Plans to Move German Jews Get Under Way

Britain to Support Immigration of Jews Into Colonial Empire

LONDON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Britain called on her vast colonial empire today to support United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy's international plan to find refuge for German Jews.

Prime Minister Chamberlain asked the governors of British Guiana, Tanganyika, Kenya and other colonies to report immediately how many Jews their territories could accommodate.

At the same time Britain asked the British dominions and the United States and other major powers with which she was prepared to do, Chamberlain announced in the house of commons that he hoped to make a full statement on his government's plans early next week.

Director Confers

George Rublee, American executive director of the 31-nation inter-governmental committee for refugees, conferred with Malcolm MacDonald, secretary for colonies and dominions, and Early Winterton, chairman of the committee.

Later Rublee estimated it would cost $600,000,000 to attain "final solution" of the German Jews' problem. It is estimated there are 600,000 Jews in Germany, now subject to one of the greatest campaigns of anti-Semitism.

In Addition to Humanitarian Motives, Britain was said to support immigration of Jews into her colonial empire for two reasons:

1. Less than one thousandth of the colonial population is white.
2. The addition of German Jews to the colonial population might strengthen opposition to Germany's agitation for return of war-lost colonies.

Holds Mandate

The latter reason was said to have much weight with the Union of South Africa which holds a mandate over Southwest Africa, a former German colony.

The problem was a tremendous one. Even if and when the British territory were opened an international committee must find money to transport the refugees and take care of them after their arrival.

Kennedy apparently had impressed the British government with the need of tackling the problem on a large scale and with greatest possible speed. He talked with MacDonald three times this morning and discussed the plan with Clement R. Attlee, opposition leader in the house of commons, and other leading laborites tonight.

The American ambassador's plan has been described authoritatively as calling for an effort to remove most of the Jews from Germany to North and South America and to parts of the British, French and the Netherlands empires.

The envoy laid the scheme before Chamberlain on Tuesday and the cabinet considered it yesterday.

Urge Nazi Boycott

CHICAGO, (AP)—A boycott of Nazi goods and ideas was advocated yesterday at a mass meeting of University of Chicago undergraduates.

Germans Bury Diplomat As Martyr; Jews Fear Attacks

BERLIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—Jews, lived in dire suspense today as the Nazis solemnly buried as a martyr the young diplomat whose assassination occasioned the latest outburst of anti-Semitism.

The government withheld further restrictive decrees that Jews had expected after the services for Ernst Vom Rath, fatally wounded by a Jewish youth, Herschel Grynszpan, in the German embassy in Paris last week.

But two officials in funeral orations for Vom Rath in Dusseldorf warned that "we understand the challenge (of Jewry), and accept it," and "no measure of terror can bring Germany back to slavery." Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler attended the services, but did not speak.

Though there were no new decrees, there were new prohibitions, such as a hotelman's ban on Jewish guests, and new hints that thousands of Jews might be evicted from homes overnight. Jews hoped for the fruition of an Anglo-American plan to help them emigrate, but Nazi newspapers unleashed new attacks on the United States and Great Britain.

Douglas Miller, United States commercial attache here, was called to Washington today, less than 24 hours after the departure of Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson for

Masters to Attend Pep Rally

Frankie Accepts Invitation to Help Stir Up Enthusiasm for Final Game

"Happy to help with pep meeting. On Iowa. Let's make it good. Thanks." Frankie Masters.

The above was the telegram received by Pi Epsilon Pi, Iowa's pep fraternity in answer to one sent to him asking him to appear at the pre-Nebraska game pep rally.

Bruce Morrow, D4 of Council Bluffs, Iowa's all-American cheer leader, will be master of ceremonies and introduce Dr. Bill Hayne, medical supervisor of men's physical education, who in turn will introduce the graduating members of the team.

Iowa's nationally known band led by Prof. Charles Righter will be present at the rally as well as the Iowa cheerleading squad headed by Morrow, who will complete six years of active cheerleading at the Nebraska game.

Masters will be here to play at the Sophomore Cotillion tonight.

C. I. O. Threatens Ford Motors Boycott Unless Ford Agrees To Bargain With U. A. W. Union

The sudden action was a climax to an exciting day in which the 500 delegates mapped a broad social security program, stood and cheered approval of a resolution requesting an exhibition of their unity, and endorsed the "humanitarian and social program" of President Roosevelt.

Action Is Climax Of Spirited Meeting Of Pittsburgh Congress

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17 (AP)—The congress of Industrial Organizations hurled today a threat of boycott by its claimed membership of 3,790,000 against the Ford Motor company unless that concern agrees to "bargain collectively" with the United Automobile Workers union.

The delegates mapped a broad social security program, stood and cheered approval of a resolution requesting an exhibition of their unity, and endorsed the "humanitarian and social program" of President Roosevelt.

Early in the day a delegate, George Bucher, of Philadelphia, had endeavored unsuccessfully to have the rules suspended to enable the consideration of a resolution placing the convention in favor of a third term for President Roosevelt.

At the request of Lee Pressman, general counsel of the C.I.O., the request was withdrawn.

Fierly speeches by Van A. Bittner, regional director of the C.I.O., and district president of the United Mine Workers, Richard Frankenstein, vice-president of the Auto Workers, and others, preceded action on the Ford resolution.

Bittner said, "If we are going to boycott Ford, let us boycott Ford. He will either manufacture cars with an agreement with auto workers or he will not sell cars in America."

"We will notify every Ford dealer we are not going to buy any Ford cars until Ford signs a contract with the U.A.W."

The resolution charged the Ford management with exercising every means of destroying all semblance of bona fide labor organization within its plants, was an "unfair competitor" with other manufacturers who have signed union agreements and

"That in event the Ford Motor company persists in its refusal to bargain collectively with the U.A.W. of A., the delegates on behalf of their unions will treat Ford products as unfair, and will so advise their respective unions."

Washington. Various interpretations were placed on each action.

Before 1,500 mourners, including Hitler and other prominent Nazis in Dusseldorf's large, swastika-draped Rhineland hall, State Secretary Ernst Wilhelm Bohle declared:

"The shots fired at Davos, Barcelona and Paris (where assassinations of Nazis have occurred) had but one aim—Germany, the third reich.

"Germans living abroad are everywhere attending to their callings and work as loyal guests of the states in which they live.

"Yet they are targets for hatred, persecution and the calumnies of international sub-humanity, which concentrates all its strength to the destruction of the resurrected Jew.

"The Jew (Grynszpan), by his own admission, wanted to strike at Germany in shooting Vom Rath. We were hard hit. But such persons always forget the Nazi movement grows but stronger through its martyrs."

Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, the other speaker at the funeral, used the words, "we understand the challenge, and accept it," that Hitler used at the funeral of Wilhelm Gustloff, Nazi organizer in Switzerland who was killed Feb. 4, 1938, by a Yugoslav student.

Two New Pacts to Increase Foreign Trade Among English Speaking Nations

Trade Pact FACTS In Brief

By the Associated Press
The Signatory Nations—The United States, Great Britain and Canada.

The Provisions—Great Britain granted tariff cuts or other concessions on about 450 American products; U. S. gave concessions on 150 British products. Canada conceded on 1,489 American products and got 400 concessions from this country in return.

Kind of Products Affected—Speaking generally, Great Britain cut duties on certain American farm products; while Canada reduced duties on a number of American factory goods. The United States, in return, will take British manufactured goods at lower duty rates, and will allow Canadian raw products into this country cheaper.

Effective Date—Both pacts become operative Jan. 1, 1939, to run three years, and indefinitely thereafter until after six months' notice of termination.

Escape Clauses—These provide, among other things, for scrapping the treaties if currency fluctuation tends to defeat their purpose.

Purpose of the Treaties—Secretary Hull, sponsor of the idea, says that lowering barriers to the flow of commerce helps preserve peace and increase world well-being.

Coach Cormack Congratulates His Boys

Ted Lewis, left, is shown receiving congratulations from Coach Herman Miller, wearing sweater, as the boys talk it over after their thrilling triumph. Yesterday's win was the first over Davenport since 1927 when the Hawkllets managed to hold the Blue Devils scoreless and tally a touchdown for a 7-0 victory. By turning back the invaders, the City high brigade thrust itself squarely into the thick of the fight for conference honors. At present, Cormack's boys are tied with West Waterloo and Franklin for first place.

Treaties Part Of American Tariff Policy

Agreement to Help All Countries Except 'Blacklisted' Reich

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Two important new trade treaties, reducing American, British and Canadian tariffs on a wide variety of commodities, made their appearance tonight amid official predictions of a broadly increased foreign commerce—and some signs of domestic controversy.

The pacts, designed to carry forward Secretary of State Hull's program of eliminating the barriers to world trade, among which he considers tariffs the foremost, were signed at a White House ceremony by Hull, Ambassador Lindsay of Great Britain and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada.

Nations Favored

The benefits of the new pacts go automatically to all nations with which the United States has so-called "most favored nation" treaties—which means every country except Germany. The Reich is on the United States' economic "blacklist" because she is accused of discriminating against American products.

