Britain Publishes Rearmament Costs as Warning to World

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Great Britain today published impressive new figures on the cost and speed of her rearmament that might serve as warning to any aggressive-minded powers in a war-torn world.

A government white paper put the total expenditure for the first three years of Britain's huge five-year armament program at $5,865,000,000 and disclosed extensive plans for new naval construction.

The paper said the original estimate of $7,500,000,000 as total cost of the program, which started in 1937, would be substantially exceeded, but did not indicate what the eventual cost would be.

Publication of these figures followed upon recent warnings by Prime Minister Chamberlain and other ministers against minimizing Britain's armed strength.

Added importance was given the publication by recent developments which have heightened uncertainties over the aims of the powers of the anti-comintern pact—Germany, Italy and Japan.

The white paper attributed the drastic rise in arms outlays mainly to "the increase in our defensive strength to meet the risk of air attacks"—an apparent reference to Germany's vaunted air force.

The nation's defense bill for the 1938-40 fiscal year alone—ending March 31, 1940—was put at $2,900,000,000, including over $1,000,000,000 for the air force alone and $285,000,000 for civilian defenses.

The huge sum exceeds by $960,000,000 the current year's expenditures.

Additions to Britain's naval forces are to include two more capital ships—in addition to seven started or authorized since the arm program was launched in 1937—two destroyer flotillas and a score of fast escort vessels to protect shipping, vital for Britain's food supplies in wartime, against submarine and air attacks.

New anti-submarine measures were seen as a counter move to Germany's submarine building program, announced Dec. 30 under an escape clause of the 1935 British-German naval treaty.

Then Germany said she intended to build her submarine fleet to parity with Britain's—at about 70,000 tons.

Details of this year's armament plans are to be told in forthcoming estimates dealing with the army, and navy and air force more fully.

Concerning the speed of the arms program, the government said the three service departments "now are receiving armament stores of all kinds and of the latest models in very large quantities, and production will continue on an increasing scale."

It told also of extensive preparations for protection of the civilian population in wartime.

Indication of the magnitude of Britain's naval building was contained in the statement that on Jan. 1, 1939, naval vessels under construction totaled 544,000 tons compared with 139,300 four years earlier.

During 1939 60 warships are scheduled for addition to the British navy, increasing its tonnage by 120,000.

The government disclosures gained importance from the following developments which contributed to uncertainty over the aims of the anti-comintern powers:

1. A new German labor contract decrease to enable rush work on urgent national construction jobs such as the widening of the Kiel canal, Germany's shortcut to the North Sea from the Baltic.

2. Disclosure that Italy was reinforcing her garrisons in Libya bordering French North African territory.

3. The Japanese occupation of Hainan island, off the South China coast and thwarting British-French communications between Hong-kong and Indo-China.

4. An appeal from the Carpatho-Ukraine national council in Czechoslovakia for financial help abroad toward creation of an all-Ukrainian national empire—a project which some believe Chancellor Hitler envisages to gain control of Ukrainian areas in Soviet Russia, Rumania and Poland.

HOUSE PASSES TWO HEALTH BILLS

Goering Orders Drafting For Govt. Project

Stops Employers From Competing For Workmen

BERLIN, Feb. 15 (AP)—A new decree by Field Marshal Herman Goering today made it possible to draft any needed manpower for gigantic national construction jobs such as widening the Kiel canal and at the same time effectively called a halt to employer's competing for labor by offering higher wages.

Goering also ended the government's costly experiment of paying men drafted for unskilled ditch-digging the same wages they previously drew for their jobs as artisans or brain-workers.

Goering's decree, published on the same day that plans for widening of the famous Kiel canal connecting the Baltic with the North Sea were announced, began with the significant words:

"The execution of unpostponable tasks having special significance for the policies of the state must not be endangered through lack of labor power.

"For the performance of such tasks the possibility must exist of drafting inhabitants of the reich's territory for work and of making firm ties which bind workers to a given place of work."

Decree superseded a milder one of last June 23, effective last July 1, under which all Germans became liable for temporary service to the state. Then work on Germany's western fortifications was being rushed.

Under the earlier decree it was assumed that a temporary worker would be returned to his former tasks. The new decree enables the government to draft men and women for indefinite periods.

The earlier decree specified that pay for drafted labor could not be below that received by workers in their regular jobs. Under the new measure the pay is to be regulated by the wage scales of jobs to which the persons are assigned. If the discrepancy is too great, exceptions may be made to insure a decent standard of living for the person drafted.

Widening of the Kiel canal "to make possible the parallel traffic of the largest types of ships" was announced as one of the "urgent" projects of the nation.

It was built from 1887 to 1895 and widened from 1907 to 1914. Under the Nazi regime the whirlwind construction of western fortifications showed that tasks of such kind can be performed more quickly.

The state merely drafts the necessary men from government offices, industrial plants and business firms, and all energies of the nation are concentrated upon a particular task which orders of Goering or Chancellor Hitler gives precedence.

It was generally assumed that the widened canal would be ready by the time the 35,000-ton battleship Bismarck—launched yesterday—would be commissioned some two years from now.

There has been general complaint that employers have competed for labor by offering higher wages. The government's policy consistently has been not to raise wages, but instead of increased pay to offer workers such attractions as the "power through joy" organization's vacation excursions, beautiful adorned working places, and evenings of good fellowship attended by bosses and workers.

OUT OF DANGER Iowa Woman Among Those Saved

SHANGHAI, Feb. 16 (Thursday) (AP)—Americans at Hoihow and Kungchow, on Hainan island, including an Iowa woman, are safe, according to a radio message from Americans at Hoihow to Presbyterian headquarters here today.

The message, the first communication from foreigners within the area invaded by Japanese Friday, left the fortunes of 15 other Americans at Kachek and Nodoo undisclosed, however.

German Paper Attacks U. S. On Rearmament

BERLIN, Feb. 16 (Thursday) (AP)—A sharp attack on the United States rearmament policy and its sale of war materials to European countries was made today by Adolf Hitler's newspaper Volkischer Beobachter in comment on Britain's new armaments loan.

Of United States armament the Beobachter said it regretted the loss of rearmament was determined by states whose national requirements did not justify such measures.

