Germany, France Sign War Renunciation Pact

Details to Be Withheld Until Formal Signing

New Agreement With England Expected; Broaden Present Aid

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Nov. 23—France agreed on a war renunciation pact with her traditional enemy, Germany, today and started military "co-operation" talks with Great Britain.

The French-German understanding, paralleling a British-German anti-war declaration signed at Munich Sept. 30, had been awaited as a possible cornerstone on which to build European peace.

The agreement was announced shortly before British Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax arrived in Paris for discussions with Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Bonnet.

These conversations were expected here to result in a more binding military agreement between France and Great Britain. An official said that among other things, the ministers would discuss a plan to aid German Jewish refugees.

The same source said details of the French-German agreement would be withheld until it was signed. Formal signing was expected to coincide with a visit to Paris by Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, about Dec. 1.

Informed sources said the text of the accord would be brief, following this line: First: A simple declaration of non-aggression.

Second: A statement that neither country has any specific controversy with the other and an agreement to submit all future disputes to consultation rather than to threaten each other with war.

The second section would embody mutual recognition of the existing French-German frontier.

Germany would thus promise in writing to lay no further claim to Alsace-Lorraine, provinces returned to France by Germany after the World War and the cause of many disputes in history.

Chancellor Hitler made such assurances in addresses during the Czechoslovak crisis.

Although the French-German agreement was a bright element in the European situation, it was pointed out that France could not forego precautionary measures or the extension of collaboration with Great Britain.

The French-British military understanding, signed last April 23 in London, was expected to be broadened to pledge unconditional and instant military aid to France whereas the present agreement gives Britain the right to decide what to do in case of a German attack on France.

Other subjects the ministers were expected to discuss included a plan for mediation of the Spanish civil war.

Gov't, Aircraft Leaders Plan Confer in Effort to Raise Plane Production To Goal of 1,000 Per Month

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)

American aircraft manufacturers are seeking means of tripling their output to keep pace with President Roosevelt's reported program of acquiring one of the world's strongest fleets of warplanes.

A mass production goal of 1,000 planes a month, to be attained within a few months if possible, was laid down at a conference of manufacturers and government officials, informed persons declared.

Some of the president's advisers hope that within two years the industry's capacity (though not actual output) may be stepped up to 2,000 planes a month. Only Germany, officials believe, can turn out military planes now at the 1,000 monthly rate. American output of all types, including commercial aircraft, averaged only 320 planes a month the first nine months of this year.

Leaders of the country's principal aircraft manufacturing firms concluded today a series of conferences which Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, said were designed "to remove critical bottlenecks in industry and to increase its efficiency as a factor in national defense."

To Confer In Chicago Strike

Union Stock Yards, C.I.O. Agree To Meeting Saturday

CHICAGO, Nov. 23 (AP)—Government conciliators announced tonight that representatives of the C.I.O. and the Union Stockyards company had agreed to hold a conference Saturday morning in an effort to end a strike of livestock handlers that has suspended trade at Chicago's stock yards.

Robert Mythen said he and W. H. Rodgers, conciliators for the department of labor, arranged the meeting.

Both the C.I.O. packing house workers organizing committee and the yards management expected the status quo of paralyzing trade to be continued until Saturday.

General Manager O. T. Henkle of the stockyards said the Friday after Thanksgiving normally was a dull day in the stock yards, with no shipments expected at all this time.

The C.I.O. union has demanded a basis wage, vacations with pay, overtime pay and a written contract.

The federal arbiters intervened at about the time directors of the Chicago Livestock exchange, made up of brokers who buy and sell animals on the open market at the yards, telegraphed an appeal to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to use his influence in terminating the stalemate lest the "entire industry" suffer a "great loss."

Bandit Injures Ames Officer In Car Theft

DES MOINES, Nov. 23 (AP)—State and local police officers combed central Iowa late today in search for a lone armed suspect who stole a car here and ran over the chief of police at Ames in eluding capture.

The Iowa bureau of investigation warned officers the man may be Harry Dalton, 42, who escaped from the state prison farm at Daventry Nov. 20. The bureau said it believed the suspect was armed with a revolver.

Hurriedly mobilized highway patrolmen and local police searched cars on at least four main traffic arteries in central Iowa counties in the belief that the man may have taken to hitchhiking after he abandoned the automobile between Ames and Nevada.

W. J. Cure, Ames police chief, suffered head lacerations and a broken rib when he was struck by the speeding car south of Ames. Hospital officials described his condition as "all right."

Cure reportedly was bounced up over the automobile radiator by the impact. The police fired after the speeding car.

Jitterbugs! Notre-Dame Paper Condemns Swing

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 23 (AP)—Jitterbug dances drew editorial fire today from the Ave Maria, University of Notre Dame weekly publication, which declared such gyrations "ought to be confined to the gymnasium, where muscular and physical exhaustion is in order."

"They are definitely out of place in the ballroom, where esthetic and graceful movements of body follow the noble rhythms of music born of refined tastes, rather than the tom-tom fever of the jungles," said the publication.

The university's religious bulletin, joining in the condemnation, quoted Archbishop Beckman of Dubuque, Ia.:

"A degenerate and demoralized musical system is given a disgusting christening as 'swing' and turned loose to gnaw away the moral fibre of our young people. We permit 'jam sessions,' 'jitterbugs' and cannibalistic rhythmic orgies to occupy a place in our social scheme of things, wooing our youth along the primrose path to hell."

BOGEY MAN! Karloff Causes Alarm In Hospital

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 23 (AP)—Boris Karloff was working in the picture, "Son of Frankenstein," when news came that his wife had given birth to a daughter in Hollywood hospital on his 51st birthday.

Karloff drove to the hospital in the gruesome makeup he uses in the picture. His appearance in the maternity ward caused some nurses temporary alarm, but the infant daughter, brought to the mother's bedside, turned to Karloff—and yawned.

Forest Fires Break Out On 3 Southern California Fronts

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23 (AP)—Forest fires, the worst in the history of southern California, blazed out of control on widely-separated fronts in three counties tonight, leaving heavy damage and possible death in the Topanga canyon region north of Santa Monica and in the San Bernadino mountains.

Palatial homes of prominent motion picture personages were burned in the Topanga canyon fires, which fingered out before a 45-mile wind on four fronts, threatening heavily populated communities cut off from communication.

More than a thousand fire fighters were in that region alone as the tinder-dry brush and timber carried the flames over hundreds of homes.

A blaze originating on Strawberry peak, between the Lake Arrowhead and Big Bear resorts, swept down the mountainside to burn the extensive Arrowhead Springs hotel, recently purchased by Joseph M. Schenk, movie magnate.

Thanksgiving to Be Headed By Community Church Rites, Distribution of Food to Poor

UARIS, Nov. 23 (AP)

Reinforced police and mobile guards started clearing 40 north France factories tonight of 26,000 sit-down strikers who oppose the government's lengthening the 40-hour week.

The number of striking employees at 40 factories occupied increased throughout the day under the leadership of metal workers, who led widespread strikes in Juneau, Queym.

The new factory seizures started with a strike of 18,000 men and became general during the afternoon in the metal factories of the Valenciennes region.

The action was direct defiance to a section of Premier Daladier's new decrees which provided heavy penalties for industrial agitation.

SECRET CULT Investigate High School Group in Okla.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 23 (AP)—Investigation of a secret black-shirted cult among Oklahoma City high school students was begun today by school officials who said members were sworn to secrecy under the threat of "destruction."

School officials said their information listed at least 22 members from classmen and central high schools in the "C ? C" cult whose "main objectives appear to be the denunciation of control by the home and parents, by school authorities, and by the laws of the state."

Superintendent C. K. Reiff said he had conducted quiet inquiry into a religious cult operated from Hollywood, Cal., allegedly a sponsor of the secret school society.

Beaman Bank Robbed; $18,000 Estimated Loss

BEAMAN, Nov. 23 (AP)—Iowa officers conducted a wide-spread search through central Iowa tonight for a burglar gang that cut into the vault of the Beaman Farmers Savings bank last night and escaped with cash and securities valued at $18,000.

