Declare Need For Solidarity Of Americas

Hull, Cantilo, Concha Stress Cooperation At Peru Conference

By ANDRUE BERDING
LIMA, Peru, Dec. 10 (AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull and the foreign ministers of Peru and Argentina proclaimed to the Pan-American conference tonight the need for a common front of the Americas against foreign military or political invasion.

The loudest applause from delegates came when the three keynote speakers mentioned this one point—indicating that some form of resolution declaring a common Pan-American defense against outside aggression would be acceptable to the 21-nation conference.

Hull declared: "There must not be a shadow of doubt anywhere as to the determination of the American nations not to permit invasion of this hemisphere by the forces of any power or any possible combination of powers."

In almost the same phraseology he referred to the political activities of foreign governments. He warned that "mankind is tragically confronted once more by the alternatives of freedom or serfdom, of order or anarchy, of progress or retrogression, of civilization or barbarism."

Dr. Jose Maria Cantilo, Argentine foreign minister, said that each and every American nation must be ready to prove itself "in the face of any danger which, coming from any quarter, might menace the independence or sovereignty of any state in this part of the world."

Dr. Carlos Concha, Peruvian foreign minister and permanent president of the conference, voiced a hope that the western hemisphere would become so united that aggression against any of the Americas would affect the essential interests of all.

Telling his listeners that an "ominous shadow falls athwart our own hemisphere," Hull said each American nation had to decide for itself what measures to take "to meet its share of our common interest and responsibility."

But as far as the United States is concerned, Hull said, "let no one doubt for a moment that, so long as the possibility of armed challenge exists, the United States will maintain adequate defensive military, naval and air establishments."

Ten Iowa Instructors Sign Anti-fascist Manifesto

Join With 1,274 Other Scientists in Defense of Intellectual Freedom, Scientific Progress

Ten members of the faculty of the University of Iowa are among 1,284 American scientists, including three Nobel prize winners, who have signed a manifesto summoning their colleagues to participate actively in the defense of democracy as the sole means of preserving intellectual freedom and insuring scientific progress.

The manifesto and its signatories was released today by a committee of prominent men of science.

The members of the Iowa faculty whose names appear are Prof. George H. Coleman of the chemistry department; John Fielding, instructor in mechanical engineering; Dr. Avery E. Lambert, professor of history of the college of medicine.

Prof. E. W. Lane of the hydraulic engineering department; Prof. Gordon Marsh of the zoology department; Prof. H. E. Rietz, head of the mathematics department, past president of the American Mathematical Association and of the Institute of Mathematical Statistics.

Dean Ewen M. MacEwen of the college of medicine; Prof. L. A. Ware of the electrical engineering department; Dr. Andrew H. Woods, head of the psychiatry department and director of the psychopathic hospital, and Prof. L. C. Ralford of the chemistry department.

Prof. Frank Boas of Columbia university, dean of American anthropologists and former president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, acted as spokesman for the committee. He pointed out that the manifesto was based upon the resolution passed last December by the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which declared:

"Science is wholly independent of national boundaries and races and creeds and can flourish only when there is peace and intellectual freedom.

"The present outrages in Germany," Professor Boas said, "have made it all the more necessary for American scientists to take a firm and anti-fascist stand. We are sure that the great majority of German scientists, and the German people as a whole, abhor fascism.

"The thousands of teachers and scientists who have been exiled since Hitler came to power bear testimony to the incompatibility of fascism and science.

"Our manifesto," he continued, declares that we scientists have the moral obligation to educate the American people against all false and unscientific doctrines, such as the racial nonsense of the nazis. The agents of fascism in this country are becoming more and more active, and we must join with all men of good will in defending democracy today if we are to avoid the fate of our colleagues in Germany, Austria and Italy."

Among the signers of the manifesto are three Nobel prize winners: Prof. Harold C. Urey of Columbia university, who received the chemistry award in 1934, and who is a member of the sponsoring committee for the manifesto; Prof. R. A. Millikan of the California Institute of Technology, winner of the physics award in 1934, and Dr. Irving Langmuir, associate director of the General Electric research laboratory in Schenectady, N. Y., recipient of the chemistry prize in 1932.

The 1,284 signatories represent 167 universities and research institutes in all sections of the country. The list includes 85 college presidents, deans and directors of industrial laboratories and experiment stations. Sixty-four of the signers are members of the National Academy of Sciences.

"We firmly believe," the concluding paragraph of the manifesto states, "that in the present historical epoch democracy alone can preserve intellectual freedom. Any attack upon freedom of thought in one sphere, even as non-political a sphere as theoretical physics, is in effect an attack on democracy itself.

"When men like James Franck, Albert Einstein or Thomas Mann may no longer continue their work, whether the reason is race, creed or belief, all mankind suffers the loss. They must be defended in their right to speak the truth as they understand it. If we American scientists wish to avoid a similar fate, if we wish to see the world continue to progress and prosper, we must bend our efforts to that end now."

Lithuania Shudders As Hitler Eyes Memelland

Germanic Area Has Significant Election Today

Extreme Nazis Call Vote Plebiscite For Return to Germany

MEMEL, Lithuania, Dec. 10 (AP) — Nazi fever gripped this Baltic seaport and the rest of former German Memelland tonight on the eve of Memel diet elections which had the full unofficial flavor of plebiscite on Anschluss with Germany.

High-booted Memel storm troopers stamped through the streets and white, red and cream Memel flags snapped in the icy Baltic wind as a challenge to Lithuanian sovereignty since Feb. 16, 1923, when the 1,099 square miles of Memelland was handed over to the League of Nations.

The population is 152,000, predominantly Germanic. The territory was sheared off East Prussia by the treaty of Versailles and controlled by a conference of ambassadors before it came under the Kaunas government with provisions for a large measure of local autonomy.

Return to Reich? Extreme nazis were calling the Sunday elections "a plebiscite for return to the Reich." Some newspapermen reported that Willi Bertuleit, a Memel deputy, told them last night that a demand for reunion with Germany would be voiced in January.

Today, however, Bertuleit denied this was the objective of Nazi Memellanders. He said his party wanted only strict application of the Memel autonomy statute, full cultural freedom for Germans and reorganization of Memel economic life with changes in Lithuanian customs, tariffs and foreign policy.

(A dispatch from Berlin said the Sunday voting was regarded by responsible nazis there as merely the forerunner to complete Memel autonomy.

"Another Danzig" (Memelland, in the Nazi opinion, will be another Danzig — nominally independent of Germany but actually run from Berlin as Danzig Free State. If Lithuania "plays ball" and permits the Memellanders to do as they please, — such as introduce Nazi principles of government — autonomy at present, will satisfy Reichsfuehrer Hitler, it was said.)

Hundreds of nervous Jewish families moved from Memelland into the Lithuanian hinterland. It was reported that the equivalent of $5,000,000 invested capital had been withdrawn from Memelland.

Jews who remained here said they had received threatening letters telling them to stay away from the polls tomorrow. Thousands of Lithuanians were said to have been deprived of voting rights by election officials.

Follow Dictator Confident followers of Memelland's "horse doctor Fuehrer," Ernst Neumann, a 50-year-old veterinarian, shouted slogans containing such words as "plebiscite" and "back to the Reich!"

Neumann's pictures were everywhere, captioned "We follow thee."

The "little Fuehrer" was just back from Berlin. He declared that his followers were "Lithuanian citizens in name only. No intrinsic bond exists between Memel Germans and Lithuanians."

Officially, Neumann's national socialist party insisted its objective was complete autonomy for Memelland.

The nazis expected to win all but two seats in the 29-member diet, which is not to be confused with the 49-member Lithuanian parliament.

(Except for two seats gained by the Jewish minority in 1936, the Kaunas parliament comprises only supporters of the Lithuanian government.)

In the 1935 Memel diet election Germans won 24 seats to five for the Lithuanians but veto of numerous bills since then by the Lithuanian governor — recently replaced by a Memellander — blocked much legislation.

Cost of Iowa's 1938 Political Campaign Highest in History of State at $500,000

Martin Lists $4,190 Cost

Expense Reports Of Counties Show 50 Per Cent Increase

DES MOINES, Dec. 10 (AP) — Reports to the secretary of state and county auditors indicated today that the cost of campaigning for office was up in Iowa again this year.

Expense accounts filed by candidates and central committee chairmen show the 1938 election campaign cost them more than a half million dollars.

The 1936 campaign put slightly less than $400,000 in circulation in the state.

Cost of running for office has risen sharply since 1932, when the candidates for state offices reported spending $67,400. Two years ago they spent $98,700. This year they spent nearly $117,000.

The 1936 campaign was considered the costliest in the history of Iowa, yet the 1938 figure is $100,000 higher.

This does not include the cost to the counties of preparing the ballots, paying election booth officials, and canvassing returns.

Among individual candidates, those seeking the United States senatorship, the governor's chair, and seats in congress are the big spenders.

Senator Guy M. Gillette spent $5,762.57, while his republican opponent, J. Edgar Hoover, spent $4,190.

Pearl Buck Honored by Swedish King

Receives 1938 Nobel Prize for Literature in Brilliant Ceremony

Anthony Eden Declares U. S., Britain 'Cousins in Democracy'

Enjoys Sight-seeing With Police Escort Through New York

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 10 (AP) — "Oh, leave me alone," yawned Erwin Goldberg, 20-year-old traveling salesman, when two men shook him as he lay a-bed today.

Then he turned over and went back to sleep. His disturbers unceremoniously bundled him in a blanket and carried him out of the house. They were policemen. The house was on fire.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP) — Anthony Eden was whirled through a de luxe sight-seeing tour of New York today, and the dark and handsome British statesman who has variously been styled "the white knight of Geneva" and "the best-dressed diplomat in Europe" took it all with a sparkle.

The 41-year-old visitor, chief of Great Britain's foreign affairs until he resigned rather than yield to a policy of "appeasement" to dictators, said he "loved it—every bit."

With a police escort, Eden paid his respects at city hall to Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, a kindred anti-dictator spirit, and chatted volubly for 20 minutes. He inspected the new west side express highway along the Hudson river, breezed through Central park, lunched in Times Square and then drove out to view the "world of tomorrow" at the 1939 New York world's fair in Flushing, Long Island.

For tonight, he ordered tickets for the Broadway musical revue hit, "Hellzapoppin'" — a hilarious, slapstick affair which, by its similarity to London music hall productions, may strengthen his expressed belief that Great Britain and the United States are "cousins in democracy" amid dictatorships and should stand together.

A theater representative said a portion of the script would be re-written to include mention of Eden and his wife, who arrived last night for a week's "private" visit — his first to this country.

With almost boyish eagerness, in contrast to the reserved dignity he maintains in parliament and in Whitehall, Eden let it be known he wants to see the "whole works" on his flying visit—shows, a view from the top of the Empire State building, art museums, night clubs and all the rest.

Germany would move again in her "drang nach Osten" — drive to the east — while Italy, her axis partner, kept Great Britain and France worried in the Mediterranean area.

They led to widespread discussion in London and elsewhere of whether — and, if so, where — Germany would move again in her "drang nach Osten" — drive to the east — while Italy, her axis partner, kept Great Britain and France worried in the Mediterranean area.

Repository Roosevelt to Save Papers, Books

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP) — President Roosevelt announced today plans for establishing a permanent repository on his Hyde Park, N. Y., estate for all his personal papers and his huge collection of books and paintings.

He disclosed simultaneously that funds which he had received from the publication of various of his papers and speeches during the first years of his administration would form the nucleus of a fund to be raised by public subscription to finance the Hyde Park project.

Similarly, the president said, funds from publication of the same works which were paid to Judge Samuel I. Rosenman of the New York supreme court also would go into this fund.

Eventually, Mr. Roosevelt said, the part of the Hyde Park estate on which his family now lives will be turned over to the federal government. Meanwhile, the national archives, a federal agency, will take over control of his papers, which he has been collecting for the last 28 years.

Officers Seek Connection In Three Deaths

JANESVILLE, Wis., Dec. 10 (AP) — County authorities who recovered the body of Everett Pierce, missing 74-year-old Milton farmer, from its hiding place in a haystack puzzled tonight over scanty clues in an effort to determine a connection between his death and the murder-suicide of a young girl and an itinerant farmhand.

Coroner E. J. Overton said an examination revealed no marks on Pierce's body except a small cut near his ear. He ordered a post mortem examination.

Sheriff James Croake began the search for Pierce, missing more than a week, after the elderly man's bloodstained coat was found in an automobile which contained the bullet

Highway Safety Drive

Vs. Bob Feller

YES, FAME is a wonderful thing! Bob Feller, whose fast ball on the baseball diamond has made him one of the most famous young men in the country, seems to have learned the power of the printed page.

Convicted of driving his automobile 87 miles an hour on the highway, Feller was chagrined to see his driver's license suspended for 90 days. For days he haunted the State house pestering the governor and the attorney general for his license so that he could drive fast again.

Friday, his attorney announced that Feller had won back his license temporarily by appealing the case to the state supreme court.

Yes, fame is wonderful—and powerful. The city of Des Moines had within its grasp an opportunity to make an example of a speed-crazed driver—an example that all drivers in the state would have known about.

Instead of following this lead, the official took the easier way out, not only missing a chance to set a good example, but in so falling down, they have given a bad example.

Can We Close Our Economic Doors To Europe?

WHEN THE ARMISTICE was signed 20 years ago, the world took definite steps to prevent another such catastrophe. The civilized nations reached an agreement which was to put a stop to war by forcing the neutral nations to cease trading with the warring factions.

In theory, this project was sound in that no nation could continue a war very long without food and materials from the outside. By placing an embargo on all war materials, the world hoped to starve out war.

With Hitler and Mussolini becoming more and more oppressive, many persons have advocated embargoes on German and Italian goods as a remedy for the trouble. Those who have howled the loudest for an economic embargo against these countries do not seem to realize that while the measure would cripple the offending countries, it would be more disastrous to the countries imposing the embargoes. Because every country in the world today is so dependent on its neighbors for raw materials, an embargo against any country would cripple the trade and commerce of the entire world.

At the conclusion of Foreign Trade Week recently, Gardner Harding in the New York World Telegram concluded: "The fundamental lesson has been that although this nation could go longer than any other on what it now possesses within its own borders, nevertheless, the very complexity with which we live, the necessities to us which are luxuries to many nations, brings us a degree of inter-dependence with the rest of the world which only the foolish would wish to disturb."

To be specific: America consumes half the world's output of rubber, using about 80 per cent of what we import for automobile tires. Our rubber imports were 600,000 tons last year and the bill was a quarter of a million dollars. America produces no rubber. Most of our manganese comes from Soviet Russia, without which no steel could be smelted.

Practically all our antimony comes from China, without which not a line of type could be set, not a steel mill could turn. We import every ton of nickel we use from Canada or Peru, and we couldn't fire a single shell without a supply of this metal.

It is easy to see after checking our imports for the last year that, much as we'd like to penalize the outlaw nations of the world by boycotting them, we can do nothing with an embargo unless we want to declare war outright.

We have hindered Germany somewhat by placing high tariffs on their materials, but this is small potatoes in the balance of world trade. Japan has been boycotted, but this country is flooded with cheap materials which can hurdle all existing tariff barriers.