"We are thinking primarily of the United States which not only under a deliberately false pretext of the threatening of America increases its own armaments by leaps and bounds, but also today in the midst of peace the United States appears in Europe as supplier of war material on a large scale and thus increases international tension emanating from this wave of armaments."

House Votes Vast Sum For Rearmament

By RICHARD L. TURNER
WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The house approved a huge, $356,000,000 segment of the administration's rearmament program after a turbulent debate which produced dramatic warnings that present world conditions hold grave dangers for America and charges that the United States is treading the road to war.

By the one-sided vote of 367 to 15, it passed a bill which would add 3,050 war planes to the army air corps, strengthen the defenses of the Panama canal, increase the number of army officers by 24,000 and enable the army to buy $23,750,000 worth of war material from American industry to educate it in the production of such supplies.

The measure now goes to the senate.

A little earlier, the house naval committee approved a bill authorizing an expenditure of $68,000,000 for new naval air bases, including a faraway Pacific outpost on the island of Guam.

The navy received a low bid of $11,695,000 for each of two new 6,000-ton light cruisers, submitted by the Bethlehem shipbuilding corporation of Quincy, Mass., as compared with tender of $12,950,000 by the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company of Kearney, N. J., the only bidder.

Many People Visit Tomb Of Pope Pius XI

Conclave to Elect Pope's Successor In Rome, March 1

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 15 (AP)—Continued homage to Pope Pius XI was paid by sorrowing visitors to his tomb beneath St. Peter's today while interest quickened in preparations for the election of his successor.

Cardinals already here said their conclave would begin as soon as all princes of the church arrived in Rome, but in any case not later than March 1, even if some cardinals were still absent. The exact date, they said, would remain indefinite until the arrival of the last cardinal on March 1.

(Indications were that the last of the cardinals would reach Rome Feb. 28. They are expected to be Santiago Luis Cardinal Copello of Buenos Aires and Sebastiano Cardinal Leme of Rio de Janeiro, now aboard the liner Neptunia, and William Cardinal O'Connell of Boston, sailing from New York Wednesday with the expectation of transferring to the Neptunia at Gibraltar. The Italian line said that by omitting a call at Algiers the Neptunia would reach Naples a day ahead of schedule, allowing the cardinals to reach Rome Feb. 28.)

Cells for the use of the cardinals during the secret electoral conclave were being prepared on the third floor of the papal palace. Palestine guards were asked to vacate their quarters on the ground floor today to make room for the kitchen which will be set up to prepare the cardinal's meals.

Francesco Cardinal Marchetti Selvaggiani, the Pope's vicar for Rome and one of the most prominently mentioned as possible successor to Pius, is suffering from a severe foot injury, the result of a fall in Switzerland several weeks ago.

Friends said he was obliged to remain in bed after the Pope's burial yesterday. The injury may prevent his active participation in the conclave. In that case he would be carried into his cell in the conclave quarters and cast his ballot by the cardinals' own system of absentee voting.

As vicar of the holy father, the cardinal has active supervision over the Rome diocese of which the pope is always bishop and is archpriest of the pope's cathedral, the basilica of St. John Lateran.

Omaha Says Fear Permeates Whole Of Western Europe

OMAHA, Feb. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Arthur P. Guilo, prominent Omaha said today that fear permeates the whole of western Europe. She returned yesterday from a three-month trip through England, France, Germany, Hungary and Italy.

No European, she said, knows when to expect what they are all sure will come—war from the air and bombing attacks upon great cities. She said people in London told her they would not be surprised if a rain of bombs began within five minutes. Every man in France is prepared for mobilization within five hours after the notice, she added.

F. R. Fit for Caribbean Trip President Spends Last Six Days Confined In Second Floor Bedroom

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt, virtually recovered from the grippe, intends to depart tomorrow night for a 10-day Caribbean cruise that will permit him to see part of the fleet maneuvers.

Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, White House physician, kept him in his second floor bedroom and study today for the sixth day in a row, but reported him fit to undertake the long journey.

The president had no fever and while he did not go to his office he received several callers, including Dr. Oswaldo Aranha, Brazilian foreign minister, and members of the official Brazilian mission.

Relief and department of justice matters engaged his attention earlier in conferences with Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA chief and Attorney General Murphy.

The chief executive, anxious to get away for a rest and to be on hand during the strategic tests of the Atlantic defenses of the Panama canal, will leave here by special train around midnight tomorrow.

He will be away from Washington about two weeks. He is scheduled to return March 4 to address a joint session of congress in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the first congress under the constitution.

The first 1,200 miles of the journey from the capital will be made by train. The president will leave the train at Florida City Saturday morning and motor 140 miles to Key West, Fla.

He will embark on the cruiser Houston, off Key West, on Saturday afternoon.

The 1,850-ton destroyer Warrington will serve as an escort ship for the Houston. Because of low water at Key West it is likely that Mr. Roosevelt will board the destroyer there and transfer to the Houston at sea.

Iowa Senate Enjoys Half Hour Considering Planning Board

DES MOINES, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Iowa senate "had itself a time" this afternoon during the half hour it considered a bill to abolish the state planning board.

Action on the bill, which bears senate file No. 1, was deferred when Sen. E. P. Donohue (R), New Hampton, majority floor leader, explained a bill is in preparation which would abolish both the planning board and the Greater Iowa commission and set up a new agency in their place.

Sen. Edward Breen (D), Ft. Dodge, who apologized for his lack of a "prepared" speech because the anti-unplanning board was taken up unexpectedly, out of order on the calendar, was the "star" performer in the half hour's entertainment.

Sen. A. Claire Dewey (R), Washington, had urged disbanding of the planning board on the grounds it "tends to create bureaucratic government instead of representative government."

"Here," Dewey declared, "we have a group interested in further entrenching themselves and their cohorts, determined that nothing shall interfere with their pet schemes and the welfare of their associates."

He accused the planning board of "using the taxpayers' money to establish close relationship with the press and radio, and then design legislation and sell it to the people of Iowa, so that they will demand a rubber-stamp type of representation."

"Let's see," Breen began, "who these 'villains,' these 'bandits,' these 'brigands,' are."

He read the names of many of the state's most prominent citizens, and the names of four members of the senate.

"Wouldn't it be shorter," snapped Sen. A. J. Shaw (R), Pocahontas, a proponent of the bill, "to name the citizens of Iowa not on these committees?"

Breen agreed, but continued reading.

