Hitler Displays Military Might On Birthday

Demonstration Called Largest of Its Kind In History of Berlin

By The Associated Press
BERLIN, April 20 — Reichsfuehrer Hitler, in a display of armed might obviously intended to impress a nervous world with the vastness of nazi preparedness, today celebrated his 50th birthday with the greatest military parade in Berlin's history.

For four and one half hours the clatter of grim engines of destruction, the tramp of 40,000 soldiers and the roar of squadrons of war planes dinned into the ears of several hundred thousand spectators.

Throngs Exceed 1,000,000

Enthusiastic nazis said the throngs that lined the three-mile route along the "avenue of splendor," Berlin's new boulevard from the old imperial castle to the technology school exceeded 1,000,000.

The fuehrer was visibly stirred by the acclamation of the crowds as he stood with arm upraised in nazi salute to review the great parade.

With him in the reviewing stand in front of the technology school were his staff, headed by Field Marshall Hermann Wilhelm Goering and Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, chief of staff of the navy; foreign military attaches stationed in Berlin, including the attache of the United States embassy, and official delegations from 20 nations.

One of the host of gifts that arrived in tribute to the World War corporal who became "augmentor of the reich" — builder of greater Germany — was an honorary citizenship in the free city of Danzig.

Area Increased

(Hitler has increased Germany's area and population by about one fourth in the past 14 months — from 67,000,000 inhabitants to 87,000,000 and from 208,000 square miles to 260,000.)

Hitler received the Danzig honorary citizenship from Albert Forster, nazi district leader of the once-German free city, shortly before the parade began.

Rumors for days had said that the fuehrer would receive not only citizenship but Danzig itself as a birthday tribute but he celebrated his milestone without adding more territory to his empire.

Foerster Makes Allusion

With the honorary citizenship, however, Foerster made an allusion that might be interpreted as expressing what Danzig nazis have in mind. He brought Hitler tidings of the Baltic seaport in which Poland has a vital interest and said:

"In the last few years, from all points of view, you have done isolated Danzig Germans so much good that it long has been our most fervent desire to give you outward expression of our thankfulness.

"Today the time has arrived, my fuehrer, when we are able to give you this thanks before the entire world."

Hitler, in reply, so far as was made public, merely thanked Foerster and asked him to transmit expressions of his gratitude and greetings to the people of Danzig.

May 'Freeze' Balkans With Counter-Surety

BUDAPEST, April 20 (AP)—British-French guarantees of independence to certain Balkan states may be matched by the Rome-Berlin axis with guarantees to other states in this region, diplomatic sources said today.

"The west has played one card in the Balkans and the axis is about to play the next," one observer asserted.

Thus, while the western powers have assured Rumania and Greece of assistance if they be menaced, observers said the feasibility of similar guarantees by the axis to Hungary and Yugoslavia would be considered by the Italian foreign minister, Count Ciano, and the Yugoslav foreign minister, Alexander Cincar-Marinkovic, in their discussions at Venice Saturday.

The effect of such a lineup would be that the Balkan frontiers would be "frozen" by external guarantees and any effort to change the borders would immediately involve the danger of conflict among distant guarantor powers.

A Student Campaign for Peace

Shown above are several of the signs displayed at the student mass meeting for peace yesterday on the east slope of Old Capitol. The signs were carried by students to stress the purpose of the meeting and National Peace week, which is being observed on the University of Iowa campus this week.

Prof. Howard R. Bowen of the economics department and Charles Joiner, L3 of Maquoketa, spoke at the gathering at which it was estimated 400 students were present.

A student voting today will close the activities of peace week. The vote will be on seven questions to be answered "yes" or "no." The result of this vote will determine student opinion on the present situation.

Iowa Students To Vote Today on 7 Questions Relating to National Peace Week Movement

University of Iowa students will be given an opportunity today to vote on seven questions which will express their views on the present peace movement.

There will be two polling places—at the cross walks in front of Old Capitol and in the outer lobby of Iowa Union. All students who can be urged to vote so that the results will be an accurate summary of student opinion on the various questions.

The seven questions to be voted "yes" or "no" are:

1. Do you favor immediate aid "stronger than words but short of war" by this country to England and France against Germany and Italy?

2. In case such aid proves insufficient, do you favor aiding France and England with military force?

3. Do you favor a policy of strict non-intervention in European power politics buttressed by rigid neutrality legislation?

