Tornadoes, Cloudbursts Lash Sections of Iowa, Cause Injury, Damage

Six Are Hurt; Spencer Gets 4.1-Inch Rain

Liberty Center, Greenfield, Osceola Report Wind Storms

DES MOINES, Aug. 10 (AP)—Two tornadoes and half a dozen cloudbursts lashed scattered Iowa communities today, leaving in their wake six persons with minor injuries, scores of washouts on highways and streets, flooded basements and fields and the customary debris that results from "flash" floods.

Four and one-tenth inches of rain fell at Spencer, in northwest Iowa, and nine other communities had two inches or more — most of it the result of cloudbursts that sent cascades of water racing curb-deep through streets.

2 inches in 30 minutes In Des Moines, where two inches of rain fell in 30 minutes during the supper hour, police estimated 6,000 automobiles were stuck on streets as water covered the running boards and in some cases lapped at the tops of the seat cushions.

Authorities estimated 15,000 downtown workers in the capital city were marooned in office buildings, stores and restaurants by water that ran curb deep through the business area streets, reached up to the doors of some establishments, flooded basements and did other damage.

One of the tornadoes dipped down at Osceola and Liberty Center and the other hit near Greenfield. The three towns are south and west of Des Moines.

Teetie Hurt At Osceola William Teetie, 88, was hurt when a barn collapsed, trapping him inside the wreckage. Neighbors had to clear away the debris before he could be pulled out and taken to a hospital for treatment of bruises.

Hitting at Liberty Center, 30 miles northeast of Osceola, about 3:50 o'clock, the same tornado demolished the Frank Woodyard home. Mrs. Woodyard was injured seriously, a son, Donald, had a broken leg, and the father had bruises and cuts. Two other children escaped injury.

Dean Sandy was injured in the back when struck by a flying timber. The second tornado hurled a piece of debris at Wayne Tilk, 14, of Greenfield, causing scalp injuries.

Dozens of buildings in the path of the tornadoes were damaged. Corn was flattened and property loss was expected to run into a large figure.

Among the other Iowa cities reporting heavy rains were Algona, 3.22 inches; Indianola, 3.05; Atlantic, 3.52; Des Moines, 2.52; Audubon, 2.50; Linn Grove, 2.20; Primgar, 2.00; Rock Springs, 2.11 and Spirit Lake, 2.81.

Fred Snite, Still in 'Iron Lung,' Unexpectedly Weds Ohio Girl

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP) — Fred Snite, Jr., who has lived in "iron lungs" for three years and four months, married today a pretty brunette who cheered and comforted him during his valorous struggle to shake off the shackles of infantile paralysis.

The unheralded ceremony — it surprised some relatives and amazed friends the smiling "boiler kid" had made on three continents — was performed in the home of Snite's banker father in suburban River Forest.

Young Snite and Miss Teresa Larkin, of Dayton, Ohio, were married by the Rev. J. W. Morrison in the large living room in the presence of a small gathering of intimates before a fireplace draped with white and decorated with flowers.

Snite lay full-length in the boiler type iron lung in which he has slept and rested most of the

Iowa Farmers Foresee Record Yield In This Year's Corn Crop Harvest

DES MOINES, Aug. 10 (AP)—Iowa's 200,000 farmers see in their rapidly maturing corn crop the prospect of harvesting a record average yield of 47 1-2 bushels an acre, the agriculture department reported today.

The August estimate represented a 2-bushel an acre improvement over the month previous and boosted the total yield outlook to 465,072,000 bushels, only one per cent less than the 1938 cribbed crop. Iowa's record per acre yields were harvested in 1912 and 1920, but they were 1 1-2 bushels an acre less than the current forecast.

Leslie M. Carl, federal agricultural statistician, placed the Aug. 1 condition of the crop at 93 per cent, the highest for that month since August, 1928. Asserting the soybean outlook continues excellent, Carl reported that crop's condition at 92 per cent August, 1929. It was 90 per cent on Aug. 1, 1938.

Europe Awaits Hitler's Move As Nations Prepare for War

Voice of Peace Rises Through Preparedness

Trouble Spots Cast Shadow; Maneuvers Spell 'Warnings'

By JOHN EVANS Associated Press General Foreign Editor

War is on parade in Europe. Great military machines are geared for swift battle on land, on sea and in the skies. Everywhere there is waiting, waiting for what? The word of the German leader, Adolf Hitler. Upon his decision, statesmen agree, depends war or peace.

Strangely enough, in all the war-like atmosphere, the quiet voice of peace is heard among all peoples. Even Hitler has proclaimed the annual nazi meeting at Nuernberg next month the "congress of peace."

Warnings All Around But, meanwhile, the fighting forces of Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Russia and the smaller countries are on "maneuvers" or soon will be. These maneuvers are regular affairs to train troops, fleets and air forces but this autumn they are avowed "warnings" to the other fellow to be careful.

