BRITAIN MOVES TO PROTECT GREECE

Greek Leader Says Country Ready To Fight

Albanian Royal Family Will Continue Flight To Safety in Egypt

ATHENS, April 10 (AP)—Premier George Metaxas, disturbed by the presence of Italian troops on Greece's frontier since the fascist "Good Friday" conquest of Albania, assured the Greek people today his government was determined to defend the nation's independence.

Albania's refugee royal family was expected tonight to resume its flight to Egypt shortly because it may become politically embarrassing if it were to remain in Greece.

"In order to remove all disquiet from Greek public opinion," a government broadcast message said, "the Greek government declares that it has all elements as to be in a position to give the Greek people assurances that Greek independence and integrity are fully secured.

"The Greek people may quietly continue peaceful works with full confidence that the government is on vigil for Greece's safety and honor."

Report Italians Landing
A source of anxiety for Greece were reports at Piraeus of recent landings of Italian troops and large consignments of munitions on all islands of Italy's Dodecanese group, in the Aegean sea, particularly on Rhodes, the largest.

King Zog took his family to Volo, on the Aegean coast, on the way to the Greek summer resort, Fortaria, where his 23-year-old queen, Geraldine, can recover from the ordeal of her flight from Albania two days after the birth of her son.

With the king and queen were Crown Prince Skander, now five days old, and the king's three unmarried sisters, Princesses Myseven, Rihje and Maxhide, who visited the United States last year. The royal entourage included 115 persons.

Queen Geraldine, daughter of an American mother and Hungarian nobleman father, was reported to have suffered intensely from physical and mental shock in her sudden flight from Tirana, Albania's conquered capital. She was under the constant attendance of two physicians and a nurse.

Queen Suffers
Geraldine was said to have suffered two hemorrhages during the jolting drive over the back mountain roads to the frontier. The physicians and nurse were understood to have been called primarily because of the hemorrhages.

It was learned that her personal physician, an Austrian Jew in whom she had great confidence, was forced to leave Albania before the child was born, a fact which depressed her greatly.

Greek authorities were understood to have agreed to permit the queen to remain in this country until she has recovered sufficiently to travel without endangering her health.

No Asylum in Greece
It was emphasized, however, that Greece had given no indication that fugitive Albanian government officials would be given permanent asylum in this country.

Persons who knew the tortuous mountain road which Geraldine had to travel in a makeshift ambulance to reach Florina, Greece, from Tirana expressed amazement that she survived the experience. They said only part of the road was surfaced.

Her cries could be heard in the streets when the ambulance reached Florina last Saturday after a 14-hour trip. After being reunited with King Zog there, she and the baby were placed in a special railroad car attached to a regular train and moved to the outskirts of Salonika yesterday. From there the royal refugees went to Larissa, where they spent last night in the car on a railroad siding.

Persons in close touch with King Zog said he had enough money to enable him to live in a reign country.

Driver Of This Car Cheated Death

Joe Netolicky, 51, Amana, suffered only lacerations of the face late yesterday afternoon when his automobile, above, overturned and crashed into a ditch six miles north of Iowa City. He was taken to University hospital after the accident.

Draft Dodger Is Homesick

Rich American Exile To Leave Germany For U. S. Jail Term

NEW YORK, April 10 (AP)—After 19 years of exile in Germany, Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the World War draft dodger, is coming home because he wants to live here and see his children become good Americans.

His pretty German wife, Berta, who arrived today on the Hamburg American liner St. Louis with four of their five children, said Bergdoll was homesick and anxious to restore himself to his former status by serving the 5-year sentence imposed on him by an army court martial for evading military service.

Bergdoll will sail for the United States at the earliest opportunity, she said.

"It may be next week, it may be earlier," the brown haired woman said. "He wanted me and the children to get settled safely here before he started. He didn't want to come back and be put in prison and maybe have us kept out of the country."

"And now we all will stay here, and the children will grow up to be fine Americans."

In the midtown office of her husband's lawyer, Harry Weinberger, who defended him at the court martial early in 1920, she looked affectionately at the four children—Alfred, 11; Emma, 10; Mina, 9, and Erwin, 5.

"The baby, Vega, is 3 1-2 years old," she said. "You see they all speak English, for the older ones went to school in Philadelphia when I was here before."

Weinberger contends Bergdoll is an American citizen, that citizenship is an inalienable right which cannot be lost save through renunciation by the individual.

"You can lose your citizenship (See EXILE, page 6)

DEFENDANT DEAD

Judge Dismisses Count Against Victim

DES MOINES, April 10 (AP)—An overtime parking charge against a man who had been dead three weeks came up for decision before Municipal Judge Ralph L. Powers today.

The case, which was dismissed, was against W. L. Lowe, Salvation Army officer, fatally shot by a hitchhiker March 25. The summons was issued March 16—one week before he was killed.

Torrio Faces 12-Year Term

NEW YORK, April 10 (AP)—Johnny (The Immune) Torrio, deciding he wasn't immune to relentless government prosecution, pleaded guilty today in federal court to a charge of $86,000 income tax evasion.

The maximum penalty is 12 years in prison and $30,000 fine. Sentencing was set for Wednesday.

The sudden reversal brought his trial, which started March 29, to an abrupt and dramatic end, and cancelled tentative government plans to bring Al Capone to New York to testify against Torrio, who was generally known as Capone's tutor in Chicago's old racket-ridden days.

Torrio's brother-in-law, William Slockbower, and James La Penna, co-defendants, followed Torrio's lead and changed their pleas from innocent to guilty.

Federal Judge John W. Clancy then declared a mistrial for the other two defendants, Lois V. La Cava and John D'Agostino.

Torrio, a small, quiet man, who gained his label from his seeming immunity to both gunfire and prosecution, was linked by government witnesses to widespread liquor operations both in Chicago and New York.

British Naval Base at Malta Rigs Defenses

MALTA, April 10 (AP)—Excitement mounted tonight in this island naval base, keystone of Britain's Mediterranean defense system, as extraordinary defense precautions were put into effect.

Gas masks were distributed to civilians.

All British officers and seamen ashore were called to report for duty by an emergency summons.

The few American citizens residing in Malta were advised to leave.

Families of many British naval and army officers departed for England.

Cause of the unusual precautions was not disclosed, but Malta is astride the vital sea route between the eastern and western sections of the Mediterranean where tension has arisen since Italy's seizure of Albania.

Bristling with guns, the rocky island is only 55 miles from the southern tip of Sicily.

Ever since the 1935 crisis over Italy's invasion of Ethiopia, Britain has been putting tiny Malta into fighting trim. Huge supplies of munitions and food have been secreted underground to preserve it in case of a long siege.

Hidden guns, electrically controlled sea mines and cleverly concealed "suicide squads" of machine-guns guard the island which is a base for land, sea and air forces.

Malta is 17 miles long and nine miles wide, but most of its harbor facilities, docks and airbases are concentrated at the southeastern corner. Its ring of forts are unimpressive to the casual observer, but below ground there are huge rooms and tunnels cut through solid rock.

Defenses are so arranged that Britain believes small handfuls of men could hold large areas of Malta's bays against anything except direct hits.

Dutch Call Up Border Troops

AMSTERDAM, April 10 (AP)—The Netherlands tonight called up border troops for military duty because of "war danger" seen in the international situation.

A royal decree brought the border battalions up to full strength in the face of disquieting developments abroad.

An official statement, which emphasized that the measure was merely precautionary, said: "By royal decree it is decided that the actual international situation is containing war danger, therefore border battalions on Monday were called under arms.

"This must not be considered as a direct result of events of the last days, but that the general European situation makes a better border defense desirable for maintaining the policy of independence.

"Holland can now meet development of the situation with more easiness."

Premier Hendrik Colijn is to make a broadcast tomorrow at 9:40 a. m. (2:40 a. m., CST) in which he is expected to urge the nation to remain calm and quiet.

Regular battalions, which have been partly on leave during the Easter holiday, now are at full strength and will be bolstered by the calling of border troops.

Backs Promise By Dispatching Ships to Corfu

Help Offered To Turkey To Protect Route to Rumania

LONDON, April 10 (AP)—Great Britain and France were reported tonight to have backed up an offer to guarantee Greece's freedom from possible Italian-German aggression by sending warships to waters off Corfu, strategic Greek-owned port at the mouth of the Adriatic.

The British admiralty refused either to "confirm or deny" that warships were near the island port close to the southern tip of Albania, newly conquered by Italy.

The guarantee to Greece was said to have been accompanied by a similar offer to Turkey which controls the Dardanelles, Black sea route to Rumania and Soviet Russia.

Prime Minister Chamberlain earlier summoned parliament to convene in extraordinary session Thursday because of Mussolini's Albanian thrust which carried his troops across the Adriatic to a foothold in the Balkans.

Warship in Motion
Both the British and French navies appeared to be displaying unusual activity in an apparent attempt to impress on the Rome-Berlin axis powers the seriousness with which they regarded Italy's swift expansion.

At Malta, British naval base midway between Sicily and the North Africa coast, the British Mediterranean fleet was converging and an emergency call was broadcast to all officers and seamen ashore ordering them to report to their ships.

Gas masks were distributed to civilians in Malta as the atmosphere grew tense. A few American citizens residing there were advised to leave. Officers' wives and children left for England.

