

16 Reported Dead In Heavy Snow Storms

New England Suffers Most By Onslaught

Transportation Stops In Many Districts; Schools Kept Closed

By The Associated Press Blinding snowstorms swept across a dozen northern states yesterday in the most furious onslaught of the winter.

Transportation was staggered or stopped in many districts between Missouri and New England by snow scaling up to almost 15 inches.

Business and industry in some cities were slowed by the staggering burden. Hundreds of schools were closed.

In the north 16 deaths were reported. Most of them were attributed to exhaustion and over-exertion. Wind and lightning caused three fatalities in the south.

Chicago Hit Chicagoans floundered through one of the worst storms in the city's history. A blizzard piled up 14.8 inches of snow in 14 1-2 hours—a mark exceeded by only three others on record there.

Three rear-end collisions on the elevated lines sent at least 45 passengers to Chicago hospitals. Several were injured seriously. The trains were crowded but were moving slowly in the flake-fogged gloom.

Chicago and street car company officials pressed 5,000 men into snow-clearing service after the storm subsided. Mayor Edward J. Kelly asked for 3,000 additional WPA workers to meet the "extreme emergency."

Traffic at Standstill The Chicago motor club warned auto traffic was at a standstill in parts of northern Illinois, northern Indiana and southern Michigan.

Drifts four to eight feet deep blocked highways radiating from the city. At least 10 towns were isolated by the huge hummocks.

A half million Chicago school children enjoyed a holiday. The gates of all cemeteries and the doors of many small stores remained locked.

Commuters attired in hunting shoes, stocking caps and goggles imparted a "ski special" atmosphere to suburban trains. Courts were adjourned. The mayoral campaign was suspended.

Drifting snow measured four to 10 inches in western New York and an even foot in Syracuse. It mounted to a yard in depth between Rochester and Buffalo.

Roads were blocked in some sections. Gales Hit East Winds of gale force scattered snow and sleet in eastern Massachusetts. Heavy snow fell in New Hampshire, Vermont and western Massachusetts.

Connecticut reported three to four inches. A blizzard hampered travel in Ontario.

Flare and bus schedules were cancelled in many parts of lower Michigan. County schools in several sections were closed.

Classes were suspended, too, in county schools in the Cleveland and Toledo areas in Ohio and in Elkhardt, Michigan City and several rural districts in Indiana.

A steady rain sent water over several roads in southern Indiana. Snow up to a half foot drifted in Missouri.

Railroads Offer $90 Round Trip To Both Fairs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The nation's railroads will carry a visitor from any point in the country to both the New York and San Francisco world's fairs—and home—for a flat $90 rate.

J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads said today the $90 rate, beginning on April 28, would cover coach travel.

Resigns

Martin T. Manton

One of the highest ranking federal jurists in the nation, Judge Martin T. Manton of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, at New York, defended himself against published charges by stating he "never thought it was wrong" to engage in outside business activities.

Manton Leaves Justice Bench

Denies Accusations Of Accepting Loans Involving $400,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Martin T. Manton, white haired senior judge of the second U. S. circuit court of appeals and the nation's highest ranking jurist next to the justices of the supreme court, resigned today amid a broadening investigation of accusations that he accepted more than $400,000 in loans from persons interested in cases which came before his bench.

He categorically denied any wrongdoing, but said he preferred to step down rather than to be "the central figure in a controversy, no matter what its outcome, that could be seized upon by malicious minds to cast reflection upon the court, or to weaken public confidence in the general administration of justice."

His resignation—transmitted to President Roosevelt to be effective no later than March 1—will not end a three-sided inquiry into the charges brought against him.

In Washington, Attorney General Frank Murphy made clear that a "thorough investigation" by the justice department would go on; here, New York county District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey said he was considering a "possible criminal prosecution under the income tax laws of the state" and U. S. District Attorney Gregory F. Noonan said any evidence indicating criminal violation of federal statutes would be put immediately before a grand jury.

Judge Manton, who is 58 and was appointed to the federal bench by President Wilson in 1916 and to the circuit court in 1918, made known his decision to quit after it already had been stated in Washington by Attorney General Murphy and by Rep. Sumners (D-Tex.), chairman of the house judiciary committee, that he would do so.

Amlie Will Appear Before Senate Group To Defend Himself

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Thomas R. Amlie, Wisconsin progressive, announced today that he would appear in person before a senate subcommittee to answer questions as to his fitness to serve on the interstate commerce commission.

Until then, Amlie added, he has no comment on the protests against his nomination. The subcommittee hearing begins next Monday.

Baldwin Warns Britain Willing To Go to War

Says It Is Sad To See Hitler, Il Duce Compromise Class

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Earl Baldwin, former prime minister of England, speaking tonight at the same time Adolf Hitler was voicing German demand for colonies, warned it would be a "dangerous illusion" to imagine England was afraid to fight.

If war should come, he declared, "we will fight with a unanimity never seen before."

Delivering a speech in which he admitted the parts deploring the world armament race had been discussed with Prime Minister Chamberlain, Baldwin told a Worcester women's national service recruitment meeting:

"It is sad to see Hitler and Mussolini compromising the opportunity of their own class (working class) to improve a low standard of living by keeping them at work making ammunition for a bloody war."

The predecessor made no mention of Hitler's speech. Treatment of that speech was reserved for Chamberlain in a full dress foreign affairs debate in the house of commons tomorrow.

British concern over European tension was clearly indicated, however, by an admiralty announcement that plans had been changed by which the $2,000-ton battle cruiser, Repulse, would retain her full armaments during the royal visit to Canada and the United States next May and June.

The original intention had been to remove the four eight-inch anti-aircraft guns of the Repulse to give King George and Queen Elizabeth greater accommodations.

In the course of his address the former prime minister disclosed that he was a co-author of Chamberlain's appeasement policy of personal contacts with the heads of European governments.

Herring Reports Birmingham 'Made Favorable Impression'

Hopkins Considers Demo State Leader For Fisheries Post

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Senator Herring (D-Iowa) reported today Democratic State Chairman Ed Birmingham "made a good impression" when he called on Secretary of Commerce Hopkins regarding appointment as commissioner of the bureau of fisheries.

Herring, Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) and Representative Harrington (D-Iowa), Birmingham's fellow townsman, introduced Birmingham to Hopkins.

"Secretary Hopkins explained that there were about a hundred candidates for the job," Herring said, "it's a presidential appointment."

Persons who attended the conference said relations were cordial between Hopkins and Gillette. Hopkins supported Gillette's opponent, former Representative Otha D. Wearin, in the democratic senatorial primary last year. Gillette voted last week for Hopkins' confirmation as secretary of commerce after making an address saying that if he were choosing a cabinet, Hopkins would be one of the last men he would want in it.

Osborne Association Gives Unsatisfactory Reports on Homes for Juvenile Delinquents

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Discovery of such forms of punishment as whipping, handcuffing, cold-tubbings and confinement in straitjackets and shackles among some of the 13 juvenile delinquents' institutions in seven west north central states, including Iowa, was reported today by the Osborne association.

The association, founded by the late Thomas Mott Osborne, a penologist, also said in the first of a series of reports on a nationwide survey of state and federal institutions that—

New Shocks Menace Chile

Rescue Workers Fight Hardships in Face Of Morale Breakdown

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 30 (AP)—Menaced by new earthshocks, rescue workers struggled today to bring relief to stricken southern Chile before a complete breakdown of the morale of survivors of last Tuesday's disastrous quake.

The survivors underwent intense hardships, despite the efforts of relief works, because of lack of food, shelter, clothing and medical aid.

While thousands of men worked to clear away tons of stone and remove an estimated 25,000 or 30,000 bodies the government was doing its utmost to send all women and children and injured persons from the stricken regions.

Refugees huddled in parks in Chillan feared the coming of night as a result of terrifying shocks last night which some described as just as strong as Tuesday's. They did little damage, however, because the Tuesday earthquake had razed almost everything in the city.

A government official said a survey had disclosed that only 20 houses remained standing in Chillan, where the official population figure was more than 46,000.

