Pope Pius XII Delivers Peace Note to World

Unusual Broadcast Characterizes New Conciliatory Policy

By CHARLES H. GUPTILL
VATICAN CITY, March 3 (AP)—Pope Pius XII made peace the keynote of his pontificate today in an unprecedented message to the world at the outset of his reign.

His unexpected broadcast from the Sistine chapel to the far corners of the earth stressed a note of conciliation which many expected would characterize his policies.

The peace he invoked was "that peace, sublime gift of heaven, which is desired by all honest souls and which is the fruit of charity and justice."

He spoke in Latin for five minutes to the cardinals who elevated him yesterday to the throne of St. Peter, but he addressed his words—broadcast by the Vatican radio station—to all, and extended his blessing not only to all Catholics but to those outside the church.

Earlier he had set his coronation for Sunday, March 12. On that day, in a rich and lengthy ceremonial, he will be crowned with the tiara or pope's triple tiara.

The entire college of cardinals—61 members now that Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli has been chosen pontiff—gathered to make their final obeisance, the last act of ceremonial homage which follows a pope's election.

Then they met in the Sistine chapel, still furnished with its conclave equipment, to hear the singing of a te Deum. At the end of this, a microphone was set before the papal throne for the broadcast of the pontiff's message.

The secrecy which customarily surrounds the conclave tended to disappear in face of the speed and unanimity with which Cardinal Pacelli was chosen yesterday on the first day of balloting.

Vatican prelates reported that he received 35 votes on the first ballot, including the unanimous support of the 27 foreign cardinals. On the second ballot the total rose to 40.

Both ballots were taken in the morning and many members of the conclave were said to have started to pack their bags during the noon recess, considering his election a forgone conclusion.

Pacelli himself was reported to have shown his emotion only through accentuation of his pallor.

For nearly an hour before the third balloting began, he walked alone in the court of St. Damasus reading his breviary.

Pacelli said that on the third ballot he received 61 votes, the 62nd, his own, was understood to have been given to the dean of the college of cardinals, Genaro Cardinal Granito Pignatelli di Belmonte.

William Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, forecast today a "remarkable pontificate" for the new pope.

"The Holy Father is truly a beautiful character," he said, "a man of great intelligence and wide experience. He is humble and he is clever. He possesses great force and great restraint. He truly may be said to be a living saint. That is something of great importance in these troublesome times."

Attorneys Hit Fusing of State Peace Officers

DES MOINES, March 3 (AP)—Charging that the measure opens the gates to graft and corruption, the Iowa County Attorneys association today declared its opposition to the bill in the Iowa legislature designed to consolidate the state's peace officers.

The announcement was made by Maurice Rawlings of Sioux City, president of the association and Woodbury county attorney. He conferred during the day with Gov. George A. Wilson and Attorney General Fred Everett.

The bill which, among other things, would take the highway patrol away from Secretary of State Earl G. Miller, is considered one of the major items on the legislature's reorganization program and is due to come up for passage in the Iowa house next week.

Pope Pius XII Making First Public Appearance

From a balcony overlooking St. Peter's square, Vatican City, Rome, the newly-elected pontiff, Pope Pius XII (arrow points to him), makes his first public appearance to be greeted by 300,000 of the faithful, whom he blessed. The pope was the former pontiffal secretary of state, Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli. His election to the papal throne took place on his 63rd birthday. This photo was phoned from Rome to London, then radioed to America, then rushed by fast mail to Iowa City.

Maglione Probable Choice For Next Papal Secretary of State

John T. McNicholas Likely New York's Newest Archbishop

VATICAN CITY, March 3 (AP)—Vatican prelates predicted tonight that Luigi Cardinal Maglione, former nuncio to Paris, would be the next papal secretary of state.

Pius XII, as Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, held the post for eight years and will make the appointment.

Pacelli said selection of Cardinal Maglione to carry out the holy father's peace policy was almost certain for three reasons:

1. His diplomatic experience.
2. His comparative youth among the cardinals—he is 62 years old.
3. His intimate friendship with the pontiff since they were classmates at Capranica college in Rome.

Federico Cardinal Tedeschini, former nuncio to Madrid, was most prominently named as the second choice.

Pietro Cardinal Piumasoni Biondi, mentioned yesterday as a strong possibility, was ruled out in the speculation because of his already high position as prefect of the congregation for the propagation of the faith in charge of Catholic missionary activities.

Speculation on the new pontiff's disposal of pending affairs was widespread in Vatican circles.

Some priests said most Rev. John T. McNicholas, archbishop of Cincinnati, likely would be the next archbishop of New York, succeeding the late Patrick Cardinal Hayes.

(Vatican circles on Thursday were reported as considering Monsignor Stephen Donahue, auxiliary bishop of New York, an outstanding candidate for the post. He has been in charge of the New York diocese since Cardinal Hayes' death on Sept. 4, 1933.)

Whoever is appointed to the vacant see, they said, eventually would be created a cardinal.

Steamer Tows Leaking Sealer To Coast Safety

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia, March 3 (Canadian Press)—The steamer Imogene took in tow the leaking sealer Ranger 12 miles off Newfoundland's southeast coast late today after gale lashed seas balked efforts to remove 132 crewmen of the stricken vessel.

The Imogene headed toward St. Mary's bay, off the Newfoundland coast where the Ranger could find shelter.

'GREATER LOVE'

70-Year-Old Man Kills Self for Wife

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 3 (AP)—The pledge C. R. Page made years ago to honor and protect his bride was fulfilled to the ultimate today.

Page, 70, shot himself to death, Detective Capt. W. W. White reported, because he had sufficient money only to care for his wife.

"My wife is sick," read a note which was found on Page's body. "Please, God, forgive me. There is no hope and not enough money to look after us both. Everyone has been wonderful to us and I love them all."

Prof. Haskell To Investigate Jobless Action

DES MOINES, March 3 (AP)—An unpaid advisory council of six members has been appointed by the Iowa unemployment compensation commission to assist in determining policies and examining possible legislative action.

Representing the public are Addison Parker, a Des Moines attorney, and George D. Haskell, professor of economics at the University of Iowa. Employers' representatives are Henry E. Sampson of Des Moines and George E. Pike of Waterloo.

The labor representatives are Cecil Utterback, business agent of the Laundry Workers' union in Des Moines, and Leo Quinn, secretary of the Des Moines Truck Drivers' union. Both unions are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The commission has called the council into conference several times in the past two months to meet with various interested parties on matters of policy and legislation. Commissioner Claude Stanley said today. Council members are only paid expenses for attending meetings, he said.

Prepared to Buy
OMAHA (AP)—J. E. Davidson, president of the Nebraska Power company, said yesterday his company and the other utilities of the state are prepared to buy power at a reasonable price from the public-hydro-electric districts as soon as they can deliver it.

War Persists Madrid Embarrasses G. B., France

LONDON, March 3 (AP)—The Madrid government, now deprived of the recognition of Britain and France, is embarrassing these two countries by apparently stiffening its resistance to the nationalists and thwarting the two democracies' attempts to bring an early end to the Spanish Civil war.

The republicans were stubbornly holding onto their capital today, and also to the one-fourth of the country still in their hands, whereas British and French leaders expressed belief, as they extended formal recognition to the nationalists last Monday, that the war must end soon with Madrid's defeat.

Britain and France are anxious to have the war end and to penetrate into the new Spain's economic life, in which Italy and Germany, as older friends of the nationalists, already are entrenched.

Russia Leaves Committee On Non-Intervention

MOSCOW, March 3 (AP)—Soviet Russia tonight pulled out of the 26-nation London non-intervention committee, which it said "long ago ceased functioning" and "has lost meaning of its existence."

The committee was formed early in the Spanish civil war to prevent spread of the conflict and held its first meeting Sept. 9, 1936.

In recent months the Soviet press repeatedly has condemned the British and French governments for alleged betrayal of the original purpose of non-intervention and for adopting a policy of concessions toward aggressors.

well. In addition, it will be broadcast (by NBC, CBS, MBS 11 a.m. CST.)

