Residents of Iowa City Go On Building Spree

City Foresees '39 Duplication Of 1925 Boom

Material Businesses Record Increases In Trade Volume

By JOHN J. MUELLER Statistics show that Iowa City will duplicate its 1925 building boom, when 86 houses were built, if the present rate of residence construction is maintained for the rest of the season.

"There is definitely more building being done at present than in previous years," Harold J. Monk, city inspector, stated yesterday. "On the whole it is a better type of house that is being constructed. I expect to see this the best year since 1930."

Contractors and men in the building material business state that their records show a large increase in the volume of trade for the first half of 1939 due to the number of residences that have been and are being constructed.

Records at the city inspector's office show for the "boom year" of 1925 that residences were constructed at a total cost of $419,450, an average of $4,742 per home.

Already this year 53 residences have been and are being constructed at a total cost of $240,924, an average cost of $4,545 per home, which is only $198 less than that of 1925.

The four year period following 1932 is in marked contrast, with an average of 20 residences constructed per year during the period. The average yearly total was $63,037, with $3,102 the average cost per residence.

In 1928, considered the most prosperous year preceding the economic depression, only 69 residences were built, as compared with the 53 under construction during the first seven months of this year.

Britain Girds Forces For Possible War Marshall's Sea Power, Resists Japanese

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—Britain today marshalled her vast sea forces in fear of late summer international tension.

Official quarters, meanwhile, said the British ambassador to Tokyo, Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, had been instructed to make representations to Japan against anti-British demonstrations which have continued during the Tokyo talks over British-Japanese difficulties in China.

Those talks have not been going well, officials indicated, with currency and silver questions coming up for consideration Monday. It was understood Japan asked that British protection be withdrawn from Chinese government silver which is in banks of the Tientsin British concession.

There were reports in London that Tokyo municipal authorities were arranging further anti-British rallies Monday outside the British embassy and the building in which the conferences are being held.

As to the present building boom, he said, "We haven't seen our peak yet." More and better building is being done, asserted Irving J. Schaefer of Lampert Yards Inc. W. B. Packman of the Packman Lumber company stressed the fact that homes of better quality and materials are being built today.

Senator Bridges Links Guffey With 'Mexican Oil Affair,' Creates Furore

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—Senator Bridges (R-NH) touched off an angry exchange in the senate today by reading newspaper stories which he said linked Senator Guffey (D-Pa) with persons who negotiated the sale of oil from United States properties seized by Mexico.

Bridges followed up the newspaper quotation with an announcement that he intended to seek a senate investigation of the "entire Mexican oil affair."

Guffey, his voice husky with emotion, termed the newspaper stories "100 per cent false and a malicious, character - destroying lie."

A half-dozen of his colleagues protested bitterly that Bridges had violated senate rules; "impugning the character of a member of this body."

The New Hampshire republican denied he was making any charge against Guffey, and Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis), who was presiding, ruled that he had not violated the senate regulation.

IRONY! Fire Station Proximity Prevents Blaze? SHELBY, N. C., July 29 (AP)—The Shelby Daily Star never had to call upon the fire department during the 25 years the department occupied a building adjoining the newspaper plant.

But as soon as the firemen got into new quarters several blocks away there came an alarm — the first to the new station.

The newspaper plant had caught fire.

Velma West Back in Ohio

Fugitive, Companion Back at Reformatory Following Escapade MARYSVILLE, Ohio, July 29 (AP)—Grim-faced Velma West and her fugitive companion, Mary Ellen Richards, came back to the Ohio reformatory for women tonight — just 40 days after they and two other inmates escaped for what Mrs. West, husband slayer, called a "last little adventure."

Handcuffed together and linked to a sheriff's deputy by a chain, the pair came here by automobile from Dayton, Ohio. They were taken from a train there after a 24-hour ride from Dallas, Tex., where they were captured last Tuesday.

Mrs. West seemed nervous as she and her companion were taken immediately to the prison hospital, where they were examined by doctors.

U. S. Industrial Interference Curbed by Senate

Property Tax Level in Iowa Remains Same DES MOINES, July 29 (AP)—State Comptroller C. Fred Porter said tonight the general property tax levy for state purposes would remain at two mills next year.

The levy, Porter estimated, will raise $5,750,000 and keep the state general fund balance at its present level. In announcing he would certify a two-mill levy to the state tax commission next Tuesday, Aug. 1, Porter said he still believes it will be possible to pay the maximum homestead tax credit for the full year, 1939, without drawing on the state general fund.

Prof. Rollin M. Perkins, director of the recently completed third annual short course for peace officers, yesterday announced that 208 of the 244 persons in attendance at the conference had earned certificates of attendance and participation awarded by the university, sponsor of the five day session.

The director said that the certificates, indicative of the substantial attendance by officers of most of the lecture and laboratory courses, would be in the mail Monday.

Europe Too Busy Now for War

Experts Predict New International Crisis at End of Harvest WARSAW (Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Harvest time in Europe is at hand, the time named in many forecasts concerning Europe's next period of tension.

There is widely held fear that the danger of war may become acute once the crops are in and men released from the fields to relinquish the scythe for the gun.