Dynamite Blast Kills Two Men In Garage Plant

FORT COLLINS, Col., Jan. 30 (AP)—Two men were killed today and four were injured, one critically, by an explosion of three truckloads of dynamite in a garage at the Colorado-Portland Cement company's plant six miles northwest of Fort Collins.

The blast, felt 28 miles away, destroyed the garage, a 12-room stucco office building and cracked a wall of the main plant building.

The two men were Dudley Tremaine and Lorenz Saracino, both factory workers.

Walter Hammett, chief clerk, was reported in a critical condition.

The dynamite exploded after it had started burning while workmen were "warming" it for blasting use in the plant's limestone quarry.

Patched Up Coogan Confident His Troubles Over

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 30 (AP)—Jackie Coogan, child star of the silent films, was confident today that the troubles besetting him and his actress wife, Betty Grable, were over.

Arriving here for a personal appearance, Coogan said: "Betty and I have settled our troubles. We talked it over before I left California. Perhaps she will join me in New Orleans."

Miss Grable and Coogan have been living apart until, she said, he gets his financial affairs straightened out. His suit against his mother and stepfather, seeking an accounting of the fortune he earned as "the Kid," is pending.

"Betty and I will start house-keeping as soon as my tour is over," Coogan said. "I love her. I'm glad it's settled. We have a great many plans for the future."

He said the reason—other than financial—for his tour is that he believes vaudeville is ready for a comeback in the United States and "I think I am doing something worth while."

Farm Road Fight Moves Outside Party Lines in Iowa House

IMPEACHMENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Several senators received a form telegram today from "The Middle Class League of America" asking that they support a move to impeach President Roosevelt.

Rep. J. Thompson Fires First Gun In Attack on Measure

DES MOINES, Jan. 30 (AP)—A farm-to-market road fight that threatens to dissolve party lines at least temporarily was shaping up tonight in the Iowa house.

Chairman Dewey Goode (R), Bloomfield, of the house roads and highways committee, announced today that he would call up the measure for consideration the first thing tomorrow morning.

The bill would take $1,298,000 immediately from primary road funds to match federal farm-market aid. From a long time standpoint it would allocate 15 per cent of the fees Iowans pay for motor vehicle licenses to the improvement of secondary roads.

Meanwhile the house passed a resolution opposing the suggestion by President Roosevelt that federal and state salaries and securities be subjected to each other's income tax laws. The vote was 94 to 13, with the opposition largely centered in the democratic contingent.

The house adjourned until 9 (See HOUSE, page 6)

Outlines Nazi Policies in Talk Of Anniversary

Demands Return Of Germany's Pre-War Colonies in Speech

BERLIN, Jan. 30 (AP)—Adolf Hitler tonight pledged German support for Italy in any war against her, demanded return of Germany's pre-war colonies, and warned the United States to keep her hands off German trade with South America.

To a world tensely waiting for an indication of how he would next use his power and whether Germany would support Italian claims against France, Hitler declared Germany and Italy were "determined to give common support to common interests."

In a bristling outline of Nazi policies to an enlarged reichstag summoned on the occasion of the sixth anniversary of Hitler's rise to power, the Fuehrer also:

1. Warned the western powers against interfering "in matters concerning us alone with the purpose of preventing natural and sensible solutions";

2. Raised the possibility of the use of force to get back the 1,000,000-square mile colonial empire "stolen" from Germany unless redistribution of colonies was made on a basis of "fairness and common sense";

3. Repudiated "any American intervention in German affairs" and said German relations with the United States suffered from "a campaign of deflation carried on to serve obvious political and financial interests";

4. Launched a bitter attack against bolshevism;

5. Hailed insurgent success in Spain as another "valiant defeat of the newest universal attempt to destroy the European cultured world";

6. Assailed United States Secretary of Interior Ickes and three British statesmen who frequently attack Nazi policies as "apostles of war";

7. Proclaimed that Europe could not "come to rest" until the Jewish question was settled;

8. Disavowed any German territorial demands upon England and France "except that of the restoration of our colonies"; and

9. Envisaged the possibility of a trade war by which Germans "either live—meaning export—or die" but warned that German leaders were "ready for everything."

Hitler spoke to a reichstag of 855 brown-shirted deputies which in its larger size symbolized his greatest achievements—annexation of Austria and the Czechoslovak Sudetenland. For the first time 73 Austrian and 41 Sudeten deputies took their places with their German colleagues.

He drove to the Kroll opera house, where the reichstag met, through banner-decked streets. He started talking promptly at 8:03 p.m. (1:02 p.m., CST), and did not finish until 10:20. In the closing passages he was bothered by a slight cough.

The Fuehrer boasted of Germany's progress despite the restrictions of post-war treaties, spoke scornfully of attacks on Germany by speakers and the press of certain democracies, and declared that despite troubled times he believed in a "long peace."

Behind The Times

FOR NEARLY a century counties have existed as political units for executing the work of the states and administering their laws. County boundaries have rarely been altered since they were laid down sometime in the 1800's, and now these divisions have come to be no less out-moded than the old-time horse and buggy doctor.

In truth, the system of county governments as they still remain, brings exactly to that period. The areas of counties were ruled out so that from any part within the county lines, inhabitants would be able to travel to the county seat to transact their official business.

At the present time a day's travel may mean anything from a 300 or 400 mile ride in a car or a trip across the continent from New York to Los Angeles by plane. This proves that transportation facilities, the very basis of determining county lines, have advanced so greatly that the horse and buggy seems almost ridiculous to the present generation.

This fact is so evident that one cannot fail to realize it. Why then, do we tolerate a governmental division that is quite as old-fashioned as the one horse shay? Counties for economy and efficiency, might well be increased to twice their present size.

Mr. and Mrs. Public grumble at paying their taxes and sigh at the public debt. It is in their power to cut down these governmental expenditures. The best place to begin would be close to home by revamping county divisions.

Unprecedented cold weather in Europe was suffered recently even in Germany, where you'd think the Third Reich would do something about it.

A party of 100 British automobilists will tour the United States as far west as Chicago next summer during the New York World's fair. Call for Paul Revere!

Now that address is considered one of the best speeches ever made.

The significance of this instance can be applied to the present. President Roosevelt's message to congress a few weeks ago was reported extensively in papers all over the country and commented on. Phrases of it will be found in history books of the future.

All that is happening today is history—Spain's civil war, the Japan-China conflict, the brewing European situation, of these we are conscious all the time and read of in the daily papers, and we get more than the facts of these events; we get the view of humanity behind them, the struggles and the tragic results to an entire population.

This view of humanity is lacking in what we study as history. The student needs to remember that when he studies dates and wars and battles. He must read behind the lines and see that behind the French revolution, the Civil war and the others there is more than facts and dates. People lived and suffered then just as they do today.

We have just made up our minds what role we'd prefer in case of war. We'd like to be the forgotten man.

We'd think a whole lot more of Professor Einstein if he could give us a practical plan to make our furnace work.

What he was telling us was that this girl had a reason, a most excellent reason for behaving as she had been for months on end, for haunting dim-lit bars and bright-lit bars night after night and all night, and always saying the same thing to the men behind those bars, "Brandy . . . more brandy . . ."

What he was telling us was that this girl was dying of cancer, this lovely girl whose name is as pertinent to the theater as moon and tides and winds are to the ocean.

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Hardy as the chill, squally Manhattan weather that greeted him, Dr. James Naismith, the originator of basketball, arrived in town today and in a clear, incisive voice which belied his 77 years told a group of coaches, officials and sports writers what could be done to make the game better.

Dr. Naismith, now director emeritus of physical education at the University of Kansas, aimed his criticisms chiefly at officials and the rules body as he pointed out that:

1. The rules today consistently penalize the offensive team.
2. Many officials are not interpreting or enforcing the rules properly.
3. Elimination of the center jump, in addition to penalizing the scoring team, actually slows the game and eliminates many clever plays which would add spice.