Dewey Says Board Tends to Produce Bureaucratic Govt.

Photographed in color under the direction of Lee Cochran of the visual education department, the movies will be shown later this month to the Big Ten club in Cleveland, Ohio, and at the meeting of the American Association of School Administrators there.

The films have been shown in New York and throughout Iowa to university alumni.

Last night's newsreel was the first of a series to be presented, one each month, under the auspices of the extension division and The Daily Iowan.

Speculate On 1940 Plans Of Nation's Chief

Tantalizing Phrase Seen in President's Letter to Brandeis

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt has written a tantalizing phrase which may reflect his 1940 intentions.

It appeared in the president's letter accepting Justice Brandeis' retirement from the supreme court. Mr. Roosevelt said he had looked upon the venerable jurist, especially since 1933, as one "who would continue his fine service there (on the court) until long after I have left Washington."

Addressed to a man in his fifties or sixties, the remark would have had little significance. Said to a man in his eighties, it might mean much to those who wonder whether the president will be receptive to a third-term nomination in 1940 and whether he is shaping his political strategy to bring it about.

Mr. Roosevelt's disappointed hope that Justice Brandeis would remain on the high bench long after the president himself "had left Washington" implies that in the president's mind the date of that departure is close at hand—that he contemplates retiring when his present term expires in January, 1941. But it only implies.

The president's phrase is vaguely akin to the famous statement of President Coolidge in 1927 that he did not "choose to run" again for president. It no more stops a 1940 "draft-Roosevelt" campaign, however, than the Coolidge utterance stilled the "draft Coolidge" cries.

Washington official analysts do not expect any more definite word to come from Mr. Roosevelt regarding his 1940 plans for many months. The possibility of another candidacy is his biggest stick in dealing with his party majority, particularly the house.

If the split between the White House and democratic factions in congress continue to widen, not many house democrats outside the solid south could be sure of 1940 reelection.

S. U. I. INTACT Engineering Proposal Action Dropped

DES MOINES, Feb. 15 (AP)—The joint house-senate committee on consolidation of state departments tonight agreed to drop for the present contemplated legislative action designed to discontinue the college of engineering at the University of Iowa.

(The committee previously decided to recommend discontinuance of the engineering school at the university as an economy move. The state also maintains an engineering school at Iowa State college at Ames.)

Bulk of F.D.R.'s Emergency Bill Passes House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The house overwhelmingly endorsed the bulk of President Roosevelt's emergency defense program today including a $300,000,000 expansion of the army air corps.

Passage of the portion of the $552,000,000 military expansion bill followed a statement by Majority Leader Rayburn that conditions in Europe were "more volcanic than in 1914." The measure now goes to the senate.

In addition to 3,032 new planes for the air corps, the measure would authorize reinforcement of the Panama canal's defenses and a broadened program to train private industry in munitions production.

Shortly before final passage, the house rejected a republican amendment to "stagger" the air corps expansion over a three-year period instead of the two-year program recommended by the war department. The minority contended their plan would prevent accumulation of obsolete planes.

Pilot Missing In Idaho Wilds Reaches Safety

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho, Feb. 15 (AP)—Roy Shreck, a weather pilot who crashed Saturday night on a mountain top in the desolate north Idaho wilds, won a desperate, foodless, three-day struggle for life today.

He stepped out of the wreckage uninjured. With only a fur-lined flying suit to protect him from frigid temperatures, he floundered 25 miles through the snow for three days. He had nothing to eat, no matches, and only a short nap during the time.

Shreck reached temporary safety in the cabin of a wood cutter near here last night. This morning he rode into Coeur d'Alene, telephoned his wife and stopped an airplane search that had been under way since early Sunday.

The Spokane, Wash., flier had not been heard from since he radioed he was being blown eastward, although headed west at 15,000 feet, that his plane was heavily loaded with ice and he was coming down "blind" through heavy fog.

"I felt like giving up lots of times," Shreck said. "I'm glad I didn't now. Something certainly guided me out. It just wasn't my time. I didn't even get a pin scratch."

Influenza Breaks Out At Carleton College; 60 Students Are Ill

NORTHFIELD, Minn., Feb. 15 (AP)—Carleton college today ordered all campus social events and contests cancelled because of an outbreak of influenza.

Dr. Caroline Helmick, assistant director of the student health service, said 60 students of the 800 enrolled were being treated in improvised hospitals in the dormitories.

Approve Acts For Veterans' Tax Exemption

DES MOINES, Feb. 15 (AP)—"Marriage health" forces today overcame incidental opposition in the legislative lower house to pass the last two or three bills designed to eradicate the ravages of venereal disease from the Iowa home.

The house passed, 91 to 6, a bill to require physicians to test all expectant mothers for syphilis. It first approved, 100 to 0, a measure to prosecute venereally infected persons who failed to report regularly for treatment.

Yesterday the house approved a measure to require all Iowa couples to undergo "marriage health" examinations within the 20-day period preceding application for wedding licenses. All three bills now go to the senate.

The house unanimously approved two veterans' property exemption "equalizing" acts before adjourning until 9:30 tomorrow morning.

Both tax measures previously had passed the senate. They now go to Gov. George A. Wilson. One bill would allow veterans to deduct military exemptions in addition to, and not concurrently with, the regular homestead tax refund.

Thus, a World war veteran owning a $3,000 home would benefit both by the $2,500 homestead exemption and his $500 veterans exemption. Some counties have refused to treat the exemptions separately.

Other veterans' act would permit former soldiers to select the property on which their military exemption would apply.

Passage of the "pre-natal test" law would make Iowa the fourth state in the nation to adopt such a measure. Physicians in the Iowa house said many doctors and hospitals now follow the practice of testing expectant mothers. The act, they said, is designed to assist physicians in arranging for such tests in cases where the patient might not take kindly to the idea.

One physician member said he had discovered three cases of venereal disease among expectant mothers in one year.

The house approved an amendment by Representative Isabel M. Elliott (D), Bronson, to require the father of an unborn child to submit to a disease test should the mother react positively.

New Govt. For Hungary Fails

BUDAPEST, Feb. 16 (Thursday) (AP)—Count Paul Teleki's first effort to form a new Hungarian government ended in failure this morning after Bela Imredy, admitting part-Jewish ancestry, had resigned the premiership and the task of drafting his anti-Semitic measures fell to other hands.