4. Do you favor the Ludlow amendment of the present policy of compulsory ROTC at the University of Iowa?

5. Or do you favor the substitution of voluntary for compulsory ROTC?

6. Or do you favor the complete abolition of ROTC?

The student voting will be the final event on the observation of National Peace week on the Iowa campus. Other significant events during the past week were an open forum meeting Wednesday evening at which there were about 800 persons and a student mass meeting yesterday at which there were about 400 students.

'Absurd,' Says Mussolini Of Ten-Year Plan

Announces Plans For Exposition in Rome As Proof of Peace

By The Associated Press
ROME, April 20 (AP)—Premier Mussolini today cited plans for a world exposition in Rome in 1942 as proof that Italy expected at least three years of peace but declared, President Roosevelt's proposal for ten-year non-aggression guarantees was "absurd."

"If we were cherishing obscure aggressive designs, we would not be dedicating ourselves to work of such vast proportions," il duce told directors of the exposition assembled to report on their progress.

Just One Sentence
Mussolini used one sentence to pose the uncertainty of a reply to President Roosevelt's appeal of last Saturday and to emphasize the policy of the Rome-Berlin axis as one of peace.

"Whether or not any reply is sent to the well-known message I cannot pass up this occasion," he said, "to reaffirm that the policy of Rome and of the axis is a policy inspired by the criterion of peace and of collaboration, of which Germany and Italy have given many concrete proofs."

Nowhere in the speech, which was delivered in Julius Caesar hall of the capitol and broadcast, did he mention President Roosevelt by name though he referred to "the well-known message" and, at another point, to "messiah-like messages."

Reciprocal Guarantees Absurd
But after citing the 1942 exposition plans as "a promising indication that we do not intend to attack anyone," il duce declared:

"It is therefore absolutely unjust and unjustifiable from any point of view to attempt to place nations of the axis on the seat of the accused."

"No less absurd is the proposal of reciprocal guarantees lasting ten years which do not take into account the pyramidal errors of geography into which individuals have fallen who have not even the most rudimentary knowledge of European affairs."

On The Proposed Conference
"For the proposed expansive conference in which the United States would limit itself effectively to its customary role of distant spectator, experience gives us some bitter lessons on this score: Namely that the greater the number of conferees the more certainty there is of failure."

Despite Mussolini's references to the Roosevelt proposals, the speech was widely accepted as reassuring by both Italian and foreign quarters.

Diplomats said the Roosevelt message apparently had the effect in the totalitarian camp of a warning to slow down.

Mussolini said it was time "to reduce to silence the sowers of panic, anticipators of catastrophes, professional fatalists who often cover with a great banner their fear, their insensate hatred, or defense of their more or less inadmissible interests."

Helen Hayes Actress Pleads For 20,000 Children

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—Helen Hayes, star of Broadway and Hollywood, stepped shyly before a congressional committee today as plain Mrs. Charles MacArthur, an American mother concerned over the plight of thousands of German children.

Her black straw hat scarcely topping the back of the witness chair, a forgotten formal statement folded tightly in her clenched hands, Miss Hayes leaned forward earnestly to ask "repudiation of race prejudice and brutality."

Miss Hayes appeared in behalf of legislation which would permit entry into the United States of 20,000 German refugee children, 14 years old or younger, in the next two years, in addition to regular immigration quotas.

"I beg of you to let them come in," she pleaded. "The real feeling of every American family is that there is always room for one more."

In presenting herself Miss Hayes used the name of her playwright husband because, she explained, "I want to make it good and legal to start with."

Report Russia Indicates Willingness To Help In British Coalition Plan

Tennis Star in Iowa City

Hamburgers and malted milk made up the bill of fare for Donald Budge when he and Jack, Harris, left, promoter of the Budge matches, stopped to eat in Iowa City yesterday. They were accompanied by Al Ennis, business manager. After "eking out" a win over Fred Perry in Des Moines Wednesday, Budge was moving on to Rockford, Ill., for his next match. Harris was interested in the possibility of presenting a Budge-Perry match in Iowa City. Budge said he had never regretted turning pro, that the only difference at the pro match is the increased noise of the hot dog vendors.

Three Nations Would Resist All Aggression

Talks With Turkey Rumored; Two New Allies Seen for G. B.