Declaring that in his opinion the rules of 1932, if they had placed a penalty on a team which wouldn't go out and get the ball, were just about perfect, Dr. Naismith said the fundamental error of the rules committee was in penalizing the wrong team.

"Basketball," remarked the stocky, ruddy checked doctor with the grey peppered hair and bobbed mustache, "is not a game of contract, and yet a rules interpretation, which penalizes a defensive man when a dribbler charges into him, makes for rough play."

"I talked over that variety of foul with E. C. Quigley not so many years ago. In the next game he called the foul on the dribbler. The crowd boomed, and Quigley didn't do it again. The fans apparently are against anything which would handicap the team with a score in prospect.

"The dribble primarily was evolved to enable a cornered player to get away. Yet today it is used as a weapon with which the offensive player can crash into a defensive man without fear of penalty."

Regarding the insistence that the offensive team be the aggressor, Dr. Naismith points out it should be the duty of the defensive team to prevent a stalling game, and as an example of what happens when a defensive team waits for an opponent to come in toward the basket he cited a Missouri Valley A. A. U. league in Kansas City in which a team passed the ball 343 times by actual count without taking a shot at the basket.

The time-saving phase of elimination of the center jump is greatly overestimated, Dr. Naismith said. Before the jump was eliminated the average time for an official to get the ball and toss it up at center was four seconds. Now a player takes the ball under the basket, has five seconds to get it out, and the team has 10 more seconds in which to advance beyond the center of the court.

Twelve of the original 13 rules of the game still are in effect, Dr. Naismith remarked.

"And I wish the thirteenth, which called for the ball to be held with the hands only, was still in the book," he added.

"Sometimes when I see contests played in a pell-mell, rough and tumble style, I think I should stay away from games. But, on the other hand, the sport has shown remarkable progress, and when played strictly in accordance with the rules still is the clean, fast, scientific game it is intended to be. When they stop penalizing the offensive team by taking the ball from it every time it makes a basket they will take a long step forward."

Two old city rivals, U-High and St. Pat's, will renew hostilities Friday night when they clash on the latter's floor.

From the results of the games played to date, U-High will enter the game favored to win. The Blue and White lads have won five games and lost four, while the Irish have a record of three victories against seven defeats.

The Brechler men have been in a bad slump during the past three weeks, but in handing Anamosa its first conference setback Friday night, the locals displayed their old time form that gained them the league championship last year.

On the other hand, St. Pat's quintet has been idle during the past two weeks, and as a result have had ample time to carefully plan an attack which may bring them victory. Furthermore, the Blue and White lads have had somewhat of a jinx over them in past years in that they

Assistant May Follow Warner At Temple Job

Fred Swan Named In Speculation On Successor

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30 (AP)—The name of Fred Swan, former Stanford football star and for the past six years assistant to Glenn S. "Pop" Warner, was mentioned most prominently today in speculation on the successor to the "old fox" as head football coach at Temple university.

Warner, 68-year-old gridiron strategist, announced his resignation last night at his home in Palo Alto, Cal. His three-year contract with the Owls would have expired at the end of this year.

Temple university's athletic council, through Director Earl R. Yeomans, said it was "reluctant" to accept Warner's resignation and telegraphed him it was "well satisfied with your efforts and appreciate the contribution you have made to Temple football."

Yeomans said both Swan and Backfield Coach Charles "Chuck" Winterburn, who signed three-year contracts at the same time as Warner, would be retained and that both would receive "deep consideration" for the head position.

A well-informed university source said there was little question Swan would be named and would be permitted to select his own assistants. He added, however, that Winterburn, also a Stanford graduate, was certain to be retained.

Swan is known to have been recommended by Warner. The 35-year-old assistant, who captained the 1926 Stanford team, has been line coach at Temple and served in similar capacity at Colgate and Wisconsin.

"Certainly I'd like the job," Swan said in commenting on the reports.

Yeomans indicated the position might be filled soon.

Warner to Consider Stanford Position

PALO ALTO, Cal., Jan. 30 (AP)—Glenn S. "Pop" Warner, who announced his resignation last night as head football coach of Temple university, said today he would consider joining the Stanford coaching staff only with the consent of V. E. (Tiny) Thornhill, present mentor.

Warner, who went to Temple from Stanford six years ago and was succeeded here by Thornhill, his former assistant, criticized what he said was "undue, unauthorized and misleading publicity" concerning the possibility of his becoming an advisory coach here.

The veteran mentor, who said last night he hoped his assistant at Temple, Fred Swan, former Stanford player, would be made head coach, has a home on the Stanford campus, where he always has returned after the football season at Temple. He said he had no future plans.

"I have not been approached officially and want it thoroughly understood that I am not after Coach C. R. Thornhill's job," Warner said in a statement.

"I would be interested only in case the authorities should feel that I could be of service and providing my services would be welcomed by Mr. Thornhill."

Thornhill's contract expires in April but the board of athletic control has indicated a renewal would be offered.

Nead, Sherman Still In Undeclared Class

There is never much worry in college wrestling circles concerning the truth of the old saying about the comparative merits of the god big man and the good little man, but Mike Howard, Iowa mat coach, boasts one of the best of each in his 1939 team.

Of the eight men who have been doing the wrestling for Iowa, only two have records unblemished by defeat or tie, and they are the biggest and smallest men of the squad.

Wilbur Nead, whose record of eight straight matches won by falls came to an end Saturday night, still remain unbeaten. By virtue of falls won over Collins of Kansas State and Merry of Wisconsin, along with the decision over Seemann of Nebraska, Nead still has an enviable record.

Billy Sherman, 121-pounder from Council Bluffs has also made himself quite a reputation in this, his sophomore year. Sherman outpointed both of his first two opponents and then, against Nebraska, flopped his Cornhusker enemy.

have never been able to defeat both St. Mary's and St. Pat's in the same season.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 (AP)—Minnesota regained undisputed possession of first place in the Big Ten basketball race tonight by defeating an unexpectedly stubborn Chicago five, 34-27, before 2,000 spectators.

The last place Maroons gave the veteran Gopher team a terrific contest until the last four minutes of the game when Minnesota drew away.

Chicago built up a 17-9 lead late in the first half but a scoring spree by Dick, Kundla and Addington closed most of the gap and left the count 17-15 at intermission.

The victory gave Minnesota five victories in six conference games and put them a half game ahead of the second-place Ohio State team. The loss pushed Chicago farther into the cellar with only one victory in six starts.

Hawkllets Prep For Tilt With River Kings

Working hard to avenge an early season defeat in the hands of the River Kings, the Iowa City High Little Hawks drilled for two hours last night in preparation for their game with Clinton here Friday night. On the following night the Hawkllets travel to Williamsburg for a game with their Iowa county rivals.

The River Kings, by virtue of a rally in the closing minutes of the game, were able to down the Hawkllets 25-19 at Clinton in the first semester. It was a tough scrap all the way with the lead changing hands several times.

On the basis of their victory over Davenport's powerful Blue Devils last Friday, the Hawkllets will enter the game as the favorites. City high's victory over Davenport pushed them into a tie for first with Clinton and a Red and White win from Clinton will not only push them out of first but nearly kill the River Kings' hopes for a conference championship.

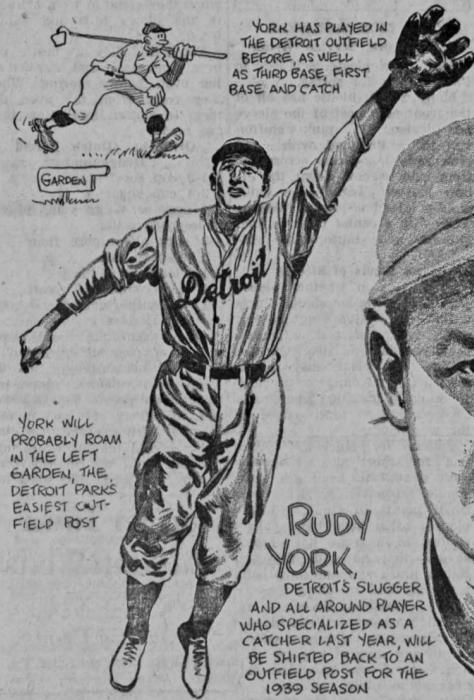

While Iowa City was giving Davenport the works last week, Clinton had an easy time of it downing Fulton, Ill., 30-38. Holle scored 17 points and Lund 10 for the winners.

