Hitler Scraps Treaties With England, Poland In Reply Defying F.R.

Offers Peace To Each State Requesting It

Reciprocity Basis Of Non-Aggression Pledges Demanded

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
BERLIN, April 28 (AP)—Adolf Hitler today scrapped his naval treaty with Britain and his non-aggression pact with Poland and thundered a reply to President Roosevelt's peace proposals which sounded like defiance but let the outside world see the door ajar for peace.

He declined to give the guarantees of non-aggression for 31 nations listed by the American president in his April 14 appeals to Hitler and Premier Mussolini, but offered each state a non-aggression assurance "on the condition of absolute reciprocity provided the state wishes it and itself addresses to Germany a request for such assurance."

He defied the world to stand in the way of Germany's regaining what she lost in the World war—though he specifically named Alsace-Lorraine, which went to France, as a main exception—and pointedly asked of President Roosevelt to fulfill "the promises" of President Wilson "that German colonial claims" would receive "just examination."

Hitler spoke for two hours and 17 minutes before the reichstag in the Kroll opera house, riding to the session in an open car despite a light but steady rain.

The German government considered the speech as Hitler's official reply to President Roosevelt's message and as such its text was handed to Raymond H. Geist, United States charge d'affaires for transmission to Washington.

To the United States the fuhrer also gave "an assurance regarding those territories which would after all give him (Roosevelt) the most cause for apprehension, namely the United States itself and the other states of the American continent."

He disclosed for the first time "my one and only offer" to Poland concerning the Free State of Danzig and Pomorze (the Polish Corridor), which he said Poland rejected.

The terms of the offer were: Return of Danzig, part of Germany before the World war, as a free state into the framework of the German state; a sovereign German route and a railway line at Germany's disposal across the corridor, connecting East Prussia with the rest of Germany; a free harbor at Danzig for Poland; acceptance of present boundaries between the two countries as final; a 25-year non-aggression treaty; and a guarantee of the independence of Slovakia by Germany, Poland and Hungary.

Jury Acquits Prison Supt.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28 (AP)—Former prison superintendent William B. Mills was acquitted tonight of an involuntary manslaughter charge in the deaths of four convicts last August in super-heated punishment cells.

A jury of eight men and four women deliberated nearly 11 hours after Judge Louis E. Levinthal ruled there was no evidence to warrant conviction on murder and voluntary manslaughter charges.

Former Deputy Warden Frank Craven, the first to be tried, was convicted on an involuntary manslaughter charge, and former guard Captain James was acquitted.

Four of the 25 men confined to the punishment cell block after a hunger strike died from three days exposure to intense heat from a battery of radiators. Witnesses said Craven gave the order for the heat to be turned on. Mills testified he "had no reason to believe there was anything going on to hurt the men" in the punishment cells.

WHAT, NO FIRE?

False Alarm Traced To Frat House

A false alarm, traced by the telephone company to 702 N. Dubuque street, brought Iowa City firemen to the scene at the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

No conflagration was found, but several Sig Eps explained the alarm must have been turned in by a man who rushed in to notify them of the fire.

Board Praises Press of U. S.

Achievements Merit Special Statement By Pulitzer Judges

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—Meeting to decide the annual Pulitzer prize awards, which will be announced Monday (4 p.m. EST), the advisory board of the Columbia university graduate school of journalism today issued a special statement praising the American press both for its foreign correspondence and domestic activities.

"After considering the wealth of material assembled for the Pulitzer prizes in journalism," the board said, "the members of the board were so impressed by the achievements of the foreign correspondents of American newspapers and press associations as reflected in the exhibits, that a statement was authorized."

The statement was signed by President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia; Sevellon Brown of the Providence, R. I. Journal; Walter M. Harrison of the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman; Frank R. Kent of the Baltimore Sun; Robert Lincoln O'Brien of Washington, D. C.; Stuart H. Perry of the Adrian, Mich., Telegram; Harold S. Pollard of New York; Joseph Pulitzer of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch; William Allen White of the Emporia, Kan., Gazette; and Dean Carl Ackerman of the Columbia school of journalism.

Call Couple's Death In Wisconsin Tragedy Murder and Suicide

LA CROSSE, Wis., April 28 (AP)—A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide and murder today in the deaths of Thomas E. Dobbins, 48, prominent in civic organizations, and his wife, Evangeline, 45, who were found shot to death at their east side home late yesterday.

The jury found Mrs. Dobbins died of a gunshot wound inflicted by her husband, and he had committed suicide by shooting himself.

Hitler Attains Rare Mood

Tears Up Treaties; Makes Ironic Replies To F. D. R.'s Message

BY MELVIN WHITELEATHER
BERLIN, April 28 (AP)—If you had been in the Kroll opera house watching determined Adolf Hitler tear up a couple of treaties and replying ironically to President Roosevelt's peace message you would have seen the Nazi fuhrer in a mood he rarely has assumed before.

Television would have been a boon to the absentee in understanding what the confident fuhrer was trying to get across. His manner often gave his words meaning that only the eye could appreciate.

