Japan Pushes Lines Closer To Concession

Oriental, French Sentries on Bridge Almost Rub Elbows

By J. D. WHITE
TIENTSIN, June 23 (Friday) (AP)—Japan's 10-day-old blockade of British and French concessions here bore down on the French today when Japanese guards pushed their lines closer upon French territory.

Japanese sentries at the end of the international bridge between Japanese-occupied territory and the French concession advanced several yards onto the bridge until they almost rubbed elbows with the French and their Chinese police stationed on the other end of the causeway.

Directed at Britain
Heretofore, the Japanese blockade has been directed with greatest severity at Britons, who have been singled out for especially rigorous examinations when they attempted to pass the Japanese barriers.

Japanese have apologized for the necessity of blockading the French concession because it is contiguous to the British settlement. The meat supply at markets in the British concession today was restricted to 100 pounds, which was speedily sold out to a horde of buyers. Friday demands for fish went unanswered—there was no seafood whatever available.

The British consulate charged Japanese gendarmes with heaping fresh indignities and insults last night on British seeking to pass the barriers of the blockaded British and French concessions and protested against a Japanese attempt to search British lighters tied up in the Hai river along the British wharf.

Live Wires
The concessions, ringed with live wires, entered the 10th day under blockade today with fresh food and rising prices an increasing problem but with the milk shortage relieved.

Major G. A. Herbert, British consul, declared fresh food had become "a very serious question" and said the British were preparing to bring supplies in their own boats from Shanghai and elsewhere, if necessary.

Harlan Woman Missing Since Monday Night

HARLAN, June 22 (AP)—Mrs. Joe Thielen, 55, wife of a Panama, Ia., farmer has been missing since Monday night, Sheriff Grover Philson said today.

Mr. Thielen told Philson he knew of no reason for his wife to disappear. The couple's son, Joe, Jr., and his wife, live on the same farm.

A woman answering Mrs. Thielen's description was believed to have spent Monday night at a hotel in Woodbine, the sheriff said.

Action At Tientsin Demanded By People of Great Britain

Chamberlain Remains Firm In Peace Hope

House of Commons Session Engages In Heated Argument

LONDON, June 22 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain was faced with a growing demand for strong action in the far east today as Japan continued to subject British subjects at Tientsin to indignities.

He stuck to his previous position, however, that the British government still hoped for a peaceful settlement and would take retaliatory measures against Japan only if negotiations failed.

At one point during the question hour in the house of commons the opposition grew so hot that the speaker declared the period closed. The question that brought on this was put by Geoffrey L. Mander, opposition liberal.

"How many British subjects have to be insulted, stripped and killed before the British government will do anything effective?"
Shortly after the house recessed to greet King George and Queen Elizabeth on their return from America reports reached London that two prominent Britons had been stripped at the border of the blockaded British concession of Tientsin by Japanese gendarmes and subjected to the ridicule of Chinese coolies.

No Comment
The foreign office, however, withheld comment on this incident.
Earlier in the day a government spokesman had declared continuation of the Japanese army's blockade at Tientsin "will obviously lead to counter measures" by Britain.

It also was disclosed that Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax had sent a message to the British authorities at Tientsin giving assurances that the government would make every effort to protect British interests there.
There was no mention in commons of the Moscow negotiations in which Britain and France are seeking Soviet Russian adherence to their mutual aid front.

'I've No Political Aspirations' Says Murphy

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Attorney General Murphy disclaimed today any personal political ambitions, but declined to express an opinion as to whether President Roosevelt should run again.

Drawn into a discussion of politics at his press conference, the attorney general volunteered: "I personally don't want to be on any ticket of any kind. I think it would be a great mistake for my party to place me on a ticket. There are too many other men better qualified to strengthen the ticket."

Returning English Monarchs Greeted By Hilarious Crowds of Londoners

LONDON, June 22 (AP)—A loud and emphatic as those raised on the arrival of the king and queen in less inhibited New York—were "welcome home," "well done," "stout work" and "good show."

The royal pair got their first welcome from their daughters, Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, who boarded the Empress of Britain in the English Channel off the Isle of Wight. The princesses clamored aboard the liner from a destroyer and ran to their mother's arms crying "Hello, mummy." There likewise, were hugs and kisses for the king.

Henry Wallace Opens S. U. I. Lecture Series at 8 o'Clock

U. S. Official Speaks Tonight, Leads Early Session Tomorrow

Henry A. Wallace, United States secretary of agriculture, will open the summer session lecture series tonight when he speaks on "Future Pillars of Democracy" for light planes today but Hunter Moody and Wilbur Parrish, Decatur, Ill., aviators, corrected the trouble and began their second night aloft tonight.

In high spirits after they stopped the oil leakage, the young aviators bantered by radio with their ground crew about the gusty weather and the eight days' grind remaining if they are to beat the existing record of 218 hours held by three coast flyers.

The famous Iowan will be greeted by a crowd expected to reach three or four thousand, swelled by child welfare and secondary education conferences now in session on the campus. Both of these groups, expecting Wallace's talk to deal with the future of American youth in government, have included the university lecture on their program of events.

Tomorrow morning, Secretary Wallace will lead a round table discussion in the house chamber of Old Capitol to talk over the points of tonight's lecture.
The public is invited to both the lecture and the round table discussion. In case of rain, the lecture will be given in Macbride auditorium.

HAYWARD, Wis., June 22 (AP)—Fatigue struck today as the vigilant army of woodsmen determined to stand their posts as long as their quarry, Ray Olson, fugitive killer, remains at liberty.

Sheriff George Seehuetter, who had been directing 20 possemen, went home to rest, near collapse from seven days and nights in the rough country. He retired protesting "I was there when all this started, and I want to be right up there when we catch up with him. I want to give him what he gave us."

Hunter Moody, Wilbur Parrish Remain in Air

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 22 (AP)—Faulty oil pressure threatened to end an assault on the world endurance flight record for light planes today but Hunter Moody and Wilbur Parrish, Decatur, Ill., aviators, corrected the trouble and began their second night aloft tonight.

In high spirits after they stopped the oil leakage, the young aviators bantered by radio with their ground crew about the gusty weather and the eight days' grind remaining if they are to beat the existing record of 218 hours held by three coast flyers.

