German Leaders Indicate Nazi Foreign Policy Points Toward Domination of Balkan States

Turn of Events In Czech Government Influences Decision

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
BERLIN, March 11 (AP)—Germany has set her face determinedly eastward again after a brief period of seeming indecision.

This is the conclusion this correspondent has reached after two days of careful questioning of many responsible men in Germany.

Replies of these men indicate that domination of the Balkans is the present objective of the nazi government's foreign policy.

Events in Czechoslovakia (where Slovak separatist agitation has led to dismissal of three ministers, including the premier, of the autonomous Slovak government by the president of the republic) appear to have hastened the German decision.

German Objectives

For months the Germany of Adolf Hitler has had five likely objectives under study: first, recovery of her war-lost colonies; second, penetration of southeastern Europe; third, reunion of Memel and Danzig, taken away by the treaty of Versailles, with the Reich; fourth, help to Italy in her Mediterranean aspirations; fifth, an understanding with France.

None could tell when German power politics would be turned to realization of any of these objectives. That is Hitler's way. He likes to let events ripen and then seize an opportunity with lightning rapidity before others have made up their minds.

Seizes Opportunities

President Emil Hacha of the Czechoslovak central government, by cracking down on the leaders of the autonomous Slovaks, gave Hitler one of these chances.

A little over a year ago Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria gave him a sudden opportunity by a sudden call for an Austrian plebiscite after he had received very different orders in a talk with Hitler.

The result was anschluss of Austria and Germany—the first anniversary of which greater Germany celebrates Monday, with Hitler attending ceremonies in Vienna. Schuschnigg was taken into custody, and still is detained.

Czechs Reach Crisis

Now the Czechs apparently have put themselves in a position where they eventually either will have to rescind the action of President Hacha and grant the Slovaks whatever they demand or risk being snuffed out as an independent state by their great German neighbor.

Germans took a strong view of the current Czechoslovak situation, although a government spokesman said today that Hitler probably would simply observe events for a while before committing himself.

Prevents Putsch

Formation of the new cabinet without a single member of the deposed government meant, on the surface, a complete victory for President Hacha's action in dismissing Premier Tiso and two of his ministers and taking military measures to prevent an alleged independence putsch.

The cabinet was announced after four hours of negotiations in Hradcany castle, President Hacha's home. The new government will face its first test in the Slovak parliament Tuesday, when extremists will have an opportunity to demonstrate whether they can rally sufficient votes to reject it.

CALL BARNUM Pays $110 for 24 Rabbits' Feet

CHICAGO, March 11 (AP)—Mrs. Anna Sirbu has twenty-four rabbits' feet, but she's still out of luck.

They were attached to what she thought were "baby seal skins" sold to her yesterday by a stranger at what he represented as a rock bottom bargain price of only $110.

A companion of the stranger who urged her to buy was to return and pay her $170 for them. He didn't, and the police are pretty certain he won't. The rabbits' feet are worth $4.50.

Dewey Subject Of 1940 Gossip

New York G. O. P. Leaders Figure In Discussion at Capital

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—

The boom for Thomas E. Dewey, Michigan born New Yorker, for the republican presidential nomination in 1940 got fresh impetus this week from an invasion of the capital by top-flight republican state leaders from New York.

There was no open fanfare for Dewey, such as marked the dramatic launching here a year ago of Indiana's boom for Paul V. McNutt for the democratic nomination. The Dewey boomers from New York made it an incognito affair. Nominally they just came down to talk politics with important party figures, in congress and out.

Yet Dewey, absent in person but very much present in 1940 gossip, was the theme dominating all the off-stage discussion of republican presidential ticket available for that year. By pure coincidence, presumably, the subject of all that talk was playing host in New York that same night to former President Hoover and Mrs. Hoover.

