Defense Bill Program Up Before House

Quick Passage Sure Plus Expansion Of U. S. Air Forces

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—The house took up a bill embodying the bulk of the administration's defense program today with passage a foregone conclusion and Representative Harter (D-Ohio) suggesting a "Valentine" for the dictators in the form of an immediate expansion of American air forces.

Although defense and rearmament have been a major subject of controversy in Washington since the European crisis of last fall, virtually all partisanship was removed from today's discussion by the decision of a republican caucus last week to back the measure almost in toto.

The controversy consequently was reduced to sporadic criticism of some administration foreign policies and occasional objections to some individual provisions of the bill, such as the one which provides for the construction of 3,032 army airplanes in two years.

Objections on this score were not directed at the proposal to increase the army quota of planes, but followed the attitude taken at the republican caucus, that the increase should be spread over a longer period, lest a great number of planes quickly become obsolete.

In addition to the plane increase, carrying the army's total to 5,500, at a cost of $300,000,000 the measure would authorize:

1. An increase in the enlisted strength of the army air corps from 21,500 to 45,000 and the addition of 2,060 officers to the regular army, including 1,111 for the air corps.
2. An appropriation of $23,750,000 to bulwark the defenses of the Panama canal, including additions to its peace-time garrison.
3. An appropriation of $34,500,000 with which the army is to order munitions and war materials as a means of "educating" American industry in the production of these things.

Harter, chairman of the military sub-committee which studied the aviation features of the bill, said that increasing the nation's air strength would do more than any other single thing to show foreign nations "that we mean to defend ourselves and our liberties against any and all threats and that we are ready and able to do so."

Representative Arends (D-Ill) criticized the appearance of Ambassadors Bullitt and Kennedy, envoys to France and Great Britain respectively, before a joint session of house and senate military affairs committees. They were "sent" he said, to give the committees a picture of the situation prevailing abroad. He interpreted their appearance as meaning that France and Great Britain had "missed the boat again" and were watching anxiously for the reaction of the United States.

Representative Shafer (R-Mich) also assailed the two ambassadors and the government's foreign policy as well, and said the administration should "padlock the lips" of war-mongering cabinet officers going around the country making inflammatory speeches.

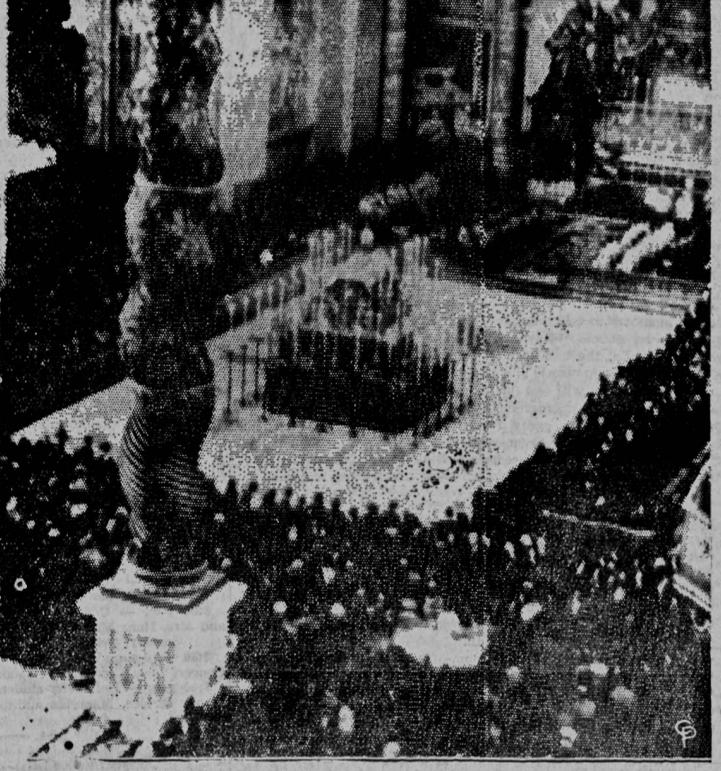

Representative Wadsworth (R-NY) chairman of an unofficial republican committee on national defense, presented the resolutions of the caucus saying that in them was "no evidence" of partisanship.

Alabama Recognizes Return of Flag As 'Friendly Gesture'

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 14 (AP)—Alabama recognized today Iowa's "friendly gesture" in authorizing return to this state of the flag of "the Republic of Alabama," taken from the old state house, first capital of the Confederacy, by a "Yankee" during the war between the states.

The senate approved unanimously a resolution calling for Gov. Frank Dixon to accept the flag from Iowa representatives before a joint meeting of the legislature.

Thousands Mourn at Bier of Pope

Bathed in the glow of candles, that is mortal of Pope Pius XI lies in state in St. Peter's chapel in Rome. Around the roped-off area at center can be seen some of the half-million faithful who waited for hours to see him for a last time. In the background a choir sings hymns of requiem. Picture flown to London and radioed to New York.

Pontiff Inhumed in St. Peter's Amid Magnificence, Solemnity

8,000 Receive Pope in Grotto

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 14 (AP)—Pope Pius XI was entombed in a crypt of St. Peter's today with magnificence and solemnity seldom seen in these modern times. As night fell upon the great, dimly lighted basilica, the pontiff—invested in a red chasuble and a mitre of cloth of gold and reposing in a triple casket—was lowered into the grotto beneath the dome.

There the holy father was received by some 30 candle-bearing cardinals, a few other dignitaries and persons closest to him who had descended after the ceremony at the altar of the chair of St. Peter was completed.

In the crypt where once he had remarked that he would "find sweet repose," the pontiff was laid beside the tombs of popes, kings, cardinals and others who were once mighty on earth.

About 8,000 persons—dignitaries of the church, diplomats, officials, priests and humble folk—were present. There were many bright uniforms, all with a touch of mourning black. Those without uniforms, as is the custom on the continent, wore formal evening attire. The women wore black gowns and veils.

In contrast to the 500,000 or more who had crowded the basilica to pass the bier of the pontiff during the last three days, those at the ceremony, mostly in the chancel or about the central altar, left vast spaces of Christendom's greatest church unoccupied. Admission was by invitation only.

Presiding over the ceremony was white-mitred Patriarch Roberto Venturini. Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Camerlengo and high priest of St. Peter's, followed closely after the latter.

Here also the eulogy was read in Latin by Monsignor Antonio Bacci, secretary of the briefs. It summarized achievements in Pius' reign, especially the progress of missions and the reconciliation of the holy see and Italy in the Lateran treaty of 1929. It concluded with a prayer that the pope be granted eternal peace—a supplication taken up by the choir.

Hitler Tells of Nazi Destroyal Philosophy For Reich Enemies

HAMBURG, Feb. 14 (AP)—Adolf Hitler launched Germany's newest and largest battleship today with the declaration that his Nazi party had developed "a spiritual philosophy and organization for destroying from now on and for all future time the enemies of the Reich."

Although the funeral of Pope Pius XI was conducted in Vatican City today, Hitler referred three times to "church politicians" who, he said, opposed the old chancellor.

He said Bismarck stood forth among all others who helped create the "preconditions for the present-day greater Germany" and added:

"Everywhere the non-entities arose in opposition to the only genius of his time. It was a fight which only he can appreciate who himself has been compelled to face a world of obstacles."

Cannot Discuss Candidacy Of Rutledge Now

Herring Confers With Atty. Gen. Keenan About Filling Post

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Senator Gillette (D-Ia) said tonight his conference with the president regarding appointment of Dean Wiley B. Rutledge Jr., of the University of Iowa law school to the supreme court might be delayed until Mr. Roosevelt's return from naval maneuvers in the Caribbean sea.

"I was informed by White House sources," Gillette said, "that the president would not fill the vacancy on the court until after his return from the Caribbean and that there would be opportunity for me to discuss Dean Rutledge's candidacy before the appointment was made."

Gillette said there was considerable support among middle-western senators for the appointment of the Iowan to the vacancy caused by the retirement yesterday of Justice Louis D. Brandeis.

Meanwhile Assistant Attorney General Joseph Keenan had before him Dean Rutledge's record, prepared by Senator Herring (D-Ia).

Herring said he urged Rutledge's appointment in an extended conference with Keenan last night.

Representative Harrington (D-Ia) urged the White House today to consider Rutledge's candidacy favorably.

Without mentioning either, Goebbels declared: "If someone else they speak perhaps of foreign borders lying on the Rhine, then, I believe, these borders lie at our fortifications."

French Military Mission Buys 500 New Warplanes in U. S.

PLANE CAPSIZES Amphibian Hits Derelict As It Lands

GLEN COVE, N. Y., Feb. 14 (AP)—A Peruvian government air attaché and a New York airplane export company official received a cold ducking in Long Island sound late today when a twin-engine amphibian struck a submerged object in landing and capsized. Neither was injured.

Aboard were Capt. Raymond R. Williams, representative of Peru, and Stephen McClellan, managing director of Aero Exports. They were on a test flight in one of six planes of a similar type purchased by Peru.

Purchase Completes Work of Embassy; No Prices Published

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—A French military mission in this country has purchased 500 new warplanes, in addition to 100 ordered last year.

This was announced tonight by the French embassy, which said the mission has now completed its work. No prices were given in the announcement, but it was understood that the total would be well over $60,000,000 and that contracts for motors would total millions more.

It was the presence of a French observer, in an American-made plane which crashed, that touched off the recent uproar about the administration's foreign policy. It was disclosed that administration officials had lent hearty assistance to France in her effort to increase her lagging air strength by purchases from private American factories.

The embassy announced that the orders for 500 planes were divided among the following American firms: Douglas, Los Angeles; Curtiss, Buffalo, N. Y.; Glenn Martin, Baltimore; and North American Aviation corporation.

Last year the French placed orders for 100 Curtiss-Wright pursuit planes at a cost of about $5,000,000. This year, 100 more ships of this type were ordered. The latter order was part of the total purchases of 500 craft announced today.

It was reliably reported that among the 500 were 115 two-motored Glenn Martin bombers, of a type which represents improvements on an old model.

Socialists Ask Explanation Of 'Secret' Charge

PARIS, Feb. 14 (AP)—The powerful socialist group in the chamber of deputies demanded that the government explain reports of "secret negotiations with Germany and Italy" tonight, a few hours after anti-fascists in the cabinet had balked plans for immediate joint French-British recognition of the Spanish insurgents.

The unanimous socialist decision, supported by other opposition deputies, resulted from charges printed by Deputy Henri de Kerillis in the newspaper Epoque, and by other newspapers. De Kerillis charged Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet had sent emissaries to Rome and Berlin to seek settlement of Italy's territorial claims on France.

Although Bonnet's office issued a denial that "there are negotiations engaged in between France on the one hand and Germany and Italy on the other," the socialists stuck by their guns.

Linotype Owner Dies

DES MOINES, (AP)—William J. Cousins, 63, owner of the W. J. Cousins Linotype co., died unexpectedly at his home here late yesterday. Death was due to a stroke. Cousins was a native of Vail, Ia., and had operated his Linotype business in Des Moines 38 years.

Plane Head Refuses To Comment About French Agreement

BALTIMORE, Feb. 14 (AP)—Glenn L. Martin, head of one of the nation's largest aircraft companies, said tonight he is "not at liberty to comment" on a French embassy announcement that his company has been awarded a contract to build 115 twin-motored bombers for France at $105,000 each.

Martin said that a $2,750,000 expansion program at the company's Middle River plant here will be completed within the next 11 weeks and reiterated a previous announcement that within a few months the factory will be able to turn out 100 planes a month.

House Group Neutral to Civil Service Action

DES MOINES, Feb. 14 (AP)—An Iowa house committee tonight reported without recommendation a proposed civil service measure designed to cover approximately 1,550 highway commission maintenance employees.

