Demonstrates Baseball Camera

Ray G. Carlstrom of the Folmer-Graflex corporation of Rochester, N. Y., demonstrates the use of the "Long Tom" Graflex camera at the second annual photography short course equipment exhibit yesterday. This camera is built especially for photographing baseball games and has four focus points controlled by moving the lever which Mr. Carlstrom is holding. The four focus points are on first, second and third bases and home plate and the focus moves with the action around the diamond. The Chicago Tribune uses nine of these cameras in sport work.

Yates To Speak At Camera Club Dinner

Three demonstrations, six lectures, a round table discussion and a dinner constitute today's program of the second annual photographers short course.

Eighty-three persons registered for the course yesterday and many more are expected today with the busiest and most varied program of any of the three days.

The highlight of today's classes in the school for Iowa news photographers will be the Campus camera club dinner tonight in the river room of Iowa Union. Following the dinner at 6 o'clock, the entire evening program will take place in the river room.

Opening this morning's schedule will be a demonstration on "Focal Plane Synchronization with a four-by-five Speed Graphic" explained by Rus Arnold of the Wabash Photolamp corporation of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Two lectures occupy the rest of this morning. These will be on "Synchronized Flashlight Photography" and "Present-Day Camera Equipment."

A demonstration and two lectures also make up the afternoon program today. The demonstration, which is at 1:30, is on "Story-Telling Action Pictures for News, Advertising and the Trade Papers."

The afternoon lectures take up "Films for the News Cameraman" and "Reader Interest in News Pictures."

Juanita Gray, vice-president of Campus Camera club, will preside over the after-dinner program this evening in the river room.

Prof. Frank L. Mott will give the introduction talk after which George Yates, head of the Des Moines Register and Tribune photographic department, will give a demonstration talk on "Tricks of the Trade."

Arrangements have been made to have Mr. Yates answer questions in a round table discussion after his talk. The concluding event on the evening program will be a sound-picture lecture on "Pictures Indoors With G-E Mazda Photo Lamps."

Prof. Edward F. Mason of the school of Journalism and director of the short course called special attention to the lecture on reader interest in news pictures at 3:30 this afternoon. This topic will be discussed by Jack M. Willem of the Stack-Globe Advertising agency of Chicago.

Professor Mason said that Mr. Willem has analyzed the picture reactions of some 9,000 readers by the Gallup method and his findings run counter to several picture editing traditions.

No Men From Mars Appear as Planet 'Nears' Earth

By The Associated Press
Earth's closest approach to Mars in 15 years apparently passed unnoticed by the Martians last night. Inhabitants of the planet, if any exist outside the imagination of Orson Welles, might have been busy plowing their new - green fields.

Down here, however, a radio signal was sent in Mars' direction and a receiver was tuned to Mars' supposed frequency on the improbable chance of hearing something, and star - gazing parties, scientific and amateur, were held around the world.

Far away in South America, an echo of Welles' terrifying radio dramatization of a Martian invasion last year was heard when double earth shocks caused a panic at Mendoza, Argentina. Many people believed the shocks were caused by Mars' proximity.

With the planet now within 36,000,000 miles of the earth, science for the first time was ready with instruments which might determine if the green in one of the great dark spots on the planet came from chlorophyll and therefore was vegetation.

That the planet had what appeared to be snows piled up for two days over millions of square miles was reported by Earl C. Slipher of Lowell observatory, who was at Bloemfontein, South Africa, to observe the rare phenomenon of Mars' close passage.

Vantage points for the observation were taken in the southern hemisphere by many astronomers, since the star, while appearing from the United States to be just above the southern horizon, was in its zenith in the far south.

Some astronomers in the United States planned observations and public shows in August when the view will be better from this neighborhood.

JAPAN QUESTIONS ACTION

America Asks More Respect From Japan

May Raise Duties On Japanese Goods In Second Action

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—Administration officials talked of raising duties on some Japanese products today and indicated Japan would have to show increased regard for American rights in China if she wanted a new commercial treaty with this country.

Secretary of State Hull and his advisors carefully studied reaction in Tokyo to this government's notice of yesterday that its 1911 treaty of commerce and navigation with Japan would be terminated next Jan. 26.

While the Japanese foreign office announced that Japan would be glad to conclude a new treaty if Washington desired, Hull indicated that negotiation of such a treaty would depend on "developments" in the next six months.

As to the "developments" that must precede the formulation of a new pact, the state department chief referred questioners to his note of yesterday to the Japanese, saying it spoke for itself. The note said the 1911 treaty was being terminated "with a view to better safeguarding and promoting American interests as new developments may require."

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau told reporters, meantime, that "we will take a fresh look at the countervailing duties." The treasury has had under study the possibility of imposing special duties on certain Japanese exports on the grounds they were subsidized.

Morgenthau said also that he would look into United States purchase of Japanese gold and silver. The treasury has bought $415,209,648 worth of Japanese gold in the last two years and $4,202,856 worth of silver.

Soon after Morgenthau had spoken, the commerce department made public an analysis of Japan's economy in which the importance of trade with the United States and the sale of gold here was emphasized.

Britain May Assume Firmer Attitude

LONDON, July 27 (AP)—Encouraged by the United States denunciation of the American-Japanese trade treaty, Great Britain was reported tonight to be considering stronger measures to protect her rights in the far east unless Japan observed the spirit as well as the letter of the new British-Japanese agreement.

Other factors influencing Britain toward a firmer attitude included:

1. The reported progress in the negotiations in Moscow for a British-French-Soviet Russian mutual assistance pact.

2. Continuance of the anti-British campaign in Japanese - controlled areas of China.

3. Unfavorable reaction to the British-Japanese agreement announced Monday in which Britain recognized that "Japanese forces in China have special requirements."

Some quarters said they saw a possibility that the government might follow the United States lead and denounce the 1911 British-Japanese trade treaty—but official circles said that was not likely for the present.

