

Crucial Battle Feared; Rebels Meet Stiffened Resistance to Advance

Loyalists Draft Boys Under 18 Into Defenses

Insurgent Offensive Against Barcelona Is Somewhat Slower

HENDAYE, France, Jan. 17 (AP) — Spanish government forces in mountain strongholds stiffened their resistance to the steady insurgent advance toward Barcelona today amid general expectations that the two reinforced armies were preparing for a battle which might decide the outcome of the civil war.

The insurgent offensive against the government capital slowed down slightly. Only in the center of the three-pronged drive into Catalonia did the insurgents report any real advance, this by capturing another position on the highway to Barcelona through Igualada. The position was roughly 30 or 35 miles from the capital.

Just south of this region, unconfirmed reports said, government troops unloosed counterattacks and re-took Santa Coloma de Queralt, the first town the insurgents occupied after entering Barcelona province.

Government forces were believed increased to approximately 400,000 men by regulations of Jan. 5 under which boys not yet 18 were called to defense lines. Military observers estimated insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco could put 500,000 men into a conflict for the possession of highways fanning out westward 35 miles from Barcelona.

They said the government command must fight soon or surrender and end its strategy of withdrawing from one fortified position to another without risking a decisive battle. Such a plan has been used since the insurgent Catalan campaign started Dec. 23.

Insurgent reports indicated much of the decrease in punch today was due to cleaning up pockets formed by insurgent efforts to keep in contact with the rapidly retiring militiamen.

Made Little Effort

Along the Mediterranean, where the advance has been most rapid, the insurgents apparently made little effort to continue their progress after the week end capture of Tarragona.

The insurgent command announced the capture of Pallerols village, 41 airline miles west of Barcelona and 13 miles west of Igualada, the northern key to Barcelona defenses. But this occupation represented an advance of less than three miles.

The insurgent advance guard was in contact with the government outpost line which follows the course of the Goya river from the Mediterranean east of Tarragona and north to the vicinity of Bellprat.

But as fast as the insurgents made contact they seemed to halt to consolidate positions forming bridgeheads to cover their crossing of the river.

The government's main defense lines are some miles farther east.

Government Spain described the lines as the strongest yet built during the two and a half year old conflict.

France Stays Out Of Spanish War

PARIS, Jan. 17 (AP)—France apparently decided today to stay clear of the Spanish war.

The government said it would not give aid to the Spanish government unless Britain did, and Britain was determined not to intervene. Risk of a European war was considered too great. Government leaders wrestled with the problem throughout the day and at one point considered the advisability of taking the bull by the horns and acting on their own, but the old bogaboo of a war in which France might find herself alone seemingly was too much.

ATTAINS GOAL

Governor Inaugurated In Stadium

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 17 (AP)—W. Lee O'Daniel, flour salesman, poet, radio singer and song writer, stood on a goal line in his state university's vast football bowl today and became Texas' 34th governor.

The 48-year-old mill executive, his goal attained by wailing votes with a fiddle band screeching "Please Pass the Biscuits Pappy," droned his oath and set a new course with:

"I pray that glamour and color will be eliminated from our legislative session and that seriousness and dignity will reign supreme."

Heart Attack

Takes Costigan

63-Year-Old Former Senator Was Leader Of Senate Liberals

DENVER, Jan. 17 (AP)—Edward P. Costigan, 64, former United States senator from Colorado, died tonight of a heart attack induced by lobar pneumonia. Costigan, a leader of the senate's liberal bloc until his retirement in 1936, was stricken yesterday.

The former senator's wife, Mrs. Mabel C. Costigan, and Miss Josephine Roche, former assistant secretary of the treasury and Costigan's longtime political ally, were at his bedside when death came at his Denver home.

Organizer of the progressive party in Colorado and its candidate for governor in 1912 and 1914, Costigan won election to the senate in 1930 as a democrat.

During his one term in the senate he was associated with the progressive group which included Sen. Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin and the late Bronson Cutting of New Mexico.

Murderer Uses

Claw Hammer To Kill Woman

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 17 (AP)—The body of pretty, blonde Mrs. C. Leah Romig, 54, her skull crushed with a little claw hammer, was found in a bed in her small apartment here late today.

Deputy Coroner Norman H. Booher said she had been killed by a blow behind the right temple. He said a rumpled rug and bedclothing indicated she had struggled with whoever struck her.

The woman's husband, Daniel Romig, 28, made the discovery when he returned home from work in a downtown store.

Mrs. Romig had fallen backward diagonally across the bed. Her legs dangled to the floor. The hammer head and the handle, broken, were found nearby.

Booher said she apparently had been dead several hours. She had not washed the breakfast dishes, nor prepared lunch.

No evidence of robbery or violence was found, the deputy coroner said.

Romig told Detective-Sergeant Jesse McCarty his wife was in bed when he went to work and apparently had served breakfast to someone after he went away.

NLRB Gives Findings Upon Maytag Strike

Company Officials And Union Leaders Have 10 Days to Consider

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 17 (AP)—Officials of the Maytag washing machine company and leaders of the striking CIO union at its Newton, Ia., plant tonight had 10 days to study over the findings of a national labor relations board, the trial examiner announced here today.

In brief, Madison Hill, examiner at the hearings which were the culmination of Newton's labor strife last summer, found:

- 1. The company should bargain collectively with the union.
2. Twelve workmen discharged for what the union claimed was activity in the strike should be reinstated with back pay.
3. That the company had coerced its workers and interfered with union activities.
4. That the national guard commission findings against the men, brought under martial law at Newton, should be dismissed.

Hill's report is intermediate—meaning that both company and union will have a 10-day period in which to file notice of compliance with it, or else the same time to file a brief or present oral arguments against it.

Following this the board may issue an order compelling compliance. Such an order is reviewable in the circuit court of appeals. The Maytag strike began last May 9 when the company posted notice of a 10-per-cent wage cut in the plant. About 1,500 workers, most of whom the union claimed were in its membership, walked out.

The men later seized the plant in a sit-down strike, but evacuated under the suggestion of former Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel. City and county authorities appealed for troops to enforce order on the strike front.

The governor sent a troop of national guardsmen to Newton the same morning that rioting broke out in front of the plant. The troops took over the county under martial law and kept the plant closed for a week, after which it was opened under the protection of guardsmen.

Most of the union men returned to work in the plant, although they maintained the strike was still in effect.

Opposes Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt made it plain yesterday that he was against reviving processing taxes to finance farm benefits and asked again for taxation of all public salaries and public securities.

School Children to Study Theory of Flying; Idea Is Part of Government's Education Plan

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 17 (AP)—Between 17,000,000 and 20,000,000 American school children will be taught the theory of mechanical flight each under a system roughly similar to those in vogue in Europe, aviation leaders decided in convention here today.

The scheme for making the country's youth conscious of what Maj. Gen. Frank M. Andrews, chief of the general headquarters air force, called the new role of air power in international affairs, will be dovetailed with the

Found Slain in Bedroom

In one of the most fiendish murders in Milwaukee police annals, Ruth Ella Scott, 16-year-old high school girl, was found slain in her bedroom, her hands trussed behind her. The girl's mutilated body was found after her mother, Mrs. Ida Scott, 57, a widow, succeeded in beating off a second attack by the ax slayer. Police arrested an odd-job worker, who is said to have confessed slaying the girl.

Regulation of Crops Advocated At Retail Dry Goods Convention

Director Describes General Motors Plan Of Employee Benefit

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 () — Assured incomes for workers and government regulation of farm production were advocated tonight before the annual convention of the National Retail Dry Goods association.

Harry L. Brown, assistant secretary of agriculture, told the retailers, assembled by the hundreds from throughout the United States, that crop control was as necessary as industry's control of production and that "it is to the interest of business men to see that the present program works."

Merle C. Hale, director of executive personnel of the General Motors corp., described his company's employee income benefit plans, asserting: "The effect of such plans will be cumulative because greater stability of income for an important settlement of the buying public should reflect itself in greater stability also for retail businesses and, in turn, for the manufacturers of consumer goods."

Hale pointed out that the General Motors plans did not include guaranteed annual wages. "The plans provide," he explained, "for an advance to the employee in periods of slack business against future earnings. These advances . . . do not bear interest and are repayable only through an opportunity to work. In case of an employee's death, the advance is canceled."

Approval Soviet Paper Praises President's Stand

MOSCOW, Jan. 17 (AP)—Le Journal de Moscou, a French language publication which frequently speaks the mind of the Soviet-Russian foreign office, today said President Roosevelt was "the only statesman in the bourgeois world" aware of fascism's threat and courageous enough to express himself.

The newspaper argued that "there is every ground to suppose that this time their (fascists) labor will not be easy."

Norman B. Haley Is Appointed Treasurer Of United Air Lines

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (AP)—Norman B. Haley was named treasurer of United Air lines today to fill the vacancy left by the retirement of C. E. Brink. Haley has been a director of the bureau of economic regulation of the civil aeronautics authority.

Cut in Appropriations Would Lay Off Million Workers, Says F.D.R.

Display Over, House Works On New Bills

Adds More Clerks, Bars Wives From Helping Husbands

DES MOINES, Jan. 17 (AP)—Held back up to now by the pomp and trappings of inaugural week, Iowa house members today unleased 35 bills designed to change laws on everything from the bounty on birds to relieving well-fixed relatives from the duty of supporting old age pension applicants.

Fourteen other assorted proposals were dropped at the same time into the senate hoppers.

That body, in session for only a short time, used economy measures in dealing with a resolution fixing the daily pay of chief clerk A. C. Gustafson of the house. The lower chamber last week increased his salary from $9 to $10. The senate today demanded it back to the lower figure.

Rescinds Action

At the same time the house rescinded its action of last week and adopted without discussion, a recommendation of its committee on clerks. This provided for the addition of 53 more clerks, and at the same time did away with a provision whereby the wives of members would be barred from serving as clerks to their husbands or to other members.

Should all of today's proposals become laws or amendments to existing laws, the state would awaken the morning of July 4th, when most new laws become effective, to discover:

- 1. Legal prize fight pictures in the movies. (They're against the law now.)
2. Local option on liquor-by-the-drink and beer. (Iowa has been everywhere local governing bodies permit, but liquor sale is limited to by-bottle transactions in the state stores.)

Electrocutions

3. Electrocutions of doomed prisoners in Fort Madison penitentiary stockade, instead of hanging as now provided.

4. An 8-hour day, six-day week for all state employes earning less than $200 a month.

5. Publication of the names and salaries of all state employes. (Former Governor Kraschel vetoed such a measure two years ago.)

