Mrs. Hahn Electrocuted For Wagner Murder

Last Minute Federal Court Appeal Fails

Accused of 'Murder For Profit'; Science Aided in Conviction

By WAYNE ADAMS
COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 7 (AP)—In the midst of a prayer, Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn, 32, died tonight in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary for one of the four murders of which she was accused.

Her attorneys lost a desperate "zero hour" federal court appeal and when her time came she slowly stood up and marched from her cell with one of her counsel and her three matrons.

As she moved through the death house corridor, 12 convicted men awaiting the same fate moved to the front of their cells and stood in silent attention.

"Goodbye all of you and God bless you," she called out.

Collapses
Clad in blue pajamas with brown top and her golden blonde hair disheveled, her five-foot-four slumped as she came to the door of the execution chamber.

Moaning and pleading, she stumbled and collapsed. She was picked up bodily by two guards and two matrons and placed in the chair.

She cried, "Mr. Woodard (the warden) don't do this to me. Think of my boy. Can't you think of my baby?"

Seated in the chair, the accused poison slayer of four men spread out her arms to the witnesses and mumbled, "Isn't there anybody who will help me?—Is nobody going to help me?"

"I'm sorry but we have to do it, Mrs. Hahn," Warden James C. Woodard replied.

Prayer Stilled
She beckoned, "Father, come close," to the chaplain, Father John Sullivan.

He intoned with her the Lord's prayer.

In the midst of the recital, the current was applied at 7:09 (CST) p.m. Her voice was stilled as the current arched the small disheveled body.

Dr. George W. Keil, prison physician, pronounced her dead at 7:13 1-2 p.m.

Mrs. Hahn's last words of the prayer were: "... and deliver ... She never finished the rest of the sentence: "... from evil."

A lazy, metallic-appearing smoke drifted across the small white-lighted room. The current was turned off at 7:10 p.m. Dr. Keil applied a stethoscope. Doctor George Heer did likewise. Dr. George Woodward, prison psychiatrist, also checked. Dr. Keil checked again, and finally pronounced her dead.

Father Sullivan said that as he gripped the hand of Mrs. Hahn while she sat in the chair the (See HAHN, page 8)

Mackay Leaves Estranged Child Share of Estate
MINEOLA, N. Y., Dec. 7 (AP)—Clarence H. Mackay named his daughter Ellen, whose marriage more than a decade ago to songwriter Irving Berlin caused a three-year estrangement, as an heiress in his will filed for probate today.

The communications magnate who died Nov. 12 bequeathed his widow, former Anna Case of the Metropolitan opera, $50,000 cash, $2,000,000 in securities, virtually all of the furnishings of his town house and lifetime use of some of his rarest tapestries.

Mrs. Berlin, with whom he became reconciled after his mother's death, was named to share equally with his two other children in the residuary estate. The grandmother was said to have urged the reconciliation before she died.

In a codicil, Mackay provided for his eight grandchildren—three of them the Berlin children—leaving $25,000 to each. The will of Mackay, head of the postal telegraph company, philanthropist and art patron, was dated July 30, 1935.

'Have Faith' Patriarch Says Peace Will Return

BOSTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—A patriarch of the Roman Catholic church today paused on the threshold of his 80th year to counsel that while "great wrong is being done" in the world, peace and prosperity "are bound to come back" if humanity will "have faith in God, his justice and mercy."

"The world has passed through great suffering before this," declared William Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, and dean of the American Catholic Hierarchy, "and we must not be discouraged."

He advised "a rising youth" that: "Misrepresentation, which is vicious, and misunderstanding, which may be innocent, are two of the greatest obstacles that beset the path of every man in public life, whether ecclesiastical or civil. Do not be frightened by them. They are but ghosts. Face them with firm resolve and high purpose and they will vanish into thin air."

Counties Seek More Officers

DES MOINES, Dec. 7 (AP)—A bill to provide enough probation officers to serve every county in Iowa will be presented to the legislature in January, it was decided today by the committee representing the state bar association and the probation officers association.

Committee members said the bill will provide that at least one probation officer, to handle both juvenile and adult probation matters, be provided in each of the 21 judicial districts of Iowa.

Many of the judicial districts consist of two or more counties. Some of those have probation officers; some do not. Sixty-nine of the 99 counties are without such workers. Under the proposed bill the district probation officer would serve the counties without such a worker.

Committee members are District Judge Joseph E. Meyer, District Judge Thomas B. Powell, Cedar Rapids; Miss Lena Vogt, Cedar Rapids and Mrs. Mabel Evans, Iowa City, both probation officers, and Cleatle H. Denine, chief juvenile probation officer for Polk county.

Jews Seek U. S. Visas

NAPLES, Dec. 7 (AP)—More than 3,000 Jewish refugees, three-fourths of whom fled from Austria after its annexation by Germany, are beseeching the American consulate here, pleading for admittance to the United States.

Foreign Jews must leave Italy within the next three months, but under the present immigration quota it would take six years before all those who have applied could be given authorization to enter the United States.

The Naples consulate, which is the visa headquarters for Italy, has been swamped with applications since the Jewish exodus from Austria began last March. A total of 4,200 names were put on the waiting list.

Deplores Use of Men, Money in Non-productive Arming

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—World wide war hysteria is causing annual expenditure of $15,000,000,000 and employment of 15,000,000 workers for non-productive armament, H. L. Derby, president, American Cyanamid & Chemical corp., told the convention of National Association of Manufacturers today.

"While their (foreign arming nations) own nationals are buying themselves with these pursuits, they have turned to the United States to furnish essential materials," he said, adding that a return to "world sanity" would mean that "about 8,000,000

1,200 Reserved Seats on Sale In Pep Section

Will Surround 'I' Men's Club on Top Balcony, North Side

Twelve hundred tickets in the reserved seat cheering section for Iowa home basketball games will be available today at the field house offices, as the Hawkeyes prepare for their second game of the season against Monmouth tomorrow night.

Sponsored by Pi Epsilon Pi, national pep fraternity, university students will sit together in a cheering section on the top balcony of the north field house stands. The seats of members of the cheering section will form a block about the 'I' Men's club.

