PRASSE ELECTED ATHLETE OF YEAR

Dewey Wins Conviction In Dramatic Finish Of Lengthy 27-Day Trial

Schultz Henchman Declares Hines Accepted Thousands In Tainted Dollars From Rackets

Tammany Veteran Is Out on Bail Until Thirteenth of March

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (AP)—James J. Hines, for 26 years a respected power in the ancient councils of Tammany Hall, was convicted tonight of policy racketeering charges that may send him to prison for a year longer than 26.

The ruddy, heavily built ex-blacksmith, the first major New York democratic politician in years to be tried on criminal charges, was haled to court for the first time in his 62 years by 36-year-old District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, republican nemesis of Tammany at the polls and racketeers in court.

Then, tonight, at the end of a second trial which had lasted 27 days, a blue-ribbon jury in general sessions court sweepingly convicted Hines on all 13 counts of an indictment charging him with partnership in Dutch Schultz's $20,000,000-a-year gambling syndicate.

With characteristic mercilessness, Dewey had accused the grizzled Tammany veteran, a popular fellow known to thousands in New York City, of selling to the racket the vast political influence he wielded as a Tammany stalwart.

Arthur (Dutch) Schultz, Flegenheimer, one time New York public enemy No. 1 but later a gang war victim, was the overlord of the racket, the man whose vituperative tongue and menacing gun forced the rich policy banks of Harlem into a single syndicate.

Henchmen of the slain Schultz—one of them acknowledged he testified to save his own hide—declared Hines accepted $500 a week from the bulging coffers of the racket for his services in allegedly corrupting police and magistrates, and took thousands more in tainted money for political campaigns.

Those charges the jury pondered for two minutes short of seven hours. Then, with such suddenness and completeness that the small-voiced but always expressive Jimmy Hines said he felt as if he had "been kicked in the belly," the jury announced its stunning verdict.

The jury returned to the general sessions courtroom at 7:23 p.m. (EST) and declared Hines guilty on the first count in the indictment, a conspiracy count, and immediately declared for conviction on the succeeding 12 felony counts.

As the court clerk enumerated each of the 13 counts, Leonard Hobert, foreman of the jury, intoned a monotonous "guilty" to each.

Mooney Better After Operation On Gall Bladder

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 25 (AP)—Dr. Leo Eloesser said Thomas J. Mooney was "all right at present" after an operation that lasted nearly two hours today to correct a gall bladder ailment.

Mooney, pardoned Jan. 7 by Gov. Culbert L. Olson and released from 22 years imprisonment for the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day parade bombing, became ill in Los Angeles three weeks ago and cancelled a speaking tour.

End Near In Spanish War

(By The Associated Press) PARIS, Feb. 25 (AP)—The end of the long Spanish civil war appeared to be only a matter of hours tonight.

The Spanish government, officials of the Madrid regime said, has agreed to offer its virtual surrender.

The capitulation to the nationalist government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco will be called an "armistice," according to the officials, who declared it might go into effect late tonight or tomorrow.

Only unforeseen resistance by government followers, they said, could postpone the end.

The agreement to capitulate was said to have been given by government Premier Juan Negrin after written guarantees had reached the British government from Franco.

These guarantees were said to be assurances that there would not be reprisals against Spanish government leaders. Nationalist authorities likewise would guarantee Spain's freedom from German and Italian domination, it was stated.

Secret Conclave to Elect New Pope Starts Wednesday

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 25 (AP)—The closely-guarded "conclave" in a city, where the sacred College of Cardinals will meet in secret conclave Wednesday to elect a new Pope, was opened today for the inspection of a few invited guests.

Sixty-two cardinals, three of them Americans, will be immured there in the ancient Sistine Chapel until they have chosen the 262nd pontiff of the Roman Catholic church—probably one of their own number.

Until the necessary two-thirds majority names a successor to Pope Pius XI, the utmost secret will guard the proceedings behind bolted doors, bricked-up entrances and other barriers thrown around the temporary conclave quarters constructed in the chapel.

Although the conclave starts March 1, balloting is not expected to commence until the following day. Three Cardinals from the new world will have time to reach Vatican City for the voting. They are William Cardinal O'Connell of Boston, Sebastiano Cardinal Leme of Brazil and Santiago Cardinal Copello of Argentina who are scheduled to land at Naples Tuesday, making the conclave complete.

With the 62 cardinals, the "city within a city" will house their assistants, servants, cooks, doctors, barbers, guards and other functionaries—in all about 300 persons.

To care for them, preparations involving an expenditure of an estimated $100,000 have been made.

In the dimly lighted chapel those preparations seemed virtually complete as carpenters and Swiss Guards showed a few visitors around beneath the famous frescoes of Michelangelo.

FIREBUG MOUSE

3 Flee Blaze Ascribed To Rodent

ALTOONA, Feb. 25 (AP)—The family of Carl Eshelman, rural mail carrier, was routed from the blazing Eshelman home here early today, only a few moments before the structure collapsed.

Eshelman, his wife, and ten-year-old grandson, Donald Davis, were awakened by smoke after the fire had destroyed almost half the dwelling, and were unable to save any belongings. Eshelman thought a mouse might have started the fire.

Cupid Slump In Oregon Blamed On State Law

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 25 (AP)—Oregon's marriage business is on the rocks. After three months operation of a law requiring mental and physical examinations to weed out the insane and venerably diseased, Catholics, Jews and Japanese are almost the only persons getting married here.

Only 472 licenses have been issued in the state since the law went into effect last Dec. 1. During the same 1937-38 period, 1349 licenses were issued. Where the 36 counties used to get $27,000 annually from marriage licenses, clerks feel they'll be lucky now to scrape in $9,000.

The Japanese society reported however, members of that race wanted to take the mental and physical examinations required. Archbishop Edward D. Howard said Catholics probably made up the largest marry-at-home group because religious laws required marriage by parish priests. Rabbi Henry J. Berkowitz asserted that "with the Jews it may be because there is no other rabbi nearer than Seattle to the north and San Francisco to the south."

FORMER IOWANS

50,000 of Them Attend Calif. Picnic

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25 (AP)—More than fifty thousand former residents of the Hawkeye state attended the annual Iowa winter picnic in Lincoln park here today.

Among the speakers was former Governor Frank F. Merriam, once a resident of Iowa.

"You're the Tops," Says Schenk to Prasse

When all the votes in The Daily Iowan's first annual poll to select Iowa's "Athlete of the Year" had been counted and checked late last night, the name of Erwin Prasse, Iowa three-sport athlete and captain-elect of the 1939 Hawkeye football team, topped the other 25 athletes by a good margin. Al Schenk of Chicago, Prasse's teammate on the gridiron last year and president of the Campus 'I' club, which cooperated with the Iowan in the poll, is shown above pointing out to Prasse the final standings. Yesterday's vote was the heaviest of the week with most of the votes confined to the top three candidates. Prasse will be presented The Daily Iowan trophy between halves of the Iowa-Minnesota basketball game March 6.

Quakers to Remodel School To House German Refugees

Plan Shelter For 40 Exiles

Friends to Orient Austrians, Germans To American Ways

By B. FRANKLIN CARTER JR. Daily Iowan City Editor

Thirteen men and women, deliberating in the slow dignified manner typical of Quaker meetings, decided yesterday afternoon to establish a haven for refugees from Germany and Austria in the old Scattergood school buildings two miles east of West Branch.

The 13 Quakers, comprising the representative meeting of the Iowa Yearly meeting, agreed to undertake the project, which will harbor 40 refugees, to "show the world that they were willing to do their part for humanity."

The representative group, which is the executive unit for the conservative branch of the Quakers in the state, acted favorably on the proposal made last Monday at a joint meeting of the conservative and progressive divisions of the Quaker faith, the first joint action since the separation in 1890.

According to the plans made at Monday's meeting, the 40 refugees and 10 of the Quaker group will live at the school where the Americans will attempt to acquaint the others with the customs of the country. The groups of refugees will live at the school from 30 to 60 days, depending upon the success the Quakers have in "Americanizing" them.

The second half of yesterday's all-day meeting which followed a dinner served at the close of the morning's religious services, opened with an address by Levi Bowles explaining the proposal made at the Tuesday meeting.

Bowles, the leader of the conservative Friends, told 75 persons who filled the West Branch Quaker church meeting room that this seemed to be an opportunity for a small group here in Iowa to help relieve a serious condition.

After Bowles concluded his (See QUAKERS, page 8)

All Over Lady's Love

College Freshmen Cry 'En Garde' In Affair of Honor

NEW WINDSOR, Md., Feb. 25 (AP)—The romantic tale of how two college freshmen, rivals in love, fought a duel with foils until one was "pinked" and honor satisfied, spread beyond the Blue Ridge college campus today.