6. Earmarking of the state's $1,000,000 annual use tax proceeds to farm-market roads.

7. $8,000,000 a year state money for old age pensions. (It's $5,500,000 now). Repeal of the clause taking liens on pensioner's homes.

8. Abolition of the planning board.

9. A chain store tax bill to replace one invalidated by the United States supreme court.

10. A marriage health bill.

11. A $2,000 mulct-tax bill to permit sale of liquor by the drink.

Representative L. C. Bowers (R) Kent (Union) turned loose a sheaf of bills when the gates were let down. Dean W. Peisen (R) Eldora, is in Washington attending the council of state governments session, but he contributed nine measures by remote control to the deluge.

SPINSTER Remained True for Life To Fiance

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 17 (AP)—Alice Fazende, 102-year-old survivor from another era, died yesterday, true to a 78-year-old pledge of spinsterhood made when war called her sweetheart.

It was in 1861, shortly after her debut, that her fiance marched away with the Washington artillery to fight for the confederacy.

She told him she would "wait forever," would never wed if he did not return.

The young artilleryman died in action. "Miss Alice" kept her pledge.

Senate Backs Frank Murphy

Nomination of Former Governor Passed Over Protest of 7 Votes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—The senate confirmed the nomination of Frank Murphy to be attorney general today over the bitter protest of a tiny minority which insisted that as governor of Michigan he had "condoned" the sitdown strike and "set aside the law" on behalf of sitdown strikers. The vote was 78 to 7.

Just previously, the senate approved the appointment of Felix Frankfurter to the supreme court. This action, which placed an outstanding liberal and student of the law upon the nation's high tribunal, was taken without discussion and without a single negative vote.

Meanwhile, it became evident that republican senators were almost a unit in opposing the confirmation of Harry L. Hopkins, former WPA administrator, to be secretary of commerce. Administration leaders were confident, however, that more than enough democrats were backing the Hopkins appointment to assure a favorable vote.

The senate commerce committee, which last week questioned Hopkins severely on charges of politics in relief, planned to vote on the nomination tomorrow. It was scheduled to reach the senate Thursday.

The Murphy appointment produced the first roll-call vote of the session, and the first roll call in several years in which the democratic membership voted as a solid bloc.

The seven who opposed Murphy's confirmation, all republicans, were: Bridges and Tobey of New Hampshire, Gurney of South Dakota, Holman of Oregon, Taft of Ohio, Vandenberg of Michigan and White of Maine.

Adams Claims Chief's Figures Are Inaccurate

Says Only 600,000 Need Be Dropped From Work Relief

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today that WPA would have to lay off a million or more relief workers by June 1 if a proposed cut in appropriations is carried through, but his estimates were disputed immediately in influential congressional quarters.

Chairman Adams (D-Colo) of the senate subcommittee in charge of the relief appropriation told reporters that the chief executive's figures "conveyed an inaccurate impression." As a matter of "simple mathematics," he said no more than 600,000 need be dropped from the work relief rolls.

Controversy The controversy arose from the fact that the house last week clipped $150,000,000 from the $875,000,000 appropriation which the president had requested to keep WPA going from Feb. 7, when its present funds are scheduled for exhaustion, until the end of the fiscal year on June 30. Adams, with obviously strong backing in the senate, favors the cut.

At the close of a day of relief hearings, in which he had a run-in with David Lasser, president of the workers' alliance—Adams explained his version of what the cut would mean.

Noting that it takes $62 to keep one relief worker on the rolls for a month, he said that dividing the $150,000,000 cut by that amount and then spreading the figure over the four-month period Feb. 7 to June 1, would mean an "average reduction" of some 600,000 workers.

Whence Figures? "How does the president get his figures, then?" a reporter inquired.

Adams shrugged his shoulders. "I'm just telling you the facts," he replied.

In answer to continued questioning by reporters, Adams conceded, however, that if it is the plan to keep the present WPA enrollment intact through the months of February and March, then in order to spread the $725,000,000 appropriation over the four-month period, a drop such as that mentioned by Mr. Roosevelt would be necessary.

The president's estimate was a drop of 1,000,000 to 1,250,000 by June 1, if congress provides no more than the $725,000,000 voted by the house.

F. D. R. Wants Florida Canal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Another row over spending appeared in prospect tonight after President Roosevelt asked congress to revise the Florida ship canal and the tidal power development at Passamaquoddy Bay, Me., two new deal projects which have been dormant because of the legislators' refusal to provide funds.

Mr. Roosevelt made his request in letters to Chairman Mansfield (D-Tex) of the house rivers and harbors committee and Chairman Bailey (D-NC) of the senate commerce commission. He urged the $200,000,000 canal on the basis of "commercial and military needs." For Passamaquoddy, estimated to cost $37,000,000, he proposed an appropriation for continued tests and a small experimental plant.

Both undertakings were discontinued three years ago. They had been started with presidential allocations of relief money.

This word from the White House, sought for months by friends of the hotly disputed projects, was followed by indications of another class on Capitol Hill. Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) said the request was "final proof" that the president has "joined the bootstrap lifters who believe in spending themselves out of debt."

Mussolini Foresees Balkan Countries in Rome-Berlin Axis

ROME, Jan. 17 (AP)—Italy began helping Germany line up the Balkan countries for the Rome-Berlin axis tonight while fascists vented their hatred of France.

Count Galeazzo Ciano, foreign minister and son-in-law of Premier Mussolini, arranged to leave for Yugoslavia to visit Dr. Milan Stoyadinovich, Yugoslav premier and foreign minister.

Authoritative Italians said the trip was intended largely to complete the elimination of French influence from southeastern Europe, which they said was in "a ferment of revisionism."

Fascists indicated a bloc of Italy, Hungary and Yugoslavia, as an adjunct of the Rome-Berlin axis was Ciano's aim. It was not improbable, they said, that an agreement between Hungary and Yugoslavia would be the first step.

Ciano was invited by Stoyadinovich to join a hunting party not far from the Hungarian frontier. On a similar hunting party with Hungary's regent, Admiral Nicholas Horthy, in December, Ciano began work on the Italian-Hungarian-Yugoslav triangle.

Italy's diplomatic task was to overcome Hungary's national minority claims on Yugoslavia, which got a slice of Hungarian territory after the World war.

A Hungarian-Yugoslav agreement, if eventually negotiated, would be similar to that under which Italy and Yugoslavia have guaranteed to respect their common frontier. It would bind Hungary to respect Yugoslavia's post-war Hungarian frontier and Yugoslavia to treat her Hungarian minorities fairly.

"Italy's Danubian policy is carried out in perfect accord with Berlin," Virginio Gayda, the authoritative commentator, wrote in Il Giornale D'Italia.

Gayda said Italy was offering to free Yugoslavia from French and other foreign capital by sending engineers and machinery for construction of public works.

Italian bitterness against France was marked today by the surrender of French World War medals by Italian veterans at the suggestion of Brigadier General Silvio Lucco Mussino, retired, of Turin.

He sent his own Croix de Guerre to a Rome newspaper along with a proposal that all French-decorated Italian veterans turn in their medals, the medals began to pour in with letters expressing disgust at having "defended swinish France."

This and fresh anti-French in-fective in the fascist press followed disparaging remarks in the French press against Italian soldiers and sailors.

Newspapers attacked a statement attributed to the Paris-Midi that "only imperious necessity can make Italian sailors lose sight of their native shores."

"The 'imperious necessity' is about to become apparent," said Il Messaggero of Rome. "If provocations continue, other shores will be visited soon by sailors of his Italian majesty."

A Story Behind The Headlines

LATE, Sunday afternoon the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin of Royal Oak, Mich., made a coast-to-coast radio address urging his listeners to oppose revision or revocation of the Nye neutrality act.

Within the next 24 hours 100,000 telegrams were received in Washington, repeating the will of Father Coughlin.

Meanwhile in Rome, Italy, "official sources" announced that one of the demands II Duce made of Neville Chamberlain was that "Generalissimo Franco" must win in Spain.

No one at all mentioned the April Anglo-Italian agreement by which this same II Duce promised to withdraw all his troops from Spain.

Almost simultaneously, too, correspondents announced that the important city of Tarragona had fallen to the rebels.

This morning Barcelona is even nearer, and the generalissimo has announced to her citizens, "I come not to destroy her, but to save her."

How long Barcelona can hold out is uncertain. We are reminded of the grim jokes that went the rounds of Europe's capitals last winter.

Not London, New York or Berlin—but Madrid. Franco entered a year ago and hasn't gone through yet.

Barcelona may be quite as large. Granted that, as the majority of Americans believe, the loyalists are fighting for freedom and democracy, how long can right continue to hold out over might?

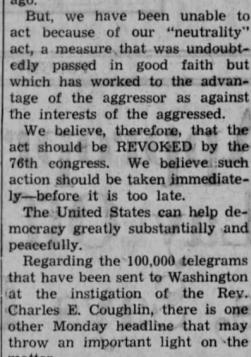

France has been appealed to for help because the French know that when Barcelona falls, ultimate victory for Franco is practically assured.

France CAN help. She can open her Spanish front to the shipment of arms and munitions. She can send food to the loyalists, ambulances, munitions.

England CAN help. She can demand that II Duce live up to the provisions of the Anglo-Italian treaty or she can revoke that agreement.

Both of these democratic nations have a direct interest in the conflict. A victory for Franco means another step in the fascist march in Italy. The next, Mussolini has admitted, will be Tunisia or Corsica or Nice in Africa.

The Two-Pants Suit!

arms, munitions, men from Italy and Germany. Loyalist Spain has had no outside aid except a few thousand volunteers from the world's remaining democracies and less than a score of planes from Russia more than two years ago.

But, we have been unable to act because of our "neutrality" act, a measure that was undoubtedly passed in good faith but which has worked to the advantage of the aggressor as against the interests of the aggressed.

We believe, therefore, that the act should be REVOKED by the 76th congress. We believe such action should be taken immediately—before it is too late.

The United States can help democracy greatly substantially and peacefully.

Regarding the 100,000 telegrams that have been sent to Washington at the instigation of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, there is one other Monday headline that may throw an important light on the matter.

II Regime Fascista, one of the most important Italian newspapers, the same which has led attacks on the Vatican in the dispute over the Italian anti-Semitic measures, had this to say:

"Italians cannot fail to express their sympathy to the apostle of Christianity, the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin."

An Ounce Of Cure

KNOWING THE circumstances of a situation is the best way to correct the difficulty.