Even more significant of the Dewey boom aspects of the New York republican visitation was a "get-acquainted" dinner staged under auspices of two new up-state New York republican members of the house. It was arranged by Representative Pierce and Hall to bring the visitors into personal contact with a hand-picked group of Washington political writers whose observations, taken together, reach a nationwide audience.

In the circumstances, a canvass by such writers of Dewey's availability for highest party honors in 1940 was indicated.

It impressed Washington political observers that party leaders from both up and down state New York participated in the Washington pilgrimage. Kenneth Simpson, national committeeman from New York, and Ed Jaekle of Buffalo, a powerful figure in up-state republican circles, were reported agreed that Dewey was a coming man politically and destined to attract national attention increasingly between now and the 1940 campaigning.

Sentence of 2 Russian Spies To Be Delayed

LOS ANGELES, March 11 (AP)—Sentencing of two Russian-born men convicted yesterday of espionage was delayed today until March 20 to afford time for preparation of a long legal fight to determine just what constitutes danger to the national defense under the espionage act of 1917.

Those convicted are Hafis Salich, 33, naturalized American and former operative of the U.S. naval intelligence service, and Mikhail Gorin, 34, Pacific coast manager of Intourist, society travel agency.

When Parents
Divorce

THE PROBLEMS associated with divorce have long been discussed; the relationship of divorce and college students is brought to the fore by Dean Christian Gauss of Princeton in the current Ladies Home Journal.

Dean Gauss is well aware of the older problems, tragedies in human life. He has found himself from investigation that among college boys, some of divorced parents have only a 25 per cent chance of success, the incidence of delinquency is six times higher than normal, and daughters, of college age, frequently lose all belief in marriage.

Unwittingly Dean Gauss preaches of the importance of a trained, conscientious personnel division in a college; as dean of men at Princeton he has had to dig below surface symptoms to find causes for college delinquency. Too often, perhaps, he has found it to be born in parental disharmony.

Dean Gauss says he is being conservative in saying that divorcing parents reduce the chances of their sons' success in college by about three quarters.

"I had hoped," he writes, "the problem was not so serious for young women." But not so! The president of a well-known woman's college told him, "Trouble is so much more frequent among the students with divorced parents that the psychiatrist makes it her first duty to call in the members of this group, make their acquaintance as unobtrusively as possible, in order to stand by and be prepared to give them that greater degree of assistance which they will probably need."

"I also hoped," Dean Gauss continues, "that in coeducational colleges the freer association of boys and girls would tend to have a normalizing effect and reduce the difficulties. A good friend of mine, the dean of men in a well-known state university, was, however, thoroughly discouraging. We get the problem from both sides, he told me; it wasn't unusual to have a brother and sister in college together, and while he was dealing with son John, his colleague, the dean of women, would be struggling with sister Susan."

In many cases, the writer points out, it is not the divorce itself which causes the trouble. There are parents who hate and fight each other all their lives and remain legally married. Their home life is probably just as bad for their children as divorce.

"It is joint trusteeship for children, and the first duty of every partner in parenthood is to have sufficient unselfishness—charity, the Christian moralists called it—to get along at least on a peace footing with his child's other parent," Dean Gauss concludes.

For colleges there is a challenge in Dean Gauss' words. For administrative officials, it is a challenge to seek to understand, to show sympathy for such students. For students who are victims of easy divorce, it is a challenge to be met with personal adjustment. It is a challenge to all of us to prepare for marriage.

Each year between $500,000 and $700,000 worth of postal money orders are uncashed in the United States. The forgotten orders average $8 each.

In 1930 United States exports to Cuba totaled $93,550,445 and imports $121,949,240; in 1936, the figures were $67,000,000 and $129,000,000, respectively.

It Didn't Work
For the Rabbit!

YOU'VE SEEN them—these rabbit feet—hanging on silvered chains around the necks of University women. You may have carried one yourself in younger days—or even now.

Like most legends and superstitions, the source of the belief that a rabbit's foot will bring luck to its possessor is unknown. You may have carried one yourself in younger days—or even now.