With martial law in Budapest keeping the capital unnaturally quiet, the short-lived effort of Franz Keresztes-Fischer, Imredy's minister of the interior, to form a new government also ended in failure.

Daily Iowan Sports Reporter
St. Mary's Ramblers bounced back last night from the defeat they suffered from Wilton Junction to completely tie up a helpless, harried Central five from Ft. Madison, 35 to 25.

The scoreboard in the City high gym recorded a twelve point lead for the Marians midway in the final quarter, and at no time during the fracas did they even appear in danger from the invaders.

Jack Bock, slippery Marian forward, led both teams in scoring with a 10-point total. He was followed by George Chadek, his running mate at forward with 8 points. Waltzner was high for Central with 6 points.

Dan Arie, forward, was the outstanding man for Central. He was all over the floor, breaking up Rambler offensive thrusts and in general keeping the Central team from suffering a tougher beating.

George Chadek started the scoring for the Ramblers with a free throw after several moments of floor-work. Then Jack Bock connected with two charity tosses. Don Schmidt, Marian center, dropping in a bucket a few minutes later, Schmidt was fouled as he shot and added to the lead with a gift shot.

Kokjohn, Central forward, put in the first score for Ft. Madison, a free throw, to put the count at 6-1. Jim Chadek shored out of a mass of players in front of the basket and flipped in another Rambler bucket. Kokjohn again scored for Central, this time a field goal, and Coon, Ft. Madison center, made a charity throw. Bill Bock, Marian guard, banged in a looping basket as the quarter ended, the score being 10 to 4 for the Ramblers.

Waltzner got a bucket for Central, and Jack Bock snapped in a hard one for St. Mary's. Schmidt sank a free throw and Jack Bock got a fast one-handed shot on a break to the basket. Hunt, Central guard, bounced in an angle shot.

There was a series of fouls on both sides. Danley finally connected with a gift shot for Central. DeFrance made a free throw, and Tony Brock banged in a quick basket.

BITS about Sports

By J. DENNIS SULLIVAN
If big Jim Kelley's friends are worried about his condition, they needn't be—it's only a cold in the head and he'll be up and out of the hospital in no time.

Earl Chism, university boxing coach, will referee the coming eastern Iowa boxing tournament—and he'll probably do a good job. According to Eugene Trowbridge, director of Iowa City's recreational center, teams have been entered from West Branch, Tiffin, West Liberty, Sigourney, C. C. C. and Tipton for the tourney and some of the boys look plenty tough.

It appears now as if the series of slugs will pack plenty of punch and will become an annual affair. Buss Hacker, well known in these parts as a very competent boxer and wrestler, has entered a team which he thinks will mow down the opposition. And, in order to accommodate the little fellows in the tourney, officials have decided to let them compete in a novice division—providing they are under 16 years of age.

Perhaps you knew that Abner Doubleday—generally credited with having developed the game of baseball—didn't at all. He (Doubleday) was supposed to have originated the game in 1839 and the first contest was supposed to have been played at Cooperstown, N. Y. However, the facts are these—Alexander Cartwright of New York City, not Doubleday, drew up the "baseball square," which now is the diamond, late in 1845 or early in 1846, and that "square" providing for nine-man teams, was used for the first time in Hoboken, N. J., June 19, 1846.

Cartwright and his associates in the Knickerbocker baseball club, of New York, drafted the first definite baseball rules during the winter of 1845-46. They were used for the first time June, 1846, between the Knickerbockers and the New York nine.

Perhaps you didn't know that basketball is the only major sport played in the United States which is purely of American origin. All other games are either direct importations from foreign lands—or hybrids.

The originator of the game was a Dr. James A. Naismith, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. in Springfield, Mass., and the time was late in 1891, but the first real contest wasn't played until Jan. 20, 1892. Dr. Naismith, seeking to modify some of the European outdoor games to conform to the demands for a sport of major proportions which could be played indoors, tried several combinations, but gave it up as a bad job. It was then that he hit upon the idea of a typically American game without any foreign influence. Last Saturday's speedy Iowa-Indiana cage tilt is the result of his efforts.

That was as close as he would come to a prediction, but it wasn't hard to see Sande thought highly of Stagehand's chances.

Down Fistic Trail With Feder Hammerin' Henry May Battle Davey Day In Madison Square Garden

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Rainy day drippings along bash boulevard:
Natie Mann of Connecticut and Buddy Knox of Ohio were matched today for a heavyweight fight in Madison Square Garden March 3. Mike Jacobs still has three dates to fill in the garden that month. And don't be surprised if Henry Armstrong tangles with Davey Day, the Chicago clouter, in one of them.

Mike wanted Armstrong and Lou Ambers or Pedro Montanez, but Lou wants to wait for the outdoor season and Montanez just wants to wait whenever Hammerin' Henry's name is mentioned.

Roscoe Toles, the Detroit, and Maurice Strickland, the New Zealander, may be another punch-party on the March 3 card.

Uncle Mike's heading for Miami Saturday. Will mop up some sunshine and take a look at the fights down that-a-way Feb. 22. He isn't even faintly interested in the Tony Galento-Abe Feldman thing, but will be all eyes for Solly Krieger's dance with Ben Brown.

If Solly wins, Mike says he'll make such an offer for a Krieger-Fred Apostoli middle-weight championship fight that "It'll take Solly's head off. And if Brown wins, well then he'll be the lucky boy."

Lower B In Finals Win Russell Busk, Grid Ace, Leads Mates To Quad Crown

In the feature contest of last night's intramural basketball games, Lower B walked off with the Quadrangle championship by downing Upper A, 42-15.

The winners led throughout the entire game and were never threatened. Russell Busk collected 15 points to capture high point honors while Tucker picked up nine and Boysen eight to pace the winners.

Whetmore led the losers with eight points. The line-up for Lower B consisted of Busk and Hinricks at the forwards, Boysen at center, and Sprague and Tucker at the guard posts. For the losers Quire and Parker were at the forwards with Whetmore at center and M. Mileitch and B. Mileitch at the guard positions.

In the Town league Northeastern forfeited to Madison and Western forfeited to Harris Hall. College and the Clintonians suffered a double forfeit.

