Nazis Disprove World's Fears Of New Conflict

Hitler Returns To Entertain Balkan Guest

Officials, Press Make Sport of Predictions Of Week End Putsch

BERLIN, July (AP)—Nazidom went out of its way tonight to reassure the world that Chancellor Hitler had no intention of forcing the issue with Poland as the fuhrer suddenly returned to the capital to cultivate Germany's influence in the Balkans.

Officials and the press made sport over those who predicted a nazi putsch in Danzig yesterday. Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop prepared to welcome Prime Minister George Kiosseivanoff of Bulgaria that assures that they are in full sympathy with Bulgaria's desires for revision of the treaty of Neuilly.

Under the treaty, signed in November, 1919, Bulgaria ceded small portions of territory on her western frontier to Yugoslavia, and gave up larger sections to Rumania and Greece.

Hitler's unexpected return—the first since he went to his Berchtesgaden summer home June 7—indicated the importance which reich leaders attached to receiving the Bulgarian premier.

One nazi said the visit was "an indication that more and more it is being recognized that political hopes—not to mention economic ones—can only be realized through collaboration with Germany."

At the same time an authorized spokesman, in one of the clearest utterances any official has given since recent tension over Danzig, said "Germany has no intention of forcing the issue. We have no desire to go against the territorial integrity of Poland. If we had wanted to let the matter come to military action we could have done so any day."

Prime Minister Erred

The spokesman took exception to Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement in the house of commons today that Germans were entering Danzig. He said the prime minister erred in "several statements."

"There are no German soldiers going into Danzig with tourist skirts on," he said.

Asked whether Danzigers were being trained by German officers, this official replied: "I have not heard about that."

Hitler's reichstag speech April 28, denouncing the German-Polish non-aggression treaty and saying he would not repeat his proposal to Poland for settlement of Danzig and the corridor question, was "falsely interpreted abroad," the spokesman said.

Refers to Corridor He referred to the German suggestion that Danzig come fully under the reich's wing with port rights for Poland and that an extra-territorial strip of land across the corridor be given to Germany so that East Prussia would be linked with Germany proper.

"The fuhrer did not mean that his price the next time would be much higher," the spokesman said. "He meant that Poland had rejected the offer and called for help from England and that he would not again make a proposal of any sort. Any new proposals must come from Poland."

The Bulgarian premier, due Wednesday for a three-day stay, will be feted as an important state visitor and will be housed in Bellevue castle, the new nazi guest house.

Hitler will give a state banquet Wednesday night.

Sign Extradition Waivers; Officials Accompany Couple

BROCKVILLE, Ont., July 3 (AP)—Dr. James Monroe Smith, former president of Louisiana State university, and his wife today signed extradition waivers and immediately left Brockville for the United States to face embezzlement charges at Baton Rouge.

Dr. and Mrs. Smith departed at 4:52 p.m. CST, accompanied by two Louisiana officials, special investigator Bryan Clemmons and Murphy Roden, assistant superintendent of state police, who came to Canada by plane to get them. Their immediate destination was not disclosed, but it was believed they were headed for Watertown, N. Y., about 10 miles away.

Almost at the same time, the Louisiana State university plane took off from Ottawa for an undisclosed destination with only Pilot J. P. Frame aboard.

The sudden departure of Dr. and Mrs. Smith, carried out with all possible secrecy, followed a deadlock of more than two hours in which Dr. Smith refused to sign an extradition waiver unless he was assured he would not be separated from his wife for the return journey.

The Louisiana officials wanted to take Smith back in the four-seater plane and send Mrs. Smith by train.

Japanese Cut British-French Milk Supplies

SHANGHAI, July 4 (Tuesday) (AP)—Japanese blockading the British and French concessions at Tientsin were reported today to have cut off, in effect, virtually all milk supplies for the French areas in which more than 189,000 persons reside.

Tientsin's Russian drymen refused to bring in any milk, save that for the British military hospital. They reported Japanese guards detained some of them at the blockade barriers yesterday for as long as five hours.

In that time the milk spoiled and the Japanese, according to dispatches from Tientsin, dumped it as worthless.