George M. Riggins, publicity director for the college, said the school authorities, learning of the affair later, were inclined to regard the duel as a joke.

Riggins said the principals were George List of Baltimore and James Deaton of New York, both studying fencing in the course of the college.

Riggins said List challenged Deaton on the ground the latter was attempting to replace him in the affections of a pretty coed. As Riggins related the story, Deaton accepted, and at six o'clock last Friday evening, a week ago, the two boys, accompanied by their seconds, repaired to the school gymnasium, doffed their shirts and shouted "En garde."

Deaton was scratched about the chest after an hour's duelling, and they called a halt, all points of honor apparently settled.

As proof of the story, Riggins submitted a photograph of the duellists in action.

Insurance Men Of Des Moines Hurt in Wreck

LARAMIE, Wyo., Feb. 25 (AP)—Seventeen passengers and a pullman porter were under treatment today in two Wyoming hospitals for injuries they suffered when a broken rail tipped five cars of the Union Pacific's "pony express" down a grade embankment near Bosler, Wyo., last night.

Most of those hospitalized were officers or agents of the Bankers Life company, Des Moines, Iowa.

Nazis Renew Drive on Jews

BERLIN, Feb. 25 (AP)—A new, intensive drive to make Germany free of Jews will begin Monday.

The Jewish community in Berlin received orders from the police to produce daily the names of 100 Jews who then will be given two weeks' notice to leave the country.

As far as could be learned Berlin is the first district in which a daily quota of emigrants is fixed arbitrarily. Depending upon its success, it may be assumed that the system will be applied throughout the nation.

The police notice threw consternation into the ranks of the Jews.

They had believed that the efforts of George Rublee as director of the intergovernmental refugee committee to bring about systematic and orderly elimination over an extended period would be crowned with success.

(Rublee and two American aides, negotiated on the Jewish problem in Berlin from Jan. 10 to Feb. 2.)

Legislature Members Adjourn After Passing Numerous Bills

DES MOINES, Feb. 25 (AP)—Members of the Iowa legislature went home tonight to find out what the folks who elected them think about it.

Before they adjourned for the customary week's recess, however, they took an important step in the republican state administration's reorganization plan.

They passed bills to require legislative approval of the operating budgets of the highway commission, tax board and motor vehicle department, which in the past have retained a percentage of their collections for administrative purposes.

Coupled with the revamping of the state welfare board and the state library and historical departments, this constitutes a

Veteran Three Sports Man Compiles Total of 1,113 Votes To Lead Field of 26 Athletes

Russell Busk, Quadrangle Favorite, Polls 636 Votes to Capture Second Place in Daily Iowan Poll

Erwin Prasse, a young man who performs on the diamond, gridiron and basketball court for the University of Iowa, came through with 312 votes yesterday to lead his nearest rival, Russell Busk, little Hawkeye grid ace, to the wire for the honor of being selected "Iowa's athlete of the year."

It was Busk, however, who supplied the thrills in the closing day of the contest, a day that was marked by some of the most energetic voting of the week.

Trailing the popular Prasse by 427 votes Friday night, Busk was well on the way to overtake Prasse in the early afternoon count but faltered when Prasse's backers came through with an overwhelming number of ballots shortly before the closing of the polls.

In winning, Prasse compiled a total count of 1,113, leading Busk, who finished with 636, by 477 votes.

Most of the support Busk received during the contest came from the Quadrangle, an almost solid vote coming from the dormitory on the west bank of the river.

Steady Count

Prasse's count was a steady day after day compilation of votes. No particular organization, but rather the seeming naturalness of his selection by the student body, was the major contributing factor in his victory.

Ray Walters, swim star who started with a rush, leading the field at the end of the first day's count, faded in mid-week but finished strong, totaling 373 for the week.

Another favorite, Art Manush, failed to register many votes yesterday, finishing with a 373 count, 20 more than his total of Friday.

Jack Eicherly, captain of the 1938 football team, was the only other entry to finish over the 100 mark, having 179 votes cast in his favor.

Three Sports

The title of "Iowa's athlete of the year," is another of the many athletic distinctions Prasse is earning in the three major sports in which he competes.

When Iowa's cage season comes to a close March 6 against Minnesota, Prasse will have earned his fifth major "I," well on his way to realizing his ambition of becoming a nine-letter man.

He automatically becomes the first to have his name inscribed on The Daily Iowan trophy, the first to bear the official title of "Iowa's athlete of the year."

In addition, he is captain-elect of the 1939 grid squad, the first man to captain an Iowa team to use the Notre Dame style of play.

The Daily Iowan trophy, now on display in Bremer's clothing store, will be presented to Prasse between halves of the Iowa-Minnesota basketball game March 6.

China Rejects Japan's Plan

SHANGHAI, Feb. 25 (AP)—The governing body of Shanghai's international settlement tonight rejected a Japanese program for suppression of terrorism in the settlement and simultaneously redoubled its own efforts to maintain order.

The Japanese program, embodied in a note to the settlement's municipal council last Wednesday, was interpreted by foreign authorities as an attempt to extend armed Japanese rule over the settlement. It had caused rumors Japan was ready to move army units into the settlement ostensibly to suppress terrorism.

Tonight the council delivered to Yoshiaki Miura, Japanese consul-general, a reply described by high authority as a polite but emphatic rejection of the Japanese "request" that the council "accede to adoption of effective measures" to combat terrorism.

(The council normally has two American, five British, five Chinese and two Japanese members. Its chairman is an American, Cornell S. Franklin.)

For Better Colleges

THE MERITS of educational institutions with large and small enrollments have long been discussed. Colleges just this week were accused at the Cleveland meeting of the American College Personnel association of being engaged in cut-throat competition in proselyting students.

The question of restricted enrollments was the subject of comment in New York by Dr. Walter A. Jessup, president-emeritus of the University of Iowa and now president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Learning.

Dr. Jessup, characterized as a top-notch policeman of educational policies and procedures, gave a stiff jolt to "educational cafeterias" which do not give their students a well-balanced diet of learning. He urged putting up a new stop sign to prevent the growth in numbers of the "fleeting scholar," the student who takes his education on the run as he migrates from institution to institution.

And the way to prevent all this, Dr. Jessup maintains, is to further restrict enrollments. His report, as given by the Associated Collegiate Press, said: "The medieval age had its wandering scholar. We have our itinerant or fleeting scholar. Hundreds of thousands of these itinerant students move from college to college, each armed with his letter or credit—an academic bill of lading that may include credits earned at one, two or more institutions.

"Thus armed, students move in and out of the academic grove with the greatest ease. In the nature of the case, most colleges accept little responsibility for a well-balanced educational diet or for intellectual health. Rather the students use the college as a cafeteria, wherein the opportunity is afforded not only to pick and choose within a single institution but to transfer in and out of institutions and departments.

"In all too many of such cases, neither the student nor the college arrives at a very clear conviction as to either the capacity or the purpose of the individual. On the whole, the system affords almost the ultimate in flexibility, but it does not make for enduring or comprehensive knowledge within a given field.

"Naturally, the question arises what might happen if some of our colleges were firmly and gradually to reduce their enrollments. A college could assume an entirely different attitude toward its student body if it decided to select 500 rather than struggle to recruit 2,000. The institution could then afford to employ a first-class staff to teach these 500 students instead of scripping to get inordinately large classes, handled by low-paid Ph.D.'s. Such a college could then devote its best efforts to improving its product (the student) rather than 'the institution'."

"So revolutionary a step would be almost unprecedented. The first lasting result might be to reduce the fleeting, itinerant student to academic, intellectual and social stability. With fewer to share in 'scholarship' funds, adequate stipends could be paid and these could be based upon need and achievement and the promise for the future which both imply.

"Fortunately for society, many colleges are examining their opportunities for self-improvement."

