Lawrence Tibbett

The famous American baritone will fly to California from Iowa City. He'll speak at the final fine arts luncheon tomorrow noon.

Arrival in Iowa City

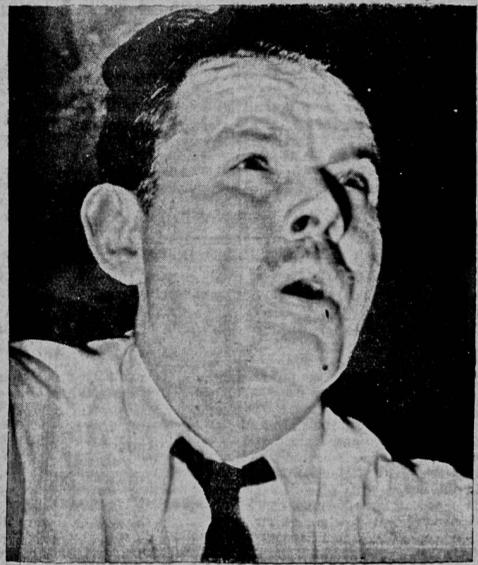

"America's own baritone steps from the train for his only concert appearance of the summer in the Iowa field house tonight.

Tibbett Looks Over the Program

Tibbett, famous American, owns a Connecticut farm, is the father of six boys.

Time Out for Rehearsal

Tibbett limbers up his famous voice in a brief rehearsal. He'll sing a song poem by the late Edwin Ford Piper tonight.

'Culture Must Liberate the World from Unrest'—Green

Today's Americans are pioneers once again—pioneers because they have the facilities for education and creation of which their forefathers did not dream. Americans have watched another of their dreams come true, the birth and growth of machines. "But during the night when people slept, certain ones got hold of these machines and turned them into instruments of death!"

"Such is the world today," said Paul Green, the noted playwright, as he addressed the second fine arts festival luncheon in Iowa Union yesterday. "Do you think culture—music, painting and drama—will liberate the world from this hold and make America's new dream a reality," he asked. "Yes!" The answer to this question, he said, was emphatically "Yes!"

Green reviewed the story of America's earliest pioneers. He mentioned their dreams of America, a free land of opportunity, where they might realize their ideal of a better life. They tackled the wilderness they found. "They carried the battle ahead," he said, "pushed by the desire for a better life." They conquered the wilderness and set about establishing a government—their own government, which established a land of liberty, freedom and justice for all. "You know the story," Green remarked now and again. Then he dealt with the realization of that other great American dream, the machine, and its subsequent transformation by imperialistic nations of the world into an instrument of death. "Two great dreams have been realized by the American people in their history," he said, "but they have not yet reached the complete and right life for which they must strive." Develop Culture The speaker said that he felt the only way to make America's dream of perfection a reality is to develop to the greatest possible extent, culture and the fine arts. "The Greeks," he said, "built a civilization on culture, and it is everlasting." He pointed out that it can be proved again and again that we live most beautifully by the culture that comes from creative work. He spoke of the method by which the "complete and right life" may be obtained. "Through such centers as the University of Iowa," he said, "the country will 'grow up' and complete its culture. If it doesn't, it will ever be cursed." It is religion, he declared: not (See GREEN, page 6)

NEUTRALITY FIGHT AT END

Reich Appears Optimistic On Danzig Issue

Berlin Feels Britain Will Not Go to War Without Russian Aid

By LOUIS F. LOCHNER
BERLIN, July 18 (AP)—A lull in German-Polish recriminations coupled with expressions of optimism in German official quarters seemed tonight to indicate that somehow the Danzig question was being taken out of the stagnant into the active state again. Inquiry failed to produce a concrete answer to the question: why this optimism? But circumstantial evidence pointed to these factors in the situation:

1. Coldness persists between Germany and Poland, the nations primarily interested in the future of the free city on the Baltic.
2. Germany cannot help but notice that British Prime Minister Chamberlain seems to be making no progress in negotiations with Soviet Russia for a mutual aid pact.
3. Therefore Germans believe that Britain, a nation of realists, will decline to help Poland retain her hold on Danzig. Berlin contributed to manifestations of optimism concerning the Danzig issue which came from many European centers. A government spokesman said official belief here was that the Danzig question was "steering in the direction of a peaceable solution." "We are very optimistic," he added but would not be more specific.

Law Violators In East Iowa Get Warning

DES MOINES, July 18 (AP)—The office of Attorney General Fred Everett, on several recent occasions, has instructed county attorneys in eastern Iowa counties to enforce the state liquor and gambling laws, it was learned today. Jens Grothe, assistant attorney general in charge of criminal cases, said some of the complaints on which the office has acted concerned slot machines and others had to do with alleged illegal sale of liquor by the drink.

Would Probe Assassination Of Huey Long

DETROIT, July 18 (AP)—Gerald L. K. Smith, national chairman of the Committee of One Million and former associate of the late Huey P. Long, Louisiana political leader, in a statement issued here tonight urged Attorney General Frank Murphy to investigate the "conspiracy behind the assassination" of Long. Smith described Long as "the new deal's worst enemy" and charged that events which have resulted in several indictments against Louisiana officials followed the breakup of the Long organization as perpetuated briefly by his lieutenants.

Education Board Defers Action On Coal Bids

AMES, July 18 (AP)—After hearing the suggestion of Gov. George A. Wilson that they buy Iowa coal for the state's educational institutions, the state board of education today postponed letting of coal bids.

FIRST CLASS AID Des Moines Nurse Saves A Life

DES MOINES, July 18 (AP)—Physicians today credited the timely assistance of a young nurse for saving an automobile accident victim from more serious injury. Arthur McClure, 34, of West Des Moines, sustained a severe scalp wound when his car crashed into a telephone pole last night. Miss Helen Wilson, 27, a graduate nurse now working in a dentist's office, rushed out from a home nearby where she was visiting, helped McClure from the driver's seat and applied pressure to his scalp wound with her hands.

Asks Conclave Of 9 Nations

Senator Vandenberg Recommends Action Against Japanese

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—A resolution urging the Roosevelt administration to call a conference of nine nations to pass judgment on Japan's military campaign in China and to recommend "appropriate action" was introduced in the senate today by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.). The resolution also called for legal abrogation of a 1911 treaty of amity and commerce between the United States and Japan. Vandenberg said this treaty tied the United States' hands and made it incapable of meeting the situation arising from the Japanese-Chinese hostilities. He said he was not recommending any "arbitrary rupture of relations," explaining that his resolution contemplated negotiation of a new treaty which would protect American interests on the basis of "new necessities."