Trapped Man Fed Fresh Air Through Pump

INDIANAPOLIS, June 22 (AP)—Trapped 21 feet below street surface by a cave-in, Howard Jackson, 38, was fed air through a "fresh air pump" tonight as firemen, police and WPA workers battled feverishly to push an auxiliary shaft through tons of dirt pinning him.

A gas main leaking nearby added to Jackson's peril. It was feared several hours of rescue work would be necessary. Only a small portion of his face was uncovered.

He was trapped late this afternoon while attempting to tap a sewer. Suddenly, the timbers used to brace sides of the shaft cracked and tons of dirt poured in on him.

Floodlights were rigged as the rescue job proceeded—with Jackson growing weaker hourly. A crowd of nearly 4,000 curiously milled about as police squads blocked off the area.

PICKETS PICKETED 'Go Back to Work,' Wives Demand

LOS ANGELES, June 22 (AP)—Several women picketed pickets at a milling company plant today demanding that their striking husbands return to work.
"Go back to work, you men. Walking won't feed my children," some of the signs read. Police seized the placards, warned the women they were violating an anti-picketing ordinance, which restricts the number and activities of demonstrators.

Townsendites Begin Conclave

S. Downey Declares Plan 'Only Way To Recapture Business'

INDIANAPOLIS, June 22 (AP)—A perspiring multitude of gray-delegated overflowed flag-decked Cadde tabernacle to give Dr. Francis E. Townsend, their 72-year-old leader, a loud vote of confidence and opened the fourth national convention of the Townsend old-age pension organization with the fervor of an old-time revival meeting.

Women in light summer dresses and coatless men—every one of them an evangelist singing the faith of the Townsend plan as the way to economic bliss for everybody—cheered wildly again as Senator Sheridan Downey (D-Calif.), keynoting the convention, proclaimed the pension plan "the only way to recapture business."

The well-groomed Downey, a proponent of the California "$30 every Thursday" or "ham and egg" plan, laid the responsibility for America's economic situation to "poor methods of distribution of the wealth of the country" and asserted, "payment of larger old age pensions offers the only really effective way of using excess savings which are over and above capital needs."

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Creation of special house committees to investigate the national labor relations board and the wage-hour administration was proposed today by Representative Smith (D-Va.), a member of the house rules committee.

Waterloo Man Dies in Creek

WATERLOO, June 22 (AP)—Apparently seized by cramps as he swam into an eight-foot hole while seining minnows, Henry Hemmer, 38, route 2, was drowned in Black Hawk creek about a mile and a half southwest of here at 8:30 p.m.

Naval Refusal Sanctioned By High Officials

Destroyer Remains In Chinese Port, Second One Arrives

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—High officials here tonight strongly backed the stand of Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, who sharply rejected a Japanese request that the United States destroyer Pillsbury leave the Chinese port of Swatow.

Not only did the Pillsbury stay on the scene but the destroyer Pope arrived to join her.

Yarnell, commander-in-chief of the American Asiatic fleet, notified Japanese authorities that "the paramount duty of United States naval vessels is the protection of American citizens and they will go wherever it is necessary at any time to carry out that mission and will remain in such places as long as American citizens are in need of protection or assistance."

No Diplomatic Action
While concurring in this, and in Yarnell's notice that Japan would be held responsible for any damage or injury she inflicted on American vessels or personnel, officials here indicated that no diplomatic action was planned as a result of the Japanese request. Secretary of State Hull took the position that the request was similar to a series of requests in the past, and that it had been made in advance of Japanese occupation of Swatow.

Warns Nationals
According to the text of the Japanese request—at least in the form in which it was received here officially from Shanghai—Japan informed the foreign consuls at Shanghai that she was about to undertake the occupation of Swatow and asked that foreign nationals and foreign vessels evacuate to a safe distance and keep away from the danger zone while the city was being taken.

(However, news dispatches from Shanghai said foreign officials there asserted the warning was not received yesterday until two hours after the Japanese announced the fall of Swatow and cessation of hostilities.)
There are 48 Americans, including four children, at Swatow. Whitney Young, American consul there, notified the state department today all were safe.

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The senate passed the business relief-tax bill today but only after advocates of bigger and broader income taxes had amassed enough votes to give sponsors of the measure a scare.

Standing silently aside, the currency expansion bloc let the bill go to a vote without, as it had threatened, filibustering to force the administration to meet its terms on the issuance of new paper money and the price to be fixed soon for newly mined silver.

Spokesmen for the currency group, continued, however, to speak ominously of the outlook for quick enactment of the relief appropriation and other measures which must become law by June 30 if serious embarrassment to the government is to be avoided.

"You see," said Senator McCarran, (D-NeV.), leader of the currency expansion men. "This isn't a filibuster. We could have tied up the tax bill indefinitely. Does that mean that the gates will be open for the relief bill in the same way?" a reporter asked.
"I wouldn't say that about any bill from now on," McCarran answered, with emphasis.

THE SIN OF GREED Crow Takes Overdose Of Sleep Potion

ALTON, Ill., June 22 (AP)—There ought to be a moral in the death of Carl Johnson's pet crow, a greedy but undercautious bird.

The crow, always watching for tidbits, saw Johnson drop a sleeping powder capsule and nabbed it.
The dose was too stiff, however, and after three days' sleep during which a faint heartbeat was the only sign of life, it died.

Undersea Boat Shift Advised

Ventilating Equipment Not Efficient, Expert Testifies in Inquiry

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., June 22 (AP)—A civilian expert's suggestion that submarine ventilating equipment be changed in the interest of safety closed today the first phase of a naval court's investigation into the sinking of the undersea boat Squalus on May 23.

The suggestion came from Harold C. Preble, the only one of three non-navy men to survive the disaster.
Previous witnesses had told the board they believed failure of the vessel's main induction valve caused the disaster in which 26 men died.

The civilian naval architect, who has participated in submarine tests for 22 years, declared he did not consider the present type of air induction valve either efficient or effective and explained it would be impossible to close one of the present inboard valves manually with water coming in because "a man would be swept away; he couldn't even get near it."

"They are not in fact emergency valves because they are no good when water is coming in," he told the court.

House Votes More Defense

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The house voted $292,695,547 today for the final major phases of President Roosevelt's defense program, chiefly for expansion of the army air corps. If approved by the senate, the measure will boost the session's appropriations for defense to the unprecedented peacetime total of $1,781,987,847.

