Stealing The Dictators' Fire

IT IS UNDERSTANDABLE that there should be objections from many sides to the suggestion that we increase our immigration quotas for various nationalities to allow refugees to enter this country. It is understandable because we do have 11 million unemployed, and any addition of grown men and women would, it is felt, add directly or indirectly to our unemployment problem.

It is also understandable that Americans generally favored the action of our State Department in laying heavy duties on German imports as reprisals against the imperialistic actions of the German state. For we as a people tend to sympathize with the underdog.

It is not even difficult to explain why Americans are anxious for their government to take some action to keep Germany and Japan from getting a strong foothold in South America, for such activity on the part of these dictatorial powers is seemingly a threat to our own interests in those countries.

But does the average American ever stop to realize that by reversing our stand on immigration and tariff issues we could steal Hitler's thunder? Why does Hitler seem to be popular with the majority of Germans? Is it not because he has promised to rectify all these very injustices? The German nation is composed of some 90 million people, living in a relatively small space. Thus Hitler can play on the idea of population pressure to secure support for his imperialistic activities.

Hitler's other argument for the need for colonies and territory for Germany is economic. The United States places high duties on German goods, and quite naturally that makes it impossible for them to export to us for exports are paid for with imports. Then, would not this argument too, sound hollow if the world enjoyed free trade? For under free trade Germany could trade as advantageously with the United States as she could with her own colonies.

If the United States were to take the lead in initiating free trade and in doing away with immigration restrictions, it would be a step in the direction of weakening the ammunition which the dictators use to secure the support of their people for imperialistic adventures.

It might result in peaceful understanding being reached between the dictatorial and democratic powers. The least it could do would be to force men like Hitler and Mussolini to come out in the open.

Long Live F. Scott Fitzgerald!

yet, these days there is also something else.

Yesterday's Des Moines Register carried just a hint of some of trends on the Iowa campus. "Europe's Crisis Divides Campus," it read, and then, "Students Abandoning Rah-Rah Attitude."

Well, it's true. Take this week. Last night, at the meeting of the Iowa City Peace Council and at the fourth student-faculty discussion, 600 students listened to and took part in an exchange of ideas on the Wagner Labor Relations act as it is now being dissected in Washington and in a forum on England's place in the world's picture. Those are important problems, big ideas.

Down at Iowa Union, in the main lounge, there is at least a hint of what a few of the university's students who are artists are thinking. There are a good many words, all unspoken, in James McConnell's popularity award picture, "Legion Convention." And in R. V. Cassill's "Hitchhikers."

Last week end in university theater Tom Pawley's two original one-act plays dealing with the American Negro and his problems were given the most sustaining ovation of the year—a year that has included Masterlinck, Paul Green and Thornton Wilder.

And then, and more important, almost any evening in restaurants over cups of coffee and over mugs of beer, the conversation of students has a new vitality. Students these days can be heard discussing politics, the "isms," peace and how to get it, and even the problems of labor.

These are encouraging trends. They remind us of the place of students, college students, in a good society. In China it has been the collegiate groups that have kept the spirit alive in conquered Shanghai and far into the interior; the same was true in Spain. Student political riots in Cuba or in Germany or in France have not been unusual. In those countries the college has played an important part in national life. That might happen here; if higher education is fully to justify its existence it must.

But there is one more important matter. College students, whether they deserve it or not (and in the past they mostly haven't) will be the leaders of tomorrow's society, the substantial citizens of a decade more (granting there are substantial citizens in a decade more). What they do, what they believe will play an important part in the kind of society ours becomes. That is why genuinely serious creative thinking as it appears here at Iowa, at Yale, at Southern California says important words about the world tomorrow. That's why. That's reason enough.

F. Scott Fitzgerald is still alive, but the Great Gatsby, happily enough, is dead. Very much so. With a world's fair booming on both coasts it sort of leaves the rest of the country in the middle. All politicians are in favor of at least one type of reforestation. That's the planting of many more political plum trees.

I looked up to see if she meant it, but at first I couldn't tell. "No," she continued. "They never ask me to read papers for learned societies, and I haven't much of a national reputation."

I suppose you really couldn't count those one or two every week or so who drop in to say, "I suppose you don't remember me, but I was one of your dumbest pupils back in 1912. You probably don't remember, but I've never forgotten that class. I'll never forget some of the things you used to say. You used to make me so angry—and I thought it out. But you probably don't remember."

I mean that kind of thing isn't exactly a national reputation.

"I guess I know a little something about everything," she said. "I ought to've been a specialist."