The belief in the power of the rabbit's foot to ward off evil has been one of the most widespread superstitions among Southern Negroes. It spread by contagion to the whites and soon became a fixture in American folklore.

Variations of the superstition are almost innumerable. The orthodox adhere strictly to the belief that only the left hind foot of a rabbit (preferably one caught on a moonlight night by a one-eyed Negro) brings luck to its owner. The less critical are willing to accept any foot from any rabbit.

The latter are in the vast majority; for it is estimated that several million rabbits' feet have been sold as lucky charms in the United States in the last century.

No rabbit, they say, ever suffered from rheumatism, as proved by his agility and speed. The rabbit's foot, if you are a true believer, is a specific for diseases, chief among which is rheumatism.

Some persons believe that the efficacy of the rabbit's foot is dependent upon the animal's being shot with a silver bullet in a graveyard in the dark of the moon.

Still others require that the rabbit be shot on Friday the 13th.

The variety caught by the red-headed, bowlegged Negro is said by the white horse is said by its adherents to be particularly effective in keeping the possessor in funds as long as it is carried in the pocketbook.

There is also the theory that the foot of a rabbit killed on the grave of a wicked person is far more potent than the ordinary garden variety. (The degree of potency is said to vary directly in proportion to the wickedness of the deceased.)

Not only the literate, but the educated classes as well have fallen under the spell of the rabbit charm. Samuel Pepys was a firm believer; skeptics find it impossible to prove to the true believers that a rabbit's foot was not really responsible for the election of Grover Cleveland to the presidency.

We agree there's only one answer good enough for the believers: "It didn't work for the rabbit!"

A European nation is reported as having still another deadlier-than-ever air bomb. If they don't have a war soon they may have to try it out on one of their own cities.

CHURCH SEIZURES IN AUSTRIA

According to the dispatches, the Nazis are not seizing Catholic church properties openly throughout Austria, but they are appointing "commissioners" to run the properties. The difference is only a matter of terms.

The properties are values at not less than $100,000,000. During the last 12 months Nazi commissioners have been appointed to control all financial administration, even of the largest monasteries.

At Kalksburg—which is 10 miles from Vienna—religious schools have been closed and the buildings converted into army barracks or military training centers, it is reported.

This is completely in line with the totalitarian scheme of things, of course, but why should anyone presume that one form of dictatorship is substantially more conservative of organized religion, in the long run, than another?

IN WHICH A COLUMNIST EXPLAINS . . .

A columnist must be all things... be damn and praise, be elevate and realistic, trite and occasionally important . . .

This particular columnist has at one time or another tried to be all of these. . . . He has sometimes succeeded, more often failed. . . .

That may be a partial explanation of the recent fraternity column. . . . They tell me it was unfair, and I have agreed with them. . . .

In a week of informal talks, conferences and blanket accusations both on the part of Interfraternity Council and myself, we are agreed.

After next Wednesday's special meeting of Interfraternity Council, this column stands ready to give recognition and praise to whatever constructive action is taken. . . .

They questioned my use of the word "flewdess." . . . They have challenged me to prove it, and I can't. . . . I have mentioned instances which, in my mind, met my own definition. . . . And they have, as sincerely, denied they were.

According to Webster, "lewd" means "rude, stupid, clumsy, vulgar." . . . I think "hell" week in almost every fraternity of the campus has been all of these. . . .

"Lewd" also means "sensual and obscene." . . . I did not mean that. . . . I doubt that any fraternity would allow hazing which included such activities.

I here withdraw the word "flewd" from the original charges against any fraternity "hell" week.

I also deny the charge that "during what is now known as 'education week,' blood comes (through excessive paddling)." . . . That probably isn't true. . . .

I do say that paddling at times during the last two months has passed the stage of what seems to me good taste and good sense. . . . I should, and can, be.

I also deny the charge that "during what is now known as 'education week,' blood comes (through excessive paddling)." . . . That probably isn't true. . . .