One official said the government wanted to try first to settle the difficulties by talks now going on in Tokyo.

If these talks failed or if the Japanese continued their anti-British campaign, it was said this policy might be scrapped and the government then may reconsider its plans for economic reprisals.

These plans—including denunciation of the trade treaty and imposition of an embargo on Japanese goods—never have been

Garner Called 'Poker-Playing Evil Old Man'

Vice-President Wins House Ovation After John L. Lewis' Flaying

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—Vice President Garner won a tumultuous ovation from the house late today a few hours after he had been denounced before a congressional committee by John L. Lewis, CIO leader, as a "labor-baiting, poker - playing, whisky-drinking evil old man."

Cheers, "rebel yells," and prolonged applause rolled through the chamber as the house membership, except for a handful of democrats, stood for two minutes in approbation of the Texas delegation's expression of "deep resentment and indignation at this unwarranted and unjustified attack" on Garner's private and public life.

Confidence in Garner
"The Texas delegation has complete confidence in his honesty, integrity and ability," said a statement read to the house by Rep. Luther A. Johnson (D-Tex.).

Lewis' sensational outburst against the vice president occurred near the close of his testimony before the house labor committee in opposition to any changes at this session in the wage - hour law.

He flatly accused Garner of responsibility for what he called the recent campaign against labor in the house of representatives, asserting "Garner's knife is searching, searching for the quivering, pulsating heart of labor."

Clears Way For Bill
A few hours after he had spoken, the house rules committee cleared the way for house consideration of wage-hour amendments, including a set which Rep. Barden (D-NC) has been pressing over the determined opposition of the Roosevelt administration. Among other things, the Barden amendments would exempt from the wage - hour law numbers of persons engaged in the handling of agricultural products.

The shaggy - browed Lewis, taking the committee completely by surprise, shouted his denunciation of the vice president near the close of a session which was called to harmonize sharply conflicting views as to proposed changes in the wage-hour law.

Betty Grable To Seek Divorce From Coogan

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27 (AP)—Betty Grable, film actress, said tonight she would file suit for divorce from Jackie Coogan, one-time juvenile star, within the next few days.

Miss Grable, who finished a personal appearance here tonight, said the grounds would be "mental cruelty."

GET THE DOGS IN!

Minutemen Rise Again In Gloucester

GLoucester, N. J., July 27—Gloucester's modern young "Paul Reveres" went into action again today.

For the second time, boys ran through streets ahead of dog catchers shouting:

"Get the dogs in. Get the dogs in. Here comes the dog catcher." It worked perfectly.

Noted Author Speaks Tonight In Last of University Lectures

'Benjamin Franklin' Will Be Discussed By Carl Van Doren

Speaking on "The First American Man of Letters: Benjamin Franklin," Carl Van Doren, author and editor, will close the summer session university lecture series when he speaks on the west approach to Old Capitol at 8 o'clock tonight.

Van Doren is the fifth Pulitzer prize winner to visit the University of Iowa campus this summer and he will close the 1939 summer parade of distinguished visitors to the campus.

In addition to his talk tonight, the noted biographer will lead a round table session in the house chamber of Old Capitol beginning at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Van Doren won the Pulitzer prize for his biography of Benjamin Franklin. This work has already been published in England and has been translated into Italian and German.

The author also has published works of fiction and criticism and has been editor of Century, Nation, and Literary Guild magazines.

In case of inclement weather the lecture will be in Macbride auditorium, it was announced.

Seek Woman Implicated In Iowa Murder

DES MOINES, July 27 (AP)—Inspector of detectives Jack Brophy said tonight a woman was being sought for questioning in connection with the mysterious shooting of a gray haired man, who was found dying on a street in the business district early today after he had been put out of an automobile.

Termed the case a "cold murder," Brophy announced these new developments in the investigation:

Police established that the man was riding in an automobile with three men and a woman when shot.

He was dumped into the street from the back seat of the automobile while it was moving, and was not carried out, as previously believed.

O. E. Burgess, an eye witness, disclosed he heard a shot fired just before he saw the man thrown from the moving car on busy Keosauqua way.

Showers Bring Iowans Relief

DES MOINES, July 27 (AP)—Thunder showers brought relief to scattered Iowa points tonight after the mercury soared up to 102 degrees during the afternoon in a renewal of blistering heat.

Temperature tops of 102 degrees were reported at Cedar Rapids, Ames and Eldora.

Most of the showers were in the northwest section of the state.

Will Conclude New Pact If U. S. Desires

Japanese Spokesman Sees 'Political' Motive In Treaty-Breaking

TOKYO, July 28 (Friday) (AP)—The Japanese foreign office announced today Japan's willingness to conclude a new trade treaty with the United States but questioned "the hasty and abrupt manner" in which Washington denounced the 1911 accord.

The foreign office spokesman earlier had declared "Japan certainly will take retaliatory measures if there is discrimination by America" after expiration of the six months period required to terminate the treaty.

Announcement of willingness to conclude a new treaty "if Washington desires" was contained in an official statement issued this morning. It indicated the foreign office's belief Washington's action was a political gesture connected with the British-Japanese negotiations on the Tientsin dispute.

Referring to the Washington explanation that reexamination of the treaty led to the conclusion that the American-Japanese pact contained provisions needing new consideration, the statement said: "These reasons of the American government, which serve equally well for revision of the treaty, fail to explain fully why the American government should have found it necessary to give notice of abrogation in such a hasty and abrupt manner."

Because of the suddenness of the action and the brevity of the explanation, it went on: "It is difficult to grasp the true motive" underlying the action.

Political Significance
"Although the American government claim the notification has no connection whatever with deliberations of the senate foreign affairs committee," (a reference to Senator Vandenberg's (R-Mich.) proposal to abolish the American-Japanese treaty) "the present action, coming as it does at the time of the Anglo-Japanese conversations, is highly susceptible to being generally interpreted as having political significance."