LONDON, April 20 (AP)—Soviet Russia was reported reliably tonight to have sent the British foreign office proposals which indicated Soviet willingness to participate in the British-French coalition.

A source usually well informed said that "the entire forces" of the three nations would be pledged to resist any aggression in Europe if the proposals were accepted.

Counter Proposals
The Soviet proposals, which countered those put forward in Moscow by the British ambassador, Sir William Seeds to Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff, were being considered by the British foreign office.

It was reported also that talks with Turkey were progressing. Thus some quarters believed that if agreement could be reached with Moscow, Britain shortly would be able to announce the inclusion of two new allies — one with great reserves of man-power and raw materials and the other of prime strategic importance — in the front she is building in an attempt to check the Rome-Berlin axis.

Poland, Greece and Rumania already have received promises of French-British aid if their independence is threatened.

Hitler Sends Out 2-Point Question

PARIS, April 20 (AP)—Diplomatic sources reported tonight Adolf Hitler had asked several of his smaller neighbors the blunt, two-point question: "Do you consider yourself menaced by Germany and did you ask President Roosevelt to intervene in European affairs?"

These sources said the question and the response he receives would form a part of the German chancellor's reply to President Roosevelt's peace appeal when he faces the reichstag a week from tomorrow.

Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Hungary were mentioned particularly among the countries Hitler was said to have sounded out. They were among the 31 Mr. Roosevelt singled out in asking Germany and Italy for 10-year non-aggression pledges.

It was a foregone conclusion in diplomatic circles here that the Sofia, Belgrade and Budapest governments would answer Hitler with a "No."

This, these sources said, would be a strong part of the fuehrer's "ammunition" when he answers the American president who asked him for "a frank statement" on the policies of the Rome-Berlin axis.

They cited the backgrounds of the three countries and the reason for their probable answers as follows: Hungary — An anti-comintern partner of Germany and Italy and itself carrying a chip on its shoulder against Rumania, which rules former Magyar territory once a part of the old Austro-Hungarian empire humbled by the post war peace treaties.

Bulgaria — German ally in the World War which has its own territorial grievances and wishes for peace revision of the post-war treaties.

Yugoslavia — Troubled by numerous minorities, including Germans, and now hemmed in by Germany's acquisition of Austria and Italy's domination of Albania.

Hitler Receives Various Gifts

BERLIN, April 20 (AP)—The meeting room of former German cabinets in the old chancellery building was piled high tonight with valuable and sentimental birthday gifts to Adolf Hitler.

The official news agency said the gifts doubled the number received and included everything from first editions to layettes — the latter for charity distribution.

State Department Finds Hope For Peace in Il Duce's Talk

ROYALTY SPEAKS Comments on Danish And Iowa Farms

DES MOINES, April 20 (AP)—Crown Prince Frederik of Denmark and Iceland noted in his press conference today that the Danes, like a majority of Iowa farmers, have their land mortgaged.

The heir-apparent explained that unlike Iowa, there are no absentee-landlords in Denmark and that every place is operated by the person who holds title to the land.

About 65 per cent of the farms in Denmark, however, are mortgaged, he said.

Lindy's Wife Sails for U. S. To Join Mate

LE HAVRE, France, April 20 (AP)—Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh and her two sons, Jon and Land, sailed for the United States on the liner Champlain today to rejoin Colonel Lindbergh, who has been called to active duty at the war department.

As the ship left port it passed within sight of the burned and foundered hulk of the liner Paris on which Mrs. Lindbergh had planned originally to sail.

French detectives accompanied the family from the Lindberghs' Paris apartment to Le Havre and left the Champlain just before she sailed at 6:21 p.m. (11:21 a.m., CST).

Colonel Lindbergh sailed April 8 on the Aquitania.

Lindy Advises Air Leadership

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh advised army, navy and civilian aeronautical officials today that the United States should use every effort to clinch world leadership in plane development.

Reporting to the national advisory committee for aeronautics on strides made by Germany and other nations, the flier was said by officials to have advised more emphasis on research in the United States.

Mussolini's Reaction Not 'Absolute' Bar To Collaboration Plan

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—Disappointed, though hardly surprised, at Mussolini's disdainful reaction to President Roosevelt's anti-aggression plea, state department officers nevertheless found in the Italian premier's words at least a faint hope for peace.