Harvest time always is an important time, and normally a happy one if the crops are good, as they promise to be.

In wheat alone the forecast is that the yield will exceed the five-year average in the European

Two Nations Dispute Anew Over Boundary

Chinese Flee Into British Area As Troops Close Gap

SHANGHAI, July 29 (AP)—Shanghai's intermittent British-Japanese friction flared anew tonight in an incident which brought Japanese with bayonets fixed and British troops face to face on a disputed international settlement boundary.

The affair produced no actual clash but the Japanese temporarily detained four British soldiers and threw up a barrier along the British defense zone which drew a strong British military protest as an encroachment on British-guarded territory.

Thousands of terrified Chinese fled into the British area before a Japanese naval force of 200 closed the gaps between the barricades on the boundary between the Japanese and British defense sectors.

The fresh friction occurred as the anti-British campaign in North China spread to Pehaiho, seacoast resort northeast of Tientsin, with the parading of paid Chinese demonstrators.

The British government instructed its ambassador to Tokyo to make new representations against continuation of anti-British demonstrations in the Orient. Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax announced Monday the Japanese had agreed to try to control the demonstrations.

The trouble started when four Seaforth highlanders in a military truck entered the Japanese defense sector to repair barbed wire. British said they were under the impression the territory was British.

Japanese forces quickly blocked off the alleyway in which the British were working by stretching barbed wire across the exit and held the highlanders and their truck for two and a half hours as British officers negotiated with the Japanese for their release.

The Japanese in the meantime, working at top speed, strung three strands of wire along the length of North Kiangi road.

On seeing this, Chinese living in the Japanese sector fled across the roadway to the British side in scenes reminiscent of the 1937 exodus into the settlement from Chapei when Japanese were attacking.

Group Amends Lending Bill Before Recess

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—The senate approved tonight, 45 to 24, an amendment to the administration's $1,640,000,000 lending bill designed to prevent government interference with existing private enterprise.

Soon after adopting this proposal by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), the chamber agreed to limit debate on the lending measure and recessed until Monday.

The agreement, limiting senators to 15-minute speeches, was obtained by the administration leadership after many previous attempts to hasten a vote had proved futile.

Sentiment for reduction of the lending program spread from the senate to the house banking committee during the day, bringing about an $850,000,000 reduction in the measure at that group's hands.

The bill before the senate already had been cut down, by a coalition of republicans and democrats, to $1,640,000,000. When first introduced by administration leaders, the legislation carried $2,800,000,000.

Before it recessed, the senate accepted by a voice vote an amendment by Senator Tydings (D-Md) to prohibit political contributions by labor unions or other organizations except with the foreknowledge of their members.

Vain Journey

Blind Man, Friend Hitch-Hike Home ROCHESTER, Minn., July 29 (AP)—James Redman, blinded in an accident, and Charles Seymour, his friend who told Mayo clinic physicians "I'd give my right eye to help him," prepared sadly today to hitch-hike their way home to Little Rock, Ark., their trip here in vain.

Seymour offered one of his eyes if surgeons could substitute it for one of Redman's. "If he can make it without any, I guess I can get along with only one," Seymour said, but physicians advised against the operation.

Redman was blinded when a steel wrench snapped, a piece of steel piercing his right eye and setting up an infection which spread to the other eye.

Father's Death Orphans Three

DAVIS CITY, July 29 (AP)—Three motherless children lost their father today when Ben Wishon, 38, farmer, drowned while fishing in the Grand river nine miles southeast of here.

Six other farmers and Wishon's son, Bobby, 12, were fishing nearby when, members of the group said, Wishon evidently stepped into a hole and went down.

His body was recovered from a hole where the water was 14 feet deep.

Leahy, Retiring Admiral, Thinks Navy Capable

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—Admiral William D. Leahy retires from the navy Tuesday confident that the billion-dollar fleet expansion which he helped engineer will meet the nation's first line defense needs for many years.

The graying chief of operations predicted today that "if we carry out the program we have set up we should be equal to any defense problem that is likely to confront us."

Four Trapped In Utah Fire

OGDEN, Utah, July 29 (AP)—Trapped by racing flames, four civilian conservation corps enrollees died and a fifth was missing in Nevada tonight as forest and brush fires menaced vast sections of western timber land.

The area, extending over several states, was tinder dry from weeks of drought and searing heat.

Lightning, flashing from rainless thunderheads, killed one man in Oregon and added to the fire hazard.

Saturday Review Accepts Poem By Langland

Joseph Langland of Decorah, a University of Iowa student majoring in English and enrolled in the writers' workshop during the summer session, has had one of his poems accepted by the Saturday Review of Literature, it was disclosed yesterday.

The name of the poem is "Sewer Project: Employee." It is his first important acceptance although he has had nearly 100 other works printed in small magazines.

Langland has taken much of his creative writing courses under Paul Engle, poet and instructor in poetry at the University of Iowa.