Trouble spots are everywhere. Germany demands the return of Danzig and a strip across the Polish corridor. Britain, France and Poland have pledged themselves to go to war immediately against Germany if she takes Danzig by force.

Italian Demands Italy wants French colonies in promised payments for Italian aid in the last war. Germany and Italy long have sought to dominate southeastern Europe. Hungary already has adhered to the German-Italian-Japanese anti-comintern pact and German economic influence in the Balkan countries may foreshadow further political expansion there.

Furnishes Blood

Walter Rhodes Aids Fellow Prisoner With Transfusion

FT. MADISON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Blood from the veins of Walter Rhodes, convicted of murder, for slaying his wife, tonight was helping W. J. Fair of Marengo, a fellow inmate at the state prison, in his battle against leukemia, a circulatory system disease.

Rhodes, whose home was in Iowa City, contributed his blood in a 50-minute transfusion in the penitentiary hospital here this afternoon.

Rhodes, sentenced to death, is the last of five death row occupants here. The other four died on the gallows. The supreme court reversed the Rhodes conviction and ordered the case retried. The state has petitioned for a rehearing of the high court decision.

Roosevelt Will Have No Part In 'Democratic Suicide,' Should Party Nominate Conservatives

Conservatism Spells Doom, He Declares

Presidential Message Read at Meeting Of Young Democrats

By D. HAROLD OLIVER PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10 (AP)

—President Roosevelt tonight told the Young Democrats' national convention that if his party insisted on nominating "conservative or lip-service candidates" in 1940 he would take no active part in "such an unfortunate suicide of the old democratic party."

The chief executive, in a carefully-worded message read to the crowded, opening meeting by Pitt Tyson Maner of Montgomery, Ala., retiring president of the Young Democratic Clubs of America, asserted flatly he would not support a conservative in 1940.

"If you nominate conservative candidates, or lip-service candidates, on a straddle platform," he said, "I personally, for my own self-respect and because of my long democracy, and belief in liberal democracy, will find it impossible to have any active part in such an unfortunate suicide of the old democratic party."

He said, in substance, he not only would "take a walk" as Alfred E. Smith did on the party before Roosevelt's renomination, but he predicted the democratic party would "fail if it goes conservative next year, or if it is led by people who can offer naught but fine phrases."

Giving no hint as to how he feels on a third term, Mr. Roosevelt added he did not expect a conservative to be nominated "for I believe the convention (next year) will see the political wisdom, as well as the national wisdom, of giving to the voters of the United States an opportunity to maintain the practice and the policy of moving forward with a liberal and humanitarian program."

Pepper Favors Ideas

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), in a keynote speech following Maner's opening address, favored a "third term of Roosevelt's ideas" in 1940 and asserted the "king-makers of Wall Street" already had picked Gov. John M. Bricker of Ohio, for president, and, he believed, Thomas F. Dewey, New York district attorney, for vice-president.

Young Maner opened the three-day meeting in spacious Duquesne Garden after much preliminary bickering among factions over the organization presidency and following an interview by Sen. Claude Pepper (D-Fla.) that "republicans and turncoat democrats have deliberately sent their spies" here to "disrupt" the convention.

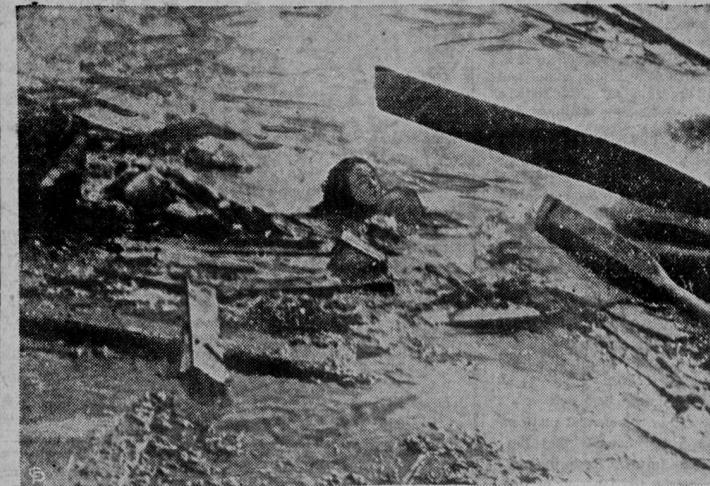

Former Rep. John J. O'Connor, of New York, Roosevelt "purge" victim last year, countered by saying the new deal had representatives here of Thomas G. Corcoran, young administration lawyer, to see that everything "goes well for Roosevelt."

Britons Darken Half of Nation In 'Blackout'

LONDON, Aug. 11 (Friday) (AP) — The blackness of a pit dropped suddenly on London, nerve center of the far-reaching British empire, at the zero hour of 12:30 this morning as the whole southeast of England joined in a "blackout" for air defense exercises.

