House Passes Neutrality Bill By 12 Votes

Keeps Modified Arms Embargo Provision Over FDR's Wishes

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—The house passed the neutrality bill tonight after overriding administration wishes and including a modified arms embargo provision.

The vote on final passage was announced by Speaker Bankhead as 200 to 188.

The measure now goes to the senate where an adamant "isolationist bloc" of senators already has threatened to prolong the session all summer rather than permit the bill's passage in the form desired by the administration.

Escape Rout
Defeated in their efforts to prevent inclusion of the arms embargo, house administration leaders narrowly escaped a complete rout. A motion to send the bill back to the foreign affairs committee—which would have had the effect of defeating the bill and continuing the existing neutrality law—was turned down by only two votes.

The harried leaders desperately fought through an uproarious session lasting far into the evening to remove the arms embargo restriction, making three attempts.

Each time, they were beaten, though Speaker Bankhead, a veteran of the congress which declared war against Germany, went down on the floor and pleaded in a dramatic speech for elimination of the restriction.

How Neutrality Bill Works

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—Here is how the neutrality bill approved by the house tonight would operate:

When the president or congress found that a state of war existed between foreign states this fact would be proclaimed.

Thereupon, it would be forbidden to:

Sell arms or ammunition to a belligerent.

Ship any commodities to a belligerent until title had been transferred to someone other than citizens of the United States.

Loans and Credits
Make loans and credits to belligerents except ordinary commercial credits and short-term obligations of not more than 90 days.

Solicit funds in this country on behalf of a belligerent.

In addition, the president could deny the use of United States ports or territorial waters to submarines or armed merchantmen of a belligerent.

The major change from present law is elimination of the phrase "implements of war" from the embargo provision. Legislators said this would permit sale to belligerents of airplanes, automobiles, oil and a long list of other commodities coming under the ban in the existing statute.

Roosevelt Signs

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Roosevelt signed last night a deficiency bill appropriating $2,099,377, chiefly for operations of the federal communications commission.

Uncertainty Of Hitler's Plans Raises Doubts

British Assure Europe Of Intention To Fight For Polish Integrity

LONDON, June 30 (AP)—Official circles insisted emphatically tonight there would be "no retreat" by Britain in Europe but uncertainties of Adolf Hitler's plans and technicalities of the British guarantee to Poland raised speculation over whether Danzig actually was a current crisis spot.

The declaration by Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax last night that Britain's "first task is to resist aggression" was said in government quarters to have been intended primarily to dispel any doubts about whether she would fight for Danzig.

Nevertheless, one important question on Danzig appeared to fall outside the foreign secretary's speech:

What Would Happen—
What would happen if Germany used no force to take Danzig, but did so, as a German spokesman said, "by ingenuity."

The foreign office would not say whether Britain would regard such action as aggression. Official circles said, however, that Britain would be compelled to aid Poland if the latter decided to resist with force.

The wording of Lord Halifax's statement was said to have been studied carefully and meant precisely what it said—that Britain would resist aggression.

G. B. To Fulfill Pledges

He did not mention Danzig specifically, but he did refer to Britain's mutual assistance agreement with Poland and stated Britain was prepared to fulfill her pledges in event of "further aggression."

Poland Talks With France

PARIS, June 30 (AP)—Premier Daladier was understood tonight by French diplomatic circles to have received Poland's conditions for negotiating with Germany toward a peaceful solution of the Danzig issue.

A special report on the German-Polish quarrel over Danzig was brought from Warsaw by French Ambassador Leon Noel who conferred with Daladier as did the British ambassador to Paris, Sir Eric Phipps.

But what conditions were made was not known.

(Poles said their nation would not acquiesce to "another Munich.")

F. D. R. Kills Undistributed Profits Tax

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—The tax on undistributed profits, object of so much complaint by businessmen, received its death blow today when it was announced that President Roosevelt had signed the tax revision bill recently passed by congress.

Fraud Exposed In R. R. Bonds

William Buckner Jr. Convicted by Jury Of Mail Conspiracy

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—William P. Buckner, Jr., promoter playboy, was convicted by a federal jury today of conspiracy and mail fraud in connection with the manipulation of Philippine railway bonds.

There were eight counts in the indictment on which Buckner went on trial on June 14 with four co-defendants.

Seven charged mail fraud, the other was a conspiracy count. On each mail fraud count the young broker, who is a nephew of Thomas A. Buckner, chairman of the board of the New York Life insurance company, faces a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment and $5,000 fine. The conspiracy count carries a penalty of 2 years in prison and $10,000 fine.

The jury was out 2 hours and 45 minutes.

Olson's Body Will Be Taken To Mukwonago

HAYWARD, Wis., June 30 (AP)—Arrangements were made today to take the body of Ray Olson, north woods killer who was shot to death by possumen yesterday, back to his old home at Mukwonago, Wis., for burial.

Word from Olson's mother told of plans to conduct the funeral at a Mukwonago funeral home at 2 p.m. Sunday. Burial will be in a cemetery near the city, about 30 miles southwest of Milwaukee. The federal bureau of investigation sent an agent to Hayward for what was described as a routine check of Olson's fingerprints, Bertillon measurements and recent criminal activity.

Honorary Certificate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Pepper (D-Fla) proposed yesterday that an honorary aircraft pilot's certificate be issued to Orville Wright, aviation pioneer, for "outstanding service in advancing the science of aeronautics."

Prof. Muenzer Resigns

Prof. Hans Muenzer, above, head of violin instruction of the university's music department, has announced his resignation from the faculty. Professor Muenzer will tour principal cities of Europe next season, devoting his full time to concert performances. He will participate in the events of the fine arts festival here next month, appearing in particular with the music faculty string quartet July 17.

Roosevelt Signs Billion Dollar Agriculture Bill

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt signed tonight a $1,194,498,633 agriculture appropriation bill but took occasion to remind congress that it should provide additional funds to meet expenses not covered by the budget.

I. C. Drivers Licenses Available Until 4 Today

Johnson county motorists are warned by Sheriff Don McComas that driver's license renewal applications may be made in the courthouse until 4 o'clock this afternoon. In order to aid the public in obtaining the license applications, the clerks will work this afternoon.

Nearly 9,500 applications for renewals were made up until last night in Johnson county July 5 is the deadline set for making applications. An examination will be necessary in order to secure a license after that time, state officials have ruled.

The courthouse will be closed Monday and Tuesday for the Fourth of July and the Iowa City centennial celebration, Ed Sulek, county auditor, announces.

Harper Announces Concert Tour Plans Prompted Decision

The resignation of Prof. Hans Muenzer, head of violin instruction in the music department, was announced yesterday by Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts.

The resignation will be effective Sept. 1.

"The desire to advance myself in the concert field," Professor Muenzer said, prompted the resignation. "Only by dropping all other activities could this lead to success," he said.

The Iowa professor plans a concert tour through the principal cities of Europe next season, necessitating his absence from the United States for an indefinite period of time.

Professor Muenzer is a part-time member of the summer session faculty and will give his full time to the activities of the fine arts festival July 16 to 23. He will play with the music faculty string quartet in a concert of chamber music July 17.

Since coming to the University of Iowa in 1936, Professor Muenzer has acted as concertmaster of the university symphony orchestra, as recitalist and instructor.

Announcement of his successor as head of violin instruction will be made within a few weeks.

'Ken' Suspends Publication

NEW YORK, (AP)—The weekly magazine "Ken" will suspend publication with the August 3 issue.

Action Will Be Met With Action, Poles Declare

WARSAW, June 30 (AP)—An authoritative source commenting on Danzig nazi activities said tonight that Poland "will not allow herself to be provoked, but every action will be met with due counter-action."

This source declared the speech last night by British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax "was a clear warning and it would be most unfortunate for peace if this were not understood."

Bank Robbed At Clearfield

Thief Takes $2,100; Forces Observers To Lie on Floor

CLEARFIELD, June 30 (AP)—A lone bandit clad in a blue denim jacket and light trousers robbed the Clearfield branch bank of about $2,100 this afternoon after asking Cashier Rolley Bailey to change a $10 bill.

The bandit, described as about 5 feet, 9 inches in height and weighing about 140 pounds, entered the bank at 2:59 p.m., only a minute before the safe was to be closed.

