Many Decried Failure To Receive King's Party Invitations

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The furor of discontent among those who failed to get invitations to a garden party for the king and queen of England here June 8 reached such a pitch today that Lady Lindsay, the hostess, told women reporters with a smile: "Ladies, my head is bloody but unbowed."

While unrest mounted among the congressional wives and others left off the list of the 1,350 elect, Lady Lindsay, wife of the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, explained that she tried to put representative Americans from various fields of activity on her list, which had to be limited perforce.

John L. Lewis, CIO leader, was invited, she disclosed, along with his arch-foe, President William Green of the AFL, and Henry Ford.

Among the others were Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, John D. Rockefeller Jr., General Pershing, Norman Davis, Red Cross head, J. P. Morgan, financier; Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth (daughter of former President

"Teddy"); and the Roosevelt children. With another smile, Lady Lindsay said that on the whole, the stir over invitations was very heart-warming to Anglo-American relations. Any English woman, she imagined, would be as glad as she that so many people wanted to attend.

Someone asked whether any relatives of the Duchess of Windsor were invited. Lady Lindsay said she couldn't remember. Asked about Mrs. D. Buchanan Merryman, "Aunt Bessie" to the former Wallis Simpson, she still couldn't remember.

Lady Lindsay earlier had named the official groups invited, such as foreign affairs and foreign relations committees, standing committee chairmen, and majority and minority leaders of the house and senate.

Some senate wives thought the entire senate, as the treaty-making body, should have been invited. Some representatives' wives felt that Lady Lindsay should have chosen congressmen instead of "searching social registers" for representative Americans.

Queen Mary Escapes With Slight Injury As Automobile Overturns

Truck Collides With Rear End Of Royal Car

'Bruising and Shock' Reported by Doctors Attending Dowager

LONDON, May 23 (AP)—Britain's beloved Queen Mary had a close escape from serious injury or death when her automobile overturned in a collision with a two-ton truck in a London suburb today, three days before her 72nd birthday.

The widow of George V and mother of reigning George VI, Queen Mary was found to be suffering from "bruising and shock" at her home at Marlborough house, but the royal physicians pronounced her condition "satisfactory."

Sons Informed—Reports of her condition were rushed to George VI and his consort, Elizabeth, who are touring Canada; to her exiled eldest son, the duke of Windsor, and to other close relatives. This bulletin was issued tonight at Marlborough house.

"Her majesty Queen Mary is suffering from bruising and shock as the result of an accident this afternoon in which her majesty's car was overturned.

"Though the bruising is considerable and will need some days' complete rest, her majesty's general condition is this evening satisfactory.

"Signed, Stanley Hewett and Dawson of Penn."

The signatures were those of Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson of Penn. The latter attended King George VI and is probably England's most noted physician.

News Reaches George—News of the accident was given to King George and Queen Elizabeth as their train pulled out of the tiny coal station of Jackfish, Ont., on the north shore of Lake Superior.

The royal car, which was returning Queen Mary from Wisley, Surrey, to Marlborough house, was badly damaged when the front of the truck crashed into a rear wheel. No one in the truck was injured.

Lady Constance Milnes-Gaskell, lady in waiting, and Lord Claude Hamilton, comptroller and treasurer in the queen's household, riding with Queen Mary, suffered minor bruises. Oscar Humphrey, veteran royal family chauffeur, was said to be suffering from shock.

Nazis Welcome Japan's Desire For Cooperation

BERLIN, May 23 (AP)—Official Germany tonight welcomed Japan's expressed desire to broaden the "basis for cooperation" with Germany and Italy, but nazi spokesmen were wary in discussing how far the reich was willing to go toward collaboration in a concrete way.

Germany appeared to be frankly pleased to have Japan reinforce her adhesion to the axis front but indications were that the reich had no desire to go too far in military undertakings with the far eastern empire.

It is asserted in Berlin that Germany has been none too keen for to close an affiliation with Japan. A dream of possible reconciliation with Soviet Russia would be dashed by a German-Japanese military alliance, and Germany would stand to lose China as an excellent potential customer.

Commencement Events Listed

22 Senior Activities Listed for This Year; Alumni Day June 3

More events for seniors and alumni than ever before in the 79-year history of the University of Iowa commencements have been scheduled for the period of May 31 to June 5.

The final draft of the official program shows that there are 22 events, opening with the commencement supper May 31 and closing with the awarding of degrees to nearly 1,200 persons in the fieldhouse on the morning of June 5.

Alumni Day—Alumni day occurs June 3, with more than 1,000 graduates of classes with numerals ending in four and nine meeting for reunions. The class of 1889 will have its 50th reunion with more than 35 members present to receive gold commemorative medals.

Many of the events have become familiar through the years. In this category are such as the Commencement Party, alumni luncheon, baccalaureate services, open house by departments, and five campus band concerts.

Sloan to Speak—Formal speakers at the commencement and baccalaureate exercises will be Prof. Sam B. Sloan, who retires after 40 years of teaching in the English department, and Dr. Harold L. Bowman, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Chicago.

Two performances of the play "St. Joan" will be given and for the first time in years two baseball games are on the commencement program. These Wisconsin games will decide whether Iowa wins the conference championship.

Woman To Be Speaker

For the first time in many years, a woman member of the faculty will address the University (See COMMENCEMENT page 8)

F. B. I. Begins Probing Plane Sabotage Charge

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23 (AP)—Federal bureau of investigation agents have begun an investigation of charges sabotage was responsible for wrecking of airplanes built in southern California, it was learned here today.

FBI agents declined to discuss the investigation. Harry Bridges, west coast DIO director, charged last January razi agents were sabotaging planes in the consolidated aircraft plant at San Diego. The charge was denied at the time by executives of the company and naval intelligence officers.

Byrd Attacks F. R. Spending, Debt Theories

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Challenging spending theories advanced by President Roosevelt last night, Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said tonight that "to minimize the evils of debt—to make debt popular—is a dangerous doctrine to preach."

Mr. Roosevelt suggested in an address to the American Retail federation that the debt be considered in relation to the nation's assets. He asked his listeners to remember that the federal debt is an internal one and added that "a reasonable internal debt will not impoverish our children."

Byrd, a member of the senate "economy bloc," said in a statement that the president's speech demonstrated that he had accepted "hook, line and sinker" the theory "of spending and lending to purchase prosperity." The Virginia senator credited this theory to Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board.

The government, Byrd added, not only has offered federal grants to communities "but actually federal agents have visited communities and urged acceptance of public funds as a patriotic contribution to recovery."

Britain Nears Final Accord With U. S. S. R.

Mutual Aid Terms 'In Principle' Agreed To by Secy. Halifax

LONDON, May 23 (AP)—Lengthy British-Russian negotiations were believed near a show-down tonight with informed Paris and Geneva sources reporting that an agreement "in principle" already had been reached for a Soviet-British-French mutual aid record.

The British cabinet will meet tomorrow to decide whether to accept Russia's terms for joining the British-French front.

Agrees "In Principle"—The Geneva and Paris reports said Britain's chief negotiator, Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, had agreed "in principle" to those conditions, and informed London observers believed the British government was ready to meet the Soviet desires.

Officials, however, declined to forecast the cabinet's action. Reports from Geneva said Viscount Halifax was convinced by talks with Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky that the only way to bring Russia into the British-French bloc was by promising aid in event the Soviet union is attacked. Halifax was said to be ready to urge agreement along that line at the cabinet meeting, for which he is to return by plane.