The robbery was discovered by T. L. Evans, bank president, when he opened the bank at 7:45 a.m. today.

Vice-president Walter Whorral said the robbers had taken $5,500 in cash and an estimated $12,500 in negotiable bonds. Also missing were receipts for $200,000 in bonds which belong to the bank's customers. The bonds are being held in other banks.

White Day Cold Weather Is In Prospect Today

By The Associated Press

Generally cold weather was in prospect for the nation's Thanksgiving day with likelihood of rain or snow in some states.

Snow already covered parts of the middle west, upper New York state and the far west, and snow or rain were expected in New England and lower Pennsylvania.

Snow began falling near Buffalo yesterday morning. The storm moved eastward through the foggy atmosphere, clogging highways, impeding slightly the movement of trains and causing several minor traffic accidents. The temperature dropped to 16 degrees at Syracuse and 22 at Albany.

Children to Attend Charity Movie At Local Theater

Highlighted by a community church service and a city-wide distribution of food and clothing to the needy, Iowa City's Thanksgiving this year will be a quiet celebration.

Most public buildings and stores will be closed, and the only activity downtown will be the last hanging of Christmas decorations to remain through the holiday season.

At 10 o'clock this morning children of the city have been invited to a movie at the Iowa theater. An article of canned or fresh food will admit them, and while the show is on, Boy Scouts will collect the donations and turn them over to the Social Service league to be distributed among the poor families.

The weather man has promised an "old-fashioned Thanksgiving," lower temperatures and possible snow.

Interested members of Iowa City churches and the surrounding vicinity will gather at the Methodist church this morning at 10 o'clock to observe Thanksgiving day with a service of worship.

Dr. Ilion T. Jones of the First Presbyterian church will speak on "A Thanksgiving Document." Others who will participate in the service are the Rev. Evans A. Worthley of the Unitarian church; Joseph Braverman, representing the Jewish congregation of Iowa City; Mrs. Maud Whedon Smith, organist, and a string quartette including Virginia Agrell, Mariam Boysen, Mildred Jensen and Rollo Clara Norman.

Names New Appointment To U.S. Bench

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 23 (AP)

President Roosevelt announced today the recess appointment of Otto Kerner, present attorney general of Illinois, as federal circuit judge of the seventh circuit.

He also named Michael L. Igoe, now United States attorney at Chicago, to be federal district judge for the northern district of Illinois, and William J. Campbell, youth administrator for Illinois, to Igoe's place as district attorney.

All three appointments are subject to confirmation by the senate convening in January. The two judgeships are the first of approximately 18 new positions created in the last congress to help relieve congested court dockets. In addition, several other court vacancies exist, including that on the supreme court caused by the death of Associate Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo.

Air traffic, held up at Newark airport Tuesday night by a thick fog, was resumed, enabling the movement of heavy holiday traffic westward.

The fog extended south to Philadelphia, hampering traffic and causing many motorists to lose their way.

The New York Central railroad announced 100 extra trains in and out of New York for the holiday traffic.

American airlines operated extra planes on both the Chicago and Boston routes and officials expected to carry 600 passengers to those points yesterday, a 25 per cent increase over last year's figures.

A snowstorm came to the Ohio valley Tuesday night, the fall ranging from a slight trace south of Chicago to four inches at Terre Haute and Indianapolis. Snow also fell in Ohio, southern Michigan and most of Illinois. Local snows were expected in the upper Great Lakes region today.

The temperature was around zero in parts of Wyoming, Montana, North Dakota and Minnesota. At Butte, Mont., it was 12 below; at Cripple Creek, Col., 10 below. Denver had three inches of snow.

Coach at Holy Cross Will Be Revealed Friday as SUI Mentor, Athletic Board Member Says

Announcement Will Come from Office of Athletic Director; Leib, Schroeder Refuse To Confirm Signing

By JOHN MOONEY

Eddie Anderson, present head football coach at Holy Cross college, will be announced as head football coach at the University of Iowa, replacing Irl Tubbs, in a special announcement from the office of Athletic Director E. G. Schroeder Friday, a member of the Iowa board in control of athletics stated late last night.

Although Schroeder and Karl E. Leib, chairman of the athletic board, refused to either confirm or deny the statement that Anderson had been signed, this board member, whose name for obvious reasons cannot be revealed, stated that he "was positive" that Anderson was in line for the coaching position.

An Associated Press report from Worcester, Mass., quoted Anderson as saying "there is nothing to that right now."

Anderson's Holy Cross eleven, defeated only by Carnegie Tech this year, meets Boston college in the final game Saturday. It was believed here that Iowa contract would come just before the final gun sounds in Saturday's grid battle. The announcement by the athletic board tomorrow would then be just a formality.

Director Schroeder refused to come forth with his routine denial to the statements last night—his refusal to make a denial was staked as a virtual admission of the truth of the statements. Schroeder would only say, "I am forced, under orders, to keep quiet. I am deaf and dumb on this subject."

Meanwhile, in Iowa City rumors were circulating that Anderson would step into the athletic directorship along with the coaching position. Schroeder refused to say anything on this matter, apparently satisfied to stand by his guns until the completion of the 10-day period proposed by the athletic board.

Anderson, whose announcement that "Iowa's terms were too good to resist" had spurred local rumors, could not be reached for comment all day yesterday.

An Associated Press report stated that Anderson would bring two of his assistant coaches with him when he came to Iowa.

Holy Cross, defeated only by the strong Carnegie Tech eleven, has scored a total of 96 points this year to opponents' 44.

The season's record is as follows: Holy Cross 28; Providence 0; Holy Cross 46; Rhode Island State 13.

Holy Cross 19; Manhattan College 6; Holy Cross 6; Carnegie Tech 7; Holy Cross 29; Georgia University 6; Holy Cross 21; Colgate 0; Holy Cross 33; Temple 0; Holy Cross 14; Brown 12.

Besides piling up a record of 46 wins, eight losses and four ties, Anderson has piloted his elevens through two undefeated schedules.

In Iowa City, it was reported that Irl Tubbs still had no intention of resigning, even though a new coach had been hired. If this board member's statement is true, and we see no reason to doubt it, Iowa now has two coaches—Irl Tubbs and Eddie Anderson.

Anderson first gained fame as a football star under the late Knute Rockne. Upon his graduation he took over the head coaching duties at Columbia college in Dubuque, where he served as coach until his appointment at Holy Cross.

Leib, late last night, stated "I am not sure that there will be any special meeting of the board Friday. I think now that the announcement will come from the offices of the athletic director."

Isolation an Illusion, Says Hull to Nation In NBC Broadcast

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Secretary Hull called isolation and national self-sufficiency "illusions" tonight and said that international interdependence and need for cooperation were fundamental facts.

In an address prepared for a nation-wide broadcast (NBC), the secretary of state said:

"The rapidity and completeness with which events and reactions to events become known is one of the outstanding characteristics of our age."

Thanksgiving

"We are firm believers in the maxim that for all right judgment of man or any thing, it is useful, nay essential, to see his good qualities before pronouncing on his bad."

—Thomas Carlyle.

THANKSGIVING

Every Thanksgiving for the last five years Gov. Wilbur L. Cross of Connecticut has been issuing his Thanksgiving proclamations, and they have become world-famous; several have been included in books of literature.

Well, in the Nov. 8 election a coalition group defeated Governor Cross, and he has issued his last proclamation. It is printed here because it attempts to say what all editorial writers must on Thanksgiving morning—a and fall.

"As the colors of autumn stream down the wind, scarlet in the birches, a splendor of smoldering fire in the oaks along the hill, and the last leaves flutter away, and dusk falls briefly about the worker bringing in from the field a late load of its fruit, and Arcuturus is lost to sight and Orion swings upward that great sun upon his shoulder, we are stirred once more to ponder the Infinite Goodness that has set apart for us, in all this moving mystery of creation a time of living and a home. . . In such a spirit I appoint Thursday, the 24th of November, a day of PUBLIC THANKSGIVING.

