High Tribunal Meets, Gives Five Decisions

Upholds Ruling Of Court of Appeals In Deportation Decision

By The Associated Press The supreme court yesterday: Received William O. Douglas, 40-year-old former securities commission chairman, as a new justice. Ruled that former membership in the communist party was not sufficient cause for deportation of an alien. Upheld the constitutionality of the agriculture act's restrictions on marketing of crops. Decided that the labor board has jurisdiction over a local concern manufacturing goods under contract for a firm dealing in interstate commerce.

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—In a 6 to 2 decision of far-reaching implications, the supreme court ruled today that an alien could not be deported solely because he once held membership in the communist party.

The opinion, delivered by Associate Justice Roberts, upheld a ruling by the fifth circuit court of appeals in the case of Joseph G. Strecker, an Austrian-born restaurateur of Hot Springs, Ark. Its immediate effect was to order Strecker released from custody, but by wiping out a construction of the deportation statutes followed by the labor department for many years the ruling will affect many other cases.

Decision Delayed One may be that of Harry Bridges, Australian-born leader of the CIO on the Pacific coast—a case which has stirred controversy in congress and figured in the recent unsuccessful effort by Representative Thomas (R-NJ) to secure house adoption of a resolution for impeachment of Secretary of Labor Perkins.

The labor department delayed a decision on what disposition would be made of the Bridges case in the light of the supreme court's ruling. Officials said no action would be taken until attorneys had given thorough study to the question.

(Bridges has been accused of being a communist, a charge which he denied. The labor department some time ago halted its deportation proceedings against him, pending a decision in the Strecker case. Critics of Miss Perkins declared at the time that the two cases were dissimilar and that the proceedings against Bridges should be pressed forthwith. After Miss Perkins failed to press them, Representative Thomas started his impeachment attempt.)

Agricultural Adjustment Act In addition to that in the Strecker case, the court's important rulings today included: A decision upholding the constitutionality of those sections of the agricultural adjustment act providing for control over the marketing of principal farm crops and penalty taxes on farmers who sell more than their allotted quotas. Tobacco farmers in Georgia and Florida had challenged the act.

A decision that the national labor relations board has jurisdiction over a purely local manufacturer processing, under contract, goods of a firm dealing in interstate commerce. The decision reversed a ruling by the Philadelphia circuit court that the Somerset manufacturing company, Somerville, N. J., was outside the labor board's jurisdiction.

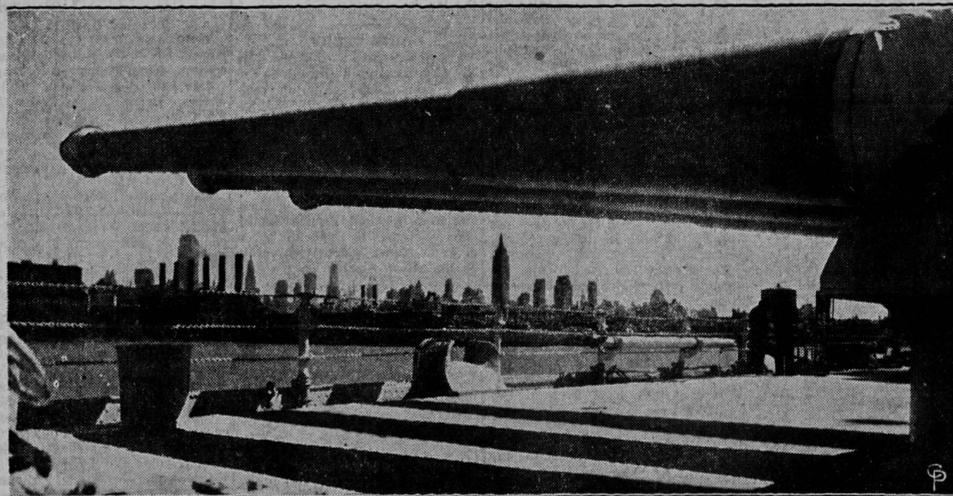

Wilson Makes State Highway Appointments

DES MOINES, April 17 (AP)—Governor George A. Wilson today announced his appointments to the state highway commission.

They are: Leslie M. Eichler (R), Washington, Ia., succeeding C. L. McKinnon (D), New London. R. B. (Rusty) Laird (R), Sidney, succeeding Harry Greene (R), Avoca. Randall Melson (R), Humboldt, succeeding I. H. Knudson (R), Jewell.

The appointments, subject to confirmation by the senate, are effective July 1, for four-year terms. The governor earlier in the day had sent the senate the name of Karl W. Fischer (R), of Vinton as his choice for the newly created post of state commissioner of public safety.

Hitler Expected To Defend Policies In Answering F. D. R.'s Peace Proposals

Calls Foreign Office Workers Believed Searching Historical Data For Sharp Denunciation

BERLIN, April 17 (AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler, in a public reply to President Roosevelt's peace proposals, was expected tonight to defend his policies before the Reichstag April 28, coupling them with a sharp denunciation of methods used by others in acquiring territory.

The fuehrer's sudden summons to the Reichstag started a corps of foreign office workers delving into historical data for what, it was believed, will be a lengthy "no" citing historical arguments supporting past and future Nazi policies.