It has been found that an economic boycott of gangster nations is not effective; the only way to influence Hitler and Mussolini today is to call home our diplomatic officers and break off diplomatic relations, for in the world today trade knows no bounds or boycotts.

Diplomatic pressure must shoulder the responsibility where economic pressure has failed to make an impression.

Need for Unity In Thought Between Youth and Age

IT WAS Justice Cardozo who remarked, "We live in a world of change. . . There is change whether we will it or not."

The essence of that remark was re-stated again this week when Franklin Roosevelt, speaking to and about youth in the present-day world, said that the young people of America feel they are "going places."

Most important, however, was what the president had to say about democracy. "Whatever convictions I have none is stronger than my abiding belief that the security and well-being of the American people can best be served by the democratic processes which have made this country strong and great."

That's the crux of much of the world's trouble today: (1) Recognizing the need for change; (2) Bringing that change about fairly, justly, economically. American youth, for the most part, seems to recognize that.

There's a danger, though, of their elders failing to do so. There is a tendency among elders occasionally to look longingly toward the "good old" days rather than hopefully toward the good new ones.

If youth and age can get together, though, there's probably not much reason for viewing with alarm.

NOT MERELY BOOKWORMS

Thirty-six years ago today, on March 26, 1902, the imperialistic career of Cecil John Rhodes came to a close, and a long life devoted to increasing the power and prestige of the English nation finally was ended. It was expected, however, that the things Rhodes had worked for and his ideals were to be carried on, for in his will was created a scholarship fund to educate and win outstanding men to the cause he cherished so highly—a union of the English speaking people, which would render war impossible.

In his will Rhodes stated that he did not want "merely bookworms" but instead suggested that the men to carry out his aims should be selected with almost equal emphasis on: (1) scholarship, (2) qualities of manhood and character, (3) qualities of leadership and (4) fondness for and success in outdoor sports. It would seem that the great imperialist wanted the recipients of his scholarships later to serve actively in the political field or in some place where they could be in contact with national and international problems. Instead of this, however, recent statistics reveal that 40 per cent of the American Rhodes scholars are now engaged in educational pursuits and that only six per cent are in governmental service. The influence of this group of nearly 900 men is thus not felt in political matters but in the field of education. This seems particularly unfortunate at the present time when the threats of war are present.

We believe that this situation exists mainly because the committees of selection are often departing from the type of men desired by Rhodes, and instead are choosing men with attributes of scholarship and few of the others listed above. It should be realized that the Henry Fellowships and others are awarded solely on the basis of academic ability. The granting of a Rhodes scholarship almost entirely on academic grounds is not in accordance with the terms of the will of Rhodes, nor is it producing the type of leader he particularly specified.

AROUND THE TOWN

With MERLE MILLER

Incidentally, I hope they don't find that Blue Bird they've been searching for over at University theater. . . It's such a delightful two hours and a half they spend looking for it. . .

It is, indeed, the most exciting two and a half-hours this reporter has spent in a university theater play, that in nearly four years of constant attendance. . .

Swell acting. Tom Phillips was good (and a trooper who went on with the show after an opening night fall which later resulted in three forehead stitches); Lorraine Pressler was a cute enough Mytil. . .

No one was had enough to detract. . . And mayhance I'm prejudiced, but I did like Jim Weary's "Father Time," "The Land of the Future" was my favorite. . .

Just going out, we heard someone say, "I wish I were eight again," a silly desire. . . Because we were eight again—just for the afternoon at any rate. . .

And was shocked and amazed to find that University library doesn't preserve its newspaper files more than three months. . . Wondering how the powers above think any manner of research could be done. . .

In all University libraries need more than a new building. . . The only worth-while reading room on the campus—I mean the one at Iowa Union—has to fight for its existence. . .

Did think Tony Eden's speech was the cleverest, subtlest propaganda. . . The observer doubts, for one, that England will pull her own chestnuts out of the fire. . .

We'll be asked over to lend more than moral support. . .

Of course, each time I begin wondering about Iowa City and the "Athens of Iowa," someone like Wilbur Schramm comes along with a book talk. . .

His subtle prediction that Herb Krause's "Wind Without Rain" (it's back to the old title) will hit the best-selling lists. . .

His saying ours is the only educational plant in the nation. . .

Or something. . .

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

I am in receipt of a book called "The Five Sisters," by William E. Blatz, who is professor of child psychology at the University of Toronto. The five sisters are none other than the Dionne quintuplets, and Dr. Blatz has described in detail the method of training which has been used with them.

He points out that this is a unique opportunity in the chance to condition human development. Many points are very interesting. For instance, we have a notation that isolation is the sole consequence of unacceptable behavior, and a picture of little Marie alone in a room being punished for some naughtiness. Fear has never been used as a method of discipline and none of the sisters is supposed to know what fear is.

Taught to Reciprocate They are taught to reciprocate in social relations, and Marie rolls the ball to Emile, and Emile rolls the ball to Marie. They share each other's toys, and according to the doctor, there is a minimum amount of the usual friction that goes with this. They are often deliberately placed in positions where they will have to work out what each of the five will do in such a thing as dancing a minuet or playing a game.

The conclusion is reached that these quintuplets are of the kind of twinning known as identical. Identical twins have many peculiar anatomical points. If we compare the four hands of a set of twins we find that the left hand of the one twin is more like the left hand of the other twin than it is like his own right hand. Marie and Cecile have left hands that agree; Yvonne and Annette have left hands that agree, and Emile is similar to both sets.

Start Off the Same Here we have, then, five human beings starting with exactly the same sort of biologic background. The question of whether heredity or environment is the more important will some day be definitely settled in this case. In all aspects of their life, careful records are being kept as to how they respond, to what degree they to have four theses published as novels in one year. . .

And then a glance through this month's "American Prefaces" would throw away the dubs. . . To my mind, it's the best issue yet. . .

Just as a matter of record, those who're in on it say Jack Bryan's thesis-novel of life in Illinois would equal or top any of the others. . .

Yes, they know our campus literary record almost everywhere in the world—EXCEPT Iowa City. . .

Every once in a while someone's asking about the differences between European and American higher education. . . I spent two days at Oxford, you see. . .

And there are differences. . . But the main one's with the students, I'd say. . . We don't talk enough in these parts. . . Not really. . .

Try starting a discussion about any matter further ahead than tomorrow night's date at a fraternity dinner. . . But in an English university, every meal is an amateur debate. . .

Over a glass of ale in Oxford, or wine at the Sorbonne or beer at Berlin, the students of the countries I saw talked and argued about politics and life. (Yes, even in Berlin. . .)

Not, here. . . Even in the infrequent and over-glorified "bull" sessions, the conversations turn to women (men)—religion—and the future life (on earth). . .

Of course, the reason we never get very much said, may be that we have nothing to say. . . We Americans. . .

Indirectly, word from Arch MacLeish regards the $43,000 income tax item. . . Seems it's not right, not according to MacLeish. . .

Should have read $43,000,000. . . If he's hunched, it's because his pocket money weights him. . . (As he swears he is), it's because he can't brush all the gold and silver off his table. . .

Are obedient, how they respond to play, how much initiative they have and so forth and so forth. . . Experienced practitioners are here using the best methods of the very most modern ideas of psychology in child training. I wonder how they will turn out. . .

Questions and Answers D. O. v. G.: "Kindly quote me the carbohydrate contained in the following: grapefruit, lemon, lime. Also advise can grapefruit be eaten by a diabetic?"

Answer: Grapefruit is five per cent carbohydrate, lemon is ten per cent. Curiously enough, I cannot find in any authority that limes have ever been analyzed. Grapefruit is a good food for a diabetic, always assuming that he calculates the carbohydrate intake in his daily allowance. . .

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK R. J. Scott

TUNING IN

By Loren Hickerson

JOSEPHINE ANTOINE, the young coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan opera company who will appear here March 5 as the concluding artist in the 1938-39 concert course, will sing the leading role of Massenet's opera, "Manon," next Saturday afternoon. . .

This is a splendid opportunity for Iowa City to get a preview of another exceptional artist who will come here for a concert. After Martini and Vivona, I'm convinced that the course will be exceptionally fine throughout. . . And don't forget the St. Louis symphony. . .

BETTE DAVIS, whose latest accomplishment is "The Sisters," has been training Pamela Cavness, 15, in the finer points of acting for the past two years. Pamela will appear with Miss Davis in a troyat "Silver Theater" production, "Broken Prelude," in broadcast tonight and next Sunday over the Columbia network. . .

Tonight's "Silver Theater" will be heard as usual at 5 o'clock. . .

Miss Davis has kept the young starlet in her own home and coached her personally. As dramatic as any theater production is the story of how the glamorous star of "Of Human Bondage" and "Jezebel" discovered the talented youngster in a Hollywood dramatic school and determined to give her a real opportunity. . .

JACK BENNY AND THE GANG WILL make their second broadcast from Radio City in New York tonight at 6 o'clock, revealing among other things what they've done to divert themselves since arriving in town. . .

Though it may not come out on the air, you might like to know that in order to make his pleasure-with-business trip east, Jack had to visit 18 Hollywood executives, make 32 phone calls, and drive 112 miles before he could gain permission for the various members of his cast to accompany him. . .

To straighten out matters for Kenny Baker, Jack had to get a release from Mervyn LeRoy who holds the singer's film contract, as well as to clear with Walter Wanger, the movie producer, on the possibility of "shooting around" Kenny during his absence. Before Don Wilson, who also announces for another radio show, could be sure he was going . . .

THE NEW YORK PHILHARMONIC appears at 2 o'clock this afternoon. . .

CHASE AND SANBORN'S Charlie McCarthy, aided and abetted by Don Ameche, Edgar Bergen, Nelson Eddy, and Dorothy Lamour, is the best 7 o'clock bet, while Charles Boyer's "Hollywood Playhouse" comes on at 8, along with the Sunday evening hour of symphony music under the direction of Joe Iturbi at 8:30. . .

EDDIE CANTOR will bring Frederic March, famed star of stage and screen, to the air as the guest of his program at 9:30 tomorrow night. Cantor will cross kind words with March, while Bert "Mad Russian" Gordon will try to convince the star that he has opposition when it comes to the fair sex. Walter King's music is featured. . .

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It can't matter much, as big things are reckoned in Hollywood, but the town seems to have unearthed a movie director. . .

I say it can't matter much because, after all these years, a great many movie fans can't tell you offhand who Cecil B. DeMille is. I asked a lady once, just to see, and she thought a while and finally came up brightly with the suggestion that C. B. was—was—let her see now—oh, yes, C. B. was one of Gloria Swanson's ex-es. . .

And getting that kind of guess on C. B., the town's most and longest ballyhooed director, I don't suppose the name of Garson Kanin would mean a thing. . . But I'm going to write about him anyway. I think, as the years go on, Garson Kanin will be a name all fans will notice, just as they've finally begun to talk about the "Capra picture" instead of about the stars who play in it. . .

You can put him down right now as a man to remember—which ought to make it easy because he's the lad who directed "A Man to Remember," one of the year's finest even if it didn't cost a mint. . .

It's rather a shock, meeting this Kanin for the first time. He's so young he's bashful about his age. He claims 26 years (had a birthday Thanksgiving) but you'd guess, first glance, about 23. He's slight, thin-faced, pink-cheeked, slightly baldish over the high forehead, and he looks, acts and laughs like a boy. In fact, when he directs the youngsters in "The Great Man Votes," he gives the impression that he might, very easily, take one of their roles and get by with it. Maybe that's how he gets the results he does. They give for him, and they don't "act." It might also be because he knows what he's doing, whether he's directing John Barrymore or Peter Holden or Virginia Weidler. . .

Kanin was brought west a year and a half ago by Sam Goldwyn. For eight months Kanin sat in a sumptuous office at Goldwyn's studio, attended by two secretaries, and did nothing. Goldwyn thought of him as a producer, called him "Thalberg" and urged him to wait for his opportunity. Just short of the padded cell division, Kanin decided he had to quit. . .

"In my poor deluded fashion," he pleaded with Sam, "I like to think of myself as something of an artist. I don't want to be a producer—I don't know business. I want to direct." . .

Eventually Sam relented. Kanin went to RKO, shortly was given "A Man to Remember." In 15 days he had it done for $119,000, synonymous with chicken-feed in a big studio. Everybody was surprised. He tackled another quick one, "Next Time I Marry," and then the reward came—"The Great Man Votes" is a "special," with a 35-day schedule and plenty of money invested. . .

Kanin used to be an actor. On Broadway he was in such hits as "Three Men on a Horse" and "Boy Meets Girl." He gave up acting when George Abbott, his mentor and still his best friend, told him he shouldn't play in "Brother Rat." . .

"If Abbott doesn't see me as an actor, maybe I'm not one," he decided—and thereupon became a director. He stuck by the decision when Abbott later wanted him for "Room Service." . .

It was Hollywood's gain. The boy has what it takes. . .

Notice to Juniors All pictures for the yearbook must be taken by Friday, Dec. 16. JOHN EVANS, Editor

Christmas Employment Students may earn the equivalent of $46 during Christmas vacation by working a nine-hour board accumulation job at University hospital. If preferred, daily board alone may be earned. Students and non-students are eligible. Report immediately to the university employment bureau. The substitution arrangements for Christmas vacation are to be made as follows: 1. Secure approval from the supervisor of your department to be away from your work during the vacation period. 2. Personally give the notice that you intend to leave and arrange for a substitute at the university employment bureau not later than Monday, Dec. 12. As no one may leave his job until a substitute has been found, to approve the person whom you recommend. If the person whom you recommend wishes to accumulate meal credits, be sure to assist in arranging the hours of your job to fit a nine-hour work schedule. Students are preferred as substitutes. If necessary, however, non-students are acceptable. All substitutes may accumulate meal credit by working not more than nine hours daily insofar as such work schedules can be arranged. Those persons interested in doing substitute work must report to Lee H. Kann, Registrar.

Graduate Students Each student in the graduate college who expects to receive the master's degree or the doctorate at the forthcoming convocation, Jan. 31, 1939, is requested to procure for us immediately the official transcript of graduate work he may have done in another graduate school, if he has not done so before, so that this may be taken into account in determining whether he or she fulfills the requirements for a high degree. This should be done immediately since, otherwise, it is possible that we shall be unable to certify for graduation next January a student who may have accomplished satisfactory graduate work elsewhere, but who has not submitted the requisite official statement of it early enough. H. C. DORCAS, Registrar.

Phys. Ed. Meeting The second graduate colloquy for all graduate students in the physical education department will be Tuesday, Dec. 13 at 4:10 p.m. in the women's gymnasium. All graduate students in the physical education department are required to attend. LORRAINE FROST, Chairman

A New Yorker at Large

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—William K. Howard, the director, was having trouble with that picture, "Frankie," which he's shooting at the Astoria studios over on Long Island. . .

There was a courtroom scene and Howard couldn't find an actor to handle satisfactorily the role of district attorney. Four men had tried it and failed. When a fifth did likewise, Howard gritted his teeth, shouted: "Say, what is this, anyway? Why, anybody could do that part. Look!" . .