In such a spirit I call upon the people to acknowledge heartily, in friendly gathering and house of prayer, the increase of the season now nearing its close; the harvest of earth, the yield of patient mind and faithful hand, that have kept us fed and clothed and have made for us a shelter even against the storm. It is right that we whose arc of sky has been darkened by no war hawk, who have been forced by no man to stand and speak when to speak was to choose between life and death, should give thanks also for the further mercies we have enjoyed, beyond desert or any estimation, of Justice, Freedom, Loving-kindness, Peace—resolving, as we prize them, to let no occasion go without some prompting or some effort worthy, in a way however humble of those proudest among men's ideals, which burn, though it may be like candles fitfully in our gusty world, with a light so clear that we name its source divine."

A Chicagoan who crashed a traffic light got a minimum fine when he blamed his hay fever. It sounds like a bad precedent. A traffic light is not something to be sneezed at.

Whatever else may be said of German military strength, it must be conceded that General Goering has beaten the rest of Europe to the paunch.

And, Speaking Of Community Chests

YALE university has annually conducted its own "community chest" campaign for the last 16 years. More than $20,000 was collected in the budget drive this fall and in the 16-year period $350,000 has been contributed by students and faculty to the "chest."

The Yale Hope mission, a social welfare establishment in New Haven; Dwight Hall, student religious center; Yale-in-China, and the Yale unit of the Grenfell mission in Labrador are supported wholly or in part by donations from the Yale chest. A contribution is made also to the New Haven community chest.

Our own university could profitably make use of the example set by the Yale charity project, for we have our particular "101 neediest cases." Just as in any social group, there are underprivileged members in the university community— young men and women rich in ideals and ambition but poor in pocket.

Many of these, our fellow-students, struggle through bitter experiences in their collegiate life which, not rarely, produce a correlative bitterness in their social viewpoints.

An annual University of Iowa community chest would lessen the hardships suffered by an unfortunately large number of worthy students and increase their productivity to the university and to society.

A contribution of 25 cents from every person associated with the university would yield at least $2,000, or 20 $100 scholarships or a substantial loan fund which would accumulate until of sufficient size to be used as a scholarship endowment.

Surely needy University of Iowa students are as deserving of aid as the Yale enterprises. To benefit them is to benefit the university and the state.

Automobile manufacturers advertise a new machine to be called the "ideal family car." We're anxious to see one of the models to find out how they manage to put the steering wheel in the back seat.

Letters To The Editor

Editor, The Daily Iowan SINCE coming to Iowa, I have become a firm believer in attending church. For what else but prayer can account for the scarcity of auto accidents here? Certainly not the skill of the drivers. I have never seen a worse collection of so-called autoists in my life. It must be that each Sunday they store up enough salvation to last a week. Whenever anybody misses church one Sunday, there's an accident the following week. If you don't believe me, just keep the fellow you owe money to from church next time and see if it doesn't decrease your creditors by one before the week is out.

The only time anyone uses his brakes is to stop; never to slow down. The object seems to be to see how close you can get to the other car without touching. And also, it appears that the brakes won't work unless the car is traveling at the rate of 60 miles per hour, so everybody goes 60 because they know it's dangerous to ride without brakes. Street intersections are fun, too. "Who beats who" is a game for young and old. Duplicate coffins are awarded by the mortician in case of a lie. The stop signs at certain corners just make the game more even. Cars at crossing streets all stop at the same time and then all start together—that makes it even; nobody gets a head start.

Iowa streets are not overly wide to begin with, but when cars park on each side of the road from the sidewalk out the tortuous alleys of the old Ghetto don't hold a candle to these "highways". And just to make it interesting, some truck comes along and stops right smack in the middle of what's left to go by in—and then the sidewalk is the only possibility of a way to get by. A requirement for obtaining a driver's license ought to be driving a car thru' the eye of a needle (the darnin' size—you can't be too stringent).

One can just see the exuberance of youth as some auto pulls in between two others and stops on what's left of a dime after buying nine cents postage. It shows such romantic dash and devil-may-care nerve. Maybe after the body jumps off the wheels a few times. I may be conservative, but I prefer to drive at about 20 miles an hour or less in a crowded street. I always let the fellow on the thru' road go by first. He usually has no place to go, but he wants to get there first. When I see a car up ahead of me slow down and stop far away enough so that a good sized elephant on a bungee can stumble thru'. Of course, there are no elephants here, but I'm funny that way. And I never drive my car in between two others to see if it fits. Paint on all four fenders is the thing these days. Brakes, surprisingly enough, work just as well as 15 as they do at 60. Go on, try them yourself.

I really don't see the use of killing off as many people as possible and yourself at the same time. I enjoy living and I think maybe the rest of the world does too. So I'm courteous and careful—but then I'm just an old sofie.

—Arthur Levin

A REAL THANKSGIVING!

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Perhaps it may amuse you to know how Larry Clinton came to write his new song hit, "My Reverie," which seems to be about the most consistently hummed and crooned tune of the day.

Mr. Clinton is an orchestra leader and a writer of songs, and he has written many and varied lyric laments that have soothed and charmed your ears. But it is doubtful if any tune ever led him such a chase as the one you know as "My Reverie."

For it all began years ago, despite the fact that the song was not written until one hot night last August.

When Mr. Clinton was a little boy he used to practice piano exercises by the hour. Difficult exercises, and sometimes very dull ones, by most of the old masters. Perhaps his mother made him practice. It may even be that he sought out the piano of his own accord. I forgot to ask him. But practice he did. And one day a fragment of melody became detached from one of the mother compositions and it ran around in his brain for years.

It nagged him. It irritated him. It haunted him and it charmed him. But he didn't know who it was, or from whence it came. All he knew was there it was, bobbing up like a dim remembered picture for fleeting moments, and running away.

One night (this was that hot August night I mentioned) he sat at the keyboard, letting his fingers idle along, and before he knew it that vagrant refrain, maybe or five bars, bobbed up again. Mr. Clinton hastily reached for a pencil and jotted it down.

Once on paper it began to appear like something from an old acquaintance. Maybe DeBussy. He began thumbing through his library. It wasn't there. He ransacked the country for DeBussy exercises. And finally he found it. It was the first eight bars of a long lost exercise he used to practice as a cub.

After that the music trailed off into technically good but dull runs along the keyboard. But the first eight bars was lovely.

So he communicated with the DeBussy estate abroad and advised them of his intentions of building a modern song around DeBussy's "lead." The governors of the estate were horrified, also aghast. Here was effrontery and a sacrilege.

But this particular exercise was not copyrighted in America. So Larry wrote his song, recorded it, and sent it abroad for the DeBussy people to hear. For a while the cables were hot. They were delighted. Not only were the American rights okay—it could be published all over the world where popular music is played.

Net result: the outstanding song hit of today. His recording for Victor is that company's best seller in three years. Lovely little Bee Wain, who sings the refrain, already has become known as "The Reverie Girl."

TUNING IN

WHEREIN A SWING ADDICT writes a letter. (With apologies to Cab Calloway, from whose "Hepsters Dictionary" these phrases are gleaned.)

Dear Joe, Well, buddy ghee, hows the corny old icky? I blew the top when I copped your last letter. It was a killer diller, Jeff, but I sure wish you'd get hip and put on your boots. And how's the wren?

I haven't caught many cups lately; sorta beat on my doss as it were, but I'm feeling dicky. The old glims are as good as ever.

Say, early last black we cats were frisking our whiskers up at the cubby, when who should walk in but the canary. She's really a barbeque. Some blip! Not like the battle we had before. This one cuts 'em all. The chick said, "How about some boogie-woogie?"

Well, we got in the groove. We were really going barrelhouse and she began to lay iron all over the place, (she's quite a rug-cutter) when in walks some faust, a hinky dracula if I ever saw one, and was she a square!

She was looking for Duke; said she had been for a full set of seven brights. She was completely off the cob—dint know the doghouse from the skin.

The affair turned into a regular clambake in about three ticks, and I couldn't quite catch the deal, but it ended up with Duke looking for his lead sheet and leaving, togged to the bricks with battle. I guess he was her main on the hitch. (You know how Duke's drapes. What a line!)