"A new situation is rapidly developing in East Asia. The Japanese government has long been hoping that other countries of the world would frankly recognize this fact."

Other official acts, apart from the foreign office, regarded Washington's action, taken Wednesday, as an unfriendly act because of its abruptness.

Senate Backs Lending Bill, Temporarily

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—The senate backed the administration tonight in a series of votes on the $2,490,000,000 lending bill, but the opposition hoped to reverse the evening's most important decision.

This new deal victory was a 40 to 38 vote by which administration forces rejected an amendment which would have struck a half-billion dollars for road improvements from the measure. The amendment was offered by Senator Byrd (D-Va.).

So close was the vote and so many were the absentees that leaders of the bi-partisan economy bloc predicted that a motion to reconsider would prevail, and ultimately throw out the authorization in question.

Utilities Seek To Buy Private Organizations

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. July 27 (AP)—Nebraska's three major public power and irrigation districts will reopen negotiations at once for the purchase of the state's privately owned electric utilities, C. H. Fisher, chairman of the Platte valley district's power committee, announced today.

The opinion said the case should have been submitted to the jury on the question of whether there was an unreasonable restraint of interstate commerce instead of submitting it on the question of whether there was a violation of Sherman anti-trust laws.

Others were more serious in their observations. Three thousand waited in line for a look through the Oklahoma City university telescope.

The Maryland academy of sciences, holding open house for star gazers, had 777 visitors to view the planet "Boling" Wednesday night. Thousands were expected at the University of Minnesota observatory, where 500 saw Mars Wednesday night.

Public interest in the phenomenon was immediate and widespread, nevertheless — except possibly at Grover's Mill, N. J., imaginary landing place of Welles' equally imaginary Martian invaders last fall. Grover's Mill folks were talking about the rain.

At the New York world's fair, the occasion prompted a riotous burlesque of the "invasion" with an air raid and the arrest of a "Martian" on charges of espionage. The invader was sentenced to a term in the fair's fun zone.

discarded completely, informed quarters said, and could be applied at any time the government thought necessary.

Hopes in government circles that a British-French - Russian pact was nearing conclusion increased the feeling that European tension would continue to ease and Britain would be freer to act in the Orient.

Sources close to the government confirmed reports that British and French military missions would leave for Moscow shortly for staff talks with Soviet commanders.

These plans—including denunciation of the trade treaty and imposition of an embargo on Japanese goods—never have been likely for the present.

One official said the government wanted to try first to settle the difficulties by talks now going on in Tokyo.

British Hongkong Guards Against Night Air Raids

HONGKONG, July 27 (AP)—The world-famous night view of Britain's Hongkong with its myriad lights was blotted out completely for two hours tonight.

A newly formed air raid precaution organization enforced its first colony-wide blackout, educating the populace to the reality of war preparations.

A siren alarm plunged 1,500,000 residents into darkness. Ambulances and police cars cruised the streets and regular soldiers and trained volunteers manned defense posts. Ships in the crowded harbor also were darkened and the British navy's speedy motorboats patrolled the waterways.

Hamilin Dies

SOUTH PORTLAND, Me., (AP)—Former U. S. Rep. Simon M. Hamilin, who in 1934 became the first democrat since the Civil war to represent the first Maine district, died at his home yesterday. He was 73.

Court Reverses Trust Decision

CHICAGO, July 27 (AP)—The government's conviction of 12 oil companies and five individuals on charges of violating the anti-trust laws by conspiring to raise and fix gasoline prices was reversed today by the United States circuit court of appeals.

The court ordered the case retried, holding Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone's instructions to the jury in the Madison, Wis., oil conspiracy trial contained a reversible error.

The opinion said the case should have been submitted to the jury on the question of whether there was an unreasonable restraint of interstate commerce instead of submitting it on the question of whether there was a violation of Sherman anti-trust laws.

Let's Make It Legal

THE ANCIENT and ordinarily admirable "Art of Self Defense," not recognized legally in Iowa, has been making, of late, attempts at re-establishment in the state.

In two recent battles, Johnny Paycheck, Des Moines latest pugilistic hope, has scored knockouts, one of them in nearly record time, but the victories have added little to his fame and, what is more important, they have probably damaged the prestige of boxing, professional or otherwise, in Iowa.

In short, Paycheck's knockout wins over Unknown Winston and Charley Belanger appeared to be little more than varied versions of a one act play in which the hero excels by pasting a crippled grandfather whose only crime was senility.

The fact that the Des Moines fighter may have added to his prestige in a national way while injuring sport in general in towns where the fans are treated to his quick knockout wins, is unimportant, probably, and so is the fate of the graveyard material that was slaughtered in the exhibitions, but the real point of the whole proceedings is preventability.

The old blue law, which makes boxing illegal here, has failed to prevent the plasterings that are handed out in a professional way, but by way of effect, it has entirely stopped any attempts by the state's leading colleges to install intercollegiate boxing as part of their athletic programs—all this because the state legislature has idly passed up any suggestions of establishing a boxing commission.

It could, very easily, set up a body to handle the sport—a group of men who could insist on fights that were fights, and who could help the university and Iowa State add another, and valuable, sport to their athletic programs.

Legislation For Safety On The Roads

CLEARING IOWA'S highways of unsafe jalopies is to become an objective of the state department of public safety, Commissioner Karl Fischer announced this week.

Unique is the system being proposed to bring about the disappearance of aged cars. Fischer advocates legislation which would place higher taxes on automobiles regarded as traffic hazards because of their age.

"In the past taxes have been scaled down for jalopies. The reverse should apply," the commissioner declares.

In other words Fischer believes that higher taxes would lead the owners of ancient cars to cease driving altogether or trade for newer models almost certain to be safer.

There may be some sense to the safety commissioner's idea. It must be remembered, however, that there are thousands of Iowans who cannot afford to own cars other than those which Fischer might class as jalopies. Moreover, it is not entirely logical to assume that a 10 or even a 15-year-old car is always less safe than a current model.

