from Lemars last night and placed in the woman's section of the Coy jail.

British Debaters Appear Here

The British team who invaded the University of Iowa campus yesterday were entertained at a tea between 4 and 5 p.m. at the Delta Upsilon fraternity. They are shown here with two ladies of Iowa. Left to right are Catherine Cobb, A3 of Marshalltown; Maxine Bowie, C4 of Carroll; Christopher Paget Mayhew of Oxford university and Philip R. Noakes of Cambridge university. The British debaters argued the question of an Anglo-American alliance in Macbride hall last night with Loren Hickerson, A3 of Iowa City, and George Hill, A4 of Burlington. The international debaters were honored at a dinner at 6:30 last night in Iowa Union, sponsored by Gavel club.

Merits of U. S. Arguments Win In Annual British-American Debate With 245 to 125 Vote

By MERLE MILLER

Two Englishmen invaded the Iowa campus yesterday, armed only with British humor and logic to argue for an Anglo-American treaty as a "guarantee against war and further aggression and extensions by Adolf Hitler."

The University of Iowa's two debaters disagreed—and the United States won the argument on the merits of the question: "Resolved, That whilst holding firm to the principle of Anglo-American cooperation, the conception of an Anglo-American Alliance is rejected."

The vote was 245 to 125 in favor of the affirmative argument, but many of the 600 persons present were unable to vote.

The occasion, of course, was the annual British-American debate, an institution inaugurated in 1921 when Prof. A. Craig Baird, then directing debate activities at Bates college, took a team to Oxford Union, England.

The next year England returned the visit, and since then the idea has become a national (See DEBATE, page 6)

Groups Charged With Violating Milk Anti-Trust Laws to Battle

Post Bonds of $1,000 Each as First Step In Legal Fighting

CHICAGO, Nov. 15 (AP)—Ninety-seven officials and organizations charged with violating the anti-trust laws in the milk and ice cream industries marshaled their forces for a finish fight tonight.

Shortly after two federal grand jury indictments had been made public, the defendants and their attorneys started a parade to the court house to post bond of $1,000 each as the first step in a legal battle against the latest move in the government's extensive drive against alleged monopolies.

City officials, business executives and labor leaders were among the 43 individuals and 14 firms and associations named in the milk bill. Twenty men and 20 groups were accused in the ice cream complaint.

Those indicted on charges of conspiring to fix prices, suppress independent competition and control the supply of milk in the important Chicago area included Dr. Herman N. Dundesen, nationally known president of the Chicago board of health, and two aides; and Captain Daniel Gilbert, ace investigator for State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney.

Dr. Dundesen, asserting he knew nothing of any conspiracy, took a leave of absence to combat the charges. Mayor Edward J. Kelly lauded him as "an efficient health officer."

State's Attorney Courtney, declaring he had the "utmost confidence" in Gilbert's integrity, announced he would not permit him to resign. "There is no justification for any charges against us," stated Thomas H. C. Inerney, president of the National Dairy Products corporation. "We are determined to fight these charges vigorously, confident that our business and executives will be completely vindicated."

Explosion Roper Says Occurred Outside Vessel

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Secretary Roper said today it was "apparent" that the explosion which damaged the German ship Vancouver in the Oakland estuary Nov. 3 occurred outside of the vessel.

He said that because this conclusion indicated the investigation should be made by the department of justice, he was directing the bureau of marine navigation and inspection to suspend its inquiry pending investigations by justice agents.

Roper said the explosion caused plates in the side of the Vancouver to bend inward.

The commerce department agency was interested primarily in determining what, if any, conditions aboard the vessel might have caused the explosion.

New Homes for German Jews?

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Urged by United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, the British government tonight considered a new scheme for leading a mass exodus of Jews from Germany.

The plan was believed to have been drafted by the ambassador himself.

Britain's dominions, colonies and mandate territories, together with the United States, South American nations, France, Belgium and the Netherlands, it was understood, would try to move

C. I. O. Refuses Compromise, Reorganizes

Convention Adopts Two Articles For Future Constitution

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15 (AP)—The CIO set itself up tonight as a permanent congress of industrial organizations after answering President Roosevelt's plea for labor peace with the declaration that it would accept "no compromise" with the A. F. of L.

Delegates to the union's first convention adopted two articles of a proposed constitution. The first gave the organization its new name and the second set forth the objects of the congress.

Action on the remaining articles was halted abruptly 45 minutes before scheduled adjournment time by renewal of debate on the second article.

Would Reconsider
Joseph Curran, head of the National Maritime union, and Harry Bridges, CIO director on the west coast, said they believed the article should be reconsidered after copies of the constitution had been distributed to the 500 delegates. Their motion was not acted upon but the meeting was adjourned until tomorrow.

The proposed constitution, which will be given first consideration tomorrow, resembles in many respects that of the A. F. of L.—but gives the central organization more power in some respects and more dues per member.

A per capita tax assessment of five cents a month on the membership of national and international union was proposed, compared with the present two cents per member assessment of similar units of the A. F. of L., which includes a special assessment of one cent.

Members of local industrial unions, with charters resembling the "federal" charters issued by the A. F. of L., would be taxed 50 cents a month, compared with 35 cents by the federation.

Regulates Suspension
The federation's executive council has the power to suspend national and international unions, as it did the eight big unions which formed the CIO, three years ago, but only the CIO's convention would have the authority to suspend or expel one of its unions.

The CIO's executive board will have 45 members. The A. F. of L. board has 15.

The convention staged a 14-minute demonstration after adopting without dissent the officers' reports which included the declaration "with finality" of "no compromise" in peace negotiations.

The cheers lasted so long that Chairman John L. Lewis, who had turned the gavel over to vice-Chairman Philip Murray during the day, interrupted to say: "Don't you know up to now you've been applauding a dictator? Don't you think the CIO is merely a dictatorship, and that the chairman of it set himself up in office without your will?"

"We love it" someone in the back of the flag-decked hall yelled.

The eight-page "peace" committee report blamed the A. F. of

GUARD BREMEN N. Y. Police Stationed At Boat's Dock

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—More than 100 uniformed police and 60 detectives were assigned tonight to the North German Lloyd line pier from which the S. S. Bremen was due to sail at midnight.

Police Commissioner Lewis Valentine said the state department had asked that German ships and the German consulate be protected, but added that steps to afford such protection had been taken prior to the request.

Goering Angry At New Attack

BERLIN, Nov. 15 (AP)—General Wilhelm Goering was reported in reliable quarters tonight to have been in an angry mood when he learned of the new wave of nazi anti-Semitic violence, on the grounds that it severely jolted the four-year economic plan he directs.

The field marshal, whose dozen positions include the premiership of Prussia and supreme dictatorship over foreign exchange and raw materials, was reported to have given strict orders to cease property destruction like that of last Thursday when Jewish stores and synagogues throughout Germany were damaged and burned.

He was said also to have damaged those responsible for damages costing millions of dollars, but the smashing of a laundry and a grocery near Tempelhof airport in Berlin last night indicated disregard for his orders.

Goering's views differed in principle with those of Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, who said he approved "inwardly," as he put it, the wholesale demolition which began last Thursday.

It was taken for granted in informed quarters that the change of plans of United States Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson, who prepared to return to the United States on the liner Manhattan Thursday, was to report on the entire German situation as a result of that anti-Jewish wave.

He cancelled an earlier plan to leave Sunday with a stopover in London, and called on Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop preparatory to making the more urgent trip.

While Goering and Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels outwardly are bosom friends and publicly are ardent sponsors of each other's policies, nevertheless they differed in principle, according to sources close to the field marshal, over last week's burnings and window smashings.

Goering's decrees Saturday putting Jews out of business in Germany were severe on the Jews, nazis admit, but seen through nazi eyes they represented an effort to conserve the property and possessions of the persecuted minority in favor of the majority.

Chamberlain received a deputation of leading Jews at the house of commons for a discussion along that line, but it was not disclosed if a plan had been devised. The delegation included Viscount Samuel, Viscount Bearsted, Chief Rabbi Joseph H. Hertz, Neville J. Laski, Lionel de Rothschild and Dr. Chaim Weizmann.

Reliable quarters said the British government had kept under consideration the possibility of "approaching Germany at the appropriate moment" to obtain an orderly emigration of Jews.

Coach Tubbs Confers Before Control Group

President of Campus Club Attends Meeting, Refuses to Comment

Iowa's football jury, 12 good men and true, met yesterday in the Senate chamber of historic Old Capitol to weigh the evidence for and against the coaching regime of Ira Irl Tubbs. After five hours of deliberation, the jury emerged with this verdict—"We have investigated thoroughly the athletic situation. We are not prepared to make any announcement at this time, but will do so within 10 days."

Thus, for the first time since the "heat" has been on him, Coach Tubbs appeared officially before the board in control of athletics. Just what Coach Tubbs said in his own defense behind those closed doors was still a matter of conjecture at a late hour last night with neither coach nor board members willing to discuss the matter.

Schenk Appears
Also called before the board yesterday was Al Schenk, president of the campus "I" club. Schenk would not divulge what he had said to the board members, but it was understood that he had made a plea for Tubbs. One board member said Schenk insisted that the poor showing made by the Hawks was not the fault of the coach, but rather the fault of the material.

The meeting, which got underway shortly after four o'clock and ended shortly before nine o'clock, was scheduled as a routine bi-weekly meeting, according to Karl E. Leib, chairman of the board. Whatever delusions of deception the board may have entertained were shattered shortly after the meeting began as newspapermen quietly filed into the House chamber across the hall and settled down to await developments.

Reaches Agreement
It was understood that the board had come to an unofficial agreement that the University of Iowa needed a "big name" coach and that for the good of Iowa football, Coach Irl Tubbs should not be given a contract renewal. Stadium indebtedness, poor game attendance, decreased football prestige were all reported to have been discussed at great lengths in the closed session.

While all board members contacted denied that the names of any prominent coaches had been discussed, rumors still persisted that the board had several coaches very much in mind at this time. Those most prominently mentioned were Jock Sutherland of Pittsburgh, Eddie Anderson of Holy Cross, Buck Shaw of Santa Clara and Charlie Bachman of Michigan State. From the rumors alone, it is apparent that the university MUST provide a "big name" coach if it has any hopes at all of holding the alumni support.

No Comment
Although no comment could be secured from board members, it was learned that if the athletic directorship were needed as an added inducement to secure a "big name" coach, it would be available for him. In that case, said this source, "Dad" Schroeder would (See FOOTBALL, page 6)

It was Mr. and Mrs. Allan Hoover's first child.

France, Hitler May Bargain

PARIS, Nov. 15 (AP)—France prepared today to arrange a bargain with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler which would in effect give Germany a free hand in eastern Europe.

In return, France would demand a nazi guarantee of her Rhineland frontier.

An official spokesman said a preliminary basis had been reached for a joint renunciation of war to insure peaceful cooperation between the traditional enemies, substituting conference tables for war in any future disputes.

It was expected the accord would parallel closely the agreement Hitler and Premier Chamberlain signed at Munich, September 30, expressing the desire of their peoples never to fight one another again.

To Berlin? Lindberghs May Live In Germany

BERLIN, Nov. 15 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was described today by German friends as finding the Reich such a center for scientific aviation research that he wished to spend the winter in Berlin provided he could get suitable living quarters.

With this in view he left his plane here when he departed from Berlin Oct. 29.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering conferred one of the highest German decorations on Lindbergh Oct. 19 at a party given by Hugh R. Wilson, United States ambassador.

Lindbergh's German friends were particularly anxious to find a house with a garden for him so his two small sons might have a place to play.

The big nazi building program has resulted in the clearing of entire streets and a shortage of suitable dwellings for the moment.