Probably that's right. She's not exactly a specialist you wouldn't say. I mean those

THE TEAMS COME OUT ON THE FIELD Europe's troops aren't just sitting around in barracks; maneuvers have already begun. Hitler has disposed his forces, according to L'Oeuvre de Paris, with a heavy concentration of 450,000 on the French frontier, nearly 300,000 on the Polish border, especially in the southeast, and—here's a place to watch—350,000 on the Dutch border. The Nazis are thought to have 100,000 troops in Italy, as well as 38,000 in Italian Libya. Italy herself is concentrating in Libya and on her northern border with France. Other Italian troops are of course still in Spain—fresh ones have recently been sent—and although the Italians are being kept away from the French border, Spanish troops are facing France at the Pyrenees and England at Gibraltar. La Linea, a few miles from the rock, is so jammed with troops, arms and munitions that the overflow from the barracks is housed in the bull ring. The German fleet will soon hold "spring maneuvers" off the Atlantic coast of Spain.

In their tour, the "alliance" powers have taken some measures, though characteristically they are less imposing ones. The British Mediterranean fleet and the French fleet have moved into position. Thirteen French warships are at Gibraltar, and the strengthened British garrison there has barricaded the road to Spain. British ships are concentrated at Malta, and its defenses are being reinforced. President Roosevelt, in line with his policy of backing up England and France, has sent the United States fleet back to the Pacific. It looks from these preparations as if T. S. Eliot were wrong after all. The world as we know it won't end with a whimper, but with a tremendous bang.

—The New Republic.

WHAT IS SUCCESS ANYWAY? I wish someone would tell me what success is. I thought once I knew, but now I'm not sure.

I thought it meant being a rich, famous voice on the radio saying rich, famous nothings to poor, infamous people. Or a well-known, unimportant name on a column. Lately I haven't been so sure. What is success anyway?

I especially started wondering yesterday afternoon when we were lazily over a coke and talking. I was remembering what my favorite professor had said after class to the two of us who dropped in to talk.

"I guess I'm interested in too many things," she'd said. "That's why I never made good."

I looked up to see if she meant it, but at first I couldn't tell. "No," she continued. "They never ask me to read papers for learned societies, and I haven't much of a national reputation."

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

The most important tooth in the head is the first permanent tooth. And how many parents reading this statement, even though they have the responsibility of the care of children at this critical age, can tell exactly which tooth is the first permanent tooth?

It would be natural to conceive of the first permanent tooth as pushing one of the temporary ones out of the jaw. But it doesn't do that. It comes in behind the temporary teeth, and doesn't displace any at all. And it looks, from its position, exactly like one of the temporary teeth.

Those front incisors—the two "buck" teeth in front—look like the first permanent teeth. But before they have pushed their way into a cold and unfriendly world, the real first permanent teeth are securely in place and thoroughly erupted. They come in—and this is the first important thing to remember—about the sixth year; fifth or sixth, there is some leeway in time.

TUNING IN

"AWAKE AND SING." Clifford Odet's serio-comedy of domestic life in the New York Bronx, will be presented with the Broadway cast on the Kate Smith hour over the Columbia network at 7 o'clock tonight.

Such group theater stars as Luther Adler, Maurice Carnovsky, Phoebe Brand and Julia Adler play in "Awake and Sing" and will be presented by Kate, who will head the full-hour program of mirth, music and drama. The Jack Miller band, Ted Straeter's rhythm choir, the Aldrich family and Abbott and Costello will all have featured spots on the show.

Hailed by critics as one of Odet's most brilliant plays, "Awake and Sing" has an apartment in the New York Bronx as a setting. There the Berger family is revealed in its domestic clashes, troubles and triumphs.

Last week during a preliminary rehearsal at Ted Collins' office for the Kate Smith hour, Bill Robinson, the singer's guest star, asked if he could use the phone. Collins was just a bit taken aback when the dusky tap dancer asked to speak with Mrs. George Temple in Hollywood.

On making the connection with Shirley's mother, Robinson asked if the little girl, who has been his number one pal since they worked together in a picture, might be allowed to remain up past her usual bedtime to hear his "Hot Mikado" spot on the show.

After gaining Mrs. Temple's permission, Bill talked with Shirley for 15 minutes or so. The dancer shrugged off the toll tele-a-tete with the information that he called the little actress several times a week as a usual thing.

Collins insisted on paying the charges but is glad that most of the phone-using visitors to his office keep their calls within the conventional nickel limits.