It was obvious before Hitler walked into the swastika-decorated meeting hall followed by Field Marshal Goering, his chief aide, and Rudolf Hess, his lieutenant for party affairs, that the more than 800 reichstag deputies had come anticipating a lot of fun.

The very first gesture Hitler made set the tone of his entire two-hour, 17-minute (18,000-word) speech.

He walked to the speaker's stand, chucked down his manuscript then picked it up and eyed it comically.

That was a home run and his uniformed listeners roared with delight.

The assembly laughed again at the fuhrer's very first sentence: "The president of the United States of America has addressed a telegram to me with the curious contents of which you are already familiar."

He reverted only twice to his customary deeply serious style when his voice rises almost to a shout.

The first time was on point XIII of his 21-point reply to President Roosevelt's peace appeal. He concluded the point with this sentence:

"I can assure you, Mr. Roosevelt, that I am steadfastly determined to see to it that not only now but for all future time no German shall ever enter a conference defenseless, but that at all times and forever every German negotiator should and shall have behind him the united strength of the German nation, so help me God."

That roused thunderous applause. The deputies rose to their feet as a man and the fuhrer paused to raise a handkerchief to his nose. He was suffering from a slight cold.

Brigham Young

Professor Resigns

PROF. HENNING LARSEN

Larsen To Go To U. of Ill.

Professor of English Will Conclude Long Term Here in June

Prof. Henning Larsen, almost continuously a member of the English department since 1915, has resigned his position with the faculty at the university to take a place with the English faculty at the University of Illinois, effective in September.

Teaching languages and their history, English and Scandinavian philology and old English, Professor Larsen will do similar work at the Illinois school at Urbana.

Receiving his B.A. at Luther college, Decorah, and his M.A. in English at the University of Iowa, Professor Larsen received his Ph.D. from Princeton university.

During the World war he was assistant military attaché in Norway, where he returned in 1923-24 to study at the Royal Frederik university at Oslo. Leave of absence from this university was granted in 1936-37 when he taught at the University of Texas at Austin.

Among other works on philology and folklore written for philological journals is his "Old Icelandic Medial Miscellany." Professor Larsen is a member of the Modern Languages association, the Society for the Advancement of Scandinavian Study, the Medieval Academy of America and the Linguistic Society of America and the Medieval Society of England.

The Larsens will remain in Iowa City until after the close of the university summer session.

Rifle Match Opens Competition; Dinner, Dance Final Events

Thirty-one University of Iowa Pershing Riflemen will participate in the annual drill meet of the second regiment of Pershing Rifles today at the Iowa field-house.

Other schools to enter drill teams and rifle teams are the University of Minnesota and the University of Wisconsin. There will be about 200 men taking part in the meet.

The meet will open with a rifle match to be on the floor of the armory beginning at 8:30. A regimental assembly in the cafeteria of Iowa Union at 10 o'clock, to be attended by all company officers, will follow.

At noon the company commanders and the company commanders-elect will attend the regimental luncheon in a private dining room at Iowa Union. Officers of the University of Iowa and other schools entered as well as the judges of the contests will be guests at this luncheon. Afternoon activities are scheduled to begin at 1:45 when the

'WAR MAKER'

Red Letters Embellish White House Gate

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—Early morning passersby said they saw the words "war maker" daubed in red paint today on the White House gate. Apparently the foot-high letters had been placed there during the night by some critic of Roosevelt foreign policy. Government workmen quickly scrubbed them out.

Secret service men and White House police said later they knew nothing of the incident, but traces of some of the letters were still visible.

British Reject German Plan

Hitler's Suggestion For New Naval Pact Said To Be Refused

LONDON, April 28 (AP)—The British foreign office, officially silent on Reichsfuehrer Hitler's speech, was reliably reported tonight to have rejected his suggestion that Germany and Great Britain negotiate a new naval agreement.

A foreign office spokesman pointed out that the German government specifically agreed on June 18, 1935, the date of signing of the Anglo-German naval pact repudiated by Hitler today, that the agreement was "permanent and definite."

"The thing that has changed British policy and changed it with unanimous approval is the action of Germany," he said. "It is no longer true that German policy is limited to bringing Germans within the Reich."

"Recent additions go further than that, and if these actions portend an effort at domination over the rest of Europe it is an effort, which Britain must oppose."

British naval quarters were indifferent to Germany's threats to build up beyond the 100-35 ratio established by the 1935 agreement. They pointed out that the expense of a capital ship race would be much heavier on Germany than on Britain, that Britain has an advantage in men and materials available, and that the building of big ships takes a long time.

There still was some disagreement in diplomatic circles tonight regarding the more purely political phases of the speech.

DANZIG STIRS

Ask About Return To Herr Hitler

DANZIG, April 28 (AP)—Nazis of the Free City of Danzig reacted enthusiastically to the address of Chancellor Hitler, and tonight a question frequently heard was: "When do we return to the reich?"

Late afternoon newspapers filled their front pages with the fuhrer's speech, giving prominence to this quotation: "Danzig will never become Polish."