In the Coop Dorm volleyball games, Whetstone defeated Grover 15-5 and 15-4 while Chesley set back Mance 15-4 and 15-6. In the final game Jefferson won over Gables in two straight games, 15-7 and 16-4.

Flu Hits Iowa Cinder Team

Flu, which has plagued Iowa's track team, struck again yesterday and forced another Hawk runner out of competition. This time it was Ed McCollister, star quarter miler and a member of the mile relay team.

McCollister's illness dims Coach George Bresnahan's hope of a sweep in the 440-yard dash in the Wisconsin dual meet this Saturday afternoon. McCollister, along with Milt Billig and Fred Teufel, was expected to place in this event.

McCollister's demise comes on the heels of the return to action of Johnny Graves, stellar half miler, who was a victim of the flu last week.

Paul Damski announces his falling Finlander, Gunnar Barlund, is on the way back to these shores and is signed for three fights in Minneapolis. The dates are March 17, March 31 and April 14. Damski says it should be good business to bring the Gunnar into the Minnesota Scandinavian country.

But can you imagine a Finn fighting in Minneapolis on St. Patrick's day. . . . Only one of Barlund's opponents is definite so far—he's Harry Thomas. Damski also signed his middleweight, Eric Seelig, for a go with Glen Lee, the Nebraska mauler, in Los Angeles March 14.

Fred Apostoli's next battle may be with Jock McAvoy, who knocked 'em dead for a while on his first trip over from England a couple of years back. The little birdies say der Moxie Schmeeling may fight Barlund in Chicago late in the spring. Mike Jacobs is bawling the fact that principals in most of the big proposed matches want to wait for the heavier sugar in the outdoor season, rather than go to the post indoors.

But Uncle Mike isn't exactly heartbroken over it. He, himself, admits outdoor cards in New York this summer will draw 35 to 40 per cent more than in previous years because of the world fair.

Howard Says Horse Will Not Race In San Carlos Handicap

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15 (AP)—Future book odds on the crippled Seabiscuit in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap jumped sharply today and the gallant stake king was declared out of the San Carlos handicap Saturday in an announcement that was a mere formality.

But whether the mighty Seabiscuit has ended his brilliant racing career remained unanswered and extremely doubtful. Tired, sleep-needing Charles S. Howard, owner of the "big horse" of the turf, clung grimly to hopes that his thoroughbred star again would carry the Howard silks into battle, that Seabiscuit would answer the bugle for his third crack at the $100,000 Santa Anita March 4.

Others were not so hopeful. They expressed the opinion the ankle that went bad yesterday in Seabiscuit's first race since the triumph over War Admiral last Nov. 1 was a fatal blow to Howard's dream of victory in the "hundred grander"—a victory that would make the "Biscuit" the biggest all-time money winner in turf history.

No one is in a position to know would vouchsafe a definite opinion on the horse's condition. It takes time, they said, for an injury of this type to show its true effect.

Relays Set Tank Records In Iowa Pool

Bob Allen, freshman swimming coach, and once Iowa's greatest breaststroke, stood by last night while Bob Lowry cracked the Allen 200-yard breaststroke record over the long course at the University of Iowa pool. And, it was only five minutes later that Lowry saw his new record unofficially beaten by the sophomore George Poulos.

In fact, the first four men that Coach Dave Armbruster put into the water in the breaststroke relay averaged better than Allen's best time of 2:42.6. Lowry, swimming first, ended his 200-yard journey in the record smashing time of 2:41.5, but Poulos, swimming in the third leg on the relay, splashed over the distance in 2:40.7 for what would have been still another record, except for the rule which says a record-breaking performance must start with the gun. So, Lowry still holds the record.

The combined time of Lowry, Johnson, Brankamp and Poulos was 10:49.1 or an average of 2:42.3, as against the old mark of 2:42.6.

For the mile, the breaststrokers, with nine men swimming in the relay, turned in the official mark of 24:43.1, while the backstrokers, 12 in number, stroked their mile in 22:55.1. Time for the first four men in the backstroke, Tony Bremer, Tom Saluri, Al Armbruster and Brankamp, was 7:27.7 over the 600 yards.

All told, there were upwards of a dozen marks set in the relay carnival. For most of the distances, there are no national marks listed over the 50-yard course. The swimmers, in free style, breaststroke and backstroke relays, were clocked at various distances within their respective miles. Most of the marks established will go on record as noteworthy performances, while others will be listed as American records.

Biggest disappointment to Coach Armbruster was the failure to break a couple of Yale records in the free style. Capt. Ray Walters, Draves, Kershaw and Brankamp splashed the first four hundred yards in three seconds over the American mark of 3:43 and the Hawkeyes also fell short of the 600-yard record.

The snooty Pekingeses, pie-faced and bug-eyed, fairly strut standing still as they bask in admiration.

For size contrast there are the Chihuahuas and Japanese spaniels, dime-sized entries, and the Great Danes, St. Bernards and Irish wolfhounds, all of which should wear tail lights if on the streets at night.

Phil Signs

CHICAGO, (AP)—The list of Chicago Cub's holdouts was reduced to 11 yesterday with the signing of Phil Cavarretta, first baseman and utility outfielder. Cavarretta said he had delayed getting more salary than was offered him, but that he was satisfied with the terms offered him.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

Dogs and Dogs
And Real Ones
And Proud, Too

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—New Yorkers have been going to the dogs the past few days, and many a citizen who until recently would have guessed offhand that a Doberman Pinscher was a pair of pliers today was speaking intelligently on the merits of the Pekingeses and Pomeranians; the Chihuahuas and the Japanese spaniel.

The occasion was the Westminster kennel show, and it is difficult to comprehend how they got so many dogs together under Madison Square Garden roof. Another Whistler masterpiece, no doubt.

It was a perfect setting for a flea circus, but a flea would have had no more chance than a stray cat in that polished and medicated bunch of thoroughbreds, which ranged in size from vest-pocket editions with a bark like a muffled sneeze to St. Bernards with voices two octaves below bass.

There were jet black or snow white French poodles, clipped so their midsections seemed encased in snug muffs. There were Afghan hounds, mostly ears, legs and tail and no more stomach than a washboard. There were the dachshunds, friendly little brown and black pooches so long they must take a curve in sections, like a hook-and-ladder truck, and with legs so short they can lie down standing up.