May Call Democracies to Account He was believed to be planning to call the United States, Britain and France to account for their methods of acquiring territory in an attempt to show how empires have developed.

The summoning of the legislature was followed by an increase in bitter press attacks on President Roosevelt who asked Hitler and Italian Premier Mussolini Saturday to pledge at least 10 years of non-aggression to 31 nations and participate in world conferences looking to peace, disarmament and better trade relations.

Hitler was represented as displeased that the president's appeal was published before he had read it and his call to the Reichstag—so sudden that even high officials were caught by surprise—was interpreted as a sign that his Reichstag speech would be his only answer to Washington.

Won't Recognize Message German diplomatic sources said the fuehrer refused to treat Roosevelt's communication as a "direct message to him because it was published in Paris, London and Moscow before it reached him."

"That is why he chose to call the Reichstag and give a public reply rather than go about it diplomatically," a Wilhelmstrasse informant said. "It was not a diplomatic document, but a piece of public advertising."

The surprise summons to the legislature was issued while Hitler was at St. Poelten and Krens, in Austrian Germany, inspecting garrisons of his army.

Auto Workers Gain Admittance To A. F. of L.

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Homer Martin, once an ally but now an opponent of John L. Lewis, steered his independent United Auto Workers union back into the American Federation of Labor today to regain the charter he lost when he joined the CIO in 1936.

Contingent upon approval by his executive board and membership, Martin accepted an offer by the AFL president, William Green, to restore the charter.

Roosevelt Withdraws Nomination Of Thomas R. Amlie But Strikes Out At Those Who Call Him Communist

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Formally withdrawing his nomination of Thomas R. Amlie to be an interstate commerce commissioner, President Roosevelt at the same time struck out today at critics who called Amlie a communist.

"Those who for political reasons have called you a communist do not perhaps realize that such name-calling ill serves the democratic form of government which this nation as a whole wishes to continue," the president said in a letter to the nominee.

Amlie, a former progressive representative from Wisconsin, was nominated some months ago. Immediately critics started a fight against him. The opposition gained such strength that informed senators predicted he would not be confirmed. Amlie asked that his nomination be withdrawn and in a letter to Mr. Roosevelt, made public today, characterized the senate committee hearings on the nomination as a "veritable witchcraft trial."

Freedom of Turkey Will Be Backed By Britain and France

LONDON, April 17 (AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain tonight was expected to announce in the house of commons tomorrow that Turkey, costly foe of the allies in the World war, had become the sixth member of his anti-aggression alliance.

Chamberlain was believed ready to state that Britain and France would guarantee the independence of the rejuvenated Turkey. Nations lined up in the bloc already are Britain, France, Poland, Greece and Rumania.

Russia Promises Aid London hoped also it would be able to announce soon conclusion of an air pact with Soviet Russia, although negotiations for this were being extended. In diplomatic quarters it was said today Russia had promised "at least material aid" to Britain and her allies in the event of war.

Chamberlain was expected to announce in commons tomorrow on parliament's reassembly after the once-broken Easter recess that "good progress" was being made in British-French negotiations to get Russia into the alliance.

The progress of negotiations with Turkey and Russia and Chancellor Hitler's summoning of the reichstag for April 28 to answer President Roosevelt's appeal, announced in Berlin today, eased the situation momentarily although there still remained considerable concern.

Anticipate Nazi Cooperation The conviction grew in foreign office circles that calling of the reichstag was a conciliatory rather than an ominous move. It was believed here that the reichsfuehrer would take the opportunity to point out that Germany repeatedly has asked "the Versailles powers" to try to solve the economic problems of the world, but that they never had tackled them until Germany's military strength forced them to do so.

Concern persisted, however, with reports of troops concentrations in Spain and Spanish Morocco against Gibraltar and with rumors of an imminent Nazi march into the free city of Danzig.

47 Die, 340 Hurt as Tornado Strikes Six Southern States

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 17 (AP)—Floor warnings stirred fresh anxiety today on the heels of tornadoes that killed at least 47 and injured 340 in six southern states.

Arkansas, hardest hit area in the storm belt, received notice from the U. S. weather bureau that hundreds of lowland families might have to be evacuated before the rapidly rising waters of six major streams.

The week end series of rapid-fire twisters left 25 dead and 223 hurt in Arkansas, seven dead and 36 injured in Oklahoma, seven dead and 24 other casualties in Louisiana, six fatalities and 36 injuries in Texas, one dead and at least 20 injured in Alabama. Four were hurt in Mississippi and Tennessee reported tornado damage in one community but no casualties.

Property damage was estimated at close to a million dollars. Major disaster scene was the little community of Center Point in southeastern Arkansas where 17 were killed and more than 60 injured. Eight of the injured were reported near death.

Eleven died when the twister whirled away the Center Point community church in which they and others took refuge just after the close of an out-door funeral. Others were killed when 25 homes in the section were leveled. Among the dead at the church was the Baptist pastor, the Rev. Thomas West, 52.

Believe Plans For Soviet Air Pact Complete

MOSCOW, April 17 (AP)—Preliminary discussions on Soviet Russia's possible entry into the British-sponsored anti-aggression front were believed ended tonight with concrete proposals expected to be taken up by the end of this week.

(London diplomatic quarters said Russia already had promised "at least material aid" to Britain and her allies in case of war and British officials there expressed hope that conclusion of an air pact with Moscow would be announced soon.)