Radio Report Indicates Men Out of Danger

Blame Trouble On Wet, Foggy Weather; Ship Once Near Goal

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—Two Russian fliers attempting a non-stop flight from Moscow to New York made a forced landing in the gulf of the St. Lawrence river tonight, it was announced at Floyd Bennett field by Constantine Oumansky, Russian charge d'affaires at Washington.

Oumansky, who was waiting at the Brooklyn airport to meet them, received a message relayed by Moscow from the aviators themselves—Brig. Gen. Vladimir Kokkinaki, the pilot, and Maj. Mikhail Grodienko—navigator.

The fliers' position—latitude 47 north, longitude 63 west—is off Prince Edward island.

They took off from Moscow at 7 p.m. (CST), last night. The forced landing occurred some time before 6 p.m. tonight.

General Kokkinaki, who has been honored with the title of "hero of the Soviet union," and his navigator made a successful, though shorter non-stop flight from Moscow to Vladivostok, Russia, last June in the same ship, a twin-motored land plane.

One of their last position reports about 2 p.m., was over St. Lawrence bay, near their eventual landing point, indicating they had spent several hours apparently hindered by the wet and foggy weather that enveloped the north Atlantic coast.

Several hundred people had waited for hours for their big, red monoplane to land at Floyd Bennett field, expecting them to drop down any moment out of the murky low ceiling.

When they did not appear early in the evening, Oumansky began broadcasting weather reports to them over regular commercial broadcast lanes, and suggested that if they were encountering weather difficulties they might land short of their goal at Hartford or New Haven, Conn., or Boston.

They had wanted to get to New York in time for the opening of the World's Fair Sunday.

It was not immediately ascertained whether the forced landing was on land or the water, but from the fliers' report, it was assumed they were safe.

Poland Active Around Border

WARSAW, April 28 (AP)—Poland intensified her military precautions tonight to back up a declaration that she would neither yield any territory in the Polish Corridor to Germany nor submit to Nazi pressure.

A foreign office official made known that "no one-sided German decision" regarding Danzig and the corridor would be accepted.

Besides denouncing the five-year-old German-Polish non-aggression pact, Adolf Hitler today voiced his first official demand for the return of the free city to Germany and an extra-territorial motor road through the corridor to connect Germany proper with German East Prussia.

The Polish war ministry ordered extra precautions at the Polish-German frontier where many of Poland's 1,300,000 men under arms now are stationed. Military activity especially was noticeable near Danzig.

Political editors of Warsaw newspapers were summoned to the foreign office tonight and shortly thereafter the independent newspaper Kurjer Polski published the following:

"Hitler's speech was a speech of a man burning all his bridges—bridges that would have permitted Germany to avoid throwing herself into the precipice of war. "These bridges fired certain groups of people with the hope that peaceful cooperation between Germany and other European nations still was possible.

America Notices

Japan

AMERICANS HAVE been having difficulty within the past days to decide where they stand as regards the international situation.

Whether America should be absolutely neutral or should stand for some policy of collective security has been the basis of many arguments. There is little doubt where the president of the United States stands. He has expressed his opinions frequently, and indicated them, too, by his actions.

Whether any Americans like it or not, it seems fairly certain that the administration will continue its policy of interfering where it feels interference is wise.

The administration some 15 months ago revealed its long-range plan of a systematic campaign to "educate" the people to the need for an aggressive foreign policy, paving the way for an increasingly stiff official attitude toward the totalitarian states.

The effects of that long-range plan are shown by the Roosevelt participation in European events. True, Roosevelt has been criticized for this interference. But there is no intelligent student of American foreign policy who can believe that Roosevelt's action is in disharmony with the announced policies.

Another phase of this stiffer attitude toward the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis is becoming apparent this week. Stern economic measures against Japan are being considered. As is so often the case, the public, and often the press itself, is unaware of the motives which cause American official actions.

In turning its attention to Japan, the United States is remembering what the state department has been noticing: that many petty restrictions on U. S. shipping and trade have been applied by Japan recently.

Thursday, while the capitol was tensely awaiting Hitler's reichstag speech, Senator Pittman introduced an explosive new issue into the controversy over neutrality legislation.

Pittman introduced a resolution which would empower President Roosevelt to embargo trade with Japan—an arrangement that would certainly be the answer to many objections that have been made to past neutrality legislation.

Accusations that the administration has erred in handling Japanese relations in the past would have to give way before this new measure, signaling sterner handling of the Japanese nation.

News reports said the general interpretation of the new resolution gave it a bearing in connection with the European situation, considering the unity of the axis nations.

Witnesses before congressional hearings on neutrality legislation have suggested that United States economic action against Japan would have much influence in "stopping Hitler."

The United States, these diplomatic actions seem to indicate, is definitely favoring a policy of collective security and of stern opposition to fascist powers.

Roosevelt's appeal for peace, sent to Hitler and Mussolini, is only one phase of the aggressive American foreign policy.

About Campus Invasions

THIS SPRING it is practically impossible to find any large campus area that is not streaked with brown scars. Across the Pentacrest in front of Maabride hall, for instance, what began last winter as a footpath has now spread to buffalo trail proportions.