Among our favorites were the Sealyham terriers, living models of the toy dogs found hanging on Christmas trees. Snow white, eyes popping from square faces like black buttons, they moved with such mechanical precision you looked for keys sticking out from their sides. And to complete the mechanical impression, the judge squatted, stooped and squinted as if to test out the wheel alignment as an entry trotted toward him.

Quite lonesome was a little Affenpinscher. The girl combing out its rather bedraggled hair explained there are only 10 of the Affe means monkey in German and the dog looks like a monkey and squeals like one. It does, at that.

And Proud, Too
Its relative, the Doberman Pinscher, a rangy, sleek, black model with brown trimming, is rated one of the smartest of dogs, and there are the miniature Pinschers which look like the big ones might look after a shrinking process.

The snooty Pekingeses, pie-faced and bug-eyed, fairly strut standing still as they bask in admiration.

For size contrast there are the Chihuahuas and Japanese spaniels, dime-sized entries, and the Great Danes, St. Bernards and Irish wolfhounds, all of which should wear tail lights if on the streets at night.

Scoring Flurry In Last Half Downs Champs

Burns, Krogh Lead Blues' Assault On Tiffin Quintet
In an informal scrimmage held yesterday afternoon, U-High outscored Tiffin, Johnson county basketball champions, 39 to 22. Tiffin's loss was their second within three days to an Iowa City team, City high having defeated them Monday night, 55 to 32.

Jack Shera, who gained state wide recognition several weeks ago when he scored 73 points against Ely, paced both quintets with 14 markers. Shera counted 12 of his points in the final half.

Capt. Ed Burns and Ernie Krogh, U-High veterans, garnered 13 and 12 points respectively to lead the Rivermen's attack.

The scrimmage was marred by ragged ball handling on the part of both aggregations. The Brechlermen unleashed a potent scoring attack that completely baffled the Johnson county champs. It was the first time this season that the Blues fought desperately for the rebounds off their own basket and, as a result, both Burns and Krogh were credited with numerous tip-in shots.

The Blues led throughout the entire contest, holding a nine to six advantage at the conclusion of the initial period. During the second quarter they built up an impressive 20 to 9 lead which they held at the intermission.

During the final half Coach Brechler substituted freely, but nevertheless the Blue Hawks continued to hold a decided advantage.

'Collegiate' Farr Engaged To College Girl

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Feb. 15 (AP)—Tommy Farr, British heavyweight boxer, bashfully confided to interviewers today that he was engaged to an American college girl—a brunette.

"I suppose I cannot keep it back any longer," said the Welshman as he arrived in England from the United States aboard the liner Queen Mary. "Yes, I am engaged, but I would not tell her name even for a hundred thousand pounds."

"All I can say is that she is 20 years old and is American of English extraction and is still at college."

Farr said the girl gave him a diamond ring.

Goodness! He's Going to Defy The '13' Jinx

CINCINNATI, Feb. 15 (AP)—Lloyd (Whitey) Moore signed his 1939 contract with the Cincinnati Reds today and presented a problem to the baseball world, which is touchy about signs and omens.

On and Off The Field

All you "Duffers" attention. Plans are now being made by the Campus "I" club for an all-university all-city golf tournament this spring. The date has not yet been set but it will be a handicap affair.

The lettermen on this campus will have a little surprise for the frosh athletes in the near future. Look to your laurels, Frosh.

Paul Podamsjursky, now enrolled at the university, was selected as the most promising freshman athlete at the University of Michigan two years ago. Fred Hohenhorst.

In The Field
Santa Monica, Calif., (AP)—Pitchers Clay Bryant and Newell Kimball of the Chicago Cubs announced yesterday they were satisfied with the new contracts sent them by owner P. K. Wrigley and would sign and return them immediately. Both players held out for more money. They indicated they got what they wanted.

Vitt Likes Yanks In A. L. Flag Race

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15 (AP)—Oscar Vitt, manager of the Cleveland Indians, sized up the 1939 American league baseball race today as a four-club affair, with Boston, Cleveland, and Detroit snapping at the heels of the Yankees.

"The Yankees will be the team to beat and we're not kidding ourselves in the matter," Vitt sighed. "But if Boston's pitching holds up it will give the Yanks trouble. Detroit strengthened its one weak spot by getting Pinky Higgins to play third base."

"Cleveland has two problems, the condition of Johnny Allen's pitching arm and a weakness at second base."

Famous Group Will Present Two Concerts

Golschmann to Lead Orchestra at 3:15, 8 P. M. in Union

The St. Louis symphony orchestra under the direction of Vladimir Golschmann will present concerts in Iowa Union at 3:15 and 8 o'clock today.

The concerts by the famous group fall on the opening day of the eighth annual conference of music teachers and supervisors, and music instructors from throughout the state will be in attendance.

The symphony is one of the oldest symphonic organizations in America. As early as 1860 symphony concerts of high standard were given in St. Louis by a local orchestra, and the present St. Louis Symphony society, founded in 1881, is rich in musical tradition.

During the four years that the young Russian conductor, Vladimir Golschmann, has guided its artistic destinies, Mr. Golschmann has developed the St. Louis symphony into a superb instrument, responsive to his slightest indication.

The orchestra's assistant conductor and concertmaster is Scipione Guidi, who served for 10 years as concertmaster of the New York philharmonic symphony.

The full orchestra of 90 artists is touring extensively during the present season. These tours include the states of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Missouri, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma.

Cedar Rapids To Show Passion Play Sun., Mon.

The Lueneen passion play will appear at Memorial coliseum in Cedar Rapids in matinee and evening performances Sunday and Monday.

The passion play is the oldest of all dramatic entertainments, and has grown from a crude beginning, with centuries of tradition and development behind it.

Josef Meier, world famous portray of Christ, and Clair Hume Meier as Mary, appear in the play. The last seven days of Christ on earth are enacted in 22 scenes, closing with the singing of the mighty "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah."

In Passion Play

This is one of the 22 scenes of the Lueneen passion play to be presented in Cedar Rapids next Sunday and Monday. The above scene shows the priest inciting the mob to crucify Jesus.