A New Yorker at Large

NEW YORK—"This man next to me was Irvin S. Cobb, and all day our train had rattled down the Atlantic seaboard, passing through cities and towns and hamlets, climbing mountain ranges and hurrying through forests and across broad filled agricultural lands. And finally we got down into the Carolinas and we passed a country courthouse which must have made Cobb remember someone he knew, because he said:

"Old Doc Wilson. . . When I think of him, I have to agree with the old saying that a man gets out of life only as much as he puts into it—no less and no more."

"And I said, 'Tell me about him,' because Cobb spoke so earnestly I knew this Doctor must have impressed him greatly. And Cobb replied:

"All right, I will. But first I must tell you of another man who grew up in the same community with the Doc, a man wholly alien to him in every word and thought. He was a man whose harsh, grasping nature won him much wealth but no peace. He was calculating and deliberate, measuring all things with a yardstick of dollars, so that eventually his fellowmen came to shun him, and he died alone and unmourned."

"Then there was Doc—Old Doc Wilson, whose name wasn't Wilson at all but we will call him Wilson. He was just a country doctor, with a horse and buggy, but he was kindly and gentle and had little time to collect his bills after feigning to his patients over the countryside."

"He didn't have time to send out bills or to worry about monetary affairs, and finally, because people almost never paid him, the day came when the old Doc had to give up his home and his office. He took refuge in two wretched rooms above a stable, and there he lived on, keeping up his practice and administering to the patients who infection and all emphasis was placed on the cleanliness of the mouth. Candy was regarded with askance because it caused tooth decay by providing in the sweet bits that adhered to the teeth a good medium for the growth of bacteria. Other food particles were also suspected."

I still personally believe there is a great deal in this now old-fashioned idea. I believe in the tooth brush, tooth powder, and I agree that the tooth-pick is the dentist's apple ("a tooth-pick a day keeps him away" idea).

The modern view that a diet including plenty of milk, fresh vegetables and fruits and cod-liver oil to build calcium in the teeth is certainly not contradictory to this.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—One streaming Jane Withers was the theme of the week's best ideas—and her own. Last time I saw her she was a chubby child, apple-cheeked. Presto, come Jane's big resolution to exercise, cut down on potatoes and candy—and here she is, entering her 15th year, a slim and pretty young lady ready to be "graduated" into roles to fit her new "maturity."

But at the suggestion that 13 is an age to forget about ice cream cones, Jane goes white with forboding—like any healthy child. Ann Sheridan is going to be a "lady" in "Winter Carnival"—playing an American-born countess, but with plenty of oomph as usual. Tragic bulletin from 20th: "Marjorie Weaver, whose great physical beauty has abetted her career as an actress, will be without this useful prop when she appears in "Young Mr. Lincoln." In the interests of realism, Director John Ford forbade Marjorie to wear any make-up. "Mary Todd didn't wear any," he told her, "so neither will you." It is really a brutal handicap to Marjorie. . .

Are you tears dry yet? Stu Erwin ought to help. Stu says he's going to enter politics—to campaign for a railroad station in Beverly Hills, where there isn't one. "We're a city of more than 600 stations wagons—and not a single station," Stu orated. "Where do we drive them? To the beach, to the mountains—I drive mine to work. We need a station, though. Don't need any trains, just a station where we can park our wagons and have publicity pictures taken." Stu sees station wagons as a real gauge of player popularity, to wit: "If you drive your wagon the length of Hollywood boulevard and still aren't asked for autographs, you ought to realize you're washed up." Stu is today in jail—for "I Could Happen to You"—and he's been rehearsing scene with Raymond Walburn for some time. It's ready to go now, but Director Alfred Werker thinks of something. "Your shirt," Werker says. "Maybe you ought to change it—somebody's sure to notice." "But it's white," says Stu. "Another one would look the same—unless I wear a checked one. How about changing my tie?" "Change your tie," agrees Werker. The ensuing delay can be checked up against the one or two people—in every movie audience—who go to movies to search for infinitesimal "faults."

Mozelle Britton (Mrs. Alft Dinehart) visited her husband on the "Second Fiddle" set and her spring ensemble attracted admiring notice of the Misses Conja Henie and Edna May Oliver. "Where'd you get it?" the usual question. "I didn't," said Mrs. Alan. And she told the truth. Alan, the perennial movie villain, buys most of his wives clothes—bought this outfit from shoes and stockings to hat. "His judgment," said the missus, "is superb." Either Mrs. D. is one wife in a million, or Mr. D. is one husband ditto where we can park our wag-

SPORTS TRAIL

- All-America
- Great Course
- Well Represented

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—The hours are easy, the pay is good, and the work keeps you out of doors, but managing a major league baseball club has its disadvantages. With a few notable exceptions the job, like that of a man hired to drop matches into gas tanks, doesn't seem to have much future.