Because of the extraordinary occasion—and because there has been no word of what Mr. Roosevelt intends to say—the address has aroused more advance interest than most formal presidential utterances.

Ordinarily, there are always advance hints about presidential messages to congress or special addresses known to be in preparation. Mr. Roosevelt has been inclined at his twice-a-week press conferences in or out of Washington, to give some intimation of his intentions when a message to congress was slated either for personal delivery or transmittal to both houses.

There is no doubt in Washington, however, that his address will not stop at a mere oratorical benediction on the vitally important incident for the world, as well as the nation, that was the first congress' meeting, in Federal Hall, New York City, 150 years ago.

It is deemed certain that the president will ignore, in fashion to catch world attention, so pat an opportunity to renew the American covenant with the principle Abraham Lincoln later set down as "government of the people, by the people and for the people."

That raises a possibility that, while nominally addressed to the American people, Mr. Roosevelt's remarks may be primarily intended to reach official ears in London, Paris, Berlin, Rome, Tokyo—and the rest of the world. The chief executive is under verbal

Treasury Aid Abroad Denied

War Materials Not Bought With U. S. Help—Morgenthau

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—An emphatic "no" was Secretary Morgenthau's answer today to a question whether the treasury's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund ever had been used to help foreign countries purchase armaments or war materials.

Representative Andresen (R-Minn) put the question at hearings before the house coinage committee on a bill to extend from June 30, 1939 to Jan. 15, 1941 both the stabilization fund and the president's power to alter the gold content of the dollar.

"I can answer under oath, no," Morgenthau told him. "As long as I'm there and congress gives me that responsibility, the answer is no."

He added that if the United States ever went to war, he would ask the committee for guidance on how the stabilization fund should be used.

Andresen also drew from the secretary statements that the fund had not been used to "rig" the market for government securities and that the treasury had no agreement with any other nation to stabilize its currency.

"The fund is not used to stabilize federal securities to afford a better market?" the Minnesotan asked.

"I have never attempted to rig the government market," the secretary replied, "and as long as I'm secretary I never will."

He said he had been "scrupulously careful" that neither the stabilization fund nor any government trust fund be used for that purpose.

House Passes Record Army Appropriations Without Amendments

'King George' Loses Crown! Jimmy Roosevelt Wins in Poker Game At Press Club Entertainment

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Britain's king and queen made an unexpected appearance in Washington tonight and the king lost his crown—to Jimmy Roosevelt in a poker game.

It was part of the entertainment cooked up by the Women's National Press club for its annual dinner when the great and near-great are satirized and the passing scene burlesqued.

Usually, most of the laugh-provoking barbs are directed at the first family, but this time the Roosevelts took a secondary place in a hilarious version of the coming Washington visit of the British royal couple.

The stage King George VI not only lost his crown, but his cigar lighter was taken away because "there's something about the White House that makes a Britisher careless with matches." (Remember 1812?)

Congress Asks Morgenthau To Ease Taxes on Business

YANKEE CLIPPER First Lady Christens New Plane

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt cracked a golden bottle of water from the seven seas today over a 74-passenger flying boat, christening it the "Yankee Clipper," flagship of America's new merchant marine of the air.

The first lady named the ship, after Postmaster General Farley had declared that the new 41-ton craft was a "tribute to Yankee enterprise" and a symbol of the leadership of this nation.

Federal Men Indict Nine In Passport Ring

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—The bizarre story of persons masquerading under fictitious names across an international stage was climaxed today by a federal indictment naming nine persons in an alleged fake passport ring.

Among the defendants were the missing Adolph A. Rubens, or "Donald L. Robinson," self-styled New York writer, and his wife, Ruth Marie Rubens, who federal agents said entered Russia in 1937 on a fraudulent passport.

Although an American envoy reported later he talked to Mrs. Rubens in a Moscow prison, where she was held on suspicion of spying, federal investigators said they did not know whether the couple was still alive.

Others named were Aaron Scharf, formerly an employe of the Egyptian consulate in New York; Ossip Garber, a Fifth avenue photographer; Edward Blatt, New York attorney and four identified only as John Blank, Ivan "Doe," Dimitri "Doe" and Alexis "Doe."

The indictment charged the group with conspiring to violate the federal passport act and alleged they carried on their activities in New York, Chicago, Merrill, Wis., and in Canada, Sweden, Switzerland, Yugoslavia, Austria, Germany, Czechoslovakia, and Russia.

Congress Wants To Encourage Industry To Boost Employment

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—The powerful movement to ease taxes on business to stimulate recovery gained new momentum today when the chairman of two congressional committees requested Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to submit plans for revenue law alterations that would "encourage private industry to increase employment."

Hailing Morgenthau's recent hints that tax changes were in the wind, Senator Harrison (D-Miss) and Rep. Doughton (D-NC) of the house ways and means committee asked for the recommendations as soon as possible after the March 15 income tax collections are analyzed.

This was only one of several developments during the day with a bearing on business. Others: Senator Van Nuys (D-Ind) declared in a statement that the administration's recent assurances to business were "encouraging" to believers in economic stability. He suggested that President Roosevelt implement the assurances by withdrawing the nomination of Thomas R. Amle, Wisconsin progressive, to the interstate commerce commission. The senator criticized Amle on the ground he proposed a constitutional amendment permitting the government to engage in business and industry.

Senator Byrd (D-Va) issued a statement that fiscal policy pronouncements by Chairman Marinier S. Eccles of the federal reserve board and the "recent active resistance to the president of the United States to congressional efforts to economize have done much, in my judgment, to impair a revival of business confidence necessary for prosperity."

Eccles, exponent of government spending as a means of curing depression, and Byrd, advocate of retrenchment, have been engaging in a round of dispute.

In a move declared to be part of the administration's "business appeasement" drive, General R. E. Wood, chairman of Sears, Roebuck and company, was selected by Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins as his adviser on business relations. Wood is expected to concentrate principally on the question how new private investment in industry can best be stimulated.

Carries Funds For Expansion Of Air Corps

Largest Supply Bill Since 1922 Passes Without Record Vote

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—A record-breaking, $499,857,836 appropriation bill for the army won house approval today amid warnings in the senate that congressional failure to keep close tabs on American foreign policy might drag the nation into war.

The huge supply measure, largest since 1922 and carrying the first funds for a proposed $300,000,000 expansion of the air corps, rolled through the house without a record vote or a single amendment.

Representative Snyder (D-Pa), in charge of the bill on the floor, declared the fact that no amendments were offered was without parallel in the nation's constitutional history and constituted "a firm expression of America's attitude toward such dictatorships as might attempt to disturb the peace of the western hemisphere."

Carries Any Funds
The measure carried actual funds for the operation of the army and is distinct from a measure which the house passed two weeks ago and which "authorizes" a $358,000,000 expansion of the army, including the air corps. The latter measure carries no funds.

In addition to the purchase of 784 military planes, mostly combat types, today's bill would provide for reinforcement of sea-coast defenses, for semi-automatic rifles, anti-tank guns, modernized field artillery and mobile anti-tank guns.

Shortly before acting on the measure, the house heard Rep. Collins (D-Miss), frequent critic of army policies, declare that if recent reports of Germany's tremendous air power were true, American military and naval attaches abroad were "asleep on the job" and should be "eliminated from the service."

Unexcelled in Naval Aviation
The Mississippian asserted that on the basis of confidential information furnished last year by the navy's intelligence service, the house appropriations committee had assured congress the United States was unexcelled in naval aviation and second only to Great Britain in army or navy aviation on the basis of planes on hand, ordered and appropriated for.

"In God's name, what have these attaches been doing," he shouted, "if in the space of less than 12 months, unbeknown to them, a complete reversal of the picture has taken place and one power which ranked below Russia and Italy in the confidential report to which I refer is now represented to have a force the equal of almost the combined forces of all of the other large powers of the world?"

Demand An Accounting
Collins declared that while he was disposed to doubt the accuracy of the reports, he suggested that if they were true the house military committee might well summon the naval, military and air attaches involved "and demand an accounting."

Anything Can Happen

THE BUSINESS office in University Hall holds a sign in startling bold black letters on a white background forming the single word, "THINK."