When asked about Lindbergh's specific plans during his projected stay in Germany his Berlin friends declined to disclose any details.

(Col. Lindbergh and his family have had their residence recently in a castle once occupied by the opera singer, Adelina Patti, on the Illice island off the northern coast of France. The Lindberghs moved to the island last June from their British country home that the aviator might be near his scientific associate Dr. Alexis Carrel.)

Pictures Vast Two-Continent Defense Plan

Shocked by German Treatment of Jews Of Past Few Days

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt denounced the German dictatorship's treatment of Jews today as almost beyond belief, and then pictured a vast two-continent defense system in which all the Americas would present a united front against aggression from abroad.

His remarks on the Jews, given out at a press conference, were as follows: "The news of the past few days from Germany has deeply shocked public opinion in the United States. Such news from any part of the world would inevitably produce a similar profound reaction among American people in every part of the nation.

Unbelievable
"I myself could scarcely believe that such things could occur in a 20th century civilization. "With a view to gaining a first-hand picture of the situation in Germany, I asked the secretary of state to order our ambassador in Berlin to return at once for report and consultation."

Thus Mr. Roosevelt disclosed that he himself was back of yesterday's order calling Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson home. Mr. Roosevelt said he could not disclose how long the ambassador would stay here. This gave rise to speculation that the envoy might be kept at home indefinitely.

Statements Linked
Mr. Roosevelt's words on military defenses were closely linked, in his listeners' mind, to his statement about Germany because of widespread speculation that the totalitarian Reich may seek to extend its influence in Latin America.

Mr. Roosevelt declared that, as one means of insuring protection for the 20 American republics and Canada, he and his aides are (See ROOSEVELT, page 6)

TVA Above Challenges Of Utility Groups, Counsel Says

Supreme Court Hears O'Brian Deny That Legal Injury Exists

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—A government attorney contended before the supreme court today that 14 utility companies have no right to bring a legal challenge of the Tennessee Valley authority's power program.

John Lord O'Brian, special TVA counsel, asserted the only competition that would damage the companies was for municipalities and cooperatives to which the TVA power is sold.

"Such competition," he said, "does not involve legal injury." O'Brian said the high tribunal had ruled last January 3 that utilities could not challenge public works administration loans and grants for the construction of publicly-owned power projects.

He added that "the essential feature" of the cases decided then and of the present litigation "is that the threatened competition is that of the municipality and not of the United States."

If the court agrees with the government that the TVA controversy should be dismissed, it might conceivably act next Monday without a written opinion.

The justices took the case under consideration after O'Brian and James Lawrence Fly, TVA general counsel, had argued for nearly three hours under frequent questioning from Justices McReynolds and Butler.

The exchange between Butler and Fly became so bitter that the government attorney asserted a point in dispute was "clear everywhere except in your honor's mind."

Both justices centered their questions on the right of the power companies to sue and whether the government could build dams for the direct purpose of manufacturing and selling power.

WOMEN in 76 counties of the state of Iowa, realizing that so-called "hidden taxes" have been the cause of family budget deficits for many years, have banded together under the banner of the National Consumers Tax commission in an effort to tear away the mask that hides hidden taxes from the people who pay them.

To many of us, the term hidden taxes is just another mysterious form of taxation imposed upon us by the government, either state or national. To the initiated, however, hidden taxes mean taxes levied during the production and distribution of an article and passed on unknown to the consumer in the form of higher prices.

Everything—whether a necessity or luxury—has hidden taxes concealed in its price, the commission declares. Hidden taxes take $1.18 of the price of $4.40 meat, 18 per cent of the price of sugar and $1.95 of the price of a $6.95 hat, according to the figures released by the commission.

The consumer purchases these articles and pays the hidden taxes without knowing about them—and then spends the nights wondering why the weekly pay check won't buy as much as it used to.

These women have realized the need for intelligent information on this phase of our complicated modern-day tax system. That is why they are taking such an active stand against this household evil—hidden taxes. It is the belief of these women that this system cannot stand if the public is given sufficient knowledge and information on the subject.

GERMANY isn't looking for trouble, she's begging for it. If the reports that are coming from Germany are at all accurate, the world is slipping rapidly toward a new crisis.

The democracies feel that there is no excuse for the program in Germany. The treatment of the Jews is especially offensive to American and English people because there are American and British Jews in Germany.

However, there will be no new world crisis over this single issue. It is the issues arising from it that make the hopes for peace very slim. As an example, the German official paper implied that high ranking men in the English government were behind the assassination of the German Secretary in France. Ridiculous as this appears to us, it only follows other accusations just as serious. High German officials, even Hitler himself, have said that certain Englishmen should be silenced. While Hitler can dictate in Germany, he may soon find that he has tried the patience of England once too often.

STRONG MAN

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—For a long time now I have been buying my peanuts from Ray Kinney. Mr. Kinney sells Hawaiian peanuts and a very fine peanut they are.

Of course I realize you may not like Hawaiian peanuts, and in that case you do not have to take them. For on this island there are many fine peanut stands, and all of them offer a wide and extraordinary selection to choose from.

There is, for example, Mr. Jimmy Dorsey's peanut stand. He sells a sort of sweetish peanut with a swing to it. Then there is Mr. Benny Goodman's stand. His goobers are altogether swing. I have various Cuban and South American friends who retail a peanut with a rhythmic and fascinating rumba hump. And if you must go further I can point out the Viennese and Russian as well.

But I intend to string along with Kinney for awhile. I sail for the palm trees and the steel guitar. To me the gentle swish of a little grass skirt is infinitely more desirable than the calm detachment of an Alice blue gown. Let the shrill Harlem trumpets go past. I will tune my ear to a vagrant trade wind. And while you are off looking for Flat Foot Floogie I will rest in the shade by the long blue lagoon and let the coconuts bounce off my head.

And so with a friendly nod to the Lombardos and all the others I would like to suggest that the most pleasing influence on popular music in New York during the last couple of years has been Hawaiian.

It wasn't sudden, like a war or a flood, and for that reason it hasn't gone out like a Johnny One Note. It was gradual and imperceptible, and it insinuated itself so subtly into the popular fancy that you never suspected or saw it coming, until you wakened one morning and started to hum something about Aloha, and you knew it was here.

The man largely responsible for this pleasant state of affairs is Ray Kinney. A year and a half ago he arrived in this town practically unknown. He opened the now famous Hawaiian room, and he caught on. He was here for a long time. Then he went away, and while he was gone it was Lani McIntyre who took his place and did it so capably that he probably will come back to replace Ray again when he leaves sometime in January for a visit to the Islands.

Of course if there hadn't been a Hawaiian room there wouldn't be a definite Hawaiian trend in New York today. But Charley Rochester believed in the idea so strongly that he sent for Jac Lessman and told him to go ahead and build a room that would suit every need. Charley Rochester is managing director of the Lexington hotel, and Lessman is a famous interior decorator.

This room was the springboard for what New York likes to regard as a fine personality. For Kinney's fan mail is now enormous, and the postman doesn't ring your door very often unless he thinks a lot of you. He has made

Just to be sure that banker Allen pulls no fast ones with the radio audience, the Mighty Allen Art Players have slipped one over on their host. They have lined up as the "man you didn't expect to meet," Michael McDougal, eminent card expert, whose business is exposing card sharks.

The Town Hall guest is employed extensively by trans-Atlantic steamship companies and noted clubs to check up on suspected card crooks. Although he has trapped hundreds, none has ever attempted to assassinate McDougal in revenge.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Scrooge sat in Reginald Owen's dressing room and talked. Scrooge was waiting to be called to the set, and he had on Reginald Owen's dressing gown and Reginald Owen's battered old slippers. He even smoked Reginald Owen's cigarettes, and talked about Reginald Owen when the actor was mentioned. But he wasn't Reginald Owen.

This was due, almost entirely, to Jack Dawn—and to Reginald Owen's patience and forbearance. Owen has been Make-Up Man Dawn's No. 1 guinea pig in facial make-up experiments. Owen was the first actor to lose his own face and get a new one from Dawn. That was for the movie "Suicide Club," rechristened "Trouble for Two."

Owen, who ordinarily does not look like Robert Taylor and never threatens the romantic leading men, still has a good enough face of his own. From Jack Dawn he usually gets worse ones. That face in "Suicide Club" could belong only to a monster. The present one in "A Christmas Carol" could belong only to Scrooge.

Scrooge is bald except for a fuzzy tuft planted in the upper center of his high round forehead. The face is florid, as befits a crotchety old gent with the gout and no Christmas spirit, and the scowl-lines are deep over the shaggy grey eyebrows. The nose is sharp, and the mouth is thin and tight.

This day, however, Scrooge could smile. Jack Dawn had made the mask a little less tight so the Scrooge face could soften for the final, regenerating scenes of "A Christmas Carol." The mask—and there is its importance in make-up—responds with the skin beneath to every change of facial expression.

The mask, said Scrooge-Owen, is quite improved since its first use in "Suicide Club," when it was prone to break out in "boils" under the heat of the lights. It's fairly simple now. Each morning Dawn takes his material—a sort of fungus mass—spreads it on Owen's face and there Scrooge stays all day until Dawn yanks him off, all in one piece. Nights, at least, Owen can see what he really looks like.

Scrooge-Owen was very happy, he said, to be a part of "A Christmas Carol."

"And thank heaven," he said, "it is being made as simply and sincerely as Dickens himself would have made it. It is not an epic, it is not colossal, it is simple and human and homely."

This brought up a discussion, naturally, of "Stablemates," which Owen (minus Scrooge) co-authored.

"Stablemates" really happened—almost. Owen, driving home from Santa Anita racetrack one day, gave a stableboy a lift, subsequently befriended him. In time the lad disappeared, but one 3 a.m. Owen and his wife were awakened by a long distance call, collect, from Arkansas. It was the stableboy, in distress. He needed $200 to take a horse to Baltimore. Owen sent $50, but the letter was returned unclaimed.

"The boy had acquired the horse substantially as we made Mickey Rooney acquire his in the picture," said Author Owen. "We took this incident, plus an operation we saw at Santa Anita, and we had our plot. And—this is a secret—I wrote the part of the old vet for myself. But I'm glad now I didn't get it. Wallace Beery did a much better job than I could have done."

An explorer says wolf meat really is very nourishing. That noise you heard outside probably was a full meal knocking at the door.

Christmas in Germany may not be what it used to be, but the Reich certainly has splendid Santa Claus possibilities in General Goering.

I repeat, this is the best variety show on the air.

Medical Aptitude Test Last year, under the auspices of the Association of American Medical colleges, the medical aptitude test was taken by 10,755 students of 628 colleges applying for admission to approximately 90 per cent of the approved medical schools of the United States. This test is required of all applicants for admission to the college of medicine of the University of Iowa, by virtue of its institutional membership in this association (see the university catalogue for the current year, near the bottom of page 77.)

The medical aptitude test forms are available at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa. The test is given at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa. The test is given at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa.

Washington World By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, D. C.—If the railroads and their workers settle their wage argument without a strike (they have until December to come to an agreement) Donald R. Richberg will be entitled to the major share of credit for it. As the rail unions' legal adviser he framed practically lone-handed the law under which mediation proceedings were begun between employers and employees following the companies' announcement of a prospective 15 per cent pay cut and the workers' vote in favor of a walk-out to resist it.

It was an admirably-drafted law, as has been proved by its effectiveness heretofore. The Wagner act, creating the Labor Relations Board, was just as well intended, but it isn't operating as satisfactorily. The newer wage-hour law isn't asserting itself as smoothly as Richberg's legislative concoction did. It may presently get to working perfectly, but initially there is a bit of friction.