Plans are now under discussion by Pi Epsilon Pi members and university officials relative to preparation of regular cheering section cards, which will be used in the formation of letters at the games.

Because an important psychological factor in the cheering at home games comes from having all of those who cheer grouped together, the reserved section will be open to all those who wish tickets there for all Iowa home games.

Talk Again Of Impeachment For Perkins

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Talk of impeachment proceedings against Secretary of Labor Perkins cropped up again today within the house committee on un-American activities when that committee renewed its discussion of the Harry Bridges deportation case.

Two witnesses declared Bridges, west coast director of the CIO, was a leading member of the communist party, and a third, Stephen F. Chadwick, national commander of the American Legion, asserted that in his opinion there was "no excuse" for further delay in the Bridges case.

Whereupon, Representative Thomas (R-NJ) said from the committee table that unless action were "taken quickly (by Secretary Perkins) after the supreme court's decision in the Streeker case" he would "take the necessary action in congress."

Later, he said he meant impeachment. Some weeks ago Chairman Dies (D-Tex) also spoke of the possibility of this step.

Deportation proceedings were instituted against the Australian-born Bridges some time ago, but are now held in abeyance pending the outcome of the Streeker case, which Miss Perkins has said controls the issues in the Bridges proceedings.

(A government appeal from an adverse lower court decision on deportation proceedings against Joseph Streeker, an Arkansas restaurateur, is now before the supreme court. Streeker admitted former membership in the communist party, but the circuit court at New Orleans held that this, alone, was not sufficient to warrant deportation. It noted there had been no showing that the communist party advocated overthrow of the government by force.)

Italy May Bottle Up Trade

Italian Control of Tunisia Would Shut Off Trade Between Europe, Asia

By STEPHEN J. MCDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—The National Geographic Society said today Italy would be in position to slam the door against commerce between Europe and Asia if she were successful in her demands for the French colony of Tunisia in northern Africa.

Most of the trade between the eastern and western parts of the European continent passes through three "bottle-necks," any one of which might be effectively corked by naval or army aviation. These are Gibraltar, at the western entrance, and the narrow strip of water between French-dominated Tunisia and the Italian-owned islands of Pantelleria and Sicily at the southern tip of Italy.

Cape Bon, the northernmost tip of Tunisia, is only 42 miles from the fortified Pantelleria and only 88 miles from Sicily, the society pointed out. Control of Tunisia would make it possible to blockade the area and cut, among other routes, the "lifeline" of the British empire between England and the far east.

England controls both Gibraltar and the Suez canal and maintains a naval base on the island of Malta, situated due east of Tunisia as a protection against interference with the Asiatic trade routes.

Daladier Seeks to Reunite Party As Socialist Group Defeats Premier in Electoral Reforms

PARIS, Dec. 7 (AP)—Premier Daladier, badgered by dissension within his own party and confronted by a chamber of deputies almost evenly split on his foreign and domestic policies, sought tonight to whip together some sort of a majority by which to govern France.

Conclusion of the good neighbor pact between France and Germany yesterday and subsequent French-German talks gave Daladier a sorely needed bargaining point for support of conservatives in the opening of parliament tomorrow.

Rightists had long insisted that France needed an understanding with Germany to be free to get her economic house in order.

The new friendship with Germany, however, served to increase the leftist opposition to Daladier shown by strikes against his economic decree laws.

Except for the maritime strike at Le Havre, labor troubles were being ironed out.

The government dealt a blow to the Le Havre tieup by partly replacing the crew of the French liner Paris with navy men. The Paris sailed from Le Havre last night, picked up passengers today at Cherbourg and departed for New York.

The liner Normandie remained temporarily out of service under government orders.

A strike among metal workers in the Valenciennes region of northern France ended today when union delegates of the 1,500 who had remained on strike out of the original 25,000 strikers voted to return to work tomorrow.

Fourteen strike leaders at Valenciennes were sentenced to prison from ten days to a year.

It seemed likely that the struggle over the economic laws was being transferred from factories and docks to the lower house of parliament where socialists and communists planned a bitter fight. The senate appeared almost unanimous for Daladier.

The radical-socialist parliamentary group handed the premier what some called "a severe defeat" today by voting 40 to 9 against bringing a rightist-supported electoral reform before the impending session.

An advocate of friendship with Germany, he encountered violent opposition from the Fascist Heimwehr and Count von Starheimberg.

Dr. Franz Winkler, a former minister of the interior in Austria cabinets, was reported after the unsuccessful Putsch of 1934 to have been on the nazi list for a position in the new cabinet that was expected to replace Dollfuss' government.

Expel Austrian Winkler From German Party

VIENNA, Dec. 8 (Thursday) (AP)—Joseph Buerckel, Adolf Hitler's deputy in Austria, has expelled Franz Winkler, former Austrian vice-chancellor, from the nazi party, an official communique published in this morning's papers announced.

The communique said the disciplinary action was taken because Winkler was involved in corruption in connection with the "Anker bread factory," Austria's biggest bread manufacturers.

Max Fuehrer, director of the factory, was arrested a few days ago and expelled from the party.

Exact nature of the allegations against Winkler was not disclosed.

He was vice-chancellor under the late Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss killed in an attempted nazi Putsch in 1934, but was obliged to resign in the spring of 1934 because of his nationalist sympathies. In June, 1934, he emigrated to Germany.

United States Tells Germany Of U. S. Rights

Expect Protection Of American Citizens From All Decrees

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—The United States again has cautioned Germany against any infringement of American rights through the Reich's anti-Semitic decrees.

Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, disclosed today that the American embassy in Berlin had made representations immediately after the publication of a decree providing that a large part of property remaining in German Jewish hands shall be taken under trusteeship.

Expects Exemption
Acting under standing instructions, the embassy declared the United States assumed that rights of American citizens would be fully protected and exempt from such decrees. The German government has not replied to this communication nor to an earlier protest concerning alleged discrimination against American interests in settlement of Austrian debts.