A check of the managerial roster today with that of 1929 reveals that only four pilots of major league clubs, and only one of the four is with the same team. He is Connie Mack, Mr. Athletics himself, who goes on and on while his team goes off and on.

The other three survivors are Joe McCarthy, Yankee manager who was piloting the Cubs in 1929; Bucky Harris, with Washington now but with Detroit a decade ago, and Bill McKechnie, Red manager who finished the 1929 season with the Cardinals.

Two other 1929 managers are still among those present, but as coach, Lena Blackburne, now teaching the flock of youngsters on Connie Mack's Philadelphia squad, was managing the Chicago White Sox at that time, and Jewel Ens, who finished the 1929 season as manager of Pittsburgh, now coaches the same team.

Death removed several of the 1929 pilots whose careers might be used as a rebuttal in the argument that a manager's job is here today and gone tomorrow. Miller Huggins, Yankee chief, Wilbert Robinson, Dodger pilot, and John McGraw, the man who made the Giants the Giants, all enjoyed long careers.

Dietrich Hurls As Chisox Win From Tribe 5-1

CLEVELAND, April 26 (AP)—With bespectacled Bill Dietrich scattering eight hits in his first starting assignment of the season, the Chicago White Sox trounced the Cleveland Indians today in the deciding game of their series.

The White Sox crammed four of their runs into the third inning in a foray which cost Johnny Broaca the first game he has pitched since jumping the New York Yankees' reservation in 1937.

Marven Owen drew a pass to start the trouble and advanced to third on Joe Kuhel's double. When Jim Webb threw wild to first on Gene Walker's grounder, Owen scored. But Luke Appling cleaned the bases with a triple to center field, anyway, and Rookie Joe Dobson was pressed into pitching service by the Indians. Eric McNair singled Appling home, but the Sox were set down in order thereafter.

They collected their other run off John Humphries in the ninth when Owen beat out a hit to Webb and, with two out, dashed home on Walker's single to center.

Dietrich lost a shutout in the last of the ninth when Frank Pytlak opened with a single and scored on Jim Shilling's double to the leftfield bleachers.

The victory lifted Chicago out of a tie for sixth into fifth place in the American league standings.

Track Squad Of 19 Men To Enter Relays

Five Hawks Leave For Drake Tonight; Others To Go Later

The first carload of Iowa tracksters will leave Iowa City at 6:30 tonight, bound for Des Moines, the Drake Relays, and possibly fame.

For, bound up in that car, driven by Coach George Bresnahan, are all Iowa's hopes for a successful invasion of the Capital city this week end. The five athletes will be John Collinge, the long-legged hurdler, and the famed mile relay team of John Graves, Milt Billig, Carl Teufel, and Fred Teufel.

Iowa Hopes

It is upon the latter four that most of the Iowa hope rests. Last year at these same Drake Relays they set a new mile relay record of 3:15.4. Saturday they will attempt to do even better.

Not only is the quartet valuable for their mile relay work but they are also entered in the sprint medley relay, the final of which will be run off Friday afternoon. And the two Teufel boys make up half of the 440-yard relay quartet. Little wonder that Coach Bresnahan is hoping for an absence of black cats tonight as his little party trots toward Des Moines.

More Contenders

Two more carloads will leave tomorrow morning at 7:45. In a car driven by Assistant Coach Ted Swenson will be Vincent Finazzo, Ed Elliott, Melvin Erickson, Jack Alexander, and Ed McCollister.

In the other auto will ride Merrill Harkness, Bill Leuz, Jim Wilson, and Ed Wiggins. The last car will leave Saturday morning at 7:30, with Dale Roberts, Don Parrish, Ed Baird, Ralph Kosbau, and Victor Sabatini as occupants.

Wilson and Wiggins are the other members of the quarter mile relay team while the rest of the squad are either individual performers or are being taken as utility men.

Individual Events

Hawkes entered in individual events are Wiggins and Collinge in the 100-yard dash; Wilson in the high hurdles; Elliott and McCollister in the two mile run; Ed McCollister in the 440-yard hurdles; Leuz in the shot put; Harkness in the discus; Finazzo and Alexander in the javelin; Roberts and Parrish in the pole vault, and Wilson in the high jump.