Since greater safety is the aim of the commissioner, it would seem that this objective might be gained more completely by sponsoring laws which would compel every automobile owner to carry ample liability insurance and also have his car checked periodically to detect and remedy dangerous deterioration in lights, tires, brakes and other important parts. Such legislation would probably remove from the highways a large percentage of the cars Fischer classes as jalopies. It would also serve to reduce the hardships which often result because the owner of an automobile, current model as well as jalopy, has been too irresponsible to take out proper insurance or keep his car in condition assuring maximum safety for himself and the public.

Maybe the real reason those Jap soldiers have been stripping and searching British subjects in China is to remind John Bull that, if he doesn't get out of the Orient, he'll lose his shirt.

"Ah," sighs the poet. "The quiet of a midsummer eve!" That's right—most of the radio comedians are off the air.

A girl should have several bathing suits—fashion item. That's right and at least one in which she can readily swim.

A Diplomatic Pain In The Neck

PROBABLY STUDENTS OF history a hundred years from now will be able to see in the negotiations of the 1930's a number of blunders. One of them may be the reported refusal of the British early in the decade to accept the appointment of Count Galeazzo Ciano as ambassador to the Court of St. James.

This act, coupled with failure of Britons to entertain enthusiastically the count's wife, possibly was one of a chain of occurrences which led to the formation of the Rome-Berlin axis.

A short time after Countess Edda's visit in Germany, the axis treaty was signed, with Count Ciano representing Italy.

So possibly the Britons' treatment of Mussolini's daughter is responsible to a considerable degree for the formation of the axis. If so, it was surely a blunder on the part of the British, for the axis has certainly been a pain in Britain's diplomatic neck for the past four years.

Learning Becomes An Adventure

THE APPOINTMENT of Prof. Ethan P. Allen of the political science department as province governor of Pi Gamma Mu, national social science honor society, gives concrete recognition to the abilities of one of Iowa's younger professors.

Ever popular among his students, Professor Allen has shown commendable abilities in focusing the interests of students on the vast scene of civilization.

The entire university shares in the benefits that come from having progressive educators on its faculty; men who can make the study of a prosaic subject an adventure for students are valuable men. Professor Allen, as his students can testify, is that kind of a teacher.

It's about time those European countries signed some more treaties. There's nothing like a treaty signing to take the public's mind off the fact that the munitions factories are running full blast.

WHAT PLANTS HAVE BEEN CULTIVATED THE LONGEST IN AMERICA? MONARDRA.

HOME-COMING WEEK

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By George Tucker

New York—Ever since Clare Booth wrote a comedy satirizing Hollywood's search for a suitable Scarlett O'Hara, the word "allergic" has hung in the air like the refrain of a popular song. In the play Miss Booth used it to describe a talkative woman, saying she was "allergic to silence."

In the local newspapers this week I have seen this word used in four different headlines. Not long ago it was used in the story of a man who died from the effect of a bee's sting. The unfortunate man is supposed to have exclaimed to his wife at the time he was stung, "I am allergic to bees," and then expired.

Around town you hear things like this every day, "I'm allergic to cats" or "My little boy is allergic to orange juice." I do not recall when any word has been so universally embraced by a public which, in large part, never heard the word until Miss Booth used it, and still has no idea of its origin. This includes myself. I have read many newspapers daily for many years, yet in all honesty I must confess that I didn't know the word, and I don't remember hearing or seeing it until one night last autumn I dropped by a theater in West 43rd street and saw the second night's performance of "Kiss the Boys Goodbye." Later I started to look up the word, but my dictionary didn't have it, and I was either too tired or too lazy to look further. Ever since then on those frequent occasions when I hear it used, and sometimes missed, I always think "I'll look it up when I get to the office." But I never have.

But that is the way words find their way into the public's vocabulary. Someone uses it in a gag, or a song, or a quotation, and on the way to the office or the ball game next day the taxi-driver uses it too. That's the way the word "berserk" became so widely used in America. A number of years ago it appeared in one of those blood-curdling, I-saw-thousand-troopers-die accounts of the French Foreign Legion in Liberty magazine. That was when legion stories were fashionable, and everybody "went berserk" everytime anything annoyed them. Personally, I'm allergic to legion stories now, though there was a time when I thought the epitome of all romance and adventure was the legion.

And that reminds me—have you seen the pictures of those Legionnaires who returned to Paris to march in the Bastille day celebrations? Don't look at them, if you haven't seen them already. Of all disillusioning sights, these French legionnaires are tops. They are gaunt, bearded and uncivilized looking fellows who might conceivably be refugees from a chain gang, but not from the legion that Hollywood has built up in our minds.

These pictures were used in the local papers and created something of a minor sensation—at least one paper asked pointedly, "Who's guilty? Who's pulling the wool over our eyes—Paris or Hollywood?"

A few more pictures like those and not only will we become allergic to the legion—we will go stark berserk.

HEALTH HINTS

By Logan Clendenning, M. D.

Whether overweight is a dis-ease or just a constitutional condition is debatable, but what has been said about poverty, that it is no disgrace to be poor but it might as well be, applies to obesity. If it is not a disease, it might as well be because the treatments that are suggested for it would fill a large library of medical textbooks.

On the side of those who regard it as a disease are Drs. Newburgh and Cones, of Ann Arbor, who have found that obese patients having sugar in the urine lose it when the weight is reduced. Furthermore, they will not thereafter have sugar in the urine, regardless of the diet consumed, provided they do not gain weight. In former times they would be considered to have diabetes, but it is really only the glycosuria of obesity.

One explanation of this condition is that the liver is so infiltrated with fat that it does not function properly. It is well known that the liver is concerned with the nutrition of sugar.

Overweight is a definite handicap in many ways. It produces increased warmth, shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart, flat foot, backaches and arthritis. So there is plenty of reason for treating the condition when it exists. With the approach of middle age, everyone who is susceptible should take measures to prevent it.