Britain Agrees With Japanese In New Talks

TOKYO, July 18 (AP)—Authoritative Japanese reports expressed belief tonight that Britain had acceded to Japan's insistence and agreed to permit the Tokyo conference on the Tientsin dispute to embrace more than local issues. The British ambassador, Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, received new instructions from London and arranged to see Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita tomorrow for the second meeting of the Tientsin negotiations. Japanese informants said they understood Sir Robert's instructions set forth a revised British position. Informed quarters expressed belief that the talks would break down quickly unless the British agree to discuss the wider problems. A talk scheduled for Monday was postponed in order that Craigie might get new instructions.

Iowa Launches Safety Drive

DES MOINES, July 18 (AP)—The state department of public safety today launched a campaign designed to include sheriffs and other peace officers to give confidential tips about "dangerous" drivers. Safety Commissioner Karl Fischer said it was his intention to make individual investigations when the tips are received and to take action to get unsafe drivers off the highways if it appears feasible.

Tibbett Will Appear In Concert Tonight

The highlight event of Iowa's fine arts festival occurs tonight when Lawrence Tibbett, famous American baritone, presents his only public recital of the summer in the fieldhouse at 8:15. Tibbett's program is a diversified one, with one number of special interest on the Iowa campus. This is the song, "Sweet Grass Range," the words of which were written by the late Prof. Edwin Ford Piper. It was set to music by Elinor Remick Warren. The poem is one of Piper's earlier cowboy poems and is included in his book of collected works, "Barbed Wire and Wayfarers." Tibbett will not only present his only recital here this summer, he will speak at the last of the fine arts luncheon meetings tomorrow noon in the river room of Iowa Union. Tickets for this event were limited to 300 and were gone last Monday afternoon. Rare Occasion "It is a rare occasion for Tibbett to give a talk," Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts, said, "but he wrote me that he felt he had a message for the people at Iowa and would be glad to have a chance to deliver it." Today marks the halfway point

Fugitive Russell's Flight Ends In Capture by Arkansas Officer

Oklahoma Convict Returned to Jail After Prison Break

OZARK, Ark., July 18 (AP)—A week of desperate flight for Jack Russell, 39-year-old Oklahoma convict, ended in the north-west Arkansas mountain country today when a rural sheriff stuck a gun into his ribs and marched him off to jail. His trail, following his flight last Tuesday from prison at McAlester, had led through at least six states and was marked by a series of kidnappings, robberies, car thefts and, authorities charged, by one slaying. Sheriff Champ Crawford of Franklin county, Ark., effected the capture at a fishing camp at Cass, 15 miles north of here. Donning overalls and carrying fishing tackle, Sheriff Crawford went to the camp with Constable Richard Hill and pretended to fish along the banks of Mulberry creek, keeping an eye on a cottage before which was parked a car bearing Iowa license plates. "We pretended to be fishing," the sheriff related, "always staying near the cottage." "Finally, I called to him that his gasoline tank was leaking and he had better come out and see about it. He walked out on the porch. I stuck my hand in my pocket where my old .45 was and said 'Don't move, Russell. I got you.'"

INVULNERABLE Goering Issues Order For Defense

BERLIN, July 18 (AP)—Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, chief of the German air force, issued instructions today that were designed to make Germany's western border "unconquerable also from the air," the official news agency said but it did not disclose their nature. The defense zone has a stagger system of light and heavy anti-aircraft guns 37 miles deep.

AAA Dubbed 'Party Machine'

Senator Wiley Says '40 Campaign Plans Blocked Hatch Bill

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—Senator Wiley (R-Wis) charged today that the new deal's "machine" for the 1940 campaign was already so active in the AAA that it had seen "the imperative need" of blocking the Hatch bill to outlaw political activity by government officials. Telling the senate he had been advised by an unnamed informant that the agriculture adjustment administration was putting on political picnics at the public's expense, he asked his colleagues to buttonhole house members and urge them to pass the proposed ban on such conduct tomorrow. When Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the democratic leader, and Senator Minton (D-Ind), an administration supporter, pressed Wiley for the name of his informant, he replied that the man was an employee of the government.

Danzig Nazis Insist Upon City's Union

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, July 18 (AP)—An influential Danzig nazi party leader declared tonight that "blustering and threats on the part of England" would not shake the determination of Danzig nazis to bring about the political union of the free city with Germany. The statement followed day-long conferences of Danzig senators and political leaders who discussed instructions brought back by Albert Forster, Danzig nazi leader, from last week's conferences with Adolf Hitler. This firm expression of the nazi attitude coincided with publication of an editorial by the nazi newspaper Vorposten which declared settlement of the "Danzig and corridor problems" by negotiations is impossible at the moment. It was held significant that the "Danzig and corridor problems" now were regarded as one.

F.D.R. Lashes Opponents Of RFC Agencies

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—In a letter praising the "financial efficiency" of the RFC, President Roosevelt took a dig today at those he said made "ghoulish statements" from 1933 to 1936 that the agency was broke. His comment was contained in a reply to a letter from Jesse H. Jones, in which Jones submitted his resignation as RFC chairman to become federal loan administrator. Jones had informed Mr. Roosevelt that the reconstruction finance corporation had "sound assets sufficient to pay all of its debts and return to the treasury the entire capital stock invested in it, with something in addition."

F. R. Opposes Law's Change

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt contended today that congress in effect would be sanctioning unconscionably low wages for the 2,000,000 poorest paid industrial workers if it approved exemptions to the wage-hour law proposed by Representative Barden (D-NC). Barden would exempt certain workers in small businesses associated with agriculture, employees of small telephone exchanges and some white collar workers.

F. D. R., Hull Drop Demands For Revision

White House Meeting Convinces Officials Of Futility of Action

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull abandoned their persistent efforts to get action on neutrality legislation at this session of congress tonight after a discussion of the situation with both republican and democratic leaders of the senate. The meeting in the president's oval study was attended by Vice-president Garner, Senator Barkley (D-Ky) the majority leader, Chairman Pittman (D-NeV) of the senate foreign relations committee, Senator McNary (R-Ore), the minority leader, Senator Austin (R-Vt), assistant minority leader, and Senator Borah (R-Ida), ranking republican of the foreign relations committee.

Nation's Head Ignores New '40 Question'

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt turned aside today a question whether he had ever informed anyone that he would positively run for a third term and wanted Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, for a running mate. A reporter remarked at a press conference that a syndicated writer (Walter Winchell) had said he had information that the president would run for another term with McNutt on the ticket. The president replied by asking whether it would be fair to label that as a newspaper story.

Heavy Buying Sends Markets Up Once More

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—A mid-summer thaw in speculative sentiment sent another heavy wave of buying into the stock exchange today, lifting many shares $1 to $4 before the rush subsided and profit-taking cut the gains.

Eyes On South America

THE ENCROACHMENTS of the nazis in South America are continuing. The United States department of state must surely be well informed, and yet we believe it is insufficient that our government alone be aware of these activities.