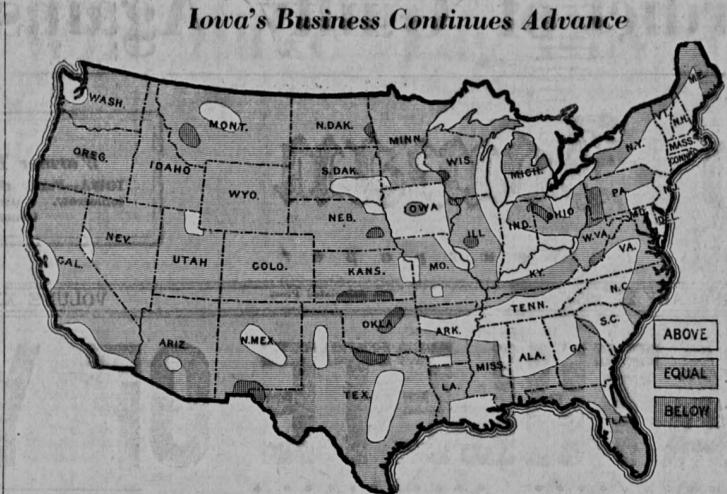

Accidents Are Costly
IF SOMEONE were to give you a secret formula for saving a billion and a half dollars in a year you'd be interested, wouldn't you? You'll be interested to know then, that the economic loss resulting from the deaths, non-fatal injuries and property damage accidents during 1938 is estimated at $1,400,000,000.

The preliminary edition of Accident Facts, issued by the National Safety Council, gives figures such as that one-figure that are worth pondering. That amount of money, it seems to us, is worth attempting to save.

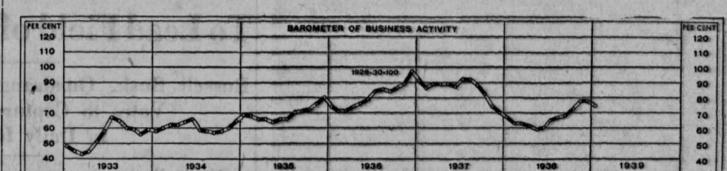

Carelessness on the part of Americans caused an economic loss in a single year from accidents alone that is tremendous compared to some of the amounts of money we give so much thought to. Why, we would ask, do Americans complain so over the money spent for governmental advancement when it is within their power to prevent leakages such as the one the National Safety Council has pointed out?

Our question, in part, may be unfair since Americans today are doing a great deal in the form of accident prevention. The effect of these efforts is being felt; too; that is shown by the drop of 10,200 in the accidental death toll in 1938—the greatest improvement ever recorded in a single year.

Moreover, 700,000 fewer persons were disabled by injuries in 1938 than in 1937, and the economic loss from accidental deaths and injuries was cut by $400,000,000.

This map represents current business conditions as compared with a year ago. It appears in the March issue of "Nation's Business", official publication of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

colleges are examining their opportunities for self-improvement."

The Nation's Business

ELSEWHERE ON today's editorial page appears a map and barometer of the nation's business conditions for January as compared with the same month a year ago. The map depicts generally better conditions in many sections as compared with last year, due to the downward movement in progress at this time last year.

The barometer shows that industrial production in January failed to register the customary seasonal advance, causing a moderate dip in the business activity chart line for that month. It is interesting to note that Iowa, with the exception of the central portion, shows business above that of a year ago. The map for December showed improvement in the entire state.

Last September Paderewski broke his six years of American silence, when he made his American radio debut over NBC during the third anniversary of the Magic Key. In a trans-Atlantic broadcast from Switzerland, he gave a 45-minute recital which was heard in this country with perfect clarity.

The announcement of Paderewski's return, comparable in musical importance to the return to the United States in 1937 of Arturo Toscanini, was made by the NBC artists service, under whose management the 78-year-old pianist will make his 10-week tour of 20 of the larger cities of the United States.

Moriz Rosenthal, "grand old man of the piano," was speechless for several minutes after the broadcast, he was affected so deeply by Paderewski's amazing wizardry.

Friends later reported that all Rosenthal could say was: "Why, why the man's a first-winner!"

JACK BENNY . . . appears tonight under the alias of Jesse James. With his band of desperate thespians, Benny, who terrorized Waukegan with catgut and horseshair, will present his version of the new technicolor horse opera during the broadcast over the NBC-Red network at 6 o'clock.

Musically, Kenny will introduce "This Night," and Phil Harris and the orchestra will present a musical description of "Honolulu."

Graduate Students
Each student in the graduate college who expects to receive the master's degree or the doctorate at the forthcoming convocation June 5, is requested, so far as he or she may not have done so heretofore, to procure for us immediately the official transcript of whatever graduate work he may have accomplished in another graduate school; so that this may be taken into account in determining whether he or she fulfills the requirements for the higher degree sought. This should be done immediately; otherwise, it is possible that we shall be unable to certify for graduation next June a student who may have accomplished satisfactory graduate work elsewhere, because we shall not have received the requisite official statement of it early enough.

NEW YORK—One of the nicest ways to spend a late afternoon or evening, if you like music played especially for you, is to go to the cocktail lounge on the "mezz" of the Astor, where Dick Kuhn does most with a five-piece band than most orchestras twice or three times that size.

It is a most interesting experience, because near the stand is a lighted music board, and on your table is a list of more than 300 popular songs. They all are numbered, and to have your favorites played it is necessary only to have the waiter mark your number on the board.

What makes this even more interesting is that the boys play without music. Sometimes they play for hours without once repeating themselves. I think this is a fine piece of showmanship because there is something very flattering and personal when a number is played especially for you. You can see people all over the room waiting to see if Kuhn will "slip" on their requests, which he never does, and you can also see them give that contented smile showed no more ability than the less intelligent. (6) There was a slight tendency for both men and women to overestimate the intelligence of women from their photographs. (7) When the pictures are not uniform one's ability in such estimates is lessened. (8) In judging two pictures, as in judging ten, one might as well close the eyes. (9) A group of judges working together did no better than a single judge. (10) One professional character reader and vocational expert did no better than the average of the 376 persons who arranged the pictures.

Speaking of coincidences: From George Ross' column: "If you care for coincidences you may be amused by the fact that the Plymouth theater, where 'Abe Lincoln' is being presented, has on one side the Booth theater, and on the other the Lincoln hotel.

From George Tucker's column: "Abe Lincoln in Illinois is easily the dramatic hit of the year. It may be a coincidence, but the Plymouth theater, where 'Abe' is presented, is flanked by the Booth theater on one side and the Lincoln hotel on the other."

From Walter Winchell's column: "Raymond Massey is playing 'Abe Lincoln' at the Plymouth theater on West 45th street. . . The Plymouth is bordered on the left by the Lincoln hotel—on the right by a theater named 'The Booth.'"

Gee, fellows, it looks as if we've all been listening to the siren voice of the same press agent.

This was overheard in a Bookstore. The girl behind the counter evidently knew the man she was waiting on, for he asked: "Have you seen Joe lately?" "No, I haven't," she replied. "I only had one engagement with him. Joe's funny, you know. We went to a dance out at Bangor, which is about 10 miles, and coming in I was tired and somehow I fell asleep. We were all the way back to town before I wakened, and I don't think Joe liked it very much. I think he thought I was bored. But I wasn't. I did my best to sparkle for him all the rest of the evening, but after we had something to eat he took me home, and he never came back."

"Dear George," writes Gene Farnshell, "all Will Porter bounds such as Howard Rhoades, myself, Russ Cole, and others, feel pretty badly when you-all make references to O'Henry. We feel, deep in our hearts, that you-all mean O. Henry. Please, George, keep your nose and your column clean in the future. This, of course, is all in a spirit of helpfulness. Forgive me."

Will some one kindly lend me a revolver and show me where the bathroom is?

Hawks Meet Northwestern

Stephens Expected To Add Many Points To Scoring Record

Flushed with a 36-34 conquest over the powerful Illinois cagers last night, Northwestern's Wildcats will come to town tomorrow seeking their second straight win and their second victory of the season over the Hawkeys.

A win for Iowa would enable the Hawks to pull out of the cellar; a loss would practically bury them in the lowly spot.

Many years that the Iowans have failed to win a game on an enemy court. Two conference wins have been registered by the Hawks and both have been on the home floor.

However, the Hawkeys have been anything but a soft touch for the conference, threatening in every game. Last week against Ohio State and Indiana, the Iowa five was very much in both ball games but lacked the scoring punch to push across a win.

Despite Northwestern's return to form after losses to Ohio State and Indiana, the Iowans may spring a surprise and take the boys from Evanston for a ride.

Capt. Ben Stephens is due for one of his extra large evenings and when "Blazin' Ben" is hitting, there isn't much anybody or anything can do about it.

Every point Stephens scores in the games against Northwestern and Minnesota will be so much "gray" on his score sheet, as he has already bettered his own all-time Iowa scoring record by three points, tallying 183 times as against 185 last year.

Purdue Nips Wolverines In Thrilling Tilt

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 25 (AP)—With just 40 seconds of play left, Fred Beretta, Purdue guard, slammed a field goal through the hoop to give his Boilermakers a thrilling 29-28 Big Ten basketball victory over Michigan here tonight.