That ended the jam session. I thought I'd get some chow, but I couldn't find a bree and I didn't have a meter in the mouse, and nothing here is freeby, so I came home. (By the way, you may not know what a meter is. Well, it's a ruff!)

I think I'd better trilly, now that this is ready for the man in gray, cause I'm completely beat and the lily whites on the pad look good. If you ever get to the apple, look me up. Keep tricker-ating.

Yours, Butch

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Gary Cooper, the Montana cowboy, goes back home this week on the screen. And it's about time.

For years now Gary has been no closer to a horse than he came in the ancient Chinese hooey of "Marco Polo." He has dabbled in the whimsy of "Mr. Deeds" and he has flirted in the Lubitsch boudoir of "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife." But this week he's on a horse again—where he began—and everybody should be happy.

The picture is "The Cowboy and the Lady." It is not so wild-westy, however, as the title indicates. Cooper plays a rodeo rider who goes to Palm Beach, with the show ostensibly, but actually on a personal prowl for a bride. By happy chance, Merle Oberon, daughter of Henry Kolker, a gent with presidential aspirations, is down there in temporary exile after a youthful fling. All her life, daughter Merle has played second fiddle to papa's ambitions. For excitement she joins her maids (Patsy Kelly and Mabel Todd) on a blind date with three rodeo-riders. Kelly draws Walter Brennan, Todd gets Fuzzy Knight, and Merle gets—well, you guess now.

But they lead a stormy life, especially after she marries the fellow without letting on she's an heiress.

Nicely directed by H. C. Potter, tastefully produced, "The Cowboy and the Lady" is strictly for amusement, of which it provides plenty.

I'm still not sure when "The Shining Hour" struck but I do know this: it starts out as the best vehicle Joan Crawford has had in many a year (and how she needs a good one!) . . . and then Poof! In it Joan plays a Broadway cabaret star who tires of light love and marries Melvyn Douglas, member of a long-established, wealthy and smug mid-western family. Joan right away puts her foot in it; before she reaches her new home the hatred of Melvyn's elder sister (Fay Bainter) is set against her; to make matters worse, she has to fight against a fatal fascination for her brother-in-law (Robert Young) who returns the passion although he's married to a charming gal of his own set (Margaret Sullivan).

The situation smoulders with emotional conflict, and Director Frank Borzage, aided by the convincing work of his exceptional cast, manages to hold a spell of sultry tenseness over the proceedings for a good part of the way. Then suddenly it all blows up; the house of cards is stacked too high and it collapses.

There's a scene in which Joan and Margaret talk and talk and talk, and the only thing that stops the conversation is the cry of fire. Joan's new house is burning down. Then there's a gem in which Margaret (self-immolating) runs into the fire, to be rescued by Joan. The result is reminiscent of the old Keystone Kops days. The climax is capped— or maybe smothered—when Sullivan plays her final scene with her head swathed in bandages except for her eyes. The best actress in the world couldn't beat that handicap.

Medical Exam Very special attention is directed to the fact that this year and hereafter, by action of the Association of American Medical Colleges in Syracuse, N. Y., last month, the medical aptitude test is to be given only once each year.

Therefore, every student in the colleges and universities of the country who may be planning to register in any medical school for the year 1939-40, must be sure to take the medical aptitude test Dec. 2, as already announced; because any prospective medical student who fails to take this test at that time cannot be admitted to any medical college for the year 1939-40.

Health Hints

By Logan Clending, M. D.

The thyroid gland is the best known of the ductless glands. It is seated in the front of the base of the neck, and everyone must have seen it outlined under the skin in people with goiter.

Knowledge of treatment of thyroid gland disorders is more advanced than that of any other ductless gland. Its action in the body is, first, to control the general nutrition; all the processes in the body are kept up to level by the action of the thyroid secretion.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

D. V. H.: "Being an office girl, I am inclined to gain weight very easily due to lack of exercise and perhaps wrong diet. I watch my calories during meal times but there are the extra-in-between-meal drinks, such as soda, cocoa and Tom Collins. I am beginning to believe that these drinks ruin the benefits of a carefully-watched reducing diet. What is the average amount of calories in these popular beverages?"

Answer: You are entirely right. Anything extra you eat or drink, except water, black coffee and bouillon, ruins the effects of a carefully watched reducing diet (so long as it is really carefully watched). A bottle of soft drink contains from 50 to 100 calories. A properly-made Tom Collins has about 180 calories.

Williams Sends Hoopsters Through Long, Hard Drill

Switches Hohenhorst To Forward From Guard Position

Hawkeye cagers, with the season's opener only a week and a half away, have steadily stepped up the pace of practice as Coach Rolfe Williams sends them through a tough schedule of daily drills in preparation for the invasion by Carleton, Dec. 3.

Williams, seeking to bolster the forward wall of the quintet that takes the floor against Carleton, last night put into effect the change he had previously announced — the switch of Fred Hohenhorst from guard to forward. Hohenhorst, a cagy veteran of last year's squad, has been slated for a change in position ever since practice began, but it was never certain just which place he would land in. At first it was thought that the six foot two inch junior would be in the center post, but when Nite Kinick decided that he needed another forward to go along with Captain Benny Stephens, Tommy Lind and Angie Anapol, so Hohenhorst moved up in front.

Last night, although Dick Evans was absent from practice, Williams shoved the squad through a fast workout in which two different combinations were used with some degree of success. The first lineup, and one that showed scoring potentialities, had Benny Stephens and the steadily improving Tommy Lind at forwards. Stephens, who has been hitting the hoop again of late, and Lind are two of the speediest men on the squad. At the center post, Rolfe was using Erwin Prasse on defense, while Angie Anapol, sharp shooting sophomore, was coming up from guard to take over the role of pivot man on offensive thrusts. The fifth man on this quintet was Howard Irvine, another sophomore.

Not quite so potent on attack, but showing defensive capabilities, was the other team combination to receive attention. Here, Charles Plett, reserve pivot man of last year, took over the duties of a center behind a forward combination of Anapol and Hohenhorst, with Bob Hobbs and two sophomores, Joe Murray and Louie Selzer alternating at the guards.

Hohenhorst, at his new position, was showing up well, while Anapol was exhibiting his usual eye for the basket, but this combination seemed to lack some of the scoring power of the other. However, the addition of Hohenhorst to the Hawkeye front lines, makes the going decidedly tougher for opposing basket-shooters and gives the forward wall some of the height which may be needed.

Irish Seek Ninth Straight For Season

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 23 (AP) — Notre Dame's undefeated-undefeated footballers, seeking their ninth straight win this season, will leave Monday for Los Angeles and the 1938 finale against Southern California Dec. 3.

The Irish entourage of 36 players will stop in Tucson, Ariz., next Wednesday and Thursday for workouts on the University of Arizona field. They will arrive in Los Angeles Friday night before the game. Head Coach Elmer Layden has viewed the Trojan game with more apprehension than any other on the Notre Dame schedule. After the Irish edged out Northwestern, 9 to 7, last Saturday, Layden said, "They've been getting tougher every week, and this was the toughest yet. I hate to think of the Southern California game."

Relay Carnival
Relay runners, including varsity men from Hawkeye title teams and fraternity members who become track men for one afternoon only, will compete in the University of Iowa's relay carnival in the fieldhouse Jan. 14.

Great Season For Hawklets Lose But One Game In Year Marked By Tie For League Title

The shrill blast of the referee's whistle and the dull thud of the basketball on the hardwood court brings with stark reality to the sport fan's mind the fact that the football season is at an end. But, in the minds of Iowa City high school fans the season, so recently dead, will long enjoy a cherished resting place.

For there's much in the dramatic season for Iowa Citizens to remember — a season climaxed by a smashing Little Hawk triumph over Davenport high school, an arch rival, and a share in the Mississippi Valley crown.

Coaches Herb Cormack and Francis Merten turned out another of their strong eleven in the 1938 edition of the Red and White team. Sweeping through their schedule with ease, the Hawklets won eight of their nine contests, losing only when the Franklin eleven of Cedar Rapids, playing over their heads and aided by numerous penalties against Iowa City, managed to pull a 26-10 win.