They expressed belief that however much the Duce derided in his address at Rome the value of the conference table as a means of adjusting economic inequalities, he still did not absolutely bar the way to an effort at stabilizing the European situation by collaboration.

(Mussolini said non-aggression guarantees were unnecessary and that President Roosevelt's peace plea failed to take into consideration "pyramidal errors of geography.")

He indicated he might make no further reply to Mr. Roosevelt's appeal of last Friday to him and to Chancellor Hitler of Germany to pledge that their armies would not move during the next 10 years against 31 countries which Mr. Roosevelt named.)

Senator Green (D-R) conferred with President Roosevelt and with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, and then expressed the opinion that if a major war should arise, the United States "could not keep out of it." He said he would advise his friends "by all means" not to visit Europe this summer.

Iowa Chooses Candidates For Farmer Contest

DES MOINES, April 20 (AP)—Iowa's candidates for the degree of "American farmer" were chosen here today by delegates at the 11th annual convention of the Iowa Association of Future Farmers of America.

The four candidates selected for the degree, the highest honor conferred by the national convention of the Future Farmers of America, were: Fred Sievers, II, of Audubon, Gaylor Stadman of Sac City, Paul Trumbauer of Jesup and Wayne Strong of Clarinda.

Elected President

DES MOINES (AP)—Phil Zerwas, general manager of the Manning Telephone company, Manning, was elected president of the Iowa Independent Telephone association at a meeting of directors yesterday.

UNMENTIONABLES Can Produce Two Suits For Every Soldier

PHILADELPHIA, April 20 (AP)—The underwear industry is prepared for war.

Roy A. Cheyney, president of the underwear institute, disclosed at a meeting today the manufacturers are ready to produce two suits — shirts and drawers — for every soldier even though 5,000,000 men should be mobilized.

F. R.'s Failure To Wish Hitler Well Deplored

NEWPORT, R. I., April 20 (AP)—U. S. Representative Hamilton Fish (R-NY) tonight characterized the lack of a congratulatory message from President Roosevelt to Chancellor Hitler on the latter's 50th birthday as "utter stupidity and sheer political folly."

Asserting "the king of England and practically all other heads of nations" sent such messages today in accordance with custom and tradition, Fish said the president acted "the part of a sulky, spoiled child when we were presumably trying to influence the dictatorial nations toward the paths of peace."

(A state department official said today congratulatory letters are sent to presidents and other heads of states on occasions of national rather than personal anniversaries.)

Fish addressed the Newport Discussion Club.

Leave Situation In State's Hand

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—Senator Hattie Caraway (D-Ark) told the 48th D.A.R. congress tonight that the international situation was fraught with dangers and suggested a policy of "keeping our mouths shut and leaving our state department to deal with the situation."

"We are in the midst of the most delicate international situation which America ever has faced," she declared.

Presented Watch
DES MOINES (AP)—Lieut. Gov. B. B. Hickenlooper yesterday was presented by members of the senate with a wrist watch.

Chain Stores Tax Undecided

DES MOINES, April 20 (AP)—The feverish race of chain store tax advocates against time took the form in the Iowa house today of a series of "compromise" amendments reducing the bill to a curtailed unit levy.

Rep. Robert D. Blue (R), Eagle Grove, and others filed the amendments to eliminate the "fair trade" practices valuations sections from the bill. The proposals also would reduce the proposed unit tax from a maximum of $500 per unit for all chains of more than 100 outlets down to $250.

The present law collects a top of $155 on each store in chains of more than 50 stores.

Whether they succeed or not, republican house leaders had been working on a basis of completing the legislative session by Saturday night. Hence, the rush of the chain store tax group to bring the bill out on the house floor.

The measure passed the senate with the fair trade and valuations elements untouched. The latter provisions would assess stocks of chain stores for property tax purposes on a different and higher basis than that used for independent merchants. The attorney general's office has ruled both the trade and the valuations sections unconstitutional.

Student's Peace Demonstration Quite Effective

NORTH MANCHESTER, Ind., April 20 (AP)—Manchester college students conducted a peace demonstration here today so realistic many persons were convinced war had been declared. Many women wept and one student fainted.

School officials, townsfolk and the students enacted a broadcast from Europe in which Europe had gone to war and the United States had only a few hours before it declared war on Germany and Italy.