Although one or two cabinet members still held out against a far-reaching three-power pact, most of them were said to have been persuaded by public sentiment and by pressure from France and Turkey that a British-Russian agreement must be reached regardless of the terms.

Poland Doesn't Object—Almost the entire British press, including such papers as the Isolationist Daily Express, now are urging the government to end the two months of negotiations by a speedy agreement rather than risk the loss of Russia's aid.

One of the major obstacles in the way of Britain's entry into a close alliance with Soviet Russia was removed when Poland informed the British government she had no objections to a tri-power pact on the basis now under consideration.

Dean L. Jones Named to Post

Elected Vice-President Of Warrensburg, Mo., State Teachers College

WARRENSBURG, Mo., May 23 (AP)—Lonzo Jones, assistant dean and professor of psychology at the University of Iowa, has been named vice president of Central State Teachers college here.

He was elected by the board of regents Friday. He succeeds Ralph C. Bedell, who resigned to take a teaching position at Indiana university.

Jones was born in Harrison county, Mo., in 1895. He attended Graceland college at Lamoni, Ia., and took his Ph.D. at Iowa.

Despite Opposition, British Parliament O.K.'s Palestine Plan

LONDON, May 23 (AP)—The British government won approval in both houses of parliament for its new Palestine plan tonight despite opposition taunts that the policy was "another victory for Hitler and Mussolini" and would "poison" relations with the United States.

As an amendment to the motion for approval was withdrawn in the house of lords, the house of commons defeated a similar amendment, 281 to 181, and voted approval of the plan, 288 to 178.

SAFE DUNKING Wooden Handle Permits Deeper Dunk

CHICAGO, May 23 (AP)—Arthur Basham came forward today with an idea to take the risks out of doughnut dunking. It's a simple little wooden handle. Attached to any regulation style of doughnut, it permits not only a safer, but a deeper, dunk.

"The era of the scalded finger and spotted vest is past," Basham predicted. His invention will be tested in a dunking contest at the national inventors congress here June 6 to 9.

Wiley B. Rutledge Appoints Harlan to Washington Job

Senior Law, Editor Left Yesterday For Position in East

W. Glen Harlan, L3 of Stuart, has been appointed clerk to Justice Wiley B. Rutledge of the court of appeals of the district of Columbia.

The appointment was made by Justice Rutledge, former dean of the Iowa college of law. Harlan left Iowa City yesterday for Washington, D. C.

Harlan has been outstanding scholastically and was recently elected to the Order of Coif, honorary legal organization. As comments editor of the Iowa Law Review, quarterly publication of the college of law, he edited the comments of students concerning recent court decisions.

Recently he was awarded a research scholarship to Columbia university. He has served as town proctor for the dean of men and was one of the associate sponsors of the recent Law Review conference.

Harlan received his B.A. degree with a major in history from Simpson college. There he occupied the position of editor of the college newspaper, the Simpsonian.

The position Harlan has received is similar to that of Harry Wilmarth, former editor of the Law Review, with Judge Seth Thomas of the eighth United States circuit court of appeals.

Rescue Efforts Meet Delays; Iowan Aboard

Craft Rests Under 240 Feet of Water After Practice Dive

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 24 (Wednesday) (AP)—Cheered by a four-word message from 59 officers and men entombed in the crippled submarine Squalus, U. S. navy divers rushed equipment aboard a fast patrol boat today preparatory to beginning actual rescue attempts.

"Conditions satisfactory, but cold..." was the message spelled out by the men trapped in the steel hull of the sunken submarine 240 feet below the surface of the Atlantic ocean, approximately 15 miles off this port.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 23 (AP)—Fifty-nine officers and men, trapped aboard the crippled submarine Squalus under 240 feet of water, faced the prospect tonight of long hours of additional imprisonment as hurried U. S. navy rescue efforts met delays.

William D. Boulton of Luton, Ia., was among those aboard.

Doubt as to whether all aboard were still alive was cast by one high navy officer who reported faint but "unreadable" tappings in code had been heard from the sunken craft. The last direct communication from the ship, he said, gave indication that some members of the crew might have been trapped in the flooded after compartments.

Nearest of Submarines

The Squalus, newest of the nation's submarines, rested upright and on an even keel in soft mud on the ocean floor approximately 15 miles of this port. An open air induction valve during a routine practice dive at 8:40 a.m. today had poured water into the ship, pinning her to the bottom.

Nine ships were at or near the scene tonight and 21 diving experts were flown up from Washington.

But a systematic effort to free the entombed crew apparently awaited the arrival of the submarine rescue ship Falcon.

Moving under forced draft from its New London, Conn., base, the Falcon was scheduled to arrive at dawn tomorrow, and officers said several hours might elapse after that before a concerted diving effort could be made.

Emergency Oxygen—Naval officials reported, however, that emergency supplies of oxygen should allow those on board to "hold on" for days, if necessary. All those alive were given a "pretty good chance" to see daylight again.

Earlier reports from high officials had indicated the entire crew was still breathing nearly 12 hours after the accident, but Capt. H. R. Greenlee, industrial manager of the Portsmouth navy yard, said tonight the last direct word from Lieut. O. F. Naquin, in command of the Squalus, had given a clue that some might have been trapped when the after compartments were flooded.

Communications Fail—Returning from the navy tug, Wandank, anchored above the sunken undersea craft, Captain Greenlee quoted Naquin as saying, just before telephone communications with the Squalus were broken, that he had tried without success to communicate with the stern compartments. He reasoned that (See SUBMARINE, page 8)

Another Crisis

IF THE CALM which seemed to exist after the Reichstag speech and up until the shooting in Danzig was, as we believe, the calm before the storm, the Free City will soon be German territory. That, of course, is assuming that the British lion has just been growling and won't bite. Indications now seem to point to the beginning of a new push by Hitler and Mussolini; the expansion apparently will be toward Poland.

The German and Italian agreement seems significant at this time. It is quite as though Hitler and his axis partner were telling Mr. Chamberlain, "Go ahead! Align with Russia—see if we care. We're still buddies."

Germany and Italy have signed a 10-year alliance. It is, as the world might expect, a military alliance, and from all appearances is devoid of any conditional clauses. The Reichstag speech was an answer to our own president's request for peace guarantees, but the dictators have found a more expressive way of saying, "Non-aggression? Absurd. We're all for peace. Just you dare to get us in a bellicose mood and see how fast we'll stop you."

Joachim von Ribbentrop, who carries the title of German foreign minister, put it bluntly when he announced the two states had forged a mighty invincible bloc of 300,000,000 people "ready to offer the hand of friendship to anyone, but determined to smash any enemy by their united power."

All the axis powers have already shown this self-same "hand of friendship" in all its grasping character. As for the "enemies" that are to be smashed, aren't all the democracies enemies of fascism?

Predicting international situations is an extremely uncertain business at the best. There is little doubt, however, but what another crisis is soon to develop. Danzig will be the center of it—and with the lineups so nearly completed as they are, this crisis may prove to be the most decisive.

Boss Rule Discouraged

SO TOM BENDERGAST is going to prison. It only proves, of course, that income taxes are of some use in the scheme of things.

Political bosses, one by one, are finding the going tough as the law enforcement net is forced to tighten up. How effective the campaign is against the corruption in our cities will be in its entirety, is hard to estimate.

It is, however, encouraging to find that those who have allowed cities to be prostituted can be stopped.

Martyrdom? Useless In This Century

IF THIS were an age of martyrs, Ernst Toller would be hailed as one. Twenty years struggling for his conception of democracy ended fruitfully for the German playwright, a suicide.

