WASHINGTON HONORS KING, QUEEN

The King and Queen 'Go American' At Garden Party

By BETH CAMPBELL
WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—King George of England and his pretty queen met and mingled with hundreds of America's official and social elite for an hour today.

Morgan, international banker. The king, incidentally, took cream, one lump of sugar, and smoked a cigarette.

Queen Elizabeth, in a bouffant long white dress, pearls and a white picture hat, had tea with several ladies, including Mrs. John Garner, wife and secretary of the vice president.

The king, slightly tanned, looked slim and boyish in Oxford black and white shirt, and black and white tie. He stood there bareheaded, and the sunlight caught gleams of red in his light brown hair.

Garner had pointed to his dark cutaway and stiff collar with a gesture that sent the crowd in the garden into gales of laughter.

Following are the texts of the toasts offered by President Roosevelt at the state dinner tonight, and the response of King George VI:

A TOAST And A Response

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Following are the texts of the toasts offered by President Roosevelt at the state dinner tonight, and the response of King George VI:

Two National Leaders Drink Toast to Peace

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—From opposite sides of a festive horseshoe table, gleaming with white napery, gold plate and fine china, King George VI and President Roosevelt exchanged toasts tonight, with mutual expressions of hope for a peaceful world in years to come.

British Rulers See Capital's Sights, Get Wild Ovation

A state dinner, climax of the first day of the stay of George and Queen Elizabeth in the capital—a day filled with rushing activity, of receiving the unstinted cheers of the humble folk, of sightseeing, and an elaborate garden party at the British embassy—furnished the occasion for the toast-making.

A 'Thank You'

The president, seated, at the outside of the curve in the horseshoe, with Queen Elizabeth beside him, arose from his place. The arrival of the British sovereigns was a fitting occasion for festivities, he said, but also called for "thanks for the bonds of friendship between our two nations."

Without Fear

It is because each nation is lacking in fear of the other that we have unfortified borders between us. It is because neither of us fears aggression on the part of the other that we have entered no race of armaments, the one against the other.

A Peaceful World

If this illustration of the use of methods of peace, divorced from aggression, could be universally followed, relations between all countries would rest upon a sure foundation, and men and women everywhere could once more look upon a happy, a prosperous and a peaceful world.

The Response

The king's response: The visit which the queen and I are paying you today is something which has been in our minds for many weeks, and if we have had our moments of anxiety they have served to make us realize how intensely we have been looking forward to the present occasion. I wish therefore in the first place to thank you for your kind invitation and for your still kinder welcome.

German Shot, Reich Suppresses Czech City

Schools Close, Public Meeting Is Prohibited

PRAGUE, June 8 (AP)—The German protector clamped drastic police control tonight on Kladno, Czechoslovak town, because of the slaying of a German policeman, and announced "other measures" would be taken if the slayer is not apprehended by 8 p.m. tomorrow.

St. Louis Starts First Clinic For Expectant Dads

ST. LOUIS, June 8 (AP)—A "maternal clinic for prospective fathers," one of the first of its kind in the country, was announced today by St. Louis county.

2 Professors Join SUI Staff

Appointment of two new faculty members and acceptance of a $1,500 grant was announced last night by President Eugene A. Gilmore.

Curfew Established

The citizens were told to keep their windows and doors shut each night after 8 p.m. and until 5 a.m., and that special German police rushed to the community were authorized to shoot into any open windows.

60 Arrested

Acting with great energy the German police were reported to have begun mass arrests in the community, and to have placed 60 persons in jail. Most of those arrested were described as petty officials and Czech civil servants.

Berlin-Warsaw Friction Rises

BERLIN, June 8 (AP)—Friction between Berlin and Warsaw mounting for months over the Danzig question—threatened to reach a new height today as Germany rounded up Polish Jews for deportation and the Polish government was reported to have warned that retaliation might follow.

Poland Warns Reich Against Continuation Of Anti-Jewish Acts

In Berlin it was admitted that action was being taken against Polish Jews and Jewish circles said groups were being taken to the border daily.

Iowan Dies

CLEAR LAKE (AP)—Fred Boyd, 63, of near Clear Lake, was fatally injured last night when struck by an automobile. The accident occurred near his home. Coroner J. E. McDonald said no inquest would be held.

F. R. Suggests Olds as Power Commissioner

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt nominated Leland Olds of New York to the federal power commission today after Frank R. McNinch had declined reappointment to that body and had elected to continue as chairman of the communications commission, a post he has held in a temporary basis since the fall of 1937.

Kills Self

WELCH, W. Va., (AP)—State Police Sergeant C. S. Wilson said today Thurman Schreder, 22, of Roderfield, whose wedding was set for July 10, killed himself because he lacked the money to marry.

STRIKE 'EM DOWN Pin Boys End Strike, Strikes Begin

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8 (AP)—The strike is over so now the "strikes" can begin. The strike involved pin boys—they set 'em up—at bowling alleys. It threatened to hold up the Golden Gate international exposition's tournament, boasting 1,500 entrants.

H. Wallace To Speak at SUI

Henry A. Wallace, United States secretary of agriculture, will come to the University of Iowa campus for a two-day lecture and open forum program under the sponsorship of the senate board on summer lectures, Prof. Willard M. Lampe, chairman of the board announced last night.

Senate Doubles Housing Fund

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Administration legislation to double the slum clearance and low-cost housing program won senate approval today by a vote of 48 to 16.

Fire Damages Ship

Toulon, France, (AP)—The oil tanker La Garonne, moored near the Toulon naval arsenal, was damaged seriously by fire tonight. The naval authorities ordered an investigation.

Measure Increasing Borrowing Capacity Submitted to House

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Administration legislation to double the slum clearance and low-cost housing program won senate approval today by a vote of 48 to 16.

Hitler Hordes For Next War

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—A word-picture of a young Nazi so elated at having a pork chop for dinner that he gleefully waved it over his head was given today by Louis P. Lochner, veteran Associated Press foreign correspondent, as an illustration of Germany's economic pinch.

Lochner Tells Story Of Youthful Nazi, Elated Over Meat

Arriving with Mrs. Lochner aboard the liner Washington on a vacation trip, the chief of the AP bureau at Berlin and recent winner of the Pulitzer prize for foreign correspondence said: "Hitler's government is hoarding foodstuffs for the next war—and the German people are feeling the shortage."

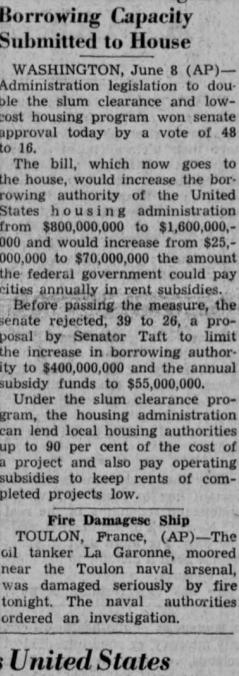

Union Workers Order Fisher Strike at Flint

FLINT, Mich., June 8 (AP)—The Fisher Body Plant No. 1 of General Motors corporation, employing 2,500 men was closed late today after the American Federation of Labor section of the United Automobile Workers called a strike there.

Ham Succumbs

CHICAGO, (AP)—Clifford W. Ham, 46, executive director of the American Municipal Association and a member of the civil aeronautics authority's advisory committee on airports died today.

History in Making as King Reaches United States

Marking the first time that a reigning monarch of Great Britain ever set foot in the United States, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth arrive at Niagara Falls, N. Y., en route to Washington. The royal couple were welcomed at the international bridge by Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Mrs. Hull, pictured in this historic photo with Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador.

Remember This?

IN ONE way, Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, retired, is one of the funniest men outside of Hollywood and Broadway. In one way it might be a fine idea to have a National Laughing week and ridicule the general out of existence — not that he needs much help.

But in another way, we remember that funny man, Herr Adolf Hitler. Herr Hitler was so humorous to his political opponents in Germany before 1933 that they had to hold their sides whenever his name was mentioned. We have no idea what they're doing now or if they're still about to be doing anything at all.

The notion of a "Jewish-internationalist-communist" revolution some day this August sounds too much like something out of Hans Christian Andersen to be taken very seriously, and as for condemning Jews because they are "internationalists first and patriots second," we think that's an excellent idea for anyone. We still remember what Dr. Ben Johnson had to say about patriotism.

In all, it appears by now that although Martin Dies has "read some books" since his recent sickness, he really hasn't learned much. The testimony of those appearing before the committee thus far appears to have done nothing at all except firing random accusations, and their own fascist activities haven't been brought out in a single instance.