Relief Decreases
WASHINGTON (AP)—Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, announced yesterday that work relief rolls had been decreased to 2,756,254 in the week ended April 12. This was a reduction of 145,699 from the previous week.

What Do They Think?

WHAT WILL Mr. Hitler say in reply to President Roosevelt's peace proposal? Consider how a man would answer the old stickler, "Have you stopped beating your wife?" and Mr. Hitler's position may be better understood.

Mr. Hitler is a dictator. That, of course, is a platitude, but commonplaces often need repetition, for their very supposed transparency can make their underlying significance difficult to appreciate.

Such an episode in golfing history, along with countless others, is the sort of thing that inspires youth and assures maturity with respect for the game. It serves to illustrate the fact that golf is a sport in which the human equation plays a leading role; a sport of course requiring a maximum of method and practice—in which human whims and caprices are the determining factor.

Censor Children's Programs

LAST WEEK the NBC radio network formulated a revised program for juvenile broadcasts. Some of the new principles set down were:

1. Children's programs must reflect respect for law and order. 2. Expressions of disrespect for parents or various other basic qualities such as conceit or cowardice should be avoided.

For Mr. Hitler to accede to the proffer of peace, as presented, would reveal to his people, very likely, an admission of guilt, of being in the wrong, of having misled them.

Then, too, the president's proposal stimulated every nation to immediate response but the two most concerned. It ostensibly was directed at Germany and Italy in very personal tones. For Britain, France and numerous other nations to rush replies seems a breach of international manners, if there are such.

Their action did, however, present a united front behind President Roosevelt against the "aggressor" dictators. Again, this may be desirable, but what would be the reaction practically forced upon the dictators by this move?

If they accept the proposal, will it not look to them and to their nations, in view of the formidable and threatening chorus of approval from all the rest of Europe, as if they were submitting to pressure rather than voluntarily supporting the plan? Americans may not consider such a concession an evidence of weakness, but the dictators stand in a peculiar position as rulers. And that must be taken into account, apparently, if constructive overtures for peaceful relations with them are to be made.

Furthermore, the message sent by the president reportedly was published in Paris, London and Moscow before it reached its intended recipients. If this is true, have not the dictators reasonable grounds to assume it was "a piece of public advertising," as one German official labeled it? In this guise, the peace proposal could leave only one course of action open to the dictators, if they are to maintain the appearance of impregnability and strength in which their power is rooted.

And, why was a peace proposal not advanced by this country several years ago before circumstances had forged such a menacing chain as now seems threatening to fetter the world? Its presentation at this time and in the manner adopted introduces the possible interpretation that even though sincere and commendable in itself, the peace proposal may be a move which, in the long run, will not improve world relationships, but only hammer another link on the chain of circumstances leading to war.

Perhaps it is now too late to achieve a workable understanding between the totalitarian states and the democracies—possibly the two cannot even exist side by side. It seems unfortunate, however, that the first actively positive peace step should have been associated with so many unfavorable factors.

Every Golfer A Day

TIME AGAIN for the hickory-stick brigade to begin its annual stalk to the unholy Scotch battlefield.

As usual, this year will witness the initiation of a choice few to the hole-in-one fraternity. Again, as usual, that consistent lot of par-sky addicts will swear fervently never to darken the clubhouse door—again. Further, statistics give expectation of none less than four thousand drivers, brassies, niblicks, and putters being not too tenderly entwined about the slight trunks of convenient saplings in moments of frustration.

Johnny Revolta's recent nightmare during the Land of the Sky tournament at Ashville, N. C., should soothe the irritated attitudes of the mass of golfers. On the seventh hole that awful thing hit Johnny. He not only missed his third and fourth putts, but failed to sink till he had six putted the green. One would expect him to have systematically begun breaking every club within reach, because he is a professional, and professionals just can't conceivably six putt a green. But, to the contrary, he quenched his anger with professional poise and proceeded to finish only one stroke behind the winner, Dick Metz.

Such an episode in golfing history, along with countless others, is the sort of thing that inspires youth and assures maturity with respect for the game.

These important irregularities are governed by no law and act indiscriminately on professional and amateur. Of enormous satisfaction to golfing's mass, this unquestionable fact plants in each a belief that "every dog has its day"—maybe ours is tomorrow!