Alarmed over fascist expansion, Britain was reported to have told Italy that any attempt to seize Corfu would be an invitation to war.

Informed quarters in Athens said the Italian government had disclosed it would give Greece assurances that her territorial integrity would be respected.

The call for parliament ends the Easter holiday ahead of schedule, the first hurried termination of a recess since the Czech-Slovak crisis last September.

While concern mounted over Italian and German ambitions in the Balkans, Britain pressed measures to form an eastern front against the Rome-Berlin axis in other quarters as well.

Asks Hungarian Aid
The cabinet was said to have instructed Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax to urge Polish Foreign Minister Joseph Beck to speed up negotiations with Hungary and Rumania for bringing those two countries in to the British-French-Polish front against aggression.

Parliament, which was to have been in recess until April 18, was called in order to register the British government's disapproval of the Italian invasion of Albania and to discuss ways of protecting other nations considered as threatened.

It was at an urgent meeting of the cabinet—the first on a bank holiday since the World war—that the decision to summon parliament was made. Another extra cabinet meeting will be held Thursday before parliament convened.

"Life-Line" Threatened
The cabinet was said to have devoted most of its session, which lasted two hours and 15 minutes, to consideration of Britain's strategic position in the Mediterranean since the Italian invasion of Albania.

The committee for imperial defense was described as having reported to the prime minister that the British-French maritime lifeline through the Mediterranean would be seriously menaced if Italy were to gain control of Greece or Turkey.

This was said to have been responsible for the decision to give a guarantee to Greece and Turkey. Reports that Britain intended to occupy Corfu, which is separated from southern Albania by a two-mile channel and guards the gateway to the Adriatic, were denied, but observers believed Britain might be preparing to place warships protectively about Greece.

Italy Tightens Albanian Hold

More Troops Sent To Subdue Moslem Tribes in Mountains

TIRANA, April 10 (AP)—Italy tightened her grip on Albania today with fresh movements of troops into the conquered kingdom, inspired statements of Albanian acceptance of fascism and a proclamation threatening martial law.

The Italian invasion which began on Good Friday as a military operation developed into a campaign to bring Albania's 1,000,000 population into full acceptance of fascist rule.

General Alfredo Guzzoni, commander of the Italian expeditionary force, warned of "inextinguishable military law" against anyone challenging the Italian occupation.

The same proclamation said: "The soldiers under my orders who won at Vittorio Veneto (Italian victory over the Austrians in the World War) and in Ethiopia and emerged victoriously as legionnaires in the Spanish war have come for a great and fraternal mission of peace and collaboration."

His proclamation followed humble radio appeals by speakers introduced as the president and secretary of a provisional administrative committee of Albanians expressing thanks for the Italian occupation and asking for an Albanian fascist party.

More troops were moving by air from Italy into Albania and back into mountain fastnesses to complete the conquest. Italian airplanes performed acrobatics over Tirana as officials of the Italian ministry of popular culture took charge of press and radio facilities.

It was considered possible that fierce Moslem tribesmen would offer diehard resistance in the mountains, but virtually the entire coast line and most of the lowlands were under Italian control.

THREE OF A KIND

So They Went Into A Huddle

MILWAUKEE, April 10 (AP)—John (Paddy) Driscoll, Marquette university football coach appeared before Police Judge Harvey L. Neelen today on a charge of driving through a red light.

Pleaded Attorney Cornelius Patrick Hanley, a former Marquette football star:

"Your honor, the coach glanced around, thinking he saw some backfield material and missed the light."

Replied the judge, also a former football player:

"I understood the coach's predicament. Sentence suspended."

President May Change Choice

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—With formidable senate opposition threatening to reject the appointment of Thomas R. Amle to the interstate commerce commission, President Roosevelt was understood tonight to have decided to recall the nomination.

Amle, former progressive member of the house from Wisconsin, wrote the president during the late take such action. Simultaneously word spread that Elmer Benson, former farmer-laborite governor of Minnesota and senator, would now get the nomination.

Amle, who was defeated for reelection to the house last fall, was known to his colleagues as an enthusiastic supporter of the president, associated with a group of congressmen whose ideas frankly lay to the left of the new deal.

He appeared at hearings before a subcommittee of the senate committee in interstate commerce, where he said he was a follower of the economic doctrine of Thorstein Veblen and that he believed in production for use and not for profit.

The Road Back to Madrid

Smiling for first time in months, Madrilenos who sought sanctuary in the surrounding mountains when the Spanish capital became a place of death and terror, returned to Madrid with the few belongings they managed to take with them when they fled. Many of the refugees returned to find their homes piles of rubbish.

Italian Army Is Now 1,000,000

ROME, April 10 (AP)—Italy has an estimated force of nearly 1,000,000 men under arms from Spain to the eastern shores of the Aegean sea with the calling up of more than 350,000 reservists since the first of the year, it was authoritatively reported today.

Trustworthy sources asserted troop reinforcements have been sent to the Dodecanese islands, Italian possessions in the Aegean southeast of Greece and just off the coast of Asia minor, and to Libya, Italian north Africa.

Foreign observers believed the calling to the colors of reservists, including the entire class of those born in 1912, was intended largely to keep the Italian army ready for any emergency.

Authoritative Italians described the action a result of British efforts to line up the smaller nations of Europe in an anti-aggression bloc. It was said many of them were to replace reinforcements recently sent to Libya and the Dodecanese group.

In addition to the class of 1912, diplomats heard that specialists of classes from 1899 to 1915 were in active service. Reserve officers also have been called to active service and air force reservists who failed to complete training for their pilots' licenses during regular service have been ordered to report for flying instruction.

Italy's standing army on Jan. 1 was about 300,000 men. About 240,000 conscripts were called for regular service last month, and about 60,000 others were believed to have been added by calling up men previously exempted because of their size.

With the 350,000 reservists now reported called up since Jan. 1, Italy would have about 950,000 men under arms.

A Salute To The Ladies

MERE MAN THAT we are, we take off our battered hat, pre-war vintage, to gallantly salute the ladies who, in the Easter parade, proved that there is still a bit of sanity in a bewildered world.

We refer, with remarkable restraint in the way of compliment, to those few who exhibited good taste in the selection of their Easter bonnets.

It was a cheering and reassuring sight to a fellow usually depressed. We had begun to think, with a lot of other people, that harmony was no more, that even the milliners had lost their sense of proportion and had with Hitler and a few others conspired to shock the more sensitive among us.

We saw all kinds of hats. We saw hats that were not only beautiful and completely becoming but were even, doubt it if you will, practical, serving not only to gild but to protect.

And we saw other kinds. We saw hats that answered the question of where the birds have gone. Not even coverts of profic pheasants, quail and partridge could have furnished women's vanity with enough decoration to completely satisfy. Every time a particularly fine bird went by our instincts bade us start shooting.

We saw round hats, square hats, brown hats and black hats, varied in sizes and shapes as the kids of Harlem town, with Fashion on the Pied Piper who brought them forth. We saw hats that gave to their wearers every expression from happiness to deep grief. We saw hats that let in light and some that let it out.

We saw hats that aspired to the Heavens and hats that dejectedly viewed the ground. We saw hats that looked elegantly and hats that looked pleasantly healthy, as all Iowa hats should be.

But we did see some hats that accentuated, rather than detracted from, the looks of the wearers—which is why this had to be written. The thought that struck us was this:

Despite the Hitlers there may yet be hope for the world.

Mussolini, Hitler Take Back Seat

ONE MORE WEEK and Hitler, Mussolini, Franco and the entire international situation will be overshadowed by an event in America. We won't hear the usual conversations about the possibilities of war in Europe—at least not as often as we hear them today.

No, sir. A most important American event is about to take place. To us it is much more important than Albania is to Mussolini. If you haven't guessed it by now the major league baseball season opens just a week from today.

We've already a taste of our great sport. Our sports pages of late have been full of spring training news, and this has served to arouse our interest for the coming season. On any street corner or tobacco shop the conversation at the moment doesn't concern Hitler or Mussolini, but whether Dizzy Dean can come back again and if the Yankees will literally murder the American league again.

Through the years, baseball has grown to gigantic proportions. It is a regular business for the players, but no one can say they don't love their business. Except for one instance, baseball has always been on the up and up, and no one can predict the outcome of any game—even between a last place and a first place team in any league.

Baseball intrigues us all. It appeals to those who love powerful demonstrations, and those who like the skilled smoothness of the professional baseballer. It is also packed with dramatic incidents, feats of courage and everything else that appeals to the true sportsman. And baseball is never without its humor as witnessed by the incomparable Brooklyn Dodgers.

We've often thought that it's a shame they don't have baseball in Europe. Perhaps Mussolini and Hitler would then join Roosevelt and Chamberlain at the ball park instead of planning another land grab.

Where Is That Corner Now???

IT APPEARS 1939 will not be so prosperous a year as economists had expected. The national income, instead of reaching 70 billions of dollars, will probably not be more than 65 billions. Therefore, it appears, another year of deficit spending will be necessary in America.

The reasons for this year's restricted income rise points to many still unsolved problems in the American economic system, all of which must be solved, in order to attain true prosperity. As the economists say, "the economic system of a nation is like a delicately balanced machine. When any part of it gets out of place, the whole machine bogs down, refusing to work."

