GERMANS OCCUPY CZECH REPUBLIC

Hungary Denounces Czech Answer to Evacuation Ultimatum

Little Republic Refuses Troop Removal From Border State

Magyars Promise Immediate Measures While Army Moves In Carpatho-Ukraine

BUDAPEST, March 15 (Wednesday) (AP)—With her armies already half way across Carpatho-Ukraine, Hungary announced early today that the dissolved Czechoslovak government's answer to an ultimatum demanding evacuation of the eastern province was unsatisfactory.

The Hungarian foreign office announced that in consequence of the unsatisfactory reply "immediate measures will be taken."

The foreign office said the Czech answer received at 11 p.m. yesterday, four hours before the ultimatum expired, refused Hungarians in Carpatho-Ukraine the right to form their own armed formations, one of Hungary's demands.

Hungary yesterday delivered a 24-hour ultimatum, expiring at 5 a.m. today, demanding withdrawal of Czech troops. This ultimatum began yesterday evening.

Other demands of a 12-hour ultimatum, were not answered satisfactorily, however.

The ultimatum had been delivered with German approval, Hungarian sources said.

The Czech-reply agreed to protect Hungarian lives in Carpatho-Ukraine, another Hungarian demand, but a special announcement here asserted:

"In recent hours reports have been received that Hungarian citizens have been assailed and persecuted."

The foreign office declared: "In consequence the Hungarian government must declare that the so-called Ruthenian (Carpatho-Ukraine) government does not desire or cannot efficiently protect Hungarian interests and therefore the Hungarian government will energetically provide for the necessary protection."

The Hungarian army moved in mass early today to the occupation of Ruthenia where there were an estimated 10,000 Czech troops. Many classes of reservists were called to the colors during the night and the movement was still under way.

Motor cars and trucks were being requisitioned.

The foreign office said the Czech refusal to allow Hungarians in Carpatho-Ukraine to arm themselves was made at the request of the new independent government proclaimed at Chust, the capital, today by Premier Augustin Volosin.

The Hungarian troops yesterday morning were reported to have reached Szolyva and Homonna, half way up to the Polish border. They were expected to reach Chust, capital of Carpatho-Ukraine, during the day.

The troops moved despite opposition in the form of establishment of an independent government of an independent government by the former Carpatho-Ukrainian premier, Augustin Volosin.

Foreign office officials said they expected little resistance from Volosin, and they declared Hungary would "do how to deal" with him if he were "unlucky" enough to be caught.

Volosin's announcement of an independent Carpatho-Ukraine at first caused concern here, but later it was reported his "frantic" appeals to Hitler and Mussolini had gone unanswered, and it was said that alone he could do little to resist Hungary.

The Hungarian army was massed to enter Carpatho-Ukraine as the ultimatum was delivered Monday. Prague was expected to accept the Hungarian terms and then Carpatho-Ukrainian leaders were expected to invite the Hungarian army to move in formally.

Jackie Coogan To Get $150,000 In Settlement

LOS ANGELES, March 14 (AP)—Jackie Coogan, who claimed he earned $4,000,000 in "The Kid" and other pictures on the silent screen, will receive only approximately $150,000 under a settlement of his accounting suit against his mother and step-father, attorneys said today.

The tentative agreement lacks only the signatures of Jackie, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bernstein and officers of Jackie Coogan productions, inc., and the Coogan Finance company.

It provides that the famous child actor will get half of about $300,000; more than two-thirds of which is in real estate.

Slovaks Form New Republic

BRATISLAVA, Slovakia, March 14 (AP)—The 2,400,000 inhabitants of Slovakia, too bewildered by the swift rush of events cheer much, today found they constituted a new republic under German protection amid the bitter dissensions of central Europe.

The Slovak parliament in a silent, rising vote severed connection with the disintegrating, 20-year-old Czechoslovak republic whose end was formally decreed in Prague.

A new Slovak republic was formed by Dr. Joseph Tiso, backed by a promise of military aid from Adolf Hitler if necessary, was made first premier.

The first reaction of Slovaks was astonished rather than elation at the sudden success of their long-standing separatist agitation.

Yesterday they were Czechoslovak citizens, restive under what they termed unfair treatment as second class citizens.

Today they believed themselves free citizens of a new republic, and crowds thronging the snowy streets of Bratislava congratulated one another on having thrown off "the Czech yoke," even though it was done with exacting obligations to Germany.

Tiso, a stocky clergyman who was ousted last week by the Prague government for countenancing separatist agitation, was the central figure in parliament's deliberations behind closed doors.

He reported on his conversations last night with Adolf Hitler in Berlin in which he was promised German military aid to win independence.

Wilson Loses Dept. Control

DES MOINES, March 14 (AP)—An embattled combination of republican and democratic house members cut Gov. George A. Wilson out of the state public safety department picture today by amending the safety bill to place the proposed division under the attorney general.

Vote on the amendment, offered by Rep. L. O. Lampman (R), Primghar, was 59 to 44. Fourteen of the 19 house democrats joined 45 republicans to give the G. O. P. consolidation drive its first major setback of the legislative session.

As the bill now stands, Governor Wilson would come out of the session with even less power than that stemming from the office when he succeeded Nelson G. Krusch, although the loss by no means approaches that contemplated for Secretary of State Earl G. Miller.

The governor now appoints the state fire marshal, a privilege he would lose under the amended bill. All legislative variations offered to date would remove the highway patrol from Miller's control.

Debate will be resumed on the measure at 9:30 tomorrow morning when numerous other amendments will be called up for consideration.

Voting Begins For Women's Groups Today

Members of WAA, YWCA and UWA Will Elect Officers

University women will go to the polls today to elect officers for three campus organizations, the University Women's association, Women's Athletic association, and the Y. W. C. A. Balloting will take place in Iowa Union from 8 o'clock to 6:15.

Voting in Y. W. C. A. and W. A. A. is restricted to members, but as every university woman upon registration is automatically a member of U. W. A., there are no voting restrictions in that organization.

Candidates for office in U. W. A. include Ruth House, A3 of Iowa City, and Eulalia Klingbeil, A3 of Postville, for the presidency with the defeated candidate becoming vice-president.

Beth Jane Richards, A2 of Moline and Beverly Barnes, A2 of Sioux Falls, S. D., are candidates for secretary with Genevieve McCulloch, A2 of Cedar Rapids and Eileen Henderlinder, A2 of Onawa running for the office of treasurer. Freshman representative candidates are Harriet Hoerner, A1 of Dubuque, and Jean Livingston, A1 of Iowa City.

Nominees for office in the W. A. A. include Isabelle Armstrong, A3 of Hutchinson, Kans., and Helen Poulson, A3 of Iowa Falls, for president; Virginia Padovan, A2 of Numa, and Louise Seeburger, A2 of Des Moines for vice-president; Arlene Winter, A2 of Downer's Grove, Ill., and Mildred Ross, A3 of Oelwein for secretary. Annabelle Hinkle, A2 of Valparaiso, Ind., Wilma Kerr, A3 of Washington, Ia., and Phyllis Whitmore, A2 of Batavia are running for treasurer.

Charline Saggau, A3 of Denison and Lucille Mullen, A3 of Davenport have been nominated for the presidency of the Y. W. C. A., the defeated candidate to become vice president. 'St. Joan'—The Present Season's Best

Individual Performances, Plus Starring Roles, Enhance Shaw's Play

University theater presented George Bernard Shaw's "St. Joan" last night in its community series of plays, and Prof. Edward C. Mable, who directed "St. Joan," has selected a cast in which each performer is an artist.

An unusually large audience of first nighters attended last night. We sat through the first five scenes, more or less, realizing that the play was very fine, yet not overwhelmed as a few of the more optimistic had hoped to be.

But as we left the theater, by far the most outstanding voiced opinion was: "It was certainly worth sitting through the first five acts to see the sixth," where-in Joan appears before the Cath-

INCOME TAX 100 Returns Received In One Hour

DES MOINES, March 14 (AP)—Charles D. Huston, collector of internal revenue, reported his office was receiving more than 100 federal income tax returns an hour today, the next to last day for filing blanks.

Huston said he anticipated that 50,000 Iowans would file their returns today and tomorrow. He estimated 35,600 blanks had come in by Saturday night.

F. D. R. Asks Added Funds

Desires $150,000,000 More for WPA Lest Workers Lose Jobs

WASHINGTON, March 14 (AP)—President Roosevelt stirred up a tempest of congressional strife today with a sharply-worded request for an immediate, additional appropriation of $150,000,000 for WPA lest, he said, nearly 5,000,000 people lose the source of their livelihoods.