Sponsors of the measure said they regarded the neutral attitude taken by the committee a "victory." Action was taken behind closed doors in a committee room, but reports of a hot battle over the proposal were heard after the group adjourned.

About 300 of the 1,550 employees involved work part time, Rep. Leo Hoegh (R), Charlton, said. The measure would require present employees to take noncompetitive qualifying examinations. Hoegh is principal sponsor of the bill.

The commission's maintenance force drew the fire of Gov. George A. Wilson yesterday. The governor said "A lot of them are incompetent. They're standing around on each others' feet."

Released Prisoner Goes on Trial For $100,000 Forgery

DENVER, Feb. 14 (AP)—Harry Schechtel, former Denver broker, went on trial today on charges he was a member of a ring that sold $100,000 worth of forged city of Omaha bonds.

Schechtel was released last December from the federal prison farm at Latuna, Tex., where he served a term for using the mails to defraud.

Harry Kennedy, who served a prison term after pleading guilty to complicity in disposing of the forged bonds, was the first prosecutor witness.

Successor Of Pope Warned

Nazi Demand No Church Interference In Political Affairs

BERLIN, Feb. 14 (AP)—Des Schwarze Korps, organ of the black-shirted Elite Guard of Adolf Hitler, tonight advised the successor of Pope Pius XI, whoever he may be, to adopt a policy of clear-cut separation of politics from "churchly-religious" affairs.

The advice was tendered four German cardinals who are in Rome to attend the conclave that elects a new Pope.

Speculating upon whether Pope Pius' successor would continue an anti-Nazi course, the organ said Germany does not stand for interference from any foreign power in its domestic or foreign policies, "even if the dictates are doled up as encyclicals or pastoral letters."

Refugees' Committee Accepts Nazi Plan for Jews' Removal

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP)—The intergovernmental committee on refugees provisionally accepted a German plan today for removing Jews from Germany and authorized establishment of a private international settlement corporation to help pay the $300,000,000 cost.

The committee notified Germany it "is using and will use its best endeavors to develop opportunities within the next five years for permanent settlement of involuntary emigrants from Germany within the limit of laws and practices of the member governments."

Thirty-two nations are represented in the intergovernmental committee which was set up last July at Evian-les-Bains, France. It was understood the German plan stipulated:

1. From 150,000 to 200,000 young Jewish wage earners would emigrate as soon as possible and would be expected to help their families emigrate later.
2. The remaining Jews would be permitted to return to their jobs in trade and industry, but only a scattering of Jews would be permitted in Aryan businesses.
3. A "certain proportion" of what remained of Jewish property and capital would be put in trust from which emigrating Jews would be able to finance a small part of their expenses.
4. Jews would be permitted to buy with percentages of their property German machinery and other goods needed for setting themselves up in new lands.
5. Jews would be promised no further purge if they "behaved" while the scheme was operating.
6. An office would be set up in Berlin to supervise "orderly" emigration.

Germany specified that the scheme must be worked on a five-year basis and this was accepted by the committee. One estimate of its cost was $300,000,000.

Committee officials emphasized that the private international settlement corporation would have nothing to do with any government or with the central financial organization which Germany proposed to set up in Berlin. Who would head the corporation was not known.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 15, 1939

Of The People! OUR NATIONAL anthem is the subject of controversy again. This time two nationally recognized musicians, Frederick Jager, Metropolitan opera tenor, and Ferde Grofe, the composer and director, are agitating to have a new set of music and words given congressional benediction.

We remember what arguments there were in 1931 when congress decided it was time we quit singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee" to the tune of Britain's "God Save the King." Then it was that the official stamp was placed on Francis Scott Key's words for a tune whose origin was disputed.

This dispute this time centers around the same arguments that were used against "The Star Spangled Banner" in former years. The words are written about an isolated incident in American history when our fortunes were at their lowest ebb. The tune is unsingable. Grofe and Jager bring up the new accusation that the tune which is so unsingable was originally an English bar-room ballad.

Be that as it may. We can't dispute the musical legitimacy of that tune. We do insist, however, that "The Star Spangled Banner" has always been inspiring to us. And that inspiration has not come from any feeling aroused out of the cold fact that congress has ordained, "This Song Ye Shall Revere."

It has always been because the music caused emotional responses within us; we have always felt that such tenacity as that shown in the faith which Francis Scott Key's words express was truly Yankee.

Jager, whose American heritage goes back four generations, is directing his agitation toward Representative Martin Dies in order to get action.

We doubt if it really matters, but in our opinion that isn't the way national anthems should come into being. National anthems, we suspect, like all traditions, are born and not made. No song can be grafted, by law, into American affections. If any tune is to be our national anthem, it must grow from the people.

Protecting American Wildlife THE QUESTION of protecting American wildlife is one of those questions that is always with us. Sometimes, however, it becomes a more widely-discussed question—and once in a great while somebody does something about it.

Now, this is one of those times when it has become a more widely-discussed question. That's because emissaries of the nation's $6,000 conservation and sportsmen's clubs are reshaping things at the North American Wildlife conference meeting at Detroit.

prevented by wise drainage. 3. Soil erosion resulting from unwise farming. 4. Death of vegetation in the western states because of "greedy tactics" by cattlemen permitting early spring grazing. 5. Loss of breeding places for waterfowl because of drainage of swamps and lakes. 6. Damage to fish resulting from construction of power dams.

These are problems, as we see it, which are best solved by government regulation and planning. This is one of the issues which the public and lawmakers should act upon, we believe, without the political quarrels which so easily creep into such programs.

Enjoyment of our outdoors, after all, is for the benefit of all.

For Women's Rights

TODAY AMERICA observes the birthday of one of her foremost women leaders, Susan B. Anthony. Following Governor Wilson's proclamation of this observance in Iowa, many celebrations in her honor have been planned, for our state, like all others, is not unmindful of her great work in the field of women's rights.

Having lived many years in ridicule and abuse, Susan Anthony died without knowing the success of her life aims. She had three major ones, and each she set about diligently and efficiently to achieve. Her public appearances at the national political conventions in 1892 are history. Undaunted by continual rebuffs, she organized women of the nation into definite actions and was at last rewarded by the passing of an amendment to the constitution.

In this same persistent manner her efforts influenced the anti-slavery bills for which she preached consistently. Internationally known for activities urging women's rights, Susan B. Anthony spoke emphatically and brilliantly before delegations of women abroad and at home. Her convincing arguments and pleas for action were finally exemplified in laws passed in the New York legislature and in an amendment to the federal constitution guaranteeing equal rights in all things to women.

In recalling the highlights of the great work of Susan B. Anthony it is easily understood why he nation's people, take time out from busy duties and pay tribute to this brave crusader.

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS ABRAHAM LINCOLN IF HALF the good things that have been said about Abraham Lincoln were true, he was indeed one of the world's greatest.

His greatness came to the attention of the world gradually. By the time he began to be called great, memories of his earlier career were weakening. But he had that unique quality of greatness that he built his own monuments in the hearts of men. His merits had a persistent carrying quality that enabled them to outrun all his defects in the long distance test of memory.

The thoughtful student reviewing the life of Lincoln finds that early advantages contributed largely to the building of a great career and immortal fame. The boy Lincoln didn't know he was fortunate. He didn't know the worth of being born in a log cabin, but there came a time when that log cabin beginning was a political asset not overlooked by the politicians who backed Lincoln.

But the humble origin was more than a political asset. It shaped character and brought out qualities which made Lincoln not only president, but a great president and a great man.

The early poverty provided a discipline which enabled Lincoln to face all difficulties with fortitude and to deal with them with simplicity and directness. Of course, there have been many others born in poverty who were not bettered by it. The combination of brains and stamina and common sense which brought a Lincoln out of the hard environment of Lincoln's boyhood, is not of frequent occurrence. But unquestionably that log cabin beginning did help to make the Lincoln that will live in the memories of mankind.

DEMOCRACY AND FREEDOM

Dr. Richard Urges A World Mobilization of Spiritual Forces

(February 19 has been designated as National Brotherhood Day by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. The purpose of this organization is to help make America safe for differences, and to create an atmosphere of good will and understanding. The Daily Iowan will publish an article each day this week written by an Iowa Citizen on this important subject. Readers interested in getting detailed information about the scope and work of the National Conference of Christians and Jews should write to Rev. Llewellyn A. Owen, First Congregational Church, Iowa City, Ia.)

By CHRISTIAN RICHARD Catholic Professor of Religion, S. U. I.

The greatest need of the world at this hour is for a Spiritual Front mobilizing all believers in God against the powers of tyranny and darkness.

This is what Pope Pius XI had in mind when, on March 19, 1937, he extended his Invitation to All Believers to collaborate. He said: "In this battle joined by the powers of darkness against the very idea of Divinity, it is our fond hope that, besides the host which glories in the name of Christ, all those who believe in God and pay Him homage may take a decisive part. . . . Since belief in God is the unshakable foundation of all social order and of all responsibility on earth, it follows that all those who do not want anarchy and terrorism ought to take energetic steps to prevent the enemies of religion from attaining the goal they have so brazenly proclaimed to the world." (Encyclical on Atheistic Communism, paragraph 72.)

The Oxford Group which is becoming rapidly a world-wide unifying force is a Protestant answer to this invitation of the Sovereign Pontiff.

But this spiritual mobilization should not be limited to Catholics and Protestants and Jews; it should extend to all non-affiliated believers in God. In America, it should be the work of a National Conference on Standards, a Conference meeting on the basis of the essential moral implications of religion, a conference widely representative of national leadership in all public interests: economics, politics, education, religion—a conference bringing together for an honest showdown on the issue of the present crisis—bankers, statesmen, farmers, business men, educators, priests, ministers and rabbis.

Only the will to unite in the creation of the new order that will save democracy can make the working standards needed, at once unifying, synthetic and dynamic.

How do ideas become dynamic? Is it because perfect formulation was reached? By no means; it is because they happen to serve as a working tool to handle a social need—a need of social redemption or liberation which in itself is not intellectual but moral and spiritual. Dynamic ideas are born in the soul and live there.

The power to be of a nation is not in land or money or military equipment, but in the men and women in whom its dynamic ideas have found incarnation. There are essentially three dynamic ideas in America at present: God, Justice, Liberty. But the very nature of socially unifying standards requires simplification. The task of our leaders is to demonstrate to the people that the will to justice, which most certainly is that of the majority of Americans at this hour, leads to God and generates liberty. The one standard, therefore, on which the American people are most likely to agree widely is that of justice, whether at first they are conscious or not of a common faith in God. The will to justice is a preliminary meeting ground antedating verbal definitions.

It remains fundamentally true, however, that, at certain tragic hours, when the beneficiaries of the same civilization feel that their common inheritance is threatened they experience intuitively a will to unite for action. When the American people become conscious of the fact that the totalitarian conception of government (whether Fascism or Communism), is a threat to our democratic institutions and liberties, they will feel the need to unite. At that moment they will discover to their amazement that they lack the unifying social cement which is of necessity a common slogan, or verbal definition or standard of values. Then, what was impossible on a purely intellectual or rational basis becomes possible on the existential. Now, there is a will to unite, and where there is a will there is a way.