Flu forced George Devine, tall Iowa City forward, to miss practice last night but he will be back in school again today. He was also bothered with the illness in the Davenport game.

Vergil "Seth" Parker, out of action since Christmas vacation because of an appendectomy, returned to practice last night. Coach Francis Merten alternated him and Buckley at Devine's forward post.

After spending some time on passing and guarding, Merten scrimmaged his varsity five against the reserves and then pitted them against the sophomores.

Iowa Mermen Start Swim Card Saturday With Chicago Team

By OSCAR HARGRAVE

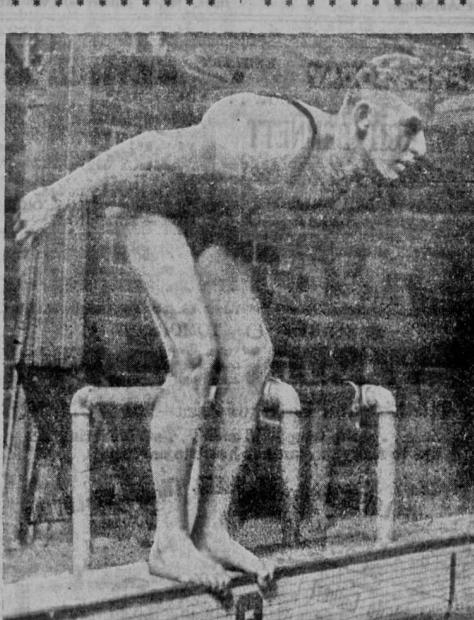

Iowa's 1939 swimming season gets started Saturday as Dave Armbruster takes his Hawkeyes, minus the services of Francis Heydt, star backstroke, to Chicago for a meet with the Maroons.

Heydt, who last week announced that he would not be in school, that might mean good fortune for Iowa, concerned the possibility that Bill Tesla, one of the Big Ten's leading distance swimmers last season, would probably be enrolled at the university next week. Considering the chances of Tesla's return, prospects are beginning to look brighter for Armbruster's charges, especially in the distance swims. With Tesla to go along with the brilliant sophomore, Carl Ahlgren, Ed Gerber and Bob Sebastian, Iowa will not be weak in the longer distances.

Although the loss of Heydt will be felt, there are still some backstrokers to carry on. Al Armbruster ranked only a few places behind Heydt last season on the national honor rolls, and Tony Bremer placed high in the Big Ten meet. Backing up Armbruster and Bremer, there will be Tom Saluri and Dale Williams, who have both improved rapidly.

The biggest thing to worry Coach Armbruster now, is the fact that exams have so closely preceded his opening meet. He has attempted to keep workouts on a daily basis, but the schedule of exams has prevented any degree of regularity, and the squad can hardly be expected to be in the best of condition for the opener.

This week, Armbruster intends to try finding out just how well the team is coming along. After the second semester gets under way, he plans a series of time trials to help him pick the squad for the Chicago trip.

Al Armbruster, above, has a job on his hands this year—he has to take over as the leading backstroke on the University of Iowa swimming team, a position that Francis Heydt had held a few weeks ago. But, Heydt was forced by his father's illness, to drop

Maroons Here For Initial Cinder Meet

With Iowa's first indoor track meet of the 1939 season coming up Saturday when the Hawkeyes entertain Chicago at the field-house, Coach George Bresnahan prepares to put the team through a tough week of training, along with a few more time trials to help him pick a squad for the meet.

Bresnahan, who has always had a few great runners on his teams, will have a few bright spots again this year, especially in the relays. To begin with, he has the same mile relay team that set a new Drake relay mark of 3:15.4 last spring. The four brilliant seniors, co-captains Fred Teufel and John Graves, Carl Teufel and Milt Billig, give Bresnahan plenty of strength in the 440- and 880-yard runs, in addition to the relay. Billig and Graves, in the sorority relays last month, ran the half-mile in time comparable to that of mid-season.

While the other members of the mile relay team run some of the longer distances, Fred Teufel adds the dashes to his work. He, Ed Higgins and Jim Wilson, Ed Higgins and Jim Wilson, are Bresnahan's leading candidates for the sprints, and one of them, Wilson, will do most of the high-jumping for Iowa. However, it is in the jumps, both high and broad, that Bresnahan lacks any great performers.

In the weight events, the Iowa mentor has been working Bill Leuz, Iowa City junior, Fred Smith and M. A. Harkness, while the pole vault depends mainly upon Dale Roberts, although Don Parrish has improved during the fall workouts.

In the mile, and longer distances, the Hawkeyes will have the services of Ed Elliot, dusky trackster from Ft. Madison, Merrill Erickson, Glen Sparks and Bill Matson. There appear to be no outstanding runners among this quartet, but they will provide balance in the distances.

Fortunately, there will be no low hurdles event in the Chicago meet. Dean Dort, who will add to Iowa's chances here, has not yet recovered from the gashed foot which he suffered in helping Eastlawn win the sorority relay. John Collinge, since Bush Lamb has graduated, will have to bear the burden in the high hurdles.

I. C. Division Of A. A. U. W. Presents Play

Skit by Mrs. Holst To Be Presented At National Convention

A playlet, "Via Iowa," directed by Mrs. W. F. Bristol will be presented as the February program of the Iowa City division of the American Association of University Women Feb. 19.

The playlet by Mrs. A. B. Holst of Cedar Falls has brought national recognition to its author with the invitation from Dr. Kathryn McHale, director general of the A.A.U.W., for the Iowa division of the association to present the skit before the national biennial convention in Denver, Col., June 19 to 23.

"Via Iowa" is a dramatized attempt to find an interesting form in which to present the findings of the study group in education of the Cedar Falls branch of the A.A.U.W. The skit, which was revised and enlarged by Mrs. Holst, Mrs. Leon Robb of Waterloo, state education chairman, and Mrs. I. H. Hart of Cedar Falls, state president, and given before the state convention in Cedar Rapids in 1938, was an outgrowth of the present long-term study program of state problems in education.

The action of the play takes place in a Pullman car enroute to Denver in June, 1939, and has a cast of six women, two from Iowa and one each from California, Indiana, Delaware and Florida. Their common interest in education has led them into a discussion of such problems as school finance, need for reorganizing the systems, teachers' standards and the like. The data presented pertains to the schools in Iowa.

Several branches of the A.A.U.W. are giving the play this year before other groups interested in public education, and neighboring states are in the process of adapting it to their use.

Box Pleats Spell Chic

Long, Short Sleeves Rated Toss-Up By Latest Paris Styles

By ALICE MAXWELL

AP Feature Service Writer

Paris—Box pleats spell chic in Paris blouses for spring.

Many a new blouse has all of the front and most of the sleeve box-pleated. A pink chiffon tuck-in is designed with eight pink satin box-pleats across the front and several down the elbow sleeve. Light blue satin blouses are box-pleated lengthwise, with a center pleat to hold buttons and button-holes together.

Two Kinds of Sleeves

It's a toss-up whether blouse sleeves be long or short. Shirtwaist styles have long sleeves, turned-back buttoned cuffs and usually a shallow yoke. Clusters of fine side pleats may fall in serried ranks from yoke to waist, flanking a closing where self covered buttons touch edges all the way down.

Collars for shirtwaist styles and for short sleeved models with a vent in back are often simple turnover styles with small points in front. Chiffon blouses often have band collars ending in a front tie. Elbow sleeves that go with the tied collars finish with the same band treatment and matching tie.

Waistcoat Style

Some back-closed satin blouses have incrustated bands that end in points and suggest a yoke. One incrustation tops shoulder and sleeve, the other radiates from neck edge in front and back. One in white satin has elbow sleeves and a small turn-down collar.