The habit of campus cutting seems to have infected almost everyone this season—university students, high school pupils, townspeople, even faculty members all cooperate in beating extra walks across the greensward.

To some people, this may seem to be innocent and trivial. That, however, offers no defense for a stupidly inexcusable practice. In the first place, the time saved by any campus cut never amounts to more than a few seconds. Secondly, the university provides abundant sidewalks for the specific purpose of walking on, not around.

Obviously, to satisfy many persons whose time is so precious and valuable that they must cut from sidewalk to sidewalk, the university probably would have to sheet the entire campus with concrete.

Campus cutting admittedly is a minor question to quibble about. That makes it doubly annoying, for it is an even simpler problem to solve and avoid.

In the final analysis the use of sidewalks entails no great hardships or sacrifice of personal liberties on the part of those who insist on pioneering new trails. Conventional behavior in this respect does return dividends, too—in rich lawns of green grass unmarred by offensive brown stripes, which, unfortunately, will inevitably spread unless measures are taken to prevent rugged individualists from expressing themselves at the expense of campus beauty.

A few well-placed sprinklers would very likely function quite efficiently in the role of policemen to restore to the grass its natural rights and to dissuade aggressors from further invasion.

WORLD'S FAIR, 19—?

AROUND THE TOWN With MERLE MILLER

AN ANSWER TO A LETTER I hadn't decided on today's column until I opened this letter. It's addressed to WSUI and begins, "Dear Mr. Miller: I like your voice very much. I am a senior in high school, and I think I am smart and could get better grades although I also like a good time. I hear your broadcast every evening except when you are not broadcasting. I wonder if I ought to go to college too. I think I would enjoy radio work very much."

The answer is, Laura, it's probably not. You'd be better off at home, probably. The dangers of a college education are too great. You might wander into one of those concerts down at the Union some evening when you had a date with one of those intellectual fraternity men. And you might hear a symphony by Liszt.

And forever after I fear, Laura, you might doubt the musical potentialities of Mr. Artie Shaw. It isn't worth it. You might take a quick glance at one of those paintings that occasionally hang in the Iowa Union lounge, and when you set up housekeeping "Cupid Asleep," "Cupid Awake" and "My Garden" might indeed seem unsatisfactory from that day on.

You might dip into Miss Charlotte Bronte, Miss Jane Austen or Miss Virginia Woolf in lackadaisical preparation for an English lesson, and next month's Fannie Huxst or Faith Baldwin or Kathleen Norris might read less excitingly.

And, yes, Laura, you might have your fundamental faith in the things as they are removed some day, quite by accident. Some professor might mention the distribution of America's finances in terms of people.

You might pick up Mr. Arch MacLeish's "You Have Seen Their Faces." You might hear a defense of Mr. Franklin Roosevelt's WPA in words that mean men and women and their sons and daughters, like you, Laura.

And you might begin doubting all of the words you have heard and seen and remembered for these last 13 years of education, Laura. And then what'd you do?

No, Laura, you'd better stay home, safe in the arms of Mr. Benny Goodman, Cupid Asleep, Miss Fannie Hurst and Mr. Henry Ford. You'll be happier that way.

You might begin doubting here. Yours Sincerely, Merle Miller

P.S. On second thought, Laura, maybe you could risk it. The danger may not be so great at that.

Health Hints By Logan Clendening, M. D.

It is very difficult to answer a question that is frequently written to this column, which asks what is there to do for arthritis, because the question presupposes that "arthritis" is an entity, that it is one thing.

We have described the commonest forms of arthritis and the treatments for it—both the treatments that have proven of value and those that have been found wanting. This commonest type of arthritis is the one that occurs in people of middle age, and is due to little overgrowths at the edges of the bones. But this is by no means the only kind of arthritis. The review of the Editorial Committee of the American Rheumatism Association, published in February, 1937, lists 18 kinds of arthritis. Next year there may be more, but that is the latest census.

Impossible to List To write of all of them in the brief space of this article is impossible. There is the "psoriasis arthritis" group, the "allergic arth-

PHIL BAKER will be taken for a ride in Harry "Bottle" McNaughton's handsome new automobile, the latest model Whasis super-twelve, in preparation for their participation in the world's fair during the Honolulu Round broadcast with the Andrews sisters, Johnny Pineapple, Harry von Zell and Harry Salter over the Columbia network at 8 o'clock tonight.

Baker will offer a new chapter in his series of lectures for prospective visitors to Flushing Meadows, in a skit entitled "Fair and Whalien." Wow! As his accordion solo, Phil will play "I Get Along Without You Very Well," with harp accompaniment by Weryle Mills. This unusual instrument combination, introduced on the "Honolulu Round" program with the arrival of Harry Salter's orchestra two weeks ago, has attracted favor with the fans.

FEDERAL THEATER, emphasizing the theme that rickets and tuberculosis are needlessly the plight of millions of American children who are without the human quota of life-giving sunlight, will dramatize "Children of the Shadows" from Paul de Kruif's "Why Keep Them Alive?" on the radio division's "Men Against Death" series at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

The scene is the dirt-infested, airless slums of Cincinnati, although it might be any American city. Families are portrayed living in the depths of degradation owing to poverty, lack of sunlight and elementary medical care.