For four hours Englishmen who had to be up and about plodded and crawled through the darkness of an area that covered 25,000 square miles — half of England — while 500 "enemy" bombers roared in from the eastern and southern coasts to see if they could penetrate the defenses of 800 planes and 60,000 air defense soldiers.

The blackout was Britain's greatest peacetime air defense drill.

House Lights Off In an area enclosed by a line drawn straight west from Hull on the eastern coast to Stockport, near Manchester, then south to Bournemouth on the south coast, house lights were turned off or shielded by black paper, street lights were extinguished and traffic lights were visible only through narrow slots.

All roadside lights, electric signs and skylights were turned off. The business part of London, which is normally quiet at that hour, was in complete darkness.

In the west end, scene of London's night life, darkness hushed the merry-makers and only the white shirtfronts of the men and the bare shoulders of women were discernible as Mayfair turned out (See BLACKOUT, Page 6)

Hughes Asks Permit For Paris Hop

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP) — Howard Hughes, famous sportsman-flier, has requested the permission of the federal government to make a flight, from the United States to Paris at a high altitude.

This was disclosed today by an official of the civil aeronautics authority, who said that Hughes was planning to use a so-called "strato-liner." This is a four-motor Boeing 307 plane.

The CAA and the state department immediately began studying the project. No further word as to Hughes' plans was given out.

N.L.R.B. Rules Against Ford

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP) — The national labor relations board, revising a previous order, ruled today that the Ford Motor company had violated the Wagner labor act and must correct certain labor practices described as unfair.

The board held that the company was guilty of discrimination in the discharge of 24 employees. It ordered the company to offer reinstatement to the 24 with back pay, and stop discouraging membership in the United Automobile Workers union, assailing of intimidating union men or interfering with employees' collective bargaining rights.

The case grew out of the U.A.W.'s attempts to circulate handbills at the company's gates and the violence that followed. Walter P. Reuther and Richard T. Frankensteen, U.A.W. officers, were beaten.

Today's order was similar to one issued Dec. 22, 1937. After that time, however, the board sought permission to withdraw the litigation from the courts to alter certain procedure. Over the objection of Ford attorneys, the supreme court consented to the withdrawal.

The current decision found that the company had not dominated or interfered with the formation or administration of the Ford Brotherhood of America, Inc., an employees' organization, and dismissed charges that Ford had discharged unjustly 11 employees in addition to the 24.

Police Protect Girls' Abductor From Lynching

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 10 (AP) — Police renewed their vigilance tonight to prevent mob violence to Charles Jefferson, who confessed abducting two Miami high school girls, killing one of them and holding the other prisoner for three days.

In guarded secrecy, the self-styled movie talent scout — who played upon the theatrical ambitions of his victims — was slipped from the Palm Beach county jail to an undisclosed prison, presumably farther north in Florida.

Authorities, checking reports of possible mob violence, decided to delay arraignment of Jefferson on charges he shot and stabbed 17-year-old Ruth Frances Dunn and kept her companion, Jean Bolton, 19, prisoner from Monday until Wednesday night.

Generally, West Palm Beach and the adjoining country were quiet — but officers said there were reports a mob would form if they left their prisoner within reach.

Officers would not say where Jefferson was taken, but a car in which he was reported traveling passed through Ft. Pierce up the Florida east coast.

Jefferson told ramblingly in a signed confession how he took the girls from their Miami homes to pose for pictures that would win them screen or radio contracts.

He told in detail of assaulting and killing Miss Dunn and of the movements of himself and Miss Bolton for three days and nights.

Stage, Screen Actors Threaten Strike in A.F. of L. Argument

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 10 (AP) — The American Federation of Labor's executive council said tonight that they will decide at 1:30 p.m. (CST) tomorrow what is to be the fate of Sophie Tucker's orphaned American Federation of Actors.

After a tempestuous mardi gras meeting of labor leaders with Broadway and Hollywood stars, William Green, president of the A. F. of L., sent the council back into night session with a hearing committee composed of Matthew Woll, A. F. of L. vice-president, and Thomas A. Rickert, a leader of the United Garment Workers, to hear testimony of the troubled actors in an effort to untangle the snarl that threatened to inter-rupt seriously the labor line-up on stage and screen.

Green referred to the known facts: the Associated Actors and Artists of America—a parent union of stage, screen and radio actors—had accused the leaders of a brother member, the AFA, with insubordination and then withdrew the charter of the AFA.

The expelled union immediately was granted a charter by the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage employees. The 4-A protested this as unconstitutional for the state had not asked permission to extend its jurisdiction, and also this would give the stage hands' union control over a union composed of night club, vaudeville and circus performers.

"To justify this action," Green said, "the IATSE points out that the screen actors' guild once called upon the stage hands to help force the producers to recognize them as bargaining agents."

U.S. Army Places 85 Million Dollar Order for Bombers, Other Airplanes

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP) — The army placed its largest aircraft orders since the World War today, asking 11 plants to supply it with an undisclosed number of bombers, new type interceptor pursuit planes, training craft and engines, costing altogether $85,978,000.