AROUND THE TOWN

With MERLE MILLER

A LETTER TO EDR. . . . Dear Franklin— I've been meaning to write you for about six years now and had a minute. . . . So here goes. . . .

I thought maybe you'd want to know what some of us out here in Iowa were thinking. . . . Not that I speak for many or all of the folks, but for that matter neither does the Chicago Tribune. . . .

I know a bunch of us think you've been doing all right. . . . We liked the way you went about it, we were glad you remembered the people without voices, applauded your bold experiments—only wished many times they had been bolder. . . .

And we've liked your foreign policy too (when you've had one). . . . You've had a pretty sorry record so far's Spain and the Far East're concerned. . . .

TUNING IN

By Loren Hickerson

ROBERT RIPLEY brings two of the most amazing baseball players the world has ever known to his "Believe it or Not" program over the Columbia Broadcasting system at 9:30 tonight.

They are Jimmy Hill of Cincinnati, who is legless and yet has his own ball team—with the aid of legs fashioned from automobile tires he has managed to hit over 330 during the last two years—and Emory Moyer of Ohio, paralyzed from the waist down, yet pitched 17 winning games and lost two with the Germantown high school last season.

The program will be dedicated to the baseball centennial, 1839 to 1939.

JESSE CRAWFORD, the National Broadcasting company's "poet of the organ," will be interviewed by Nellie Revell at noon today over WJZ, New York.

FRANK BLACK and his symphony orchestra have won the distinction of being the first to broadcast from the New York world's fair "music hall" when they present their regular Friday night concert series from there over the NBC-Red network a week from today at 7 p.m. over NBC's Red network. Black is general music director of NBC.

GRACIE ALLEN'S latest comedy sensation, (original) "The Ride of Paul Revere" with original music and lyrics by Ray Noble and his staff will be presented on the Burns and Allen program at 7:30 tonight over the Columbia network.

Paul Revere's horse will be brought to life by the sound man, which makes everything complete.

Surprising If you were familiar with every angle on Orson Welles' Campbell Playhouse program, five things would surprise you:

1. Orson Welles is the only actor in radio who employs a stand-in for the script's first reading. He has to because he's on the road with "The Five Kings."

2. Welles is the only actor in radio who listens to a transcription of this first reading, then air-mails corrections to New York from whatever point his "Five Kings" happens to be playing.

3. Welles is the only actor in radio with a four-way contract covering writing, producing, directing and acting in one show.

4. Welles is the only actor in radio using a studio within a studio and two sets of actors—one set for cueing in sound and the other for the actual rehearsal.

5. Welles' Campbell playhouse is the only major network program in radio employing a woman sound effects supervisor and a 26-year-old orchestra leader, Bernard Herrmann.

NEW YORK—The sadists will be able to have a fine time at one concession at the fair because a lot of malnourished animals, including cross-eyed cats, club-footed calves, dogs with five legs, and a horse with eight legs, will be on display. These are to be seen in "a maze-like pit arena," watched over by a veterinarian, and together with the half-chicken, half-turkey and the pig with no hind-quarters, they ought to make up as notable a collection of misbegotten things as may be found anywhere.

They tell me there are a lot of people who derive a lot of pleasure from witnessing things like this, and if that is true then they are wasting their time at the animal pits. They should go down to the asylum and have a good laugh at the lunatics, because lunatics are human, and what has a cross-eyed cat to offer that can compare with the antics of an idiot anyway?

Tamara used to be the Russian girl who strummed a guitar and sang a melancholy lament called "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes." But now times have changed. She is still Russian and maybe at times she is melancholy—at those times at least when she sings "Get Out of Town" in the musical comedy "Leave It to Me."

But off-stage this pert actress and wife of an advertising executive isn't moody at all. Spring is here and the showers have awakened the good earth urge in her soul, and so now she is busy with seeds and a hoe and visions of flowers, which she will plant in her 58th street plantation.

It isn't really a plantation, or a farm, or even a truck garden. But it is a patch of earth on a penthouse, and it is her own, and she will till the soil and follow the

It is the science of disease—its cause, nature and course. Pathology has nothing to do with treatment, it has no ax to grind for surgery or the x-ray, or medicine. It considers treatment only to the extent that treatment terminates disease processes.

Doctor Hektoen's statements therefore may be taken as the most precise and cold-blooded of considerations. And it is encouraging for that reason to find them so hopeful.