He stepped onto the set, and with feeling born of anger, swung into the D.A.'s lines. . . Almost at the end he stopped short. "Say," he muttered, "that's not bad." Already, every one on the set was applauding. . .

Howard turned to the camera crew, shouted: "It's a take. Roll 'em." . .

And then there Bill Howard, who has been an actor director for 20 years, became an actor for the first time in his life. . .

Which just about makes "Frankie" an all-Howard picture, because he wrote it, is producing and directing it himself, and now is acting in it. (Aside to Howard: Here's a little tip, pal, now that you're really in pictures, and it won't cost you a cent. When Heddi and MacArthur appeared briefly in one of their pictures a lot of people thought they were becoming a little vain. But ego had nothing to do with it. Their appearance in a film enabled them to check their tailor's bill for the year against their income tax. Actors have to wear clothes, you know. It's an item the government never argues about.) . .

Robert Sherwood, author of the hit show, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," explains his enthusiasm for the rail-splitter thusly: "Most small men have a Napoleon complex. Well, I'm six feet seven." . .

Jimmy Savo, the likeable little comedian with the baggy pants is an ex-furniture salesman. . . There's a suspender shop on 6th avenue which sells only suspenders. It's the only store of its kind in New York. . . Doug Fairbanks pere, is getting fat. His face is round as a butter ball. . .

Here's a lesson in leg-pulling: Teddy Powell, the song writer, spied Orson Welles at a Paradise table and ambled over to say hello. "Have a cigar," he greeted, pulling one from his pocket. . .

"I smoke only Coronas," remarked Welles. "But this is a Corona," explained Powell. . . "I said I smoked only Coronas. Welles reiterated. Whereupon Powell returned the cigar to his pocket and bought another exactly like it from the cigarette girl. He handed it to Welles, and Welles gravely accepted it. Then Teddy bluck a match. . .

"I never light three on a match," objected Welles, who was the only one preparing to smoke. "You're a screwball," said the song writer, walking away. . .

Christmas Theme to Prevail At Woman's Club Party Friday

Members of Poetry Department to Take Charge of Meeting

The Christmas theme will prevail at the program of the general meeting of the Iowa City Woman's club Friday at Clinton place, 322 N. Clinton street, at 8:30 p.m. Members of the poetry department are in charge of the meeting.

Mrs. James Vincent, author of "Flame on the Hills," will read some of her original poetry. Miriam Boyesen will present a group of solos, and the choral speaking choir of the department will read two numbers.

Mrs. James Jones is in charge of the tea which will follow the program. Decorations for the tea table will carry out the seasonal motif.

Club members may bring their contributions to the Christmas baskets of the social service league to this meeting. All kinds of foods and sweets are needed to fill the baskets. Suggested articles include dates, coffee, candy, nuts, jellies and jams. Since the meeting is before Christmas, members may bring money which will be used to buy the perishable food articles just before the baskets are distributed.

Mrs. F. B. Olsen, president, has called a meeting of the executive board for 1:30, preceding the general meeting.

Poetry Department
Mrs. Mavora Moore will discuss "Poetry Groups in New York" at a meeting of the poetry department of the Iowa City Woman's club tomorrow at 7:45 p.m. in the assembly room of the Iowa City Light and Power building.

Mrs. Moore, who has recently come to Iowa City to make her home, is the author of a book of poetry, "To Grow New Beauty." She will emphasize the need for modern poetry to retain meter for strength in its interpretations.

The group will take part in ensemble carol readings.

Literature Department
Mrs. H. C. Dorcas will review Louis Bromfield's book, "The Bains Came," at a meeting of the literature department of the Iowa City Woman's club Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in the board room of the public library.

H. W. Janson Gives Talk
Discusses Art At A. A. U. W. Meeting in Union

"In trying to express our aesthetic emotions arising from the appreciation of fine art, we project too much intellect," said H. W. Janson, instructor of history and appreciation of fine arts, in his address yesterday at a meeting of the American Association of University Women.

Two pertinent questions often asked of modern art that Mr. Janson discussed were: "Why does modern art show things the way they look?" and "Does modern art express something psychopathic?"

Modern art and photography differ because art is more than mere shape since the progress by which it is created is a chemical and emotional experience, according to Mr. Janson. Otherwise they are the same, as they both portray familiar things.

In answering the second question, Mr. Janson said that because psychopaths are unable to express the conscious things in their minds, they are expressing the subconscious mind. These conscious processes include the things the artist is trying to get out of his mind.

Hawkeye Five Prepares For Washington U.

Last Home Game Before New Year's, Leave on Road Trip

Engaging in a light workout yesterday, Iowa cagers made ready for Washington university of St. Louis, their opponents in the third and last home engagement before the holidays.

Friday night's victory over the tough Scots of Monmouth, somewhat redeemed the Hawks for their loss of the week before, and gave them a chance to finish the home series on the winning side. If they are able to turn back the St. Louis team tomorrow night, they will have a record of two wins against one defeat.

On the basis of their performance Friday night, the Hawks rate as a team that is improving rapidly. Especially noticeable was the improved work at the pivot post. Whereas, in the Carleton game, the centers accounted for but one point during the entire contest, Evans and Bastian added four field goals to the Hawkeye total against Monmouth. This fact alone indicates a decided upturn in the Iowa fortunes.

Another bright spot was the partial return to normalcy of Angie Anapol. Anapol, a dead shot when right, had been in somewhat of a slump for the last few weeks, but the fact that he was able to hit in the closing minutes, is a good sign. Erwin Prasse also turned in some excellent work, good enough in fact, that he is marked as one of the standouts of the team, and rates as a certain regular along with Captain Benny Stephens.

Although Prasse and Stephens are practically assured of starting tomorrow night's game, Williams has indicated that no other member has a hold on any post as yet. Now that Evans and Bastian have had their chances as starting centers, Williams intends to give the third pivot man, Chuck Plett, a chance and will probably start him against Washington.

He also has stated that he might try out Fred Hohenhorst, the converted guard, at his recently adopted forward position. Hohenhorst, not quite as flashy as Anapol or Lind, has the advantage of extra height, and is a better defensive player. The other player who has taken up a new position, Bob Hobbs, is also on the starting list for tomorrow night.

This encounter will be the last home game until the New Year's Eve battle with St. Louis university. Late in the week the Hawks will take off for Indianapolis for a game Saturday night with Butler.

Following the Butler game, they will stop off in Chicago and tangle with DePaul on Dec. 19 before adjourning until New Year's Eve.

Fifth Annual Award
WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Award of the fifth annual national semi-pro baseball tournament for United States teams to Wichita, Aug. 11 to 23, 1939, and scheduling of the Canadian championship tournament at St. John, New Brunswick, starting the same date, were announced by the national semi-pro baseball congress yesterday.

THE REST—Illinois, Northwestern, Indiana and Ohio State will be discussed at some later date.

PURDUE—As yet the Boiler-makers are untested. They play Monmouth tomorrow, but it seems that although Jewell Young is gone, last year's champions are as strong as ever. Purdue usually comes up with some new flash—and I wouldn't be surprised if either Captain Gene Anderson or one of a stack of sophomores comes through—and the Boiler-makers have eight lettersmen back.

MICHIGAN—Benny Oosterbaan is the cage coach now at Ann Arbor. By the looks of their showing against the Michigan State Spartans, the Wolverines shape up quite favorably, and may spring a surprise.

MINNESOTA—As usual, Dave McMillan has a strong aggregation again. Kundra, Addington and Maki are back to form the nucleus of the team that has already won 12 consecutive games. Then the Gophers have that tall, gangling Gordon Spear back again. Maybe some of you remember Spear, and those long shots that he scored against the Hawkeyes last year? McMillan still has, basically, the same team that won the conference championship as sophomores. How much Marty Rolek will be missed remains to be seen.

CHICAGO—A team many considered to be quite strong doesn't loom as highly as it was at first thought.

WISCONSIN—A team not rated very highly during the pre-season, suddenly pops up as a prominent contender for the hoop title by virtue of the beatings they've handed Marquette and Notre Dame.

NEW YORK (AP)—A new attendance record for national professional football league playoffs almost certainly will be set tomorrow afternoon when the New York Giants, eastern division winner, and the Green Bay Packers of the western division meet at the Polo Grounds. Victory will give the winner the league title, the Ed Thorp memorial trophy and the major slice of the post-season pot.

The present playoff mark was established in 1934, when 35,000 saw the Giants meet the Chicago Bears. Club officials, announcing that 20,000 lower-stand unreserved seats and 5,000 bleacher seats will go on sale at 10 a. m. tomorrow, also said they were confident a crowd of 40,000 or better would be on hand for the kickoff, with the possibility of a sell-out if the weather turns clear.

The game shapes up as an even-money proposition for a friendly bet, reflected in the professional odd-layers' price of 9-10 and take your choice.

Off the facts that the Giants won by 15-3 in their regular-schedule meeting and looked practically unbeatable in trampling all over the Washington Redskins for a 36-0 victory a week ago, it might be expected that the New Yorkers would be favored. But Green Bay played the last time without Don Hutson and Bob Monnett, two of its most valuable operatives. Both will be ready for duty tomorrow, and as to the Giant's showing against Washington—few expect them to hit that peak two Sundays in succession.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10 (AP)—Professional football teams for large universities and colleges were advocated today by Dr. Clement C. Williams, president of Lehigh university.

"The larger universities apparently have cast their policies irrevocably along the lines of high-powered athletics," he told delegates from five states at the 17th annual meeting of the middle Atlantic states collegiate athletic conference.

"They might authorize strictly professional full-time teams to play their respective colors and furnish the spectacular holiday exhibitions, just as professional baseball and football teams represent cities."

Dr. Williams said if the public's demand for good teams and a good show were met by professional college teams intercollegiate amateur competition might "return to the character of student sports."

Even Money on Game To Decide Title Of Pro Football League

Cornhusker Cagers Crush So. Dakota Quintet, 44 to 30

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 10 (AP)—Nebraska opened its basketball season against a tried South Dakota university quintet here tonight and came out a 44 to 30 victor. About 4,000 persons watched the Huskers play a steady game and hold the lead from the start.

South Dakota, which won from Eastern Normal but lost to Minnesota, played a good floor game but inaccuracies on field goals caused the Coyotes' downfall. The Huskers' passing was a bit ragged, but they missed few close in shots.

Nebraska began the scoring a minute and a half after the opening toss-up. Forward Robert Smider fouled the Husker game captain, forward Alton Werner, and he made good on the gift shot. Another minute and a half later he caged Nebraska's first field goal.

David Harums to Meet Tues. Night Ball, Salaries and Trades Will Be Among Items of Business

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—on the fire at the meeting of the Hotel lobbies and secluded rooms will double as country lanes and sales pavilions next week when baseball's David Harums meet here in their winter swappet, known technically as the annual major league meetings.

The American and National leagues will meet separately Tuesday and Wednesday, and jointly Thursday with Commissioner K. M. Landis presiding.

Although numerous other items of business, such as the New York Yankees' suggestion that a player's salary be spread out over a 12-month period, and the advisability of the American league approving night baseball, will be taken up, the fans' interest centers on who will get who from whom, and for how much.

The New York Giants and the Chicago Cubs jumped the gun at New Orleans in announcing a triple-play deal in which the Giants of Ken O'Dea, Frank Demaree and Bill Jurgens, in return for Gus Mancuso, Dick Bartell and Hank Leiber, and the fans got headaches trying to figure out who got the best of the transaction, however, other major deals are sizzling.

For instance, the Giants are expected to make a grab for Zeke Bonura, Washington first baseman who has been waived by other American league clubs. Bill Terry needs a hard-hitting first sacker and Clark Griffith is willing to let Bonura go.

Several deals were reported, but

Lazzari Signs With Brooklyn
'Wants to Play, Not Warm Bench,' Poosh-em-up Says

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10 (AP)—Tony Lazzari, who obtained his release from the Chicago Cubs a few days ago, announced today he had accepted terms to play second base for the Brooklyn Dodgers next year.

Lazzari telegraphed Larry McPhail his acceptance of a one year contract after long distance telephone negotiations with the Brooklyn official yesterday.

He declined to disclose salary terms but expressed satisfaction with the deal. He said he was most happy over the fact that he will get back into player's harness.

He emphasized he was joining Brooklyn with the agreement he was to play second base regularly.

"Mr. McPhail and I were in complete accord on the matter," he said. "He understood what I wanted and I told him I was certain I could produce for him. This is the break I have been waiting for."

Star of many world's series while playing for the Yankees 12 years, the husky San Francisco born Italian drew his release and signed this year with the Chicago Cubs as utility player and coach.

After the season he said he would not rejoin the Cubs because he "wanted to play, not warm the bench." He asked for and received his release from the Cubs last Tuesday, saying at that time he was considering several offers.

Lazzari, despite his long service in the majors, said he thought he was "good for many years as a player."

Award Bill Kern Wins Title 'Coach of the Year'

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—The New York World-Telegram, with the official endorsement of four major conference officials, today awarded to Bill Kern of Carnegie Tech the title of 1938 college football's "coach of the year."

Kern's Tartans, defeated only by Notre Dame in the regular season, met Texas Christian in the New Orleans Sugar Bowl Jan. 2.

Backing the selection of the former Pittsburgh tackle were A. S. Bushnell, director of the central office for eastern intercollegiate athletics; Major John L. Griffith, Western conference commissioner; Henry Trantham of Baylor, head of the Southwest conference, and Hugh Willet of Southern California, president of the Pacific Coast conference.

Kern is the fourth coach to be honored by the World-Telegram. Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern was the choice in 1935, Dick Harlow of Lafayette in 1936 and Hocks Mylin of Lafayette in 1937.

Ranked behind Kern this year were Leo (Dutch) Meyer of T. C. S., Howard Jones of Southern California, Fritz Crisler, Michigan; Wallace Wade, Duke; Major Bob Neyland, Tennessee; Tom Stidham, Oklahoma; Elmer Layden, Notre Dame; Jack Hagerly, Georgetown, and Dr. Eddie Anderson of Holy Cross, who will handle Iowa next year.

Other rumors are bouncing around like tennis balls. There is the report that the Cleveland Indians would part with Earl Averill, Sammy Hale and Frank Pytlak if the returns are favorable; that Larry MacPhail of the Brooklyn Dodgers could use a couple of good outfielders, infielder and catcher, and that Connie Mack could use practically a whole new ball club. He'd like to keep Wally Moses and Bob Johnson if there are no objections, however.

And weaving through the swap and sale talk is the persistent query as to what will happen to such orphans of the baseball storm as Frankie Frisch, erstwhile pilot of the Cardinals.

Blues Start Loop Grind
Open Conference Play Tuesday Against Tipton

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Pacific Coast conference grid wars came to an end here today as the Bruins of the University of California at Los Angeles and Oregon State's Beavers struggled to a 6 to 6 tie before a disappointing crowd of less than 10,000.

The Uclans rolled up 23 first downs to three, gained 398 yards to 114 but were unable to push over more than one touchdown.

Oregon State scored in the first two minutes of play. Hal Higgins, 170-pound Beaver halfback, took the Bruin opening kickoff and ran it back 84 yards to the six yard stripe. Jim Kesselberg butted the ball to the 3, and then Higgins carried it over.