While the number of planes involved was not divulged, military quarters believed it was more than 1,500. Equipment to be provided by the government will increase their cost well beyond $100,000,000, the war department said.

New long range four-motor bombers to be made by the Consolidated and Boeing companies on the Pacific coast will attain speeds at least approaching 300 miles an hour, topping the performance of the "flying fortresses" already in service.

The interceptor pursuit planes, designed to climb quickly to head off air raids, are the same type as an experimental craft which last February attained 420 miles an hour on a trans-continental dash which ended in a crash at Mitchel Field, N. Y.

FLAMING DEATH Philadelphia Woman Kills Self

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10 (AP) — A young woman who turned herself into a flaming torch and burned to death in a filling station rest room yesterday was identified tonight as Mae Lyons, 25, an unemployed waitress.

Her mother, Mrs. Mary Lokus identified the body. She said her daughter had been despondent over the loss of a job. Police said she poured gasoline over her clothing, then lit a match.

Airmen Drown In Plane Crash

HYANNIS, Mass., Aug. 10 (AP) — In full view of hundreds of horrified bathers, two men perished today in the plunge of an airplane into Nantucket sound, a mile off Craigville beach.

Police identified the victims as Frank Carlson, 35, Hyannis garage man, who obtained a private pilot's license last week, and Richard Kilmann, 22, garage mechanic, a passenger.

Wreckage of the plane, containing the bodies, was located by small boats which sped to the crash scene. They towed it to Squaw island, nearest point of land.

The boats were aided in the search by planes from Hyannis airport where Carlson had taken off in a Taylorcraft owned by the Cape Cod Flying club. Bathers who saw the plane disappear beneath the water were first to notify the airport.

Ship Gambler Tony Cornero Arrested

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10 (AP) — Tony Cornero of the gambling ship Rex surrendered today in the middle of Santa Monica bay. He was coming ashore in a small boat and gave up with no ado when a boatload of officers met him en route.

G-Men Enter Dreher Case

DES MOINES, Aug. 10 (AP) — The "G" men tonight entered the Harold J. Dreher murder case.

Federal bureau of investigation authorities in Washington authorized its agents throughout the United States to help seek Fred Otto Osterrieder and Francis P. Welsh, charged with the fatal shooting of Dreher, a Mason City, salesman, here early in the morning of July 27.

R. C. Coulter, special FBI agent here, notified Chief of Detectives Jack Brophy of the Washington order.

Meanwhile, Federal District Attorney John Valentine filed charges against Osterrieder and Welsh, accusing them of "fleeing in interstate commerce to avoid prosecution for murder."

The action was taken only to aid local authorities in returning the men to Des Moines if and when they are apprehended, Valentine said. Federal warrants were issued for the two suspects.

Murder charges were filed against Osterrieder and Welsh in municipal court here yesterday.

Kidnap Rumors False—Stark

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP) — Reports that two young daughters of Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri were being guarded by G-men because of letters threatening their lives were termed "perfectly ridiculous" by Mrs. Stark tonight.

"There's not a word of truth in it," she asserted.

The report began after the daughters, Molly, 7, and Katherine, 5, did not appear at Missouri day ceremonies at the world's fair. Mrs. Stark said the girls didn't go because they were too young.

She said other reports that the governor had special police protection in New York were untrue.

Stark gained national prominence by his activities in helping break the Pendergast political machine in Kansas City.

Forster Defies Poland, Pleads For Peace

DANZIG, Aug. 10 (AP) — The Nazi leader in Danzig, Albert Forster, at a vast outdoor protest meeting tonight hurled defiance at Poland and appealed to citizens of other nations aligned against Germany to prevent a war — but gave no hint of the plans of Adolf Hitler, the German Fuehrer.

He said he had no startling disclosures to make.

The fiery spokesman, who hastened back to Danzig yesterday with full knowledge of Hitler's views gained in long interviews, declared however that "Poland may rest assured" Germany and the Fuehrer "are determined in the event of attack to stand at our side."

As for Danzig, he asserted, the free city was prepared to defend its rights "with its blood."

Civilization In Our Keeping

STUART CHASE comes forward in "Common Sense" for August 1939 with an article entitled "Civilization in our Keeping" in which he declares that America is the only power in the world with no cause to fight because America holds the future in her hands.

Taking a map of the world, England, Japan, Germany, France and Italy are either islands or fragments of the continent of Europe, with boundaries which have no particular economic justification. All the 24 sovereign nations of non-Russian Europe could be put in the United States and would only take up two-thirds of the area.

America is not a nation in the European sense. It is one huge area protected by 3,000 miles of salt water on one side and 5,000 miles on the other. Iowa cannot go to war with Nebraska. New York cannot raise a tariff wall against Connecticut. That is all just plain good luck.