Richberg's plan slid into action without a particle of it. It remains to be seen how it will stand its current test, between now and December. However, the prospect is pretty good. The Richberg system promises to hold water. Of course the railroad managements will that they were done a terrible injustice by the mediators' decision against a wage cut, and can, if they choose, go ahead with it, precipitating a strike. But they know that public opinion will be overwhelmingly against them.

As to public opinion? It hasn't been much perturbed. Time was when the threat of a national railroad strike would have scared this country into hysteria. Not now, though; there has been general confidence in that Richberg law.

Don Richberg used to be known as the outstanding labor attorney in this country—principally railroad labor.

When the new deal came into power he was mentioned prominently as a candidate to fill the next vacancy on the federal supreme bench—as an advanced liberal, almost a radical. And he was named as general counsel to the now defunct NRA. From that time forward labor began to growl that he was turning conservative. More recently, since the NRA's finish, labor references have been heard to his "corporation practice."

I don't assert that he has grown any more conservative than ever he was. All I say is that I am acquainted with many a labor leader who remarks: "When Richberg was appointed to NRA we thought we were getting a grand break. Since then, look at him!"

Anyway, he cooked up a beautiful railroad mediation law. And when he criticizes the Labor Relations act, I think he's a high authority speaking.

The fact remains that the railroads, regardless of the mediation board's decision against the 15 per cent wage cut, still are in the financial soup.

There's no doubt that they're nearly or entirely bankrupt. In early days the railroads were rackets. They were over-capitalized. They over-borrowed. They were in ridiculous competition. They didn't pay their bills. Their promoters were buccanniers of the first water. But they're dead. For two generations their estates have been settled. There's no getting back at them. Innocent purchasers hold their securities.

Not Yet Economical The roads are still wasteful, according to Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, who, as chairman of the senate's interstate commerce committee, has investigated them thoroughly. Let 'em cut waste, not pay, says Wheeler.

As a stop-gap, urge certain financiers, "Let the government lend the roads another billion dollars."

It will have to come out of the government's Reconstruction Finance corporation.

"I want security," yells Director Jesse Jones of RFC.

"None's available," is the railroads' answer.

Answer that complication.

Down The Sports Trail

By PAUL MICKELSON NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP) — It certainly wouldn't be asking too much if each baseball club owner from class B and upwards was dunned by his closest university, college or normal school to buy them two or three good football players each spring.

The current season, perhaps the widest and wooliest since small college teams like Centre and Carleton came out of the woods to smack down the Harvards and the Chicagos, has been a real life saver for the nabobs. All of them except the bosses of the New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox and Cincinnati Reds were just about to be snipped by the howling wolves as the season ended.

However, the minor and major league meetings are just around the corner and the magnates, freshened up, are ready for plenty of business. The general problems to be discussed are night baseball, a dead ball and an increase of the player limit from 23 to 25.

This is what the clubs have been doing:

NEW YORK—Traded outfielder Myril Hoag and Catcher Joe Glenn to St. Louis for pitcher Oral Hildebrand. Another big deal expected. No Joe DiMaggio will not be traded. Club against dead ball, for 25-player limit.

BOSTON—The gold-plated gear is still looking for pitchers. CLEVELAND—The Indians aren't fooling this time. They're ready to get rid of a flock of old hands.

DETROIT—They're hot after Cecil Travis of Washington. WASHINGTON—The Nats are reported ready to trade Travis to Detroit but want plenty. Prevailing guess is they want an outfielder, catcher and a pitcher.

CHICAGO—A Casey crew now want a catcher and second baseman. ST. LOUIS—Fred Haney, the new manager, may try to succeed with rookies.

PHILADELPHIA—Nobody knows what Connie Mack's really after. Connie's been busy insisting he was mis-quoted when he was supposed to have come out for player vacations.

NATIONAL LEAGUE CHICAGO—A cinch to make a couple deals, probably with Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH—Chances are Arky Vaughn will stick after all. The more the Pirates see of other players, the more they think of their own ability.

CINCINNATI—The Reds are after an infielder and more punch and may get it as they have the whip hand with their flock of fine rookies.

BOSTON—Bob Quinn, baseball's "rag man," will come up with a big deal any day now — a deal that should make his Bees very dangerous.

ST. LOUIS—A new manager in Ray Blades, who will make at least three important deals by next spring. No, Dizzy Dean will not be taken back.

PHILADELPHIA—Led by another new manager, Doc Pothro, the Phillies hope to rebuild—with what?

BROOKLYN—If you have any new ideas write or wire to Leland Stanford MacPhail. He's about to run a contest offering a big prize to anyone who can name five out of nine in the 1939 starting lineup.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP) — Henry Armstrong, welterweight and lightweight champion, and Ceferino Garcia were pronounced in perfect physical condition today by the New York Athletic Commission for their 147-pound title bout in Madison Square Garden, Nov. 25.

Al Gainer of New Haven and Tiger Jack Fox of Spokane, Wash., appeared before the commission and signed contracts for a 15-round bout at the Bronx coliseum, Nov. 29. The fight will be the first of an elimination series sponsored by the commission to find a successor to John Henry Lewis as light heavyweight champion. The winner will meet Meilo Bettina of Beacon, N. Y., for the title late in December.

Tackle St. Mary's Of Muscatine As Cage Play Begins

Handicapped by a lack of height and size but not by a lack of fight, the St. Mary's basketballers take on St. Mary's of Muscatine tonight on the City high gym floor.

The Ramblers will be further handicapped by the absence of Cole at guard. Cole sprained his wrist in practice Monday night and will probably be lost to the team for the remainder of the week.

Coach Suppel will have some subs that are little inferior to the starters in Ray Eakes, Bill Schindheim, Bob Knoedel, Jerry DeFrance, Pat Bannon, and Bernard Rittenmeyer.

Ed Elliott Victorious In Hawkeye Run

Finishing the two mile and 70 yard race with a furious sprint that left Carl Schnoor of Perry, his closest competitor, in the dust, Ed Elliott, dusky trackster from Ft. Madison, yesterday won the annual Hawkeye cross country run and the traveling trophy that goes with it.

Behind Elliott and Schnoor came Arnold Carlson of Des Moines, Walter Rouzer of Kansas City and Bill Matson of Oak Park, Ill. Glen Sparks of Oskaloosa, one of the favorites, was a victim of one of those strange accidents that sometimes happen. After leading the field over the first half of the distance, Sparks lost a shoe. He topped to look for that article of track apparel and the delay cost him his chance of a win.

Although Elliott's time of 1:34.5 was the official time for the event, it is thought that Assistant Track Coach Ted Swenson ended with a slightly better mark than the rest of the field.

LINCOLN, Nov. 15 (AP)—The University of Nebraska football coaching staff centered attention today on passes in preparation for the Cornhusker's game with the University of Iowa at Iowa City Saturday.

On and Off The Field

A moving picture will be shown of one of the Iowa football games. Saturday in the chemistry auditorium. These pictures, the same that are shown to the football squad following a conference game, are really interesting. All returning "T" men are cordially invited to be there and also those students whom we are able to accommodate. There is no admission charge.

Tonight the 80 or more lettermen on the campus will be formally initiated to the campus "T" club. The initiation ceremony which is not public will take place in the Hawkeye dressing room beneath the stadium. One of the features of the initiation will be the presentation of keys emblematic of the club. The ceremony will start at 7:30 p.m. sharp.

Plans have been completed and everything is in readiness for the "T" men's dance which will be held Saturday night in the river room of the Iowa Union. The dance which is given in honor of the alumni "T" men, the Hawkeye football squad and the coaching staff bids fair to be one of the outstanding social functions of the current season.

BANNED FROM RING

Boxing Commission Suspends Thomas

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15 (AP) — The state athletic commission today banned Harry Thomas, Eagle Bend, Minn., boxer from fighting in Pennsylvania.

Tony Galento, Orange, N. J., heavyweight scored a technical knockout over Thomas in the third round last night.

Jules E. Aronson, a member of the commission, asked the commission to concur in withdrawing Thomas' license "because in my opinion Pennsylvania would be much better off with the elimination of boxers of his calibre."

Commissioner Eddie McCloskey, of Johnsonston, concurred with Aronson, to make it a majority action of the three commissioners.

Pro Golfers Enjoy Banner Year and Expect Another

CHICAGO, Nov. 15 (AP)—The money players of golf—the professionals—looked back on a good season and ahead to a boom one today.

Reports made at the opening of the 22nd annual meeting of the Professional Golfers association indicate that the 1939 season will be one of the best ever enjoyed by the pros, both from a standpoint of interest in golf and the amount of prize money to be distributed.

When the current campaign winds up Dec. 31, professionals will have competed for $182,500 in purses during the 1938 season, an increase of $19,150 over 1937, according to the report of Jack Mackie, P. G. A. secretary. In 1939 the pot of gold will aggregate $200,000 in 40 tournaments, four more than the number in which some 800 P. G. A. members competed this year.

City High Drills for Davenport

Hawklets Will Play Devils In Final Game

Giving his warriors long scrimmage and pass defense drills, Coach Herb Cormack last night drove his boys in the final stages of preparation for the gruelling traditional battle with the Davenport Blue Devils tomorrow night. The Little Hawks are pointing for a revenge for last year's 19-6 defeat in the hands of the Hilltoppers.

Last night's scrimmage was devoted to the rehearsing of old plays and reviewing the new ones handed out by Cormack Monday night. After his first string had pushed the reserves all over the field, Cormack ended the contact work and gave his first stringers a stiff workout on pass defense.

Twenty-Five Men Report at U-High For Basketball

Twenty-five U-High basketball candidates have been working out daily during the last two weeks, in preparation for their tough 11 game schedule. Fundamentals and ball handling together with the annual intra-squad tournament, have composed the major portion of the work which Coach Brechler has dished out.

Only four lettermen are available from last year's championship team, to form the nucleus for the 1938-39 team. Of these returning lettermen, Capt. Ed Burns will probably be the spear head of the attack. He will more than likely perform at center again this year, where he can use his height advantage in recovering rebounds. Burns will be aided by Ernie Krogh and "Red" Dawson, two veterans of last year, who at present have not inside track on the forward positions. In the back court the Blues have only one returning letterwinner, Duane Carson, who was one of the main cogs in last year's championship outfit. The other guard position will be a three cornered fight between Si Beye, Charles Means and Frank Taylor. The two former boys were stars on last year's sophomore team, while the latter was a regular at Cosgrove last season.

The annual intra-squad tournament which was just completed yesterday, gave Coach Brechler a glimpse of what he has in the way of reserve material for this year's team.

Badgers Lousy MADISON, Wis., Nov. 15 (AP)—The University of Wisconsin Badgers were trying, but they couldn't get their blocking assignments down pat today and Coach Harry Stuhldreher described their work as "lousy" and the workout as "the worst session we've had in a long time."

Heydt, Christians, Armbruster And Christen Are Selected

BITS about Sports

By J. DENNIS SULLIVAN

Prof. Karl E. Leib had little to say at the conclusion of the four-hour session of the board in control of athletics held in Old Capitol yesterday.

As a matter of fact, he said that the board had no announcement to make at the time but that one would be forthcoming within 10 days.

However, we came away with the feeling that things were looking up, authentically, here at the university. It wasn't what Leib said, but rather the way he said it that gave one the impression that members of the board were in full accord on the athletic policy to be pursued in the future.

That, after all, is something. There have been board meetings in the past that settled nothing; board meetings that adjourned with the business of the day in more confusion than was the case before the meeting was called.

If the various members know exactly what they want, and how to go about securing it, there is every reason to suspect that we may be heading for happier days. As I said before, that is precisely the impression I received after yesterday's session.