His appeal cut to the core of the constantly agitated issue of government spending and led to predictions of a battle even more strenuous than that which attended the refusal of congress, earlier in the session, to grant the very same appropriation which was proposed today.

In preparation for that struggle, administration forces deposed Representative Woodrum (D-Va), aggressive leader of the house economy bloc, as acting chairman of the subcommittee in charge of relief appropriations. He will be replaced, it was said, by Chairman Taylor (D-Col) of the appropriations committee, who almost immediately upon the receipt of the president's message introduced a bill to carry it out.

As though to offset this move, the economy group rallied at once behind a proposal by Rep. Cox (D-Ga) that the appropriations committee be directed to make a thoroughgoing investigation of WPA to determine whether it is "fish or fowl, sane or insane, good or bad." Woodrum, denouncing the president's statements as "melodrama and emotionalism," asserted ominously that he would "still be around" when the appropriation was discussed.

The Munich agreement among the four big European powers—Britain, France, Germany and Italy—gave Chancellor Hitler virtually all he sought from Czechoslovakia to avert a war. The two western powers ostensibly retained an interest in the future of the dismembered republic, but it was recognized generally then that they left the fate of the country in Germany's hands.

This attitude was reflected in the calm reaction of both officials and press toward the events which culminated in the breakup of the state today.

In some diplomatic quarters Germany was believed to be further paving her way for Hitler's long-cherished dream of establishing domination over the Ukraine.

A German move against Rumania also was considered a possibility in these quarters in view of Nazi displeasure over King Carol's recent stern suppression of the fascist iron guard elements.

Three Men Confess Series of Robberies; One Receives Wound

OMAHA, March 14 (AP)—Detective Captain Tom Ryan said three men, one of whom was shot during a robbery attempt, confessed today they burglarized two groceries and attempted to enter a tavern here.

Ryan said Woodrow Allen, 22, suffering from a back wound, related he was shot as the trio attempted to enter the tavern of Ken W. Butterfield. The latter previously reported firing a shotgun at some men who awakened him.

Liquor Sales Decrease
DES MOINES (AP)—Liquor sales in the state's 170 retail stores amounted to $923,400.57 during February, compared with $929,558.13 in January, a decrease of $6,157.56, it was announced yesterday.

Great Britain, France Aloof; Little Republic Further Hurt

Eastward Movement Expected To Lessen Germany's Interest In Unofficial Claims

LONDON, March 14 (AP)—Great Britain and France, who almost went to war with Germany over Czechoslovakia last September, kept strictly aloof today as the little republic further crumbled apart under over-riding pressure from Germany.

Officials in both London and Paris were believed to be more interested in the possibility that Germany's new moves eastward would lessen her interest in Italy's still unofficial claims for a part of the French colonial empire.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in the house of commons called an "unwarrantable assumption" a suggestion that Britain now was completely disinterested in Czechoslovakia.

But his replies to a series of questions from members of parliament showed plainly he had no intention of intervening in the German-Czech quarrel as he did last summer.

France, saving her strength to resist possible Italian demands on her, seemed to be only an interested spectator in the new crisis.

Official sources left no doubt that France considered it a matter for Berlin and Rome to settle themselves.

As for Britain, Chamberlain told the house that the "proposed guarantee" (of Czechoslovak frontiers, mentioned in an annex to the Munich pact) was "one against unprovoked aggression against Czechoslovakia," and no such aggression has taken place.

The Munich agreement among the four big European powers—Britain, France, Germany and Italy—gave Chancellor Hitler virtually all he sought from Czechoslovakia to avert a war. The two western powers ostensibly retained an interest in the future of the dismembered republic, but it was recognized generally then that they left the fate of the country in Germany's hands.

OR VICE VERSA Police Arrest Victim Of Robbers

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., March 14 (AP)—Eddie Canter, Negro, went to the sheriff's office to report he had been robbed of $2.

While he awaited arrival of a deputy, Canter was arrested by the police chief on a charge of shooting and wounding one of the two alleged robbers—a man listed by police as named Cheatem.

Miaja's Council To Plan Peace

Desires To Establish Most Genuine Wish Of Spanish People

MADRID, March 14 (AP)—Gen. Jose Miaja's republican national defense council announced tonight that it was concentrating on establishment of "a permanent peace."

A communique said the council "is now experiencing long hours of labor and constant worry in an effort to bring about the most genuine wishes of the people, which are only to consolidate a permanent peace throughout the territory."

The council earlier was said to be working to facilitate flight of republicans who fear they are on a nationalist blacklist.

Fifteen persons were killed and 30 injured when five trimotored nationalist warplanes raided the Valencia suburbs of Patraix and Mislata and the village of Chirivella today. Shortly afterward another group of five planes raided the Valencia port, causing some damage but no casualties.

The nationalist destroyer Velasco, accompanied by the merchantman Mar Negro, captured 210 men composing the crews of 10 fishing boats who were at work off the Valencia coast. The men were put aboard the Mar Negro. The news was carried to Valencia by an 11th fishing boat, which escaped.

Mine Workers Ask for Shorter Day, Wage Rise

NEW YORK, March 14 (AP)—The United Mine Workers of America today asked that a 6-hour day and a 50-cents-a-day wage increase be written into a new 2-year contract by the Appalachian soft coal operators who employ 338,000 miners.

The proposals to increase the minimum day wage rate to $6.50 and reduce working hours from a 7-hour day, 5-day week were among 17 proposals presented to 300 representatives of management and labor at the first session of their joint wage conference.

They were offered on behalf of the union by Philip Murray, vice president of the union, as the basis for negotiating a new agreement to supplant the 2-year contract expiring March 31.

Last Remnant of Nation Falls As Nazi Troops March Into Province of Bohemia-Moravia

Germany's Soldiers Advance Through Northern Slovakia To Prevent Poles From Joining Czech Forces

PRAGUE, March 15 (Wednesday) (AP)—The Czech ministry of national defense announced at 4:30 today (9:30 p.m., Tuesday CST) that the central Czech provinces of Bohemia and Moravia would be occupied by German troops at 5 a.m. (11 p.m., Tuesday CST).

The announcement was made by radio.

The population was told it should not resist, since resistance would be against the interest of the Czech people.

This startling dawn announcement came after a night and day of swift events marking a sudden crumbling of the post-Munich Czech republic.

German troops already were marching eastward across northern Slovakia, and already had taken military possession of several towns.

Further eastward, in Carpatho-Ukraine, Hungarian troops were moving quickly northward toward the Polish border, and by this morning were half way across the country.

At the announcement that German troops would march into the very heart of ancient Czech territory—territory spared by last September's Munich settlement—church bells began to toll.

Despite the early hour, the word spread like wildfire through Bohemia.

The orders had come from Berlin, where the Czech president, Dr. Emil Hacha, had conferred for three hours with the Fuehrer. They parted at 4:15 a.m. (9:15 p.m. Tuesday CST).

The population already was on the alert after a day and night of tense developments which piled up with speed and drama beginning early Tuesday, when the Slovak parliament met in solemn session in Bratislava and announced it was breaking away from the Prague government and establishing itself as an independent state under protection of mighty Germany.

After that Hungary moved into Carpatho-Ukraine, leaving, nominally, only Bohemia-Moravia to the Prague government. These provinces—last remnant of the World-war born republic—apparently were falling into oblivion this morning.

German troops, according to a report telephoned from Moravska-Ostava, on the border between Germany and Czechoslovakia, were advancing through northern Slovakia in what appeared to be a strategic maneuver to block the Poles from attempting to join forces with either Czechs or Hungarians.

Meanwhile Hungarian troops were marching northward through Carpatho-Ukraine, which until today was the Czech republic's easternmost province, toward Poland.

The German troops, marching toward the Tatra mountains in the direction of Carpatho-Ukraine, were reported to have reached Zilina at 10:30 p.m. and to be continuing eastward. Zilina is 50 miles southeast of Moravska-Ostava.

Presence of three armies in the crumbling republic, with a fourth not far away, created a tinder box of the entire region.

Germanians were advancing eastward while 20,000 Czechs were retreating westward in the same area from Carpatho-Ukraine.

Hungary during the day had given the Prague government an ultimatum demanding the Czechs evacuate Carpatho-Ukraine, and Hungarian troops marched into the province before the expiration of the ultimatum—3 p.m. (8 a.m. CST) tomorrow.

The fourth army was the Polish, remaining on its own side of the border to the north.