Today American monopolies control prices, hold them at an unhealthy high place in many instances, refuse to cut them to achieve economic balance. This whole complex problem is now being studied in Washington by a committee under Mr. Thurman Arnold. Its conclusions will have an important bearing on recovery.

The question of interstate trade barriers, only last week studied in Chicago by a committee of governors and Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, is a deterrent to complete prosperity. The falling population curve, the emigration barriers, the declining birth rate, the lack of foreign markets for expansion, all these have their bearing on the complete picture.

Most important, however, is what is happening daily in Europe. Adolf Hitler's speeches effect the American stock market mightily. Last Saturday, when Benito Mussolini marched into Albania, United States steel declined six points.

In other words, it's a little foolish to talk about economic isolation or even American "recovery" until Europe straightens out again into a period of comparative calm.

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

YOUTH IN THE AIR

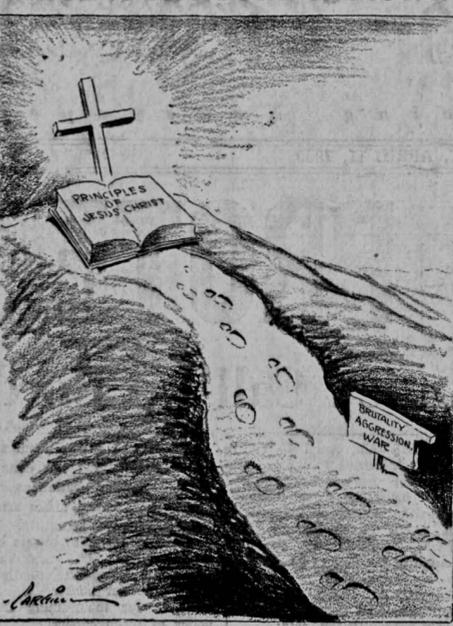

First in this area, young men from the Daniel Guggenheim School of Aeronautics of New York university have begun flight training at Bendix Airport as part of the experimental program which the civil aeronautics authority hopes will lead eventually to the training of some 20,000 undergraduates in the nation. Here in New York a committee headed by Nelson Rockefeller is making a thorough study of a program of ground training for pupils of primary and secondary schools. Now Transcontinental and Western Air is sponsoring, with the cooperation of Thomas Beck, a plan to bring practical experience of flight and some knowledge of its mechanics to students of high school age.

For a trial of this plan, which the airline hopes will be followed by others elsewhere, Albuquerque, N. M., has been selected. After a week of talks in high school assemblies and classes in that city it is planned to take every student on a short, parentally sanctioned flight in a modern airliner. During this flight the students will hear an explanation of operating procedure and listen in on aircraft radio conversations through earphones at each seat. With regard to this project C. A. A. has said that "there is no more fruitful field for encouragement and development of this new and nationally essential activity than in the minds of youths of high school age."

Veterans and persons of middle life take to the air in growing numbers, but it is youth that will bring us the full rewards of the age of wings.

DESCENT FROM THE CROSS 1939

AROUND THE TOWN With MERLE MILLER

"I don't think so," said the girl. "I think they're just as confused as the rest of us. It's a deeper thing than that. That's too easy."

"Our generation," someone repeated, "has a rendezvous with destiny." Someone else laughed and said, "Yeah and what a destiny."

"One-third of the unemployed between 16 and 24. . . Four million of us who've never had a permanent job. . . Some 50,000 eligible for relief but can't get it because they're single. . . What a destiny!"

One of the girls spoke up then, a thought I'd heard before. "When Jerry and I got married," she said, "we're not going to have any babies. We've decided on that. I don't think we have the right to bring kids into this kind of a world."

It was a shocking thought, but none of us contradicted her. . . "Probably," said the freshman boy who was blonde and had long, expressive fingers that talked. "Probably I will be. But I'd rather be shot of my own choice, knowing why I was dying than to kill and be killed in a meaningless war."

"I could fight for a cause, but I want to know what that cause is. . . Wars between opposing camps of international bankers don't interest me, sorry."

It was convincing talk. Even the medical student was quiet. . . "What does it all mean?" wondered the girl. "Unemployment, injustice, misery, war. What does it all mean?"

"There must be something wrong with the world," said the boy from the Bronx. . . "Yes," said the boy who is a freshman, "there is. . . It has something to do, I think, with—"

Just then the girl got up to announce that she must be leaving, she and Jerry, and everyone began talking at once. . . "I couldn't be sure quite what the freshman boy said, but I thought the word was 'economics.' . . I may have been wrong, and anyway he was only a freshman."

"What do you mean, the people want them? I don't know any?" . . . "Oh, the munitions makers, the militarists," said the medical student, weakly. . .

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Surprise to me and many another who saw "Three Smart Girls Grow Up" was the performance of Robert Cummings, alias Blade Stanhope Conway, alias Bryce Hutchens. . . It was no surprise to Cummings boosters, especially not to Jim Hogan, the director who had been trying to get him a break for years.

Hogan finally got the lad his chance, too, though not his big one in the Deanna Durbin film. Bob Cummings had been at Paramount nearly four years, and had made 23 pictures, without making a dent in Hollywood's active resistance. . . When Lew Ayres walked out on a program picture called "Touchdown, Army" last summer, Cummings was lifted from a supporting role to the lead. He didn't know about it until he was sent to a tailor's for costume fittings. He only suspected it then because never before had his wardrobe been a matter of concern to the studio. It was Hogan who told him that, at long last, he was actually doing a lead—it was Hogan who had talked him into the job.

TUNING IN

By Loren Hickerson

GENERAL HUGH JOHNSON headlines the "For Men Only" program over the NBC-Red network at 7:30 tonight. He will be interviewed by Master of Ceremonies George Jessel.

Others to be heard are Harry "Bottle" McNaughton, a famed stooge on the Phil Baker airings, and Bob McGimsey, composer who authored "Shadrack" among others, if that's a distinction.

Musical features will be supplied by Peter Van Steeden's orchestra with vocals by the Merry Macs.

And from an elevator operator in New York's famed Rockefeller Center last week came a bit of information concerning those Merry Macs, one of Broadway's most popular vocal groups, two boys and a girl. . .

They're playing in a Broadway play now, besides carrying stellar vocal roles on numerous coast-to-coast broadcasts. They are recognized for excellence of harmony, for injecting into their singing a certain individual quality that sets them off from all other vocal groups. They sound tremendously happy and filled with vigor when you hear them sing. . .

But they almost starved on Broadway not so many years ago when they tried to get into the big time; no producer would hear them. . . the musical market was glutted with good singers, no more were needed.

There were months of cold sandwiches and chilly boarding houses, of desperate trials for auditions on almost any show. Nothing doing. . . when things looked blackest a small-time producer came along and asked them to sing. . . he needed some vocalists for a not-too-good musical show.

He heard the Merry Macs, just once, and from that time they were skyrocketed, during a few brief years, to the most enviable spot in radio among singing groups.

Fame has its followers and its imitators, and if you listen carefully to the Campus Kids over NBC some Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, you'll think you're hearing the Merry Macs. . .

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

From the 50,000 letters from the public asking information about cancer, the following, concerning distribution and diagnosis, were the most frequent. Honest answers accompany them.

Is cancer increasing? More deaths from cancer are reported each year. Some attribute this increase to increasing age of the population; some to improved methods of diagnosis; others to a real increase in the occurrence of cancer.

Second Place How does cancer compare with other diseases as a cause of death? It occupies second place, as seen from the following table of deaths from leading causes in the United States in 1936:

Table with 2 columns: Disease, Deaths. Heart disease 341,350; CANCER 142,613; Pneumonia 119,378; Kidney disease 106,865; Apoplexy 104,334; Tuberculosis 71,257.

Why do more women than men die from cancer? Because it occurs so frequently in the breast and uterus of women. Nearly 60 per cent of cancer deaths in the United States occur in women.

Are all growths cancer? No. Tumors are of two kinds—benign and usually harmless, and malignant or cancer.

Difference Explained What is the difference between a benign and a cancerous growth? Benign growths usually have a limiting membrane. They never spread to other parts of the body.

Malignant cells grow among normal cells and prevent the latter from functioning normally. Unless adequately treated, cancer cells spread to other parts of the body.

How can we tell if a growth is cancer? By examining a small portion of the suspected tissue under the microscope. . . Is pain an early symptom of cancer? No, except in cancer of bone or nerve tissue. Pain usually is a late symptom and when it occurs the growth is often far advanced.

Early Cancer Signs What are some of the early signs of cancer? 1. A persistent lump, especially in a woman's breast. 2. A sore that does not heal, particularly about the face, mouth or lips. 3. An unnatural bloodstained discharge from a natural body opening. 4. Sudden changes in size or color of moles and warts. 5. Are all breast lumps cancer? Not more than 10 to 15 per cent are cancer. Only by a careful examination can it be definitely determined. 6. Do freckles ever turn into cancer? Simple freckles do not. However, flat moles containing certain pigment and looking like dark freckles may become cancers and should be watched.

A New Yorker at Large

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—At last the autobiography of Katharine Cornell, "I Wanted To Be An Actress," is on the stands, and it is of interest, at least to this corner, because of its wealth of anecdotal material and also because of five words on the flyleaf—"To the Memory of Ray Henderson."