F. D. R.'s Son Rebukes Lewis

Sees Possibility Of 'Irreparable Damage' To Labor In 'Blast' FT. WORTH, Tex., July 29 (AP)—The "blast" of John L. Lewis, president of the C.I.O., against Vice-President Garner "may have done irreparable damage to the fine cause of labor advancement in this country," Elliott Roosevelt, son of the president, said in a radio talk today.

Lewis, testifying before the house labor committee Thursday referred to Garner as a "labor baiting, poker playing, whisky drinking, evil old man" and said he was responsible for recent attacks on labor in congress.

"Quite a few people throughout the United States don't happen to agree with Mr. Lewis and a great many people who are straight thinking, patriotic Americans are beginning to get slightly irritated at people such as John L. Lewis and Representative Dewey Short of Missouri, who get on their feet and scream personal invectives at the heads of our state," young Roosevelt said.

Fate Plays Cruel Trick on Family Of Virginians

WINCHESTER, Va., July 29 (AP)—Clyde Arnold, 19, driving from his home in Pennsylvania to Staunton, Va., where his parents had been injured in an automobile accident, saw the car in front of him skid out of control on a highway near here tonight and collide with a gasoline truck.

Both occupants of the car were killed. They were Arnold's brothers, Lee, 16, and Travis, 22, who were going to Staunton also to take their parents back to Biglerville, Pa.

Let Them Patrol The Highways

WHEN THE STATE highway patrol was originally set up, we looked upon the organization with respect and admiration. Here, we thought, was a law enforcement agency above the corruption of political bickering, above the human failings which tend to creep into other government machines.

It is true as stated by the democratic state central committee chairman, E. H. Birmingham, that "They were on the highways where their very presence served to warn the reckless driver and where their courtesy and helpfulness to motorists made them welcome."

Safety Commissioner Karl Fischer has used these men, however, as prohibition agents and slot machine raiders.

Such use of the highway patrolmen will cause the patrol to fall into quick disrepute and disfavor.

Whether justly or not, Birmingham charges that the republican state administration was employing state highway patrolmen as "storm troopers" and "prohibition agents," while the highway accident toll continued to increase.

"When Chief John Hattery handled the patrol as a non-political organization, Iowa had as many old cars and as many taverns as today, but the highway death toll showed a steady decrease, thanks to the efficiency of the patrol," Birmingham declared.

The job of liquor control belongs to state agents, not the patrolmen, and such use of the highway patrol should not be continued.

The state safety commissioner has announced plans to increase the staff of the bureau of investigation from eight to twenty agents. If the highway patrol is to continue in the good favor it has created since its inception, the responsibilities of enforcing the liquor by the drink law and statutes against gambling must be confined to these state agents.

Britain Has An Opportunity

IN THE FACE of a crumbling British empire and an even weaker French republic, the United States has become the leader among democracies in attempts to stop the fascist flood.

We have been woefully lethargic in the years past. We watched Spain crushed, when a different American neutrality law might have helped save her.

We witnessed the rape of China without any decisive move, until the abrogation of the 1911 treaty.

We stood by trembling while Great Britain and France's moneyed ministers dug Prague and turned Czechoslovakia over to Hitler.

There can be no further doubt that if the torch is to be carried—and there is doubt about that—the United States must carry it.

Great Britain cringed before the Japanese militarists as she cringed before the nazis, at Munich. Then, when the United States government, forced by public opinion, took definite action against Japan in the treaty abrogation, Great Britain at once showed a positive reaction.

Can we hope for a remaining bit of honor in the imperialistic London forces after the exhibition of utter dishonor that Munich gives? Is it likely that the United States will be backed by Britain and France in any future moves against Japan? There is no reason to believe we will be, after the capitulation at Munich and the British-Japanese agreement giving the Nipponese a free hand in China.

It is clear now that the United States must continue to substitute action for the feeble note-protests of the past in dealing with war-maddened empires. That Britain will also act, as she now has the opportunity to act by abrogating her treaty with Japan, remains to be seen.

Fifty-Three Homes For Iowa City

FIFTY-THREE NEW homes are being built in Iowa City. That is important news, because a building boom this year is not confined to Iowa City, but is nationwide. The value of this building activity on business conditions is not to be underestimated, it is a vital factor in strengthening the nation.

Most of these homes are in the "small home" class and many are financed by federal housing administration loans. The tremendous stimulus afforded the construction of small homes, by the FHA is portrayed in the fifth annual report of that agency.

The report shows that more than two-fifths of the new single-family homes which the FHA accepted for insurance in 1938 were valued at less than $5,000, more than four-fifths at less than $7,000, and only two per cent at $12,000 or more.

The building activities in Iowa City have reached a high unparalleled since 1925. That is a healthy sign.

Some fighters don't last long, though they work out daily at the horizontal bars. The trouble is—there's always a bartender behind them.

European nations are all alike. They are very eager to borrow our money but not our advice.

Michigan, it seems, has the unique distinction of having a governor who thinks the time between drinks isn't long enough.

If what they say about Mars' disposition is correct, the planet life discovered on his planet must be poison ivy.

The man at the next desk says it's been his observation that many of those women who dress to kill apparently drive that way, too.