German troops occupied Moravska-Ostava in the early evening and began moving eastward. Another German column was expected to cross the frontier from the south and occupy Brunn during the night.

Both of these towns are in Moravia, one of two old provinces—the other Bohemia—left to the Prague government after today's swift events.

Charges Patrol Politics Forced

DES MOINES, March 14 (AP)—Representative Dean W. Peisen (R-Eldora), today charged in the Iowa house that "political henchmen" in the past have compelled highway patrolmen to change their party affiliations.

Peisen's statement was made in a hot debate over a section of the public safety department bill pertaining to continuation of the present "60 per cent" political clause in the Iowa law.

The republican legislator, who is house consolidation chairman, said he regretted having to broach the subject but that it is "common knowledge that political henchmen have waited on patrolmen for the purpose of compelling them to change their party affiliations."

Despite that situation, Peisen continued, he recommended passage of the section of the bill that continued the limit of 60 per cent from any one political party on the patrol membership.

The house accepted Peisen's recommendation by voting down an amendment which would have stricken the political provision. On the other side of the same question, the house refused to accept an amendment by Representative Earl C. Fishbaugh (R-Shenandoah), which the latter said would have put the 60 per cent limit only on the "prevailing" political party.

Career, Marriage, Or Both?

THE U. W. A. vocational guidance conference for university women has a number of the co-eds talking about a career. They are not saying that they want a career in place of marriage but that they want both.

There are still young women who look at marriage and the home as a career in itself. Also there are increasing numbers of men and women who think that a woman is old-fashioned and out of date if she devotes her time to raising children and making the home the best possible place.

One of the favorites of those who are for women combining marriage and a career is that there is little for the women to do in the modern home. Of course, there isn't if she has only one or two children and two or three maids, but certainly there are still women who would like to have four or five children and do at least a part of the house keeping.

Another argument for mixing marriage and a career is that if the woman stays at home she fails to keep up with her husband intellectually. This need not be the case. A woman determined to spend her life being a mother and home maker is no excuse for her doing nothing but dusting, cooking and getting the children off to school.

In the end it depends upon the individual couple. It is for them to decide whether the wife should or should not have a career outside the home. But in spite of the modern trend to mix marriage and a career, there is still a place in the world for the women who want to give their lives to making a home for husband and children.

Their Father Consents

THE WORLD'S famous little girls are going on a trip for the first time in their lives. The Dionne quintuplets will meet King George VI and Queen Elizabeth in Toronto, which is 180 miles from their home.

Olivia Dionne stated a week ago that he would not let the little girls accept the invitation, but he has changed that stand and now would like the quintos to meet the king and queen on their Canadian tour. The children will be five years old May 28.

The girls will make the journey to Toronto in two special railway cars provided by the Ontario government, and it is thought the Ontario provincial police and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and officers will cooperate in guarding the famous children.

Incidentally, Papa Dionne's now been invited to go along. We assume this had nothing to do with the change in plans.

Russia And Terror

IN THE mountain town of Leninsk-Kugnetski three ambitious agents of the Russian government arrested several children for fascist terrorist activities. One child confessed after a long period of grilling that he had started recruiting for the fascists in 1935 (when he was seven years old).

Some officers were daring enough to state that such testimony was unreliable and to free the boys. The men involved were given prison terms for their over-enthusiastic service in behalf of their government.

Nevertheless parents in Russia will have to watch their children to see that they are not conducting themselves suspiciously. It is a dangerous time in the Soviet when spies and agitators become scarce.

The World And One Man

SINCE THE announcement of the election of Pius XII the world has eagerly anticipated his policies and hopefully looked forward for peace plans.

Nor was the world disappointed when after his coronation the new pontiff's first act was to pronounce an allocution reiterating his desire for peace.

Although only one man even with the support of millions behind him can not achieve the goal of world peace, the steady influence of the Pope will go far in helping to stabilize at least the rational portion of the world's populace.

War is born of hysteria.

WASHINGTON WORLD

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

New deal leaders in congress want to adjourn early in June. It's good betting that they fail to do it. However, it's easy to understand their desire to do so. The longer the session spins itself out the more noticeable intra-democratic dissension is pretty sure to become.

Concerning domestic problems there is no similar degree of unanimity—as between democrats and republicans or as between democrats and democrats. The truth is that the democrats, already badly split, are re-splitting. There are the new deal democrats. There are the old deal democrats.

The administration is making concessions to the old dealers. Many of the new dealers resent these concessions. Many of the old dealers consider said concessions insufficient. Thus the old and new dealers are split. The new dealers are internally split, as between concessions and no concessions. And the old dealers are split, as between accepting them. All this is lovely from the G.O.P. standpoint. The drawback is that the republicans realize that they aren't offering

FRED ALLEN, . . . planning to explore the field of zoological surgery from Hippocrates down, will interview Dr. Harry F. Nimphus, surgeon of the New York Central park zoo, as his "person you didn't expect to meet" on Town Hall Tonight at 8 o'clock over NBC's Red network.

Dr. "Keep-'em-alive" Nimphus begins where Frank Buck ends by performing such feats as appendectomies on tigers and amputations on elephants, which are all in the day's work. In fact, say reports, so often does the doctor swing into action the animals at the zoo spend most of their time going around and telling each other about their operations. I doubt that . . .

In spite of all the carving he has done in the animal kingdom, Dr. Nimphus hasn't been bitten once. His closest escape came when he was extracting the molars of an etherized lion. The ether wore off a little before schedule and it was anybody's race to the door of the cage.

Most common ailment of the jungle beasts in captivity is, ironically enough, the ingrown hair. Strangest experience in Dr. Nimphus' case book is an elephant who fell into a moat recently. He had to send to Schenectady for an X-ray machine large enough to survey even half of the broken bones.

Portland Hoffa, Harry von Zell, the art players, the Merry Maes, the town hall singers and Peter van Steeden and his orchestra are included in the general set-up. . .

"RHAPSODY IN BLUE" New lyrics for what is perhaps George Gershwin's most popular song, will be sung by Frances Langford, with the approval of Ira Gershwin, the late composer's brother, on Texaco's Star Theater at 8 o'clock tonight over the Columbia network.

Making one of her rare radio appearances, Olympe Bradna will co-star with Ray Milland in "Sanctuary," a specially written radio drama dealing with a Basque boy who finds refuge and love in France. Kenny Baker will sing "Danny Boy" and "Tm Building a Sailboat of Dreams."

TONIGHT'S SHOWS NBC-RED: 7:—One Man's Family. 7:30—Tommy Dorsey. 8:—Fred Allen. 9:—Kay Kyser. NBC-BLUE: 6:30—Horace Heidt. 7:30—Dave Elman Hobby Lobby. 9:30—Interest in Democracy.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—W. Ray Johnston looked back today on 25 years of making bread-and-butter movies, and he found them good. Johnston, a silver-jubilee at 47, will be toasted sometime in March by his associates in Monogram, but the actual anniversary of his entry into movies is in January.

That was when he went from Iowa to New York, or from mausoleums to movies. He was 22, and he had a new mail-order dress suit besides a job with the old Thalhouser film company, 45 minutes from Broadway, in New Rochelle.

As an employee of a many-faceted local firm in Waterloo, Iowa, Johnston had specialized in mausoleums. The movies maybe seemed more cheerful—but the important thing is that he went, he wore his dress suit the night he arrived, he got into the leading man, and today he's president of one of the few movie companies that never has had a "bad year."

"As an actor they said I belonged to the Immobile, Ala., school," he recalled today, "and they were right. If there lived a worse ham before or since, I've never seen him. I decided you didn't need an expressive face behind the camera, and I've stayed there ever since."

The title of his first "starring" epic in the list—his name is on some of the industry's biggest money-makers. Like other "independents," he is content to leave the "epics" to the majors—congratulating itself that the Spanish danger is over. But is it? Spain has been licked before—by the Romans, by the Moors, by Napoleon. But it never had STAY-ED licked. Now it's licked, principally by the Italians. Nominally it's squelched. Its record is, that so vanquished, it has resorted to guerrilla warfare, and won in the end.

If this rumpus finally is over, it will be unusual for Spain. And it will be an international headache while it lasts.

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

Prevention is proverbially 12 in poor, crowded, insanitary districts where exposure to cold, fatigue, infection and undernourishment of children are common, and that infections of the nose and throat often precede rheumatic fever. The prevention of rheumatic fever, then, and of the heart disease that follows it, resolves itself into improving the living conditions of the members of susceptible families. As soon as a case of rheumatic fever develops, the patient should be watched carefully for years.

