'The Nazi Said to Me--' Reich Defends Its Morale, Pictures Nation's Strength

By EDWIN SHANKE
BERLIN, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Nazi sitting next to me in a darkened theater nudged me in the side and whispered: "Ein riesending, nicht?" (gigantic, eh?)

He meant Germany's Siegfried line of fortifications facing France. We were watching the new 40-minute film, "The West Wall," dramatizing the work of building Germany's western line of defense, from engineers' plans to finished steel and concrete bristling with cannon.

But the picture, obviously designed to instill in all Germans a feeling of security and invincibility in case of war, doesn't reveal much of armament or soldiers in action.

It is presented as a factual recording of all phases of the Siegfried line from the Netherlands to the Swiss boundaries.

Stress is laid on actual construction work and how the resources of an entire nation were mobilized to make the job possible in a year and a half—complete even down to water sprinklers.

Germany watching the show perked up when soldiers assigned to the fortifications came swinging along behind barbed wire and tank barriers singing "Germany Land of the Soldier."

Then they disappeared into one of the 22,000 great "bunkers" of the line.

The camera watched the soldiers as they marched or were carried by little electric trains through long and intricate tunnels to appointed stations. There were fleeting glimpses of stores of ammunition and guns.

City in Itself
The camera showed bunk rooms, a well-stocked kitchen and a cook tasting soup. Each "bunker" was pictured as a virtual city in itself.

As the camera swung to the opposite side of the Rhine to show the French fortifications, the narrator emphasized that the German "bunkers" were in no danger of floods as were the French because the Germans were built on higher ground.

The spectators were then taken behind the line into the air defense zone with its strategically placed anti-aircraft guns, sound detectors to pick up the drone of approaching planes, searchlights and balloon air obstructions.

The theme of the picture is "1914—encirclement but undefined boundaries; today—encirclement but invincible border."

The picture will be shown beginning Thursday throughout Germany in place of the usual culture film and news reel which accompany every feature picture.

Reich Launches Drive For New Preparedness

Citizens Aged 5-70 Ordered To Register

Officials Declare 'No War in Offing' Despite Preparations

BERLIN, Aug. 8 (AP)—New registration of every German between the ages of 5 and 70 was ordered tonight in the interests of national defense as the nation stepped up its general program to establish a peak of preparedness by mid-August.

Only active soldiers and reservists are excepted.

The cards must be filed in Berlin between Aug. 13-19. The registration will be handled through the police with the aid of Nazi party political leaders.

With the press concentrating on its most vigorous campaign since last April, a campaign that was aimed at Poland—and with reports of automobiles and trucks being requisitioned in some cases for military maneuvers, the new registration order was issued by interior minister Wilhelm Frick.

Scientists Launch New Attack on Lung Disease

BERKELEY, Calif., Aug. 8 (AP)—The microscope and the camera were combined today in a new scientific attack on silicosis, dread lung disease of mines and industries.

Prof. Carlton D. Hulín of the University of California told the geological society of America he had perfected a new and accurate method of determining the amount of quartz in industrial dusts. Minute particles of quartz floating in the air are the cause of silicosis.

To eliminate silicosis, technicians now use several methods of testing industrial dust, but these methods, Professor Hulín said, are "subject to large potential error."

His method is completely accurate except that with certain types of dusts it may indicate a higher quartz content than actually exists—"an error on the safe side." It would permit no hazardous dusts to get by undetected.

The dust is caught in an air filter, immersed in nitrobenzene, magnified 300 times, and photographed twice. The first picture reveals all the dust except quartz. The second, taken 15 microns above focus, shows all particles, including the quartz. Particles are then counted and by subtracting the number of particles in the first picture from the second, the amount of quartz dust is revealed.

It 'Gambled' With Welfare Of Americans

Criticizes Neutrality Rejection, Scuttling Of Lending, Housing

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt asserted today that a coalition of congressional republicans and democrats had gambled with the welfare of 1,500,000 people in rejecting his neutrality program and with the livelihood of 20,000 Americans in scuttling the lending and housing measures.

At his first press conference since the congressional session ended, the president said a solid republican minority and 20 to 25 per cent of the democrats in congress had:

- (1) Made a large wager with the nation, on neutrality, that there would be no war until sufficiently long after they returned to Washington in January for them to take care of things; and
- (2) Wagered that private industry and business would take up the slack occasioned by dropping a million WPA workers this year and by closing out next spring a PWA program which had been providing 2,000,000 jobs.

Forced Postponement
It was a combination of republicans and rebellious democrats which forced administration leaders to postpone until the next session efforts to obtain senate action on neutrality and, in the house, prevented consideration of the lending and housing measures.

If this coalition loses its neutrality wager, Mr. Roosevelt declared, it may affect a billion and a half human beings. That, he added, is pretty important.

If these legislators were wrong, he continued, they have tied his hands and he has practically no power to make an American effort to prevent any war outbreak. He said that was a pretty serious responsibility.

As for the lending and the housing programs, he said, WPA rolls would be cut from 3,000,000 to 2,000,000 by next spring and the PWA program, giving employment to another 2,000,000 individuals, will have ended with dependents, he said, the individuals involved total 20,000,000.

Places Responsibility
If business does not take up the slack, he said, the country must place the responsibility for their condition on the congressional coalition.

In shirt sleeves at the desk in the library of his Dutchess county home, the president remarked repeatedly that he hoped the two bets were good ones. And he emphasized time after time that if the bets were lost, the responsibility rested 100 per cent on a solid republican minority plus about 22 per cent of house and 25 per cent of senate democrats.

From the point of view of the country, and the good of the world, too, on the international end of it, he said he hoped the bets were right.

The chief executive indicated, however, that he was not planning to carry the neutrality and lending issues to the nation. He said he had three speeches scheduled for a trip to the west coast starting about Oct. 1.

Speech Schedule
One will be at the dedication of the Great Smoky mountains national park, another at the San Francisco exposition and the third at the dedication of the Olympic national park in Washington.

He challenged reporters, even through surmise or guessing, to find any great political occasion in those three events.

Mrs. Roosevelt was at her husband's elbow, leaning back against a book case, and occasionally offering a suggestion. Apparently the conference was in part a review of a family chat over the breakfast table this morning.

Give them the illustration of a precipice, Mrs. Roosevelt proposed. Pointing a thumb over his shoulder in her direction, the chief executive said he was saying to her at breakfast that we have been carrying on at a fairly high level with 3,000,000 on relief rolls, and, counting persons who get jobs from supplying materials, another 2,000,000 on WPA.