If the United States were Europe it might be imagined there would be 20 or 30 independent nations, each struggling against the other. Some of them would be ruled by dictators. New Orleans, for instance, might be a free city and the Mississippi corridor back of it would be a powder mine ready to drench the continent in blood. Nations in the interior would be plotting for access to the sea.

The people of Europe have not got together for 1,500 years. They have been marching, fighting, recarving their boundaries. Modern Europe presents a terrible problem in political and economic anarchy.

It may be the people of Europe will have to fight before they can think. In America there is time to think, time to wait and choose a course. Here is economic unity. Here is the strongest nation on earth today—the most productive, the most democratic and the luckiest.

There are no imports from Europe vital to America's existence. If shoe imports, say, from Czechoslovakia were cut off, American workers unemployed now in Brooklyn, Haverhill and Lynn could go back to work.

Only two grave temptations might lead the United States to fight. First, shall we kill a million boys to give a temporary boom to business? And second, shall we kill a million boys to give our excess savings an outlet in war investment because we are too stupid to find adequate channels in peace investment? Shall we send them to die because it is easier to finance death and destruction than to finance life and construction—easier to forget the metaphysics of balanced budgets in wartime than in peace time?

The United States has no territorial ambitions, no surplus population to be exported, no driving need for a place in the sun. America has no traditional enemies, no revanche to appease. If America fights she will not only throw away the chance to lead the world but the best of the civilizations she now possesses.

What Goes On In Mexico

WITH MEXICO'S coming elections almost a year away it is not too soon for the United States to cast an interested eye in that direction. Already more concern in Mexico to the selection of presidential candidates has come to life than the situation produces in the United States only a few months prior to our election. Why? It may be that Mexico's next election will have more startling consequences than even the blood shed, revolution and disruption previously associated with Mexican governmental switches.

In General Juan Andreu Almazan's manifesto which announced his candidacy for president to oppose Cardenas, surprise was in its apparent conservatism. In an effort to confuse the campaign Almazan may assume a via media rather than bring about an open battle between conservative and administration forces. Of special interest to the United States should be Almazan's attitude toward us. He said: "The government of the republic should cultivate the best relations with all nations, based upon sound understanding and mutual respect. Neighbors as we are to the great North American nation, it is indispensable that we realize that we will never have the sympathy, much less the cooperation to make ourselves strong, until true friendship, based on scrupulous respect for mutual rights, is established. From such a friendship would come the sincere decision to fight—united to the United States and in defense of the continent and pursuit of our common ideals."

Public announcement by Almazan of his proposed innovation of religious education and freedom of worship has also brought interest to Mexico's northern neighbors. If the plan were carried out it would mean the reopening of church schools and the undoubted strengthening of the position of the Roman Catholic church. Another presidential candidate in Mexico, General Gildardo Magana has made the same promises in regard to the position of the church.

In the most radical part of his conservative presidential platform Almazan recommends that businesses be turned over to the workers after a fixed period of time and that profit sharing by the workers should be guaranteed by the state.

All candidates thus far are supporting the program of increased state socialism, internal development and national sovereignty summed up in the current slogan of "Mexico for the Mexicans."

The very recent publicity accorded to the Richmon Petroleum company, a subsidiary of Standard Oil of California, in which the Mexican supreme court held that company had no claim to the property it was using because its owner had previously promised the Mexican government not to lease it, will produce many new angles as the political situation unfolds in Mexico. Addressing the Economic and Social Studies in Mexico said: "Our government certainly counts on President Roosevelt's friendship but supposing that the firmness displayed by President Cardenas renders an understanding with the oil companies impossible and leads to the evaporation of this friendship, has the finance minister foreseen the consequences that might result?"

There is further evidence of distress in Mexico in the way the cost of living has increased in recent years, which, taking 100 as the index, has risen from 105 in 1934 to 166 in 1938.

Economic, social, religious and political tension has never run higher in Mexico. The calm before the battle, with the battle of the presidential election set for next July, produces a series of speculations none of which may be radical enough to foresee the actual revolution Mexico may witness next year. The creation of a fascist or communistic state so near our border or the seeds of a new Spain firmly sown should not be gazed at with indifference. Massacre, bloodshed, even war may not be strong enough terms to describe the Mexico of 1940. American eyes cast on Mexico now and in the next few months may be startled by what they will see.

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By George Tucker

NEW YORK — There bobbed up in the police lineup the other day a face that has caused a lot of people grave concern, a name that was the subject of great public interest, a case that presumably will lead once more to the drab interior of a prison cell.

In 1929 Ruth St. Claire went to prison to serve a life term for grand larceny. Her sentence was mandatory under the Baumes law, as she was more than a fourth offender. In all, she had been arrested for theft 14 times, and on eight of these occasions she had been convicted. When the Baumes law went into effect, making life sentences mandatory for people four times convicted of wrongdoing, the case aroused much controversy, and many people went on record as holding the sentence unjust. The governor of New York, who at that time was Franklin Delano Roosevelt, was one of these.