Diseases—rickets and tuberculosis—are the lot of the mishapen, pallid-faced youngsters who long like normal children, to play in the fresh air and health-giving sun.

Case history after case history is enacted, piteous and heart-searching, but there is a ray of distant hope: the current government program is underwriting building construction, clearing slums, building parks and playgrounds. According to Cincinnati's housing authority, it would cost 150 millions to replace these slums with clean, decent dwellings.

Paul de Kruif asks: Is it not worth it? BILLY HOUSE, rotund comedian responsible for fathering a million vaudeville gags, will meet his match tonight when he looks for Betty Lou on the Tommy Riggs program to be broadcast at 7 o'clock over NBC's Red network.

Freddie Rich and his band will provide the musical background for Billy's bewilderment. O. HENRY'S "The Count and the Wedding Guest" will be dramatized on the "Johnny Presents" program over the Columbia network at 7 o'clock tonight, as another in the series of "The World's Greatest Stories."

Musical features, introduced by Johnny the Call Boy, embrace Johnny Green's orchestra and several vocalists including the Seving Fourteen. The fellow who wakes up and finds himself famous hasn't been so sound asleep as you may think he has.—Seth Parker.

A New Yorker at Large By George Tucker

NEW YORK—This droll bit of impertinence qualifies the Rockefeller boys to take over their own floor show in the Rainbow Room, if they are of a mind, and what is more they could probably make a go of it.

It seems they were out on Long Island Sound in a rowboat and a minor squall blew up. There wasn't much danger of drowning, but they made for an inlet, just to be on the safe side.

As the waves grew rougher a yacht drew near and the captain bellowed over the side: "Hey, you fellows ought to get yourselves a motorboat." "A motorboat?" they screamed back. "Who do you think we are—VANDERBILTS!"

Rhyming couplet: A phrase that increasingly taxes My patience is the Rome-Berlin axis. Sign on a New Jersey church: "What Makes God Tired?" Dr. Robinson and chorus choir.

And in New York a conclave of beauticians nearly went crazy when they discovered this typographical error in a printed form: "Beauty Chop Owners' Convention."

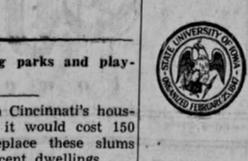

There is a Balinese dancer in New York who is alleged to be the genuine thing—a real Balinese and brand new to this country. But he has a hunch she is the same girl who used to be a hand reading expert in a Greenwich Village tavern. They look exactly alike and both have a half-moon scar on the left hand.

Perhaps it may interest you to know that the statue of an immigrant cigar maker this month will be dedicated to the Manhattan Opera House—a statue of Oscar Hammerstein who rose from his leaves of tobacco to become one of the most famous impresarios of his day and to build the opera house in which the statue stands.

For those Friday night broadcasts Orson Welles has only one rehearsal—but that one lasts all day. Not long ago, during the dramatization of "Mutiny on the Bounty," someone by error put the show on the air a full minute ahead of time, and Orson was so angry he twisted the receiver off a telephone.

Warning to thoughtless hunters: It is illegal to shoot deer in New York City from the back end of a trolley car—and will remain so until someone gets around to removing this law from the statute books. Of course there are no deer in the city and only a few street cars left. But if you blazed away from the rear end of one the odds are the cops would take out after you.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—That man's in block, are allowed a certain number of cancellations. The amusing thing is to look over the list (submitted, I grant, by a producers' association representative) of pictures most frequently cancelled by exhibitors.

Top of the list is held by "Music for Madame." (Featuring the singing of today's Metropolitan opera star, Nino Martini.) Next comes "Quality Street," from James M. Barrie's work. Then "Hitting a New High"—with Lily Pons, a cultural favorite, even though the film hit a low for quality and could easily have been skipped.

Next "The Great Garrick"—a beautiful production, skillfully acted, authentically mounted, throwing light on a colorful period in the English theater. Cultural as a women's study club, but—! And others: "Wintersack," the faithful transcription of the poetic stage hit, called by many critics the outstanding film of its year. "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Shakespeare, b'gum, even though after a fashion—Max Reinhardt's and Warner Bros.' fashion.

"Great Expectations," Dickens, also b'gum. (But it didn't have Gable in the cast, and it lacked "gomp.") "The Green Pastures." Another critically acclaimed version of an inspiring stage play—but it got more than 1,500 cancellations. "Crime and Punishment." Well-acted, dreary in the Russian manner of its origin, and far from pleasant—but still an effort at "art" on the screen. Vetoes: more than 1,500.

As plenty of film spokesmen, including Bob Montgomery, who is no producer-lover, have told the committee hearings, the bill's idealistic approach to the film problem has little in common with the practicalities of the business.

This thing of buying from inflexible synopsis, of course, is ridiculous to anyone who knows how pictures are built. It would be, in effect, like denying stage producer the right to "doctor" his show after the Atlantic City try-out. It would be comparable to a publisher's insisting that a novelist, having submitted a synopsis, adhere to it rigidly and submit for publication—his first rough draft.