Approval for greater American interest in South America can come only when the voting public knows the vital importance of the South American continent in our own future.

So long as these Latin-American nations are governed by insecure men and so long as they have economic difficulties, the German nazi overtures of friendship will be attractive. The hope for iron-handed power, the opportunities to barter excess products will compel many changes in these republics.

The Roosevelt administration, with its "good neighbor" policy has made great strides in increasing the solidarity of the republics of this and the Southern continent. There is more to be done.

The nazi agents in South America are clever men. The two German officers, who helped Senor Busch prepare his seizure of power in Bolivia on April 25, are now reported as busy inventing for similar feats in Chile. Having captured Bolivian oil and tin, the Reich now wants Chilean nitrates.

Among the promises made by the nazis to Bolivia's new dictator is a road to the sea for the land-enclosed nation—a road that must cut across Chile.

Many of the beginnings of nazi encroachment in Bolivia were made when that nation was at war with Paraguay over the Gran Chaco. The United States paid little attention to that strange battle; it might have been profitable had we given more attention to the conflict.

German activities have been reported in Argentina; in Mexico, the nazi agents turned the oil deal to German advantage.

The seriousness with which Chile's present government regards the nazi penetration may be seen in the recent deportation from Chile of Hans Voigt Schmidt, chief of the local agency of the German railroads. The present, properly elected government is fortifying itself already against the day when the foreign reactionaries and their local dupes and allies may attack.

German geologists and engineers are replacing Americans in most of the Bolivian oil fields formerly owned by an American company. The same process of replacement is now expected in other economic branches of Bolivia—and of Chile, if the nazis win their ruthless drive upon that country.

When we hear reports such as these, reports even of nazi colonial claims in South America, we feel that it is time for our nation to recognize that there is a task to be done.

We suggest again that our own university may pioneer profitably by instituting courses in South American history and culture.

The lack of such courses becomes increasingly noticeable in the face of growing interest in our own side of the Atlantic.

The Motorist's Responsibility

In "Accident Facts," published by the National Safety Council in its 1939 edition, there is significant information relative to night traffic and night lights.

There is nothing new in the statement, in general terms, that night driving is more dangerous than day driving. This has long been recognized. But there should be interest in this paragraph which the safety council puts into this year's "Accident Facts."

"Night traffic accidents are very frequent, considering the amount of travel. Nearly 60 per cent of the fatalities occur at night when only one-third of the driving is done. The motor vehicle death rate, based on mileage, therefore, is three times as high at night as in the day."

The council states further that there are three times as many fatal accidents between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning as between 8 and 9 o'clock in the morning.

The matter of lights enters into the reckoning in night driving. Lights, according to the safety council, are responsible for more accidents than any other factor except speed.

A close study was made of the light factor in New York last year. Of the 1,400 accidents in the state, it is said that 900 were in some measure due to faulty lights. Glare was held to be the basic cause of trouble in 154 accidents, and insufficient illumination in over 300.

In night travel, certainly the two major considerations of the driver are to keep the speed within the bounds and to make certain that lights are functioning properly. It is high time that the individual motorist recognize fully his own responsibilities as to lights.

"Names For Places"

ONCE UPON A time a story was published in The Daily Iowan about a small boy who had fallen to a ledge, "25 feet above the lagoon at the foot of the cliff below the Law Commons."

The story ended happily, but its moral lives on—its moral for a journalist, that is. It might be phrased in some such fashion as "names for places make happy faces—in the newsroom."

The shortest way to say a thing in print is the journalistic style—violated, it should be noted, in the aforementioned story. Even a layman would recognize that "25 feet above the lagoon at the foot of the cliff below the Law Commons" is a roundabout identification for a well-known spot.

How much more convenient for the journalist—as well as the student, the faculty member, the Iowa Citizen, the alumnus, the visitor—if such campus places were identified with appropriate names. For instance, in the example provided by the story, a ledge "on blank bluff 25 feet above the blank lagoon."

The spot then becomes immediately familiar instead of being buried in a maze of bewildering words.

Many are the places on the Iowa campus which would benefit for intrinsic and practical purposes if given meaningful names. The shaded walk to the fieldhouse, the fine arts building, the new stadium on the west side, the botany building, the shelter house are some more obvious examples.

It officially named these places would contribute more to the building of a lasting and worthwhile campus personality.

Some folk never get a break. When they have reached a ripe old age they discover that they've gone stale.

Big wars are started by little countries. Tiny nations, like small dogs, bark the loudest.

BRITAIN ON THE SEAS

The Shipping Subsidy bill now before the British parliament is evidence that countries other than the United States have their shipping problem. Under the proposed bill, loans up to a total of some $47,000,000 would be granted for new vessels, an annual operating subsidy of nearly $13,000,000 would be made available for five years for ocean traffic, while nearly $9,000,000 would be allocated for buying up old vessels that would otherwise be scrapped and placing them in reserve.

Britain's interest in a large and efficient merchant marine reflects her dependence on overseas countries for her very existence. The threat of actual starvation carried by the heavy shipping losses from German submarine attacks in early 1917 can never be very remote from the thoughts of those responsible for the safety of the British Isles. The new bill is intended to safeguard the British merchant marine from the effects of foreign competition, usually subsidized, in order that there may be no weakening of this vital link.

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By George Tucker

NEW YORK — Although the Philippines are an American possession, there never have been many of these little brown people in New York — no sizable colony at any rate. I sometimes see Filipinos along the waterfront, but I have never seen a Filipina. Most of the islanders in town are mess boys on liners and battleships. They make excellent cooks. But the most popular of all Filipinos are the fighters. New York obtains a microscopic inspection of their qualities when these pugilists fight at Madison Square Garden. They are fast, shifty battlers, light hitters as a rule, but dead game. They have been known to kill themselves by the intensity of their attacks. Their hearts can't seem to stand up under what they want to do with their fists. It is a tragic sight to see these little fellows, light as feathers and faster than mercury, slugging it out with men of more solid build.

Here's a sort of unfinished symphony. We didn't get it first hand. It was passed on to us by one of our co-workers who saw the whole thing — except for the unfinished part. He was riding the Flushing division of the subway en route home from work the other evening. The train was crowded, and passengers were pouring in and out of his particular car at every station. It was, of course, that well-known evening rush hour. Standing near the center door of the car was a comely young woman whose arms were loaded heavily with bundles, apparently the fruits of an extensive shopping expedition. Her hands were busily occupied with steadying her cargo.

With a grind and a jerk, the train halted at the Boulevard Junction station. The door slid open. Our heavily laden heroine stepped from the car to the platform. But, alas, as she stepped, a bit of her under-garments broke from their moorings and slid down around her ankles. That left her on a crowded platform, her arms full, and her scanties at half mast.