Spring-Minded Young Women Have Big Range Of Colors to Choose From for Spring Togs

Spring is in the air these days—or at least there's more than a hint of it in the breeze and in the shop windows where the new spring styles are being shown. Three attractive young women who modeled in a spring style show presented by the Strub-Wareham department store last Thursday night were Jayne McGovern, 359 Magowan street, Mrs. Raymond H. Justen, 481 S. Summit street, and Mrs. Cherie

Wilson, 215 S. Dodge street, Miss McGovern is pictured wearing a rust and tan Galtrey tweed top coat over a beige dressmaker suit. Her collegiate snap brim, shoes and accessories are also in rust. A smart ensemble of grey imported fabric is modeled by Mrs. Justen. Over a simple grey frock is worn a coat fashioned with a full front and featuring a wide green suede belt. Four huge buttons fasten the plaid coat securely. It's an orchid to you spring-minded young women who have already looked over your wardrobe and have begun poking around in search of that certain color especially suited to you this spring. Not that it really matters this season, because the complete galaxy of brilliant new shades can pep up and add glamor to any wardrobe or personality. And beginning with the exterior, there's a wonderful new combination of virgin camel fibers with kid mohair and fine virgin wool which form the swankiest sport or casual travel coat you've ever seen. And this year, when light coats over dark frocks or suits are particularly chic you can have both a spring and summer coat all in one. Another favorite spring silhouette, a little on the dressy side, is a coat shirred and belted to give a flattering front fullness very much on the same lines as the dirndl or the monk's dress. It's made of a lovely, loose-woven nubby crepe in an exciting beige tone called oatmeal. With a printed silk frock you have an individual ensemble. And by all means, if you're on the look out for a real utility coat, one that's both smart and durable, take a good look at the new tweed reefers. More warm and springy colors have been blended into salt and pepper, herringbone and Harris tweeds this year than any other materials. They make a soft, practical rainbow in themselves. And for the campus lassie nothing will make her spring en-

DEATH AT THE MANOR

BY M. E. CORNE

READ THIS FIRST:

Elsie Ritter, a beauty shop operator, taking the place of a friend for a week in the private salon of Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Sr., finds herself involved in a murder mystery when first the eccentric old lady and later, her middle-aged daughter-in-law are found dead under the same hair drier. Elsie was attending each at the time, though out of the salon for a few moments before discovering the old lady's death. A string of emeralds, belonging to Mrs. Witherspoon, Sr., are strangely missing. Certain members of the Witherspoon family, and some of the house guests, strike Elsie as queer. Phil Benson, newspaper reporter and close friend of Elsie's, arrives as the police launch their investigation. He immediately phones for Mac McIntyre, head of the Chicago homicide squad, who happens to be in town. Meanwhile Richard and Daphne Witherspoon, children of the second victim, conduct themselves oddly during questioning. The chief of police continues his interrogation of all those at the Manor when the two deaths occurred. Elsie, Benson and McIntyre discuss the possible suspects.

(Now Go On With the Story)

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

"NOW ABOUT this Daphne girl," Phil was saying, "she looks guilty as hell to me."

"How can you say such a thing?" I objected indignantly. He had touched upon a sore spot. Daphne did look guilty; there was no denying it. "She may be shielding someone," I added contradictorily. "Little brother, eh?"

"Oh, you're horrid! They're both sweet kids! Why can't you let well enough alone?"

He eyed me quizzically. "In case you have forgotten," he reminded me quietly, "we are speaking of murder. Someone in this house has killed! Once—perhaps twice!"

"Oh!" The full horror of the situation hit me smack between the eyes. "Maybe," I squeaked, "maybe he isn't through yet!"

"Murder can become a habit." He was not at all reassuring. "And murderers, contrary to existing beliefs, do not look like murderers. Any one of the persons in this house may have committed the crime! Any one of them!"

I trembled. "I'll take Toots," I said, trying to smile and making a poor job of it. "She'd poison the whole shebang without twitching a muscle!"

Phil disagreed. "It wasn't Toots. It wasn't any of the guests. It was someone in the family. Someone who hated old Mrs. Witherspoon so badly that he killed her."

"You'd — you'd have to hate someone terribly to — to murder them!" My teeth chattered as on a cold, cold night, and I was cold with fear.

"Sure you would! And that's the key to the whole thing! When we find out who hated the old girl, and why, we'll have the answer."

"It might have been one of the servants," I suggested. "Eliza, or Mrs. Greely—"

"You don't really know that Mrs. Witherspoon was murdered," I reminded him. "You have no proof."

"I know!" He cupped his chin in his hands. "And if I suggest the idea to Hank he'll give the whole show away, or laugh himself sick at my 'reporter's imagination.' I think we'd best say nothing. We'll let the murderer think he's gotten away with his first job. Later we can have the body exhumed—"

"Phil!" His matter-of-factness horrified me.

"Think of it, Elsie!" he exclaimed. "A murder in Larnville! Why, if I can solve this crime I can get a real job on a real sheet in a real city!"

"Can you?" I asked flatly.

"Huh?" He looked at me in astonishment. "Don't you think that would be swell?"

"Swell!" I avoided his look. So he was just like all men, thinking only of getting away!

"Aw, baby!" He came over to me and put his arms around my waist. "Wouldn't you like it—in Chicago, for instance?"

"Darling!" I cried, and for several seconds I forgot all about crimes and murders and stolen emeralds.

"Listen!" He untangled himself and walked to the opposite end of the room. "I'm going downstairs and get the lowdown. Wait for me here, will you?"

I nodded. I would not have moved from my room for anything, not with a killer floating around.

"O. K. I'm off." He stepped out into the hall and as quickly stepped inside again.

"What—what is it?"

"Sh! Daphne and the Todington fellow!"

"Oh!" I peered around his shoulder. Daphne and Jeffrey stood in the corridor. They were speaking in low tones. And as we watched the girl opened a door upon our left and without glancing before or behind, silently drew Jeffrey into the room and closed the door.

"Well?" I bounced from the bed and ran half-way across the room.

"Well, what?" said Phil, and he sounded so gloomy my heart sank.

"Didmore—the report?"

"Report!" He laughed mirthlessly. "Elsie, my lassie, prepare yourself for a shock!"

"A shock? You mean someone else has been—?" I choked on the word.

Phil shook his head. "That's the shock! According to Didmore, there's been no murder!"

"No murder!" My senses reeled. "That's it! He couldn't find a trace of poison in the body, not a trace!"

"Then it was heart failure?"