Many officials clearly considered the new agreements a reply to the challenge presented by totalitarian nations' trade practices, such as the Reich's barrier deals.

Broadly speaking, Great Britain reduced her tariffs on long lists of American products, including agricultural commodities, in return for, principally, a cut in American duties on the output of England's huge yarn and cloth industry.

Cuts Duties

Canada cut its duties on fruits, vegetables, fishery products, paper products, some wood products, automobiles, machinery, aircraft and aircraft engines, numerous textiles, and chemicals. In addition it eliminated a special three per cent tariff so far as all items affected by the treaty were concerned.

For these concessions, the United States reduced its imposts on Canadian cattle, hogs, cheese, eggs, grains other than wheat, potatoes, fishery products, some paper products, silver fox furs, and Christmas trees.

Since the reciprocal tariff program has been the subject of a vigorous controversy since its inception, the treaties are considered likely to arouse a renewed dispute when the new congress meets in January. Protests are expected from the textile industry and from the dairy industry, which in several areas has maintained that even the previous rates were too low.

G. O. P. Opposed

The program was authorized by congress over vehement republican opposition. President Roosevelt was given the power to reduce the tariff rates of the Smoot-Hawley act by a maximum of 50 per cent in return for compensatory tariff reduction by other countries.

Republican opposition continued as the program was gradually put into operation. In the campaign of 1936, it was a major issue, with the republican platform declaring unequivocally for its repeal. Less was heard of it, generally speaking, in the campaign just closed, except in certain circles.

Beran to Head New Party In Czechoslovakia

PRAGUE, Nov. 17 (AP)—A new national party, a coalition with a powerful bloc in parliament, issued a proclamation today declaring a state of "authentic democracy" in Czechoslovakia and parliament reassembled after an interval of three months in which the nation had been dismembered.

Premier Jan Syrovny in an address before the legislators asserted "we are sincerely desirous to live in peace with all states, especially with our great neighbor, the German Reich."

The new national party, called the state party for national unity, is an amalgamation of the former Agrarian, national unity and fascist parties with the new industrial party. It was organized recently and formally announced today.

Rudolph Beran, former leader of the Agrarians, became its head.

One of Spain's Longest Battles Ends With Rebels in Control

HENDAYE, France, Nov. 17 (AP)—The battle of the Ebro river, one of the longest and most bitterly fought of the Spanish civil war, ended today with Spanish insurgents once more in complete control of the west bank.

Insurgent dispatches hailed the victory as one of the greatest triumphs of the war, now two years and four months old.

Government advisers insisted, however, that the defending militiamen had withdrawn to the east bank in good order after abandoning positions they took from the insurgents last July 25.

An insurgent communique asserted the government lost 75,000 men, more than 200 airplanes and great amounts of war supplies in the four-month Ebro campaign. Insurgent authorities listed nearly 20,000 men dead and wounded in their own forces.

The Barcelona national defense ministry estimated total insurgent losses at 80,000 men.

Egypt's Child Joy Reigns as Queen Has Daughter

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Nov. 17 (AP)—The birth of a daughter to the young king and queen of Egypt sent a wave of national rejoicing over the ancient land of the pharaohs tonight.

The baby was named Ferial.

Because a girl was born artillery salutes in the principal cities were restricted to 21 guns, instead of the 101 that would have been fired for a boy who would have been heir to the throne.

Prince Mohamed Aly, King Farouk's elderly cousin, continues to be heir apparent. Farouk and the former Farida Zulficar were married last January 20.

The baby was born in Montaza palace where Queen Farida was attended by an obstetrician who attended her own birth 17 years ago. An Egyptian midwife and two English nurses also were present.

The 18-year old king, beaming with pride, went in to see his firstborn as she lay in an elaborately embroidered ancient Egyptian cradle. He had hurried back from Cairo today. Official duties had taken him to Cairo last night.

The word of the birth was flashed 1,500 miles down the Nile to Khartoum and to other cities and villages throughout Egypt. In the cities the news was a signal for starting lavish distribution of food and clothing to the poor. Celebrations lasted far into the night.

Japanese Regretful

HANKOW, (Friday) (AP)—Japanese consulate officials expressed regret today over an incident in which Japanese soldiers were said to have thrown a liquid disinfectant at Dr. Logan H. Roots, American missionary physician.

CURIOUS CAT!

Proverb Didn't Work; Kitten Saved

WATERTOWN, Wis., Nov. 17 (AP)—Billy, four months old kitten inspecting the roof of the First Congregational church today, tumbled into a pipe. Firemen decided Billy would have to cooperate in his rescue.

They tied a large knot at the end of a rope, and slowly lowered it 15 feet into the pipe until they felt a tug. Up came the rope. Clinging to the end, his claws firmly embedded in the knot, was Billy.

The crowd cheered.

Allen Calls Tolerance 'Luxury Of Security' in Baconian Talk

Holds Education As One Ray of Hope In Dismal Picture

"Tolerance is the luxury of security," said Prof. Ethan F. Allen of the political science department, last night, giving the second lecture of the Baconian series.

"Through a liberal and cultural education, society becomes mature, emotionally and intellectually, making self-government possible."

Thus Professor Allen held out education as the one ray of hope in the otherwise dark picture painted in his lecture.

Professor Allen used the rise and decline of the Roman empire as an example of the sequence in "Man's Adventure in Self-Government," the topic of his address.

He pointed out that in the beginning of the Roman empire, the political power was in the hands of the patrician class, with the governing body the senate.

The Roman farmer at first had no part in the government but gradually acquired power until he was represented in the governing body and the government became truly democratic.

As the city-state expanded and the surrounding provinces came under Roman control, a change occurred. The political plums of the day became the governorships of the provinces.

Great wealth flowed into Rome; the wealthy political office holders established huge landed estates and the farmer became poor and oppressed. The result was the concentration of authority in the hands of the wealthy and finally the rise of the Caesars.

This sequence, according to Professor Allen, has been typical of the struggle of man for self-government in many periods of history. Man's adventure in self-government has always been dominated by two things—a desire for security and a desire for change.

In times when fear dominates man, security becomes the prevailing motive. The government at such a time tends to concentrate authority in the hands of one man, or a few, the government becomes dictatorial and self-government declines.

As soon as security is achieved, the average man seeks change, government and more liberty and this is followed by a period of revolution or change.

This, says Professor Allen, is essentially what happened after the World War in the dictatorial nations of Europe. Many present day democracies are faced with the concentration of wealth, a poor middle class and corruption of government.

warning to Berlin, to Rome and to Japan.

Set against the back-ground of force-politics in central Europe, in Spain, in Ethiopia and in China, the new pact is, in the view of administration men, far more than the essential capstone to the world-peace arch Secretary Hull has labored to build ever since he took office.

The White House and state department spared no effort to make it appear, in the eyes of the world, an important step in the rallying of democracy to defense of its ideals.

It stands as an economic counterpart to the grim preparations both the United States and Great Britain are making to arm themselves for defense. To what extent the war fears of recent months hastened the trade pact

Judge Denies Pleas for Life Of J. Dalhove

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Nov. 17 (AP)—District Attorney James R. Fleming said here Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick had denied tonight, in the northern Indiana district court at Hammond, two last-minute pleas for the life of James H. Dalhove, only survivor of the Brady gang.

The judge overruled a petition for a writ of error coram nobis and a request for an appeal to the Chicago federal circuit court of appeals, Fleming said.

Dalhove is to be executed in Michigan City state prison soon after midnight.

The district attorney said the petition for the writ of error was denied first and, when the court denied that, the request for an appeal was made.

Previously, Dalhove's counsel had lost on appeals to the circuit court and from that to the United States supreme court from his sentencing in the court at Hammond for the slaying of State Officer Paul V. Minneman of Logansport.

Youth First German Sentenced in Looting Of Jewish Residences

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 17 (AP)—The first penalty for looting of a Jewish home since the start of Germany's new anti-Semitic campaign was handed down today by the Nuernberg court, which sentenced Wilhelm Johann Klein, 21, to 18 months imprisonment.

Pirow Visits Berlin

BERLIN, (AP)—Defense Minister Oswald Pirow of the Union of South Africa was greeted by high Nazi officials on his arrival yesterday for a visit which German hoping would lead to a better understanding of her colonial claims.

Says Pact 'Soothes World's Nerves'

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—A new pact of Anglo-American friendship, designed by its authors to soothe the jangled nerves of a distraught world, was signed today in the same White House that British troops left a fire-swept ruin a century and a quarter ago.

That stage-setting was provided by the administration to dramatize what it set down as a great moment in history, a moment when democracy is raising a new challenge to the on-march of totalitarianism. In the signing of this British-American trade pact there are implications of a widening economic alliance among the democracies of the world—implications that hold up their own negotiations is a matter for conjecture. But the agreement itself, backed by similar agreements the United States has reached with 18 other nations, is a symbol of the democratic unity of purpose induced by events in Europe and Asia.

The pact holds out to all "most-favored nations" a share in the increased trade it is designed to stimulate by means of lowered commercial barriers. Just as certainly it means that other nations will be excluded from those benefits—perhaps isolated economically from the bulk of the world's busiest commerce.