Beretta was the only Purdue man able to consistently penetrate the tough Wolverine defense during the second half. Dickinson, another Boilermaker guard, scored the only other fielder during the period.

The Michigan quintet pushed the Lambertmen to the limit but Purdue held an 18-6 advantage at the half.

Beretta's 10 points led the scoring with Beebe and Thomas carrying the load for Michigan. Purdue has now won five conference games and lost four. Michigan has a loop record of two won and seven lost.

Northwestern In Surprise Win Over Illinois

EVANSTON, Ill., Feb. 25 (AP)—Northwestern's surprising Wildcats blasted Illinois' slim hopes of a tie in the Big Ten basketball race tonight by defeating the Illini, 36-34, before a sellout crowd of 6,000.

The defeat was the fourth in 11 games for the visitors and made it impossible for them to catch the Indiana and Ohio State teams in the cage race.

Illinois rallied late in the game but was handicapped by the loss of Center Lewis (Pick) Dehner who fouled out of the game. Dehner and Bill Hapac, forward, led the Illini with 13 points apiece but high point honors went to Koble of the Wildcats who registered 17 points.

Illinois took an 18-16 lead in the first half, then fell behind in the second period, but was kept in the game by Hapac's six field goals in this stanza. The visitors tied the score at 34-34 late in the game but Ad Vance's two-pointer clinched the decision for the Wildcats.

West Bend Leads Girl Hoopsters To State Cage Finals

DES MOINES, Feb. 25 (AP)—West Bend, the 1938 champion, tonight led a parade of 16 girls' high school basketball teams through the district tournaments into the championship meet starting here March 9.

The defending champions worked Graestinger, 49 to 27, in its final game in its own district tournament.

Lenox, the 1938 runner-up, also came through the district trying, defeating College Springs, 46 to 24, for its third straight victory in the round-robin series.

Olin, consolation winner a year ago, whipped by Stanwood, 35 to 25, to post its challenge for the 1939 championship. Wellsburg, another familiar state tournament figure, came through with a 23 to 19 decision over Eldora in the final at Wellsburg.

Winners Crack Eight Year Old Mark in Meet

Iowans Win Second Heat in Qualifying Run in Afternoon

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (AP)—Glenn Cunningham, still the miler without a master, switched to 1,500 meters tonight and made it the occasion for his fourth national A.A.U. indoor championship at that distance. Cheered on by a crowd of 14,000 in Madison Square garden, the peerless Kansan trimmed Gene Venzke by six yards in 3 minutes 54.6 seconds.

Cunningham, who set a world record of 3:48.4 in winning this title a year ago, ran the race the way he liked and won it as he pleased.

More impressive than Cunningham, if possible, was his fellow ironhorse Don Lash of the Indiana state police. Lapping every one of his rivals at least once, the durable Hoosier retained his 5,000-meter championship and in doing so set a new citizen's and meet record of 14 minutes 30.9 seconds.

This cut 8.1 seconds off the mark he set in the same meet a year ago.

The 69th regiment A.A., with Charley Beetham, 600-meter winner, running the anchor leg, cracked an eight year old world record in capturing the 1,600-meter relay title in 3 minutes 17.2 seconds, six-tenths faster than the previous mark set on March 7, 1931, by the University of Pennsylvania's wonder team.

Fordham, with Frank Slater, the anchor man was second, New York university, with Jim Herbert running the final leg, was third, and the University of Iowa fourth. The Boston A.A., was a badly-beaten fifth and last.

The powerful Hawkeye squad with F. Teufel, C. Teufel, John Graves and Milton Billig running in that order, turned the afternoon qualifying heat in 3:20.0, pacing New York U., Boston, Manhattan and the 69th regiment A.A. teams to the win.

Venzke returned to the boards in the final event of the night, the 2,900-meter medley relay, to run the third leg of 800 meters and send his New York A.C., team-mate, Phil Graves, off to a lead on the final 1,500-meter leg that enabled the winged footers to hang up a world record of 7:08.3 for this event.

The former mark, 7:09, was set by a Princeton team that was anchored by Bill Bonthron. Princeton was second tonight, with the New York U., freshmen third and Manhattan college fourth.

Hoosiers Romp To Another Win In Conference

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Feb. 25 (AP)—Indiana university, leading the western conference, beat Minnesota, 49-37, here tonight for its ninth straight Big Ten basketball victory, as Bill Menke, sensational Hoosier center, came within two points of the conference scoring record for a single game.

Menke had scored 28 points when he was taken out because of four personal fouls, just before the game ended. His teammate, Ernie Andrews, holds the record of 30 points, set last year.

Tonight's contest was close throughout. The Hoosiers ran up a 15-8 lead in the beginning, but the Minnesota trio of Kundlia, Dick and Maki tied the score at 16-16 and then put the Gophers ahead, 24-22, by half-time. Early in the second half, Indiana regained the lead.

Henry Agrees ST. LOUIS (AP) — Hammering Henry Armstrong, Negro lightweight and welterweight champion, has agreed to defend both titles here March 16 in a 15-round bout with Lew Feldman, Brooklyn Promoter Tom Packes announced last night.

Grapplers Win From Cats By 15 to 11 Score

EVANSTON, Ill., Feb. 25 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—Iowa's wrestlers snapped their losing streak here today by capturing five of the eight matches in handling Northwestern a 15-11 defeat.

The lone fall of the meet came in the 175-pound class when Tom Tauber, Northwestern, pinned his Hawkeye opponent, Xavier Leonard, in 3:57.

Wilbur Nead, powerful Iowa heavyweight, came through with a win over Edward Wavrus to put the meet on ice for the Iowans.

By BOB MCGRANAHAN Daily Iowan Sports Reporter

An aggressive U-High quintet rallied in the last half last night to defeat West Branch 33 to 31 in a nip and tuck battle. The victory gives the Blue Hawks a record of five wins and three defeats in the Little Eight conference, and enables them to finish in a tie with West Liberty for third place in the league standings.

Ray Pederson, sharp-shooting Quaker forward, paced both teams in scoring with ten points. Ernie Krog, Duane Carson and Capt. Ed Burns, three U-High seniors, were the big guns in the locals' attack accounting for 26 of the Brechlermen's total of 33.

Although the Rivermen looked impressive in winning, they still failed to perform consistently throughout the entire contest.

Through the efforts of Ernie Krog, who garnered all of his points in the initial period, U-High held a 15 to 6 advantage after the first eight minutes of play. In the second quarter, however, the Blue Hawks counted only one gift shot and as a result the Quakers forged into a 17 to 16 lead.

After the intermission, Burns and Carson relieved Krog of the offensive burden to count 12 of the Blues' 16 points in the final half.

In a certain raiser, U-High sophomores defeated the West Branch reserves 33 to 10.

Poor Terms SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Paul Waver said last night he would stay in Sarasota rather than play baseball at the terms offered by the Pittsburgh Pirates. "I told them I would take a cut of $2,500, and I won't take a cent less," said the Pirates' "big poison" in commenting on a statement the club has "gone as far as we can go."

Handball Titlists TOLEDO (AP) — Al Zerbo and Dr. Milton Lappin, Detroit, won the doubles championship in the annual national Y. M. C. A. handball tournament yesterday. They defeated Stanley Hitz and Hubert Simmons, Harrisburg, Pa., 21-18 and 21-14.

Performs Here Tomorrow

The University of Illinois gymnastics team in general and Capt. Joe Giallombardo (above) in particular, will invade the Iowa fieldhouse tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock for a meet with the Iowa Hawkeyes. Giallombardo won seven major gymnastics titles last year and is probably the nation's finest college gymnast. The Illini leader last year won the National Collegiate all-arounding and tumbling, National A. U. tumbling, and Big Ten all-around and tumbling.

Hawkeye Gymnasts Swamped By Chicago's Strong Maroons

CHICAGO, Feb. 25 (AP)—University of Chicago gymnasts, champions of the Big Ten conference and National Collegiate Athletic association titlholders, defeated Iowa, 558.75 to 450.75, tonight.

For the second time this season, Ervin Beyer, captain of the Maroons, won first in all five events. He is a junior and won second place in the all-events competition in the conference meet last year.

The summaries:
Horizontal Bar — Beyer (C) first; Hayes (C) second; Pierre (C) and Vogel (I) tied for third.
Side Horse — Beyer (C) first; Pierre (C) second; Lipoti (C) third.
Rings — Beyer (C) first; Hayes (C) second; Pierre (C), Perry (I) tied for third.
Parallel Bar — Beyer (C) first; Pierre (C) second; Hayes (C) third.
Tumbling — Beyer (C) first; Robertson (C) second, and Negler (C) third.