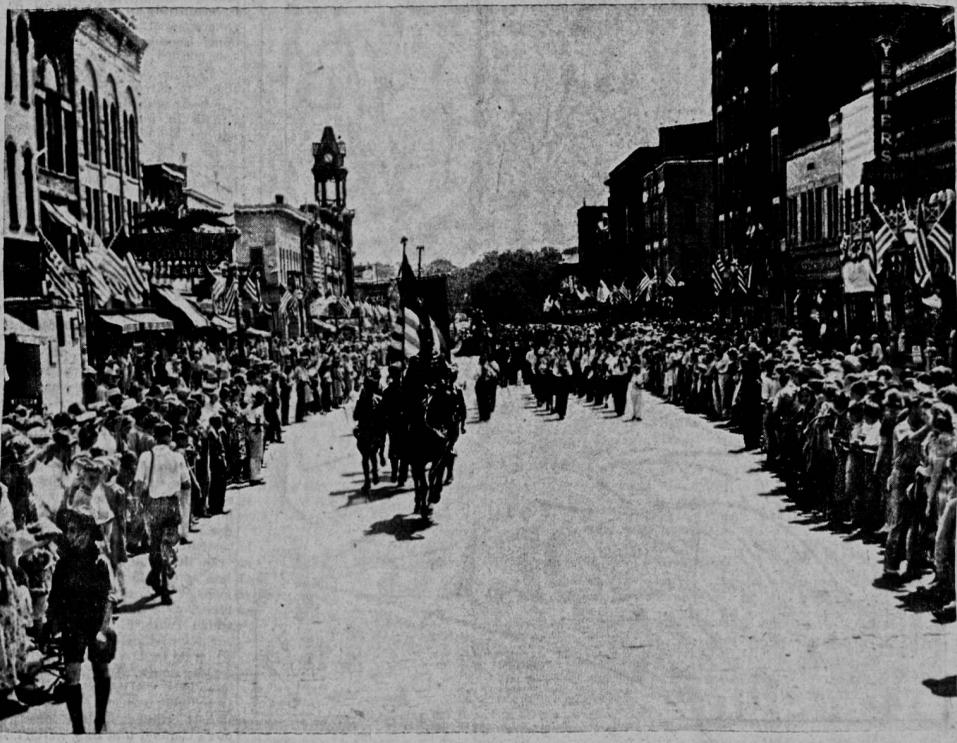

The supply of milk had been curtailed, along with other foods, in the blockade which started June 14, but this was the first time that it had reached such a low level.

FIRECRACKERS! China Supplies U. S., Despite War

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Though harried by war, China has managed to continue supplying American youth with fire-crackers for the Fourth of July.

A commerce department report showed today that $532,000 worth of small firecrackers were imported from China in 1938, as compared to $598,000 in 1937.

Thousands Watch Historic Centennial Parade

It was a great day for Iowa City, as the 100th birthday celebration of this community swung into its second day with a 2 1-2 mile parade through the downtown business district. From 15,000 to 20,000 people lined the streets to watch. This crowded view of Washington street caught the panorama at its very beginning, with thousands lining flag-bedecked streets to watch the old and new of the past 100 years pass in review. And pass it did—from old stagecoaches, ox-drawn covered wagons and the pony express to the latest mechanisms for farm and home! Iowa City merchants were well represented, presenting their early wares, contrasted with the 1939 styles. City officials, representatives of local lodges and other organizations, bands and floats paraded. And last night, the historical scene shifted to Old Capitol campus, where, in the shadow of one of the most famous buildings in Iowa, the story of Johnson county and Iowa City was depicted in graphic scenes—from 1839 to 1939—100 years of progress.

A Centennial of History Marches Past Iowa City Residents in 2 1-2 Mile Parade

Judges Balk At Selecting 'Best' Entries

Estimated Crowds Of 15,000-20,000 See Morning Affair

Iowa City's century of growth and progress were contrastingly presented yesterday morning in the two and one-half mile long centennial parade which wound around the business district of the city before an estimated crowd of between 15,000 and 20,000 spectators.

A committee of out-of-town judges selected to award prizes to the best participants of the procession announced that because of the "large number and high quality" of the entries it was impossible to choose winners without including all.

The high stepping Iowa City high school band, national music contest winner, headed the parade, noteworthy for its "comparison" exhibits, presenting the old and the modern in dress, agriculture and transportation.

Martin Birrer, 96, oldest resident of Johnson county, and Mrs. H. E. Stevens, daughter of Philip Clark, the first white settler in the county, were among those who appeared early in the parade.

Creaking buggies and old coaches, followed by their modern successors, the automobile, brought to the immediate experience of the spectators things usually confined to the dusty volumes of history books.

Fifteen Indians from the reservation from Tama aroused much interest and comment as they passed in their colorful regalia.

Group demonstrations made up an impressive part of the parade. Represented were United States postal employees, showing in the library of his home.

President Eyes Foreign Crises, Neutrality Law

HYDE PARK, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—The quickening pace of developments abroad held President Roosevelt's attention tonight while he considered what strategy the administration might employ to drive through congress the kind of neutrality legislation it wants.

Mr. Roosevelt scanned a few official documents from Washington today and spent considerable time with his stamp collection in the library of his home.

Giles Finishes Record Swim

GLENDIVE, Mont., July 3 (AP)—Husky Clarence Giles completed his 228-mile world record-breaking swim down the Yellowstone river from Billings to Glendive at 6 p.m. (8 p.m. EST) today. He had been in the water 77 1/2 hours.

An eastern Montana crowd of 4,000 roared an ovation to the swimmer as he stumbled out of the water, assisted by Frank Hyde, Glendive newspaperman and his manager.

Mrs. Roosevelt Silent During Anti-Red Battle

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt appeared at the American youth congress today in the midst of a battle over communism which caused representatives of 23 anti-red organizations to withdraw from the meeting.

Scheduled to address the congress tonight, Mrs. Roosevelt said she was attending today only as an observer, and she made no comment on the heated dispute that split the organization.

Guffey Asks Another Term For Roosevelt

Democratic Senator Says New Deal Foes Are 'Tories, Ingrates'

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Senator Guffey (D-Pa.), classifying anti-administration elements as "tories and political ingrates," called tonight for reelection of President Roosevelt in 1940 with "no ifs, ands or buts, no alibis and no double-crossing."

In a speech prepared for the radio, Guffey presented himself as a "practical politician" who expected to seek reelection to the senate next year on his record as "100 per cent pro-Roosevelt new deal democrat."

He said he favored a third term for these reasons: "Because I am a democrat. "Because I am a practical politician. "Because I am a liberal, and "Because I am an American."