A New Yorker at Large By George Tucker

NEW YORK — Here's the daughter of a hero with clothes pins on his ears, culled from the letter of a correspondent. It isn't often that we betray confidences by printing personal notes, but this is a little different, as I think you will agree. "My most personal contact with a star of any recognition came on a trip about 1925 when I grew tired of a hotel and wanted to live in a private home. I went to Pasadena and got off at a street called Fortia street, and upon inquiring at a cute little house where I could get a nice room for a few weeks I was informed by the motherly looking person at the door that she would like to have me, as she was alone with the exception of an actor staying there and he was gone most of the time. "It was arranged, and that evening at dinner I met the actor. It was none other than Clark Gable and he had never made a movie at the time, but he was acting in a play called "Madam Frederick," with Pauline Frederick at the El Capitan theater in Hollywood. He was just like any other nice fellow, very pleasant, and he gave us tickets to come and see the play. "We had many good times together. He was just a big, friendly fellow, not at all like an actor, stuck his fingers in the icing of a cake, ate huge chunks of gingerbread, and kept me in hysterics at the dinner table over the funny faces he made while eating. "He never went out much at night and always came home after the theater, usually with make-up on his face. He didn't have money in those days, and had to rent the tuxedo he wore in the play; we even helped him dye a brown pair of oxford's black to wear with the tuxedo. He also drove an old French car, a Roamer, I think, and we used to drive to the corner to get cream for the coffee. "When he was at the theater I used to fill his pillow-slip with cold cream jars, and put the shower hose in the foot of his bed so he'd think it was a snake, and then wait up in my room till he came home to see what sort of commotion he'd make. He never would say word. But one night I heard him draw his foot out with a jerk and he hit his knee on the wall and let out a 'DAM!' and by that time I was eating the sheets to keep from laughing. "Even when Mrs. Walker (the lady's name) had to ask for his room when she expected a guest from Canada and told him he could use the davenport in the front room, he didn't complain. But I did have the time of my life then teasing him. If he took a nap I generally hung clothespins on his ears, the snapping kind, so maybe that is the reason they are so big. He was very modest and worried continually for fear the small screen Mumsie stood up around the davenport for him at night would tip over. Generally when I came home at night from a dance or a theater I made as much noise as ever. It was fun, but had I known he would one day become famous I know I'd never have had the courage to tease him as much as I did. "So there it is, a glimpse of the Gable that not many people knew. And if the correspondent who included this in her letter is taken aback, she has only herself to blame. After all, she shouldn't write such interesting letters.

Iowa Alumna Married Sat. In Davenport

Vivian Kuhl Weds Martin McCarthy Jr. In Colorful Rites

A colorful nuptial ceremony Saturday morning in the Holy Family Catholic church in Davenport marked the marriage of Vivian Kuhl and Attorney Martin McCarthy Jr. Miss Kuhl is the eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Kuhl and Attorney McCarthy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. McCarthy, all of Davenport.

Leading the bridal procession were the ushers, George McCarthy, brother of the bridegroom, Dr. A. B. Kuhl Jr., brother of the bride, and Ed Carmody, all of Davenport, and Dr. Walter Wise of Chicago.

The bridesmaids, Mary Virginia Kuhl, sister of the bride, and Lenore McCarthy, sister of the bridegroom, walked together. Mrs. Thomas Ewing Jr. of Los Angeles, Cal., matron of honor, preceded the bride and her father. Hal McCarthy served his brother as best man.

The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. George Toher of West Des Moines, an uncle of the bridegroom. The Rev. L. J. Enright, pastor of the Holy Family church, celebrated the nuptial mass.

The bride's gown was of floor length pale ivory satin, fashioned with a gathered bodice and flared skirt which extended into a long train. The sweetheart neckline was edged with Berbunty lace and the sleeves were puffed at the shoulders and edged with Berbunty lace points at the hands. She wore the pale ivory veil which her mother wore 34 years ago. She also carried a white orchid and a white prayer book.

The matron of honor and the two bridesmaids were attired in similar gowns of chartreuse chiffon. They were fashioned with shirred bodices and full skirts, with square necklines and shirt puffed sleeves. Small hats of feathers matched their gowns, and their arm bouquets were of token roses.

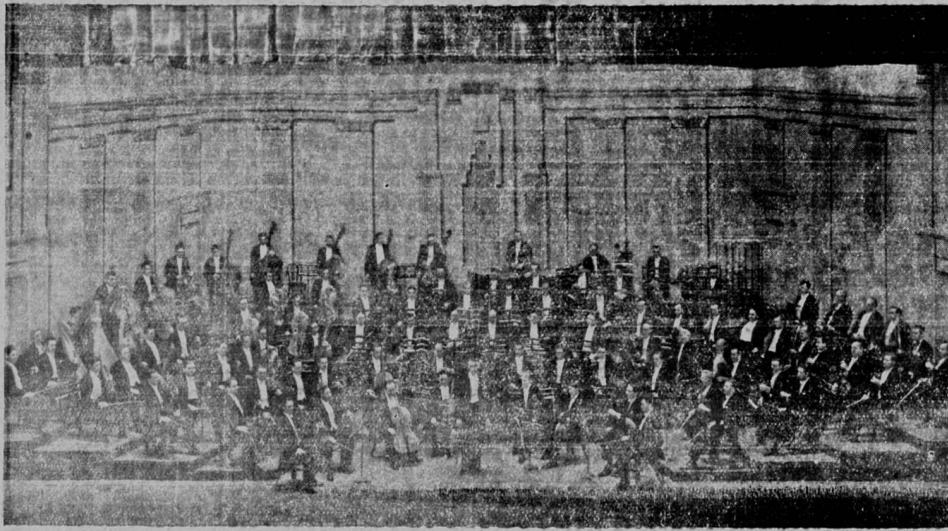

After the ceremony, there was a reception for friends and relatives at the Rock Island Arsenal Golf club. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the serving table surrounded with white sweet peas and ferns.

After a wedding breakfast for members of the family, the couple left by motor for a trip in the south. They plan to attend the Mardi Gras in New Orleans. For travel, the bride selected a black costume suit, a black and white tweed top coat and a black straw hat trimmed with a fuschia feather.

The bride was graduated from the Villa de Chantal and the University of Iowa. At the university she was president of Mortar Board and of the Delta Zeta sorority chapter.

Attorney McCarthy was graduated from Creighton university

The Famous St. Louis Symphony Appears Here Tomorrow

The St. Louis symphony orchestra, under the direction of its youthful conductor, Vladimir Golschmann, is one of the most popular concert groups ever to appear in Iowa City. The symphony will be back for its fifth appearance tomorrow, when its musicians play two concerts in Iowa Union. The programs of the nationally famous group will include works by Mozart, Brahms, Wagner, Mendelsohn, Ravel, Purcell, Debussy and Rimsky-Korsakov. The orchestra was founded in 1880, when $8,000 was raised to form the St. Louis Musical union, which sponsored a winter series of six concerts. Ten years later this organization was merged with the St. Louis Choral society and became known as the St. Louis Choral-symphony society. Six choral or orchestral concerts were presented each year.

The present tour of the symphony will take it into 25 cities in 11 mid-western and southern states. Golschmann, whose direction has brought the orchestra to its present peak of prominence, was born in Paris in 1893, the son of Russian parents. He was engaged as director of the St. Louis symphony after four weeks as guest conductor of the group in 1931. Tickets for the concerts of the symphony and is practicing in Davenport. He is a member of the board of directors and the vice-president of the chamber of commerce.

Upon their return, the couple will be at home at 1319 E. Locust street in Davenport.

Past Noble Grands To Meet Tomorrow

Mrs. John M. Kadlec, 830 E. Ronalds street, will be hostess to the past noble grands of Carnation Rebekah lodge, No. 376, tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Assisting hostesses will include Mrs. Ross Hughes, Mrs. Edna Peach and Mrs. Charles Rickstine.

K. T. Donovan Reviews Life Of Lincoln at Club

Kate T. Donovan reviewed the life of Abraham Lincoln at a meeting of the Women's Relief corps yesterday in the Moose hall.

Preceding the meeting the group entertained at a potluck luncheon at noon.

Included on the program were numbers by a quartet, Mrs. H. L. Bailey, Mrs. A. Lovack, Mrs. Clarence Johnson and Mrs. Joseph Parizek. Mrs. Wayne Putnam was pianist.

Mrs. Ida Adams played several harmonica selections, and Mrs. William P. Mueller Jr., gave a reading on Lincoln's early life. At the close of the program the entire group sang "America."

Valentines and white elephants were exchanged. Plans were discussed for the convention in June at the business session.

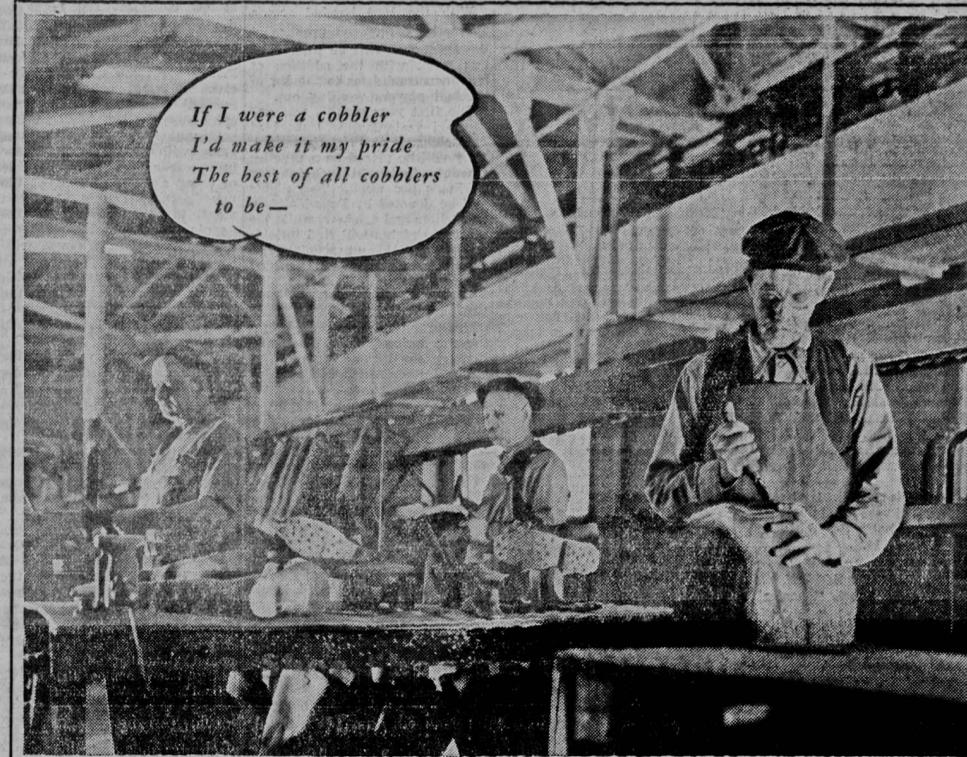

Prof. Zuill Will Speak at First Sorority Meet

Prof. Frances Zuill of the home economics department will be guest speaker at the first in a series of vocational meetings under the auspices of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism sorority, tomorrow afternoon in the home economics dining room. The meeting will be from 5 to 5:45 p.m.

Professor Zuill will discuss home economics as related to the general field of journalism. These meetings are open to all women interested in the topics.

Shoe Shop on the Rouge

IT MAY surprise you to learn that a cobbler's shop runs daily at the Ford Rouge plant in Dearborn. But the Ford plant is full of surprises. Every one has a practical answer.

Hundreds of workers in the Rouge require special types of footwear. These the company furnishes. So a steady stream of worn-out footwear reaches the Rouge cobblers, and the busy tap-tap of their hammers joins the rhythm of ten-ton presses and heavy rolling mills.

The cobbler's shop is one part of the great drive that prevents waste in the Rouge. Lumber from incoming crates is sorted and used for outgoing shipments. Waste paper and wood chips go to the Rouge paper mill. Metal particles removed by grinding wheels and metal saws are reclaimed. Nothing is lost—nothing wasted.

All this plays a part in making finer, better Ford cars. Pennies saved are pennies earned. Multiplied at the Rouge into millions, they help build the value that keeps millions of Fords delivering dependable, economical service year after year.

G. Cunningham Does It Again, Timed in 4:16

Master Miler Takes K. C. Mile; Archie San Romani Trails

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 14 (AP)—Master-miler Glenn Cunningham tonight continued his unbroken run of triumphs by winning the mile event in the Knights of Columbus meet and taking the Bishop Francis P. Keough trophy out of competition.