But to jail she went, and she served eight years. Those who observed her during this tenure say she was a model prisoner. She gave no trouble at all. Her case was brought up for parole, and finally in 1937, Governor Lehman, gave her her freedom.

When finger-prints proved her to be Ruth St. Claire the other morning, she admitted her identity. She was there for stealing three shirts valued at $4.95 from a New York department store. She was badly shaken and she also admitted breaking public health laws, as a hypodermic needle was found in her possession. She has now been arraigned in Magistrate's court for hearing, and the chances are that she will be returned to prison. But this time she will be in for the duration of her life. There won't be any paroles for model behavior.

I was talking to a hotel man about the little known side of hotel operation, things the public rarely hears about, and he tells me his hotel, one of the largest in New York, sells all of its garbage for a handsome fee to pig farms in New Jersey. Furthermore, the farms call for the garbage themselves, and collect all the hotel silver, which might have fallen into the pails of leftover victuals, and return it to the hotel. Dozens of knives, forks, and spoons in this way are salvaged which otherwise might be hauled out to sea on garbage scows and lost. We got to talking about this because this operator also controls several large restaurants at the Fair, and it is vinegar in his soul that he has to pay a cent and a half fee on each chair to have the kitchen garbage taken away.

I was amazed to learn that the Girl Scout movement has such solidarity, that it is financially a big business, and that its rolls include hundreds of thousands of young ladies of practically all ages.

But in New York their national headquarters occupy four and a half floors in the Rockefeller Center building, at 14 West 49th street. For some reason I had the notion that the Girl Scouts was a minor organization, left-handedly gotten up to placate the little sisters of boys who went away to camp. Now I know better.

HEALTH HINTS

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

The question that comes from the frozen north is "what to do for plantar warts." (Plantar, according to the dictionary, means "of and pertaining to the sole of the foot.")

Two misconceptions seem to obtain about them. One is that they are caused by infection, and are especially likely to be picked up around unsanitary operated swimming pools. The other is that there is some simple and cheap and home made remedy that will remove them.

Form on Bottom of Foot. They generally form at points of pressure on the bottom of the foot. They appear on both feet and at symmetrical places. There are usually four or five of them, grouped, and often so closely grouped that they fuse.

The cores are soft and pulpy and surrounded by a firm horny ring. The core is characteristic and occurs in no other form of wart or callosity. Over the surface of the core may be seen multiple small black points. These are small blood vessels in which the blood has clotted, and the vessels may rupture, with the result that blood may cover the surface of the wart.

They are exquisitely painful, much more so than even the most painful corn or callosity. They are so painful that in the course of time they entirely disable the

Hanes' Optimism As to Business Not Well Timed

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

Acting Treasury Secretary John W. Hanes, in asserting that business is on the eve of a real forward movement, evidently didn't realize the full import of what he was predicting.

It sounded like a reasonable prophecy, to be sure. In fact, when Hanes broadcast it a few days ago, the market already was showing an upward tendency. He seems to be a first-class economist, but apparently he isn't so crafty a politician, or maybe he isn't a thorough newspaper reader. If he'd followed the papers closely, surely he'd have noticed that, about a week ahead of his utterances, President Roosevelt had accused congress of killing an incipient boom by shelving the neutrality legislation he was boosting for.

So we have the president serving notice that a boom, in the making, was "busted" by the lawmakers, and his acting treasury secretary, right on the heels of it, issuing a highly optimistic forecast.

But the conflict between these two statements connotes more than a mere difference of opinion.

New Deal's History The Roosevelt administration began with a new deal program. Congress was very rubber stampish. Whatever the White House recommended the legislators acquiesced in. There was a little business bulge, but an inadequate one. Then followed the recession. It's continued until very lately, since when it's "pepped up" a bit.

Now it's been de-peppered again, according to F. D., by congress' recalcitrancy. No, so rejoins Secretary Hanes—at this juncture we're about to prosper more than ever. And he cites statistics to prove it—quite convincing ones.

O. K. Hanes' manifest purpose is to demonstrate that the new deal is beginning to "take" belatedly.

But doesn't he see that there's an alternative interpretation to be placed on the situation?

Congress has turned anti-new deal—and business improves immediately. F. D. doesn't say so, no. However, his acting secretary of the treasury does say so. Had a republican or a democratic anti-new dealer, said it, it wouldn't have counted. But Hanes is a snoring new dealer—and possibly he knows what he's talking about, for he is a star economist. As an economist, I'd guess that he'd see now that he mis-expressed himself as a politician. He did it at a casual press conference. He wasn't thinking.

In 1940 the question is sure to be asked: Have the prosperity goods been delivered?

If not the new deal will be blamed for their non-delivery. If they HAVE been delivered, will the new deal get the credit for delivering them?

If, before congress revolted, the goods HAD been delivered—sure, the new deal WOULD get the credit.

But if the goods are delivered AFTER congress has turned thumbs down on the new deal White House—won't it look as if such a turn-down was what business was waiting for?