"As a matter of cold political fact," Guffey told his audience, "if Franklin Delano Roosevelt is elected to the presidency again it will be his first real term of office. When you elected Roosevelt in 1932, his first term was canceled, vetoed by the supreme court. "When you reelected Roosevelt in 1936, his second term was stolen by tories and political ingrates. "If the tory politicians and the big business magnates succeed in bamboozling the American people for a third time, in 1940, then there's going to be an upheaval which will sweep away all politicians and all big business."

See Neutrality As Key to End Of Congress

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Informed legislators were predicting today that Wednesday's meeting of the senate foreign relations committee and whatever decision it takes on neutrality legislation would hold the key to the remainder of the session and the date of adjournment.

From week to week, the committee has met each Wednesday to study neutrality. Each session has brought only a postponement until the Wednesday following. In recent weeks, the explanation has been that the committee wanted to wait and see what sort of a bill the house would pass before acting itself.

Now, the house has acted, and the bill approved is unsatisfactory, not only to the administration, but, it turned out today, to the "mandatory neutrality" bloc in the senate. The latter, it was plain, much preferred the existing neutrality law.

The measure enacted by the house would embargo shipments of guns and ammunition to belligerents. Present law embargoes a longer list of items useful in waging a war.

Poland Preparing

WARSAW, (AP)—Well-informed Polish sources yesterday reported Poland "is preparing to meet any situation in Danzig and any action violating the present status of Danzig will be met by counter-action."

Seek Answer Of Ways To Resist Nazis

Officials Consider Military Maneuvers Within Free City

LONDON, July 3 (AP)—Great Britain, France and Poland kept the wires busy today seeking to determine at just what point and exactly how to resist nazi activity in Danzig.

As the problem was being debated Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons he had "reliable reports" which "indicate that intensive measures of a military character are being carried out in the free city."

"A large and increasing number of German nationals," he said, "have recently arrived in the free city, ostensibly as 'tourists', and a local defense corps is being formed under the name of 'heimwehr'."

Maintains Contact

"The government is maintaining contact with the Polish and French governments regarding de-escalation in Danzig."

(Danzig nazis admitted organization of a "heimwehr" composed of men volunteering for emergency service. The men of this new service were veterans of service in Germany in either the black-uniformed S. S. or the military, officials said but asserted they were all Danzig citizens. It was said about 400 had been recalled from Germany in the past few weeks.)

Britain, France and Poland already have agreed they would resist any change in the status of Danzig either from within or without, informed quarters said, and the question now has become one of determining when and how resistance would be applied.

Significant Statement

Chamberlain's statement was regarded as significant in view of the fact that article five of the Danzig constitution specifically prohibits any militarization of the free city without the consent of the league of nations, under whose protection Danzig exists as a free city, and considering that Britain and France, with Poland, are members of a league committee of three on Danzig.

Chamberlain refused to answer a question in the house as to whether the "measures" in Danzig were illegal, and this too was regarded as significant. Diplomatic quarters said that one of the questions under consideration by Britain, Poland and France was use of league machinery to halt nazi activity in the free city.

Danzig Nazis Deny Democratic Charge

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, July 3 (AP)—Danzig nazis, vigorously protesting that "the western democracies are trying to make an artificial crisis," tonight challenged "British propagandists" to prove that a German putsch had been planned for last week end.

"Where is this sudden German or nazi surprise action about which the world was being warned by London?" a high official of the Danzig senate asked. "We are making modest preparations against a possible surprise from the Polish border," he continued, "but the most casual observation in this quiet city will show that the Germans of Danzig are manifesting the utmost patience."

There's A Difference

CHICAGO (AP)—Police suspect the dynamite, 450 pounds of it stolen yesterday from a powder magazine, won't be used for a monster Fourth of July celebration. They think it was stolen for safe crackers, not firecrackers.

Centennial Ball in Iowa Union Closes Three-Day Celebration Tonight

Patrons of the Iowa City centennial celebration will close the three-day observance of the city's 100th birthday this evening when Orville Barron and his Missourians play for the centennial ball in the main lounge of Iowa Union at 9:30. The dance will continue until 1 a.m.

The intermission floor-show will carry out the theme of the occasion as will the floral decorations and the velvet backdrop in the lounge. Guests will appear wearing costumes either patterned after costumes Iowa City wore 100 years ago, or authentic period costumes.

Dancers will be comfortable despite heavy costumes, because of the new installation of air-conditioning in Iowa Union. Guests not caring to dance will find seating accommodations.

Hosts and hostesses for the affair will include Dean-Emeritus and Mrs. Carl E. Seashore, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Stewart, Ada and Delia Hutchinson, Mrs. A. H. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Cox and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Dey.

Men and women from the university physical education department and pupils from the Jean Irwin dance studio will present the intermission program at 11 o'clock. Under the direction of Prof. Ellen Mosbeck the following university students will present folk and country dances: Ruth Buchanan, Springfield, Mo.; Maxine Williams, Iowa City; Helen Gilbert, Clinton, Mo.; Judy Grown, Watertown, S. D.; Byron Crowell, Chanute, Kan.; Charles Forwald, Dewey; Charles Nash, Floodwood, Minn., and Reginald Strait of Chanute, Kan. Mrs. Vera Marsan will accompany them. Four numbers will be presented by Miss Irwin's pupils: a cowboy dance by Janet Nelson, a Lambeth Walk tap dance by Mary Helen Seemuth, an acrobatic dance by Miss Irwin and an Indian dance by Nedra and Dorothy Smith, Dorothy Crain, Donna Mae Taylor and Miss Seemuth. All will be accompanied by Eunice Burger. The committee in charge of the dance includes Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hinman, Prof. and Mrs. Earl Harper, Dr. and Mrs. Dean Lierle, Mr. and Mrs. Myron J. Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ries.