With their dependents, he said, (See ROOSEVELT, Page 6)

Senator Bridges To Try For Republican Presidential Seat

Plans Speaking Tour of West, Midwest

Campaign Manager Charles Hawks Jr. Outlines Objectives

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—A couple of republicans just out of their thirties teamed up today for the purpose of electing Senator H. Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, the next president of the United States.

One was Bridges himself, just past 41, and the other was Representative Charles Hawks Jr., of Horicon, Wis., a first term member of the house and turned 40 only last month.

Hawks, somewhat mystified that Bridges had selected him as his campaign manager, sat in his office today and outlined the objectives and methods of the campaign.

Accent On Youth
He indicated that accent on youth would be the keynote. The senator is preparing for a whirlwind speaking campaign this fall, which, unless plans go awry, will carry his uncompromising anti-new deal views to audiences from the middle west to the Pacific coast and back. Bridges is now in New Hampshire preparing his speeches.

"We want," Hawks said today, "to interest the young people of the country in their government. And I think we can do it."

Unlike most candidates, (who enter competition with a statement explaining that they are deeply reluctant to run and don't actually want the job), Hawks will have no pending announcement to make, Hawks said. The forthcoming speaking trip will be sufficient for that, he added.

To Make Friends
Nor, he continued, will there be an effort to obtain pledged delegates to next year's republican convention, either by negotiation with state organizations, or by entering Bridges in any of the various presidential preference primaries by which some states select their convention delegates.

"We would prefer," he said, "that the delegates be unpledged. What we hope to do is to make friends among them."

A 'BIG' LOSS London Baggage Car Missing

LONDON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Lost: One 10-ton baggage car filled with bathing suits, sunburn oil, tennis rackets and beach chairs by London North-eastern railroad last Thursday.

Railway searchers admit they are still baffled. Five hundred vacationers who wanted the carload of things for the week-end are still gloomy.

Just in case—the car number is 88883.

Judge Johnson Mississippi's Early Leader

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 8 (AP)—Judge Paul B. Johnson of Hattiesburg built up a 1,200-vote lead over former Gov. Mike Sennett Conner in the gubernatorial democratic primary race at 11:15 p.m. as the two began to outdistance the seven-candidate field.

They seemed certain to meet in a runoff primary Aug. 29.

Johnson had 6,629 votes and Conner 5,424 when returns had been counted from 293 of the state's 1,660 precincts. Voting was slow in the rural areas, but the returns were scattered throughout the state.

National significance was attached to the election because Johnson was backed by Senator Bilbo (D-Miss), friendly to President Roosevelt, while indications have been Senator Harrison (D-Miss) who has opposed some new deal measures would take the stump in the runoff for whoever opposed Johnson.

It was Johnson's third attempt to gain the governor's chair, the first two efforts ending in failure. State Legislator Thomas L. Bailey was running a somewhat poor third with 3,972 votes.

Spanish Officials Reinforce Guard At Gibraltar

GIBRALTAR, Aug. 8 (AP)—Spanish authorities heavily reinforced frontier guards and started hundreds of prisoners to digging trenches just 20 yards from the frontiers of Gibraltar today on the eve of British military, naval and air exercises.

Includes Talents

He directed the cataloging should include details of the talent, knowledge, physical condition and efficiency of every male and female. In effect the re-registration supplements the regular police register.

Jews also must fill out the registration cards.

Each person thus may be assigned to the job he knows best in case of war—if he is not already at the front.

Each individual's card will show his profession, training, knowledge of foreign languages, training in sanitation, air defense, emergency technical duties, Red Cross work and whether he has fulfilled his labor and military duties to the state.

Role of Women
The announcement observed that "should Germany be attacked then women and men unable to bear arms will have to support the fighting army by substituting at home in even a greater degree than during the World war."

A fine up to 150 marks (about $60) or six weeks imprisonment is provided for failure to fill out the registration card or for deliberately answering any question falsely.

Despite Germany's preparations to put the nation on a preparedness footing, there were declarations that no war was in the offing, so far as Germany's intentions are concerned, and that Adolf Hitler would find a peaceful solution to "pending questions."

Aside from the registration order, there were these important steps:

1. Army and Hitler youth leaders agreed on a plan whereby future Hitler youth leaders will receive pre-military training under (See REICH, Page 6)

Fingerprints Identify Two Iowa Suspects

DES MOINES, Aug. 8 (AP)—Because of fingerprint marks on a car window, Des Moines police sought to locate Fred Osterrieder, 21, and Francis P. Welsh, 28, for questioning in the slaying of Harold J. Dreher, 45, Mason City salesman.

Detective Chief Jack Brophy said the prints, located on the abandoned Dreher car in Council Bluffs, tally with the records of both men in federal bureau of investigation files in Washington, D. C.

Osterrieder, Brophy said, was last arrested two months ago in Minneapolis, Minn., where he served 30 days for vagrancy. The suspect's home town is unknown.

Welsh, who was described as a Providence, R. I., laborer, was sent to the Nebraska state penitentiary in 1932 for burglary, the official said.

Dreher was fatally wounded and dumped out of an automobile at 1 o'clock in the morning on a busy street here July 27. He had come to Des Moines to buy furniture for his home.

The same day two men pawned a watch and a suit later identified as Dreher's in an Omaha shop for a total of $2.26. Brophy said the handwriting in the pawnshop is identical with that of the Welsh who served time in the Nebraska penitentiary.

Tornado Hits Michigan Area

DETROIT, Aug. 8 (AP)—A tornado roared through western and central Michigan late today killing one man and injuring an undetermined number of persons while demolishing homes and buildings.

Winds of crushing force, springing up after sultry heat, swept across Kalamazoo and Kent counties, then struck to the northeast to lay waste to property in Midland county.

Lester Baker, 31, of Scott, 10 miles southeast of Kalamazoo, was killed when a greenhouse in which he was at work collapsed under the blow.

WHAT! NO POKER? 'Evil Old Man' Has Quit the Game

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 8 (AP)—Mrs. John Nance Garner says the vice-president doesn't play poker any more.

"The truth is," she wrote Richard B. Crawford, an officer in a local social club, Mr. Garner "left off the practice a good many years ago."

Crawford said the letter was received in reply to an invitation asking the vice-president to test his skill at draw or stud poker with club members any Friday night.

British Raid Precaution Test Satisfactory

LONDON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Britain used 1,300 warplanes and 60,000 air defense soldiers in a gigantic test of air raid precautions tonight and at its conclusion the air ministry announced that all aircraft "attacking" from the direction of France and Germany had been detected.