No wonder some dentists think they are good story tellers. Their customers usually listen to them with open-mouthed amazement.

When Chief John Hattery handled the patrol as a non-political organization, Iowa had as many old cars and as many taverns as today, but the highway death toll showed a steady decrease, thanks to the efficiency of the patrol," Birmingham declared.

TREATY WITH PANAMA

The senate's ratification of the new treaty with Panama is long overdue but no less welcome for that reason. The original treaty, negotiated in 1903, covered the occupation by the United States of the Canal Zone and the building of the canal. The treaty was made necessary primarily by our changing national defense requirements. Signed in 1936 and promptly ratified by Panama, it was held up for three years in the senate, owing to doubts regarding Articles X and XI, covering the relations of the two countries in the event the United States should find it necessary to defend the canal.

Of little less importance than the clarifying of the defense aspects, however, is the setting right of the government's financial relations with Panama. The original treaty of 1903 provided that, in return for the concessions granted by Panama, the United States government should pay $10,000,000 upon ratification and an additional $250,000 annually "in gold coin of the United States." When the United States devalued the dollar, it offered payment to Panama of $250,000 in depreciated dollars. Panama refused to accept payment and has so continued to the present time.

It is quite clear that, regardless of the hairsplitting as to whether a person in the United States lost or did not lose by being paid in depreciated dollars, a foreign country certainly was out of pocket by the amount of the devaluation; $250,000 in new dollars was clearly worth less in Panama than the same sum in pre-1933 money. There was, moreover, no doubt as to the intent of the original treaty, no matter how much casuistry might be employed to justify a different position.

It is therefore to be welcomed that with the passage of time our government brought itself to the point of redressing the injustice.

It is the more so because of the strict moral ground on which we have taken our stand in protesting actions of other Latin-American governments regarding American owned property within their borders. Finally, it demonstrates that even a powerful nation, dealing with a weak one, can admit error—a lesson greatly needed today.

Sheean: Not Peace But a Sword

THE BOOK... "Not Peace But a Sword" by Vincent Sheean. Published Thursday by Doubleday, Doran in New York, $2.75. Chosen by the Book-of-the-Month club for August.

THE AUTHOR... Vincent Sheean, more than a journalist, initiated the enormously popular vogue for the foreign correspondent's story with "Personal History," itself a classic.

THE REVIEWER... James Fox.

VINCENT SHEEAN

If you were to sit down after supper this evening to read Vincent Sheean's narrative of 1938, you would go without sleep until you had digested the sentence "Upon the will and instinct of the proletariat reposes such hope as we are justified in retaining for the future progress of humanity through and beyond the conflict which now divides the world."

Even then you would want to reread some of those chapters in this penetrating chronicle of events observed in Prague, Vienna, Madrid, London, Paris and Berlin in the year that fascism made its greatest sweep over civilized living. You'd decide at once to reread many times the chapter about "The Last Volunteer." You'd know that even today there are some men, like Jimmy Lardner, who are more than men.

Like "Personal History," Vincent Sheean's story of the democracies' sellout to Hitler and Mussolini is not only eloquent, but compelling.

Europe in 1938 was a muddled, distorted nightmare to the newspaper reader. Sheean focuses those twelve fateful months and projects, with force and clarity, a shaft of white hot light into the engulfing darkness.

This is a story of men with simple minds blundering against men with power. Here is not, however, the incoherent gibberish of an idealistic zealot, but the fluent retrospection, precise and mature, of an uncommonly brilliant, tolerant and democratic mind.

Approaching a manifesto for action in its frank damnation of the auctioneers who put the Spanish and Czech republics on the auction block for Hitler, "Not Peace But a Sword" stimulates lethargic minds.

For American youth it pictures a growing fascist generation that has known nothing but rule by violence. The story of Jim Lardner, and the opening chapter, "The Thirteen Bus"—a dissection of the heart of an empire—reflect the heat in which they were written.

"The blood reddened waters of the Ebro are one with the waters of the Thames," and "Practically every place is the same place now." Vincent Sheean wants you and me to know that "before red tracer bullets write it across the smoky skies."

If you have wondered how Munich could happen in your world, you'll discover the answer in these pages. This is no mere collection of a war correspondent's memories, as Henry Seidel Canby points out, but "it is a summary and analysis and conclusion, all done, like Sheean's earlier success, in terms of his own biography."

Not to read it is to miss a book for which you have waited.

THE BOOK... "Corn," the third volume of poems by Paul Engle, hailed as one of the most important young American poets. Published by Harcourt, Brace, $2.

THE AUTHOR... Paul Engle, graduate of the University of Iowa, Rhodes scholar and at present lecturer in poetry in the English department.

THE REVIEWER... Thomas Scherrebek, graduate student, graduate assistant in English.

Paul Engle's new book of poems, "Corn," is ample proof that he is moving toward even finer things than foreshadowed in his "American Song" and "Break the Heart's Anger." In contrast to his previous book, "Break the Heart's Anger," this is a volume of quiet, echoing, perhaps, the growth and maturation of a mind and heart in rich Iowa soil, a volume which demonstrates that Mr. Engle has returned home to America and found her full of greatness and poetry.