Lame blouses lean to waitcoat forms, coming over the skirt top and buttoning straight down the front. One of these fitted styles is fashioned of striped lame. It is striped with ball buttons made of the material. Necks of these may be high or may open in small revers, and sleeves are often leg-o-mutton topped and elbow length.

Cocktail tuck-in blouses are made of laces and nets. Sheer blonde laces have soft self ties to fill in the neck of the accompanying cocktail tulle jacket.

A heavy ecru lace blouse has a lace-ruffled neck, with the pleated ruffles continuing down front to the waistline. The elbow length sleeves of this finish with a turned up pleated frill.

Very ambitious blouses for dressy tailcoats are made of very sheer black net, embroidered with patterns in gold paillettes, gold embroidery, or narrow gold lace.

Old Dutch Custom Calls For Olykeoks for Hungry Skaters

The crisp, cold days of January and February always bring out the skaters who skim merrily over the shining surface of every frozen pond and lagoon.

And then they come home, raving hungry, their cheeks flushed with the cold and ready to eat you out of house and home.

There's an old Dutch custom or serving Olykeoks (oily cakes) cut on the ice in Holland where everybody from Grandma to baby takes to skates. Tents are set up on the ice and tired skaters glide into them to partake of hot steaming chocolate and the Olykeoks. They are really a version of our raised doughnuts except that they are made without the holes in the center. They are round crispy brown balls with a bit of luscious fruit buried in the center. So why not try serving them to the young folks when they come in from a tramp in the snowy hills and winter woods.

You'll find they are best if put in a paper sack and warmed in the oven before serving. When they come from the oven dip them in sugar. Here's how they are made.

Olykeoks (Dutch Raised Doughnuts)

1-3 cup shortening
3-4 cup sugar
2 eggs or 4 egg yolks plus 2 tablespoons water
5 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cake compressed yeast
1 cup milk (scalded and cooled to 80 degrees F.)

Cream shortening, add sugar and cream thoroughly. Blend in the well beaten eggs. Sift the flour once before measuring. Spoon lightly into cup to measure. Sift flour, salt and nutmeg together. Crumble the yeast into a bowl. Add the lukewarm milk and stir until the yeast is completely dissolved. Add the sifted skirts gathered on fitted basques. Matching crowns of velvet flowers in their hair and old-fashioned bouquets of roses completed their costumes. The maid of honor wore green velvet and carried tulle roses while the bridesmaids wore wine velvet and carried Ophelia roses.

After the ceremony, Dr. and Mrs. White entertained the bridal party and the immediate families at a wedding dinner in their home.

Mrs. Blakely was graduated from John Burroughs school and attended Radcliff college. Mr. Blakely, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Blakely of Onawa, was graduated from the university and spent last year in graduate work at Harvard university.

John Mason Brown Will Lecture Today

Drama Critic Appears Fifth In SUI Series

To Discuss Plays This Afternoon In Macbride Auditorium

John Mason Brown, dramatic critic of the New York Evening Post, will lecture at 4:10 o'clock today in Macbride auditorium, on the subject, "Broadway in Review."

Brown, who has been a visitor to the campus for the past three consecutive years, will review plays that have been on Broadway in the past year.

He began his writing career as a reporter on the Louisville Courier Journal during the last days of the Henry Watterson regime, even before he attended Harvard University.

At Harvard he was a member of George Pierce Baker's famous 47 workshop course. He graduated with a cum laude degree in 1923. Before graduating he had accepted the position as head of the dramatic department of the summer school of the University of Montana.

J. Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times says of Brown: "From every point of view John Mason Brown is an ideal dramatic critic. As the critic of the New York Evening Post he discusses every day the merchantable goods of Broadway. But he is also a scholar; he knows the history of the stage, the technique of acting and producing, the art of stage decor; and his two books, "The Modern Theatre in Revolt" and "Upstage," disclose a mastery of the entire subject.

"Brown brings to his profession a rich background, a sagacity of judgment, a full and alert mind and an infectious enthusiasm. These are the gifts that make him an ideal dramatic critic."

Brown has been a staff lecturer for the American Laboratory theater in New York and is now a staff lecturer for the League of Political Education, New York, the Philadelphia forum and the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences.

He is the author of five books on the theater, his latest "The Art of Playgoing." This book approaches the theater from the point of view of that usually forgotten person—the member of the audience.

Admission to the lecture will be by ticket. Tickets went into circulation Saturday to students and faculty at Iowa Union desk. Any tickets which remain today will be available to the general public.

Prof. R. Updegraff Will Address Child Study Club Meet

Guest speaker at a meeting of the Child Study club Saturday will be Prof. Ruth Updegraff of the psychology and child welfare departments. Professor Updegraff has chosen as her topic for discussion "The Child and Music."

Luncheon will be served at 12:15 in the river room of Iowa Union.

Nineteen Lectures Still on Club List

Nineteen lectures constitute the second semester program of the Radio Child Study club's broadcasts from station WSUI of the University of Iowa and WOI of Iowa State college.

In the infant and preschool, elementary school and adolescent series, five lectures each will be given, while four are scheduled concerning the family. The 1938-39 program closes April 6.

The 1938-39 enrollment of 2,850 persons in 190 groups constitutes a record, according to Prof. Ralph Ojemann, director of the project in its seventh year.

Chief of Police Gets Traffic Ticket

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—After eight months of trying, the police traffic squad finally "got" Police Chief Randolph House on a traffic violation charge.

"But I'm going to appeal," said the chief. "They got me for parking in a safety zone near the police commissioner's office. But the officers who wrote out the ticket didn't spell the word 'safety' correctly. That should be grounds for acquittal."

The squad's playful "feud" with their chief was to show him how impartially they enforce traffic laws.

All but 36 of Georgia's 159 counties either had started or completed rural electrification projects early in 1939.

"Broadway in Review"

John Mason Brown, above, noted drama critic, will speak on "Broadway in Review" at 4:10 this afternoon in Macbride auditorium, a speaker in the 1938-39 university lecture series. He has appeared here for the past three years.

Iowa Engineering Students Protest Against Legislative Proposal for Removal of College

University of Iowa engineering students, thoroughly aroused over the legislative proposal which would remove their college from the Iowa campus, yesterday were carrying out a systematic program designed to place facts of the importance of the Iowa college and fallacies in the combination proposal before Iowa legislators, alumni and the student body.

Two engineering meetings, one Sunday night and the other yesterday afternoon, resulted in two petitions which are being circulated among engineers and the general student body. Every student in the college of engineering has signed the document, and the number of signers was rapidly mounting last night among the rest of the student body.

A special bulletin was issued last night in the Iowa Transit, monthly publication of the college of engineering, its contents "an open letter to the citizens of Iowa" concerning the bill for the removal of the Iowa college.

Special Transit
Odif Podolsky, E3 of New York, N. Y., editor of the Transit, pointed out that the bulletin would be sent immediately to 400 engineering alumni of the university of Iowa, professional alumni of the university, Iowa legislators and other prominent citizens, as well as students and townspeople in Iowa City.

Parke Woodworth, E3 of Ipswich, S. D., and Maynard Dix, E4 of Cedar Falls, left yesterday morning for Des Moines, bearing information requested by Rep. William F. Morrison of Iowa City and other representatives of eastern Iowa.

Action by the legislature on the proposed bill may be delayed for a few days. The farm-market road bill will come up for discussion today, and controversies over that bill may delay the engineering document.