Alternates and general utility men are Baird, sprinter and quarter miler; Kosbau, half miler, and Sabatini, distance runner.

Preliminaries in the field events, hurdles, two mile, 100-yard dash, and the relays will be held tomorrow. The sprint medley relay final is also scheduled for tomorrow. In this race, Carl Teufel, running first, will run a 440, brother Fred will follow with a 220, Billig will run a 220, and Graves will anchor the team in an 880.

In the 440-yard relay Wiggins will lead-off, followed by Fred Teufel, Carl Teufel, and Wilson. The mile relay will see Fred Teufel leading off, Billig running second, Graves third, and Carl Teufel bringing in the baton.

Tough Competition

The Hawks are defending champions and record-holders in the latter race but will receive some of the toughest competition in the country Saturday when they tangle with Ohio State, who beat them in the Big Ten indoor meet, Oklahoma Aggies, winners over them at Kansas, and Louisiana State.

Iowa also holds the record in the half mile relay but will not compete in this event, substituting the quarter mile instead, in order to prevent, if possible, any overworking on the part of the Teufel boys, who run anything and everything.

The famed mile relay race will come at 4:15 Saturday, the 440 relay being scheduled for 3:05. Drawings for lanes will take place at the Hotel Chamberlain at 10 a.m. tomorrow. The squad will be quartered at the Hotel Fort Des Moines while in the Capital city.

Reinstated

MONTREAL (AP)—Bob Olin, former world's light heavyweight boxing champion, and Al McCoy of Boston, were reinstated yesterday by the Montreal athletic commission after a five-month suspension for a dual-contract misdeed. Olin's manager, Harold Scadren, and McCoy's manager, Bill Brennan, and second, Ray Arcell, also were reinstated.

Bruce Alderman Hits Single Behind Rics' Triple To End Game

Sigma Chi's softball team took a 9-8 overtime decision over Phi Delta Theta yesterday afternoon in the feature contest of the intramural sports program.

Both teams battled on even terms throughout the entire game, with a good percentage of the time resulting in a pitcher's duel between Ted Olfson, Sigma Chi hurler, and Bud Newbold who was on the mound for Phi Delta Theta.

The winners, having a two-run deficit going into the last half of the seventh inning, buckled down and scored two runs to knot the count, forcing the game into an extra inning.

In the last half of the eighth, with two men out, Hamilton Rics knocked a triple, with the bases empty, and came home a moment later on Bruce Alderman's single. Alderman had gone hitless prior to his game-winning single.

Dick Kautz was behind the plate for the winners, and Ted Landsberg did the catching for Phi Delta Theta.

In the Quadrangle softball league Upper C won its second game of the year by drubbing Upper D, 24-3.

The winners started off strong, scoring 17 runs in the first inning, and had little trouble in holding Upper D to a few scattered hits.

Paul Siglin, freshman basketball ace, was on the mound for the winners and Bill Connelly were to have been played yesterday were postponed.

The schedule for this afternoon's contests is as follows:

Interfraternity League Section I

Phi Epsilon Pi vs. Delta Upsilon—field 6.

Phi Kappa Sigma vs. Sigma Phi Epsilon—field 7.

Coop Dorm League

Gables vs. Kellogg—field 3.

Wheatstone vs. Chesley—field 4.

Six Run Blast In Ninth Frame Clinches Game

Frese Fans Eight After Relieving Fred Hohenhorst in Fourth

The Detroit Tigers climbed into second place in the American league today by taking a 10 inning home run bee from the St. Louis Browns 7 to 6.

Billy Rogell scored Hank Greenberg from second base with a sharp single to center field off Jim Walkup to break the deadlock.

Seven homers were swatted, two of them by Hank Greenberg, of the Tigers. Rogell and Charley Gehring also hit for the circuit for the Bengals while Billy Sullivan, Mel Almada and Myrl Hoag had homers for the Browns.

Bob Harris, Tiger rookie flinger, was credited with the win while Walkup, who relieved Louis (Buck) Newsom at the end of the ninth, was charged with the loss. The Browns outthit Detroit 15 to 12.

Silver Lining Ill Winds Fail To Hamper Bartell

CHICAGO, April 26 (AP)—Peppery Dick Bartell is cashing in on the silver lining he found behind the clouds which recently darkened the Chicago Cub hopes of a second straight National league championship.