It is remarkable how many theories have been advanced to explain obesity—remarkable considering that in 98 per cent of all cases the cause is simply consumption of too much food. Heredity and constitutional build play a role in the production of obesity, but they are the foundations on which the super-structure of extra food is built.

Many corpulent individuals insist that they do not have abnormal appetites and that they do not eat more than others. They will recite to you what they ate at breakfast, lunch and dinner; demand in a challenging fashion whether this is too much. They do not count the snacks they take in during the course of the day. There is a soda fountain drink in mid-morning, a few peanuts in the afternoon, a glass of beer or a couple of cocktails in the evening with the sandwiches that accompany. Certainly 200 or 300 calories extra. And it is calculated that 200 calories a day over the actual needs of the body will result in a gain in weight of 19 pounds. This extra amount may be taken in without being detected by eye or appetite.

In treating obesity, reliance is mainly placed on diet. Extra exercise is not necessary; patients lose weight on a proper diet even if they remain in bed. Measurements of weight loss through exercise are somewhat misleading. A football player may lose as much as 15 pounds during a game. But most of this is water loss. Only about a third of a pound is actual flesh. The water loss is regained within a few hours.

A proper diet for obesity must be balanced. It would require one gram of protein per kilogram of ideal body weight, enough calcium and phosphorus, a proper ratio between carbohydrate and fat so that acidosis is prevented, and all the essential vitamins, 1,300 calories are provided with 65 grams of protein, 60 grams of fat and 130 grams of carbohydrate. Such a diet, if scrupulously followed, always causes an obese person to lose weight, and food deficiency symptoms have never been observed after its use.

Servants Swamp Customs Office With Smuggling Tips

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

The moral to several recent convictions of "high society folks" on charges of smuggling is this: Either don't smuggle or quit keeping servants.

Take, for example, the case of Mrs. Edgar J. Lauer, found guilty of bringing some thousands of dollars' worth of dutiable finery into the United States from Europe without paying the import tax on it, and just through with serving a short prison term (even a short stay in jail is an awful dose for a "socialite") for doing so, not to mention a stiff fine that her husband (a former New York supreme court justice) had to foot the bill for. Incidentally the government confiscated the smuggled assets.

It seems that Mrs. Lauer had a maid, who took umbrage at a criticism or two by her mistress, who had reason to suspect the smuggling transaction, who was astute enough to know that smuggling is illegal, and who tipped off Uncle Sam's revenue agents, just to get even with Mrs. Lauer.

Well, she got good and even. She got more than that, though. Possibly that maid wasn't aware that the informer in such instances gets from the government a substantial chunk, as a reward, out of Uncle Sam's confiscatory activities. She found it out later, however, when she received a nice check from the treasury department, as her share of the collection.

Plenty of Publicity

What's more, a deal of publicity was given to the fact that the maid did make a good financial thing out of her grouch.

Thereupon other prominent people's servants began turning in hints to the treasury concerning THEIR employers' supposed smuggling. I don't suppose that this second batch of informers were actuated by any particular desire to cancel old grudges against their various masters and mistresses. All they appear to have wanted was to make some money, like the Lauers' maid.

Several of them succeeded. Quite a little coterie of film stars and radio celebrities were caught on the "spot" and had to dig up tidy sums, out of which the informants got nice pieces of "divvy" from the federal government.

Just why film and radio personalities should be especially susceptible to the smuggling urge isn't clear to me, or to the treasury, either. It must be because they everlastingly are traveling to Europe and coming back again, thus having a better chance than less frequent tourists—providing they get away with it.

Anyway, the proportion of 'em who do get snagged is exceptionally high—and they've been brought to book, up to date, exclusively by their servants.

Moreover, the servants have discovered now that there IS a good thing to be made out of anti-smuggling espionage. A maid, a valet or a butler who sees an opportunity to scoop in a couple or three thousands on the customs game naturally is tempted. Doubtless they lose their jobs, but an immediate treasury check, maybe running into four figures, is a pretty fair offset against a position worth $30 or $40 monthly.

I'd surmise that one of these "canned" informants, trying to find a new berth, would have a heck of a time securing a favorable recommendation from his or her last boss, but probably that hasn't occurred to 'em yet. The game's young; and its contrasting advantages and disadvantages haven't been tested.

I'll Be Overworked

Anyhow, the customs service simply is swamped with offers from maids, butlers, valets and footmen to reveal smugglings by America's classiest families.

Customs officials are not fooled. They fully understand that most of these tips are "phony"—that the would-be informers merely are taking a chance on scoring a fat government check here and there, by pure accident, as in a lottery.

The Lauers' maid knew what she was talking about. Her immediate imitators, catching the inspiration, knew what THEY were talking about also.

The present crew are gambling solely. Yet if you're a "socialite," a movie star or an outstanding broadcaster, be wary.

There's at least one compensation in not being a college graduate. You have no favorite football team on which to bet and lose money.

TUNING IN

with D. Mac Showers

RAYMOND PAIGE has selected a number of favorite Italian melodies which he has grouped under the title of "Carnival in Venice" for presentation on the "Raymond Paige, 99 Men and a Girl" program this evening at 7 o'clock over CBS.

It was "old home week" for Raymond Paige when he directed his orchestra for a federal theater project benefit broadcast. On the show with the "99 Men and a Girl" maestro, were Tyrone Power and Miriam Hopkins, old friends of his from the coast.

FRANK BLACK directing the Cities Service orchestra tonight at 8 o'clock over NBC-Red will present a varied and interesting program.

The orchestra will play "Caravan," "Reveries," "La Danse" and "Fayume." The ensemble sings "Down With Love," "Song of the Metronome" and a medley of tunes from 1928.

LUCILLE MANNERS will sing "Bird Songs at Eventide," "La Danza" and "Tell me that You Love me Tonight." Ross Graham sings "I Poured My Heart into a Song" and with Miss Manners, "Sweet and Low."