Gymnastics Stars To Display Wares

The most spectacular event in gymnastics will be starred tomorrow, at four o'clock, when the greatest tumbling team in the country, led by Joe Giallombardo meets the Iowa gymnasts. The meet between the Hawkeyes and Illinois, at the fieldhouse, will be climaxed by the performances of the three top ranking tumblers in the country, who will be competing for the Illini.

Heading the list of tumblers is Joe Giallombardo, a junior, winner of seven major titles last year. He won the national and central A.A.U. tumbling crowns, national collegiate flying rings, tumbling, and all-around, and Big Ten tumbling and all-around. This impressive record in top competition has earned him the title of the leading college gymnast in the nation.

Bill Golde and Ray Weiss, who complete the tumbling team were second and third behind Giallombardo in national A.A.U. tumbling. With the nation's three best tumblers to compete against it is doubtful whether Iowa will be able to place a man in this event.

Unique Baseball Game Scheduled In Cooperstown

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 25 (AP)—As part of the nation-wide celebration of baseball's centennial, a unique baseball game between teams composed of players from every minor league in the country will be played at Cooperstown, N. Y., on July 9. That date has been set aside as "National Association Day," it was announced today by George M. Trautman of the National association of professional baseball leagues.

Trautman said that each of the minor leagues would be asked to select one outstanding player. This means that 37 or 38 men will be available to take part in the all-star games, which will take place two days before the major leagues' all-star game at New York and will be played on historic Doubleday field, where Abner Doubleday laid out the first diamond in 1839.

Griffith Regrets Selling Berg

Influx of Foreign Names Causes 'Old Fox' To Yearn for His Linguist

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 25 (AP)—President Clark Griffith, of the Washington Senators, regretted today that he ever sold Moe Berg to the Boston Red Sox.

"We don't need him to catch particularly," said old fox Griffith, "we need him to talk."

Berg—one of the most erudite men ever to play baseball—was graduated from Princeton, and then did a turn at the Sorbonne.

"He's just the man to talk to some of these foreigners," grunted Griffith. "The way things are going now we sound like a row in the league of nations."

Griffith's problem is not simple. Here's what he's up against: Pitcher J. V. L. Krakauskas, a Lithuanian who comes from Canada. Krakauskas speaks English with an accent, and when he gets excited he speaks something else—something that Griff can't understand.

Pitcher Roberto Ortiz, fresh from Cuba, who speaks Spanish and nothing else.

Outfielder Roberto Estalalla, who's been playing ball in the United States for three years but who's still an alien when it comes to the language.

Pitcher Rene Monteagudo, who knows a little English but uses it so fast Griff can't get it.

And—next week the Senators will be joined by one Alejandro Carrasquel, who hails from Venezuela. Griffith has renamed him Al Alexander.

Coaching Ortiz has been almost impossible, so Griffith borrowed Catcher Al Lopez of the Boston Bees for a few days as an interpreter.

Griff hates to think of what's going to happen when Alexander gets to town. He came over from Cuba with Monteagudo, but got turned back.

"They say," said Monteagudo in his official report, "heem no write, no talk like me, so he's put back on sail-away."

Next to pitchers, Griffith admits he needs most of all Berg, and an immigration expert.

Paul Waver Declines Second Pittsburgh Pirate Contract

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 25 (AP)—Paul Waver, veteran star of the Pittsburgh Pirate outfield, today declined a second contract from the "front office" and the management let it be known there probably wouldn't be another offer.

A few days ago, Waver rejected the first contract, calling for a 45 per cent cut in pay from his salary of last season—reputed to be $16,000.

Pirate President Bill Benswanger, disclosing Waver refused the club's second bid in a telegram from his Sarasota, Fla., home, declared:

"In an effort to adjust the differences we offered Paul a 20 per cent increase over our original offer. Paul has seen fit to decline it.

"We are sorry but that is as far as we can go."

Records Fall As Invaders Grab Firsts

Iowans Clocked In Fast Times While Losing Dual Meet

By OSCAR HARGRAVE Daily Iowan Assistant Sports Editor

Beginning their destruction the moment they landed in Iowa City, Michigan's unbelievable crew of swimming greats last night smothered the University of Iowa 61 to 23 in the fieldhouse pool.

The Wolverine quartet of Capt. Tom Haynie, Jim Welsh, Ed Hutchens and Waldemar Tomski began the work early by bettering the recognized world mark in the 800 yard relay, as they paddled the distance in 8:31.1. Then, in the regular meet, they ran amuck, smashing several marks and stroking to first places in every event.

Opening with a record smashing performance in the medley relay, Beebe, Haigh and Holmes paddled through in 3:04.6 to nose out Iowa's Armbruster, Poulos and Kershaw, who also swam the distance in faster time than the old national intercollegiate mark. George Poulos was another Iowan to better a university mark, but his time of 2:39.9 in the breaststroke failed to beat Haigh, whose performance of 2:36.7 smashed the intercollegiate record.

Other pool marks to fall were the 220 free style, the 50 free style, the 440, in which Haynie also cracked the national mark, and, finally, the 400 yard relay, in which the Wolverine team, Holmes, Hutchens, Barker and Tomski beat still another intercollegiate record. After finishing this event, the Wolves threw Welsh and Beebe into the water to chalk up new times of 4:35.4 and 5:33.7 in the 400 and 500-yard relays.

As an introduction to the evening's spectacle, Haynie, the brilliant Michigan captain, paddled through a furious backstroke, breaststroke and free style succession to crack the existing individual medley mark. An Iowa freshman, Chuck Brankamp, chased Haynie throughout and, although Haynie's new time of 5:43.9 was too much for him, Brankamp also bettered all of the pre-Hayne marks for the 300 yards.

Summary:
300-yard medley relay: first, Michigan (Beebe, Haigh, Holmes); second, Iowa; time—3:04. (New national intercollegiate record).
220-yard free style: first, Welsh (M); second, Hutchens (M); third, Ahlgren (I); time—2:20.2 (new Iowa pool mark).
50-yard free style: first, Tomski (M); second, Barker (M); third, O'Mahoney (I); time—23.5 (new Iowa pool record).
High board diving: first, Ferstenfeld (M); second, Pyszynski (M); third, Brandon (I).
100-yard free style: first, Tomski (M); second, Walters (I); third, Draves (I); time—33.9.
150-yard backstroke: first, Beebe (M); second, Armbruster (I); third, Bremer (I); time—1:42.6.
200-yard breaststroke: first, Haigh (M); second, Poulos (I); third, Lowry (I); time—2:36.7 (new national intercollegiate record).
400-yard free style: first, Haynie (M); second, Thaxter (M); third, Ahlgren (I); time—5:08.7 (new national intercollegiate and AAU record).
400-yard free style relay: first, Michigan (Holmes, Barker, Hutchens and Tomski); second, Iowa; time—3:38.7 (new national intercollegiate record).

Hull Scores 27 Points In O. State Win

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 25 (AP)—Jim Hull and his Ohio State basketball teammates put on a dazzling second half rally tonight to defeat Wisconsin, 46-38, and remain a contender for the western conference championship.

Hull advanced his bid for conference scoring honors by pouring in nine field goals and nine free throws for 27 points. The Buckeye forward, who was on the heels of Lewis (Pick) Dehner of Illinois in the individual scoring race until tonight, proved a dead shot from all ranges, tallying seven points in the first half and 20 in the second.

The victory gave Ohio State a season record of eight wins and two defeats. It was Wisconsin's seventh loss in 10 games.

Wisconsin held a 19-16 half-time lead with Andy Smith, forward, contributing eight points during that period. He added six more in the second half for a game total of 14.

Teammates fed the ball to Hull and Smith throughout, but the Buckeye marksman was the more accurate and had the advantage of numerous set-up shots which his rangy aids proved for him.

A crowd of 9,000 attended.

Wisconsin Wins CHICAGO (AP)—Wisconsin defeated Chicago and Purdue in a triangular indoor track meet yesterday, the Badgers amassing 52 points. The Maroons totaled 31 points and Purdue 27. Milton Padway of Wisconsin set a new fieldhouse record with a pole vault mark of 14 feet, two and a half inches, breaking the record of 13 feet, nine inches set in 1934 by Lenningan of Illinois.

CHICAGO (AP)—China, with her government and regular armies pushed far into the interior after nearly 20 months of conflict with Japan, pins her chief hopes for eventual victory on guerrilla warfare waged by millions of men and in large degree organized under a central control.