Just then, the car door slid shut, and the train, our informer aboard, rolled heavily out of the station. All of which left our informer still wondering how the story ended. He says he's probably worried more about it than has the victim herself.

News item: "His old battered hat lay beside him," says the New York World Telegram, reporting a suicide.

Comment: Research fails to disclose any man or woman with a new hat who has ever committed suicide. Suicide is a case of collapsed ego—and psychologists say that a new hat and an inferiority complex don't go together.

They tell me there's some pink champagne going around "which isn't champagne at all. It's a table wine (blast 'em) which certain villains have carbonated and are foisting on an unsuspecting public.

I had breakfast the other morning in a hotel that caters to continental and a family of Greeks came down. They had just arrived in America. They had two little boys, about seven, and while they were in the lobby they gabbled in Greek and in broken English. But they cut out that nonsense when their mother joined them. They greeted her in French. In showing their manners they aren't allowed to speak anything but French.

As to the South Pole's mineral resources I don't know. It does have poultry—penguins. The Arctic regions have the musk ox. I know Dr. Cook of Arctic fame. I met him in Copenhagen in World War days. "War," said the "doc," "is due to peoples' strife for land. Now, there's lots of land in the Arctic regions. Why shouldn't they develop it?"

"But what," I asked, "would they do if they got there?" "Well," answered the "doc," "they could raise musk oxen."

At the South Pole they could raise penguins.

How About Weather? South Polar weather is pretty darned important.

We're in the habit of thinking that our weather all comes from the North Pole. North and south Polar weather mix at the equator and the mixture is reflected in both directions. It raises haws with tropical storms, and, for all we know, with a lot of other terrestrial weather.

From the weather bureau's standpoint we're fairly well informed from the northward. But from the southward!—oh!—nothing.

Stewart Says-

Admiral Byrd Plans To Outsmart Germany On South Pole Venture

That Uncle Sam is about to stake out his share of the Antarctic continent is not a bit surprising. The queer thing is that the South Pole has been so long neglected. Not that it hasn't been visited and looked at, but it's remained entirely unsettled. The North Pole is different. That's nothing but open water. It's frozen over, to be sure. However, a drifting ice floe is nothing to plant a colony on. And, at that, the rim of land all around the edge of the Arctic sea is slightly populated—Alaska, Canada, the northern Scandinavians and European and Asiatic Russia. It isn't a dense population, but it even has some cities, like Archangel and Haparanda, huddled as close to Boreas pole as there's any terra firma to build them on.

But the South Pole is in the middle of a regular continent—big, too. And they say it has valuable mineral resources.

That's why Germany is planning to send a bunch of colonists down to occupy some of it in the name of Herr Hitler. And it's to head off the Germans that led congress to appropriate $340,000 to dispatch an expedition thitherward, under Admiral Byrd, to pre-empt a claim in Uncle Samuel's behalf. The only peculiar detail is that we've been so slow about it.

When a country wants to establish title to a vacant piece of territory, under international law (if that amounts to anything any longer) the rule is that it must occupy it and keep it occupied. So the scheme is for Admiral Byrd to land about 100 Americans to set up housekeeping in Antarctic in three little municipalities. They're to remain for a year; then to be relieved by another batch of 100 or more—if the first bunch reports that it liked it.

Paraphrasing, a year would be enough, I'd guess.

And so on ad infinitum. The Germans will be forestalled in this fashion. They may go to war about it later, but momentarily we have 'em off base; we've got $340,000 immediately available, and they haven't.

Scandinavia's Prior Right Norway really has first claim on the South Pole by reason of Captain Amundsen's first arrival there.

The captain had been trying for years to get, not to the Austral, but to the Boreas pole. Finally he made a last desperate effort. In the midst of it he learned that Admiral Peary had beaten him to it. "Heck!" exclaimed the captain, petulantly. "Then I'll discover the SOUTH Pole." And he went right down and discovered it.

As to the South Pole's mineral resources I don't know. It does have poultry—penguins. The Arctic regions have the musk ox. I know Dr. Cook of Arctic fame. I met him in Copenhagen in World War days. "War," said the "doc," "is due to peoples' strife for land. Now, there's lots of land in the Arctic regions. Why shouldn't they develop it?"

TUNING IN

with D. Mac Showers

ROBERT CLARK, who collects slave-ship log books; John S. Greenwalt, a musician who uses leaves for instruments; Helen Fine, a student of the origin of fashions, and Howard Klein, who will attempt hypnotism over the air, are listed to headline Dave Elman's "Hobby Lobby" over NBC-Blue this evening at 6:30.

Clark, a resident of Providence, R. I., will read excerpts from his rare collection of logs left from the days of "black-bird" slave ships which engaged in the South African trade.

The aerial hypnotism will be attempted by Klein, a printer from Philadelphia, who is president of the American Society for Psychological Research. He will endeavor to exert supernatural powers over a subject selected at random from the studio audience.

Miss Fine of New York City will reveal the origin of many of our present day styles. For example, she will report that high heels were made fashionable by Louis XV of France, who was sensitive about being short.

Greenwalt, also a New Yorker, will imitate various musical instruments by blowing an ordinary leaves. Host Elman will be assisted at the microphone by Announcer Ernest Chappell and by Harry Salter and his orchestra.

ZEKE BONURA, first baseman of the New York Giants, whose hitting has caused him to be one of the most discussed ball players in the major leagues this season, will be interviewed on George Jessel's celebrity show over NBC-Red network tonight at 7:30.

Also to be heard are Patsy Kelly, film comedienne, and Frank "Bring 'Em Back Alive" Buck. Music is under the baton of Peter Van Steeden with vocals by the Stardusters.

WHEN LYN MURRAY, new bandleader on the Phil Baker show, signed to take over the baton on the series, there was a unique clause in the contract which stipulated that Baker must give him one minute of acting time on each broadcast.

Maybe Phil Baker needs someone else to do the acting on his show.

Anyway, if you're interested in the program, it's heard at 6 o'clock over CBS.

THREE ANNOUNCERS will be needed to replace Harry von Zell when he leaves on his vacation today. Ralph Edwards takes over "Musical Playhouse." Mark Hawley will spell "What's My Name?" and Del Sharbutt will do "We, the People."

Contestants on "What's My Name?" will have to identify eight famous headline names of modern times during the broadcast this evening over NBC-Red at 7 o'clock.

Only adults will be allowed to participate in this program because children would not be expected to know these personalities, many of them being headliners of past years.

DON'T FORGET—Tommy Dorsey or Paul Whiteman at 6:30, the former over NBC-Red and the latter over CBS, and Kay Kyser at 8 o'clock over NBC-Red and the latter over three promises to give out good music.