Twice before the half ended the Bruins pounded down within Oregon State's one-yard stripe, but both times were tossed back by the Beaver forward wall. Near the end of the third period Kenny Washington, Negro star, and Fullback Bus Sutherland ran and passed the ball deep into Beaver territory. In the fourth period they continued on to the 7, where Washington passed over the goal to Jim Mitchell, substitute end.

Push Plans For Sorority Relay Race

Captains of the relay teams that will compete in the inter-sorority relay race in the relay carnival next month, will meet at the fieldhouse Wednesday afternoon at 4:15, it has been announced.

The captains, who will be picked by sororities and women's dormitories to carry their colors in the meet, will choose the men who will run with them on their teams. According to Assistant Track Coach Ted Swenson, between 15 and 20 teams are expected to be in the race.

Although the event in which the gallant trackmen carry the banners for the honor of feminine organizations, is the most highly publicized, there are several more races on the card for the night of Jan. 12. There will be a Quadrangle relay race, the fraternity relay, university dormitories relay, high and low hurdles, 60-yard dash, and several field events.

The meet, which has always been held on a Saturday afternoon, has been changed to Thursday night in order that students will be better able to attend.

Sellout For Roses Game

Over 90,000 to See Duke, Southern Cal Tangle Next Month

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 10 (AP)—The Rose Bowl, as might be expected, has been sold out for the Duke - Southern California grid battle Jan. 2.

Officials of Southern California, the host school, formally announced today that no more ticket applications need be sent in, and gave strong intimation that many thousand requests now on hand would have to be returned, unopened.

"It is a shame," sighed Director of Athletics Willis O. Hunter, "that we can't get any more than about 90,000 people in the Pasadena bowl. We would like to take care of everyone who wants to go to the big game, but it seems that when something is full, it is still."

The Rose-bordered Bowl officially seats 85,411, but last Jan. 1 additional seats were built over the tunnels and bleachers erected at both ends, and California and Alabama played before an official paid attendance of 87,287. Counting complimentary guests and a few hundred who scaled the barb-wire fences, the total throng was estimated at 90,000.

Gate receipts for the game totaled $293,372, and the coming Duke - Southern California game will bring in as much or more.

Strangely enough, the Southern California - Pittsburgh game in 1930, while drawing but 65,309 customers, set a record gate receipts figure of $306,421 which has never been equaled. The reason was that the prices were higher than the $5.50, $4.40 and $3.30 scale for the coming game.

News on the football activities of the two rivals remained scant during the past week. Duke's undefeated, untied and unscored on Blue Devils put in several days of practice at Durham, N. C., while the Trojans took the week off for rest after upsetting Notre Dame last Saturday, 13-0. Coach Howard Jones will bring them back to the practice field Monday.

Oregon State And U. C. L. A. Play To 6-6 Deadlock

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Pacific Coast conference grid wars came to an end here today as the Bruins of the University of California at Los Angeles and Oregon State's Beavers struggled to a 6 to 6 tie before a disappointing crowd of less than 10,000.

The Uclans rolled up 23 first downs to three, gained 398 yards to 114 but were unable to push over more than one touchdown.

Oregon State scored in the first two minutes of play. Hal Higgins, 170-pound Beaver halfback, took the Bruin opening kickoff and ran it back 84 yards to the six yard stripe. Jim Kesselberg butted the ball to the 3, and then Higgins carried it over.

Twice before the half ended the Bruins pounded down within Oregon State's one-yard stripe, but both times were tossed back by the Beaver forward wall. Near the end of the third period Kenny Washington, Negro star, and Fullback Bus Sutherland ran and passed the ball deep into Beaver territory. In the fourth period they continued on to the 7, where Washington passed over the goal to Jim Mitchell, substitute end.

Push Plans For Sorority Relay Race

Captains of the relay teams that will compete in the inter-sorority relay race in the relay carnival next month, will meet at the fieldhouse Wednesday afternoon at 4:15, it has been announced.

The captains, who will be picked by sororities and women's dormitories to carry their colors in the meet, will choose the men who will run with them on their teams. According to Assistant Track Coach Ted Swenson, between 15 and 20 teams are expected to be in the race.

Although the event in which the gallant trackmen carry the banners for the honor of feminine organizations, is the most highly publicized, there are several more races on the card for the night of Jan. 12. There will be a Quadrangle relay race, the fraternity relay, university dormitories relay, high and low hurdles, 60-yard dash, and several field events.

The meet, which has always been held on a Saturday afternoon, has been changed to Thursday night in order that students will be better able to attend.

Coming back with a roar in the second half after playing a listless game in the first, Iowa City high school's Little Hawks swamped Wilson high school of Cedar Rapids, 48-26, last night for their first conference victory of the season. Iowa City's only other conference venture so far this season resulted in a loss to Davenport.

The Little Hawks, unable to click in the first two quarters, swung back in the last two, scoring 15 points in the third period and 17 more in the last. The Red and White boys were able to collect only 16 points during the first half, 10 in the first and six in the second quarters.

Capt. Russell Hirt paced the Hawklets again tonight. Bothered by an inability to hit the hoop in the first two quarters, Hirt came back in the second half to pace his mates in their scoring spree. During the game he was able to pump in five field goals and four free throws for a total of 14 points—individual high for the evening.

But Hirt wasn't the only one. The whole team and the numerous reserves sent in by Coach Francis Merten surged back in the second half to play wonderful ball. Where passing and teamwork was ragged in the first two quarters, it was good in the second.

Wilson began the scoring when Wilde, left forward, made good on a free throw. But Ted "Airdale" McLaughlin pulled Iowa City into a 2-1 lead with his beautiful follow shot. However, the Blue and White warriors from the Parlor City swept into the lead when Tom Farmer, classy forward, dropped in two field goals.

George Devine put Iowa City back into the lead, 8-5, with two beautiful field goals and Iowa City never again lost the lead. At the end of the first quarter the Hawklets were sporting a 10-7 advantage.

Play in the second quarter continued on the same level as in the first, both teams making wild passes, poor shots and in general displaying poor basketball.

Monte Stratton Offered Lifetime Job in Baseball With White Sox

Benefit Game To Be Played

Cubs and Chisox Will Play For Stratton April 17

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (AP)—Baseball offered a life-time job today to Monte Stratton, the ace Chicago White Sox pitcher who recently underwent amputation of his right leg after suffering a gunshot wound.

J. Louis Comiskey, White Sox president, notified Stratton that as soon as he is fully recovered he can step into a permanent position with the White Sox office organization. At the same time, Comiskey said a benefit game for Stratton will be played April 17 between the White Sox and the Chicago Cubs, the city's National League entry.

On Nov. 27, Stratton was target shooting on his mother's farm near Greenville, Tex., when his revolver accidentally discharged. The bullet struck below the hip, coursed down to the knee, and he lost much blood before his wife picked him up to a Dallas hospital. The next day amputation was performed at the knee.

"Monte has a job with us as long as he wants it," said Comiskey. "He was a fine pitcher and a finer man. Baseball can't afford to lose him."

Comiskey conferred briefly today with P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, and then announced plans for the Cub-Sox game, all proceeds from which will go to Mr. and Mrs. Stratton, whose son, Monte Jr., was a year old the day the amputation operation was performed.

Harry Grabner, White Sox vice president, said Stratton was "coming along fine" and may leave the hospital in two weeks. He was a big factor in the White Sox hopes for 1939, having won 15 games the past season even though out of action with a sore arm for the first month of the campaign.

Toronto Wins
TORONTO (AP) — Led by Buster Storey, who scored three touchdowns and set up another in the final 15 minutes of play, the Toronto Argonauts yesterday galloped to a 30-7 victory over the Winnipeg Blue Bombers to win the Canadian football championship.

Storey's run that put Toronto in position for its final tally covered 102 yards.

Minnesota's Passing Easily Trounces Carleton, 47 to 22

Gophers Register 12th Consecutive Win; Addington Stars

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 10 (AP)—Minnesota put a smooth, brilliant passing combination on the floor tonight to easily defeat Carleton college, 47-22, in a non-league game.

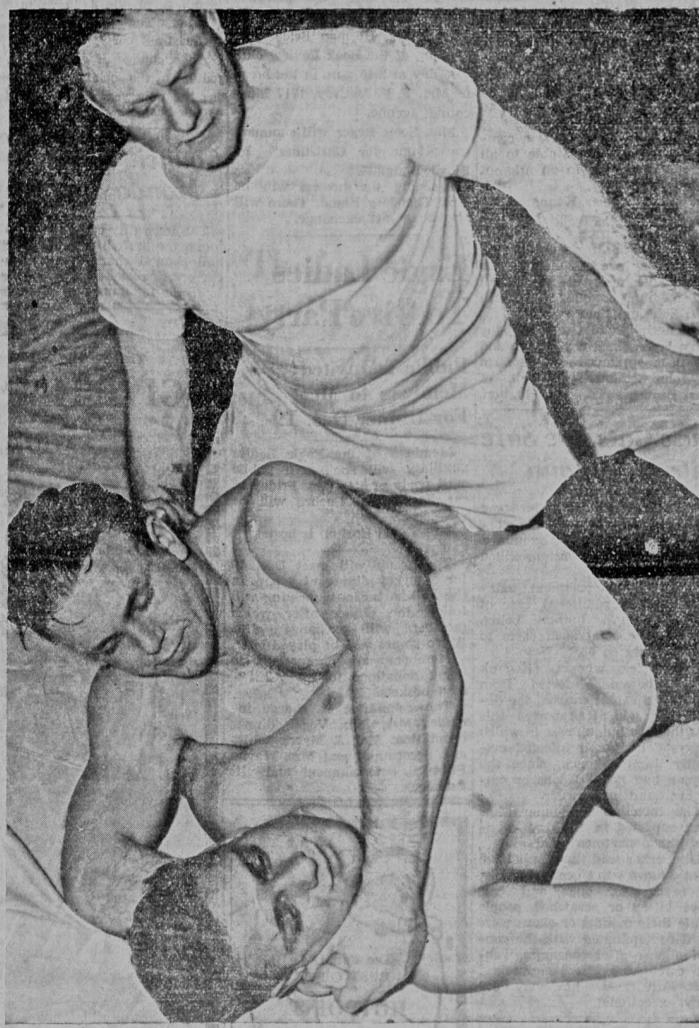

The Gophers' smooth floor play and fast, accurate passing completely smothered the hard-fighting but outplayed Northfielders.

Minnesota ran up six points before Carleton registered a point and drew away to a 22-9 lead at the half.

Minnesota registered its 12th consecutive victory, beginning with nine straight last season and defeating South Dakota State previously this year.

Gordon Addington of Minnesota took the scoring honors for the night with 13 points, counting five field goals and three free throws.

Will Meet in Tourney

Capt. Carl Vergamini of the Hawkeye mat team is shown here in a position that is uncomfortable, to say the least, as Wilbur Nead puts on the pressure and Coach Mike Howard stands by in order to award the fall — if it comes. However, Vergamini does not let the matter of Nead's extra weight bother him. Ordinarily Vergamini is the regular 175-pounder on Mike Howard's wrestling team and Nead takes care of the heavyweight division. But, in order to insure plenty of competition for himself in the all-university tournament that starts tomorrow, Vergamini has entered as a heavy. With both Vergamini and Nead in the same division, it looks as though there might be plenty of excitement.

Cedar Falls Cagers Beat Ames, 38-29

CEAR FALLS, Dec. 10 (AP)—An aggressive Iowa State Teachers five tonight trounced the Iowa State college basketball team, 38-29.

Early in the game Bill Close, Teachers guard, rang up three straight baskets to put the Cedar Falls team ahead, 7-1. Throughout the remainder of the play the Cyclones were never any closer than five points to the victors.

The Cyclones tried desperately to unravel the Teachers' strong defense which intercepted many passes. Close was high scorer of the game with 12 points, while Bliss paced the Cyclones with 10 points. The victory was the third in four starts for the Teachers.

Capt. Emery E. (Swede) Larson Picked To Succeed Hardwick as Navy Coach

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 10 (AP)—Navy placed its 1939 football hopes today in the knowing hands of Capt. Emery E. (Swede) Larson, a marine returned throughout the service for the good fortune that always has followed his coaching efforts.

Captain Larson's appointment as head coach to succeed Lieut. R. J. (Hank) Hardwick was announced at the naval academy. He becomes the first marine officer to coach a Navy football team.

In appointing Larson, present commander of the marine detachment at the naval academy, the Navy stuck to its graduate-coach policy. Hardwick, it was announced, will return to sea duty at his own request. No other changes in the coaching staff were made.

Hard luck has been Hardwick's lot in the past two years. His teams lost to Army and fared badly against other major opponents. This year he produced an air-minded team that outgained nearly every opponent, but won only one major game.

Good luck, on the other hand, has always followed Larson. His success as a service coach at stations from Parris Island, S. C., to Shanghai has been pronounced and "Larson luck" has been a by-word since he led three Navy teams to victory over Army as a middy center.

In 1935 and 1936, the U. S. S. Pennsylvania teams he coached won two successive fleet championships. Ten years before that he had coached the all-navy team in Hawaii. In 1928, he was line coach at the University of Hawaii.

He will have the same civilian staff that aided Hardwick, eleven.

Michigan Whips Michigan State In Last Period, 41-34

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 10 (AP)—Michigan uncorked a bewildering last period attack to trounce a favored Michigan State basketball team, 41-34, before 6,000 roaring fans tonight.

The Wolverines had the Spartans on the run from the outset with a bewildering attack that clicked smoothly. The triumph made a success of the debut of Bennie Oosterbaan as Michigan's coach.

Center James Rae paced the Wolverines with 12 points, Marty Hutt, who was shifted from forward to center, led the Spartans scoring with eight points.

The teams left the floor at half time with the score tied at 18-18.

Capt. Jimmy Hull Scores 19 Points For Buckeye Five

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 10 (AP)—Ohio State opened its basketball season here tonight by defeating George Washington university of Washington, D. C., 43-37. The Bucks held the lead all the way. Capt. Jimmy Hull of the Ohio team scored 19 points.

Hull was the big gun in the Buckeye attack, hitting the basket from all angles with spectacular one-hand shots. Capt. Bob Faris sparked the Colonel offense, getting 11 points.

Ohio State, a fast-breaking outfit, set up a tight zone defense which George Washington was unable to penetrate, forcing the Colonels to make shots from outside the foul circle.

Hawklets--

At the half the Red and White boys enjoyed a 16-13 lead. But in the third quarter the Little Hawks hit their stride. Hirt, Devine, McLaughlin and Lemons, who had done little scoring before tonight, began to hit while the team as a whole began to function smoothly and efficiently. By the end of the third period Iowa City was way ahead with a 31-19 margin.

Even the numerous substitutes sent in by Merten in the last quarter did not disrupt the smooth working Iowa City combination. Heacock, Buckley, Crumley and Maher took up where the first stringers left off and at the final gun Iowa City had rolled up a 48-26 victory.

Iowa City's defense worked evenly last night as the Hawklets restricted the Wilson cagers to only 43 shots during the entire game — 23 coming in the first half and 20 in the second. Wilson made good only on 10 of these but four were from difficult angles by Tom Farmer, the Blue and White's mainstay.