Soviet officials maintained silence on the progress of the negotiations and the British embassy here was equally uncommunicative.

London Newspaper Recalls Staff Man From Berlin Office

LONDON, April 17 (AP)—The News Chronicle announced tonight it was recalling the second member of its Berlin staff after Nazi authorities ordered its chief correspondent, Hubert R. Harrison, to leave.

Italy Rejects Peace Message, So Paper Says

MILAN, April 17 (AP)—Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia today said President Roosevelt's peace message had already been rejected in Italy "by a prompt reaction of the national conscience."

"We deny the president any right to intervene in European questions because his country is not directly interested as well as because he personally has not the slightest claim to assuming the role of friendly and impartial mediator," the paper said.

Demands That U. S. Steer Clear of War Pour Over Congress

France Sends Warships To Mediterranean

British Ships Move To Strategic Points For Naval Defense

GIBRALTAR, April 17 (AP)—French warships took over the naval defense of this vital British gate to the Mediterranean today, apparently in a move to release the bulk of the British fleet for duty in other strategic Mediterranean centers.

Since early yesterday French warships have been steaming singly and in groups to anchor off the boom-enclosed harbor. By noon 13 were assembled off the gun-studded Rock of Gibraltar, while only one British warship—the destroyer Wishart—was in port.

The bulk of Britain's strong Mediterranean force was said to be around Malta, strategic base off the "toe" of Italy. Other ships were at Alexandria and Port Said, guarding the Suez canal.

Admiral Louis Vallee, commanding the second division, conferred during the day with the governor of Gibraltar, General Sir William Edmund Ironside. Vice Admiral Jean Marquis and Rear Admiral Jacques Lacroix also were here.

While the French naval chiefs and British officials met, defense preparations were being pushed following reports of Spanish troop concentrations just across the frontier in Spain.

Italy's fleet, which would be greatly outnumbered by the combined British and French Mediterranean fleets, was last reported concentrated in the Adriatic during the seizure of Albania 10 days ago.

(A Berlin dispatch reported that the German fleet meanwhile was getting up steam to leave Kiel and Wilhelmshaven Thursday for a month's maneuvers off the Spanish coast.)

Other units of the French fleet were guarding French ports and those of France's North African possessions.

Capone Seeks Jail Release In Court Petition

LOS ANGELES, April 17 (AP)—Al Capone is seeking his release from the terminal island jail on a writ of habeas corpus which, if granted, would free him within 28 days.

Abraham Teitelbaum, Chicago attorney for the former racket king, argued a petition for the writ before Federal Judge Harry Hollzer in a secret hearing last Friday, the Times said.

Capone is serving the final year of an aggregate 11-year sentence for federal tax evasion. His lawyer argued that Capone's sentence of 10 years in prison and one year in jail actually began October 24, 1931.

MONEY ON SALE Only Three Buy Dollars For 25 Cents

RALEIGH, N. C., April 17 (AP)—Will Wynne, proprietor of a Raleigh radio shop, held a sale.

Along with radios, he placed 10 one-dollar bills in his shop window. Attached to the bills was a sign reading: "Original price, $1; sale price 25 cents."

Only three persons took advantage of the opportunity to buy a dollar for 25 cents, he said today.

Find $41,000 In Old Trunk Money Left by Man Who Told Neighbors 'We Are Not Rich'

AKRON, April 17 (AP)—Forty-one thousand dollars in gold coins and old currency was found today in the effects of the late Clem Hanke, Akron farmer who died several weeks ago a month after he and two other persons routed two robbers who entered their home, Sheriff Frank Scholer of Plymouth county said tonight.

Sheriff Scholer said John Hanke and Mrs. Minnie Traynor, children of Clem Hanke, and their attorney had reported finding the money in an old trunk.

The officer said he had not investigated the reports as yet and that no further information other than that the money had been found was forthcoming from principals in the case.

Clem Hanke figured in the news two months ago when he and two others routed a pair of would-be robbers who came to their farm home near here and demanded money.

Hanke owned four farms, one in Plymouth county, one in Nebraska and two in South Dakota. After the holdup he remarked to neighbors and officers: "I have no idea why they picked on us. We are not rich."

Startling! Hides Identity With Respectability

NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—Claude Dickerson, a midwestern desperado who for six months had hidden his identity behind a facade of middle-class respectability, was taken back to Indiana today by officers from that state.

He left behind a group of startled neighbors in Jamaica, Queens, where he had lived under the name of "Claude D Hopkins," as an industrious, sociable and well-liked glazier.

Last night, a squad of New York city and Indiana state police arrested him and the masquerade was ended.

"Why," said Sam Itzkowitz, proprietor of a candy store, "I had let Mr. Hopkins count my cash."

F. D. R.'s Peace Appeal Brings Flood of Mail

Hitler To Answer Message April 28, Berlin Word Says

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—A swelling tide of demands that America steer clear of war regardless of what happens in Europe swept over congress today in the aftermath of President Roosevelt's appeal to Hitler and Mussolini to pledge themselves to peace for at least 10 years.

Coincidentally, the administration reported with expressions of pleasure that the president's message to the dictators was developing a world public opinion for peace, and word came from Berlin that the reichschancellor would state on April 28 his attitude toward the appeal.