Senate Passes Relief-Tax Bill; Without Currency Bloc Threat

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The senate passed the business relief-tax bill today but only after advocates of bigger and broader income taxes had amassed enough votes to give sponsors of the measure a scare.

Standing silently aside, the currency expansion bloc let the bill go to a vote without, as it had threatened, filibustering to force the administration to meet its terms on the issuance of new paper money and the price to be fixed soon for newly mined silver.
Spokesmen for the currency group, continued, however, to speak ominously of the outlook for quick enactment of the relief appropriation and other measures which must become law by June 30 if serious embarrassment to the government is to be avoided.

President Calls 3 Billion Plan Self-Liquidator

Housing Plan To Get $800,000,000; Policy Termed 'Permanent'

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Congress received from President Roosevelt today the administration's newest plan for stimulating employment, a seven-year, $3,060,000,000 lending program for projects designated as self-liquidating, and $800,000,000 more for the low-cost housing program.

In addition, Mr. Roosevelt told reporters he was considering a reduction in the interest rate of FHA-insured mortgages in an effort to induce more private residential construction.

Permanent Policy
The program was set out in a letter to Chairman Byrnes (D-SC) of the senate unemployment committee in which the president called for a "permanent policy of federal financing of self-liquidating projects. Copies of the letter went also to senate and house leaders.

First reaction on capitol hill was mixed, ranging from ready endorsement by administration-minded legislators to forthright opposition by some republicans and democrats who have urged reduced spending.

Some who were inclined to look with favor on other proposals indicated they were doubtful about a suggestion for $500,000,000 of loans to foreign governments to finance purchases in their country.

No Cost To Treasury
Mr. Roosevelt stressed that the proposals for loans for self-liquidating projects were designed not to cost the treasury a cent and that money repaid could be re-loaned to supply continuing stimulation to business, if it were needed.

As self-liquidating projects, which would be financed by money borrowed from the public without affecting the treasury's budgetary deficit or direct debt, the president recommended.

$350,000,000 of loans in two years by the new federal works agency (which will absorb the PWA on July 1) to states and counties, cities and other governmental units for sewers, bridges, hospitals and similar projects. These projects would be similar to PWA undertakings for which $1,000,000,000 was allotted last fall, except that the government would lend the whole cost instead of donating 45 per cent. The first year's cost was estimated at $150,000,000.

Federal Works Agency
$750,000,000 of investments in four years by the federal works agency, probably through a new federal toll authority. The money would be spent on express highways, by-pass highways, bridges, tunnels and similar projects. The cost would be repaid, the president said, by collecting tolls and making profits on the resale of excess land bought by the government along the right-of-ways. The first year outlay would be about $150,000,000.

$500,000,000 of investments in three years in railroad equipment such as freight cars, which would be bought by a new federal corporation and leased to railroads needing equipment but unable to buy in outright. First year's outlay, $100,000,000.

$460,000,000 additional loans in seven years by the rural electrification administration to cooperative associations, designed to bring electricity to 1,250,000 farm families. First year's outlay, $20,000,000.

Robert Frost Presents an Iowa Lecture, Reads 'Your' Poetry and 'Mine'

"I've never had two thoughts about one region or another," said Robert Frost, leading American poet, giving his impression of the recent round table discussion on regionalism, in his lecture in Macbride auditorium last night.
Frost humorously remarked that the reason he wrote about New England was that between the ages of 16 and 20 he valued himself on seeing "good" where no one else could. "I was proud I saw something good in New England," said Frost, his eyes twinkling.

Paul Engle, introducing Frost, pointed out that he is an American poet before he is a Boston or Vermont poet. "He has come a long way and that is the way it should be," said Engle to the audience, which completely filled the auditorium.
"I would like to have a 'finished' United States," said Frost, returning for the second time this year to speak before a university audience. "I like to have every community to have a complete set of persons, some to make music, write poetry, paint pictures and sell goods on the market streets. That would be a furnished community—that is both a regional and national opinion."
Frost said he did not believe in any kind of protection, economic or sentimental; that is, read good books no matter if they are English books.
Frost remarked that there are a great many universities in America which bring into a community a good many intellectual characters.

In a small community, said the poet, there are few writers and artists. Their fellow townsmen, he jokingly remarked, generally call such persons village idiots. But those townsmen, he said, are trying to hide their modesty, for they think to themselves, "Who are we that we should be next door neighbors to a genius?"
And Frost stated, with a smile, that an artist has got to be more than locally recognized. "But there is danger!" the poet laughed. "There is danger that the person will go, with his reputation, and never come back."
The University of Iowa, he said, intends to hold its own artists, and give itself completeness.
Frost explained that although his poetry is based on New England, he writes of another region, "the realm of thought."
I was brought up on a farm, earned a "bad living" on a farm, so naturally it shows its influence, he said. "I don't talk much about cities but I have no grudge against them."

Frost modestly asserted that he owes much of his renown to anthologies. "It's a pleasant way of spreading one's poems," said this three-time winner of the Pulitzer prize. "I can thank the anthologies for my audience tonight."
Poems which have appeared in anthologies, said Frost, have become "your" poems rather than "mine."
Included in the poems he read which he called "yours" were "Mending Wall," "Birches" and "Stopping by a Woods on a Snowy Evening."

swinging down with the birches, he said, the city people climbed the trees until they went down head first.
Among the poems, Frost read, which he called "my" poems were "Desert Places," "Precaution" and "A Soldier."
He read "The Ant in Key West." "I received my inspiration for this," said Frost, "from reading the informative articles that are put up in subways whenever there is a blank space between advertising."

Bob Pastor Ranked Third by NBA

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Bob Pastor replaced Lou Nova as the No. 2 challenger to Champion Joe Louis in the National Boxing association's quarterly ratings, released today. Tony Galento still was ranked the top challenger.

Tommy Farr, of Wales, who was not carried in the first 10 in the previous ratings, was given the fifth position. The other heavyweights, in order were: Red Burman, Willie Reddish, Roscoe Toles, Paychek and Tom Kennally. Joseph Triner, NBA member from Illinois, recorded a minority vote in this order: Nova, Pastor, Baer, Reddish, Galento, Burman, Paychek, Toles, Kennally and Gunnar Baarlund.