But despite the extraordinary dramatization of the ratification ceremonies, analysts of government affairs do not lose sight of the fact that there is domestic opposition to the Hull trade program. In the next congress, it is believed, there may be an attempt to limit the president's powers to make such pacts. He now can conclude them without congressional approval.

Whatever that may lead to in the way of amendment of the trade agreements act, the signing of the new commercial understanding with the British came at a time when its psychological impact on critical world conditions would be greatest. It brought the three great democracies, the United States, Great Britain and France, and many smaller ones, into at least a potential economic alliance for purposes of defending themselves against ideologies they regard as sinister to world peace hopes.

Never Again? Who Said That?

WHILE WAR is unthinkable to rational human beings, it has been unmistakably proven that through propaganda, the citizens of any country can be made to think and act according to the wishes of the propagandist and thus be brought to believe in and take part in war. This was proved in America before 1917. It is being dramatically and terribly proved in Germany at the present time. The Germans aren't at war, but the government as a propaganda agency is proving very successful.

The main organs for dissemination of propaganda are the newspaper and the radio, and while propaganda should always be based on truth, the radio and press often sensationalize at its expense.

Americans have been promising themselves for the last 20 years that they would not be fooled again. For many years the cry was "Never Again!" Already that cry has ceased, and in its place can be heard the drums of propaganda, beating for war.

The news or propaganda that is coming from Germany may be true, or it may be entirely or in part false. It is impossible for the reader to know which to accept and which to disregard. However, anything that is said or printed should be accepted with definite reservations until there is definite proof, other than some correspondent's story. For example, a front page editorial in the Chicago Daily News sounds very much like the days before 1917. Many things that we thought to be the truth then have, since the war, been proved false. It is well to remember that when we read such an editorial, which gives no evidence that can be checked for truth. The editorial says in part: "Upon many of these thousands have been practiced hideous cruelties that only the mind of a blood-thirsty sadist monster could conceive. GROUND GLASS DUMPED INTO THE FOOD OF SOUP KITCHENS THAT TRIED TO FEED A DESPOILED AND IMPOVERISHED PEOPLE! Mob abuse of Catholics and Jews by hoodlums unrestrained by officers of the law! Slow death in concentration camps under conditions that stagger the mind! Disposed of all property and wealth, driven from homes, refused the means of escape, the victims of nazi hate wander the highways, helpless victims of a fate that words cannot describe."

If this is the truth, all America should know it, but until it is so proven, it should be remembered that Americans were asked to believe like tales before 1917 when they had no basis in truth. The same system may still be in vogue.

The Duke of Kent has been named Governor General of Australia, and the Duke of Windsor is in line for a like appointment in the near east. Gradually Great Britain is conquering her unemployment problem.

A word sometimes depends upon its surroundings for its meaning. The word "purge" used in the United States doesn't have quite the same significance it has in Russia or Germany.

We aren't getting any war debt payment from England this year, but King George and Queen Elizabeth are coming for a visit. So we'll have the king and queen, but no jack.

Said Mr. Dooley

To Mr. Hennessey

SOME DAYS, when the news becomes too overwhelmingly depressing, it's pleasurable to forget it all, for the present. To turn, perhaps, to Peter Finley Dunne's Mr. Dooley, who said it all so well and so long ago.

For instance said Mr. Hennessey, the friend of Mr. Dooley, "D'ye think the wuruld is growin' worse?"

"I do not," said Mr. Dooley. "D'ye think it's growin' better?" "No," said Mr. Dooley, "if it's doin' anythin' its just turnin' round as usual."

Scientists are working on a meter that measures the intensity of odors. We respectfully suggest as guinea pigs in the experiment some of the jokes we've heard lately on the radio.

Looking Backward!

"Nations are fast losing their nationality. . . . We shall in time grow very much to be one people, unless a return to barbarism throws us again into chaos."

With these words, Washington Irving expressed in concentrate form over 100 years ago the changing viewpoint of the peoples of the world since the war. In the 1920's, optimism saturated Europe and America—a social order approaching Utopia seemed tangible and possible to attain. It was sincerely believed that war was outlawed; that nations would live in cooperative peace. A United States of Europe was not fantastic, and the League of Nations and the World Court foreshadowed a believed-in world organization.

It was a period when nearly everyone believed, as Irving had 100 years earlier, that "Nations are fast losing their nationality." In less than 20 years Irving's "unless a return to barbarism, throws us again into chaos," has come to dominate the opinions of most people. Even one year ago, people believed in themselves as rational human beings, but today the world appears further from the achievement Irving believed he foresaw than it was in his own age.

Few persons now can be found who even cling to that belief qualified by "unless." The idea Irving added as a possibility is generally accepted as a certainty in this autumn of 1938.

Our British friends spoke assuredly of "the coming war," and they were not in disagreement with their Iowa debate rivals on this point. Students, faculty, townspeople, government officials, all follow the same approach in discussing the problem of a return to barbarism.

In Irving's time it was "unless." Today, after 100 years of experience, it seems to be "when?"

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

STATUE TO PAVEL The Soviet government is soon to erect a monument to Pavel Morozov. Pavel was the 14-year-old boy who discovered that his father was concealing grain from the authorities and who thereupon denounced him. "The father was arrested," says the laconic Moscow dispatch, "but the boy was killed by relatives." Family life must be different in Russia from what it is here. What if Pavel had been a little girl, aged 5, and the criminal who hid the grain had been her grandmother? We should then have an entirely new version of Little Red Riding Hood. The child would lead the unsuspecting old lady to some dark corner in the woods where the police could nab her — and that would be the happy ending to the story of Little Red Riding Hood and her wicked Trotskyite grandmother.

One supposes that in the dictatorial countries no one feels safe any more. Silence must fall as families gather at boards where grace used to be said — but had better not be any more. Is Father mumbling thanks to God into that black beard of his? Susie will run and tell the Commissar. Did Mother forget the customary salute to Hitler as she sat down? Mother had better watch her step, for sharp little nazi eyes are on her. Did Sister or Uncle or Aunt let fall a word of compassion for those whom it is treason to pity? Perhaps heavy boots will be coming up the stairway and kicking in the door tomorrow evening. Does a newly accepted lover, gazing into his beloved's eyes, feel suddenly that he can never have one again? He had better keep the thought to himself — his beloved may feel it her duty to betray him.

As he swept through Lincoln tunnel a cop happened to glance into the car and what he thought he saw made him summon the motor cops in a hurry. They tore out after N. T. G. and caught him. But it was okay. The cop who saw all those girls sleeping in the car—thought they were bodies.

Will You Love Me in December as You Did in May?

LATIN AMERICA

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER NEW YORK—When the first curtain rose on "Lorelei" the other night Mr. Hannam Clark, the actor, was sitting in the audience. Two weeks previously he would have laughed out loud if he had suggested that he would be viewing the proceedings from out front, togged in tails.

But the theater moves in mysterious ways its wonder to perform, as Mr. Clark will attest. He himself at that time was a member of the "Lorelei" cast.

But when a play is rehearsing it is closely scrutinized by its authors. Sometimes they add to a scene or a sequence. At others they cut and trim. It was decided, regretfully, at one of these sessions that Mr. Clark's part must be eliminated. So they "wrote him out of the show," as the saying goes.

"But couldn't you get something for your services and all the trouble and mite you spent?" "Oh, sure," he replied, "equity saw that I got two weeks' salary. But I'm not sore. It was just one of those things. Why, the producers felt worse about it than I did. They were so distressed they gave me two tickets for opening night."

And that, amigo mio, explains how Mr. Hannam Clark, actor, was a spectator on opening night.

Everybody knows about the public libraries where the books of the world are available to one and all. But not everyone knows that in 48th street, between Park and Lexington, there is a musical library where you can go for hours, if the mood strikes you, and play all the records you care to hear. There are booths with phonographs and an inexhaustible supply of recorded music, and all you have to do is ask for the records you wish to hear and the librarian will hand them to you. You can stay for 10 minutes or six hours. And it doesn't cost a cent.

Among the nightclubs which received blunt warnings from the police to dress up its chorus girls was the Midnight Sun, but that wasn't the reason for that look on N. T. G.'s florid countenance the other day.

TUNING IN

By Loren Hickerson

LUISE RAINER, the dramatic actress who has twice won the Academy Award and is being considered for a third one because of "The Great Waltz," will appear in a radio adaptation of "Tovarich," which was presented in University theater here last week, on the "Hollywood Hour broadcast" at 8 o'clock tonight.

With her will be William Powell, master of ceremonies of the show, Joseph Calleia and Charles Butterworth. Frances Langford and Jean Sablon are the vocalists for the show. Victor Young's orchestra provides the music.

A DEBATE on the much-discussed problem of an alliance between the United States and Great Britain, will be broadcast at 2 o'clock this afternoon over NBC.

It's the annual national university extension debate on the national debate question. Dr. Pennington Baile, assistant director of the League of Nations, and Clyde Eagleton, professor of political science of New York University, will speak affirmatively.