The $24,000 a year shortstop didn't start the season April 18— but neither did his mates. Cloudy, cold, rainy weather forced the Cubs to wait until April 22 to start the campaign, and the postponements were "ill winds" which blew Dick a lot of good. For an ailing ankle which had sent him into a hospital April 4, was further strengthened by the enforced layoff and he fielded brilliantly as the Cubs downed the St. Louis Cardinals in Chicago's inaugural skirmish.

Farr vs. Gains

LONDON (AP)—Larry Gains, veteran Canadian Negro heavyweight, and Tommy Farr, former British champion, yesterday were signed for a bout at Cardiff, May 17. Details of the fight, including the number of rounds, will be worked out later.

Greenberg Swats Two Homers In Tigers' 7-6 Win

DETROIT, April 26 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers climbed into second place in the American league today by taking a 10 inning home run bee from the St. Louis Browns 7 to 6.

Billy Rogell scored Hank Greenberg from second base with a sharp single to center field off Jim Walkup to break the deadlock.

Seven homers were swatted, two of them by Hank Greenberg, of the Tigers. Rogell and Charley Gehring also hit for the circuit for the Bengals while Billy Sullivan, Mel Almada and Myrl Hoag had homers for the Browns.

Lillard Makes Major Debut; Beats Bucs 3-1

CHICAGO, April 26 (AP)—The National league's pace setting Chicago Cubs ran their victory string to four today as Gene Lillard, former Cub infielder making his major league debut as a pitcher, turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates 3 to 1.

Lillard allowed eight hits and walked four men, pitching himself out of several tight spots as the Bucs managed to get their first man on base in every inning but the fourth and ninth.

The lone Pirate run came in the seventh when Woody Jensen's force out scored Gus Suhr after a single and two walks had filled the bases.

Chicago collected seven hits off three Pittsburgh pitchers, bunching four of them in the fifth for all their runs. The attack drove Cy Blanton from the box after the Buc hurler had retired the first nine batters to face him.

With one out in the fifth, Gus Mancuso singled. Lillard was thrown out, but Dick Bartell doubled and Stan Hack was purposely walked to fill the bases. Billy Herman's single counted Mancuso and Bartell. Hack scored on Jimmy Gleeson's single, which sent Blanton to the showers. Mace Brown and Joe Bowman finished, ed.

Frosh Cagers End Drills

Bill Wheeler, Vic Siegel Are Standouts On Strong First Year Squad

Spring basketball practice, in which Coach Rollie Williams has been attempting to lay the framework for a next year's team that will probably feature several sophomores, has ended up with the beginning of summer weather. Williams and Freshman Coach Joy Kistler have sent in their recommendations for freshman awards to be acted upon at the athletic board meeting Monday night.

Just what will come of the freshman squad, apparently one of the strongest in several years, is not certain as yet, but it is hoped that someone will be found to furnish the spark that will be lost with the graduation of Benny Stephens.

Most likely among the several better than average first year men appear to be Bill Wheeler and Vic Siegel. Wheeler, who whips the ball as he would a baseball, is one of the most aggressive guards that has come up here for quite some time. He travels fast and hard, and he has something that was lacking on last winter's Iowa team — he can hit on the long ones. Wheeler's biggest fault seems to be an inability to slow his pace to that of the rest of the team, but Williams has been trying to put a more even tempo on the Wheeler game.

Siegel, a Davenport product, is an especially good shot, and is steadier than Wheeler on the floor.

ST. LOUIS, April 26 (AP)—Two accurate throws by Outfielder Terry Moore helped Curt Davis pitch and bat the St. Louis Cardinals to a 1 to 0 victory today over the Cincinnati Reds.

Davis limited the Reds to five hits, but they could have scored one and possibly two runs had Moore's pegs been wild. In the sixth, Ernie Lombardi was nipped at the plate attempting to lumber in on Wally Berger's single, and in the ninth Moore nailed Ival Goodman trying to cell, also were reinstated. single.

Chocolate Lazy-Liz
Whenever company drops in unexpectedly and the dinner you had planned for the family doesn't seem quite enough, you can mix up a new dessert that will be successful and easy to make.

Here are recipes for a cake and two quick icings that will answer your problems at such a time with the greatest pleasure and least bother.

Chocolate Lazy-Liz
1 cup sugar
1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 eggs
Cold water
3 tablespoons butter
2 squares chocolate
1 teaspoon vanilla
Sift the flour, sugar and baking powder together three times. Break eggs into a cup filled with cold water and add to dry ingredients. Melt chocolate and butter together and add to mixture. Add vanilla and bake in two small layers 30 to 45 minutes in a 350-degree oven. Ice with chocolate whip cream.