CHICAGO, March 11 (AP)—Michigan's powerful Wolverines won their sixth consecutive Big Ten indoor track and field championship tonight, compiling the most remarkable string of indoor track titles in western conference history.

Michigan amassed 41 1-2 points to walk away with top honors in a meet at University of Chicago's fieldhouse which saw three champions dethroned, three retain their individual titles and three new meet records established.

Wisconsin's Badgers, counted on to provide the stiffest challenge to Wolverine supremacy, scored 24 1-2 points, with Indiana third with 20 points and the remainder of the field well strung out.

Husky Bill Watson, Michigan's Negro star, and Elmer Gedeon, high hurdler, led the Wolverines to victory. Watson retained his shot put title with a toss which smashed the conference indoor mark he set in 1937.

The finals of the 60-yard dash saw the dethronement of one of six defending champions in the field. John Davenport of Chicago, 1938 sprint king, finished fifth as Myron Piker of Northwestern took the title in 6.2 seconds, only a tenth of a second off the meet and American indoor mark held jointly by Jesse Owens of Ohio State and Sam Stoller of Michigan.

Piker finished two yards ahead of Alan Smith of Michigan, with Jim Allen of Indiana third.

Another defending champion bowed out in the 440-yard dash, won by Harley Howells of Ohio State in the fast time of 49.4 seconds. Carl Teufel of Iowa, the 1938 winner, had a foot lead 30 yards from the tape, but Howells flashed a terrific "kick" that carried him to victory by inches. Howells won the 1938 outdoor 440 championship.

West Benders Win in Girls' Cage Turney

DES MOINES, March 11 (AP)—West Bend defeated Lenox here tonight, 53-36, to win the girls' state basketball championship.

The same teams met in the championship final a year ago, but the story tonight was far different than the 44-41 thriller of 1938.

From the middle of the first quarter it was all West Bend, the northwest Iowa team pushing shot after shot through the nets to display one of the most powerful offenses in the 14-year-old state classic.

Lynnville won the consolation championship with a 30-22 victory over Wellsburg and Maxine Arbogast of Numa took the free throw championship with 22 of a possible 25 points.

Mrs. Anna Burdick Discusses Value of College for Women

Points Out Factors To Be Considered In Choosing Work

Contrasting her own undergraduate days with the present university life, Mrs. Anna Lalo Burdick of the federal department for vocational education, an alumna of the university, outlined the attainments which modern college woman should obtain from her college career.

"Colleges should establish a standard of ethics for you, bring something of beauty into your life and make every girl realize that she must bear her own burden," Mrs. Burdick told university women and visiting delegates from other colleges at the opening address at yesterday's University Women's association conference for women's vocations in the river room of Iowa Union.

In looking for an occupation, Mrs. Burdick suggested that there were five important factors to be considered: stability, social security, progression, adequate remuneration and social significance.

"There are two types of goal which every woman consciously or unconsciously strives for, an immediate and a remote goal," Mrs. Burdick said.

In 1930, 70 per cent of the women were employed in productive industries. Mrs. Burdick pointed out in stressing the changes in the national vocational set up. Today, she said, 70 per cent work in service industries.

"Welcome a variety of occupational experiences while you are young, and thus build up your background and widen your horizons," she said. Mrs. Burdick also cited several case examples from her personal experience bearing witness to this point.

In concluding Mrs. Burdick pointed out that the occupational world is not static.

"Each generation has certain responsibilities which it must fulfill for succeeding generations," she said.

Leading discussion roundtables on specific vocations were Mrs. Lucy Roger Hawkins, journalism; Mrs. Rae Williams, personnel management and merchandising; Golden Fisher, secretarial training; Prof. H. K. Newburn, teaching; Mrs. Lavinia Schwartz, radio, and Mrs. Dorothy Jewett, social service and child welfare.