About 50 per cent of the automobile accidents in Iowa City are caused by icy streets. People will not slow down until someone is hit, and then it is too late.

Other causes for accidents are carelessness on the part of drivers and pedestrians and people who do not know their own rights and the traffic laws.

Traveling salesmen, who should know all the traffic rules because of the amount of driving they do, violate the laws by parking in prohibited parking places, as in front of hotels, and not knowing local traffic laws.

The big problem today is educating the people to drive, and the local traffic school is the best way to do that at present in Iowa City.

Letters To The Editor

The opinions expressed in this column do not necessarily represent the opinions of the editor or The Daily Iowan and should not be construed as such.

Editor, The Daily Iowan I would like to take this opportunity to add to the letter which was published in The Daily Iowan of Sunday last and try to explain in part why there were so many students from Iowa City high schools at the Military Ball.

In the organization of the University of Iowa Scottish Highlanders, Col. George F. N. Dailey follows a policy of keeping a group of high school students in training so that when they enter the university, they will be band-fledged members of the band without having any further training.

AROUND THE TOWN

With MERLE MILLER

Dr. Christian Richard tells a delightful tale about the capitalism-communism talk that the long-haired ones self-indulge in.

Seems a beggarling upped himself to Rothschild in Paris, called him a capitalist and said, "Why don't you share your dirty money?"

"All right," said Rothschild. "Now, I have 20,000,000 francs, and there are probably about 20,000,000 like you in all of France. So here's your share." And he handed the fellow a franc.

When the chap remonstrated, Rothschild replied, "But I can't give you any more. If I gave you two francs, you'd be a capitalist."

From Soup to Nazis For those folks who think the nazi men have no sense of humor and like a grain of laughing-powder with their politics, I suggest a look-in at a delightful little volume that'll be out one of these days called "Lunacy Becomes Us," with supplementary notes by the author.

The author, though, is really Adolf Hitler and his associates. With malice toward practically everybody, the 132 pages are filled with the most delightful nazidoodles.

The title, of course, is from that now-famous Goeringism, "If what we have done here is lunacy, then lunacy becomes us."

I think it's quite the most revolutionary volume I've ever read because if it were circulated in Germany, the folks'd fell Hitler immediately. They wouldn't be able to "hell" for laughing.

For example, there's Mr. Goebels, "Today even in the German streets the new spirit is visible. . . The ash-cans are lined up as if standing at attention."

Or—"Youth, where is thy pride? Mickey Mouse is a Young Fan medicine to promote weakness. . . Down with Mickey Mouse! Wear Swastika Cross!"

Even—"The German hogs recognize that there are important racial distinctions in Germany."

Or Dr. Robert Ley's. . . "I know that manna does not drop from heaven. In fact, I believe the whole thing is a typical Bolshevik trick."

Delightfully, too, was the note on the Berlin concert program, "Poet unknown since 1933."

TUNING IN

By Loren Hickerson

THE MAYOR OF TEXACO . . . Town comes home tonight! Which is by way of announcement that Eddie Cantor returns to the fold of his former sponsor for one appearance on the Star Theater over CBS at 8 tonight.

Eddie and his troupe arrived in Chicago, enroute to Hollywood, last Wednesday, and were greeted by reporters, photographers, members of the President's birthday ball committee and the Chicago committee for European refugees.

After interviews and pictures, Cantor made a 9:20 date with the birthday ball committee; kept a business appointment at 10; made a luncheon speech for the European refugee fund at 11, and caught the train to continue west at 12:01 p.m.

He also revealed that while he will visit the Texaco Theater as master of ceremonies tonight, modesty prevents him from also doing the lead in the dramatic spot.

FRED ALLEN, . . . who for years has avoided taxi-cabs as man-made and man-driven instruments for the destruction of man, will interview Marie V. Payne, one of New York's eight lady taxi-drivers, as his "person you didn't expect to meet" at 8 o'clock tonight over the NBC-Red network.

What with this latest excursion into the ranks of feminine industry, Fred is proving rapidly that there are few occupations closed to the fairer sex. In past weeks Fred has interviewed a lady fire chief, a lady ice man and a lady barber.

The regular cast will be there—Portland Hoffa, Harry von Zell, the Mighty Allen Art Players, the Merry Macs, the Town Hall singers and Peter Van Steeden and his orchestra.

The artists tonight will attempt a street corner mystery titled "The Traffic Light was Green, but Long Pan saw Red?" or "Does a Horse Have a Fender?"

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the dramatic life of Carrie Jacobs Bond, America's best-loved woman composer, will be dramatized on the Edgar Guest "It Can Be Done" show over CBS

EDWARD G. ROBINSON'S "Big Town" and Al Jolson's program won Variety's first special citation for "showmanship."

ONE OF THE finest compliments Grade Allen ever got came to her after she'd sung "You Must Have Been a Beautiful Baby" on her show with George Burns. The praise was a complimentary wire from Dick Powell, who introduced the song in his film, "Hard to Get."

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

Great horror is shown by statisticians and sociologists at the havoc wrought by the common cold. About a million people will be incapacitated this week from colds, making a loss of three thousand years of working time.

That looks impressive but I doubt if there is as much trouble as it looks on paper. That work all gets done some way or another. And I have always felt that a cold was kind of a nice thing. It puts you to bed for a day or two and lets you rest your poor, old, tired nervous system. You putter around the house and find things in drawers that you had forgotten you had. And it is a great satisfaction to think of all those poor slaves doing all your work at the office for you.

This idea that a cold is a good thing gets some support from the observations of Dr. Charles Armstrong, of the U. S. Public Health Service, published in the Public Health Reports on Nov. 25. Colds, according to Dr. Armstrong, are good things in more ways than one.

Curbs Other Infections Dr. Armstrong began to think about the well-known fact that sleeping sickness and infantile paralysis are summer ills, and the common cold is a winter ill. Sleeping sickness and infantile paralysis both enter the body through the nose. Is it possible that a good nose infection with the common cold crowds out the more terrible diseases?

Working on this suggestion, Dr. Armstrong made some experiments. He washed the noses of white mice with salt water and pooled the washings. Then he grew a culture of bacteria from the washings and put minute amounts of these cultures into the noses of other mice several times a week. After a few days he inoculated their noses with the virus of sleeping sickness. Sixty per cent of them survived this inoculation, while in a control group of mice which had not been previously sprayed with the bacterial culture, only 25 per cent survived.

Apparently the previous nasal infection raised a resistance in the membrane to other infections. It was found that the bacterial spray caused the production of white blood cells, which have a defensive role against infections. These white cells were poured into the nasal mucous membrane in great quantities. They apparently produced immunity for five days.

It is possible that some form of immunization can be produced in this way and that the experiments have a practical side. Certainly it would be worth trying in a community faced with an epidemic of infantile paralysis. A "summer cold," even if deliberately induced, is a welcome substitute for either of the other common summer infections.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS M. I. C. "Please tell us something about nearsighted eyes. I understand a child is born with that condition. Is it likely to get worse? Or does it improve with properly-fitted glasses?" Answer: Nearsightedness is due to the eyeball being too long. People are born that way. In some cases it develops during youth and then comes to a standstill. This is simple or stationary myopia. Other cases are progressive up to the 25th or 30th year. The wearing of well-fitted glasses improves the condition in every way. Rigid hygienic rules must be enforced.

L. L. "Is saccharin harmful to one with a heart murmur?" Answer: No. Careful investigations have shown that saccharin, if taken over a long period, does no harm whatever.

A New Yorker at Large

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—There was once a shy little Broadway chorus girl who didn't know her way around at all—and cows have wings! She never went out with the stage-door johnnies because it wasn't proper for a young girl to go out with just anybody, and she never encouraged the attention of young men because her mother had taught her that nice young ladies never accepted anything except candy and flowers from young gentlemen.

In all there must have been a hundred young swains who wanted to meet her and take her out dancing, but she always managed her refusals in such a way that they thought she was doing them a favor.

Then one night two young men were introduced to her and on some impulse she let them persuade her to accept an invitation to attend a late show. Now by a curious coincidence both of the young men were the sons of millionaires, but of course our little heroine knew nothing of this. So they went to a late show and then they had breakfast at a breakfast club, and they eventually drove her home in a cream-colored limousine a half a block long.

Next day one of the young men came back alone, and that night the other young man met her at the theater. She was so surprised when she found him waiting there and it almost broke her heart when she had to inform him that the other young man was going to take her to visit his mother. That was the beginning of whirlwind courtship that ended a friendship and held the Broadway observers entranced for some time. For of course the two young men were pals, and of course they tell out. They couldn't see each other because of the smoke in their eyes.

For a time the shy little chorus girl let both of them come to see her, because she was tender hearted and couldn't stand the thought of bringing distress even to a poor little rich boy, but the time finally came when she had to admit that her choice had been made, and the other went away.

He didn't go to China, or join the French Foreign Legion, or anything like that. As a matter of fact, he remained in New York, and he's here right now. But he didn't go to see our Nell any more and he couldn't see his ex-pal for the smoke in his eyes.

It was in all the papers—the wedding, I mean. The society photographers were there and the society columns were full of it, and the shy little chorus girl and the rich man's son sailed away on a two months' honeymoon in Europe. They're back, and very happy I understand.

The point I wish to make is that the papa of the young man she married is worth a million dollars, but the papa of the young man she spurned is worth two millions.

Didn't I tell you she was just a poor little girl who didn't know her way around?

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP) —

Perhaps it's just a question of having a chance to work out, like an echo in the Alps, but whatever the reason the wide open spaces, where there are plenty of miles to work on, not only boasts the premier miler of today, but promises to develop his successor. They'll forget to wind Glenn Cunningham some night and he'll run down, but already several young men of the midlands loom as worthy successors.

There are the Rideout twins of Texas, Wayne and Blaine. There is Chuck Fenske, a Wisconsin contribution. There is Greg Rice, of Notre Dame, Don Lash of Indiana, not to speak of Archie San Romani, the lad who can literally trot his own horn. There is John Munski, and it is John Munski who looms largest in the field.

"Lonesome John" they call him at the University of Missouri, where he is a junior. The nickname derived from the fact that he's usually all alone in front during a race, and that he seldom dates.

He's a Montanan, one of a large family, and he insists he learned to run by making tracks very rapidly when he heard the dinner bell. That he is a winner-take-all individual at the dinner table is belied by his build, however. He's a long, lean, hungry type, by no means as rugged as the chunky Cunningham, and he runs with a loose, almost double-jointed action in comparison with Cunningham's firm, driving progress.