Welles made known the latest development shortly before going to the White House this afternoon for a continuation of conferences with President Roosevelt and three of his key European ambassadors, Hugh Wilson of Berlin, William Phillips of Rome and William C. Bullitt of Paris.

Last Two Hours
The talks today lasted for more than two hours. Although officials would not disclose the points discussed, observers believed the entire European situation was under review with specific emphasis on Germany and the Jewish refugee question.

The newest anti-Jewish decrees further dim prospects that Germany will cooperate in resettlement of her unwanted Jews by permitting them to leave with sufficient funds to re-establish themselves elsewhere.

Bookkeeping Judge Vetoes $3 For Mowing Lawn

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Casey Shelton's household bookkeeping was subjected to a harsh audit today by Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan.

Shelton and his wife, Minnette, are separated but live in the same house. A divorce suit is pending. She charged he was in arrears in payments of temporary alimony.

Her attorney displayed bills he said Shelton had assessed against his wife as her share of household expenses. They included $3 for mowing the lawn, $3 for keeping the street clean, $2 for repairing an awning, and bills for butter, eggs, etc.

"She drinks my milk and takes my apples out of the icebox, so I charge her for them," said Shelton. The judge vetoed the bills, ordered Shelton to pay up and report again on Dec. 21.

Couple Found Dead in Car

Coroner Seeks Motive In Tragic Deaths Of Farmhand, Girl

JANESVILLE, Wis., Dec. 7 (AP)—Coroner E. J. Overton studied tonight for possible motives the fatal shooting of a bashful 15-year-old high school girl and a 35-year-old farm hand which he said all evidence indicated was a murder and suicide.

The bodies of Mary Cunningham and Curtis Hansen, missing since they left her home at Milton Junction Monday for a Christmas shopping trip to Janesville, were found in the front seat of an automobile in woods near here late today.

There was a single bullet wound in the forehead of each. At their feet lay a sawedoff target rifle about 10 inches long, which had been fired twice.

The coroner said apparently Hansen, who worked on the farm of the Cunningham family until it was sold three years ago, shot the girl before she knew what he planned, and then killed himself.

There was no indication of a struggle, and the coroner said he doubted whether he would call an inquest. He said the pair had been dead since Monday night.

Miss Cunningham's younger brother and sister, Billy and Genevieve, who joined in the widespread search, found the car in a heavily wooded lane about three-quarters of a mile from a highway.

Secretary Hull held a press conference tonight after talks with Cantillo, Dr. Carlos Concha, Peruvian foreign minister, Jorge Matte Gromaz, chairman of the Chilean delegation, and Julio Tobar Donoso, Ecuadorean chairman. He also called upon the Brazilian chairman, former foreign minister, Alfranio de Mello Franco, but found him out of his quarters.

Hull said the Latin American leaders with whom he talked expressed determination to go forward with the Pan-American cooperation in a spirit of harmony.

Hull, at the conclusion of a very busy day, said he made no attempt to reach decision in his conferences, adding they were exploratory talks which would be useful as the conference gets under way.

With Dr. Concha, who will be president of the conference, he also talked about questions of procedure.

Hull said a plenary session would be held Saturday following the formal opening of the conference Friday evening. He expects to speak Saturday after addresses by Concha and Cantillo, the latter speaking as a representative of the country where the last Pan-American conference was held.

A full session of the United States delegation will meet tomorrow.

France Builds Planes Capable Of 468 M.P.H.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Construction of dual-purpose warplanes, with anticipated speeds as high as 468 miles an hour, is underway by the French air ministry in an effort to offset German technical and numerical air superiority in Europe.

In spite of the non-aggression pact signed Tuesday by those countries, air rearmament has been speeded up. Confidential reports received here indicate that Germany, France and Italy have doubled their funds for the coming year for development work on new aircraft.

France's two-purpose machine is known as an interceptor-bomber, designed to fight off hostile air raiders and to make lightning bombing raids as well.

The first of the machines has been flight-tested. The second, of a different and unique design, will have motors fore and aft, the pilot being seated between them, and is expected to attain a speed of 465 miles an hour at an altitude of 15,000 feet.

Will Forbid Foreign Residents Use Of Free Political Rights

LIMA, Dec. 7 (AP)—A tentative Argentine proposal to ban political propaganda in all American republics by foreign residents was reported prepared tonight for introduction at the eighth Pan-American conference opening Friday.

This development came soon after Secretary of State Cordell Hull arrived at the head of the American delegation, which includes former Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas. The United States delegates found that German journalists had preceded them and were active with unofficial missionary work among South American representatives.

Soon after his arrival Secretary Hull called upon four leading Latin American delegations,

'Not Excited,' Bartell

ALAMEDA, Cal., Dec. 7 (AP)—Dick Bartell, fiery National league shortstop, was not particularly excited today about his trade to the Chicago Cubs.

He said he had no idea the New York Giants would trade him, but added "I was born in Chicago. It will be all right. I guess it doesn't make much difference as long as the pay is regular."

BITS about Sports

By J. DENNIS SULLIVAN

A need that has long been felt on Iowa's campus is in the process of becoming supplied, namely, an organized cheering section. Bob Sandier, president of Pi Epsilon Pi, national pep fraternity, has issued an appeal to students on the campus to reserve seats in one section — the north bleachers — when they apply for reserved seats to the season's basketball games.

This, he hopes, will be the first step in unifying and grouping Iowa's student body where it can be welded into a specialized cheering group.

With the basketball cheering section as a nucleus it should be comparatively simple to mold a larger group for next year's football games. It's a good idea and one that deserves the cooperation of the entire student body.

With the minor league meeting under way and the major league meeting in the offing, the baseball season doesn't seem too remote. Yesterday, about 10 hat terymen reported to Otto Vogel readying themselves for the task of defending Iowa's share of the Big Ten baseball title.

Despite the fact that most of the players who performed on the '38 championship team will be back for another crack at conference competition, Vogel is not too optimistic about his squad's chances. Pitching, which was abundantly supplied by Matt Faber last year, will be considerably weaker this season unless Fred Hohenhorst, who flashed great form in the closing games of the '38 campaign, continues to improve.