Another drama in the story of oil series will be presented as a regular feature on the show.

BOB RIPLEY brings three people, who found lost articles under unusual circumstances, to his "Believe it or Not" program over CBS tonight at 8:30.

They will relate how a fish, a snake, a toad and an earache were instrumental in bringing back a knife, a ring and a diamond. Ripley will also present another "Believe it or Not" dramatization as an additional feature.

ABE LYMAN and his orchestra vocally aided by Tenor Frank Munn, the golden voice of radio, and the Manhattan chorus will be heard in the regular "Waltz Time" program this evening at 7 o'clock over NBC-Red network stations.

Two old numbers will be revised by Johnny Green and his orchestra as a feature of the "Johnny Presents" program over CBS this evening at 6:30.

THESE ARE "After You've Gone," with vocal interpretations by the Swing Fourteen, and "Birth of the Blues."

Other numbers to be presented on the half-hour show are "Old Fashioned Tune," "Sam, the Vegetable Man," "Let's Disappear," with a vocal by Floyd Sherman, and "In the Middle of a Dream" with Green playing a piano solo. The dramatization will be another "Perfect Crime" story by Max Marcin.

GUY LOMBARDO and his orchestra in a half hour program, beginning at 8 o'clock, and heard over NBC-Red network stations will be a highlight of tonight's program.

At 7:30 this evening will be heard the Robin Hood Ball concert presented by the Philadelphia orchestra. George Sebastian will conduct. This over NBC-Blue stations.

A PERSONAL OPINION—Shep Fields and his Rippling Rhythm orchestra, who are now trying a radio comeback, after nearly two years off the air, and out of the public eye will make a great success.

You may find out for yourself and I'm sure you will agree after hearing his music. Broadcast tonight is over CBS at 9 o'clock.

Many other fine dance bands and swell music about this time and later, too.

High School Players Will Appear Tonight

Speech Group Takes Part In Theater Play

Winbigler Directs 'Hundred Years Old' Tonight, Tomorrow

High school students from Iowa and surrounding states will present "A Hundred Years Old," a charming romantic comedy, tonight and tomorrow at University theater. Directed by Prof. Donald Winbigler, it is part of the summer program of special activities for high school students in cooperation with University high school and the speech department.

The students take morning classes at University high school and in the afternoon specialize in one of three fields, dramatic interpretation, debate or speech correction. This play is produced in connection with the class in dramatic interpretation.

Prof. Arnold S. Gillette, Prof. Hunton D. Sellman and Helen Forrest Lauterer of the University theater staff have assisted in the production.

English Version
"A Hundred Years Old" is an English version of a Spanish play by Sarafin and Joaquin Alvarez Quintero. The Quintero brothers are among the best known of contemporary Spanish playwrights and collaborated on many plays.

Under the title "Papa Juan" it was successfully done by Otis Skinner a few years ago.

The plot concerns a charming but roguish centenarian who encounters a great many difficulties in bringing together the temperamental members of the family for a celebration of his 100th birthday.

Settings were designed by Hollister S. Smith under the supervision of Professor Gillette, costumes by Mrs. Lauterer and the lighting in charge of Professor Sellman.

The cast of characters includes five Iowa Citizens: Bill Houck, City high, and Patty Bates, Genevieve Slemmons, Charles Dutcher and Lewis Ward, all from University high.

Others in Cast
Others in the cast include Shirlyn Ross, Fred Rein, Jack Lawrence, Jeannette Elphick, Mitchell Agruss, Kay Christopher and Blanche Smith.

Walter Haderer, director of music at University high school, is in charge of the music for the program. Offstage musicians and guests include Wendell Kennedy, Walter Fleischmann, Mary Elizabeth Winbigler, Betty Ellett, Albert Muenzer, William Gower Jr., Mary Catherine French, Barbara Beye, Gordon Mathews and Dick Baldrige.

Blanche Smith, a high school student, is assisting Professor Winbigler in directing the play; other director's assistants are Maurice Birdsall and Alva Benson.

Paul Davee is technician and Peter Marroney, stage carpenter. Bob Parden of City high is stage manager for the production.

The building and stage crew includes one high school student, Jack Doyle of City high. Others are Kay Pierce, Ruth Ganfield,

Muddled Field Reaches Stretch In Golf Tourney

BALTIMORE, July 27 (AP)—A California insurance man, a San Francisco policeman, a Pittsburgh steel worker and a shipping clerk from far-off Honolulu fought their way through two sets of 18-hole matches today and tomorrow will meet in the semi-final round of the 18th national public links golf championship.

The insurance man, 22-year-old Philip Gordon of Oakland, Cal., meets Jim Molinari, 34-year-old radio car patrolman, in the 36-hole semi-final. The steel worker is 31-year-old Andy Swedko, who will oppose Arthur Armstrong, the 21-year-old Hawaiian who has been a tournament favorite ever since he finished in a four-way tie for the qualifying medal.

Gordon was the big surprise of this fourth day of competition over the rolling Mt. Pleasant park course. Playing in his second national championship, the California youngster turned in a fine exhibition of consistent golf to defeat Ken Peterson, Ohio State public links champion from Dayton, 5 and 4, in this morning's third round, and then made only two mistakes all the way in winning his quarter-finals by the same score from Roy Dolce, 23-year-old efficiency expert from Denver, Col.

George Poulos First in A. A. U.

Bill Freeman, Des Moines, finished second; Bob Joels, Clarinda, third, and William Price, Ft. Des Moines, fourth.

CHICAGO, July 27 (AP)—Even Manager Leo Durocher's thirty-third birthday wasn't incentive enough to pull the Dodgers over the Chicago Cubs today and the invaders lost, 3-1, as the Cubs eyed the series at two games apiece.

Big Bill Lee pitched a five-hit job to rack up his 11th game of the season, and Durocher's triple was the lustiest blow the Dodgers struck.