Negative speakers are Quincy Howe, author and editor, and John T. Flynn, president of the New York Board of Higher Education. The chairman, of course, is Prof. Lyman Bryson of Columbia U.

JACK HALEY is thinking of sending Ted Rio to school, since he's so dumb that in "Huckleberry Finn Haley" the sketch scheduled for CBS' Haley show at 6:30 tonight, Rio Rito will have to start going to school to learn the rudiments of English — beginning with the alphabet.

It all started last week when the orchestra leader muffed the pronunciation of a couple of polysyllabic words. Lucille Ball and Arty Auerbach will have important roles in "Huckleberry Finn Haley," and Virginia Verrill will introduce a new swing number. Everybody does. . . .

Overpowering the once highly vaunted Davenport Blue Devils in every phase of the game except punting, the Iowa City high school Little Hawks won their first game since 1927 last night by a 14-6 score. Fetig and Miller reg-istered the Red and White scores and Ronnie Baker raced over for Davenport.

Last night's victory put the ir-resistible Hawklets one step nearer a share in the Mississippi Valley crown. The Little Hawks are now tied with Franklin and West Waterloo, each team having won five and lost one. Franklin plays Wilson at Cedar Rapids to-night for their last game of the season. Should they win, they will have undisputed claim to the title. But should they lose, Iowa City and West Waterloo will share the crown.

After Davenport had capital-ized on a lucky break to score in the opening minutes of play, Coach Herb Cornack's boys bounded back and dominated the play for the remainder of the game. For the first time this season the Hawklets actually out-gained their opponents through the air as the Red and White alert, hard-charging forward wall kept "Spotsy" Bender well in check.

Jack Fetig, right guard, scored the first Iowa City score early in the second half when he deftly plucked the ball from Wulf's hands and raced 29 yards for the touchdown. Miller's trusty toe kicked the extra point and City high was in the lead.

The Hawklets' second marker came midway in the last period when "Hammering Herman" Miller ploughed over from the 3-yard stripe with four Davenport men hanging on for dear life.

Iowa City, starting on its own 36, marched the remaining distance of the field in 11 plays to score. On the first play Walden cracked over left guard, lateralled to Miller and the play was good for 14 yards.

Miller and Lewis, aided by a short pass from Buckley to Miller, alternated ripping through the center of Davenport's line to carry the ball to the three. Miller then blasted through center for the score.

Davenport scored first when a poor opening kickoff handed out of Ted McLaughlin's hands and was recovered by Porter on the Iowa City 17-yard marker. On the first play Bender hit the center of the City high line for 10 yards, the longest gain made by Davenport all evening. After Bender's second attempt failed, Ronnie Baker took the pigskin from Bender on a reverse and swept around left end for the score. Bender's pass for the point after touchdown was incomplete.

Herman Miller was easily the individual star of the evening. His great power made him the leading ground-gainer and his sterling defensive play was the best of the evening. Dave Wright and Jack Hirt, Iowa City's other all-state candidates, played great games on the line.

Bob "Spotsy" Bender was Davenport's only threat and what a threat he was. He was fast and shifty and an accurate passer. But the City high boys had him bottled up completely last night. He completed five of 11 passes for 32 yards but made very little headway from scrimmage, though he made several thrilling punt returns. He handled the ball 38 times out of the 44 of-fensive plays Davenport attempt-ed.

BITS about Sports
 By J. DENNIS SULLIVAN

To say that pandemonium reigns here in Iowa City as the board in control of athletics goes about the business of bringing order out of the chaotic athletic situation, is putting it very, very mildly, indeed.

The latest bombshell to disturb the tranquillity of the good citizens came in the guise of a news story which stated that the Monday Morning Quarterback's club, comprised of 35 prominent business men, has issued an ultimatum to Prof. Karl E. Leib, chairman of the board, demanding the dismissal of Prof. Bruce Mahan, Prof. F. G. Higbee, Prof. R. M. Perkins and Dean R. A. Kue-ner on the ground that the four mentioned were not "sports minded."

Several members of the club, contacted late yesterday afternoon, denied emphatically that the club had made any formal demands upon the athletic board.

One prominent member pointed out that the club was an unofficial organization, and as such, was in no position to issue a formal statement. He further asserted, that in all probability, it amounted to no more than "one of the boys expressing his own opinion of the athletic situation."

"That," he continued, "is the privilege accorded to all. It is regrettable that one man's opinion should put our entire organization in such a light."

So it goes, and so it will go until such time as the board in control of athletics renders a decision—expected in the next few days.

Anapol Groomed to Replace Kinnick on Cage Squad

While basketball fans on the east side of the river have been wondering about the prospects of a basketball season without Nile Kinnick, an answer is being prepared for the speculators as Angie Anapol gets ready to help make Iowans forget the Omaha star.

Anapol, who will, no doubt, be at forward this year along with Captain Benny Stephens, is the master of a unique style of basket shooting. The method is quite simple, you just toss the ball at the hoop and it goes through.

It was at Crane Tech, in Chicago, that Angie first put this individual technique to the test and, from all reports, it worked. In Anapol's last year in high school, he was picked on the all-city cage team. In addition, he proved to be a scholar and was nominated to the National Honor society, which requires scholastic as well as athletic achievement as a point of entry.

On and Off The Field

With the first basketball game only two weeks off, the Hawk-ey hoopsters will swing into every day practice next Monday. This date will also mark the re-ture to the hardwood of such capable performers as Dick Evans and Erv Prasse. We will miss that "Blonde Bombshell," Kin-nick, you can be sure of that.

Coach "Popsie" Harrison has emphasized the necessity of train-ing and attitude in order to de-velop a hard-driving and consist-ent basketball team. "Laxity in training will not be tolerated," said Coach Harrison.

This week's "Picture of the Week" hanging in Iowa Union is entitled "College Athlete" and the subject for the photo is none other than "Pretty Boy" McKin-non. Go get him, girls.

Harvard To Meet Yale

Elis Underdogs In Traditional Clash For Championship

By BILL BONI
 NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Harvard football team, equipped with one of the country's trickiest offenses and labeled "the best team that ever lost four straight," will move into the Yale bowl Saturday favored for the first time in years to beat the Elis in this most traditional of all traditional games.

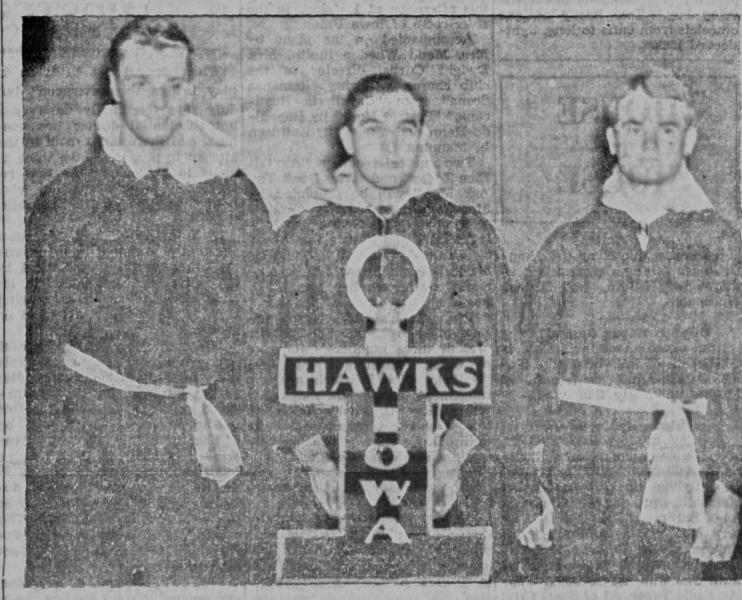

Other battles—Notre Dame-Northwestern, Wisconsin-Minnesota, Rice-Texas Christian—will have more bearing on sectional and national ratings. Yet this one, more than any other with the exception of the annual Army-Navy clash, can draw an impressive crowd no matter what the records of the combatants are.

Rivalry
 This year they certainly aren't much. Harvard has beaten only Princeton of five major rivals. Yale, winner over Navy and Brown, has lost to Columbia, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Dartmouth and Princeton. Still 60,000 customers will be on hand for this 57th renewal of a series in which Yale has won 32 times and Harvard 18 since the inaugural in 1875.

Harvard Favored
 One touchdown victor a year ago, Harvard is favored to re-tain its Big Three championship because Dick Harlow's crimson-shirted cohorts finally have shown they are able to carry out the complex assignments essential to the success of the system he teaches. More than that, they have continued to show an aptitude and liking for the blocking and tackling fundamentals which were a glaring Harvard weakness until Harlow took charge and which have been one of Yale's notable faults this season.

Yale's coaches have been de-vising defenses to stop Harvard ever since the Crimson's 13-6 triumph in 1937. Yale's offense probably will bank heavily on the passes of sophomore Ray Anderson and Gil Humphrey. Meanwhile Harvard, its defense none too rockbound in earlier games, can be expected to run off its customary spinners, fake spinners and reverses that make the football look like the pea in a shell game.