We Still Like The First Lady

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT has been different than most first ladies. She has taken an active part in certain worthwhile activities; she has fought aggressively for the things she believes.

As a result Mrs. Roosevelt has been attacked by the political opponents of her husband and by various subversive factions.

Because we admire the first lady and believe that her activities are more truly American than those of her critics, many of whom have found their inspiration in the foreign "isms," we take this patriotic occasion to voice our admiration.

At Richmond, Va., Sunday Mrs. Roosevelt asserted again her faith in American ideals that many have forgotten.

At the conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Mrs. Roosevelt presented the Spingarn medal to Marian Anderson, noted Negro singer. There are those who will criticize the first lady for such activity. We find, rather, that in showing such evidence of faith in the principle of equality she has set an example that her critics might take as a lesson.

In a recent issue of "The Weekly Liberator," a Jew-persecuting publication from Asheville, S. C., which calls itself a "Journal of Aggressive Patriotism," the first lady is raked over the coals in an article titled, "Mrs. Roosevelt Does Her Stuff for the Communists."

The anonymous article objects to Mrs. Roosevelt in these terms: "Is the wife of the President of the United States a Communist, or is she not? If she is not a Communist, then what is she doing by appearing before an openly recognized Communist organization like the Workers' Alliance and speaking words of approval and encouragement for their ends and aims? On the other hand, if she is a Communist, what is she doing as the wife of the President of the United States?"

"This is America being betrayed at the top!" shouts the "Liberator."

Such tommyrot is, in our opinion, un-American and is much more dangerous to the welfare of democracy than any words of whatever sort that the first lady may have spoken before an organization which is in sympathy with a political party legally recognized and thoroughly within the law.

It is our belief that any of the first lady's activities would stand measurement on the Constitutional yardstick. Her pleas for equality, for opportunity and humanitarianism are nothing less than echoes from primary democratic documents.

At Richmond Sunday Mrs. Roosevelt told Marian Anderson, "Your achievement far transcends any color or creed."

In her speech, Mrs. Roosevelt said, "People cannot grow up good citizens unless we provide good environment for all the people."

In the end the price we pay for people not fit to be citizens is far greater than the sacrifice we must make to provide decent environment."

Unless we misunderstand what the founders of democracy were trying to achieve, Mrs. Roosevelt must be ranked as one of the best of democracy's defenders and builders.

Baseball Goes To Australia

ONLY A SHORT time ago baseball was introduced into Australia. Although the game is not well organized there and great teams like our American nines have not yet developed. Australia is going for baseball. The English across the ocean like the spirit of the game, the competition it provides and the participating interest the spectators enjoy.

It looks like baseball in Australia will have a long stay. Another American sport goes abroad.

Centuries Of Progress

THE ROUNDTRIP of the first Atlantic passenger service by plane was completed Saturday. The New York City police department has added an aviation unit to its forces.

Contrast these developments with the replica of a 1910 airplane which Iowa Citizens saw at the municipal airport this week end. You will then have a vivid picture of how far aviation has come in a short time.

There are centuries of progress between the skeleton plane of 1910 and the giant transports which stop daily at Iowa City. We must remember, however, that these centuries of progress have been made in only a few decades.

If there is any lesson connected with the Iowa City centennial celebration it is testimony to our break-neck development in these few decades.

We should find optimism in realization of the proportions of our achievements. It is no wonder we have had little time to solve the problems that this development has brought.

We may expect continued development of our civilization in the next 100 years—airplanes with capabilities we now believe incredible.

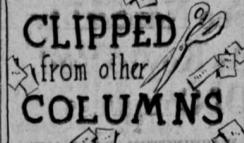

We may also expect "time out" to let our thinking and actions catch up with our material progress.

Worked Up From Scratch

"I'VE GOT you under my skin." That's the song Iowa Citizens can hum these days. Maybe it's the heat. Perhaps it's the damp weather. At any rate, more than a wee bit of touchiness has been aroused by the mite listed as "chigger" by Webster.

Authorities on parasitic forms moving by their own volition tell us that chiggers have six legs. They inhabit woods and bushes. In the summer inhabitants of our fair city also set out for bosky dells. Six legs make better time than two; therefore chiggers soon overtake their prey. The more you try to track them down the more they tickle your skin. You scratch and they itch... sort of a 50-50 proposition.

As yes, it's a very vicious circle that our little friends travel. But the moral of the story is never to let anything get under your skin.

THEY'RE GREEK TO US

Once more Great Britain is consolidating its relations with Greece. The British guarantee to that country was preceded by the visit of the London Old Vic company to Athens, and has now been followed by a return visit, arranged by the British council, from the Greek Royal theater to London. In these circumstances, when Greece is in the thoughts of all politically and artistically minded people, it is entirely natural and proper that the Elgin Marbles should again be in the forefront of public attention.

The Greeks maintain that the marbles should be returned to the Parthenon, whence Lord Elgin, with official permission, removed them over a century ago. And they support this contention with the argument supplied them by the art critic, Mr. Robert Byron, that by an unwise process of cleaning, the museum authorities have recently destroyed the patina of ages which formerly lay upon them.