Cunningham defeated Archie San Romani, Kansas star, by three yards in 4 minutes, 16 seconds to chalk up his 18th successive board track mile triumph. The Indiana runner, Donald Lash, was third, ten yards back of San Romani, and Joe McCluskey, of New York A. C., was fourth and last.

Cunningham ran third through the first half, content to let McCluskey and Lash run in 1-2 order, but he followed Lash to the fore at the half and remained in second place as San Romani charged into the lead after eight laps of the 12 lap, 68-yard circuit. Cunningham took command with two laps to go and held off San Romani's challenge through the entire final lap to win by three yards. The quarters were 61, 2:07.4 and 3:14, and the time of 4:16 was a good performance, considering the slowness of the track.

A Detroit speedster, Alan Tolmich, former Wayne university star, equaled the world's indoor record for the 45-yard hurdles in taking the final in 5.7 seconds.

Kenny Clapp, of Brown, equalled a meet record which is up for acceptance in taking the 40 yard dash in 4.5 seconds. Clapp's mark equalled Ben Johnson's winning time established here a year ago.

The unattached Tolmich, who hasn't won a final since the Prout meet, moved unheeded through trials, semi-final and final, holding a clear margin all the way through the final over two of Johnny Magee's Bowdoin pupils, N. W. Allen and E. G. Huling. His performance matched the time set by Sam Allen, Oklahoma Baptist university.

Clapp, a place winner in the Prout, Millrose and B. A. A. dashes, also moved unheeded through a field that used up five heats in the elimination. Dunbar Young, of Rhode Island, and Frank Zeimetz, of Boston college, were second and third.

Difficult Job Benschwanger Says Hard To Release Lucas

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 14 (AP)—William E. Benschwanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, said today he has found about the most difficult thing in baseball is to tell a player he is through. "That was certainly true when we had to release Red Lucas," declared the skipper of the Pirate brig, defending the club's action recently in dismissing the right hand pitcher, who served 24 years with distinction in the National league.

At his home in Nashville, Tenn., Lucas said yesterday he didn't think the Pirates had given him a "fair shake"; that Manager Traynor kept him on the bench last summer for 54 consecutive days, although he never had a sore arm, and that if he had been released in December instead of January he could have got a manager's job with a Double-A team.

Benny Stephens Hot on Trail Of Big Ten Scoring Leaders

Capt. Benny Stephens, shooting with deadly accuracy as the Big Ten goes hot, although unable to spark his Hawkeye teammates to many victories, is approaching, as he did last year, a new all-time Iowa scoring record.

Not only has Stephens held a top place among Big Ten scorers throughout the year, but he has been in the lead at times, and at present, Stephens rests in third place behind Hull of Ohio State and Dehner of Illinois.

The addition of 16 points to the Stephens total Saturday night, landed him but three points behind Dehner, but the tie was short lived, for Dehner, with a big night against Michigan, moved out 16 points ahead of Stephens.

But, whatever the outcome in the conference race, Stephens is now virtually assured of bettering his Iowa record that he set last year with 185 points. The high total that Stephens piled up against Indiana brings his

TO HAVE GRID LINEUP OF CAPABLE MEN--ANDERSON

Will Use Best Eleven Men

Urges Audience To Refrain From Hasty Criticism of Players

CEDAR RAPIDS, Feb. 14 (AP)—Dr. Eddie Anderson told a crowd of 1,000 American legionnaires and guests here tonight there will be no "political appointments" on the University of Iowa football team as long as he is coach.

"If a boy has what it takes to make the team, he'll play; otherwise, he won't," Anderson declared. "We'll have the squad's best eleven men in the lineup, even if they're all tackles."

He lauded the University of Iowa as an institution that "has something" to offer an athlete. "And I don't mean money," he added.

Dr. Anderson was accompanied by the full staff of the Hawkeye athletic department and Nile Kinick and Mike Enich of the squad.

The new Old Gold pilot, who insists he is no "miracle man," revealed his lineup will consist of "all-around" players.

"The day of the artist and specialist is over," he pointed out. "You can use a left-footed kicker for one play, but you can't keep him in there because he may be miserable on pass defense. One slip may lose the game."

Anderson urged his audience to refrain from hasty criticism of football players. "There's much more to football than blocking and tackling," he asserted. "You hear criticism because a back carried the ball around a certain boy's end for a lengthy gain. In the minds of some fans, racing around an end is a mortal sin. But they fail to realize it may not be that end's fault. Any end, if he so chose, could never be circled simply by running to the sidelines on each play and forcing the ball-carrier to step out of bounds in order to go around him."

Athletic Director E. G. Schroeder said Iowa has the elements necessary for a successful season next fall. He listed them as "intelligent, enthusiastic coaching, proper facilities and capable material."

Three Left
BOSTON, (AP)—Only three players remained unsigned on the Boston Red Sox roster last night, General Manager Eddie Collins announced, with receipt of the contract of Pitcher Denny Galehouse, who came here from Cleveland. The three were Pitchers Jake Wade, acquired from Detroit, Fritz Ostermueller, of the Red Sox last year, and Catcher George Dickey.

"It'll keep all these boys together where I can keep an eye on them without jumping from city to city," said Lane as he labored over a jigsaw puzzle schedule that would give every man at least three hours of work-out a day. A subsidiary advantage Lane hopes to derive from the experiment is private exchange of talents. The idea is that the unpolished players will have a lot of other players to watch and may pick up some ideas themselves without having to be told.

"Some big guy who can swing a wagon tongue but doesn't know how to make it look easy," he explained, "can see somebody else swing smoothly and get some notion of coordination before we even start to work on him."

The five teams are Durham of the Piedmont league, Columbia of the South Atlantic, Waterloo of the Three Eye, Muskogee of the Western association, and Erie of the Mid-Atlantic.

Somewhat of the weakness of Iowa in the scoring department was demonstrated Saturday, as the crimson clad Hoosiers blasted Iowa's hopes with a tremendous display of power. The fact that Iowa was forced to depend upon Stephens for almost half of its scoring, coupled with the inability of the Iowans to sink long ones, gave the Hoosiers their chance for a win.

Monday night, the Hawkeyes meet Indiana again, this time on the enemy court, and only two days after the Iowans tangle with Ohio State at Columbus. Two games, and against two of the Big Ten leaders, stare the Hawks in the face before they return home to close the season against Minnesota and Northwestern.

Swim Marks For Iowans

Hawkeyes Will Seek Records in A. A. U. Tank Meet Tonight

Seeking marks to go into the record book under the Iowa name, Dave Armbruster's Iowa swimmers go into action tonight at the fieldhouse in the University of Iowa A. A. U. swim relay meet.

Armbruster has readied his squad for the meet, with his full strength ready to show itself in all of the events. The Iowa men have taken the pick of Bob Allen's freshman team, combined the first year strength with his varsity swimmers, and has teams of several men each for the free style, breaststroke and backstroke relays.

Not only will freshman and varsity swimmers team up in the relays, but all of the swimmers will act as utility men. Backstrokers swimming the free style, divers paddling in the breaststroke and free styler helping out in the backstroke, the meet will have everyone in the water except the spectators.

Armbruster plans to have all of his navy in action, in order to establish records that Michigan won't crack, and to have the men in the best of condition for the meet with the fast paddling Badgers of Wisconsin, who will test the Hawkeyes Saturday.

The meet will begin at 7:30 tonight and will be open to the public. No admission will be charged.

Young Blood Cincinnati Reds Work On Hopefuls

CINCINNATI, Feb. 14 (AP)—Acting on the theory nothing-tried-nothing-learned, the Cincinnati Reds are on the trail of something new again—a sort of concentration camp for the farm hands.

Frank Lane, vice-president in charge of the Reds 10-club farm system, announced today that five of the clubs would train at Greensboro, N. C., with 150 young hopefuls keeping the big memorial stadium there dusty from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"I'll keep all these boys together where I can keep an eye on them without jumping from city to city," said Lane as he labored over a jigsaw puzzle schedule that would give every man at least three hours of work-out a day. A subsidiary advantage Lane hopes to derive from the experiment is private exchange of talents. The idea is that the unpolished players will have a lot of other players to watch and may pick up some ideas themselves without having to be told.

Semi-Pro Baseball Titles

Builder of Semi-Pro Congress Thinks Competition Is Toughest

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (AP)—Ray Dumont doesn't mention it, but a perusal of statistics would indicate the national semi-pro championship might be the toughest of all baseball titles to win, although a few National and American league clubs which have been tossing horseshoes at the world championship for years without getting a ringer might argue the point.

Dumont, a little fellow who sputters enthusiasm, built the national semi-pro baseball congress from an idea into an organization of bewildering size. In fact, if the winner were determined on a lottery instead of an ability basis, a club would have just one chance in about 25,000 of taking the crown.

Using higher mathematics and a touch of plain arithmetic Dumont has figured out that the national champion this year will have to win approximately 17 games while losing no more than three, which means a winning percentage of .85. He figures thus: There will be 768 district tour-

For 31 minutes last night it looked as though the Irish of St. Patrick's were going to pull a terrific upset by knocking over the favored St. Ambrose of Daventry, but the Little Saints scored seven points in the final minute of play to win, 28-24.

After leading by a score of 19-11 at the half, the Pat's saw their lead shrink to a 21-19 at the end of the third quarter. However, "Red" Miller's two and Love's one free throw, partially offset by Moran's basket, brought the count to 24-21 with but a minute left in the ball game.

At this point McElroy counted his fifth bucket of the game to shove the Irish lead to one marker. O'Connor broke up a St. Pat attempt at stalling and added another swisher to put the Daventry team in the lead. Charley Miller quickly chalked up another Ambrosian basket, and McElroy dropped in the final point following Holland's foul to end the scoring at 28-24.

"Red" Miller of the Pat's and McElroy of the River City team divided scoring honors for the evening with 11 points each. Moran was runnerup for the Little Saints with eight counters. The first half was all Irish. "Red" Miller opened the scoring with a gift shot on Charley Miller's foul. Moran soon matched it for St. Ambrose. Black and Charley Miller exchanged baskets to make the count three all, when suddenly the locals opened up. "Red" Miller dropped in a pair of free tosses and soon followed them up with a basket. G. Fitzpatrick added another field goal before the quarter ended with the Irish leading 9-3.

naments, each with a 32-team bracket. On a single elimination basis with the finals two-out-of-three a team can win with six victories and one defeat.

In the state tournaments, with double elimination and a 16-team bracket, the victor must win five games and lose no more than one. In the national tournament at Wichita next August 32 teams will compete in a double elimination, with the victor winning six games and losing not more than one.

Although Dumont is the organizer of this huge baseball empire, he has placed the general conduct of the semi-pro sport in the able hands of George Siler, whose duties as high commissioner dwarf those of Commissioner K. M. Landis, czar of organized ball.

Whereas Landis swings the whip over two major leagues and some 40 minor circuits, with a personnel of 7,500 individuals, Siler is the boss of 25,000 teams, more than 1,000 leagues, and approximately 400,000 players.

U-High Tries To Add Punch For Next Game

"More scoring punch" was the cry of Coach Paul Brechler as he began preparing his U-high cagers for their final regularly scheduled game of the season with Mt. Vernon Friday night.

Although Mt. Vernon has only one victory to its credit in league competition, the Vernon lads may prove plenty tough for the Rivermen, who have been more or less inconsistent throughout the entire season. Failure to hit the hoop regularly has cost the Blues at least three games to date, and unless they can shake themselves loose from their jinx, they may expect rough going when they invade Mt. Vernon Friday night.

Murray Dawson, sharp-shooting junior forward, has been the only reliable U-high scorer in the last two games. Murray collected four of the five field goals registered by the Blues in the West Liberty tilt last Friday, and did almost as well the previous week against St. Pat's.