Western Hemisphere Approves With the arrival in Washington of additional replies from Latin American behind the president's appeals, the western hemisphere stood in a solid appeal. Favorable replies came also from dozens of other capitals in Europe and Asia, including many of the 31 governments for whom President Roosevelt requested assurances of safety from European dictators.

Officials hoped that this demonstration of international opinion would induce Hitler and Mussolini to heed an appeal which they might reject if it came solely from the United States.

Secretary Hull told his press conference he had received no indications from either Berlin or Rome as to what the official responses would be but he declared the administration was much gratified at the reaction elsewhere in the world.

Desire for Peace "There is in evidence a definite feeling," he said, "that a practical and timely contribution has been made to the cause of peace and that a public opinion, the most potent of all forces for peace, is more strongly developing throughout the world."

During the morning Hull had discussed the peace plan for 20 minutes with the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, and it was presumed to be a topic of conversation at his subsequent luncheon meeting at the White House with Mr. Roosevelt and Treasury Secretary Morgenthau.

Advocates Two Navy Fleets At the capitol, Chairman Walsh (D-Mass) of the senate naval committee launched a discussion of the critical foreign situation in a speech advocating creation of complete Atlantic and Pacific fleets in place of the single navy this country now has.

"We can no longer defend a two-ocean nation with a one-ocean navy," the towering Walsh told his colleagues. "In the light of present conditions we cannot afford to rely on the indulgence of the pretended friendship of any nation on earth."

Maintenance of strict neutrality bulwarked by a "well-balanced and efficient navy," Walsh said, "would assure the United States of peace for generations."

F. D. R. Asks for Strong Parole System Says Cooperation Would Bolster 'Our Nationwide Attack on Crime'

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt called upon the nation's law enforcement officers today to cooperate with the federal government in strengthening the prisoner parole system as a means of bolstering "our nationwide attack on crime."

"Much of the criticism which we have heard directed at parole," he told the national parole conference called by Attorney General Murphy, "is due to the fact that while 46 of our states have parole laws, less than a dozen the money and personnel which are necessary to operate a real parole system."

"Some of the criticism is due, too, to the fact that the parole power sometimes has been used to grant political or personal favors." The president spoke in the east room of the White House. Delegates to the parole conference were assembled before him. He reviewed 21 federal and anti-crime measures enacted the last six years and said they had given the government powers that broke the back of the "kidnaping racket," convicted 245 persons under the national bank robbery law and otherwise checked lawbreaking.

The G-men, he said, had "justly become world famous" and a new spirit and a new energy had been "breathed into our federal court system" with the addition of 38 new district judgeships.

Recognizing Pan-Americanism

PROF. J. Fred Rippey's comments on Pan-Americanism, made at a session of the recent Social Studies conference, challenge the University of Iowa.

A common ground of contact between the United States and the Latin American peoples is a national, not a political problem, the University of Chicago history teacher asserted.

Exchanging students and professors was suggested by Professor Rippey as a means of strengthening cultural ties between the Americas, and thereby promoting mutual understanding to the advantage of both regions.

Courses on Latin American affairs, however, at least afford an opportunity to create in the United States some appreciation of Latin America, its people and their problems. The Daily Iowan noted in its editorial columns several weeks ago that such courses are conspicuous for their absence at the University of Iowa.

And, the University of Iowa is one institution guilty of neglecting this increasingly vital problem. The minimum provision to remedy the omission should be several courses on the history and economics of Latin America. In fact, it probably would not be a supererogation to establish an Institute of Latin American Affairs within the framework of the history department.

The Daily Iowan invites criticism of this proposal from interested students, especially the Latin Americans on the campus, and from faculty members.

Among the world's now extinct creatures is the man who had nothing to worry about.

The next world war won't last long, say observers. That's no consolation. A tornado is over in a hurry, too.

Peace And The World Today

ABOUT 20 YEARS ago an "experiment" was begun. Most of the spectators agreed that the effort would fail; so a case of ignore was ordered all around.

Today the headlines tell the story "Democracies Seek Aid from Russia." And Russia has replied as a mature, grown-up nation.

Saturday Franklin Roosevelt addressed a sincere plea to the fascist dictators. Let us, he said in effect, come together for a moment and dissolve our mutual difficulties in the manner of men, by discussion and compromise.

Hitler and Mussolini are yet to speak; they may say "no"—but perhaps not.

The world wants peace—not war. The world is sick with fear and could stand a dose of security—real, honest security. This generation does not want blood spilt on the fields of Europe or of America. Everything is not right with the world, but men cannot make them right without war.

The devastation of millions of human beings cannot be reconciled to the errors of an unfair history.

From 16 of South and Central America's republics have come encouraging words for Franklin Roosevelt's effort for peace. From England and France have come complete agreement with Roosevelt's suggestions. And, yes, from Russia has come the most promising response of all. Whether one agrees or bitterly opposes Stalin, Kallinin and company, one cannot underestimate the meaning of Kallinin's reply. Russia too wants peace. Russia will cooperate. Yesterday Russia signed an agreement promising aid to Britain.

Thus, this morning the world stands in greater harmony than before.

On April 28 Herr Hitler will reply to the world and to his own people. We cannot know what that reply can be. He may give peace a curt dismissal. He may give it a try. Our hopes, the hopes of the peoples of the world are for the latter.