The association said it would recognize as light-heavyweight champion of the world the winner of a 15-round fight between Mello Bettina, and the winner of one of the following impending matches: Gus Lesnevich—Dave Clark, Len Harvey—Jock McAvoy, Billy Conn—Ron Richards. The association recently declared the light-heavyweight championship vacant after an examination disclosed that John Henry Lewis' eyesight was impaired.

Strickland in Iowa City Says He'll "Stop Paychek's String"

'You Take Him Easily'—Strickland

New Zealander In Good Shape

Vows He'll Be Back As Sixth Ranking Heavyweight Monday

By J. DENNIS SULLIVAN Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Maurice Strickland, champion of New Zealand and foe of Johnny Paychek in a ten round brawl scheduled for Monday night in Des Moines, stopped briefly in Iowa City last night and made it plain that he didn't intend becoming just another name on Paychek's long list of victims.

Maurice Strickland, left, paused momentarily in Iowa City last night before continuing the journey to Des Moines and his 10 round clash with Iowa's Johnny Paychek. With him was his trainer who has been in Strickland's corner in most of his fights in this country. In the best of spirits and seemingly in good condition for the battle, Strickland and his trainer graciously consented to pose wearing hats symbolical of Iowa City's cen-

When asked if he was aware that the National Boxing association in its quarterly ratings released yesterday had dropped him from his former position of sixth ranking heavyweight of the world, Strickland replied that "it was news to him but that he wasn't very excited about it all as he would be right back up there after Monday night."

Looking trim and in the best of shape, the New Zealand brawler fairly oozed confidence and was in the best of spirits.

His last opponent, Italo Colonello, billed as heavyweight champion of Italy, failed to last the distance, taking the count after some seconds of the fifth round.

In recent bouts Strickland has rolled up an impressive string of 10's—10 of his last 11 opponents failing to last the distance. Included among his knock out victims is Gunnar Baarlund, tough Finnish heavyweight who clouted Buddy Baer into a state of extreme insensibility not so long ago.

One of the few set-backs received in this country came at the busy hands of Bob Pastor, current number three NBA heavy. Pastor, a fast, shifty boxer, baffled Strickland for 10 rounds and won an easy decision in the Chicago stadium several weeks ago.

Dick Demaray Tops Swenson

ST. PAUL, June 22 (AP)—Dick Demaray, 145, Bismarck, N. D., had little difficulty in pouncing out a 10 round decision over Don Swenson, 141, St. Paul, in an outdoor card here tonight.

In an 8-round semi-windup, Mary Wason, 174, St. Paul, got a technical knockout in the sixth round over Solly Stark, 166, of Deadwood, S. D.

Martin Gives Tony Slim Hope

Thinks Louis Certain To Flatten Jersey Foe Without Trouble

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—This is by no means an effort to build up the Tony Galento-Joe Louis fight as the battle of the age, unless it turns out to be carnage. Neither is it meant to give the idea this corner thinks a new champion will be crowned come next Wednesday night.

Personally, we wouldn't give a second-hand bottle top for Galento's chances, despite the fact he looks hard, talks hard and possibly falls hard.

It merely is to point out that anything can happen in a prize fight, and there is even more of a chance of it happening when one of the principals rolls forward like a snowball with elbows, shoulders, fists, knees and hand protruding like sticks and stones.

Many Upsets
Ring history is peppered with examples of underdogs upsetting favorites, although it is admitted the favorites weren't, with one exception, Joe Louis. Max Schmeling was given about as much chance as Galento in the first Schmeling-Louis fight.

Here are just a few examples of underdog triumphs:
Dempsey defeated Willard; Braddock defeated Baer; Tunney defeated Dempsey; Cazaneri defeated McLarin; Hudkins defeated Goldstein; Petrolle defeated McLarin; Conn defeated Apostoli; Latsis defeated Walker, and, to dig into the dim past, Jackson defeated Johnny Dundee.

The whole argument simmers down to the fact that any fighter, if he is good enough to get fights, is dangerous. A butt over the eye may be followed by a "so sorry," but that doesn't help the favorite any when the referee

Dizzy Holds Boston Bees To Six Hits

To Six Hits

CHICAGO, June 22 (AP)—Dizzy Dean gave further proof of his return to consistent winning form today by pitching the Chicago Cubs to their fifth straight victory—a 7-1 decision over the Boston Bees.

In achieving his fourth triumph of the season against no defeats, Dean limited the Bees to six hits. Boston failed to get a safe blow until the fifth inning when it bunched three for its only run.

Meantime, the Cubs pounded two Boston hurlers for 11 hits, Dick Erickson giving way to John Lanning after two innings. Chicago concentrated its attack in the second inning when five hits, including Augie Galan's homer with the bases loaded, accounted for five runs.

Chicago White Sox Adopt Night Baseball; Will Play This Year

CHICAGO, June 22 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox today joined the selling ranks of major league clubs sponsoring night baseball.

J. Louis Comiskey, owner of the team, announced that night games would be played at Comiskey park starting late in August, with probably no more than four games this season.

The huge park, with a seating capacity of 51,000, will be lighted by more than 700 floodlights installed on eight towers. Comiskey said permission to play night games had been granted by the American league, and that work would be started immediately to equip the plant.

Thus, Chicago becomes the sixth major league club to join the rapidly growing movement since Cincinnati introduced the nocturnal experiment back in 1935, after it had been a success in the minor leagues.

The following clubs already have lights: Cincinnati, Brooklyn and Philadelphia in the National league, and Cleveland and Philadelphia in the American league. The Phillies and Athletics use the same park.

Suffers First Knockout Of Ring Career

NUTLEY, N. J., June 22 (AP)—Gus Lesnevich of Cliffside Park turned in the most sensational upset in recent history of light heavyweight boxing tonight when he scored a technical knockout over Dave Clark, Detroit Negro stablemate of Joe Louis, in 2:28 of the first round of their scheduled 10-round bout at Nutley Velodrome.

Less than a minute after the fight began Lesnevich shot a left hook to the jaw and dropped Clark for the eight-count. The left hook dropped Clark again and a barrage of both fists sent the Negro to the canvas for the third time, each for counts of eight.

When Clark went down for the fourth time, referee Gene Roman halted the bout. It was the first time in 35 professional fights that Clark was knocked out. It was Lesnevich's 61st victory and 23rd knockout in 65 engagements. Lesnevich weighed 174 1/2 and Clark 172.