Ray Henderson was Miss Cornell's press agent and also her mentor and he was one of the most courteous gentlemen Broadway ever knew. When he lost his life in a submerged seaplane somewhere between Egypt and Greece a year ago a pall was thrown over Broadway such as is cast by few of its denizens.

All through her book Miss Cornell speaks of Ray, more as a kind and thoughtful friend than as a business associate, and that is what he was. . . .

When word of his death was brought to Cornell she and her husband, Guthrie McClintic, were living at Martha's Vineyard. But let Miss Cornell tell the story: "I was up at the Vineyard alone and on Friday, Oct. 1st, the Island telegraph boy handed me a telegram from Cairo which said, 'Egypt keen, Flying London tomorrow. Love Ray.'"

"The next morning Guthrie and Gert (Gertrude Macy, Miss Cornell's manager) arrived suddenly from the mainland. I hadn't expected them. They, too, had had a cable from the American Consulate in Athens—"Henderson trapped and drowned in submerged seaplane. . . ."

"I couldn't believe it for awhile—"I thought of our six and a half years association—years of work, understanding, advice—the long years planned and executed to the last detail. The fund of ideas (if you didn't like one he always had another—and another); the sound business judgment; the orderly mind—the perfect taste—the shining spirit which, after 27 years in the theater, still felt that it was a place of magic and glamour. Dear shy Ray, a great man and a great friend. His favorite line from Hamlet is his own best epitaph—"Good night, sweet Prince; and flights of angels sing thee to thy rest!"

"Looking back, I don't think I gave Ray any real unhappiness. Ever. I always did what he wanted me to do. His only unhappiness came when he thought I didn't want to work, and all that was righted by the world-tour plan. I have no regret or remorseful feeling. I think he was as happy with us as it was possible for him to be. I think he would have liked our plans for this season. . . .

"I am sure he would have been glad that this year of thinking has clarified a few things for me. I don't know where I am going anymore than anybody else does. I suppose. But at least I have inquired. And out of that inquiry has come one certainty: For me it will always be acting—just as for Guthrie it will always be directing—for both of us always the theater—that beautiful, thrilling theater we love so well."

Ray was abroad, arranging the details of this world-tour, when he died. He had gone to Honolulu and to Australia and the Orient, and he was flying from Cairo to London by way of Greece when his plane fell into the sea and sank. . . .

One day while Ray was on this tour I received a card from him. It was written while he was on the island of Bali, and this is what he said: "Time here doesn't mean anything. Yesterday was a thousand years ago and today is like tomorrow. Somehow I envy the people. Somehow I feel they got the right idea."

This card was posted just a few days before his plane, carrying him to Greece, fell into the sea.

Galan On Road To Recovery

Doctor Says Knee Injury Not Serious

Dick Bartell Also Hopes For Recovery Before First Game

CHICAGO, April 10 (AP)—Dr. John F. Davis, Chicago Cubs' physician, said today an X-ray examination of Outfielder Augie Galan's ailing knee revealed nothing more serious than the need of rest and treatment for several days.

He sent Galan to Masonic hospital, also temporary quarters for another Cub regular — Shortstop Dick Bartell, who is receiving treatment for a lame ankle.

The physician, however, refrained from saying whether he thought Galan would be ready for the National league curtain raiser eight days hence.

"The pictures definitely do not show any bone involvement," said Dr. Davis. "Surgery is definitely not warranted. I think rest and diathermic treatments are all he needs."

Galan's knee was injured first during the 1938 baseball campaign and reinjured in spring training several days ago.

Both athletes were optimistic at the turn of events.

"That's swell news. Count me in on opening day!"

"Hope I'll be in there, too," chimed in Bartell.

Frankie Covelli Defeats Huerta At Des Moines

DES MOINES, April 10 (AP)—Credited with nine out of 10 rounds, Frankie Covelli, Des Moines featherweight, outpointed Henry Huerta, Washington, D. C., Mexican, in the main event of a fight card here tonight.

Covelli weighed 128, Huerta 130. The fight for the most part was a continuous slugging match, with both men getting in good licks, but neither able to land a clean shot that would send his opponent to the floor.

Neither of the fighters has ever been knocked out and the result was no surprise to the fans. Covelli tried several times to connect with one of his widely publicized "bolo" punches, but couldn't connect successfully.

Most of his attempts to land such a blow failed entirely and the few that found their mark glanced off or landed as the Mexican was moving with them and failed to have the desired effect.

In the six-round preliminary, Eddie Carroll, 150, of Toronto, Canada, outpointed George Houston, 149, of Washington, Ia. In a preliminary five rounder, "Little Paycheck" of Des Moines outpointed Ray Butler of Omaha. Paycheck weighed 126, Butler 128. "Little Paycheck" floored Butler three times, twice for nine counts and once for a count of six.

In other preliminaries, Don McGraw, 133, Washington, Ia., drew with Kenneth Cockayne, Des Moines, in four; Battling Kingfish, 178, Omaha, knocked out Bob Forde, 175, Perry, Ia., in the third; Buck Buckwalter, 170, Washington, Ia., outpointed Leroy Duncan, 170, Tama, Ia., in five.

week after he complained his arm was hampering him in spring training.

BITS about Sports

By J. DENNIS SULLIVAN

By OSCAR HARGRAVE
Coach Otto Vogel may not admit it, but most of the rest of us have an idea that the Iowa baseball team will be plenty tough this year. At least, on the basis of a comparison between this year's record while in the south, and last year's standing at this time of the season, things look good.

Ordinarily, northern teams make trips into the sunny south expecting that all will not be sunshine—they figure to learn something out of the several licks they count on taking down there. Last year, the Hawk took its share of what a few of the southern clubs could dish out, and came back here figuring they were lucky to win one ball game.

This year they are bringing back a record of six wins and only one defeat—an exact reversal of last year's early season form. If the record of opposites should hold out, the Hawks would end up this year in a tie for the Big Ten cellar, an event not too likely to happen.

The one thing most worried about in the Iowa camp before the southern jaunt, the pitching, seems to be settling itself quite satisfactorily. To make up for the loss of Matt Faber, there is improvement all around among the remaining hurlers. Ken Reid, southpaw ace who has always been bothered with a sore arm, pitched his first complete game the other day and followed it with another one a couple of days later.

Harold Haub has been pitching good ball ever since the Hawks left, and Keith Wymore, Ted Frese and Bob Stastny appear to be worthy additions to the staff. Fred Hohenhorst hasn't hurled a full game yet, but he turned in several good innings yesterday against St. Louis.

Besides the good hurling, the Hawkeys have turned out something in the way of hitting. In seven games, they pushed across a total of 54 runs for an average of nearly eight per game. The opposition got a total of 24, or three and one-half to the game. Included in the Iowa work at the plate were homers by Art Manush, Norman Hankins and Frank Balazs.

Latest records give some of the Iowans unbelievably high batting averages, including two swatters who have hit on over half of their trips to the plate. Art Manush, for instance, has a record of exactly .500, while Wendell Winders has compiled exactly the same kind of a record. Not so far behind comes Frank Balazs with .454. Norman Hankins, sub catcher, has a .444 average and Jim George has been clouting for .421.

Pirates Thump Chicago Sox

SHREVEPORT, La., April 10 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates thumped the Chicago Americans 7 to 3 today, running their winning streak up to eight straight.

The White Sox grabbed a two-run lead in the second on Kuhl's triple, Bejma's single and Lyons' double, with Russell Bauers pitching. They filled the bases with none out in the seventh, when Rip Sewell went to the mound, but could score only one run because of a double play.

Gus Suh's double with two mates on base and Young's single gave Pittsburgh three runs in their sixth. Ray Berres' double, in the seventh, an infield out and a fielder's choice provided the winning margin. The Pirates added three more later.

Back in the League
MITCHELL, S. D. (AP)—After a year's absence, Mitchell will be back in organized baseball this summer as the sixth member of the Western league, formerly the Nebraska league to which the locals formerly belonged. Announcement of Mitchell's acceptance of the Beatrice, Neb., franchise tendered by league officials last week, was made last night by Paul Weisser, president of the Mitchell baseball association.

Hawks Enter Kansas Relays Mile-Relay Team, John Collinge Have Hopes Of Finishing Among Leaders

Iowa's championship mile-relay team of last season, along with a number of individual performers, will enter the Kansas Relays of April 22, according to Coach George Bresnahan.

Milt Billig, John Graves, Fred Teufel and Carl Teufel, who won the mile-relay event last year, and later went on to set a new Drake Relays record, have cut their time down to less than 3:20 already this season, and rate as a favorite.

Another event in which Hawkeys appear strong is the half-mile relay race, in which Bresnahan will enter the Teufel twins and Ed Wiggins. The fourth member of the half-mile team has not yet been picked.

The Iowa two-mile relay team will not run, according to Bresnahan. Last year, Billig, Graves, Jimmy Lyle and John Schmidt won the Kansas title, but the loss of Schmidt and Lyle leaves Bresnahan without the necessary number of crack half-milers to make a showing in the event.

John Collinge, who has been turning in good times in the high hurdles, will run his favorite event, while Bill Leuz will compete in the shot-put, Dale Roberts in the pole-vault and Merrill Harkness in the discus.