The Hawklets didn't take a long shot during the game as they consistently worked the ball down under the basket for a total of 71 shots. A poor first half held them to making good on only 19 of them. The Little Hawks' fast break, when it was working in the last part of the game, nearly swept the Wilson boys from their feet.

Tom Farmer, despite the fact he was playing with a losing team, played a beautiful game. His angling shots from difficult angles kept the game from becoming a complete rout. He scored a total of nine points. Van Cura, reserve forward, was able to garner 10 points on three field goals and four free throws.

Odd Fellow Leader Blames Parents for Youth Crime Wave

Breiel Speaks Here at State Junior I. O. O. F. Convention

Urges Parents to Be Closer Friends, Show Interest in Children

By B. FRANKLIN CARTER JR. Daily Iowan City Editor

George I. Breiel, director of development and extension of the sovereign grand lodge of the I. O. O. F., told more than three hundred persons at the final meeting of the first annual state Junior Odd Fellow convention that the blame for the present youth crime wave should be placed upon the parents of the youth.

"You parents should make a close friend of your boy or girl, be interested in what he does, and never be too tired to answer his slightest question," he instructed the audience.

He explained that the average age of the criminal today is less than 22 years. This could be attributed to the selfishness, greed and unemployment existing in the world today, he added.

Advocating a system of crime prevention rather than a cure by punishment, Breiel commended the Junior Odd Fellows for their program of providing facilities for free expression and recreation to the youth of today. He said the spirit of friendship aroused by a fraternal organization will aid Americans to regain their faith in society, government and religion which was lost during the depression period.

"Unless the American people do an about face from the loss of this faith, in 10 years a foreign 'ism' will have destroyed our democracy and will set up a government of that type," he warned the conventionists.

To reduce the unemployed existing in the United States and prevent the entrance of these undesirable "isms," Breiel said that a federal law should be enacted which would cause all aliens who have been in the United States six months to declare whether they intended to become citizens, and if the alien indicated that he did not intend to become a citizen, he should be deported to his former residence.

Breiel was introduced by Don Boysen, chief ruler of Old Capitol Junior lodge No. 1. His speech was preceded by a greeting by Keith Tallman, past chief ruler, and a short address by Gordon Dale Cox, grand master. One hundred ten representatives from junior lodges throughout the state registered at the convention headquarters in the Odd Fellow temple.

During the morning a tour of the city and the university campus was conducted. After the completion of the tour a conference on junior lodge problems was held in the Odd Fellow temple with Wayne Martin, past chief ruler, acting as chairman.

Conference sessions were held during the afternoon with Robert Eaton, past chief ruler, serving as chairman. At 3 p.m. the group spent an hour at the university swimming pool. After the recreational period the Odd Capitol lodge conferred degrees on 10 candidates.

Breiel came to Iowa City as the special representative of Burton A. Gaskell of New Jersey, grand sire of the world, I. O. O. F. This is his fourth tour of the United States, and he came to Iowa City after touring 22 states and four provinces in Canada.

He was interviewed over station WSUI yesterday morning by Merle Miller. Before 400 fathers and sons at the annual father and son banquet of Eureka Lodge No. 44, I. O. O. F., Breiel commended the principle of the banquet, a closer relationship between parent and child.

Public housing in relation to city planning is the subject of a new five year study recently begun at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Oil Boom

Iowa Land Leased By Drillers

CRESTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—They're talking oil in southwestern Iowa—and many hundred acres of Missouri and southwestern Iowa land are reported under lease to oil companies—but geologists have flashed the yellow "caution" signal at hopeful land owners.

C. F. Smalley, a native of Hamburg, and consulting geologists for a Duncan, Okla., oil firm, was commissioned to round up a block of 10,000 acres in the "Forest City Basin" of southwestern Iowa and northern Missouri.

An estimated 1,000 to 6,000 acres of Taylor county land is already said to be under lease to oil firms. Some sources say nearly 5,000 acres have been leased near Lenox and Clearfield alone.

Residents in this vicinity have been offered leases covering oil and gas deposits, and at Milan, Mo., an oil rig has been set up by H. V. Elwell, Kansas operator. Drilling, however, may not commence until spring.

The geologists warn land owners not to lease to any but reliable companies who really intend to drill.

They declare that land must be leased in "blocks"—all the farms in a 3,000 to 6,000 acre area—if the farmers are to benefit.

They claim that "checkerboard" leasing—one farm to one company and the next farm to another—will result in no development at all, since the companies must be assured of large areas that will give a long-time source before they install expensive drilling and pumping equipment.

Smalley said he is leasing land south of Riverport, to Hamburg. Leasing north of him, also in Fremont county, is a Kansas oil man. Smalley said he believes the best possibilities for oil in the leases he holds is in the sand bodies in the Cherokee shale formation.

At Rolla, Mo., State Geologist H. A. Buehler said sources of possible oil production in the Forest City basin, which is believed to end in the vicinity of Council Bluffs, lie at a depth of 4,000 feet. "Whether or not oil will be obtained remains to be seen," Dr. Buehler said. "The presence of these formations and structural features are sufficiently encouraging to warrant testing the northern part of the state (Missouri)."

Makes Adobe Bricks

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—James Field, former New Mexico State college student, has drawn plans for a machine that will mix and mold adobe bricks, a task performed for centuries by hand labor. Bare-footed workmen, in the past, mixed the adobe by trampling it.

opponent, L. J. Dickinsco, spent $4,914.56.

Thomas E. Martin of Iowa City, successful republican candidate for representative in congress from the first district, spent $4,190.18.

Other candidates for congress and the candidates for governor spent under $4,000 each.

Congressman C. C. Dowell, of Des Moines spent only $1,106.60, while Congressman John W. Gwynne of Waterloo spent but $1,171.93.

The democratic state central committee reported spending $76,988.06 between the 1936 and 1938 elections.

The republican committee report covers only the period between the primary and general election, but the Iowa G.O.P. spent $67,000 for defeat in 1936, and $49,400 for victory this year.

A comparison of expense reports in 10 representative counties indicates an increase of 50 per cent in expenditures this year.

Counties from which the figures were taken were:

Cerro Gordo, $4,675; Clinton, $2,399; Dubuque, $5,891; Floyd, $1,782; Johnson, $2,119; Linn, $5,832; Scott, $13,781; Wapello, $6,000; Webster, $859; Woodbury, $4,215.

32 Swift Co. Strikers Leave County Jail

SIoux CITY, Dec. 10 (AP)—Doors of the county jail opened late this afternoon for 32 Swift and company strikers who had been in custody since last Monday when they surrendered in a body following their indictment by a grand jury which charged them with conspiracy and riotous conduct in connection with the Swift strike.

The 32 men, members of the striking CIO union at the Swift plant, were released on reduced bail which was furnished by the Packing House Workers union.

Following their release, the group marched in a body to the union commissary.

Through an oral motion before Judge R. H. Munger by the union's attorney, Frank Margoin, the strikers obtained reductions in their bail from $2,500 to $1,000 on the riotous conduct charges and from $1,500 to $500 on the conspiracy counts. County Attorney Maurice Rawlings agreed to the reductions.

James Porter, P.W.O.C. regional director who is in charge of the strike, immediately set about obtaining bonds from sympathizers.

The men last Monday grouped in the downtown district and marched to the jail to surrender on charges which the November district court grand jury returned against them in connection with a disturbance at the plant Oct. 18, and other strike activities.

The strikers released today were given until Dec. 21 to file pleadings or demurrers in their cases.

Ten strikers had been released previously on bond before Judge Munger reduced the bail of the 32 others. The tenth, Eugene H. McGee, was released only an hour or two before the court action this morning when $2,500 bond was posted for him on a charge of riotous conduct.

3. Rumania continued her efforts to crush the nazi-like iron guard while some nazis in Berlin hinted King Carol, in their opinion, might not be able to hold his throne much longer.

Carol, whose relations with Germany have cooled since he visited Hitler less than two weeks ago, sought to emphasize his attachment to France by raising Rumania's legion in Paris to an embassy and appointing his confidante, former Premier George Tatarescu, as the new ambassador.

Polish-German relations also have suffered a strain—as from Berlin's effective opposition to the common Polish-Hungarian frontier when Poland and Hungary each took a slice of territory from Czechoslovakia.

Disappearing Game Popular With Johnson County Youths

Reynolds Reappears, But Kenneth Stable, Solon, Disappears

One day after the return of Harry Reynolds, Sharon youth who disappeared for nearly three months after a car accident, police began a search yesterday for Kenneth Stable, 19, Solon, who disappeared under similar circumstances.

Stable was reported missing early yesterday morning by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stable, Solon.

Chief of Police W. H. Bender said the youth was last seen at 11 p.m. Friday by Charles Foote, Solon, who accompanied Stable to Solon. According to Foote, they were driving on the Cedar Rapids road in the automobile of John Zimmerman, Stable's employer, when they had an accident east of Draport inn.

Kenneth, he said, apparently bruised his shoulder, but seemed unharmed otherwise. Foote stated that on parting at the scene of the wreck his companion mentioned the intention of "going to Louisiana."

Chief Bender broadcast a complete description of Stable to all surrounding states in an attempt to contact him.

When last seen Kenneth was attired in a brown sport jacket, dark green trousers with a white pin stripe and a plaid tie. He wore a grey overcoat but no hat. He is five feet, 10 inches tall and medium complexioned with light hair and blue eyes.

Kenneth graduated from the Solon high school a year ago and has been employed on the farm of John Zimmerman north of West Branch since his graduation.

Veterinarian Says House Cats Are Safe From Disease of Rabbits, Tularemia

DES MOINES, Dec. 10 (AP)—Your kitty—unless he's of the striped variety—won't get tularemia, or rabbit fever, Dr. F. P. Parker, Des Moines veterinarian and small animal specialist announced today.

"Rumors that house cats in Des Moines and other sections of the state are dying from the rabbit disease, tularemia, are entirely unfounded," Dr. Parker declared.

"There is, though, quite an extensive outbreak of an acute intestinal disease among cats at present, but it has nothing whatever to do with tularemia as it is caused by a virus rather than a germ."

"Essentially tularemia is confined to rabbits and other wild rodents such as woodchucks, raccoons, skunks, ground squirrels and possibly field mice," the doctor said.

The state health department reported previously that skunks in several parts of the state had contracted the disease from the rapidly dying bunny population. It said it also feared that house cats had been infected in some instances, but declared the carcasses had not yet been examined to determine if tularemia killed them.

The health department today reported one additional case of tularemia in a human being, bringing the total such cases to date in Iowa to 63.

A Hedrick woman (Keokuk county) became infected from handling a rabbit carcass, the department said. It reported this was the first human case in which a person had been infected evidently through touch, since the woman had no abrasions or cuts on her hands or arms.

The infection of humans has been reported in 46 Iowa counties, the department said.

Dr. Parker said that cases have been known to occur, rarely, where coyotes, dogs and cats have bitten or scratched people while their mouths or claws were "still contaminated with the causative germ after consuming rabbit carcasses." He emphasized that such cases, however, are very exceptional.

McMurtrie, Printing Authority, To Speak Here Wednesday As 300th Anniversary Is Observed

Roundtable, Dinner Listed on Program For Tercentenary

Douglas C. McMurtrie of the Ludlow Typographic company in Chicago will participate as speaker at various functions throughout the day Wednesday as the University of Iowa's observance of the 300th anniversary of printing in America reaches its biggest day.

Anniversary Speaker

Douglas C. McMurtrie, above, of the Ludlow Typographic company in Chicago, will appear here Wednesday as the principal speaker in the school of journalism's program of the observance of the tercentenary of printing in the United States.

At 4 p.m., McMurtrie will speak at a graduate college round-table in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

At 6 o'clock he will be the honored guest at the traditional Waygoose banquet of students of journalism at Iowa Union, at which he will appear again as speaker.

Arrangements will be made to present the printing authority in a special interview broadcast over WSUI. McMurtrie will also be the guest at other informal meetings during his visit to Iowa City.

A practical printer who has specialized on typography and layout, McMurtrie has contributed largely to the literature of printing, having written many books and numerous trade journal articles on subjects in his specialized field.

Among his best known books are "A History of Printing in the United States," the first volume of which has recently been published, "The Golden Book," which has gone through four editions, and "Modern Typography and Layout," which was the first book in English dealing with the new movement in typography.

Recently off the press is his latest book, "The Book: The Story of Printing and Bookmaking," a comprehensive outline of the development of printing from the most primitive forms of writing down to the fine products of present-day presses.

The talks McMurtrie will make will be of the practical "brass tacks" variety, dealing with points of everyday interest to printers and publishers.

Displays of early printing in the United States, dating back to facsimiles of books and pamphlets from 1640, when "Bay's Psalm Book" was printed on the Cambridge press, will be open to public observation beginning tomorrow in Iowa Union and Ranney Memorial library in Schaeffer hall.

Collections of fine press books from the Lakeside press in Chicago; articles from the collection of Prof. Frank L. Mott, director of the school of journalism; items from the State Historical society depicting early printing in Iowa, and items from the collection of T. Henry Foster of Ottumwa will be on display.

A collection of examples of early American printing presented to the University of Iowa in 1936 by John Springer is also included in the tercentenary displays.

Green Christmas wreaths and red tapers will decorate the tables Tuesday evening at a dinner-bridge party of the University club. Dinner will be at 6:15 p.m. in the University clubrooms of Iowa Union.

The dinner committee includes Mrs. C. F. Whitmore, Mrs. I. W. Leighton and Mrs. H. M. Hines. The committee for bridge is Mary E. Johnston, Gertrude Smith and Mrs. C. E. Cousins.

Girls Note New Shades Feature Milady's Styles

It's stocking up for Christmas! Hanging stockings on the fireplace to be filled with little surprises is an old Christmas custom, but if those mysterious, gaily wrapped curiosities tucked here and there under the Christmas tree hide wisps of feminine loveliness — then you've started her New Year out with a bang!

Followers of jive in the true Benny Goodman style will love to swing out in "madcap," an indescribable shade of brown that really shines when worn with blue or wine.

The campus cut-up puts a snap of ginger in her gold or green outfits if she dons "ginger," a spicy glow in brown. And "lucky copper," as bright as pennies from heaven, is a pick-me-up for beige and rust gowns. If she's casual in sweaters and skirts, there's plenty of flare in "lazy tan."

Since Dame Fashion placed wine color on her five star list, "gypsy wine" blends into a rich shade of iridescent beauty. And if she's answering the rush of holiday flings with top hats and tails, milady must be sophisticated from head to toe.

Blending smoothly with any evening gown are "honeymoon" and "mystery blonde." "Party punch" is very swank as a complement of blue, purple or black.

To end with a hit, give her "peppermint," not the candy cane, but the last word in evening sheers — they will sweeten any disposition and pep up the old Christmas spirit.

Prof. Longman To Talk on Life Of Christ Today

Prof. Lester D. Longman, head of the graphic and plastic arts department, will speak on "The Nativity and Early Life of Christ in Art" in the river room of Iowa Union at 3 o'clock this afternoon, as a special feature of the Christmas program of the Union.