After asking for change for the bill, he thrust a gun at Bailey and said "this is a holdup."

He forced Bailey, his daughter, Lorraine Rood, also a bank employee, and Clyde Cooper, a customer who came in, into a back room where he commanded them to lie on the floor.

"He told us to lie there for five minutes," Bailey said, "and that he had a partner across the street with a machine gun who would shoot us if we got up."

Although witnesses were not certain, the man was believed to have escaped in a sedan (model A Ford) with a trunk.

Search for the bandit tonight centered around Mt. Ayer where, state highway patrolman James Mechhoz said, officers were working on "a couple of good leads."

Danzig Police Told To Watch For Surprises

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, June 30 (AP)—

"Guard against surprise" was the admonition which went out tonight to Danzig's reinforced police force.

Railway bridges were guarded and strategic highways patrolled, authorities said, against the possibility of a putsch or invasion from the Polish frontier.

The security measures were of a purely precautionary nature, Danzig officials declared.

German Heads Laugh at Talk Of Negotiations

Reich 'Unimpressed' By Halifax' Speech, Doubts Compromise

BERLIN, June 30 (AP)—German officials tonight said they were "amused" by Paris reports of an effort to settle the Danzig question through negotiations between Germany and Poland.

(French diplomatic sources said the French ambassador to Poland, Leon Noel, had told the French government the latest conditions under which Polish officials were willing to negotiate for a peaceful solution of the issue.)

"Did the Poles tell the French they were ready to give up claim to Danzig?" nazis asked.

No Direct Effort
Informed quarters said there were no signs of any effort by either Poland or Germany to settle the matters directly but "it might be that France and Great Britain are trying to step in as mediators."

That Adolf Hitler would compromise was doubted by these quarters. He has stated publicly he would not again make Poland another offer similar to the one of last spring when he sought the return of Danzig to Germany and extra-territorial rights for a highway to link Germany proper with East Prussia.

Nazis close to him since have said his price is "much higher" now for peaceful settlement with Poland.

Grave Historical Error
Officials repeatedly assert that "Poland's rejection of that offer will turn out to be one of the gravest errors in that country's history."

German official quarters professed to be unimpressed by warnings from Britain and declared that Germany would continue unswervingly toward the goal set for her by Chancellor Hitler.

The reichsstaetuer has made it clear, especially in his reichstag speech of April 28, that this goal includes recovery of war-lost Danzig and a connection of some sort between East Prussia and Germany proper across Pomerze (the Polish Corridor).

Officials observed that "Poland is going through the same maneuvers as did Czechoslovakia a year ago." Czechoslovakia finished by being wiped off the map.

"German troops meanwhile were being sent to East Prussia as 'precaution against Polish chauvinists who almost daily now proclaim the necessity for Poland to seize that province.'"

Officials admitted that the East Prussian garrison was being strengthened and asserted that "any country capable of doing so would do likewise if a neighbor had designs on its territory."

Discontinues Interest

NEW YORK (AP)—The Chase National bank, the largest in the country, announced yesterday that effective Aug. 1 it would discontinue the payment of interest on compound interest accounts.

Stabilization Fund Expires At Midnight

F. R.'s Devaluation Powers Clipped By Senatorial Oratory

WASHINGTON, July 1 (Saturday) (AP)—The senate agreed early today to vote Wednesday on the administration's monetary bill and then adjourned with republican and democratic senators in sharp disagreement whether its adoption would revive the president's stabilization fund and his power over the dollar.

WASHINGTON, July 1 (Saturday) (AP)—President Roosevelt's power to devalue the dollar died at midnight, stamped out in the senate by relentless republican filibusters who gleefully left the last, killing speech to an implacable democratic foe of the chief executive.

That speech was delivered by Senator Tydings (D-Md) who declared in stern, measured tones that congress must keep its historic powers over money to itself.

With the dollar devaluation power expired the $2,000,000,000 exchange stabilization fund, with which the treasury for five years had endeavored to protect the foreign value of the dollar against the raids of other governments and of speculators.

Hard-Moneyites Lose
And with both votes the expectations of western silverites for obtaining immediately an increased statutory price for the product of their silver mines. In a vote-trading deal earlier in the week they and the republicans had drastically altered the administration monetary bill.

A law enacted in 1934 established the stabilization fund and authorized the devaluation of the dollar, but specified that both authorities should expire last midnight. The administration monetary bill was introduced to continue them for two years.

Earlier in the week the republican-silverite alliance amended the measure to strike out the devaluation authority and fix the silver price. Senate-house conferees eliminated the anti-devaluation amendment, but left in the measure an increased treasury price for silver.

Prevented Vote
So, left out in the cold by the conference report, and contending that the devaluation authority was a menace to business and business confidence, the republicans had only to keep talking until midnight, prevent a vote on the new legislation and let the president's power over the dollar expire.

While administration leaders squirmed helplessly in their chairs, the republicans kept up a running succession of speeches. Crowds of drama-seeking spectators jammed the galleries. House members, fresh from dealing the administration another blow by insisting upon an embargo on arms and ammunition in the new neutrality bill, lined the back of the chamber.

As the gilded hands of the clock over Vice-president Garner's rostrum slowly approached the midnight hour, tension and excitement increased, despite the fact that the outcome had been a foregone conclusion for hours. Senators who had attended but sparsely throughout the evening filled the chairs on the senate floor.

Indict Former L. S. U. Head For $100,000 Embezzlement

BATON ROUGE, La., June 30 (AP)—Fugitive Dr. James Monroe Smith, his wife, nephew, son-in-law and brokerage intermediary were indicted today by the grand jury investigating a million-dollar scandal at Louisiana State university, which Smith headed for nine years.

The special east Baton Rouge parish jury, called into session after Smith resigned his presidency and fled last Sunday night, not only indicted the tall, 51-year-old protegee of the late Huey Long but also voted bills against Mrs. James Monroe Smith, who disappeared with him; her nephew, J. Emory Adams; Smith's son-in-law, Owen W. Ware, and J. M. Brown, the brokerage intermediary.

Smith himself was indicted for embezzlement of $100,000 of the university funds. Mrs. Smith, her son-in-law, Owen W. Ware, and J. M. Brown were indicted for assisting the "principal offender" while Brown was indicted for "aiding and abetting in the embezzlement."

Adams, who state Superintendent of Police Louis F. Guerre said told him he had driven Dr. and Mrs. Smith to Memphis Sunday night, shortly after the educator had resigned to former Gov. Richard W. Leche, was already under bond as a material witness here.

Witnesses before the jury testified that Smith, earning $15,000 a year as president, had had access to $1,209,000 of the school's bonds, used $591,000 of them as market collateral, and, when the market went against him, re-deemed the bonds with $500,000 in cash obtained from three banks by signing invalid notes.

Late last night it was learned that Attorney General Ellison obtained a court order to examine the market transactions of Mrs. Smith and her daughter, Mrs. Owen W. Ware.

Any fears of a dying American race were dispelled last night for Iowa students and faculty members and the present decline in births in the United States was explained to be a benefit rather than a danger to America's future.

"That is my purpose in going about the country giving this talk on 'Who Shall Inherit America,'" explained Dr. Albert Edward Wiggam as he opened the second university summer lecture on the west approach to Old Capitol.

Dr. Wiggam told his audience that it was in 1930 when the census bureau first noticed the decline in American population. But this was not a decline in actual number; it was a decrease in the number of babies being born to replace the old people, he said, explaining what is known as the "population index." Dr. Wiggam remarked that it would probably be 16 or 18 years before the number of births would equal or drop below the number of deaths in the United States each year.

The population index is the means of determining the replacement line which, the speaker showed, will be exactly at 100 when births equal deaths. Today, the average the country over is about 106 or 107, there being more individuals born than die.

This figure varies with states, or more naturally, with various sections of the country, Dr. Wiggam explained.

Warning the American people that they should not become alarmed at this birth decrease, the lecturer stressed the course that should be followed by parents in order that their children may be given the best opportunities for development.

A decrease in the birth rate naturally makes for a higher culture standard, he said, but it is up to the parents to set and maintain this cultural standard. Dr. Wiggam brought applause from the audience when he urged support of legislation providing federal aid for cultural development in the backwoods regions of the United States.