Herbie Holmes to Play for Club Cabaret at Union March 31

Young Maestro Began Musical Career Early

Party to Be Formal Affair Sponsored By Union Board

Take two jiggers of youth, two or three pinches of personality, an extra heavy shot of musical ability and shake well with a heavy dash of salesmanship. Serve in a sophisticated glass of appearance and you have the musical cocktail that George Prichard, A3 of Onawa, president of the Union Board, Carl Burnside, P4, and Frank Bauer, M4, both of Shenandoah, picked out on a recent trip to Chicago for Club Cabaret which will take place March 31 in the main lounge of Iowa Union. And all that adds up to a southern gentleman from the Mississippi delta by the name of Herbie Holmes.

Herbie started his "music with a touch of blues" idea when he sang over a local radio station while attending the University of Florida. When he transferred to the University of Mississippi his junior year, he took charge of the college orchestra. During his last two years, he won the Eddie Cantor NBC United Artists Picture contest in singing and was entertained in New York as the personal guest of Eddie Cantor.

After graduation Herbie formed his own orchestra and went on the road under the name of "The Young Maestro from the Mississippi Delta." With his appearance on Joe Sanders' "Midnight Flyers" program over the Mutual network his popularity as a dance orchestra skyrocketed to new heights.

With his orchestra Herbie brings a sparkling group of entertainers which includes the Three Rhythm Rebels, Four Levee Loungers, the glee club, Gene Babbitt, Lloyd Handling, Arno Lewis and Nancy Hutson.

Recent engagements for Herbie and his orchestra with the smart blue touch, include Euclid Beach in Cleveland, Ohio; The Mansion in Youngstown, S. C.; Jimmy Brink's Lookout House in Cincinnati, Ohio; a five months' record-breaking run at Club Greyhound, "Southland's Smartest Theater Restaurant," located in Louisville, Ky.; Hotel Claridge in Memphis, Tenn.; Hotel St. Paul in St. Paul, Minn.; Glen Echo in Washington, D. C.; Westview Park in Pittsburgh, Pa.; Rainbow Gardens in Denver, Col., and Hotel Chase in St. Louis, Mo.

Herbie is bringing his orchestra to the Iowa campus directly from Chicago's Edgewater Beach hotel, where he has been broadcasting over the Columbia network.

Super-exclusive in the "top hat and tails" class is Club Cabaret, at which the Union Board annually entertains all university men and women. This year's gala event will take place March 31 in the main lounge of Iowa Union from 7:30 to 12 p.m.

Dinner and dancing will be in the true cabaret style with tables accommodating from one to eight couples grouped around the dance floor and also in the balcony.

Tickets will go on sale Wednesday, March 15, at 8 a.m. at the main desk of Iowa Union. Each person may purchase tickets for his table or a party of eight couples.

George Prichard, A3 of Onawa, is serving as general chairman. Assisting committees include Peter Mousolite, G of Cedar Rapids, Carl Burnside, P4 of Shenandoah, and Beth Browning, A3 of Iowa City, orchestra; Robert Osmundson, A3 of Forest City, and Arnold Oosterhuis, D4 of Sheldon, budget; Ben Stephens, C4 of Cambridge, Ill., and Beatrice Wilson, N3 of Washington, chapters; Harland Bass, E4 of Waterloo, and Frank Bauer, M4 of Shenandoah, tickets; Frank Brandon, A3 of St. Davids, Pa., and Harry Foster, G of Iowa City, publicity; Jo Ann Oppenheimer, A4 of Marshalltown, programs, and Ruth House, A3 of Iowa City, and Constance Fenton, C4 of Jewell, dinner and decorations. Reservations will be limited to 300 couples.

Prof. W. L. Sowers To Speak Tomorrow

"Criticism" will be the subject discussed by Prof. W. L. Sowers of the University English department at a meeting of the Wesley Players tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the Methodist student center.

Changes in Gloves, Veils Give Suit Lift

Accessories make the suit this season. A simple little navy or black suit can be given a number of intriguing guises if you will invest in three or four pairs of suede gloves in the new bright shades, then match them with buttonholes. Go a step further and buy some veiling in matching hues to tie around the crown of your saucy new sailor.

McCoy, Geologist, Will Speak In Graduate Series Tomorrow

Petroleum Reserves To Be Topic of Two Illustrated Lectures

Two geology lectures will be presented tomorrow by Alexander W. McCoy, consulting geologist from Ponca City, Okla., in the geology auditorium at 3:10 and 7:30 p.m. "Recent Developments in Petroleum Geology" is the subject. The lecture is one of the graduate college series.

The public is invited to attend both lectures, but the evening lecture will be of greater interest to non-geologists. In the evening, McCoy will present a lecture of broader scope than in the afternoon, presenting an analysis of the oil reserves in the United States.

Slides will be used to illustrate both lectures and a general discussion will follow each talk. McCoy is a graduate of the University of Missouri and has taught geology at the University of Oklahoma. He has been employed in the geology divisions of several oil companies and was once vice-president of the Marland Oil company.

He has been an active consulting oil geologist since 1932, and recently received wide recognition for a paper which he published on "An Analysis of Petroleum Reserves in the United States." The lectures in Iowa City are the first in a series of talks to be given at five mid-western universities.

The speaker is presented under the auspices of the geology graduate college and Geology club. Besides geology students the talks should interest engineering and commerce majors.

Preceding the evening lecture, a dinner in honor of McCoy will be held at Iowa Union at 6 o'clock. Guests at this will include graduate and undergraduate geology majors, the geology department teaching staff, the Iowa Geological survey staff, and members of the geology departments of other colleges in Iowa and Illinois.

Peirce Exhibition to Open Collection of American Painter's Works Goes on Display Wednesday

A large exhibition of paintings art and his family, which are inseparable, have been the subjects of extensive articles in Esquire and Life.

Colorful in his life as well as in his painting, he has been prime newspaper copy. Nature gave him the physique of a wrestler or prizefighter (he weighs 210 pounds and stands six feet two inches) and it is said that John L. Sullivan, when he saw Peirce before the latter had entered college, urged him to take up the ring as a career.

Peirce was born in 1884 at Bangor, Me. He studied at Harvard university, where he was a star football player in his sophomore year, captained the water polo team and was hammer thrower on the track team. His art study began in Paris at the Julien academy in 1911 but was shifted to Spain the next year.

He became an ambulance driver with the French army at the outbreak of the World War, and later was stationed at Madrid with the American Intelligence department. In 1930 he returned to his home

Art Graduate Is Honored

Chicago Art Institute To Display Painting By Mrs. E. Van Ek

Reward for a sensitive talent in painting has come to Mrs. Eve Drowelove Van Ek of Boulder, Col., graduate of the art department of the University of Iowa, with an invitation to exhibit her water color, "Lilies; Shadows," at the 18th international water color exhibition of the Art Institute at Chicago.

Mrs. Van Ek, now the wife of Jacob Van Ek, dean of the college of liberal arts at the University of Colorado, was the first graduate student at Iowa to receive a master's degree in art, in 1924. A photograph of her painting was reproduced in the Denver Post at the time of the annual exhibition of the Denver art museum. Donald Bear, director of the museum, characterized her work as possessing a "crystal-like delicacy."

Another distinction was accorded to Mrs. Van Ek in November, 1938, by election to the National Association of Women Painters and sculptors. The constant urge to paint has followed Mrs. Van Ek in her world travels, resulting in many and varied subjects. In her own words, she finds it "rather deadly and thoroughly lacking in stimulation, and unexciting to do the same kind of subject in regular rotation."

The Teton mountains of Wyoming have a great attraction for her and her interpretations of them are expressed "with a restless flow and weaving pattern of line that remind one of Oriental landscapes."

The university galleries at Boulder will open their summer session this year with an exhibition of 60 of Mrs. Van Ek's oils and water colors, and the Denver Art museum plans to exhibit a group of her water colors during the current season.

J. M. Juran Visits Engineering School

Art Graduate Honored

"Lilies; Shadows" by Mrs. Eve Van Ek of Boulder, Col., reproduced above has won her the honor of an invitation to exhibit her work at the 18th international water color exhibition of the Art Institute at Chicago. Mrs. Van Ek was the first graduate student of the art department of the University of Iowa to be granted an M.A. degree in art, the award being made in 1924. She is the wife of Jacob Van Ek, head of the college of liberal arts at the University of Colorado.

Intercollegiate Peace Meeting To End Today

Conference Platform Will Be Adopted At Concluding Session

The Iowa Intercollegiate peace conference will come to an end on the Iowa campus today, with a business session in the river room of Iowa Union at 1 o'clock, when a platform stating the position of the conference will be adopted.

Following a day and a half of open discussion on the state of the world's democracy and the part America must play in preserving peace, adjournment of the conference is scheduled for 3 o'clock.