Other Infection The other infection which causes heart damage is syphilis, and the public campaign against this may do some good in the prevention of this type of heart disease. While there are named 20 causes of heart disease, we will name only a few of the most prominent. Congenital Type Congenital heart disease: In these cases the heart does not develop completely before birth and unnatural connections exist in the chambers and divisional walls of the heart. It may be said at once that there is no way to prevent these conditions; they are not due to any disease present in the parents. Fortunately, they are very rare.

Infections, especially rheumatic fever, cause valvular heart disease. The cause of rheumatic fever is still unknown and there are no known specific preventatives. We know, however, that the disease develops in wet, cold, variable weather; that family susceptibility plays a role; that this infection occurs most commonly

- Grissom Recovers
- And a Few Others
- And All Sound

TAMPA, Fla., March 14 (AP)—The Florida sun beat down in wait time, making the figures on the field dance crazily before you squinting eyes, but Bill McKechnie appeared unruffled as, with just a trace of a smile at the corners of his mouth, he watched the pitcher's box.

"There doesn't seem to be anything the matter with him, does there?" he asked.

We looked toward the box. At first we thought we saw twins but our eyes finally focused on a tall, knobby, raw-boned fellow who was ripping the ball toward the batters with a free-wheeling, effortless motion.

That seemed to solve the problem of Lee Theo Grissom, and also the problem of the Cincinnati Red mound staff. Without Grissom, the Reds would have a very good staff. With him, it should be extraordinary.

Last year Grissom came up with a sore arm, and then went from one extreme to another by spraining an ankle. The arm trouble was of physical origin. The leg trouble was a mental source. With the Reds leading 2-0 and two down, Grissom, on 8-9, decided to steal and the bad ankle was the result. Anyway he said it seemed like a good idea at the time.

"There's nothing wrong with Grissom, nothing at all," McKechnie said, admitting that with Grissom in form he had a good mound staff, which is a gem of understatement.

With Johnny Vander Meer, Paul Derringer, Lloyd Moore, Bill Walters and Grissom, the Reds have five first-class starting pitchers backed up by such performers as Eugene Schott, Jim Weaver, Ray Davis and Charles Barrett, all on the 1938 roster, and Eugene Thompson, a lad with Columbia last year whom McKechnie is eyeing with approval.

If the Red mound staff starts the season in good health, it can be taken as a warning by the other teams. McKechnie's pupils don't develop sore arms.

"I've never had a pitcher develop a sore arm," he commented. "Grissom had his when he arrived last year. Notice those pitchers out there. They're all throwing curves, have been since the first day of practice."

"I gave them the instructions the first day—throw curve balls. Not hard, but curves. What's the use of a pitcher starting off developing his fast ball, and after he has that working starting in on a new set of muscles to throw curves? I may be wrong but that's my theory. Mix them up from the start."

McKechnie appears concerned over third base and second base, but outside of that he gives no hint of what he thinks of his team. Inasmuch as he wouldn't admit a flock of sheep was white until he's seen it from both sides, a consensus opinion of camp-followers was sought and brought to light that the Reds' spot as National League favorite may be where they belong.

They have punch and pitching, but there is doubt as to how they will fare at second and third, where it is either a case of good hit, no field; good field, no hit, or no field, no hit.

WILBUR NEAD LEAVES FOR NCAA BOUTS TOMORROW

Clashes With Ace Grapplers

Has Opportunity To Be First Iowan To Win in 11 Years

Confronted with the best chance to win a National Collegiate championship of any wrestler to represent the University of Iowa in the past 11 years, Wilbur Nead, holder of the Big Ten heavyweight championship, will leave for the east tomorrow and his chance to bring a title back to the middle west.

The championship matches, to be run off Friday and Saturday, will be held in Lancaster, Pa., and some of the nation's better grapplers will be there to try their skill in the most important wrestling tourney of the year.

Not since Leslie Beers, who later made the Olympic squad, won the 159-pound title in 1928 has an Iowan been among the favorites for an NCAA crown, Coach Howard said.

The powerful Hawkeye star has a 1939 record of nine wins, one loss and a draw. He scored four of his victories at the Big Ten meet, beating two men who previously were undefeated in conference competition.

Among the entrants who will be out for heavyweight honors are Boston of Harvard, eastern champion; Hook of Syracuse, the runner-up; Chiga of Oklahoma A. & M., Buck of Iowa State, Big Six champion; and Hackney of Kansas State.

Cindermen To Minnesota For Meet Saturday

Handicapped somewhat by the encroachment on its territory by the spring footballers and baseballers, the University of Iowa track team is preparing itself for an invasion of Minneapolis this week end to meet the troublesome Minnesota tracksters in a dual meet Saturday.

Somewhat chastised by their below-average performance in the Big Ten conference meet at Chicago last week end the tracksters vow they will end the indoor season in a blaze of glory. This is the first time in many years that an Iowa track team has participated in a dual meet after the running of the conference championships but a mid-winter postponement of the Gopher dual caused the rare occurrence.

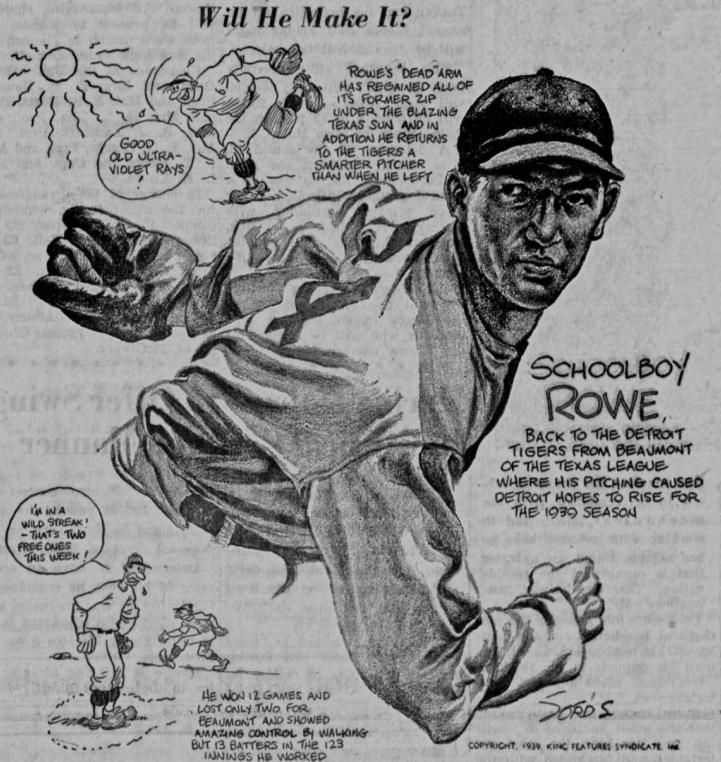

Most disappointed man on the team is Carl Teufel, who was edged out of a first place in the conference 440-yard dash by Howells of Ohio State. Pictures of the finish show Howells barely the width of a jersey ahead of the flying Iowan.

The mile relay team, expected to come close to a first in the finals, was handicapped by the exhausted condition of Carl, who ran his heart out in the near-record quarter mile.

The only Hawkeye who did what he was expected to do last week end was Whitey Roberts, the bashful pole vaulter, who landed in a tie for fifth place as Milt Padway, the conference champion from Wisconsin, won with a record-breaking vault of 14 feet, 5-8 inches.

The squad was heartened this week by the return of its coach, George Bresnahan, who missed his first conference meet since taking over here in 1921. Bresnahan spent last week in bed as a result of an influenza attack.

Two other track teams helped make things more crowded in the fieldhouse yesterday afternoon as the West Branch high school squad and the Cornell college runners worked out on the Hawkeye cinders. The latter team has been entered in the Armour relays which will be staged this Saturday at Chicago.

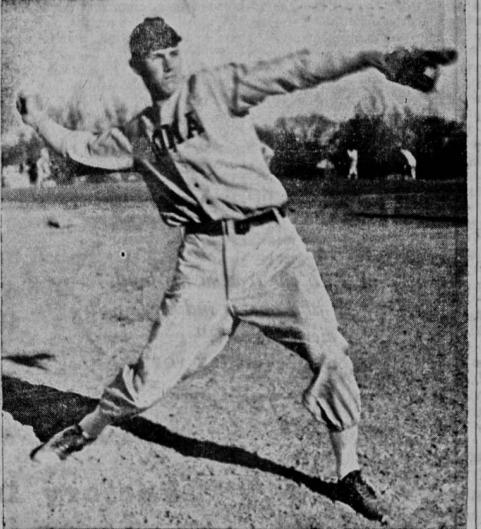

Iowa Baseball Squad in Intensive Drill For Opening Games in South in April

Iowa university's baseball squad continued its workouts yesterday following Monday's layoff. Coach Otto Vogel had given his men a respite from practice in preparation for a final hard week of indoor drill.