The three veterans, Burns, Carson and Krogh, whom Coach Brechler had counted on to be the chief offensive threats, have failed recently to live up to expectations. The team as a whole has been getting numerous good close-in shots in every game, but the inability to count consistently on these excellent set-ups has proved disastrous on several occasions.

The Brechlermen have a record of three wins against three losses in league competition. A victory over Mt. Vernon, their last conference opponent, would assure them of at least fourth place in the conference standing, while a defeat would drop them into fifth place in the league standing.

Frosh Baseball Candidates To Report Tonight

With the 1939 baseball season approaching, diamond practice at the fieldhouse will be intensified this week with the addition of freshman candidates to the list of baseball players working out. The first year men, it was announced yesterday, will meet at the fieldhouse at 7 o'clock tonight. They will be placed on a practice schedule that will include four workouts per week. Two nights will be devoted by Pops Harrison to pitchers and catchers, while the other two nights will find infielders and outfielders practicing. The varsity squad has been working out for several weeks.

It was disclosed yesterday that two games with Luther had been added to the Iowa schedule, bringing the spring list to 25 games between April 3 and June 3.

The Luther series will be May 12 and 13 at Iowa City. Of the 25 games on the schedule, 12 will be against conference teams in defense of the share of the Big Ten title Iowa won last spring.

The Hawkeyes open with seven games in the south and close with the Wisconsin series June 2 and 3.

Complete schedule:
April 3, 4, 5—Mississippi at Jackson, Miss.
April 6, 7, 8—Louisiana Tech at Ruston.

April 10—St. Louis at St. Louis.
April 17, 18—Purdue at Iowa City.

April 21, 22 — Illinois at Champaign.
April 26—Luther at Decorah.

April 27 — Carleton at Northfield.
April 28, 29 — Minnesota at Minneapolis.

May 6, 7—Chicago at Chicago.
May 12, 13 — Luther at Iowa City.

May 19, 20 — Northwestern at Iowa City.
May 26, 27 — Notre Dame at Iowa City.

June 2, 3 — Wisconsin at Iowa City.

Tiffin Team Anxious For Some Action

Ticket Sales Going Well for First E. Iowa Tournament

Eager to prove to the world that they can take it—and dish it out—a group of youthful, aspiring pugilists will take to the Community building floor tonight in the first of a series of training drills that will lead some members of the group on the championship trail next Monday night. Under the impression that training facilities would be available last night, the entire Tiffin team reported to the building for its initial workout, as well as several local lads who believe they can fight and are anxious to impress one and all with that fact.

With tickets on sale at Williams' Iowa supply, Whetsion's Drug company and Racine's three cigar stores and sales reported going well, a good house is in prospect when the first fighters climb through the ropes to open hostilities.

So enthused are some of the boys to get down to actual work that several of them donned the gloves last night and engaged in impromptu slugging matches, despite the fact that they were forced to do their hooking and jabbing without the benefit of a nice padded canvas to sprawl on should one of their members have the misfortune to run into a punch sufficient steam to upset him.

Members of the Tiffin team—a husky looking bunch of boys—registered surprise that the Iowa City entries weren't as heavy as could be expected. One lad, apparently speaking for the group, expressed the opinion that perhaps "these fellas at the university and Iowa City town belt couldn't take it."

However, there are several days remaining in which the Iowa City boys and university men can mail in their entries, and Eugene Trowbridge, director of the recreational center, is confident Iowa City entries will be in sufficient numbers to give the Tiffin team no end of trouble when leather-punching begins next Monday night.

Three Local Boxers After Rapids Titles

When the no-pay boys square off for the semi-finals and finals of the Cedar Rapids Golden Gloves boxing tournament tonight, there will be three University of Iowa boxers tossing punches with the rest of them.

Topped by the hard socking Vance Basler, a freshman from Des Moines, who has already battered two opponents to the floor in his march toward the Cedar Rapids title, the Hawkeye punchers appear in a position to capture one or more titles.

Basler conquered one of the favorites in the middleweight division last Thursday, when he left-handed Gaylor Fritch into helplessness and then smacked him to the floor with a short right to the chin. Also a winner of two fights by the KO route is Paul Powell, the other Iowa Citian who rates as a leading contender. Powell, dusky lightweight from Pittsburgh, Pa., has scored two first round knockouts.

A third Iowa student who may see action is Guy Seydel, who although he lost an encounter last week, was named as an alternate, and will fight in the 14 pound division if one of the other contestants fails to appear.

Seabiscuit Pulls Up Lame In Losing Race at Santa Anita

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14 (AP)—Grave fears were felt tonight that the mighty Seabiscuit might run no more.

Charles S. Howard's great stake champion pulled up lame and was defeated by two and a quarter lengths today in his 1939 debut—a one mile handicap won by Neil McCarthy's Today in track record time.

Limping badly, the 6-year-old son of Hard Luck was led to his stable and anxious onlookers, Trainer Tom Smith, and Owner Howard, crowded around to learn the condition of the favorite candidate in the coming $100,000 Santa Anita handicap.

Opinion was divided on Seabiscuit's chances of recovery. He has come out of many a race "gimpy," and rounded back into shape. Howard said he had hopes that his prized stake king would be all right, but it would probably not be until tomorrow or later that anything definite could be determined.

Headed for his third crack at the $100,000 handicap purse and a golden chance to surpass the all-time money winning record of Sun Beau—$376,744—today's one mile race was Seabiscuit's 85th trip to the post. The 'Biscuit's winnings to date total $340,480.

Hawkeyes, Wisconsin in Track Dual Saturday

Both Squads Boast Champs In Big Ten

If records mean anything the Iowa-Wisconsin track dual scheduled for Saturday afternoon here in the Iowa fieldhouse should produce some real fireworks.

Three Big Ten record holders will be among the 60 athletes competing here Saturday, including Walter Mehl, Wisconsin's Big Ten two mile champion who holds two Big Ten and one NCAA record.

Another Badger conference champion is Milt Padway who holds the pole vault title. With these two champions heading a list of 31 entrants Wisconsin is obviously intent on protecting their unbeaten record.

Iowa's 480 unbeaten Hawkeyes sport one Big Ten champion in the person of Carl Teufel, the conference 440-yard dash champ. Carl should have an easy time of it Saturday as the Badgers are notably weak in the 440. With Billie and Ed McCollister added starters the Hawks have an excellent chance of sweeping all three places.

Czech George Bresnahan has dominated 28 Hawkeyes for competition against the Badgers, including John Graves, the other co-captain, who has been ill with the flu.

Dike Next On Hawklet List

Giving his boys a rest after their easy victory over the Tiffin team, Coach Francis Merten sent his Hawklet basketballers through a light scrimmage in the first stages of preparation for their game with the fast Dike team Friday night.

Dike, a power in state basketball circles the past few years, has another powerful team this year despite the fact it lost most of the men of last year's state finalists. They have lost only two games—both to the rangy Beckenridge five—and had a winning streak of 15 straight before it was broken.

East Waterloo, Cedar Falls and Geneseo are among Dike's victims. Wumkes, high scoring forward, leads the Dike team but it is far from a one man club. Their well balanced offense and smooth working defense has stopped many teams.

Kansas Beats Cornhuskers In Close Contest

LAWRENCE Kan., Feb. 14 (AP)—Lyman Corlis, blond guard, scored 19 points here tonight as Dr. Forest C. Allen's basketball magicians defeated Nebraska, 49 to 46 in a frantic Big Six contest.

The Cornhuskers, ahead for only a fleeting second in the early moments were sparked by Al Werner, a Kansas lad who came back to his home state to haunt the Jayhawks by keeping even with Corlis in scoring and playing a floor game every bit as sparkling.

After an eerie first half which saw Kansas ahead, 29 to 26, at the intermission the Jayhawks immediately increased their advantage to six points.

It was the widest difference of a period that saw Werner sink a goal from the foul circle, bringing the score to 47 to 46 in favor of Kansas with but 40 seconds to go.

Corlis grabbed the ball from the board and passed the entire length of the floor to Kline who dunked in a shot unmolested for the final tally.

Lewis to Defend Lightweight Title

DETROIT, Feb. 14 (AP)—Promoter Eddie Lewis announced to-night completion of arrangements for the signing of Light Heavyweight Champion John Henry Lewis for defense of his title against Dave Clark of Detroit in a 15-round fight here March 24.

Lewis, working with Matchmaker Scotty Monteith to stage the fight at Olympia with a reported $10,000 guarantee for the champion, said the Pittsburgh Negro and his manager, Gus Greenlee, would come here tomorrow to sign contracts.

En Garde! Fencers Prep For Initial Meet

With the phrase "En Garde!" becoming more and more familiar every day, the Iowa fieldhouse has taken the aspect of a medieval fortress as the Iowa fencers prepare for their first meet.

The coming encounter with the Moline Y.M.C.A., Friday afternoon, marks the return of fencing to the Iowa campus after years of absence. Led by Alexander Ehrenberg, the Hawkeyes present a formidable group of swordsmen, competing in both foils and sabers.

Milford Barnes, Henry Hamilton, and Harold Kirschenblat have been chosen to duel for Iowa, while the remaining positions will be assigned by Coach Albert Baumgartner before the meet.

The Moline fencers are: Foils: Dr. Angras, Leonard Stone, Charles Embree, Henry Hinck and Dr. Perkins; Sabers: Dr. Angras and Leonard Stone.

As fencing has returned to Iowa through student enthusiasm and appreciation of this ancient sport no entrance fee will be charged and all students are invited to attend.

Greeks Resume League Play In Volleyball

Class B fraternity basketball teams resumed play last night with four teams seeing action.

Delta Tau Delta won over Phi Delta Theta in the first game of the evening, 24-14. In the final game Phi Kappa Psi ran over Sigma Nu, 36-12. Delta Chi, Delta Upsilon, Phi Gamma Delta, Phi Kappa Alpha and Delta Theta Phi were given forfeits by Alpha Tau Omega, Nu Sigma Nu, Gamma Eta Gamma, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and the Triangle, respectively.

The game between Sigma Chi and Phi Kappa Sigma will be played Friday evening, Feb. 17 at 7:30.

The schedule for tonight's volleyball games in the Coop Dorm league will see Kellogg facing Folson, Whetstone meeting Folsom, and Chesley playing Manse. Jefferson and Gables clash in the final game at 8:15.

In the Town Basketball League three games are on schedule. Madison meets Northwestern and Harris Hall meets Western at 8:15. In the final game College will face the Clintonians at 9 o'clock. Teams in this league that have suffered two defeats are automatically dropped from league competition.

Schlauder Leads Sprinters in Frosh Postal Track Meet

Art Schlauder, newly elected freshman track captain from Downers Grove, Ill., ran the 60-yard dash in the excellent time of :3.3 last night as he won the first time trial in the postal meet with the Chicago and Purdue yearlings.

Schlauder's time, if not bettered by Bill Green of Newton tomorrow, will be mailed to Chicago and Purdue and he will become the meet winner unless his time was beaten by one of the Maroon or Boiler-maker runners.

Green, Iowa high school 100-yard dash champion, was ill yesterday and will run tomorrow.

Hank Vollenweider of Dubuque won the 60-yard high hurdles in :3 flat as he was closely pressed by Jack Whitehurst.

Carl Schooner of Perry defeated Bill Matson of Oak Park, Ill., in the mile run with a time of 4:45.

Schlauder made it two wins for the day by taking the 400-yard dash in the good time of :54.5. This is his first year as a quarter miler. Glenn Dyer of Ledyard took second in the 440 as well as placing runner-up to Schlauder in the 60-yard dash.

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—The Pittsburgh baseball club announced last night that Lloyd Waner, veteran outfielder, telephoned from Oklahoma City that he would accept a new contract to play with the Pirates this year.

Dorothy Smith Will Represent County in D. A. R. State Contest

Winner Enters Good Citizen Pilgrimage To Washington, D. C.