Approximately 80 "I" men are to be initiated into the campus "I" club tonight. The ceremony is to take place in the Hawkeye dressing room under the east stands of the stadium. The affair is not open to the public; only "I" men will be admitted and all are urged to attend.

A feature of the program will be the awarding of "keys" emblematic of the "I" club. You're welcome, Fred.

The New York boxing commission — with characteristic high handedness — took control of the fight situation yesterday, summoning several fighters before the commission and dictating when and where they were to fight and for what.

Little Henry Armstrong, current lightweight and welterweight champion of the world, was given the once-over by physicians to determine whether or not he could make an adequate defense of his welterweight title at this time.

Al Gainer and Tiger Jack Fox, light-heavyweights, signed a contract to fight for the title recently removed from the brow of John Henry Lewis by this same commission.

While at it, the commission had Apostoli and Corbett sign articles for a fight to determine the middleweight championship.

In view of the fact that Sollie Kreiger is the recognized champion in this division everywhere except New York, the commission seems to be over-stepping its bounds.

It has been long suspected — and it's probably true — that Mike Jacobs has his stogees on the commission and they act for Mike's best interests.

When a fighter whips the recognized champion of his division, as did Sollie Kreiger in his recent bout with Al Hostak, and then is told that he can meet the winner of a bout designated by the New York commission if he would be recognized as champion, then I contend that boxing, professionally, has no place in the athletic scheme of things in this country.

Christians Named In Two Events; Others in One

That University of Iowa swimming teams still remain among the nation's leaders has again been proved, for the all-American tank selections for 1938 contain the names of four Hawkeyes, named for their performances in five events.

Robert Christians was selected in two events and all of the other Iowans, Francis Heydt, Arnold Christen and Al Armbruster, were rated in one place each. Christians was ranked sixth in the 440-yard free style and tenth in the 220. Heydt was placed second in the 150-yard backstroke and Christen was considered the fourth best diver in the country. Armbruster was ranked tenth in the backstroke.

The selections, by Edward T. Kennedy of Columbia university for the Intercollegiate Swimming guide, are made on the basis of the records made by all swimmers in the United States. The presence of Hawkeye swimmers on the honor squad establishes somewhat of a record, for, not since 1928 has Iowa failed to place at least one man on the all-American roster. Since 1922, the Guide's teams have contained the names of 25 Iowans in a grand total of 49 places. Only twice, in 1924 and in 1928 have the Hawkeye mermen failed to take posts on the honorary field, and in some years they have placed as many as six.

Of the four Iowa tankmen named by Kennedy on his team, two are lost to the Hawkeye squad this year, for Christians and Christen have both graduated. However, Heydt and Armbruster both remain to add to the chances that Coach Dave Armbruster's team of this year may be able to repeat the performances of Iowa entries last year.

Heydt, a junior from Wichita, Kan., is now recovering from a minor operation and is expected to return to drill before the end of this week. Before going to the hospital for the operation he had been drilling regularly and had been performing with his old brilliance.

Armbruster, also a junior, hails from Kansas City and he, like Heydt, has been the victim of minor troubles this fall.

Twelve Report For Basketball At St. Pat's

Interest in basketball was at a fever pitch around St. Patrick's gymnasium yesterday, when 12 cage hopefuls reported for the first practice. There was none of the lackadaisical attitude noticeable during the football season, but every candidate was trying his hardest.

Ball-handling and passing were emphasized as Coach Father Ryan lost no time in trying to round the team into shape. The coach immediately began training the players to exhibit a fast-breaking offense.

Among the 12 reporting candidates were six veterans from last year's squad, with another experienced man, Bradley, expected to join them later this week. The six returning men included Miller, Black, Love, E. Rohner, J. Fitzpatrick, and G. Fitzpatrick. New prospects hoping for a regular berth on the team were Daly, Holland, W. Rohner, Hess, Connell, and Grady.

"Red" Miller was the most improved man on the squad at the end of last season and will probably develop into an even better player this year. Don Black, sophomore ball-handler, and Love, a third year man, may give good accounts of themselves. Glenn Fitzpatrick can use his height to good advantage under the basket.

Ione Leonard, A2 of Dayton, and Mary Dee Schultz, A2 of Center Point, spent the week end in Cedar Rapids.

Rosetta Swan of Cedar Rapids was a week end guest of Ruth Joergler, C4 of Ellsworth.

Helen Joergler, A1 of Ellsworth, was a Sunday dinner guest of her sister, Ruth, A4.

Mrs. C. T. Twedt of Marshalltown visited her daughter, Mariel, A3, Sunday.

Margaret Anderson of Iowa City was a dinner guest last evening.

Tasty Tog Tea

Fuzzy sweaters and bright swirling skirts, lush evening dresses and clock-round apparel for the gay university woman were modeled by representative freshmen women yesterday at the Tasty Tog tea. The informal affair, which was sponsored by the University

Women's association, took place in the river room of Iowa Union yesterday afternoon.

Tea was served preceding the style show. Mrs. Irl Tubbs (above) presided at one of the tea tables. Other hostesses were Mrs. William Peterson, Mrs. Homer Cherrington and Mrs. Karl Leib.

Women's Club To Give Play

'Cranberry Sauce' To Be Featured On Program Tomorrow

A Thanksgiving play, "Cranberry Sauce," directed by Mrs. Harrison Thornton will be featured on the program of the drama department of the Iowa City Women's club when they meet tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. at Iowa Union.

Those taking part in the play are Mrs. R. J. Inness, Mrs. A. E. Koenig and Mrs. C. A. Bowman. Grace Meyers will discuss the New York stage and Mrs. C. H. Smoke will read the Thanksgiving proclamation and two Thanksgiving poems.

Mrs. W. J. Petersen is in charge of the meeting.

Sunday School Group to Elect Class Officers

Officers to serve for the coming year will be elected by members of the Loyal Helpers Sunday school class of the Christian church when they meet at the home of Mrs. E. L. Boerner, 235 Person avenue, tomorrow afternoon. The meeting will begin at 2 o'clock.

Each member will answer the roll call with some Thanksgiving suggestion.

Iowa Dames Will Meet for Bridge

Members of the University of Iowa Dames will meet tonight in the Town and Gown tearoom for their monthly bridge party. The party will begin at 7:45.

Those who do not play will spend the evening sewing.

Triangle Club, Wives to Meet

Tomorrow at 9 p.m. members of Triangle club and their wives will meet for the group's annual masquerade party in the clubrooms at Iowa Union. Col. and Mrs. Leo Paquet are in charge of the party.

Velvet Ribbons In New 'Droop' Hair Styles Are Popular

Another of the be-ribboned fashions which is gaining "headway" with university women is the "droop." Beginning with a bow on top it follows the line of least resistance backward. The ends which droop are usually several inches long. These velvet ribbons are especially popular with party dresses.

Preschool Proves Aid Child Welfare Study Shows Benefit Of Early Training Plan

How preschool education improved underprivileged children in an orphanage has been shown by a research project completed by members of the child welfare research station staff at the University of Iowa.

The study, connected over a three-year period, has been reported in a new publication, "A Study of Environmental Stimulation: An Orphanage Preschool Project." It was prepared jointly by Prof. Harold Skeels, Prof. Ruth Updegraff, Prof. Beth Wellman and Harold Williams of the child welfare department.

Two groups of children were exposed to the same environmental influences except for the hours when the experimental group was placed in a preschool under expert teaching.

It was found that the preschool's contribution was that of counteracting losses towards which the extra-preschool environment was constantly pulling.

"The effect of long residence for the original group was that of tending to bring all children, regardless of initial intelligence classification, to high grade feeble-mindedness or borderline classification.

"The trend for the preschool children was towards normality in intelligence. These who were initially average remained average, while the lower levels were moving upward," the study reported.

Other findings were: discrepancy of growth in aspects of language development, the progress of the preschool children being definitely faster; in social competence the preschool children showed improved adjustment to the social situation of the school, increased emotional control, happier contacts, and more purposeful activity.

The Eyes Are on the Jackets This Year

Are you a thrilled freshman? A superior senior? Either way, the burning question is: What did this year will stamp its wearer as young, gay and definitely campus, '38? Answer — the Jitter jacket.

The Jitter jacket is a casual sport jacket made of soft suede-finished material in flattering go-with-everything beige and chamois shades. What makes it something to talk about is the package of 12 press-on Jitters you get when you buy the jackets. Jitters are daisy little felt cut-outs with a very special adhesive on the back. They come in all colors and in an almost endless variety of shapes — shag dancers, footballs, keys, musical instruments, even vegetables.

The fun begins when you get home. The idea is to scatter the Jitters around the jacket in your own sweet way — apply a hot iron — and presto! They're on to stay through thick, thin—and drying-cleaning.

Apparently it's habit forming, for you simply can't stop at a mere dozen. You go back and buy more packages of Jitters (they come in numbered assortments) until you've filled up every available space on the jacket.

Careful, though — your friends will be reading your character from the way you decorate your jacket. If you want to go enigmatically, you can rig up something especially baffling and keep them guessing. At any rate, your Jitter jacket will express YOU and nobody else but you. And you'll find it the perfect all-round topper for stadium, rumble seat, campus and what have you.

HOSTESS HINTS

Here are some suggestions for desserts that can be made up ahead of time and stored in the refrigerator until you want them. They are definitely a boon for those times when everything seems to happen at once and company or a party is also on the busy schedule. With all the convenience that refrigerators offer us nowadays we are only clever if we utilize this convenience to the nth degree.

Chocolate Peppermint Roll
3 eggs
3-4 cup granulated sugar
1-4 cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup cake flour
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 tablespoons cocoa
1-4 cup melted butter

Separate the eggs and beat the yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add the sugar, beating constantly. Then add water and vanilla and mix thoroughly. Sift together flour, salt, baking powder and cocoa and add to the first mixture. Add the melted butter. Beat the egg whites until stiff and fold into the mixture. Place batter in shallow baking pan lined with greased paper. Bake in moderate oven 20 minutes. Meanwhile, whip one-half cup whipping cream until stiff and add 15 marshmallows which have been cut up in small pieces and one-fourth teaspoon peppermint extract.

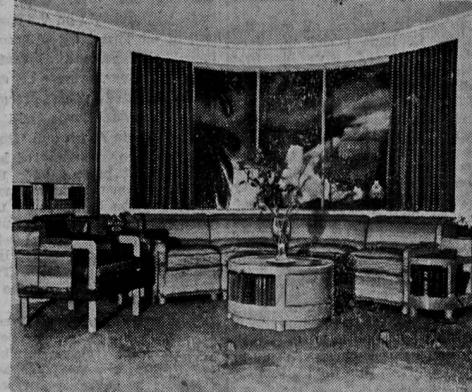

When removing cake from oven, turn out onto a cloth wrung out of hot water and sprinkled with sugar. Remove the wax paper from cake and cut crusts from sides and ends. Spread whipped cream mixture on cake and roll. Cool and store in refrigerator. It will keep well and is a delicious surprise for the family or company dinner.

Orange Ice Box Cookies
(Makes five dozen cookies)
1 cup shortening
1-2 cup brown sugar
1-2 cup white sugar
1 egg beaten
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 tablespoon orange rind, grated
2-3-4 cups flour
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon soda
1-2 cup broken pecan meats
Cream shortening. Add sugar and then orange juice and rind. Mix in the egg. Sift together the flour, soda, baking powder, salt, and mix thoroughly. Add the nut meats. Form dough into rolls and store in refrigerator, wrapped in wax paper.

When ready to bake, slice, place on greased baking sheet and bake 12-15 minutes in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.)