He's a one-race man. Cunningham would start with the 100-yard dash and work his way up to the two-mile in one afternoon without taking a deep breath, but Munski tried to run both the half and the mile in the Big Six meet last spring, coasting to an easy win in the mile but watching heels in the half.

As a sophomore he broke Cunningham's Big Six indoor mile record, and he was clocked unofficially in about 4:10 for his anchor leg of the relay race at Drake last spring.

His fame has reached the east. He has been invited to compete in the Wanamaker mile at the Millrose games here Feb. 4. Fred Schmeitz, chairman of the meet, said the field probably would be limited to six or seven outstanding performers, probably including Glenn Cunningham, who won the event five of the last six years. Just what "Lonesome John" will do is big time competition on a board track is problematical. He's accustomed to the open air, or at the worst, field house cinders, but Cunningham himself has touted the lanky Montanan as the coming champion.

At any rate, as a sophomore he was better than Cunningham was at a similar stage in his career, and he has a long, long time to reach Cunningham's present excellence. And incidentally, he, or anyone else, probably will need it.

Buc Signs

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 17 (AP) — Catcher Ray Berres sent in yesterday his signed contract for his second season with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Berres, whose home is in Kenosha, Wis., was purchased from Louisville in the autumn of 1937 and caught 40 games for the Bucs last year. He batted only .230, but was rated as one of the best defensive backstops in the National league.

MUSCATINE, Jan. 17 (Special to The Daily Iowan) — St. Mary's Ramblers came through with their tenth win of the season here tonight, knocking off St. Mathias, strong local quintet, by a score of 30-22.

Getting off to a good start and maintaining the lead throughout the contest, the Iowa City team had but little trouble in disposing of the Mathias aggregation.

As in previous tilts, it was George Chadek, speedy Rambler forward, who carried the brunt of the attack on the Muscatines, caging four field goals and three free throws to lead both teams in the scoring department.

St. Mathias used no substitutes throughout the game, and was hampered by the absence of their sharp-shooting center, Fuller. Coach Seuppel, however, poured in the subs, giving the men of his second string some valuable experience.

The Ramblers got off to a good start, pulling away easily in the early part of the first frame. Their defense, meanwhile, held the home quintet to four points. The Marians wound up the first quarter by dropping in several quick counters and going into a 12 to 4 lead.

The second quarter found both teams tightening up on their defense. George Chadek and Jack Bock, the Marian forwards, put in five points for St. Mary's, while Luth and Wilson scored for Mathias.

The half ended with the Marians holding a comfortable 17 to 9 margin.

The third quarter was a little in favor of the Mathias five, which swished the netting for seven points. The Rambler quint, however, was not far behind. Bill Bock, George Chadek and Jack Bock put in five points between them to maintain the Ramblers' lead. The St. Mary's aggregation led at the closing of the third stanza, 22 and 16.

The last quarter saw both teams hitting the hoop regularly, but St. Mary's countered shot for shot to stay well out in front.

Armbruster Has Big Hopes For 1939 Tank Team

Iowa's swimming coach, Dave Armbruster, who had been a little bit worried about his swimming prospects, has taken a new lease on life as his cripples return to form and the new prospects look even better than he had thought they would.

The Iowa mentor disclosed yesterday that although Bob Lowry, Jack Ryan and a couple of others were still nursing slight ailments, there were a lot of developments to be thankful for. Francis Heydt, ace backstroker, swam in the inter-squad meet last Saturday and gave evidences that he has lost none of the form that made him one of the nation's leading backstrokers last season, while Al Armbruster has recovered from his cold.

With Heydt, Armbruster and Tony Bremer all three getting into condition, the Iowa team is assured of having three of the midwest's crack backstrokers. Bremer, in winning his event in the inter-squad meet, proved that his performances at Ft. Lauderdale were not flukes.

While the presence of Ray Walters, Banford Cochrane and Ernie Draves made it a certainty that Iowa would not be weak in the dashes, Armbruster could never be quite sure how fully Walters had recovered from the infection that kept him out last season. But, fortunately, Walters appears as good, or better than ever. Saturday, in winning the dash events, he came perilously close to the Iowa pool marks that he set two years ago.

When Karl Ahlgren, a brilliant sophomore, became ill, Armbruster felt that his hopes in the longer swims were gone. Now, Ahlgren is back in the water and will be in shape before the season gets well under way. "Ed Gerber is looking good and the latest good news is that Bill Tesla, who missed being an all-American by a trifle last year, will be back in school the second semester.

Losing Bob Allen bothered Armbruster, for Allen was highly rated among the nation's breaststrokers, but a replacement has appeared in the person of George Poulos of Marshalltown, who becomes eligible next semester. Poulos took several A. A. U. titles last summer.

Although Armbruster does not expect to have all of the men at top condition by the time the Hawks take on Chicago Feb. 4, he says they will be at the peak long before the Big Ten meet March 10 and 11. In fact he wants them to be fully ready for some of the dual meets he is going to have.

Besides Chicago, the Iowans will invade Northwestern and Minnesota, who, although rated as strong this season, do not figure to give the Hawkeye team too much trouble. At home, Iowa will face Wisconsin and Michigan. The Wolverines, especially, promise a lot of excitement. They have been rated highly for the last few years, but lately indicate that Matt Mann does not have the team of other years.

Even so, Michigan promises an interesting meet. It will be remembered that when they came here two years ago, the Wolverines helped the Hawkeyes crack nearly a dozen pool records and some national marks.

Filed Away Commission Refuses Gould's Protest

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP) — The New York state athletic commission today refused to take any action on Joe Gould's request that Clarence (Red) Burman's decision over Tommy Farr in Madison Square garden last Friday night be reversed.

Gould, manager of Farr, claimed his man should have been given the decision. The commission merely accepted the protest and placed it on file.

Patty Berg Tops Augusta Tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 17 (AP) — Patty Berg cracked out a 78 today, duplicating her medal-winning score of yesterday and moving into a four-stroke lead with 156 at the halfway mark in the third Augusta tilts' golf meet.

The national champion's three-over-par round boosted her edge over the small but fast field because Marion Miley slipped two strokes off her pace of yesterday to remain in second place with a 79-81-160.

Kathryn Hemphill of Columbia, S. C., slipped to an 82 that gave her a third place tie at 162 with Mrs. Helen Hicks Harb of Little Rock, Ark. Mrs. Harb matched an opening 81.

Dorothy Kirby, young Georgia champion from Atlanta, cut her opening 82 to an 81 for fifth place and the rest of the field stretched out behind her from 169 on up.

St. Patrick's of Iowa City took it on the chin again last night as it lost to St. Patrick's of Cedar Rapids, 27-23, on the local court. The fighting Irish of both schools were almost called upon to live up to their names as numerous fouls and arguments occurred. Tony Corsetto, Cedar Rapids regular, was declared ineligible as his age was listed at 20.

"Red" Miller of the locals salvaged a little by ringing up 12 points to lead in scoring for the evening. Miller and Holland played bang-up defensive games to lead in that department. Jack Kenney led for the visitors by counting 11 points.

The local Irish failed to cash in on 13 free throw attempts to greatly aid their foes. The Shamrocks from Cedar Rapids missed only six attempts.

Playing against the opposition's second five, Iowa City led at the end of the first quarter, 5-2. However, with the advent of the first team at the start of the second period, the Rapids Pats opened up, leading 9-8 at the half, mainly through the efforts of Carney and Jack Kenney.

Krumholz, Joe Kenney, and Carney all scored from the field shortly after the second half opened to run up the visitor's lead to 15-8. The rest of the period was evenly divided with Miller and Jack Kenney alternating on scoring. Cedar Rapids led at quarter-time, 22-15. Four gift shots and Love's two baskets culminated the local's point-getting in the final stanza. Jack Kenney and Carney contributed five counters to the Shamrock's score as the game ended, 27-23.

Iowa Cagers Improve With Each Contest

Center Position No Longer Worries Mentor As Plett Surprises

Rollie Williams yesterday was recalling the smart, fast passing and the "make-your-shots-count" shooting of the Hawkeye five in its last two games, and was hoping for like exhibitions against Michigan when they play here Saturday.

"I thought the boys handled the ball better than any Iowa team in recent years," Rollie said. "They worked in for short shots and played two exactly opposite styles of basketball efficiently against Chicago and Purdue," he added. Williams also praised their determined defense and their work on getting the rebounds.

By defeating the Boiler-makers and the Maroons, the Iowans have jumped from last place in the conference race to a tie for fifth with the Wisconsin Badgers with an even break in four Big Ten games.

And while Williams was somewhat rejoiced over the showing made by the boys in their last two games, he also still pondered the problem of getting some scoring punch at one of the forward positions.

Only six points have been garnered by the men playing with Capt. Benny Stephens in the forecourt, placing too much of a burden on the captain and the other players. However, the scoring from the pivot post came as a pleasant surprise for Plett, Evans and Bastian, supposedly the team's weak spot, have made 23 points, equalling the total of the forwards.

The play of the much-improved Howard Irvine, and Erwin Prasse at the guard positions have been pleasing to the Hawkeye mentor. Both these men led the defense which kept the Purdue racetracks well under control and which held Chicago to only 19 points, the lowest total of a Big Ten team against Iowa in five years. These men have also contributed to the attack with 22 points.

Scoring statistics give Benny Stephens 136 points in 10 games or 13.6 points per game. Erwin Prasse follows Stephens with 47 and Anapol is third with 44. Evans and Plett are tied for fourth with 31 points each and Irvine, Lind, Bastian and Hohenhorst follow in that order.

In conference scoring, Capt. Ben Stephens leads the conference with 56 points. Chuck Plett is the next highest scoring Iowan with 21, and both guards, Prasse and Irvine, are tied for third with 15.

GALENTO MAY MEET LOUIS

Two-Ton Tony Rates Title Go

The Jersey Gent Just About Out Of Eligible Foes

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP) — The heavyweight championship jig-saw puzzle, as now being put together, hasn't altogether met with the approval of some of the writing boys.

They can't quite figure out why Madcap Maxie Baer, who hasn't fought for two years, and Lou Nova, who's still somewhat of a green hand at this fistcuffing business, should be paired for a coveted shot at Joe Louis, while old Two-Ton Tony Galento is left out in the cold.

This wraith-like figure of Two-Ton Tony — if 220 pounds can be placed in the wraith class — has been haunting the Louis menage for nigh onto a year now, but at no time has it been so nobly supported as the present.