Listening posts succeeded in reporting attacking bomber, it was announced, although the speed of the attack theoretically caught the defenders not fully prepared.

After "photographic" raids on such strategic ports as Southampton and Portsmouth, raiding and defending planes were returned safely to their bases.

Renewal of the mimic aerial warfare will begin at dawn tomorrow while the reserve fleet of 133 ships lines up for a review by King George and land armies launch their biggest maneuvers since 1914.

'Christ Caused Outside Heart Of My Baby'

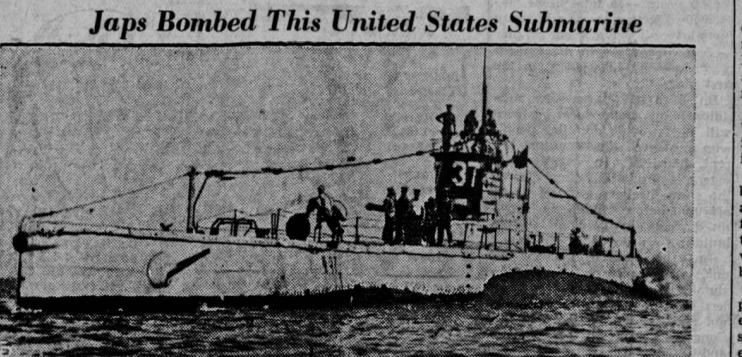

MANILA, Aug. 9 (Wednesday) (AP)—The mother of a Filipino baby girl born Monday with her heart completely outside the body, said today she believed the infant's condition was caused by her worship of a picture which showed Jesus Christ with his heart exposed.

The mother, 24-year-old Esperanza Rafael, devout Catholic, expressed her conviction after the baby had been brought to her hospital bedside for the first time.

As the baby, baptized by a priest and named Maria Corazon (Mary Heart), began her third day of life, the attending physician, Dr. Guillermo Del Castillo, said he could see no reason why she should not live a long time.

Her eventual fate, however, apparently rested in the hands of nature, since Dr. Castillo and other doctors agreed that an operation to place the exposed, overdeveloped heart in its normal capacity was out of the question for the present.

Meanwhile the heart continued functioning normally. The baby cried loudly when it needed attention from watchful nurses.

Republicans Cite 14 "Victories" In Congress!

ACCORDING TO the Honorable Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, republican leader in the house, the republican party in the last session of congress was responsible for 14 major victories. Fourteen!

Among the good deeds, the republicans have forced a beginning toward economy and common sense in federal finances; they rejected the $3,800,000,000 spend-lend program including disapproval of any appropriation for the Florida ship canal; they supported American national defense; they forced a tax revision to relieve business; republicans revised the social security program to eliminate the "fraudulent full-reserve plan"; they even instituted honest systems of audit and accounting and exposed the vicious political manipulation of W.P.A. Republicans went so far as to sustain the time-tested constitutional principle of checks and balances eliminating many proposals for dangerous powers of dictatorship.

And because of these attitudes the republicans claim that any revival of business recently noted is the result of their martyrdom. They have fought for economy and sanity in government; to keep the country out of involvements which would lead to war; for sound money, and to restore to congress powers given to it under the constitution.

It seems many of these fourteen points have a strange echo in the distant past when republicans were fighting the same heroic but useless battle they are facing today. If the G. O. P. thinks it alone wants freedom from war threats, then it has patting itself too violently on the back. These 14 points which the republicans today claim as victories are hollow shells of their previous performances. And as so listed these points are the very antithesis of the spirit of the nation and are antagonistic of the majority's will.

"This Is The Place!"

THE AUGUST issue of the National Geographic magazine devotes 40 pages to a feature article on the glorious beauty and superior productivity of the state of Iowa.

It is an article of special interest to natives of this state and to those studying Iowa history, and it recalls the old Indian legend recently uncovered which tells the story of the meaning of Iowa. According to it, the authority of which is Antoine LeClaire, himself part Indian and an historian of note, the Indians upon crossing the river later to be named the Iowa, exclaimed, "Ioe-weia" which through several transitions became "Iowa" and translated means, "This is the place."

"An American Answer To Intolerance"

IN A PIONEER effort to develop effective classroom tolerance and an appreciation of democracy in America's school children, the Council Against Intolerance Monday released a manual for teachers entitled "An American Answer to Intolerance."

Approved by many of the country's foremost educators, this pamphlet should find its way into the classroom, for as Dr. John Dewey, professor of philosophy at Columbia university, has said about it: "The schools of America have a peculiarly strategic position in the battle against intolerance. If they are inspired to take an active part in the battle, the future of our country as a democratic country will be immensely promoted."

The manual itself declares: "In other lands the schools are used for propaganda. Ours can and must be used, not for propaganda but for developing the ability to detect and to resist propagandas which menace democracy." Although "An American Answer to Intolerance" does not intend to add to an already crowded curriculum, it aims to combine the ideals of tolerance through specific application in regular classroom work. Rather than the artificial background of "good will" as a basis for study, this new pamphlet includes methods by which the teacher may lead the child to recognize prejudices and eventually eradicate them.

Since this manual combines the foremost thought with the basic foundations for an excellent text as evidenced by the outstanding committees which prepared it, "An American Answer to Intolerance" should prove a worthwhile contribution in promoting TRUE AMERICANISM.

America Marks The Seasons

NOWHERE IN the world do the people number their seasons like the Americans do with a shift from one menu to another. In spring it's fresh berries — large luscious strawberries or newly fallen deep black mulberries; right now it's watermelon, cantaloupes and corn, as native as the Bill of Rights. In fall crackling fires mean weiner roasts which tickle our foreign neighbors who delight in calling this great American delicacy the "hot dog." Winter time means cranberries, abundance of California and Florida oranges and game shot down in open season.

Numbering our seasons with shifting menus is American in itself. It is one of the delightful things about being American for though oftentimes the anticipation of a thing is greater than its actual pleasure of presentation, there is a certain happiness in looking forward to the varieties the seasons bring. Admitting it is a bit difficult at first for foreigners who come to settle here and who just get accustomed to eating one dish when a new season brings another, it still seems that rice, chop suey, wurst or enchilada are not nearly so enticing as America's fantastic panorama of the seasons as displayed in menus.

NOW SET HOUSING RIGHT

Congress has called a temporary halt on the administration's plan to expand its slum clearance, low rent housing experiment.

We say a temporary halt because we are confident that if the housing program is set right — made sensible and workable — it will be permitted to go ahead with the blessing of Congress and the country.