Hohenhorst, when pitching against Minnesota in the final game, allowed the Gophers to score a blow during his four inning stretch on the mound. That sort of twirling will go far in inducing fans to forget Faber's several twirling masterpieces.

Rollie Williams' cage team is causing him no little worry these days as he contemplates the rugged schedule ahead for his charges. In the opener against Carleton the team didn't appear as good, defensively, as he had hoped. This has prompted him to make several changes in the lineup for tomorrow's tilt with Monmouth, a tough aggregation.

Tommy Lind, aggressive, though small, forward, will probably replace the sophomore flash, Angie Anapol. Other changes may be made by Williams before game time.

There is plenty of activity in the fieldhouse these days. "Dad" Schroeder ponders schedules and dreams of filled stadiums next fall; Charlie Galther worries and frets over ticket applications to football and basketball contests; Waddy Davis chases about looking like a rag man — his checkered cap is sure a honey; Vogel watches his batterymen go through their paces, looking for likely twirlers; Ted Swenson argues and pleads with the runners to "get off to faster starts"; Glenn Devine sits in his office and wonders what the menu will be at the next banquet — that knife and fork league must be tough; Glenn; the Silver Fox, Rolie Williams, in the midst of a tough cage campaign worries, worries and worries some more.

He'd like Santa Claus to fetch him a good range center for a Christmas present.

Yes, it's a busy period for athletes, coaches and executives alike. Out of all this hustle and bustle will come the finished product to thrill you when it appears in competition.

Texas Tech	10	274	35

The figures mislead chiefly by the fact that teams at times refrain from stomping after they have their opponents down, and comparatively low scores could have been made to look like a pensioner's age by keeping up the pressure. Oklahoma, for example, finished many of its games with boys who still fumbled for the handle of the ball, and the same was true of T. C. U.

Carnegie Tech, a tough ball club which will give T. C. U. a long afternoon, just missed entering its game undefeated. The now famous case of the missing down, in which the decision, or indecision, of Referee Johnny Getchell cost Tech the ball and touched the match to Notre Dame's march to a touchdown was the margin between a tie and defeat.

From the standpoint of merit there appears little to choose between the Rose, Orange and Sugar Bowl games. Any of the teams involved would have a chance against any other team.

Which is just another indication that the Rose Bowl, although still wearing the crown of tradition, has sturdy competition.

As for naming the winners, it's like bobbing for apples in wet concrete. It appears soft now, but wait awhile. There's many a headache there.

U-High Prepares for St. Mary's

By Scrimmage With Whetstone

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

PARIS, Dec. 7 (AP)—Without wishing to alarm anyone I must nevertheless report that France was invaded tonight by a number of large individuals of fierce appearance from a far-off land.

They turned out to be members of the first American expeditionary force of football players ever to come to Europe, but had they been Martians they could scarcely have aroused any greater feelings of awe and trepidation.

They descended upon the liner Manhattan at Le Havre and took busses for Paris — along with their equipment of helmets, pads and gear — where they will demonstrate their devastating tactics, blocks, straight-arms and line plays to apprehensive Frenchmen for the first time Saturday.

The French press tried to break the news of their coming gently by describing at great length their equipment and plays and comparing their game to French association football which is known in America as soccer.

Numerous photographs showing helmeted youths howling savagely and apparently tearing one another limb from limb in scrimmage failed to help matters, however.

The Paris Parc Des Princes, often the scene of European football games and sometimes the setting for duels, was almost sold out for Saturday's game under auspices of the newspaper Paris-Soir.

The American squad under Coach Jim Crowley of Fordham university is divided for exhibition purposes into two teams, the New Yorkers and the United States All-Stars.

Substitutes have been recruited from American students in England and France.

Closer Defense Sought By Rollie Williams

Lind Replaces Anapol At Forward; Evans Gets Call at Center

Fear of the highscoring Monmouth combination that comes to the fieldhouse tomorrow night brought an increase of work to Hawkeye cagers last night and, in addition, gave Coach Rollie Williams cause for some change in the Iowa lineup.

Williams indicated last night that, in an effort to strengthen the team's defense, he would probably start a slightly different combination than the one that faced Carleton. Tommy Lind, who has been playing good defensive ball, will get the call ahead of Angie Anapol, who teamed with Capt. Benny Stephens in the Carleton tilt. Dick Evans, a much more rugged man than either Kenny Bastian or Charles Plett, will start at center. The guards will be the same as last week, with Erwin Prasse and Howard Irvine as starters.

Against this quintet of Iowans Coach Bobby Wolf of the Scots has practically the same team that brought him a midwest conference championship last year. Slim Mannen, high scoring, six-foot six-inch center, Dud Plunkett and Kenny Shank, make a smooth combination that has rolled up some big scores in the past. On the back court, the Scots will have Dick Moody and Bernard Bolon.

The reputation of Monmouth has not been overlooked by Williams, however. The Iowa mentor has been stressing the work of his centers, especially in taking the ball off the back board, and it was partly because of the Monmouth pivot man's size that Williams has chosen Evans to start. Evans, who had a hard time getting rehabilitated after the football season, shows some improvement this week. He is also rugged enough to hold his own with the giant Mannen.

Less important, perhaps, is the change that puts Tommy Lind on the starting list. Lind has been staging a fight for the last month for the position. One of the best floor men on the squad, Lind played almost as much in the Carleton game as Anapol, and it is undoubtedly his good floor work that is responsible for his starting post tomorrow. But, while the team will be stronger defensively, it is just as certain that the shooting of Anapol would make the Hawks more potent offensively. For that reason, Anapol is expected to be in the game for a considerable portion of the time.

'Jinx' Pursues Grinnell Star

GRINNELL, Dec. 7 (AP)—An old injury jinx that has bothered Fred Luther of Oelwein, Grinnell college senior, all through college, has cropped up again to take the speedy forward off the Pioneer basketball squad.

Coach John C. Truesdale said recurrence of an old leg injury would prevent Luther from playing basketball at least until the first of the year, and probably all season.

Luther's college athletic career has been an almost constant series of injuries, first on the gridiron and then on the basketball court. As a result of the latest injury to the star athlete, Coach Truesdale is revising his cage squad so as to get by with a minimum of reserve strength.