Ambers Looks For Victory Over Henry

HERKIMER, N. Y., April 10 (AP)—Chunky little Luigi D'Ambrosio, who once rode the rods to watch Tony Canzoneri fight, left town pullman style today bound toward a pot of gold at the end of the fistic rainbow. That would be the world's lightweight championship.

If there's anyone Luigi D'Ambrosio would rather see wearing the lightweight crown than Tony Canzoneri it's Luigi D'Ambrosio, known to the trade as Lou Ambers, the scrappy kid lots of people thought gave Henry Armstrong a neat pasting the night the little Negro lifted the title from the Herkimer Hurricane.

Ambers was just a young amateur learning his way when he rode a freight train to watch his idol, Canzoneri, in action. A few months later he worked as Tony's sparring partner. Then, one night, he actually won the crown from the ageing Tony. He lost it to Armstrong, but he hit the trail again today and figures he'll come back champion.

"If there was anyone I hated to beat, it was Canzoneri," Luigi D'Ambrosio said as he swung a well-proportioned leg over the arm of a chair bought by the ring earnings of Lou Ambers for the family of Luigi D'Ambrosio.

"But that gave me the title, didn't it? And someone had to beat Tony, good as he was. It might as well be a bean me. Hey? That gave me the money for all this—; he swept his hand around the furniture and the house Lou Ambers bought for his mother and eight brothers and sisters who still live with her.

About the last Armstrong fight, Lou was evasive. "Gosh," said he, "it wasn't up to me, or the 19,000 people there the night Henry took my title—but it took 'em three hours to patch him up

Handley Expected To Return Soon To Buc Lineup

NEW ORLEANS, April 10 (AP)—President William Benswanger of the Pittsburgh Pirates said today Lee Handley, Pirate third baseman, who was "beamed" in an exhibition game yesterday, "seemed much better."

Hospital attaches said Handley probably would be released from the hospital some time this week but Benswanger said he would receive every care until his condition was determined definitely.

"He seemed much better today," Benswanger said, "but he is still in a dangerous condition. The doctors told me the x-rays showed no evidence of a fracture but we are taking no chances.

"I should be with the club but this is important and I remained behind to be with Handley. I will remain here for two or three days before rejoining the club."

Handley was struck by a ball pitched by Johnny Allen of the Cleveland Indians in the game here yesterday which the Pirates won, 6-0, behind the no hit, no run pitching of Darrell "Cy" Blanton.

Paychek Not Signed

DES MOINES (AP)—Promoter Pinkie George said yesterday his leading heavyweight, Johnny Paychek of Des Moines, would not fight Carl Vinciguerra of Omaha on April 24. Jack Hurley, Vinciguerra's manager, Sunday accepted a previous proposal that the two fighters meet here on that date, but George said yesterday the match could not be arranged until possibly early in May. George said he was continuing negotiations with Hurley regarding a later date.

DIAMOND TEAM IN WIN AT ST. LOUIS

Leads Hawkeye Attack

Art Manush, above, had another big day at bat yesterday as he cracked out three hits in two times at the plate to lead his Hawkeye mates to a 10 to 1 victory over the Billikens of St. Louis university. Manush has been finding the ball all during the trip through the south. In the game Friday he blasted out a homer and a double. The win over St. Louis university gives the Iowa team a record of six wins and only one defeat during their southern journey.

Manush Tops Iowa Slugging With 3 Hits

Three Hawk Hurlers Limit Billikens To Three Safe Bingles

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 10 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—In another of their big days—the big days that have been prevalent of late—Iowa's Hawkeys ended their southern invasion with a 10 to 1 victory over the Billikens of St. Louis university here today.

While the Iowa sluggers banged out a total of nine hits, three Iowa hurlers checked the Billikens with a skimpy trio of safe bingles. Fred Hohenhorst, Harold Haub and Ken Reid, each took three innings of the tilt and stopped their opponents cold, only once, in the eighth, off the offerings of Hohenhorst, wets they able to score.

In the big second inning, the Hawkeys made the game safe for all time, as they piled up a topheavy lead of six runs off two hits, three bases on balls, a hit batsman and an error. They had already scored once in the opening stanza, and they followed with a run in the third, one in the sixth and another in the eighth.

Co-Capt. Art Manush again topped the Iowa slugging as he blasted out three hits in his five times at the plate.

The Score by Innings:
Iowa 1 6 1 0 1 0 1 0—10 9 1
S. L. 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—1 4 3

NEWS BRIEFS FROM MAJOR LEAGUE CAMPS

Fox's Homer Wins For Boston Sox

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., April 10 (AP)—Jimmy Fox's home run in the tenth inning gave the Boston Red Sox a 4 to 3 victory over Cincinnati today in a game in which all Red scoring and all but two Sox tallies were by the circuit route.

Johnny Vander Meer, Lee Grissom and Jim Weaver for the Reds matched Jim Bagby and Jake Wade in allowing but six hits. Goodman, Riggs and Craft homered for the senior loopers, while Williams clouted a round tripper to start Boston scoring in the second.

The Sox added another in the fourth when Vander Meer, making his first start since the team left Florida, walked three, then fed an easy ball to Vosmik for a scratch single.

Indians Down New York 9-2

MONROE, La., April 10 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians came out of their batting slump today and pounded Manuel Salvo and Dick Coffman for 11 hits to beat the New York Giants 9 to 2. It was their first victory over the Giants this spring.

Bill Zuber blanked the Giants with one hit in the first six innings while his mates piled up a 9-0 lead with the aid of Oscar Grimes' noimer in the fourth. Salvo's wildness aided them considerably. Zuber was touched for two runs in the seventh and his successor, Tom Drake, gave up three more in the ninth and had the bases full when Al Milnar rescued him.

Cards Win 10-2 Game From Browns

DALLAS, Tex., April 10 (AP)—Bill Lee went the route for the Chicago Cubs today, holding the St. Louis Browns to eight scattered blows as the National league champions won their second straight game, 10 to 2.

The Browns' pair came in the fourth on home runs by Harland Clift and Jonnie Oerardino. Four Cub runs also were scored on homers by Billy Herman and Phil Cavarretta. Herman doubled in the fifth to drive in one other score.

The Cubs nicked Russ Van Atta and Fred Johnson for an even dozen hits.

Phillies Win 4th Straight Game 8-1

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 10 (AP)—The improving Phillies won their fourth straight exhibition game today against Birmingham of the Southern association, 8 to 1.

Backed up by errorless fielding and three double plays Hugh

Mulacy and Harry Matuzak Held the Barons to Eight Hits, Four Runs in the Fifth on Singles by Davis, Mulcahy, Young, Scharlein and Martin Sewed up the Game for the Phils.

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., April 10 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals scored in every inning except the seventh to bury the Asheville club of the Piedmont league, 32 to 7, in an exhibition contest here today.

Cardinals Wallop Piedmont Club 32-7

Five home runs, two by Joe Medwick and one each by Don Gutteridge, Joe Orenco and Lynn Myers, featured the slugfest. However, wildness of Asheville hurlers attributed to the big score. The three pitchers allowed 25 hits and issued 13 bases on balls.

Dodgers in 13-5 Win Over Yanks

ATLANTA, April 10 (AP)—Red Evans, the veteran "rookie" moundsman from the Brooklyn Dodgers snatched from the New York Giants last winter, checked the New York Yankees today for the full nine innings while the Dodgers belted out a 13 to 5 victory. The Yanks made five errors which figured in the scoring and their starting pitcher, Monte Pearson, gave seven walks.

Evans, the first Brooklyn pitcher to go the route, was touched for 12 hits, including a homer by Tommy Henrich. Pearson yielded eight runs in five innings before giving way to Jack Haley. Fred Sington led the Dodger attack with a double and a triple to drive in five runs.

When Queen Meets First Lady

White House Will Be Gala Place With Two Most Famous Wardrobes

By ADELAIDE KERR AP Fashion Editor

When Queen Elizabeth of England and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt meet in the White House this June—center of a Washington whirl of gala events—the spotlight of the news will blaze on two of the most talked of wardrobes in the world.

The clothes of the Scotch-born queen and of the wife of the President are alike on a dozen points. But on many another they are as different as ice cream and roast beef.

The Queen has one of the largest wardrobes in the world. Shimmering court gowns, evening frocks, "appearance ensembles," hats, shoes, bags and gloves are crowded into it. Some of them make one public appearance and never are worn again. Mrs. Roosevelt chooses the clothes she requires to be dressed suitably for every occasion and lets it go at that.

A leading London designer fashions the Queen's clothes, generally submitting sketches for discussion and approval before he permits a sewing girl to set a stitch. Most of Mrs. Roosevelt's clothes are selected for her by a dark Fifth avenue department store and are waiting for her when she calls in the midst of a busy day that may include a plane trip and three speeches. Generally she accepts the selections made for her, though occasionally she makes some minor change in a neckline or sleeve.

England's Queen often chooses light colors (beige, blue and pink) for daytime wear and likes richly embroidered evening clothes. America's First Lady generally wears dark hues by day and her evening clothes proclaim simplicity as her creed.

But after those points of divergence the tastes of the Queen and of the President's wife often run alike.

For instance, they both love blue. The Queen has included some shade of it in nearly every wardrobe she has had and London reports it will appear in medium and light mauve-tinted shades in the one she brings to America. Mrs. Roosevelt selected blue again for this Easter's costume which combines a semi-fitted dressmaker coat of dark blue wool worn over a blue sheer crepe frock.