Reds Win Doubleheader From Bees by Scores of 6 to 1; 9 to 8

BOSTON, July 27 (AP)—The veteran Clint Brown, making his 39th appearance of the season in a relief role, checked the Boston Red Sox and pulled a 12-7 victory out of the fire for the Chicago White Sox today in the series windup.

Brown Rescues White Sox Again; Beats Bosox, 12-7

Brown, who had worked in three of the four previous games here, had a 7-6 deficit when he relieved John (Footsie) Marcum. He pitched hitless ball during the remainder of the game, thereby drawing credit for his eighth win of the year.

Movies Bid for Alice's "Services," But She Likes Her Amateur Standing

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP)—She might steal a picture if they gave her a chance, but the pictures aren't going to steal Alice Marble from the ranks of amateur tennis.

Right now she's standing at the base line waiting for the movie moguls to serve up a screen test, but whether her return is good or she flubs it into the net will make no difference in her tennis plans.

Sweet Alice arrived yesterday from England, a tall, willowy blonde with grey-green eyes, and wearing three invisible Wimbledon crowns.

"There is no definite deal on," she said in answer to questions concerning her future in the land of make-believe. "I understand my agent is negotiating with a couple of companies for a film test for me, but as far as I know that's as far as it has gone."

"No, I wouldn't give up tennis if I went in the movies. I wouldn't play in tennis pictures, and would keep my amateur standing. I really don't know just how I'd like them. However, I live in California so I know making pictures is tough, hard work."

She declined to make a choice as to her preference—tennis, singing or play acting.

Dubuque, Cascade, Anamosa, Monticello Vote for Iowa Coach; Local Voting Continues Heavy

Where They're Voting

Iowa City balloting for Dr. Eddie Anderson as coach of the all-star team continued heavy yesterday. Racine's No. 3 seems to be the favorite voting location, the tobacco emporium coming through with 132 votes. The D & L grill, Donnelly's tavern, Reich's cafe, Bremer's clothing store and the Jefferson hotel turned out strong votes, however, and pushed the Racine outfit closely for the lead. Princess cafe No. 2, Smith's cafe, Whetstone's No. 2, Englert theater and Joe's tavern accounted for some heavy voting but trailed the rest of the field. Many other polling points in the downtown district registered 50 or more votes. Individual honors for the most votes solicited must go to Jimmy Lyle, former Hawkeye track captain, who carried ballots with him about the campus and signed up more than 100 Anderson partisans. The first returns from out of town reached The Daily Iowan office last night, ballots being received from Anamosa, Monticello, Dubuque and Cascade. With interest mounting hourly, it appears that Dr. Anderson will certainly receive a tremendous total vote throughout the state.

He's far down the list right at present but just wait awhile, seemed to be the attitude of the average Iowa City football fan as he went about the business of casting his vote for Dr. Eddie Anderson in the nation wide poll to select a coaching staff for the all-star game.

Business leaders of the town, as well as the youngsters on the street, have taken the poll seriously and intend to do everything possible to land Dr. Anderson on the coaching staff.

In addition to the local vote, which exceeded that of the previous day, returns from around the state are beginning to come into The Daily Iowan office.

Votes from Cascade, Monticello, Anamosa and Dubuque were received, the state-wide campaign for Anderson votes apparently beginning to bear good results.

The Chicago Tribune tabulation of yesterday morning—which does not include the first and second Daily Iowan returns—gave Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern coach, 36,042 points—points being allotted on the basis of three for first place vote; two for second and one for third.

Dr. Anderson, in the same tabulation, trailed the Big 10 field, having a total of 1,639. Many, many thousand points will have been added to that total by this time, however.

In order that Dr. Anderson be elevated to the top flight those who have not voted are urged to do so at once. The poll closes at midnight Aug. 5. So vote today and PUT DR. EDDIE ANDERSON ON THE ALL-STAR COACHING STAFF!

Net Comeback Of Helen Wills Very Probable

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP)—The odds at this stage are about one to four that Mrs. Helen Wills Moody late this summer will put aside the mystery novel she's pecking out on a typewriter, and seek her eighth national tennis title at Forest Hills.

After 18 years at the game, in which she's won eight Wimbledon, seven American and four French titles, she is a little amused and perplexed at the drawing power of competitive sport, that makes her today 25 per cent in favor of a quest for another title.

"I'm never going to retire," said the "little Miss Polka-face" of the courts with an animated countenance. "From time to time I'm not going to play, but you never can tell when it will pull you back. You might want to go waddling around at 50, if you still have a little spring in your knees!"

Lithe and slim at 33, Mrs. Moody is out nearly every afternoon on a mid-town court, playing an excellent game after a morning's work on her second mystery novel.

Her first, "Death Serves an Ace," which she wrote in collaboration with Robert T. Murphy, will be published Aug. 1. It's a tennis mystery, about hair-raising high-jinks in connection with a big match. Mrs. Moody, an artist of considerable ability, was so interested in working out the plot she stopped painting for a nearly a year.

Hawkeyes Select Athletic Heroes

Red Grange, Babe Ruth and Gene Tunney are among the most popular "favorite athletes" of the University of Iowa current crop of football players.

But there is a wide divergence of opinion, according to votes on a questionnaire returned by the Hawkeye athletes, but the professional stars in general are far in the lead.

But Capt. Erwin Prasse refused to commit himself, saying, "I'll give credit to anyone who makes good."

Luffoon Team Wins

ST. PAUL, June 27 (AP)—Playing the last half of their round in a driving rainstorm, Patricia Stephenson of Minneapolis and Ky Luffoon, veteran Chicago pro, Thursday won the women's event which inaugurated the 10th annual Keller open golf tournament.

Miss Stephenson went out in 40 strokes and came back in 43 for a gross 83, and net 77.

JULIA SANFORD

Registration for the Three-Weeks Independent Study-Unit, Aug. 25, 1939.