One glancing at the sign upon entering the office is likely to receive a mental jolt. Think—yes, think, but about what?

It is a common fact that in America today, people are swept along in their daily routine with such a steady unswerving movement that little outside their immediate environment receives attention. People don't have the time to think, or so it seems.

Meals, work, study, social activity fully occupy the waking hours of an individual's day. The few who do set aside moments for reading what they would like to read, for concentrating on what they would like to concentrate on, are constantly subject to disturbances.

This friend comes in to talk, there's a certain radio program on just now, Kay Kyser hits the air in five minutes, shoes need brushing, couldn't you be the fourth at bridge and so it goes on and on.

A person dashes from one activity to the next with little idea of where he is heading or why. His daily tasks, his own small world are liable to limit the confining boundaries to mental calculations.

But surely there is more than daily routine in this world, surely there are topics which merit careful consideration and thought, deep and profound concentration. There is the world at large, namely foreign affairs, there is the economic situation in the United States, there are social problems, and coming closer home, there are classroom discussions and lectures which students could possibly digest more thoroughly.

Subjects are innumerable, possibilities are limitless and how exciting and interesting they can be!

Idle moments, small talk and trifles all have their place, but certainly not to the exclusion of the thought which leads to wider horizons. There's a place for small talk, but just as definitely there is a place for its weightier counterpart.

As Americans we pride ourselves upon living in a democracy where we enjoy with freedom the pursuits of life, liberty and happiness. Our presses are free; our speech is free so why don't we indulge our freedom in constructive thought? Thinking leads to facts, facts lead to new discoveries and the cycle leads to a new stimulation.

Let's think, no one can quite tell what might happen.

Social Security In Iowa

WHILE WE believe in the necessity of a social security program, it seems to us that American forms of such assistance are still too much in the stage of experiment to be either praised or denounced.

It is interesting, however, to review the progress that has been made in the state of Iowa. In a summary of social security developments in the state, issued this week, Fred M. Wilcox, regional director of the Social Security board, says:

first appropriated by congress. A comparison of the measures then in effect in Iowa with the protections now available to its people highlights the state's progress up to the present. It also indicates some of the lines along which the state, in cooperation with the federal government, may well look for continuing growth.

In February, 1936, Iowa had already arranged to cooperate with the federal government in three of the nine cooperative federal-state programs established by the social security act. These were: old-age assistance, public health, and vocational rehabilitation.

Today Iowa is participating in eight of the act's nine federal-state provisions. Under its public assistance plans, payments are being made this month to some 50,300 recipients of old-age assistance, and 1,300 of aid to the blind; and 310,000 workers have earned credits under its unemployment compensation law. All told Iowa has received approximately $13,891,271.71 in federal grants for its social security programs, more than six million of which was made during the fiscal year 1937-1938.

Broken down, the social security work means aid to the blind, unemployment compensation, old-age assistance, maternal and child health, crippled children, child welfare, and public health programs.

We will watch with interest the development of the entire program, hoping at the same time for its growth and efficiency.

Freedom Of The Screen?

A PROMINENT movie magnate recently stated that it was time for Hollywood to take an active part in the "war" that seems to be being fought once again for democracy.

Up to the present time foreign political themes have been carefully avoided in order to keep the audiences in Europe contributing to the all-important box-office total. Stories concerning the dictators and even humorous references to those touchy political giants have been on the taboo list since the rise to power of the totalitarian states.

The movie head's idea was that Hollywood was ready to do its duty, was ready to sacrifice the foreign percentages, and to produce active propaganda pictures for democracy and against threatening foreign "isms."

Is there not dynamite in his published opinion? One of the reasons why we condemn European dictatorship is because of their propaganda campaigns. The people have no chance to think for themselves; all the resources of education, journalism, art, drama, music and literature have been concentrated in one purpose—to mold public sentiments, public thinking, and public action into an agreement with the government in power.

In presenting pro-democracy pictures a link will necessarily be forged between our national government and the movie industry. Whether this will come in the form of the government's having censorship powers, or whether it will come through the government's being used as subject material can not be known. Both ways could serve as an opening wedge to important government control.

The movie is a powerful influence in American life; we, as movie-goers, know that. Added to its intrinsic power is the fact that it has, in the past, been able to combine fact and fancy on the screen without criticism.

Perhaps "freedom of the screen" will be in our Bill of Rights of the future.

One problem bothering the British taxpayer is whether it wouldn't be cheaper to go to war than continue paying Prime Minister Chamberlain's traveling expenses.

Idle moments, small talk and trifles all have their place, but certainly not to the exclusion of the thought which leads to wider horizons. There's a place for small talk, but just as definitely there is a place for its weightier counterpart.

As Americans we pride ourselves upon living in a democracy where we enjoy with freedom the pursuits of life, liberty and happiness. BOOKS AND MEN

Someone's taken me up on that Knute Rockne suggestion. After thumbing through the first three chapters of Robert Harroon's biography, dated 1931, it appears, however, that I'm going to have to do the job myself.

For example, the times Knute benched had the team because he thought the group had been overhauled. How he repeatedly emphasized the 11-man-ness of football playing that succeeds.

How he'd be oblivious to the point of psychological deafness—see your psychologist at least twice a day—when the game was going on. How he'd weep when a game was lost. It's the most romantic tale of sporting.

And surely the year's most exciting book came yesterday. I mean Herr Hitler's "Mein Kampf." The 1933 translation's left out the most exciting chapters, you'll find.

It's dangerous reading; that's why I'd recommend it for every library shelf. . . . Gunther put it best. . . . "It's the blueprint that Adolf Hitler has followed paragraph by paragraph since 1933," he said. "Unfortunately there are several paragraphs still left."

I like the one who calls Herr Hitler, Mussolini and Franco the three "anti-Marx brothers."

HOLLYWOOD—Sing a song of shocked some censors. . . . censors, a pocketful of lye, there are certain movie lensors would like to see 'em fry.

The only difference between "Yes, My Darling Daughter" and some of the other flickers passed by the good New York board is that the forbidden one shows the heroine talking the matter over with mamma and grandma before she goes out to spend the night. . . . And when she spends the night, she does it innocuously as (say) Gable and Colbert in "It Happened One Night"—in which it didn't happen either!

And speaking of censors. . . . There's a chap named Gustav Machaty making a movie out here today, and I'll bet nine of ten fans can't place his name. . . . He's the fellow who directed "Ecstasy" in which a gal later named Hedy Lamarr became famous. . . . Machaty (you can say it Moeckhy if you like) has been buried in Hollywood. . . . Made a short or two, now is directing an 18-day flicker called "Within the Law" which in his day, I believe, shocked theatergoers as much as "Ecstasy"

MARTHA RAYE will be the first guest artist on Tommy Riggs' Quaker Party when the show moves to Hollywood for the first of a series of five weekly broadcasts at 7 o'clock tonight over NBC's Red network.

What happens when the irresistible Martha meets the whimsical Betty Lou will be unfolded against a musical background provided by Freddie Rich, west coast bandmaster just added to the Quaker show.

THE NEWEST song taken from children's fairy tales is "Foot Pinocchio's Nose" and it will be featured by Johnny Green and his sliding strings orchestra in a special arrangement on "Johnny Presents" over the Columbia network at 7 o'clock.

MUSIC of all nations is heard on the "Music Internationale" program, presented by an orchestra under the direction of Alexander Kiriloff, with Ruth Peter, soprano, as soloist. The program goes on the air at 10 o'clock this morning over the Blue network.

The program is an unusual one, including Beethoven's "Turkish March" from "The Ruins of Athens," a selection from Massenet's "Scenes Pittoresques," Porter's "Begin the Beguine," Slezizki's "Vienna Dreams," Phillipini's "El Tango de Amor," selections from Leopold's "Tatra," "Marchiere" by Tosti and "O Mama Inez" by Grenet.

MILESTONES in the history of music will present compositions by Gluck and Haydn at 10:30 this morning over the Red network. The Eastman school of music symphony will play Haydn's "Octet for Wind Instruments" and the overture to "Iphigenie in Aulis" by Gluck.