Dorothy Smith, Iowa City high school senior, will represent Johnson county in the statewide competition sponsored to select an outstanding girl to represent Iowa in the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizen Pilgrimage to Washington, D. C.

Announcement of her candidacy was made by County Superintendent of Schools Frank J. Snider after final selection by a committee he headed had been made yesterday.

Miss Smith, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Smith, 1412 E. Court street, won the nomination over Wilma Lee Hudson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Hudson of near Iowa City, representative in the local contest from University high school.

Both candidates were one of three picked at each school by girls of the senior class on the basis of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism. Faculty members of each school then picked the finalists from the trio to represent the school.

An all-expense trip to Washington, D. C. for the national D. A. R. conference April 14 to 18 will be awarded the state winner.

Miss Smith, actively engaged in extra-curricular activities at Iowa City high school, is president of the Girl Reserves, president of the G. O. G. extemporaneous speech club, secretary and treasurer of Paint and Patches, honorary dramatic club, and business manager of Little Hawk weekly and the Red and White yearbook.

She holds membership in the senior girls' council, the school band, orchestra and the flute quartet and fills the office of "Hope" in the Order of Rainbow for Girls.

Mrs. May P. Youtz To Preside at State Child Study Meet

Mrs. May Pardee Youtz, in charge of the parent education service of the child welfare department, will preside at the meeting of the State Council for Child Study and Parent Education at Iowa State college Friday afternoon.

This meeting is part of the regional parent-education conference held at Ames Feb. 16 and 17. The conference is held in conjunction with the National Farm and Home Week of Iowa State college.

Westlawn Wins Cage Crown

Eastlawn Defeated In Intramural Meet By 20 to 15 Score

A girls basketball team from Westlawn, nurses' dormitory, last night annexed the women's intramural basketball title by defeating Eastlawn in the final game, 20 to 15.

Eastlawn had been the winner of one league, while the Westlawn group had defeated the teams of the second league.

Members of the winning team were Alice Beck, manager; Martha Stark, N3 of Lucas; Dale Tenney, N1 of Cedar Rapids; Wilma Kohrsen, N1 of Walnut; Ann Kruse, N1 of Lisbon; Elizabeth Lassen, N1 of Atlantic; and Wilma Palmer, N1 of Washington.

Members of the losing team were Mildred Ross, A3 of Oelwein, manager; Helen Joergel; Billie Young, A1 of Cedar Rapids; Ethel Chistian, A1 of Roland; Jeanne Young, A1 of Cedar Rapids; Helen Poulson, A3 of Iowa Falls; and Jean Davenport, A1 of Odebolt.

'The Trash of One Generation Will Become the Treasures of Another'

WASHINGTON — Old C. G. Sloan had a sense of humor when he opened his auction room here back in 1891. Inside the door he hung this sign: "The trash of one generation becomes the treasures of another."

Now "C.G." is gone and his son, Mark, has grown gray-haired in the same business. One of the most amazing parades of family treasures in this country has passed over their auction block.

That's because Washington is such a village of globe-trotters: Army and navy people, diplomats and rich cosmopolites. They die, or they are ordered abroad, and their belongings are sold.

So you can sit and bid for such items as Lincoln's dining-table that went for $25, or Admiral Dewey's mahogany bed, that went for $27.05. If you can indulge yourself, there are items like a crystal chandelier from the White House that went for $8,000.

Seems that when the time comes for White House families to leave, they usually look around with dismay at all the doo-dads they have collected. They don't have room for them back home. So they often call Sloan's, under a heavy veil of secrecy. It scarcely would be polite for a president to give some generous gift this idea: "We liked that silver tea service you gave us. But we already had six." The tea service is auctioned off anonymously. Half the time the buyer never learns that his new treasure once belonged to a president.

But once such a story leaked out, and thereby hangs the tale of a startling collector's item. It was a day in which a jumble of things was being sold at Sloan's, among them a quaint, little wooden tapestry frame. It was very, very old, but what would a person do with such a gadget? Anyway, someone took it for $30.

Months later the story came out: The little gadget was the loom on which Marie Antoinette had whiled away her dull hours. It had been a gift of the French government to President Wilson. Wonder if the present owner knows.

Some auctions bring out famous families, seeking sentimental reminders of someone who has died. Women in mink coats sit on hard wooden chairs alongside boarding housekeepers just looking for an extra dresser for the third-floor-back.

Such an event was the sale of Admiral Dewey's possessions. Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, owner of the Hope diamond, who has a strong sentimental streak, was in the audience. She had known Dewey. For $11 she got the deck chair on which the admiral supposedly sat as he directed the Battle of Manila Bay.

Abraham Lincoln's grand-

By SIGRID ARNE AP Feature Service Writer

daughter was there that day. She bid in, for $16, a nest of tables the Emperor of Japan had given to Dewey.

When the Admiral's shaving mirror came up, several navy men bid excitedly. It went to a retired officer who had fought by Dewey's side. He looked so pleased!

When Sen. Frank B. Brandegee died he left a Peale portrait of George Washington. The D.A.R. wanted it badly for their Constitution Hall. They bid it in at $3,150.

There's a nice story about Susan B. Anthony's portrait. It had cost $2,500, but the current owner owed a $90 storage bill on it, so it was put for sale. The afternoon before a woman who had been in the last suffrage fights heard about it. She phoned friends frantically, but could only scare up $80. When bidding at the auction reached her limit, $80, the woman stood up and told her story. The audience made up the other $10 and she took off the portrait for the Susan B. Anthony Foundation.

Old Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge left an amazing collection of oddments, many from the Orient. Society and congress turned out for that auction. Some of the most spirited bidding was over a unique, little newspaper issued in Vicksburg just after the Civil war. Paper had been so scarce that this publication was gotten out on the back of wall-paper.

And listen, art collectors: A Whistler water color went here for $140. It was "Boats on the River." It had Whistler's little butterfly signature down in the corner.

Just after the senate moved from its old chamber the richly carved chairs were auctioned. Congress came down en masse for that. Top price on a chair was $3,000. Nobody knew whether it was Clay's or Calhoun's, but it had belonged to one of them.

Woman's Club Will Give Play At Power Co.

Continuing its theme of children's drama and theater, the drama department of the Iowa City Woman's club will present a play, "The Baby Moses," tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. in the assembly room of the Iowa City Light and Power company.

Mrs. William P. Mueller Jr. is serving as director of the production and Mrs. Harry L. Seger will be the reader.

Those taking part in the play include Mrs. R. C. Flickinger, Mrs. B. M. Ricketts, Mrs. R. V. McCollum, Mrs. E. N. Oberg, Mrs. William Gauger, Mrs. M. R. Peterson, Mrs. H. L. Bailey and Mrs. Merton Tudor.

Crowd Likes 'Charm School'

Three-Act Comedy of Iowa City High Junior Class Pleases Audience

By ARTHUR BELLAIRE Assistant City Editor

Two hundred persons roared their approval of "Charm School," a modern three-act comedy presented by the junior class of Iowa City high school in the school auditorium last night. The last performance of the play will be given at 8 o'clock tonight.

A clear voice, a feeling for the part and an alert reaction to lines characterized each actor.

The story dealt with five young men struggling for existence in New York City. Bad luck hovered over their lives until a collapse was almost inevitable.

A special delivery letter to system involving the impression of charm on the girl students. Notes to Bevans from Elsie, Dorothy Dee Shank, sent to be corrected for grammar and spelling proved to be love letters. Bevans openly denied his love for the girl causing her to run away from school.

Bevans learned of Elsie's destination and set out in pursuit. While he was away, strange complications arose in regard to the school's ownership.

What happened from his departure to his return was finally untwisted to affect a hilarious ending.

Singing and dancing to modern swing music at intervals throughout the play created another element which distinguished it from other high school plays. The modern young man and woman were vividly portrayed.

"Charm School," under the direction of Lola Hughes, dramatic instructor, was written by Alice

Prof. Meier, Prof. Horn Write Material for Educational Study

Prof. Norman C. Meier of the psychology department and Prof. Ernest Horn of the college of education are contributors of the 1939 yearbook of the National Society for the Study of Education, just published.

Both of the professors have written chapters representing the advanced opinions of leading educators of the country.

Participation in the preparation of the yearbook is by invitation. "The Graphic and Allied Arts," the article by Professor Meier, covers the developmental period in art education from nursery school through high school.

Development is treated in three divisions; the first deals with nursery grades through grade three. This is a period of free play and simple expression characterized by spontaneity towards objects of the child interest.

A child of this age is less sensitive to the natural appearance than to the realistic representation; this tendency frequently causes distortion.

Children of this age prefer simple pictures which tell their story, or which are familiar. The child has certain aesthetic values; for example, he prefers balance to unbalance.

A teacher merely cues, helps solve technical difficulties and most of all supervises activities which enlarge the child's experiences with life and provide suggestions for subject matter for his artistic activities.

The typical pupil's interest in art begins to lag during the period between grade four to eight. This is partly due to his realization of his own limitations and the competition of other interests.

Art during this period should more closely approximate the interest of child and community. During grades nine to 12, art interest decreases still further. This fact brings out the need of revising, enlarging and vitalizing the art curriculum in the senior high school.

Professor Horn's article was entitled "Language: The Development of Spelling." Spelling, which depends upon a working vocabulary, thrives best in a setting of a rich curriculum that includes among many things a sound program in written composition.

The problem arises of selecting the words most important for the children to learn. The writing of children and the writing of adults were studied.

Contrary to the assumption of some writers, the vocabulary of children and adults overlaps to a considerable degree. Those words which are found to be important in both children's and adults' writings are obviously the ones to form a basic list for the teaching of spelling in any grade; that is, words should have both present and permanent value.

In determining grade placement the degree of difficulty with which a word is learned is important, but the basic factor in determining the placement is, after all, the child's need.

Any word not appropriate for the basic list but which the child needs in connection with other schooling, should be taught as the need arises.

Prof. Muenzer To Give Violin Recital

Will Play At 8 P. M. Sat. In Iowa Union

Faculty Member To Offer Program Given in New York City

Prof. Hans Muenzer of the music department will be presented in a violin recital in the lounge of Iowa Union at 8 p.m. Saturday, under the auspices of the school of fine arts. He will be accompanied by Esther Payne Muenzer.

Because of the illness of Prof. Philip G. Clapp, the university symphony orchestra concert has been postponed until March 1.

Professor Muenzer will play the same program which he presented as a recital in Town Hall, New York City, Monday night. Telegraphic dispatches to Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts, state that the New York recital was a "huge success."

Mrs. Muenzer, who accompanied Professor Muenzer at the Town Hall concert, planned to remain in New York City for a period of special study. She will make the journey to Iowa City especially for the Iowa Union recital.

Professor Muenzer is well known to Iowa Citizens, having come to the University of Iowa in September, 1936, as professor of violin and chamber music. Since coming to the campus he has appeared in several concerts here and elsewhere in the state. At the present time, in addition to his appointment in the university, Professor Muenzer is solo violinist and concertmaster for the WGN concert orchestra in Chicago.

Professor Muenzer was educated in Leipzig, Germany, at the Royal Conservatory of Music, under the personal tuition of the eminent violinist-composer, Prof. Hans Sitt. At the age of 12, he received a free scholarship for violin, and all associated music branches from Professor Sitt.

Beginning at the age of 16, and continuing for three years, Professor Muenzer was a member of the famous Gewandhaus orchestra under the direction of the celebrated Arthur Nikisch. At 17 he was made concertmaster of the conservatory orchestra and was awarded the Mendelssohn prize from the city of Leipzig.

After seven years of study he was graduated from the conservatory and became concertmaster of the Philharmonic society. At that time he organized the Muenzer trio, which had begun to make a name for itself, when John Hatstaedt, who later became president of the American Conservatory of Music, invited him to teach violin and chamber music at his famous school in Chicago.