With passion born in sincere conviction, Toller crusaded both here and in Europe against the rise of fascism. At the end of the World war he was elected president of the Soviet of Bavaria. Later he served five years in a German fortress, court martialed for directing German red guards against the government troops. We don't know that Toller killed himself in despair over the future of democracy. The immediate reason may well have been his declining financial status. The plays Toller wrote in his first 46 years were recognized on both sides of the Atlantic for their greatness. Unluckily the 20th century is not an age in which martyrdom is effective. His death can never compensate in furthering democracy; the world has only lost one of its great writers.

AROUND THE TOWN

With MERLE MILLER

Counts and Discounts It's an eight-week campaign for peace in the 1939 warring world.

Funny Thing—None of the three who're retiring, half-time of all, Sloan, Plum, Potter, were above the $5,000 mark on the salary list.

Bloodless War "The present 'world war,' which has been waging now for five years—such was an expression used recently by a distinguished English soldier, Gen. Sir Henry Karslake. He did not amplify his meaning, but it was clear that he was not referring merely to Ethiopia, China and Spain, the countries where actual fighting has taken place, but to a much larger field of operations where conquests have been achieved in some cases without firing a shot.

Richard Christian Richard won't be back next year. That research fellowship was just a polite good-bye, I understand. So far he's no idea where next year's job will be, although this summer he's courting at the University of Southern California.

They say his courses were among the best the school of letters offered.

And, say, what recent lecturer from Harvard wouldn't come if one of his former students—now head of a university department—had anything to do with his visit? The ex-student sat half-hidden at the back of the room during the lecture.

Now that Hollywood's done such a swell job with "Wuthering Heights," how about a try at "Jane Eyre"? And I've always wished some smart Hollywooder would try Jane Austen's two best, "Sense and Sensibility," "Pride and Prejudice."

Wasn't Lawrence Olivier a swell Heathcliff? He was the hit of last year's London season in a play this reporter much enjoyed, "King of Nowhere," it was titled. The story of a mad man who almost became dictator of England but spent the last act in an insane asylum.

Hillas Hauser's got a swell Cedar Rapids job for next year. I guess he's budgeting to find if two really can live as cheaply as one—on his salary.

Service! Pat Sleszer, Ruth Subotnik are off for Pennsylvania and a summer with the American Friends Service committee come June 30.

Others prefer what has frequently been dubbed "intellectual honesty." Queer folk.

Hibernate? Not This Bear When Near Food ESTES PARK, Col. (AP)—Hibernation isn't included in the vocabulary of Jasper, the friendly bear which lived last winter at Wild Basin lodge.

Caretakers reported Jasper hadn't missed a 7 a.m. breakfast of bran, corn and bacon rinds on a single morning.

After breakfast he ambled to the top of the highest snow bank to cuddle down for a snooze of from one to seven or eight hours.

BASIL RATHBONE will play a dual role in one of radio's first attempts to present an actor playing two parts when he appears as guest on the CBS Star theater at 7 o'clock tonight.

Rathbone, star of the current "Hound of the Baskervilles," will be starred in an original sketch titled "Merely Players" authored by Sidney Cook and Hartman Renaud. Frances Langford will sing "Wishing," and "Our Love."

Kenny Baker will sing "A Wandering Minstrel I." from "The Mikado" in which he starred when filmed in England. Commemorating Memorial Day, David Broekman and his band will present an American cavalcade of music.

RUBE GOLDBERG will head the list of guests of stars tonight as Dave Elman presents one hobbyist who plays music on bicycles, another who collects the crown jewels of England and another who can make you hear an ant walk on "Hobby Lobby" at 8:30 tonight over NBC's Blue network.

Broadcasting the ant walk will be Curtis White, Cleveland steppack, whose interest in sound has led him to experiments which have resulted in extraordinary effects through the use of special mikes and amplifiers. The sound of an ant walking, as well as other sounds usually inaudible to the human ear, will be heard on the program.

"PRISONER'S HOUR" will go off the air for approximately two months with their broadcast of June 30, returning this fall for the same sponsor.

Animal experimentation in the use of the ductless glands has often obtained results that can not be duplicated in human beings. Hence, there are a good many disappointments in the new science of endocrinology.

For instance, a physiologist takes a litter of white rats and gives half of them the growth hormone. In the published reports you can see photographs of the progress of the experiments. The rats who get the growth hormone rapidly outdistance their litter mates in size, and in a few weeks are twice or three times as big. Then the physiologist stops the growth hormone on them and starts giving it to the half of the litter which has been growing just normally. Soon they spurt into a growth period and before long out-distance the first rats who have been left to the devices of their own self-manufactured juices.

Like Fairy Tale It all seems like a fairy tale, but a scientific fairy tale, and makes one think it possible to take short human beings and convert them to average size, or tone down the giants of the world to normal stature.

But up to the present it has not worked out that way, either because human beings are more resistant to variation, or because we haven't the right hormones for them. In one particular instance—that of the sex hormones—the body gets rid of the injected hormone so fast that it doesn't have time to work. It seems we need some other substance to fix or stay the hormone in the body until it can operate.

A new approach has been made within recent months by rubbing the hormone into the skin rather than by giving it by mouth or hypodermic. This has been applied especially in breast development.

Moderate Success Heretofore, while there are known to be indefinite hormones which affect the development of the breasts, the ordinary use of these by hypodermic injection has met with only moderate success. Very large doses are necessary and even then complete failure often results.

It occurred to one endocrinologist to try the effect of using an ointment saturated with the hormone rubbed into the skin of the breast. Surprising effects followed. Within 10 days an evident growth and development occurred in one case.

It is possible that by using the skin as a medium of entry the ductless gland hormones may be fixed and better utilized in the body.

A New Yorker at Large

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—He is about 43 and he lives in the Bronx. Every morning he rises about 8 o'clock, has breakfast, kisses his wife good-bye, and climbs into his car. He is neatly dressed in a gray business suit. He is smoking a pipe. He is on his way to work.

Driving carefully through the traffic, he leaves the Bronx and pilots his sedan to a side street on Manhattan's upper east side. He parks it in a garage, saunters down a small passageway and rings a door. The door opens slowly and swings closed after he passes inside.

There are two men talking as he comes in and they throw him a friendly, "Hi, Joe." Joe says it is a swell day and slowly begins to take off his clothes. The neat, gray suit he carefully hangs in a closet. He fits trees into his shoes and replaces them in the closet. Then he puts on a clean but ragged pair of trousers, a white shirt with a torn collar, and a drab, brown coat. Over his feet he places a pair of worn tennis shoes.

Next, a sign which says "I am Blind" is hung over Joe's neck and a violin is placed into his hands. Then he is led out and helped into a car. At a convenient point he is set down again, and from there he taps his way to a subway station and goes aboard.

Once aboard he makes his way slowly and painfully through the cars, playing sad songs on his squeaky old fiddle. To this accompaniment the coins he takes a tinkling tinkle into his cup. How much does he take? It varies. Sometimes four or five dollars. Sometimes it's $15. One day he took in $43.

All of this he turns back to the man who represents the Boss. He doesn't dare hold out any for himself. He knows that spies travel all through the city, keeping an eye on the "blind" beggars for the Boss. His eyes are tightly bound and he can't see who is shadowing him. It doesn't pay to take chances with the "combination."

This goes on all day every day. At the end of each day he retraces his steps to a certain point, and presently a cheery voice says, "Want a ride?" Joe says "Thank you," and is helped into the car. This is the "combination," cat and Joe is driven back to his room on the East side. There he takes off his makeup, carefully washes his face and hands, climbs back into his neat gray business suit. The old clothes he takes off are as carefully hung away. Joe is on the fastidious side, for beggars, he nods pleasantly to the men in the room. "See you tomorrow," and goes out. Then he gets his cat from the garage and drives home to his apartment in the Bronx and to his wife and, no doubt, to a well deserved dinner.