Jiffy Cake Mix
2-3 cup sugar
1 1-2 cups sugar
3 cups cake flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1-4 teaspoon salt
Cream shortening and sugar well. Blend in the other ingredients and store in a bowl in refrigerator. When you desire to bake this, take from refrigerator and break up with a fork. Then separate two eggs and beat the yolks until thick and lemon colored. Combine with one cup milk and one teaspoon vanilla extract and add to the cake mix. Blend thoroughly. Then beat the egg whites until stiff and fold into the mixture. Pour into two well greased cake pans and bake in moderate oven (375) for about 30 minutes. Cool when done and frost with cold icing.

One of the happiest ways of introducing vistas into a room that looks out on blank walls or has insufficient windows is by use of a photo mural behind polished plate glass.

Illustrated is a corner of a room which had only one window in it and that with an unattractive view. The owner of this room wisely decided on a photo mural treatment, choosing for a mural a picture which he himself had taken on a trip to Florida. The square corner of the room was eliminated with the use of wall boards and to these the photo mural, suggesting wide reaches of sky and waving palms, was applied. Then beach plate glass was installed to give the feeling of a large window. The glass not only added to the beauty of the photo mural, but also picked up reflections of light, giving the whole room a feeling of spaciousness and airiness that had previously been lacking.

With the addition of a comfortable sectional divan and tables with compartments for books under the window, a commonplace room was transformed into one that became livable, charming and which invariably aroused enthusiasm on the part of the owner's friends.

S. U. I. Bridge Contest Begun

P. Sweigert-M. Jones, G. Cochran-B. Ladd Win in First Round

The first round of the 13th annual all-university individual bridge tournament, including games of both auction and contract, was played today.

Winners in auction bridge were Pauline Sweigert, A1 of Des Moines, and Marguerite Jones, A4 of Garden City, Kan., who defeated Robert Noel, L2 of Estherville, and Darrell Kiddie, A2 of Des Moines.

Geraldine Cochran, A4 of Muscatine, and Betty Ladd, A2 of Newton, defeated Rosemary Kelly, A3 of Farley, and Hermina Brandt, C4 of West Liberty. Other players in the auction bridge tournament defaulted.

In the contract section, Don Hess, L1 of Sioux City, and Fred Dodd, L3 of Ft. Madison, won from Jesse Osterweil, A2 of Long Beach, N. Y., and Sumner J. Goffin, A4 of Newark, N. J.

Elizabeth Clark, C4 of Cedar Rapids, and Eleanor Welch of Iowa City defeated Dorothy Ochsen, A3, and Betty Lee Roeser, A3, both of Ft. Madison.

Helen Ries, A3 of Iowa City, and Charlotte Whitmore, C4 of Iowa City, won by a default.

The second round of the tournament will be played Thursday afternoon and evening. Details will appear in The Daily Iowan or may be obtained at the desk in Iowa Union.

Lutheran Church Women to Meet

Women of the First English Lutheran church will assemble at the church kitchen Thursday morning to continue the making of mince-meat.

Each member is requested to come as early as possible and to bring jars with her.

Spanish War Vets' Auxiliary Will Meet Tomorrow Evening

The Spanish War Veterans' auxiliary will meet tomorrow at the courthouse at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Hilma Feay, president of the organization, will preside at the meeting.

Lena T. Ring Circle To Meet Tomorrow

Mrs. Thomas McLachlan and her daughter, Elizabeth, 1017 Diana street, will be hostesses to members of the Lena T. Ring circle. The group will meet tomorrow evening at 8 p.m.

Wants To Be Alone

LOUISA, Ky. (AP) — Because she likes to be "independent," Mrs. Rebecca Yates Durham, 101, lives alone in a one-room cabin on a creek near here. Married four times, she has outlived all her husbands. Her cabin is only a few yards from her daughter's home.

Handcarved Wooden Pins Lend Touch To Coed Sweaters

To sport a hand carved, wooden pin is to be on top of the campus novelty wave. Sorority emblems, initials, top hats, flowers, shoes, farm implements, beer mugs and Fido, the poch, add swank to any sweater, scarf or coat collar. And, here's a tip—wear a few carved pins on a plain belt—just to give it that individual touch.

On Other Campuses

Find Scorpion Trail

CINCINNATI, Ohio (ACP) — It's a long trek either afoot or by water from Ohio to New York state, but apparently it wasn't too long for a colony of sea scorpions several hundred million years ago.

The University of Cincinnati museum reports finding parts of at least five of these ancient crustaceans and fragments of many shed skins of others in a rock layer in Ohio's geologically interesting Adams county.

What whets the interest of Cincinnati geologists in this discovery is that it belongs to a species new to science, and to a genus hitherto unknown in Ohio, or, for that matter, not clearly known on this continent outside of a small area in New York.

T. C. U. Adds Glory

FT. WORTH, Tex. (ACP) — "For the Glory of T.C.U." is the title of a new Horned Frog football song whose list of authors sounds like a section of "Who's Who."

The words are by Grandland Rice, national sports authority; Clarence Buddington Kelland, noted fiction writer, familiar for the "Scattergood Baines" stories; and John Golden, New York theatrical producer and playwright.

The music is by Raymond Hubble, popular song writer, whose best known hit is "Poor Butterfly."

The Irish Return

DETROIT, Mich. (ACP) — Shure, the Irish are a'coming back into the football picture at the University of Detroit.

On the present freshman squad are more than two dozen boys of Irish extraction and a good percentage of them look like future varsity material.

There are Brennans and O'Connors, and Goodriches, and Burkes and Callahans and Cooleys and Gleasons, and Shannahans and Moores, and all the rest of the names that have brought fame to the sons of the "Auld Sod."

For years the Irish dominated the Titan squad but of late years there have been few of them.

Frosh Get Problem

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (ACP) — Math problems and English themes are usually thought of as the freshmen's greatest curriculum problem, but at Vanderbilt university this year the first year students are tackling the nation's number one economic problem — "The South."

Disprove Theory

BURLINGTON, Vt. (ACP) — Why do students come to college? Song and story traditionally say, for fraternities, sports, and college life.

However, this theory broke down completely when 464 freshmen at the University of Vermont were asked to set down the reasons for their choice.

Both men and women stated that the courses of study offered, more than anything else, decided the question for them. Fraternalistic and sport fare badly and scholastic standing scored heavily with the class of 1942.

Army Life

DURHAM, N. H. (ACP) — Trailers, tents, log cabins, and abandoned shacks have all been seized by America's college students in search of inexpensive living quarters, but undergraduates of the University of New Hampshire have gone one better. Some 250 men — from freshmen to seniors

Group Elects Hilda Bennett

Local Hairdressers Name Other Officers At Monday Meeting

Hilda Bennett was elected president of the Iowa City unit of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists association at a meeting in the Co-ed Beauty Salon Monday night.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Hope Shoup, vice-president; Gretchen Neumann, secretary; Clara Eihlers, treasurer, and Mrs. Grace Armstrong, financial secretary.

New board members are Luke Walters, Mrs. Ethel Gilchrist, Mrs. Blanche Lukosky, Mrs. Mary Brumley and Mrs. Jessie Grinstead.

The legislative committee includes Mrs. Eihlers, Mrs. Clara Wegmuller and Mrs. Martha Spivey.

Miss Bennett, serving as delegate, attended the state convention in Des Moines last week. She presented a detailed report of the convention at the meeting.

Miss Neumann who placed second in the state convention presented her model, Ruth Adams, to the group. Mrs. Shoup reproduced George Truitt's hairdress which was national prize winner at the national convention in Detroit this summer.

A discussion of state legislative measures concluded the meeting.

Cow Gets Credit

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (ACP) — Give the patient, hardworking, contented cow credit for making modern photography a success!

The secret of how the bovine contributes through her hoofs to the art of picture-making was revealed recently by Dr. Lawrence S. Foster of the chemistry department at Brown university.

Dr. Foster declared the genius of the cow does not lie so much in its milk-manufacturing capacities as in its hoofs. The hoofs are lubricated with a certain kind of mustard oil which contains silver sulfide.

Silver sulfide is a tremendous aid in developing a latent image, which, Dr. Foster explained, is the secret of modern photography.

Pro-Czech

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (ACP) — Joseph James Benesh, pre-business freshman at the University of Minnesota is very emphatic in his support of Czechoslovakia. He has two good reasons for being emphatic.

First, he is 100 per cent Czech. That's good reason, but Joe's second is even more important.

His grandad, Matt Benesh, is a cousin of Eduard Benes, ex-president of Czechoslovakia, now exiled and newly-signed University of Chicago lecturer. That makes Joe third cousin of the most famous Czech.

Quotable Quotes

"Until we can realize the ideal, let us idealize the real." President Charles N. Pace of Hamline university quotes another, unidentified, college prexy in his homecoming address.

"Education is a preparation that helps a man to understand his environment and to live there happily and usefully." William Allen White, the sage of Emporia, Kan., states his philosophy of learning at K. U.'s 75th anniversary.

"In spite of our high ideals... the American people have never really given a fair trial to adequate education for the entire population as a preventive of social ills and as a method of social progress." Reuben T. Shaw, president of the National Education association, urges further extensions of educational opportunity.

Soviet Production Up

MOSCOW (AP) — A 13.1 per cent increase in industrial production in the U.S.S.R. is reported by Soviet statisticians for the first half of 1938. Production of consumer's goods increased by 11.2 per cent during the same period, it is said.

Former Russian Premier Will Present University Lecture

Kerensky To Speak at Union Tuesday Night

Chooses to Defend Democratic Ideals in World of Menace

Alexander Kerensky, premier of Russia in 1917, will deliver the second university lecture Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock in Iowa Union, it was announced by Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, chairman of the senate board on university lectures.

The subject of Kerensky's address will be "Dictatorships and Democracies."

In a world where dictatorships are a growing menace and where so much is being said about the actual failure of democracy or its destined failure in the very near future, Alexander Kerensky chooses to defend a defense of democratic ideals and methods.

He has been a confirmed democrat all his life. While still an extremely young man, as a representative of socialist labor in the Duma, his daring criticism of the corruption in the government was responsible for the repeated urging of the Czarina that he be hanged.

Kerensky resisted the dissolution of the Duma by the Czar with the courage that is typical of him — "We will not go," he declared, "we will stay here."

Kerensky first came to public notice when he defended the workmen in the River Lima strike in Russia. The action was characteristic of him as a barrister and later as a public official, for he always backed the under-dog; his clients were the poor, the unfortunate, the persecuted racial minorities. Later, as minister of justice, one of his first acts was to release political prisoners in Siberia.

His five years in the Duma were a thorough training for the brilliant career that followed. The year 1917 was one of meteoric rise and fall for Kerensky, for he was successively minister of justice in the provisional government, minister of war and marine, prime minister, generalissimo and dictator, and chief of the provisional government of five. Ironically enough, Kerensky's insistence on democratic methods during his rule was partially responsible for the ease with which he was deposed by the Bolsheviks.

He had stressed freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of belief, depending on the indefinite force of public opinion rather than an armed force to back him. When the pendulum swung, the man who had been worshipped as a god at the beginning of the Revolution had no definitely organized group behind him with which to retaliate.

Although there was a price on his head, he stayed in Russia in disguise until well into 1918, leaving finally by way of Murmansk on a British destroyer. The years since then Kerensky had lived abroad — in England, Czechoslovakia, Germany and more recently in France.

As head of the republican-democratic bloc, including such outstanding democrats as Prof. P. N. Milukov, Kerensky aspires to have his paper, "New Russia" (published bi-monthly in Paris), become the nucleus or pivot for the organizing work of democratic Russians abroad. Three hundred of every issue are sent to Russia.