Shep Fields and his Rippling Rhythm orchestra begin a new broadcast series tonight from the New Yorker hotel in Manhattan.

He has been out on the west coast for the past two years establishing himself as a favorite in movieland. His present series will prove an old question—if a big name band can stay out of the spotlight and radio for a long period and then make a comeback in popularity.

Listen over CBS at 9:30 for the initial broadcast.

AMONG THE BEST For Wednesday: 5:30—People's Platform, CBS. 6—Honolulu Bound with Phil Baker, CBS. 6:00—One Man's Family, NBC-Red.

6:30—Paul Whiteman's orchestra, CBS. 6:30—Hobby Lobby, Dave Elman, NBC-Blue.

6:30—Tommy Dorsey's orchestra, NBC-Blue. 7—What's My Name, NBC-Red. 7:30—George Jessel's Celebrity program, NBC-Red.

8—Kay Kyser's Musical Class, NBC-Red. 9—Dance music, NBC, CBS, MBS.

LOU COMISKEY, CHISOX PREXY, DIES

Had Restored Chicago Club To Challenger Role During Reign

Completed Many Shrewd Diamond Deals After Assuming Control of Club Upon Death of Father

EAGLE RIVER, Wis., July 18 (AP)—J. Louis Comiskey, 54-year-old president of the Chicago White Sox baseball club, died today at his summer estate near here after many years of failing health.

He had been unconscious since yesterday when his condition became so alarming his wife was summoned from Chicago.

Comiskey, a portly man who had been suffering from a heart ailment for several years, contracted a cold last Tuesday, when he came here. Complications set in and he grew steadily worse. His attending physician, Dr. Russell Oldfield, had been administering oxygen to him since last night.

Death occurred at 4:20 p.m. (C.S.T.). Physicians said the cause was congestive heart failure, technically failure of the left ventricle complicated by pulmonary oedema, which is a type of pneumonia.

At his death besides his wife were his three children, two daughters, Dorothy and Gracie Lou, and a son, Charles A. Comiskey, and several other relatives.

The body will be returned to Chicago tomorrow.

The White Sox climbed back into the ranks of pennant contenders under Comiskey's administration.

Back in Fight
Comiskey took charge of the club after the death of his father, Charles A. Comiskey, baseball's famous "Old Roman," in 1931. During his eight year reign as president he devoted his efforts to rebuilding a team that had been decimated by the "Black Sox" scandal which followed the 1919 world series.

Although his great ambition—restoration of the White Sox to the place they once held as champions of the American league—was never realized, the portly boss had the satisfaction of seeing his charges become formidable challengers in recent flag fights.

Comiskey made probably the most important—and beneficial—deal of his regime when he paid $150,000 to the Philadelphia Athletics for Al Simmons, George Haas and Jimmy Dykes.

Good Deal
Dykes was appointed manager in 1934. That marked the beginning of the White Sox "boom." The team finished third in 1936 and 1937, became a vital factor in the 1938 campaign and clubbed its way into the first division again during the current drive.

Comiskey was born in Dubuque, Ia., Aug. 12, 1885, at a time when his father was rounding out a long and illustrious playing career. Young Comiskey served his baseball apprenticeship in various capacities. At one time he worked as the team's traveling secretary.

It was the 26-year-old recruit's 11th straight victory. The best previous performance by a first-year man was that of Harry Krause, who won ten straight for the Philadelphia Athletics back in 1908.

For a while it appeared that veteran Oral Hildebrand would go his young team-mate one better by hurling no-hit ball in the nightcap. But Billy Sullivan clipped the former Brownie for a double that drove in a run in the seventh, and in the ninth Joe Grace singled and George McQuinn clouted a homer.

That was the signal for Manager Joe McCarthy to wave Hildebrand to the showers and bring fireman Johnny Murphy in from the bullpen, putting out the next three men in order, and the Yanks won the game by 4-3 to sweep the bargain bill.

Phillies Wallop Pittsburgh, 8-3
PHILADELPHIA, July 18 (AP)—The Phillies defeated Pittsburgh today, 8-3, behind the 8-hit pitching of Syl Johnson to get an even break in the current 4-game series. The winners made 13 hits off Bill Swift and Truett Sewell.

Tigers Stuffed By Krakauskas
DETROIT, July 18 (AP)—Joe Krakauskas held the Detroit Tigers to six hits and connected for a triple in the third inning with bases loaded to lead the Washington Senators to a 10-2 victory today.

Estabrooks Advances in Meet

CEAR RAPIDS, July 18 (AP)—Edith Estabrooks of Dubuque cut loose with a sub-par performance to easily win her first round match in the Iowa Women's Golf tournament here today.

The former state champion, going under men's par, walloped Mrs. Joe Furnas of Des Moines, 9 and 7. The victory sent Edith into a second round match against Suzanne Ill, the Des Moines city champion who came through with a 2 and 1 decision over Mrs. Dave Bonella of Ottumwa.

Suzanne turned in a 40 for the first round and was heading for the high 70s before a bad 7 ruined her chances. She finished 18 holes in 82.

Ruth Smith, the southpaw from Ottumwa who is the defending titleholder, had little trouble advancing into tomorrow's second round. She eliminated Maxine Bowie of Carroll, 7 and 5, today and will play Mrs. H. R. Staats of Davenport in her next match. They played in the championship final a year ago. The Davenport player ousted Mrs. O. W. Esslinger of Cedar Rapids, 7 and 6.

Kathleen Carey, young Cedar Rapids player, and Indy Morton of Okoboji, tournament medalist in 1938, fired their way into an important second round contest. Miss Carey used only 38 strokes for the outside to get a 5 up lead over Mary Weaver of Burlington and wound up the match with an 8 and 6 victory. Indy, out in 42, defeated Mrs. Henry Nollen, of Des Moines, 6 and 5.

Ann Casey of Mason City eliminated Mary Frances Lee of Cedar Rapids, 4 and 2. She will meet Mrs. John Scripps of Davenport, who defeated Mary Ann Finch of Des Moines, 5 and 4, in the second round.

Phyllis Otto, 14-year-old Atlantic high school girl, pushed by Shirley Ramsdell, Cedar Falls girl, 4 and 2. She will meet Fern Wilson of Mason City in the second round. Miss Wilson advanced by defeating Winn LaGrange of Storm Lake, 6 and 4.

Second Round Pairings:
Edith Estabrooks, Dubuque, vs. Suzanne Ill, Des Moines. Jo MacCrae, Ames, vs. Mrs. C. V. Anderson, Waterloo. Kathleen Carey, Cedar Rapids, vs. Indy Morton, Okoboji. Lois Penn, Des Moines, vs. Ethel Anderson, Waterloo. Phyllis Otto, Atlantic, vs. Fern Wilson, Mason City. Ruth Smith, Ottumwa, vs. Mrs. H. R. Staats, Davenport. Ann Casey, Mason City, vs. Mrs. John Scripps, Davenport. Jean French, Des Moines, vs. Eleanor Stevens, Salem.