This isn't an exaggeration. It's a thing that happens every day in New York, not once but 20 times.

Swanson hair-dresses, Theda Bara stripes and beads, Mae Murray "creations!" This was due partly to poor taste, more specifically to the fact that movies, in those days, were a strictly visual entertainment. Stevenson dates the change to the coming of sound—and more especially to the talkie debut of Constance Bennett, who brought her own wardrobe to the screen and demonstrated that movie clothes were more effective when tastefully designed, that they didn't need to have a Christmas tree impact to be "picture clothes."

"Silent pictures could glorify the clothes-horse," says Eddie, "and the excess decoration helped to fill the audience eye. It didn't distract the eye or mind from a mere subtitle. Dialogue made it essential that we watch the speaker, and anything that hit the audience between the eyes was distracting. Today any costume that is so different it is noticeable is not a 'good' dress for a picture—and insofar as it distracts from the player's work it is not a good dress for the actress who wears it."

Stars, in Stevenson's opinion, can set styles in their off-screen moments, but on the screen they should be content with simple, smart but unobtrusive gowns. The same goes for hats, which in their current vagaries could easily turn a dramatic scene into audience hysteria—especially among the male spectators. (And think what an audience could do to a star in a fashionable monkey-hat—when the picture is revived five years from now?)

Once upon a time, when a movie queen walked from the set to the street, or restaurant, or anywhere in her movie costume, people stopped in their tracks, stared, and said "Omigod!"

"That was the era of fuss and feathers on the screen—especially of fashions," says Eddie. "Designers set out to make the stars different—heaped them with fur, and peacock feathers, and stripes, and beads. The more outlandish a costume was, the more it signified that a lot of money had been spent on it—and the idea was to make it look as if a lot of money had been spent."

John Montague, mystery man of golf who had Hollywood's movie set all agog over his prowess with pitching, putting and driving implements, proved to be just another guy with a set of golf bats in the qualifying trials for the national open.

Playing on the Medinah course in Chicago John, without his rake, hoe, broom or whatever he used in his Hollywood exhibitions, couldn't do anything right and finally withdrew from the trials, promising to do better next year.

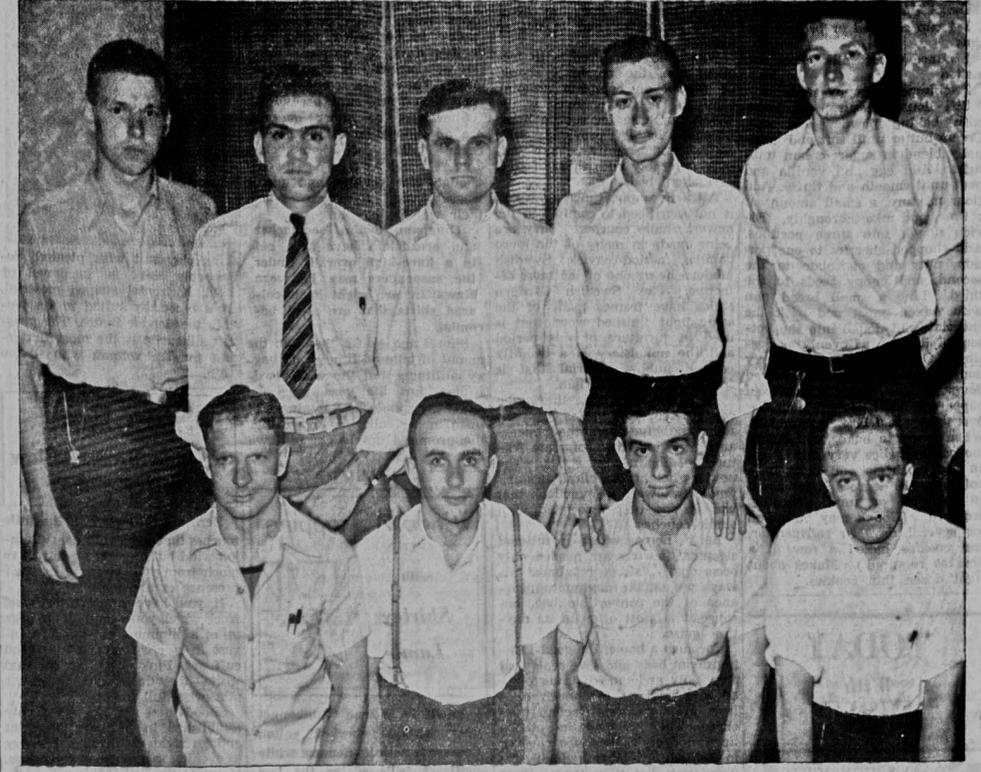

Prodigious drives, on which his reputation is founded, turned out to be very mediocre wallops. And when he did bluster one it sailed far off the fairway. All of which, of course, proves absolutely nothing, except that golf is a funny game.

Two-ton Tony Galento, preparing for his "beer barrel polka" with champion Joe Louis in June, seems strangely silent these days. Perhaps, with the day of execution drawing near, Galento has had a change of heart about "dat bum Louis."

If Tony lasts more than two rounds with the Detroit Negro, Louis should be made to apologize to such fighters as Baer, Braddock and Schmeling.

Never a fighter of great reputation, Tony, at this stage of the game, doesn't figure to offer much resistance once the belting champion begins throwing 'em.

The Winner and New Champion—Chesley House

Among the leaders during the past year in intramural athletics was the Chesley house group, above, which recently annexed the co-op dormitory softball in all-university, as well as co-op league competition. Left to right in the picture are: back row; Eddie Ward, Bob Vining and Morris Carlson; front row; J. Ardy's McMurry, Milton Lewers, Ted Ruffin and Rex Ahlstrom.

Chesley Tops Cooperative Dorm League in Intramural Sports

Chesley house, this year's outstanding representative in the Cooperative dormitory intramural sports field, ended the present intramural season in a blaze of glory, capturing three championships in the Cooperative dorm league and winning second and third place honors in all-university tournaments.

Chesley, title winner in Co-op basketball, volleyball, and kitenball, ended its season with a record that was something to be proud of and left it with an incentive for other Co-op dorm houses to make next year a banner year in intramural sports.

Besides its wins inside the Co-op league, Chesley captured the runner-up honors in the all-university basketball tournament after taking a beating at the hands of the Quadrangle's entrant, Lower B, and won third in the all-university volleyball tourney.

Golf Is Unpredictable Sport

Jimmy Thomson's Failure in National Open Adds to Links Mysteries

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—Jimmy Thomson will compete, he commented. "There is Johnny Goodman, who won in 1933. And Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., Western amateur champion in 1937. Melvin Harbert of Battle Creek, Mich., put together four fine rounds in the winning of the Michigan Open. Bud Ward of Spokane and Ed Kingsley of Salt Lake City are dangerous medal players. Then there are Willie Turnesa, National Amateur champion; Max Marston, a former champion, and Bob Babbish of Detroit—all good."

Four of the first 30 finishers last year who automatically qualified for the 1939 meet did not enter. They all are from the west coast—Emery and Al Zimmerman, Stan Kertes and Charles Sheppard. Otherwise, with comparatively rare exceptions such as Thomson, Walter Hagen, and a few others whose best days are behind them, the field at Philadelphia will include all the big names.