THE METROPOLITAN presents a matinee performance of Verdi's "Il Trovatore" at 12:55 today over the Red network. Zinka Milanov, Giovanni Martinelli, Bruna Castagna, Richard Bonelli and Virgilio Lazzeri will appear as soloists in leading roles.

THE NBC SYMPHONY under the direction of Hans Steinhilber, will be heard in an unusual program at 9 o'clock tonight over the Blue network. On the list are Bruckner's "Symphony No. 4," Stravinsky's "Fireworks,"

"Then, one day, walking down the street I ran into a girl who used to live near her house. She nearly fainted when she saw me, because she thought I was dead, I seized her arm and dragged her into a restaurant and made her talk. She talked for hours, and finally she told me that this girl had my picture draped in black and that every day since the Vestris sank she had said prayers for me. She had said prayers for me and thought of me and remembered me all those months and years.

"What now? What if I should come face to face with her one day, as I did with her friend? I don't know. Pose as an amnesia victim, perhaps. Try to think of some plausible lie, maybe. I don't know. It is something I have lain awake thinking of many nights, but the answer is the same, I don't know."

A New Yorker at Large

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—This must be told anonymously. The young man is troubled and ashamed, as he should be. Listen:

"Shortly after coming to New York I formed the habit of lunching at a restaurant on 42nd street near Grand Central terminal. There was a very attractive hostess, an Irish girl, and I asked her to go out with me. She laughed it off for awhile, and then began making vague excuses, and the more she put me off the more anxious I became to see her away from that restaurant and become acquainted with her.

"Every day I left notes for her. I would write them on paper napkins, or even on the table cloths. One day I begged her to let me take her father and mother and her to dinner, so that they could get to know me, and to allay any thought that might persist that my intentions weren't on the level. She even demurred at this, but eventually she said yes, and I went with her to meet her mother and we had a lovely dinner and evening together. Her father was dead.

"After that I was a welcome guest in their home, and the girl and I went to many theaters together and to parties, and so in time we became close friends, and no day ever passed that if I couldn't see her we telephoned and talked, it seems now, for hours.

"One night I knew that I would have to come to some decision, as she was in love with me, and it wasn't right to monopolize her time and her affections if I weren't going to return them.

"You see, I wasn't really in love with her. She was sweet, and sincere and a lovely girl in every schedule, manages to slip in some Machaty magic. . . . He has permission to essay a little "silent treatment" on the big courtroom sequence, but for protection he's shooting it with dialogue also. . . . General Notices

Graduate Students Each student in the graduate college who expects to receive the master's degree or the doctorate at the forthcoming convocation June 5, is requested, so far as he or she may not have done so heretofore, to procure for use immediately the official transcript of whatever graduate work he may have accomplished in another graduate school; so that this may be taken into account in determining whether he or she fulfills the requirements for the higher degree sought.

This should be done immediately; otherwise, it is possible that we shall be unable to certify for graduation next June a student who may have accomplished satisfactory graduate work elsewhere, because we shall not have received the requisite official statement of it early enough.

H. C. DORCAS, Registrar

June Graduates Every student who expects to receive a degree or a certificate at the university convocation Monday, June 5, 1939, should make his formal application on a card provided for the purpose at the registrar's office on or before Thursday, March 30.

It is of the utmost importance that each student concerned comply with this request immediately, for otherwise it is very likely that, although he may be qualified in other respects, he will not be recommended for graduation at the close of the present semester.

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

An elbow is stiff when there is limitation of motion of the joint. That seems a fairly obvious definition, but it is not quite as redundant as it sounds.

The elbow joint is formed by the articulation of three bones, one bone of the upper arm and two bones of the lower arm. Its motion may be up and down like that of a hinge, so that the fist touches the shoulder, or it may permit motion of the forearm over and back so that the palm can be turned upward or downward. Normally, the elbow may be bent to 45 degrees and extended 180 and through 180 degrees. Any limitation of these movements can be called a stiff elbow. The amount of stiffness will range from complete lack of motion to slight limitation.

Stiff Elbow The causes of stiff elbow are injuries and infections. Injuries are sprains, fractures, dislocation, separation of the small bones called epiphyses, which have not united (this, of course, occurs only in children), hemorrhage into the joint, rupture of muscles, or an injury of the bursae around the joint. Sometimes a piece of cartilage gets loose and gets inside the joint. The infections which cause stiff elbow are tuberculosis, pus infections and various forms of arthritis.

Fractures of the elbow are quite serious and the outlook for restoration to full function is not good.

Fractures of the elbow in children, however, offer a much better outlook than in adults. After the fracture has been united, prolonged manipulation, massage, active and passive movements, and heat are necessary to restore the function.

"Tennis Elbow" Sprains of the elbow are not common. Usually they occur from playing games in which a racket or bat is held in the hand. "Tennis elbow" is typical of this. This is really an inflammation of the bursa or pad around the elbow. Pain and tenderness are in the region of the tip of the elbow joint. This is where the bursa is. The pain is such that the individual cannot grasp a racket firmly, and is especially acute when he attempts to rotate the forearm.

Treatment of this type of elbow is by rest, heat, baking massage and avoidance of movements which produce pain. Sometimes it is severe enough to warrant the application of a splint or plaster cast, and even operation for the removal of the bursa.

Minn. Gophers To Invade Iowa Court Monday

Capt. Ben Stephens To Make Final Cage Appearance in Game

End of the season and farewell to Captain Ben Stephens, Hawk-eye all-time scoring record-holder, both occur here Monday evening when the University of Iowa basketball team plays the wabbling Minnesota quintet.

Minnesota a month ago was conference leader, but since has dropped four of five games and now ranks fourth with six wins and five losses.

It's the hope of the Hawkeyes to touch off more offensive fireworks such as blasted Northwestern in the first half last Monday but they must circumvent one of the Big Ten's best defensive teams which has held opponents to an average of 31 points.

Stevens, who has 199 points for the season and 118 for third place in the Big Ten race, will be the target of Minnesota attention, for he scored 20 of Iowa's 29 points in the game at Minneapolis when the Gophers won, 36 to 29.

Illinois Matmen At Fieldhouse This Afternoon

Seeking the first Hawkeye mat victory in history over an Illinois team, Mike Howard's wrestlers, with Wilbur Nead, Kenny Kingsbury and Billy Sherman in the toughest roles, take their turn on the fieldhouse athletic stage at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Nead, who will be after the Big Ten heavyweight title in a few days, has on his hands another gridders, and a tackle like himself. John Sikich, left tackle on the Illinois football team last fall, is claimed to be as tough as his name sounds.

Kingsbury, winner of two matches this season while losing one and tying one, takes on Emmons in the 136 pound battle, while Sherman faces Dave Helman, who ended up third in the conference meet last year.

Other high rating mat on the invaders' squad is Capt. Archie Deutschman, Big Ten 136-pound champ last year and runner-up in the NCAA meet. Now a 145 pounder, the Illinois leader faces the fast improving Louis George.

Along with the return of Sherman and Kingsbury to the Iowa lineup, there is the cheering possibility that Capt. Carl Vergamini might possibly be able to start, although he may be held out until the conference meet. If Vergamini does not wrestle, Xavier Leonard will hold down the 175 pound spot.

The other three Iowa starters will be Merrill Johnson in the 165, Clarence Kemp, 155, and Phil Millen, 128.

Meet Cancelled MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A dual wrestling meet between Minnesota and Cornell college of Mt. Vernon, Ia., scheduled for the Minnesota fieldhouse Saturday, was cancelled last night on the request of Cornell, Dave Bartelma, Minnesota coach, announced. Colds and injuries to some of the Cornell wrestlers caused the cancellation.

Gridders in Routine Work Iowa Candidates Striving for Perfection Of Notre Dame Shift

With about two months of the toughest kind of work to look forward to, Iowa's grid candidates are settling down into the routine which is intended to send them onto the field next fall.

Coach Anderson and his aids, Jim Harris and Frank Carideo, are at present striving to instill the fundamentals of the Notre Dame style of play into Iowa athletes, who, for the most part, have some knowledge of the system from high school playing days.