All medical knowledge, Dr. Hektoen avers, is the result of experience, observation and experiment. Cancer is as old as the race. Cancer so forced itself on the attention that its cause could not escape notice. At the dawn of the Christian era Celsus, the Roman medical writer, said: "Only the beginning of a cancer admits of a cure."

This aphorism is the most important generalization ever made about cancer, although the knowledge of cancer, its diagnosis and

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—They're turning a golden boy into a dark-eyed Latin so he can play a golden boy.

They're turning William Beedle (of South Pasadena, Cal., formerly of O'Fallon, Ill.) into William Holden so he'll—well, there's no explaining some of these movie title changes. Bill Beedle, or Bill Holden, doesn't know why either. He's taking things as they come these days—and they've been coming pretty fast.

Bill Holden is the young fellow, blue-eyed and blond, who never dreamed of asking for a job as "Golden Boy." He's also the young fellow who was signed to play the part—and he is one of the few results of a "search for an unknown" who really was an unknown.

While pugilists, strong-men, weight-lifters and sad-eyed violinists were standing in line outside Columbia studios, going in to strip for the cross-examination of the casters, and going out again, week after week for nearly a year, young Bill Beedle was out in South Pasadena, going to Pasadena Junior college and trying out for a school play.

While the studio talked about trying to borrow Tyrone Power or John Garfield or Joel McCrea, Bill Beedle—soon to be Holden—was rehearsing the role of a 70-year-old man in a school play called "Manya."

Bill Beedle was just the eldest son of a typical American family, a little stage-struck but not seriously, and just mildly interested in Hollywood. He'd read in the papers about the search for a "Golden Boy," but he'd never given it another thought. "My turned-up nose, I figured, would keep me out of it, for one thing. I didn't look to me like the kind of fellow they wanted."

Bill played that 70-year-old, behind crepe whiskers, in the school play, and he played it again in the Playbox, junior group of the Pasadena Community Playhouse. That was where Milton Lewis, Paramount talent scout, saw him, invited him to screen-test.

Bill was signed by Paramount, and then Rouben Mamoulian and Bill Perlberg, director and producer respectively of "Golden Boy," saw the test. "That's it," he said. So Paramount and Columbia split the contract, and Bill Holden is "Golden Boy," with Barbara Stanwyck opposite—a beginner who's starting at the top.

Bill turned 21 the day the picture started—April 12. He's tall, slender, has a good physique but has never boxed except in gym work. He did play the violin for other requisite of the role when he was a boy. He gave that up long ago—"got tired of practicing"—and now is taking lessons all over again.

"When my mind catches up with things that keep happening to me," he grins boyishly, "I'll be able to say what I think of it. Right now I don't believe it. It didn't happen to me. I'm thankful for my family though—they're interested but not too excited about all this. Dad—he's just like Judge Hardy only he's a chemist—and mother never fly off like kites, so I oughtn't to have any trouble keeping my head."

Best omen for his career: another famous actor likewise began as a boy, playing bearded ancients. That was Paul Muni.

Britons Slam Memorial As 'Wedding Cake'

LONDON (AP)—A model of the proposed national memorial to King George V drew such a storm of criticism when publicly exhibited that the entire project may have to be recast.

"Wedding cake" was the term some critics applied to the design which showed the late King standing in resplendent regal robes on a fluted pedestal under a mock Gothic canopy.

Sir William Reid Dick, the British sculptor, executed the design in collaboration with Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, the architect. People began writing letters to editors. For instance, Mrs. E. Smith of London termed the design a "hideous atrocity."

Austrian territory, about 1600, came closer to Paris than did the German lines during the World war.

Party Will Open Baptist Young People's Convention Tonight

Over 300 Will Participate In 3-Day Forum

Assembly Speakers Will Discuss 'Youth Charts Its Course'

More than 300 young Iowans will open the state Baptist Young People's union convention at 8 o'clock this evening with a party in the women's gymnasium. The party will be under the direction of Mrs. Virgil Copeland, the Rev. E. E. Dierks announced yesterday.

The annual convention begins today with a registration period at 4 o'clock in the Baptist church and will continue through Sunday.

Baptist officials and university student ministers will speak at meetings during the three-day assembly on the theme, "Youth Charts Its Course."

The Rev. Paul E. Alden, Baptist university pastor at the University of Illinois, will speak at two sessions of the convention Saturday and will give the principal address at the Saturday night banquet.