Whips Carleton

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Northwestern university opened its basketball season with a 45-23 triumph last night over the previously undefeated Carleton team of Northfield, Minn. The Wildcats led, 17-16, at halftime.

Capt. Oscar Olson scored 16 of Carleton's points, accounting for all six of his team's field goals. Les Harman led the Wildcats scorers with 10 points.

One-quarter of the Princeton university freshmen are more than six feet tall.

GIANTS WOULD BUY ZEKE BONURA SHOULD SENATORS ASK WAIVERS

Terry Wants Heavy-hitting First Sacker

By KENNETH GREGORY

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7 (AP)—The New York Giants, who have so far snatched the limelight at the annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, appeared tonight to be on the verge of another deal or two.

Rumors flew thick and fast once more today, midway of the gathering at which much of the winter trading is done, but the Giants' three-player swap with the Cubs remained to date the lone major transaction.

William H. (Memphis Bill) Terry, however, wants to add a hard-hitting first baseman to his Giants' string.

The Giants were definitely ready to buy Zeke Bonura, Italian first sacker, if Washington can obtain waivers on him from the seven other American league clubs. It was understood two clubs were opposing waivers and thus holding up the deal. Two National League clubs were also seeking Bonura.

Groups of league officials went over a list of 35 amendments affecting the various circuits as well as the major-minor laws which will come before the convention for action tomorrow. A majority of the proposals will seek uniformity, but there were two that might pack dynamite.

One amendment will strive to clear up the question of major league teams signing or recommending sandlot and other young player prospects to minor league teams. In the discussion of this legislation the opinion prevailed that most clubs were favorable to strike out the provision that prevents such recommendation.

Varsity Tank Team to Tangle With Yearlings in Swim Meet

By OSCAR HARGRAVE

(Today is the first of a series of articles dealing with Iowa's swimming team.)

Hawkeye swimmers, who will get their first taste of competition for this season when they tangle with Bob Allen's freshman squad next Wednesday, are in for some competition this year that rates as exceedingly tough, according to Coach Dave Armbruster.

Big Three Although the Iowa swimming schedule does not contain the powerful Ohio State team, it does include three Big Ten schools that rate next to Ohio State if the pre-season meets is dependable. Besides deeds with the strong aggregations of Northwestern, Michigan and Minnesota, the Iowans will tangle with Chicago and probably meet Illinois and Wisconsin. If these two tentative meets fall through, they will probably be replaced by non-conference swims. After the regular season, Coach Armbruster's squad will compete in the Big Ten meet at Purdue, and

Three New Individual Records Established in Pro League

'Best of It' 'Cub Infield As Good As Ever'—Collins

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (AP)—James "Ripper" Collins, first baseman for the Chicago Cubs, figures the Cubs got "a little the best of it" yesterday, in the six player trade with the New York Giants and believes the presence of the newly acquired Dick Bartell at shortstop will leave the Cubs infield as strong as ever.

The Cubs traded Shortstop Billy Jurgas, Catcher Ken O'Dea and Outfielder Frank Demaree for Bartel, Catcher Gus Mancuso and Outfielder Hank Leiber.

Collins, who has handled Jurgas' throws for two years, was in Chicago today to discuss his 1939 contract with Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the team.

"Bartell will throw out just as many men at first as Jurgas ever did," Collins said. "His arm isn't as famous for power, but he gets the ball over there ahead of a runner just the same."

Collins said Bartell would bring more team spirit to the Cub bench, but pronounced Jurgas as "still a whale of a shortstop, certain to fit in with Bill Terry's scheme of temperaments."

"They say that Bartell hasn't the finesse in fielding that Jurgas has, but I will be just as glad to see him out there and I'm the guy who would suffer if he wasn't good," Collins added.

Danowski, Tinsley And White Displace Former Titleholders

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Three new individual records were established and two tied as all of the 1937 titleholders were displaced in the National football league, according to the final statistics released today.

Ed Danowski of the New York Giants recaptured his title as the circuit's most efficient passer by completing 70 out of 129 aerials for a percentage of 54.2 per cent. He broke his own efficiency mark of 50.4 per cent made in 1935 and boosted his lifetime National league average to 49.8, having completed 255 out of 512 in five seasons.

Gaynell Tinsley, Chicago Cardinals' end shared in breaking the record for the longest gain on a forward pass with a gain of 98 yards on an aerial tossed by Douglas Russell, and also tied the mark for number of passes caught with 41. Don Hutson, Green Bay Packers end, tied his own mark for most touchdowns in one season with nine.

Whizzer White, Colorado's Rhodes scholar all-America playing with the Pittsburgh Pirates, was the only recruit to capture a title. He gained 567 yards in 152 attempts to take the ground gaining championship. Cecil Isbell, Packer's first-year man formerly of Purdue, had the best average with 5.2 yards in 85 attempts.

Clark Hinkle and Hutson, both from Green Bay, led the scoring with 58 and 57 points, respectively. Ward Cuff of the Giants and Ralph Kercheval, Brooklyn veteran, tied for first in field goals with five each. The longest of the season, a 45-yard boost, also was credited to Kercheval.

Rodak to Fight For Feather Title

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Al Weil, manager of Joey Archibald, announced tonight he had signed for his fighter to meet Leo Rodak in the Coliseum at Chicago Dec. 29 for the world's featherweight championship.

Archibald already is recognized as the titleholder by the New York commission and the National Boxing association agreed recently to recognize the winner of a bout between the two.

Weill said the 15-round test was being staged under the promotion of Jim Mullen.

He also said he had been agreeable to a rematch of Archibald with Pete Scalzo, who knocked him out in an overweight bout Monday night, but that Pete Reilly, Scalzo's manager, had refused.

Fred Teufel Wins Trophy

Leaping 21 1-2 inches, the veteran trackster, Fred Teufel, nosed out Newton's all-around athlete, Bill Green, to win the Gordon broad jump.