Naturally, no one of us can know how much impressed any group or groups are with the kind of fairy stories Van Horn Moseley and his cohorts with Mr. Dies are spinning, but propaganda sometimes does say things to a good many people, even if it is intellectually vacant.

Propaganda has often succeeded in other countries, in Germany, in Italy, in Romania, in Greece, but only when economic conditions remain unsolved and where a "scapegoat" escape is used to keep people's minds off their empty stomachs. The United States won't have to worry much about an American brand of fascism when the shareholder problem is solved, when 11,000,000 unemployed are put back to work, when the American farmer is given his economic place in the national scene.

Mr. Dies might spend his time reading a book or so on Farm Tenancy or on Relief Work or on the Permanently Unemployed — real "un-American" activities — but we frankly haven't much hope that he will.

Mohammedan Gamble

THE RED guard in China has an adequate, if not admirable foe. Those who fear the outrages of Chinese Reds have ignored active red competition in the Mohammedan provinces. Three governors rule the Moslem territory. The most influential of these is one General Ma Pu-feng.

Tradition and ancestry have left their mark on General Ma. He takes what he can get from his subjects and those who unfortunately happen to fall under his dominion. He is an idealist in that he wants to better the conditions of his people. His practical side permits personal aggression into their pocketbooks for such an end.

And the little "Napoleons" of China have placed both the Chinese, Japanese and Russian governments in a rather embarrassing predicament. They play three sides against the middle; figuring when opportunity knocks that often you can't lose.

Self Made Men?

TOPSY OF Uncle Tom's Cabin fame said she "just grewed!" Because this "just growing" is so natural to a child, it has been very much taken for granted. And if Johnny Jones' parents happen to be ignorant, carefree and lazy... well, Johnny was just born that way. It's plain to see how he'll turn out. If Susy Smith happened to come from what is tritely termed "a good home"... you can expect results from her. In other words, good stock is good stock; and bad stock is just bad. A child's parents determine not only who he will be, but what he will be. But wait... there are some folks who beg an argument on this point.

The Child Welfare Research station of the University of Iowa has discovered astonishing evidence to the contrary. Experiments have shown that the normal child, given proper environment, may rise above his parent's standards to a very high degree. Intelligence quotients (I.Q.) of children in experimental schools adapted to the growing child's needs prove this point.

We understand that certain eminent men and women do not agree with this conclusion. But we like to have faith in it, because it hinges around the theory which is a particular pet of ours... the theory of democracy. No matter what arguments may be offered in opposition to that premise, it is under truly democratic governments that men most naturally rise above the circumstances of their birth. Some sink below them. It is one thing to be born; quite another thing to be self made!

A tip to manufacturers of geography books and atlases: Why not outline the boundaries of European countries with rubber bands which can be snapped back and forth in any direction?

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

NEW CODES OF ETHICS FOR AIR WAVES By next fall radio broadcasting is likely to have its own private standards in addition to the rather vague, general standards laid down by the Federal Communications Commission.

The 11 members of the committee drafting the code present all types of radio stations and the three major networks. They have been working on the code since last December, and the convention of the National Association of Broadcasters will consider their efforts in July.

The draft includes a distinction between news broadcasters, who must be purely factual, and news commentators, who may express their opinions. This corresponds to the newspaper distinction between news stories and editorials.

When controversial matters are presented, both sides must be given an opportunity to present their case.

So far, the code is eminently constructive, and is not likely to involve the danger of censorship under any reasonable form of enforcement.

A further provision barring all religious hatred and racial prejudice from the air is well-intentioned but less practicable. It could easily be used to keep Father Coughlin off the air, and Jehovah's Witnesses, and the German-American Bund, and a good many southern politicians.

Dangerous as it is to allow appeals to prejudice, it is still more dangerous to attempt to suppress them. The safer rule here and in ordinary politics, in the long run, is to allow free expression to all sides.

Another such well-meant but unfortunate ruling has recently been announced by the Federal Communications Commission. All stations licensed as international broadcast stations are now required to render "an international broadcast service which will reflect the culture of this country, and... promote international good will, understanding, and cooperation."

It is conceivable that an FCC might some day decide that some unpleasant bits of straight news did not "promote international good will," and that certain thrillers and comics did not "reflect" our "culture," and that only speeches representing the administration point of view promoted "co-operation."

Because of the limited number of channels, the problem of freedom of the air is much more difficult than freedom of speech and the press, and to preserve it vigilance must be doubled. Excessive paternalism is as much a danger as outright suppression.

Stewart Says Japanese Militarists Don't Impach Folks They Just Purge 'Em

By CHARLES P. STEWART

In its confidential moods state department officialdom admits that the chief difficulty it experiences in its diplomatic dealings with the Japanese government arises from the fact that the Japanese government, in the last analysis, isn't the real government of Japan.

At present Adolf Hitler actually is Germany's government. It generally is agreed that he's tricky. Even when he makes a diplomatic bargain, the negotiators of the second part are suspicious, in advance, that he doesn't intend to keep his word. Japan's foreign office is internationally recognized as reasonably well-meaning. What it promises, it means to perform — if it can.

The foreign minister in Tokyo, however, may conclude an international dicker in all good faith, but if he tries too hard to stick to the mikado's half of it, and if Nippon's war department disapproves of it, he becomes an exceedingly poor life insurance risk.

Illustratively: A few years back, before the pending Far Eastern undeclared war broke out, Jap militarists undertook to grab Shanghai, on the Chinese coast. They encountered more resistance than they expected. The then Japanese Premier Inukai said it was literally impossible for him to finance so formidable a campaign as appeared to be impending. It was true. It since has been demonstrated that the Japs are going broke, endeavoring to gobble China. Nevertheless, a military committee dropped in on Mr. Inukai and assassinated him, to teach him and his successors that they'd BETTER find funds, whether available or not, for any enterprise militarily suggested.

Plenty of Such Purges Shortly ahead of Premier Inukai's elimination Premier Hamaguchi was similarly erased for not being belligerent enough. Later Finance Minister Takahashi, Grand Chamberlain Suzuki and Legislators Makoto and Watanabe were mopped up as insufficiently quarrelsome.

Half a dozen assassinations of leading statesmen in less than a year! A fairly good record! There was no complaint about it, either. It's a kind of an electoral system.

It's different from ours, though. Here our war department is an executive branch. War Secretary Woodring doesn't have Secretary of State Hull killed if the latter fixes up a treaty that the former doesn't like.

In Japan the war department is as independent of the rest of the government as the traditional hog on ice. It's independent of the rest of the departments and of parliament and of the mikado himself. Even the mikado would stand a fat chance of liquidation if he defied the military class. For that matter, the Japanese secretary of war would be likely to be "bumped off" by the rank-and-file if he turned pacifistically "sassy."

It's a survival of the ancient "samurai" — the birds who killed everybody else, or killed themselves.

Japanese Diplomacy Japanese diplomacy is all right. Our Tokyo ambassador, Joseph C. Grey, gets along with the Tokyo foreign office admirably.

He could make compacts with Japan that would stick, if Japanese militarism would let 'em stick. Hiroshi Saito, Japan's last ambassador in this country, was so popular here that, when he died in Washington recently, a United States cruiser was assigned to take his casket back to his home country.

Oh, yes; the Japs are o. k. Their militarists are the cannibals.

They are a reversion to the dark ages.

So, also, perhaps, is Hitler, but he isn't quite so obvious about it as the Japanese militarists are.

Letters To The Editor

Editor, Daily Iowan:

As a member of the library profession and of the University library staff, may I offer a minority report to your editorial applauding the appointment of Archibald MacLeish as Librarian of Congress. I am of course expressing only my own opinion, but I feel safe in saying that the librarians of the country were astounded when this news appeared in the papers. We have nothing against Mr. MacLeish personally, nor as a poet, lawyer or lecturer — in which capacity Iowa Citizens can testify to his charm and learning. We have nothing at all against him, except that he is not a librarian by profession. Throughout the U. S., librarians have been struggling for years to establish higher standards which would insure at least a minimum of training for all library positions. Public officials would never think of appointing

THE LOVER'S KNOT

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By George Tucker

NEW YORK — Everytime the Normandie or the Queen Mary puts into port people go down and have their pictures taken against them. There is always a crowd of photographers with their buckets of developer hanging from tripods at the foot of the streets that lead to the piers.

But the pictures aren't very good. You get only a blurred background, and nothing of the graceful lines of an ocean palace. However, if you wander into any of the small dime studios in 14th street you can have an excellent picture of yourself taken — against the Queen Mary or the Normandie. These are but crude imitations painted on a canvas backdrop, yet in picture form they are far more realistic and lifelike than the originals.