The House killed the bill which would have given the United States Housing Authority another $800,000,000 to lend to local agencies. But many if not most of the Congressmen who voted against that bill are not opposed to government housing. They are opposed only to the absurdities and impracticalities that have shown up in the lending and use of USHA's first $800,000,000.

The bill proposed to let USHA lend $1,600,000,000 to local agencies and then have the government give those agencies annual cash subsidies of $73,000,000 for 60 years — a total of $4,380,000,000 — so that they could repay their loans. It would seem simpler — and cheaper — to make them a gift of the $1,600,000,000 in the first place. But, even with these huge subsidies, many of the local agencies will not provide for the people who most need the benefit of low rent housing. In many cities where slums are being cleared the slum dwellers are left worse off than before. Even the subsidized rents in the new USHA buildings are beyond their means. An experiment as costly as this one, which clears away some slums but crowds the slum dwellers into other slums, obviously is not successful. We are glad that Congress has halted its expansion and thus saved USHA from plunging ahead into a disastrous failure that might have discredited the whole idea of slum clearance and low rent housing. Now the administration and Congress should join in a determined effort to develop a housing program that will succeed.

STRANGE BEDFELLOWS

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By George Tucker

New York—A detective tells me that as sure as shooting Voodooism is practiced in Harlem, Voodooism is that weird "conjuring" religion said to have been imported from Africa, but more likely from Haiti, by slaves. It is accompanied by frenzied symbolical dances and leans heavily on witchcraft.

Not long ago a Negro was arrested in Harlem for theft, and around his neck was found a conjur bag. In it were the front paws of a dead rat, a capsule of "Gou-fu" dust (powdered fish scales), nail-parings, and a bone which he claimed was the knuckle of a monkey's hand.

All of these charms, if purchased from the right source, are said to be powerful enough to destroy your enemies or at least to give you an advantage over them. There is a story in Harlem to the effect that the Voodooists concentrate on Joe Louis every time he fights, and they ascribe all his victories to the infallibility of their "medicine." Joe's defeat at the hands of Schmeling on their first encounter was discounted on the theory that some of the more powerful Voodoo worshippers, taking a temporary dislike to Louis, conjured up an even more powerful form of medicine and turned it against him.

Where the Voodooists meet is a closely guarded secret, but this detective tells me their worship is a perversion of the old Voodoo and is allied with the "loco" weed belt, or Marajuna dives, of which there are supposed to be more than 500 in Harlem. The effects of the weed make its users more conducive to mass hypnotism, an essential part of Voodoo ritual.

They tell me there are even "drug stores" in Harlem to which worshippers go for their charms, the most potent of which is "gris-gris," said to be so powerful that all you have to do is leave a little "gris-gris" on your enemy's doorstep during the dark of the moon and he will disappear. Dried toads, powdered bone, powdered fish scales, snake skin, dried human skin, dried lizards, and various "ointments" are available for true believers.

HEALTH HINTS

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

The eruption of poison ivy or poison oak, once seen or experienced, can never be forgotten. The angry, blistering appearance of the skin looks as bad as it feels.

When the eruption has actually occurred, its treatment is most unsatisfactory. The fact that in MacNair's book on "Ivy Dermatitis" he lists seven pages of vaunted remedies proves this. It is a pretty good rule that when there are more than three surefire remedies for anything, none of them is very good.

Most recommended is first to wash the skin affected with benzoin, alcohol or ether soap. Since the poison is an oil, carbol, it is best dissolved in one of these substances.

Of all the local applications to relieve discomfort, the best is carbolized and mentholated calomine lotion. Cold water is almost as good; in fact, when the discomfort becomes almost intolerable it may work best.

Prevention Important. Prevention, then, assumes most importance. We have showed there is proof of the fact that only about one-third of all people are highly susceptible. These can be detected by the application of the virus to the unbroken skin. This fact is extremely important, because military encampments, scout camps, etc., have been entirely disrupted by severe epidemics of this poisoning.

In 1916 Duncan first advocated the ancient folk remedy of chewing the leaves of the plant; but this causes too violent stomach upset. This was improved by using an alcoholic extract of the leaves. Preparations of this kind can be obtained from pharmacists. I have heard the personal testimony of a number of people to the effectiveness of this method of prevention.

One woman who wanted to accompany her husband on hiking and hunting trips used to suffer tortures, so that for several years she desisted. After using an extract by mouth she was able to go into the woods and even deliberately expose herself to the plant without any ill effects. But, in general, the testimony is against the effectiveness of these oral administrations.

Preventive Methods. Maisei advocates the use of a bath in which about four drops of the extract is placed in ten gallons of water, and this amount gradually increased. This might be valuable in selected cases, as for instance, one of his—a Boy Scout leader who had an attack every time he went with his troop, and who found no relief in injections.

Stewart Says—

I. C. C. Chairmanship One of Longest Jobs In Federal Service

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

Frank R. McNinch recently quit the chairmanship of the federal communications commission under circumstances which can't have been altogether satisfactory to him. For one thing his health broke down. He didn't like that certainly. Additionally, however, his job on that commission, during the few years he held it, had been enough to crack any man's constitution. If ever there was a post calculated to wreck the most powerful physique, that's it — either the chairmanship or any of the six associate commissioner-ships.

Frank was no Hercules to begin with. He's a little mite of an individual, but boiling with energy; temper also—just the right combination to wear him down to the meeresst frazzle, bucking everlasting, unconquerable difficulties.

Probably he thought he was equal to anything after the experience he'd had as chairman of the federal power commission. He got that appointment hard onto a decade ago, following the late Sen. Thomas J. Walsh's crusade against the private power interests. Walsh got the commission created. McNinch was picked to head it. He was named from North Carolina. Immediately Josiah W. Bailey arrived in Washington from said state to fight his appointment's senatorial confirmation. Bailey wasn't a senator then; only a senator-elect. Nevertheless he had sufficient influence to make Frank plenty of trouble among democratic solons, with the charge that he'd botched Al Smith when the latter was running for the White House. It likewise was alleged, though never proven, that Mac had been a K.K.K.

Anyhow, he skipped through confirmation, but it wasn't a very gratifying way to arrive at the power commission's chairmanship. Still More Trouble.