When, to mark the royal visit, wool growers in the United States selected the country's finest fleeces for a dress for the Queen and the wool growers of Australia and South Africa chose their finest products for a frock for Mrs. Roosevelt, both women selected fabrics in a shade of blue. The Queen chose a pastel and Mrs. Roosevelt a deeper azure.

Both women love the same type of clothes — ensembles. Queen Elizabeth has scores which combine a simple wool frock and a long or three-quarter length coat. Her new spring wardrobe, just designed by her London dressmaker, Norman Harnell, includes three—a gray, a pink and a lavender one—all of this type.

By contrast Mrs. Roosevelt generally combines a wool coat with a printed or lighter crepe frock.

They share a love for two accessories — necklaces and furs. And when it comes to hats the same rules apply to the chapeaux of both — brims, dignity and crowns that fit the head.

Adding Grape Juice Will Flavor All Soup In Hint of Continental Cooking

Some like them hot! Some like them cold! What? Soup, of course. And if you really want to try a soup that has something new in the way of flavor, try adding grape juice to it. It has the rare flavor of Continental cooking and adds a practically magic touch to any kind. As for consommé, try it yourself.

Cream of Tomato Parisienne
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 cup tomato puree
1 cup grape juice

Make a thin saucé of the milk, butter and salt and add the two cups of other liquid. Add the liquid a small amount at a time to the milk mixture to prevent the soup from curdling.

Ruby Consomme
2 cups tomato juice
2 cups chicken broth or stock
1 tablespoon chopped chives
2 cups grape juice
1 teaspoon sugar
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 beaten egg white
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Strong Cheese
ST. STEPHEN, N. B. (AP)—A 35-pound cheese rolled from a counter in a store here and was strong enough to break through a large plate glass window.

2 tablespoons beet juice
1 stalk celery
Simmer tomato juice, chicken stock, chives, grape juice, celery and seasonings for about 45 minutes. Add the egg white, lemon juice and beet juice. Stir well and strain. Serve hot with cheese crackers or cheese biscuits.

Tomato Rice Soup
1-2 cup rice
1-4 cup diced celery
6 cups chicken stock or broth
1 can condensed tomato soup
1 red pepper pod
1 cup grape juice
Salt

Cook rice and celery slowly in chicken broth until tender. Add soup, grape juice, pepper pod and salt. Heat and remove pepper pod before serving.

Chilled Vegetable Soup
2 cups tomato juice cocktail
1 cup grape juice
1-4 cup celery Julienne
2 radishes sliced paper thin
1-4 cup thin cucumber slices
Add vegetables to mixed grape juice and tomato cocktail just before serving. Serve ice cold.

Hubby Tells Her How To Act

Katharine Cornell Listens to, and Heeds, Advice of Director-Spouse

By JACK STINNETT AP Feature Service Writer

NEW YORK — Easier for her to do emotional cartwheels for an audience than husband Guthrie McClintic can and does tell her how to act.

"If, after we've thrashed out a difference of opinion, Guthrie still remains firm," says Miss Cornell, "things almost always go his way, for I know he's right three quarters more apt to be right than I am."

That's high tribute for a great actress to pay her director . . . and perhaps even a higher tribute for a wife, who has had most of the credit and public acclaim, to pay the husband with whom she has worked almost constantly for 17 years.

Miss Cornell is appearing now in "No Time For Comedy," S. N. Behrman's smooth, brittle comedy of a marital triangle in which Miss Cornell, oddly enough, plays the role of an important actress who also is a realistic wife. It is produced in collaboration with the Playwrights' company, of which Behrman is a member. But with Cornell in the lead the director again is Guthrie McClintic.

It is Miss Cornell's first modern comedy and with the brief exceptions of "Alien Corn" and "Flowers of the Forest," the only time in almost 10 years she has appeared in modern dress.

Rehearsals were genial and calm. Laurence Olivier, Margalo Gilmore, John Williams, others in the cast, too, all are good trouper. McClintic, in spite of extreme nervousness, is quiet, serious. As for Miss Cornell, about the only thing that will cause a show of "temperament" is a too-heavy barrage of publicity. Even after 20 years on the stage, it is easier for her to do emotional cartwheels for an audience than husband Guthrie McClintic can and does tell her how to act.

As rehearsals progress, it is apparent Mr. McClintic does not spare his wife. "Kit, don't frown," is one of his most frequent exhortations.

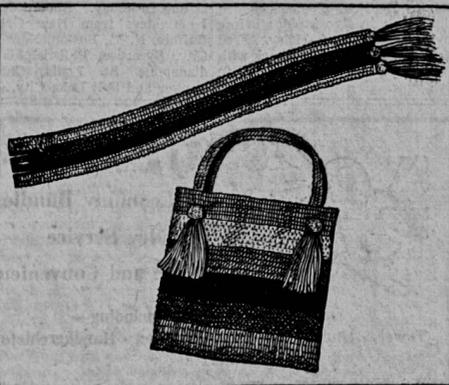

Often, too, he steps into the actor's or actress' shoes, gives the line exactly the reading, with gestures and all, that he feels it should have. Miss Cornell gets her share of that, also — and takes it — takes it to such an extent that in her recent autobiography, "I Wanted to Be An Actress," she wrote:

"I think Guthrie is an amazing director. He has the most marvelous gift of never frustrating anybody; always builds you up — never destroys anything you may be groping toward."

The "building up," though, has had its moments. There was one many years ago when Mr. McClintic was trying to get Miss Cornell to cry out vigorously but naturally. Exasperated, he jumped from the orchestra to the stage to explain at close hand. In so doing, he turned over a table which struck Miss Cornell on the shins. She yelped. "There," Mr. McClintic shouted, "that's just it! Now just keep on crying out that way every time."

There is a now bewhiskered anecdote that when Mr. McClintic first saw Miss Cornell act, in 1917, he noted on a program, beside her name: "Interesting, monotonous, watch." All of the words have proved prophetic, but the only monotony has been the congeniality and harmony with which one of the theater's most distinguished married couples has worked.

Make A Gay Belt and Handbag

Bored with that dress you liked so much just a little while ago? Then give it some bright new trimmings.

The sketch shows a belt and handbag that are gay and colorful. They are crocheted of a material that looks like raffia straw. But, surprise! It's really crepe paper. You cut crepe paper in long strips, then pull it through a twister, and you're ready to start your crocheting. When you see how stylish this belt and handbag are, you will want to make two or three sets in different combinations.

To get the pattern for making the belt and the handbag, together with instructions and suggested color schemes, write to Craft Studio, The Daily Iowan, 128 West 31st street, New York, N. Y. Enclose clipping and a stamped, self-addressed envelope at least the size of a postcard.

Edward Weeks To Deliver Last '38-'39 University Lecture

Magazine Head To Lecture On Current Fiction

Will Give Address Tomorrow Night At Macbride Auditorium

As Iowa students return from the Easter recess for the final uninterrupted session of school last night until the June commencement, an intensive schedule of lectures, conferences and similar activities appear on the university roster.

Opening this week's schedule is an intercollegiate debate at 8 o'clock tonight in University theater, when the University of Iowa opposes Dartmouth college in the first forensic contest between the two schools in the history of the university. The question deals with continued federal spending and the implications of such a policy.

Edward Weeks, editor of the Atlantic Monthly Press, will appear here tomorrow night as the final lecturer of the 1938-39 university series. He will discuss 14 books of current interest at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Macbride auditorium.

Thursday is Supreme Court day on the University of Iowa campus. The justices of the Iowa high tribunal will be guests of the university that day, and will hear arguments by four outstanding senior law students, following a tradition of many years.

Also on the Thursday calendar is the next meeting of the student-faculty forum, scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. in the chemistry auditorium.

Col. George F. N. Dailey, Prof. Ethan Allen of the political science department and Jonathan Wolcott, A4 of Denver, Col., are listed as speakers for the next meeting, involving plans for industrial mobilization.

Robert Frost, noted poet, will visit the university campus Thursday for an appearance as guest speaker on the 1938-39 Baconian series of talks. He will appear at 7:30 p.m. that day in the senate chamber of Old Capitol, speaking on the topic, "A Lecture on Poetry."

The 19th historical conference to be sponsored by the university will convene Friday morning for two days. With a number of noted guest speakers, in addition to members of the university faculty, listed on the program, the annual conference will have historical educators from Iowa and surrounding states as its guests. The program stresses changing trends in history.

The week's outstanding social event will occur at 9 p.m. Friday, when university students go to Iowa Union to dance to the music of Bill Carlson at the annual Pep Jamboree.

Opening yesterday and scheduled to end April 22 in Iowa Union is the annual student salon of art in Iowa Union.

An Unofficial Decision Iowa Supreme Court To Render Decision But It Won't Count

The entire bench of the Iowa supreme court will hand down a decision on the question of trucking operations between Iowa and Illinois Thursday—but their ruling will be just interesting and not official.

They will hear the case presented by four University of Iowa senior law students as the feature of the annual Supreme Court day at the college of law.

Students who will argue before the court will be James Cameron of Eldora and George Heidebaugh of Des Moines versus Robert Daniel of Cedar Rapids and Robert Greenleaf of Centerville.