Billy the Oysterman is an important key to those who would understand something of the real old New York of sentimental, mellow days. For more than 50 years he has been a dictator to Manhattan epicures.

He has two restaurants now, a layman as public health officer, city attorney, or superintendent of schools, yet they have often filled libraries with untrained appointees. Recently the university rejoiced in the appointment of the dean of the law school to an important judicial post. Can you imagine the consternation of the lawyers if that post had been filled by the appointment of, for example, a professor of political theory, even if he were a distinguished author?

We had hoped that conditions were improving in our profession. Several states have passed laws establishing minimum requirements for librarians. And now the president of the United States has decided that for the most important library position in the country a poet is more suitable than a librarian.

You state that at last the U. S. will have a poet laureate. If the country wants a poet laureate, by all means let us have one, but why consolidate the post with the vastly different one of Librarian of Congress? As Librarian, MacLeish will have charge of one of the largest libraries in the world, if not the largest, including many special collections of untold value; will have control of millions of dollars and hundreds of employees; and will, more than any other person, represent American librarians to the world. Perhaps he can learn to do all this satisfactorily, but would it not have been much better to have chosen someone whose training and experience enabled him to perform these duties from the first? There are several such men in the library profession today — men with scholarly knowledge and technical skill. Our regret is that one of these was not given this national honor.

"RED JEWELRY." ... one of the smoothest exhibitions of the ingenuity of the ace sleuth, Detective O'Malley, a creation of William MacHarg, whose O'Malley stories have been enjoyed by millions in Collier's magazine, will be dramatized by the Federal Radio Theater division over the Mutual network this morning at 8:15.

As the story goes, Miss Carren is found dead in her car. Burkit, a man from her home town, who is in the city looking for a job, is suspected of the murder. Her jewels have been stolen and there is a stain in her car.

His story is that he called on Miss Carren and they made the rounds of the night clubs even though he had no money. Burkit says he escorted her home at 1 a.m.

O'Malley believes Burkit is innocent. He visits the night clubs with two girls. At one, a bald-headed man, supposedly a jeweler from Chicago, comes to his rescue when he hasn't enough funds to pay the bill. The supposed jeweler buys some jewels from O'Malley's lady friend.

A Broadway type of young man approaches the jeweler and invites him to come home with him, declaring he has some jewels to sell.

O'Malley raids the boarding house where the young man lives. The bald-headed "jeweler" is a plain clothes cop. The ruse was planted to trap the real criminal.

MRS. ELEANOR PATTERSON, ... owner and publisher of the Washington Times and the Washington Herald, will be the guest speaker on the fourth program of the new series, Women in the Making of America, over the NBC-Blue network at 12 noon today.

This dramatized broadcast will portray the struggles of pioneer women who gained the right to think their own thoughts about God and man.

Angeline Grimke and Abbey Kelley Foster are written into American history as the pioneers of free speech for women. Their verbal fights inspired by the slavery problem are dramatized in today's program.

Gene Fowler, whose cub reporter days might conceivably be written under the title, "Disillusion in Denver," is putting the finishing touches on a novel called "Illusion in Java."

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

- Old Timer
- Win Early
- Former Champ

PHILADELPHIA, June 8 (AP)—Stocky-cocky Gene Sarazen pulled down knickers over stout legs, gave a hitch to his belt, and prepared to do his bit toward upholding the honor of the dwindling old guard on the sun-baked Spring Mill national open battlefield.

"So Armour went out in 33," he commented, "that's good. If he can come in with a 36, he'll be right in the running."
"Me, I'm just playing for fun, so I'm not tightening up. I feel fine. If I get started right I may finish pretty well up there. As you get older you can't play so often, but when you're rested you can still hit the shots."

Old Timer
The war-worn veteran, who was winning his first national open title when many of his rivals of today were playing ti-cao shinny, tried a couple of practice swings beside his locker. "You know," he continued, "golfers are like horses. They run true to form. Some like heavy going, some like it fast. And you can rate a field as accurately on past performance as you can a derby field."

"Take this tournament, who has been winning the tournaments this year? Guldahl, Sneed, Picard and Nelson. One of them should win this one."
"And just like a horse race, the young players have more left in the stretch. I had a nice 66 in the Masters, but the others were coming fast around the turn and caught me."

Win Early
"The way I look at it, a player must win the open in his first three tries, or he hasn't much chance. This is Sam Sneed's third chance. If he doesn't do it now, he's liable to drop back with Horton Smith, Harry Cooper and some others who always manage to miss."
"Out he trudged, a man who knows all the answers but gets a little tired of telling them. A sturdy reminder of a golden-era in golf."

Open Divots
Ralph Guldahl's caddy won the Philadelphia caddy title in 1937 and 1938, matching Guldahl's open victories.
"One of the best golfers here is in the press tent, doubling as a journalist—Jimmy Thomson."
"Olin Dutra, without his pills, turned in a fine 70, but wasn't satisfied."
"I should have had a remarkable round," he complained. "I should have been out in 29 if my putts had dropped."

Paul Derringer, big Cincinnati Red hurler and a pretty fair country golfer himself, was all over the course picking up pointers.
Former Champ
The omnipresent Bobby Jones, suave and sedate, ambled about virtually unrecognized although those sky-blue pants probably dazzled the gallery.
Ted Turner of Clementon, N. J., did a pretty fair job of matching his partner's drives. His partner was Sneed, the slugger-slugger of all. The gallery's dogs started barking early. The course has more humps than a herd of camels. They could have made it tougher by putting the traps on the greens.
"They'll probably think of that tonight."

Ray Carlen, Nova's Manager, Decides Lou's Ready for Championship Brawl

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—Ray Carlen, manager of Lou Nova, made up his mind regarding the future of the California heavyweight today and it's champion Joe Louis or Tony Galento he wants as soon as possible.
There had been some talk Carlen would steer his boy clear of a heavyweight title fight in September, preferring to wait until next June. But Carlen said he had decided that Lou was ready for a

C. C. Slapnicka Says 'I'm Sorry'; DeWitt Says 'We're Through With Cleveland'

CLEVELAND, June 8 (AP)—Vice-president C. C. Slapnicka of the Cleveland Indians said today he was "genuinely sorry" that disclosure had been made yesterday that the St. Louis Browns and the Indians were discussing a player trade, and blamed a "leak."
William P. DeWitt, Browns' vice-president, declared in St. Louis today the Browns were "through" trading with the Indians and that Cleveland's trade talk was "an effort to get our players discontented."

"I'm genuinely sorry about what happened yesterday and I've told DeWitt so, both by telephone and by letter," Slapnicka said. "There was a 'leak,' but a complete outsider was responsible for it."
"No one connected with the ball club could have prevented it. It was the kind of thing that might have happened to DeWitt as well as to anyone else."

Slapnicka added that the "spring episode to which DeWitt refers was a story quoting me as being interested in (Outfielder Don) Heffner (then a holdout). I was in no way responsible for it."
William O. DeWitt, vice-president of the St. Louis Browns, charged today that trade talk by

Paul Derringer Nips Mulcahy In Mazda Tilt, 3-2; Increases Lead

PHILADELPHIA, June 8 (AP)—Cincinnati won a pitcher's duel between Paul Derringer and Hugh Mulcahy tonight to take a 3 to 2 verdict from the Phillies before a crowd of 16,000 in Shibe park.
Sylvester Johnson won on the mound for the Phils in the ninth and held the Reds hitless after Mulcahy had limited them to seven scattered hits through the first eight innings. The Phils collected seven hits off Derringer.

It was Ray Craft's single to center in the third inning that scored Frank McCormick from third for the winning run. Lonnie Frey, the second man up in the third, doubled to right and after Ival Goodman fanned for the second out, Frey went to third on a wild pitch. McCormick walked and stole second. Ernie Lombardi beat out a hit in front of the plate to score Frey for the tie run and McCormick took third.

BITS about Sports

By J. DENNIS SULLIVAN

Ray Carlen, who sits in Lou Nova's corner while Lou assimilates his lumps and bumps doing his stuff in the prize ring, contends that Lou is now ready to tackle the winner of the Joe Louis-Tony Galento championship brawl. That, of course, is tantamount to throwing down the gauntlet to Louis as the dusky champion has just about as much chance of blowing the title in the Galento fracas as Babe Ruth has of staging a comeback.