In conference competition the Little Hawks conquered Clinton 13-6, McKinley 18-7, Dubuque 16-6, Wilson 7-6, and Davenport 14-6. Their only loss was to Franklin and as a result they were forced into a tie for championship honors with West Waterloo.

In non-conference games Iowa City downed DeWitt 31-7; Mt. Vernon 27-0 and Albia 6-0. It was in the Davenport game that the Iowa City lads rose to their greatest heights. The previously undefeated Blue Devils, coming to Iowa City to play the twice-postponed Homecoming game, sought to clinch the title and preserve its perfect record. But the Little Hawks, led by the smashing tactics of "Hammering Herman" Miller and Ted Lewis, plus the fine work of the Red and White forward wall, completely smothered the Davenport boys. Only the long punts of Bender, Davenport star, kept the score from taking on huge proportions.

Football Fans Congregate In Philadelphia

Army, Navy Fight Draws Grid Fans To Baker Bowl

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP) — The football mob's all over Philadelphia today, like it is every year for Penn-Cornell and Army-Navy the same week end. They've even been thinking of putting a football in Ben Franklin's hands on top of city hall just to show where the grid capital is on Thanksgiving. Y'oughta take in Benny Leonard's refereeing act if he's in your neighborhood. He opens with a half dozen or so fight stories that lay 'em in the aisles, then works whatever fight he's on. Seems Bennie got the idea the fans weren't getting enough for their money when he only refereed. Wowed 'em in one place when a leather-lunged fan hollered, "How many times did you fight Johnny Dundee?" "So many," cracked Benny, "that I even learned to speak Italian."

Arkansas football outfits have always been a little shy in the full-backing slot since Fred Thomson's been there. But they won't be after this year, if you can believe what they tell about Jay Lawhon, a 210-pounder on the freshman squad. Can kick and pass with any of 'em. And the funny thing is, he wanted to be a tackle, until the varsity needed a big fellow to imitate Ernie Lain in scrimmage before the Rice game. When Patty Berg was four down in Janet Shock of Dayton in their match in the women's nationals, no one around the Denison U. campus was surprised. "Cause Janet is on the varsity golf team and won 11 out of 12 matches in competition. Have you noticed how Detroit, the late city of champions — when the baseball Tigers and hockey Red Wings were running wild — now has only Joe Louis left on the "Mr. Big" list. And even Joe spends most of his time in other places.

Cefeiro Garcia wants a shot at Fred Apostol's middleweight "title" if he gets by Henery Armstrong tomorrow night. This department thinks Henery will be "winnah and still champion" when it's all over. Note to Fordham Jim Crowley, wherever you're hunting ivory now: better come home in a hurry; your N. Y. U. pal Max Stevens has you inviting everybody in town to a free meal — at your expense — next week. Already been accepted by 100 football writers. Fellow who gets the biggest hand from the fans of undefeated Oklahoma's squad is a third string Indian back, Chief Bob West. All he does is pass, but when he's in there pitching, it brings down the house.

Locke Retains
After 16 seasons, each with their sensational all-American backs, Gordon Locke, an all-American himself at the University of Iowa, still holds the western conference individual football scoring record for league games, with 72 points in five games.

T is for tau, U is for upsilon, R is for rho, K is for kappa, E is for epsilon and Y is for psi and in the Greek style that spells TURKEY, and with turkey goes pumpkin pie, candied sweet potatoes and cranberry sauce. And all that makes up the grand old American custom of Thanksgiving.

Many a suitcase went out the door of either a dormitory, a sorority or fraternity house yesterday in order to catch buses, trains or rides to the hometown. And there were also incoming suitcases of mothers and fathers or friends and relatives. All in all, they're ready to celebrate another Thanksgiving day.

Spicy Odors From Kitchens To Arouse Visions for Children

Prof., Mrs. Homer Dill Entertain Eight At Dinner Today

There may be no snow over which to travel to Grandmother's house this Thanksgiving, but many homes in Iowa City are keeping alive the spirit of the first Thanksgiving by having old fashioned family gatherings with relatives and friends.

Spicy odors from the kitchen domain arouse visions for both children and adults of hot mince pies, golden pumpkin pies, mounds of whipped potatoes and candied yams, cranberry sauce and king of all holiday dishes, proud Tom Turkey.

Prof. and Mrs. Homer R. Dill, 1127 Dill street, will entertain eight guests for dinner today, including Prof. and Mrs. B. V. Crawford and their daughter, Elizabeth Jane, Ethyl Martin, and Prof. and Mrs. John Ashton and their daughters, Elizabeth and Polly.

Grace Meyers, 715 N. Linn street, is spending the Thanksgiving holiday in Grinnell visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lynch.

Another couple who are visiting relatives over the holiday are Attorney and Mrs. Burke N. Carson, 906 E. College street, who will spend the day with Mrs. Carson's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Stoltenberg of Davenport.

Dr. and Mrs. F. D. Francis, 529 E. College street, will spend Thanksgiving day with Mrs. Francis' mother, Mrs. N. M. Hodgson of Union.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Youngman and their son and daughter, Donald and Virginia, of Cedar Rapids will spend Thanksgiving day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Beck, 503 Grant street.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Sidwell, 223 Melrose avenue, will have as their guests Mrs. E. H. Sidwell and her daughters, Virginia and Josephine, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spencer and their family, Lois Randall and Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Bennett at a family dinner today.

Mr. and Mrs. George Johnston, and their daughter, Mary Eleanor, 5 E. Fairchild street, will entertain William Cressay of Kingsley, Glenn Metcalf of Merville, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Houser of Kewanee, Ill., and Mrs. E. L. Chritzman for Thanksgiving dinner.

Guests for the holidays at the Charles Looney home, 21 Woolf avenue, will be Carolyn Washburn, Enid Schnauver and Lawrence Houchens, all of Urbana, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Looney will entertain 12 guests Saturday evening at an informal supper for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Horrabin Jr. and their daughters, Barbara and Diane, will entertain at a family dinner this noon at their home, 1502 Muscatine avenue. Guests will be Mrs. Ida Yeller (See GUESTS, Page 6)

Thomas Keane Will Speak To Scouts Dec. 1

National Director Is University Graduate And Qualified Seaman

Local Boy Scouts and their families and friends will hear Thomas J. Keane, national director of senior scouting, speak at the annual meeting of the council in the river room of Memorial Union on Thursday, Dec. 1, at 8:30 p.m.

Mr. Keane of New York City gained his position from experience as a camper, explorer, navigator, executive, engineer, author and leader of older boys.

He is a university graduate in arts, science and engineering. While a student he spent each summer sailing the high seas so that when he completed his college career he had also become a qualified seaman and navigator.

Mr. Keane spent five years with the United States navy. During the last two years of his service he was aide to the commandant of the United States naval station at Great Lakes, Ill. He has travelled extensively and has made a study of scouting methods in 30 countries.

Mrs. Charles Rickstine, 115 N. Dodge street, will open her home to the members of the Jolly Eight Five Hundred club tomorrow afternoon at 2 p.m.

Guests will play five hundred.

Prof. Schramm Publishes Short Story Textbook

Short story writing technique and a collection of good short stories are combined in a new textbook, "The Story Workshop," prepared by Prof. Wilbur Schramm of the University of Iowa English department.

Although it was published only about a month ago, it already has been adopted as a text-book by several universities and others are expected to use it in 1939.

Professor Schramm has placed the teaching of short story writing on a professional level in his presentation of material. The author is editor of Iowa's literary magazine, "American Prefaces."

He is the editor of "American Prefaces."

Mrs. J. Austin, Rural Route 3, Dies at Hospital

Funeral Services To Be Held Tomorrow At Oathout Chapel

Mrs. Maude Austin, wife of John W. Austin, rural route 3, died at a local hospital at 3:15 p.m. yesterday.

Mrs. Austin had been in poor health for two years, and had been bedfast for six months.