Green's 20-11 jump was just one and one-half inches short of the winning mark and brought him a second place ahead of Andy Kantor's mark of 19-9 1-2. In fourth place was Ed Baird of Rochester, N. Y., with 18-10 1-2.

school last year when he became the victim of a glandular infection, is back again. He is again flashing the form that made him champion in his sophomore and junior years.

Advance Plans For Intra-city Basketball League

Sports Promoter Ted Watkins has outlined a plan for Intra-City Basketball leagues which, due to his interest and promotion in providing a basketball court on the floor of the new Cavalry armory, will be started soon.

Watkins said that two evenings a week can be provided for team play and suggests that two leagues be organized to provide for the different classifications of players — those having previous experience such as high school players — and a second section to be made up of amateurs playing for recreation.

The first group will be matched with teams of suitable rating and will probably be known as the City league — and open to any Iowa City teams. The second group will schedule games with players in their own class, and will be known as the Commercial league.

Watkins is anxious to have an expression of interest as soon as possible, and requests that any group interested sign an entry blank at the sports department of the Iowa Supply company before Jan. 1. It is planned that the schedule of games to be played will start the week of Jan. 9.

Hugh J. Williams of the Iowa Supply company will offer gold basketballs to the winning teams of each class.

Sex Add to Farm NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The Chicago White Sox yesterday announced the appointment of Bob Tarleton as general manager of the Sox farm system and said Shreveport of the Texas league would be included as a farm club.

Tarleton has been with the White Sox for the past few years and was formerly connected with Dallas of the Texas league for several seasons.

Neckties And Lingerie!

Life Magazine: Men, Women Dunes In Buying Yule Tokens

That "men and women are dunes" in the matter of choosing Christmas gifts for each other, but that there is a sound psychological reason why women's gifts of Christmas neckties and men's gifts of women's lingerie are traditional jokes, is reported by Life magazine, which analyzes Christmas shopping habits in an article in its current issue. "Most of the articles bought by men for women, and vice versa, are not what each would choose if buying for himself," the article states.

Women buy menfolk gaudy ties, dressing gowns and mufflers "to satisfy their desire for a male as glamorous as a peacock," according to the reports of a psychoanalyst, while men's Christmas purchases of trilly underthings as gifts reflect their desire that their women folk be utterly feminine. Yet, Life found that men really want flannel dressing gowns and neckties in plain colors, simple stripes or small figures, and utilitarian presents are really what women crave.

Other curious aspects of Christmas purchases and Christmas gifts the study reveals are:

1. That men usually think the man they are buying for is bigger than he is and men rarely admit to salespeople that the woman is bigger than size 14. Department store salespeople find that questioning is necessary to ferret out the truth.
2. Stocking saleswomen discover that men buying silk stockings never know sizes, merely say, "she has a small foot." Down-to-earth salesgirls usually give them a size 9-12.
3. Brilliant colored neckties for men are known in the trade as "Christmas dogs." Those unsold by Dec. 26 are put away, and they pop up again for Father's Day and the next Christmas.
4. Christmas cards and fancy wrapping paper for Christmas packages cost the U. S. public approximately $10,000,000 annually.
5. Presents for pets are bought mostly by women. Smart manufacturers put up special Christmas packages for dogs, cats and canaries. Some dog stockings contain cod-liver oil biscuits.

The toy section of the department store is the most profitable department in the store from Thanksgiving 'til Christmas. The desire to have an automobile like dad's is so great that toy auto manufacturers must change their designs as soon as new models appear. Velocipedes must be streamlined, scooters must have pneumatic tires and doll carriages must be modern.

Answers to questions in this survey showed that 70 per cent of Christmas gift-receivers kept gifts they did not like because of sentiment; that 62 per cent of the women would rather be surprised; that 42 per cent of the men would rather be asked what they want; that 54 per cent would rather have many separate gifts than one big gift from the family; that the most difficult gifts to choose are those for the opposite sex and those for rich people who already have everything.

HOSTESS HINTS

During the holiday season we think of cranberry sauce as one of the great traditions of the times and every table must have its bright cheery greeting along with the other good dishes of Christmas day. And now we find on the shelves of our favorite grocer, something new in the cranberry line, canned, firm cranberry sauce with all the old time flavor and goodness, with no fuss or bother and ready to serve.

Here are several recipes using this new cranberry sauce that you will want to try and unless you're sadly mistaken, want to repeat.

Cranberry Pineapple Salad
Sliced pineapple
Can of cranberry sauce
Cream cheese
Place a slice of pineapple on lettuce. Place a slice of cranberry sauce on top of the pineapple and top with a ball of cream cheese rolled in chopped walnuts. Serve with mayonnaise mixed with whipped cream.

Cranberry Parfait
1-2 can of cranberry sauce
2 level tablespoons confectioners sugar
1 egg white
1-2 pint cream
1 teaspoon almond extract
Beat the cranberry sauce and the powdered sugar with a fork. Whip the egg white and cream. Combine the two mixtures. Flavor with almond extract and chill. Serve with squares of the cranberry sauce on top.

4 tablespoons melted butter
2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1 can cranberry sauce
Mix the butter and the crumbs. Beat the cranberry sauce with a fork. Line a square mold with wax paper. Alternate layers of cracker crumbs and the cranberry sauce, making the top layer of crumbs. Pack solid. Place in the refrigerator for three hours. Unmold, slice and serve with whipped or ice cream.

Cranberry Sherbet
Juice of 1 orange
Juice of 1 lemon and the grated rind
2 stiffly beaten egg whites or 1 cup whipped cream
Mix up the cranberry sauce with a fork, add the lemon and orange juice and rind. Freeze partially. Fold in the egg whites or whipped cream. Continue freezing.

Hostess Horrors Should Be Avoided; Brush Up For Coming Festivities

With the gay, festive holiday season so near at hand, shindigs, dinners, dances, sports frolics and week end parties are in the air. Everyone knows how to give a party, but not everyone can go to one and make it fun. Before the Christmas frivolity, make a pre-New Year resolution—to brush up on guest etiquette. To be a good guest, one that is a joy to any hostess, is an art; one to be studied and mastered.