Coach Vogel plans to move the squad outside Friday if the present spring weather continues. With next in another three game series, the contests to be played at Jackson, Miss., April 6, 7 and 8.

The road trip ends with a single contest with St. Louis university April 10. The Hawks thus begin and end their southern trip with games in St. Louis.

Purdue university opens the home, and also the Big Ten season.

little more than two weeks remaining before the opening game against Washington of St. Louis, Vogel is faced with the problem of whipping the team into shape with comparatively few outdoor drills.

Pitchers Harold Haub and Ken Reid continue to look good in practice. The two moundsmen are expected to be the mainstays of the pitching staff this season. Fred "Hooker" Hohenhorst also joined the ranks of the hurlers recently, and may be a big aid to Haub and Reid.

The Hawkeyes leave on an eight game road trip the last of the month, opening with the Washington tilt April 1. Following a one day rest, the Hawks play a three game series with Louisiana Tech at Ruston, La., April 3, 4 and 5. Millsaps college is to be met

Try Again Perry, Vinson Decide On Another Trial

LOS ANGELES, March 14 (AP)—Helen Vinson, screen actress, and Fred Perry, former world's amateur tennis champion, have become reconciled, it became known today with the filing of a dismissal of their pending divorce suit.

The surprising reconciliation matched their unexpected marriage in Harrison, N. Y., Sept. 12, 1935. They separated Nov. 11, 1938. A month later the actress sued Perry for divorce on grounds of cruelty.

Miss Vinson's attorney said today the actress simply notified him she and Perry had decided to try married life again. Perry, former British Davis Cup star, is on a professional net tour. He played Donald Budge at Philadelphia last night.

NEWS BRIEFS FROM MAJOR LEAGUE CAMPS

BATON ROUGE, La., March 14 (AP)—Manager Bill Terry today added four games to his New York Giants' exhibition schedule. Two will be played with the Texas league Stars at Dallas March 28 and 29, one at Shreveport, La., March 30, and one with the U. S. military academy at West Point, April 17. As tuning-up for tomorrow's meeting with the Jersey City "farm-hands," Terry sent the squad through skill practice and a workout on infield practice.

NEW ORLEANS, March 14 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians played a night baseball behind the seventh hit pitching of Johnny Humphries, Charles Suche and Joe Dobson today, and walloped the New Orleans Pelicans 6 to 1 in an exhibition game. Manager Oscar Vitt shifted his infield defense by moving Second Baseman Oscar Grimes to first, and giving Him Shilling, Pelican graduate, a chance at second. The move helped the offense. Grimes got a home run in four times at bat, and Shilling connected for a single and double in four trips.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 14 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals not only dropped a game to the Cincinnati Reds, 9 to 2, today but they also lost the services of Catcher Don Padgett for an indefinite period. Don suffered a dislocated left shoulder as he slipped and fell rounding second base. Bucky Walter pitched seven innings for the Reds and hit a home run inside the park with the bases loaded in the seventh. Ernie Lombardi also slapped out a homer. Kenneth Raffensberger started for the Cards and yielded only one hit in three impressive innings.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 14 (AP)—A sore foot will keep Jim Walkup from accompanying the St. Louis Browns to the third game with the Phillies. With Walkup out, Manager Fred Haney said he will use John Kramer and Bill Pyle, southpaw, on the mound. More intensive batting practice was the order of business at this afternoon's practice session.

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 14 (AP)—Connie Mack is having his troubles trying to swap Holdout Bill Werber, Athletics third baseman. He suggested Holdout Earl Averill, veteran Cleveland Indians outfielder, but was turned down. "I've been trying all winter to do something about Werber," Mack said, "but I'm not going to give him away."

Hawkeyes Point For Swim Meet With Wildcats

Upon Capt. Ray Walters, along with the medley and free style relay teams, rest most of Iowa's hopes for victory in the dual swimming meet Saturday at Northwestern.

Outside of the sprints, where Walters and Gene Kershaw are expected to provide the Hawkeye strength, and the relays, the meet should be fairly even, according to the figures.

Performances by the two teams in their meets this year, indicate that the Wildcats figure to carry off most of the points in the 220 and 440-yard free style events, while the Hawks are possible, if not probable, winners of first places in the backstroke and breaststroke.

The failure of Carl Ahlgren and Bill Tesla, due largely to their inability to get into training until the season was ready to begin, has weakened the Iowa team in both the distance events, and Northwestern carries much of its strength here.

However, with George Poulos and Bob Lowry in the breaststroke and Al Armbruster and Tony Bremer in the backstroke, the Hawks remain superior in these two events. Lowry, swimming his last meet for Iowa, is facing an old high school rival in Suttler, the Wildcat breaststroker.

Also in their last meets are the Iowa captain, Ray Walters, who hopes for a bright end to a year that has been darkened by illness and injury, Larry Hayes and Gene Kershaw.

Besides Walters and Lowry, the other seniors are expected to figure strongly in the meet. Hayes, along with Frank Brandon, should bring Iowa some points in the diving. Although the Hawkeyes are not expected to finish with a first place here, Hayes and Brandon should both place.

Charles Hotle Stops Frank Craven For Lone KO of Day

Fistic warfare broke out again on the fieldhouse athletic front yesterday as battlers in the all-university boxing tournament fought their way to the division finals. Three bouts, with one knockout included, gave the crowd its afternoon's entertainment.

In a battle that featured the opening day's fighting, Bill Humphrey, main hope of the Phi Psi's, advanced to the fraternity 175-pound final by pouncing out a narrow three-round margin over Walter Wright, stocky Delta Upsilon puncher. Humphrey, using a long left hand that found Wright's nose with monotonous regularity, kept Wright off balance most of the time, but never had the Delta Upsilon slugger in danger.

Wright began hostilities in an auspicious manner when he waded out of his corner at the opening bell and drove Humphrey into the ropes with a two-fisted flurry. He slowed down after Humphrey began to spear the Wright features with straight lefts, but managed to gain a slight margin for the opening stanza. After that, with Wright tripping rapidly, Humphrey took charge of matters. He evened things in the second round, staved off Wright's brief rally early in the third and went on to win the decision.

In the only bout that failed to last the distance, Charles Hotle of Kellogg punted Frank Craven of Gables with such vigor that Craven's seconds tossed in the towel as the bell ended the first round.

Craven had given the crowd its biggest thrill of the day when he opened the fight by sneaking over a right hand wallop that put the seat of Hotle's trousers, with Hotle still in them, to the floor. The Kellogg entry didn't count 10, but he waded into Referee Earl Chism had counted off nine and he was still in bad humor.

The remainder of the fray was all swinging on Hotle's part, with Craven catching most of the time. After taking several in the midsection, Craven began to sink to the floor and Referee Chism stepped in to stop the slaughter. Impressed, however, by the insistence of Craven and his backers that the fight was far from over, Chism allowed the combat to be resumed.

What followed was merely a little more of what had gone before, and Craven's towel came sailing into the ring when he waded into a corner, after taking a few more, and stood propped against the ropes with his gaze fastened on the far side of the fieldhouse.

The co-op dorm 136 pound title was settled in a battle that saw Ernest Bush of Chesley outrush Robert Vining, also of Chesley, in a close bout. Bush was slightly more aggressive throughout the three rounds, but failed to damage Vining to any extent.

Pirates vs. Cubs

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., March 14 (AP)—Manager Pie Traynor tonight picked Southpaw Kenney Heintzelman to pitch Friday against San Diego in the first game of a long exhibition tour for the Pirates.

Nick Randunich will relieve Heintzelman and Bill Clemensen will follow Randunich to the mound. Traynor is saving his first string hurlers, Big Jim Tobin and Russ Bauers, for games Saturday and Sunday with the Cubs in Los Angeles.

Soft and furry as a kitten and light as a feather is the fine angora-and-wool fabric from which this tricky little three-piece suit is fashioned. Woven in a suede-like, two-tone effect you'll definitely feel smooth and at ease wearing the short, high-buttoned (of course, they're mother-of-pearl discs) jacket with a jauntily flared skirt and a gay silk blouse. If you're a little partial to the warm tan or brown shades, Toast, a hue with Paree written all over it, will flatter you and those indispensable spectator pumps that you'll be wearing all spring and summer.