She was born Aug. 5, 1884, at Limestone, Tenn., coming to Johnson county in 1911. She was married in 1911, and the couple moved to Oklahoma, where they lived for two years, returning to the Oxford vicinity, where they lived for nine years.

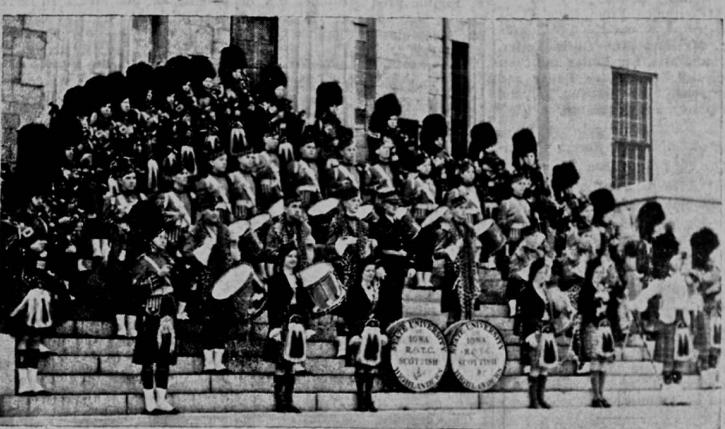

The couple then moved to Union township, where they have since resided.

Mrs. Austin was a member of the Unity church. She is survived by her husband; one daughter, Mrs. Woodrow Weeber of Iowa City; one son, Paul, at home; three sisters, Mrs. T. C. Toddlock of Wellman, Mrs. Harold Bertrand of Cedar Rapids and Mrs. Nimon Smith of Lone Tree, and one brother, Ben Mahoney of Iowa City.

One daughter, Kathleen, preceded her in death at the age of four years.

The body is at Oathout's. Funeral service will be at the Oathout chapel at 2 p.m. tomorrow, with the Rev. James Waery officiating. Burial will be in the Oxford cemetery.

They'll March in Santa Claus Parade

The University of Iowa's Scottish Highlanders, bagpipe unit of the military department, will appear in Iowa City's Santa Claus parade here Saturday.

Having gained the reputation as the largest unit of its kind in the world, the Highlanders have appeared in widely separated areas in the United States.

The organization's 23 pipers and 20 drummers are all fully equipped.

Especially outstanding among their bids for fame have been the demonstrations of the members of the group, cooperating with the University of Iowa band, between the halves of home football games, and William Adamson, pipe major for the group, made one of the outstanding hits of the year with his Highland fling at the Homecoming game with Wisconsin.

They have also performed at football games in Madison, Wis., and Chicago.

In the last two years, the band has made two trips to Kansas City, Mo., to perform for the annual R. O. T. C. circus there.

The second time the band performed at the circus, they were called back for an encore, the first time any group had ever been called back in the 16 years the circus has been presented.

Last summer, the Highlanders went to Ft. Crook, Neb., where they led the 17th infantry of the army through formal review before Maj. Gen. Stanley Ford, commander of the 17th infantry.

Besides these trips, the band has made numerous trips to many points in Iowa for parades and celebrations.

Included in these are two American Legion state convention parades, one in Des Moines and one in Davenport.

Women's Phys. Ed. Staff Will Give Tea

The staff of the women's physical education department will entertain at a tea Tuesday from 4 to 6 p.m. in the river room of Iowa Union for members of the teaching staff of other departments in which the professional students have courses.

Religious Activities' Finance Drive Will Begin Next Sunday

Annual Contributions Will Be Used To Pay Program Costs

The religious activities board will conduct a drive, beginning Sunday, to finance the extensive religious activities program at the University of Iowa this year.

During the past few years, since 1931 when the religious activities board was organized, an enlarged program in religion for university students has included such gatherings as the freshman conference, "fireside" discussions, Religious Emphasis week and university vesper services.

Now a tradition, the freshman conference takes place every year on the university campus.

Freshmen, selected on the basis of leadership, quality and character, meet for a two-day conference, becoming familiar with problems facing them in their new environment.

Members of the entering class who attend these meetings, held at the beginning of the year, have stated that through these student and faculty talks they begin to feel at home at the university and to become a definite part of its teaming life.

These same students continue to assemble weekly for a period of four or five weeks, and many participate in religious activities throughout the rest of their school career.

Also as a part of the religious activities program, a two-day intercollegiate peace conference was carried on last year. Besides the 70 university students at the peace institute, there were 45 representatives from other colleges of the state.

The familiar "fireside" discussions were conducted last year under the direction of the religious activities board, in 28 houses, led by 51 faculty members and ministers.

These forums provided opportunity for students to contact leaders in religion and receive helpful solutions to their problems.

Through the services of the religious activities board and the cooperation of the school of religion, Religious Emphasis week was successfully conducted.

Nationally known figures were featured in the lectures, contributing their experiences to emphasize the importance of religion in society.

HOSTESS HINTS

The sight of evergreens in the windows all remind us that the holiday season is upon us again. And how we all love every minute of the excitement that it brings.

But for the queen of the kitchen it means lots more time and effort spent in the kitchen preparing the goodies that everyone expects as a matter of course at this time of the year.

And the first of the "necessaries" are pumpkin and mince pie. Individual pies are good but then one must count noses carefully.

If you use mince meat that comes all prepared try adding some candied orange peel and see what a difference it makes in the taste. Or, of course, you may prefer to make your own.

Mince Meat
2 cups finely chopped lean meat
4 cups chopped tart apples
1 cup apple cider
1 tablespoon cloves
1 tablespoon allspice
1 tablespoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon nutmeg
1/2 cup finely chopped citron
1 cup meat stock
2 teaspoons salt
2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup suet, chopped
2 cups chopped raisins
2 cups currants
1 cup chopped nuts

Method: Combine the ingredients and let simmer for two hours. Be sure to remove fat and gristle from the meat.

Holiday Putting
4 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs separated
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 cup pineapple juice
1 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup crushed drained pineapple (optional)

Cream butter and eggs, add orange rind and beaten egg yolks. Add liquid alternately with dry ingredients. Fold in nuts, fruit, and stiffly beaten egg whites. Steam in greased molds at least two and one-half hours. You may use a fancy mold by covering with two thicknesses of parchment paper the one next the mixture having been greased with butter. Tie this paper on tightly to keep moisture out and then completely cover the mold with several thicknesses of wax paper.

Serve with hard sauce, flavored with pineapple, cranberry juice or any commercial flavorings.

Deadline Degree Applications Due Dec. 15

First academic awards of 1939 will be made at the University of Iowa's mid-year convocation Jan. 31 and candidates have about three weeks in which to file their applications.

Registrar H. C. Dorcas has announced that all applications must be on file at his office by Dec. 15. Failure to do this within the deadline date will jeopardize the student's chance for graduation.

Highlanders To Drill Saturday

Widely Known Unit To March In Santa Claus Parade Here

One of the most colorful units in the Santa Claus parade Saturday will be the University of Iowa Scottish Highlanders.

The University of Iowa has the largest and most completely equipped bagpipe band in the world. At present, there are 23 pipers and 20 drummers, most of whom will be on parade Saturday.

All Highlanders will be in full dress uniform, the latest addition to which is a heavy wool cape. When on parade, these capes are carried in a roll on the back. The capes are of Royal Stewart tartan material matching the rest of the uniforms. However, the pattern of the tartan is larger and the material is very heavy.

The Iowa Highlanders have acquired national fame from their maneuvers between halves of the Iowa football games.

They have also performed at football games in Madison, Wis., and Chicago.

In the last two years, the band has made two trips to Kansas City, Mo., to perform for the annual R. O. T. C. circus there.

The second time the band performed at the circus, they were called back for an encore, the first time any group had ever been called back in the 16 years the circus has been presented.

High School Readers Average Better Than Iowa Freshmen

By IRENE SUTTON
How well do you read? Recent surveys of reading abilities based on the University of Iowa qualifying examinations this year show that 219 members of the freshman class in liberal arts read less well than the average high school senior.

Of these 219 students, 125 had reading achievement scores below that of the typical high school junior, 52 were below the typical high school sophomore, and 18 actually made scores below that made by the average high school freshman.