The four discussion groups which have carried through since the conference began Friday evening will re-convene at 9 o'clock this morning, for a final discussion of (1) the causes of war, (2) United States foreign policy, (3) internal American problems and (4) general peace philosophy.

A conference worship service is scheduled for 11 o'clock this morning.

E. Raymond Wilson, associate secretary of the peace section of the American Friends Service committee in Philadelphia, was the speaker at last night's featured meeting.

The conference is being sponsored by the Iowa Student Peace Marjorie Littell of Cornell college, state chairman of the Iowa Intercollegiate peace committee; Bob Burgess, field representative of the Friends Service committee for this section of the country, has been assisting her.

Locally, the conference is sponsored by the Iowa Student Peace council.

Science Editor To Give Talk Here Tuesday

Graduate, Chemistry Groups to Present Watson Davis Talk

Watson Davis of Washington, D. C., editor of the Science News Letter and several other publications for the popularization of science, will speak in the chemistry auditorium Tuesday evening at 7:30. His topic will be "Mobilizing Scientific Knowledge."

Davis comes to Iowa City from Knox college in Galesburg, Ill., where he is conducting a three-week lecture series. He was graduated from George Washington university as a chemical engineer, but found his interest in the field of popularization of science.

Because of this interest, he was made editor of Science News Letter in 1922, the position which he now holds. He is also director of Science Service, a non-profit organization whose chief interest is to popularize science with people whose interests and knowledge lie without the scientific fields.

In recognition of his outstanding success in his interpretation of science to the general public, he was made a fellow by the American Institute of the City of New York in 1937.

Davis has served as president of the American Documentation Institute, is a member of the Board of Research Associates, and has held important positions in many scientific organizations. Besides being a contributor to many magazines, he is also editor of Science Today and Advance of Science, as well as being the author of "The Story of Copper."

The lecture which Davis will give in Iowa City should be of interest to all workers in scientific fields. After the address, he will answer questions. The address is under the auspices of the graduate college and the Iowa section of the American Chemical society. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Practice Court Of Law College Has First Case

The first criminal case to be tried in the practice court of the college of law was heard before a jury of university students Thursday and Friday afternoons. James Remley, L3 of Anamosa, and Robert Pasley, L3 of Ames, were attorneys for the state. George Coulthard, L3 of Modale, and Brewer Wilson, L3 of Manchester, argued for one of the defendants, and William McFarlin, L3 of Montezuma, and Herbert Rosenberg, L3 of Maquoketa, for the other.

The two defendants were charged with breaking into a clothing store at night and stealing several suits and overcoats. The admissibility of fingerprints and a confession that was made to the county officers were important issues in the case.

The student jury returned a verdict of not guilty for both defendants.

H. I. Olds Will Talk on Prints Monday Night

To Show Collection, Demonstrate Making Of Japanese Works

H. Irving Olds, traveler and craftsman, will demonstrate the art of color block prints by making a cherry block in connection with his exhibition of Japanese block prints to be hung in Iowa Union lounge tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday.

He will speak informally tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Union library on the prints and their history.

The Japanese prints are an interesting contribution to art, for they mirror the life of a nation which was closed to the outer world for two centuries. Olds is an American, born in Japan, who has grown up with the people's art in Japan and is an authority on the subject.

With this three day exhibition, he will illustrate how this folk art shows the religious, social and historical background of Japan's civilization as well as explaining the art and process of making color block prints.

In addition to the prints by the great masters of the art, Olds will have complete sets of cherry blocks from which the broad sheets were printed and all engraver's tools, colors, brushes and paper which are used in the precise technique of this art.

Methodist Group Alums to Give Members Party

The alumnae chapter of Kappa Phi, Methodist Girls' sorority, will entertain members of the active chapter and pledges at a party tomorrow at 7:30 in the home of Leonora Bohach, 124 Grove street.

Transportation will be provided for everyone meeting at the Methodist Episcopal student center at 7:15 p.m.

Club to Have Hike; 6:30 Dinner at Union

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Maxon will serve as leaders for the Hiking club tomorrow. The group will assemble in the Maxon home, 1142 E. Court street, at 5:15 p.m. After the hike, dinner will be served in Iowa Union at 6:30 p.m.

"So you got it," said Mac, suppressing a smile.

"I got it!" Ellis patted the paper. "You let something slip that time, Mac!"

"What's he talking about?" Phil demanded. "Stop speaking in riddles!"

"This isn't for publication, Benson," the chief told him, and thrust the yellow slip into his own pocket. "Karns, send in that address!"

Della Craig made an entrance with a capital "E." She quite took away my breath. She was done up in a black velvet creation that hugged her closer than any wallpaper ever hugged a wall! Around her neck was a string of pearls which were the size of peas.

"Good afternoon," she greeted us throatily. She arranged herself languidly in a chair, her big black eyes gazing soulfully upon Chief Ellis.

"Good afternoon," he returned coolly.

"Ah, please!" She leaned forward. "You are angry with me! This terrible affair"—she frowned, biting her full upper lip between her teeth—"I was not myself yesterday. You must forgive me!"

"Quite all right," said Ellis, forgiving her.

Della sighed: "Poor Mrs. Horace. Such a dear, sweet woman!"

"She was a good friend of yours?"

"I was very fond of her." The actress lowered her incredibly curling lashes. She registered pain. She made me sick!

"Some baby," murmured Phil, and I gave him a nasty look. Men are such fools!

"Is this your first visit to the Manor?" questioned the chief, diffidently, as though loath to intrude upon such grief.

"My very first."

"How did you happen to come here?"

The lashes lifted. "Mrs. Horace invited me."

"By letter?"

"Yes. She wrote to me in New York."

"How long have you been a friend of the family, Miss Craig?"

"I met the Witherspoons several seasons ago in Florida."

"Florida, eh? And is this the first time you've seen them SINCE?"

"The very first," replied Della Craig.

"I see. Between the two of us, Miss Craig"—he leaned forward confidentially—"have you any idea who committed the crime?"

"I?" She was obviously shocked. "Dear, no! Who would wish to harm dear Mrs. Horace?"

"You think she committed suicide?"

"Suicide?" The actress pondered. "I'm afraid I can't answer that. Suicide seems so—so incredible to me. Life is too sweet!"

"Thank you. That will be all for the present."

"You are quite welcome." She arose, the gracious lady! McIntyre jumped to his feet.

"Allow me!" He escorted her to the door.

"You are most kind!" She smiled dazlingly. "Is it true that we must remain in this house until the mystery is solved?"

Mac returned her smile with interest: "I'm afraid that it is," he said regretfully. "I daresay it is hard for you but," he looked her square in the eye, "but murder is murder, a fact I'm afraid some of you are overlooking."

"Oh!" Beneath her carefully applied makeup she turned pale.

"Oh!"

"However," he patted her arm, "you need not worry. Everything will come out all right. Run along—and be careful!"

"Yes—yes—I'll be careful," she said slowly. "I will be CAREFUL."

"Now what has Mac got onto?" I demanded of Phil. He replied cryptically: "When the time comes he'll pull the rabbits out of the hat."

The next one called was Reginald Ainsworth, he of the golden curls, and he created somewhat of a diversion in the routine, for in its way his entrance was as effective as Della's. He minced into the room shaking his shoulders from side to side in a manner to suggest that Tim's suspicions were not wholly groundless.

"Handsome, isn't he?" I gushed into Phil's ear and was rewarded with a grunt of disgust.

"Such eyes!"

"Such girliness!" snorted Phil. I smiled to myself. Two can play, games as well as one!

"MISTER Ainsworth?" asked Ellis, stressing the "mister." Reginald glared at him. "Yes, MISTER Ainsworth!"

"Sit down, please." Ellis lighted a long, black cigar. "Smoke?"

"Thank you, no." Reginald wrinkled his nose and coughed suggestively.

"Now, Ainsworth." He blew a great cloud of smoke in that young man's direction. "You're something of a dark horse among us. Suppose you give me your history, so to speak."

"What do you wish to know?"

"Well, for one thing, why did you come to the Manor?"

"I came with Miss Craig, as I told you a day or so ago."

"Uninvited?"

"Dear no!" The blond youth elevated one eyebrow. "Miss Craig secured an invitation for me. I am, if you recall, her leading man. She brought me along so that we might rehearse some of the scenes in her new play. It opens next week."

"I see. But isn't it unusual to go touting off on a house party on the eve of a new play?"

"We didn't expect to be trapped here indefinitely!"

"May I interrupt?" inquired McIntyre meekly.

"What? Oh, go ahead," Ellis said.

"Thanks." Mac inclined his head. He turned to the actor.