"Evidently. The doctor admits he is puzzled; says the only thing he can figure out is that Mrs. Horace was suffocated. And even that is doubtful."

"Doubtful? Impossible. The drier is punched with air holes."

"I'd give my hat to get into that salon! There must be something. I can't believe that either death was natural."

"Phil!" I had an idea. "Phil, if Didmore pronounces the death natural, then the murder case is closed and Chief Ellis will have to call off his men—"

"Say!" He regarded me with frank admiration. "You have a brain in your head, haven't you?"

"Well!" I lowered my lashes in becoming modesty—"I'm not exactly dumb."

I outlined my plan. "The family and guests will probably retire early after the day's excitement. That means that about midnight the coast should be clear."

"Yes?" Phil was entering into the spirit of the thing.

"I'll pretend to go to bed, too."

Then you come into the driveway. I'll be waiting at my window and I'll come down and let you in the back way."

"And we'll give the salon the once over, eh?"

"Uh-huh—that is, if you're certain you want to take the chance. We might be caught, you know."

"Listen, Elsie," he said soberly. "I'm convinced there is more to this affair than the other fellow sees. Somehow I'm going to get to the bottom of it. I don't want to lead you into danger or trouble, but if you're with me—"

"I'm with you," I assured him quickly. "You can't escape me."

"Good! Remind me to tell you, one of these days, how swell I think you are!" He pinched my cheek. "By the way, McIntyre is downstairs."

"McIntyre?" I had completely forgotten the Chicago detective.

"But we don't need him now since there is no murder!"

"I suppose not. And he would have accomplished things too! Can't very well bring a detective into a house where there's nothing to detect? Just the same, I'm going to put him on ice. If things go the way I think they're going to, the Witherspoon clan will be glad of his assistance."

"Don't forget that the emeralds are still missing!"

"I haven't forgotten, but until Mr. Horace comes out into the open and accuses you of stealing them, you won't need a defense."

I asked: "Do you intend to take this McIntyre into your confidence?"

"I don't think so, Elsie. I haven't a thing to go on except my own suspicions." He smiled at me. "You and I, darling, will have to work together until we've something tangible and definite to offer."

"All right, Phil. You'd better go now."

"O. K., sweet." He kissed me fleetingly. "Until tonight!"

"Until tonight!" I repeated.

Fire Prevention Association To Have Educational Program, Inspection Here Feb. 23, 24

Two-Day School To Be Under Auspices Of Local C. of C.

Members of the Iowa State Fire Prevention association will conduct a two-day fire prevention and educational program in Iowa City Feb. 23 and 24 under the auspices of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce.

The group's inspectors will investigate local business establishments, industrial plants and public buildings to discover defects or conditions which might cause a fire if not remedied. The investigation will be conducted on three items, construction, equipment and upkeep.

The inspectors will note any dangerous accumulations of combustible material on the premises, instances of defective wiring or other conditions conducive to the outbreak of fire. After the completion of the inspection, the association members will list the defects found and will indicate the improvements necessary to eliminate the fire hazard.

"Home inspection" blanks, distributed to school children, will be used to make inspection of Iowa City residences. The fire prevention group said the previous experience with this method has demonstrated that children enter into the spirit of the activity, and at the same time will acquire a knowledge of "fire safety" and "fire prevention."

Interested persons will be invited to attend the Rotary club meeting at the Jefferson hotel at noon Feb. 23 to hear a speech by Richard E. Vernon, manager of the fire prevention department of the Western Actuarial bureau. Nationally known in the fire prevention field, Vernon is a former president of the Chicago Rotary club.

The Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and Altrusa clubs, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the board of underwriters will cooperate in the fire prevention work.

Insurance Co. Pays Big Sum In Past Year

MONTREAL, Feb. 15—Eighty-three million dollars were paid out by the Sun Life of Canada during 1938 in policyholder benefits. Of this amount 28 millions were paid in death and disability benefits, 24 millions represented annuity and matured endowment payments, while 13 millions were disbursed as policyholders' dividends. Since 1871 the total paid to policyholders has reached the sum of over 1,000,000,000. Today, the Sun Life of Canada is the dominion's largest life insurance company and ranks among the first ten of the companies operating on the North American continent. While most of its business is secured in Canada, U. S., and the British empire, the company has offices in every part of the globe.

At yesterday's annual meeting, Arthur B. Wood, president and managing director, presented an impressive financial statement and outlined some of the achievements of the Sun Life during 1938. He outlined the part that interest plays in life insurance and how the investment of policyholders' funds keeps the wheels of industry turning. "The policyholders' premiums," he said, "were a definite contribution to the economic life of the nation, for the investment of these savings creates an unequalled source of long term capital."

New Device Built for Hydraulics Laboratory

A sensitive apparatus which functions like a thinking and acting machine in the measurement of water waves has been designed for research in the university's hydraulics laboratory.

Prof. E. W. Lane, head of the laboratory, has reported that the revolutionary device has been built by the electrical engineering department. It interferes very little with the even flow of the waves' curves.

The instrument consists of an electronic device and associated circuit which hold a metallic needle always at a certain depth in the water surface. Actuated by a change of resistance between the needle and the water, the needle rises and falls with the water level shifts.

"This rapid action corresponds to the muscular reaction when a person touches a hot stove. Or rather, the entire process is similar to a person's efforts to keep a finger in contact with a moving object," Professor Lane explained.

Settle Local Labor Trouble

Complaining Witness Fails to Appear In Court, Dismiss Case

Definite settlement of labor strife on the new senior high school building project was reached when T. M. Fairchild, justice of the peace, at a hearing in his court yesterday dismissed charges filed against Neils N. Hede, Minnesota contractor.

Charges filed by Harry A. Morse of the Building Trades Council of Iowa City, who accused Hede of hiring a Minnesota laborer in preference to an Iowa laborer on the high school project were to have been heard in Justice Fairchild's court.

When the complaining witness failed to appear at the hearing, the case was dismissed. County Attorney Harold Westmark, Mr. Hede and his counsel, Attorney H. J. Ries, appeared for the hearing.

Justice Fairchild returned to Mr. Hede the $50 bond which he had posted last week.

The Minnesota contractor re-questioned the local union to have 22 men report Monday to work at the school. These men are now employed on the project.

The local union more than a week ago had ordered 27 men to halt work on the building until a settlement could be reached.