Apostoli, Corbett Title Scrap In Garden Tonight

By GAYLE TALBOT
 NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—The middleweight championship of New York state will be fought out at the Garden tomorrow night between a couple of California Italian, Fred Apostoli and Young Corbett 3rd, and prospects are it will be a rattling good fight.

The reason a more extensive title will not be at stake in the 15-round battle is the fact that the National Boxing association, which rules the game in 47 other states and the District of Columbia, regards Solly Krieger of New York as the 160-pound king. It's sort of confusing.

Corbett, a 33-year-old southpaw, won a close 10-round decision over Apostoli in San Francisco last Feb-ruary. That is the only smear on Apostoli's record, which includes knockout victories over Marcel Thil of France, Freddie Steele and (of all people) Krieger.

That eastern critic did not take the coast result too seriously is re-lected in the fact that Apostoli, a great favorite hereabouts, has been made a 5 to 9 choice to whip Corbett this time. Freddie, him-self, is extremely confident, and so is Corbett, for that matter.

No Interest
 Unless a lot of fans change their minds in the last hours, the turn-out threatens to be a poor one, probably not over 10,000. There are two obvious reasons for the lack of interest. First, Corbett is known here only by reputation, and, second, there will be a fight in the same hall a week from to-morrow night between Henry Armstrong and Ceferoino Garcia for the welterweight belt.

There is the added drawback that a lot of locals think Krieger, the native son, is getting a kicking around by the state athletic com-mission. Solly, they feel, won the middleweight title when he hospitalized Al Hostak, the pre-vious holder, out in Seattle. There is talk that Solly's Brooklyn pals will picket tomorrow night's af-fair, parading the sidewalk with banners saying "This is not a Championship Fight."

Wrestlers Have 'Big' Night

Seven Matches for the Same Title In Seven Different Cities

By PAUL MICKELSON
 NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Battling Pistone, who is our wrestling editor simply because no-body else will have any truck with the mysterious business, to-day tried to peddle his job. Even Pistone, a carefree fellow with a love for figures, couldn't en-dure the modern trend in the grunt industry when he discovered the "world heavyweight wrestling championship" will be defended in seven different cities tomor-row night.

All Champions
 "Give me a simple job like counting the number of people who pass 42nd street and Fifth avenue at noon time," requested the upset battler. "I can't keep up with them any more. Look at tomorrow night's all-champ-ionship program."

Well, the list is unbelievable—even for the wrestlers. Seven "championship matches" for the same title in seven cities on the same night unquestionably sets a new high for sports daffiness even in rassing. This is the pro-gram that caused Pistone's sur-render:

At Tampa, Fla.: "world heavy-weight champion" Dick Shikat vs. Sholem Whale-em Aleichem.

At Cincinnati, O.: "World heavy-weight champion" John Pesek vs. Niz Wilcox.

At Philadelphia: "world heavy-weight champion" Bronko Nagurski vs. "international world heavy-weight champion" Jim Londos.

At Wichita, Kas.: "super world heavyweight champion" Everett Marshall vs. Joseph Doakes.

At St. Louis: "world heavy-weight champion" Crusher Casey vs. Ali Baba.

At Houston, Tex.: "world heavy-weight champion" Leo Daniel Boone Savage vs. Elmer Wiggins.

At Bridgeport, Conn.: "world heavyweight champion" Steve Passos vs. King Kong Franken-stein.

Some of these matches, warns Pistone, may be changed at a moment's notice.

"It'll be the biggest wrestling night since day before yesterday," he said. "Eight were listed for that night but two were called off on account of bad train sched-ules when the promoters saw the crowds. By late Friday night, we'll have only seven 'champions.' Londos is the international champ. He even claims the title of Mars, Friday night's winners will be Shikat, Pesek, Marshall, Casey, Savage, Passos and Londos. Wish I could pick football winners like the wrestlers."

None Care
 Nobody really knows how many grunters claim the "world heavy-weight championship." Since the death of Jack Curley two years ago, the rassing business has gone in for wholesale lots. Every pro-moter has a champ. Nobody seems to care much.

This corner used to enjoy watch-ing Pesek, the Ravenna, Neb-raska, tiger man. Then we saw him wrestling Big George God-frey, George was a tough guy with a chin so tough even Jack Dempsey couldn't knock him down. He won the first fall from Pesek by cracking him a good, stiff right to the jaw. Pesek re-covered and won the next fall by giving tough, old George a slap on the tummy. Down George went. After a 20-minute rest per-iod, it was announced:

"Godfrey was so injured by the last fall he is unable to contin-ue. The winner—Pesek."

That's the day Pistone got the wrestling editor's job that he's trying to peddle today.

Champ to Fight
 CLEVELAND (AP)—Henry Armstrong, lightweight and wel-terweight boxing champion of the world, agreed yesterday to de-fend his welter title on the Cleve-land News Christmas fund show here Dec. 5. His opponent will be Al Manfredo of Los Angeles.

New Hawkeye Backfield Used

Al Schenk Moved To Quarter As Tubbs Seeks Win

IOWA CITY, Nov. 17 (AP)—An entirely new backfield was to appear against Nebraska univer-sity for the Iowa football team Saturday, if the final hard prac-tice of the season Thursday night could be used as an indication.

Cosch Irv Tubbs, striving to pull another victory out of an other-wise dismal season, shifted his entire backfield in what seemed an attempt to assure victory for the Hawkeyes.

He had Al Schenk playing quar-terback, with Frank Balazs at fullback. Balazs has not started a game since the opening game of the season against UCLA, and Schenk has never played quar-terback during the three years he has been on the squad.

At the halfbacks Tubbs used Glenn (Red) Olson and Capt. Jack Eicherly in place of the fa-vored Nile Kinnick and Ray Mur-phy, a sophomore. Murphy was the only consistent ground gain-er for Iowa last week as the Hawk-eyes lost to Indiana.

There were two questionable spots in the Iowa line. One was the left end position where Erwin Prasse has been holding forth all season, and the other was the right tackle post. Prasse was hur-ried in the Indiana game, and although he scrimmaged Thursday, it was considered doubtful whether he would be able to play the entire game against the Cornhuskers.

At right tackle Line Coach Pat Boland has been alternating Wil-bur Nead with the sophomore Mike Enich, and Nead received much of the play during the final scrimmage.

Eighteen Given U-High Letters

Coach Paul Brecher issued letters to 18 U-high football players in an informal meeting yester-day afternoon. The letter win-ners are as follows: ends—Krogh, Fuhrmeister, Barick and McAllis-ter; tackles—Morgan, Larew, Pel-zer and E. Bridenstine; guards—Brender, Canny and Beye; cen-terbacks—D. Bridenstine and Smith; halfbacks—Carson and Highshoe; fullback—Burns. Bob Alderman was awarded a letter for performing the services of student manager.

Nine letter winners, Krogh, Barick, McAllister, Larew, Bren-der, Boiler, D. Bridenstine, Car-son and Burns will be lost through graduation.

Badgers Meet Gophers In Crucial Tilt

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (AP)—The wildest Big Ten football race in years will end Saturday—with Wisconsin's title-starved Badgers "in at the kill."

Not since 1912 have the Bad-gers won or tied for a western conference gridiron crown. Sat-urday they will oppose Minne-sota's Gophers in the crucial game of the title battle—one which may give them the undisputed championship, a tie for it or an-other year in the also-ran class.

There are nine possible finish-es to a season in which no eleven has escaped a conference defeat, ranging from the outright titles which Wisconsin, Minnesota and Ohio State conceivably can win to a quadruple tie for the flag. In addition to Wisconsin and Minnesota, each with records of three wins and one defeat, Ohio State, Michigan and Purdue still are in the running for a share of the crown.

Sandler Boots Phi Epsilon Pi To Victory, 3-0

Phi Epsilon Pi defeated Delta Tau Delta 3-0 in the feature game of yesterday's intramural touch football playoffs. It was the educated toe of Norman Sandler which meant the difference be-tween victory and a tie. After the two teams battled on even terms for three-quarters of the game Sandler dropped back and booted a drop-kick squarely be-tween the uprights. In the other fraternity game, the Phi Psi's overwhelmed the D. U.'s 44-0 in a one-sided game.

In the Town League Northeast-ern defeated Harris hall 14-13 in the closing minutes of play on a long run by Greenlee.

In the Co-op dorm play-off Whetstone's defeated Jefferson 12-0. The passing and running of Jack Whitehurst stood out for the winners.

More than 60,000 students in 38 U. S. colleges and universities are members of the Independent Men's association.

Badgers Nervous

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—High nervous tension swept over the Wisconsin football squad yester-day as the Badgers tapered off for tomorrow's game with Minne-sota—a game which has the spice of a possible conference championship added to one of the most famous of midwestern rival-ries.

'Swingsters' to Dance to Masters At Sophomore Cotillion Tonight

First 1:30 Formal Party Prefaced By 'Junket' Session

The opening dance of the university formal season this evening will be the scene of full, twirling skirts, strapless evening gowns, dashing color combinations and fitted bodices. Slippers to match and slippers to contrast will rush home at the magic hour of 1:30 after an evening of dancing to the music of Frankie Masters in the main lounge of Iowa Union. This evening at 9 o'clock members of the Sophomore Cotillion committee and their dates will be on hand in these costumes.