But one thing out of the hearings so far is really amusing. Under present methods exhibitors buying a company's productions

Informal Teas, Parties After School Appeal to Youngsters

By LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER
AP Feature Service Writer

The week end with the young people back from school and college—that's party time. The parties should be informal, too, because that's the kind of party that appeals to youngsters.

If you want your children to have their friends in for a good time, probably a tea is the best sort of an affair to arrange. From 3 to 5, or from 4 to 6, are convenient hours. That will give your guests a chance to get ready for those dates that manage to fill spring evenings.

You'll have to be at your best as a hostess when you're entertaining son's or daughter's friends. You'll have a critical audience, but an appreciative one, too. So plan your food and your decorations carefully.

With all of the flowers of spring at your disposal, why not use them—plentifully. Make a bright centerpiece of daffodils, narcissus and tulips. Or work out some other combination of blooms. A sheet cake pan, painted a gay green, makes an excellent base for your centerpiece. Put some loose stones in it, enough to hold your flowers (or your bulbs) upright.

As to food: Lots of it is the first rule with youth, of course. Young folks like sandwiches and they like 'em fancy. Prepare six sandwiches to a person; that's a conservative starter. It's best to have plenty more in reserve.

Tuna salad is a popular filling for white or graham bread, for hot tea biscuits or tiny, scooped out rolls. With your tuna, blend in chopped sweet pickles, minced hard-cooked eggs, chopped pimientos and salad dressing. Be sure to add several "squeezes" of lemon juice—that will be the making of your sandwich filling. Tuna resembles chicken in flavor, particularly when you use white tuna. Before preparing the filling, cover the tuna with boiling water, let it stand five minutes, then drain and chill. You'll be surprised at the flavor that brings out.

For open-faced sandwiches, mix chopped stuffed olives with yellow cream cheese and spread on small, buttered, fancy shapes of bread. Decorate the tops and when ready to serve pop in the oven to brown. White cream cheese blended with diced celery, minced parsley, nuts and cream go perfectly in sandwiches made of Boston brown or datebread.

For a "roll 'em up" sandwich, use fresh white bread slices, crusts discarded, and spread chopped ham, veal or beef, mixed with chopped olives, celery and salad dressing on them. Roll each and spike them with colored wood picks.

Cakes and Shapies
Ginger ale or punch, or, if the weather is brisk, hot chocolate are good beverages to serve for younger guests; tea or coffee for older ones.

Individual drop cakes, frosted in a variety of colors, chocolate brownies, date bars and waxy butterscotch sticks (made like brownies, but without the chocolate) are favorites. Since it's the Easter season, make lots of cookies in shapes of bunnies, ducks and chickens. After they're baked cover them with frosting delicately tinted in the spring hues.

Bonbons in assorted colors also help carry out the party note. Young folks are fond of salted nuts, too.

If the funds permit, individual ice cream molds in Easter shapes will delight the guests. Serve them from a large tray, letting each guest pick his favorite.

If that's too much, orange or pineapple sherbet (colored green), or strawberry, raspberry or cherry ice cream in bulk or brick will be just as welcome.

Woman's Press Club To Have 2 Chicago Guests

Mrs. Joseph B. Goodbar of New York City, national founding president, and Mrs. Douglas Mallock of Chicago, will be guests of the Iowa Press Woman's club at a luncheon and meeting next Saturday in the Memorial Union cafeteria in Ames.

P. T. A. Elects New Officers

Mrs. G. Hall Will Head Association For Coming Year

The P.T.A. decided to sponsor a troop of boy scouts after hearing the project discussed by Owen Thiel, local Boy Scout executive.

Mrs. Hall presented a report on the meeting of the southeastern district convention in Clinton.

The Parent-Teacher association of the Horace Mann school elected new officers at a meeting Thursday evening at the school building.

Named as the new president was J. P. Krouth, Mrs. Fred Lansing was elected vice-president; Ralph M. Tarrant, secretary, and David R. Thomas, treasurer.

Currier Spring Formal To Be Tonight in Union

Triangle's Late Rally Drops A. T. O.'s in Softball Battle

Extra-Base Hits Feature Lengthy Sluggers' Holiday

Intramural softball has reached the half way mark and teams in the various leagues are tapering off for the final stretch, and a chance at a league championship. Only one game was played yesterday afternoon and that was in the Interfraternity league between the A. T. O.'s and the Triangle, with the engineers coming out on top, 17-14.

Alpha Tau Omega held a slight edge the entire game but buckled in the seventh and the winners pushed across the needed runs to win the game.

Joel Ferrel was on the mound for the winners with Irvin Detra behind the plate.

The battery for Alpha Tau Omega was Duane Hanson at pitch and Clyde Everett doing the receiving.

Panthers Pace Penn Relays

Take Two of Three Major Events in Opening Engagements

PHILADELPHIA, April 28 (AP) — The University of Pittsburgh got away to a flying start toward taking down top honors in the 45th annual Penn relay carnival by capturing two of the three major championships contested today before a slim crowd of soggy spectators at Franklin field.