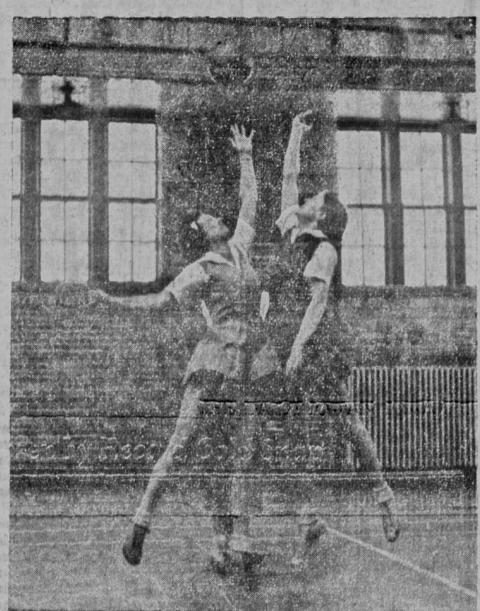

Employment Problem
Here is the petition signed yesterday by Iowa engineering students:
"We, the students of engineering of the State University of Iowa, loyal to our state, our institution and to our alumni, are satisfied with living conditions at Iowa City, and appreciate the high rank of the engineering college at which we now have the opportunity of studying.

"A transfer of the engineering college from Iowa City to Ames would mean that many of us would not be able to complete our engineering education because a large majority of us are working our way through and could not secure employment in a new locality.

"Therefore, we most respectfully petition the members of the legislature of the state of Iowa to continue the college of engineering at Iowa City, and to this end vote against bill H.F. 152, as proposed by the committee on the consolidation of state government departments."

Would Weaken University
The general student body received the following petition:
"We, the undersigned students of the University of Iowa, although not students in the college of engineering, are of the opinion that any action to remove the engineering college would not be economical and would seriously damage the prestige of our university.

"We feel that the absence of an engineering college would irreparably weaken the operation of other colleges, particularly in the allied sciences, and would also seriously interfere with the opportunity of our engineering students to continue their studies.

"We therefore petition that the 49th general assembly of the state of Iowa look with disfavor on the bill to disestablish our engineering college."

Excerpts from the special bulletin issued by the Transit are presented here.

Not First Attempt
"Such action as proposed in the bill would cripple and dismember the university and strike a blow at technical education in the state.

"This issue of consolidating both engineering colleges is not a new one. We have here the sixth attempt since 1900 at forming one engineering college in Iowa. In the preceding five attempts to consolidate the two schools, all the investigating committees, which were eight commissioned by the general as-

Women Players Try Out Friday For Ball Club

Tryouts for the Women's Basketball club will be held Friday afternoon at 4:30 in the large gymnasium, it was announced yesterday by Annabelle Hinkle, A2 of Valparaiso, Ind., who is chairman of the club.

After the tryouts are completed, the first meeting of the club will be held. At this time schedules will be planned and the teams will be arranged.

The Women's Basketball club was organized about two years ago. It is active each year during the basketball season, when teams are organized and games are scheduled among the various teams.

ment for self-support. Opportunities for employment are far more numerous in Iowa City than in Ames, because of the greater population.

"Not only does this larger community furnish more facilities for self-support, but many of the jobs held by the engineering students serve as a practical training ground in various engineering fields, such as those in the hydraulics laboratory, sanitation laboratory, water plant, sewage plant, coal analysis station, and so on.

"Thus 70 per cent of the transfer students would quite probably be forced to discontinue their studies, leaving 127 students as possible transfers."

"These added financial burdens are sufficient to mean the culmination of a college education for many of our engineering students."

The bulletin lists the branches of the college of engineering which would be affected if the change were made, among them the hydraulics engineering department and laboratory, the electrical engineering department, the university television station and the sanitary, mechanical, industrial and chemical engineering departments.

Conferences on Art and Music Listed on February Schedule

Midwest Art Assn. Convenes in 2-Day Meeting This Week

February's only conferences at the University of Iowa are on art and music, with delegates from 22 midwestern institutions appearing this week end for the Midwestern College Art association convention.

The music teachers and supervisors are scheduled to appear Feb. 16, 17 and 18 for their annual sessions on problems of teaching music in the Iowa public schools.

From five states, the art educators will gather Friday for the two-day conference under the direction of Prof. Lester Longman, head of the university's art department, who also is president of the association. With several hundred school music heads in attendance, the music conference will feature clinic demonstrations by band, orchestra and chorus composed of the teachers and supervisors themselves. The chorus probably will number about 100 voices and the band and orchestra each 75 instrumentalists.

The nationally famous St. Louis Symphony orchestra under the direction of Vladimir Golschmann will present two concerts in Iowa Union Feb. 16, permitting Iowa music supervisors who attend the conference to hear the outstanding group at the same time.

The symphony is one of the most popular groups ever to appear in Iowa City. This year will mark its fifth appearance here.

Tennessee Valley Authority Wins Court Decision; Private Utilities Have 'No Standing'

Prof. Frankfurter Sits With Highest Tribunal First Time Monday

THE SUPREME COURT TODAY:

Ruled that 14 private utility companies had no basis for a suit against the Tennessee Valley authority.

Upheld a state court decision validating a 1935 California tax imposed on articles bought outside California and brought into the state for use there.

Upheld the supreme courts of Georgia and New Hampshire in ruling valid state laws for taxing and regulating truck operations.

Held constitutional the 1935 Tobacco inspection act.

Ruled that the national bituminous coal commission may disclose data submitted by 19 coal companies.

Refused to pass on a California supreme court decision that a San Francisco group health organization violated a state law.

Agreed to pass on a North Dakota law prohibiting the motion picture film distributors from operating movie theaters.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Tennessee Valley authority won a major struggle in the supreme court today.

The high tribunal ruled in a 5 to 2 decision that 14 private utilities which challenged the constitutionality of TVA had "no standing to maintain this suit."

Thus the court disposed of the case without touching upon the validity of the vast federal program of navigation, flood control and hydroelectric power.

Shortly before handing down a dozen important decisions, the court received as its ninth member Prof. Felix Frankfurter of Harvard university, who is President Roosevelt's third appointee to the tribunal.

Takes Oath

Frankfurter took an oath to support the constitution in an ante-chamber and then, before a courtroom crowded with prominent persons, swore to administer justice impartially.

The utilities attacked the TVA on the ground it threatened them with destruction or serious injury through sale of power. They asked an injunction to restrain the authority from building dams in the Tennessee river and its tributaries, from generating power at such dams, and from marketing power in territory claimed by the complainants.

A three-judge federal court ruled that TVA was constitutional and sustained its right to the activities challenged by the private utilities. It was on an appeal from that decision that the high court acted today.

Roberts Writes Opinion

Justice Roberts wrote the majority opinion. He said the utilities' contention that TVA power sales threatened to destroy them was not a valid basis for suit because their corporate franchises gave them "no right to be free of competition."

He declared, moreover, that on the basis of the record in the case, the lower court was justified in finding that TVA "has not indulged in coercion, duress, fraud, or misrepresentation in procuring with municipalities, cooperatives or other purchasers of power; has not acted with any malicious or malevolent motive; and has not conspired with municipalities or other purchasers of power."

"The decision was hailed by government attorneys. John Lord O'Brien, special assistant to the attorney general and one of those who fought on the government's side of the litigation, declared that the decision "puts national control of resources on a very firm footing."

Shoe Styles Men Say Lady's Feet Are Important

One of the more important beauty points which many women fail to give proper attention to is footwear. In a poll conducted by a leading women's magazine men were asked what they noticed in a woman's appearance, and a majority mentioned well-shod feet as an important beauty attribute.

For the woman who wants to be correct in these smaller details, there's a word of wisdom. And when she's making the most of her feet she'll find that fashion experts are doing a great deal to help.

Evening slippers are the most glamorous. Among the newer styles are thick soled ones, fashioned with the top and sole in contrasting shades. These cleverly colored sandals are a boon to the short woman who would add inches to her height.

For evening wear another popular choice is a vivid high crepe in emerald green with front draped skin-close to reveal the spirited curve of the foot.

"Panuelos," like the shawl which girdles a Spanish dancer, moulds the heel-line. The front is fashioned of cream kid with the hooded quarters in deep brown.

Types of Gas Masks Shown at Meeting

Chemical warfare was the topic of discussion when Col. Jack J. Hinman Jr., spoke before Troop I, 113th Cavalry of the national guards in the armory last night.

Colonel Hinman disclosed the various types of gas masks as well as a general history of their use. Methods of protection from gas attacks were further shown by lantern slides.