Margaret Kuttler, A2 of Davenport, is wearing a royal blue crepe gown topped with a square neck accented by a large clip. The shirred waist and sleeves fall into a fitted skirt. Matching shoes will complete the costume. Hoyt Carrier, A2 of Vinton, will be Miss Kuttler's escort.

White Satin
Jayne McGovern, A2 of Iowa City, another member of the committee, will be attired in a strapless white slipper satin dress, fashioned with a fitted bodice and a full skirt. Silver sequins edging the top match the silver in Miss McGovern's shoes. Herbert Smith, A3 of Iowa City, will be at the party with her.

Beth Jane Richards, A2 of Moline, and Miles O'Brien, A3 of Oelwein, will dance step out for the Cotillion this evening, too. Miss Richards' black taffeta dress has an embroidered waist with a square neck and two panels extending down the front of the skirt. A necklace of costume pearls and diamonds accent this costume.

To Wear Black Velvet
Cecil Porter, E4 of Littleton, Me., will escort Beverly Barnes, A2 of Sioux Falls, S. D. She will wear a black velvet gown, the square neck of which is edged with becoming white lace. The pinched-in waist falls into a surprisingly full skirt.

Louise Seeburger, A2 of Des Moines, another member of the Cotillion committee, will wear a dusty royal blue satin gown. The interesting straps of the dress cross in the back. Here, too, we see a pinched-in waist and full skirt. Bill Hills, A2 of Iowa City, will escort her.

Richard Witt, A2 of Shell Rock, will be Prince Charming for Mildred Jensen, A2 of Council Bluffs, this evening. The V-neck of Miss Jensen's black taffeta gown is fastened with a brilliant clip. Round patches of black velvet adorn the full skirt of the gown.

Princess Lines
Warren Randall, A2 of Miles City, Mont., will have as his date Betty Keyser, A1 of Iowa City. Ice-blue slipper satin is the color of her gown. The princess lines of her dress end in a point at the top of the bodice which is carried over the shoulder by two rolls of material. Tiny cap sleeves top the dress off. Miss Keyser will wear white and silver shoes and her accessories will be in silver.

Color Combination
Barbara Carpenter, A2 of Beresford, S. D., will wear a becoming color combination of peach and brown. The heart-shaped neck of the taffeta frock falls into a fitted top and full skirt. The back neckline of the dress is low and two long brown velvet bows trail down the back. A white military cape will complete her outfit. Her escort is Irwin Lage, A2 of Gladbrook.

Rosana Shomler, A2 of Cedar Rapids, will swish into the party in a black dress and the swish of the taffeta will be all the more pronounceable because of the fullness of the skirt. A black velvet coat will top the outfit. Franklin Eddy, E4 of Marengo, will be her escort.

Black Crepe
Courtney Kline, A2 of La Porte City, will have on his arm as he enters the Iowa Union, Clara Jane Osterholm, A2 of Waverly. Her black crepe dress and fitted jacket are trimmed in rust suede and her shoes are black.

Formal May Spell Romance

Misty Creations, Festive Frocks Will Reign At Sophomore Cotillion

THE FIRST FORMAL DANCE of the season with Frankie Masters' orchestra can be a romantic future for you if you look your best.

Variety, according to Dame Fashion, will rule the ballroom this evening. Misty creations and festive frocks with great dignity will reign at the Sophomore Cotillion.

Stiff, proud skirts and glittering details will emphasize the formality. Grandmother's specialties, narrow shoulder straps or no straps at all, a slim waist and mile-wide skirt, do wonders for the young ladies of 1938.

Tufted slipper satin or sheathes of net, alluring velvets and clouds of tulle will do their part in adding to the charm of the lovely dancers. Shirred and fitted bodices, slenderizing dirmdls and colorful studded girdles top knife-edged pleats, hoops or yards of material which makes up a bouffant skirt.

Under the soft lights of the ballroom the maze of creations will form a galaxy of colors.

Standing before one of Currier hall's new mirrors, Wilma Kelley, A2 of Davenport, surveys her modish curls piled high and the stunning frock she will wear to the Cotillion.

Miss Kelley's turquoise blue taffeta gown with gay-embroidered pansies enlivens and completes her piquant dress.

HOSTESS HINTS

When desire says "I want to play bridge this afternoon" but duty says the family deserves a hot substantial dinner this evening, and there is no maid in the kitchen to prepare it, the thing to do is to try one of the new refrigerator meals. In that way both duty and desire are satisfied.

"Thanks Be To God" by O'Reilly-Dickson and "Little Pig Nose" by Wilson-Young will be sung by Marjorie Post. She will be accompanied by her mother, Mrs. F. B. Post.

The main part of such a meal would probably be a casserole dish, such as chicken and noodles (using left-over chicken), combined with a can of cream of mushroom soup. Or it may be a Shepherd's pie — left-over steak or lamb, put through the food chopper moistened with gravy, covered with canned tomatoes and topped with a layer of left-over whipped potatoes. The casserole may even be one's favorite spaghetti or tuna fish, macaroni and cheese.

The casserole is all prepared and popped into the ice box ready in an instant to be put into the oven and heated for dinner.

And here's news about vegetables. Even they fall in line with Bridgetless cookery. It has been found that fresh vegetables, such as peas or carrots, may be prepared for cooking, placed in a bowl of water in the refrigerator — and then cooked in this same water in about the same length of time it takes to cook ordinary vegetables, dropped into boiling water. The chilling - in - water tenderizes the vegetables, thus allowing them to cook just as

Are You Decorating?

This Year Shops Filled With Unusual Thanksgiving Favors

With Thanksgiving just around the corner it is not too soon to be thinking of decorations for the Thanksgiving table so that each small detail may be just right.

Planning the table can be lots of fun if one takes time to shop around for unusual favors and to work out a distinctive color scheme. This year the shops are filled with all sorts of amusing and colorful favors, bonbon dishes, and items for centerpieces.

There are demure and delightful little Priscillas and John Aldens for use as bonbon holders and all sorts of brilliantly colored crepe paper vegetables and fruits that make effective decorations and also serve as poppers holding caps to add to the gaiety of the Thanksgiving party. The Thanksgiving turkey is also seen in a variety of new guises for bonbon cups, place markers and candle holders.

One of the most effective ways of arranging a Thanksgiving table that will bring "oh's" and "ah's" of admiration from your friends is to make use of the plate glass mirror mats which the shops are featuring this season. These mats may be had in a variety of shapes and colors and thus provide opportunity for unusual color themes. Those in sapphire blue, emerald green and peach color plate glass are particularly lovely and blend beautifully with the rich hues of fall flowers and fruits.

A beautiful table arrangement can be worked out by using place mats of blue glass with a central arrangement of bright blue crepe paper vegetables spilling from a horn of plenty fashioned of white cellophane. The vegetables, in reality poppers containing caps, could be awarded as favors after dinner. Candle holders of white cellophane with red tapers would be effective with such a table.

Bags Look Like Fans
Evening handbags grow more and more frivolous with every passing week. Among the newest ones are those of ostrich feathers which look like a fan. They come in all evening colors but the very bright ones used with black or white evening gowns are particularly effective.

Fish Now Worn In Up-Swirled Hair For Unique Effect
There may be just as good fish in Miami waters as ever were caught but one suspects that a number of the more ornamental ones have turned model for gowns for the hair. The up-hair-do permits lots of evening chi-chi and among new and amusing ornaments are little schools of fish in brilliant colors that swim engagingly across the side of the coiffure.

Iowa Debaters Awarded Decision Over Illinois Team

doctrine glands grows, Dr. Turner said.

Hickerson, Hill Argue Negative At Champaign

Teams Here Lose To U. of Wisconsin And U. of Minnesota

Debating the question of the desirability of an alliance with Great Britain, an Iowa debate team won a decision over a University of Illinois team in Champaign, Ill., last night.

Loren Hickerson, A3 of Iowa City, and George Hill, A4 of Burlington, debating the negative of the question against Harold Clark and Clarence Angell on the affirmative for the University of Illinois, were the only winners in the three contests in which Iowa participated yesterday.

John Gillotti, A3 of Des Moines, and Roland Christensen, A2 of Iowa City, opened the series here yesterday afternoon in the senate chamber of Old Capitol upholding the affirmative of the same question against a negative team from the University of Minnesota. The Minnesota debaters, winners of the decision, were Howard Grossman and Hubert Humphrey.

The second debate, held last night in the senate chamber, was lost to the University of Wisconsin with Clair Henderlinder, A3 of Onawa, and Bill Rivkin, A2 of Davenport, on the affirmative, meeting Cole Brembeck and Gordon Dupee of Wisconsin on the negative.

Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger of the speech department officiated as chairman at the Iowa - Minnesota debate and Prof. W. Ross Livingston of the history department at the evening's debate.

Prof. Bower Aly of the speech department of the University of Missouri acted as critic judge at both debates.