Many of Kerensky's articles have appeared in various periodicals in the United States. He is also the author of two books, "The Russian Revolution, March-November, 1917" and "The Crucifixion of Liberty."

Generally accepted as the best contemporary Russian orator, his highly emotional style is at the same time terse and forceful. Confident from 1918 to 1920, that the Bolshevik fever could not be bludgeoned out by allied intervention, Kerensky is just as convinced today that the Soviets' faults are minimized and their achievements exaggerated.

He still holds to his faith in democracy, which he believes to be the one sane doctrine in an over-mad world.

Admission to the lecture will be by tickets which will be available to faculty and students on Saturday and Monday at the Union desk. Any tickets which remain on Tuesday will be available to the general public.

Prof. Van der Zee To Speak to Philo Club Sunday Night

Members of the Philo club will meet Sunday night in the cafeteria of Iowa Union.

Prof. J. Van der Zee of the political science department will speak at the meeting. His subject will be "Political Conditions in the United States Today."

Will Be Speaker

ALEXANDER KERENSKY

Second speaker of the university lecture series will be Alexander Kerensky, above, who will be heard Tuesday evening in the senate chamber of Old Capitol, speaking on "Dictatorships and Democracies."

Studies Path Wylie Wants to Find Meteor Trail

It's not the meteorites themselves—those pitted stones should go to museums—but the scientific computation of the accurate paths of meteors, something upon which little research has been done, that is occupying Prof. C. C. Wylie, University of Iowa astronomer.

And to help him with his calculations, Professor Wylie asked for reports yesterday from anyone who saw the bright meteor hurtling downward in the north-west sky Sunday at 5:35 p.m.

The meteor was sighted by a man on the government bridge at Davenport and from his description appeared to be one of the larger ones, the university astronomer said.

Meanwhile, Professor Wylie is conducting a study of the four-pound meteorite which crashed through a car in a garage near Joliet, Ill., Sept. 29.

He is attempting to gather reports from towns in the vicinity as to the path and direction of the daylight meteor. Since this is only the second authentic recovery of a meteorite in Illinois, the other occurring in 1927, the plotting of its path is of scientific importance.

Prof. S. Bush To Give Talk

Prof. Stephen Bush of the Romance language department will speak on "The European Crisis" at a meeting of the Cedar Rapids College club Saturday.

Professor Bush studied the European situation when he recently attended the emergency peace conference between the countries involved in the Sudeten incident. At the time of the outbreak of trouble he was in Paris. Previous to this recent trip to Europe, Prof. Bush spent several summers studying current conditions there.

Members of the College club will meet at 2:15 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Herbert C. Ring, 2508

Advanced Curriculum in Social Work Placed on Two-year Graduate Level

Demand for competent social workers in public and private agencies, increased with the current emphasis upon social welfare as a function of government, has resulted in the development of a graduate professional curriculum at the University of Iowa.

For the first time this fall, this curriculum in the division of social administration of the commerce college was placed on a two-year graduate level. The major emphasis of the division is upon the preparation of students for professional social work.

All of the basic content is covered in the first graduate year. Included are such courses as social case work, field work, medical aspects, psychiatry for social workers, and public welfare administration.

In the second year the course is based upon problems of administration, specialized case work, research, and an integration of courses from related fields to broaden the scholar's equipment. The advanced degree of master of arts is awarded upon completion of the course.

Field work, one of the most important parts, is taken concurrently with the course. Some of the Iowa agencies affiliated are the social service league and Johnson county relief unit of Iowa City, Iowa Emergency Relief Administration, Des Moines; state board of social welfare, Des Moines; Linn county relief agency, Cedar Rapids; and the social department of university hospitals.

Engineers To Attend Meeting

Faculty Will Go To Des Moines for Two Conventions Tomorrow

Members of the faculty of the engineering department of the University of Iowa, will be in Des Moines tomorrow to attend two meetings of engineering organizations.

The first meeting to be held in the morning will be of the Iowa Engineering society with the problem of the revision of the constitution of the society before the meeting. Prof. H. O. Croft of the mechanical engineering department of the university is a director of the society.

The meeting of the Iowa section of the American Society of Civil Engineers will be held in the afternoon.

Principal speakers will be Dean F. M. Dawson of the college of engineering of the University of Iowa, who will speak on "What Next in Engineering Education?"; and Dean T. R. Agg of the engineering department of the Iowa State Agricultural college will discuss the activities of the society.

Prof. R. B. Kittredge of the civil engineering department is secretary of the Iowa section of the society.

Iowa to Debate in Dual Meets

Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois all will face University of Iowa debaters tomorrow in the greatest concentration of dual contests in the university's forensic history.

The Iowans will face Wisconsin at 4 p.m. and at 8 p.m. another Iowa team will argue against Minnesota. Meanwhile still a third team will speak against Illinois at Urbana. All will discuss the proposition of an alliance between United States and Great Britain.

Bever avenue SE. Mrs. William P. Whipple will serve as chairman of the hostess committee at this meeting.

College club members will join with the Business and Professional Women's club and the American Association of University Women in sponsoring a lecture by Marjorie Hillis, author of "Live Alone and Like It." The lecture will be Dec. 8.

Amateur Photography Contest Opened by Hawkeye Editor

Campus Life Scenes To Be Submitted To Hawkeye by Dec. 13

A photography contest for Hawkeye pictures was announced yesterday by John Evans, A3 of North English, editor of the junior publication.

Contest pictures, which will be judged by an expert photographer, must be submitted in collections of five similar sized pictures to the Hawkeye office in the journalism building before Dec. 13. The contest is underway now.

Photographs must be identified, including the names of persons who may be pictured. Pictures may show anything pertaining to student or campus life.

First prize for the contest will be $5 in cash. Second, third and fourth prizes are free Hawkeye yearbooks. Any amateur photographer may enter the contest. Groups of pictures may be entered by students who are not photographers. Individuals may enter more than one group.

Pictures of any size, depicting campus and student life, may be submitted to the Hawkeye exclusive of the contest groups, Evans said.

"This contest offers an opportunity for everyone to be pictured in the Hawkeye," he explained. "The purpose of the Hawkeye this year is to include, insofar as possible, a picture of every student. We need the cooperation of those who can assist through the field of photography, whether their photos are entered for prizes or not, by turning in pictures of student life."

German Club Will Sponsor Movie Today

Film Will Be Shown At 3:30 and 7:15 In Fine Arts Building

German club will sponsor a matinee and evening showing today of the film, "Der alte und der junge Koenig," starring Emil Jannings in the role of Frederick William I of Prussia, the father of Frederick the Great.

The film will be shown at 3:00 and 7:15 p.m. in the fine arts auditorium.

The picture portrays the growing hatred of the young prince for his royal father, who seeks by every means to make a soldier of the sensitive youth and to steel him for the difficult tasks which, as the future king of Prussia, will confront him.

Jannings gives a fine performance as the headstrong monarch, who regards the cultural pursuits of his son as effeminate, and as endangering the welfare of the struggling state.

The play ends with the death of Frederick William and the realization on the part of the young king that his father, however violent his temper and however great the sacrifices he demanded, was not really a petty tyrant but a great king.

You knew Sam... and Sam knew You

If you were raised in the country you'll remember the old general store. It hasn't been so very long ago since a trip to Sam Barnes at Simpkin's Corner was the one and only way to stock the pantry and furnish the home. You knew Sam and Sam knew you. He'd send you word when he had a bargain in coffee and spices, a new bolt of dotted swiss, or feathered hats from the city.

A changing world... a modern world with countless new desires and a higher standard of living... has made it difficult for one man or one store to fill all your requirements. Chain stores and independents, department stores and specialty shops... there are many "Sams" and you don't know them all personally. But there is a way to become better acquainted with these men.

Read their advertisements in the newspapers. The advertisement is the advertiser's voice and personality. He tells you about new labor-saving devices, of tasty foods, of new dainties for your home. Virtual Moral Quarantine Of Nazis by United States Seen with Wilson Recall

Observers Believe Pan-American Family Will Follow Suit

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—A virtual moral quarantine of Nazi Germany by the United States because of harsh anti-Jewish measures in the Reich appears to be a possibility now that Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson has been called home from Berlin.

While Wilson was summoned nominally to report and consult, the implications of a potential severance of diplomatic relations with Germany in direct humanitarian protest are so strong as to suggest to observers that Washington is inviting other nations, particularly those of the Pan-American family, to follow suit.

The imminence of the Pan-American conference at Lima, Peru, where the tension between Washington and Berlin is likely to be discussed along with the "good neighbor" purposes of the United States rearmament program, adds to the impression that Wilson's orders are traceable to far-reaching motives of national policy.

President Roosevelt's selection of his 1938 republican rival for the presidency, Alfred M. Landon of Kansas, for service on the American delegation at Lima, had already emphasized his hope of showing to the world, particularly to Germany, that whatever discord in this country over domestic policies Berlin may read into returns of the recent national elections, it does not apply to major foreign policy.

During the American election campaign there was virtually no debate over the president's announced purpose to propose rearmament on a gigantic scale. That was read as insuring non-partisan support for the program in congress, whatever wrangling may develop over its details and financing.

On top of that has now come a national reaction to the German measures against Jews. In ordering Ambassador Wilson home with no denial of the interpretation here and abroad that the move is a virtual blacklisting of Germany in a diplomatic sense, Washington is apparently urging action, not words of protest alone.

A national-wide symposium of rebukes to Germany by former President Hoover, former Governor Landon, Secretary Ickes of the Roosevelt cabinet and religious leaders lent its own impressive background of national solidarity to the implications of the message summoning Ambassador Wilson. It was reflected, also, in John L. Lewis' address to the CIO convention in Pittsburgh.

Whether this will lead to similar steps by other countries to isolate Germany diplomatically is still to be seen. An immediate effect of the situation, however, is to redouble the expectation among Washington political observers that the Roosevelt rearmament program will have smooth sailing in the next congress.

There are even signs that, in mapping the relief budget for the new congress, the emphasis may be shifted heavily to armaments.

Hints have come out of the president's budgetary discussions with his aides that some such change may be evolved.

How it might be accomplished or what effect such a move might have on the indicated renewal of republican—and some democratic—demands for turning the relief program over to state or local administrations on a federal-grants-in-aid basis is also a matter of speculation as yet. The strength of the movement to lift relief administration out of Washington and into the hands of governors whose ranks the election strongly re-inforced with republican recruits is not apt to show itself until the new congress and the new governors take office.

Nevertheless, the German retaliation against all Jews for the assassination of a German diplomat by a young Jew has had, already, a distinct effect on the Roosevelt rearmament program, and the policy of knitting "good neighbor" ties with countries of the western hemisphere and with European democracies.

It has served to make the first wave of American public reaction, just a week after a bitter election campaign, one of national harmony that ignored party lines. If that accomplishes no other result, it places Nazi leadership on warning that political and philosophical differences in this country still stop at the national frontiers.

Roosevelt--

discussing an increased air force. Giving a possible preview of the United States arguments to be presented at the forthcoming Pan-American conference at Lima, Peru, he said world events of the past few years and the new techniques for waging war have prompted the United States to reorient itself with regard to North, Central and South America.

At no time since the Latin American countries struggled for their freedom, he said, has the solidarity between all American republics and Canada been stronger. He made it plain that he expected that there would be no defection from this policy. In commenting on German anti-Semitism, the president adopted the rare procedure of permitting direct quotation of the statement which officials characterized as highly important because a comment from the head of a nation on internal developments in another nation is an extraordinary occurrence.