"It's anybody's tournament," Dey repeated. "And they all are hoping. Just yesterday I met Horton Smith on a subway. He had a few golf clubs in one hand and a duffle bag in the other. Going out to Long Island to practice, he grinned."

"It's a fine course at Philadelphia. The rough? They always say it will be bad—before a tournament. But the spectators smooth it out in a few hours."

Dey unfolded his long, lean frame from his chair, took an 1898 model iron from the museum exhibit lining the big office, and took a few practice swings.

"I still say it's the most unpredictable sport," he repeated. "And don't you want to hear about that 75 my wife shot yesterday?"

Iowa Now In Good Position In Title Race

MADISON, Wis., May 23 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—With Bob Henrichs twirling seven-hit ball, the University of Wisconsin baseball team today defeated the Michigan Wolverines 6-2, thereby eliminating the latter from any chance at the coveted Big Ten crown. With the discounting of the Michigan nine, only Purdue and Indiana have a mathematical chance of overtaking Iowa, the present leader.

For five innings in this afternoon tilt, the Wolverines were moved down without a hit by Henrichs' superior hurling. The Badger star then, favoring an injured shoulder, eased up to coast in with the win. He blanked the Michiganites without a run until the ninth, and fanned 12 men during the tilt while issuing one base on balls.

The Badgers collected 12 hits from the offerings of Jack Barry, one of the two regular Wolverine hurlers. Danny Smick, who tossed for Michigan yesterday, had beaten the Wisconsin nine with the aid of a ninth-inning rally, 4-3.

The victory today boosted the Badgers back into the 500 column with five wins and as many losses. The defeat gave Michigan a record of six victories and four defeats.

The heavy hitting and smart pitching that has carried both sides to numerous victories this season will probably be displayed by the University of Iowa Hawkeyes and by the Irish of Notre Dame when the two powerhouse teams meet here Friday and Saturday.

Included in the Irish lineup are four regulars who are batting over .300. Ray Pinelli, shortstop, heads the list with a .356 average, and he also leads in runs batted in. Other Notre Dame stars are Chet Sullivan, third baseman, and Capt. Joe Nardone, catcher. Norman Hunthausen, hurling ace of the Irish, has won five of seven games this year to lead the Notre Dame mound staff.

Iowa City Eagles Formulating Plans for Five-Team League

George Flickinger, promotional manager of the Iowa City Eagles' baseball team, announced yesterday that plans are under way to organize a five-team league in and about Iowa City.

The league, should it materialize, will probably include, in addition to the Eagles, Anamosa, Muscatine, Solon and Washington, although Anamosa and Washington haven't as yet approved the plans.

There is a possibility that Andy Kantor, Iowa's flashy shortstop, may play with the Eagles when the conference season comes to a close.

Another college star, Alan Williams of Iowa State, who plays first base, has signified his intentions of joining the Eagles during the summer months. Williams' batting power will be a welcome addition to the locals' batting order.

With a record of one game lost and one tie to their credit, the Eagles will take the field Sunday at City park in a contest which should break them into the win column for the first time this year.

Locals in Sunday Clash With Classy Anamosa Diamondmen

The Company G softball team, winner of its first start in the city league, returns to the city park diamond at 8:15 tonight for the feature battle of tonight's bill, in which it will face a strong Moose team.

The second game scheduled for tonight will find the Light and Power squad lined up against Swanner's in a game scheduled to begin at 6:45. Both of these teams will be making their first starts in the league this season.

Davey Day Surprises Experts; Stops Montanez in 8th Stanza

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—Davey Day, the frail little kid from Chicago's west side who wasn't supposed to have a chance, scrambled the welterweight ranks tonight by stopping the highly favored Puerto Rican puncher, Pedro Montanez in eight rounds at Madison Square Garden. Day weighed 137; Montanez 144 1-4.

A crowd of 7,122 fans, who contributed to a gross gate of $14,703.75 turned out to see Day stymie the vaunted punch of the Puerto Rican with a shell-like guard around his body and head. The technical knockout result, although merited, did not hit well with the galleries who have always been strongly partisan to Montanez in all his fights here.

Through the third and fourth, Day again continued to work on Montanez' cut eye, drawing blood in each heat.

Cards Hold To League Lead

McGee Checks Phils As St. Louis Wins Fifth Straight, 6-1

ST. LOUIS, May 23 (AP)—Like the man who was only one jump ahead of the sheriff, the St. Louis Cardinals kept right on traveling out in front in the close National league race today but they have to stub their toes just once to be overtaken by an angry Cincinnati mob that has won eight straight.

Bill McGee, making his first start of the season, held the Philadelphia Phillies to six scattered hits this afternoon as the red-gassed gas house gang chalked up a 6 to 1 victory, the fifth straight.

Yanks Turn On Power To Drub Cleveland, 7-3

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—The crushing power of the Yankees was displayed in two game-wrecking innings today as the world champions pounded out four home runs and a 7-3 victory—their 12th straight—over the Cleveland Indians.

In the first inning Tommy Herrich and Bill Dickey unleashed four base blows, and in the sixth it was Joe Gordon and Red Rolfe who turned the trick. Two mates were aboard when Gordon blasted his into the lower left field stands, as the climax of a five run spurge, sending Johnny Allen to the showers.

The Indians tallied once in the third, sixth and seventh, but were unable to bunt their hits off young Atley Donald.

Philadelphians Win

PHILADELPHIA, (AP)—Lynn Nelson pitched and batted the Athletics to a 7 to 3 victory over the St. Louis Browns today.

Nelson, although yielding three runs in the eighth, held the Browns to four hits in the first seven innings. He pulled out of a tight spot in the sixth when, with men on second and third and one out, he struck out George McQuinn and got Myril Hoag on an outfield fly.

Nelson's single in the seventh scored Nick Eiten and Bill Nagel with the winning runs. The A's added three more in the eighth on Frankie Hayes' two-bagger and Wayne Ambler's single.

Pirates Whip Terrymen In 13 to 4 Contest

PITTSBURGH, May 23 (AP)—The Pirates pounded the New York Giants 13 to 4 today in a ball game featured by a weird eighth inning in which Bill Terry let relief pitcher Walter Brown stay in and take a terrific beating without summoning another hurler.

Four Former Students Take Marriage Vows

Two Couples, Who Attend School Here, Announce Betrothals

The announcements of the engagements of two couples, all of whom are former students in the university, and the marriages of four other former university students are among the continuing list of such announcements of local interest.

Mrs. Cora L. Davis of St. Cloud, Fla., announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Leda Yvonne, to Dr. L. S. Trevarthen of Boone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Trevarthen of Perry.

Miss Davis, a former Malcom girl, was graduated from the University of Iowa and for the past three years has been teaching in the schools in Phoenix, Ariz.

Dr. Trevarthen was graduated from the university college of dentistry and is practicing in Boone.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Carran of West Branch announce the engagement of their daughter, Irene, to A. J. Calderwood Jr. of Traer. The wedding will take place June 10 in West Branch. Miss Carran is the granddaughter of Mollie Carran, known as Herbert Hoover's favorite school teacher.

Miss Carran attended Coe college, where she was a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority, and Pi Kappa Delta forensic fraternity. She has been teaching at Elberon.

Mr. Calderwood attended the University of Iowa and the University of Minnesota. After their marriage they will be at home on the bridegroom-elect's farm near Traer.

Upon their return to Des Moines in June, the couple will make their home in the Commodore hotel.

The bride-elect has been active in theatrical circles in New York for several seasons.

Dr. Hockenberg was graduated from the university college of dentistry and is a member of Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity.