Gardenias make a fragrant puff in your lapel as well as a floral accessory for a smartly tailored reefer coat. Gores in the soft, sturdy tweed make the lines look trim and youthful. It's a knockout for Easter morning and just the thing to wear over different spring frocks. If you are open to color suggestions, slip on one in powder blue, glance in the mirror—and then try to take it off!

Why not be a color spot on wet spring days as well as when old Sol is shining? A polka dot, tailored coat made from a new silky, rubberized material will help clear up the cloudy skies. And a new high in those bothersome galoshes is a pair in white rubber with Scotch plaid tops that wrap around the ankle and snap in back.

Another plum in the raincoat line is a reversible, man-tailored number. Wear it top side out, and you're sporting a casual coat of rough, imported English tweed. Wear it inside out, and you're dodging raindrops in a natural-colored arctic fabric.

Still in the rainy season market—gloves and purses can be just as chic and yet waterproof. Patent leather is always a stand-by and it's tops again this spring. But if you want to step out carrying your latest purse discovery, a transparent, rubber envelope will keep it neat and dry.

"Heart breaker" is a romantic evening gown with a quaint old-fashioned charm making it doubly dangerous for masculine hearts. A wide taffeta ruffle outlines the V-shaped, off-the-shoulder neckline while tiny velvet bows top the velvet straps. Following fashion's latest pet, another ruffle falls from the hip line. Yards and yards of swishy taffeta make a real hoop skirt minus the hoop. And when you dance or promenade, you'll have a faint whisper following you.

Short leg-o'-mutton sleeves, high neckline with two brilliant clips, six crystal buttons down the front, and elastic shirring at the waist are the striking points of a little black, silk-crepe dinner frock. Just to give it a different punch, change your clips and buttons. A Roman striped sash tied about your narrow waist will give it another sparkling touch.

"Nip and Tuck" your way along the Easter fashion parade dressed in spicy rose silk and wool frock. The shrugged shoulder line will help those narrow shoulders and the tucked bodice and nipped in waist will give a streamline finish to your figure. Don a navy blue straw sailor with rose grosgrain streamers, slip your toes into severe blue suede pumps, carry a blue suede suitcase bag and gloves and you'll really shine!

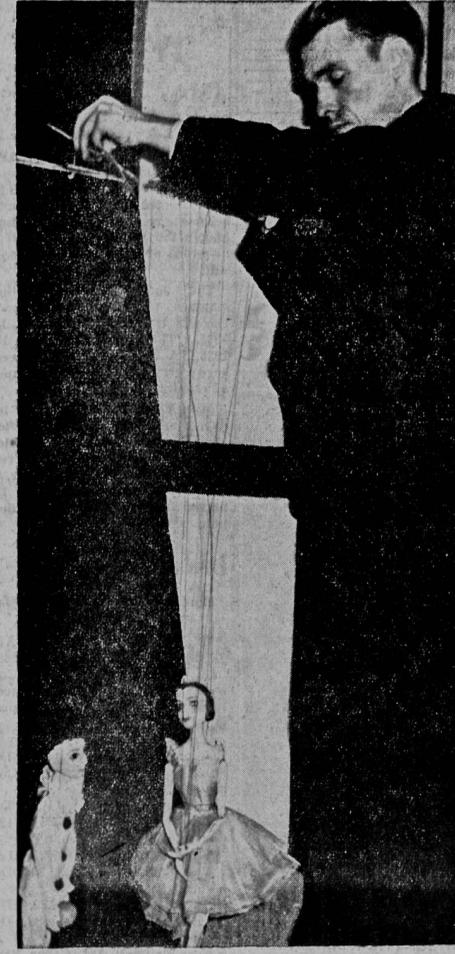

No stinting pennies for a happy-go-lucky shirtmaker in cyclamen wool crepe with a sprinkling of green polka dots. Four tiny leaf buttons trip down the front to meet a wide banded waistline. Short sleeves have narrow cuffs and two hip pockets are buttoned in place.

"A Bonnie gay bonnet" to perch on a curly head is made of bright red straw cloth with navy grosgrain ribbons falling down the back. For a British accent comes a Breton hat with a wide side sweep brim in rough straw. Hyacinth blue for the straw and fuchsia taffeta for the bow trim meets with the approval of the spring color chart.

Attention, please requires a grey flannel in a trim, unlined bellhop jacket with high, wide and handkethball club, outing club, hockey club and archery club, and Wilma Kerr, A3 of Washington, a member of the basketball and outing clubs.

Dancer, Clown, Witch, Princess—All In Marionette Show at Union Library

Zarina, the ballet dancer, a Scottish highlander, a skeleton, a clown and a witch that literally turned into a princess were among the puppets that dangled before the eyes of university students last night at a marionette presentation in Iowa Union library.

Orville Boeck, a master craftsman who took up the hobby of puppet making while he was doing social service work in Chicago took his audience away from the world of the usual and into the puppet world of the unbelievable.

Mr. Boeck found that work with the marionettes fascinated 'teen age boys at the Hull house in Chicago, and when he went to the Friendly house in Davenport he took the idea of this handicraft along.

He has experienced in constructing the dolls with all kinds of materials, but has found that plastic wood for the heads and soft pine for the bodies are the best. He has also found that newspaper-pulp heads were apt to crumble too easily if the puppet was used often.

Each doll is jointed in the knees, ankles, waist, arms and neck, and many of the complex ones have even more joints. The singer appearing with Mr. Boeck's troupe, for instance, has a jointed mouth to facilitate singing. The skeleton that flies into space has many more joints than the usual doll, too, as his head, arms and legs fall off without provocation and then nimbly fit together again.

The usual professional puppet is 24 inches high, but Mr. Boeck used a 22-inch doll. He specializes in tricks which must be done fast to create the impression he wishes to convey.

He has not done much play presentation with his dolls as some, white pique revers. Six grey bone buttons are caught on according to the bellhop design. The skirt swoops out to give a nice easy swing with your steps. Just to finish it off, tie a white pique pillbox under your chin, add white gloves and purse and you're set for another conquest.

Don Ameche, the Ritz Brothers, Binnie Barnes appear in a musical comedy version of Dumas' masterpiece, "The Three Musketeers," opening at the Strand today.

that requires the dramatic talent to be combined with the mechanical talent, and in working with younger boys he has seldom found an operator that is capable of the combination. Therefore he uses pantomimes only.

Combining his love for the mechanical, handicraft and the theater in his hobby, Mr. Boeck has used his puppets in the fields of advertising, education and entertainment.

Surprisingly, he has noticed that the adult audience of working men has been the most entertained and fascinated with the puppets.

The show was presented under the auspices of Union Board and the library committee. Mr. Boeck, who received his B.A. degree from the University of Michigan, is now working on his M.A. degree from the University of Iowa in art.

Herbie Holmes To Offer Swing In 'Musical Cocktail' Manner

A "musical cocktail" with a haunting touch of the blues will be offered by Herbie Holmes and his orchestra of southern gentlemen from the Mississippi delta when they appear on the Iowa campus for the super-exclusive Club Cabaret March 31.

A lucky star seemed to fasten over Herbie's head and during his last two years in college he won the Eddie Cantor NBC United Artists Picture contest in singing. As his reward he was entertained in New York as the personal guest of Eddie Cantor.

Determined to have an orchestra of his own, he organized a band after he was graduated and went on the road under the name of "The Young Maestro from the Mississippi Delta."

Herbie is bringing his orchestra to the campus directly from

"With one foot on the land, and one in industry, America is safe."
—HENRY FORD

Factory in a Meadow

A DOZEN small Ford plants dot the fields and meadows within fifty miles of Dearborn. We call them the "village industries." Their windows are bright in the sun, and their wheels turn to the harnessed energy of once lazy streams.

Many of their workers are farmers who love fine machinery. After harvest and before green-up, these farmer-workmen park their cars in neat rows beside the plants. Inside, with the newest, most modern machines, they build Ford parts.

With the money earned, they buy that fertile forty just east of the pasture lot—families go to school—houses grow wings—barns are filled with provender and sheds with back-saving machinery.

These Ford families have one foot on the land and one in industry.

They raise food for themselves and feel secure. They know that if slack times come, farm and garden will still provide employment.

Life is pleasant in the villages. Working conditions are almost ideal. Men do better work and are proud of their contribution to Ford quality. It shows up in the fine performance and all-around dependability of the 1939 Ford cars.