Once in office, plenty more troubles awaited him. The power commission was invented by Senator Walsh and associated liberals to put a crimp into private power. Private power was fairly well suited with Mac, believing it could control him. But of course the power liberals, thinking the same thing, wished him all colors of bad luck. To everybody's astonishment he turned out to be a corking good liberal himself. Thereupon the liberals, flopping over, began to like him like everything. Naturally, though, private power, likewise flopping, has hated him like poison ever since. The net result was that he had a lot of enemies and opposition, one way or the other all the time he held his power chairmanship.

Well, he had nerve. He had, at that particular juncture, about the hardest niche to occupy that Uncle Sam had to offer, and he filled it super-competently. That was o.k. as far as it went. But subsequently a still meaner niche opened itself, with the creation of the federal communications commission, an offspring of the earlier radio commission. Now it already had been demonstrated that a radio commissioner's job was a cavity almost impossible for a human being to fill adequately. Who was the best bet to have a try at it? Echo answered, "Frank R. McNinch." So he was boosted into it.

More Air! There's a tangibility about the power business. It was to be regulated. Certain forms of communication can be regulated, too. By mail is one way, but that doesn't worry the communications commission; the postoffice department takes care of it. Telegraphs and telephones can be supervised; they have wires and such things.

But suppose you have two (or more) competing radio outfits. They conflict. One says, "We want more air." "No," say its rivals, "we've got all the air there is in this vicinity already pre-empted." They put their problem up to the communications commission. It's as if two individuals want to talk at the same time. Which of the two is entitled to the how much? It's up to the commission to decide; it mustn't abridge free speech, though.

And yet there isn't enough air to go around. The competition for it is terrible, and anybody is entitled to all he wants, and there's an infinity of it. All the commission has to do is to divide it up.

This little task was put up to Frank McNinch. His health broke down under it. A mere matter of provement is usually noted. After the third or fourth treatment, inflammation, pain and itching entirely subside.

Spraying the Plants. Poison ivy and oak can be destroyed in your garden by spraying the plant with a strong solution of common salt in soapy water or kerosene. This spraying is an improvement on pulling them up; especially if the puller-upper is an unsuspected susceptible.

A MOTION PICTURE star, a dance instructor and a super-salseman will be interviewed by George Jessell on his Celebrity program over the NBC-Red network this evening at 7:30.

They are Miriam Hopkins, Ned Wayburn and Jim Moran, the last named being a man who can sell anything, like refrigerators to eskimos. Music is under the baton of Peter Van Steeden with vocals by the Star-dusters.

EVEN THOUGH they are more accustomed than others to thinking out answers while on their feet, college students, according to Arlene Francis, are no more adept than others at playing "What's My Name?"

The question program designed to identify noted persons from brief descriptions will be heard tonight at 7 o'clock over NBC-Red.

NICK KENNY, radio editor of the New York Daily Mirror, set an all time record for identifying clues on a recent "What's My Name?" program.

As a special on-the-spot guest, the song writer and ex-sailor named Madame Marie Curie before Arlene Francis could finish the first sentence of the description. Nick swore he had not been peeping, asked Arlene to send the $10 reward to Father Flanagan's Boys Town as a gift.

ALL LOCAL RECORDS at hotels and night clubs in San Francisco were broken for one week's business when 10,000 persons turned out to see Kay Kyser and his "College of Musical Knowledge" crew at the Bal Tabarin, San Francisco.

Bands the country over seem to be breaking a good many records. We wonder if America is really going in for good music and dance entertainment in a big way or if some manager or booking agent adds his figures higher each time for a little publicity.

KAY KYSER will team with Bing Crosby to master the ceremonies at the exclusive Del Mar Turf club party Saturday. Practically every movie star in Hollywood will be on hand—probably another record. Programs of the new Wayne King show will emanate from Chicago, his old stamping grounds.

JOHNNY GREEN, maestro of the "Johnny Presents" program, has petitioned Postmaster General Farley to include George Gershwin's name among the American composers to be honored in the new series of postage stamps.

Andre Kostelanetz started the ball rolling when he succeeded in having a stamp issued in honor of Stephen Foster.

WARD WILSON, heckler on the Phil Baker program, will be a guest on "Hobby Lobby" over NBC-Blue this evening at 6:30.

A precedent in broadcasting was established this week when Fox Movietone news made a newsworld of Brewster Morgan's "Americans At Work" broadcast over CBS.

JIMMIE FIDLER'S "Hollywood Gossip" has been renewed on CBS for another 52 weeks effective Sept. 12.

Don't forget Tommy Dorsey, his trombone and his orchestra, when they present their weekly broadcast tonight at 6:30 over NBC-Red.

EIGHT COMMENTATORS were auditioned this week for the new live "Strange as it Seems" series. The final choice of the director is still a secret.

Margaret Miller, Eliot Waples Honored at Numerous Parties; Marriage Set for Saturday

Bridegroom-Elect's Parents Entertain Bridesmaids, Ushers

Numerous parties both here and in Cedar Rapids this week have feted and will fete Margaret Miller, Rocky Shore drive, and Eliot Waples of Cedar Rapids, who will be married Saturday.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Waples of Cedar Rapids, the parents of the bridegroom-elect, entertained at a dinner for the ushers and bridesmaids in their home.

Guests from Iowa City included Sidney and George Miller, brothers of the bride-elect, and Maxine Schlanbusch. Other guests were Mrs. William Merritt of Rock Island, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Westerfield of West Union, and Robert Waples, Robertson Little and Robert Lamson, all of Cedar Rapids.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Richard Westerfield of West Union entertained at a luncheon in Miss Miller's honor in the home of Mrs. Westerfield's mother-in-law, Mrs. Charles M. Westerfield, in Cedar Rapids. Iowa City guests included Mrs. Ada Miller, Mrs. Florence Higgins, Miss Schlanbusch and the honoree.

This afternoon Mrs. William Merritt will entertain at a shower for Miss Miller in the home of her mother, Mrs. R. A. Kuever, 5 Meirose circle. Another honoree at this afternoon's party will be Harriett Merritt, whose marriage to Halsey Stevens will take place in September.

Isabelle Smith and Harriett Merritt will be hostesses at a miscellaneous shower and evening party tomorrow at 8 p.m. for Miss Miller in the home of the former, 615 E. Court street. An out-of-town guest will be Mrs. William Merritt.

The members of the Congregational Ladies aid society will meet at 2:30 in the church parlors. Mrs. E. W. Johnson, Mrs. R. L. Randall and Mrs. Ray Lewis will serve as hostesses.

The Glad Hand prayer circle will meet at 8 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hill, 839 Roosevelt street.