Timekeepers for the Minnesota-Iowa debate were John Hunt, G of Lamoni, and Anthony Pacioti, A4 of Virginia, Minn. John Fishburn, A3 of Muscatine and John Barnes, A3 of Latamie, were timekeepers for the Iowa - Wisconsin debate.

Prof. J. H. McBurney of the speech department of Northwestern university judged the contest between Iowa and Illinois at Champaign.

Prof. A. C. Baird of the speech department, was in Evanston yesterday judging a debate at Northwestern university.

Pershing Rifles Initiate Pledges At Iowa Union

Military Splendor Prevails as New Members Take Part

Military splendor prevailed at Iowa Union last night when Pershing Rifles formally initiated pledges into the organization at a banquet in the river room.

Blue and white fourragues, trim uniforms and sparkling buttons offered a fitting background as the 54 pledges were initiated into the society.

The presentation of honorary membership in Pershing Rifles to Col. G. F. N. Dalley and Maj. James Butler was the highlight of the evening. Company Commander Jonathan A. Wolcott, A4 of Denver, Col., presented the blue braid signifying the honorary membership.

The Pershing Rifles was organized in 1894 by Gen. John J. Pershing, then a lieutenant in charge of the military unit at the University of Nebraska.

The program this year, as sponsored by the Iowa civil, electrical and mechanical engineering departments, supplying a mailing list of 100 names for this purpose.

Each senior will be given a copy of this booklet as a yearbook containing a picture and personal information about every member of the class of 1939.

Due to the active interest taken by various faculty members of the college of engineering in seeing that graduates find satisfactory employment, there has never been a serious placement problem. The booklets will serve as aids in making more openings available and giving the graduate better opportunity to find work that interests him.

The booklets will be available after the first of the year.

Treatments for Children Hormones to Restore Minds, Bodies Of Many Subnormal Youngsters

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH Associated Press Science Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 17 - Hormone treatments which restore the minds and bodies of many subnormal children were reported today to the Southern Medical association.

These children often times are idiots or have very low intelligence and have malformed bodies due to the failure of their pituitary or thyroid glands to function properly and secrete the hormones necessary for normal growth, Dr. Henry H. Turner of Oklahoma City said.

Most such cases previously were regarded as hopeless because of failure to understand the causes of their abnormality, he added, but the hormone treatments, which consists of merely injecting the proper substance into the body in a long series of small doses, give hope of brightening the lives of hundreds of children and their families. As one example of the power of treatment, he described a four year old girl who resembled a child one year of age and was unable to walk or talk. After thyroid hormone was administered to her she gained nine inches in stature, five pounds in weight, and was practically normal mentally within a year.

Another seven year old girl was only 35 inches tall, weighed only 35 pounds and was a "congenital cretin idiot," Dr. Turner said. Within a year she had become a "B" student in her school work and by the time she was 16 was physically and mentally normal as the result of thyroid hormone injections.

In a third case a 10 year old boy was stunted by lack of both pituitary and thyroid hormones and was only 40 inches tall and weighed 34 pounds. During the 18 months when hormones were administered he doubled his weight and gained a foot in height.

These cases illustrated the innumerable possibilities ahead in the treatment of disease and deformities as knowledge of the hormone secretions of the body's en-

Street Signs May Give Thumbnail Biographies

PARIS (AP)—Paris, which for decades has honored citizens of France and almost every other country in the world by naming streets after them, has finally decided that just a name isn't enough.

Frenchmen haven't forgotten who the Avenue Victor Hugo honors and why, but few of them know that the Rue Elbe bears the name of an empire general who saved part of the French army in the retreat from Russia by building a bridge across the Bresina river.

Henceforth all street signs will say something about the man the street is named for. Old ones will be changed to add the explanation.

Out of One Jail And Into Another

SIoux CITY, Nov. 17 (AP)—Mrs. Sumner Knox, held in connection with the investigation of the mysterious burial of her mother, Mrs. L. A. Trow, in a china closet coffin in the back yard at the Knox home in Le Mars, was taken from Woodbury county jail here to the Plymouth county jail at Le Mars this afternoon.

The transfer was made by State Agent George Dickey and Sheriff Frank Scholer of Plymouth county. The two officers could not be reached for a statement concerning the reason for the transfer.

Mrs. Knox faces a charge of forgery in connection with the alleged cashing of her mother's civil war pension checks.

Meanwhile the search continued for Sumner Knox and Clifford Smith, his cousin, for questioning in connection with the burial. They have been missing several months.

Hawklets--

Davenport deep in their own territory most of the time. Another Iowa City scoring threat ended with the gun at the half. A pass from McGinnis to Walsh just before the gun netted 46 yards and put Iowa City on Davenport's 10.

Only in punting did the hawklets join. Bender, the only man to out-punt Joe McGinnis this year, got off several beauties last night. One rolled out on the four after travelling 59 yards and still another sailed 75 yards over the goal. Jack Hirt blocked one of his punts. Joe McGinnis got off one swelled boot when his quick kick sailed over Bender's head and rolled over the goal for a distance of 80 yards. But Bender consistently punted better than McGinnis and even with his blocked punt he averaged 45 yards to Joe's 43.

tain areas near the Canadian border.

The first trade treaty with Canada (which today's pact supercedes) was negotiated three years ago. Dairymen and poultrymen whose products were sold in competition with Canadian produce have contended that the rates involved in the original treaty gave their Canadian competitors an unfair advantage. The new treaty continues the cuts in American duties then made, and in addition further reduces the tariffs on cream, whole milk, cheese, eggs and dairy cattle.

Of the cuts, however, the state department said that care had "been taken to avoid the possibility of material hardship for any important group of producers in the United States."

As to the effect of the new treaties upon agriculture generally, agricultural department experts said that they provided increased markets for the output of American farms, but did not offer a solution for the problem of huge surpluses in wheat and cotton. Although England eliminated her duties on wheat and retained cotton on her free list, the agricultural department's experts declared that dumping practices by certain foreign nations would tend to lessen the importance of these concessions. Benefits, it was said, went principally to corn-hog farmers, and to growers of rice, apples and citrus fruits.

The American concessions to Great Britain involved a cut in duties on a variety of cotton cloth and yarn manufactures, some as much as 28 per cent. In addition tariffs on flax, hemp, jute and wool manufacturers were reduced by an average of some 25 per cent. There were cuts too in the rates on pottery, leather and leather manufactures, some types of machinery, and a wide variety of miscellaneous items.

Great Britain knocked off her duties on wheat, land and some fruit juices, reduced her import taxes on silk stockings, rice, apples, pears and some canned fruits, increased her quota on the number of American hams to be imported each year and cut the rates on office machinery and some other types of machinery.

British practice had been to give preferential tariff treatment to her dominions and colonies. State department officials regarded the pacts as diminishing the advantages which the dominions and colonies had previously enjoyed in competing with American business men for the trade of the mother country.

The state department said that the British treaty that while it was to be assumed that it would result in increased imports from England "great care" had been taken to "avoid injury" to American industry.

"Many of the industries which may encounter increased British competition in the domestic market as the result of this agreement have profited or will profit from concessions obtained for their export articles in foreign markets through other trade agreements, notably with Canada," the department said.

"Moreover, all of them will share in the indirect benefits which come to every American industry from the general expansion of agricultural and industrial exports under the trade agreements program . . .

"The United Kingdom is the second most important foreign market for American non-agricultural products, taking about three fifths as much as Canada, the leading export outlet for such products. It is, however, actually and relatively less important as a market for industrial than for agricultural products."

ROMANCE UNRAVLED

Sara Sue Davis, attractive young widow, creates a furor on the campus of Rice Institute, in Texas, when she erects a sign in front of her cottage announcing "COUNSEL IN ROMANCE." Her plan is to help guide 100 student "members" in their social and love affairs for a small fee. Bob Towne, campus football hero, attracted by Sara Sue, is the first to enroll. This enrages Peaches Pomeroy, a senior, who regarded herself as "Bob's girl" the previous year. Worthington Gurley, unprepossessing freshman, provides another interesting problem for Sara Sue. But the climax in her Cottage Plan occurs when Dr. Thornton Holgate, new member of the faculty, begs Sara Sue to help him... then confides he has fallen in love with Peaches Pomeroy. Gurley obtains a date with Sara Sue for the freshman ball, which displeases Towne; but Bob accepts it gracefully. Sara Sue finds her affairs growing complicated, but feels much better after confiding her troubles to a close friend, Roxy Powell. At a meeting of the college faculty, it is evident that Sara Sue Davis, Inc., is playing a prominent part in campus life. Dr. Holgate receives his first lessons in "how to become more human," and begins to mix with some of the students at Sara Sue's house. He phones Peaches Pomeroy to ask her to the freshman ball, but she gives him no definite reply. (Now Go On With the Story)

CHAPTER 13
THE FIRST game of the season for Rice Institute in this autumn of 1938 was with the University of Oklahoma, played in the new Rice stadium. It was bound to be a worthwhile game, regardless of the score, for the Sooners had edged out a 6-0 victory over the championship Rice team in 1937. Everybody with his wife and dog would be there.