However, the timing which is so essential to perfect execution of the shift, is causing the coaches some little concern. Carideo is working the backs into the shift, concentrating on split-second precision. Blocking assignments after the ball is in play will be taught candidates later.

Dr. Anderson hasn't as yet indicated whether he will put the team on exhibition in a spring game. The spring intra-squad tilt last year attracted something like 4,000 spectators.

Anderson once again called attention to the fact that candidates who wait until fall to report will have more than a little trouble making the squad. The added experience of those who are out for spring drill will weigh heavily in their favor when the grid season rolls around.

Mile Relay Team Has Another Try at Board Track Competition

Another venture on the boards, this time in the Chicago relays of March 25, will be made by the University of Iowa's mile relay team which placed fourth in the National A.A.U. championships in New York city.

The Hawkeyes will appear in a match race on the track at the International Amphitheater. Opponent of the Iowans has not yet been announced. The race will be one and one-eleventh miles, each man running three full laps to avoid confusion in the exchange zones.

The Iowans ran 3:18.8 in a time trial over the mile route before they went to New York and on the Madison Square garden track won their qualifying heat in the 1600-meter relay in 3:20.2 and ran 3:19.7 in the final.

It is likely that the team will comprise Fred and Carl Teufel, John Graves and Milton Billig, the same combination which raced in New York and which set a Drake relays record of 3:15.4 last year. Ed McCollister is the fifth quarter miler who will try to displace one of the regulars.

Several Iowans may be invited to compete in special events. These include John Collinge, the hurdler who placed second in the hurdle event in the 1938 meet; and Dale Roberts, who has cleared 12 feet in the pole vault.

The meet, which is sponsored by the Chicago Daily News, will be the final indoor affair for the Iowans. First outdoor appearance will be April 22 when the mile team will defend its title at the Kansas relays.

Far from conceding any entry a solid chance for victory, expert opinion was widely divided between Kayak, Cravat, Gosum, Today, Wiches, Specific, Jacola, and possibly Congressman, Heelfy, Sorteado, Thanksgiving and Main Man.

Score by quarters: Iowa City 10 24 31 42 Williamsburg 3 7 15 24

By EVERETT FEAY Daily Iowan Sports Reporter MARENGO, March 3 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—Scoring at will in a big first half, the fast-moving Little Hawks from Iowa City high school rolled over Williamsburg 42-24 here last night to gain the right to enter the finals of the sectional tournament tonight. The game will start at 8:45 p.m.

The Hawkeyets held the upper hand all the way in their third victory of the season from the Raiders. Working smoothly on the defense and pouring in buckets on the offense, the Red and White cagers held a 24-7 advantage at the end of the half. Repeating the feat they accomplished at the expense of Iowa Falls last week, the Hawkeyets held the Iowa county boys to one field goal in each of the first two quarters.

Captain Russell Hirt led the Iowa City scorers with 13 points—six baskets and one free throw. Cook led for the losers with four goals and two free tosses for 10. George Devine and Ted McLaughlin each dropped in four baskets to total eight points apiece.

Inability to hit from the free throw line prevented the Hawkeyets from piling up a greater score. They missed ten of the 12 chances they had.

George Devine, elongated guard, sustained a severe bruise on his right leg but it is not expected to keep him from tonight's tussle with Marengo.

Iowa City started fast and at the end of the quarter was ahead by a 10-3 margin. In the early part of the second period, Hirt, McLaughlin and Buckley collaborated in a scoring spree that sent the Iowa City team into a 20-3 lead before the Raiders made good on a free throw. The Iowa City reserves finished the half.

In the third quarter the Raiders outscored the Iowa City boys, 8-7 when their long shots began to connect. With the game safely tucked away, Merten used his reserves most of the last period.

Cornell Matmen Hurt in Wreck

CEDAR RAPIDS, March 3 (AP)—Three Cornell wrestling stars were injured, one of them critically, late Friday when the car in which they were riding crashed into the rear of a Keeshin Motor Express semi-trailer truck on highway No. 30, seven miles west of Cedar Rapids, as the car skidded on the wet pavement.

Bob Murray, 22, son of Mrs. R. B. Murray of Davenport, and a Cornell sophomore hope for the Olympics, suffered a punctured right lung, skull fractures, fractured ribs, lower jaw and collar bone and a severe gash on neck and face. His condition was reported at a local hospital late Friday night as "very serious."

Marcus Daley, 20, of Havre, Mont., Cornell sophomore and wrestler, suffered a possible brain concussion and numerous cuts. Gene Tornquist, 19, of Mitchellville had a brain concussion and cuts on face and hands.

Snead Whips Picard ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Sammy Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., won the St. Petersburg open golf championship here today, defeating Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., in a 25-hole playoff.

Snead's hard-won victory gave him top money of $700 and his first major tournament victory of many weeks, although he was the leading money winner of 1938. Michigan State 7, West Virginia 1.

Another Pitt Grid Coach Resigns Job

PITTSBURGH, March 3 (AP)—Once-powerful Pitt has lost another member of its coaching staff and the question heard round the campus today was: "Who's next?"

Alex Fox, one of the smallest and one of the best of many good guards who played football at Pitt, is the fourth member of Coach John Bein Sutherland's teaching staff to leave the university since the close of the 1938 campaign.

Rumors immediately got into the wind that the next to leave might be Sutherland himself, but there was no one who professed to know anything definite about the situation. Sutherland repeatedly denied similar reports, but expressed discouragement over next season's prospects.

The Sun-Telegraph said there was an unconfirmed report that Sutherland "received and is considering an offer to take over the head coaching post at Mississippi State college." To which Sutherland replied: "There's hardly anything to that."

Whatever happens, any prospect that existed at Pitt for a traditionally strong eleven next season seemed to be dimming.

Fox was a good right arm to Sutherland; helped him build those powerful lines. He quit to go sell cement.

MAJOR LEAGUE CAMPS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Maybe it's because Mickey Owen is still a holdout, but General Manager Branch Rickey said today if there was a good catcher on the market the St. Louis Cardinals would be glad to purchase him.

The youthful Owen, who was the Cards' No. 1 back-stopper last year, is demanding $15,000 for his signature.

With several members of the squad, including Hurler Paul Dean, reporting today, the club's absences have been reduced to Owen, Herman Franks, another catcher, and Joe Medwick and Harold Epps, outfielders. Medwick is also refusing to sign.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 3 (AP)—One difference at the St. Louis Browns' training camp here is that between a star and a would-be-star.

Buck Newsum, who won 20 games for a seventh place club last season, is nowhere in sight since the Browns have rejected his demands for about $20,000. But a pitcher named Bill Higgs,

Ohio State And Indiana Stay In Title Race

CHICAGO, March 3 (AP)—The Big Ten basketball champion will be crowned tomorrow night, climaxing two months of intensive warfare, with five teams in the race until a week ago.

Now only two teams remain in contention, Indiana and Ohio State. The title battle must end in one of three ways: a championship for Indiana or Ohio State, or a tie between the two. Indiana invades Ann Arbor to play Michigan, tied for the cellar, while Ohio State enters Purdue at Columbus.

Both the Hoosiers and Buckeyes have lost two of 11 games. The Purdue-Ohio State game figures to be much closer than the Indiana-Michigan game, mainly because the Hoosiers handed the Buckeyes their first defeat in 10 games last Monday.

Purdue is in fourth place with six victories and four defeats; but to win over the Bucks must find a way to curb the basket-shooting of Forward Jimmy Hill, Ohio captain, who scored 38 points in his last two games.

LOS ANGELES, March 3 (AP)—Eighteen candidates were named to make up the cast as the stage was set tonight for the presentation of the richest turf extravaganza in America—the fifth running of the $100,000 added Santa Anita handicap tomorrow.