During the next five years, until he became concertmaster of the Chicago Theater symphony orchestra, he instructed a large number of professional students and concertized throughout the country as a soloist and with his trio.

Esther Payne Muenzer, who will accompany Professor Muenzer in the Saturday night concert, is a talented pianist and has been heard in Iowa City on other occasions, both as a soloist and accompanist.

She studied extensively with Silvio Scionti, celebrated concert pianist, and attended artist classes of Fannie Bloomfield-Zeisler, Joseph Lhevinne and Richard Josephmann. With the exception of coaching with Anton Rhoden, eminent virtuoso and teacher at the conservatory of music in Leipzig, Mrs. Muenzer received all her training in America.

Much of her work was done at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago, where she won several scholarships and became a member of the faculty. She has appeared as soloist with the Chicago symphony, the Kansas City Philharmonic orchestra and Henry Weber's WGN symphony.

Admission to the Muenzer concert will be by ticket. Tickets will be available beginning tomorrow noon, free of charge, at Iowa Union desk.

Quad Singers To Tour Soon

Additional appearances have been scheduled for the Quad-angle singers, a picked group of men from that dormitory, Donald Mallett, faculty supervisor, has announced.

The singers made their first out-of-town appearance early this month in Oskaloosa. They have been booked for two concerts in Washington, Ia., Feb. 23. On a date not yet set, the vocal-

Sigma Xi Will Meet Tonight In East Hall at 8

Sigma Xi will hold its second soiree of the year in room E105 East hall, at 8 o'clock tonight. The following program has been arranged by the psychology department:

"Quantitative Measure of Extensional Meaning," Curtis E. Tut-hill, G of Iowa City; "The Cartoon and Editorial as Propaganda Media," A. D. Annis, G of Council Bluffs.

"Brain Potentials During Sleep," Charles E. Henry, G of Iowa City; "Analysis of a Perceptible Series of Partials in a Vocal Sound," William H. Lichte, G of Fremont, Neb., and "Comparative Study of Vision in Chimpanzee and Man," Prof. Kenneth W. Spence of the psychology department.

Graduate students not affiliated with Sigma Xi are invited to the meeting. Refreshments will be served at the end of the program. Those planning to attend are requested to make reservations before noon today.

Prof. Sowers To Give Talk

A. A. U. W. Will Have Monthly Meeting At Saturday Luncheon

Prof. W. Leigh Sowers, professor of English and drama, who has just returned from his annual visit in New York, will speak at the regular monthly meeting of the American association of university women Saturday. Luncheon will be at 12:15 p.m. in the University clubrooms of Iowa Union.

This season's plays will be the topic of Professor Sowers' talk. The committee for the meeting includes Mrs. Paul Ruth, chairman; Mrs. Jacob Cornog, Mrs. R. A. Fenton, Mrs. H. Dabney Kerr, Mrs. J. H. Allen, Mrs. Juanita Gray, Mrs. W. H. Seegers, Elizabeth Hunter, Dean Adelaide Burge and Helen Reich.

Reservations for the luncheon may be made with Mrs. Ruth or Mrs. Kerr.

Dinners Honor SUU's Birthday

Founder's day dinners in honor of the university's 92nd birthday now have been scheduled for 13 alumni groups in seven states, as plans move forward for the Feb. 25 affair.

Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, alumni secretary, said that some of the recent additions are Davenport, Newton and Grinnell.

Faculty members already engaged to speak at the dinners include Dean E. M. MacEwen of the college of medicine, who will appear at Sioux City; Dean Wiley B. Rutledge of the college of law, who will speak at Kansas City, Mo., and Prof. Harry Barnes of the speech department, a speaker at Milwaukee, Wis.

German Professors Report Language Conference to Honorary Fraternity

Reports on the modern language conference in New York, Dec. 28 to 30, were given by Prof. H. O. Lyte, Prof. Meno Spann and Prof. J. Milton Cowan of the German department at a meeting of Delta Phi Alpha, honorary German fraternity last night in Schaeffer hall. The professors attended the conference at the invitation of Columbia university.

In addition to their reports, the instructors gave their impressions of other meetings and exhibitions in New York.

Professor Lyte spoke on libraries in New York City and on the proceedings of the American Association of Teachers of German. Professor Spann described the exhibition of modern German art which he attended, and gave his impressions on current plays and movies in New York.

Professor Cowan, who is in charge of technical development in the modern language phonetics laboratory, visited the studios of R. C. A. Victor in Radio City and the Bell Telephone laboratories, and spoke on recent technical improvements that might find application in this university laboratory. He also reported on the meeting of the Linguistic Society of America and the work of the American Dialect Society.

ists will perform before the Iowa alumni groups in Chicago. It is expected that other engagements will soon be scheduled. Directed by Hugh Cockshoot, A4 of Wilton Junction, the men have a repertoire of nine songs.

TODAY With WSUI

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHT

Earl Harrington's Avalon orchestra will display its versatility this afternoon from 5 until 5:30 when Harrington's group imitates the famous style of five well-known bands.

There's "Martha" as Larry Clinton would play it; "Liebestraum" as it were Tommy Dorsey; "I've Got a Date With an Angel" in the Hal Kemp manner; "You Look Good to Me" as if by Maestro Kay Kyser and "Bugle Call Rag" in the way of Swingster Benny Goodman.

Harrington's weekly half-hour of tea-time melodies opens with Frank Anderson singing "Hurry Home," the popular "Jeepers Creepers" and the new hit, "Deep Purple."

This afternoon's program includes the Avalon's own arrangement of "Blue Skies" with a trumpet solo by Don Dodge and tenor sax by John Patrick.

Choice Dishes of 1st President Suggest Modernized Versions

Dinner menus at the home of George Washington usually were rather elaborate. But when it came to supper dishes, the first president favored such simple dishes as gingerbread and "wigs."

The Washingtons were noted for their hospitality. Their Mt. Vernon home was nearly always filled with guests. Dinner, served around 3 or 4 o'clock was bountiful and elaborate.

The main course of a typical dinner consisted of oyster soup, beef, mutton and several vegetables. Then came a great array of pies, puddings, tarts, whips, floating islands and sweetmeats. For a final course light wine was served with fruits, raisins and almonds.

Nearly all of the food came from the plantation. Mrs. Washington was busy from morning until night directing the preparing and preserving. Vegetables were grown in large quantities. Turkeys, chickens, cows and sheep were raised on the farm. Butter was made in the dairy, and with milk and cream, was kept in the cool spring house.

The nearby Potomac river and Chesapeake Bay supplied an abundance of the fish Washington liked so well. One of his favorite seafood dishes was Mrs. Washington's famous crab soup.

Here is a modernized version of crab soup. Melt four tablespoons of butter in large frying pan, add and brown slightly one-half cup chopped onions. Pour in two cups of crab meat (fresh or canned), two tablespoons of minced parsley, two cups of sliced okra, two bay leaves, two cups of tomatoes and five cups of boiling water. Cover and simmer one hour. Season when ready to serve with two teaspoons of salt, half a teaspoon of paprika and a tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce. Serve this soup hot in bowls in which a little hot boiled rice has been placed.

Supper, usually served at Mt. Vernon at 9 o'clock, consisted of fruit with cream, "wigs" were small round biscuits fashioned from yeast bread dough. They were very light. Since "yeast powders" (baking powders) were little known in colonial days, cakes were lightened by the use of stiffly beaten egg whites. Yeast for breads was made from a fermented combination of hops and potatoes.

Beaten biscuit, a characteristic southern food, corn cakes or batter cakes were the Mt. Vernon breakfast breads. Breakfast, in-

Child Training Changes Utility

Social Relationships, Personality Develop With His Intelligence

"The child's relative place in the group and his opportunity for mental exercise are largely responsible for his increase in intelligence," asserted Prof. Beth L. Wellman of the university child welfare station when she spoke yesterday at a meeting of the Child Conservation club. "His personality, social relationships, and emotional development develop with his intelligence quotient," Professor Wellman concluded.

The child study is entering a new era in developing children's possibilities. The old educational point of view was that the child was endowed with certain set possibilities and to educate him was to educate only these possibilities. Now, the idea is to educate the child and change his utilities. He is not endowed with certain set capabilities, but his infinite possibilities can be changed largely by environment.

So, the two questions to educators are, "How much can mental ability be changed?" and "How much do mental ability and personality have in common?"

Experiments with pre-school children have proved that with the added impetus of the pre-school, children develop more readily. With the poorer environment comes a gradual decrease in mentality.

The meeting was at the home of Mrs. Lyle A. Weed, 409 Grand avenue.

identically, was promptly at 7 a.m. Tea came at 7 in the evening.

The beaten biscuits, still popular today, are made of simplest ingredients—water, flour and a little shortening. To make the biscuits light they are beaten for half an hour with a flat object.

The gingerbread recipe is as follows:

- 2 eggs
1/2 cup brown sugar
3/4 cup pure New Orleans molasses
1/2 cup melted shortening
2 1/2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons ginger
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup boiling water

Add beaten eggs to the sugar, molasses and melted shortening. Then add the dry ingredients which have been mixed and sifted. Finally add the hot water. Bake in individual pans or in a large-greased pan in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 to 40 minutes. This recipe makes a light fluffy gingerbread that becomes a party dessert when topped with whipped cream and a cherry.

Wine jelly, delicate in flavor and gay in color, and topped with whipped cream, was a common colonial dessert.

Airplane Performs Well As a Scare-Crow

DENVER (AP)—Airplanes are being used experimentally in an effort to exterminate crows in northern Colorado.

In the first trial more than 15,000 crows were flushed by a plane that swooped close to their roosting place near Erie, Col. About 100 volunteer hunters, armed with shotguns, were stationed nearby and slaughtered approximately 1,000 of the birds.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

READ THIS FIRST: Elsie Ritter, a beauty shop operator, taking the place of a friend for a week in the private salon of Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Sr., finds herself involved in a murder mystery when first the eccentric old lady and later, her middle-aged daughter-in-law are found dead under the same hair drier.

Elsie was attending each at the time, though out of the salon for a few moments before discovering the old lady's death. A string of emeralds, belonging to Mrs. Witherspoon, Sr., are strangely missing. Certain members of the Witherspoon family, and some of the house guests, strike Elsie as queer. Phil Benson, newspaper reporter and close friend of Elsie's, arrives as the police launch their investigation. He immediately phones for Mae McIntyre, head of the Chicago homicide squad, who happens to be in town. Meanwhile Richard and Daphne Witherspoon, children of the second victim, conduct themselves oddly during questioning. The chief of police continues his interrogation of all those at the Manor when the two deaths occurred.

(Now Go On With the Story)

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE TOOTS LEMOINE looked defiant but anxious beneath her hard-boiled exterior. Hers was one past, I was willing to wager, that would not bear investigation.

Young Richard, his eyes fixed glassily upon the ceiling, appeared listless and indifferent, but the nerve at the base of his temple throbbled violently.

Daphne eased her restlessness by running her fingers through and through her bright hair while she watched Chief Ellis through half-closed lids.

Mr. Horace alone seemed unaffected by Ellis' statement. His expression was absent. I wondered whether he had deeply loved his wife and whether her death had been a great shock and loss to him. It was impossible to tell. Somehow the little man was so detached from life that it was difficult to associate him with any of its joys or sorrows.

"Now you!" Ellis pointed at Reginald Ainsworth.

The beautiful young man of the golden curls met the officer's gaze blandly.

"What are you doing at the Manor? How did you get here?"

"I came by train!" Reginald registered astonishment at such a silly question.

Dr. Didmore said—"Oh, Didmore!" He dismissed the coroner and his verdict with a wave of his hand. "He could have made a mistake, couldn't he? Someone told him the old girl had a bad heart, so what does he do? He takes it for granted she died of a heart seizure!"

I regarded him in growing dismay. "Oh, no!"

"See!" He was gleefully exultant. "You're doubting already!"