"MISTER Ainsworth, was there any special reason why Miss Craig and yourself accepted this invitation to the house party?"

"Why—Reginald hesitated—"I don't suppose it's any secret—" "Well?"

"Well, you see—Miss Craig hoped to induce Mr. Horace Witherspoon to provide the additional backing necessary for the play's opening."

"Indeed!"

"Yes."

"Oh, I'm not doubting your word," Mac assured him, "just seemed a trifle odd to me. Never fancied Mr. Horace as a patron of the theater."

"He isn't, especially," Reginald admitted artlessly, "but being a good friend of Della's she thought he might help us out."

"Had you ever met any of the family before you came here?" McIntyre changed his tactics.

"I had met Mr. Horace," Reginald replied promptly. "Naturally, I hesitated about barging in on a family party, but Della insisted."

"Does Mr. Horace visit New York frequently?"

"Well—and although Mac had put the question casually enough, it seemed suddenly to dawn upon Reginald that he was imparting interesting and perhaps private information.

"Well, what?" prompted Mac.

"I—I'm afraid I can't say."

"But you met him in the city with Della Craig recently? Quite recently?"

"Three weeks ago," the actor replied reluctantly. "Della told him then she was bringing me down."

"So!" Mac exclaimed and relaxed so completely that I thought he would fall from the edge of his chair. "That's all, Ainsworth. Any further questions, Ellis?"

Ellis shook his head. The blond youth scampered off. The chief apologized and left the room.

Myself, I was stunned! Mr. Horace and Della Craig!

"So Mr. Horace isn't the type?" crowed Phil. "Elsie, my girl, you've a lot to learn about men!"

Cell Inmate Starts Fire

Carmen Mason, In Jail for Intoxication, Lights Bunk Blanket

The local fire department answered one of the closest alarms in its history at 12:30 yesterday morning when an inmate of the city jail, next door to the fire department, started a fire in his cell.

Carmen Mason, in jail on charges of intoxication, packed a blanket from his cell bunk with paper, lit the blanket and placed it between the window bars and the window. An attendant at a nearby mortuary notified the police of the fire and the fire department was called in.

Mason, besides being fined $5 and costs in police court yesterday morning for intoxication, is now being held in the county jail on the arson charge which was filed against him by Police Chief W. H. Bender.

explanation of the refugee proposal, the meeting proceeded in the customary Quaker fashion. One after another the persons in the room rose and gave their own opinions on the many angles involved in the project.

Each of the Quakers spoke in a low quiet voice. Without the slightest vestige of argument, the members discussed the financing, the type of people they would have to deal with and other administrative details. Often a period of five minutes elapsed without a word being spoken.

At the suggestion of one of the audience, all but the representative committee and newspapermen left the meeting room. The committee talked among themselves for nearly 10 minutes. Without the slightest indication of a vote, Levi Bowles left the committee group and told the reporters that they could announce that the project will be undertaken.

The conservative group selected three persons who will serve on the executive council of seven which will direct the operation of the refugee camp. Three other members of the committee will be named by the progressive section of the Quakers, and Jay Newlin, Grimes, president of the Iowa Branch of the American Friends committee, will be the seventh member.

Work will begin in the near future to remodel the Scattergood school buildings for use. The school was operated by the Iowa Yearly Meeting of the Society of Friends as a co-educational high school.

The work will be financed by the local Quakers groups and the American Friends Service committee of Philadelphia, the national Quaker organization.

Bowles remarked during his opening speech, "Much of our work is made possible more by donations from persons not in the organizations, but the Quakers have to take the initiative."

A letter from Chester Morris of the Philadelphia office of the American Friends society which said that "the refugees who will be coming to Iowa are of the highest standards of living and after an 'Americanization' period would be able to enter the highest professions."

Members of the group suggested that because of the nearness of the Scattergood school to Iowa City, some of the refugees may continue their education at the university.

The Scattergood school building stands on a hill in the middle of a 12-acre plot two miles east of West Branch. The main building, containing classrooms, bedrooms, dining rooms and a gymnasium, is a two story frame structure sitting nearly a hundred yards back from the highway. Near it is the stucco residence of the grounds custodian. At the entrance of the school driveway on the highway stands an old Quaker meeting house.

Members said that an estimated $5,000 would be needed to repair the buildings. The boarding school was operated from 1880 until eight years ago. Since then it has been used only once a year for the annual sessions of the Iowa Yearly Meeting of the Society of Friends which owns the school.

Chinese life of 500 years ago will be depicted in the river village which will be part of the $1,200,000 concession at the 1939 California World's Fair put on by San Francisco Chinese.

I. C. High To Participate In Debate Finals

5 Schools to Compete In Tournament Here The Last of March

Iowa City high school's debate teams, together with those of Davenport, Burlington and Mt. Pleasant, earned the right yesterday to compete in the state finals of the Iowa high school forensic league here the last of March.

Those four schools were victorious in the district round of the state series at Burlington. Howard Hines, Judith Worton, Meyer Markovitz and Marilyn Glassman debated for the local school. Gordon Christensen as alternate accompanied the teams, coached by E. J. McCreary.

Last year McCreary's teams won first place in the final event. The Iowa City teams yesterday won all but two of their 14 debates, each team dropping one decision.

Mt. Pleasant and Davenport each won 10 of 14 contests and Burlington was fourth with seven wins. Newton, Muscatine, Fairfield and Ft. Madison also competed.

Coach McCreary was faced with treating his debaters for coughs between each round of yesterday's tournament, and the epidemic of colds made inroads on the performances of the speakers of almost every town, he reported.

Priest Remains In Custody Of Grateful Parish

VULCAN, Mich., Feb. 25 (AP)—More than six months after parishioners of St. Barbara's Catholic church "imprisoned" their beloved priest, Father Simon Borkowski, in the parish house to prevent his transfer, he remained their "prisoner" today.

The Lenten season, which began this week, caused no change in the strange situation. Parishioners who are not allied with the faction that is detaining Father Borkowski and some of the Father Borkowski faction, attend services at St. Mary's church in nearby Norway.

The local police department informed near-by authorities of the robbery immediately after it was reported.

Bills Deluge House, Senate

DES MOINES, Feb. 25 (AP)—Iowa republican leaders who planned on clearing the legislative run-ways early this session by moving up the deadline for filing bills found the senate and house hoppers choked today with a total of nearly 1,000 measures.

As the deadline for filing bills by individual members was reached in the house tonight, officials counted an even 600 propositions for legislative consideration from lower chamber members.

Two years ago the deadline was March 10 and the house bill total reached 473 before the filing halt was called. On Feb. 25, 1937, house committees had only 271 measures to try and figure out, less than half the number on hand on this comparable date.

Committee bills and all, the house considered only 522 measures in 1937, or 48 less than the present membership has contributed with half the session still to go.

The senate likewise is more prolific this year. Members of the upper house have filed 393 bills so far, compared with 227 on Feb. 25 two years ago and 378 on the March 10 deadline in 1937. Committees in both houses still have the right to introduce new measures.

The legislature went home tonight for a week's vacation after the house received 60 bills in the last-minute deadline deluge. "Aid to farmer" was the theme of many of the measures.

Annual Tag Sale Ends With Announcement of Winners

Dorothy Gilpin Tops Pupils in Collecting; 54 Children in Drive

School pupils who gathered the largest amounts of money in the annual tag sale here yesterday were announced last night by Dorothy Hittle, junior high school instructor, who was in charge of the ticket sales.

Dorothy Gilpin, who sold $17.68 worth of tags, was awarded $2.50 in cash as first prize; Lenore Kelly, in second place, who took in $11.42, won $2 cash; James Montgomery took third prize of $1.50 cash after selling $9.56 worth of tickets; a pair of roller skates was awarded to Betty Boarts as fourth prize, and a sweater, donated by Yetter's, to Bill Augustine as fifth prize.

The total amount received by ticket sales for the benefit of the Iowa Children's Home society was not determined last night. Miss Hittle estimated that it equaled the high mark of $140 received last year.

Fifty-four junior high and grade school pupils cooperated in selling the tickets, Miss Hittle revealed.

The Iowa Home society, non-sectarian, has at present 237 children in its care. Some will be adopted, officials said. Others will be placed in foster boarding houses throughout the state.

Tag day was endorsed by the Iowa City chamber of commerce, the Iowa bureau of public welfare and local women's group.

Local sponsors included Frances Wilson, the Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Voigt, Mrs. F. B. Olsen, the Rev. I. I. Jones, Mrs. O. E. Van Doren, Miss Hittle, the Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Dierks and the Rev. Fr. Patrick O'Reilly.