Quite awhile earlier a big business pick-up would have made the new deal solid on into near-infinity. If it comes soon, it'll give the impression that it's a pick-up DELAYED by new deal policies.

If Secretary Morgenthau had remained at home instead of going to Europe, on a vacation, it might have been expressed better.

Drowsy Doctors Puzzle Over Girl's Illness

OMAHA, Aug. 10 (AP)—Doctors puzzled here today over the drowsiness of Mary Ann James, 15-year-old softball player from Tilden whose nose was broken in a game six weeks ago.

Last Saturday night Mary Ann went to sleep and didn't wake up until today.

Doctors said X-ray and spinal tests disclosed no injury or infection. They said the sleep may be a psychic reaction from her siege at the hospital last-month when she underwent operations to remove cartilage from her nose, her adenoids and tonsils, appendix, then more work on her nose.

She slept all the way through an ambulance ride from Tilden to the hospital here Monday night.

Nurses said she was still very drowsy today, and eats only under protest. She is the daughter of Mrs. M. D. James of Tilden.

TUNING IN

with D. Mac Showers

GUY LOMBARDO ... broadcasting his regular program at 8 o'clock tonight over NBC-Red is one of the better high spots on tonight's program schedule.

"Adventures of Sherlock Holmes," written by Edith Meiser, one of radio's greatest script writers, and starring Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce, was auditioned recently by a headache remedy sponsor with John Conte announcing the show.

BOB RIPLEY ... brings Richard Brooks of Greensboro, Pa., to his "Believe it or Not" program over CBS tonight at 8:30.

Brooks will reveal how he saved a boy from drowning despite the fact that he can't see. The program will also include "Musical Believe it or Not" based on nursery rhymes and played by B. A. Rolfe's orchestra.

A NEW DISH ... is gracing the dinner table of Bob Ripley these days. It's bamboo shoots cooked in rabbit fat. Bob says that when they are coated with a bit of brown sugar they are from another world.

For Frankie Masters settling down to work means dumping the contents of his pockets and studying them carefully. He often jogs down ideas for orchestral effects on envelopes, menus or match covers.

ELINORE LANE ... of Boston will be the "Girl of the Week" on the "Raymond Paige 99 Men and a Girl" program over CBS—tonight at 7 o'clock.

We are told that Ted Greenberg, clarinet player with Raymond Paige, has played in orchestras conducted by Toscanini, Barberolle, Ormandy, Pasternack, John Phillip Sousa, Arthur Pryor and Rubinoff.

BOAKE CARTER ... comes back to radio in September via electrically transcribed shots running 12 1-2 minutes throughout the country as sustainers for local commercial use.

War-Frightened Thousands Must Wait To Enter America

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—A wave of immigration is piling up behind the dams of the United States immigration act as panic-stricken hundreds of thousands flee from the fact or fear of racial persecution in central Europe and from the shadow of war.

Immigration quotas from some countries are filled for hopeless numbers of years. From Hungary, for instance, an applicant for an American immigration visa, although accepted as such, may have to wait a quarter of a century, or more, before entering the United States. Quotas which in recent years were far from being filled now are over-applied tens of times.

The countries whose backlog of applicants under the immigration quotas are piled especially high are all in central Europe and are all affected by some fear or threat of anti-semitism.

Although the German quota is 27,370 per year, 298,000 applicants for quota visas had registered at American consulates at the end of the fiscal year, June 30. On the face of it, this would mean that the German quota is already filled for 11 years to come. But about half the applicants, or more, are rejected on physical, mental or other grounds. Even so, the quota is filled for over five years to come.

The most perplexing situation perhaps of all exists in Hungary, where 30,000 have applied under an annual quota of only 899. At the present rate it will take from 25 to 30 years to exhaust the eligible applications now on the rolls.

One curious development is that the rush has also started from Russia. The quota for that country is 2,700 but the applications now number 11,000.

University of Iowa's Theater Looks Back on Achievements of 19 Years

By Staff Writer

The academic year of 1920-21 marked the creation of one of the most ambitious programs that has ever sent a university dramatic department to the height to which University theater now so ably clings, when Prof. Edward C. Mabie, with a board of governors, fused the various dramatic interests of the campus into one unit.

Plays have been presented under different organizations among dramatic minded persons and players clubs on the campus as early as 1902. With the coming into existence of University theater hopes and ambitions were directed upon presentation of plays, artistic and literary, rather than commercial plays.

That this long and highly visioned program of Professor Mabie's was realized has been evident by the continuous flow of first rate productions that University theater has produced through the past 19 years. Plays written by local playwrights have reached Broadway as have some of the players who performed in them.

More than 225 plays have found their way into the theater. From the age of Pericles has come Aeschylus' "The Persians" and Euripides' "Iphigenia in Tauris," "The Trojan," "Women" and "The Medea." From the 16th century has come Ben Jonson's "Epicene," and Fletcher's "Knight of the Burning Pestle." Shakespearean plays have equally been acclaimed as successes with exceptional favor. Plays by Owen Davis and Paul Green have played a vital part in the phase of world premiers.