Dr. A. Wiggam Urges 'Better Homes'

Any fears of a dying American race were dispelled last night for Iowa students and faculty members and the present decline in births in the United States was explained to be a benefit rather than a danger to America's future.

"That is my purpose in going about the country giving this talk on 'Who Shall Inherit America,'" explained Dr. Albert Edward Wiggam as he opened the second university summer lecture on the west approach to Old Capitol.

Dr. Wiggam brought applause from the audience when he urged support of legislation providing federal aid for cultural development in the backwoods regions of the United States.

By figures and examples, Dr. Wiggam showed that a child's environment is not wholly determinative of his character; that heredity does enter in "to some extent" in developing the child's ability. It is here also that parents must provide for their children, he explained—a better environment, with greater ability the eventual goal. The speaker illustrated that it is better for both the country and the individual when parents rear smaller families and are, as a result, more able to provide for them.

Dr. Wiggam, leading authority on the interpretation of human sciences and their bearing upon America's future, asserted that we are now at the end of an era and beginning a new one. "We must think radically and act carefully," he said. "What is done by this generation will determine whether or not we base our future on the past, or if we shall push ahead and work our own way through."

Dr. Wiggam praised the colleges and universities of this country as a whole and laid special emphasis on modern psychology and marriage courses.

He closed with a plea to the parents of today to build good homes for the children of tomorrow—"to give them everything possible in good things" to make a better America of tomorrow.

Relief Bill Gets to White House Just Under Midnight Deadline

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—Passed without dissent by the senate, the $1,755,600,000 relief bill went to the White House tonight about 4½ hours before the midnight deadline, when the existing WPA appropriation was scheduled to run out.

The bill was approved after four hours of debate, devoted largely to complaints by various senators that their pet amendments to the measure had been stricken out.

The measure, hastily redrafted by a conference committee last night, won house approval 321 to 23, early in the afternoon. When it reached the senate, Vice-President Garner sought to gavel it through, announcing: "Without objection the bill is—"

"Mr. President," Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) shouted before the debate was on.

Word quickly circulated that republicans were seeking to delay the measure for several hours so that they would not have to talk so long to kill the pending monetary legislation, which was next on the calendar and which was scheduled to die if speechmaking continued past midnight.

Republicans quickly denied this, however, with Senator Austin (R-Vt), the acting leader, telling reporters that "the members of our party recognize the responsibility of providing relief for those in need, and there is no disposition to delay this bill."

While administration lieutenants sat in stony silence, republicans carried the burden of the early debate.

A Display Of Good Citizenship

ARRESTED for breaking a traffic law, the average citizen protests vigorously, almost surely presents an alibi.

Not so the motorist arrested for a minor infraction by two Nashville, Tenn., policemen this week. He accepted his ticket quietly, posted his forfeit and made no effort to fight the case.

More unusual, however, was the fact that he wrote the arresting officers a letter of commendation.

"I broke a traffic law and for this I have no alibi," he wrote. "It was downright carelessness. I want to commend you both for being alert and doing your duty."

Here, certainly, was a gesture of good sportsmanship. Indeed, it was more than that; it was a fine display of good citizenship. For it takes an unusually good citizen to appreciate the work of the police when the latter enforce the laws at his expense.

America Buys Up Silver

FREQUENTLY attention has been called to our costly and senseless silver buying policy. The theory back of this policy originally was to help the silver mining states, but we have gone into the wholesale buying of silver outside this country as well.

Today, the silver mining industry in this country is but a drop in the bucket compared to the huge outlays we have made for foreign silver.

For instance, look at the money we have poured into Mexico, and the thanks we seem to have received for it. Mexican officials like our money, but don't care to thank us in any material manner.

Now we are having difficulty with Franco's Spain, arising out of our purchase of silver from the former Spanish government. In this case we have bought $14,250,000 worth of silver. According to the St. Paul Dispatch, this amount was "thrown out the window and picked up by the Spanish government, whose friends thereupon proceeded not to thank Uncle Sam for the windfall, but to abuse him for not lifting the arms embargo at the same time."

This Spanish business is proving costly. Because Franco contends the silver was wrongfully sold, he claims its return to the new government. Consequently, we are holding up cotton shipments amounting to $15,000,000 for fear Franco will seize them in satisfaction of his claim.

In the meantime, we have lots of silver, and no one would venture a guess as to what we may be able to salvage out of it eventually.

What Price Inflation?

THE NEW administration relief bill has just passed the senate. This measure appropriates for the use of relief agencies, WPA, FAS, and NYA, $1,803,300,000.

A farm bill was sent Wednesday to President Roosevelt's desk, having passed both houses. This bill provides for spending $1,194,408,633 on farm programs which include direct benefit payments to farmers, removal of farm surpluses, and the farm tenancy program.

Huge sums, you say, and the country will go bankrupt at this rate? Perhaps, but the farm-aid and relief programs will not be the cause. Let us go back a minute to analyze the situation which put the farmers and various relief groups in need of help.

The United States fought the World war with huge borrowed sums, sums which dwarf the relief and farm appropriations, despite the warnings against such procedure by economists.

This resulted in the enormous inflation which followed the war and eventually caused the collapse of 1929. That breakdown made relief and farm aid imperative.

If the government should go bankrupt, the real cause will not be having aided the farmer and given the laborer a job, but paying for a terrifically costly war by the inflation method.

We're Still Muddled Over Neutrality

AFTER a 13 hour session Congress Thursday night voted for a measure requiring the president to embargo arms and munitions but not implements of war destined for belligerents.

What does this bill mean? The legislators claim this act exempts such articles as aircraft, trucks and oil, but they are not certain. It is likely that this measure will mean no more than countless others enacted in times of crises. When it is put to test there will be as much and more debate than there has been recently in Congress.

Why can't Congress pass a neutrality measure that has as much significance in times of peace as in the emotional distress of going to war? Is there and will there never be legislation regarding neutrality that can have one meaning and one only?

The clubhouse of an Indiana country club is destroyed by fire. The course will consist of only 18 holes until a new building is erected.

THE LOUISIANA MESS

Huey Long didn't consider his brother Earl competent to be Lieutenant Governor of Louisiana, and Earl once referred to Huey as "a big-bellied coward."

Now, nearly four years after their reconciliation at Huey's deathbed, Earl Long becomes Governor, under circumstances suggesting a combination of Central American revolution, mystery melodrama and farce comedy. And he announces that his administration's motto will be: "Better a little with righteousness than great revenues without right."

It isn't likely that Huey would have selected Earl to run the Louisiana machine. Nor does it seem probable that the new Governor Long will be able to rule with the absolute power his brother exercised. Even Louisiana must be beginning to realize the price it is paying for tolerating a dictatorship; and the rest of the country can hope that at last the lid is off too far to be replaced on the off-foam mess made by men who have sought great revenues while they prayed for righteousness.

We don't pretend to understand all that is happening in Louisiana. The former Governor, Leche, who first would, then would not, then did resign; the State University president, Smith, who became a wheat-market plunger and is now a fugitive, accused of embezzling the university's funds; the charges of fraud involving WPA—these seem to be pieces of a puzzle that haven't yet been fitted together.

And the administration at Washington has appeared strangely uninterested in whether things were going on in Louisiana that don't belong under the "new moral climate." Only a couple of weeks ago Attorney General Frank Murphy accepted an honorary degree from the now missing university president. Until recently Governor Leche was—and for all we know still is—being seriously considered for appointment as a federal judge. The federal Grand Jury at New Orleans, which has started an investigation of alleged WPA corruption, says it is acting on its own initiative, without orders from Washington.

But at least the federal Grand Jury is investigating. So, for whatever its findings may be worth, is the WPA. The Congressional committee which has investigated WPA in other states plans to ask funds to continue its work, with Louisiana scheduled for early and special attention. The Public Works Administration has ordered a check on its $51,000,000 program in that state. The Treasury department is said to be looking into various income tax returns.

We suspect there is plenty of work for all these agencies. And we hope their combined efforts will not merely result in punishment for a few individual culprits but expose the whole truth about the corrupt state machine that Huey Long built and lesser men have continued to operate. Louisiana needs to smash that machine and become once more a self-respecting, self-governing commonwealth.