The Panthers got along without their Olympic champion, John Woodruff, in winning the 440-yard final, and then called Long John into action to anchor their sprint medley foursome in a strikingly successful defense of its title.

For Long John and for Pitt, which scored a triple last year, this was merely a warmup for more arduous duties to come. Tomorrow Pitt's baton-passers are due to start in three more events, and Woodruff is expected to be anchor man in at least two of them.

Pitt's margin of victory in the quarter-mile race was a matter of inches over Cornell, with Xavier of New Orleans just a stride behind Larry Regoning, Pittsburgh sophomore from Altoona, Pa., hit the tape in 42.3 seconds. In contrast, Woodruff won as he pleased on the final half mile leg of the sprint relay, coming up from third place to lead Curtis Giddings of New York U., over the finish line by 15 yards, with Frank Slater of Fordham another 10 yards back in third place. Pitt's time was 3 minutes, 25.8 seconds.

The other major title at stake today, the distance medley, was held safe for another year by North Texas State Teachers college. With Wayne Rideout running a 804.9 three-quarters and Brother Elaine a 4:17 finishing mile, the boys from Denton, Tex., won by a round 110 yards, trailed by Indiana, Michigan and Maryland in that order.

None of these times came close to either meet or world records. The only record-breaking race, in fact, was turned in by the Mercersburg (Pa.) academy foursome of Jack Watt Jr., Austin M. Kelam, Robert Ufer and R. Paxson Gifford, in winning the prep school quarter mile crown in 42.2. This time, one tenth of a second under Pittsburgh's for the same distance, cut two tenths off the world interscholastic record set by Glendale (Calif.) high in 1928, and three tenths off the Penn relay mark, also set by Mercersburg in 1933.

Two carnival records were bettered in the special field events.

Bill Watson, Michigan's likely candidate for a 1940 Olympic decathlon spot boosted the shot put standard to 52 feet, 9 1/3 inches in gaining his first victory over National Champion Frank Ryan of Columbia in seven meetings. Bill Faymonville of Notre Dame cracked the discus standard for the second year straight. He tossed the platter 163 feet, 4 inches, as Watson took second place.

Brownies Slug Way to Win Over Indians

CLEVELAND, April 28 (AP) — St. Louis and Cleveland put on a 26-hit slugfest match today before the invading Browns finally won a 9 to 8 decision to sweep the two-game series.

John Berardino, St. Louis newcomer at second base, continued his exceptional batting by driving out two doubles and a single to bring home five runs. For the Indians, Hal Trosky, mainly through his two-run fifth inning homer, drove home four.

St. Louis paraded Fred Johnson, Ewald Pyle and Bill Trotter to the slab before finding that only the latter could check the Indians, who had to send Bill Zuber, Tom Drake, Johnny Humphries and finally Al Milnar to face the Browns.

Trotter stayed out of trouble until the ninth, when the Browns were leading 9-7. Julius Solters singled, Ben Chapman running for him. Jeff Heath singled but Trotter failed this time and hit into a double play. Ken Keltner singled to score Chapman and Frankie Pylak popped out to end the slug-bing contest.

Myrl Hong and Mel Mazzera, Brownie outfielders, and Berardino all collected three hits in four official trips to the plate.

Is A Cop A Cop In His Own Home?

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Is a policeman on duty when he is chasing a burglar from his own home?

That is a problem the city attorney has been asked about Bob Artman, Oklahoma City officer.

Artman thought he heard and saw an intruder in his garage. He armed himself, started out to the garage and fell down the stairs, fracturing his back.

W. A. Quinn, city manager, said he thought Artman was performing police work and therefore was entitled to compensation to cover his hospital bills and salary while in the hospital.

Oberlin college, home of the telephone, possesses more phones per capita than any other city.

Total junior college enrollments in the U. S. are greater this year than ever before.

Observers Will Pick 3 Speakers To Give 5:15 P.M. Broadcast

The University of Iowa forensic season draws near its close here today, with a series of discussions of American foreign policy between 24 Iowa speakers and a similar number from Iowa State college in Ames.

The three best speakers of each school will be selected by observers for a radio broadcast of the general topic at 5:15 this afternoon.

The 50 participants will be assigned to sections of six or seven, and will be retained in the same group in successive panels. Each member, in six minutes, will answer the panel question. After all have spoken, an informal

The third round of the discussion program will begin at 1:30 this afternoon, with the question, "Shall the policy of the United States (as a result of the analysis of rounds one and two) be one of political and economic isolation—limiting our activities insofar as possible to the western hemisphere, perhaps maintaining the Monroe Doctrine, but in no case tying up with England or France?"

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART

So soon after Secretary of State Hull's recognition of General Franco's new Spanish government (assuming that Franco really has established a government in Spain and assuming also that it's Franco's, such as it is) it will be a nuisance if that blows up, too. Nevertheless, Washington receives diplomatic hints that another rebellion threatens south of the Pyrenees—a rebellion against the rebels who won (or thought they did) only two or three weeks ago. In fact, they're not through celebrating their supposed victory yet. The state department is beginning to surmise that they'd better hurry their celebration along or it may be somebody else's celebration. The Madrid republican government went floozy, to be sure. We were correct in recognizing that. But has it been succeeded by anything worth being recognized? That remains to be seen—perhaps speedily.