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

THE NEW MONROE DOCTRINE The moral which President Roosevelt plainly meant to imply yesterday in his Pan-American Day address was that good will is a source and sign of strength, not of weakness. The gist of his speech is, of course, in his statement:

We are prepared to maintain (the American peace) and to defend it to the fullest extent of our strength, matching force to force if any attempt is made to subvert our institutions, or to impair the independence of any one of our group. Should the method of attack be that of economic pressure I pledge that my own country will also give economic support, so that no American nation need surrender any fraction of its sovereign freedom to maintain its economic welfare.

As the President sees it, Pan-American relationships are entering upon a new phase. The past generation "was concerned with constructing the principles and mechanisms through which this hemisphere would work together, but the next generation will be concerned with the methods by which the new world can live together with the old." We cannot isolate two continents any more than we can isolate our forty-eight States. We are in and of the world.

Practically when the question is reduced to tomorrow's policy, the Western Hemisphere is faced with the fact of attempted economic penetration by the autocracies. The armed invasion of South America by a European Power is not on this year's calendar. Invasion by precisely the same methods used in unfair competition from time out of mind is a present fact. We know, for instance, that Germany is active, economically and politically, in almost every South American country. We know that she is coercing her own nationals, natives of German blood and citizens without German blood in interests of her distorted trade structure.

There is a peaceful reply to this invasion. It consists in the "economic support" of which the President speaks. If this phrase expresses a policy we must, in practical language, do all we can to help South American countries build up credits in this country, on terms which they can afford. Efforts in this direction are being made. They should be intensified. Our good will toward South America and our resolve to defend South American freedom must be expressed not merely in thrilling language but in terms of bread and butter.

Another That Didn't Show on The Map!

AROUND THE TOWN with MERLE MILLER

SEEN ABOUT CAMPUS That's a swell exhibit of campus camerading at the Union. I liked especially that piece of Iovana foted by Jim Kent. "July Oats," he's called it.

And all three of those Ruth Weller ones are art. "Vanity," "Katrena," and "Amateur Sophisticate."

Oak Park's Jane Nugent is the model for all three.

One of the most important events since 1492 happened this last week. The democracies of the world discovered Russia. The most lost sixth of the world's territory since Atlantis.

Any day now some college student is going to do something really crazy. Like sitting down to study for half an hour.

The story I'll write about our generation has a perfect title in this week's Nation. "The Grand Disillusion." It's called.

Two scouts called yesterday about Sunday's vespers songs. I'm sorry to have missed them. Heard they were swell.

But both scouts wanted to know what about the applause between numbers. They thought audiences didn't applaud during vespers services, after religious numbers. And that's what I thought.

That's what I thought at last Christmas time during the Messiah. It isn't being done, not any season.

Audiences at vespers sing services appreciate. Not appreciate by applause.

I don't want to go to war this week. I don't want that Allen chap I met last April in London to go either. Or the French boy who worked at my hotel in Paris. Or even the Austrian lad I talked to in Vienna who practiced his English on me.

I'm such a pacifist I like to think about youth of the world. Not just America.

"I've been missing those dirty cracks you used to make about almost everyone," the fan wrote. "What's the matter? I liked those kind of columns better."

I guess I know the reason. I have too many friends now. Too many to be a really first class columnist.

Health Hints by Logan Clendening, M. D.

Everyone knows the effect on an impressionable member of the family engaging for the first time in amateur theatricals. The family find they have an entirely new and different person on their hands.

It is not surprising, then, that the modern psychiatrist, striving to bring every influence to bear on changing the mental viewpoint of his patients, should have hit upon this medium of expression as a means to that end. Amateur theatricals have been pressed into service for a great many purposes, and now they are used as a method of treatment.

From the alert and modern Menninger clinic in Topeka, Kan., comes a particular report of such an experiment.

Plot of Play The play selected is named "Man Submerged." The plot concerns a man who thinks women have an easier part to play in the day's routine. So by arrangement he stays at home one day and does the house-work while his wife goes shopping. All day long he is interrupted by salesmen, gossipy neighbors, borrowing neighbors and his son, all of whom interrupt his work. Thus he learns from experience that the women's role is not as easy as it looks. The incidents are kept on a humorous level.

TUNING IN By Loren Hickerson

MOLLY MCGEE, after being absent from the air for almost two years, will return to the Fibber McGee program tonight, to take up her regular work on the NBC-Red network show.

Molly's decision to return to Fibber McGee and company came suddenly last Tuesday when she appeared with Fibber before the Hollywood NBC studio audience after the weekly broadcast of the show.

The two minutes of steady applause which greeted Molly stayed a radio rule which says "stay on the air if you wish to be remembered by your fans, else they'll forget you in six months."

Molly has been off the air since early fall back in 1937, except for one brief appearance. Recently, her doctors assured her that she could resume her radio career as the harassed spouse of Fibber without fear of endangering her health.

In real life Molly is Fibber's wife, too. As Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jordan, they have been happily married for 25 years.

RUBINOFF and his violin are returning to the airwaves, and this is a banner day.

Rubinoff's exotic music will be featured in a program which will include a company of entertainers long known as headliners in their own right.

Arthur Boran, famed as a mimic, will hold down the laugh department of the new program. Others who will participate are Buddy Clark, popular baritone; Graham McNamee, commentator; and Basil Ruysdael, master of ceremonies.