Wait Disney must be disappointed. Most all the universities have held their commencement exercises and not one offered an honorary degree to Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck or Ferdinand the Bull.

Japanese must be getting modest. They kept that war of theirs with the Mongolians a secret for two months.

We don't know what it is but the British foreign office must be getting awfully tired of the Russian word for "maybe."

Stewart Says

Free Trade Policy Advocated by Hull Unlike Germany's

By CHARLES F. STEWART

The state department draws a distinction between Germany's international "barter system" and Uncle Sam's trading of American cotton with John Bull for England's tin and rubber from British colonial territory. In fact, "bartering" and "swapping" are two altogether different kinds of transactions, according to Secretary Hull's lexicography.

The dictionary, I note, treats the alternate terms pretty much alike.

Nevertheless, there IS a difference between what Germany's doing (Italy also, but not as extensively as Germany is) and what we're doing.

Secretary Hull is in favor of the freest possible trade, on a worldwide basis. He doesn't want to limit it to the United States and any other single country. It's true that he makes reciprocal agreements with individual countries, but that's the only way he can make a start in his objective's all-around destination. He makes agreement after agreement as fast as he can. He's made about 20 already—a pretty good beginning, considering the long standing of tariff restrictions our whole globe over. His ultimate aim is to make free trade universal so far as this sphere is concerned. It's an ambitious program for just one country to initiate, but Secretary Hull keeps plugging away at it. Not only, he says, will it be economically vastly beneficial, but he's sure it will be an enormously pacifying influence; for practically all wars, he argues, originate from internationally economic causes. He makes a cracking good case of it.

Hull's scheme is what diplomats call "multi-lateral." And all countries can get in on it; they're urged to.

Germany's dickering are "bi-lateral." They're intended to benefit Germany and some other particular country, but to the disadvantage of other countries. They're protective partnerships; not a universal partnership.

International Exchange Germany practically HAD to go in for bartering.

In pre-war days goods weren't swapped directly for goods between nations. The deals were pulled off in terms of money. Today Germany's money, outside Germany, isn't good for much.

Let me illustrate how this works. Some years ago I landed in Boston with a small wad of South American currency and called at a money changer's to get it transferred into U. S. dough. I made a middling good bargain.

Said the money changer, "I wouldn't have cared for this stuff until just now. But today a ship arrived with a cargo of South American products, and this South American paper is required to pay for it." Well, I'd come in on that ship. Otherwise my South American bankroll would have been a drug on the market.

Germany's in that fix today. It has to barter goods for goods; not money for money.

Swapping goods for goods, direct, is unhandy, but Germany has had to resort to it. For instance, it arranges a trade with Brazil, say. There's a swap, but it's a narrow transaction; there's nothing multi-lateral about it.

It's Different Well, why isn't this on a par with our trade with Britain.

Here's why: The commodities that Brazil trades to Germany and the goods that Germany trades to Brazil get into INTERNATIONAL trade immediately and gum international commercial relationships—a disorganizing influence.

The cotton we send to Britain and the tin and rubber that Britain sends to us are "stashed" away for at least seven years. Unless there's a war (and we need our tin and rubber and John Bull needs his cotton on short notice) the stuff simply is warehoused. It isn't as if I buy a 10-cent cigar and Bill Jones buys a 10-cent pack of cigars. It's as if I traded my cigar for Bill's cigars, thus stinging two tobaccoists out of their respective profits! And then it's as if I neither smoke my cigars for seven years, nor does Bill smoke his cigar. Naturally that has no effect upon the tobacco business. It merely means that, for seven years, Bill and I have, respectively, those smokes in reserve. At the end of the seven years neither Bill's cigar nor my cigars will be good for anything.

So both will be innocuous. If we smoked 'em at once, the nicotine would be bad for us.

Wait Disney must be disappointed. Most all the universities have held their commencement exercises and not one offered an honorary degree to Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck or Ferdinand the Bull.

Japanese must be getting modest. They kept that war of theirs with the Mongolians a secret for two months.

We don't know what it is but the British foreign office must be getting awfully tired of the Russian word for "maybe."

Not So Bad Now Things are not as bad as they used to be when we had giant crackers and dynamite bombs and heavy explosives.

But even with the apparently innocuous fireworks of today there were nearly 8,000 injuries in a recent Fourth of July. These resulted in 30 deaths and 57 cases of blindness.

Even the little sparklers are not harmless. One year they caused the death of four children, all burned in fires started by the harmless toys.

Warnings of this kind are sent, not by hysterical joy-killers, but by such responsible organizations as the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, the American Museum of Safety and the National Fire Protective Association.

Bulk Are Young It is young children particularly who make up the bulk of the casualties. In 3,000 cases investigated, 817 were children between one and 10 years of age. (Note that age one. That seems pretty ghastly.

THE AMBITIOUS JUGGLER

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—The clearance of slums on Manhattan's east side is getting the acclaim of everyone except the people who live there. They themselves cheered the idea while it was still an idea. But when it came right down to moving their families and belongings from those ancient firetraps, the people balked.

They all had plenty of reasons—but when they were boiled down they amounted practically to this: why be in a hurry? Why move now? Where will we find new lodgings with patient landlords? Our children will have to be born here. And many of us were born here. We've lived here for generations. It's home. No matter where we go we shall in all likelihood have to pay more than we are paying now.

One of the districts now being razed is Corlears Hook Park. Everybody welcomed the idea until a date for abandonment was fixed. Then they began moaning. They signed petitions, made en-voies to the Mayor, but it was no soap. Those vile old rat holes will have to come down. In their place will rise new and modern apartment houses. It will mean a cleaner and more wholesome environment for children. Meanwhile, the moaning and groaning continues. So does the process of rehabilitation.

Don't try to call upon Mayor LaGuardia at his home unless you are armed with a personal invitation. You won't get in. And you'll find a cop at the door to see to it that you don't get in.

As a matter of fact, there's a cop there 24 hours a day. You may not see him at first. He may be standing around the corner, or in a nearby doorway. But, as soon as you head toward the street entrance of Hizzoner's apartment building, the bluecoat will challenge your presence.

However, should you be so fortunate as to get yourself an invitation to call at the LaGuardia domicile, we'll tell you that it's on the top floor of a 10-story apartment house at Fifth avenue and 109th street. It's just on the edge of Fifth avenue's aristocratic section. Just one block north of the Mayor's address lies one of the roughest, toughest neighborhoods in all Manhattan. For, like Park avenue, the upper section of Fifth avenue is no bargain.

Mayor LaGuardia, however, says he's lived in this same neighborhood for years, and he doesn't want to move. Of course, there were no badlands near when Mr. LaGuardia first took up a residence in the territory.

Anyway, the Mayor spends a lot of his time in various summer homes, traveling and, in general, staying away from home.

Have you ever noticed those three flanges, or ridges, along the rounded steel bumpers of every subway and elevated railroad car in New York?

Well, they're not there as mere trimmings. In case of a collision, the flanges of one car interlock with the flanges of the next and the cars can't telescope. It's a simple idea, but an effective one. It has doubtless saved many lives.

It was thought up some 30 years ago by a young car designer who is still collecting royalties from the patent.

This warning is printed in time to call especial attention to the danger of permitting fireworks to be used before the Fourth of July. This sort of bootleg celebrating is apt to be indulged by the child alone, and without the parent's consent.

Use fireworks before or after the Fourth of July. (2) If you do use fireworks, do not permit little children to handle them. There is no such thing as safe fireworks for little children. Deaths have been caused by the so-called harmless sparklers and by other apparently harmless fireworks.

The number of people who have been killed since 1900 in celebrating America's independence anniversary is greater than the number of American soldiers who laid down their lives in the War for Independence.

So very reasonable are the recommendations of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness: (1) Use no fireworks and make it impossible for your children to

HEALTH HINTS

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

Next week we celebrate a very noble experiment, a moment in the minds of our ancestors when they decided that freedom was more important than life or property under a dictatorship. It should be celebrated with a gravity and dignity that befits such resolution and courage. Instead, we have turned it into a day of senseless danger.