Something New in Table Decorations

Judy Garland (left) arranges a floral centerpiece for her dining table that comes in sections and is a composite bowl. Candlesticks arranged at the intersections lend an air to the arrangement. A formal dinner table is set by Virginia Bruce in her Beverly Hills home (second). Cloth and napkins are of white silk damask with pattern in reverse thread glowing in pale gold. Limoges service has dull blue edge with rich gold filigree; old-fashioned dishes and hand-wrought candelabra. A shining example of what is ideal in setting a buffet table is the air of graciousness and easy accessibility of the service as arranged. For the semi-formal dinner (right) Maureen O'Sullivan presents a charming table with center runner and individual doilies of handmade Irish lace and napkins of Irish linen with tiny lace border. The sterling service plates and candlestick holders are antiques; the bread and butter plates are crystal; the crystal glass set is simplicity itself; the little service bell is crystal with silver knob and clapper. The centerpiece is an exact replica of the dinner table in mahogany miniature.

This Is a Double Duty Kitchen

Paraphrasing the old saying about a rule—it is a poor kitchen that can't be worked two ways. Architects designing the majority of small homes today realize that a house is more useable and convenient when some rooms can be used for two purposes as desired. And, certainly, the kitchen is expected to offer space for a dining area for breakfast and snacks. Note that the kitchen illustrated above has one wall of glassblock with a casement window cut in the center. Thus, whoever breakfasts at the little table for two has brightness and a view of the out-of-doors besides. The high-speed modern gas range located in the center of the adjoining wall makes it easy to cook breakfast in double-quick time and serve it piping hot. Trays placed in the vertical cabinet at the side of the range are ever ready for collecting the dishes to carry to the sink.

Wylie To Give Radio Talks On Astronomy

Prof. C. C. Wylie of the University of Iowa astronomy department will present a series of four radio talks on astronomy in the Bible beginning this morning and continuing through Saturday.

The talks will be presented on the Morning Chapel program at 8 a.m., which is conducted by the Rev. James E. Waery. The content of the talks is, for the most part, taken from Professor Wylie's book, "Our Starland."

This morning's topic will be "Tribal Banners and the Cherubim." Tomorrow morning he will tell about "The Sky Story of the Flood." The other two broadcasts will be on "Meteors in the Bible" and "Astronomy in Solomon's Temple."

Professor Wylie explained that the series will tell about some references to astronomy in the Bible which are not understood as astronomy by many people.

Cincy Splits Twin Bill With Chicago

Facts and Figures Against Reds

Martin Digs Up Statistics to Prove Cincinnati Isn't In Yet

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)— Their best friends may not tell them, but we will, just in case the Cincinnati Reds are relying too much on world series money to lift the mortgage on the old homestead. The undiluted fact is this:

No National league team in the lead Aug. 8 has won the pennant in the last five years.

Furthermore, the eventual winner was, on Aug. 8, an average of more than five and one-half games back.

The Reds today are seven and one-half games ahead of the second-place St. Louis Cardinals, the team which was given a chance to finish anywhere from first to seventh, depending on the pitching. The Cards are depending on the pitching now, and it's just like money in the bank.

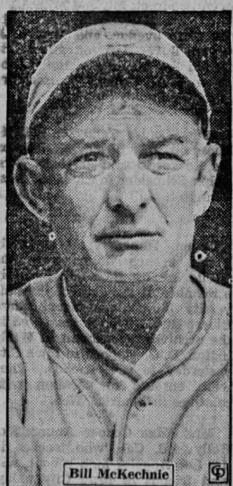

Remember Last Year?

Last year's race still is fresh in the minds of the fans. Aug. 8 the Pirates were six and one-half games ahead of the Giants, with the pennant-winning Cubs tied for third with the Reds eight games behind the pace. The Cubs didn't exactly fold. They crumpled.

Aug. 8, 1937, the Cubs were an even five games ahead of the Giants when the Chicagoans blew a fuse, the Giants coming on to win by about three games.

On the same date in 1936 the Cardinals were five games in front of the third-place Giants and two ahead of the Cubs. The Giants were out in front by five 10-1-2 games behind the Reds today.

By WHITNEY MARTIN

Bill McKechnie

In 1935 the Giants went into games when the season ended, with the Cubs and Cards tied for second. Incidentally, the Cubs are their Aug. 8 game with a three and one-half game margin over the Cubs. The Cubs won the flag by four games, with the Giants slipping back to third.

Cards Rally in 1934

And to bring the example closer to home, the 1934 season saw the Giants seven games ahead of the Cardinals on Aug. 8. The Cards were in third place, two and one-half games behind the Cubs. The Cards won the pennant, finishing two games ahead of the second-place Giants.

All of which does not necessarily mean the Reds should curl up in a corner just because recent precedent indicates their leading position as of Aug. 8 is an ill omen. Somebody is always doing something just to be different, and Cincinnati may be the elephant to make the triple somersault over six men.

There's a Chance

But it does mean that if the Reds have the idea they can't be caught with an eight-state alarm they have only to peruse the records of the immediate past to join the view-with-alarm delegation. They not only can be caught, they can be convicted.

In their favor it must be said Bill McKechnie appears to have the club which can defy precedent, despite the fact it has slipped like a tired garter of late, with a lead of something like 11 games cut sharply.

The team has not been in the best of health, with its outfield patched up with wire and tape. It should be better with the recovery of its crumples, but the pitching staff has been carrying a tremendous burden, and it almost is asking too much for gentles like Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer to keep up their amazing pace.

At any rate, the storm signals are out and it's going to take some fine seamanship to defy the gale.

Jimmy Foxx and Lefty Grove Combine To Give Red Sox Victory Over Athletics

Lefty Grove

Grove Limits Macks To Eight Hits, Foxx Hits Two Homers

BOSTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Aided by Jimmy Foxx' 28th and 29th home runs of the season, old Robert Grove extracted another well-pitched game from his aging left arm today, and the Boston Red Sox whipped the Philadelphia A's, 9 to 2, for the eighth time in ten contests this season.

Grove had the A's shut out with six hits as he entered the ninth inning, but eased up enough for Eric Tipton to slash a single over shortstop Joe Cronin's head and then score behind Bill Nagel's home run over the left field screen. Nagel's hit, coming on a 3-and-2 pitch, was the last Philly gesture and old Lefty bore down to get the next three A's in order—pinch hitter Sam Chapman on strikes for the last out. It was Lefty's twelfth victory of the year against two defeats.