Maurois To Give Lecture Tonight in Macbride Auditorium

French Critic Will Discuss Types of Wit

Well-Known Writer Received Education At College of Rouen

Andre Maurois, historian, biographer, novelist and critic, will lecture tonight at 8 o'clock in Macbride auditorium under the auspices of the university lecture series on the subject, "French Wit, English and American Humor."

Maurois is a Frenchman by birth; a cosmopolitan in his interests and understanding. Born July 26, 1885, at Elbeuf, a small city in Normandy, he received his formal education at the College of Rouen. He had an ambition to be a professor of philosophy.

He passed all the examinations necessary to such a career and took his degree, but fate stepped in. He yielded to the wishes of his parents to carry on their tradition of manufacturing. Following the inevitable military service that is the lot of every Frenchman, he spent several years in his native Normandy directing such unilitary operations as spinning and weaving. The urge to write, however, is not easily suppressed and during these years he made voluminous notes, and wrote essays and stories.

Came the World war, and because he was familiar with English, he was attached to the British troops as liaison officer. Naturally he continued to take notes. He wrote a book. Presently he showed it to one of his comrades in arms, who offered to submit it to a publisher in Paris.

It was a short book—the sort of a book that the times required. It was accepted, published and became extremely successful.

One hundred thousand copies were sold. The book was called "Les Silences du Colonel Bramble." Through it Maurois became a celebrated author.

Came the Armistice. Maurois could at last be free of war and industrial life. He could get his mind off killing and spinning and weaving. He could go to Paris—and write!

How well he has succeeded is known to all lovers of contemporary literature. The resounding success scored by "Ariel, the Life of Shelley" first introduced his talents to the English and American reading public.

Maurois arrived on the Ile de France Feb. 21 and was at the Ritz-Carlton hotel until March 1 when he gave his first lecture at the town hall in New York. He spoke at the Academy of Music in Philadelphia March 6 and in Boston March 7.

In addition to Iowa City he is scheduled to lecture in Cincinnati, Detroit, Columbus, Chicago, Minneapolis, Dallas, Ft. Worth and San Antonio in Texas, and Decatur, Georgia and Greensboro, N. C. He will end his tour April 3 in Toronto, Canada.

Harper and Brothers report that his latest book, "Chateaubriand," is on their best-seller list.

Maurois is one with Disraeli in saying: "I am a radical to eradicate what is bad, and I am a conservative to conserve what is good."

Admission to the lecture is by ticket. Tickets went into circulation Monday at the Iowa Union desk. Any tickets which remain today will be available to the general public.

Luncheon To Honor Maurois

Andre Maurois, noted French biographer - essayist, will be guest of honor this noon at a luncheon at Iowa Union.

Maurois, who will be presented in a university lecture tonight at Macbride auditorium, will speak informally in French at the luncheon.

The luncheon, scheduled for 12 noon, is under the direction of Prof. Grace Cochran of the Romance languages department.

Burlington Woman Weds J. Courtright At Home of Bride

A pergola and lattice work background for white freesias and green plumosus formed the setting for the wedding of Virginia Jugenheimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Jugenheimer of Burlington, and John Louis Courtright last Saturday at 3 p.m.

The single ring ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. J. T. Parker of the First Baptist church in the home of the bride's parents. Alice Irher of Burlington and Leo Wellington of Ft. Madison served as attendants for the bridal couple.

White Lumara satin in princess style with a train fashioned the gown of the bride. A high cowl neckline, long tight-fitting sleeves and fine seed pearls applied on the bodice and puffed sleeves were other fashion details. Her long illusion veil was fashioned cap effect with satin piping forming a tiara. Chantilly lace edged the veil and was inserted in the train. Her bouquet was of calla lilies. Her only jewelry was a bracelet of hair and French gold, an heirloom worn by the bride's mother at her wedding, and a cameo ring, the gift of the bridegroom and an heirloom of the Courtright family.

Miss Irher wore an empire gown of sapphire blue in moire taffeta, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and puffed sleeves. Her arm bouquet was of tallman roses.

The bride was graduated from Burlington high school and junior college. She attended the University of Iowa and the University of Colorado. She is a member of Phi Omega Pi Theta Epsilon sorority.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Courtright of Ft. Madison and was graduated from the Ft. Madison high school and Iowa Wesleyan college in Mt. Pleasant, where he was affiliated with Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. He is now serving as an investigator for old age pensions in Lee county.

The couple are at home at 1111 Avenue F in Ft. Madison after a short wedding trip.

Jones-Pratt

Standing before garlanded windows and a background of tall candelabra and palms, Marjorie Pratt, daughter of Clyde Pratt of Washington, Ia., became the bride of Lester Jones, son of Fred Jones, last Thursday evening.

The Rev. Dr. Arthur Attack read the nuptial vows in the presence of 30 guests and members of the immediate families. Mr. and Mrs. Don Welsh of Cedar Rapids served as attendants.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white chiffon, styled on princess lines. The waist was fashioned with a round neckline, a gathered yoke with pearly buttons extending down the front and a round neckline. The short sleeves of the gown were shirred and puffed. Her white lace veil extended to the waistline and her only jewelry was a pearl ring. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, blue cornflowers and forget-me-nots.

Mrs. Welsh's gown, a two piece dress, had a blouse of dusty rose with ocean pearl feather clips at the neckline and a floor-length skirt of powder blue. With this she wore blue accessories and carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses and sweet peas in shades of lavender and rose.

Mrs. Jones was graduated from the Washington high school, attended the University of Wisconsin for one year and in 1936 was graduated from the University of Iowa. She was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity.

Mr. Jones was also graduated from the Washington high school, attended Washington junior college and Iowa State Teachers college. He was a student in the college of commerce of the University of Iowa for two years. He is now associated with the Northwestern Mutual Insurance company.

After April 1 the couple will be at home in Washington.

Prof. Loehwing Speaks To Members of Sociology Club

Which is more important in the life of an organism, heredity or environment? It is about as futile and pedantic to discuss this ancient question as it is to argue which came first—the chicken or the egg.

This was the opinion expressed by Prof. W. F. Loehwing of the botany department while discussing "Recent Developments in the Field of Genetics" at a luncheon meeting of the Sociology club yesterday.

"Nature abhors extremes. She abhors rigidities," Professor Loehwing explained. "It is man that creates such artificialities as 'environment' and 'heredity' in order to clarify his own thinking and make order out of biological facts. It is stupid to discuss heredity and environment independently. We must always consider environment only with a certain heredity, and heredity with a certain environment. This means that we must know both of them exactly, if we are to discuss their relative importance."

To illustrate his argument that heredity and environment are not the distinct, separate influences they are commonly thought to be, Professor Loehwing cited recent experimental work on cytoplasm.

"It has long been commonly believed that heredity is what the individual inherits in the chromatin of the cell," he explained. "But there are certain traits 100 per cent influenced by the cytoplasm of the cell rather than by the genes or chromosomes."

Experiments have revealed that cytoplasm can be modified by such external conditions as changes in temperature, light, and other factors. These changed conditions may not be extreme, but if they persist for a sufficient length of time, they have a marked effect on the chromosomes.

"Heretofore, biologists believed that cytoplasm of the cell was merely the environment of the heredity mechanism of the cell," Professor Loehwing continued. "Now they believe it is part of the hereditary mechanism itself."

"Another thing that has recently interested geneticists is the anomaly of the true-breeding hybrid," he said. Hybrids are individuals that result from the mating of organisms of different species. It was formerly thought that the offspring of hybrids reverted to either one of the original species, but there have been examples of the offspring of hybrid breeding true to the parent hybrid.

"The fact that hybrids are stable and sexually reproducible is commercially important because we are always trying to create better species and perpetuate them," Professor Loehwing concluded.

'St. Joan'—

the Dauphin of France was another striking role splendidly done. And in the upper bracket of performances was Ronald Van Arsdale as the Bishop of Beauvais.

Henderson Forsythe as the Earl of Warwick turned in a performance that was among the best. Joseph Becker had his best role of the season to date as the Archbishop of Rheims, and he did it well.

William Wetherbee as Dunois and Glenn Starlin as Captain la Hire were consistent throughout the play. James Waery, outside the humorous role he does so well, proved himself to be equally effective in the role of a merciful priest.

And all the rest of the members of the cast were very fine. "St. Joan" had not a single misfit in its cast.