Hodges-Smith

A ceremony in the Westminster Presbyterian church in Topeka, Kan., last Friday morning united in marriage Mary Louise Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Smith of Topeka, and John D. Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Hodges of Dubuque. The Rev. Leslie Whitcomb officiated at the ceremony.

Preceding the ceremony Marjory Firestone sang "All For You" and "Because" with Katherine Sentz providing the organ accompaniment.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white net over taffeta, fashioned with a basque waist, a train and short puffed sleeves. Her long gloves were of shirred net and her fingertip veil was fastened with a halo of orange blossoms. Her shower bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Harriet Ann Smith, who served her sister as maid of honor, wore a gown of turquoise chiffon with a veil of matching colored net.

William Huston, brother of the bride, served as best man. A reception for 100 guests followed the ceremony. Mr. and

After a wedding trip to Chicago, the couple will be at home in Des Moines, where Mr. Linehan is employed as program director for a Des Moines radio station.

Ribbon Butter Cookies Make Delicious Mid-Afternoon Lunch

The first hot summer days seem to call for tall refreshing drinks and accompanying foods that are crisp and rich in flavor. After a strenuous afternoon in the open air a refreshing glass of cold milk with crunchy ribbon butter cookies is just the pick-me-up to tide one over until mealtime.

It is just the kind of cookie that will come in handy for many occasions, whether it is for in-between-meal snacks or for a dessert accompaniment.

The foundation recipe for these delicious butter cookies may be varied to suit the taste. The dough is divided into thirds and chopped candied cherries, sweet chocolate and chopped nuts and poppy seeds are added to each of the three parts. Dates or toasted coconut might be used in place of the poppy seeds as another variation.

Ribbon Cookies
1-2 cups all-purpose flour
1-2 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 cup butter
1-2 cups sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-4 cup chopped candied cherries

1-4 cup chopped or broken pecans

1 ounce sweet milk chocolate, melted

2 tablespoons poppy seeds

Sift flour, measure; sift twice with baking powder and salt.

Cream butter until soft and gradually blend in sugar; cream until light.

Add egg and vanilla and beat until smooth and fluffy. Add flour mixture, a small amount at a time, and mix thoroughly.

Divide dough into three portions. Add chopped cherries to one portion, nuts and chocolate to the second, and poppy seeds to the third.

Line a small bread pan with waxed paper and pack the chocolate nut dough into the bottom of the pan as evenly as possible.

Over this pack the cherry dough, and pack the poppy seed dough on top. Cover with waxed paper and chill several hours or overnight in the refrigerator.

When ready to bake, turn out of the pan and slice very thin. Place on cookie sheets and bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees F. for about 10 minutes, or until delicately browned. (Dough may be stored for several days in refrigerator, and cookies baked a few at a time as required.) Makes about eight dozen thin cookies.

Extra Guests

New Studio Couches To Provide Sleeping Space for Visitors

All homes should have some provision for extra guests, but the needs of the particular family should determine the type of equipment purchased. Some homes must have convertible beds for the every night use of members of the family. Other homes need to be able to provide extra beds only on special occasions when friends are invited to stay overnight or when relatives drop in for the week end.

A well-designed and carefully constructed studio couch is the wisest purchase for the home where an extra bed is needed nightly.

Where an extra bed is in frequent use, the emphasis should be placed on complete sleeping comfort. A studio couch is the wisest purchase for such a home because it is provided with springs and a mattress that compare favorably with those of good permanent beds.

Attractive appearance, however, is not sacrificed to comfort in the newest studio couches. They are being made in many of the more popular period styles, Swedish Modern being one of the most effective. The Swedish Modern styles have frames made of the same light finished wood that is used in furniture of this period and the upholstery is a brightly colored nubby material that is frankly peasant in origin.

High legs that raise the studio couches several inches off the floor and give them the appearance of living room sofas are features of the newest styles. The new leg height, too, eliminates any tendency toward a squat look that was at one time associated with studio couches.

In a home where additional sleeping quarters are needed only occasionally, stress is almost always put on the daytime appearance of the convertible bed, because it is most often in its daytime guise.

For such a home, the good-looking divan beds and love seats that are easily and quickly transformed into beds at the touch of a lever are a most satisfactory purchase. They are made in authentic period styles and are covered in rich satin, leather and tapestry upholstery that make them just as attractive as any single-purpose pieces of furniture in the living room.

The divan beds are equipped with excellent mattresses, and springs and, like the studio couches most of them can be opened into either one large double bed or twin beds.

Another possibility would be one of the smart new chests that pull out into a bed when needed.

Reveal Plans For 4th Annual Physics Event

Demonstration experiments and lectures on the contributions of physics to civilization will occur at the University of Iowa's fourth annual physics colloquium June 15 to 17.

As plans for the affair neared completion, Prof. George W. Stewart, head of the physics department, said that prominent scientists from many midwestern universities would attend.

Visiting speakers will include Prof. Edward L. Hill of the University of Minnesota, Prof. Thomas H. Osgood of the University of Toledo, and Walter S. Rogers, director of the Institute of Current Affairs in New York City.

Some of the topics will deal with the significance of modern science in current world affairs, in man's physical well-being, in man's opportunities for better civilization, and in education.

During the conference, the mural memorial to Dr. Ernest O. Dieterich, Iowa alumnus and prominent research physicist, will be unveiled.

Accepts Position

Mary Tudor, G of Olin, has accepted a position as speech correction teacher in the public schools of Marietta, Wis., for next year.

Call 'Em What You Will, Comfort Is Essential in Clothes for Play

In more sophisticated areas they are "play togs," but to the casual informality of Iowa City, they are called "picnic clothes." Now is the season, and the hue and cry is for a more comfortable attire yet still retaining chic.

Denim, the prince of the farm overall, has come to the fore in women's wearing apparel this year. Not only blue, but pink, yellow and the colors of the rainbow are conforming the lowly denim into the last word for "picnic clothes." Inner-outer in shirts breathe an air of coolness and at the same time comfort-ability.

Shorts or slacks with the crease sewed in insure a neat press at all times.

For extremely informal summer wear, when you aren't going to be called upon for active duty, a one-piece outfit of sharkskin is classed as high. These, too, come in all colors and are most becoming.

Shorts, or short overalls, are an innovation of the season. Some stylists call them "clam diggers," and appropriately enough, for wading and picnic wearability, they are worth their weight in gold.

Gingham, denim, seersucker and broadcloth have been cut in a knee-high overall. Under the suspenders may be worn Hawaiian or bright farm-colored shirts that are most becoming.

Shorts and slacks, they run the gamut of tailored fitness and baggy unfitness, but the wise wardrobe buyer sees that she has plenty of them in her collection to weather the promised on-slaughter of Iowa heat.

You'll be a true "Sunbonnet Sue" in this checked cotton housecoat with its demure white petticoat frills, edging the low square neck, perky puff sleeves, and extending down the front to tuck over a white zipper and to finish off the whirling skirt. A little tie in the back nips in the waist to make it princess style.

"Jack of all trades" and master of morning, afternoon and night is a short quilted pique jacket in trucey red, royal blue or popple green that will fit into any fashion occasion. Made on boxy lines, it swings free and easy with twin bows fastening a snug, round neck.

As fresh and colorful as a spring garden are the young cottons for summer evening wear. One called "Bo Peep" combines demureness and sophistication to step out in a prim coin dot dimity, fashioned with yards and yards of billowing skirt and a strapless bodice. For a touch of sweetness, three ribbon bows lie tripple-decker style down the front.