Williams Banded

Ted Williams, the Sox' rookie outfielder star, was removed from the game in the sixth by Manager Joe Cronin. With the bases loaded and two out, Williams jogged leisurely to first base on a high fly back of second base, and two runs scored as Nagel and Johnson let the ball drop between them. Williams, who could have easily reached second by hard running, was replaced for the rest of the game by Lou Finney.

Riggs Advances In Net Meet

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)— Bobby Riggs and Elwood Cooke, who reached the Wimbledon finals together in both singles and doubles, ran into trouble separately today in the second round of the Eastern Grass Court championships and only Riggs was equal to it.

But the playful Chicagoan stood stoutly one game from defeat before finally overcoming Chester Murphy, a fellow townsman, 4-6, 6-2, 10-8. Cooke held three match points on young Bob Kamrath of Austin, Tex., but Kamrath, with an excellent net game, eventually won, 1-6, 7-5, 6-4, thereby perpetrating the most stunning upset of the tournament.

The drama of the situation was enhanced by the fact that both matches were played on adjoining courts, and an excited gallery shifted its attention noisily from one to the other, so that play was delayed several times while the officials pleaded for silence.

Washington Senators Stretch Win Streak to Eight Straight

Miss Marian Miley Meets Iowa's Edith Estabrooks Today in W.W.G.A. Meet

DETROIT, Aug. 8 (AP)— Led by Marian Miley of Lexington, Ky., the medalist yesterday with a 74, three former champions emerged today, winning on the 19th hole from Mrs. G. T. McGlynn of Detroit. Miss Estabrooks dropped a 12-foot putt for a birdie four and a win on the extra hole.

Also in the top half of the upper bracket was Miss Traung, who plays Harriet Randall of Indianapolis tomorrow.

Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, runner-up to Miss Traung in 1936, played the best golf of the opening round as she went out in 38, one under women's par, in downing Virginia Lindblad of Joliet, Ill., 5 and 4.

The only major casualty today was 15-year-old Jeanne Cline of Bloomington, Ill., who bowed to the veteran Chicagoan, Mrs. Tim G. Lowery, 2 and 1. A semi-finalist in the recent Women's Western Open, Miss Cline ranks among the top-flight young golfers of the nation.

Nats Bombard Yank Hurlers For 16 Hits

Young Atley Donald Charged With Second Straight Defeat, 7-4

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)— The Senators stretched their winning streak to eight straight today by walloping the none-too-impressive New York Yankees 7 to 4 with a 16-hit barrage, and thereby handing Atley Donald his second defeat of the season.

Every one in the Washington lineup hit safely at the expense of three Yankee hurlers during the tussle, which cost Donald his second loss since his record rookie winning string of 12 in a row was snapped. The Yankees, dropping their third straight game, were held to seven singles by Southpaw Joe Krakauskas and Pete Appleton, who relieved John Rigney in the ninth.

Mulcahy Hurls As Phils Win From Dodgers

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8 (AP)— With Hugh Mulcahy furnishing the pitching, and Roy Hughes the telling base hit, the Phillies ended a 10-game losing streak tonight with a 3 to 2 win over Brooklyn. The crowd of 8,250 was the smallest to view a night game at Shibe park.

Mulcahy, the big right-hander, went the route for the Phillies, scattering the Dodgers' eight hits. He gave up single runs in the first and second innings. It was Mulcahy's sixth victory, against 14 losses.

The Phillies scored once in the first off Russell (Red) Evans, Brooklyn's mound starter, then tabbed the winning runs on Hughes' single in the sixth. Hugh Casey finished for the Flatbush flock after Evans had been removed for a pinch-hitter.

Cordinger Wins

SPENCER, Aug. 8 (AP)— Bill Cordinger of Des Moines won the 18-hole playoff for the northwest Iowa golf championship yesterday, defeating a fellow townsman, Tom Hoak, by a single stroke. Cordinger shot a 77 and Hoak scored a 78.

DES MOINES, Aug. 8 (AP)— Johnny Paychek, the Des Moines bellboy, punched himself back into the national heavyweight picture tonight by giving Maurice Strickland of New Zealand a pasting before 14,000 fans here.

Fighting under the shadow of a legal argument over division of the $21,500 gate, the largest in Iowa boxing history, Paychek was given seven out of the 10 rounds in a newspaper decision.

Strickland, who defeated the Iowan here two months ago, was given two rounds and the other was even.

Flicking his rapier-like left into Strickland's face continually, Paychek piled up a big point margin and had the Anzac bleeding profusely as both fighters waded in with all they had in the wild tenth round.

Strickland's left eye badly damaged and his mouth bleeding, went down in the last round meek but got up without taking a count.

Johnny has his troubles, too, particularly in the third frame when Strickland tagged the Iowan with a hard left and then a right, the combination jolting plenty.

A righthand punch, a new weapon in Paychek's repertoire, shook up Strickland in the second round. Johnny employed the right hand blow with fair success thereafter, but it was that slicing left that did the damage to the Anzac's face.

Strickland's long overhand punch was his most effective blow particularly in the ninth when he tried to put over a knockout blow to overcome the Iowan's big point margin.

Nine out of 12 newspapermen at the ringside gave the decision to Paychek while three called the fight a draw.

With Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, in his corner, Paychek jabbed, feinted and caused Strickland to miss badly in the first two stanzas. In the third, Maurice solved that nervous, dancing style of the Iowan and scored heavily with lefts and rights to take the round by a wide margin.

Paychek walloped Strickland with rights and lefts to take the seventh. Strickland was badly out-pointed in the early minutes of the eighth but he landed a pile-driving right shortly before the bell that might have bodied ill for Johnny if Maurice had had time to follow up his advantage.

Strickland took the ninth and Paychek the tenth.

Horse Show Entries Total 30 To Top Lists of Former Years

Seven Classes To Be Featured at Annual 4-H Show Aug. 17

Entries for the horse show to be held in connection with the annual Johnson county 4-H club show Thursday, Aug. 17 now total more than 30, it was announced by Robert W. Whetstone, secretary of the event.

According to Mr. Whetstone, the event already has more entrants than any year previous. The show will feature seven classes, these being the five-gaited open class, the three-gaited open class, the ladies' five-gaited open class, the pony stake, the three-gaited pair, the five-gaited combination and the local class.

Still more entries are expected after the close of the Hawkeye Downs show in Cedar Rapids a few days previous to the Iowa City event.

Mr. Whetstone urged all Johnson county boys to enter the pony stake, one of the classes for which entries are coming in slowly. Entries should be mailed as soon as possible so the committee will be able to provide for them. There is no entry fee in this class and the ponies will be stabled free at the show, the secretary said.