Two business sessions with addresses by visiting officials and the elections of officers for the year will comprise the meetings tomorrow morning and afternoon.

At the close of the afternoon assembly tomorrow, representatives of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce and the university will take the conventionites on an hour and a half tour of the city and university buildings.

The convention banquet will be at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow at Odd Fellows hall, with James McClelland, president of the Iowa student union presiding.

The Sunday morning meeting will be in Macbride auditorium. An organ recital and a conference at the Baptist church Sunday afternoon will close this year's session of the convention.

Assembly speakers will discuss "Youth Charts Its Course."

27 To Attend Joint Y.W.C.A., Y.M.C.A. Meet

Annabel Anderson, Anne McPhee Will Speak at Conference

Twenty-seven members of the university Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. will leave Saturday morning for a two-day conference meeting at the Palisades state park with representatives from the Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. of 17 other Iowa colleges.

Among the speakers will be two from Iowa. Annabel Anderson, A4 of Cedar Rapids, president of the Y.W.C.A., who will lead a discussion on "Training for Cabinet Positions," and Anne McPhee, G of Newton, Mass., adviser to the Y.W.C.A., who will speak on "Y.M. and Y.W. Relationships on the Campus."

With the keynote of the conference "How is the 'Y' Connected with Campus Problems?" the committee in charge expect to have Shelton L. Beatty, dean of men at Grinnell college serve as keynote speaker. Hillis Hauser, student adviser to the Iowa Y.M.C.A., will be the song leader.

For three years considered a successful part of the Y.W. and Y.M. programs, the conference has as its host Cornell college which serves in that capacity because of its nearness to the Palisades park.

Joint and separate meetings of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. will occupy much of the conference which will begin at 9 o'clock Saturday morning and close at 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

F. D. R. Selects Updegraff To Child Study

Prof. Ruth Updegraff, administrative supervisor of the Iowa child welfare research station's preschools, became the second person from the University of Iowa to be appointed to the personnel of the White House conference on "Children in a Democracy" it was announced yesterday.

Deen George D. Stoddard was the first university appointee. The appointments to the conference groups are made by President Roosevelt.

The project is similar in general plan to the conference established in 1930 by President Hoover. The present conference will complete a survey this year and results will be presented in Washington, D. C., in 1940.

'Modern Telephone Magic' To Be Subject of Expert's Lecture

G. L. HOWORTH

G. L. Howorth Will Demonstrate Use Of First Bell Telephone

During his lecture on "Modern Telephone Magic" today at the chemistry auditorium, G. L. Howorth of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company will speak over a replica of the first telephone produced by Alexander Graham Bell.

The demonstration and discussion will take place at 4:10 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. The early stages in the invention of the telephone will also be discussed.

Howorth will demonstrate and explain the scrambling of speech, which plays such a vital part in the privacy of overseas telephone conversations. He will speak with an artificial voice through using an artificial larynx, a product of the Bell telephone laboratories which makes it possible for persons to talk without the use of their vocal chords. The device is used by persons who have lost the use of their voices.

Howorth will be assisted by H. F. Graves, technician. He will also explain and show the part the invention and development of cobalt steel, permalloy, vacuum tubes, cable, inductance coils and other items play in providing telephone service which keeps pace with the ever increasing demands placed upon it.

165 Schools Enter Contest

Two Thirds of State To Be Represented In Music Festival

Entry of 165 schools in the music festival here May 4 to 6 was reported yesterday and the list probably is not yet complete.

Extension division officials said that about two-thirds of the state would be represented in the 14th annual affair, with schools in the western third of Iowa entering the festival at Carroll on the same dates.

This is the first time that the plan of two state festivals has been used. It was adopted at the request of schools several hundred miles distant from Iowa City which found the long trip difficult. The 1938 festival drew musicians from 208 schools to the university.

No official report on the number of contestants at Iowa City could be made yesterday, pending the definite checking of the entrants and the uncertainty of plans of some schools.

The total, however, probably will be between 5,000 and 6,000 or about 1,000 fewer than the record number of 1938. Decreases will be somewhat counterbalanced by the fact that there are 48 events, more than ever before.

Competitors will be the survivors of two contests. Only the Division I rating winners in the sub-district and district affairs become eligible for the festival.