Right out of the old-fashioned sewing basket comes bright checked gingham and Grandmother's rick rack to make an attractive cotton frock for summer dancing. There's a gay '90's ruffle around the off-the-shoulder neckline, a gathered waist and a real swing skirt. Trimming the neck and hem are yards and rows of rick rack. A big grosgrain bow centers the waistline and trails streamers down to the very hem.

And since it's a summer of bright and colorful novelties, a multi-colored raffia belt is just the thing to accent a white costume. And swinging from your arm can be a white, cotton crash bag with composition frame and gay splashes of colored raffia flowers. Not forgetting those smart linen suits, there are cunning little men, even Ferdinand, and Mexican flavers and cacti to stick in your lapel.

A couple of "candy kids" for your gay summer prints. A light-footed sandal with open heel and turned-up Sultan toe is fashioned in soft rose, pique green and pearl blue. Or a daring pump with gilt studded sole, tie-cross front with open toe and heel in beige, yellow or rust will add sparkle to any summer outfit.

Manville Heights Club Will Meet

Members of the Manville Heights club will meet at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow in the home of Mrs. Clifford Palmer, 301 River street. Assistant hostesses will be Mrs. Lloyd Howell, Mrs. Ralph Freyder and Mrs. Arthur O. Klaffenbach.

Franklin Eddy, Jean Horowitz Secretly Wed

Announce Marriage Of Former Student To Cadet Colonel

Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Horowitz of Oak Park, Ill., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Jean, to Franklin Eddy, son of the late Ellsworth E. Eddy and Mrs. Eddy of Marengo, which took place June 2, 1938, in Columbia, Mo.

Attendants at the ceremony were Mrs. Horowitz and Robert E. Berry of Marengo.

Mrs. Eddy, who was graduated from the Oak Park high school, attended the University of Iowa last year where she was affiliated with Chi Omega sorority. This year she was a student at the University of Missouri in Columbia.

Mr. Eddy was graduated from Marengo high school. He is a senior engineering student in the university and a member of Theta Xi fraternity. He was elected cadet colonel at the annual Military Ball this year.

This play suit with pleated, detachable skirt is fashioned of loil, horizontal striped material. It is especially suited to the too-tall, too-slender figure. The peasant silhouette is the most flattering for the woman who is too thin.

Stop Red! Fashion Breezes Blow In New Colors

Here are a number of the little touches that come with every fashion wind but can add or detract so much from your costume by their presence or absence.

If you have a crepe or wool frock which you would like to perk up at a minimum expenditure, invest in a crisp pique collar and cuff set. Pink, blue, yellow and white—they do amazing things for otherwise dull frocks.

Snoods and wimples are firmly established in fashion's limelight and go right on through the day to evening in a variety of versions. Many of the little pillow hats tie under the chin with wimples. Or for summery coolness are festooned with netting effects over solid little bonnets of flowers. They are either pastel or striking white.

New colors for this summer are midnight green and STOP red. Midnight green is somewhat like the new navy green with a touch of dark blue in it and is shown for contrasting accessories in matched bags and shoes of calfskin.

STOP red with matching gloves points up one of the popular navy and white polka dotted frocks with unflattering chic and brings the favorable notice of the rest of the world for your smartness. The lighter blues may also be used for the background color.

Proper Light Speeds Study

Scientific tests conducted by eye authorities show that a student can read much more swiftly when lighting is increased from a lower amount of light to a higher one. Strangely enough, the fast reader is likely to remember much more than the slower reader.

Not only does improved lighting speed up reading but it also reduces eyestrain, one of the bogaboos of studying. Nervous tension of persons reading has been markedly reduced by the illumination.

The following five points should be watched wherever studying or other close eye work is done:
1. Don't read with the light from a window or from a bare bulb shining in your eyes. Glare is distracting, uncomfortable. The brain commands: "Look at the brightness; perhaps there's danger lurking." The textbook says, "Look at me." A tug of war, that has actually been measured in the lighting research laboratory, is the result.

2. Don't study in a shadow. Place your table lamp at the left, if you are right-handed, so that the shadow of your hand or pencil will fall away from your notebook.

3. Don't study in dim light. One of the most difficult things for many students to understand is that although they can see fairly well in haphazard light, their eyes are doing double duty. The tension of their eye muscles is being transmitted to the entire body. Eyestrain is more than muscle strain. It is nerve strain as well.
4. Study in abundant, well diffused lighting. Do not use a single lamp in an otherwise dark room. Have general lighting throughout the room and use a good study lamp of adequate height, such as one of the scientifically approved study lamps with inner diffusing bowl and 100-watt bulb.
5. Create in your home or college rooms a well-lighted place to which you can go regularly for studying. Get into the habit of concentrating on lessons when you sit there.
Proper care of the eyes during school seasons will pay handsome dividends in eye-comfort and general well-being throughout the years ahead.

Cubs Pounce on Three Boston Pitchers for 15 to 8 Victory

Higbe Holds Bees Hitless for Four Innings; Wins Game

CHICAGO, May 23 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs hopped on the veteran Denny MacFayden and two relief hurlers for 14 hits and a 15 to 8 victory over Boston's Bees today, winning the rubber game of the series.

Walter Kirby Higbe, first ball rookie making his first start of the season after starting in relief roles, held the Bees hitless for four innings. But in the fifth the visitors got to him for one run and then batted him out of the box in the sixth with a four-run rally that missed tying the score by one run. Higbe, however, got credit for the victory.

Steve Mesner, the 21-year-old utility infielder, subbing for the ailing Dick Bartell, again led the attack for the Cubs, getting two singles and a double and batting in four runs.

Reds Nose Out Dodgers For Eighth Straight

CINCINNATI, May 23 (AP)—Johnny Vander Meer limited the Brooklyn Dodgers to seven hits today and hurled the Reds to their eighth straight victory, 3 to 2.

It was Vander Meer's third victory of the year. He was opposed by the Dodger's fireballer, Van Lingle Mungo, who also turned in a seven hit performance.

The Reds won in the seventh when Lonnie Frey was hit by a pitched ball with the bases loaded, sending home Myers with the deciding run.

Five Services for War Dead Scheduled for Memorial Day

Local Memorial Day Group Plans Decoration of Graves, Parade, Speaking Program

Prof. Harry Barnes Will Give Principal Speech at Cemetery

Five separate services will honor war dead in Iowa City on Memorial day, according to plans completed last night at a meeting of the Iowa City Memorial Day association at the Riley Funeral home parlors.

The association, which is composed of representatives of all patriotic organizations in Iowa City, has planned to decorate all soldiers' and sailors' graves in local cemeteries, a service for sailors dead on the Iowa avenue bridge, a parade, services in Oakland cemetery and a Memorial day speaker's program.

First Ceremonies

The first of the ceremonies, the decoration of the graves of the war dead, will begin at 7 a. m. Tuesday and will be conducted by a committee of 20 men selected from the Sons of Union Veterans, the American Legion and the Boy Scouts.

The grave decoration committees this year are Clyde Hinchliffe, Ben Switzer, George Trundy, Dr. M. A. H. Jones and Frank Mezik, all members of the Sons of Union Veterans; William J. White, Ray Murphy, George Dolzal, Ben Whitebook and Leslie Freswick of the American Legion, and 10 Boy Scouts who are yet to be selected.

Sailor Dead

Exercises in honor of the dead sailors constitute the second part of the Memorial day observance here. They will be conducted at 8:30 a. m. at the Iowa avenue bridge by the Women's Relief corps.