A crowd of 60,000 or more, another "million dollar" betting day and a fast track were in prospect as the following candidates were named to go postward in the mile and one quarter event:

Kayak II, 110; Cravat, 120; Wiches, 112; Heelfy, 117; Specific, 115; Jacola, 119; Gosum, 110; Today, 112; Sorteado, 124; Thanksgiving, 118; Congressman, 110; Main Man, 117; Quick Devil, 109; Amor Brujo, 108; Frexo, 106; Olimpo, 114; War Minstrel, 112; and Melodist, 105.

Kayak II, owned by C. S. Howard and the San Francisco sportsman's best bet since the withdrawal of his Seabiscuit, rated the general favorite. With a record of eight victories in 11 starts and never a finish out of the money, the South American horse seemed to justify the betting odds of 4-1. Jockey Johnny Adams was named to ride Kayak II.

Rated just back of this Argentine-bred 4-year-old was Townsend B. Martin's Cravat, also at 4 to 1, which gained following by a terrific stretch dash that made up 12 lengths on the winner in the San Antonio handicap last Saturday. It was Cravat's first start at Santa Anita and veteran Alfred Robertson will be back in the saddle.

Far from conceding any entry a solid chance for victory, expert opinion was widely divided between Kayak, Cravat, Gosum, Today, Wiches, Specific, Jacola, and possibly Congressman, Heelfy, Sorteado, Thanksgiving and Main Man.

Prophets said tomorrow's weather probably would be "unsettled," but added a reassuring note that no rain was expected.

Marshalltown Girl Marries Iowa Alumnus

Elizabeth Brown Weds Dr. Gilbert L. Pegg Wednesday Evening

Before a fireplace banked with palms, ferns and candleabra in the home they planned and built for themselves, Elizabeth Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Brown, and Dr. Gilbert L. Pegg, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pegg of Marshalltown, were married by the Rev. P. G. Dennis at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

The couple were attended by Mrs. Earl Romjue and Ralph Regg, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride wore a frock of navy blue trimmed with dusky rose with a matching jacket and hat of dusky rose. Mrs. Romjue wore a plum-colored frock with black accessories.

Following the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served twenty guests. A three-tiered wedding cake decorated with a miniature bride centered the serving table.

Mrs. Pegg was graduated from the Marshalltown high school, she has been serving as office manager of the Fante's department store in Marshalltown for the past four years.

Dr. Pegg was graduated from the Marshalltown high school and from the university college of dentistry in 1933. While at the university, he was affiliated with Delta Sigma Delta dental fraternity.

After a wedding trip by motor, Dr. and Mrs. Pegg will be at home at 309 S. Tenth street, Marshalltown.

Address, Slides On Vegetation Presented Yesterday at Union

"The Primeval virgin forests of South America are not jungles as they are popularly considered," explained Prof. G. W. Martin of the university botany department speaking yesterday afternoon on "South American Vegetation" at a meeting of the Pan-American league in the north conference room of Iowa Union.

"The true jungle," Professor Martin continued, "is strictly speaking the impenetrable growth which springs up after a fire or when man, by means of agriculture, has destroyed the original 'rain forest'."

Pointing out that rainfall, altitude and temperature are the important factors in determining plant growth, he described the wide variety of plants found in relatively small areas.

Professor Martin then showed slides which he took during his stay in Panama and in Colombia.

After Professor Martin's talk, Mrs. George E. Kay reported on the activities of the mother chapter which she recently visited in Miami, Fla.

Midwest Contestants to End Forensic Tournament Today

Hastings First, SUI Second In Oratory Finals

Van Dyke, M. Miller Get Highest Ratings In Original Contest

More than 80 intercollegiate debaters from 19 colleges in 11 states will bring to a close their three-day program of intensive competition in speech this morning.

Only results announced yesterday gave Merle Miller, A3 of Marshalltown, a second place in the contest in original oratory. First place winner was Russell Van Dyke of Hastings college in Hastings, Neb.

Results of competition in men's and women's discussion, extemporaneous speaking, after dinner speaking and debate will follow a dinner at noon today in Iowa Union.

Today's competition will be only in the debate division; men and women will begin to gather at

Before Competition Began in After Dinner Speaking

Competition in after dinner speaking is only one of the many events in which midwest debaters are participating in the tournament which ends today on the Iowa campus. Prof. Harry G. Barnes of the speech department, standing, was toastmaster at a dinner last night in Iowa Union. He introduced 12 after dinner speakers, who competed for places in the event. At the left of Professor Barnes is Elaine Pagel, G of Egan, S. D., toastmistress last night. Carl Lundquist of Sioux Falls college and Jay Wiltzie of Northern Illinois State Teachers college in De Kalb, Ill., right, were two of the after dinner speakers. Lundquist was also a finalist in the original orators' competition. Complete results of speaking performances will be announced at a dinner this noon in Iowa Union.

Art Exhibition Selects Picture By Juan Gris

'Still-Life' Is New Selection For Month Of Art Department

For its new "Object of the Month" the art department has chosen a painting that combines aesthetic appeal with considerable historical interest — "Still Life."

Its author, Juan Gris, takes his place alongside Picasso and Braque as one of the co-founders of Cubism, the most important movement of twentieth century art. Born in Madrid in 1887 he came to Paris in 1906 and soon became one of the leaders in the pioneering group of painters who had set out to conquer new and unexplored realms of vision.

Reticent and aristocratic in his personal bearing, Juan Gris was for a long time in danger of being eclipsed by his great compatriot, the dazzling brilliant Picasso, and only the comprehensive exhibitions of his life's work that followed his premature death in 1927 have established his full importance.

The "Still-Life" currently on exhibition at the Fine Art building, from the collection of Mrs. Flora Scholfield of Chicago, was done by Gris in 1913 and represents what may be regarded as the "classic" phrase of Cubism. The earliest years in the history of the new movement, after its inception in 1905-06, had seen a determined shattering of conventional reality; perspective, as the greatest obstacle to the constructive imagination of the artist, was abandoned completely, and the three-dimensional solidity of the objects themselves dissolved into a multitude of facets.

The style of the 1910's reassembled these fragments into a new harmony of form and color; it is this stage that the Gris "Still-Life" represents. Its author has dealt with reality in a thoroughly sovereign manner; his aim is not to depict the few simple and common-place objects that make up the still-life but to bring them into harmonious formal relationship.

Prof. H. S. Booth To Present Chemistry Lecture Tuesday With Motion Pictures, Slides

Faculty Man From Western Reserve U. To Discuss Hobby

Speaks Tuesday

Prof. H. S. Booth of the chemistry department at Western Reserve university, Cleveland, Ohio, will speak on the subject "Chemistry Through the Microscope" Tuesday evening in the chemistry auditorium.

The talk will be illustrated with motion pictures showing the technique of the processes, and lantern slides in natural color will show crystals as they appear under the microscope by various methods of illumination including polarized light and fluorescent illumination.

Professor Booth has always had chemical microscopy for a hobby. His deep interest in photography has given him a natural outlet for this hobby.

Professor Booth's major research is in the subject of gases. He has worked particularly in fluorine gases, having discovered some 20 new gaseous chlorofluorides. In 1937 he surprised the chemical world by announcing the discovery of compounds of argon and boron fluoride. These compounds were obtained under pressure and at very low temperatures.

Professor Booth is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and has been successively secretary-treasurer, vice-chairman and chairman of the Division of Physical and Inorganic Chemistry, the latter of which positions he now holds.

After graduation from Western Reserve university, Professor Booth was a du Pont fellow at Cornell university, from which institution he received his Ph.D. in 1919. Since then he has been on the faculty of Western Reserve university. He was the editor of Inorganic Syntheses during 1933.

Professor Booth has published numerous scientific papers in the fields of inorganic chemistry, electrochemistry, chemical microscopy, fluoride gases, gas densities, and physical constants of gases.

The Detroit Chemist for January, 1936, wrote the following of Professor Booth's lecture on "Chemistry Through the Microscope" which was given before the Detroit section of the American Chemical society: "Occasionally we have the unusual pleasure of listening to a speaker outstanding in his field, who combines the rare ability of exposition with a refreshing sense of humor. Such a speaker was Dr. H. S. Booth."