The three-weeks independent study-unit is designed for only such graduate students as are registered this summer in the graduate college in case it appears to them and the departments in which they may wish to register, respectively, practicable to undertake a definite study-project, not exceeding 3 s.h., independently of regular, daily meetings with professors for instruction and discussion, though with the advantage of the daily use of the other facilities of the university, chiefly the libraries. Graduate students who register in this way are required to remain on this campus, as resident students, throughout the three-weeks period.

A graduate student who contemplates registering in this way should, at the outset, and as soon as possible within the present week, have a preliminary conference with the head of the department concerned (or another professor in the department more immediately concerned) for the purpose of a mutual determination of the feasibility of the plan for him; and if, together, they find the plan practicable they should agree upon a descriptive title (within the department title) of the course, or study-project, to be undertaken (with a suitable course number if at all practicable). Only after this preliminary conference and the agreement indicated the student should proceed as follows:

- (1) Call at the registrar's office for his registration materials Monday, July 31, 1939.
(2) Fill the registration forms as usual.
(3) Obtain the approval signature of the head of the department in which he registers.
(4) Obtain the signature of the dean of the graduate college "118 university hall," hall, room W513).
(5) Return to the registrar's office to have fees assessed.
(6) Pay fees at treasurer's office.
(7) Registration in the independent study-unit for 1939 must be completed by Monday, Aug. 7. In the conference with the department concerned, each student should make as definite arrangements as possible for submitting the results of his study to the appropriate professor, as basis for the latter's report, to the registrar's office, of the outcome in terms of semester-hours and a grade mark; and this should be accomplished, so far as possible, at the end of the period, Aug. 25-28.

This three-weeks independent study-unit may serve to accommodate the special group of graduate students who plan to complete this summer the 9 s.h. in graduate courses in educational supervision and administration necessary for the standard superintendent's certificate. These students will have completed, during the present session, 8 s.h. of this requirement. They should proceed, as indicated above, by arranging with the dean of the college of education for the descriptive title of the course (within the department title) and the amount of work to be undertaken; with a suitable course number where- ever practicable. According to the Iowa State Board of Education's tuition regulations for the student who thus registers for only 1 s.h. in this independent study-unit (less than half work) the tuition fee will be three-fifths of the normal tuition fee—$9.00.

The three-weeks independent study-unit is not available for undergraduate students; but the attention of such undergraduate students as may wish to employ the latter weeks of the summer in further systematic study is directed to the availability of correspondence courses. Doubtless any such student can enroll for such a correspondence course immediately after the close of the present session, Aug. 6; and at least make a substantial start upon the completion of such a course prior to the opening of the new university year, Sept. 27, if he contemplates registering at that time as a resident student.

H. C. DORCAS, Registrar

Things could be worse. For instance, there might be a revival of those radio hog and husband-calling contests.

17 Search Warrants Returned To Justice T. M. Fairchild

Raid Defendants May Be Notified To Appear In Court Next Week

Search warrant returns against 17 Johnson county tavern and store operators were made yesterday to T. M. Fairchild, justice of the peace, by County Attorney Harold W. Vestermark, who returned recently after a one-day meeting in Des Moines regarding the recent raids on county "night spots."

The defendants will probably be notified to appear in his court sometime during the first week of August, the justice of the peace said.

He will notify all of the defendants named on each warrant to appear in his court to determine whether or not property allegedly belonging to them is to be forfeited to the state, destroyed, returned to the owners, or held for evidence in further court action.

The returns made yesterday were on the liquor and gambling search warrants which had been originally issued by Justice of the Peace Fairchild.

Rotarians Hear Of Convention

LeRoy S. Mercer Tells Of Viewpoints Of New President

"International business eventually will demand a universal auxiliary language. Although it cannot be English because of international pride and prejudice, such a language would do much to promote international understanding."

This expression of Walter D. Head, Montclair, N. J., recently elected president of Rotary International, was one of the highlights of his inaugural address cited by LeRoy S. Mercer in his report to the Iowa City Rotary club, at its regular weekly luncheon meeting yesterday noon in the Jefferson hotel, on the 30th annual convention of Rotary clubs which he attended in June at Cleveland, Ohio.

Mercer, president of the local club, further quoted Head, who stated that "those who expect some corporate action on the part of Rotary which would affect world conditions are doomed to disappointment. Rotary does not deal with world conditions but with causes behind those conditions."

Other highlights of the convention and the "awing" mechanics of such a large event were explained.

Guests included Charles S. Miller of Omaha with Prof. Woody Thompson, and visiting Rotarians John A. Yarbrough, Waco, Tex.; Ernest Ziegler, Des Moines; C. O. Dahle, Bloomington, Ind.; Elmer Ziegler, Muscatine, and Les Royal, West Liberty.

Latest Addition to Iowa City Air Corps

Latest addition to the corps of planes at the Iowa City airport is the new Stinson 105, shown above. Pictured with the plane is Bob Guthrie, brother of Lain Guthrie, Iowa City flight instructor, and owner of the new plane. The ship was flown to Iowa City yesterday from Detroit, Mich., where the factory is located. The new ship has a cruising speed of about 105 miles per hour. The plane accommodates three persons and has an instrument panel and interior upholstery very similar to a modern automobile. It is one of the few planes to have a grille, also similar to an automobile, in the front. There is a reserve fuel tank in the wing affording four hours of flight and giving the plane a range of about 420 miles in still air on this reserve supply.

Students May Study by Mail During August

Graduate students only will be eligible for the independent study unit beginning Aug. 7 at the University of Iowa but the undergraduates may earn credit by correspondence before the new school year.

It is possible for undergraduates to earn about three semester hours of credit, allowing about two weeks for every credit hour as the minimum time.

This home study work, under direction of the extension division, now lists 184 courses in 23 departments. Work may be started at any time.

The independent study unit, for which only recommended graduate students are eligible, continues until Aug. 25.