'The Children of America Must Be Taught To Love the Land'—Sutton

By D. MAC SHOWERS
Daily Iowan Campus Editor

Iowa was both praised and criticized last night — praised for fine educational work along creative lines by the university, criticized for the excessive stress of higher culture and the neglect of creating a feeling of "love for the soil."

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools at Atlanta, Ga., made these observations last night when he spoke before a large gathering of university men and faculty members at the 23rd annual All-University men's dinner.

The speech by the noted educator followed a program of group singing and instrumental selections by soloists from Iowa City high school.

Mr. Sutton promised that the talk wouldn't be serious — and it wasn't, except to convey to the many in the audience who are to be America's future educators, a message to point out their duty in educating the younger generation to be better citizens.

Future Teaching
He built his points around the problem of retiring teachers at the age of 65. Sutton, one day, listed the things which he thought an instructor would still be able to teach after 65 years of age. His list contained 176 items.

This looked too long, so he began crossing out things until he had cut it down to seven important items. Around these the speaker built a plea to future teachers, principals and superintendents of American schools to work into their courses these vital topics. They are not things of a kind that can be taught in courses of their own — they must be worked in with the regular curriculum, he said.

He called the short list "The Great American Imperatives." The first and most essential is a thing which is not now included in school courses anywhere from kindergarten through the university.

"American children must be taught to love the dirt, soil, land! America must forget the idea of exploiting to get everything out of the land possible; there must be developed an idea of putting something back into the land rather than drawing from it."

This was Sutton's first and most important point of the short list. He used Iowa as an example to show that something must be done about this reversed situation. The middle west occupies 17 per cent of the area of the United States—the area most vital to America for her support — and in this small part is 63 per cent of the erosion.

Work of Schools
He explained by showing that, though government experiments and works out methods of conservation, none of the ideas are ever put into practical use. It is the job of the coming generation of America to put these ideas to work. And it must begin in the secondary schools of the country, Sutton declared.

It cannot be taught as a course; it is the duty of the teacher to make his pupils love and want to conserve the soil. The same is true of the other six points.

Secondly, he said, future educators must work to preserve the American home. Children must be made to realize family relationships for which they are responsible. And high schools, he said, must make provisions for social development that children may be able to understand this responsibility. Mr. Sutton praised the University of Iowa for the work it has done in this direction — more so, the speaker said, than any other American university.

Third Essential
The third essential for better living is to maintain progressive and stable government, the speaker urged. This must start in the schools, the kindergartens, and continue through all the education systems. The younger generation must be educated for the democratic ideals of government.

Superintendent Sutton suggested that the age limit for voting be extended to 18-year old persons with high school educations. He adopted this idea on the basis that it is poor judgment to look backward, that ideas are to be built on future needs, not on the past.

The speaker only mentioned the next two points of his list at the same time stressing their equal importance. They were physical and mental health and reverence to life and law. About the latter, he said, "American youth must be taught obedience and respect for human life and the law that protects it."

Sixth mentioned was the grave importance of love of beauty, art and music. Regarding the importance of this compared to curricular subjects he said, "After all, math is passed by, but a note from Beethoven will always rise up and enable persons to laugh and love." American children must learn to be creative; must be able to do things with their hands.

In this connection, Mr. Sutton praised Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the University of Iowa school of fine arts, for his efforts to provide the university with opportunities for creative work.

Sutton gave as his seventh important point on his list of necessary functions of the American education system, "Whatever God is, he speaks individually to the human heart."

Eugene L. Harden, general chairman of the affair, presided over the after-dinner program and the speaker of the evening was introduced by Dean Paul C. Packer of the college of education.

A College Preview—

Iowa High School Musicians, Speakers Enroll for Courses

On the University of Iowa campus this summer are nearly 150 high school boys and girls getting a preview of college life and valuable training in speech or music at the same time.

Eighty-five students in this group are registered for the five-week course in all-state high school music instruction, and are getting individual instruction and rehearsals in one or more of the three musical groups, orchestra, chorus or symphonic band.

Visiting Instructors
Noted visiting musicians and regular Iowa faculty members are instructing them on a schedule arranged by Prof. Charles B. Righter of the music department, who is in charge of the course.

As a climax to their summer work, the high school musicians will take part in the fine arts festival July 16 to 23, presenting recitals and listening to concerts, operas, lectures and luncheon speeches; seeing plays, art exhibitions and famous persons in art, music and drama. Lawrence Tibbett will present his concert in the field house July 19 and Frank Lloyd Wright, famous architect, will speak on the evening of July 22.

Speech Students
In speech there are 53 students enrolled in one or more of four courses—drama, debate, general speech or speech correction. Among these high school pupils, who will be here for six weeks, are students from Arkansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Illinois and Wisconsin, besides those from Iowa.

Until July 28, the young forensic students will attend classes in the special speech program under the general supervision of Prof. Harry Barnes, assisted by other members of the speech and dramatic art department faculty. In addition they may enroll for courses in the University high school summer session and may take part in the social and recreational program of that school.

Students whose parents do not live in Iowa City are staying in special dormitories under the chaperonage of faculty members.

Headlining the University of Iowa Scottish Highlanders with "Pipes o' Scotland Stir Thousands" followed by "Girl Dances on a Drum" and "Iowa Boys Evoke a Storm of Applause—Costumes Add to Pageantry," the New York Times Wednesday morning printed a complete review of the events at the world's fair of the Iowa Highlanders and the Order of Scottish Clans convention.

Parts of the story of the Scottish events are reprinted here.

"The Campbells went to the world's fair yesterday, and—hoot mon!—for four hours they and the other Highland clans fought a battle royal in the middle of the Court of Peace with skirling pipes, stirring sword dances, border ballads and Scottish reels.

"Several thousand enthusiastic spectators of Scottish extraction, many of them here for the national convention of the Order of Scottish Clans which is being held at the Hotel Astor this week, crowded before the huge platform to hear the pipe bands and watch the dancers.

"Pipers wearing a dozen different tartans marched up, one after another, playing a variety of tunes and executing their intricate marching formations, while drummers twirled their sticks and pipe majors strutted. A board of judges watched, and each band was judged according to its execution, its tone, quality of selection, timing, drumming and deportment.

Economic Security Becomes 'Youth Problem Number One' As Welfare Conference Ends

Howard Bell Heads Last-Day Speakers For Annual Meeting

Three youth problems — economic security, education and recreation — were presented by Howard M. Bell, associate director of the American Youth commission of Washington, yesterday, as the 13th Iowa conference on child development and parent education came to a close in a day's session run off jointly with the opening day of the fourth annual conference on secondary education.