The first Rubinoff show will be broadcast over station WMT at 8 o'clock tonight. Three other programs will be broadcast Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 9 a.m. The first of this series of variety programs has been in the making since Rubinoff was pronounced fit to return to his famous violin.

The big news about the program, sponsored by Rexall drugs, is that Rubinoff has overcome his ill health and will be back on the air with his emotional music, but the entire program is being knit together by some of radio's smartest showmen so that a well-rounded show has been constructed.

A New Yorker at Large By George Tucker

NEW YORK — This department is indebted to Pearl Buck, Ray Kinney, George Kainapau, and a slight head cold for a very satisfying day, and acknowledgment is hereby made.

Now it was a day on which the skies wept continuously and no sort of weather for one with the shifts to be plodding about. Then there was that package the boy had brought, a quite heavy package and still clothed in its brown paper wrappings. And there was "The Patriot," clamoring to be read.

So we swallowed a dozen oranges, made a sad, plaintive call to the office, and settled down to 24 hours of being intelligently lazy, just lounging in bed, reading in spells, and having a turn at that package, which, when the wrappings were removed, turned out to be Decca's new album of Ray Kinney records.

I think Decca is to be saluted for these releases because several of them have the hymn-like beauty of Ray Kinney's and George Kainapau's voices in duet. George Kainapau is the Hawaiian boy with the falsetto voice, and when he and Ray sing together I always have the impression that they are on some quiet beach, painting tonal hymns to nature.

In fact, I imagine they will be glad to learn that I have this album, believing it will afford them some relief, as I always pester the daylights out of them with requests whenever I am where they are playing.

Anyway this self-prescribed cure worked wonders and I must remember to have another cold extremely interested. She made her own costume, indicating her idea of what a gossip person would look like, and on the night of the play she spoke her lines in an exact yet humorous manner.

Upon seeing her doctor after the play she said, "I felt as if I were home." He was able from this opening to suggest that she was obeying a deeply-repressed wish to carry on the same type of aggressions portrayed on the stage.

The experiment as described is most interesting. Certainly it gives us, who are not daily familiar with them, some idea of the mental capacity of such patients and of the resourcefulness in treatment of the modern psychiatrist.

Peter the Great was Denmark's tallest king. He measured 6 feet 8 inches.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds by ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — The boys and girls in Washington, D. C., can't rest easy now. Jim Preston says it's all right.

"I'm amazed," says Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's American double. "I go through these sets and it's just as if I were back in the capitol. Everything, to the smallest detail, is right. I'm amazed."

It's distinguished-looking Jim Preston's business to see that it's all "right." Former superintendent of the press gallery in the senate, now officiating at the Hall of Archives, Jim Preston is on leave of absence to help Frank Capra present an authentic senate. "Technical adviser" is what they call the job.

The picture is "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington." It has James Stewart and Jean Arthur in the lead roles, and it's about an idealistic young man who goes to the senate with Ideas. Jim Preston isn't concerned professionally with the Ideas, but with the senate.

He took me through the senate set under construction, pointed out infinitesimal details in which the reproduction matches the original—such things as the new air-conditioning gratings below the senatorial desks, the flowery designs on the chandeliers in the "lobby," the style of molding along the walls, those certain barred doors behind the press gallery.

"It takes me right back through my 35 years there," he exclaimed. "And what's more amazing—you see a set of blueprints in the evenings in the carpenter shops, and next morning there it all is, on the set."

Veterans Ready for Opener

Jim George, outfielder (left), and Erwin Prasse, infielder (right), are two members of the veteran team Coach Ott Vogel hopes will bring Iowa victory when Purdue's powerful Boilermakers face the Hawkeyes on Iowa field this afternoon. George, rated the most valuable player in the Big Ten last year, and Prasse, Iowa's probable nine letter winner, are punch men in the Iowa attack.

The names of Max Baer and Lou Nova are mentioned whenever fight fans congregate to discuss a possible successor to the heavyweight throne.

However, Joe had already stopped Baer, stopped him in a manner so ridiculously easy that Max, however improved — which doesn't quite make sense as fighters, generally speaking, don't improve much with age — would appear to be definitely out of the running as a serious threat to regain the title that once was his.

Baer's next opponent, Lou Nova, though thought highly of on the coast, in all probability lacks the experience to whip Louis, even assuming that things were all even-Stephen in skill.

And his past performances fail to indicate anything amazing in the way of pugilistic dexterity. As a matter of fact, his record is anything but impressive.

Both the Hawkeye and Boilermaker squads worked out in the Iowa fieldhouse yesterday, Purdue using the Iowa plant facilities from 2 until 4 o'clock and the Hawks taking over afterwards.

The Boilermaker squad, under the direction of Coach Dutch Fehring, went through regulation warmup drills, and the infielders worked on several play situations. Due to the confining walls of the fieldhouse, no hitting drills could be carried out.

Iowa's diamond men worked on approximately the same drills as did the invading Purdue squad. Pitching problems were given a lot of attention in both camp drills.

Lineups Same The starting lineups in today's contest will be the same as announced for yesterday's tilt with possibly one exception. Arnold Bredewater will take the mound for the Boilermakers unless the weather should be cold.