Professor Longman has selected a series of stereopticon slides of a number of the greatest of the pictures which have provided themes for some of the greatest paintings of all time to illustrate his lecture.

Admission is free, but tickets must be secured at Iowa Union desk.

Dawsons Fete Faculty With Party Monday

Dean and Mrs. F. M. Dawson will entertain the faculty and staff of the engineering college at a dinner and Christmas party at the Triangle club rooms in Iowa Union tomorrow evening.

Ninety-three guests will attend the dinner, which is at 6:30. Christmas carols will have a place on the program, with the main feature a guessing contest—the identity of pictures which will be provided by guests. They will be photographs taken of members of the party in years gone by, and will range from baby pictures to those taken only a few years ago.

This is the third successive year that Dean and Mrs. Dawson have given a Christmas party for the engineering faculty and staff.

'The Messiah' To Be Given At Iowa Union

Prof. P. G. Clapp To Conduct Handel's Christmas Chorus

The music department of the University of Iowa will present "The Messiah" by Georg Friederich Handel at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Iowa Union, with Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the department, conducting the chorus and symphony orchestra in the performance.

Soloists in the presentation of Handel's greatest work and the one most frequently used at Christmas time are Clara Harper, soprano; Hazel Chapman, contralto; Prof. Herald Stark, tenor; Donald Mallett, baritone; Edward Nelson, bass, and Donald Olson, trumpet obligato.

A chorus of more than 180 voices will take part in the production, and a symphony orchestra of almost 90 will assist.

Lists Iowa City As Art Center

Iowa City is listed as one of the important places in the development of American art by Sheldon Cheney in an article "Art in the United States, 1938," contributed to the book "America Now," a recent Literary Guild selection.

Writing on America's artistic output, Cheney says, "a report upon the state of painting and sculpture in the union demands exceptional study — and exceptional travel. New York City remains the creative and the show center; and certainly the readiest estimate is formed on the basis of works that are hung upon the metropolitan gallery walls. But when one has found, for instance, the New York showings of the season 1937-38 extraordinarily rich and full, one should confirm or enlarge the impression by going to Chicago and Philadelphia, Detroit and Iowa City, Santa Fe and Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle. In each city one will find the spirit at work, and a surprising actual output of inventive painting."

Sheldon Cheney is widely known as the author of "Expressionism in Art," "Primer of Modern Art," and "Art and the Machine." A few years ago he visited the University of Iowa and remarked at the time that it had one of the best schools in the country for the study of art.

A 1935 hospital census indicated that nearly six out of every 10 persons admitted to hospitals in the United States suffered from some form of mental or nervous disorder.

Grant Wood Presents Painting

Associated Artists to Make American Works Available at Low Cost

Grant Wood's carvings, "Woman With Plants," which depicts the artist's mother, and which is one of the most famous of his works, will be presented in the first series of gelatone facsimiles of the Associated American artists, it was announced yesterday.

So that the public can become better acquainted with worthwhile offerings of American artists, the association is sponsoring a movement to make available at low cost etchings and lithographs by well-known artists.

A new process makes it possible to reproduce such mediums as pastel, watercolor, gouache and gesso. These artistic works are faithfully simulated on a heavy, hand-made paper of pebbled surface. A special mellowing process strengthens the illusion of originality.

Wood's work has been declared by Thomas Craven to be better than the painting of Whistler's

"Mother." "In vitality it reduces the Whistler tribute to a fragile silhouette," Craven asserted.

The picture was among the 12 contemporary works of art selected by a jury of artists, critics and museum directors, and will be reproduced through the new "authentic color process" in an initial limited edition of 1,000. The reproduced works will be sold at nominal prices, each bearing the approval signature of the artist.

The new process has been so finely developed that Mr. Wood and Thomas Benton, whose "Cotton Pickers—Georgia" is also included in the collection, are said to have difficulty in distinguishing between their own originals and the gelatone facsimiles.

The first series will include, besides Wood's and Benton's works, a pastel by Raphael Soyer, "Modern Tempo"; Maurice Sterne's "Inez" and a work by a prodigious young Californian,

Millard Sheets "Tollers at Sunset."

New England's artists, Luigi Lucioni, has submitted his watercolor, "Sunlit Patterns" and Leon Kroll's gesso, "The Willows." The only woman to be represented in the list is Lucile Blanch, creator of "Spring Flowers," a pastel still life.

"Study — Morning Interlude," also a pastel, comes from Robert Brackman, and John Costigan's water color study of his own children, "Fishermen Three" has a place in the series.

"The Beach-Combers," a watercolor by John Whorf, and "Minnesota Farm," Adolf Dehn's interpretation in water color of his family's own farm in Waterville, Minn., complete the list.

Mr. Wood has been a member of the graphic and plastic arts faculty at the University of Iowa for several years. His works are known for their variety of artistic interests.

'Santa Comes to Simpson's Bar'

WSUI to Present Bret Harte Play as Part Of Christmas Program

Christmas is in the air, and radio station WSUI is doing its share by getting that Christmas spirit over the airwaves with a number of special programs during the next two weeks.

The speech department will present a radio dramatization of "Santa Claus Comes to Simpson's Bar" by Bret Harte tomorrow night at 9:30. The adaptation of the story was written by Hayes Newby, fellow in speech, and he will also direct the production.

The cast includes Malcolm Robertson, A3 of Ft. Dodge; Milo Green, A3 of Corning; Marold Glaspey, A2 of Hills; Hobart Sorenson, A4 of Santa Barbara, Cal.; Frank South, A3 of West Des Moines; James Nelson, E3 of Anitah; Paul Davee, G of Plains, Mont., and Ed Kyvig, fellow in speech.

The school of nursing will present the Westlawn Christmas program at 8 p.m. Tuesday. Alice Beck is in charge.

Wednesday night will see two Christmas programs. "The Messiah" will be broadcast at 8 p.m. by the university orchestra and chorus. Prof. Philip G. Clapp, director of the orchestra, and Prof. Herald Stark, director of the chorus, are in charge of this Christmas Vesper program.

After the completion of "The Messiah" and the evening news, the speech department will broadcast "Christ of the Andes" by Bernhard C. Schoenfeld. H. Clay Harshbarger, assistant professor of speech, will direct it.

This play was given over the Columbia Broadcasting system last winter in the "Brave New World" series, with Earle McGill directing. At Ohio State last spring it won the first award in the division audition recordings as the outstanding script ever done on American networks.

The Williamsburg high school Capella choir will give songs of Christmas time at 7:15 Monday, Dec. 19. This program is in the series of Travel's Radio Service.

The same evening at 8 p.m., the Rev. Otis Moore of Tipton will direct The Friendly Five rural chorus of Tipton in a 45-minute program of Christmas music.

Christmas carols will furnish the program at 8 p.m. on Tuesday.

Third Chamber Music Recital To Be Given

The music department of the University of Iowa will present the third in the series of chamber music recitals today at 4:15 in North Music hall.

The musicians participating are Ruth Williams, A3 of Des Moines, oboe; Christian Schrock, A1 of Iowa City, bassoon; Charles Eble, A3 of Shelby, piano; Robert Titus, G of Marion, clarinet; Robert Hardwig, A3 of Waverly, French horn; Prof. Hans Muenzer of the music department, violin, and Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department, piano.

The first number on the program, "Trio" for oboe, bassoon, and piano, was written by Francis Poulenc, a contemporary French musician. Poulenc was born in Paris in 1899 and is still residing there.

Richard Strauss is another contemporary composer whose work is used on the program. "Sonata in E Flat Major, Opus 18," which is the only violin and piano sonata written by him, will be played by Professor Muenzer and Professor Clapp.

"Concertante Quartet," by Mozart, for oboe, clarinet, French horn, and bassoon is the final number on the program. This is one of Mozart's best compositions for wood-wind instruments. For this number there will be a small orchestral accompaniment.

Two Alumni Visit Campus This Week

Milo A. Chechok of the class of 1918 was a visitor in the college of pharmacy Thursday. Mr. Chechok now operates the Security Laboratories in Cedar Rapids.

Another visitor was J. Burton Wahl of the class of 1927 who is attending a short course on pneumonia treatment at the University hospital. Mr. Wahl operates a prescription laboratory in Burlington.

Christmas Dinner to Be Given By Home Economics Club

BUFFALO BILL? Student Directory Lists Famous Name

Says the student directory: There's a Bill Cody listed in the directory from Denver, Col. A relative of the famous Bill?

There are 52 Smiths getting an education here, and not a Smythe among them. The Browns lead the Greens, 22-10, and there are 10 Whites to get mixed up.

Forty-seven Iowa students call themselves Miller. Twenty Joneses are here, three Virginia and four Robert Joneses.

Affair Scheduled For Tuesday at 6; Faculty Will Attend

The home economics Christmas dinner, an annual affair, will be held Tuesday evening at 6 p.m. in Macbride hall. The dinner will be informal with long dresses worn by the women.

The dinner has been a tradition of the club since the establishment of the department in the university. The activity has always been sponsored and financed by the members of the home economics club.

Some of the various projects of the club are its annual educational program, participation in state organizations and social service work; but the Christmas dinner represents one festive social activity in which the university faculty and administrators are special guests of the department.

Interest in the occasion is shown in the preparation and participation spent to make the Christmas spirit prevail, and to make each dinner different from the preceding ones.

Only a small percentage of the members of the club are hostesses and guests at the dinner because most of the girls are helping with the preparation and the serving of the dinner.

Guests will gather in room 102 Macbride hall. Among them will be President and Mrs. Eugene A. Gilmore, Dean and Mrs. George F. Kay, Frances Camp, Prof. Kate Daum, Prof. Amy Daniels, Prof. and Mrs. H. K. Newburn, Dr. Lois Boulware, Prof. and Mrs. J. W. Jones, Dean Adelaide L. Budge, Prof. and Mrs. W. W. Tuttle.

Hazel Swim, Prof. and Mrs. C. J. Lapp, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Kent, Prof. and Mrs. J. J. Runner, Ruth Wilkinson, Prof. and Mrs. C. P. Berg, Prof. Ruth Updegraff, Prof. and Mrs. F. C. Ensign, Prof. and Mrs. J. W. Ashton, Prof. Clara Drey.

Prof. and Mrs. D. B. Stuit, Prof. and Mrs. Ethan F. Allen, Prof. Grace Cochran, Sarita Robinson, Miriam Taylor, Prof. and Mrs. C. A. Phillips, Prof. Charles L. Sanders, Dr. and Mrs. Chester I. Miller, Prof. Elizabeth Halsey, Prof. and Mrs. Norman C. Meier, Prof. and Mrs. E. T. Peterson, Jane Nifenecker and John Martill.

McMurtrie to Speak At Union Board Book Chat Wednesday

Douglas McMurtrie, an authority on printing who will visit here in connection with the university school of journalism's observance of the tercentenary anniversary of printing, will be guest speaker at the second in a series of Union board book chats Wednesday in the Union library at 3 p.m. As part of the observance, an exhibit of rare old printing will be displayed.

The committee in charge will serve tea to guests before the discussion. Invitations have been issued to a limited number of guests.

The committee in charge of the affair includes Ruth House, A4 of Iowa City; Eulalia Klingbeil, A3 of Postville; Josephine Sidwell, A3 of Iowa City; Dorothy Ward, A2 of Iowa City; Charline Saggau, A3 of Denison; Fred Schwin, D3 of Red Lodge, Mont.; Bob O'Meara, A2 of Cedar Rapids; John Hutch, A3 of Cedar Rapids, and Dick Feddersen, A2 of Iowa City.

Mrs. Runner Will Speak At Y.W.C.A. Meet

Mrs. J. J. Runner of Iowa City will speak on "What Is Personality?" at the second Y. W. C. A. meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Iowa Union cafeteria.

Preceding Mrs. Runner's talk, 12 girls will lead discussion groups on phases of personality. Mrs. Runner will summarize conclusions reached in the discussion groups.

Leaders of the 12 groups are Harriet Ludens, A4 of Morrison, Ill.; Marjorie Moberg, P4 of Geneseo, Ill.; Barbara Mueller, A4 of Davenport; Era Haupt, A4 of Marshalltown; Marian Whinnery, A4 of Iowa City; Mildred Maplethorpe, A4 of Toledo; Annabel Anderson, A4 of Cedar Rapids; Betty Lu Pryor, A3 of Burlington; Ruth Subotnik, A3 of Cedar Rapids; Jane Hart, A4 of Mason City; Jane Anderson, A4 of Cedar Rapids, and Genevieve McCulloch, A2 of Cedar Rapids.

The campus topics group will meet tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the conference room in Iowa Union. The group will continue the discussion on student government.

1938 Seen as Year for New Writers

Prof. Schramm Declares Established American Authors Did Not Publish

Prof. Wilbur L. Schramm, who besides editing and reading manuscripts for "American Prefaces," occasionally finds time to read a book a day, thinks 1938 will go down in literary history more for what did not happen than what did.

Also it will no doubt be known as the year of pictures—picture books and picture magazines.

Remarkably enough, Professor Schramm points out, none of the best-established American authors have written a book during this year. There has been none by Sinclair Lewis, none by Robert Frost or Carl Sandburg, our poets, none by Sherwood Anderson or Willa Cather, the novelists.

"And probably, unless something unexpected happens, these writers will not produce any more great literature."

Instead, the year has seen a list of new writers coming to the front. James Farrell's new novel is probably his best; John Steinbeck has issued a book of short stories; Ernest Hemingway's complete short stories have been published in one volume.

With a nod to Farrell, Professor Schramm, one of the youngest professors in the university, finds "A Star Is Lost," hard, tough, bitter—but "extremely readable."

"When James Farrell creates a character with some dignity, he probably will be one of our think of the people mentioned as some kind of Lilliputians who have no relation to real life."

The year's longest novel is "And Tell of Time," a historical novel planned to succeed "Gone with the Wind," which didn't.

Otherwise, the year has seen a score of "quite good" novels, many worth-while "picture books." Among them Professor Schramm mentions Archibald MacLeish's "Land of the Free" and Pare Lorenz's "The River."

The idea of a book appealing to the eye as well as the intellect has resulted in better printing and more attractively bound books, Professor Schramm believes.

But he emphasizes again and again that 1938 has been an Iowa year.

"Always," he said, "look to our own state. Realize that at no other university in the nation are four things being published as novels in one year.

"Watch for Herb Krause's 'Wind Without Rain' when it comes out early next year; keep his name in mind; also remember the name of George Abbe, whose 'Voices in the Square' was published this season.

"One of the most encouraging aspects of my trip east this summer was to find that all over the United States people who know contemporary literature are interested in and watching Iowa."

Washington World

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The controversy between Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes and Representative Martin Dies, chairman of the congressional committee on investigation of un-American activities, is undignified but rather entertaining, Ickes says, for example, that Dies is "the world's foremost zany," Dies that Ickes "reeks with poison hate." These are not the only compliments the two have exchanged between them, either, but they're a couple of the most recent ones. Perhaps they both exaggerate. Ickes can't possibly be familiar with all the world's zany, so how can he be sure that Dies is the foremost one. Dies seems to me to be drawing it a bit strongly when he classes Ickes, Harry L. Hopkins and Labor Secretary Frances Perkins as communists. They may be a trifle to the left, but hardly as far as that.