Two Witnesses Identify Hines in Courtroom

Racket Trial Links Tammany Leader With Dutch Schultz

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Two new witnesses appeared today at the second policy racket trial of Tammany District Leader James J. Hines to identify the democratic stalwart as a social acquaintance of Dutch Schultz, whose gambling syndicate Hines is charged with shielding from the law.

A ghost—one of many along the reduced ranks of thugs and gamblers who made up the slain Dutchman's mob—was in the courtroom, too—unknown to the jury—as the trial entered its second week.

Alexander Pompez, ex-king of policy in Harlem, frequently mentioned in his testimony the name of George Weinberg, former henchman of Schultz, who killed himself yesterday, only a few days before he was scheduled to repeat his first-trial testimony accusing Hines of accepting $500 weekly from the Schultz combine.

Neither Pompez, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, nor Defense Counsel Lloyd Paul Stryker gave any hint to the cloistered jury that Weinberg was dead. Still open to speculation was whether General Sessions Judge Charles C. Nott would admit Weinberg's previous testimony posthumously.

Pomez repeated his previous testimony that Schultz made a levy of $10,000 on his policy bank in 1933 and that Weinberg said the money was for the democratic campaign fund.

Both Edwin Severi, a bartender, and Theodore Giles, once a cashier at the old Embassy club, testified they had seen Hines at the club with Schultz.

Other witnesses repeated testimony of the first trial, telling how Schultz and his henchmen moved into Harlem to take over the policy banks and forge them into a single, rich combination.

Representative Jens Thompson (R), Rolfe, fired the first legislative projectile at the roads measure when he said:

"I am against the whole thing until the primary highway gaps are closed."

Thompson said he was not opposed to using state money if any unused funds can be found. He indicated he would oppose the allocation of use taxes for that purpose "because that money belongs in the aged pension and homestead funds."

"Adoption of this measure would mean that we north Iowans with our own locally financed secondary roads would be paying to help build southern Iowa byways," he commented.

"All this while Pocahontas is the only county seat in the state without a direct primary connection with Des Moines."

Meanwhile, the senate judiciary committee No. 1 accepted former Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel's offer to appear and explain his pardon and parole policies.

Kraschel made the offer over the week end in a letter to Sen. A. J. Shaw (R), Pocahontas, committee chairman. The group is studying the cases of Joseph Acerra and Joe Siegel. Krascchel cut Acerra's 20-year term in half and released Siegel with a suspended sentence.

Representatives J. T. Dykhouse (R), Rock Rapids, and X. T. Prentiss (R), Mt. Airy, today introduced a house bill which would levy a 10 per cent sales tax on all state liquor store purchases. The money, approximately $1,100,000 a year, would be earmarked to the state old age pension fund.

The measure also would lift the state pension ceiling from $25 to $30 a month.

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, D. C.—William say about small spots on the map. Atherton Du Puy, economist and shark on the subject of currency, coinage and allied problems (one of his books, "Money," is recognized by students of financial exchange as authoritative), sets himself to visualize $45,000,000,000 for this column.

Uncle Sam's public debt is rapidly approaching that figure.

"It's pretty hard," says Du Puy, "to sense the magnitude of only a billion, forty-five times that much tends to stagger the imagination. My notion has been to express it in something concrete."

"Well, what is Texas worth, considered as a monetary asset? The 'Statistical Abstract' tells us. The 'Statistical Abstract' is a standard government publication. The 'Abstract,' continues Bill, 'puts Texas' wealth at about nine billions. Of course that isn't a patch on 45 billions.'

"We have to include some more states. We have to include Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, both Carolinas and Virginia. This group of commonwealths represents salability, according to the 'Statistical Abstract,' of approximately the desired 45 thousands of millions.

"In other words, if we wanted to pay off a 45 billion dollar indebtedness in a hurry, we'd have to dispose of, under the hammer, a triangle of territory bounded by a line drawn southward from the mouth of the Potomac to the Gulf of Mexico, westward along the Gulf coast to the Rio Grande, including Texas, and back again northeasterly to the Potomac once more."

"About one-third of the United States!"

Du Puy isn't trying to make any kind of a case against the new deal's accumulating deficits. He does not contend that it is a perilous national policy. He simply is a statistical fiend, trying to visualize 45 billion dollars.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

READ THIS FIRST:

Elsie Ritter, a beauty shop operator, taking the place of her friend, Kitty, for a week in the private salon of Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Sr., is disturbed by queer things she finds and odd people she meets at the Manor, the luxurious Witherspoon home. She finds her employer is an eccentric old woman with sadly misplaced vanity. She meets her granddaughter, Daphne; her daughter-in-law; Della Craig, an actress, who is a house guest, and the various servants of the household. Elsie overhears a violent argument between Daphne and her mother, during which the girl criticizes her grandmother.

(Now Go On With the Story)

CHAPTER EIGHT

"DID I STARTLE YOU?" A young man in riding breeches stuck his head inside the salon.

"Yes," I was shaking like a leaf. I inquired, idiotically, "Did you have an appointment?"

"What?" Then, getting the sense of my question, he threw back his head and roared with laughter.

His laughter did me good, it was so whole hearted and so healthy. "I haven't come to the beautifying stage—yet," he said. "I'm looking for Daffy Witherspoon. Is she hidden away in one of your little cages?" He cocked an inquiring eye toward the curtained booths.

The man was ogling me in a manner that I particularly disliked.

I shook my head. "She left some, very much feared it was, I did not blame her for being desperate. The afternoon passed quickly. At two-thirty I gave Miss Tericia (Toots) Lemoine a shampoo and a golden-glint rinse and a rose-leaf facial. She was a hard-eyed baby, with a knowing look in her pale blue eyes, and her yellow hair was the color of plated gold. I could not place her as a member of the Manor house party. She looked as if she would be more at home in a night club or the front row of a Broadway girl show! She did not talk much, which was a relief, and she tipped me fifty cents when she left.

At four o'clock Miss Henrietta Willoughston, Mrs. Witherspoon's maiden sister, came in for a manicure. She so closely resembled the caricature of an old-fashioned lady being an old-fashioned lady that it was all I could do to keep my face straight. She was little and skinny and wore a long black dress that hugged her neck above and swept the ground below. She must have been a year or two younger than her sister, but she had the same heavy, black eyes and restless air.

Right away she started to talk a blue streak. From the things she said I gathered she was not all there in the upper story. She would start a sentence and never finish it. After awhile she got off on religion, so I just let her rave.

ever did see! Dark—and, well, just too romantic!"

All during luncheon, which I ate from a tray in my room, I could not get that engagement business off my mind. I was so preoccupied trying to figure the whole thing out that when I left my room to return to the salon—I went the long way to stretch my legs—I bumped smack into someone passing in the opposite direction.

"So sorry," I gasped and looked into the face of a man who had a monocle dangling from one eye. "I was thinking of something else—" I stammered and laughed nervously. The man was ogling me in a manner that I particularly disliked.

"But eet ees I who am sorry!" His lips parted in a flashing smile. He was the sort of man I detest, smooth and oily and ever willing to flirt with a pretty girl. "I hurt your head, no?" He raised his fingers to my forehead and I wriggled uncomfortably.

"You didn't hurt me at all," I said rudely and side-stepped around him.

"No need to hurry away, my little one!" He caught my arm and pulled me toward him. "I—"

But I did not wait for the rest of his flowery speech. I wrenched my arm from his grasp and fled on down the corridor. If that were Daphne's count, and I while I trimmed and filed. Pour soul, maybe she did not often have an audience!

"This house is cursed!" she croaked, "cursed!" She leaned far across the table, and her eyes looked so wild I began to get scared. "The Lord will strike! He will be avenged!"

"Natural polish?" I quavered, moving as far from her as possible.

"They shall all perish from the earth!" She ignored my query. Her voice died to a hoarse whisper. "Doomed!" she said, "Doomed!"

"Of course," I decided to humor her. "Now let's have the left hand."

"My sister is a sinner!" She jerked her hand from mine and waved a bony forefinger beneath my nose. "Her face is white and her heart is black! She is doomed! Wait—wait, and you shall see!"