These various controversies have led only to one definite result. They have confirmed the fact that, after centuries of learned research and devoted study, there yet remain many gaps in the modern knowledge of ancient Greece. No one for a thousand years, with one doubtful exception, has seen a genuine, original piece of ancient Greek sculpture. The statues that fill the great museums are concocted fragments dug up at various times which may not belong to the same works. It is not even known when the patina got on to the great Greek statues; for these were "improved" so much by the Renaissance restorers that a high degree of polish may easily have been added at the same time. Only one thing seems to be certain—that the Elgin Marbles are destined always to be the center of argument and admiration.

The size of the wound has not as much to do with the possibility

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—Pardon me if I seem to be harping on Ellis Island this week, but the place fascinates me, and here are a couple of stories you should know.

The commissioner of immigration is Rudolph Reimer, a big, white-haired fellow with twinkling eyes and a booming voice. He used to be a merchant. He has always been a banker. One of his ancestors was the 25th mayor of New York, but that was back in 1700, when the Dutch had it, and as the mayor only served one year, the commissioner wonders dryly whether his ancestor made enough in that time to retire.

Out at Ellis Island the commissioner is head man. When anything goes awry he is the one to consult. There is no logic that the National Broadcasting company should have hastily telephoned the commissioner one day several months ago. They were in a quandary.

This was the time of the celebrated tiff between Mussolini and the great Toscanini. You read plenty about that in the newspapers. In any case, Toscanini was due in this country for a series of concerts. He boarded ship. Shortly after this N.B.C. received a frantic cable from one of Toscanini's secretaries.

"The Maestro," it said, "has lost his passport." Now this is serious business. When you come to America you can't get in without a passport and a visa. Toscanini had lost his. And he was already at sea. The invariable procedure would be to send him back until his difficulties were straightened-out. Wasn't there anything, N.B.C. wanted to know, that the commissioner could do in this extremity.

Well, the commissioner thought it over for a moment. He enjoys a laugh occasionally. So he said, "Well, we might work out something. Toscanini has been over here 50 times. He isn't going to run away. He can't hide. Tell you what I'll do—I'll parole him to the custody of his wife—and that's punishment enough for any man."

Epilog: But they didn't have to do that. When Toscanini arrived he had his passport. At the last moment it had been rushed aboard. The maestro didn't know this until next day. Incidentally, few of those detained or awaiting exclusion ever try to escape from Ellis Island. Only one has tried it in the last five years—and he didn't succeed. This fellow was being taken out to a liner for the return to Europe, and he asked the commissioner if he wouldn't let him ride from the Island to the ship without handcuffs. The request was granted, and five minutes later the fellow made a leaping dive into the bay. He started to swim strongly for the opposite shore, but the swirling tides around Ellis Island are enough to turn back any man. Half drowned, the escapee finally grabbed a rope which the ferry crew tossed to him. And in spite of the commissioner's original order the prisoner completed the journey to the ship in irons.

An aged beggar is plying Manhattan's upper West Side with a new bag of musical tricks to call attention to his need for cash. His chief article-in-trade is his rendition of a clarinet duet. He does this fetching little feat on two clarinets, one stuck in either side of his mouth. From a stunt standpoint, it's great stuff. But, to a music-loving ear, it's somewhat more than awful.

But they both had one drawback. They'd been planned to float in Atlantic salt water. In the fresh rivers of the Parana and Paraguay fluids they drew so much juice that they couldn't navigate either of the two except at exceptionally high stages of the respective streams.

Due to this and a few other two or three million-dollar oversights the International Products company presently popped for its whole 20 millions.

Who's Fault Is It? It doesn't seem to me that South America should be held to account for mistakes like this.

There are a number of North American companies that know their foreign stuff—International Harvester, General Electric, Singer Sewing Machine, et cetera. They don't howl. They adapt themselves.

Chaps like Senator Borah, who never were south of Washington, are the ones who yell.

The Chinese name for China is "Ta Chung-Hua Min-Kuo." The wounded was shocking. After its Japs' name for it is West Japan.

HEALTH HINTS

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

We took occasion to sound our regular Fourth of July warning last Saturday, particularly pointing out the danger of small children playing with so-called harmless fireworks and, more particularly, playing with them without adult supervision. This latter ban Marbles should again be in the forefront of public attention.

The Greeks maintain that the marbles should be returned to the Parthenon, whence Lord Elgin, with official permission, removed them over a century ago. And they support this contention with the argument supplied them by the art critic, Mr. Robert Byron, that by an unwise process of cleaning, the museum authorities have recently destroyed the patina of ages which formerly lay upon them.

These various controversies have led only to one definite result. They have confirmed the fact that, after centuries of learned research and devoted study, there yet remain many gaps in the modern knowledge of ancient Greece. The size of the wound has not as much to do with the possibility of tetanus as the nature of the wound. Open wounds are least liable to the infection, while punctured or lacerated wounds are most liable. Very trivial wounds, even a pin prick, have been known to develop tetanus at the base.

Tetanus antitoxin is made by immunizing horses and is held in solution in horse serum. It is given under the skin. About a week after injection, in most cases, there appears a serum rash which lasts a day or two and is annoying, but is not dangerous.

The Chinese name for China is "Ta Chung-Hua Min-Kuo." The wounded was shocking. After its Japs' name for it is West Japan.