One criticism, which is intended to be constructive, is this: I grew tired of being shouted at during the opening scenes. "St. Joan" is intended to be dynamic and dramatic, but a little more action and a little less voice will perhaps drive that drama home more effectively. Everyone was guilty of shouting last night in the opening scene.

We never have to mention the settings of Prof. A. S. Gillette, the costumes of Winifred Gross Felton and the lighting of Prof. H. D. Sellman. We have come to recognize the genius of these three among University theater's staff members. Last night was another shining example of fine work on their part.

And the magnificent lighting effects throughout last night's play, enhanced by the type of costumes provided by Mrs. Felton, were certainly worthy of praise.

We all recognized "St. Joan" to be a Mable-directed play, and that, in University of Iowa circles and beyond, is always complimentary.

For "St. Joan," we extend congratulations to everyone involved.

Junior Colleges, Communities, High Schools Will Participate In 14th Iowa Play Festival

Annual Affair Will Be March 23, 24, 25 At SUI Art Building

Ten junior colleges and 23 communities will participate in the first part of the 14th annual Iowa play production festival March 23, 24 and 25 at the university.

The high school festival will begin March 27 and continue through April 1. All sessions of the festival will be in the art building.

An informal luncheon for the members of the play production casts has been scheduled for 12 noon March 24. At 4 o'clock that same day the Iowa City Women's club will entertain the directors of the various casts and other guests at tea.

The festival program includes demonstrations and round table discussions on problems of acting, directing, staging, play-writing and educational aspects of dramatic art.

Players from Iowa high schools, junior colleges, little theaters, church groups, women's clubs and community organizations, participants in county contests, authors of new plays and all others interested in the writing and production of one-act plays have been invited.

Community plays are divided into three classifications. Class A includes organized little theater groups which produce plays extensively under a specifically named director or directors.

Community drama groups, which produce plays only occasionally under various directors or members, are in class B.

The first productions of original one-act plays written and entered by western playwrights compose class C. Plays included in this class are given two ratings, one based on the merits of the play itself, another on the merits of the production.

All Iowa junior colleges are eligible to enroll. The program for the community and junior college play production festival has just been issued by Donald Winbiger, associate in speech, the festival secretary.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

CHAPTER FORTY-FIVE "GOOD LORD" Mac stuck his nose into the powder box that held the cyanide. "Where did this come from?"

"In the salon—second anteroom shelf—" "The salon, eh?" He moistened his fingertip and touched it to the powder. "Genius, Elsie, genius!" he muttered, shaking his head. "How'd you happen to run onto it?"

"I told him and he nodded slowly: "Of course! The logical hiding place! And anyone might have put it there. Anyone!" He stuffed the box into his pocket and helped me to my feet. "Keep this under your hat for the time being, girl!"

"All right, Mac." "Telephone, Mr. McIntyre." Hawkins appeared at the foot of the stairs. "I've put you on in the library."

"O. K., Hawkins, my lad!" Mac galloped down the stairs and slapped the astonished butler on the back. "Come on, Elsie! We'll see what Elsie has to say for himself!"

In the library he closed the door and spoke slowly into the mouthpiece. I waited beside him—on pins and needles. "Yes—yes—what? Are you positive? Well, I'll be a monkey's grandma!" He let the receiver fall noisily to the table. "Elsie," he said, and on his face there was an expression of mingled stupefaction and amazement. "Elsie says the cyanide was procured from that chain drug store on North High street, Columbus—and—and that the purchaser was—Mrs. Horace Witherspoon!"

"Mrs. Horace?" I repeated stupidly. "How can that be?" "It could be, Elsie! It could be!" McIntyre's expression altered. It became stern, purposeful. "It fits! Oh, how beautifully it fits!"

"What fits?" He was speaking in riddles again. "All the little pieces, girl! Every last one of them!"

"Then you know—who is the murderer?" "Yes, I know," he sighed. "And I haven't enough evidence to convince a jury of two-year-olds."

I began: "But how—" "By golly!" He slapped his thighs. "We have one chance! One chance—" "Do we?"

"We do!" He seemed to shake himself mentally. His eyes narrowed. I knew that he was speaking more to himself than to me, but I listened eagerly: "X will never in this world confess—unless—" "Yes!" I leaned forward. "Unless he is caught in the act!" he concluded, clipping his words to staccato time.

"The act?" I could only echo inanely. "The act of murder, girl! The act of murder!" "Oh! I caught my breath in my throat."

"Don't be frightened," He smiled at me. "It won't be as bad as it sounds. I'm not going to let anyone else be harmed. When I say X must be trapped into committing a fourth crime, I mean that he must be given the incentive and the opportunity to do murder. Naturally, I shan't permit him to accomplish his purpose."

I questioned fearfully: "Then Xstranger to me. The man who

Charge Spoils By Republicans

Members Organize Drive To Eliminate Democrats From Jobs

DES MOINES, March 14 (AP)—An organized drive has been launched by republicans in the Iowa house to eliminate democrats from state jobs and to fill them with republicans, it was learned today.

The drive was planned at a caucus of house republicans recently and has been followed up with letters and personal visits to state officials from a committee of nine named at the caucus.

The letters to state officials are signed by nine members of the committee.

State executives reported today they had been specifically asked by committee members who came to their offices to see that all state jobs are held by republicans and that hold-over democrats be dismissed as rapidly as possible.

The letters to the state officials are not so specific. They state that at the republican caucus, held March 6, "it was voted that a committee of house members, consisting of one member from each congressional district, be selected by the respective districts to wait upon the state officials and confer with them regarding matters of patronage."

"To that end," the letter continues, "this committee, duly selected, respectfully requests that you furnish it with the following information:

"1. The name and address of each employe in your office or department.

"2. The date of appointment by you of said employe.

"3. Whether said employe is a hold-over.

"4. The position and salary of said employe.

"5. The party affiliation of said employe and remarks incidental thereto."

The letters were written on stationery of Representative Earl Fishbaugh Jr. (R - Shenandoah), chairman of the committee.

Other members of the committee are Representative William Morrison of Iowa City, C. F. Shimaneck of Monticello, J. R. Shales of Tripoli, F. E. Sharp of Elkader, X. T. Prentiss of Mt. Airy, Curtis W. Gregory of Adel, A. C. Greene of Denison, and M. D. Van Oosterhout of Orange City.

LINGLE, Wyo. (AP)—A share of Wyoming's grasshoppers have been sentenced to die by electrocution next summer.

L. L. Long, Lingle farmer, has patented a machine that he says will electrocute 70 per cent of the 'hoppers in a field.

It consists of a number of metal bars set closely together to form a barrier. It is attached to the front of a car or tractor and electrified by current from the car's battery.

Long said the 'hoppers strike it and are killed instantly. Driving over a field once, only 30 per cent of the 'hoppers escaped, he said.

Jurors for Edwards Estate To Hear Further Testimony

Former Marshall County Sheriff Gave Evidence Yesterday

Petit jurors for the Dr. J. A. Edwards estate $16,000 damage suit have been instructed to return at 9 o'clock this morning by Judge James P. Gaffney. Further testimony will be heard in the case which is entering its third day in the Johnson county district court.

C. E. Wicklund, former sheriff of Marshall county, completed his testimony yesterday afternoon before the court was adjourned for the day. Wicklund, the sixth witness for the plaintiff to take the stand, was sheriff of Marshall county at the time the automobile collision occasioning the suit occurred.

Alva Hutson, Dr. Edwards and Dr. Howard L. Beye were killed in the accident which took place at the intersections of primary highways 30 and 88 near Marshalltown Sept. 29, 1936.

B. H. Grey, administrator of the estate of Mr. Hutson, is seeking damages from Charles M. Edwards, administrator of the Dr. Edwards estate. Grey states in his petition that Hutson was driving his machine east on U. S. highway 30, while Edwards was operator of the car coming on the highway in the opposite direction.

Edwards was driving at such a rate of speed, the petition reads, that he could not control his machine and that he failed to stay on his side of the highway, resulting in the accident.

Other witnesses for the plaintiff who testified yesterday were Dwight Hutson, Cambridge, son of Alva Hutson; R. E. Apgar, Marshalltown, photographer; Dr. William M. Spear, sole surviving occupant of the Edwards car in the collision, Oakdale; Richard C. Varnum, who resides five and a half miles west of Marshalltown, and Roy Kiser, Marshalltown.

Ten men and two women comprise the jury hearing the case. Prosecuting attorneys for the case are the law firms of Farber and Rockhill, Marshalltown, and Byington and Rate, Iowa City, and attorneys for the defense are Attorney Will J. Hayek and the law firm of Messer and Cahill.