However, the average college freshman in the university this year comprehends as well as other freshmen in other colleges in the United States, and is able to read slightly faster.

In order to aid students and persons in the state who are interested in remedial reading, the reading clinic of the University of Iowa was established. It was one of the first to be organized, and is now under the direction of Prof. D. B. Stuit, with Jane Hutchinson and Margaret Pankaskie as assistants.

Comprehension, rate and preliminary visual tests are given to students who wish to improve their reading ability, which might otherwise prove a definite handicap in their future education.

Not only college students and Iowa City grade school children, but out-of-town children and adults as well can take advantage of these remedial measures.

College of Pharmacy Host to Many Old Grads This Week

Visitors in the college of pharmacy this week were Martin M. Boeke of Wellsburg, of the class of 1931; Dr. Robert J. Needles of Detroit, Mich., of the class of 1924, who received a degree in medicine in 1930, and Robert J. Barth of Waterloo, who will receive a degree in June.

Word has been received that Charles E. Leffingwell of the class of 1938 has entered training for the army air corps at Randolph Field, Texas.

Altrusa Club To Meet at Union

The Altrusa club will meet tomorrow evening for a dinner and program at the Iowa Union. This meeting was previously scheduled and postponed until the present date.

ROMANCE IN IOWA

Sara Sue Davis, attractive on the campus of Rice Institute, in Texas, when she erects a sign in front of her cottage announcing "COUNSEL IN ROMANCE." Her plan is to help guide 100 student "members" in their social and love affairs for a small fee. Bob Towne, campus football hero, attracted by Sara Sue, is the first to enroll. This enrages Peaches Pomeroy, a senior, who regarded herself as "Bob's girl" the previous year. Worthington Gurley, unrepentant freshman, provides another interesting problem for Sara Sue. But the climax in her Cottage Plan occurs when sedate Dr. Thornton Holgate, new member of the faculty, begs Sara Sue to help him... then confides his love for Peaches Pomeroy. She does, and gives him his first lessons in "how to become more human." Then T. J. Sanders, a sports goods salesman, appears on the scene and seeks out Sara Sue to help him locate a pretty girl he had seen in the stands at a local football game. The girl, of course, is Sara Sue herself. Bob finds Sanders' dog at Sara Sue's and begins to suspect he has a rival. Sanders, much taken by Sara Sue, takes her to visit some dog kennels because she likes dogs, then makes other dates with her. Alone, she does some serious thinking about Sanders, Towne, Gurley and Dr. Holgate. Sara Sue gives Dr. Holgate more advice to help him with his courtship of Peaches. (Now Go On With the Story)

CHAPTER 18
CLEOPATRA came in and Sara Sue left Dr. Holgate for a moment to give her a pointer or two regarding lunch. Meanwhile, her guest sat thinking. Thinking deeply.

"Oh, persimmons, Cleo!"

"Yassum. It was some on the fruit countah, and I remembered you-all liked 'em. Fust ones this season, the man say."

"Fine!"

Few fruits are more delicious than the wild Texas persimmon, touched to delectable sweetness by early frost. Sara Sue washed a dish of them and came back to the living room. Dr. Holgate, reared in Yankeeedom, had never tasted them before.

"Delicious," he declared. "Do you serve fruits to all your guests?"

"No. You are special. I couldn't afford to, with all the students who have memberships here."

"You have 100 members, you said?"

"Yes. You were No. 100, Thorny."

"How did you happen to conceive so clever an idea?"

"Well, I don't know exactly. I just got to thinking. Mother and I had limited cash. She's Larry's mother, really, you know. But I love her very much. I could have hunted a downtown job. But, Thorny, I just didn't want to slave in some office or store for a few dollars a week!"

"No, indeed. I commend you for it. Your ingenuity is to be praised."

"Well, I just happened onto it, I guess. I talked to my banker friend. And a lawyer. And just went into it. The plan has certainly worked out fine."

"Have you some special training for work of this sort, Sara Sue?"

"No. None whatever. I just drew from my own background."

"Tell me about your background."

"Well, I mean my love life, so far as this is concerned. You see, I knew—I absolutely knew—that love is very poignant when you are at college age. The colleges don't recognize that enough. It causes much trouble, much heartache. I was in love, and married, when I could have been a freshman. I don't mean to bring up my personal history that way, but it gave me this idea."

"And then I have seen my friends need help. So few people will try to understand boys and girls in love, don't you think? Usually they just laugh at them. That's wrong, Thorny. Love is— is magnificent, I guess. It is. It's extremely important. It is what makes people happy or unhappy."

Thornton nodded agreement.

"Have you — experienced romance—since?" He expressed genuine interest.

"Me? Oh! Well, no. That is, a couple of the fellows are kidding me a lot. Three of them really. You know about that, because the Bob Towne talks all the time, but I'm not in love with a him. He goes around telling all the gang that I'm his girl, but everybody knows it doesn't mean anything. But you know, Thorny, a girl likes that, even so! It sort of tickles her vanity, I guess." She paused to giggle.

"Quite so," Thornton agreed. "Has he proposed marriage? If that's not too personal."

"Oh, no, I mean, I don't care if you ask. Yes, he has asked me a dozen times, I suppose. I just tease back at him. I will say one thing, though, he never tries to get too fresh or anything like that. I can't stand men that get too intimate. Have another persimmon, Thorny."

"Thank you. You mean you have other admirers, too?"

"Yes, I mean, a couple of the boys are asking for dates some, and I enjoy going out with them."

Driver Will Learn Not to Race Officers

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Usually it's the officer who chases the speeder. This time it was the speedy driver who chased the highway officer, but the driver paid.

Capt. Frank Albright passed a truck in his car, then slowed down to check the speed of the heavy vehicle. The truck driver apparently took it as an invitation to race. He kept increasing his speed. When they reached 60 miles an hour, quite a few over the truck speed limit, Captain Albright thought it time to call a halt, handed the driver a ticket.

The officer was in plain clothes, driving an unmarked automobile.

Father and Son Banquet Will Take Place December Ninth

G. Briel to Speak At Dinner Given By I.O.O.F. Lodge

A father and son banquet will take place here on Friday night, Dec. 9, according to an announcement submitted by members of the Eureka lodge No. 44, I. O. O. F., at a regular meeting Tuesday night.

The banquet, beginning at 6:30 p.m., will be followed by a program. George I. Briel of Kentucky, director of the development and extension of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, is scheduled to speak before the boys and their fathers.

Alva B. Oathout has been appointed chairman of the committee in charge. He will be aided by Alfred Maas, John J. Frenzen and O. D. Cash.

Peter Biggrins To Talk Here

Will Deliver Lecture In Iowa City Sunday On Christian Science

Peter B. Biggrins, C. S. B., Seattle, Wash., will deliver a Christian Science lecture entitled "True Science Meeting Modern Needs" at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 722 E. Washington street, at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Biggrins is a member of the board of trustees of the mother church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, Mass.

Local Stores Will Be Closed All Day Today

In observance of Thanksgiving several local stores and buildings will keep their doors closed today. Chief of Police W. H. Bender has announced that beer may not be sold by holders of class B and C beer permits. Besides taverns, the liquor store, city hall, courthouse and post office will not be open.

With the exception of drug stores and confectionaries all business houses throughout the city are expected to be closed today, C. A. Bowman, secretary of the chamber of commerce, said.

Farm Bureau To Celebrate

A Thanksgiving potluck supper at 7 o'clock tonight in the C. S. A. hall will be the Junior Farm Bureau's holiday event for all its members.

The committee in charge consists of Arlene Lackender, chairman; Lillian Lynch, Ralph Troyer and Oren Alt.

County Clerk Gives Licenses

Two marriage licenses were issued yesterday by County Clerk R. Neilson Miller.

John A. Lang, 30, Berwyn, Ill., and Marie Kruse, 26, Iowa City, and Marvin B. Happell, 28 and Nina Smith 23, both of Cedar Rapids, received the licenses.