The question concerns a DeKalb resident who operates a truck between DeKalb and Iowa City. He refuses to obtain an Iowa license and seeks to enjoin Iowa authorities from acting to prevent his travelling on Iowa highways.

He also refuses to pay tax on gasoline carried in his truck exceeding the 50 gallons allowed by Iowa law. Claiming he is engaged in interstate commerce, he questions the right of the state of Iowa to restrain his activities in Iowa or to impose any form of tax upon him.

Four members of the supreme court are alumni of the university. They are Chief Justice Robert F. Mitchell of Ft. Dodge, Fred M. Miller of Des Moines, Ralph A. Oliver of Sioux City and E. G. Sager of Waverly.

Other justices who will be present are W. L. Bliss of Mason City, Oscar Hale of Wapello, W. H. Hamilton of Sigourney, Paul W. Richards of Red Oak and Carl B. Stiger of Toledo.

Iowa Debaters Will Compete With Dartmouth Team Tonight At 8 p.m. in Theater Building

Audience Vote Will Select Winner Of Intercollegiate Meet

For the first time in the history of the University of Iowa, debaters of the Hawkeye institution will participate in an intercollegiate debate with Dartmouth college at 8 o'clock tonight in University theater.

Merle Miller, A4 of Marshalltown, and Roland Christensen, A2 of Iowa City, will discuss the question of continued federal spending as a stimulus to business with J. R. Willetts and L. F. Oberdorfer of the New Hampshire college.

With Prof. E. C. Mabie, head of the Iowa speech and dramatic arts department, as chairman,

J. R. Willetts and L. F. Oberdorfer, Dartmouth college debaters who will oppose Iowa in an intercollegiate debate in University theater at 8 o'clock tonight, will be interviewed over WSUI at 3:30 this afternoon.

Iowa will advocate that federal spending, including the extension of credit to banks and business, must continue as a national policy.

Ex-Dartmouth instructors Professor Mabie and Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of Iowa's intercollegiate forensic activities, are both former members of the faculty of Dartmouth college.

The audience at tonight's debate will decide the effectiveness of the debating skill of the two teams. Those who listen will decide, before the contest begins, their attitude upon the question—whether or not they favor federal spending or are undecided upon the subject.

At the conclusion of the debate, the audience will again vote, recording their shift in opinion toward the affirmative or the negative concerning the question.

Miller and Christensen, Iowa's representatives in the contest, were both listed among the upper 10 per cent of speakers who took part in Iowa's annual midwest forensic tournament early in March. Both have participated widely in speech activities.

City High Graduate Christensen was a member of Iowa City high school's state championship team before enrolling at the university. Miller is a member of WSUI's regular staff.

Oberdorfer, a senior at Dartmouth, is president of the forensic union there and has been a varsity debater for three years. Winner of the "Class of 1866" oratorical contest last year, he has twice been a delegate to the tri-college conference of Cornell, Pennsylvania and Dartmouth. He is a history major.

Willetts, an economics major, is a member of the honor group of that department. Manager of the Dartmouth speaker's bureau, which provides speakers for out-of-town events, he was a champion debater at the Dixie tournament at Winthrop college in South Carolina in 1937, and has had two years of varsity debating experience. He won the New Hampshire sesqui-centennial oratorical contest last year.

Dartmouth debaters left New Hampshire April 3 on a three-week tour of 18 colleges and universities of the middle west. They will appear in debates in eight states.

Dartmouth is noted for many activities outside the field of speech. A member of the Ivy league, which includes Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Cornell, Pennsylvania and Columbia, the school is located at Hanover, N. H., at the foot of the White mountains.

It has been said that Dartmouth's 2,400 students own 5,000 pairs of skis, making the undergraduate body overwhelmingly ski conscious.

The Dartmouth winter ice carnival, held this year for the 29th time, attracts the best collegiate skiing talent of this country and Canada; visiting European skiers frequently attend the carnival.

Dartmouth ski teams have won practically every intercollegiate ski meet of importance in the last four years, and in 1936 sent four men to the Olympics.

36 Schools Will Be Represented In 9th Annual High School Art Exhibition

Between 600 and 700 entries in the high school graphic and plastic art exhibition will have been received at the University of Iowa by tomorrow, it was estimated yesterday.

Edna Patzig, manager of the affair, has announced that about 36 schools in 20 cities will be represented in the ninth annual exhibition.

She bases her figures on requests for entry blanks. Some 610 blanks have been sent to schools and all entries in the seven classes must be received at the university not later than tomorrow, she said.

"The feature of this year is the elimination of the contest angle, for no public announcement of awards will be made," Miss Patzig said. "Judges, immediately before the art conference April 21 and 22, will record their analytical judgment of every entry. Then at the conference, they will present constructive comments about the exhibition and will lead a discussion of work," she said.

All works of the exhibition will be shown in the art building from April 16 to 27. Many of the entrants are expected to attend the conference and compare their work with that of other pupils.

Among the cities to be represented in the 1939 exhibition are Mason City, Davenport, Des Moines, Ft. Madison, Cedar Rapids, Burlington, Marshalltown, Newton, Waterloo, Iowa City, Marion, Sioux City, Dubuque, Keokuk, Hawarden, Charles City, Ottumwa, Pella, Vinton and Indianola.

'Cadavers' Of Rubber

N. Y. U. Scientists Reproduce Human Anatomy For Study

BOSTON (AP) — Rubber "cadavers" — molded with "great fidelity" from human organs and complete even to the inclusion of muscles made of rubber bands—were seen yesterday as aids to doctors of the future by two New York university scientists, who said "they might prove better than anything we now have."

Asserting they already had made "spongy rubber" replicas of many human organs, Doctors Gustave J. Noback and Irving Rehman said they now were working toward construction of a composite "rubber phantom," designed to "allow study of muscle stretching and joint movement lost in hard materials and in some cadavers."

They added, however, the rubber cadavers would not displace human cadavers now used in the dissecting room.

Noback said the rubber organs were cast from new-type molds, made by spraying liquid rubber "like whitewash" on human organs to produce "faithful duplication of every little wrinkle."

The scientists, attending a meeting of the American Association of Anatomists, said castings both of rubber and of plastic materials could be made from these rubber molds which, they explained, allowed "mass production" of laboratory equipment.

"Hard molds must be cut away before you can get at the material you are casting," Dr. Noback explained, "whereas the rubber molds can readily be opened and closed."

Noback added the molds also might be important to sculptors who wish quick duplication of a statue, and to molders of industrial equipment.

Threatens Revenge

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The cashier lifted his eyebrow over this note to the electric company from a housewife-customer: "Sorry I didn't get this (check in payment of a monthly bill) mailed yesterday so I may have to pay the penalty for delayed payment but if I do just for being one day late I'll turn off my refrigerator for a month . . ."

Edward Weeks To Talk Here

Editor Will Discuss 14 Popular Books By Famous Authors

In his lecture on "Books in a Troubled World" in Macbride auditorium at 8 p.m. tomorrow, Edward Weeks, editor-in-chief of the Atlantic Monthly Press, will discuss 14 currently popular books.

Of the 14 books, seven will be non-fiction and seven will be fiction. The non-fiction books to be discussed are "Unforgotten Years," Logan Pearsall Smith; "When There is No Place," Hamilton Fish Armstrong; "Reaching for the Stars," Nora Waln; "A Peculiar Treasure," Edna Ferber; "This Was a Poet," George F. Whicher; "Alone," Richard E. Byrd, and "With Malice Toward Some," Margaret Halsey.

From the field of fiction Weeks has selected the novels "Wickford Point," John P. Marquand; "The Patriot," Pearl S. Buck; "The Grapes of Wrath," John Steinbeck; "Bitter Creek," James Boyd; "All This, and Heaven, Too," Rachel Field; "Rebecca," Daphne Du Maurier, and "The Yearling," Marjorie K. Rawlings.

Tickets for the lecture will still be available to university faculty and students today. Tomorrow, tickets remaining will be available to the general public.

Iowa Alumnus, Ray H. Heynen, Dies Easter

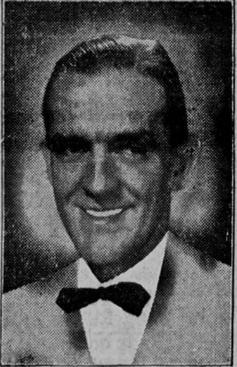

COLUMBUS, Neb., April 10 (AP) — Funeral services will be held here Wednesday morning for Ray H. Heynen, 54, head of the Heynen lumber company and prominent in Nebraska business circles, who died Sunday night after an 18-month illness.

A native of Miles, Ia., he attended the University of Iowa and came to Columbus in 1924, purchasing the Sack lumber yard. He managed the Columbus yard until 1936 when he began devoting his entire time to general supervision of the extensive properties of the Hans Hansen estate. His widow and a daughter, Patty, survive.

The new national defense program will result in a 50 per cent increase in R.O.T.C. enrollment, Harvard officials predict.

University Says Grads Can Find Lots of Jobs

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Employment opportunities for college graduates this spring are the best in 10 years, reports at the University of Oklahoma indicate.

Nineteen of 25 engineering students who completed courses in January obtained employment immediately and the other six have found jobs since then, William H. Carson, dean of the college of engineering, reported.