Opening the exercises will be the singing of "Nearer My God to Thee." The Rev. Elmer E. Dierks, minister of the First Baptist church, will give the invocation. A short service by the Women's Relief corps will follow. Mrs. W. P. Mueller Jr., president of the corps, assisted by other officers of the group, will be in charge.

Strewing of flowers on the river by the Women's Relief corps, members of other patriotic organization and townspeople is the colorful ceremony which precedes the benediction, which is to be pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Dierks.

Hayek Parade Marshal

A. C. Harmon, member of the Sons of the Union Veterans, is in charge of parade plans and arrangements for cars. Lieut. Col. Will J. Hayek will be marshal of the parade which is to begin at 9:30 a. m.

The head of the parade will form at Clinton and Jefferson streets and march north on Clinton to Church street, north on Linn to Brown street, east on Brown to Governor street and south on Governor to the west entrance of Oakland cemetery.

The Women's Relief corps will have charge of the ceremony at the cemetery. The first will be the flag salute at the G. A. R. lot, the presiding officer for which has not been selected. The Rev. Evans A. Worthley, pastor of the Unitarian church, will give the invocation.

After the invocation music will be furnished by a brass quartet from Iowa City high school, a service to the unknown dead, conducted by officers of the Women's Relief corps, and a selection by the Iowa City high school band.

Troop 1 To Perform

A squad from Troop 1, 113th cavalry regiment of the Iowa national guard, will give the rifle salute, and taps will be played by Bob Roth, member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Junior Drum and Bugle corps.

Those assembled will go to the grave of Paul J. Prybil where services honoring the World war dead will be given by the Roy

L. Chopek Post No. 17 of the American Legion. Post Commander B. M. Ricketts will preside.

The platform program in Oakland cemetery is the main and concluding part of the Memorial day observance here. J. A. Swisher, senior vice-commander of the Sons of Union Veterans, will preside.

Music will be provided by the Iowa City high school band, and the Rev. Edwin Edgar Voigt, minister of the Methodist church, will give the invocation and pronounce the benediction.

Barnes To Speak

Climaxing the program will be the address of Prof. Harry G. Barnes of the speech department. He will speak at 10:30 a. m.

Nearly five hundred graves of veterans of all wars are to be decorated Memorial day in Iowa City. Tiffin and six outlying cemeteries by the local Memorial Day association, L. E. Clark, chairman of the association, reported.

Ross Damage Suit Hearings Begin Today

Land Condemnation Causes Case Against Highway Commission

Hearings in the second damage suit resulting from the condemnation of land in northeastern Iowa City last fall by the state highway commission when highway 261 was paved will begin this morning before Judge Harold D. Evans.

The petit jurors for the case, in which Frank Ross seeks damages of $2,500 from the commission, will be selected at 10 o'clock this morning by the attorneys in the case.

The law firm of Dutcher, Ries and Dutcher, who represented C. E. Moss in a similar $2,500 suit against the commission, yesterday announced that an out-of-court settlement had been reached in that case.

Members of the petit jury which was impaneled Monday for the Moss trial were discharged yesterday afternoon without hearing any testimony in the damage suit. Attorneys to the case spent the entire day arguing points of law before the settlement was reached.

Representing the highway commission in both law suits are Attorney William R. Hart of Iowa City and Attorney G. H. Clarke, assistant state attorney general. Attorney Robert L. Larson will represent Ross in the case which begins this morning.

Maj. L. A. Kurtz, C. M. T. C. officer for Iowa, said that the war department intends that every community shall be represented with its proportionate share of trainees in camp, but if the young men in some towns fail to apply within a reasonable time, the quotas for those towns will be allotted to other communities.

Junior Chamber of Commerce Will Sponsor Hawkeye Boys' State Candidate This Summer

Decide Upon Holding Meetings in Small Towns of Territory

An Iowa City candidate to the Hawkeye Boys' State at Des Moines this summer will be sponsored by the junior chamber of commerce, it was decided at the monthly dinner meeting of the chamber last night in the Jefferson hotel.

Included in the evening's announcements and discussions were plans for a membership drive and a report on "Rooster Day in Iowa" by Ray Bywater. Rooster day will be held between June 5 and 10.

A unique plan for summer meetings was decided upon when members voted to hold each monthly meeting on the first Tuesday of each month at different small towns in this territory.

Submarine--

Naquin would not have made this move if all of the 59 aboard were safe in the forward compartments.

Captain Greenlee said also that those stationed at listening devices on the surface had heard faint tappings in Morse code from the sunken craft, but that the sounds had been so faint that only letters and no words could be distinguished.

Lieutenant Naquin, speaking shortly after noon on a telephone line sent up from the Squalus by buoy, recommended to his superiors that no immediate effort be made to bring the trapped men to the surface by means of the new escape "lung."

Best Course

The best course, he suggested, would be for a diver to come down from the surface and attempt to close the induction valve. An air hose then could be attached and the flooded compartments pumped out.

Soon after the Squalus' commander gave this advice the telephone connection broke.

At sunset this evening, Lieut. Commander Charles E. Momsen, inventor of the escape "lung" that bears his name, gathered at the scene with eight expert navy divers who were flown up from Washington to see if a descent was possible before the arrival of the Falcon.

Thirteen other diving experts were flown from Washington to Newport, R. I., where they picked up diving equipment and then drove to Portsmouth by automobile. The crack diving crews were equipped with helium, now used with oxygen in deep sea descents.

Iowa Citizens who are members of the Odd Fellow and Rebekah lodges will attend the funeral service of the Rev. Gordon Dale Cox, 52, grand master of the grand lodge of Iowa, I.O.O.F., at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow in Ottumwa. The Rev. Mr. Cox died Sunday evening after an appendectomy.

Funeral service will be held at the Reece funeral home in Ottumwa and burial will be at 2:30 p. m. in the national cemetery at Keokuk.

The Rev. Mr. Cox, who was installed as grand master of the lodge in Sioux City last year, was a frequent visitor in Iowa City.

Prof. Pelzer Speaks Before Kiwanis Group

"Peace" was the most welcome word one could hear at the time of the World war, asserted Prof. Louis Pelzer of the university history department in a Memorial day address at the Kiwanis club weekly luncheon meeting yesterday noon in the Jefferson hotel.

In observance of Memorial day events evolving around the World war, included in his description of the immensity of the war and its effects upon all people and places, he related the many reactions of Iowa Citizens to the signing of the armistice.

Bauer Elected State Delegate At Lodge Meet

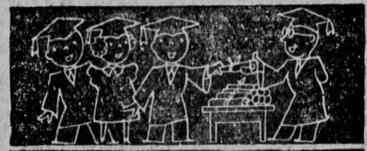

Members of Local Marquette Council Return for Initiation

Dr. Fred T. Bauer of Iowa City was elected state delegate to the national Knights of Columbus convention at the Iowa convention in Fort Dodge yesterday, W. L. Condon, secretary of the local, announced last night.

Members of Iowa City's Marquette Council No. 842 who attended the state event will return today in time to witness completion of the plans for Sunday night's initiation of 25 members into the council. Plans thus far include an opening of the gala day by a full attendance of lodge members at the 10 a. m. mass in St. Mary's church. Those attending will leave the clubhouse at 9:40 a. m. The initiation, at which all members and candidates will be present, will be at 1 p. m. in Varsity hall. A banquet at 6:30 p. m. in the Jefferson hotel followed by an open house evening at the Knights of Columbus clubhouse will complete the day's events. While most European peasants wear their gay national costumes only on festival days, those of the Zakopane region of Poland wear theirs every day.