Deserves Chance The Galento cheering and chowder society contends Tony's candidacy is based on his fighting during last year — a year in which he also spent several weeks battling pneumonia. While Madcap Maxie was training to be a cowboy in the movies, Tony was campaigning up and down the fistcuff front picking up all the loose change around as well as the victories. And while his bouts with those Thomas boys, Harry and Otis, weren't accompanied by any particular altar of glory, the society feels Tony should be dealt into the game somewhere.

There has been talk that Tony may mix clouds with Nova Feb. 24, but in light of the fact that Promoter Mike Jacobs has hinted the Baer-Nova winner would get Louis, this seems hard to figure out, like the fellow who splashes ketchup on his pancakes for taste, Tony is too famous for upsetting apple-carts.

Drawing Card Then there's talk that the barrel-shaped gent from Jersey may have first pickings with Louis in an outdoor bout in June. This seems sensible, on the ground that such a party would bring in paying guests from far and wide. For Galento has color and a knockout punch, although a straight puncher such as Joe probably could take care of Tony's rushing-hooking style.

According to what you hear along bash boulevard, Joe is slated for four fights this year, provided it doesn't mean that Uncle Samuel's internal revenue nephews will get in his hair. If

Little Hawks To Mix With Dubuque

Preparations are under way at City High gym for the mighty tough job ahead of the Little Hawk cage quintet Friday night. That's the night the Red and White boys take on the highly touted Dubuque five in their own den in an important Mississippi Valley conference game. A loss Friday will kill any hopes of the Mertenmen for a share in the conference crown.

The Hawklets will have to put up a great fight to take the Dubuque boys as this fast stepping quintet forced Clinton into an extra period on their own floor before the Clintonians were able to eke out a close victory and in a return game at Dubuque they vanquished the Clinton team in a fast game. Clinton downed the Hawklets by a 25-19 score in a contest there two weeks ago.

John "Dusty" Maher was forced to miss practice last night as he had to report at a local hospital where he gave his sister a blood transfusion. Unless more transfusions are necessary and "Dusty" loses a large quantity of blood, he will be set for conference warfare Friday.

The Hawklets looked impressive in drill last night as all men were able to drive through the second team to score with consistency.

Coach Herb Cormack's sophomore five, now in second place in the conference race, was given a hard drill also last night. Only the smooth working Davenport sophomore team is above the Red and White five in the standings.

CUBS' CONTRACTS

Five Players Have Been Signed

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (AP) — Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, today mailed contracts to 27 members of the 1939 Cub family with confidence that financial terms outlined will be satisfactory.

Coaches Roy Johnson and John "Red" Corridan and 25 of the 30 players who are expected to make the spring training trip to Santa Catalina island next month were on today's mailing list.

The other five players—Manager Gabby Hartnett, Pitchers Dizzy Dean and Bill Lee, and the ex-Giants, Shortstop Dick Bartell and Catcher Gus Mancuso—already have been signed. The Cubs took over the contracts Bartell and Mancuso had signed with the New York club prior to the deal between the two clubs last September.

Officials of the club said increases in salary had been granted deserving players with small cuts to those who failed to play up to expectations.

Currier Cagers Beat Westlawn, 29 to 28 Currier girls squeezed out a one-point victory over the nurses from Westlawn last night in an intramural basketball game, which ended in a 29-28 score. Kappa Alpha Theta defeated Zeta Tau Alpha, 39-28.

U-High Cagers Get Stiff Drill

River Men Battle Monticello in Local Gym Friday Night

In an effort to iron out the weaknesses that were so evident in the West Liberty fray last week, Coach Paul Brechler sent his cagers through a long, stiff drill yesterday, speeding preparations for the Monticello game Friday night. Friday's encounter will be the locals' first home appearance since the holidays.

Fundamental and offensive work occupied the early part of yesterday's drill, and then Coach Brechler sent his varsity cagers through a long scrimmage against a team of sophomores. Capt. Ed Burns returned to active duty yesterday, and is expected to be available for the Monticello engagement. With Burns back the Blue and White lads seemed to take a new lease on life. Ball handling and passing showed much improvement as the varsity rode rough-shod over the sophomores.

Coach Brechler shifted his men about frequently in the scrimmage with the sophs in an attempt to find the best possible combination for Friday's tilt. Ernie Krogh, who was dropped to the second team in Monday's drill alternated with Hank Pelzer at the pivot position, and at times showed signs of regaining his old time form. Burns, Dawson and Smith alternated at the forward posts while Carson, Means, Canny and Morgan took turns in the back court.

One of the most enlightening features of yesterday's scrimmage was the fact that the locals apparently have found their basket eyes once again.

Off Injured NEW YORK (AP) — Mel Ott, captain and outfielder of the New York Giants, wired the club from New Orleans yesterday that he received a slight injury to his left hand when it became jammed in a door.

Weddings Of SUI Alumni Are Disclosed

Rebelsky-Anderson Nuptials Take Place In Clinton Thursday

The marriage of Zella Marie Rebelsky, daughter of Herman Rebelsky of Des Moines, and Lyle L. Anderson, son of Mrs. Charles Anderson of Des Moines, took place last Thursday in the First Lutheran parsonage in Clinton. The vows were exchanged at 7 p.m. and the Rev. H. E. Harvey read the service in the presence of the immediate families, and a few friends. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Erickson of Clarion.

The bride wore a frock of navy blue crepe with a short sleeved, quilted bolero with a gold buckle at the neckline. Her accessories were a matching shade of blue. Her corsage was of Johanna Hill roses and sweet alysum.

Mrs. Erickson wore a Japonich embroidered crepe frock with harmonizing accessories and a gardenia corsage.

After the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at the Hotel Moore in Clarion.

The bride was graduated from the Lyons high school and received her degree from the university in 1933. While at the university she was affiliated with Zeta Tau Alpha sorority.

Mr. Anderson attended the public school of Greene and also Drake university in Des Moines.

The couple will be at home in Des Moines where Mr. Anderson is manager of the circulation service division of the Meredith publishing company.

Sebolt-Dailey
Marriage vows of Florence Wilma Sebolt and Edward William Dailey were exchanged at a nuptial ceremony last Saturday in the Sacred Heart cathedral in Davenport.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin Cone officiated at the nuptial mass. Mary Barrett of Cedar Rapids and John A. Dailey Jr. of Burlington served as attendants. Richard Delaney of Peoria and Dr. Anthony Sebolt of Davenport, brother of the bride, served as ushers.

The bride wore a gown of white crepe fashioned with a V neckline held with a pearl clip. The gown in Empress style had long sleeves, and the skirt extended into a train. She wore a short tulle veil which fell from a doll hat of gardenias, and she carried a muff of gardenias.

Miss Barrett was attired in a floor length violet crepe gown designed in Empress style. She wore a fuchsia hat of velvet petals and carried a muff to match.

Thirty relatives and friends attended the wedding breakfast at the Dining club after the ceremony. Bouquets of white pompons and accacias decorated the table.

The couple left immediately afterwards on a wedding trip to the Gulf of Mexico. Mrs. Dailey wore for travel a brown suit with matching accessories.

The bride was graduated from the Davenport high school, Stephens college in Columbia, Mo., and the University of Iowa. Mr. Dailey completed his law course at the university also.

The couple will be at home in Burlington where Mr. Dailey is a member of the law firm of Dailey and Dailey and the police magistrate.

Checkers, Cards Will Be Played At Masonic Hall
A social hour with Chinese checkers and card games will follow the business meeting this evening of the Eastern Star. The meeting will be in the Masonic temple at 7:30.

New Wimple Hats Flatter Height; Add Touch of Contrast
Among the many startling different and new variations of millady's hat this season is the sudden popularity of the wimple. The draped style frames the face in a flattering touch of soft material and may also provide the touch of contrast that the costume needs. But unless your height is sufficient to carry out the effect, beware of being caught up by a fad. Casually draped with an untrimmed, cossak style hat and as the final accent for an otherwise untrimmed dress and coat, the result is fashionably charming.

New Fraternity Presidents

With the new year come new leaders for the fraternity houses on the campus. Elected by ballot, officers are selected from among the prominent students who have shown qualities of scholarship and leadership.

Alpha Sigma Phi elected Don Stutsman, C3 of Washington, Ia., (upper left) president of the chapter at a meeting Monday evening. Other officers include Eugene Knutson, C3 of Eagle Grove, steward, and Herbert Lubke, E1 of Decorah, pledge master.

Lamar Patton, C4 of Laurel, (upper right) was selected president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Other house leaders are Charles Hanna, C4 of Burt, vice president; Ned Poynear, A3 of Cedar Rapids, treasurer; Les Eicherly, C4 of Holstein, recorder; James Buch-ner, P2 of Maquoketa, chronicler; Albert Fillenwarth, E2 of Charles City, herald; Phil Coontz, P2 of Waterloo, warden; John Gilchrist, A3 of Davenport, correspondent, and Art Rideout, A4 of Dubuque, chaplain.

Richard Hoak, C4 of Des Moines, (lower left) was elected president of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity last evening. After the election Mr. Hoak and the following officers were installed: Robert Waples, A4 of Cedar Rapids, vice president; Nile Kinnick, A3 of Omaha, Neb., steward, and Jim Hoak, A3 of Des Moines, secretary.

Fairy Tale Romance Ends Happily

Prof. Hans Koelbel Marries After Bringing Fiancee From Germany

Two years ago a young German woman who was visiting her sister in Chicago met and fell in love with a fellow countryman who was a member of the Chicago Civic Opera company orchestra. They planned to be married in September of 1938. She returned to her native country, and her fiance, a naturalized American citizen, came to the University of Iowa to teach in the music department.

But even the best laid plans could not prevent the recent crisis which delayed the bride-to-be's return to the United States. So on Thanksgiving day her affianced lover left for Germany to make arrangements to bring her back. Using his influence as an American citizen with the consular service, he accomplished his purpose, and the two set sail for the United States on Jan. 5.

Yesterday the happy ending was written for this fairy tale romance with the marriage of Maria Quadt of Elberfeld, Germany, and Prof. Hans Koelbel of the university. Judge Harold D. Evans read the single ring service in the library of the county courthouse at 9 a.m. yesterday. Attending the couple were Prof. E. P. Schone, a native of Dresden, Germany, and a close friend of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Robert A. Eldridge.

A formal reception to which 60 guests have been invited will be given Sunday evening in the dining room of the Jefferson hotel, honoring the couple.

Mrs. Koelbel, who received her education in Elberfeld schools, is an enthusiastic patroness of music and the other arts. Mr. Koelbel, whose home was in Leipzig, Germany, before he began his musical career in this country, studied music at the Royal Academy in Saxony. He and Prof. Hans Muenzer were close friends and associates in Leipzig. The year after Professor Muenzer came to the United States, Professor Koelbel followed him. The two were on concert tour together for some time.