I am not such an old fogey but that I remember the fun I used to have on the Fourth of July, and I wouldn't deny the kids of today any of that if it didn't leave a few hundred of them blind or dead every year.

There is no such thing as "harmless fireworks," and just to arouse the protective instinct of parents, I feel that some statistics are in order.

Not So Bad Now Things are not as bad as they used to be when we had giant crackers and dynamite bombs and heavy explosives.

TUNING IN

with D. Mac Showers

PHIL BAKER will encounter all the trials and tribulations of a moving radio program and cast from a Saturday night to a Wednesday night when he broadcasts his last Saturday evening show at 7 o'clock over CBS stations.

According to Baker, he will try to resist the move as he is accustomed to staying out late Saturday nights.

HARRY VON ZELL will be the object of a farewell party as well as will be band leader Harry "Snooky" Salter who will not be with the new Wednesday show because of other Wednesday night commitments.

Salter's parting with pretty Patty Andrews of the Andrews sisters is expected to be particularly tearful to all except Bottle who has been unhappy ever since the musician's presence interfered with his courtship of Patty.

Just to keep on the sentimental side, Baker will play "Moon Love" as his accordion solo, the Andrews girls have selected "Alma Comin' Out" and Johnny Pineapple and his Islanders will play and sing "Aie Ko Ki" and "My Walkiki Mermaid."

THE ANDREWS SISTERS, singers on the Phil Baker program, can't seem to get away from comedians. When they open at the New York Paramount theater next week, the screen attraction will be Jack Benny's new picture "Man About Town."

NBC has lined up a special broadcast from Germany to be heard at 2 o'clock this afternoon over Red network stations. Native music is to be heard from the Farmer's Home village, Hellingenplut.

BILL THOMPSON, otherwise known as "The Old Timer," "Nickdepopoulos," "Horatio K. Bommer" and for his nationally known closing, "That Ain't the Way I Heard it," of the Fibber McGee program, made a hurried trip to Chicago after his Tuesday night broadcast.

Brown Given Scholarship To Northwestern

Will Continue Work In Journalism There; Graduated From Iowa

John D. Brown, a journalism graduate this spring from the University of Iowa, has been granted a three-quarters tuition scholarship in the Medill school of journalism at Northwestern university, it was announced recently by Dean Kenneth E. Olson, of the Medill school.

Brown, the son of Prof. and Mrs. Albert E. Brown of Cedar Falls, attended Iowa State Teachers college high school and Teachers college. He was an editor of College Eye and did practice copyreading and reporting on The Daily Iowan.

Brown, who last month celebrated his 20th birthday anniversary, was one of two students granted partial scholarships for next year. Only 11 out of more than 100 applicants were awarded scholarships and assistantships for 1939-40.

He will enter Northwestern this fall and begin work toward his master of science in journalism degree. His major study in college was journalism and he will continue his graduate work in that field.

During his college career he has been active in both student and professional journalism. He served on the copy desk of The Daily Iowan and during 1937 and 1938 did practice reporting on the Iowa City Press-Citizen.

Brown played varsity basketball, most intramural sports and engaged in A. A. U. swimming and boxing; was president of the senior journalism class, and was an officer in his fraternity.

The Medill school of journalism, by lengthening its plan of education for journalism recently from a four to a five-year course, has altered the trend of journalism education in American universities. Numbers of colleges and universities have changed their plans within the past year to pattern them after the Medill scheme, under which the journalism student must have a minimum of three years of general background study, primarily in the social sciences, and two years of journalism training. Heretofore the general education requirement has been only two years.

Eta Sigma Phi Initiates Nine

Graduate Students Are Named Members Of Honorary Group

Nine summer session graduate students were initiated into Eta Sigma Phi, national honorary Greek and Latin fraternity, at a meeting yesterday afternoon.

The new initiates are Carol Connelly of Moline, Ill., Anna Goldsberry of Greenfield, Ill., Eleanor P. Marlowe of Minneapolis, Minn., Eleanor E. Nelson of Clear Lake, Margaret Olmstead of Rock Island, Ill., Margaret R. Rommell of Mt. Pleasant, Olive Cynthia Sawlaw of Amboy, Ill., M. Fern Slusher of Carthage, Ill., and Marjorie E. Stivers of Washington, Ia.

The fraternity was established 15 years ago by the joining of two organizations, one at the University of Chicago and the other at Northwestern university. Prof. Roy C. Flickinger, head of the University of Iowa Classical languages department, was then an instructor at Northwestern and was largely responsible for the organization of the fraternity on a national basis.

It now has over 40 chapters in

State Historical Society Elects New Members

At the regular monthly meeting of the State Historical society of Iowa yesterday afternoon 16 persons were elected to membership in the society.

The newly elected members are Charles O. Austin Jr., Hugh E. Kelso and Mrs. Alice B. Lewis, all of Iowa City; J. H. Ghrist and George E. Virden, both of Des Moines; Mary E. Arrowsmith of Washington, Ia.; H. S. Boudinot of Davenport, Daisy Cameron of Belmond, Margaret Divilbess of Cedar Falls, Mrs. Ernest V. Evans of Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

Mrs. R. P. Ink of Mt. Vernon, W. J. Kuenman of North English, J. B. McKay of Cedar Rapids, John A. Meshinger of Dubuque, William H. Swartzendruber of Peoria, Ill., and Mrs. Irving Zeitler of Albany, N. Y.

Visitors

A Guide to Centennial Guests in I. C.

The Daily Iowan is printing during the centennial week end a list of centennial visitors who are holiday guests in Iowa City and the local residents in whose homes they are staying for your convenience in locating friends and former residents now in the city. If you or your friends or neighbors have guests, we would much appreciate your calling us. The telephone number is 4193.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Showers of Chicago, visiting in the home of Mrs. Mary E. Showers, 423 S. Dubuque street.

Harold Rigler of Chicago, visiting in the home of Mrs. Mary E. Showers, 423 S. Dubuque street.

Mrs. Roswell Rausch of Plainfield, N. J., visiting in the home of Mrs. Charles Bundy Wilson, 4 W. Park road.

Mrs. M. A. McNeal of Watson, Mo., Alice McNeal of St. Joseph, Mo., visiting in the home of Prof. and Mrs. E. P. Conkle, Coralville heights.

F. B. Cobb of Tipton visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Cobb, 343 Hutchinson avenue.

Patricia and Sprague Hall of Tipton visiting in the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Schenck, 1123 E. College street.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Seashore of Evanston, Ill., visiting in the home of Dean-Emeritus and Mrs. Carl Seashore, 815 N. Linn street.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Batman of Ames, visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Swank, 418 N. Governor street.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Pruyn of Sioux City, visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Memler, 134 Parsons avenue.

Mrs. J. W. Croneweth of Sigourney, visiting in the home of Mrs. J. R. McVicker, 1117 E. College street.

Mrs. Mary Caito of St. Louis, Mo., visiting in the home of Mrs. Henry Corso, 112 1/2 Washington street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Feay of Albany, N. Y., visiting in the home of Mrs. H. E. Feay, 422 Bowersy street.

Plan Picnic Dinner At Seashore Home

Friends and relatives of Dean-Emeritus and Mrs. Carl Seashore, 815 N. Linn street, will be guests at a "near pioneer" picnic dinner in their home July 4.

Leading colleges and universities throughout the country. This is the first year that summer students have been elected to membership, this being made possible by an amendment to the constitution of the group secured by Professor Flickinger.

Salt Problems Are Few

Dr. Paul's Residence Boasts Collection Of 1,200 Salt Cellars

Silverware may run short if many last minute guests drop in to spend the centennial week-end at the Dr. W. D. Paul residence, 511 S. Johnson street, but salt cellars will prove no problem—there are some 1200 of them in the dining room.

For some years Dr. and Mrs. Paul have collected salt cellars, some dating as far back as the turn of the 19th century while the "newer" ones are traced to the '70's and '80's. Believing a hobby to be a good thing for even a doctor in the college of medicine, Dr. Paul for the past three or four years has "collected" salt cellars with a vengeance.