War-horse waded in at the start and lived up to his promise to punch it out with the deadliest puncher in the ring today.

He punched as long as he could, but the fury of an aroused Louis, stung by Black Jack's famed left hook, brought disaster.

Battered into his corner, Roper was trying to crawl up the ropes as the count tolled on, but could not make it.

Louis and Roper walked slowly from their corners at the opening bell. Fully 20 seconds passed with neither offering a threat.

Louis closed in with a furious assault, and as they parted Roper's eye was about to spurt blood.

Louis retreated quickly to a neutral corner and the final count began.

43 Outstanding SUI Women Receive Honors at Dinner In Annual Good Will Observance

Ideals, Objectives, Work, Achievement Form Toast Theme

"Ideals," "Objectives," "Work" and "Achievement," the initial letters of which from the word "Iowa," formed the theme of the toast program last night at the annual Good Will dinner at which Emilie Stapp, Marie Stapp and Dorothy Finkbine Souers honored 43 outstanding senior women in the university. The formal affair was in the private dining room of Iowa Union.

Discussing "Ideals," Anna B. Yawther of Dubuque, member of the state board of education, challenged the honorees with Santyana's advice "To do hard things easily, to rough it like a lady and to suffer like a woman."

Representing the senior women, Jane Hart used an allegory to tell of the group's "Objectives."

"No one among you has not experienced the pain of supreme effort, but you also have experienced the deep satisfaction of work well done," said Prof. John E. Briggs in discussing "Work."

"The test of true education is the scope of interest and understanding which is inculcated," he explained. For a fully educated person, he added, there is no such thing as being unemployed. And, he concluded, you may count education successful if you have no time to be idle.

Congratulating the seniors upon their accomplishments, President Eugene A. Gilmore, told them that in them the university saw a dream come true—saw the high qualities which justify the university's work. President Gilmore's toast was entitled "Achievement."

Serving as toastmistress was Dean of Women Adelaide L. Burge.

Guests at the dinner were seated at an oval table decorated with pink gladioli and green vines.

Guests included President and Mrs. Gilmore, Professor and Mrs. Briggs, Miss Lawther, Prof. Grace E. Chaffee, Prof. Elizabeth Halsey, Prof. Clara M. Daley and Dean Burge.

FORD SHIPS SAIL THE SEVEN SEAS

Down to the sea in Ford ships go millions of tons of shipping. The Ford docks berth one of the largest industrial fleets in the world.

There are 29 Ford ships in all, including seven seagoing craft, the two largest motorships on the Great Lakes, barges, tugs and canal boats. They are kept busy bringing raw materials to Ford plants, or carrying parts or assembled cars outward-bound.

Ford production methods eliminate all extra handling or storage of material and parts. Waste motion is waste money. Useless storage takes time, space, and ties up capital.

So, parts and materials flow in a steady, unstopping stream to and from the great Ford plant on the River Rouge. Iron ore—much of it dug from Ford mines—and coal from Ford mines—come to the Rouge in Ford ships.

Ore that reaches the plant Monday morning may emerge about 28 hours later—or Tuesday noon—as part of a finished car. In its progress from earth to automobile it has been constantly under way and under control. There is no guesswork.

Ford efficiency begins at the beginning. In the end, the sum of these savings is passed along to buyers of Ford cars and trucks—in the form of lower price and higher value.

Irishman Tells of Folklore

O'Duilearga Collects Legendary Tales; Lectures in Senate Chamber

By Staff Writer

Irishmen are notoriously fond of being Irish and of other Irishmen, but enthusiasm for Seamus O'Duilearga of Dublin who lectured yesterday afternoon in the senate chamber was not limited to descendants of the folk from County Clare or County Cork.

Nearly crowded out of Ireland by the 25 tons of material he has collected in an effort to interpret the spirit of Ireland from the old folk tales, O'Duilearga came to this country several months ago and embarked on a lecture tour.

Rapid speech and a bit of brogue made him, at times, difficult to understand, but this only served to fascinate his audience.

His job as director of the Irish Folklore commission is "to take down, cold bloodedly, tales by the thousands," and this he says, is the most dangerous job in the world — trying to interpret the Irish.

He and his co-workers, selected carefully from the sons of farmers who are able to speak the district dialect, have been working since September, 1935, and have collected 500,000 pages in one group and a million in another.

So that the tales are absolutely correct and may be checked, the old story tellers have their stories recorded on disks. One eighth of the material has now been catalogued.

"I often wonder if education is all people say it is because some of the most intelligent people I have met are those who could neither read nor write," said the lecturer, in speaking of some of his best friends, the old countrymen from the Gaelic speaking areas on Ireland's wild Atlantic coast.

port of the national youth anti-war congress held last December in Columbus, Ohio. A mass meeting will take place on the Iowa campus at 11 a.m. Thursday, the day and hour at which similar meetings will be held by students throughout the nation to demonstrate their solidarity against war. Miss Bennett's organization issued the call for these mass demonstrations. She emphasized that students desiring to help in the year-round work against war should get in touch with Freutel and join the youth committee. She and Freutel also discussed the possibility of the local Student Peace council's affiliation with the national organization on the basis of its eight point program: (1) a halt to the steady militarization of the United States, (2) an end to the protection of American lives, (3) passage of a genuine war referendum amendment, (4) rejection of the international police force concept of the foreign policy of the United States, (5) abandonment of all plans for industrial mobilization, (6) endorsement of student mass demonstrations against war, (7) promotion of alternatives to armaments economics at home and (8) advancement of real internationalism based on peace and justice.