It is in the lyrics of this book of poems that Mr. Engle best shows his real talent. His lyrics are clean cut, terse, and full of subtle rhythms: especially to be read are "Farmer," "For 1939," and "Windy Night." The blank verse, in which the longer poems of this volume are written, is pithy and what is said is usually well said, but this reviewer has difficulty with the music of the lines, especially in "For An Apple Grover" which, on the whole, is an excellent poem.

While Mr. Engle has never been one to write, as do many modern poets, in a language unfamiliar to common folk, he has, in two books, resorted to imagery which was violent, distracting, strained. It seemed at times as though he was searching for the different, as though energy had taken the place of beauty. But in "Corn" there is a change. The figures are the figures of everyday Iowa experience, and while they may not jar the jaded critics to front page praise they are, in the end, I believe, of infinitely greater artistic value. Mr. Engle himself must realize this for he says, though in a slightly different context, "Too long I went with a Great urge and shouting into life."

It is important to notice in "Corn" a development of Mr. Engle's philosophy. The faith in America, which was the keynote of "American Song" and "Break the Heart's Anger," is as strong as before, but the tendency towards journalistic verse, verse which "merely" echoes the times, has gone. Mr. Engle has found that in order to find the truth he must find himself. "That truth is where you stand to see a thing," that Iowa soil is good to stand upon and that wind and rain help one to see clearly.

The reviewers are wrong who call this book "slight." They should reread the ending to the title poem "Corn," read "Rain," "Prologue" and "For an Apple Grover." These poems, I think, foreshadow the coming Paul Engle and a new American song.

Investors Can See No Prosperity Ahead Until Taxes Lessen

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

The American Federation of Investors issued a statement recently which got a fairly good play on the newspapers' financial pages, but which practically didn't break at all into their news columns. Of course the average reader chucks his paper's financial section into the discard with scarcely even a peek at its headlines. It can't be blamed for it, either. Financial editors are 100 per cent specialists, who handle their stuff too technically to appeal to financially uneducated folk, like most of us. And we don't understand it very well if we do try to read it.

However, this particular statement was interesting, provided you had the resolution to wade through it.

The A. F. of I. undertook to prove that we can't expect to have appreciably better times under our present load of taxation. It makes out quite a convincing case in favor of its contention. The statement's prime purpose is to harrow up the feelings of investors, but it makes the incidental point that unless investors are reasonably prosperous the general public can't be.

For instance, The A. F. of I. gathered its information from the records of 183 of the country's major corporations. These corporations, it reports, didn't do so well in 1938 as in 1937. Consequently their 6,500,000 stockholders got smaller dividends. That, the statement argues, in part accounts for the 1938 recession. All those stockholders (mainly no plutocrats whatever, but people in moderate circumstances) had to economize. The corporations likewise had to economize. They did it by reducing the number of their workers. In 1938 they averaged 17,601 apiece, as compared with 21,141 in 1937. This meant that labor was cramped also.

Two-Thirds Taxes

The A. F. of I. agrees that American industry has had some money left over after paying its operating expenses—but not counting taxes.

It's had a pre-tax profit of a certain number of dollars—running into billions. Then, however, it's had to reckon that the tax collector would gobble 61.6 cents out of each $1 bill, leaving only 38.4 cents to be handed out in dividends. Nor would the dividend recipient have received as much as 38.4 cents if his corporation hadn't cut down on labor. Otherwise its labor would have cost more and it still would have had to dig up 61.8 cents per $1 in taxes. The difference would have come out of the stockholder.

Put it either way—the A. F. of I. figures that the tax collector is the nigger in the woodpile.

Now, the outstanding economic complaint of today is that the potential investor doesn't like to invest in private enterprise—because, before he gets his dividend, so much is taken out of it by the revenue bureau.

To be sure, the investor has an alternative. He can put his money into federal, state or municipal securities, which are tax free. They pay a low interest rate—but since they're untaxed perhaps in the long run they're more profitable. Hence the demand for a tax on these non-taxable securities. The theory is that such a tax would drive money out of federal, state and municipal bonds back into private investment.

Possibly it would. Yet, if so, how would federal, state and municipal governments be able to continue financing themselves? Obviously they'd have to boost their interest rates to compete with private borrowings. Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York City, president of the national mayors' organization, says this would "bust" every municipality in America—not to mention federal and state governments. And probably there'd be an undesirable reaction upon private investments if all our federal, state and municipal credits went floozy.

One Good Thing

There's one good thing about it. Taxation ought to be, not oppressive, but conspicuous. If folk don't realize that they're being taxed they don't resent it. If it begins to hurt, they holler.

Just what good their hollering is going to do isn't so apparent, though.

With more than a $40,000,000,000 national indebtedness already chalked up, and fresh billions mounting, it would look like a long time before levies are modified.

The American Federation of Investors doesn't explain that.

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

NEW YORK—I would like to have something that I must tell you. This club depends upon "atmosphere" for its success. Its patrons come in expecting to hobnob with real artists and poets—the kind that inhabited the Village by the score some years ago. The general public, of course, doesn't know most present-day writers and artists of the Village are the practical kind—newspaper and magazine writers, the gag-sketch artists and magazine cover designers. The long-haired, eccentric attic-dwellers are quite rare.