His study of the subject has, in fact, virtually converted his hobby into his second profession. All the salt cellars are of American make with a multitude of shapes, sizes and colors. However, as Dr. Paul pointed out, certain characteristics are noticeable in different periods. The old specimens—those principally before the Civil war—are less highly-colored and are open at the top. The salt was simply sprinkled or the object to be salted "dunked." Later styles called for gaudy colors with closed tops, bringing into use the "shaker." Salt cellars of the 19th century were predominately rectangular or round in shape with occasional star-shaped models in evidence. Some of the salt cellars are exhibited in the Hauser Jewelry store window and are quite valuable, according to Dr. Paul, who declared one set to be worth $30 each.

To the question "how much has this hobby cost you?" Dr. Paul replied, "My wife and I have kept a notation on expenditures, but why spoil our fun by checking up on it?" "Price means nothing to an interested collector," he went on. "If you want a certain salt cellar you are very apt to buy it and overlook the expense within reason, of course."

This, after all, is the philosophy of a true hobbyist.

Like Grandma Used To Do

The good old-fashioned way was the manner in which Mrs. Herbert Reichardt and Mrs. Ray Slavata entertained 60 guests at a luncheon and bridge party yesterday noon in the pine room of Reich's cafe. Gaily colored table cloths, spoon holders, toothpick jars, pickle dishes, old-fashioned butter dishes and old-fashioned flowers were used to create an illusion of the past. Guests came in appropriate costumes. Mrs. J. H. Donohue was awarded a prize for having the most complete and appropriate costume. Bridge prizes went to Mrs. Fred Racine, Mrs. Dick Anderson, Mrs. Helen Graf, Mrs. John Goltman, Mrs. James Parden and Mrs. Robert Lorentz. Four of the guests are pictured above at one of the luncheon tables.

All Dressed Up—

in bustles, hoops and high collars were these members of the university business office staff when they attended a staff luncheon yesterday in the Spanish room of the D and L grill. Sunbonnets, straw hats and derbies were the accepted millinery as the belles and beaux of today blossomed out in the garments of yesteryear. The affair was only one of numerous centennial parties being given by various groups and hostesses in Iowa City as part of the pre-centennial celebration.

Award Prizes For Costumes

Centennial Theme Used at Meeting Of Altrusa Club

Prizes for the best centennial costumes worn by the members of the Altrusa club at their meeting Wednesday evening at Iowa Union were won by Luta Dove in the 1860-1870 division; by Mrs. Mabel Evans in the newly made old-fashioned division; by Luella Reckmeyer in the 1870-1900 division, and by Regina Schneider in the 1900-1910 division. Old-fashioned bouquets in 150 year old vases and blue and white tapers in antique candelabra centered the tables. Keepsakes belonging to members, which were displayed after dinner was served, included needle-

Supervisors Announce Relief Allowances For Johnson County

That the maximum average family allowance per case for general relief in Johnson county be established at $25 per month is the recommendation of members of the Johnson county board of supervisors.

Allowance in the county during the last year has run about the same per case for general relief, members of the board said.

Patricia Hall and Sprague Hall of Tipton will be guests in the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Schenck, 1123 E. College street, over the Fourth. The Halls are former Iowa City residents.

Mrs. Stewart Jackson is visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Brown, 404 S.

J. Northbrooke, Matthew Hulot Disapproved Of Celebrations Such as Iowa City's Centennial

It is fortunate for the centennial conscious people of Iowa City that a certain John Northbrooke and a Matthew Hulot are not on the city council. For if they were, an ordinance would more than likely be passed forbidding street dances, fine costumes, pageants, fireworks or celebrating of any kind.

The title of John Northbrooke's book, written in 1877 and reprinted in 1843 shows what would happen if any of the wards cared to elect him. "A Treatise Against Dicing, Dancing, Plays and Interludes—With Other Idle Pastimes" it's called. The tone of the book is further explained on the title-page.

It reads, "We are not to this end borne that we should seem to be created for play and pastime; but we are rather borne to sagessness, and to certain graver and greater studies." (The spelling is that of the 16th century and not that of our linytype operator.) And the only reason for festivals, it seems, is an "yde loytering life."

He admits, however, that humans in general are prone to such displays of high spirits but sees right conduct triumphing in the end, for "although in the first it seeme not toothsome, yet I dare avouch it is homesome."

Matthew Hulot, born two centuries later and a citizen of France, would be even more shocked at the festive spirit in this university town. His main concern would be the dances which the centennial committee has arranged. "There are some dances," he says, "which should be absolutely forbidden, and in which one cannot take a part, not even for a single occasion, without flirting with danger, such as the waltz, the polka, and the schottesche."

He goes on to explain that respectable people go to dress and masquerade balls, but that these are just as bad as those held in liquor shops and saloons by the lower classes of society. To and his argument he quotes Cicero's "No one dances while sober."

Although the author never says a jittersbug, he must have had some premonition of what was going to happen 90 years later. He states the question a good many other people have asked. "What, in fact, can be more laughable than to see dancers advance, fall back, bend the body, jerk it up again, and whirl around like birds struck on the head?"

We think Mr. Hulot has something there.

But we can't agree with his statement that "Parents ought to stop their children from going to dances." For the past week in Iowa City the kids wish it could be the other way around. The younger generation hasn't had a chance because the parents have taken over everything, even the dancing! In fact, the children would probably say with John Northbrooke's old book that the grown-ups "come to see, and eke for to be seen."

Local People Entertain Guests

Mrs. Rausch, Four Daughters Visit In Wilson Home

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. W. Clearman, 1029 E. Bowersy street, left yesterday for Rochester, N. Y., where they will visit their son, Eugene Clearman and his family.

Mrs. Roswell Rausch and daughters, Barbara, Nancy, Elizabeth and Virginia, of Plainfield, N. J., arrived in Iowa City yesterday to visit over the week end in the home of Mrs. Rausch's aunt, Mrs. Charles Bundy Wilson, 4 W. Park road. Mrs. Rausch and her daughters are enroute to spend the summer at a dude ranch in Wyoming.

Mrs. V. W. Bales, 603 Brown street, attended a founder's day banquet of the T.T.T. club in Newton yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Harris, Melrose court, are visiting Mrs. Harris' family in Ohio. They will be gone about two weeks.

Mrs. M. A. McNeal of Watson, Mo., and Alice McNeal of St. Joseph, Mo., are visiting in the home of Prof. and Mrs. E. P. Conkle in Coralville Heights. Miss McNeal and Mrs. Conkle are Mrs. McNeal's daughters.

F. B. Cobb of Tipton will arrive tomorrow to visit in the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Cobb, 343 Hutchinson avenue.

- Ifs, Ifs, Ifs
- So What?
- In The Future

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—The late Louis-Galento affair still is bubbling for the weather as the leading topic of conversation of those who were present, most of the remarks being sprinkled with "ifs" and tinged with the hope that something might be brought out to prove that Louis is human after all.

It is the old story of an inborn resentment against perfection, the satisfaction that might be obtained from the discovery that the model citizen sometimes uses 1890 model bar room language when things go wrong.

Most of the "ifs" are downright silly. In fact, the only really logical question is: How does Louis take a punch? The answer is: One drop, if it's stout enough. He just isn't constituted to take punishment, which is no reflection on his courage. In short, his jaw is a little on the glassy side.

Other questions brought up carry obvious answers, for instance: Would Galento have knocked him out if Tony's arms were longer? Sure, and if he was six inches taller, could move around faster, and carried a blackjack.

If Galento had followed up when he had Louis on the floor would he have won? He followed up to the best of his ability, and he didn't win.

If Tony had stayed in his crouch instead of emerging to throw punches would he have lasted longer? Possibly, but he wouldn't have had Joe on the floor, either. A turtle can't bite if it keeps its biter under the shell.

So What? Although it becomes increasingly obvious that Louis becomes befuddled and frightened when he is hurt, it also is true that an engineer on a train probably couldn't take much, but oh boy, what his engine can do when it hits a truck.

With the exception of the first Schmeling fight, Louis has handed out more than he has received. Seven men, some of them brave, some so scared their legs tried to go in all directions at once, have taken a shot at the Bomber since he won the title.

And the champion who can't take a punch took them all. They all had the same chance to prove that Louis isn't a great fighter. All they showed is that he is a great puncher. Their eyes shined, and also their noses, and mouths, and chins.