While you're running through the classic "dons" of Emily Post and other guide books to good manners, jot a few of these hostess honors down in your mind.

Don't be labeled as a disagreeably aggressive guest. There's no need to check up on the guests' activities of the night before. No one is particularly interested and it may embarrass some one. Try not to be a store-window dummy. Come out from behind your bored jaquer and show a little animation. You've no idea how charming it can make you.

Besides looking ill-bred, one can help ruin any party by starting a get-in-the-corner clan. Help out your hostess by mingling with her guests. Even though you may be a second Charlie Chase, don't be the provincial "card." To be sure the party may need a lift, but be sure you don't use bombshell tactics.

Nothing is more annoying to a hostess than to have a guest overdo the "welcome" sign on the door mat. The well stocked refrigerator is a part of no-man's land unless the hostess crosses the boundaries herself.

All in all, be friendly, but don't drip sweetness. Be natural and don't turn on and off a pained smile. Enter into suggestions and you'll find yourself having a wonderful time because you've helped to make it so.

If you've packed your bag for a week end party, take all your poise with you and be sure to leave all your grouches, dislikes

Prof. Kurt Lewin to Speak On 'Experiments in Social Space' At Fifth Baconian Lecture

Scientist Came To Campus in 1935; Is Among Nation's Best

"Experiments in Social Space" is the topic for the fifth of the Baconian lectures to be given tonight at 8 o'clock by Prof. Kurt Lewin of the psychology department. The lecture will be in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Professor Lewin, who came to this campus in 1935, is considered one of the 250 outstanding men of science in the United States, indicated by the fact that he starred in the 1937 American Men of Science.

He came to this country to make his home when the Nazis came into power in Germany, and spent the intervening two years at Cornell University.

His university career has been varied and interesting. In 1908, he attended the University of Freiburg, where he studied medicine, philosophy and psychology.

He fought with Germany during the war, until he was wounded in August, 1918.

Following the war, Professor Lewin resumed his university career at the University of Berlin, this time as an instructor and assistant at the psychological institute.

He is a member of Sigma Xi, honorary medical fraternity, and an honorary member of the French psychological society.

A lecture tour through the far east in 1932 and 1933 took him to the University of Tokyo, the University of Chosen, Korea and the University of Moscow as a visiting lecturer.

He is the author of many books and papers on psychology. "A Dynamic Theory of Personality" was published by McGraw-Hill in 1935 and "Principles of Topological Psychology" in 1936.

"Die Entwicklung der Experimentellen Willenspsychologie und die Psychotherapie," "Gesetz und Experiment in der Psychologie" and "Die Psychologische Situation bei Lohn und Strafe" were published in Germany before he came to this country.

"The Conceptual Representations of Measurement of Psychological Forces" was published in the Duke University Contributions to the Psychological Theory this year.

Prominent in the field of psychology, both here and abroad, Prof. Kurt Lewin, above, is the fifth lecturer in the Baconian series. He will speak in the senate chamber of Old Capitol tonight at 8 o'clock.

Sixth Annual University Art Exhibit to Be Shown in Union

The sixth annual exhibition of the University of Iowa of art, sponsored by Union board, will be in Iowa Union from April 25 to May 1, 1939.

In sponsoring an exhibit of student art, the Union board is attempting to stimulate the production of original works of art by university students, and to stimulate a greater interest in art among students at the university.

Resident undergraduate and graduate students in all colleges and departments of the university are eligible to submit entries. The classification of "student" will apply to duly registered resident students of the university.

Works done outside of university classes, excepting those done under private tutorage or in other schools, will be eligible for entry in any of the following media: oil, water color or pastel, monochrome and sculpture.

Oil paintings must be framed, water colors, pastels and monochromes must be matted and may be framed. Not more than three works may be submitted by any student in any one medium, but he may enter in each media if he desires.

On the back of each work, printed or typed, must appear the following: title of the work, name and local address of the contributor, and his classification in the university.

Students entering work in this exhibit signify their willingness to have their works shown in the Big Ten exhibit if they are among those chosen by the judges for this purpose.

Works must be delivered to the main desk of Iowa Union by Wednesday, April 19, 1939. A competent committee of judges, chosen by Union Board, will select those works which in its opinion merit the honor of a showing in Iowa Union.

To the best works Union Board will provide quality awards and popularity awards. Both types of awards will be in the form of prize ribbons suitably designating the honor achieved.

Quality standards will be based on standards of excellence and will not be ranked competitively. The judges will pass on each work of art on its own merit, awarding a ribbon to each work which, in their judgment, meets the level of achievement designated.

Popularity awards will be based on balloting conducted at the formal showing. All visitors at the showing, except those whose works are exhibited, may vote for their choices in each media.

Ten of the works submitted will be chosen for showing in the Big Ten exhibition. Special prizes in the form of cash or other awards, will be accepted by Union Board from private individuals or organized groups desirous of stimulating student art at the university.

Constance Fenton, chairman commercial obligations or implications, but may designate the name of the award, the media or type of work for which it is intended, and the standards to be considered in making the award.

Union Board reserves final decision on the acceptance or rejection of all such prizes proffered. The decision of the judges, selected by Union Board, will be final. All awards will be presented at the formal showing, April 23.

The works submitted will be handled with all possible care, but the committee will accept no responsibility for loss or damage to the submitted works.

Officials pointed out yesterday that interested students may contact Constance Fenton, chairman, 328 N. Clinton street; H. K. Foster or Michael Murray regarding the contest.

CHAPTER 29
BY GENE AHERN

IT HAS BEEN SAID BY SOME wise person that everybody ought to get mildly hurt or sick once a year. Just enough to spend a few days in bed, thinking.

The human animal dislikes to think. If we can be up and doing, physically, we think as little as possible. If we are forced to loll among the pillows with only a vase of flowers to stare at, we sometimes think to avoid boredom. Also, if we are not in actual pain, the thinking is likely to be of good quality.

Dr. Thornton Holgate was no longer in pain. In fact, he wanted to get up. He had actually gotten out of bed at 7 a.m. this Thursday morning, and started dressing, before a nurse caught him. She put him back down at once.