Stewart Says—

Congress Reveals Amazing Ignorance Over South America

By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist

What this country doesn't know about South America would fill a library if it were put in print. The profundity of our ignorance concerning the southern republics is beautifully brought out by the congressional debate over President Roosevelt's plan to lend $500,000,000 to foreign peoples, thus aiding in the development of their resources and stimulating our trade with them.

The presidential suggestion meets with a deal of opposition on Capitol Hill. Senator Borah is especially vocal on the subject. He says we lost lots more than a sufficiency of Yankee money in Latin America in early post-war years and ought to get that back before we blow in any more.

Besides, Senator Johnson of California got a law enacted which prohibits the extension of further credits to governments which are in default to us now.

Being no financier, I don't venture to recommend South American investments, but I do say that Senator Borah's arguments against them are no good. Possibly there are OTHER arguments that will hold water, but the Idaho solon doesn't mention them.

Inter-Governmental Loans In the first place, the Johnson law applies to inter-governmental loans. Our wartime loans to Europe WERE made to governments, which (with Finland's honorable exception) they since have wrenched up to date. That's one thing.

Our South American defaults have been PRIVATE defaults, due to individual North American capitalists' injudicious investments. I don't contend that they weren't, in many cases, thimble-rigged, but that happens to careless investors and poor managers here at home.

The list of these instances would be too long to recite in detail, but I'll refer to one that I observed at first hand while in the newspaper business in Argentina. It's characteristic.

A North American inspired concern known as the International Products company resolved to promote Paraguay's cattle resources. It required oodles of Paraguayan range on which to raise the critters and established a big packing plant (called there a "frigorifico") at Asuncion. About 20 millions went into the enterprise.

Transportation Monopoly But the company's stuff had to be shipped by water down the Paraguay and Parana rivers (comparable to the Missouri and Mississippi) from Asuncion to Atlantic tide water, in order to get anywhere. Well, the only transportation was by way of a local outfit which the Mihanovich line, having a monopoly, charged so much that the International couldn't make money.

Accordingly, the International decided to build a couple of boats of its own.

It built 'em up in the United States. They were dandy boats. They cost around a million apiece. They came down the Atlantic under their own power. I was on one of them off Buenos Aires. She was a corker.

But they both had one drawback. They'd been planned to float in Atlantic salt water. In the fresh rivers of the Parana and Paraguay fluids they drew so much juice that they couldn't navigate either of the two except at exceptionally high stages of the respective streams.

Due to this and a few other two or three million-dollar oversights the International Products company presently popped for its whole 20 millions.

Who's Fault Is It? It doesn't seem to me that South America should be held to account for mistakes like this.

There are a number of North American companies that know their foreign stuff—International Harvester, General Electric, Singer Sewing Machine, et cetera. They don't howl. They adapt themselves.

Chaps like Senator Borah, who never were south of Washington, are the ones who yell.

No Laws To Prevent Outdoor Casket Display

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—If a junk dealer wants to display funeral caskets in his front yard that's his business and the police can't interfere, says the Tulsa chief.

Neighbors complained their business was falling off because customers wouldn't pass the exhibit of eight caskets the junk man assembled.

The police chief thumbed through the ordinances and said none apparently covered casket displays. The junk dealer was trying to sell the caskets, of glass construction, for "excellent gold fish bowls."

Old Wire Message Recalls Family Ties

Western Union Traces Telegram Linking Oldest Settlers in County

"I will come immediately." — Lydia Corwin.
Thus read a telegram found in the attic of the old James McCollister home located about one mile south of Iowa City. The message was addressed to James McCollister and was from his sister who then lived in Carthage, Mo.

It was received in Iowa City Oct. 11, 1876 — not exactly a 100-year old relic as are many on display, but an investigation carried on through the records of the Western Union Telegraph company reveal that there is a truly centennial significance behind the message in the old telegram.

Lydia Corwin and James McCollister were two of seven children of Judge Charles McCollister, one of the earliest settlers in Johnson county and one of the foremost men in early history of the county and Iowa City.

Judge Charles McCollister was born in Maryland in 1799 and moved to Ohio with his parents in 1803. He grew up and was schooled in Ohio near Chillicothe. Robert McCollister, father of the judge, was a soldier in the Revolutionary war. He was of Scottish ancestry and the ancestors have been traced back to Old Scotland.

Charles McCollister moved to Johnson county with his wife and family about 100 years ago, the exact year not known. He settled in Pleasant Valley township on a 1,000 acre farm known as the "Judge Coleman Farm." A part of this original farm is still in the McCollister family.

A few years after coming to

Johnson county James McCollister, oldest son of Charles, purchased an 800 acre farm in East Lucas township from Philip Clark. There he lived for the rest of his life, built and developed the place into one of the finest farms in Johnson county.

The original farm as purchased by Clark was the same land as had been a few years previous, granted to Clark by the government. The farm then, was transferred from the government to Clark, from Clark to McCollister and is still in the name of James McCollister and is still the original 800 acre tract.

Judge McCollister resided on the Pleasant Valley farm until his death referred to in the telegram of 1876. His seven children have descended through Johnson county history and today make up some of the county's and Iowa City's most prominent families.

As for the telegram itself, the Western Union company traced it back to Carthage and to the sender revealing a very interesting history from that aspect.

The first railroad into Carthage was the Memphis, Carthage and Northwestern. It entered Carthage July 4, 1872, and Joseph W. Hall was established as its first agent. The road was sold under a foreclosure in 1875 and reorganized as the Missouri and Western.