Well, just as I was beginning to feel the hair on my arms standing on end, the old girl jumped to her feet, and made for the door.

"Vanity, vanity!" she shrieked. "Death and destruction! They are doomed!"

I sat rooted to my chair. Miss Henrietta, with partially manicured hands out-thrust, dashed madly into the lobby and out the front door.

Perspiration bathed my body, and great beads of sweat dropped from my forehead and splashed upon the table. It was some minutes before I found the strength to move.

Park Commissioners Announce Plans to Run for Re-Election

City Treasurer, E. B. Raymond, Runs For Another Term

Two park commissioners, Dr. William Rohrbacher and Charles A. Beckman, and the city treasurer, E. B. Raymond, announced yesterday that they would run for re-election in the city election March 27.

Dr. Rohrbacher, who was elected in 1933, is seeking another six-year term on the commission.

Beckman will try for a two-year term to finish the term of Everett Means who resigned in 1937 to join the city council. Beckman was appointed to the commission when Means was elected to the council.

Raymond, who seeks re-election as city treasurer, has held the office for the last 10 years.

All three candidates will run for office on the citizen's non-partisan ticket. The present mayor and city council will seek election on the same ticket as they did two years ago.

Drivers Given Police Warning

Patrol Checking Up On Defective Headlights In Iowa City Drive

More than 40 Iowa City motorists and truck drivers received warnings for defective headlights last night when members of the state highway patrol and the city police department conducted the first of a series of drives against "one-eyed motorists."

Sergt. Edgar Faber, in command of the ninth district of the state highway patrol which includes the area surrounding Iowa City, warned local motorists last night that these drives will be continued and offenders hailed into court.

Sergeant Faber asked that all motorists check their car headlights and taillights for proper working order, and declared that truck operators must have all of their marker lights, reflectors and flares in condition to pass the patrolmen's inspection.

County Relief Cost Increases

Poor Relief Clients Cost $4.32 for Each Person During 1937

The $130,955 spent in Johnson county for poor relief to persons living outside the county home during the year 1937 surpassed the total amount spent for the preceding year, the Iowa Taxpayers association revealed in a report yesterday.

The average cost per person amounted to $4.32 as compared to $3.06 the preceding year. The report further revealed that the average per person cost was $2.92 for the state as compared with $2.67 in 1936.

Costs do not include aid given by the federal government under PWA or WPA programs, the association said.

Included in the expenditures were supervision, provisions, clothing, fuel, medical aid, nurses and hospital, quarantine expense, burial expense, rent, transportation, widows' pensions, cash allowances and blind pensions.

Relief Bill Set In Final Stage By Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The relief appropriation bill moved into the semi-final stage of congressional consideration today and leaders predicted it would be dispatched to the White House before the end of the week.

Since the bill passed by the senate differed, in some particulars, from that approved by the house, a committee of members of both branches was appointed to bring the two versions into conformity.

The principal dispute in connection with the appropriation—whether it should be $875,000,000, requested by President Roosevelt, or $725,000,000 urged by congressional economy leaders—had been removed. The house and senate approved the $725,000,000 figure and that made it final.

These are the major differences for the committee to consider: The senate wrote into the measure a provision that not more than five per cent of the present enrollment of WPA workers could be discharged before April 1.

The senate adopted its own version of what should be done to keep politics out of relief. The senate made changes in a house provision forbidding the application of civil service to the administrative personnel of WPA.

Will Ukraine Be Next in Hitler's Push to Expand Nazi Territory?

BACKGROUND For years Hitler has wanted to harvest the riches of the Ukraine. His victory over Czechoslovakia, formerly the big barrier in his path to the Soviet Russia republic, proved he wasn't just dreaming about it. And there have been signs recently that the Ukraine would be the object of Germany's next big drive. The following story discusses possible German strategy.

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN AP Feature Service Writer

LONDON—You're going to hear a lot about the Ukraine from now on. Ukrainians—the 45 million-odd Slavs who comprise the eastern European race—have no nation as yet. But they will have soon, if Adolf Hitler has his way.

The German dictator, by all signs, is getting ready to go hunting again. This time he is expected to train his sights on four European states—Poland, Rumania, Hungary and Russia—in which Ukrainians are living. There are Ukrainians, too, in Czechoslovakia, but that territory already is fixed in the Nazi orbit.

Don't get the idea that Der Fuehrer is going to take them all on at once, however. There is a subtler—and easier—way of gaining territory, or domination over territory, which amounts to virtually the same thing. That way he learned from the Czechoslovakian affairs—the exploitation of minority squabbles. Such squabbles are festering all over eastern Europe.

Hitler, therefore, say the political prophets, is planning to turn "liberator" once more—to champion the "self determination" of the neighboring Ukrainian section of Poland, which adjoins the Czechoslovak section now in his orbit—with the idea of setting up an autonomous republic. This would provide a powerful starting point for collecting the remaining sections. (Only a small percentage of the Ukrainians live in Rumania, Hungary and Ruthenia, the bulk residing in Poland and Russia.)

Dodging a Battle Poland is reported to have used stern methods to stem agitators among the millions of Ukrainians in east Poland. Hitler might argue that the Polish Ukrainians should be freed from such "tyranny." Afraid of being made the battleground of any war between Germany and Russia, Poland has courted both countries. Relations with Germany cooled when Poland wanted a strip of Ruthenia to be made into a common frontier with Hungary—and Hitler refused.

Ruthenia, the Ukrainian section down in the southeast tip of Czechoslovakia, already has autonomy—thanks to the Vienna was considered as a move made when and if the insurgents rendered the Catalanian defense lines untenable.)

All the main units of the Catalanian army were said to be in regular communication with each other and with general headquarters. Several hundred soldiers who crossed into France returned to the ranks of their comrades today. Apparently they were encouraged to reenter Spain by the sight of food trucks rolling across the border into Spain.

At nightfall the government's defense line was reported anchored on the Mediterranean coast, just north of Arenys de Mar and 56 miles south of the French border. From that point it cut westward to a point north of Granollers, thence north and west to the border near Seo de Urgel.

Roosevelt Urges Cooperation To Stamp out Infantile Paralysis

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt told a nationwide radio audience tonight that infantile paralysis was a "national peril" and the campaign against it should have the cooperation of every crossroads community.

"Only by such cooperation," he said, "has tuberculosis been brought under control in our lifetime. Only by the same concerted action will the scourge of infantile paralysis be stamped out."

The president spoke from the White House to guests at thousands of balls throughout the country at which money was being raised, on his 57th birthday, for the paralysis drive.

The president said 50 per cent of the money raised this year would go to the National Foundation for Research Work and the remainder would be spent in the communities where the funds originate.

The president thanked the army of workers in the current campaign, those who have made contributions, and the "thousands and thousands of friends who have sent birthday greetings."

Mrs. Roosevelt, rushing from one ball to another to greet capital dancers and visiting movie stars, scheduled a rest at the city of Virginia law school.

Homer Martin Obtains Postponement In Fight Over UAW Property, Funds

DETROIT, Jan. 30 (AP)—A court battle for control of property and funds of the United Automobile Workers union met delay again today and meanwhile General Motors corporation excused itself from "further negotiations" with the CIO union's international officers until their "position and authority have been clarified."

The ultimate decision presumably will say whether Martin or his "suspended" executive board rivals are actual heads of the union, and General Motors, taking cognizance of the "internal dissension existing among the officers," said it "desires to avoid charges of taking sides" in the dispute.

Officials Check Break-In Aided By Fingerprints

With fingerprints as their main clue, police are investigating the theft of cash and clothing reported Sunday night by Eleanor Buck, 115 N. Dubuque street.

The thief gained entrance through a ground floor window during Miss Buck's absence. As a precaution he placed a chair against the inside of the door while he was collecting his loot. Loss amounted to $1.85 in cash, a hand-tooled coin purse, a spring coat, a blouse, a pair of shoes, a hat and a pair of gloves. Another larger sum of money was overlooked by the