In the Future Unless Joe retires, some young squirt is coming along and knock him colder than a frosted pump handle. But it will have to be someone who can do most of the damage with one punch. Otherwise, before he can get in another, those tan whips Louis calls arms will lash out and take all the victory notions out of his opponent's head.

Maybe he can't take a punch, but why doesn't someone beat him? After all, they pay off on the winner, so maybe he should be given a little credit after all. Galento can take a punch better, but he isn't champion. The title rests with the man who gives until it hurts.

LeVora's Beat
Morse, 8 to 4

LeVora's came from behind to snatch a victory away from a hard fighting Morse team 8 to 4, at the City park last night, after trailing the cellar holders for three innings.

Morse took an early lead with a three run spurge in the first. "Curly" Stahle walked to start the uprising, and moved to second when Joe Kasper walked. Bob Stahle drove a hard single to right, and when the ball went through the right fielder, went all the way home. Morse's only other counter was chalked up in the fourth when Earl Donohue walked, scoring later on an infield hit by Wall.

LeVora's scored one in the first on consecutive hits by Tom Kastner and George Floerschinger. They added three in the fourth on Tom Kastner's second hit, and two errors. Tony Ausich and Lloyd Ross supplied the hits for their last inning spurge.

Soldiers Tie Swaner's For Softball Lead

Co. G climbed into a first place tie with Swaner's dairymen in the City softball league last night by defeating Kelley's 4-3, in a game played under protest. It was the third time this season that the soldiers have beaten Dean Shannon.

Kelley's jumped to an early lead in their half of the first when Bob Bradley and Bill Dohrer hit safely and scored on a Co. G error. The Cleaners scored their only other run in the second on a single by "Chip" Fay, which went for a homer when the right fielder misjudged the ball.

Vic Belger drove in the first Co. G run in the first on a long single to right center. McLaughlin walked to start the fifth, and was driven home on a long hit by Bob White. White scored as Coen fled to left.

Co. G iced the game with the protested run in the sixth. Maher singled to left and reached third on two passed balls. Hora was thrown out by Dvorsky, Maher holding third. Heacock was thrown out by Dean Shannon, and when first baseman Bob Bradley tried for Maher at the plate, he hit the runner with his arm and the run scored.

Connie Mack's Condition Improved; Will Rejoin Athletics in Washington

BOSTON, June 30 (AP)—The condition of Connie Mack, venerable manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, was described as "greatly improved" today by his son Earl, who serves as his assistant. The elder Mack was ordered to take to his hotel bed yesterday by Dr. Eddie O'Brien, the Red Sox team physician, who said he was suffering from an upset stomach.

"Dad is now feeling so well that he is taking light nourishment," Earl said. "He expects to get out of bed tomorrow and rejoin the team in Washington on Sunday."

The Athletics, unable to complete their two game series with the Red Sox because of rain, were scheduled to rejoin Washington tonight. Earl said he would direct the club until his father returned to the bench.

DiMaggio Clouts Three Hits In Yanks' 10-2 Win

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—Joe Di Maggio's terrific clouting and the four hit pitching of Oral Hildebrand gave the New York Yankees a 10 to 2 victory over the Washington Senators today in a game which was interrupted for nearly an hour by rain and finally was called because of darkness after three plays in the eighth inning.

The score reverted to the seventh. Di Maggio batted in four runs with two doubles and a single in four times at bat. His first two-bagger scored Frank Crosetti, who had singled in the first. In the five-run third inning he singled after Red Rolfe and Tommy Henrich had walked, scoring Rolfe. After Bill Dickey was passed to fill the bases George Selkirk singled in two runs and Joe Gordon doubled the other pair home.

Again in the fourth Di Maggio doubled after Rolfe had doubled and Henrich walked. Both runners scored but Di Maggio was out trying to stretch his hit to a triple. Alex Carrasquel started for the Senators, but was removed for a pinch hitter in the third and Joe Kraskauskas finished.

Washington's runs were both scored in the fifth when the Senators got half their hits off Hildebrand. Bob Estelle and Kraskauskas waited out walks, Sam West singled for one run and Bob Prichard doubled for the other.

Handley Feted

PEORIA, Ill., June 30 (AP)—Lee (Jeep) Handley, the peppery boss of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was given three traveling bags today by admiring neighbors of Peoria as his teammates nosed out the local Three-Eye league team, 6-4. Chuck Klein and Rookie Catcher George Susce hit homers for the Bucs while Arky Vaughan got three singles and participated in three of the major leaguers' four double plays.

Former Champ 'Doing Well'

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—Though still weak and sick from an emergency appendectomy performed last night, former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey appeared well started on the road to recovery tonight.

The old mauler, who was stricken with what he termed a "regular Dempsey family stomach-ache" while playing cards with friends, was able to summon a smile and shake hands with his secretary, Ned Brown, when the latter visited him at Polyclinic hospital this afternoon.

Soon after Dempsey's pretty wife, the former Hannah Williams, left Jack's bedside for the first time since the operation and went home to tend to their two little daughters. She appeared to be in good spirits and convinced that her husband was in no immediate danger. She did not have a room at the hospital.

A bulletin issued late in the afternoon said: "Mr. Dempsey is quite comfortable. His temperature is 101.2 degrees; his pulse, 82, and his respiration, 24."

A report from Jack's room said he slept most of the afternoon and seemed slightly improved.

Mrs. Dempsey returned to her husband's room at 6:30 p.m. (CST), at that time, his condition was unchanged.

Scores of Dempsey's friends throughout the country called the hospital during the afternoon to inquire of his progress. Brown assured each of them that Jack was "doing as well as could be expected" and told them not to worry.

Dr. Robert Emery Brennan, chief of the Polyclinic surgical staff, who performed the operation, had not yet pronounced Dempsey out of danger and was not expected to do so for another 72 hours. He revealed that the appendix had been removed before bursting and that drains were taking care of the infection that was found. The operation, performed under a local anesthetic, required 35 minutes.

Berg Drops Mrs. Pepper

MINNEAPOLIS, June 30 (AP)—Patty Berg of Minneapolis today served notice that any young lady aspiring to her women's trans-Mississippi golf championship is going to have to shoot better than par figures to take it away from her.

Also women's national champion, Miss Berg has negotiated 53 holes in the tournament here so far and for that distance is three strokes under par. Her latest conquest was a 6 and 5 decision over Mrs. P. L. Pepper, Dodson, Mo., in one of today's quarter-finals matches.

Other matches today provided plenty of tough competition, with Miss Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., 1935 and 1936 titleholder in the event, defeating a former champion, Miss Phyllis Buchanan of Denver, 3 and 2, and thereby qualifying as Miss Berg's semifinals opponent over the 18-hole route on Saturday.

Helen Hofmann Bertagnole of Salt Lake City and Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, both won 2 and 1, in lower bracket matches over their respective opponents, Mrs. Hayes Dansingburg of St. Paul, and Mrs. Russell Mann of Milwaukee, and meet in the other semi-final duel Saturday.

PHILADELPHIA, June 30 (AP)—The baseball career of Leslie Powers, 27, rookie first sacker of the Phillies, has been halted, at least temporarily, by a spinal ailment.

National Leaguers To Stress Defense in All-Star Classic

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—The National league team will play National league ball in its game against the American league all-stars July 11 at Yankee stadium, defensive strength rather than batting power is stressed in the 25-man squad picked by the club managers and announced today.

Punch at the plate is by no means lacking, but it obviously was given second consideration by the pilots, who undoubtedly were influenced by the tight brand of ball which won for the Nationals last year. Seven Reds

Every team is represented on the squad, although the Phils, Bees and Pirates just managed to edge in with one man each. The league-leading Cincinnati Reds are represented by seven players, the Cardinals by five, the Dodgers four, and the Cubs and Giants three each.

The squad: Pitchers: Paul Derringer, Cincinnati; Curt Davis, St. Louis; Lou Fette, Boston; Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati; Lon Warneke, St. Louis; Bucky Walters, Cincinnati; Whitlow Wyatt, Brooklyn; Bill Lee, Chicago.