Mr. T. J. Sanders had no wife, but he did have a dog. This dog, a bench-legged bull, was so ferocious looking that it had been named Nightmare. And by adroitly painting its face, tying false ears on it, and otherwise dressing it in feathers, poor Nightmare had been made to resemble a dangerous looking owl. The Rice football players are called Owls.

But Mr. T. J. Sanders was not a Rice student, nor even an alumnus. He was southwestern representative for the Columbia Sporting Goods corporation, and as such he attended the major games each season, keeping an eye on the players who achieved most skill and fame.

This year his firm had offered $1,000 cash to the Rice man who should achieve rating as "the best individual player," in return for that player's endorsement of new football equipment to be offered. All of the Rice seniors yearned to win that prize. Everybody said the race for it lay between Captain Jess Hines, a tackle, halfbacks Ollie Cordill and Ernie Lain, and big Bob Towne, the end. But decision couldn't be reached until the end of the season, even though Mr. Sanders was keeping a sharp lookout meanwhile. Houston was a good headquarters for him, anyway; he could sell many a school account working out of the big town.

Half an hour before the Rice-Oklahoma game began, Mr. Sanders proudly led Nightmare into the stadium, and with a friend was escorted to a seat on the 45-yard line. Right away, though, Mr. Sanders lost interest in Nightmare and his owlish getup, and even lost major interest in the football game itself.

You see, Mr. Sanders was a comparatively young business man. He had been around a great deal, possessed a certain savoir faire, was adept at meeting people and dressing himself well, held a definite self-confidence. And now his mind was suddenly distracted by a feminine person who happened to have the seat diagonally in front of him. With two companions she had come there and sat down.

"Wow!" murmured Mr. Sanders to the friend who had come with him.

"Don't know her," that friend replied, already acquainted with Mr. Sanders' mind and temperament.

"Strawberries and cream," said Mr. Sanders.

"Check," agreed the friend.

"Roses in the springtime," said Mr. Sanders.

"Yeah, and June under a moon with you in a caoon on the la-zoon! Come on, T. J., th' team's warming up. Out there—see!—on the football field."

"Wow!" repeated Mr. T. J. Sanders, still looking at the girl.

Now any good salesman is necessarily a resourceful man, and T. J. Sanders was a good salesman. Fortunately, therefore, he maneuvered for Nightmare to put his paws up on the back of the girl's seat. She turned to see the dog.

"Get down, Nightmare, I'll break your neck!" growled T. J. "I beg your humble pardon, Miss. It won't happen again." T. J. smiled and tipped his hat.

"It's quite all right," the girl said. "I think he looks darling! He really looks like an owl. Here, boy—" she reached to pet him.

Which was just enough for Mr. Nightmare. That canine gentleman promptly deserted his master, bounded over to the girl's seat. She accepted him temporarily, bought him a soda pop and bade him drink from a paper cup; bought him an ice cream cone to lick, made him bark lustily when the Rice rooters yelled, made him stand on his hind legs—along with everybody else—when the band played "For Rice's Honor," and for the remainder of the afternoon completely ignored Mr. T. J. Sanders.

Mr. T. J. gleaned one other significant bit of information, however, while his heart was yearning. He heard the girl call the lady next to her "Mother." This, no doubt, cramped Mr. T. J.'s normal style. In fact, he accomplished nothing; he merely collected his dog at the end of the game and left the stadium.

That Saturday night wasn't very exciting for Mr. T. J. Sanders. He felt no urge to go to a show or a road house or otherwise make whoopee. Unaccountably, he stayed at home and read a stuffy magazine. Sunday he slept a lot, but his mind wandered some. Monday afternoon he was back on the Rice campus, hanging around the athletic field as usual, chinning with the boys and such. But he acted rather morose.

Tuesday he began to listen to the rather frequent references being made to a Mrs. Sara Sue Davis and her cottage for Counsel in Romance. She sounded like she was the most important thing about the campus, next to football. People said she was a deft matchmaker. Four or five romances were actually blooming under her sponsorship. Good wholesome work, everybody said. She got shy boys and girls together. Furnished a loafing place, a place to meet people.

Meet people. Heck—he, T. J. Sanders, was yearning to meet somebody! A girl! Maybe this Mrs. Davis could—say, why not? If she advertised help for people in search of romance, maybe she could help him find the girl he saw in the stadium. He'd know her anywhere. She was one in a million.

She was just a little higher than his shoulders. She dressed in blue—and the sassiest, cutest hat. She had cheeks that were rounded with natural pink on them, and with a dimple in one of them, and lips—wow!

Mr. Sanders departed from the field house without a word of explanation. He was that sort of a salesman. Whenever he sensed or saw a course of action, he moved at once.

Presently he rang Sara Sue's door bell. Calculus Jones answered.

"You wishes to see Miss Sara Sue, sub?"

"That's right, Calculus. Is Mrs. Davis in? I need her advice."

"You in need of romance, Mistuh T. J.?" The colored man had known T. J. for a long time.

"Doggone if I ain't, Calculus. They say this Davis lady is expert at helping people meet other people. I want to meet a girl I saw Saturday. Wow, was she a honey! No, seriously, it's a business call, Calculus. Go on, where is Mrs. Davis?"

"Come in, Mistuh T. J. She is heah with the others."

Mr. T. J. Sanders entered, removing his hat. At this juncture he suddenly felt like a fool. Imagine it—me, T. J. Sanders, asking a woman to find a girl and introduce her to me! Why, I ought—

But then love is like that. It does unaccountable things to people, makes man and woman alike break their normal routines of thought and action. It wasn't altogether silly, at that. This strawberries-and-cream girl very probably was a Rice student herself; she looked like a senior. So, this Mrs. Davis stood a good chance to know her. It was worth trying.

Calculus had escorted him into Sara Sue's private office, where all business callers were ushered first. T. J. sat down and stared at pennants and pictures on the walls, at lacy curtains, and other girly things.

He had a brief moment of panic, thought to flee. Then he laughed at himself. Might as well see it through, silly as he felt. After all, it would be in strict confidence. And he had fallen down at trying to scrape up an acquaintance with her, something he rarely ever had done before when pretty girls impressed him.

But this girl had impressed him more than any other, he was thinking now.

He gave thought to her appearance again. Wow! She was divine! He could just hear the music of her laughter, the easy southern tinkly happiness of her speech. He was imagining every delightful tone of it.

Or was he?

"Did you wish to see me, Mr. Sanders?" she was saying behind him.

He arose from his chair. He stared, incredulous.

Wow!

INTERNAL AFFAIRS!

My goodness, just in case we get too excited about the German situation... They wouldn't let a Negro enter the University of Missouri college of law this year.

Negroes are in none of the great southern universities... And the Germans haven't yet lynched a Jew...

Neither Negroes nor Jews can get service in many large-city hotels...

Right here on the campus a typist set a price for typing a thesis, then doubled it when she learned the candidate was of the minority color...

My goodness, I'm not sure I'll have time to wash Germany's hands... I'll be too busy washing our own...

Say it isn't so... That rumor about town that the re-armament program will be a WPA project...

A scout suggests maybe the answer to American-German relations is for our new ambassador to Berlin to be Hebrew...

Robert Benchley'll be airing his first show come Sunday... Watch for the similarity in technique with Clift Fadiman... (Remembering, of course, that Benchley had it first...)

And, if you'd been wondering, there've been half a dozen notes regards what happened, apropos of the Pershing Rifle initiations, yesterday noon in the Quad cafeteria...

The whole incident being too disgusting to bear repeating here... And besides exactly what I, for one, would've expected from the institute...

Paul Engle's at work on his first novel... It's to be an American-looking - at - England kind of plot... Did you notice Bob Whitealand's swiftness story in the new O'Henry award book?

Having been in at the beginning of Bill McCloy's artistic career, I'm happy to report the N. Y. Times picked his picture as one of two for photogravure reproduction on a recent Sunday...

Stop me if you've heard this one before... Yesterday's Chicago Daily News editorialized... "Finally, when some pacifist cries out that to declare our true feelings might bring us into war, #### let us REMEMBER THAT THERE ARE WORSE THINGS THAN WAR.

You can always stop an argument like that, right at the beginning... Just stand up and ask, "What?"...

The complaints from those who're dissatisfied with Hillcrest's dining service come daily... Must have different Sunday manners; it's always seemed all right to me...

That one Iowa town that's been crying about "election graft" can expect an investigation of its own registration system, said to be of the '70's vintage... Action'll probably be underway before the present state higher-ups leave their official chairs...

Incidentally, some new dealers're glad the G. O. P. has so many offices, now that the election's over... The public'll be ready to swing back the Roosevelt way come 1940, they think... Or at least they say that's what they think...

One newspaper syndicate'd give a half-million yearly for a columnist to imitate the O. O. McIntyre style, successfully... To date, no luck... The trade papers report the successors lose a paper a week...

Hold your breath... Dick Powell may be assigned to the Biederbecke - like role in the movie Young Man with a Horn... I'd like a local vote of those who knew Bix... What movie star would you pick to portray the trumpet-king?...

"What've You Got That Gets Me" may be placed on the NBC-ban lists... Listen to the lyrics carefully, and you'll see what I mean...