In the closing address of the conference yesterday afternoon in the senate chamber of Old Capitol, Mrs. Burdick repeated her statements of the morning concerning the ethical standards, aesthetic appreciation and realization of social obligations which every woman should obtain from her college life.

"The present is the span between past and future," she said. "The present is all that youth has.

'Frivol' Becomes 'Rebel' Iowa Humor Magazine Furnishes Material For Mississippi Publication

Will Mickey Mouse Play Rat Butler?

This is the front page cover of the latest issue of "Rebel," humor publication of the University of Mississippi. It strongly resembles the front cover of a recent "Frivol" at the University of Iowa. The reason: Editor McClory said, "go ahead," and Editor Wettlin did.

The "Rebel," official humor magazine for the students at the University of Mississippi, is not guilty of plagiarism, however.

In fact, the editor, Dave Wettlin, wrote to his colleague of the "Frivol," congratulating him on "such a bang-up issue." As both contents and make-up were especially suitable to his purpose, he asked permission to publish the current issue of the "Rebel" along the same lines.

A student jury came to that decision in the practice court of the college of law Friday. The case was similar to those which rise in any court of law.

Inasmuch as the case involved prolonged litigation and substantial court costs, both sides are making motions for retrial. Hearing on these motions will occur next week.

Iowa City High Debate Team Defends Title

University Will Be Host to 120 Students During Final Contest

Iowa City high school's 1938 championship debate team will defend its title at the final contest of the Iowa High School Forensic league in Iowa City March 30, 31, and April 1.

High schools, winners of district debate tournaments, will compete. In addition to debate, there will be junior college competition in extempore speaking, radio speaking, original oratory, and interpretive reading.

During the tournament the university will be host to about 120 high school students representing about 28 schools. These are the high schools winning the district debate tournaments held throughout the state recently.

In the southeast district contest held at Burlington, Iowa City won 12 out of 14 debates, thus winning the right to compete again in the state contest. Other schools in this district to compete in the finals will be Davenport, Burlington, and Mt. Pleasant.

Awards to be made on the results of the state contest will give four-year scholarships at the University of Iowa to six members of the debating teams appearing in the final championship round. The same awards will be given to winners of first place in extempore speaking and original oratory.

High schools appearing in the debate competition are:

Northwest district, Class A: Sioux City (Central), Ft. Dodge and Algona. Class B: Hawarden, Lake City and Laurens. Class C: George.

Northeast district, Class A: Oelwein, Cedar Falls, Ames, Manchester and Waterloo. Class B: Iowa Training school and Cedar Falls (Teachers).

Southwest district, Class A: Council Bluffs (Abraham Lincoln), Harlan and Boone. Class B: Mt. Ayr, Osceola and Mapleton. Class C: Minburn and Waukon.

Southeast district, Class A: Iowa City, Davenport, Burlington and Mt. Pleasant. Class B: University high school (Iowa City) and Moulton.

W. E. Beck, principal of Iowa City high school, is one of the three officers of the southeastern district.

The executive committee of the league consists of Prof. A. Craig Baird, chairman; Prof. Harry G. Barnes, Prof. E. C. Mable, all of the speech department; Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, director of the extension division; Prof. H. A. Green of the college of education and Iver A. Opstad, superintendent of schools in Iowa City.

charged that the defendant was operating his car recklessly and negligently when he struck and killed John Jones, a pedestrian. As administrator of the deceased man's estate, George Jones sued for damages.

The defense argued that the pedestrian deliberately stepped in front of the defendant's car and that the defendant therefore was not liable.

Attorneys for the defense were Erwin Buck, L3 of Grand Junction, and Harvey Uhlenhopp, L3 of Hampton. Attorneys for the plaintiff were Robert Collins, L3 of Clarinda, and R. W. Kemler, L3 of Marshalltown.

The case next week will present for determination the legal results of incidental injuries incurred through G-ray therapeutic treatment of cancer. Medical students will serve as expert witnesses in the case.