Three Homers Win First For Red Sox, 13-10
CHICAGO, July 18 (AP)—Home runs by Eldon Auker, Jimmy Foxx and Ted Williams led Boston's Red Sox to a 13 to 10 win over the Chicago White Sox in the first game of a doubleheader today, but the White Sox took the nightcap, 8 to 5, as Clint Brown turned in another efficient appearance on the mound.

It was Brown's 34th relief job of the season and gained him his seventh victory of the campaign. He entered the game in the seventh, relieving Johnny Marcum, and gave Boston only two safeties in the last three innings.

Tribe Nips Macks As Rookie Hurls
CLEVELAND, July 18 (AP)—Rookie Joe Dobson turned in a neat job of relief hurling tonight to give the Cleveland Indians a 6-3 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics before a crowd of 9,032.

Dobson replaced Johnny Allen in the fourth inning with two runs in, the score tied 3-3, two runners on base and only one out. He re-fired the side in that frame without further damage, and allowed only three hits the rest of the game.

Lee (Buck) Ross, who started for the Athletics, was driven from the mound in the seventh.

The Indians got away to a three-run lead in the first inning on singles by Weatherly, Trosky, Heath and Keltner, and a double by Grimes. The Mackmen came back with one run in the third on Nagel's single, Lodigian's double, and a sacrifice fly by Moses.

Rookie Donald Wins No. 11 For New Mark
ST. LOUIS, July 18 (AP)—Atley Donald, the New York Yankees' undefeated right-hander, pitched a new American league record onto the books today when he shut out the Browns, 9-0, on three hits in the first game of a doubleheader.

It was the 26-year-old recruit's 11th straight victory. The best previous performance by a first-year man was that of Harry Krause, who won ten straight for the Philadelphia Athletics back in 1908.

Reds, Cards, Cubs Win

Derringer Gets 19-Hit Support
BOSTON, July 18 (AP)—Though his record—approaching string of innings without yielding a base on balls was snapped, Paul Derringer held the Boston Bees in check today while his Cincinnati mates pounded four Boston hurlers for 19 hits and a 12-3 triumph. It was Derringer's 12th win of the season.

When the Bees' rightfielder, Debs Garmis, trotted to first in the first inning, it was Derringer's first walk in 49 2-3 consecutive innings since June 14. The big pitcher gave another base on balls later in the game to make his year's total 14.

The major league record for consecutive innings without a base on balls is 68, set by Christy Mathewson, of the Giants, in 1913.

The heavy stickwork of Frank McCormick was the most potent factor in the Reds' attack. The first baseman, who is leading the National league in runs batted in, drove home four runs with three hits, including a homer. He also had four runs to his credit.

2 Homers Aid Passeau in Win

BROOKLYN, July 18 (AP)—Home runs by Stan Hack and Glenn Russell in the first two innings gave Claude Passeau and the Chicago Cubs enough runs to breeze to a 4-2 triumph over the Dodgers today and move past the Giants into second place. Both four-baggers were hit off Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin, Russell's with Manager Gabby Hartnett on base and Hack's on the first pitch of the game.

Passeau, who was nicked for nine hits, struck out eight and didn't walk a man. He finished off the game in fine style, for after Babe Phelps and Gene Moore had singled to open the ninth, putting the tying runs on base, he fanned Leo Durocher, Pinch-Hitter Art Parks and Van Mungo in succession.

Hamlin, knocked out of the box, was charged with the defeat, his eighth. It was Passeau's seventh victory.

Daykin Closes Forum Series

Discusses National Labor Relations Act in Old Capitol Today

Prof. Walter L. Daykin of the college of commerce will deliver the closing lecture in the campus forum series this afternoon at 3:10 in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

Professor Daykin will discuss "Proposed Amendments to the National Labor Relations Act." He will speak for about a half-hour after which the meeting will be opened to public discussion. The lecture section of the forum will be broadcast by radio station WSUI from 3:10 to 3:40.

It is expected that Professor Daykin will connect the recent WPA trouble about the United States with his talk. At least, the discussion is surely to lead to mention of the situation.

The public is invited to attend the forum and participate in the open discussion after the lecture, Prof. Kirk H. Porter, who is in charge of the series, has announced.

Others who have delivered addresses and conducted discussions on this summer's forum program are Prof. Harry K. Newburn of the college of education, Prof. George F. Robeson of the political science department, Prof. George Haskell of the college of commerce, Prof. W. Ross Livingston of the history department and Prof. Norman C. Meier of the psychology department.

Playsuits, Suitable for Any Occasion, Prove Valuable Addition to Wardrobe

Playsuits with detachable skirts fill many gaps in summer wardrobes and solve many "what to wear" problems when the July sun shines brightly on the golf links and tennis courts.

For sports, spectator sports, gardening or general knockabout wear, there is nothing so satisfactory as shirt, shorts and matching or contrasting skirt. Slip off the skirt and you're ready for a set of tennis or nine holes of golf, slip it back on and you're ready for a trip to town or a spectator seat at the tournament.

Cotton and linen are always good summer sports materials, and gingham pique or cotton crash are excellent choices for play suits.

Colors run riot and may be plain or figured, matching or contrasting to suit your own figure, coloring or mood.

The suit shown here is made with a buttoned skirt (although some models feature zippers) shirtwaist style blouse, patch pockets and, of course, tailored shorts.

Girls Seek Fragility

Beauticians Forget Athletic Type, Wish New Pictorial Look

Gone are the days, though probably not forever, when the smartest girls were those who looked huskily athletic, tanned to the color of the proverbial nut and equal to just as much strenuous exertion as their boy friends.

Keying the new make-up charts to the season's highly feminized trend, beauticians who set cosmetic fashions have decreed a fragile and pictorial look. The new make-up gives its wearers a romantic quality that every girl in her secret heart desires.

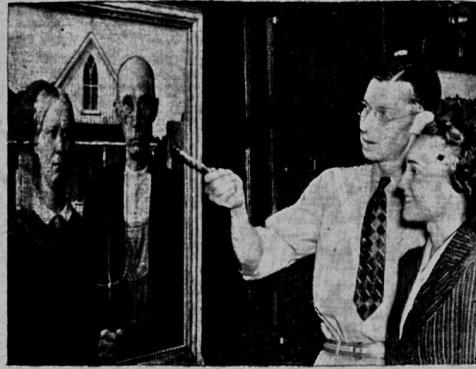

One well-known beauty house whose preparations are available in the better stores throughout the country is introducing an iridescent powder in a rose-beige shade that does all sorts of miraculous things for the skin. To go with the powder there is a luminous flame colored lipstick, a matching rouge and nail polish and a new blue eye shadow that works miracles in eye glamour.