Under the new name it extended west to Oswego, Kan., in 1876 and was sold to the Frisco in 1879. Two years later, in 1881, the Missouri Pacific built into Carthage and took over all other roads.

During all this time Hall had been the agent as well as the Western Union operator for Carthage.

All telegram messages had to be relayed to Springfield, Ill., from where they were sent on. The records of the company showed that Hall dispatched Lydia Corwin's message to James McCollister in Iowa City Oct. 19, 1876.

Hall later was transferred to other stations, was in the banking business for a while until he was caught in a panic in the "nineties" after which he returned to the railroad and telegraph business until he was retired. After retirement he went to Springfield, Mo., where he lived until his death.

George Corwin, a son of Lydia Corwin is at present in the grocery business in Carthage at the age of 81. Mr. Corwin said in a letter that he looted quite a bit at the depot and was well acquainted with Hall, the telegraph operator. Corwin said, "He (Hall) was the whole works in those days and had plenty to do."

While looking through the old telegraph records, W. E. Loehr, present agent for the Frisco line in Carthage, came across several old freight bills of 1879 signed by Hall.

The old telegram message as well as two other old wires are on display in the local Western Union office window along with various other old articles including old Carrier and Ives prints, an old bed warmer, coffee grinder and other things.

Power for Tigers

Bob Feller Beats Tigers for 13th Win

Fans But Two In Chalking Up 4 to 2 Victory

Ben Chapman Gets Three Triples To Equal Modern Mark

DETROIT, July 3 (AP)—Young Bob Feller didn't have his strike-out ball working today but still managed to beat the Detroit Tigers, 4 to 2, thereby enabling the Cleveland Indians to improve their hold on third place in the American league. Feller whiffed but two today—his smallest game streakout total since entering the majors in 1936. His previous low mark was four.

In achieving his 13th victory of the year, Feller allowed five hits and got noteworthy assistance from Bruce Campbell who lined a homer into the right field stands in the eighth to send in three runs and break a 1-1 deadlock.

Ben Chapman, Tribe center fielder, equaled a modern major league record when he slammed out three triples. He now shares the mark with six other players.

For seven innings the game was a pitcher's duel between Feller and Archie McKain, Tiger southpaw. The Indians took the lead in the fourth when Chapman led off with his first triple and scored on Hal Trosky's infield out.

Earl Averill, who got the only hit off Feller in a recent night game at Cleveland, tied the score in the sixth with a homer.

Campbell's eighth inning homer was preceded by scratch singles by Feller and Rollie Hemley.

In the Detroit half Roy Cullenbine batted for McKain and homered.

It was Feller's fourth straight win over Detroit this season.

Johnny Mize Hits Two Homers

Redlegs Buy 'Bud' Hafey

Cincy Club Gives Three Players, Cash For Young Slugger

CINCINNATI, July 3, (AP)—The pennant-minded Reds made room today for a bright young man with a famous baseball name, in hope he might be "just what the doctor ordered" to relieve pernicious anemia in the outfield.

He's Daniel A. (Bud) Hafey, nephew of the great "Chick" and former Pittsburgh Pirate, once praised by Buc manager Pie Traynor as a "million-dollar" find.

Hafey, who will report here Thursday, joined the Pirates in 1936 and remained through part of 1937. This year, with Knoxville of the Southern association, he has hit a .361 clip and has 18 home runs to his credit. The Reds obtained Hafey from Knoxville in return for pitcher Wes Livengood, serving his first year in the big-time; Glen Chapman of the Indianapolis American association team and infielder Charles F. Glock, optioned early this season to the Baltimore Orioles.

Chapman was purchased from Indianapolis, the others were purchased in addition, the Cincinnati baseball club obligated itself for an undisclosed amount of cash to be delivered next year.

Aside from Ival Goodman, who consistently has been among league-leaders, the Reds' outer pasture-guards have proven the major weak spot of a team described early in the season as "having everything."

Giant, Dodger Feud Flares

Dodger President In Blast Against Terry, Giants for 'Incidents'

NEW YORK, July 3, (AP)—Larry MacPhail is going to take baseball's most colorful feud—between his Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants—to the board of directors of the National league for an airing.

The Dodger president, accusing President Ford Frick of the league of "overlooking" some vital incidents in connection with Sunday's brawl when Zeke Bonura of the Giants and Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers clashed, thinks "it's time something should be done."

MacPhail cannot understand, he says, why Durocher should be fined for taking a punch at Bonura, after Bonura heaved a ball at him and chased him into right field. Bonura claimed Durocher spiked him.

"What," indignantly asks MacPhail, "did Frick want Durocher to do; stand there with his hands down and take it?"

The peppery Dodger prexy also is riled about the Giants in general and their manager, Bill Terry, in particular, for their "intimidation" of umpires.

"Mr. Frick should tell Terry he isn't running the umpires—and that he isn't running the National league—and if he doesn't maybe the board of directors will want to have something to say about that," MacPhail said in a prepared statement today.

Munski Sets 1,500 Meter Mark

Runs Distance In 3 Minutes, 56.1 Seconds

LINCOLN, Neb., July 3 (AP)—A record smashing pace which saw the establishment of one new mark after the other featured the National Amateur athletic union's junior track and field championships today as the athletes moved into the last portion of the twilight program at Nebraska's memorial stadium.