A Much-Used Word

However, I was quite interested in the Dies committee's linking of the organization known as "James True Associates" with our un-American set-ups.

I was especially interested because I know James True quite well.

The Dies folk don't imply that True and his "Associates" are communistic. To the contrary, the Dies-ites' version is that the True-ites are fascists, or more particularly nazis, being closely in sympathy (as per Dies testimony) with the so-called German-American bund.

That there is or isn't any link between True Associates and the bund I'm uncertain. Yet it's a fact that the present German government appears to be anti-

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The controversy between Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes and Representative Martin Dies, chairman of the congressional committee on investigation of un-American activities, is undignified but rather entertaining, Ickes says, for example, that Dies is "the world's foremost zany," Dies that Ickes "reeks with poison hate." These are not the only compliments the two have exchanged between them, either, but they're a couple of the most recent ones. Perhaps they both exaggerate. Ickes can't possibly be familiar with all the world's zany, so how can he be sure that Dies is the foremost one. Dies seems to me to be drawing it a bit strongly when he classes Ickes, Harry L. Hopkins and Labor Secretary Frances Perkins as communists. They may be a trifle to the left, but hardly as far as that.

A Much-Used Word

However, I was quite interested in the Dies committee's linking of the organization known as "James True Associates" with our un-American set-ups.

I was especially interested because I know James True quite well.

The Dies folk don't imply that True and his "Associates" are communistic. To the contrary, the Dies-ites' version is that the True-ites are fascists, or more particularly nazis, being closely in sympathy (as per Dies testimony) with the so-called German-American bund.

That there is or isn't any link between True Associates and the bund I'm uncertain. Yet it's a fact that the present German government appears to be anti-

Semitic, from which it may be conjectured that our local bunds are anti-Semitic also. And I'll guarantee, from my acquaintance with him, that James True is an anti-Semite if ever there was one.

James True Associates have been engaged, for a long time, in the broadcasting of a commercial letter from Washington—a letter purporting to keep business men informed as to national trends in their various lines. It was a good letter, I guess; I often have talked with True and he appeared to me to be a capable economist — when unbiased by other than purely business considerations.

In due course the NRA was created, with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson at its head.

True maintained that he was, essentially, a newspaperman; therefore ought to be admitted to Johnson's press conferences. Johnson asserted that he wasn't a newspaperman and barred him. I agreed with True and helped him all I could. Naturally he was appreciative. We grew friendly.

Unfortunately he proved to have that anti-Jew complex.

He's a likeable chap — if you don't happen to be a Jew.

That anti-Jew bug is a strange thing. I knew another anti-Jew that I liked very much — the late Congressman Louis T. McFadden of Pennsylvania, one-time chairman of the house committee on banking and currency. In the main he was a dandy liberal, but it never was possible to convince him that the house of J. P. Morgan, traditionally Episcopalian, wasn't Jewish. He insisted that the name, originally, was Morgenthau. Just nut-house, that's all.

Linen Gifts Suggested

Yule Gift Problems May Be Solved By 'Aristocratic Fabric'

Are you one who scorns the obvious gift—who doggedly seeks the one thing that will perfectly suit the recipient and be a testimony to your own good taste? And yet are you busy, not unlimited in purse, and faced with several knotty Christmas problems? Try giving linens!

Linens combine luxury with necessity and are used and well-used by everyone. Today they are made in such variety, and are styled with such skill and imagination that your gift may be large or small—dignified or frivolous—and as expensive or modest as you please.

The department stores and specialty shops now have spread forth for your approval linens of every description. Never has color been so rampant, designs so amusing. Never has there been such opportunity to "suit the gift to the person!"

For the woman who "has everything" there are exquisitely hand-embroidered and appliqued luncheon sets. For the one "important name on your list" there are the damask dinner cloths, luxurious and traditionally classical. For those gifts which are hard-earned and all to find—those you wish to have quality, beauty, utility and originality—all "a price"—there are a host of smaller linen items. See the gay new dish towels with recipes screen-printed in bright colors, before you select something for the newly-weds. When hunting the perfect gift for the career girl with her own apartment, look over the impudent little cocktail napkins. She'll love the sophistication! Is your college-age son always complaining that hand towels are not large enough? He'll be extremely flattered with some of the new all-linen man-size ones!

As you wrap up your linen gifts, you will not only delight in their color and attractiveness, but will enjoy the knowledge that, regardless of price or size, you are bestowing one of the aristocrats of fabrics which is above reproach in good taste and good quality.

Would Tie Stamper On Each Hen

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—At least the inventor takes this idea seriously. He asked the health department to approve his "henometer," a device to be strapped behind each laying hen which would automatically stamp on each egg the date it was laid.

This would prevent storage eggs being sold as fresh, he argued.

ROMANCE INC.

CHAPTER 32

THE SUNDAY edition of The Houston Chronicle carried a full-page presentation of Sara Sue Davis, Inc., Counsel in Romance. "Look! Look at that, mamma!" Nathan Epstein barked at his wife over the breakfast table. "This woman she gets 160 column inches free publicity. She never does advertise. Me, I advertise my clothing store six thousand dollar a year. Do I get 160 inches free? Do I get even six inches free? Look at this!"

Mrs. Epstein, however, was a sensible woman. And a calm one, with a touch of humor. "Look at the picture, too, Nathan. Look at her. Then look at you. Maybe better you develop slim svelte figure, and pose yourself in bathing suit, too, hah?" She chuckled at her husband.

The Chronicle art department had developed acute enthusiasm when the photographer put a 14-inch print of Sara Sue before them. They had, therefore, suggested a page built around that bathing suit pose, which showed not only a model figure, but a million-dollar smile. The editor in turn had found the enthusiasm contagious, and so the layout showed Sara Sue's lovely form extending the full length of the page. Inset photos showed her cottage, her sign, and three more views of Sara Sue herself. The headline read:

CAMPUS LOVE GUIDED BY LOVELY EXPERT

Mr. Summers, the feature writer, had outdone himself. He had written an excellent story, and had shown a proofsheet of it to the paper's editorial writer. That serious-minded gentleman had forthwith written a Sunday editorial on the "Importance of Love at College Age," pointing out that a young Houston girl had set a precedent which the wise but stogy college professors everywhere might well follow.

The extra-curricular course which Mrs. Davis offers a select few at Rice Institute, the editor wrote, "is worth more in guiding youth toward life happiness than all the mathematics, all the biology, and all the philosophy combined. It is to be hoped that universities everywhere will in the near future realize that romance is not something to be scoffed at, but is a genuine influence in molding the careers of..." He had a great deal to say, in two columns by 11 inches of space, his lead editorial for the day.

Before noon a swarm of Houstonians had started driving out South Main boulevard to see the romance cottage. Just to see it. And a stream of pests began knocking at Sara Sue's door wanting autographs. A lot of intrusive but well-meaning folk just wanted to meet her, talk with her, see if she really was as pretty as she appeared in the newspaper.

All of these were received by a beaming Negress, Cleopatra Jones, and her equally happy husband, Calculus.

"No'm, no suh, Miss Sara Sue's at church. She be sorry she miss you."

"She at church, ma'am. Yes'm, she even prettier'n that picture make her out. She sign yo' book, I betcha."

"No'm, she ain't here, ma'm. Sue at church with Mr. Bob Towne, the end man."

It was just as well that Bob had taken Sara Sue to church. He had slipped in ahead of T. J. Sanders on that detail, and had by luck enabled Sara Sue to escape the press of early callers. They went to the Baptist church, and Thornton Holgate saw them there.

"Great to see you up and about, Dr. Holgate," Bob assured him. "But Sara Sue's stealing your thunder today?"

"I beg pardon?"

"Oh, yes, yes, to be sure. Such untoward publicity is most lamentable, isn't it?"

"I don't know. What harm can it do? Might as well advertise her business."

Sara Sue expressed herself there. "I think you are quite right, Thornton. The paper wrote me up out of all proportion to my importance. I'm afraid Bob..."

"No, no, madam—Ah, Sara Sue. Not that, I meant—well, the bathing pose and all, would seem—" Dr. Holgate was floundering.

"I get it, Doctor," said Bob. "Sara Sue's too sweet to be ballyhooed in that particular way."

"Quite! Yes, indeed!"

"You boys hush," Sara Sue ordered. But she blushed pink as a peach, something she didn't often do any more. "Come on in the church, the organ's starting."

All told, the day was busy for Sara Sue. And distracting.

She was pleased with the generous attention given her by the paper, but embarrassed by it, too. She was no stage or movie star; she wasn't used to publicity's spotlight.

Therefore, she welcomed the rain that put a halt to most of her callers toward sundown—she was glad that Thornton Holgate came quietly over, under his green umbrella, to visit for a half hour at 9:30 p.m. Mother Davis retired, leaving them alone.

"It is time for coffee and cakes," the girl declared, serving them. "How is your love affair progressing? Seen Peaches any more?"

"I—ah—no."

"No? Why? Don't let your modesty interfere now, Thorny! You made a grand impression at Galveston. You are the campus hero. Follow it up."

"Um, the fact is—"

The fact was that Dr. Holgate had thought of the matter a great deal. He had done almost nothing else but think about it, since he regained consciousness in John Sealy hospital. In that interim he had managed to minimize Peaches' shortcomings, and to idealize her again. But he hadn't dared seek too much contact with her in person, lest this ideal vanish.

"The fact is, I am unworthy of her. That is—well, she likes to drink. And to smoke. And even gamble a bit, I fear. And I—I have been reared with conflicting moral standards. If I could convince her—"

Sara Sue understood. Or thought she did.

"Yes, Thorny," she nodded, speaking gently, sympathetically. "I realized that you two hadn't a great deal in common. But isn't there some law somewhere, in science, saying that opposites attract each other? I think there is. You were attracted to her. Maybe she is now attracted to you. I think you should assume so, since you want her so much." This last was spoken wistfully.

"Perhaps," he agreed, without much enthusiasm.

"Thorny, you must be prepared to do some changing, however. Even though you are attracted to each other, you must remember that only one standard can exist between you. Peaches undoubtedly is a little bit wild. But you have been a little bit tame, too. Remember I told you that you used to act like a sissy?"

He nodded, gazing at the blaze in her fireplace. Nightmare, the dog, was sleeping nearby.

"Well, then, don't you think you should give as well as take? Don't ever be mean, of course. But don't be too strict. Be—broad. Broad-minded. Try to be gay and happy with her. And not too scholarly. She would appreciate that."

It seemed like sound doctrine. The morning paper had emphasized that Mrs. Davis operated no gigolo service, no "date bureau" save in a remote, respectable sense, but that she sought to give individual guidance to young men and women about their heart affairs. Thornton was impressed again with her general acumen.

Verily, Mrs. Davis was a remarkable woman, as the paper had said.

"You have developed your personality wonderfully since you first came here," she went on. "You look smart, fashionable, distinguished. And still young. You don't stare owl-eyed at people any more. You learn fast, Thorny. You were already a brilliant conversationalist, when you were at ease. All you need now is to develop a little more gaiety. Laugh and sing a lot. Make small talk. Be sociable. See!"

"Yes. Thank you. Thank you, truly, Sara Sue!"

He left her cottage much happier for the call. Always a visit with her seemed to stimulate him, he realized. He respected her not for her personal charm, but for her keen mentality as well. He would take her counsel, as originally agreed.

If Peaches Pomeroy was of a gayer, faster social world, then he would try to adapt himself to that. He wasn't sure exactly how—he would give it some detailed thought—but he would do it. He would impress Peaches.

He had been an old stick-in-the-mud, as Sara Sue told him, but as soon as opportunity with Peaches presented again, he would consciously go a little bit wild. A little bit wild.

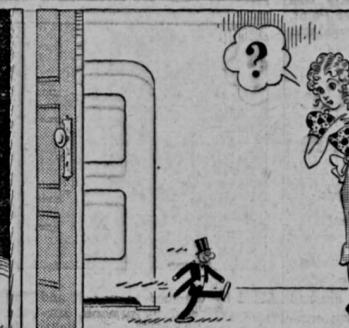

Or maybe a considerable bit!

Mothers Want Shorter Xmas Recess

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP)—A mother of eight children decided that nine days was too long for her youngsters to be around the house just before Christmas so she asked the board of education to shorten Christmas vacation.

Her plea, supported by a delegation of other mothers, moved the board to keep schools operating until Dec. 21 and take three days off the Easter vacation.

Dartmouth college is now laying plans for an annual Summer Drama Festival which will be "a yearly exhibition of the best in the theater."

For Every Resident There's A Head of Stock

CHICAGO (AP)—A census of livestock on American farms and ranches shows there are 128,191,000 animals, or a hog, cow or sheep for every citizen in the United States.

R. C. Pollock of the national live stock and meat board said the total included 30,855,000 beef cattle, 44,418,000 hogs and 52,918,000 sheep and lambs.

The 25th anniversary of the founding of Wesley foundation work for Methodist students in state educational institutions was celebrated in October. The movement was started at the University of Illinois.

'The Messiah' Will Be Sung At 3 Colleges

WOI Will Broadcast Iowa State Concert At 3 o'Clock Today

Handel's religious masterpiece, "The Messiah," will be presented today by the oratorio societies of three midwest educational institutions — the colleges of Augustana, Cornell and Iowa State.

The annual presentation of "The Messiah" will be presented in State gymnasium by the Iowa State festival choir in Ames at 3:30 this afternoon, accompanied by the Iowa State symphony orchestra.

WOI will broadcast the performance, directed by Prof. Tolbert MacRae, head of the music department, assisted by Prof. A. R. Edgar, orchestra and band conductor. New voices will be heard in the solos this year when Mabel Moss Madden, soprano, of Des Moines, and Thelma Hagen of Story City appear for the first time on the Ames campus.

The choir which will present Handel's work is the largest organization to sing "The Messiah" that has appeared there, and will number more than 300 voices — members of the boys and girls glee clubs and the mixed chorus.

Thelma von Eisenhauer, soprano, of Detroit and William Miller of Chicago, tenor, will sing solo parts in Cornell's 34th presentation of this musical score. Ruth Pinkerton and Francis German will complete the quartet of 150 voices, under the direction of Jaques Jolas.

The Cornell symphony orchestra under the direction of Prof. Lloyd Oakland collaborates with the Oratorio society in this musical event.

Augustana college is presenting the 58th rendition of Handel's "Messiah." The chorus is under the direction of Henry Veld, head of the voice department of Augustana college. Three hundred and fifty musicians comprise the chorus.

The Handel Oratorio society was conceived and organized by Dr. Olof Olsson in 1880. The first concert was given at Easter in 1881. After several years, however, the society felt that the Christmas season was a more appropriate time for the concert, and has been given at that time ever since.

Taxpayers Pay $31,000 Taxes To Treasurer

Johnson county property owners paid in a total of $31,559.12 in November on current taxes, W. E. Smith, county treasurer, stated in his monthly report to the county auditor.

Other receipts included $4,891.02 from delinquent taxes, $2,564 from special assessments and $9,884.15 from miscellaneous collections.

Included in disbursements were $42,274.37 for county warrants and $76,409.72 for miscellaneous payments, the report concluded.