Ray, needless to say, will come into a neat stack of green backs regardless of the outcome, as a Nova-Louis fight would draw a robust crowd if it was staged in the middle of Death Valley. And 40 per cent of Nova's take in a fight with Louis figures to be something in the way of high finance.

But why throw a comparative youngster into the ring with Louis? Sure he whipped Max Baer. What of it? Jim Braddock did that several years ago when Max was a far better fighter than he was against the California youngster, and Jim didn't fare well against the Bombers. He didn't fare at all after six rounds of mugging.
Nova is probably a good fighter. Coats critics say he is, and eastern critics who sat at the ringside during his recent winning start against Baer say so. But few if any of those same experts venture the opinion that he is ready for Louis.

The fact that he is a better than average heavyweight should prompt Carlen to hold him back for a year or so until the time when the champion is just a bit softer and Lou a bit tougher. There are plenty of Gunner Barjunds and Bob Pastors on which to practice without tempting fate too much. Matching an inexperienced pugilist against Joe Louis is probably the surest method to date of beating the income tax collectors. They don't draw much when he's finished with 'em.

Errors Beat Senators As Harder Wins

CLEVELAND, June 8 (AP)—Five Washington errors helped the Cleveland Indians beat the Senators today, 7 to 5.
Both starting pitchers, Joe Krauskas and Mel Harder, required assistance but Harder was credited with the victory, the first for Cleveland in three games of the four-game series.

Ralph Guldahl Still Favored For Top Money

Two-Time Champion Only Two Strokes Off Sneed's Pace

By BILL BONI
PHILADELPHIA, June 8 (AP)—Sam Sneed, the West Virginia mountaineer who has made driving ranges out of some of our best golf courses, turned on the heat in a blistering finish today to take the lead at the end of the first round of the 43rd National Open golf championship with a sparkling 68, only sub-par round returned in 165 tries for the nation's top professionals and amateurs.
The big hitter from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., who missed only two fairways all day, made the last seven holes of the Philadelphia country club's Spring Mill layout look like a pitch and putt course. He picked up four birdies through that stretch, three of them in a row, to hold a one stroke lead going into tomorrow's second 18 holes.

This was a good day for the sluggers, bearing out the experts' predictions that the 1939 champion will be one who can poke them far and straight down Spring Mill's sloping, slanting fairways.
Bracketed in a three-way tie for second place at par 69 were Lawson Little, the former U. S. and British amateur champion; Marvin (Bud) Ward, 27-year-old Spokane, Wash., amateur whose tremendous drives amazed the Scottish galleries at the 1938 Walker Cup matches, and Matt Koyal, pro from nearby Philmont, Pa., who was one of the last to finish.

Sneed, Ward, Little and Koyal finally were able to take the play away from a cluster of veterans who got the lead early in the day and held it half way through. Olin Dutra of Los Angeles, Open winner in 1934 at Merion; Tommy Armour, Chicago's Silver Scot who won in 1927 at Oakmont, and Craig Wood, 37-year-old blond bomber from Hamaroneck, N. Y., had their hours in the sun with 70's posted before a quarter of the field was in.

Joining them as the afternoon wore on came Lloyd Mangrum, 24-year-old Los Angeles pro whose older and better known brother Ray finished a stroke higher; Denny Shute, British Open champion in 1933 and twice P. G. A. holder, and Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., runner-up to him for the latter crown in 1937.

These six men again were one shot ahead of a three-man bracket that included the defending champion, Ralph Guldahl, who is out to set a modern record by winning the Open three years in a row. The slope shouldered Scandinavian, doing everything right but unable to get his putts to drop, was tied for 11th place with "Lighthorse" Harry Cooper, one of his biggest threats; Alvin (Butch) Krueger of Beloit, Wis., who used to pitch in the Three Eye league; Ray Mangrum, and a pair of long hitting amateurs, Willford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., the 1937 Western Amateur champion, and Ed Meister of Warrensville, Ohio, Yale junior and captain-elect of the golf team.

Before the major share of a fine opening day gallery estimated at about 5,000 Sneed put on a typical home stretch drive.
Guldahl, still the favorite since he is in an advantageous spot only two strokes off the pace, was fully satisfied with his game even though his putts were stubborn. The placid, cool-headed champion caught only three bunkers and missed but one green. Yet despite the accuracy that is his forte and the fact he was putting for birdies at least eight times, only two of them would go down. Big Ralph canned a 10-footer on the seventh, and got another deuce on the 11th, where his tee shot stopped only six feet from the pin.

The amateurs, given little chance of finishing up with the leaders, delivered an astonishing opening day performance. In addition to Ward, Wehrle, who held out a 160-yard full No. 8 iron for an eagle 2 on the 14th, and Meister, who had eight one-putt greens and then three-putted the 18th, there were Charley Whitehead, husky New Jersey champion, at 73; Veterans Eddie Held of Colorado and former U. S. Champion Max Marston, with Alvin Everett of Rome, Ga., at 75 and Art Doering of Stanford university; Toby Lyons of Cambridge Springs, Pa., and Ed Kingsley of Salt Lake City at 76.

The only simon pures who were disappointing were the U. S. title holder, little Willie Turnesa, who played with Cooper and took a 77, and Johnny Goodman of Omaha, former Open and Amateur winner, who was one shot higher,

Many Marriages Announced Among Former Iowa Students

Thede-Shaff Wedding Will Be at Davenport Saturday, June 24

Engagements and weddings of university alumni and former students are filling the social calendar in many Iowa communities this week.

Thede-Shaff
Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Thede of Dixon of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Marian, to Roger J. Shaff, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Shaff of Camanche. The wedding will take place Saturday, June 24, in St. Paul's Lutheran church in Davenport.

Miss Thede, who was graduated from Grinnell college, has been a member of the West Liberty high school faculty for the past year. Mr. Shaff who was graduated from the university, is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity, and Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity. The couple will make their home on a farm near Camanche.

Tobias-Lockhart
Marjorie Tobias, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David D. Tobias of Sioux City, and James Leland Lockhart Jr. of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Leland Lockhart of Little Rock, Ark., will be married Saturday at 10:30 a.m. in the Morningside Presbyterian church in Sioux City with the Rev. W. R. Moore officiating.

The bride who will be given in marriage by her father, will wear a white point d'esprit dress, a fingertip length tulle veil and a corsage of white rosebuds. Her sister, Jean Tobias, will serve as bridesmaid. She will wear a pink net gown with matching picture hat. She will carry a nosegay of pink rosebuds. Thornton Utz of Chicago will be best man.

After the ceremony, the bridal party and guests will be entertained at a wedding breakfast in the home of the bride's parents.

The couple will visit in Little Rock and tour the Ozarks on their wedding trip. After July 1, they will be at home in Chicago.

Miss Tobias attended Stephens college in Columbia, Mo., and the university, where she was affiliated with Gamma Beta social sorority. Later she attended the University of Southern California.

Mr. Lockhart is a former student of the University of Arkansas and of the American Academy of Art in Chicago. He is a commercial artist.

Frey-Kilgore
Mr. and Mrs. Martin Frey of Webster City have announced the engagement and approaching marriage on June 10 of their daughter, Gertrude, to Dr. Ben F. Kilgore of Des Moines.

Miss Frey, a graduate of the Webster City high school, attended the Methodist hospital school of nursing and later specialized in radiology. Dr. Kilgore was graduated from the university, receiving his medical degree from the University of Illinois where he was a member of Phi Rho Sigma fraternity. In 1932-33 he did post graduate work in eye, ear, nose and throat diseases at the University of Vienna in Austria, and the next year he was resident physician in a Swedish mission hospital in India.

Hunter-Winnie
Mary Jane Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Hunter of Lorimer, and John Ross Winnie, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Winnie of Mason City, were married Sunday in the Church of Christ in Lorimer with the Rev. Mr. Bash of Des Moines reading the single ring ceremony in the presence of 200 friends.

Miss Hunter wore a gown of white organza made over white satin. Her long veil was caught up with talisman rosebuds, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. Marlon Romey of New Mexico, who served as maid of honor, wore a blue net dress with blue accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses and sweet peas.

Donald Winnie, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers included Marvin Winnie, Denny Littlewood, Sam Sampson and Dick Anderson.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Winnie was graduated from the Lorimer high school and has been a student at Drake university in Des Moines. Mr. Winnie was graduated from Clear Lake high school and from Cornell college. She has taken a year's postgraduate work at the university. For the past three years he has been manager of the Kendall Community playhouse in Des Moines.

The Art Of Growing Old Care of The Hair Presents A Problem For Older Women

By BETTY CLARK
AP Feature Service Writer

The art of growing old gracefully demands time and effort. But it brings rich rewards to the woman who pursues it conscientiously.