To understand the situation, let's take a look backward into comparatively recent Spanish history.

Start with Alfonso

We'll start with King Alfonso's regime. It was so little to brag about that, a few years ago, a kind of military dictatorship came into power under Gen. Primo de Rivera. It didn't dethrone Alf, but it reduced him to a figurehead, like the king of Italy under Mussolini.

The dictatorship turned out to be a frost likewise, and the so-called republicans gained control, disposing of Alf and Primo, both.

These alleged republicans (the birds who have just been abolished by Franco and the interests back of him) proved to be extreme radicals—communists, outright anarchists and assorted reds. Undoubtedly they were guilty of various scandalous excesses.

Finally the more rational Spanish element rebelled. The rebels weren't reactionary enough to suit the ultra-conservatives, but the latter joined them, having nowhere else to go.

General Franco took charge of the rebellion.

The so-called republicans put up a two-and-a-half year fight, but they were split; all the moderates had left them. Thus divided, republicanism lost. Franco was on the job.

But the Franco-ites? Now they're splitting also.

Franco's accused of being a mere stooge for Mussolini and Hitler—especially of Mussolini.

Well, even ultra-conservative Spain never wanted to be annexed, as something in the nature of an Italian dependency. The Spanish are a proud people. They resent the notion that Franco has sold them out to Il Duce, in order, possibly, to make him a local dictator of his own country—subject to Rome's orders.

Consequently nationalistic Spain seems to be flipping into an anti-totalitarian alignment—not radical, but violently opposed to Franco, and his supposed backers, Mussolini and Hitler.

First the middle group was in rebellion against what was considered communistic. Now it shows signs (extremely conspicuous signs) of hostility to fascism or nazism, as supposedly represented by General Franco. Accordingly Franco's on the spot. He needs Italian troops to help him—and they're a liability in his home territory.

Maybe he can conquer Spain—with an Italian army and German aviators!

But he's a Spaniard. Can he popularize himself in this fashion? You wouldn't think so.

Anyhow, the state department's dope is that he already is tottering.

The chances of his status make quite a difference, considering present world considerations.

He blamed Poland's calling up of troops "although Germany on her part has not called up a single man and has not thought of proceeding in any way against Poland" for ending the German-Polish treaty.

When Mercury Goes Down His Woes Go Up

SHERIDAN, Wyo. (AP)—When the weather touches sub-zero depths, reading his instruments is only a chore for the weatherman. His real job is answering the telephone.

During a two-day cold spell last winter, when the thermometer went to 28 below zero, there were 2,100 telephone calls to the weather bureau from people who wanted to know how cold it was. That means just about everybody in Sheridan who had a telephone called the weather bureau.

Britain May Use Coke To Lift Pea-Soup Fogs

LONDON (AP)—Experiments are being made in London for lifting fog from airfields by heating the air close to the ground with red-hot coke.

The experiments are being made by the London and Counties Coke association which states "it is certain that the application of heat can be used to lift fog to a limit ceiling, but whether it can be applied rapidly enough, or in a sufficiently practicable way on a large scale, is a matter which has not yet been finally determined."

Alaska Still Lets Men Earn Living On Credit

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Grubstaking still goes in Alaska.

Called by opponents a blow at the time-honored custom of early days, the territorial senate voted down a bill to outlaw suits for collection on implied contracts, or open accounts, after three years.

Nowhere else in the world, Sen. Joe Hofman argued, can a total stranger walk into a store and get goods on credit so he can go out and make a living. Six others of the eight senators agreed with him.

Acquit Negress In Illini Case

Circuit Court Jury Finds Her Innocent Of Shooting Student

URBANA, Ill., April 28 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Strothers, the Negro who fired the shot which started Champaign's sweeping vice investigation, was acquitted by a circuit court jury today of a charge that she murdered young William Spurrier, a 20 year old sophomore at the University of Illinois.

The jurors deliberated 3 hours and 59 minutes.

The pistol which Mrs. Strothers admitted firing about 1:15 a.m. Feb. 16 set off an inquiry which has resulted in 50 indictments being returned against seven public officials and 11 other persons.

Among those charged with malfeasance in office was state's attorney Fred Hamill, the nominal prosecutor of Mrs. Strothers. Most of the case against the woman was handled, however, by his assistant, C. H. Swick.

In closing arguments for the defense, Attorney Ashton E. Campbell asserted it would have been a physical impossibility for Mrs. Strothers to have fired the bullet which killed Spurrier, who came to the university from Toledo, Ohio.

"To have jut a bullet through that young man's body horizontally, and that is approximately the course the wound followed, the bullet would have had to have fallen seven and one half feet, turned a corner and levelled off," he stated.

Henry Helmers of Iowa City was given a 30-day sentence in the Johnson county jail on charges of disturbing the peace, by Judge Burke N. Carson in the police court yesterday. The sentence was suspended pending good behavior of the defendant.

John L. Rummell, Lone Tree motorist, was fined $10 for speeding by Judge Carson yesterday.