Two of the record breaking performances came in the 110 meters hurdles events. This championship was won by Marsh Farmer of Texas Tech, in 14.2 seconds, three-tenths under the old mark set by Dan Caldemeyer of Indiana in 1936. In the trials, Joe Batiste, a high school student from Tucson, Ariz., had a short-lived new record of 14.4.

John Munski, Missouri's long distance star, won the 1,500 meters title in 3 minutes, 56.1 seconds as against the old mark of 3:57.8, set by Ray Mahannah of Drake university in 1937. The pole vault saw another new meet record set as Jack Deefield of Minneapolis, competing unattached, topped the bar at 13 feet, 9 inches. The old mark was 13 feet, 8 1/8 inches.

In the high jump, Les Steers of San Francisco's Olympic club, won the event with a leap of 6 feet, 7 3/8 inches, bettering the old mark of 6 feet 5 3/8 inches.

William Anderson of Altadena, Cal., won the 100 meters dash in 10.5 seconds. The 400 meters dash title went to Fred Allinevece of Prairie View State, Texas, in 48.5 seconds, while the 3,000 meters steeplechase title was won by Forest Efav of Oklahoma A and M, in 9 minutes, 42.2 seconds.

All Comers
 MELBOURNE, Australia, (AP)—Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias reported to golf editors upon her arrival here that she had created a new record for women golfers, at the Haleiwa Golf club in Honolulu, doing the course in 70.

The Babe and her husband, George Zaharias, known as "the weeping Greek from Cripple Creek," are barnstorming Australia.

Title Threats
 CHICAGO, (AP)—Chicago has a team of "kid" bowlers that some claim is the best in the country.

Eight years ago Jack Samuelson, bowling enthusiast, started teaching five youngsters, ranging from 11 to 13 how to crush the maple tenpins. Today "Samuelson's kids" are giving the midwesterners keen competition with individual average scores of better than 190 points.

Connie Mack
 PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Baseball's grand old gentleman—Connie Mack—was reported last night to be winning his fight against the illness that had stricken him enroute to Boston five days ago. "Dad's still a very sick man," said Roy Mack, son of the 76-year-old manager of the Philadelphia Athletics. "He's still running a little temperature, but he has shown a slight improvement over Sunday night. All in all we are very much pleased with his condition."

6-Man Football
 The state's first short course on the fast-growing sport of six-man football will begin tomorrow at the University of Iowa. For the benefit of school men who must coach the sport next fall, the department of physical education has scheduled the course. Work will end July 14.

3 Brownies Chased As White Sox Win

ST. LOUIS, July 3 (AP)—Three Browns were banished for too vociferous protest as the Chicago White Sox mauled three pitchers for 17 hits and an 8 to 3 victory over St. Louis today.

It started in the Sox half of the seventh, Pitcher Roxie Lawson, who had relieved Bob Harris in the second, threw his glove into the air and the resin bag into the stands in protest over a ball Umpire Cal Hubbard called on Mike Tresh. Hubbard promptly put him out of the game.

Veteran Hudlin Has Sore Arm, Left at Home

CLEVELAND, July 3 (AP)—Willis Hudlin, dean of the Cleveland Indians' pitching corps, was left behind with a sore elbow today as his teammates invaded Detroit.

Hudlin revealed he had been soaking the elbow daily for three weeks and that he had submitted to X-ray examination which had shown a strain. The veteran right-hander, who has pitched surprisingly good ball until his last two starts, said he thought a couple of weeks' rest might cure the ailment, but Manager Oscar Vitt said the troublesome flipper probably would be studied at Cleveland clinic before Hudlin rejoins the club.

Johnny Allen, another Tribe dependable, had an arm operation at the clinic last winter. Hurley Mel Harder has been bothered by a sore arm this year and has yet to regain his old-time speed.

Art Manush Out Of Game for 2 Weeks

Art Manush, spectacular co-captain and spark plug of Iowa's Big Ten baseball title winners of 1939, suffered a sprained wrist while playing with Canton, Ohio, —farm team of the Boston Red Sox—and will spend the next two weeks on the sidelines.

Taking advantage of the enforced vacation, Manush returned to Iowa City.

At the time of his injury Manush was clouting the ball at a .320 clip and boasting a neat fielding average.

He will remain in Iowa City for several days until such time as his wrist mends sufficiently for a return to the game.

Only Four Americans Have Made Four

NEW YORK, (AP)—Only four Americans have each made four United States Olympic teams although 28 have made three squads.

The four are Duke Kahanamoku, swimmer, 1912, 1920, 1924 and 1928; Al Jochim, gymnast, 1924 to 1936; Fred Lauer, water poloist, 1924 to 1936, and James Wallace O'Connor, water poloist, 1924 to 1936.

CHICAGO (AP)—Helen Dettweiler, of the Washington, D. C., golfer, added considerable prestige to the cause of women's professional golf in America when she won the Women's Western open championship in St. Louis.

This was Miss Dettweiler's first start as a pro. Under the leadership of Mrs. Opal Hill, a campaign is being made among sponsors of women's tournaments to change events from amateur to open competitions.

We present here the spirit of Iowa City's 100th birthday parade, a 2 1-2 mile array of the old and new in the city's history. While thousands lined the streets to watch, unit after unit passed the reviewing stand at the corner of Clinton and Washington streets, introducing to young and old alike the type of man-made aids once used for transportation, communication and the work of the home. The hour-long parade was an epic in Iowa City's centennial celebration, which ends tonight with the centennial ball in Iowa Union.