Later Professor Koelbel played with the Chicago Theater orchestra and became first 'celloist in the Chicago Civic Opera company orchestra. He taught in the University of Iowa during the summer sessions of 1937 and 1938. Last July he joined the faculty as an associate professor in 'cello.

The couple will make their home at 329 Ellis avenue.

Woman's Club Holds Tryouts For Production

Tryouts for the play festival production will precede the meeting of the drama department of the Iowa City Woman's club tomorrow in the recreation room of the Iowa Light and Power company. Beginning at 1:30 p.m., tryouts will last until the meeting at 2:30 and will be resumed after the program.

The program will be in the form of a radio broadcast under the direction of Mrs. Roy Flickinger. Those taking part in the impersonations of children's radio broadcasts include Mrs. Harry Newburn, Mrs. H. A. McMasters, Mrs. C. Woody Thompson, Mrs. C. A. Bowman, Mrs. H. J. Ferguson, and Mrs. William P. Mueller Jr.

Church Sorority Entertains For Recent Brides

Prof. Harry P. Smith to Give 7th Baconian Lecture Thursday

Head of Pathology Department to Talk On Blood Clotting

Prof. Harry P. Smith, head of the department of pathology in the college of medicine will give the seventh Baconian lecture tomorrow evening in the senate chamber of Old Capitol at 7:30 p.m.

Professor Smith is widely known for his research in blood clotting and will speak on the topic, "Blood Clotting and Blood Diseases."

Last November he received a renewal of a grant from the John and Mary R. Markle foundation and this will enable him to continue his research in this field. The new grant is for $5,000 yearly and will continue for a two year period.

His research has shown the feasibility of treating jaundiced bleeders with a new vitamin, vitamin K. In addition considerable progress has been made in showing that the liver is vitally concerned in the manufacture of prothrombin, a substance in the blood that aids in clotting.

Professor Smith has also had considerable success in isolating certain of the factors concerned in the clotting process.

He received his B. A. degree in 1916, his M. A. in 1918 and his M.D. degree in 1921, all from the University of California. He has held his position with the college of medicine in the University of Iowa since 1930.

Test Time 257 Schools Enrolled In Project

The period which sixth, seventh and eighth grade pupils regard with little enthusiasm — testing time — opens today with 257 schools enrolled in the University of Iowa's service project.

After all of the tests are scored and analyzed by the university's educational experts, school officials will have a clear picture of the pupils' progress in the basic skills.

For the 29,500 pupils, the tests mean about five and one-half hours of work distributed over four testing periods. The schools have until Feb. 1 to administer the test batteries.

The 1939 enrollment is only three schools short of the total of last year. In addition, all schools in three counties will be tested. These counties are Osceola, Buena Vista and Iowa, while Rock Island county of Illinois also is participating.

Prepared by university faculty members, the tests are in silent reading comprehension, basic study, language and arithmetic skills.

Growing Quad Group to Sing At Oskaloosa

The Quadrangle singers, who sing because they like to, will make their first out-of-town appearance Feb. 6 when they present two concerts at Oskaloosa.

Under the direction of Hugh Cockshoot, A4 of Wilton Junction, the singers will perform at the high school and before the Kiwanis club.

Chosen from the best singers in the quadrangle, men's dormitory with some 700 occupants, the organization has been in existence for three years.

The Camp Fire girls was organized in 1911 for girls 10 to 18 years old and 20 years later had more than 200,000 members.

Article About Iowa Graduate; Dr. Gallup Receives Mention

Dr. George H. Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, once editor of The Daily Iowan, gets a big play in "The Human Yardstick," a featured article in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

This former Iowan, who was born at Jefferson, has entered the public picture numerous times since he graduated from Iowa in 1923. His storybook success with the astounding accuracy of the American Institute of Public Opinion is analyzed by Williston Rich in this Post article.

Gallup was less than a half of one per cent wrong in the total by which he forecast that Dewey would be defeated in the campaign for governorship of New York. He hit 56 out of 60 winners for senator. His national "sample" polls appear in many newspapers and are sought by thousands of readers regularly. When the Literary Digest poll forecast a republican victory, Dr. Gallup was of opposite opinion and time proved his count correct.

The Post tells of Gallup's success on the university campus, giving

'Traveller At The Inn' Adaptation of Tale By Irving Will Be Aired Over WSUI

An adaptation of Washington Irving's "Traveller at the Inn" will be given during the "Drama Hour" program over WSUI tonight at 8 o'clock.

The production is by Frank South, A3 of West Des Moines, and is called "The Face."

The cast includes Clair Henderson, A3 of Onawa, as Mark; Peggy Reagan, A4 of Port Arthur, Tex., as Lucy; Jean Howarth, A3 of Atlantic, the woman; Milo Green, A3 of Corning, as the "Face."

Berwyn Collettine A4 of Waterloo, as the father; Charles Volger, A4 of Muscatine, as the servant; Marold Glaspey, A2 of Hills, as the painter; Lowell Challey, A4 of Marathon, as Filippo; Robert O'Brien as the count and James Nelson, E3 of Atlantic, as the captain.

This is another in WSUI's series of production plays.

ing in detail his activities. "Gallup managed to hang on through the next two years with the help of a nonathletic scholarship and a $35-a-month job tending towels in the gymnasium. His senior year, he was made editor of The Daily Iowan. Until then, it had been like any other undergraduate paper. From then on it was outstanding. Gallup fattened it up with a national wire service and coverage of local news, built a new plant to fit it, sold enough advertising to pay the tab."

Details of the founding of the school of journalism at Iowa follow. Gallup and William S. Maulsby, one of his former professors and later first paid employe of the institute, were instructors.

The Post tells of the organization of Quill and Scroll, now having a thousand chapters. Later followed the experiments into determining public opinions and preferences by the "Gallup method." He joined the firm of Young and Rubicam of New York, advertising specialists, after teaching at Northwestern. Many of his surveys have had surprising results.

Mott's Book Reviewed in N. Y. Times

American Magazine History Published by Harvard University Press

(Ed. note: the following review of Prof. Frank L. Mott's second and third volumes of "A History of American Magazines" appeared in the New York Times book review supplement Sunday. The book was published by the Harvard University press.)

PROF. FRANK L. MOTT

In the first volume of what promises to be a monumental history, Professor Mott advanced three modest claims for American magazines: they provided a democratic literature, played an essential role in the economics of literature and furnished an invaluable record of American society. These claims are here renewed, elaborated and substantiated for the period after the mid-century.

That was in every way a significant period and one which witnessed the real beginning of the American magazine—the magazine which broke away from the British and Continental tradition and achieved national status. It was during this period that the magazine began to compete with the newspaper rather than with the book, that it became definitely a commercial enterprise, and that advertising became first respectable and then essential.

And this was the generation, too, of the great editors whose roll Professor Mott calls: Godkin, Curtis, Holland, Gilder, Howells, Lowell, Beecher, Bowen, Rice, Alden and the somewhat less reputable Bonner, Frank Leslie, Brownson and Bierce.

The function of the magazine as an organ for democracy, a sponsor for literature and a mirror to society, Professor Mott keeps steadfastly in view. The heart of the matter, says Professor Mott, is "What did they print?" and the answer is that they printed everything that Americans were willing to read.

With the catholicity of a scholar and the thoroughness of a sleuth, Professor Mott has examined the contents of every magazine published during these years—from the Ic-dly Atlantic and the Frosty Nation to the popular Harper's Weekly and the vulgar Police Gazette, to the esthetic Dial to the romantic Peterson's, from the frivolous Puck to the flashy Woodhull and Claflin's Weekly.

Nothing is omitted: here are the stout theological reviews, the breezy society papers, the ponderous learned magazines, the myriad trade and professional journals, the indispensable children's periodicals. The result is a faithful and picturesque delineation of the American society and a lively interpretation of the broadest social interests which seem to justify Professor Mott's assertion that "not even the newspapers present so effectively the veritable life of the times."

Professor Mott is scarcely less interested in the economic mechanics of magazines than in their literary content. A large part of the analytical material in both of the present volumes is devoted to problems of advertising, manufacturing and editorial costs and to the function of the magazines as markets for literary wares. Some magazines thought it more dignified to exclude all advertising material; others compromised on book advertising; still others served as the organs of publishing houses and advertised only their own literary merchandise. Sooner or later almost all the magazines succumbed to the lure of advertising, and in time there developed the magazine which was primarily for advertising purposes.

Thus the People's Literary Companion of Augusta, Me., was an organ for E. C. Allen's washing powder, but that did not keep it from attaining a circulation of some 40,000. Even the better magazines sometimes subordinated editorial to advertising matter, and the Philistine could observe caustically that "The Century, it is said, will insert a page or two of reading matter between the Italian art and the ads."

The Independent—of all papers—sold editorial space to the Northern Pacific Railroad, the editor receiving no less than half a million dollars in dubious railroad stock for the use of his columns.

It was advertising, of course, who boldly picketed Harper's publishing house with a placard "One of Harper's Authors. I am Starving."

For all the entertainment packed away in these volumes, reading them is a sobering experience. Few will be inclined to challenge the conclusion implicitly in these pages; that the magazines of our grandfathers were better edited, better illustrated, more readable, than those with which we solace or instruct ourselves.

None can escape wonder that the good die so young and that the mortality rate is so high. What can take the place of the old St. Nicholas and the Youth's Companion, those magazines which opened the portals of heaven to the children of two generations.

What magazines today publishes novels as well as those which appeared regularly in the old Harper's or Scribner's, historical material as valuable as that in the old Century, fashions as delectable as those which graced the pages of Godey's and Peterson's, illustrations entrancing as those of Scribner's.

What magazines today wage war against social and political evils as valiantly as did the Muck-rake periodicals of the 90's. Where is a weekly journal of opinion to compare with the old Nation, where a monthly as instructive as the old Outlook, where a literary magazine to match the Dial?

Who would not trade in his file of any magazine of the last 20 years for any one of the dozen magazine files from the 80's? Yet the resources of our contemporary magazines are vastly greater, the technique of printing and illustrating vastly improved, the circulation far larger. What is the explanation of the decline in interest, value and influence of our contemporary magazines?

A study of Professor Mott's volumes would lead us to suggest that one major reason for the decline of the magazine is the frantic effort to compete with the newspaper, the radio and the news reel has sacrificed the contemplative and detached mood, the perspective and balance, which the earlier magazines retained.