But, anyway, the proprietor of this night-spot needs the old timers—in his business. So he serves free plates of excellent food to attract the stand-ins who, in turn, attract the cash customers.

Maybe it's unethical to fool the public in such fashion, but, it works.

Ina Ray was her mother's stage name and she adopted the Hutton because at the time she was looking for a stage name Barbara Hutton was on all the front pages in a romantic adventure.

Fish story: Martha Raye and Joe E. Brown, working together in a move at last, are sore because the publicity "angle" on them is their mouths. (Yeah, just the way Dietrich gets "sore" about her legs' exploitation, and Lamour about saring stuff.)

Moose Lodge Hedges 855 Votes for Anderson

Hawk Coach Moves Up In All-Star Poll

Occupies Fifth Spot In Big Ten Standings In Saturday Count

Moose lodge members, with a pledged vote of 855, showed the way here in Iowa City yesterday in the campaign to elect Dr. Eddie Anderson to the all-star coaching staff. The 855 first place votes make a total of 2,565 points.

While the Moose organization was on its toes, business houses continued to do a brisk ballot business, more than 4,000 votes being recorded during the day.

Dr. Anderson, who had trailed the Big Ten field until the Iowa City tabulation was recorded in the Chicago Tribune yesterday morning, jumped into fifth place, edging out Bob Zuppke of Illinois, Francis Schmidt of Ohio State and Clark Shaughnessy of Chicago.

Mal Edward, Purdue's head mentor, held a substantial lead over Lynn Waldorf in the battle for Big Ten leadership. Voting is being conducted in five sections with the coach polling the highest total in his section automatically becoming a member of the coaching staff.

The coach polling the greatest number of votes in any given section assumes the duties of head coach.

While Edwards held a lead in the Big Ten, the middle west section, headed by Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, outstripped rivals in number of votes cast, Layden holding more than a 200,000 edge on his nearest rival at the half way mark of the poll's duration.

Dr. Anderson's rise to a challenging position had its effect over the state as Iowa partisans became aware that the Hawkeye coach is definitely a threat to Big Ten leaders.

Dan Desmond, sports editor of the Sioux City Journal, promised to do everything possible to secure Dr. Anderson's election to the coaching staff. Desmond is running a daily ballot and plugging the popular Anderson in every way.

And over at Dubuque, John Fuhrman, former Iowa football star now in the sports department of the Telegraph Herald, is making every effort to bring out a record vote in his territory.

Although results up to the present time have been highly satisfactory, the real work gets underway tomorrow as the final week of balloting begins.

From Davenport to Sioux City, Hawkeye football fans will be urged to vote and get votes for Dr. Anderson through the medium of alumni groups and newspapers organized behind the Iowa coach.

There is every reason to expect that the final week will produce far more votes in Iowa by Hawkeye enthusiasts than have ever been recorded by Iowans in the all-star poll to date, for either coach or player.

If you haven't already done so cast your vote today and PUT DR. ANDERSON ON THE ALL-STAR COACHING STAFF!

Where They're Voting

Filling five complete ballot blanks for a total of 495 points, the D & L grill took top honors for the day yesterday in the battle for the votes to put Dr. Eddie Anderson on the all-star coaching staff.

Although Jimmy Lyle, handicapped by fast-tiring legs, fell from his previously high total of six blanks in a single day, the former Hawkeye track captain came in with 198 new Anderson votes for a third place tie with six business establishments.

Meanwhile, the votes continued to pour in, with Iowa City merchants and sports fans climbing on the Anderson bandwagon in droves. Besides the large addition of votes brought in last night to be counted, there were several thousand more names still lying about on half-filled ballot sheets.

Closely following the D & L grill among the merchants were Lubin's drug store, Joe's Place and Racine's No. 3, each with three complete blanks, or 396 points turned in. Credited with two blanks were Rosie's White House, Smith's cafe, Racine's No. 1, Englert theater, Princess No. 2, Spencer's Harmony Hall and Jimmy Lyle, "the man on the street."

Following with one blank to their credit were the Dupont shop, Jefferson hotel, Louis' drug store, Bremer's clothing store and Whetstone's No. 1.

Not rated as a business establishment, but overshadowing the efforts of businesses or individuals was the Moose lodge, which yesterday came through with a solid group vote, including families, of 855, which amounts to 2,565 in total points, each vote counting three points to the Anderson total.

Metz in St. Paul Open Lead

By EARL HILLIGAN
ST. PAUL, Minn., July 29 (AP) —Dapper Dick Metz of Chicago, who has been breaking on top of several tournament fields lately only to tire before the stretch run of some of golf's famed "routers," raced into the 36-hole leadership of the $7,500 St. Paul open championship in record style today.

A brilliant second round of 66, six under par for the Keller course, gave him a two-day total of 134 strokes—a qualifying record for the 10-year old tournament and a three shot lead over his three closest opponents. They were big Ralph Guldahl of Madison, N. J., Gene Sarazen of Brookfield Center, Conn., and Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., all with 137 totals for the first two rounds.