Moose Lodge To Initiate More Than 60 Today

More than 60 candidates will be initiated into Iowa City Moose lodge, No. 1096, L. O. O. M., at 2:30 this afternoon. This is the last class to be initiated in the loyalty membership campaign of 1938.

The ritualistic ceremonies will be in charge of six members of the local degree staff, Bert Kriz, T. J. Parker, Max Vogel, Clarence Kettles, Howard Stimmel, Robert Tomlin and E. W. Ruby.

To Fete Members Of Nu Sigma Phi At Supper Tonight

Mrs. W. F. Bolter, Mrs. E. M. MacEwen and Mrs. Clarence Van Epps will entertain members of Nu Sigma Phi medical sorority at a buffet supper this evening at 6 o'clock. The informal affair will take place in the Boiler room, 1016 E. College street.

Use Tissue Paper In Window Decorating

Attractive Christmas window decorations may be fashioned from tissue paper in varied colors. Figures of shepherds, angels or wise men may be easily cut out by any one with a slight knack for artistic work. Various colored tissues may be combined and then fastened in your window. At night with the light shining through, the windows have a stained glass appearance when viewed from without.

Sends Serum to China
CANNBERRA, Australia (AP) — Australia has donated 500,000 doses of serum for fighting cholera in China, as part of a world gift of 6,000,000 doses.

Local Sorority Entertains For Needy Children

Twelve needy children were the guests of Kappa Beta, Christian church sorority, at a party yesterday afternoon. The children were entertained at games, and refreshments were served. Each of the children was given two gifts, one a toy and the other an article of clothing.

The girls living at the Kappa Beta house, 226 S. Lucas street, entertained at a Christmas party from 9 to 12 p.m. yesterday in the recreation room of the Rohrbacher sanitarium. The committee in charge of the party was Mary Hoglan, A3 of Center Point, Alice Miller, A1 of Macedonia, and Eleanor Hagge, A2 of Clinton.

Start Work On Road Program

Surfacing Underway On County's Largest Improvement Plan

Surfacing the roads of Big Grove township with crushed rock, the Baker and Patton company of Independence started the initial work on Johnson county's $84,588 secondary road improvement program yesterday, according to R. H. Justen, county engineer.

Rock for the project in Big Grove which involves 1.15 miles of roads, is quarried and crushed at Solon. The Independence company has five other townships to surface.

The entire county program involves the surfacing of 54.10 miles of roads and has been divided into 26 separate projects.

Other concerns who will do parts of the road work are the L. J. Peters company of Des Moines and the Concrete Material company of Cedar Rapids who were the low bidders on 15 and five of the projects respectively.

The companies are cooperating on one of the largest single lettings for a road program ever granted by the county board of supervisors, Justen declared.

W.R.C. Plans Election, Lunch Tuesday Noon

The Women's Relief corps will elect officers at a meeting Tuesday in the Legion room of the Community building. The group will meet for a potluck luncheon at noon.

The executive committee headed by Mrs. Arnold Derksen is in charge of the social hour, including the Christmas program and gift exchange.

Surveying Johnson County Again

Aided by the modern transit and other perfected instruments, surveyors again penetrate the fields of Johnson county for the first time since 1842 to relocate the section and quarter section corners laid out by their predecessors. The Works Progress administration survey party of 36 men, which is present working in the north-central part of the county, will have the project about 50 per cent complete by March, 1939, according to O. D. Cash, field engineer of the Iowa Geodetic Survey, who is directing the project. He further declared that about three more years will be needed to complete the undertaking. The work of the resurvey here is carried on under the sponsorship of the Iowa Geodetic Survey and the Johnson county engineer's office, with the help of the federal government through the WPA. Cash is shown above behind the concrete markers at the left, the taller of which is a control monument, several of which form the traverse system that the corner monuments, also shown in the picture, are tied to. Chaining tripods are pictured on either side of the markers. Sighting through the transit is A. E. Cooper, one of the supervising draftsmen of the local project. Mounted on the tripod directly behind him is a surveyor's level.

Mrs. Lee Farnsworth, 19 E. Park road, will entertain members of PaiYu-Lan, young women's home missionary society of the Methodist church, in her home Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Bruce Bundy and Lora Mahr.

Says License Sales Behind Previous Mark

"The sale of auto license plates has been comparatively slow," remarked B. V. Bridenstine, head of the motor vehicle department in the county treasurer's office, when plate number 830 was purchased before the office closed yesterday noon.

This number lags nearly thirty five behind the number sold during the same period of time last year. Truck licenses, 94 of which have been sold to date, are behind the 119 record made a year ago yesterday.

Johnson county vehicle owners will have until Feb. 1, 1939, to make application for 1939 passenger, truck, motorcycle and trailer licenses without payment of penalty.

Radio Favors Collegians

Behind the Scenes at a Radio Broadcast

Radio has brought something new to entertainment — but it has done so only by degrees. Entertainment has gone educational in a big way because of the demand of radio for college-trained talent and technicians. Thanks to a general educational background and specific experience in one of many extra-curricular activities, the modern college graduate stands a better chance than the average person to crash into radio.

Many topflight programs are staffed almost entirely by college graduates. One of the most typical of these is Hal Kemp's "Time to Shine" program over C. B. S. Pictured here are the leading planners and performers on that program, all of whom started in radio via campus extra-curricular activities.

Radio Engineer John McCartney took a general engineering course at the University of Minnesota before joining Columbia's engineering staff in the east.

Although campus critics may disagree, college humor magazines have spawned many clever writers. Jack Rose gained his first experience on the Ohio State Jack-O-Lantern.

Production Manager Edmund Cashman (Rhode Island State) and John Peterson (Butler), road-manager, find their business administration training invaluable in settling business details.

Announcer David Ross studied at Rutgers and Columbia, has found his major in English a great help in attaining the perfect enunciation required of him.

Top vocal entertainment is furnished by Judy Starr, who got her start at West Virginia. Saxie Dowell (left) was with Kemp (center) in his original band at North Carolina.

Check the smokers on your Christmas list—delight them with these gaily-wrapped, inexpensive gifts—Camels and Prince Albert

CAMELS—what could be a nicer gift for those who smoke cigarettes than Camels, by far the most popular cigarette in America? Remember...Camels are made of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic. There's a world of Christmas cheer in receiving a fine gift of mild, rich-tasting Camel cigarettes—and a lot of satisfaction in giving them too!

PRINCE ALBERT—If you want to please a man who smokes a pipe, give him the tobacco that is extra mild and extra tasty—Prince Albert! Watch his happy smile as he lights up this ripe, rich tobacco that smokes so cool and mellow because it's specially cut and "no-bite" treated. If you want to make this a real Christmas for the pipe-smokers you know—give Prince Albert, the National Joy Smoke.

(above) A pound package of rich-tasting, "no-bite" smoking in this eye-filling gift package of Prince Albert, the world's most popular smoking tobacco. Be sure to see the big, generous one-pound tin on display at your nearest dealer's.

(right) Also featured in a timely holiday dress—four boxes of Camels in "flat fifties." Looks like (and it) a lot of "gift" for what you pay!

New Aid for Education:

Motion Pictures Tell the Story Better

Rapidly expanding is the use of motion pictures in the modern college classroom, for educators are finding that sight-and-sound stories more effectively impress the minds of students. Outstanding in this movement is the work being done in Western Reserve University's cinema laboratory, where films are made to illustrate lectures and to record vividly important mileposts in the university's history. Included among the laboratory's activities are: (1) filming of student events for the campus newsreel; (2) making of instructional films, such as this photo of a new technic in dentistry; and (3) editing of films to tell complete and coherent stories. Dr. James E. Bliss, director of the laboratory, is shown in upper left of picture three.

Two Years College Training Required For Bar Admission

Iowa Supreme Court Adopts Strong Rules

Changes Requested By Bar Association, Board of Examiners

DES MOINES, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Iowa supreme court today adopted new rules requiring at least two years of college training for candidates seeking admission to the Iowa bar and otherwise tightened regulations for admission to the practice of law in the state.

The rules were requested by the Iowa State Bar association, the state board of law examiners and by Atty. Gen. John M. Mitchell.

It was reported that the supreme court had adopted the changes exactly as proposed about a week ago and Attorney General Mitchell said he was "very much pleased" by the court's action.

Adopts Other Changes
In addition to requiring that a candidate for the bar show that he has studied two years in a reputable college or university before commencing the study of law — instead of the present rule requiring only a high school education — the supreme court adopted the following other rules changes:

1. Strict restriction of the allowance of credit given for study pursued in private law offices, ruling out all credit for law study carried on by correspondence or privately outside a law office.

2. Provision for waiting periods following the written bar examinations to enable the board of law examiners to devote adequate time to the review of examination papers. This waiting period will be from six to eight weeks.

Raises Fees
4. General raising of application fees for candidates seeking admission to the bar, including attorneys from other states seeking admission to the Iowa bar, to finance more comprehensive investigation of their qualifications. The increase for Iowans will be from $5 to $20 and from $10 to $40 for lawyers from other states. The latter will have to have five years practice within the last seven instead of only one year as now required.

5. A limitation on the number of times a person can take the state bar examination and provision for those desiring to take the examination again after failing. There is no limit now on the number of times one can take the test. The new limit will be three times.

The new rules will go into effect Jan. 1. They do not affect in any way persons now members of the Iowa bar.

In asking the changes, the petitioners to the supreme court declared there had been virtually no change in the rules and regulations for approximately 30 years and that Iowa's standards were below those of most other states.

Judge Weighs Cases of Mail Order Houses

DES MOINES, Dec. 12 (AP)—Lawsuits of two large mail order houses to restrain the state from cancelling their licenses to do business in Iowa because of their alleged failure to collect the two per cent use (sales) tax were being considered by District Judge John J. Halloran tonight. Attorneys for the state and Sears, Roebuck & Co. concluded their arguments in the injunction suit against the state this afternoon. Evidence and arguments in a similar suit by Montgomery Ward & Co. were heard several weeks ago and the judge took the case under advisement until he heard the Sears case.

Evidence in the Sears matter was submitted on stipulation by the state and company attorneys, from the record made in U. S. district court here. The Sears case was first heard there because of the interstate nature of

It Ain't Funny

Geo. Burns Indicted On Nine Counts In Jewelry Smuggling

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 (AP)—George Burns, whose air of resigned indignation at the cheerful grotesqueries of "Gracie" Allen has amused radio audiences for years, stood pale and distracted in federal court today and pleaded guilty to charges of jewelry smuggling.

Burns, the husband of Miss Allen and the "straight man" to her characterizations of a vague and "dumb" female, was released immediately without bond.

Government counsel said he was subject to possible maximum penalties of 18 years imprisonment and fines totaling $45,000 under the nine counts in two indictments against him, despite the fact that the offenses were defined in the statute as misdemeanors.

Against United States Attorney Joseph V. Delaney asked consideration for the comedian because he had cooperated with the government in a broad investigation of smuggling which began with a raid late in October on the Park avenue apartment of Mrs. Edgar Lauer, wife of a state supreme court justice, by treasury agents in search of smuggled Parisian knock-knocks and finery.

Burns, who appeared in a dark suit, red scarf and white shirt, declined to say whether he would testify for the prosecution against his accused co-defendants, Albert N. Chaperau, the "mystery man" of the whole affair, and a woman known variously as Paula Gheyskens, Paula Mahoney and Paula Chaperau. She was named in only one indictment.

Specifically, Burns was indicted for the smuggling of two bracelets and a ring, valued by the government at $4,885. Chaperau, who has described himself as a commercial agent for the Nicaraguan consulate-general here, has been pictured by the government as the actual carrier of smuggled goods, escaping customs examination through diplomatic courtesy, and investigators have obtained a long list of men and women prominent in the entertainment world who were among his supposed acquaintances.

Government To Try Leaders

CHICAGO, Dec. 12 (AP)—The government served notice today that by "vigorous" prosecution it would attempt to send to jail national leaders of the dairy industry charged with monopolistic practices.

The occasion was the scheduled arraignment of 40 individual and corporate defendants in the ice cream industry, indicted along with 57 other defendants in the milk industry on Sherman anti-trust act charges.

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan continued the arraignments until January 16, the date for filing of defense motions.

Leo F. Tierney, special assistant to the attorney general, agreed with defense attorneys who asked for more time but he told Judge Sullivan that the time was not asked "for the purpose of delay or to seek a consent decree," Tierney added.

"The government is not seeking a consent decree, either in this case or in the milk case." His remarks were contained in a prepared statement.

Predicts Revolution

Trotsky Says New Deal Heralds Capitalism; No Cure Seen

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 12 (AP)—Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian revolutionary, in an interview released here tonight described the new deal as not revolutionary but as "a program of mere palliatives seeking to cure a badly diseased body."

Trotsky, interviewed in his guarded villa near Mexico City, by William R. Mathews, publisher of the Arizona Daily Star of Tucson, said the new deal program "represents the culmination of the final contradictions in the decay and fall of capitalism."

"It will, of course, fail, because it is doing nothing to cure the causes of the disease," the one-time head of the Soviet war machine declared. "Capitalism has reached its zenith in America and has exhausted itself. It is now living on its savings, consuming its own fat. Look at your unemployed. No form of society can continue long that permits such conditions to exist. You are doing nothing to increase wealth."

Trotsky asserted that the "den-

Plans Art Bill

Damrosch Suggests Federal Bureau

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 (AP)—Walter Damrosch has evolved still another plan for a federal bureau of the fine arts, and has incorporated his suggestions into a bill to be presented to the next congress. His aid has been N. Henry Josephs, the attorney who acted as counsel against the recent Pepper-Coffee bills at a senate subcommittee hearing.

The bill has no connection with relief, Dr. Damrosch explained tonight. Neither does it contemplate establishing a federal conservatory of music or a national theater.

A "National Bureau of Fine Arts" would be created, to be administered by a board of 11 unpaid trustees appointed by the president. Nine of these would be directly connected with the arts and not employees of any governmental agency.

These would appoint directors and secretaries, one each for five departments: music, theater and dance, literature, graphic and plastic arts, architecture. The directors would formulate plans for advancing their respective arts, using first existing agencies and advancing further as money and material became available.

Dr. Damrosch's plan would include such activities, he explained, as subsidizing the really fine orchestras such as the Boston symphony in shorter seasons in lesser cities; subsidizing such organizations as the Metropolitan Museum of Art, so that they might place their works on exhibition through the country.

Supreme Court Stops Refuses to Review Decision

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—The supreme court today thwarted an effort of the national labor relations board to reinstate 145 seamen who were discharged after two ships had been seized in sitdown strikes.

Without explaining its action, the court refused a board request that it review a decision of the fifth federal circuit court, which set aside a board order requiring reinstatement of the men.

The order had been directed against the Peninsular and Occidental Steamship company. It was the second setback within as many weeks for the NLRB. The court ruled formally last Monday that the board exceeded its authority in cancellation of contracts with AFL unions and the Edison company. As in that case, the Federation of Labor opposed to the proceedings ended. In the steamship case, the NLRB ordered the company reinstated with back pay. The men were reinstated because they joined the National Maritime Union CIO affiliate. At the time of the