"In the presentation of his subject, 'Chemistry Through the Microscope,' Dr. Booth gave us a brief glimpse into the fascinating field of chemical microscopy, and with this glimpse a convincing proof of its utility that left but little room for doubt.

"Chemical microscopy is a field which has been shamefully neglected by most chemists. This would not be the case, however, were there more of the able and enthusiastic kind of missionary such as we have in Dr. Booth."

"The motion pictures shown by Dr. Booth, illustrating and explaining various phases of the technique, give evidence of long hours of painstaking care and work. These, together with the beautiful Lumiere color slides, were thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated by members and particularly by those who pursue amateur photography as a hobby."

The Iowa City lecture by Professor Booth is being sponsored by the graduate college and the Iowa student section of the American Chemical society.

No Baby Stuff for Children on WSUI

Programs Feature Music, Travel, History in Place of Gang Thrills

"And so goodnight, kiddies Uncle Henry will be back again tomorrow night to tell you another bedtime story."

No such thing is heard over the Children's Hour at radio station WSUI for most of the programs are original scripts and have advanced beyond the bedtime-story stage. These children's programs are heard from 7 to 7:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Stories are told, information is presented, music is played—all with the purpose of entertaining children and still doing programs of some consequence, according to Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger, assistant professor of speech in charge.

"WSUI is attempting to keep the attention of children without resorting to thriller serials, which are at present subject to so much criticism," says Professor Harshbarger. "One mother I know objects to one nationally - heard thriller because her small son refuses to go out and get the wood before he has heard the program—for fear he will miss part of it—and after he has listened to the serial, he is afraid to go."

Nine radio students are engaged in writing programs for WSUI's Children's Hour.

Lois Ann Russell, A1 of Bagley, is the author of the running script "The Oodle Club" at 7 p.m. Monday. The story concerns a club of children and their activities. The name of the club was originated from the fact that the members have "oodles" of fun. The script has been running since September.

Following "The Oodle Club" on Monday nights, Ethel Kaspar, A3 of Iowa City, writes and broadcasts the stories of the childhoods of famous men and women. Helen Keller, Thomas Edison and Toscanini are among those whose stories have appeared in the 15-minute scripts.

Jimmy Nelson, E3 of Anita, broadcasts "Uncle Jimmy and the Boys" at 7 p.m. on Tuesdays. Nelson writes the script and also takes the roles of all characters in the show. The script is an informal nature study and has been continuous since the beginning of the fall term.

True adventure stories out of history are prepared and broadcast by Dorothea Guenther, A2 of Davenport, at 7:15 p.m. Tuesdays.

On Wednesday nights at 7, Rosann Shamler, A2 of Cedar Rapids reads stories from United States history, and her program is followed by story reading by Edith Foth, G of Topeka, Kans.

Madelyn Miles, A3 of Clear Lake, is the author of a serial fantasy broadcast at 7 p.m. Thursdays. The story is "The Land O' Gleen," characterized by two children and their mother, who will not smile until they find the pearl of great happiness for her. In their search they meet windmills, animals, copper kettles, etc., all of whom speak over the air.

A travel program which takes listeners all over the United States is heard at 7:15 p.m. Thursdays. Mary Fellbaum, G of San Antonio, Tex., writes the script and broadcasts it.

Dorothy Hoops, A4 of Galva, presents a half-hour musical appreciation program every Friday from 7 to 7:30 p.m. The program includes not only stories about the composers and their works but also recordings of their music.

The programs at 7:15 p.m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays are broadcast from the television station W9XX in the electrical engineering building.

Pharmacists Present Drug Display This Week

War demands drugs; prices soar!

Carrying out a theme of the world-wide demand for drugs during a war, this week's pharmacy display window shows the great price increase in some of the common drug supplies during the World War.

Potassium nitrate, a drug used in making explosives as well as in medicines, increased in price 300 per cent. Cod liver oil made a total increase of 316 per cent. Quinine and alum were close behind with increases of 290 and 243 per cent respectively. Other notable increases of common necessities were: camphor, 111 per cent; castor oil, 100 per cent; and hydrogen peroxide, 132 per cent.

On the wall at the back of the display is a large drug map of the world showing the origin and derivation of imported medicinal preparations. In keeping with the idea of war, there is a stack of rifles on each side of the display of drugs.

The display also features the drug ephedrine, which is extracted from a vegetable plant growing in China and Japan. It is shown that since the war in China has been in progress, especially during the period from August, 1936, to August, 1937, the price of the drug increased 300 per cent. Ephedrine is used in nasal preparations.

Pharmacy students who installed the display are Frederick F. Drumm, P2 of Delmar; Wilson Kouba, P2 of Luzerne, and Richard H. Johnson, P2 of Washington.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX
TWENTY questions I had compiled. And I did not know the answer to one of them!—my hand holding the pencil stopped in mid-air, for a scream, the scream of a woman in mortal agony, echoed through the house!

My knees were so weak they doubled under me at every step.

peering helplessly, hopelessly at a shapeless blanketed bundle that bounced crazily from step to step until, at last, it came to a sudden, still stop in the hallway below.

I shrieked! I must have shrieked, for suddenly on all sides doors opened. Upstairs and down. McIntyre, his coatails flying, rushed from the library followed by Phil and Chief Ellis. Men and women flooded the corridor. I half walked, half crawled down the stairs. My knees were so weak they doubled under me at every step.

"Dear God! It's Eliza!" Daphne, her face a white mask of horror, whispered the words. "She's done for!" The chief knelt beside the blanketed bundle. "She's dead?" A man's voice whispered the words. Mr. Richard stood beside me. His dazed eyes wandered around the enclosing circle.

"What—what is it?" Mr. Horace appeared seemingly from nowhere. "She's dying!" Ellis arose. "Call a doctor, someone!"

"Dying? Who is dying?" Mr. Horace did not understand. He looked from McIntyre to Ellis. The former said softly:

"It's Eliza, Mr. Witherspoon. She is dying. I think—I think she must have fallen down the stairs!"

"Fallen!" The chief laughed shortly. "She was pushed, more than likely! Is anyone going to call a doctor?"

"I'll—I'll phone my physician." Mr. Horace pulled himself together and ran into the library.

"O. K! Benson, give me a hand."

tripped on the blanket!"

"Of course!" Daphne came forward. "She must have tripped! Why should anyone have pushed her down the stairs?"

Ellis said darily: "Maybe she knew a thing or two! Well, is she alive?" he demanded as Phil and Jeffrey Todington came down from above.

Phil was sober-faced. "She's alive," he said, and I sighed in relief. But he went on, adding something: "She regained consciousness for a moment. She—she said something—"

"She did!" Ellis was jubilant. "Well, out with it!"

"She said," Phil began, and the silent circle of men and women involuntarily closed in upon him, "she said these words: 'He did it!'"

"So!" The chief exhaled loudly. "Did she mention a name?"

Phil shook his head. "She lapsed into a coma."

"Well, she said enough!" Ellis moved toward Richard Witherspoon. "The only 'he' around when she went down was sonny, here!"

Mac protested: "Don't make a mistake, chief! You have no definite proof!"

"Proof enough! The boy pushed her down as sure as I'm standing here! Why, he was caught red handed!"

I interrupted: "But you must be wrong! If he had pushed her, he wouldn't have waited to be caught red-handed. He would have run away!" I was sick at what I, in my folly, had done. If only I had not been so eager, Ellis would never have known of Richard's presence at the head of the stairs. I did not believe Daphne's brother guilty. Not for one minute! Someone else had pushed Eliza! Someone who had done it quickly, silently, and then had fled.

"That's beside the point!" Ellis was convinced of the truth of his own deductions. "Probably the lad was too scared to run."

"I didn't do it! Before God I didn't!" Richard was half-crazed with fear and shock.

"Come along, son!"

"You—you aren't arresting him!" Daphne shielded him with her body. "You aren't taking him away!"

"It's the law—"

"Please!" She implored him. "He is innocent! You haven't proved a thing!"

"That's for a jury to decide."

"I wouldn't pull him in so fast, if I were you!"

"What?" Ellis spun on his heel. "Toots Lemoine, arms akimbo, stood behind him."