Gudahl, although his game wobbled somewhat this summer, has demonstrated on numerous occasions his ability to come from behind and win. He caught Metz on the final round to win the national open in 1938 and three straight western open victories were featured by great closing drives.

Working on a 70, he went around in 67 strokes today, carding a spectacular eagle on the 18th green.

Metz, who was a front runner through the first three rounds of the western open and then wound up fourth, produced a game today which indicated he is ready to go through tomorrow's 36-hole final at top speed. His iron play was deadly and his card showed four birdsies and an eagle on the 18th.

His rounds of 68, made Friday, and 66, topped by one stroke the qualifying tournament record set by Harry Cooper in 1935.

Sarazen, who has been devoting more time to his farming than to golf, showed he still "has it" with a fine second round of 67 to add to an opening 70, Picard, the P. G. A. champion, had a second round of 68 for his 137 aggregate—a round which included a first nine of 31, five under par, which sent the gallery swarming in his wake. He lost his touch coming back, however, for a one over par 37.

In the 138 bracket were Ernie (Dutch) Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., with a 71 today, Len Mattson of the Keller course with a 70 and Ky Laffoon of Chicago with a 68. The pace for the amateurs was set by Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., who had a 68 today for a 139 aggregate, the same totals as held by the Mangrum brothers, Lloyd of Los Angeles and Ray of Oakmont, Pa.

Abye Espinosa of Chicago and Byron Nelson, the National and Western open champion from Reading, Pa., were tied at 141. Espinosa, who shared the first round lead with Harrison, slipped to a 74 today. Nelson slipped one stroke over par for a 73 after a first round 68.

Tied at 142 were six others, among them Walter Hagen, Sr., four players with an even par total of 144 strokes.

Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., defending champion, turned in a 69 today but was handicapped by an opening round of 79.

Players with 36-hole totals of 150 or under qualified for tomorrow's windup.

Whip Phillies In Both Ends Of Twin Bill

CINCINNATI, July 29 (AP)—The Reds stretched their league lead to 11 1-2 games today, combining brilliant hurling by rookie Gene Thompson and heavy hitting, including successive homers by Billy Myers, to sweep a double bill from Philadelphia, 3 to 0 and 9 to 2.

A 6 to 5 win over Boston put the Pirates in second place while Chicago, in dropping a 5 to 2 decision to New York, slipped to third.

Thompson helped win his fourth victory and first shutout of the year in the opener by doubling in the second inning to score big Ernie Lombardi, who also had rapped out a two-bagger. His mate clinched things in the next frame as Lee Gamble, who had singled, scored on McCormick's double and the star first-sacker rapped home on Brack's fumble of Bongiovanni's hard grounder.

The second game marked the twelfth straight time and the 13th in 14 starts that the cellar dwelling Phils had bowed to the Reds, while the first contest was the fifth in which Hugh Mulachy had gone down to defeat before Rhineland war clubs.

However, the slender right-hander held the Reds to five safe blows today.

Philadelphia got the jump on Whitey Moore in the third inning of the nightcap when with two out and Legrant Scott on first with a single, Werber muffed Hersberger's throw, enabling George Scharen to score on an attempted double steal.

A crowd of 17,865, including 7,642 knot-hole members, witnessed the bargain bill, first of two scheduled on many days.

Outsider Wins $47,830 Race

CHICAGO, July 29 (AP) — Andy K, a juvenile which hadn't won a race in three previous starts, scored a startling upset today in winning the $47,830 Arlington futurity before 25,000 pop-eyed spectators at Arlington park.

Bounding to the front at once, the long legged outsider, a 27 to 1 shot, won by two lengths over Marogay, entry of Russel A. Firestone, Akron, Ohio, tire manufacturer, with Roman Flag, owned by Arnold Hanger of New York, taking third. The Woodford farms Quenemo was fourth.

Owner Stunned

CHICAGO, July 29 (AP) — Mel Emerich, Chicago broker, co-owner of Andy K, sat dumfounded today as his two year old bounced to victory in the $47,830 Arlington futurity.

Szwedko Wins N. P. L.

They had completed the morning round, each carding 73, one over par.

The tall, well-holstered Pittsburgher, stolid as a tree trunk, started out in the afternoon like he was going to smother his slight rival by sheer size and power. With birdies trickling off his clubs he forged to a three-hole lead at 27.

Gordon, methodical to the point of exasperation, then made his brilliant bid, a bird which brought him a last-nine medal card of 34, two under par, but couldn't bring him victory.

He won the 30th with a birdie, his 28-foot putt billiarding off Szwedko's ball into the cup. He lost the 31st to a birdie, but took the 32nd and 33rd, the first of the two with a birdie, to be only one down.

Then Szwedko, whose comebacks have been a feature of the tournament, bore down with iron-nerved steadiness, matched Gordon stroke for stroke the last three holes. He clinched the match on the 36th by laying his second four feet from the pin as Gordon's second, to a unified groan from the gallery, whistled past the cup to nestle in a far corner of the green.