Main judge for the show will be Harry Linn, formerly secretary of the Iowa Horse association and now first assistant to the secretary of agriculture of Iowa. He will be aided by two assistant judges.

In addition to displays by the seven classes, special events including a horse performing tricks and jumping have been planned for the show.

Iowa City persons who have entered horses in the show to date are Ben S. Summerwill, William Summerwill, Arthur Winters, Mrs. John Nash, Frank Nash and Mr. Whetstone.

4.07 Inches Of Rain Fall Here In 24 Hours

Beneficial Moisture Aids Crops, Causes Slight Damage

A total of 4.07 inches of rainfall in 24 hours from Monday afternoon to yesterday afternoon surpassed the average rainfall for the entire month of August, figures from the Iowa hydraulics laboratory revealed last night.

The average August rainfall is 3.86 inches in Iowa City. It was reported yesterday that many country roads were flooded but no bridges were washed out. The entire rainfall was only slightly less than the cloudburst that fell Monday afternoon at Clinton causing widespread damage to roads and bridges.

The slow, easy rain that preceded the heavy fall was reported by County Agent Emmett C. Gardner to be very beneficial to farm crops, but the heavy rains that followed were feared damaging to crops on account of washing.

Some small creeks in Johnson county were approaching the flood stage yesterday and Iowa river was high, but not in any danger of flood. Upstate rains may cause higher water today, it was revealed.

Temperatures were considerably lower yesterday as a result of the extensive rains and the overcast sky. The high for the day as reported by the hydraulics laboratory was 74 degrees while normal for the day was 85, nine degrees higher. The low recorded temperature was 64, two degrees above the normal low.

For the first time in 1939, Iowa City is ahead of the normal rainfall for the year. The normal for the year so far is 21.79 inches and a total of 24.35 inches have fallen.

Jones Rites To Be Today

Last rites will be held at 4:30 this afternoon for Charles H. Jones, 77, who died Monday morning after an illness of several weeks. Services will be at the Oathout funeral home with the Rev. Edwin E. Voigt of the Methodist church presiding.

Mr. Jones was born in 1862 in Warren county, Pa., and lived in New York before coming to Iowa in 1919.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Mary Couser of Cedar Rapids and Mrs. Susy Litch of Seattle, Wash., and four brothers, William H. Jones of Silver Creek, N. Y., Ernest M. Jones of Atkin, Minn., George L. Jones of Seattle, Wash., and Delbert M. Jones of Seattle, Wash.

In 1937, 34.8 per cent of all persons arrested were under 25 years of age.

Relief Rolls Cut
Next spring, he said, WPA rolls will have been reduced from 3,000,000 to 2,000,000 and the 2,000,000 on WPA will have finished their work.

The theory has been, on the part of the solid republican minority, plus 20 to 25 per cent of the democrats, the president said, that business would take up the slack as jobs were lost.

But there is a serious condition, he said, because it is not a gradual decline over a period of years, but, rather, a precipice.

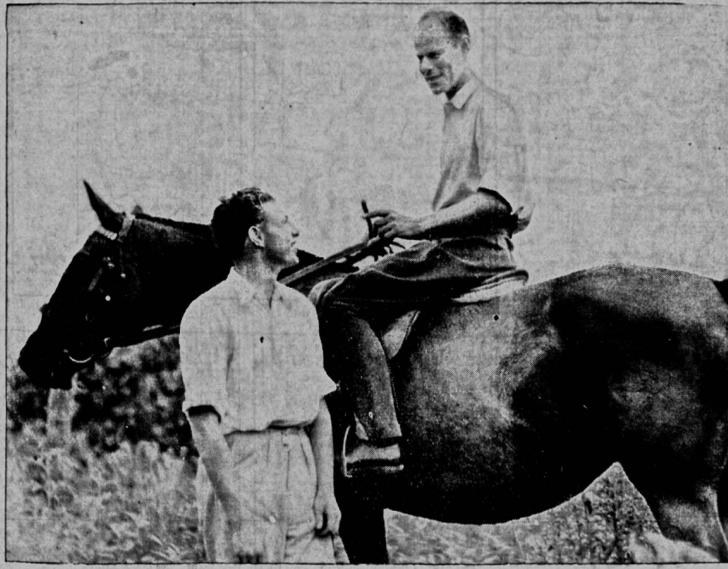

That is what the missus was talking about, the president said. It is a precipice and it is always hard to get down a precipice without danger to life and limb; and then, going down, you have to slow up everything even if you do get down safely to the bottom of the hill.

The theory of the lending bill, he said, was to provide a graduated descent from the level of high employment, but the coalition voted in favor of the precipice method.

In Hyde Park, he said, 450 persons are employed on three school buildings being erected with PWA help. By spring, he said, none would be working. That example, he said, can be duplicated in every county in America.

No Indian Stutterers!

Snidecor, Kiwanis Speaker, Discusses Indian Associations

John C. Snidecor, University of Iowa summer session student, told members of the Kiwanis club yesterday noon that through his association with Indians he has never found a full-blooded one who stuttered, although such cases have been known.

Mr. Snidecor is a teacher in Idaho and has studied peculiarities of the speech of the American Indian as he has found them through his associations with the Bannock and Shoshone Indians of the Ft. Hall reservation in Idaho. "Contrary to most beliefs concerning taciturnity of Indians," Mr. Snidecor said, "I have found through my associations with them that once one gains their confidence they become very talkative."

Of additional interest to the speaker was the shortened sentence used by the Indians as well as their lack of stuttering and type of conversation.

Mr. Snidecor read some Indian quotations to illustrate the shortness of their sentences. In conclusion, but not relative to speech, the speaker told of the Indian's favorite Sunday delicacy — roasted dog meat. The only guest at the regular meeting in the Jefferson hotel was the Rev. Grant Anderson of Cedar Rapids.

Health Exam Finals To Be Given Friday

Final health examinations for 4-H club boys and girls entered in the Johnson county health contest will be given Friday at the children's hospital, according to an announcement made yesterday by County Agent Emmett C. Gardner.

The winners of this examination will be named at the annual 4-H club show Aug. 16 in Iowa stadium. The winners, a boy and a girl, will represent Johnson county at the Iowa State fair in a contest to determine the state health champions.

Eligible for examination Friday will be only 4-H club members who have had previous health examinations by their family physicians and dentists. Mr. Gardner said that they must bring a statement from their physicians and dentists concerning the former examination.

The examinations will be under the direction of Dr. J. D. Boyd and will be given at 9 a.m. for boys and at 1 p.m. for girls.