Chocolate Whip Cream
1-4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cocoa
1-2 pint whipping cream
1-2 teaspoon vanilla
Mix all ingredients together and let stand in a refrigerator until thoroughly chilled (about one hour). Beat until stiff and spread on cake.

Miracle Icing
1 1-2 cups sugar
7 tablespoons water
Pinch of salt
1-3 teaspoon cream of tartar
2 unbeaten egg whites
Flavoring
Combine sugar and water in a sauce pan with a tight fitting cover. Bring to a boil and boil rapidly for three minutes with the cover on. Pour gradually over the egg whites which have been mixed in a small bowl. Beat constantly while adding the syrup until stiff enough to spread on cake. Add flavoring. This icing is most successfully made with an electric beater as it requires only four minutes. However, it can be made by hand if two people do it, one beating and the other pouring.

A similar bouquet and ruffle with matching blue streamers make the tiny hat to be worn tipped over the eyes.

Waffle Pique To Be Featured In Sports Clothes

Waffle pique is receiving much emphasis, not only for active sports clothes but also for spectator sports things. Coats and dresses in double breasted princess styles as well as two-piece fitted jacket and flared skirt suits are the first indications of its popularity.

Many pique costumes have a nautical flavor with their trim of brass buttons. Mother-daughter combinations use a striped seersucker shirt tucked into a waffle pique swing skirt with unpressed center pleats.

Two Hundred Pershing Riflemen Will Meet Here Saturday

Iowa Will Be Host to Meet of Marksmen

Cadets From Three Schools To Compete For Pershing Cup

University of Iowa Pershing Riflemen will be hosts at the annual drill meet of the second regiment of Pershing Rifles Saturday when about 200 Pershing Riflemen will come to Iowa City to represent crack units in competitive drill from the companies of the regiment.

The Pershing Rifle cup will be awarded to the company compiling the highest score in the various military drills.

The visiting cadets will be from company C of the University of Wisconsin and company E of the University of Minnesota. Members of company A at the University of Nebraska originally planned to attend the meet but were unable to do so.

The drill meet will begin at 1:45 p.m., with a review and exhibition by the University of Iowa Scottish Highlanders. Following this review, there will be competitive drills between crack platoons, freshman squads and sophomore squads of the participating companies.

When this is completed, the groups will move inside the field house where the crack squads will compete on a hard floor contest.

The contests outside will take place on the practice field between the army and the stadium. These will be open to the public.

The competition over, the last scheduled event will be a formal dance at the Varsity dance hall with music by Johnny Ruby and his orchestra.

The meet was held at the University of Wisconsin last year. Minnesota won the crack platoon competition and the University of Iowa company B won all rifle and individual contests. The meet was last held at Iowa City in 1936.

Society Elects Two Local Men

Carl T. Scott and George W. Willoughby, both of Iowa City, were elected to membership in the State Historical Society of Iowa at the monthly meeting of the board of curators yesterday afternoon.

Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department, will conduct the orchestra. The program will be broadcast over WSUI.

Professor Small, concertmaster of the university orchestra, has been associated with the music department since 1933, as an Eastman Fellow, holder of a Carnegie Research fellowship, and finally in 1937, as professor of violin and theory, the position which he now holds.

Before coming to the university, he was head of the department of stringed instruments at Drury college, Springfield, Mo. His concert experience includes solo recitals in Indiana, Missouri, Arkansas, Iowa, Kansas and Michigan, in addition to two previous appearances as soloist with the university orchestra, in 1933 and 1935.

Otto Jelinek, principal violist of the orchestra, has held positions with the national chamber orchestra, the Chicago string quartet, Kansas City philharmonic orchestra, Chicago philharmonic orchestra and the Czerwonky string quartet. He studied under Joseph Vieland (now of the New York philharmonic) and Robert Kolesji. He became a member of the music department staff in the fall of 1938.

Archery Club Meets Today

First in Series of Regular Sessions To Be at 4 o'Clock

The university archery club for both men and women will hold its first meeting of the year this afternoon at 4 o'clock on the women's athletic field. Regular meetings are scheduled for the remainder of the school year on Thursday afternoons and Saturday mornings, according to officials.