"But I am all right," he protested. "You will be all right when Dr. McGill says you are," the nurse countered, and that was that. History shows no tyrants worse than trained nurses.

There were fresh flowers, and so he opened the envelope that came with them. "Continued best wishes to a leave man," GERALDINE.

The little note, with long slender, slanting hand-writing, should have thrilled him deeply. But instead of that, he was impressed by the obvious fact that the script was affected, unnatural.

It enabled him to conjure up several mental pictures of Geraldine "Peaches" Pomeroy. He wondered how she got that name. "Peaches" sounds cute. Fresh, outdoorsy and clean. But Geraldine—

He gave a lot of thought to her—serious, analytical thought. It shocked him some to realize that his ardor for her had cooled. He remembered her being drunk at the dance. He remembered her conversation on the way to Galveston Sunday afternoon—she had delighted in telling off-color jokes. He envisioned her lips, which could be so pretty, or could be so pouty. He wondered if it would be pleasurable to kiss them. Undoubtedly, he decided. Or probably. It was as if he were having a silent argument between himself and himself.

"I seem to have been infatuated by her presence at first," he told himself. "But your judgment is improving now," his other self answered. "She is not what you thought. You have had a chance to know her more intimately."

"She is kind to me in the hospital, though. I must not be unfair in judging her." His inner argument might have become more violent if a nurse had not popped in.

"You have a caller," she announced. "Mrs. Davis." "Oh! Please—may I see her?" Dr. Holgate brightened perceptibly.

"Surely. Probably you can even go home tomorrow, if you behave." In her concern for him, Sara Sue assumed that he was still dangerously ill. She overlooked his brightness. Many people are awed by hospitals anyway, and by the fact of a patient's being in bed. She was half an hour learning that Thorny Holgate was practically well, but eventually they were able to converse naturally, without restraint.

"It surely is wonderful to see you getting well," she assured him, repeating it.

"Thank you again, madam. I mean—Sara Sue. I have forgotten my lessons, I fear, ha ha!" She scowled at him in mock reproach. "You should be punished! But then, you were making progress, when the accident came. I'm real proud of you, Thorny. You actually took Peaches to Galveston! And now you are a hero, and so she thinks still more of you. You could hardly have done better. You are my star pupil."

"I do not wish to be referred to as a hero," he declared, simply. "I'm very sorry, my dear professor, but your wishes have nothing to do with that!" "I beg pardon?"

"Haven't you seen the papers, Thorny? No. Probably they have kept you quiet, of course. Well, Mister Thornton Holgate, Ph.D., you're a hero whether you like it or not, so there! The newspapers—"

She told him all about it. And to verify it, she went into the hospital reading room and brought him recent copies of The Galveston News and of the Houston papers, showing him not only the details of the rescue, but the photographs as well.

He glanced at them with mounting concern, looking from one to the other. "B-but this is most lamentable! What shall I do? Look!" "Calm down, Thorny. I told you you were a hero, whether you like it or not."

"But my dear Mrs. Davis—" "I am not your dear Mrs. Davis. I am Sara Sue. Just as I was before you became famous. You can't go high-hat on me now!" She felt like bedeviling him. The poor man was truly indignant at the notoriety that had centered on him. He became so disturbed that Sara Sue felt concerned for his health, but she succeeded in convincing him that it would not be detrimental either to reputation or dignity. "After all, an accident is an accident, silly," she laughed at him, and most people would be delighted to find themselves heroes. People will say you are being affected if you act this way, Thorny."

He hadn't thought of that. Sara Sue knew she had him whipped into line then. He would take his fame as befitted a modest gentleman, without too much ado about it. She, of course, knew he was honest; but a careless public might misunderstand.

"The best thing to do, Thorny, when people ask you about the accident, is to offer no protests, but talk as little as you can. Admit that you were badly frightened in the water, if you were, and—"

"I was! Indeed I was. I thought I should die, Sara Sue!" "We are all so happy you didn't, Thorny! We—Peaches—will be proud of you. You should have no difficulty making love to her now. But remember that I am still willing to help you every way I can."

"Ah, yes, yes, to be sure. I appreciate what you have done." He said that with no enthusiasm, and was staring vacantly at a wall. "I shall, of course, want to—ah, resume my endeavors as quickly as possible."

"Of course, Thorny," Sara Sue barely murmured the agreement. She bit her lip, and arose to pull a wrinkled spread over him more smoothly. "Do you—find her—still wonderful, and everything?" "I beg pardon?" He turned to look at her again.

"I mean, aren't you so happy that your romance is progressing as you had hoped? Peaches is—very lovely. Pretty. And I am sure you are worthy of her, too, Thorny!"

"Oh! Well—" The conversation wasn't moving at all smoothly.

Thornton Holgate was still doing some deep thinking. Before Sara Sue had arrived he had begun to argue with himself about Peaches Pomeroy. And now, with Sara Sue here, the side that didn't like Peaches seemed to have gained strength with him. Notwithstanding the fact that Sara herself joined the argument in Peaches' favor.

It was all very confusing. "My mind is entirely clear now, though," he stated, surprisingly. Then he caught himself and blushed. But Sara Sue missed the connotation of it. He had meant that the dullness following the accident had passed, and so any mental confusion couldn't be blamed on that. But Sara Sue thought he simply was more sure than ever of his love for Peaches Pomeroy.

Dr. McGill came soon, and said that Thornton could go home tomorrow. Sara Sue left, promising to meet him Friday noon when he arrived in Houston, and take him to the dormitories.

He hated to see her go. It left him alone again, to resume arguing with himself. He didn't like it. He missed the subtle perfume and freshness of Sara Sue. He missed the soft, sweet timbre of her voice—which made strangers know a pretty girl was coming even before they actually saw her—and he missed the delightful, fluffy, becoming little girl way she dressed.

"Damn it," he growled to himself, remembering to say "damn." "I am not at all sure that I want to marry Geraldine, or even continue the love making. But I cannot back down now. I cannot be disloyal to Sara Sue, who has helped me so much. She must not think me a quitter. I must see the courtship with Geraldine through."