Three beauty problems face most older women. They involve her hair, which is changing color and therefore requires increased care and changes in the shampoo routine, her figure and her complexion.

A New York specialist has three pointers for women with graying hair. First she says, it is wise to get a hot oil treatment about every third shampoo. If you shampoo your own hair, heat a little olive oil, apply it to the scalp with a piece of cotton, wind a towel around your head and let it remain for half an hour or so.

After that shampoo the hair thoroughly with a liquid castile or coconut oil soap. Do this at least twice, then rinse in lukewarm water three times.

To keep gray hair from turning yellow, use a blue vegetable rinse after the shampoo, pouring the rinse over the hair several times. Then the hair may be set and dried.

When she gets her permanent, the woman with graying hair should be sure the operator uses a lotion with bluing in it.

For that "middle age slump" a good corset and regular posture exercises are helpful. But increased attention to diet is almost compulsory, too, for almost all middle aged women over-indulge.

Here's the answer to most complexion problems: Just the right amount of rouge, a little retouching with lipstick and perhaps a bit of eye make-up.

After the ceremony, the bridal party and guests will be entertained at a wedding breakfast in the home of the bride's parents.

The couple will visit in Little Rock and tour the Ozarks on their wedding trip. After July 1, they will be at home in Chicago.

Miss Tobias attended Stephens college in Columbia, Mo., and the university, where she was affiliated with Gamma Beta social sorority. Later she attended the University of Southern California.

Mr. Lockhart is a former student of the University of Arkansas and of the American Academy of Art in Chicago. He is a commercial artist.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

Keep Cool! Ice Cream Garden To Offer Retreat

Opening its third summer season this evening, the Ice Cream Garden operated by the Swamer Farms Dairy, 1109 N. Dodge, again offers sweltering Iowa Citians a cool, refreshing retreat from the stifling heat.

As last year, lighting effects on picturesque poplar trees, coupled with the delightful splashing of a miniature water fall tumbling into a tiny pool make the Garden a perfect spot to spend long summer evenings.

This year trees, shrubbery and flowers are at their height, lending a natural beauty to the Garden with its colorful lights and beach umbrellas.

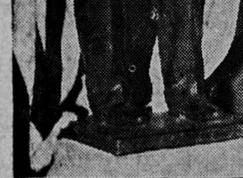

Modernistic chairs and tables dot the lawn in informal fashion. There is convenient parking space nearby, and guests are assured a quiet, pleasant evening in the Garden.

Local Rotary club members were entertained at their luncheon meeting yesterday noon at the Jefferson hotel by five Iowa City high musicians—Ann Mercer, Jean McKnight, Patricia Trachsel, Joan Freund and Albert Muenzer.

Ann Mercer, winner of a first place rating in the state and national contests, played a harp solo. The Iowa City high string quartet, which includes Albert Muenzer, violin; Joan Freund, violin; Patricia Trachsel, viola, and Jean McKnight, cello, presented a number.

Guests included Miss Mercer and A. Selokowitz with LeRoy S. Mercer; Alfred Sidwell, Philadelphia, with Roy W. Spencer; Merton H. Rapp with Prof. Bartholow V. Crawford; Coach Bill Boelter, Syracuse, N. Y., with Roland Smith and Rotarians Lael Abbott and Walter O'Dell, Cedar Rapids; Arthur V. Blodgett, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Hubert Ewers, Merrill, Wis.

3 Playgrounds For Summer Begin June 19

Local summer playgrounds will operate from June 19 to August 12 this summer, Gene Trowbridge, recreational director, announced yesterday.

The playgrounds will be located at Henry Sabin, Horace Mann and Longfellow schools with the program under the direction of the local board of education. Harry Bremer is president of the recreation board.

Otto Toppenberg, recreation leader in charge of the junior softball league, which will be run in connection with the program, yesterday announced that there will be five teams for the circuit including three teams representing the playgrounds, an independent junior team and a St. Patrick's church team.

The St. Patrick's team is entered by the Rev. Harry Ryan and the independent junior team is co-captained by Clayton Colbert and Bob King. Other entries may be made at the recreation center.

Team players must not be more than 17 years old and must not be listed or playing with a senior league team at the park. There is no entry fee and balls and bats are to be furnished. A trophy will be given the winning team. Games will be played in the morning to enable paper carriers to play.

Diocesan Council Will Meet Today

Plans for the coming year were outlined at a meeting of the executive board of the University club yesterday morning in the clubrooms of Iowa Union. This was the first session of the new officers.

Prof. J. Baker Publishes Paper

Prof. Joseph E. Baker of the University of Iowa English department is the author of a paper published in the June, 1939, issue of the English Journal, college edition.

The article is entitled "Sinclair Lewis, Plato, and Regional Escape." In his paper, Professor Baker points out that the type of man which Sinclair Lewis has taught our generation to call "Babbit" was described by Plato in the fourth century before Christ.

He compares the similarity between Plato, Lewis and Oswald Spengler.

All-Around Man Has His Day When It Comes to Jobs

Investors' Syndicate Lists Character Above Scholarship as Employers' Requirement

All around students, especially those who worked their way through college, have a better chance of getting a job after graduation than the campus hero or the college "grind," according to King Merritt, vice president of Investors syndicate, Minneapolis, Minn.

Athletes and beauties, unlike a few years ago, are not being sought unless they can offer to their prospective employers some substantial qualities such as character, scholarship, adaptability, leadership or personality, a survey of 186 American colleges and universities reveals.

Although the job outlook for college graduates is brighter than in either 1938 or 1937, American employers are more exacting in their requirements, preferring employees capable of being developed into executives within the next decade over those who seem to have decided limitations.

Character Rated High "Character as a prime qualification for a job," explained Merritt in reporting on total replies, "was mentioned by 103 schools, scholarship by 29, personality by 18, adaptability by 12 and leadership by six. Secondary qualifications put scholarship first with 60 mentions; then followed adaptability with 36, character with 33, and personality with 19 mentions. A third qualification group gave adaptability 49 and scholarship 45 mentions. Twenty-three mentions of campus popularity put it at the head of the fourth qualification group. Athletic prowess headed the fifth group with 24 mentions.

"Emphasis on character, which college placement officers tell me is a recent trend, is reflected in replies from 129 co-educational institutions who cited two to eight or more qualities now being sought by American employers. Qualities mentioned and their percentage of total mention in this group are character, 90.7 per cent; scholarship, 89.1 per cent; adaptability, 64.3 per cent; campus popularity, 31.8 per cent; personality, 25.6 per cent; athletic prowess, 22.5 per cent; leadership, 17.8 per cent, and extra-curricular activities, which includes outside jobs to pay one's way through college, 14 per cent.

Officials Explain Preferences "The 186 institutions gave scholarship 88.7 per cent and character 83.9 per cent of the total mentions. The 43 men's colleges gave scholarship 93 per cent and character 74.4 per cent. Where scholarship ranked ahead of character, university placement officers frequently added such explanations as 'good character is assumed,' or 'good character is expected,' or 'character always is taken for granted.' One bureau head reported employers demanding students whose education 'had developed a true philosophy of life.'

"An appointment official of a non-sectarian college wrote, 'I have found a very pronounced trend toward and more emphasis on character, including a preference for a religious background.' Several denominational colleges, widely varying on dogmas, reported 'religious qualifications' mentioned less frequently than heretofore.

"Officials of American institutions of higher learning were asked two questions—'In order of their importance, if possible, what are the qualifications principally sought by employers of graduates?' and 'From your observations, what qualifications do employers' the last few years seem to be stressing more?' Less? Most comments and explanations were made in answering the second question.

Initiative, Self-Reliance Attract "The student who today works his or her way through college," continued Merritt, "and thus earns his or her educational expenses in whole or part can be counted on to solve difficulties after graduation, several officials emphasized. One typical reply to the query on what qualifications were being stressed more is this: 'Considerable emphasis is placed on the student earning part of his way through college. This is a business asset and improves the probability of getting a position, even though the scholarship has been handicapped somewhat by the process.'

"Numerous replies mentioned 'outside work done during the college course'; 'many employers are much interested in experience outside of college'; 'extra-curricular activities as indicative of ability outside classroom' and 'ability,' 'dependability,' and 'reliability,' as shown by scholastic records and outside of college.' One wrote that 'the ideal would be the student who is in the top third of his class and at the same time has earned part of his way through school.'