In Opposition to War—

Fay Bennett, field secretary of the youth committee against war, was in Iowa City last week end conferring with local peace leaders regarding plans for the celebration of National Peace week which begins Monday. Here she hands Edward Freutel, A4 of Los Angeles, Cal., president of the Iowa Student Peace council, a copy of the re-

Chicago Uses Iowa Research

Prof. Kurt Lewin's Welfare Experiments Uphold Democracy

Practical application of discoveries in group leadership, made at the University of Iowa by Prof. Kurt Lewin of the child welfare research station, now is being discussed by Chicago officials.

Professor Lewin, who is now on a leave of absence at Harvard university, worked for two years on a study of groups of boys under complete leadership, partial leadership, and no leadership at all.

Some of the results of this work were outlined last Sunday for the first time to a Chicago audience by Dr. Ronald Lippitt, one of Dr. Lewin's assistants.

The groups simulated dictatorship, democracy and anarchy. It was found that the boys worked better under the democratic form of leadership.

Although the dictatorship was benevolent, it resulted in increased tension and 30 per cent more hostility between members. Both dictatorship and democracy were equally superior to anarchy.

The democrats worked happily and quietly, whether or not the leader was present. Although the dictator's group did not show aversion to its leader, it took out its spite on one of the members. In Chicago, the park district is planning similar experiments and application of results, with the cooperation of the university. The Chicago Recreation commission, also is interested.

Times For Only Eclipse

Prof. Wylie Tells Of Different Ways To Observe Eclipse

Peer at the sun through a piece of photographic film tomorrow morning and see the only eclipse visible in the United States this year, Prof. C. C. Wylie, university astronomer, advised yesterday as he announced the show's official time schedule.

The farther west you live, the better eclipse you can see for about 2 1/4 hours, he said. For instance, in eastern Iowa, 36 per cent of the sun will be covered by the shadow of the moon, in central, 38 per cent, and in western Iowa, 40 per cent.

Starting time in the west is 9:04 a.m., central, 9:08, and east, 9:12. The middle portion of the eclipse, when the maximum portion will be covered, occurs at 10:10, 10:14, and 10:18. Professor Wylie said the phenomenon will end at 11:21 in the west, 11:25 central, and 11:28 in the east.

The usual method for observers to see the eclipse is through a piece of camera film. Professor Wylie warned that it may be necessary to use more than one film, in order to protect the eyes.

Several persons can watch the eclipse indirectly by the other common method. Punch a small hole in a piece of cardboard, and through it project the image of the sun on a white paper. This is the principle of the pin-hole camera, Professor Wylie said.

Will Direct Survey On Teaching Latin For Natl. Association

Prof. Dorrance S. White of the classical languages department was appointed national co-director of the survey known as "The Present Status of Classical Education" at the executive meeting of the Classical Association of the Middle West and South at Oberlin, Ohio, last week.

Prof. A. Pelzer Wagner of William and Mary college of Williamsburg, Va., has been national director for the past four years.

Professor White has been a regional director, in charge of Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming and South Dakota.

The purpose of the survey is to encourage better teaching of Latin in the secondary schools, to influence teachers to treat their subject-matter in such a way that it will be suited to modern high school curricula, and to educate parents and laymen to the service that Latin can render in educating high school youth.

The present status survey is also concerned in the promotion of the modern languages in the schools. Wherever possible it cooperates with organizations representing modern language departments.

From a questionnaire devised by the Iowa professor and distributed throughout many middle western states, including Connecticut and Virginia, much information has been obtained to show the condition of Latin teaching in those states.

In many sections Latin shows increases in enrollment and in all parts of the country it is easily the dominant foreign language taught in the schools, Professor White has said.

Next They'll Disapprove Of Red Suspenders

ST. LOUIS (AP)—It's traditional and there is fire fighting romance attached to it, but George W. Chadsey, director of public safety, says the old brass pole has no place in the modern fire station. "If we could get rid of that brass pole there would be less danger of men getting hurt," he said. "The firemen usually are only half awake when they slide down it."

The word "cad" is said to be a shortening of "cadaver," meaning dead body.

Members of the city council at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the city hall discussed the installation of a short wave radio receiving set on the police motorcycle and whether to repair the present squad car or to purchase a new one.

A communication was received from Police Chief Frank J. Burns which said that the saving effected by the use of the motorcycle for patrol work during the day until 11 p. m. would more than pay for the cost of the radio set for the motorcycle.

Mayor Henry F. Willenbrock said that the present squad car has travelled more than 74,000 miles and it would be used only on calls during the day, but would continue to be used for patrol work after 11 p. m. if the motorcycle radio is installed.

Members of the council also heard Mayor Willenbrock explain that the squad car would soon need repairs costing nearly $150.

The council authorized the police chief and the mayor to investigate the cost of the motorcycle radio and the feasibility of repairing the present squad car.

There are 218 farm houses and 18 school houses on the roads to be graded and 104 houses within one-half mile of the roads, Justen revealed.

Eighty-four per cent of the roads are on mail routes, he said.