"You heard me! He didn't shove the old girl down the stairs!"

"He didn't, eh?"

"No, he didn't!"

"Oh, are you certain?" Daphne's despair yielded to hopefulness.

"Sure, I'm certain!" Toots shot her a glance of scorn. "Richard was with me—in my room!"

"Yes! I was with Miss Lemoine in her room!" the boy affirmed eagerly. "I was in her room when I first heard the scream!"

"Is that so?" Ellis pursed his lips; he frowned. I held my breath. "Well," he said hesitatingly, "why didn't you say so in the first place?"

Toots shrugged: "The kid's got screwy ideas, copper. He thinks being in a lady's room ain't nice!"

"Well, it isn't!" Ellis scowled. His hesitancy yielded to certainty. "Perhaps he was there, and perhaps he wasn't! And just to make sure, I'll take the two of you down for good measure. Then, all three of us can have a nice, quiet little chat—in jail!"

"My God!" sounded the voice of Mr. Horace.

George H. Bouck Resigns Post As Third Ward Alderman

Reports His Business 'Needs Full Time'; Given Beer Permit

Recreational Center Asks More Funds To Continue Work

George H. Bouck last night submitted his resignation as third ward alderman to the mayor and members of the city council at their meeting in the council chambers of the city hall. His resignation was unanimously received.

Bouck, who has worked only intermittently with the council in recent meetings, said that his business conditions require his undivided time and that he could not do justice to both positions at the same time.

Officially resigned, Bouck was granted a class B beer permit and cigarette license for his establishment, Hilltop tavern, 1100 N. Dodge street.

Harry Bremer, chairman of the Iowa City recreational center committee, Eugene Trowbridge, director, and several others of the committee requested the mayor and city council to write for additional government funds to finance work at the new recreational center now under process of construction at the Iowa City community building.

The motion that such a letter be written to George J. Keller, Iowa WPA administrator, was unanimously carried.

"More funds are necessary before we can continue," Bremer said.

Monthly report from the police department revealed that during the month of February 264 traffic violations were recorded, 27 intoxication charges, 20 auto accidents and 12 juvenile cases.

H. J. Monk, city inspector, in his report recommended minor repairs on the city hall, city garage and scale house.

Fire losses during February, according to information submitted by Fire Chief J. J. Clark, amounted approximately to $1,003, all of which was covered by insurance.

Rev. Dalton Arrives in Iowa City; Is New Pastor at Christian Church

The Rev. John Bruce Dalton, new pastor of the Christian church, who arrived in Iowa City Thursday from Peninsula, Ohio, will begin his duties at the 10:45 services tomorrow morning.

He was accompanied by his wife and daughter, Donna, 12. They will reside at 1011 E. Washington street.

In Ohio the Rev. Mr. Dalton was pastor of the First Christian church. Previous to that he was pastor at the First Christian church in Buffalo, N. Y., and Central Christian church in San Antonio, Tex.

The Rev. Mr. Dalton, a graduate of Yale Divinity college, spent his early life in Iowa.

The general program of the initial service tomorrow will include an organ prelude, "Serenade" by Widor. This will be followed by a choral chant and a hymn. Other musical interludes will be "The King of Love My Shepherd Is" by Shelley; communion hymn, number 111; an offertory, "God is a Spirit" by Bennett; a solo; invitation hymn, No. 51, and an organ postlude, "Triumphal March" by Wachs.

Interspersed among the hymns will be a prayer, a doxology, presentation of gifts, benediction, and the sermon, "The Second Mile," by the new pastor.

Sunday school services will be held at 9:45 a.m. Announcement of the week's program was made by the Rev. Mr. Dalton yesterday.

Christian Endeavor will meet at 6 p.m. tomorrow in the Kappa Beta house, 226 S. Lucas street. The Rachel Carroll Missionary society meeting scheduled for Monday evening has been postponed indefinitely.

The Sara Hart Missionary guild will meet at the home of Doris Lake, 208 E. Fairchild, at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. The Ladies Aid society will meet at Mrs. Carrie Chapman's home, 508 Brown street, Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Democrats, Republicans Will Have City Conventions; Neither Will Make Any Nominations

Rep. Morrison Invited to Farm Board Meeting

State Rep. W. F. Morrison, Iowa City, and State Senator F. C. Schadt, Williamsburg, were invited to attend the monthly meeting of the Johnson county farm bureau board of directors, Emmett C. Gardner, county agent, announced yesterday. The group will meet at 7:30 tonight in the farm bureau office.

Agricultural bills before the state legislature will be discussed at the meeting.

Officers Will Be Elected for Coming Two-Year Period

City conventions for the republican and democratic parties will be held in Iowa City next Saturday, City Clerk Grover Watson announced yesterday.

The city council chambers in the city hall will be the scene of the democratic city convention, and the republicans will meet in the courtroom of the Johnson County courthouse. Both conventions are scheduled for 11 a.m.

The only business to be taken care of by the convention is to elect officers for the next two-year period. There are no nominations to be made by the conventions; all the democratic candidates in the city primary Monday were nominated, and the republicans did not enter a ticket.

Prof. Roy C. Flickinger is chairman of the present city republican central committee, and Charles Chansky is the acting chairman of the democratic central committee.

The state law provides that the city clerk will call the conventions after each city primary election to fill any offices where the candidates in the primary failed to obtain 35 per cent of the votes necessary for nomination.

Mrs. Helmer To Be Buried This Morning

Funeral service for Mrs. Marguerite E. Helmer, 83, 1106 N. Dodge street, who died Thursday night at a local hospital, will be held at 9 o'clock this morning in St. Mary's church. Burial will be at St. Joseph's cemetery.

Born in Europe, Mrs. Helmer came to the United States early in life. She married Joseph Helmer Oct. 15, 1871, in St. Mary's church.

Survivors include a daughter, Mary E. Helmer, Iowa City, and a grandchild. Her husband preceded her in death in 1904.

The body is at the Hohenschuh mortuary.

Optometrists To Hear Hottel

Local Doctor Will Discuss 'Orthoptics' Before Association

Dr. James Hottel, local optometrist, will discuss "Orthoptics" and "Refraction" before a meeting of the southeastern central zone of the Iowa Optometric association in Cedar Rapids Monday night, it was announced yesterday.

Orthoptics, exercising the eyes frequently over a long period of time, has been one of Dr. Hottel's special lines of work in the past two years.

"Since all is not known about orthoptics," Dr. Hottel said, "we compare ideas and suggestions at such meetings as these in order that general knowledge may be more wide-spread and increased."

'Moving' Town Saga in Revue

'The Palimpsest' Describes Transporting Fifty Buildings Two Miles

Harboring high hopes of becoming a great commercial center, the town of Sheldahl was established in 1874 on the route of a narrow-gauge railroad connecting Des Moines with Ames.

Five years later the North Western purchased the Ames-Des Moines road and rebuilt it on a standard gauge. Although a rich commercial future seemed imminent, complaints of discriminations between Sheldahl and other towns soon arose. A few of the more prominent residents objected to the railroad route.

At this juncture, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul company proposed to extend its line to Omaha. Originally the plan of the Milwaukee called for crossing the North Western at a point about 80 rods north of the central part of the town of Sheldahl. Final surveys, however, fixed the actual junction a mile and a half north of Sheldahl.

Deeply disappointed at this decision, many Sheldahl citizens determined to move their homes and business establishments to the new site where a Mr. Jenks had already set up Sheldahl Crossing.

Oley Nelson moved his general store and grain elevator to the new location. Later in the same year (1887) others joined the procession. The story of the town that moved is told by Dr. James A. Storing in the February issue of "The Palimpsest," the monthly publication of the State Historical Society of Iowa.

In 1888 many more buildings were moved. The procedure was to mount the buildings on "trucks" and pull the load with the aid of a circular horsepower. Immediately ahead of the building itself the road was planned.

Although it proved a laborious task, many of the larger buildings, including the grain elevator, were moved the full two miles in from seven to 10 days with only a single horse.

Some 50 odd buildings had been moved by the close of 1888. The new community was renamed Slater.