Relieved in Ninth After Holding Cubs To 1 Hit in 8 Innings

CHICAGO, July 29 (AP) — Harry Gumbert wound up his own four-game losing streak and gave the Giants their third win in their last 16 games with a 5-2 decision over the Chicago Cubs before 12,168 fans today.

Gumbert pitched one-hit ball for eight innings, but after being touched for a pair in the ninth gave way to Cliff Melton and he in turn was relieved by Jim Lynn who squelched a threatening Cub rally that was good for two runs.

The winners touched Charlie Root for 12 blows and gave him his fifth loss of the season.

A three-run spurge in the fifth when Dick Bartell's fumble gave the Giants an opening, was good enough for the victory.

Unemployment Benefit Rules For Rail Workers Explained

Railroad workers who are now employed and who earned $150 or more in 1938 in railroad work may now get benefits under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance act which went into active operation July 1, the Railroad Retirement board pointed out yesterday through its field supervisor, Fred Nye of Cedar Rapids. Such unemployed workers should register and file a claim for the benefits of the last railroad for which they worked or, if located at some distance away from their last job, at the nearest office of a railroad. The act, which establishes a national system of unemployment insurance for railroad workers, is administered by the Railroad Retirement board, which also administers the Railroad Retirement act.

The plan of operation worked out in cooperation with railroad employers and labor organizations provides for prompt handling of claims and payment of benefits. The unemployed applicant must go to the foreman on his last job who, if not himself authorized to accept registrations, will be able to put the applicant in touch with the person who is so authorized. The importance of registration by the worker when he becomes unemployed or as soon thereafter as possible, the board points out, lies in the fact that his days of unemployment cannot count either toward his "waiting period" or as days of unemployment for which he will receive benefits.

All further information with reference to eligibility or disqualifications for benefits will be provided to the worker at the time he registers.

Awards—

next year, Professor Perkins declared.

Previously the certificates had been awarded at the banquet held on the last day of the course and marking its conclusion. This year because of the large number of men who had enrolled in the session, it was found impractical to award certificates to individuals at the dinner.

Mason Ladd, dean of the college of law, as a substitute, made a symbolic award which applied to those who had qualified. Six Iowa City men qualified for the award. They are W. H. Bender, detective; Lieut. Col. Jack J. Hinman Jr., Iowa National guard; R. H. Irving, patrolman; Howard K. Parr, patrolman; Glenn L. Schmidt, detective, and George M. Struble, special deputy.

Certificates will also be mailed to the following: H. J. Atkinson, Red Oak; J. H. Bailey, Cedar Rapids; Charles W. Barlow, Mason City; Roy Behr, Davenport; D. O. Bender, Des Moines; W. R. Bennett, Des Moines; G. R. Beswick, Manchester; H. Wayne Black, Audubon; Millard Brooks, Ft. Dodge; R. J. Brown, Des Moines; Harry O. Brown, Pocahontas.

until he registers and properly files his claim.

Benefits under the act are paid for each day over seven that an eligible railroad worker is unemployed in any 15 consecutive days. The benefit rates vary from $1.75 to $3 per day, depending on the worker's earnings for 1938. The most a totally unemployed worker can draw in any 12-month period is 80 times his daily benefit rate or from $140 to $240, scaled according to what he earned in the railroad industry in 1938.

To be eligible for unemployment insurance benefits under the act, an employe must meet the following requirements:

1. He must have earned $150 or more from a railroad or other employer covered by the Railroad Unemployment Insurance act during the calendar year 1938.
2. He must register and serve a waiting period of 15 consecutive days in which there are at least eight days of unemployment.
3. He must not have become disqualified for benefits due to any of the causes specifically set forth in the act.

All further information with reference to eligibility or disqualifications for benefits will be provided to the worker at the time he registers.

Johnson County Chorus To Sing At Iowa State Fair August 25

Competes Against Nine Choral Groups In Class B Division

The Johnson County Women's Farm Bureau chorus will compete Aug. 25 against nine other choruses in the class B division at the Iowa state fair in Des Moines. Emmett C. Gardner, county agent, announced yesterday.

The chorus, organized last year, won the right to compete at the state fair when it received a first place rating in the class B division of the district demonstration held at Coe college in Cedar Rapids June 6.

Should the group win one of the four top ratings awarded in its division at Des Moines, it would receive the permanent rating of a class A division. Such a rating would allow the group to compete with other class A groups next year at the state fair.

One presentation of the Johnson county chorus, which is singing four times on the competition day, will be broadcast at 3:30 p. m. from the WHO studio on the fair grounds.

Mrs. M. M. Crayne of Iowa City, director of the group, yesterday announced the three selections the chorus is presenting for the contest. They are "Dear Land of Home" by Sibelius; "It Cannot Be a Strange Country" from "Beaumont Newhall" by Spenser, and "Functus" from "Cecilia Mass" by Gounod.

The chorus will present a concert at the Johnson county farm bureau picnic in City park Thursday.

Norman Warner, in charge of nature lore; William O. Wright, first aid, and Edward McCloy, swimming director.