Personality, Adaptability Desired "The 186 institutions answering qualifications stressed more gave these results in terms of percentage of mentions. Character, 37.1 per cent; scholarship, 33.3 per cent; personality, 29 per cent; adaptability, 23.7 per cent; leadership, 10.8 per cent, and worked way through, 7.5 per cent. Percentages for the 129 co-educational colleges are character, 40.3 per cent; scholarship, 35.7 per cent; personality, 28.7 per cent; adaptability, 27.1 per cent; worked way through, 10.9 per cent, and leadership, 9.3 per cent. In the 43 men's schools, the percentages were scholarship, 37.2 per cent; character, 32.6 per cent; personality, 27.9 per cent; adaptability, 16.3 per cent; leadership, 14 per cent; industry, 11.6 per cent, and extra-curricular activities, 9.3 per cent.

"Personality, that much used and abused word, as one of my informants puts it, is mentioned with increasing frequency, but generally in combination with some other qualities like ability, adaptability and appearance. The latter word aroused the ire of the dean of a woman's college, who, after reporting she found increasing stress on personality, added 'personality is stressed ad nauseam in terms of striking appearance or beauty.'

"Adaptability, co-operativeness, compatibility and the ability to work harmoniously with others are being stressed more, especially by large organizations who emphasize team play even in research.

"The 186 institutions replying to the query on qualifications stressed less, in terms of percentage of mentions, cited qualities as given here. Scholarship, 21 per cent; athletics, 21 per cent; campus popularity, 12.9 per cent, and specialized training, 7 per cent. Percentages for the 129 co-educational colleges are athletics, 24 per cent; scholarship, 19.4 per cent; campus popularity, 15.5 per cent, and specialized training, 9.3 per cent. In the 43 men's schools the percentages were athletics, 16.3 per cent; scholarship, 14 per cent, and campus popularity, 9.3 per cent. Eight women's colleges reported scholarship stressed less.

Human Qualities Stressed "The 'book worm' and the 'human encyclopedia' with their brilliant and superlative scholarship are being sharply differentiated from job candidates who had average or above-average grades plus ability, all around training, adaptability, co-operativeness, dependability, enthusiasm, initiative, imagination, loyalty and reliability. Mere book ability, factual knowledge, high grades, numerous degrees and studiousness are relatively unimportant unless accompanied by other desirable qualities.

"Scholarship is less demanded, wrote one placement officer, 'except in large organizations carrying on research work.' Another replied, 'scholarship usually is placed last except in the teaching profession.' A dean of a teacher's college, after stressing scholarship and stating there was no demand for teachers 'who were the least bit wild' added that demand was less for teachers 'who do not dance, play cards, or engage in social affairs.'

"Most employers enjoy sports and admire good sportsmanship, but 'athletic prowess counts only when the candidate is applying for a coaching position or teacher of physical education.' Emphasizing the diminishing value of athletic ability as a job-getter others said, 'mere success in athletics without genuine ability is no longer valued' and 'the captain of an athletic team seems to be nil as an influence.'

"Employers are demanding individuals of promise—men and women who will be executives within the next 10 or 15 years."

Chicken's Life Saved By Hasty Operation

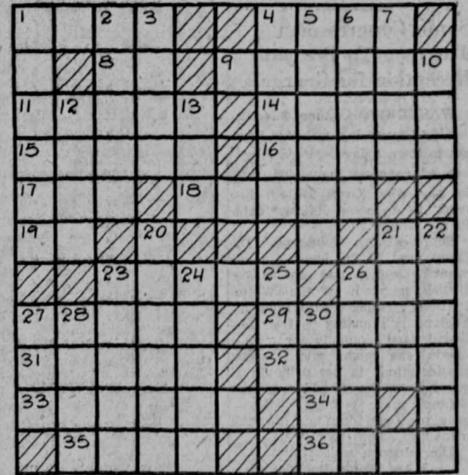

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP)—When it comes to emergencies Charles J. Williams, oil field worker, meets 'em.

A hen yard commotion drew his attention and he discovered one of his chickens, toes up, in acute distress. Williams promptly diagnosed the case one of acute indigestion, due to overeating.

He seized his razor, called his wife to help him and quickly slit the hen's craw, removing quantities of grain, dirt and pebbles. He sewed her back together with a common needle and silk thread.

Educating Adults

'Grown-Up' Training Becomes Extension Division Problem

Surge of adults toward schools, as participants in adult education programs of extension divisions, has brought problems of grave responsibility to educational administrators.

This is pointed out by Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, director of the University of Iowa's extension division, in a current issue of "Extension Division News" of the University of California.

Dr. Mahan, who is president of the National University Extension association which holds its convention this month in California, said that a recent estimate indicates that more than 27,000,000 persons are touched by the adult education process.

Problems include the setting up of a sound program and the securing of adequate finances. How to effectively use radio in the entire program is another angle which merits great study, Professor Mahan says.

Development of adult educational organizations as such is comparatively recent, dating back only about 25 years. Public interest was aroused after America entered the World war when illiteracy and Americanization campaigns were established.

In outlining the field, the university man listed wholly or partly tax-supported adult education such as elementary education for adults under public school auspices, guidance and rehabilitation programs for handicapped, parent education, alumni education, federal programs of recent years, correspondence courses by universities, radio instruction, short courses, public lectures, visual education, community drama, music, and art; and Saturday and evening classes.

Ice-Skating Popular In Snowless Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—It hasn't snowed in weather bureau history here, but there's a boom in the sale of ice skates. Retailers report 1,200 pairs have been sold in 1939. There's a dual reason for it: One, many Miami residents moved in from the North; two, there's an ice palace here where refrigerating pipes keep a skating surface frozen.

'What About War Debt?'—Sweeney Wires King at White House

Wants Public Statement Of British Action

Some Congressmen Threaten To Boycott Reception for George

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—King George had no more than got to town today before a member of congress demanded that he say what Great Britain intends to do about its war debt to the United States.

Representative Sweeney (D-Ohio) read in the house a telegram he said he had sent to the British monarch at the White House suggesting that as long as England is spending "a few billion dollars" annually for armaments, she might give "some consideration" to her debts to a country "whose World war assistance made possible continuance of Your Majesty's government."

The telegram added: "I Am Within Bounds
"Because London dispatches have characterized your visit to the United States as an official one, I believe that I am acting within the boundaries of propriety in demanding that you publicly state what your government intends to do about payment of war debts due this nation."

Yesterday Sweeney joined Representative McGranery (D-Pa) in protesting the detention in Detroit of Sean Russell, former leader of the outlawed Irish republican army. Immigration authorities charged Russell had made false statements upon obtaining admittance to the United States five weeks ago. He was released on bond today.

McGranery and Sweeney predicted that "a considerable number" of congressmen indignant over the action against Russell, would boycott tomorrow's congressional reception for King George and Queen Elizabeth.

Will 'Stay Away'
McGranery said he would absent himself "because of a combination of the two reasons," referring to Russell and the debt question.

Sweeney said: "I'd probably stay away anyway—I'd stay away on what they call general principles."
The two congressmen said there were others who considered the Russell incident "a bold affront" and would remain in their offices during the reception.

"They won't all be Irishmen, either," Sweeney added.

While Back In England—

LONDON, June 8 (AP)—The perspiring British householder drained his evening pint of bitter (beer) with great deliberation tonight and, amid interludes to fan himself, read aloud long descriptions of the welcome for his king and queen in Washington.

He needed his fan less than he had for the past few days, but there still was a protracted "heat wave" of temperatures approaching 80 degrees—almost as rare in England as the absence of the monarch from the traditional trooping the color.

British newspapers virtually had to add glossaries to some of their dispatches from the United States to clarify idiom from across the Atlantic.

Station crews at Buffalo became "car loaders" and points where highways crossed railroad tracks were identified as "level crossings." The dispatches often had a member of the crowd brashly shouting "Hi ya king!"

Bolo Punch Fails
DES MOINES, (AP)—Everett Rightmire, nationally rated Sioux City featherweight, won a newspaper decision in an eight round bout here last night with Frankie Covelli, Brooklyn, N. Y., "bolo" puncher. Rightmire, weighing 130 pounds, won every round except the seventh, when Covelli, weighing 126 pounds, had his best punches landing. Covelli landed a blow in the seventh round but it did no particular damage.

'Wide and Resolute Resistance' Will Meet Aggressors—Halifax

Explains Efforts To Gain Russian Aid To House of Lords

LONDON, June 8 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax served notice today on the "men who have it in their power to precipitate conflict" that any attempt at aggression in Europe would "meet with wide and resolute resistance."