The heads of employment bureaus in the school of geology and the college of business administration predicted jobs will be found for a majority of June graduates.

No Time To Travel

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—For 51 years W. O. Benner, 69-year-old machinist, had worked for the Union Pacific railroad and for 15 years he had talked of the day he would retire. He planned to "take it easy and do a bit of traveling." Recently he did retire. Six days later he died.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Flying the colors of the University of Southern California, the cruiser Velerio 111 is in tropical waters and will return a veritable Noah's Ark. ## Drug Users Are Fewer As Cost Increases

SACRAMENTO, Cal. (AP)—High cost of narcotics has caused a large decrease in narcotic addiction in California, says Dr. Aaron J. Rosanoff, state director of institutions. Federal agents' activities and depression conditions largely explain the improved situation, he asserted.

Addicts are balking at paying $75 an ounce for opium which may often be adulterated. Phi Alpha fraternity has banned the use of paddles on freshmen in all of its 34 chapters.

rights, but not your citizenship, we claim," he said. "The government holds a different view, and that is one of the points we shall have to settle. I've been working on this case for nearly a year now and as soon as a few details are cleaned up we'll get Bergdoll back. He's tired of Germany anyhow."

Mrs. Bergdoll was reticent about Germany. "When my husband gets here he'll tell everything, but I can say nothing. Now I want to get to Philadelphia to see my baby."

The child was born in Philadelphia and is living in the Bergdoll "castle" in West Philadelphia with Mrs. Bergdoll's sister, Mrs. Helen Ietz.

Bergdoll, son of a wealthy Philadelphia brewer, lived an exciting youth as an automobile racer and airplane pilot and was constantly in trouble for speeding.

When the United States entered the World war in 1917 he was 23. In July, 1918, when the draft board mailed him a questionnaire he ignored it. His case was turned over to the adjutant general of Pennsylvania and Bergdoll was ordered to report for military duty on Aug. 8.

Instead of reporting he became a fugitive, and for months he sent the draft board taunting post cards from all parts of the country. On January 7, 1920, he was arrested in the Bergdoll "castle," a gray stone building of 32 rooms. He was found in a window seat, hiding under cushions.

He was court martialed, convicted of desertion and sentenced to be dishonorably discharged after serving five years at hard labor at Fort Jay, Governors Island, N. Y.

Bergdoll didn't waste much time brooding. He began talking about a fortune he had buried in the hills of Maryland—a pot of gold worth about $105,000—and before long he had the commandant's permission to go to Maryland to dig it up.

Two sergeants went with him. They drove to Philadelphia and there had engine trouble; so they went to the Bergdoll castle. The next day Grover was loungeing with his guards in an upstairs room when the telephone rang. Grover answered it and didn't come back. The sergeants heard the roar of a car at the rear of the house, and saw Bergdoll driving away. He got to Germany by way of Canada, and settled in Eberbach, the home town of his mother, Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll.

His wife said today she doesn't anticipate much difficulty in having her husband surrender. In Washington a state department official said Weinberger had tried to obtain a passport for Bergdoll, but was told Bergdoll is no longer a citizen.

This official said that if Bergdoll landed in New York his case would be one for the immigrant authorities.

Boston Announces Sale of Dickshot BOSTON, April 10 (AP)—President Boo Quinn of the Boston Bees, today announced the outright sale of Outfielder Johnny Dickshot to the Jersey City International league club.

Dickshot came to the Bees last fall from Pittsburgh, where he broke in from Little Rock in 1938. The Pirates used him as a utility outfielder for three seasons. His weak right handed hitting eliminated him when Casey Stengel attempted to groom him for Boston's center field vacancy.

Senators Trim Boston Bees 4-2 SAVANNAH, Ga., April 10 (AP)—The Washington Senators defeated the Boston Bees 4 to 2 today behind the three hit pitching of Jimmy DeShong and Walter Masterson.

The Bees collected all their blows in the fourth inning when they hopped on DeShong for two runs. The Senators scored three times in the seventh after pushing across a lone run in the fifth.

Athletics Trample Duke Nine 19 to 2 DURHAM, N. C., April 10 (AP)—Chubby Dean, Dave Smith, Hal Wagner and Wayne Ambler returned to the Duke campus today to lead the Athletics to an easy 19 to 2 victory over their former college team, Duke university.

Smith and Dean divided the pitching honors yielding only six hits, five of them in the first inning off Smith. Wagner did the catching and clouted a triple and a single. Ambler, at second, got two doubles and a single in four times up.

Spotlights International Policy

Sen. Key Pittman Mince No Words in Stating U. S. Foreign Attitude

By SIGRID ARNE AP Feature Service Writer WASHINGTON — Right now Senator Key Pittman of Nevada comes close to being the third most significant figure in Washington. The president first, of course. And then because the turgid European scene has spot-lighted our international policy, Secretary of State Hull.

But since international moves in this country must be "with the advice and consent of the senate," the chairman of the senate's foreign relations committee is next in line. And that is tall, urbane, pugacious Pittman.

Twice in the last three months he has stood Washington on its ear by talking about the happenings abroad like an indignant, corn-belt American belaboring the hired boy for letting the cows trample the corn in the south 40.

That's just not done in diplomatic circles. Diplomats usually move in a wordy fog. Pittman swings from the shoulder. Half of Washington thinks he is really sending up balloons for the administration; that he is talking for the president. The other half says, "Oh, that's just Key. He feels strongly and he's out-spoken."

Anyway it must be remembered he's very persona grata at the White House and an old friend of Hull. Went to college in Hull's state: Southwestern Presbyterian at Clarksville, Tenn. That was after a childhood in Vicksburg, Miss. He was born to a plantation family, tutored privately, and sent off to study law. He never went back there to live.

Typyphoid came along and he went to recuperate in the Northwest. Practiced law in Seattle but his restless curiosity took him off with the rush to the Klondike in 1897.

For two years he led a sordid life of a handsome home on a hill outside Washington where there's plenty room for their six police dogs. It has been a meeting ground for celebrities for years because the Pittmans are topnotch hosts. Pittman even sent out for refreshments for the firemen the night Ridgeland burned. Pittman built it right back again.

He shifted to Nevada in 1902 and was elected to the senate in 1912. Since 1913 he has played a leading role in the democratic party. Twice a member of the party's platform committee. Now president pro tempore of the senate.

He has voted an almost straight new deal ticket. His greatest victory as a Nevanadan was the silver purchase act of 1934 which sent his state's most famous product up in price.

Here's how he has stood on international questions: voted to ratify the League of Nations. Voted for the 10-year holiday on naval building in 1922. Voted against the four-power treaty which bound the United States to no further fortifications in its Far Eastern possessions. Against the London naval treaty to limit naval tonnage.

Senator Key Pittman Nevada—Democrat

His dog team had a collision one day with another team. Pittman has a temper and some sulfurous language. He used both as he disentangled the occupant of the other sled. It turned out to be a beautiful, red-haired girl. He didn't get her name that day, but two years later he married her in Nome. They moved into an abandoned jail. It was the only vacant house.

Now they live in "Ridgeland," a handsome home on a hill outside Washington where there's plenty room for their six police dogs. It has been a meeting ground for celebrities for years because the Pittmans are topnotch hosts. Pittman even sent out for refreshments for the firemen the night Ridgeland burned. Pittman built it right back again.

Talking about financial and economic measures against nations, he used picturesque Americanese this way: "Why shoot a man when you can starve him to death?" That's interesting in the light of his most recent speech in which he said, "We will resist an encroachment on the rights of our citizens by every legal means short of war."

And apropos of that speech it brought a fanfare of criticism from opponents who dubbed him "war-monger."

He has insisted on compensation from Mexico for land seizures. Last March he fought for the big navy program saying, "We won't be attacked if we're prepared to win."

Last May he took a verbal sock at Japan's Foreign Minister Hirota when Hirota was feeling around for a non-aggression pact. Said Pittman, "Japan's contempt for treaties would be no assurance to this country."

In December he touched off another bomb by this statement to the press, "The people of this country do not like the government of Germany. The people of this country do not like the government of Japan."

Now in diplomatic circles you don't say things like that unless you're prepared to call home your ambassador.

Was that statement re-routed from the state department? Or was it Pittman, personally, talking? You take your choice. But keep your eye on Pittman!

Iowa Birth Rate Falls

Mayo Tolman Sees Standstill by 1953 If Trend Continues

The population of every Iowa county will be at a standstill by 1953 if the trend of births and deaths continues as it did for the 18 year period, 1920 to 1937, Mayo Tolman, director of the vital statistics division of the Iowa state department of health, predicted yesterday.

Tolman based his statement upon a mathematical curve showing the trend of the birth and death rates for this period. The curve which he computed indicates that the Iowa birth rate has fallen steadily on the whole since 1920 and the death rate has increased slightly.

"Assuming conditions will go on as they have in the period studied, the number of births will equal the number of deaths around 1953," Tolman said, but he qualified this statement by explaining that in the past five years, including 1938, the birth rate has increased and the death rate has dropped.

"In the event that the future general trend follows the course of the past five years, it will be much later than 1953 when births equal deaths," he added, further explaining that "conditions which are impossible to foretell may upset the general trend." The curve is affected by economic upheavals and widespread epidemics of disease, he said.