"But who would want to kill her?" I refused to admit my susceptibility to argument.

"Who wouldn't want to? From all I hear the whole family hated her like poison."

"Like poison?" I began to laugh wildly.

"Say!" He shook me roughly. "Cut it! Don't you go off your rocker, too!"

"I—I can't help it!" I struggled to regain control.

"Stop it!" He hit me hard between my shoulder blades. I stopped it! I gasped for breath.

"All right now," I sputtered and wiped the tears from my eyes.

"Good! Don't take any more of those fits! There's enough nuts around here without adding you to the list. Besides, I'll need your help."

"What can I do?"

"Dunno yet. That's what we have to figure out. Now"—he fish-

His New Role

Today at the Englert! A new screen role created by John Barrymore is that of Gregory Vance in "The Great Man Votes." In this tender story of a man's rehabilitation through the abiding faith of his children, Barrymore portrays a former classic scholar who has fallen on evil days through loss of hope and his fondness for bootleg hooch—the latter passion ruling the moment depicted above.

ed a wad of crumpled copy paper from his pocket and spread it out on the bed table—"we'll begin by assuming that the old girl was done in. That leaves us a first-class motive for the daughter-in-law's murder."

"You mean she suspected—" "Obvious, isn't it?" "I—I guess so." He was going too fast for me. I did not believe for a minute that Mrs. Witherspoon had been murdered. It was too fantastic!

"Well, then," he continued, warming to his theme, "let's have a look at our list of suspects. First, Mr. Horace—" "Mr. Horace!" Now I knew he was kidding. "Mr. Horace wouldn't hurt a fly!" "Oh, you can't tell about these meek as Moses guys," he said quickly. "Maybe he has a Dr. Jekyll complex."

'Let Us Unite As One People'

Abraham Lincoln Spoke These Words 80 Years Ago in Chicago

Robert Emmet Sherwood, who tells here why he thinks Lincoln's spirit lives today, is one of America's foremost playwrights and author of one of the most successful dramas current on Broadway, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." He has been a student of Lincolniana for many years; thinks perhaps he was first attracted to the Great Emancipator because of Lincoln's great height. Sherwood, himself, is 6-foot-4.

By ROBERT E. SHERWOOD
Written for the AP Feature Service
"My friends—I have only to say, let us discard all this quibbling about this man and the other man, this race and that race and the other race being inferior, and therefore must be placed in an inferior position. Let us discard all these things, and unite as one people throughout this land, until we shall once more stand up declaring that all men are created equal."

When Abraham Lincoln spoke these words, in Chicago, 80 years ago, the audience, composed of his fellow-citizens of Illinois, rose up and cheered. A gathering of Americans would cheer the same words today, even though they didn't know that the speaker was Abraham Lincoln. For this homely man expressed in his time the whole, eternal spirit of the country in which he was born and grew to greatness.

He Said It All
Of all the great men who have lived and died upon this earth, Lincoln is the one who is most completely, vibrantly alive today. The captains and the kings have indeed departed, and been buried deep. The Caesars and Napoleons are so many wax figures in the museum of time. But the soul of Honest Old Abe goes marching on.

Frequently, today, you hear people ask, "If Lincoln were now alive, what would he say about the present situation—labor troubles, racial and religious intolerance, the menace of war?" The answer is—he said it—all of it.

There was in his time a political organization which called itself the "American Party." The name was impressive, but deceptive. It didn't fool Lincoln—who represented all of the people all of the time. The American Party was dedicated to the proposition that there is but one ruling class in the United States, consisting exclusively of those who were born white, Protestant and Anglo-Saxon. All who couldn't qualify in this restricted category—Germans, Frenchmen, Italians, Swedes, Catholics or Jews—should be denied rights of citizenship and, in effect, reduced to slavery, along with the Negroes.

When asked whether he had any sympathy for the aims of the American Party, Lincoln said, "How can anyone who abhors the oppression of Negroes be in favor of degrading classes of white people?"

In one of his greatest utterances, he said that the fundamental importance of the Declaration of Independence was that "it gave liberty not alone to the people of this country, but hope to all the world, for all future time."

He kept on repeating that principle. When there was an outburst of labor warfare in New York, he wrote to the Working Men's association, deploring the outrages, and said, "The strongest bond of human sympathy, outside of the family relation, should be one uniting all working people, of all nations, and tongues, and kindreds. Nor should this lead to war upon property, or the owners of property."

After the outbreak of war between the states, when it seemed that the dream of Washington and Jefferson was being shattered, Lincoln sent his first message to a congress which scorned him as an uncouth, inexperienced nonentity. He spoke to them solemnly of the devastating problems confronting the Union.

He expressed thoughts which were later to be solidified eternally in the Gettysburg address. "This issue," he said, "embraces more than the fate of the United States. It presents to the whole family of man the question whether a constitutional republic or democracy—a government of the people by the same people—can or cannot maintain its territorial integrity against its own domestic foes."

The Family of Humanity
There again was his deep sense of obligation to all men of all nations. He never stopped thinking of the human race as a family.

He stated the most fundamental beliefs and hopes of mankind in words that were as simple as they were beautiful. Those same words are now printed in newspapers, spoken over the radio or from the stage, and they apply to the situation which now prevails throughout a troubled world, just as they did in the days when the United States was in danger of destruction by forces from within itself.

That is why Lincoln lives, why people today feel that his warm, friendly, understanding spirit is still with them, still giving them hope that a government of them by them and for them can not perish from the earth.

"With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in... to do all which may cherish and achieve a just and lasting peace among ourselves, and with all nations."
Of such is the essential spirit of democracy, which is also still vibrantly alive.

Woman's Wedding Was Well Witnessed

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — A Broderick, Cal., woman had no difficulty proving that she was married in Cheyenne in 1899.

Her wedding was a "publicity stunt" for the third annual Cheyenne Frontier Days rodeo and the rights were witnessed by scores of spectators who came to see the bucking broncos.

The girl who then was a young bride now is seeking an old age pension at Broderick and after 40 years wrote the county clerk asking for data on the marriage license so she could prove her age.

K. C. to Dedicate Remodeled Clubrooms Tomorrow Night

Ceremony to Mark Completion of Work Of Last Six Weeks

Newly remodeled clubrooms of the Iowa City Knights of Columbus will be dedicated tomorrow night at the local Marquette council clubhouse, officials of the organization announced yesterday. This dedicatory ceremony will mark the completion of work which has been in progress for the past six weeks.

Out of town guests for the occasion will be State Deputy Lawrence Brennan of Emmetsburg and State Secretary Ray Conley of Des Moines. Invitations to the event have also been sent to the presiding officers of the Elks, Moose, Eagles and American Legion as well as to state and regional K. C. officers.

Ceremonies will open with a dinner at 6:30 to be served in the newly decorated basement lounge. A speaking program has been arranged by the lecturers committee, and an evening of entertainment will follow the dinner program.

Registering To Finish Friday

Voters to Sign Up For City Primary Election With Clerk

Friday will be the last day of registration for city primary election, the city clerk's office revealed yesterday. Registration must be made in the clerk's office.

Re-registration is mandatory of any person wishing to vote who has changed his residence to a different ward since the last election.

To accommodate working persons, the clerk's office will remain open during the noon hour tomorrow and Friday, it was announced.

Primary election will be held Feb. 27. The municipal election is scheduled for March 27.

Initiate Twelve Into Honorary Chemist Group

G. F. Breckenridge, Missouri Professor, Becomes Associate

Eleven new members and one associate member were initiated last night into Phi Lambda Upsilon, national honorary chemistry fraternity, and were entertained following the ceremony at a dinner in Iowa Union.

The new members are Clifford Bauer, G of Westchester; Alfred Farnham, G of Traer; William Huey, G of Jamestown, N. D.; Paul H. Lahr, G of Iowa City; Arthur Olmore, E4 of Iowa City; James E. Stafford, G of Iowa City; George H. Wagner, G of Fayetteville, Ark.; George D. Baird, an instructor in the Rock Island high school, and Walter G. Ingram, a chemistry instructor at Kearney, Neb.

Prof. Gerald F. Breckenridge of the analytical chemistry department of the University of Missouri, while not present at the meeting, was initiated as an associate member of the local chapter. Ingram and Baird were also absent at the ceremony.

Prof. L. Charles Raiford of the Iowa chemistry department was the principal speaker at the dinner following the initiation, in the private dining room at Iowa Union. He spoke on "Qualifications of a Researcher."

Leslie P. Seyb, G of Donnellson, president of the local Upsilon chapter of the honorary organization, presided at the meeting.

Leonard E. Olson, G of Superior, Wis., greeted the initiates for the active chapter. Farnham responded for the initiates.

Twenty-two men are members of the active chapter. Eighteen members of the faculty are affiliates of the group.

Ministers Will Trade Pulpits

Rev. Worthley Will Speak at Nebraska Church Next Sunday

The Rev. Arthur L. Weatherly, pastor of the Lincoln, Neb., Unitarian church, and the Rev. Evans A. Worthley of the Iowa City Unitarian church, will exchange pulpits next Sunday, according to an announcement by the local pastor.

Neither of the ministers will be stranger to his congregation next Sunday. The Rev. Mr. Weatherly was formerly in charge of the local Unitarian church, and the Rev. Mr. Worthley performed his graduate work at the University of Nebraska. For five years he was Methodist pastor at the university.

The Unitarian ministers of Iowa and Nebraska will meet for a one-day conference in Des Moines tomorrow and will attend the installation service of the new minister of the Unitarian church in Des Moines during the evening.

Seek Signers On Townsend Club Petitions

2000 Names Now Ready to Be Sent To State Legislature

Nearly two thousand signatures have been obtained on petitions to the state legislature being circulated here by members of the local Townsend club. Reports from the 46 workers who are canvassing the city should boost that number considerably, John I. Diehl, chairman of the drive, said yesterday.

Solicitations began Monday and will continue for 10 days.

The petition, directed to the governor and the state legislature, urges that a resolution be adopted memorializing congress to enact the Townsend bill of 1939 H. R. 2.

The measure will be introduced into the house of representatives Thursday, Rep. Robert L. Doughton, chairman of the ways and means committee of the house, having guaranteed the plan a full hearing.

Among the several states that have memorialized congress to make the Townsend act law are Wyoming, Indiana, Montana, Oregon, South Dakota and Massachusetts.

Headquarters for the drive are at 108 S. Linn street.

Committee To Choose 4 Boys

Local Students Will Represent Iowa City At Summer Camp

A committee was appointed yesterday by B. M. Ricketts, commander of the Roy L. Choque post of the American Legion, to choose four local school students to represent Iowa City at the annual Hawkeye Boys' State at Camp Dodge in Des Moines June 3 to 10.

The committee includes Roscoe E. Taylor, Lou E. Clark and Coach Otto Vogel.

Hawkeye Boys' State originated by the American Legion, has for its purpose the instruction of boys in the fundamental principles of American government. City, county and state offices for the period of Boys' State afford boys actual practice in the control of government.

Peace Meeting Tonight Will Feature Spanish War Situation

Prof. Allen to Talk; Students to Discuss Civil War Conflict

Prof. Ethan Allen of the political science department will speak at 7:30 tonight before a general audience at a peace meeting in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Milton Felsen and Roger Hargrave, Spanish civil war loyalists, will tell of some of their experiences in the recent European conflict.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Iowa Committee for Peace Action and the Iowa Student Peace council.

Dealing with their experiences at the front from a personal viewpoint will be the chief center of interest in talks by Felsen and Hargrave. Hargrave was wounded in the conflict and Felsen was the driver of a Red Cross ambulance.

The interpretation of the present situation in Spain, the effects of war there, possible effects upon America and modes of action this country may take will form the main theme of the meeting.

Merle Miller, A3 of Marshalltown, will act as chairman of the peace meeting.

The general public is invited to hear the discussion.