Halifax said he gave this warning lest "their judgment may mislead them as to the nature of the risk they are running and as to the purpose and temper of these against whose convictions they may be moved to act."

Reviews Policies
The foreign secretary made his statement in the house of lords reviewing details of British efforts to win Soviet Russia and other nations into the British-French front.

Europe is faced with complicated problems "which are only too likely to lead to war if roughly handled," he said.

He added, however, that he did not share the view of "those who believe war is unavoidable," because he was convinced that the prospect of certain resistance would deter any nation tempted to risk war.

Iowa Grasshoppers 'Hatch by Millions'

AMES, June 8 (AP)—C. J. Drake, state entomologist, reported tonight that grasshoppers "are hatching by the millions" in western Iowa along the Missouri river following yesterday's rains.

Drake said his assistant, George Decker, was making a survey of conditions along the river and had reported to him a threat of crops was indicated.

He is expected to depart by air either tomorrow or Saturday.

Police Arrest Boy's Abductor

Governess Kidnaps Her Charge, Holds Him for Ransom

SAN JOSE, Calif., June 8 (AP)—Miss Graham Gaylord, 19-year-old San Francisco boy, who was found in a hotel with her.

News of the kidnaping had been withheld by newspapers for more than 24 hours because a note left in the Osborn home in San Francisco threatened death to the boy should it be made public.

San Jose police inspectors Roy Foster and William Brown, aided by San Francisco police, traced the girl to a San Jose hotel. They said she submitted calmly to arrest.

Krehe, they said, was playing with a toy train and a flag in the hotel room.

Mrs. Mabel Osborn reported her son's disappearance to San Francisco police yesterday afternoon. She said the governess and Krehe disappeared about 1:30 p.m. and that she had found a note in the kitchen demanding $1600 ransom.

Police Lieutenant Frank Winters said she was cautioned in the note not to notify authorities and instructed to insert an advertisement in a San Francisco newspaper tonight saying that the money was ready.

"Then, if you have not called police I will contact you," the note said.

Mrs. Osborn, however, notified police. In San Francisco Chief William J. Quinn took newspaper reporters into his confidence and told them the story. All agreed to withhold publication until after Mrs. Osborn had had opportunity to contact the ransom note author or the boy had been found.

Police inspectors said Miss Gaylord made no statement when they took her into custody. She and the boy were started for San Francisco shortly after they were found.

The story of "Juarez," is three stories in one—the intrigue of Napoleon III; the tragic romance of his puppet emperor and empress, Maximilian and Carlota; and the incredible life story of Benito Pablo Juarez, who liberated his land from monarchy, and became the "Abraham Lincoln of Mexico."

JUAREZ

(WAR-EZZ)

A Warner Bros. Picture Starring PAUL MUNI and BETTE DAVIS—Screen Play by John Huston, Aenas MacKenzie and Wolfgang Reinhardt—Based on a Play by Franz Werfel—and an "The Phantom Crown" by Bertolt Brecht. Directed by WILLIAM DIETERLE

Serialization by HARRY LEE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Benito Juarez, an educated Indian, fights his way to the heights in his native Mexico, and in 1861 is elected president. His decree temporarily stopping payments on foreign debts embroils Mexico in a war with the French. His transfer of the lands of the rich to the poverty-stricken peasants, gets the hatred of the ruling class. Napoleon III determined to conquer Juarez sends to Mexico as Emperor and Empress, Maximilian and Carlota. The armies of Juarez, defeated at Puebla, move into the interior. Maximilian and Carlota, entering Mexico, are welcomed by the French but boycotted by the common people. Juarez directs a letter to them telling them that their hopes of winning Mexico are of no avail, and warning them to leave at once.

CHAPTER IV

JUAREZ and a number of his followers, crouch in a dimly lighted room listening to a report of one of his spies. The man is dressed as a coachman. Indeed he is none other than the one who drove for Maximilian and Carlota, and planted the warning letter.

"After Tomalco we came to the Pueblo of San Vincente, the column halted and Maximilian and Carlota alighted. There were many peons, but the soldiers stood between. Maximilian walked alone among the peons to a well. General Lopez warned him not to drink for fear of illness, but his Majesty lifted the gourd and drank to the last drop..."

"Is his uniform very splendid?" interrupted Porfirio Diaz, scornfully.

"He doesn't wear a uniform, Senor... he wears a long black coat... but he is a magnifico, all the same! Tall—taller by a head than any of us—and fair, with blue eyes and a golden beard! The Indians thought, many of them... that he was the old god—Quetzalcoatl—The fair god who promised to return someday when he sailed away into the sunrise..."

"Our task is to fight... fight... fight!"

"They'll not think so well of Quetzalcoatl when he takes back from them the lands Don Benito gave them..." sneered Diaz.

"Tyrants always make their appearance in the guise of gods," said Juarez slowly, "and so our task is to fight... always to fight... fight... fight... to keep Democracy alive... so that when the hour of his unmasking comes, the people will turn to us!"

"There are thickets about the royal palace where a man with a knife could wait, Don Benito..." snarled Carbajal, making a gesture as if throwing one.

"No, Carbajal... we are not assassins! It must be the Mexican people who kill the man that calls himself their Emperor! I was elected by a majority of the downtrodden... and my duty to them is to prove, if I can, that their trust was well-placed—in one like themselves!"

But revolts were continually breaking out... engagements in which the French were usually worsted. Maximilian, greatly troubled, discussed the matter with General Bazaine. "How great is Juarez's military strength, Marshal... how many men has he in the field?"

"Well, about twenty-five thousand in the north! In the south, probably twelve thousand."

"My understanding was that the country had been completely

Highness. One might as well try to come to terms with a wild animal in the jungle! The whip, the bullet, and the bayonet are the only language his kind understands! There is no limit to his falsehoods... his audacity! I myself sent messenger after messenger to Benito Juarez—till I discovered they were being shot, one after the other, as fast as they arrived!"

"Your Majesty need not trouble his mind about Benito Juarez any longer! The Emperor Napoleon has reinforced my armies to fifty thousand men with complete munitions for a final offensive which I am now ready to launch on all fronts! Within thirty days the Indian will be dead, captured, or driven out of the country, Your Majesty. I guarantee it!"

But General Bazaine's final offensive was met by resistance so stubborn and ruthless that town after town fell into the hands of Juarez. Bazaine urged Maximilian to sign a decree ordering execution of all revolutionists. Maximilian refused. All but disillusioned, he talked with Carlota.

"I am now convinced that I was brought to Mexico to destroy the very ideals which were my own fondest hope for this nation! God knows they need a sovereign, if for no other reason than to protect them against the greed and the brutality of the Napoleons, the Bazaines and the Montares! And I believe there's still a way out! General Porfirio Diaz—now in prison—shall go free! He it is who will bear my message to Juarez!"

Plastered College Boy Gets Faculty Sympathy

BUTTE, Mont. (AP)— In a ceramics laboratory period at Montana School of Mines the students were making plaster of paris casts and some one suggested they try a student's face. Bob Blewett volunteered. The instructors carefully followed directions and smeared his countenance.

Everything went fine until the cast was dry and ready to be removed. It wouldn't budge. All the suggestions in the textbooks failed to produce results.

After a half hour's work the students gave up, called authorities and Blewett went to St. James hospital. Doctors finally dissolved the plaster and Blewett suffered nothing more than an irritated nose and disposition.

Farm Expert Sees A Rural Awakening From 'Dark Ages'

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)— Farm meetings this spring have disclosed a renaissance in morale is underway that promises to "profoundly affect the thinking of farm people and end the dark ages of agriculture," says H.H. Williamson, director of the Texas A. and M. college extension service.

"It is the first concerted improvement in agricultural morale since 1930," said Williamson. "It is a surprising development in the face of low commodity prices and small cash income in store for farmers the current year."

The new trend, Williamson said, is so deep-seated he predicted it will bring a lasting change for the better in American agricultural conditions.

Centennial Banquet Begins at 6 o'Clock Tonight--1839 Style

Willenbrock, Koser To Go In Old Surrey

Singing, Spelling Bee, Square Dances On Banquet Program

Festivities of the centennial banquet starting at 6 o'clock this evening in the Iowa City Country club will begin with the arrival in a surrey of Mayor Henry Willenbrock and George D. Koser, president of the Iowa City Centennial association, with all due pomp and ceremony.

Square dances, an old fashioned singing school, a spelling bee, a dinner featuring a pioneer menu, and many other events appropriate for the occasion are planned for those who attend.

Centennial Features
Special features of the various programs planned for the three-day observance of Iowa City's One hundredth birthday July 2, 3 and 4 will be made public for the first time at the dinner. The affair is the official opening of several pre-celebration activities.