"A youth problem," Bell said, "represents, essentially, an unmet need. The only effective solution to such a problem lies in the development of programs capable of satisfying the unmet need which created the problem."

Problem Number One
An analysis of youth attitudes, he points out, and an examination of the conditions under which they are living, clearly indicates that economic security is youth problem number one.

By taking hold, Bell says, youth can do something about their problems. Of the "21 million American youth, it is the four million who are out of school and totally unemployed who constitute the outstanding problem group," he says.

The joint session of the two conferences opened yesterday under the chairmanship of Mrs. C. C. Colletter of Spencer, president of the Iowa Congress of Parents and Teachers. Edward Herbert, director of Iowa state employment service, spoke on "Helping Iowa Youth to Find Jobs."

Needs of Youth
Bell lectured in the morning session on the needs of youth and followed up with a talk at the round luncheon for youth on "Youth Takes Hold."

The problems of youth, as discussed in the child welfare conference, were summarized by

City and Merle Miller, A4 of Marshalltown, summarized youth's findings, while the adult viewpoint was presented by Ray F. Meyers, principal of Thomas Jefferson high school, Council Bluffs, and the Rev. Edwin E. Voigt of the Iowa City Methodist church.

A demonstration of nursery school education was given yesterday afternoon with Prof. Ruth Updegraff in charge.

The Grinnell Institute 'I Escaped From Hitler's Germany'

By Special Correspondent

F. Wilhelm Sollman, ex-German statesman, knew Germany under Hitler. He came to the Grinnell Institute this week to speak of that nation as it is today.

He captivated his audience, and they rose up at the end to give him a mighty ovation. Sollman may be broken, but he is still proud.

He began to speak slowly in a low voice as he stood before us.

"I was for many years the incarnation of the social-democratic party in Germany. I continued for six weeks after Hitler came in, to fight for my policy.

"We held mass meetings which were attended by tens of thousands. On the fifth of March, 1933, I was again elected to the Reichstag. I was never defeated.

"After conferring with Mrs. Sollman we decided to stay in Germany. One afternoon three cars loaded with 14 brightly-dressed young Nazi storm troopers came to my home and forced their way into our room. All our servants were sent away and my wife was taken to another part of the house.

"We only had to deal with your husband," they told her. They knocked me down, beat me and kicked me as I lay helpless on the floor.

"Then, unconscious, I was taken into their car, driven back to the city where I was proudly exhibited.

"Look at the great Sollman—defeated," they cried.

"I believed that they would either hang me or throw me in the Rhine. Instead they took me to where the Nazi headquarters were located in Cologne. In their torture rooms there hung Nazi swastikas. Another friend and I were commanded to salute it and say, 'Heil Hitler.'

"We refused to do so, it was our only choice. They tortured us to unconsciousness, revived us for five minutes and then tortured us again. We refused again.

"I asked for a glass of water, but when it was brought in I noticed something strange about it and refused it. They threw it in my face.

"Outside, Cologne, excited by the riot, was preparing for its culmination. But the president of the police, an ex-soldier, refused to allow them to kill me and threatened to storm the Nazi headquarters with his men if I were not taken to prison.

"They took us there. I realized that if I didn't escape I would die. Aided by friends, 24 hours later, I escaped. A young doctor and his wife drove me to the border. There a Jewish friend drove me in his car over the border. Stopped by a storm trooper, we gave him money and cigarettes and left Germany with his Heil Hitler."

"From France I went to England and then to the United States.

"Hitler gave me the opportunity to meet this fine American nation."

Sollman closed his lecture series the following morning in Alumni hall.

"Hitler is trying to fulfill the claims of his party," he said. "He wants to crush all his opponents in domestic policy. 'One nation under one rule' is his slogan.

"He wants to make Germans believe that they are superior to others. This explains why he must remove the uncultured Jews. He teaches that as a superior race they

Louden Talks To SUI Group This Morning

J. K. Loudon, chief industrial engineer of the Owens-Illinois Glass company, will give a lecture on the subject "The Application of a Wage Incentive System" this morning before the executives and engineers attending the summer management course of the college of engineering.

Louden's talk will center around the questions, "What procedure should be followed in installing an industrial engineering program in a plant? How is motion and time study tied in with the wage incentive plan? What essential features should a wage-incentive plan have? How are wage incentives installed and maintained?"

Louden, as industrial engineer for this large glass company, has responsibility for the development of the industrial engineering program which includes installing and maintaining wage incentives in the company's 22 factories whose products include bottles, tumblers, building materials, cans, corrugated paper and boxes. Loudon will discuss the fundamental principles that he follows and will then cite practical cases.

After the talk a period for questions and general discussion has been arranged.

Cardinals' Late Rally Overtakes Phillies, 11 to 5

ST. LOUIS, June 22 (AP)—Young Morton Cooper was just about perfect as a relief pitcher today, hurling five shutout innings and getting three hits in three times at bat, as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated Philadelphia, 11 to 5.

The Cards staked the Phils to all their runs, including a homer by Emmet Mueller, before breaking into the scoring column. Kirby Higbe's wildness helped them to four runs in the fourth inning, and they teed off in earnest against his successors, Walter Beck, Al Hollingsworth, and Wayman Kersick.

Herbert F. Fraser of Swarthmore college opened the Monday afternoon program. The economist, once head economic analyst for the state department, stressed that "war is fatal to democracy and to freedom of enterprise, which is one of the bases of capitalism."

"Another great war," he said, "will give us dictatorship during that war, and a great deal of it will remain as a permanent part of our government."

"The present nationalistic policies of many nations not only hurt our nation, but all others too. We are interdependent on the nations of the world. This means that a nationalistic self-sufficiency program lowers the standard of living elsewhere."

Mrs. Laura Puffer Morgan, for the last six years a representative of the national peace conference in Geneva, Switzerland, attacked the isolationist point of view at the institute.

"By isolation we can add nothing to the solution of the world's problems and ours," she said, expressing belief that the league of nations could become a United States cooperation, a mighty deterrent to war.

"The league advocates peaceful changes, not force," she said. "If Japan, Italy and Germany had used article 19 of the league, which provides for peaceful revision of treaties, we might have averted serious international trouble. Aggression is not a localized problem; it is the breaking of all international law."