It is eight years now since Professor Mott inaugurated his history of American magazines with the confident announcement that two volumes would suffice to tell the whole story. If he did not then appreciate the immensity of the task which he had undertaken, he has now reached a more sober comprehension of its dimensions.

These two massive volumes cover just 35 years. Two more are promised, to bring the story down to date, but it is highly improbable they will suffice. The prospect of an ever-lengthening series is an exhilarating one.

These chapters are followed by the succinct but adequate histories of the leading magazines of the time—some 40 in each volume—and in every case the histories are complete.

Some of these are admirable, though there is throughout a tendency to apologetics. Some of the best essays are those recording the spotted careers of the lesser and more fugitive magazines: the Overland Monthly, Puck, Woodhull and Claflin's Weekly, the Police Gazette, the Ledger, the Beadle magazines, Vanity Fair, and the Dial of melancholy memory.

The scope of the history is encyclopedic, but the manner is never stodgy, and Professor Mott has miraculously preserved a sense of humor and perspective throughout it all. We are reminded that the magazine Old Guard characterized Webster's dictionary as "that immense monument of ignorance, folly and fraud" that the phrase "dizzy blonde" was good slang in the 60's, that the indefatigable James Parton cured himself of the nasty habit of smoking by taking a drink of whisky whenever he felt tempted, and that the stuffy Princeton Review approved of Trollope because "he could be a realist without ceasing to be pure."

We are presented, too, with the trivial as well as the significant aspects of society: with the black crook and the bicycle craze, with croquet and Lily Langtry, with the Beecher divorce and the Woodhull scandal, with torch-light parades and dime novels and the Five Little Peppers, and with poor Fitz-James O'Brien,

Iowa Dames Will Entertain At Bridge Party

New Colors Mattresses Keep Pace With Times

Keeping pace with the tempo of the times, mattresses have become more color conscious!

The newest cover fabrics are so good looking that some smart and enterprising women may be tempted to turn them into house-coats instead of leaving them on the beds where they belong.

They have everything that the new arrivals in spring dress fabrics have—color, pattern, interesting texture, and practicality. To begin with, the well-dressed mattress this spring is not going to be a shrinking violet in the bedroom color scheme. Quite the contrary.

Thanks to a cover fabric of rich apricot, gentian blue, lime green, canary yellow or Piccadilly rose, your new mattress is quite likely to set the color pace for the rest of the bedroom furnishings.

The patterns are just as arresting as the colors, for they include popular damask as richly designed as brocade evening gowns, gayly colored, tailored stripes that are a far cry from the drab blue and white ticking of other years, and novel all-over paisley prints.

"Soft as saateen and with the strength of sailcloth" best describes the textures of the new tickings.

These two massive volumes cover just 35 years. Two more are promised, to bring the story down to date, but it is highly improbable they will suffice. The prospect of an ever-lengthening series is an exhilarating one.

1937 Summer Session Plan To Be Used Again This Year

Eight-Week Period Will Begin June 12, Close on August 25

The form of summer session established by the University of Iowa in 1937 — an eight-weeks teaching period followed by an independent study unit of three weeks — will be used again in 1939.

As officials some six months in advance proceeded with plans for the 40th annual summer session, this was announced Tuesday.

Classes of the teaching term will open Monday, June 12, and will end Friday, Aug. 4, with the only convocation of the summer.

Only graduate students will be eligible to enroll for the independent study unit. This begins Monday, Aug. 7, and closes Friday, Aug. 25.

More than 600 courses will be available in seven colleges and the total number of different students served is expected to exceed the 4,000-mark. More than 3,000 actually will be present on the campus.

Colleges which offer work will be commerce, education, engineering, graduate, liberal arts, medicine, and law. The college of law will function under a different division of terms, two each of five and one-half weeks.

The university's 1938 session attracted 4,350 students, making it the fourth-largest since summer work was started here in 1900. The all-time record enrollment is 4,928, set in 1931.

Malcolm MacDonald, dominions secretary, urging an increase in the British birthrate, says "I confess I cannot do anything about it." How about a set of china, or bank night?

EXAMINATION SCHEDULE

First Semester 1938-1939

Saturday, January 21, 8 a.m., to Saturday, January 28, 4 p.m., 1939

The regular program of class work will be suspended, and the following semester-examination program substituted for it. Classes will meet for examination in the rooms in which they have been regularly meeting (except classes in SPECIAL GROUPS A, B, C, D, E, F, and G, as shown in the form below; and Speech (1), (2) and (3) as shown at the second N.B. below).

The Program Committee directs the attention of both students and instructors and professors, to the regulation that there is to be no deviation from this schedule, in the case of any examination—except as authorized by the Committee on Admission and Classification on the student's written petition, filed in ample time and supported by the recommendation of the department concerned,—to provide relief from an excessive number of examinations within a single day. Deviation for the purpose of completing examinations earlier will not be permitted.

Each student who is absent from the final meeting of his class as indicated in the Examination Schedule should be reported, on the official grade sheet at the end of the semester, as "Abs." Before this grade mark can be removed he must file with the Committee on Admission and Classification a written petition, with adequate vouchers attached, setting forth in full the necessity of his absence. This petition must include a departmentally signed statement indicating whether, in case the Committee finds the absence excusable, the student has the department's and instructor's permission to take the final examination. If the Committee finds the reason for the absence adequate it will issue to the student a partially prepared special report card (signed by the Secretary, lower left corner) with a form letter explaining to him that he has the Committee's permission, with the departmental consent and at the convenience of the instructor, to take his final examination within one month (or other designated period of time) from the date indicated.

If the student takes the examination thus authorized the outcome is to be reported on this card and not on any other card. In the case of conflicts (within the SPECIAL GROUPS A, B, C, D, E, F, and G) the Schedule itself, as presented below, provides a general method of making adjustments.

All classes whose first weekly meetings have occurred as indicated in the rectangles below, meet for examinations during the periods noted at the tops of these three columns, and on the days noted in the rectangles directly opposite at the left of the double vertical line. N.B. Unless students are reasonably sure that their semester's work, including final examinations, is successful they are requested to call (within the 24-hour period following the conclusion of each of their final examinations) at the offices of the deans of men and women, appropriately, in order to learn whether any of their instructors have reported Fd. for them; and if any student has reason to suspect that Fd. will be his record for one or more courses, he is requested not to register until he learns that he has passed.

CONFLICTS: In case of conflicting examinations the student should report to the instructor in charge of the first of the two conflicting subjects as listed within the particular SPECIAL GROUP rectangle above which is involved. (Read downward first in left column and then in right column.) This instructor will arrange for you a special examination. Report to him or her, not later than the regular class hour, January 16 or 17, if possible, January 9 or 10.

The first meeting of the class means the first lecture or recitation period in courses having both lectures and recitations, and laboratory periods; or in the case of courses involving only laboratory periods, the first clock-hour of the first weekly meeting. For example, chemistry 21 meets for lectures T Th S at 8. The first meeting is, consequently, Tuesday at 8—and the class will meet for examination Monday, January 23, 2-4, according to the tabular form above. Again, physics (125) meets twice each week, T F, for a three-hour laboratory exercise, 1-4. The period for the examination is, therefore, Friday, January 27, 2-4.

N.B. All sections of freshman Speech (1), (2) and (3) will meet during the examination week on the days and at the periods designated below. Rooms are assigned by the instructors.

Saturday, January 21—Section D, 8-10; Speech (2), 8-10.

Monday, January 23—Section A, 1-3; Section E, 3-5.

Thursday, January 26—Section I, 8-10; Section C, 1-3; Speech 3A, 1-3; Section G, 3-5.

Friday, January 27—Section J, 8-10; Section H, 10-12; Section B, 1-3; Speech 3B, 1-3; Section F, 3-5.

"ODD" classes, namely those whose first or only weekly meetings occur on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday or Saturday, or which meet "as arranged," will be assigned for examination as announced to each such class by the instructor in charge of the class, at one or another of the following periods:

1. From 4 to 6 on any day from January 21 to January 27, inclusive.

2. Any one of the examination periods assigned, as indicated above, for the examinations in SPECIAL GROUPS A, B, C, D, E, F, and G, since for such "odd" classes these five examination periods will be found quite available.

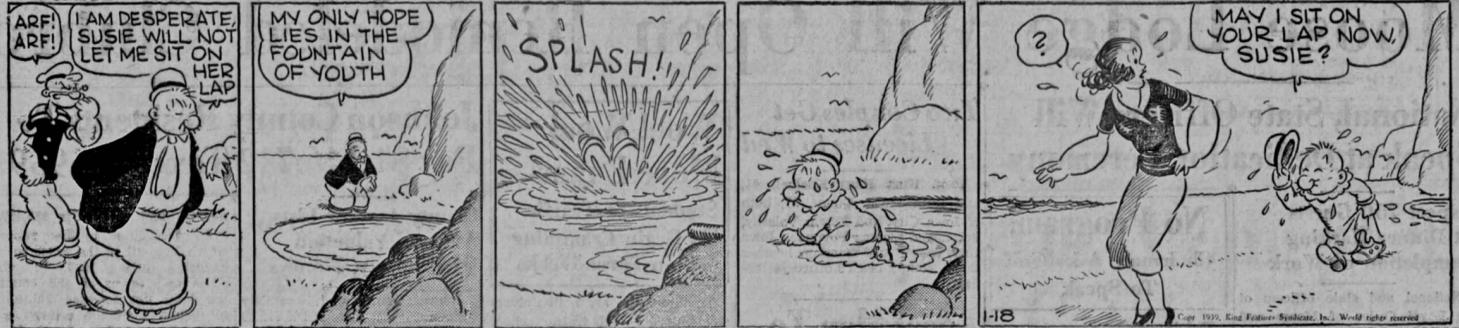

In connection with any such announcement it would doubtless be well for the instructor making the announcement to ascertain whether any member of his class is already under appointment for examination in some other class for the proposed period. To be sure, it is possible to have examinations in more than one class at any of these times,—if no student is a member of more than one of these classes.

According to one clause in the formal action providing for a special semester-examination program, "the instructor may use the examination period as he sees fit provided he holds the class for the full period. He may have an oral or a written examination, or both, or neither. He may continue regular work or he may use the time for review, or for any phase of his work which may seem to him desirable at this time."