A department of commerce employee has developed a portable instrument which can locate one-millionth of a gram of radium at a distance of one meter. It can be used as an aid to locating lost radium.

Lions Club Hears Prof. C. J. Lapp Speak on Archery

The American Indian was an expert hunter with a bow and arrow, but he could not compare in accuracy with the modern archer, Prof. C. J. Lapp of the physics department told the Lions club yesterday noon in Reich's pine room.

He said the Indian shot from the hip and was so close to his target that he could not miss. Professor Lapp contended that archery is the most perfect of competitive sports. "Archery is easy to learn under a good teacher," he said, "and can be used throughout a lifetime."

Judge Grants Two Divorces

Bell, Mrs. Deaton, Mrs. Ohl Awarded Decrees on Default

Three divorces were granted yesterday by Judge Harold D. Evans when the defendants failed to appear in court to answer the charges.

Mrs. Florence Claire Deaton was divorced from Marcus Leonard Deaton on a charge of cruel and inhuman treatment. Mrs. Deaton, represented by Attorney Edward L. O'Connor, Des Moines, was awarded the custody of two minor children.

Mrs. Orpha B. Ohl was granted a divorce from Alfred C. Ohl. She was awarded $10 a week alimony and the custody of two minor sons. Attorney Henry Negus appeared for Mrs. Ohl.

The third decree was to Glen W. Bell who was divorced from Mrs. Miriam E. Bell on a charge of cruel and inhuman treatment. Attorney Will J. Hayek represented the plaintiff.

Loehwing Will Speak at Chow

Economic, Political Trends to Be Subject At Legion Meeting

Prof. Walter F. Loehwing will be the principal speaker at the regular American Legion chow to be held in the Community Center building Monday at 6:30 p.m.

Professor Loehwing's subject "Democracy 20 Years After" will deal with some of the different economic and political trends at home and abroad.

Weekly Traffic School to Meet Next Thursday

The weekly traffic school, scheduled to be held tonight in the council chambers of the city hall, has been postponed until next Thursday in order to make Thanksgiving a complete holiday, Police Judge Burke N. Carson said yesterday.

Compared to the 25 law violators who appeared before Judge Carson Tuesday, only three faced charges yesterday:

Art Tallefson, booked for storing his car on the street overnight, was dismissed with warning; Owen Meudith, charged with the same offense, was fined $1; Bob Major was fined $15 and $1 costs for speeding, but $12 was suspended when he agreed to attend traffic school.

"THIS CERTAIN AIR OF FREEDOM"

There are many thoughts to write Thanksgiving morning, and all of them have been written before, many times. . . Instead I've a tale to tell. . .

This is the story of Abraham Golschann, who is German and a Jew. . . He was one of the 200 refugees on the Normandie this summer when I was returning. . . To describe him I can only say that he has that same air of dark density that I sense from the pictures of Herschel Grynszpan. . .

Abraham is 20 and a student of social economics. . . Now he is enrolled at Columbia university with a full-time scholarship. . .

But when I knew him he was lonely and afraid. . . His English was perfect but halting, and he wanted to talk. . . So long hours after the rest of the passengers had retired, we would sit in the second-class lounge talking, exchanging thoughts about our native countries from which we came. . .

Abraham, like Herschel, had contemplated suicide in Berlin. . . He had walked the streets at night when blonde boys in uniforms said words to him, words like swine, pig, thief and Jew. . .

At the time he had been working on an M.A. degree from the University of Berlin. . . He was then 19, but he was forbidden to re-register. . . They again reminded him he was "non-Aryan."

A little later, only a little more than a year ago, the troopers broke into his father's home and took him down to the court. . . The father's grocery window was not marked with the sign of a Jew. . . He was assessed a large fine. . .

Two days later Abraham's mother committed suicide. . . Abraham was the only child. . .

All through last winter there was nothing for Abraham to do. . . There were few books to read; he was denied access to the libraries; he could find few friends his own age; most of them, like himself, were afraid to even walk on the streets except at night. . .

And that, may I remind you, was a year ago. . .

By February of this year Abraham knew he would have to escape Germany or kill himself. . . He was 20 in February. . .

There was an aunt in Zurich, Switzerland. . . He wrote her if he could come, and she answered with the single word, "Yes."

On March 1, with fewer than 50 marks, Abraham arrived in Zurich—and found his aunt in poverty. . . Her husband, who had conducted a store in Heidelberg, was in a concentration camp. . . She didn't know why; she hadn't heard from him for months. . .

So Abraham knew he would have to leave Zurich, and he looked then toward America. . . He wrote to a Jewish refuge organization in New York; he told them what he knew and what he had been doing. . .

For a month again he was walking the streets at night, not knowing, afraid to inquire. . . Then the answer came from America; there was money, and he could come at once. . .

That was what he was doing on the Normandie. . . That was why he was talking to me. . . His English was "not sure yet."

And we said a lot of things during those five nights on the boat, about freedom and democracy and about Hitler and Roosevelt. . . And about Jews. . .

But that Thursday morning we arrived in New York is the one I will always remember. . . We hadn't gone to bed at all; most of the refugees hadn't. . .

I shall never forget the look on their faces, those 200 who watched the Statue of Liberty at 6 in the morning. . .

Liberty will always have a meaning after that. . . Abraham, you see, said nothing at all; his eyes, though, were wet. . . I remembered that this was his first time away from home and that probably he would never go back.

Anyway, the reason for all this is the letter I received from Abraham on Monday. . . The last paragraph I think you'll like knowing. . .

"It approaches your season of Thanksgiving," he writes. . . "And that I can understand. . . I have grown to love your country in these months. . . I am hoping for many things again. . .

"I am hoping my father can join me some day soon; I am hoping all my people will be able to know your country. . . I want them all to be able to breathe this certain air of freedom."

That's all the story then; it seems to have a particular point this Thanksgiving morning, don't you think? . . .

Hippo Brings Science to Art

Artist Demonstrates Science, Industry's Development of New Materials

By ELIZABETH INSKIP WYE NEW YORK — Once there was a hippopotamus who lived in the Washington Zoo. The zoo people thought his figure would show off to better advantage if a mural of the banks of the Nile were painted besides his pool. But hippos make quite a splash, and ordinary paints deteriorate with daily showers of water and disinfectant.

So zoo officials called in Domenico Mortellito. He's a young New York artist-craftsman who thrives on problems like finding a paint that will resist hippo-splashing. He found one. He carved a design on cement, colored it with a special rubber paint.

He points out that science and industry are constantly developing new materials and architects are incorporating them into modern structures. It's up to the artist, he says, to keep up with his times. His rubber paint for instance, was just an adaptation to artistic purposes of a material builders had been using to make concrete water-proof. Then take linoleum. Most people think it's a pretty floor covering and walk all over it. Mortellito found that linoleum is grand stuff to carve. He makes ornamental screens, treasure chests and lots of things with it. So whenever he hears of some new product of commercial laboratories, like plastics, he's right on the job to experiment. His loft-like studio near the East River is full of experiments—on roofing material, acoustical stuff, copper sheeting and lots of other things you'd never associate with an artist.

Mortellito is dark-eyed and dark-haired, buoyant and enthusiastic. With expansive gestures he showed me around his shop. We walked over great slabs of linoleum, all carefully carved. Hurt it? Not at all. He led me to the model of a circular room. Through the center ran a column that looked like glass, but wasn't. "It's a new material," he told me. "I found I could carve it. Now look," and he turned on a light beneath the column. The room was beautifully decorated, and evenly illuminated. "Its indestructible. You could drop this on the floor. Look—" And he flung it down. The model bounced around unharmed.

He and his wife, Jane Wasey, a sculptress, remodeled a factory to get their studio. They decorated it themselves, too. He built the furniture to suit their own particular needs.

One example of Mortellito's inventiveness is the crib-to-college table. A dressing table for the infant, it can become a sand table, a place to sail boats, a child's eating table, and work bench; and finally an adult's coffee table or portable bar.

Oils and watercolors? Mortellito does both. But it's his belief that each age develops its own mediums. The 20th century will develop some new ones, too, if this artist has anything to do with it.