Mrs. Morgan charged that fascist nations do not have the reasons for war that they would like the United States to believe. For the world's benefit, she outlawed force as an instrument for problem-solving.

R. H. Markham, for 26 years Christian Science Monitor correspondent at Budapest, discussed the problems of southeastern Europe before the institute.

Pointing out that section's poor economic and social conditions, he remarked that peasants there are illiterate, landless and often without even enough food to live on.

"Their minimum wages," he said, "are starvation wages—30 cents a day."

Though they may be poor, he said, the peoples of this area are very nationalistic. Using Hungary as an example, he remarked:

"Today in Hungary every flag is at half staff almost throughout the country—20 years ago today, 3,000,000 Hungarians were taken away and given to her neighbors.

"All good Hungarians seek revenge, and they swear an oath of loyalty to three things: God, justice, and a resurrection of the United Hungary.

Many Hungarian peasants, he said, are willing to live only so that their children may continue this fight for a united land."

Senators Nip Cleveland, 8-5

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Washington staggered in with an 8 to 5 victory over Cleveland today although the Senator's pitcher, Harry Kelley, was slammed for 14 hits including homers by Ken Keltner and Hal Trasky.

The Senators had a big second inning, driving out 5 hits including consecutive doubles by Jimmy Bloodworth, Bob Prichard and Angie Giuliani.

Keltner got 5 hits out of five times at bat for Cleveland.

It was the second day that the Indians used five pitchers against the Senators.

Jack Wilson Pitches Bosox To 7-3 Victory

BOSTON, June 22 (AP)—The Red Sox took the odd game of the series with the St. Louis Browns today, 7-3, as Jack Wilson tossed six-hit ball to win his fourth game of the year.

Wilson shut out the Browns in all except the sixth inning, when they made half of their hits and all of their runs. Myril Hoag tripled and Sullivan doubled before anyone was out, and after two more men walked to fill the bases, John Berardino singled to drive home two more runs.

The Sox had put the game out of reach the inning before when they put over a four-run cluster to add to two runs in the first.

An error by Joe Gallagher in left field on Jim Tabor's hit enabled Ted Williams to score the last run of the rally. George Gill relieved John Whitehead on the mound for St. Louis after that, and gave up only three hits and one run the rest of the way.

Lincoln Narrows Norfolk's Lead

Lincoln cut Norfolk's lead in the Western league to five games last night by winning while Norfolk was losing.

The Links beat Worthington, 7 to 3, and Sioux Falls walloped Norfolk, 14 to 8. It was Norfolk's first defeat in 22 starts at home.

Brandon and Wernet each drove in four runs for Sioux Falls.

Sioux City and Mitchell split a double header, Mitchell taking the first game, 4 to 1, and Sioux City grabbing the nightcap by the same score. Both games were seven inning affairs.

Chubby Dean's Sacrifice Fly Beats Bengals

PHILADELPHIA, June 22 (AP)—The Athletics won a great uphill battle against the Detroit Tigers today, Chubby Dean's sacrifice fly with the bases full in the ninth inning giving the A's a 6-5 victory.

Dean pinch-hit for Wayne Ambler after Joe Gantenbein's double, an intentional walk to Lynn Nelson and Pinky Higgins' error of Dario Lodigiani's grounder filled the sacks with one out.

Although Barney McCosky and Earl Averill hit successive homers in the first inning and Pete Fox homered in the fourth, Lynn Nelson outpitched Buck Newsum to win his fifth victory of the season. Newsum was yanked in favor of Jim Walkup in the eighth when Frankie Hayes singled with the bases full to tie the score at 5-5.

Bob Johnson clouted his 10th homer of the year for the A's in the fourth.

Golf Hopes High

Nine golfers from the University of Iowa have been entered in the National Collegiate tournament to begin June 26 on the Wakonda course in Des Moines.

Hawkeye hopes shot up one more notch as David Foerster, member of the Old Gold squad, collected a 72 in a practice round for one of the lowest scores in pre-tournament practice. Willie Thomson, who finished fourth in the Big Ten meet, is improving his play rapidly and should help Iowa's cause.

This is the first time that the university has ever entered the national affair, but Coach Charles Kennett believes they'll show visiting college golfers that the home state can boast of not a few skilled linksmen.

Midgets stop growing at an early age, but their growth may be resumed in middle or old age.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD - Most ironic casting of the week: Sigrid Gurie in "Forgotten Women."

It's been more than a year since Sigrid's last picture. It was "Algiers," in which she was cast as the "name" girl opposite Charles Boyer. The picture came out—and Gurie was caught in the backwash of Hedy Lamarr's discovery by the fans, jokesmiths and producers.

She has made two pictures—this Brooklyn-born Norwegian girl who fooled Sam Goldwyn with her story of success on the Norwegian stage, and subsequently surprised Hollywood by having an unsuspected husband turn up. Both in "The Adventures of Marco Polo" and in "Algiers" she wore black wigs, placed "exotic" types. This time she plays herself—a chestnut blonde, and she likes it.

Sigrid herself places no stock in the idea that Lamarr's rise obscured her chances. "I have had many good words from producers," she says. "I've spent the months fixing up my house—there is so much work to do. I'm being married to Dr. Lawrence Spangard some time after my divorce is final in July. No, not the next day—I wouldn't like that..."

The real reason Gurie hadn't made pictures was her salary demand—even the producers who gave her "good words" thought she was asking too much. Too much, probably, for a girl who hadn't grabbed the limelight from Lamarr.

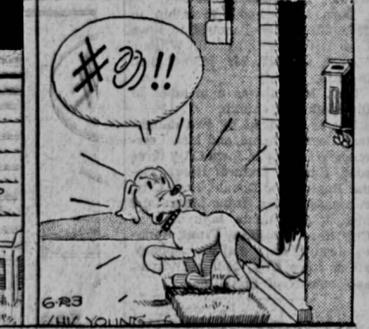

Thieves Rob Talbot LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Thieves stole jewelry valued at approximately $1,200 from the Hollywood home of Lyle Talbot but overlooked other gems worth $10,000, the film actor's wife, Marguerite, reported to the sheriff's office yesterday.

John Springer Book Group Appears Here

The current exhibition in the Ranney Memorial library in the basement of Schaeffer hall consists of parts of the John Springer collection of 2,300 volumes on typography.