According to another faculty regulation, which is on record as adopted by the faculty, "the student should be notified in advance of the final examination. Unless the instructor recognizes that his work up to this examination has been a failure, in which case the final report should be 'Fd.'—even though the student may have been absent from the final examination. No examination should be given, subsequently, to such a student until after the absence has been excused by the Committee on Admission and Classification, as shown by a partially filled special report card signed by the Secretary of the Committee, as indicating that the absence has been excused and that the student is authorized, subject to the consent and at the convenience of the instructor concerned, to take the final examination.

H. O. DORRAN, Secretary Program Committee.

Moose Lodge Will Open Remodeled Clubrooms Tomorrow

National, State Officers Will Speak at Dedication Ceremony

Expect 750 Guests At Dinner Marking Completion of Work

National and state officers of the Loyal Order of Moose and 750 members of the local Moose lodge will be present at a stag banquet tomorrow night to celebrate the dedication and formal opening of the recently completed $20,000 remodeling of the local lodge's clubrooms.

Bert W. Johnson, Chicago, supreme-prelate of the national organization of Moose lodges, will be the guest of honor and dedication speaker. Other high officers of Mooseheart to attend this event include Fred Zabel, Davenport, supreme vice-dictator; Louis Lang, Muscatine, president of the Iowa Moose association; J. Emmitt Fines, regional director of the Loyal Order of Moose and secretary of the Des Moines lodge; C. W. Bowers, dictator of the Des Moines chapter; E. V. Meyer, Davenport, secretary-treasurer of the Iowa Moose association; David Barlow, dictator of the Davenport lodge, and Leo E. Kohl, Iowa City, second vice-president of the Iowa Moose association and permanent secretary of the Iowa City chapter.

Besides increasing the size of the third floor considerably by reconstruction work, the remodeling work has included a complete modernization of every detail of the clubrooms, from installing the newest types of indirect lighting systems to equipping the rooms with modernistic furniture.

The new arrangement includes eight main rooms, the main lounge, billiard room, bar, ladies lounge, kitchenette, secretary's office, lobby and card room. Inlaid rubber-sheet floor covering has been installed in all rooms except the main lounge. The main color scheme is in gray and red, the main lounge being faded rust. The entire floor is equipped with acoustical insulation and an air circulation system.

The men's card room is lighted by a daylight system, the main lounge with indirect floor and table lamps, and the rest of the rooms with indirect ceiling fixtures. The main lounge is equipped with leather-covered lounges, and the other rooms with chromium-tubed furniture. Part of the east wall of the bar-room and the skylights are inlaid with glass brick, and the rest of the windows are equipped with venetian blinds and blue velvet drapes.

The board of directors in charge of the building plans for the new clubrooms which will be formally dedicated tomorrow night are: E. W. Kurtz, president; Newton Mulford, vice-president; W. J. Parizek, treasurer; Leo Kohl, secretary, and Attorney W. J. Hayek, Anton Meintzer, Charles Lacina, P. A. Rayburn, T. J. Parker and C. F. Smith.

A moose and two deer which will be served to the 750 guests expected at the banquet by the 50 members of the local chapter of Women of Mooseheart were killed by five members of the Iowa City lodge.

F. W. Tallman, vice-dictator of the local Moose organization, announced that Les Hartman's WMT German band has been engaged for a house-warming party Jan. 26 to celebrate the opening of the new clubrooms.

Kiwanis Has Anniversary

Loewing Speaks To Meeting Attended By Charter Members

Prof. Walter F. Loewing of the botany department spoke yesterday noon at the 18th anniversary meeting of the Kiwanis club in the Jefferson hotel. His subject was "American Youth Comes of Age."

Charter members of the club who were present were introduced and Lieut. Col. James B. Owen, was announced as a new member of the club. The complete charter list includes Dr. Andrew W. Bennett, James T. Aldous, Harry L. Bremer, Albert B. Graham, Dean George F. Kay, George J. Keller, George D. Koser, Sam T. Morrison, Clifford L. Palmer, Prof. Henry L. Rietz, Albert B. Sidwell and Charles A. Wieneke.

Anniversary guests were Prof. Elmer T. Peterson, Richard Dean, Robert Eaton, Robert Gibbs, Richard Gibbs, Dr. Louis C. Zopf and Robert G. Behrens.

County Clerk Appoints Estate Administrator

Edward J. Stanoshek was appointed by County Clerk R. Neilson Miller yesterday to serve as administrator of the estate left by Frank Jonezyk, who died yesterday.

No Program! Chairman Asks Self To Speak

Ted Hunter, program chairman for the Lions club, couldn't contact a speaker for today's noon meeting so he nominated himself.

When a reporter asked him what the program for the meeting would be, Ted laughingly said, "there isn't going to be a program. I'm going to speak."

Editor's note—there is going to be a program, and it should be good. The time is 12 o'clock, and it's at Reich's pine room.

Police Report Two Accidents

Collisions Occur At College and Linn, Dubuque and Benton

With the advent of slippery weather two accidents were reported to Iowa City police yesterday.

The first collision occurred about 8 a.m. when the cars of Leonard Hacker, 732 Grant street and H. W. Stuck, 1301 Muscatine avenue, came together at College and Linn streets.

Police said the estimated damage to the Hacker car was about $20 while Stuck stated the damage to his auto would be nearly $50.

Shortly after noon police received word that the cars of Clarence Suetzel, route 2, Solon, and Leslie G. Cole, route 2, Iowa City, collided at Dubuque and Benton streets.

Damage to Suetzel's car was reported slight but the damage to Cole's automobile was set at approximately $50.

Police Locate Stolen Auto In Cedar Rapids

Iowa City police yesterday received word that the automobile stolen from George F. Trotter last Thursday night had been located in Cedar Rapids.

Cedar Rapids police said they had located the car the day after the theft, but had left it stand in the hope that the thief would return and be apprehended.

Trotter's car was stolen Thursday evening after a would-be bandit had failed to force him to open the local Sears Roebuck and company store of which he is manager.

Two Couples Get Licenses to Wed

Prof. Kurt Hans Koebel, 41, and Ruth Marie Quadt, 27, both of Iowa City, and Edwin Volesky, Solon, and Eleanor Povonder, Iowa City, were issued marriage licenses in the county clerk's office yesterday.

Local Men To Attend Meeting

Governor Wilson To Speak at Convention Of Farm Bureau

Twelve Johnson county farm bureau members will leave Iowa City tomorrow morning to attend the final session of the annual state convention of the Iowa Farm bureau federation at Des Moines, it was announced by Emmett C. Gardner, county agent.

Gardner left yesterday for Des Moines to attend the county agents' conference and other committee meetings which are scheduled to precede the convention.

Those leaving tomorrow are Will Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grizel, Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Stemmons, Mrs. H. J. Dane, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Fuhrmeister, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Womer and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Young.

Others interested in attending the convention are requested to notify the farm bureau office. Those planning to make the trip will return Friday night.

Gov. George A. Wilson will discuss agriculture before a session of the convention in the Shrine Temple here. Plans formulated by the state department of agriculture will be disclosed by Mark Thornburg, state secretary of agriculture.

Highly Desirable Paper HARDINBURG, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Bernard Beavin found three small balls of paper as she unwound a roll of carpet rags. Opening one of the balls she found a $100 bill. Eagerly, she opened the others. They also contained $100 bills. She was unable to account for their presence.

Farmers Receive $178,582 In Conservation Program Loans

Joe G. Raim, Solon, chairman of the Johnson county agricultural conservation committee, said yesterday that 313,320 bushels of sealed corn had yielded, since November, a total of $178,582.14 to Johnson county farmers who sealed their corn under the governmental AAA farm program.

Raim pointed out that March 31 is the last day on which farmers may take advantage of the 57-cents a bushel loan being given to them under the AAA program. He

Students of Traffic To Begin Cramming Within Three Weeks

To those who are both university students and traffic school members, exams are not over Jan. 28. An examination will be given in three weeks to all traffic school students, marking the last session of the school, Police Judge Burke N. Carson announced yesterday.

Judge Carson will speak on traffic rules and regulations at the regular weekly session of traffic school at 7:30 tomorrow night in the council chambers of the city hall. An open forum discussion will follow his talk.

Funeral to Be At Beckman's

Rev. Voigt Officiates At Morning Service For Mrs. D. Gallaher

Funeral service will be held at 9:30 this morning at Beckman's for Mrs. D. J. Gallaher, 82, 720 N. Van Buren street, who died in her home Monday night. The Rev. Edwin E. Voigt, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church will officiate. She will be buried at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Greenwood cemetery at Galena, Ill.

Mrs. Gallaher was born in Daviess county, Ill., March 17, 1856. She was married in 1879 to Daniel J. Gallaher, who died in 1926. They had lived here since 1915.

She is survived by six children, Ruth A. Gallaher, Iowa City; Henry D. Gallaher, Spokane, Wash.; Maj. Charles W. Gallaher, Richmond, Ky.; James A. Gallaher, St. Paul, Minn.; and Dr. David M. Gallaher of Appleton, Wis., and eight grandchildren. She was preceded in death by Emily and Helen Gallaher.

Johnson County Residents To Pay $1,146,712 Taxes in 1939

County Auditor Lists Assessed Valuation Of Property, Moneys

Johnson county and Iowa City residents will pay $1,146,712.26 in taxes this year, County Auditor Ed Sulek said in his valuation and tax report submitted to the state board of assessment and review yesterday.

The total net assessed value of all property in the county, except moneys and credits, is $35,457,978, according to the report, which lists all of the taxes to be collected during 1939. In the cities and towns of the county the total net assessed value of all property in the county, except moneys and credits, is $35,457,978, according to the report, which lists all of the taxes to be collected during 1939. In the cities and towns of the county the total net assessed value of all property in the county, except the moneys and credits value in cities and towns has been placed at $3,511,434.

The total net assessed value of all property in the rural districts is $21,369,405, which does not include moneys and credits of an assessed value of $1,324,514, Auditor Sulek stated.

Assessed valuations of property in the cities and towns of the county include the following:

Personal property less exemptions, $1,060,835; telegraph and telephone, $77,407; electric companies' property, $546,030; gas works' property, $313,158; water works' property, $253,558. In rural districts the assessed valuation of property includes the following:

Land and buildings less exemptions, $18,543,269; personal property less exemptions, $1,630,043; telegraph and telephone, $360,751; transmission lines, $65,800; rural pipe lines, $22,920; and Iowa City water works property, $1,264.

Funds from the total amount of taxes which must be collected this year will be split up as follows: county, $415,549.71; state, $88,133.06; cities and towns, $208,089.79; schools, $432,772.47; and township cemeteries, $2,167.23.

The sentiment of congress seems to be for a neutrality law with that of the old fight in it.