Ambassador Wilson, Secretary of State Hull said today, is due to sail from Havre Thursday. He will arrive in New York next Thursday, one day before Hull sails from New York for the conference at Lima. Wilson will therefore have a chance to make his first report to Hull.

President Roosevelt said the instructions to Ambassador Wilson to return were—in technical, diplomatic language—not a recall, but a summons.

Judge Wins Controversy of Girl In Slacks Continues

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15 (AP)—Outspoken Helen Hulick, Los Angeles school teacher, today was sentenced to jail for five days because she wore slacks into Municipal Judge Arthur Guerin's court, and was released on a writ of habeas corpus after serving one hour.

She also climbed out of the blue denim blouse and skirt the jail matron had given her, and got right back into the slacks.

Yesterday, Judge Guerin refused to allow Miss Hulick to testify against two Negroes accused of robbing her house because she was attired in gray-green slacks and form fitting orange sweater. He told her to go home and change to "women's clothes," and to come back today.

Today she wore the slacks and a red and white blouse. Judge Guerin let her testify and then sentenced her to five days for contempt.

Miss Hulick's lawyer, William Katz, said his client had a street dress, but no silk stockings. He said she refused to buy silk stockings "because the silk comes from Japan and every pair means a dead Chinese."

Debate--

one, brought by Professor Baird to Iowa in 1924.

Last night's debate centered about the plausibility of a written agreement between the United States and Great Britain.

Loren Hickerson and George Hill, Iowa's representatives, called the idea a "military alliance" and an "invitation to war."

America, they argued, must adopt a policy of "watchful waiting."

Christopher Paget Mayhew and Phillip R. Noakes, from Oxford and Cambridge, disagreed.

Such an agreement would, they said, tend to relieve the tension in Europe, preserve the status quo and prevent further extensions of power by Germany's Hitler.

Otherwise, they believe, a war is inevitable; and the United States will be drawn in anyway.

Both teams admitted a policy of isolation cannot succeed for the United States.

"England and America must stand together or fall together," said Mr. Noakes. "On the contrary," argued Mr. Hill, "America can be of more value to the peace of the world without agreements with one specific country."

Each team also criticized the foreign policy of the other's country; each said the other's was "inconsistent."

Hickerson and Hill's argument was simply that the United States will quite naturally cooperate with Great Britain just as she will cooperate with the other powers of the world but that a "military alliance" would be an "offensive alliance."

The Englishmen averred that unless the United States does join such a two-way alliance, Hitler's further demands will go on.

They claimed the only way to peace in the world is an alliance of the world's democratic powers against the fascist line-up of today.

It was all in good fun, the debate, and sprinkled with representative examples of English and American humor.

Cultivates Hens That Grow Big Eggs

FLOYDADA, Tex. (AP)—Fess Whitfill's chicken experiments finally are showing results. Selecting only hens that produced big eggs, he has conducted breeding experiments through several generations and now has a flock of white leghorn pullets whose first eggs are far larger than average. Some of them measured as much as 5 1/2 by 6 5-8 inches in circumference.

ROMANCE UNB

Sara Sue Davis, attractive young widow, creates a furore on the campus of Rice Institute in Texas, when she erects a sign in front of her cottage announcing "COUNSEL IN ROMANCE." Her plan is to help guide 100 student "members" in their social and love affairs for a small fee. Bob Towne, campus football hero, attracted by Sara Sue, is the first to enroll. This enrages Peaches Pomeroy, a senior, who regarded herself as "Bob's girl" the previous year. Worthington Gurley, unprepossessing freshman, provides another interesting problem for Sara Sue. But the climax in her Cottage Plan occurs when Dr. Thornton Holgate, new member of the faculty, begs Sara Sue to help him... then confides he has fallen in love with Peaches Pomeroy. Gurley obtains a date with Sara Sue for the freshman ball, which displeases Towne; but Bob accepts it gracefully. Sara Sue finds her affairs growing complicated, but feels much better after confiding her troubles to a close friend, Roxey Powell. At a meeting of the college faculty, it is evident that Sara Sue Davis, Inc., is playing a prominent part in campus life.

(Now Go On With the Story)

CHAPTER 11

DR. THORNTON HOLGATE had meant exactly what he said when he called on Sara Sue Davis, Incorporated. Truly, love had come to him. Or so he felt. When he had left her cottage late that night, Sara Sue had promised sincerely to help him all she could in his campaign to win Peaches Pomeroy.

Now, therefore, he was back in her private office for more definite advice, and Sara Sue was giving it to him.

"You say that you are backward, Dr. Holgate. I imagine you are just unnecessarily shy. So, I am ordering you to go to the freshman ball, mingle with the crowd, dance with the prettiest—"

"But, my dear Mrs. Davis, I do not dance!"

Sara Sue smiled.

"That's history, Dr. Holgate. Hereafter you definitely do dance. You are, in fact, going downtown to a dancing academy at once, and take a course of quick private lessons."

"But—um. Very well, madam." His expression was that of a martyr.

"If you will permit it, the learning process will be fun."

"I hope it will be!"

Sara Sue laughed outright. "No! On the contrary Dr. Holgate, just let it be, can't you? You can't force pleasure. Just relax. Be yourself. Be more—er—undignified. You see what I mean? Pick the prettiest girl and take her to the freshman ball. Dance just the simplest slide-slide steps, it won't matter. Nobody cares. But smile. Laugh. Talk. Tease the girls. Anything."

"Oh! Oh, my!"

She repressed her laughter this time. Not that she was laughing at him derisively, but because he was honestly amusing in his naivete.

"First, though, I have some other instructions. They will be a little easier, although they are very personal, Dr. Holgate."

"I am not easily offended, I am proud to say."

"That's fine! Proof that you can be popular, if you will. Now listen—I have studied you very carefully, analyzed you thoroughly. You have needed a sister or two, I fear, so you must obey me implicitly. Remember, you are under contract to accept my services!"

He managed a polite smile at that himself. And he nodded eagerly.

"First, then, discard this suit. The trousers are out of style. The cut of the coat is—last year's. Go to any men's shop and get a snappy outfit, Dr. Holgate."

"Thank you, I shall."

"Get some fashionable shirts, ties, Sox and oxfords—goodness, young men do not wear high-top shoes, Dr. Holgate!"

"But I am of the faculty, madam, and have been—"

"Hush! You may be all that, but you are human, too. Mind me now, get smart new oxfords, and another pair of lighter ones for dancing, too. Stick a gay hanky in your coat pocket, snap your hat brim down, and come to see me again. That's the assignment for today. Good-by."

She took a certain pleasure in handling the interview as a teacher would. Actually customer No. 100 was proving to be a lot of fun. Dr. Holgate felt no grass grow under his feet. As soon as classroom requirements permitted, he hastened downtown on a shopping tour.

He purchased three suits, donned one of them in the store. The clerk told him, truthfully, that he had a very good figure. "I have loved to swim," Dr. Holgate explained. "It is strengthening, invigorating, and it permits one to engage in meditation undisturbed."

The rather heavy purchase caused the salesman to take a hearty interest in him, so that the professor was fitted in really tasteful details. He emerged from the store looking something like a male model. But he insisted on carrying his two extra suits, boxed under his arm.

He wanted to show these to Sara

Sue, and so he went directly to her cottage. That was at 5 p.m., however, and a crowd was there, so he tried to back out the door and go away.

"Dr. Holgate!" Sara Sue spied him.

She dragged him back into the entrance hall. "Won-der-ful!" she complimented, whispering. "Leave the parcels here, now, and come on in and mingle with the bunch."

He beamed, and he blushed, but he had no chance whatsoever to hold back or say no. All at once he was in a crowd, and the colleagues were singing. In his new outfit, Sara Sue was quick to observe, he was more presentable than any of them. He stood near the group, staring.

"Get in it," Sara Sue murmured in his ear, smiling. "Laugh, talk, anything. Do you sing?"

"I do, yes! In fact, I have done some choral work, in Massachusetts. Twice in the Presbyterian choir I was asked to sing solos, but—"

That was enough for Sara Sue. She was determined to break the professor's shell if it cost a life. She interrupted the gang and addressed them.

"Listen, fellows," she said gaily, "do you know we have a real singer here! Sure enough! Thornton Holgate has agreed to do a solo. What'll it be, Thorny?"

He gazed at her in consternation.

"Thorny! No one had called him that since he was a high school student! And whatever could he sing that would appeal to these students?"

He swallowed hard, twice. Sara Sue took pity on him.

"How about something we can all join in on a chorus?" she suggested sweetly. "Not your classical pieces, but—can you do 'Home on the Range'?"

A chorus of approval answered her. The gang all knew it, of course. All liked it. Automatically the pianist, a junior girl, began playing the accompaniment.

Sara Sue poked Dr. Holgate in the back, not too gently, and shoved him near the piano. He was quite flushed, but nobody noticed. Like a novice about to take his first parachute drop, he cleared his throat and pitched in—"O give us a home, where the buffalo roam—"

The crowd listened—with increasing respect. He faltered a trifle at first, but he got into the swing of it rapidly. By the time they had joined him in the first chorus and he had moved into the second stanza, self-assurance had returned.

He caught the zest of singing now and boomed out with a really good baritone.

"Yip-pee, ride 'em cowboy!" some youngster shouted, and the chorus came again.

He leaned over the pianist then, to read the words of the third and fourth stanzas. Quite naturally and matter-of-factly a couple of fellows put their arms over his shoulders and joined him. The harmony was good. Something in him tightened for a second at their contact, but all at once he relaxed and sang even better. When it was done he laughed, quite spontaneously, then looked hastily at Sara Sue. She winked at him, and nodded.

"What did she say your name was? Holgate?" a student asked.

"Ah—yes. Holgate. Thornton Holgate."

"Hadn't met you. Mine's Wilson. Glad to know you, Thorny." The lad extended a hand. "Thought I knew all the seniors. You must be a transfer, or a post-grad?"

"I—ah—yes. I am new here." Dr. Holgate stammered, shaking hands. "Thank you, thank you, indeed. It is a pleasure to meet you, ah—Wils."

"Spike's the nickname," Spike grinned, friendly. "Well, come on, let's raid Sara Sue's kitchen. Ought to be some nourishment out here."

When they drifted back to the big living room, however, the pianist began banging an irresistible dance rhythm. The girl nearest Dr. Holgate instantly started swaying her shoulders and body and humming a little, and in quite natural, routine manner moved in front of him and put her arm around him, waiting for him to dance away with her. Three other couples glided off in that instant, too.

Dr. Holgate's mouth dropped open.

He had never danced in his life. He had this afternoon shared a brief dance companionship more precious than anything he had ever known before, and he wouldn't have broken its spell for a billion dollars and 10 years of his life. But he didn't even know how to grasp the girl.

A terrifying, choking sensation swelled within him.

Job With the King

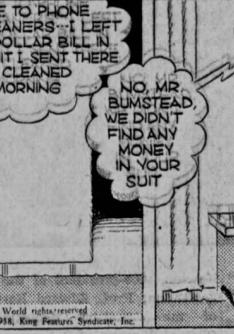

LONDON (AP)—June, a bay mare on the metropolitan police force, may find herself in the King George's service one of these days.

It is reported His Majesty is interested in buying her. If he does, he will be following a custom observed by his father, George VI, and contemplated by his brother, Edward VIII, both of whom liked police chargers for ceremonial occasions because they are specially trained to ignore the excitement of crowds.

Clarence Miles Will Speak at Meeting of Secretaries Here

Chamber of Commerce Member To Speak Today at Luncheon

Morning Program Has Two Round Table Discussions

Clarence Miles of the United States chamber of commerce will be the main speaker at the final luncheon-meeting of the Iowa Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries to be held this noon at the Jefferson hotel.