French Movie Will Appear At Strand Theater

"The Grand Illusion," one of the finest foreign movies of the year, will be shown at the Strand theater tomorrow and Tuesday. Entirely in French dialogue, but made understandable by the use of interpretative English titles, the showing is sponsored by the Romance languages department.

"The Grand Illusion" is one of the most absorbing of the cinema's innumerable treatments of the World war. Concerned not with fighting but with repose from fighting, it investigates a group of French inmates of a German prison camp.

The prisoners, principally an austere patrician, Capt. de Boeldieu (Pierre Fresnay), his mechanic, Marechal (Jean Gabin), and a generous fellow, Rosenthal (Dalio), who shares the canned delicacies sent by his rich family, naturally try to escape.

The plot has been built, not around the success or failure of their enterprise, but rather around their relations with each other and with their guards, with the gloomy German officer, von Rauffenstein, (Erich von Stroheim) in whose fortress they are finally interned.

Superbly acted, with English titles to translate its polyglot dialogue, "Grand Illusion" is notable for restoring Erich von Stroheim to the screen in a more sympathetic role than he used to play.

Mrs. Runner Will Lead Last Meeting

The last freshman discussion group will be tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the north conference room of Iowa Union.

Mrs. J. J. Runner of Iowa City will lead the discussion.

Comic Characters In American Papers Are World Famous

(Ed. note—Miss Halstein enrolled as a junior at the University of Iowa in January, after having lived only five weeks in this country. Her uncle, with whom she makes her American home, lives in Iowa Falls. Her native land is Norway; her native city, Oslo. She gets the Norwegian magazine, Damebladet, in which Blondie of America comic page fame, appears.)

By ELIZABETH HALSTEIN

Did you think that Blondie and her family, Jiggs and Maggie, Henry and all the many others who figure in the funnies are genuine Americans?

Our friends of the funny papers are as popular in Norway, and other European countries, as they are here.

Blondie, "Timian" Dagwood and Baby Dumpling with the Norwegian name, "Putte," are followed through the troubles of their everyday life with the same sympathy; while Henry's impulsive antics and stoicism are just as amusing to his readers across the ocean.

Grown-ups forget their troubles to laugh at "Pia and Finbeck," better known to us as Maggie and Jiggs; while the children are thrilled by the adventures of the mischievous Katzenjammer kids, "Knoll and Tott."

Jim Thynne Paces Sac City To Win Over Sibley Team

DES MOINES, March 11 (AP)—Pop Warner's Diagonal champions again came through in the clutch tonight to lead 15 other teams into the state interscholastic championship basketball tournament here next week.

Rolfe, hot on a comeback trail to avenge its 31 to 29 reverse by Diagonal, failed, however, to land in the final select 16. The northwest Iowa speedboys, who had not lost a game since their opening contest back in early December, fell tonight before Webster City, 23 to 21, in the class A final in the seventh district at Webster City.

Sac City's Indians, led by that remarkable center, Jim Thynne, scalped Sibley, 41 to 24, in the class A final at Orange City. Thus the Indians became one of the top favorites to land at least close to the 1939 championship. They were chased off the warpath unexpectedly last year by Ida Grove.

"Why—that's what Mr. Horace said. His very words!"

"So where does that get us?" Phil demanded. "She died half an hour earlier than we thought. That fact doesn't solve the mystery by a whole lot!"

Mac agreed: "It doesn't solve the mystery, lad, but it helps. It does help."

"Well, it's way over my head," Phil was cross. "If you know who did the killing, as you keep hinting, why don't you do something about it?"

"Ditto," put in the chief. "Say the word and I'll get a warrant."

Mac regarded them tolerantly: "Ever hear the old saying: 'There's a time and a place for everything'?"

"Sure, but—"

"This is the place, Benson, but it isn't the time. I don't know the identity of the killer. I only suspect. And if it is who I think it is, we have about as much chance of proving his crimes as Elsie here has of flying to the moon. Our man or woman is no common murderer. He or she is smart—clever! Our criminal left no loose ends. Not one!"