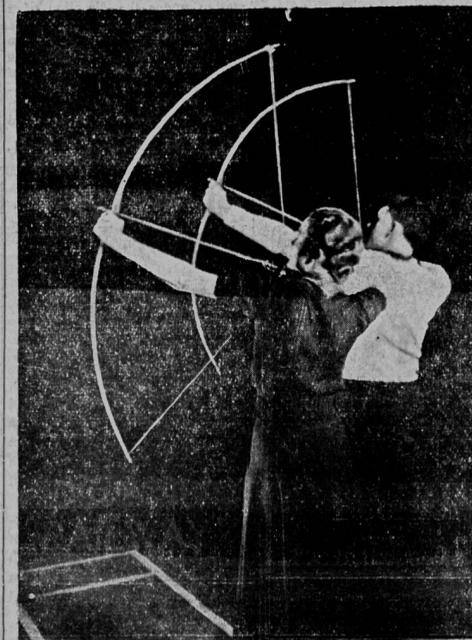

The women's inter-collegiate telegraphic archery tournament to be held May 13 to 20 is open to all university women. The eight women making the highest score will compile a team whose score will be entered in the meet. Women from the University of Iowa have competed in the tournament for the last two years.

The national archery tournament, in which both men and women shoot, will be July 17 to 22 in St. Paul, Minn., according to officials.

Ten million dollars recently was apportioned by the government among various states to construct roads and trails in forests.

The symphony will play works by Wagner, Mozart and Liszt. Prof. Herald Stark, tenor; Otto Jelinek, violist, and Prof. Arnold Small, violinist, will appear as soloists on the program. Tonight's performance is the final home one of the season for the symphony. On May 14 the orchestra is scheduled for a concert at Decorah as a feature of the Luther college music festival.

Archers Meet Today

These archery students, poised just before their arrows are loosed, is symbolic of the growth in popularity of archery on the university campus. At 4 o'clock this afternoon the university archery club, in which both men and women may shoot, will hold its first meeting of the year.

Knucks Down, Buddy! It's Marble Tournament Time Here Next Week

Issuing a set of rules for the Iowa City marble tournament which will start next week, Eugene Trowbridge, director of the recreation center, said many adults had evidenced an interest in the rules of the game.

Official instructions include information on a "ringer" which is played in a ring 10 feet in diameter with 13 marbles arranged in the center in cross formation. The object is to shoot these marbles out of the ring. The player shooting the largest number is the winner.

Equipment regulations state that marbles shall be round and made of clay. Standard marble size must be five-eighths of an inch in diameter. The plan of play states that a player continues to shoot when he knocks one or more marbles out of the ring — provided his shooter remains inside the ring.

If the shooter leaves the ring, he shall cease to shoot, but shall be credited with the marbles he has scored.

In playing regulations it is explained that whenever a marble or shooter comes to rest on the ring line, if its center is outside the ring or exactly on the ring line, it will be considered out of the ring. The game will end when one player has knocked seven marbles from the ring.

The tournament is open to boys or girls of 14 years or under. The trophy and medallions for winners will be donated by Harold Hands, Iowa City jeweler.

Out-of-town public schools invited by Mr. Trowbridge to send contestants to the Iowa City tournament are Tiffin, Sharon, Shueville, Swisher, Washington Center, Solon, Oxford, Lone Tree, Cosgrove and West Branch.

Curriculum Building Laboratory Will Be Conducted in Summer Session

A laboratory for the building of a curriculum in social studies will be conducted at the University of Iowa during the summer session under the direction of a Harvard education expert.

The work will be in charge of Wilbur F. Murra, visiting lecturer from Harvard who has had experience in similar laboratory courses there and at Syracuse university. He also was a member of the board which recently conducted an inquiry into New York schools.

Professor Murra also will give a course on the supervision of social studies, including techniques in teaching, testing and directing study.

Mrs. Broxam Returns Here

Program Director Of WSUI Comes Back From Calif.

Mrs. Pearl Bennett Broxam, program director of WSUI and grand national president of Zeta Phi Eta, speech arts organization for university women, will return to Iowa City today after several weeks in California.

On the west coast Mrs. Broxam inspected the two chapters of the national professional speech arts group at Southern California and the University of California at Los Angeles.

Mrs. Broxam directed the Community Club theater of Des Moines for several years and served as drama chairman of the state and national federation of women's clubs.

"The woman of today," observed the grand national president in California, "whether she be a housewife and mother or actively engaged in the professional field, has 100 per cent more opportunity for self-expression than she did 30 years ago."

"Now every woman's club has its drama division and produces its own plays using its own members. There are no more stage struck girls without the chance to work it out of their systems. Today the cliché might well be, 'Join your women's club and go on the stage.'"

At present Mrs. Broxam heads the program staff of radio station WSUI, the oldest educational station west of the Mississippi.