For evening wear the same house has a more dramatic type of make-up which has been nicely calculated to give its wearers an orchidaceous look. This beauty house insists that two types of make-up are essential to good grooming, an evening set of cosmetics and another for daytime use.

In order to be sure that your make-up is exactly correct for the new spring colors and the exciting new silhouettes it would be wise to seek the advice of your own beauty parlor. Ask your operator to study your skin, eyes and hair with relation to the new fashions and to assemble a beauty kit of creams, powders, rouge and lipstick which will be definitely yours.

As a final word of advice—after your make-up is on and you are all ready to go out, allow two or three minutes for a study of yourself in a good mirror properly lighted. Otherwise the effect that seems just right in your boudoir may develop defects when seen in the light of outdoors or in a drawing room.

Grant Wood's 'American Gothic'

One of the most popular paintings on exhibit in Iowa Union lounge is this famous original of "American Gothic" by Grant Wood shown here at two festival visitors viewed it. Hundreds of persons have thronged through Iowa Union lounge and the art building since the exhibitions were opened last Sunday morning. Twelve Grant Wood originals and 18 paintings by Marvin Cone of Cedar Rapids are now on display in Iowa Union. Forty works from the Corcoran art gallery in Washington, D. C., are on display in the exhibition lounge and the auditorium of the art building. In the corridors of the art building are paintings, designing and graphic art displays by graduate students of the art department. In the women's lounge of Iowa Union is a display of seven works of Christian Abrahamson of Chicago.

Commerce Club Meets To Plan Summer Outing

S. U. I. Doctors Make Valuable Contributions

Important additions to the fund of medical knowledge have been reported since January in 57 publications from the University of Iowa college of medicine.

The technical papers were prepared by 55 doctors, many of them in collaboration. These reports were published in numerous scientific journals.

In addition to the papers, a revision of a book was published. It is "Essentials of Pediatrics" third edition, by Dr. P. C. Jeans, head of the department of pediatrics.

Among some of the papers by university staff members are such as treatment of iron deficiency anemia, blood transfusion

Will Discuss Eugene O'Neill Over WSUI

Eugene O'Neill, his life and his works, will be discussed by Milford Wence, instructor in English at the University of Maine, at 4:30 this afternoon over radio station WSUI as another in the writers' workshop series of forums on living American authors.

Following the usual arrangement, the first half of the hour program will be given over to a discussion of the life and writings of the author with the last half hour devoted to readings of selections from his works.

Next week's forum will feature the life and works of William Faulkner, discussed by Prof. John Paul Abbott of the English department at Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college. The last will be on Sherwood Anderson and will be given by Jack Y. Bryan, instructor in creative writing at the University of Maryland.

Matilda Adams Will Be Hostess Today

University Alumni, Students Reveal Engagements, Nuptials

Several university alumni and former students have announced their engagements and weddings recently, according to word received here.

DeHaan-Voogd

Claizena DeHaan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. DeBooy of Orange City, and A. O. Voogd of Rock Rapids were married recently in the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. LeRoy Nattress officiated at the ceremony.

The bride wore an aqua sheer ensemble with white accessories and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Mrs. Voogd received her B.A. degree from the university and for the past two years has been teaching in Central high school in Sioux City.

Mr. Voogd is a graduate of Iowa State Teachers college at Cedar Falls, where he received his B.A. degree, and of the university where he received his M.A. He is affiliated with the Phi Delta Kappa national honorary educational fraternity. For the past four years he has been superintendent of the Rock Rapids public schools and will continue in that position.

After a wedding dinner Mr. and Mrs. Voogd left on a trip to various points in Colorado. The couple will make their home in Rock Rapids.

Conlon-Kunath

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Conlon of Des Moines, have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Helen, to James E. Kunath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Kunath of Creston. The wedding will take place Aug. 3 at St. John's rectory in Des Moines.

Miss Conlon attended Drake university, and Capital City Commercial college and is employed by the Meredith Publishing company.

Mr. Kunath also attended Drake university and is a graduate of the university, where he was a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity. He is employed with the Kerr-Cochrane Chevrolet company of Creston.

After a wedding trip to Chicago the couple will make their home in Creston.

Manuel-Craig

Margaret Mae Manuel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Manuel of Belle Plaine, and William B. Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Craig of Belle Plaine, were married Saturday at the Trinity Methodist parsonage in Cedar Rapids. The Rev. Elton D. Wells officiated at the ceremony.

Robert Wilhelm of Cedar Rapids attended the couple.

The bride wore a dress of brown sheer crepe with yellow trim and a yellow hat. Her shoulder corsage was talisman roses.

Mrs. Craig was graduated from the university school of nursing and has been employed as a nurse in the university hospital.

Mr. Craig was graduated from the Belle Plaine high school and the university school of civil engineering and the University of Illinois where he specialized in engineering sewage disposal plants.

Mrs. S. Hoffman Named to Board

Mayor Henry F. Willenbrock at the city council meeting last night appointed Mrs. Sarah Paine Hoffman, 530 S. Clinton street, to fill the unexpired term left on the library board caused by the death of Mrs. H. L. Hands. The appointment expires June 30, 1943.

City Council Selects Sept. 26 for Power Company Election

15-Year Franchise Ordinances Get Third Reading, Pass Body With Single Dissenting Vote

300 Sign Petition Resulting in Later Date for Election

Iowa Citizens will vote Sept. 26 on two ordinances which would give the Iowa City Light and Power company franchises to provide electricity and gas service in Iowa City for 15 years and carry rate reductions which will save Iowa Citizens an estimated $40,000 a year.

The city council last night gave the ordinances their third readings before a filled council room. Before the ordinances were passed an amendment was made to each changing the phrasing in the description of service to be rendered by the company.

After the two proposed laws were passed with one dissenting vote coming from Sam Whiting Jr., third ward alderman, the council agreed upon Sept. 26 as the date for the voters to indicate their approval of the two franchises.

Petition Received

During the discussion of the election date the council received a petition asking that the voting date be postponed until after Sept. 25 and a letter from R. E. Taylor, vice-president and general manager of the local utility company, giving his consent to the September date.

The petition requesting the later election date, signed by nearly 300 persons, was presented to the council by D. C. Nolan.

When the two ordinances were introduced at the city council meeting July 10, Taylor explained to the council members that in addition to the proposed reduction in rates which the franchises make, the company would undertake a $514,000 enlargement program at its Coralville generating plant to provide additional capacity to provide electricity for Iowa City during the years to come.

He pointed out that at present the city is without duplicate equipment in the event of an emergency and that the peak load of electricity use in the city is rapidly approaching the maximum capacity of the present generating equipment.