Infielders: Stan Hack, Chicago; Frank McCormick, Cincinnati; Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh; Linus Fry, Cincinnati; Johnny Mize, St. Louis; Bill Herman, Chicago; Dolph Camilli, Brooklyn; Bill Jurgens, New York; Harry Lavagetto, Brooklyn.

Outfielders: Morrie Arnovich, Philadelphia; Joe Medwick, St. Louis; Ival Goodman, Cincinnati; Mel Ott, New York; Terry Moore, St. Louis.

Catchers: Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati; Babe Phelps, Brooklyn; Harry Danning, New York.

Gabby Hartnett, skipper of the champion Cubs, will manage the all-stars and scatter the men to the various positions as he sees fit. His assistant, appointed by himself, are Charlie Root, batting practice pitcher; Bill Terry, Giants, and Red Corriden, Cubs, coaches, and Andy Lotshaw, Cubs, trainer.

Six players—Derringer, Lombardi, Hack, McCormick, Arnovich and Medwick—were unanimous choices. Hartnett has been a member of the all-star squad since the games were started seven years ago, being on the player roster the first six years. Vaughan, Herman, Medwick and Ott have been on the squad every year since 1934, and Fette, Wyatt, Frey, Camilli, Arnovich and Moore are making their debut in the select group.

For the first time the name of Carl Hubbell, old "crooked arm," is missing. The old mauler has not been himself since undergoing an arm operation last winter.

Two stars of the 1938 game also are absent. Leo Durocher, Brooklyn manager, played an outstanding game at shortstop, and Mace Brown of Pittsburgh provided the mound thrill by fanning Rudy York with the bases loaded.

Move Antique Office To Pageant Building

The centennial association relic and antique headquarters yesterday was moved from 115 E. College street to the pageant headquarters on S. Clinton street where it will remain until the close of the centennial. The telephone number, 6202, remains unchanged.

The firing of fireworks at City park Monday night, arrived in Iowa City last night, Prof. C. C. Wylie, chairman of the fireworks program reported.

The ton of fireworks purchased for the spectacle arrived here yesterday and was placed in the barn at the park.

Professor Wylie said that the display Monday would be the largest ever witnessed in Iowa City.

The fireworks were purchased from the Phearis Duffield company, Chicago, which supplied the display for the Chicago World's fair and for many years has supplied the Iowa state fair.

'Here You Are, and Thank You'

Dr. J. A. Swisher, research associate of the state historical society and author of the centennial souvenir program, hands the first purchaser, the Rev. Elmer E. Dierks, pastor of the Baptist church and chairman of the committee on church participation, his copy of the program. The program went on sale yesterday at the centennial headquarters, Old Stone Capitol is pictured on the cover of the 36 page booklet. The covers are available in four colors—green, white, buff and grey. Included in its pages are a list of the committees, a program of events, a historical summary and a current map and an old map of Iowa City.

Pre-Centennial Street Dance To Be Tonight

Clinton Street Event To Be Sponsored By I. C. Junior Chamber

Members of the junior chamber of commerce will sponsor a street dance at 9 o'clock tonight—the last of many pre-centennial celebrations, which will be held on Clinton street instead of on Washington street as previously announced.

The dance will be held on Clinton street between Jefferson and Washington streets with Dusty Keaton and his orchestra playing.

Motorists are asked by Chief of Police Frank Burns not to park on the street where the dance is to be held. The street will be blocked from 3 o'clock this afternoon through the evening.

Old time dances, square dances and modern music will be featured at the event.

office of the women's gymnasium before Thursday.
LUCILLE KERBER

All-University Play Night
The second play night will be held on the women's field Saturday, July 1st, instead of at the fieldhouse as stated on the posters. The usual program of recreational sports will be conducted out of doors. This will be followed by square dancing, social dancing, and table games in the women's gymnasium.
FLORENCE OWENS

Tribute to Professor Potter

Students Expecting To Graduate In August
Every student who expects to receive a degree or a certificate at the university convocation to be Friday, Aug. 4, should make his formal application on a card provided for the purpose at the registrar's office on or before Monday, July 10.

It is of the utmost importance that each student concerned comply with this request immediately, for otherwise it is very likely that a student who may be in other respects qualified will not be recommended for graduation at the close of the present semester.

Making application for the degree or certificate involves the payment of the graduation fee of

Whisker Club Will Present Beard Prizes

Awards To Be Made Monday Afternoon By Centennial Group

Five prizes of $5 each for the best beard grown for the city's 100th birthday observance will be awarded at 4:30 p.m. Monday by the Iowa City Centennial Whisker club, it was decided at a meeting of the group last night in the city council chambers of the city hall.

To qualify for the contest an entrant must be a member of the whisker club, be wearing a centennial pin and be attired in centennial garb.

The decisions of seven judges as to who in their estimations has the best beard will be final. The judges are Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, Carl Cone, Art Anderson, Tom Murray, Ed Rohrer, Darby Smith and Art Winters.

The event is to be held at the reviewing stand across from the centennial headquarters log cabin.

The whisker club committee is composed of Paul Schmidt, chairman; Cyril Katzenmeyer, Roy Butterbaugh, Bud Emmons, Harold Dunkelbarger, Ed Wilkinson, Bernard Wilkinson, Harold Donnelly and W. H. Bender.

47 June Marriage Licenses Issued By County Clerk

The 47 marriage licenses issued last month, the "month of brides," was one less than for the same period a year ago, R. Neilson Miller, county clerk of court, said yesterday.

Rodger B. Trent, 25, Cordova, Ill., and Phoebe Eunice Williams, 18, Erie, Ill., were given the only license to wed yesterday and the last to be issued for the month.

$16. Call at the registrar's office for the card.

'Why Don't You Get A Horse?'

That's how bystanders would have greeted Mr. and Mrs. Roland Smith if they had appeared in this 1906 Cadillac "horseless carriage" several decades ago. Today, however, the car and its occupants bring not gasps of amazement but of amusement. The auto which is the property of Alfred Hoffner, uncle of Eddy Hoffner, 414 Garden street, is a one cylinder model with a maximum 25 mile per hour speed limit. To start it, the luckless driver must use the crank which fits into the side of the body. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are costumed in appropriate centennial clothing.

Service For Morgan To Be This Afternoon

Funeral Rites Set For 2 o'clock At Beckman Mortuary

Funeral service for Owen R. Morgan, 38, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Beckman's with the Rev. Robert M. Arthur, pastor of the Coralville church, officiating. Burial will be at Glenwood.

Mr. Owen met instant death Thursday morning when he fell 35 feet from a scaffold while painting at Eastlawn, girls' dormitory.

The body will be taken to Glenwood where funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Christian church with the Rev. Ira Carney in charge.

Morgan had been a painter for the grounds and buildings department of the university for 15 years. He was a resident of Iowa City and for the last seven years had lived in Coralville. He is survived by his widow,

Masonic Service Club Entertained Yesterday By Clarinet Quartet

A clarinet quartet from Iowa City high school, Marjorie Sidwell, Mildred Burger, Bill Gower and Don Reha, and a harpist, Anne Mercer, presented a program before members of the Masonic Service club at a meeting yesterday noon in the Masonic temple.

Guest at the meeting was Edwin Gunberg, Minneapolis, Minn., with Jerome van de Erve.

C. R. Clark Reports Ford Sedan Stolen

A grey Ford sedan, 1938 model, belonging to C. R. Clark, 611 S. Clinton street, was reported stolen from its parking place near the Rock Island depot early yesterday morning. Clark told the police the license number was 77-37757.

Mrs. Pauline Morgan; three sons, Owen Jr., 16, Allen, 10, and Carter, 7; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Morgan, Glenwood, and two sisters, Mrs. R. B. Talbot, Council Bluffs, and Mrs. George Webb, Glenwood.

Thousands See Pre-Centennial Street Parade

Thousands of Iowa Citizens turned out last night to view the grand costume parade led by the band wagon through the downtown streets. The parade, with the possible exception of the street dance last Saturday evening, drew one of the largest pre-centennial activities crowds.

The parade, which started at the centennial log cabin headquarters, featured costumes, either genuine 1839 models or authentic copies, wagons, rariages, buggies and other vehicles of a hundred years ago.

An exhibition was given early in the evening by Professor Weinschlitz and his cornet band.