I said anxiously: "But you have identified Mr. Richard?"

"Mostly, Elsie; mostly. Unless I'm greatly mistaken, he hasn't the guts—begging your pardon—for murder. Stealing just about finished him!"

"Poison is a woman's weapon, isn't it, Mac?" inquired the chief, scratching his head.

"Poison is anyone's weapon," Mac informed him, his eyes twinkling. He was too old a hand to be so easily tripped. "And that reminds me that I want to take a look at the laboratory upstairs. Not that I expect to find the cyanide neatly labeled and waiting for me," he hastened to add, "but it just doesn't pay to take things for granted in this business. Well?"

He raised his voice inquisitorily. Someone was knocking.

"I may come soon?" A familiar voice sounded in the hall.

"So!" exclaimed Phil in a bored tone. "Our palsy-walsy, the count Wonder what he wants?"

"Mac!" I jerked the detective's sleeve. "I—I think I know what he wants. Tell him to come back in a minute."

"You know!" Mac's eyebrows were in momentary danger of tangling with his hair. "My God! Is

Local Democratic, Republican Parties Have City Conventions

Elect Chansky Chairman Of Local Demos

J. Donahey Named Secretary of Group In Council Rooms

Democratic delegates to the city convention met yesterday morning in the council chambers of the city hall and elected Charles Chansky, party chairman, and J. E. Donahey, secretary. Chansky has been acting temporary chairman since the resignation of C. G. Sample Feb. 16.

Ed Lucas received the nomination for police judge. Mike Giblin was nominated for the six-year park commissioner term. Mrs. Minerva Knight was nominated to finish the balance of Everett Means' office which terminates in 1941. Means resigned in 1937 to join the city council.

Prof. W. Ross Livingston read the report of the resolutions committee and the party platform, which was unanimously adopted. The platform stated:

"1. We endorse whole-heartedly each and every candidate for city office on our democratic ticket and command them all to the voters of Iowa City as able, honest, representative and fair-minded men, not dominated by selfish interests, groups or minorities."

"We hold that the ballot is the supreme court of appeal in a democracy; we assert that the city council is only an instrument for the faithful expression of the will of the people when that will is freely expressed; and we believe that the most perfect democracy is that in which the wishes of the majority are the most faithfully and most promptly executed by its servants."

"2. We believe that all city offices should be held as a public trust and openly administered with efficiency and strict economy."

"3. We recognize that the public utility corporations operating in Iowa City should be the servants and not the masters of this community. We pledge our party and our candidates, if elected, to regulate such utilities, as long as they serve the people of Iowa City, so that their services shall be efficient and at fair and reasonable rates."

"4. We are pleased that during the last four years our leaders have been able to secure the reduction of electric rates to the exact maximum rates which the proposed municipal plant would have charged. We believe that the rates for natural gas and water are still unreasonably high, and they should be immediately sternly investigated."

"Over 80 per cent of all the cities in the United States — more than 8,000 — now own and operate their waterworks. If the opportunity to buy the local water plant should be presented we believe the city council should negotiate a just price and submit the question of purchase to the voters. Since pure water, heat and light are necessary to all human life we believe they should always be like the air we breathe, available to the consumer at the lowest possible rates."

"5. We believe that public business should be conducted in the open without secrecy and that the council chambers should be an open forum wherein the rights, interests and voices of all citizens can be heard and considered when public affairs are involved."

"6. We believe that labor is not a commodity but a form of cooperation. For the first hundred years of our existence as a city, labor has played an important part in the development and up-building of our community. We recognize that labor as well as business knows its rights and understands its responsibilities and we pledge our candidates, therefore, to give at all times fair and open consideration to the problems of the working men, and the welfare of their families."

"7. We believe that every dollar should account for itself in public service and benefit. Unwise and unnecessary spending of public funds saps the source and dries up the stream of public