Springer was formerly an Iowa City printer and when he died he left the collection to the University of Iowa that it might be preserved as a whole collection. Springer started the collection over 50 years ago and gave it to the university in 1936.

The books included in the present display show type specimens, books important to printing history, books showing the progress of printing history through the centuries and old printed works.

Also on display are reproductions of woodcuts, etchings, mezzotint and stipple engravings, lithographs and half-tones and several other forms of old printing. An attempt has been made to explain the method used in each case.

The Ranney library is open from 3 to 5 o'clock every weekday afternoon.

Spending--

two years by the farm security administration to help farm tenants to buy and equip the farms they now occupy. First year's outlay, $250,000,000.

$500,000,000 of additional loans in two years by the export-import bank to foreign governments to finance the purchase of commodities and other goods in this country. First year's outlay, $200,000,000.

Each of the projects would require legislation, either to create a new agency as in the case of the railroad equipment, or to increase existing powers as in the case of the farm security administration. The $800,000,000 increase in borrowing authority for the United States housing authority already is embodied in a bill pending in congress.

Immediate Consideration

Byrnes said congress probably would give immediate consideration to the program. The senate, he added, likely would take the initiative on authorizing legislation while the house considered the appropriations.

Chairman Steagall (D-Ala.) of the house banking committee, said there should be no difficulty in passing the necessary legislation at this session.

However, Chairman Taylor (D-Colo.) of the house appropriations committee said he could not predict what action his committee would take.

Desirable To Spend

"We would like to protect the federal treasury as much as possible," he commented, "but sometimes it is desirable to spend. I feel that provisions should be made to safeguard against running wild."

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) of the senate banking committee said the proposals would help to stimulate the durable goods industry which particularly needs help at this time.

From Senator Bridges (R-NH) came the observation that the president "apparently never learns you can't spend your way to prosperity."

The New Hampshire republican added that the proposal "looks to me as though he's laying the way for announcing his candidacy for a third term."

Germany's Saar district supports about 1,000 persons to every square mile of its 750-square mile area.

It's Big Goin's On--

Last night erased all doubts from the minds of Iowa City residents that there is a possibility that the city might revert to a period of 100 years ago. Downtown Iowa City was filled with strollers, dressed in cutaway coats, lengthily frilled dresses and bonnets. Everywhere were to be seen red bandanas, long "segars" and beards. The new "Palace" eat emporium opened for the first time last night, distinctly 1839, except for the easily recognizable circular window of Smith's cafe, and a sign requests customers to leave their shooting irons outside. The front is redecorated in keeping with the centennial atmosphere. Window displays of downtown merchants have brought together the very essence of 1839 in Iowa City. Almost all the city needs now is a horse or two. This illustrious group of Iowa City residents, 1839 style, gathered before the new "Palace" last night to pose for this stereotype.

Do You Waltz Gracefully?

Read These 1839 Etiquette Rules Before Tomorrow's Centennial Affair

By EDWARD MANNON

"When introduced to a lady, be particular how you ask her to dance; women are susceptible to first impressions."

Men who plan to attend Iowa City's centennial street dance Saturday night may well heed this advice for it is one of the many suggestions contained in books of dancing etiquette of a hundred years ago.

Those were the days when a "swing" was an object you sat in and "rug cutting" meant something you did with a pair of scissors.

But the committeemen in charge of Saturday's affair, Howard Davis, Roy Mulford, and Henry Herring, will probably not insist on the majority of "hints on deportment" which these books give.

For instance, in place of the centennial straw hat and red neckerchief, gentlemen were encouraged to wear a black, superfine coat, with a pair of well fitting pants of the same color. Gaiters, pumps, or dancing shoes were an additional requirement.

"If street shoes are unavoidable, be sure to scrape off the mud" is one gentle reminder. Cambric handkerchief slightly perfumed, hair well dressed, without too much curled are further admonitions.

And if authoress Helene Davis of the middle 19th century were on the committee this would be the rule:

"Do not romp in dancing, nor on the other hand assume a solemn expression. Let your face wear a pleasant appearance though not a simpering smile."

A dancing socialist by the name of John Cherry would go even further in this process of regimentation. He critically writes: "The shoulders must be square, one raised not more than the other, and kept well back. The chest brought forward, the heels joined together, the toes turned out equally at right angles, the knees straight, the arms hanging in their pendent position with the thumb and forefinger side of hand turned towards the front, the elbow brought slightly forward."

"The weight of the body should principally bear upon the fore part of the feet. The head must be erect and the eyes looking forward, and the body have an erect and firm appearance, but without constraint."

How anybody could remember all of this and still be without constraint is a problem Mr. Cherry avoids. It's clear, though, that dancers of a hundred years ago were expected to observe certain proprieties. The following are typical:

"An introduction on the dance floor does not entitle you to afterwards claim acquaintance with a partner. All intimacy should end with the dance."

"If a gentleman cannot waltz gracefully, he is most conspicuous. While waltzing, he should exercise the utmost delicacy in touching the waist of his partner."

"You ought not to engage a lady for more than four dances during the evening. Too much familiarity is out of place on the dance floor."

"A lady must be careful about dancing with strangers. It is better to be deemed prudish than to be incautious and indiscreet."

"The practice of chewing tobacco on the floor is not only nauseous to ladies, but is injurious to their dresses."

"If a lady refuses to dance with you, bear the refusal with becoming grace; and if you perceive her afterwards dancing with another, seem not to notice it, for in these matters, ladies are exempt from all explanations."

Let nobody think, however, that these dancing masters were Casper Milquetoasts with penchants for parlor games. One writes, "if you receive an indignity resent it not at the time by sign, notice, or any expression of feature." He adds ominously, "seek an adjustment at a future time."

One has to admit that these 19th century "Emily Posts" have a few suggestions worthy of consideration. And here is one statement of fact which will positively apply to Clinton street Saturday.

A certain Thomas Hillgrave says, "The spectator at a well-ordered dance sees, at one view, in a number of elegant young women, every species of female loveliness, and the perfection of proportion. They are attired in all the gay habiliments of fashion and fancy; and their harmonious and graceful movements unfold on ever varying charm."

Mr. Hillgrave intended this for Iowa City, 1839.

Spectators will enjoy the same on the evening of June 25 in Iowa City, 1939.