After the luncheon delegates will select the site of the spring convention city and elect new officers.

This morning there will be two breakfast group meetings. One group, representing cities of under 10,000 population, will meet at Smith's cafe for breakfast and a round-table discussion. The other, composed of delegates from cities of over 10,000 population, will meet at the Jefferson hotel for the same purpose.

Yesterday's activities consisted of a joint meeting with the Kiwanis club at their regular noon meeting at the hotel, afternoon round-table discussions, and a dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the main dining room of the Jefferson hotel.

The dinner speaker was Prof. C. Woody Thompson of the college of commerce who talked on "What Is Ahead For Business?"

Another feature on the program was the appearance of Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger and assistants of the speech department who gave a demonstration of sound effects in radio broadcasting.

Approximately 50 delegates and business men of the city attended the dinner.

A stag party in Reich's pine room climaxed the day's activities.

Says Railroads Can End Need Of Forwarders

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission said today the railroads "should and can" improve their method of handling less-than-carload traffic and eliminate the necessity for forwarding companies.

Failure of the railroads through "cooperative effort" to end the need for forwarders, the commission suggested, would lead to new legislation to regulate them, as to their rates and charges and their relations with other transportation companies. Forwarding companies now are unregulated.

Reporting on its long investigation of forwarding companies, the commission devoted much of 330 printed pages to a discussion of "abuses" by forwarding companies.

Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman, who dissented, said the majority should be "more concrete and specific" in its findings.

"From my experience with this general subject," Eastman wrote, "I do not believe that the railroads will take any constructive action wholly of their own volition. There are too many apparently conflicting interests to be resolved, and a general disposition to resist collective action on so broad a scale."

There are approximately 20 forwarders, the principal ones being Universal Carloading and Distributing company, National Carloading corporation, and Acme Fast Freight, Incorporated.

The general practice of forwarders is to assemble into carload lots shipments of merchandise from individual consignors. They offer the shipments to railroads in carload lots and pay the carload rate, the difference between the carload and the railroad less-than-carload rates gives the forwarding companies their profit.

'Queen' To Rule City

Local Girl Will Be Santa Claus' Helper Here November 26

"Queen" for a day. That is the distinction coming to some young woman of Iowa City or the surrounding territory Saturday, Nov. 26, when Santa Claus brings his parade here.

Her name for the day will be "Miss Merry Christmas," and she will rule over the city on that Saturday.

The local committee in charge of the Santa Claus celebration here has announced that some Iowa City girl or girl in surrounding territory will be chosen to act as Santa Claus' right hand helper and to bear the title of "Miss Merry Christmas."

"Miss Merry Christmas" as personified by the local girl will ride on a float especially designed for her and on which will be a cutter with reindeer. She will be surrounded by her ladies-in-waiting, more girls chosen in Iowa City and surrounding territory by the committee.

In taking the character of "Merry Christmas," the girl will find a certain tradition to uphold. According to stories from Santa Claus land, she is Santa's guiding assistant and as such has come to be known in many cities almost as well as the patron saint himself. She has been accompanying Santa on his pre-Christmas visits for the past few years.

Additional local girls, costumed and carrying shields on which are single letters of the alphabet, will march in front of the "Merry Christmas" float, their banners spelling out the words, "Merry Christmas."

The local committee soon will announce the name of the girl who will personify "Miss Merry Christmas" in the parade which will be held here on Saturday, Nov. 26, beginning promptly at 10:30 a.m.

Mixed Teams Open Volleyball Tourney

Mixed teams, four men and four women to a team, opened their volleyball tournament last night with Eastlawn's first and second teams taking most of the honors.

Eastlawn first defeated Coast house 27 to 12 and then went on to beat Alpha Delta Pi 23 to 14. Eastlawn second defeated Kappa Alpha Theta 28 to 13 and Alpha Delta Pi 21 to 18.

The only other game was between Coast house and Kappa Alpha Theta with Coast house the victor by a 25-20 score.

These same teams will play each Tuesday night for four weeks, with the final winner reckoned on a percentage basis.

Insulin for Delirium Tremens

Small Quantities of Hormone for Treatment of Mild Insanity

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 15 (AP)—A new use of insulin in the treatment of delirium tremens and similar mental disorders was reported today to the Southern Medical association.

Dr. G. Wilsie Robinson Jr., of Kansas City, Mo., said the hormone, already in wide use in the shock treatment of almost hopeless mental cases, may be even more useful in the treatment of milder forms of insanity.

Such patients, who suffer from wild hallucinations, inability to eat or sleep, and have suicidal impulses, can be brought back to normal within 24 hours with small doses of insulin, he said. The treatment has been used on hundreds of persons in a Kansas City hospital with no unfavorable results, he added.

Insulin seems to act as a stimulant for the entire body in removing toxic poisons which accumulate when a person eats or drinks too much or too little or is under severe mental strain. These poisons, ordinarily eliminated through the liver cause an expansion of the blood vessels which feed the brain and leakage into the brain tissue itself.

The result, Dr. Robinson declared, is a general fogging up of the mental processes, causing a person to have imaginary ideas, be unable to orient himself in his environment, and to develop into a maniac.

However the administration of small doses of insulin has been found to calm such patients, enable them to sleep, regain their appetites, and return to normal.

A number of delirium tremens patients, suffering from violent hallucinations of snakes and pink elephants and ready to commit suicide calmed down within an hour after the first injection of insulin was given and within two hours were sitting up and demanding food, Dr. Robinson said.

One patient who had not slept or eaten for five days and had caused severe damage to his brain as a result was restored to normal mental activity within 23 hours after entering the hospital.

The first dose of insulin causes acute hunger and after the second dose the mental symptoms improve. One-half hour after the second dose the patient begins to quiet down and soon falls asleep.

Commerce Secretaries Talk It Over

Caught sitting around a dinner table at last night's meeting of the group; Prof. C. Woody Thompson of the college of commerce of the University of Iowa; Charles Bowman, local chamber of commerce secretary; Neal Hammer of

Martin Names Atty. Dunlop As Secretary

Both Men to Leave Early in December For Congress Opening

Thomas E. Martin, congressman-elect from the first Iowa district has announced the appointment of Attorney Kenneth M. Dunlop as his secretary.

Both men plan to leave Iowa City late in December for Washington in order to be on hand for the opening session of congress Jan. 3.

Dunlop is a past commander of Roy L. Chopek post of the American Legion and a past exalted ruler of the Iowa City Elks lodge.

From 1928-36 he was republican county chairman for Johnson county. This year, as first district chairman, he directed the republican campaign in the first district. He also served several years as Johnson county chairman of the Republican Service league.

Dunlop was born and raised in Jefferson and graduated from high school there. He graduated from the University of Iowa college of law in 1928 and has practiced since that time in Iowa City.

He is married and the father of twin girls, Joan and Jane, six years of age, and a son, David, eight years old.

Both Dunlop and Martin will continue to reside in Iowa City, being in Washington only during sessions of congress. Dunlop will continue to keep his law office open.

Firemen Do More Than Fight Fires

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—A woman called the fire department, asking in calm voice, "Will you please come to my house?"

Firemen roared up to the place, put a ladder against the house and climbed in.

All 'Y' Party To Be in Cafeteria Of Iowa Union

The Y.W.C.A. will have an all 'Y' party tonight at 7:30 in the cafeteria of Iowa Union. Helen Ries, A3 of Iowa City, social chairman, and Jayne McGovern, A2 of Iowa City, are in charge of the party plans.

Phyllis Wassam, A4 of Iowa City, will give a preview of the organization's year program. Mary Ellen Lytle, A2 of Washington, will lead group singing.

Game leaders for the evening are Jane Fink, A3 of Louisville, Ky., chairman; June Hyland, A2 of Traer, Mary McHugh, A2 of Sioux City, Adele Ronan, A2 of Albany, N. Y., Miss McGovern, Miss Ries, Era Haupt, A4 of Marshalltown, Margaret Schnug,

CHICAGO (AP)—Boys between the ages of 17 and 20 are in the gambling, reckless age, likely to frequent taverns and are hard to interest in club activities, said Sanford Bates, executive director of the Boys Clubs of America, here recently.

He advised boys clubs to provide sports, dancing and education to induce the 17-20 lads to attend.

Violators Attend Traffic School; Fines Reduced

Two more violators received suspensions of their fines when Police Judge Burke N. Carson allowed them to attend traffic school next Thursday night.

George Tripp was fined $15 and costs, but $11 was suspended when he was allowed to attend traffic school; Jack R. Hughes was fined $25 and costs for illegal passing, and $15 was suspended for attendance at traffic school.

W. F. Schmidt and Mrs. W. E. Grimm were each fined $1 for parking overtime; L. Koch was fined $1 for having his left wheel to the curb; E. B. Klingaman parked in a prohibited zone and was dismissed.

Robert Bennett Held on Bond

Judge J. Gaffney Hears Four Cases In District Court

Robert Bennett, 22, of Davenport was arraigned on the charge of larceny of a motor vehicle. He pleaded "not guilty" and is being held on a $1,500 bond in the county jail.

Among the three others appearing before Judge Gaffney was John Murphy Jr., 28, of Iowa City who pleaded guilty to the charge of forgery. The time for his sentence was deferred to Feb. 1, 1939. At present Murphy is without bond and is working in Des Moines.

John Burris, 22, from Plattsville, Wis., was found guilty of larceny from a building in the day time. He was sentenced to serve five years in the men's reformatory at Anamosa.

Henry Bush, 19, of Iowa City was sentenced to one year in the county jail, after he pleaded guilty to the charge of larceny from a motor vehicle. Judge Gaffney suspended his

Deadline for Bids on Road Project To Be Today at 1:30

PWA Funds Make Road Improvement Program Possible

Bids on the largest secondary road improvement program ever undertaken in Johnson county will be received by the board of supervisors until 1:30 this afternoon, the time set for letting of the contracts.

The project involves the surfacing of 54.10 miles of roads with crushed stone, completing a three-year program in the county to bring these roads to permanent grades.

The letting of such a large undertaking, according to R. H. Justen, county engineer, is possible only in that the federal government under the public works administration will pay 45 per cent of the total cost of the project, for which a maximum of $100,000 has been fixed.

Johnson county will supply the remaining 55 per cent of the expenditure.

All the labor for the project, with the exception of a few key men, will be supplied by the county, as will practically all the rock quarried for the work.

This improvement, which involves 54,100 cubic yards of surfacing, must be finished within 220 days after the starting date, Dec. 16, although the work, it was pointed out, under proper conditions should be completed in about 100 days.

Grenadiers Unit To Perform At Dance Tonight

As an added attraction to their dance tonight in the Community building, 60 members of the Iowa City Grenadiers drum and bugle corps will present a demonstration during intermission.

The unit, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, is giving the dance to raise funds to enable them to go to Boston next year for the national competition.

Electric Rates Being Reduced

New Scale Prices To Commence With Consumer's Next Bill

Announcement of a reduction in electric rates to commercial users in the city was made yesterday by Roscoe E. Taylor, general manager of the Iowa City Light and Power company.

The reduction commences with the consumers' next bills. Taylor said, in announcing the reduction, that the "lower rate is made possible by increased commercial use of our service and in keeping with the established policy of the company to decrease cost of service to the customers as the increased volume of sales permits."

The reductions will affect all commercial block rate customers and also the optional demand rate customers.

The new rate follows: first 50 kilowatt hours, six cents; next 450 kilowatt hours, three cents; next 3500 kilowatt hours, two and a half cents; over 4000 kilowatt hours, two cents. The minimum bill will be 75 cents.