Cites Necessity

Showing the necessity for the 15-year franchises, Taylor declared that it would take that length of time to properly develop and finance the program.

The first unit of the enlargement program which the company would undertake, Taylor continued, would be to install a new high pressure boiler which, connected to the present generating equipment, would increase the output about twenty per cent. He said that this installation could be completed in about 12 weeks and would be used to carry the company over the seasonal peak reached during the Christmas season.

Under the construction program proposed by the company, two new boilers would be installed and a new 5,000 kilowatt hour turbine would be placed in service. The present generating plant at Coralville would be remodeled to more than twice its present size to accommodate the new equipment.

Under the rates proposed in the new franchise, the average electricity consumer's bill—for about 65 kilowatt hours a month—would be $2.43 compared with a cost of $2.73 under the present rates. This represents a reduction of nearly 11 per cent.

Total Savings

The total savings which would be made by Iowa Citizens under the rates proposed in the gas and electricity franchises are: residential lighting, $15,011; commercial lighting, $3,911; and power, $5,087, a total of $24,009 on electricity, and on residential gas consumption, $13,842, and commercial gas, $1,213, a total savings on gas consumption of $15,055.

Under the legal procedure required by law, if the voters approve of the two franchises, the council and the company must give final approval before the proposals go into effect.

300 Signed This Petition—

The petition which was presented to the city council last night by D. C. Nolan, signed by 300 persons, reads as follows: "To the honorable mayor and city council:

"Whereas we understand that it is proposed to call a special election on or about Aug. 22, 1939, to vote upon the proposition of granting gas and electric franchises to the Iowa City Light and Power company, and

"Whereas such company has been operating without franchises for approximately seven years and no urgent need appears for an immediate election to pass upon such proposal, and

"Whereas many gas and electric users will be absent from Iowa City during the month of August and unable to vote at such time, and

"Whereas we believe that you desire that such election be held at a time when the rank and file of voters of Iowa City will be able to vote upon the franchise question:

Power Company O. K.'s Postponement

A letter carrying the acceptance of Roscoe E. Taylor, vice-president and general manager of the Iowa City Light and Power company, to a postponement by the city council of the date for the special election on the utility franchises was received by the council last night.

The letter read in part: "To the honorable mayor and city council:

"Any date in September set by the mayor and city council of Iowa City for holding a special election to vote on gas and electric franchises is entirely acceptable to the Iowa City Light and Power company."

A Future G-Man and His Sister Attend

Iowa Patrolman Ray Fowler, of Mason City, didn't bring his children to class with him when he came to Iowa City for the third annual peace officers' short course, but it seems that these two were attracted by his uniform as well as the interest in the lectures of the course. Jack Randall, left, and his sister, Sharon, were interested in the discussions as were the patrolmen and the other Iowa peace officers. They used to live in Marshalltown but have recently moved to Iowa City. According to Professor Perkins, director of the course, half the Iowa highway patrol force is in Iowa City attending the short course classes. This brings about 25 patrol cars and explains the reason for their prevalence about Iowa City—they're not hunting some dangerous criminal or escaped convict.

economics, not a practicality, but a way of life, religion in a true sense.

"I once hoped," he said, "for the motion picture industry to lead the country into a mass cultural development," but that, he said, turned into an industrial thing producing anything to make money. Similar views he held about radio, but it, too, has turned largely industrial.

Unlike the Greeks --

"We have had in our entire history," Green declared, "no poet, no writer, no musician who has done what the Greek culturists did." But he paused in his narrative long enough to strike a note of gratitude for Prof. Grant Wood, who "has stepped ahead of the old ideals and tries to develop the right feeling toward art."

"As long as people are doing what you are doing here," he said, "this dream of free living and right living shall not perish from the earth."

The beauty of the Iowa countryside impressed the playwright as he made his way to Iowa City. He compared it yesterday to a certain eastern section of the country where, he said, men work four days a week for a low wage and think that they are kings in their own kingdoms.

They are perfectly satisfied, he said, with nothing to do—creating nothing, realizing no culture.

"What they need most of all," he commented, "is a theater every few miles." That, he said, is what makes of Iowa and its university the culture center for which it has become famous.

Two Duties

Universities promoting culture have an educational duty as well as actual developmental work, it was pointed out. They must teach youth to love and appreciate art, music and drama as well as teach creation of these finer things.

"But there is still much to be done," he concluded. Although parently to be distinctly differentiated from the first. It said: "The president and the secretary of state maintained the definite position that failure by the senate to take action now would weaken the leadership of the United States in exercising its potent influence in the cause of preserving peace among other nations in the event of a new crisis in Europe between now and next January."

To make things definite, a reporter asked Early if the two statements meant that no further attempt would be made to revive the neutrality legislation at this session. Early's reply was an emphatic affirmative.

Risk New Crisis

"It simply means," he said, "that the senators are faced by chances of a prolonged debate of filibuster, if you wish to call it that, and would prefer to go home now and risk the chance of a new crisis in Europe with no congress on hand.

"There seems to be a difference of opinion on whether such a crisis will develop. The secretary of state and the president, on the basis of their information, think there is a possibility that it will and think that if they could get the (existing) neutrality legislation wiped off the books it would strengthen their position.

"But that seems to be a legislative impossibility. So there you are."

It also was stated that an adjournment date for congress was not discussed at tonight's meeting. The conference lasted from 8:30 p.m. until almost midnight.

Fingerprinting, Jiu Jitsu Talks Headline Short Course Today

"Identifications of Criminals and Fingerprinting" is the subject of A. T. Potter of the federal bureau of investigation whose lecture at 8 o'clock this morning opens the third day of the third annual peace officers short course here. The lecture will be held in room 10 of the dental building.

Lieut. Edward F. Burke of the Eastman Kodak company will talk on "Photography in Crime Detection" at 9 o'clock; Maurice L. Ryan, post office inspector in charge, St. Paul, Minn., "Criminal Apprehension Work from the Post Office Inspector's Point of View," 10 o'clock; Robert O. Daniel, Cedar Rapids, and Clarence Shier of the Iowa highway patrol, "Truck Registration and Reciprocal Relations" at 11 o'clock. Robert Brown and Lou Krieger, both of the Iowa highway patrol, "Personal Combat and Jiu Jitsu," 1 o'clock, and James W. Pattie, Marshalltown, "Preparation for Criminal Trial," 3:30.

Attendance at the peace officers short course rose to a record figure yesterday when 280 men had registered.

The mark broke the old record of 260 established last year. Prof. Rollin M. Perkins, director of the course, announced. With new arrivals enrolling daily, it is expected that the total will go well over 300 before the work ends Friday.

Certificates will be awarded at the banquet Friday at which B. Hicklenooper, lieutenant-governor of Iowa, will speak.