Dr. William J. Peterson, lecturer in Iowa history at the university and master of ceremonies at the banquet, will present humorous highlights in the history of Iowa City.

Committee chairmen explaining various events of the centennial program are Attorney Will J. Hayek, chairman of the parade groups; Mrs. E. T. Hubbard, centennial pageant; the Rev. Elmer E. Dierks, church participation, and Vernon R. Stutzman, city park celebration. Reports may be given by other chairmen of the general committees, of which there are 17, centennial officials pointed out.

Iowa Citizens are invited to join the centennial committee at the dinner, where all will participate in a discussion to promote the celebration here.

People attending the banquet are asked to wear bandanas, sun-bonnets or complete costumes of the 1839 period.

The man appearing in the best historical costume will be awarded "one silk neckerchief," and to the woman wearing the most authentic 1839 costume will go "one good kitchen apron of best-grade calico."

A "box of sweets" and "one good pipe" will go to the spelling champions of the evening. A box of sweets will go to the most graceful waltzers of the evening. Waltzing will follow the square dance.

Members of the committee in charge of the dinner are Attorney and Mrs. Hayek, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boerner, Dr. and Mrs. Robert B. Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Swann, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe E. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lorenz, Mr. and Mrs. Vern W. Bales, Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Vern W. Hall, Dean Emeritus and Mrs. Carl E. Seashore, Attorney and Mrs. Herbert J. Ries and Prof. E. P. Conkle.

Iowa City Elks To Remodel Clubrooms at Cost of $60,000

Local contractors will begin the $60,000 renovation and remodeling project on the Elks clubhouse Monday, members of the building committee announced yesterday.

The project includes, in addition to the remodeling and renovating of the present building, the construction of an addition to the east side of the building.

The new fireproof addition will be 20 1/2 feet wide and 74 feet long and will equal the height of the present building. The addition contains a circular stairway at the north end, a lounge room, an ante room, a women's powder room, rest room for men, cloak rooms and the caretaker's room with shower and plumbing facilities.

The interior of the present building will be removed and enlarged. There will be a dining room in the basement of the present building, a kitchenette, air conditioning and storage room and a boiler room. The main entrance will be used on the first floor of the main building, opening into a lounge.

A trophy room to be built will be called the "Henry Louis" room. The secretary's office will be off the main lounge and beside the

—In the old town tonight! A good old fashioned square dance will highlight activities tonight when local residents relive the gay days of the city's early history at a banquet in the Iowa City Country club. Mrs. L. O. Leonard, left,

Last City High Senior Class Graduates From Old Building

'Gamble Your Life On Progress,' Lane Advises 1939 Class

An epoch was written into the history of the Iowa City public schools last night as 160 members of the senior class of Iowa City high school were graduated in commencement ceremonies at Macbride auditorium.

It was an epoch as obvious as the election to build the new high school building; as obvious as the laying of brick on brick, and as obvious as the actual commencement ceremony itself, but it remained for one member of the graduating class to point it out.

That member was Mary Mercer, salutatorian of the class and gifted with the insight that made the obvious seem commonplace. "We have come to an epoch in the history of the high school," she sagely remarked in her salutatory address, "because we are the last class to be graduated from the old building."

The class—all 160 members of it—occupied the entire stage of Macbride auditorium, filling in from the north entrance around the auditorium to the stage.

It heard Dr. J. Stoddard Lane, of the Plymouth Congregational church at Des Moines, the commencement speaker, speak on "Life Is an Adventure."

"Life is essentially an adventure," he said, "and don't let anyone tell you it isn't. Today more than ever before it is a gamble. "There are no guarantees," he warned them. "It isn't a question of how I shall gamble my life, but what I shall gamble it on. If you must bet with your life, and you certainly must, bet it on the possibility of progress," he urged.

"All progress," he declared, "has been made by men who say it CAN be made. Many times it will seem that evil wins over good, but remember this," he pointed out, "no victory of evil over good is ever permanent."

"Life is an adventure, a risk; on which side will you bet it on—on which side will you stake your life? Stake it on the possibility of progress, on the adventure of advance—because progress always wins."

The presentation of the diplomas to the 160 graduates was made by Albert Sidwell, president of the board of education. The Rev. John Bruce Dalton, pastor of the First Christian church, read both the invocation and the benediction.

Music for the commencement program was given by the high school's superior-winning madrigal group, and by a flute quartet, with the high school orchestra accompanying the processional of the class to the stage and its recessional from the stage out of the building.

Clark Reports May Fire Loss

Fire losses of $896 in Iowa City during May were reported by Fire Chief J. J. Clark yesterday in his annual report to the city council. The fire department answered 23 calls during the same period.

Loss on buildings was estimated at $623 and loss on content, $228. The loss on trucks and cars was $45, Chief Clark revealed.

500 To Attend Third Annual Scout Roundup

I. C. Area Council Convenes at Park At 8 o'Clock Tonight

Nearly five hundred Boy Scouts and men from Johnson, Iowa and Washington counties will arrive here today for the third annual roundup of the Iowa City area Boy Scout council in City park at 8 o'clock tonight, Gordon L. Kent, scout commissioner, announced yesterday.

More than one thousand people are expected to be guests at the scout activity demonstration which will include contests in signaling, water boiling, firemaking, equipment race and first aid care.

The Cubs, younger boys in the scouting program, will form part of the program by running an obstacle race, feather blowing contests, dashes and an Indian dance. A troop of Indian Boy Scouts from the Sac and Fox reservation near Tama will aid the Cubs in the dance and climax the program with a dance from their own camp.

One of the Indian Scouts will be selected to help George Buffalo with the camping program of the council at Camp Wo-Pe-Na from July 30 to Aug. 13. Prof. Elmer W. Hills, chairman of the activities committee of the council, said.

Buffalo, who is from the Sac and Fox reservation, will direct the Indian-lore program of the scout camp, Professor Hill announced.

Those troops among the 25 units participating which qualify in the contest events of the program will receive streamers.

Admission will be by free tickets, available from Scouts and Cubs.

It will be in Davenport next May, and D. J. Mattes and William Condon, alternate delegates to the convention.

'39ers — Original Settlers of Johnson County

The first settlers of Johnson county, above, most of whom have descendants living in Iowa City today, were photographed for the first time Aug. 18, 1886. The occasion was more than ordinary itself, the group meeting to observe the fiftieth anniversary of the settlement of the county. The picnic was held at the Graef residence northeast of Iowa City on the Prairie du Chien road. Jim R. Hartsock, shown above, sitting on the ground, was the first Mason of Iowa and organizer of the local chapter. Pictured in the first row, sitting, left to right, are Jacob Ricord, mayor of Iowa City in 1875 and again in 1878; two unidentified women; Mrs. Cyrus

Sanders; Cyrus Sanders, first county surveyor and assistant in the survey of Iowa City; Mrs. George Paul; person unidentified, and Mrs. Catherine Sueppel. In the second row, sitting, are Col. S. C. Trowbridge, first sheriff of Johnson county and organizer of the county government; Sylvanus Johnson, operator of the first brick yard here, and Philip Clark, the first permanent white settler in Johnson county, who staked his claim here in 1836. In the first row standing, left to right, are two men unidentified; Strauder Devault, farmer who located in 1839 near Solon; two men unidentified and Mrs. Jane Sanders, step-daughter of Colonel Trowbridge and daughter of Abram I. Willis; Mrs. Franklin Kimball. In the second row standing are three unidentified; Jacob N. Seydel; two unidentified, and Charles Gayman. In the back row, left to right, are an unidentified man; George Paul, first state printer of Iowa, one of Iowa City's postmasters and representative to the state legislature; Samuel P. Fry, farmer; five men unidentified, and John P. Irish, for many years editor of the Daily Press here and noted politician.

Australia is a trifle smaller than the United States, the area of each being about 3,000,000 square miles.

LOOKING FOR APARTMENTS? Here's A Tip

Look For

Electric REFRIGERATION EVERY TIME

★ Be Safe

Be sure when you leave your apartment this summer for that week-end trip, or overnight visit, that your food is kept safe by automatic electric refrigeration.

★ Be Satisfied

Because if you spend this summer in an apartment provided with electric refrigeration then you will not need to worry about spoiled food due to inadequate refrigeration. Be satisfied also because your refrigeration will be 33 per cent cheaper than the old-fashioned method. This saving is made possible by two factors:

1. High efficiency in the new electric refrigerator design and construction.
2. Cheapness of electric service in Iowa City.