The need for a university theater culminated in a reality in 1926 when University theater was opened with the presentation of Iowa's own professor-playwright Ellsworth Prouty Conkle's "Two Hundred Were Chosen."

It was a creative piece that will long be remembered by those fortunate enough to see it. As late as this summer Professor Conkle's

"Paul and the Blue Ox" was produced for the first time on the stage of University theater which unfortunately came simultaneously with the announcement that Professor Conkle would accept a similar post at Texas university. But as everyone hoped, Professor Conkle made it known that University theater, if the occasion calls, will still be among his first choice of theaters for his pieces.

During the early part of the last decade university players undertook road tours that afforded them opportunity to present plays in many sections of the state. It was this work by Professor Mabie that on April 20, 1923 brought representatives of the 13th annual convention of the Drama league to Iowa City. The feature of the occasion was the presentation of Francis Neilson's "The Bath Road." Neilson, present for the play and on leave as was Prof. George P. Baker, director of "47 Workshop" at Harvard, was amazed at this early stage at the momentum with which Professor Mabie had carried drama into the university and the state as a whole.

Thus it falls that for almost two decades the dramatic realm of the university has been continually building itself through interest by the super productions that have placed it upon the high level it is. Throughout this period of time

Mary Frances Hauser Reveals Engagement to C. McGaughey; Will Wed in Early September

Betrothal Announced At Buffet Supper In Hauser Home

The engagement and approaching marriage of Mary Frances Hauser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Hauser, 846 Kirkwood avenue, to Clark J. McGaughey, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. McGaughey of Moline, Ill., was revealed at a bridge party and buffet supper given last night in the Hauser home.

The announcement was made by means of yellow brick ice cream squares with the names of the couple and the date, Sept. 7, stencilled on in green. A yellow and green color scheme was used in the table decorations which included a centerpiece of yellow flowers flanked by green tapers.

Guests included Eleanor Droll, Barbara Bouchard, Margaret Chittenden, Marilouise Tennyson, Georgene Keller, Joyce Anderson, Mary Kay Villhauer, Marian Myer, Jane Livezey, Frances Spence, Winifred McLaughlin, Jane Hogan, Marjorie Hornung, Hertha Schone, Margaret Farrell, Arlene Riecke, Jewel Liebe and Mrs. Albert Erbe, all of Iowa City; Mrs. Robert Beyer, Mrs. Joseph Corsiglia and Janet Belg, all of Davenport.

Miss Hauser, who was graduated from Iowa City high school, attended the university and Irish's business college. She is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Mr. McGaughey was graduated from the Moline high school and Beloit college in Beloit, Wis., and attended the college of law of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich., and the university college of medicine during the past year. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

The couple will be married in the rectory of St. Mary's church here in a private ceremony. The bridal party and guests will then be entertained at a reception in the Hotel Jefferson.

Glass Mirror Redeems a Dark Corner

The magic that can be wrought by a wisely placed mirror of plate glass is interestingly illustrated in these two before and after pictures taken in the dining room of a modest five room house. A total of $8.85 of which $6.00 was spent on a plate glass mirror, redeemed two ugly corners which spoiled an otherwise attractive room. A hanging shelf for which the home-maker paid $1.25, was hung above a chest just opposite the one pictured to form, with its bright pottery and brass ornaments, a charming reflection in the mirror. The green paint was removed from the chest for $4.00, the original wood finished by rubbing with oil and $9.00 more provided new handles of brass.

Mr. Ruff, a graduate of Grinnell college in Grinnell, is employed as athletic director in the Atlantic schools, where the couple will make their home.

University Libraries

One seven-day book and 11 1/2 day books are among those of general interest included in recent additions to university libraries.

Halas Sees Aerial Battle

All-Star Tilt Likely To Produce O'Brien, Danowski Pass Duel

By GEORGE HALAS
Head Coach, Chicago Bears
CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP) — (Special to The Daily Journal) anyone who likes to see the air full of footballs should visit a psychiatrist if he misses the all-star game on Aug. 30. In this corner, little Davey O'Brien from Texas Christian. In that corner, Ed Danowski, once of Fordham, now head man of the National Football league in the matter of forward passing efficiency. What a duel that will be!

Sammy Baugh proved that a great forward passer in college can be equally sensational in the professional game and Davey O'Brien may prove the fact all over again. But amid the tumult about Baugh in recent years and about O'Brien last season, the sensational forward passing records of Danowski have been overlooked.

Let's examine the records of the principals in the forthcoming air duel. Last season O'Brien threw 194 forward passes and completed 110, giving him an average of .567; only four of his passes were intercepted. Twenty were good for touchdowns. That is a remarkable record.

Danowski led the National Football league last season with 70 completed passes in 192 attempts for an average of .542. Eight of his passes were intercepted. It must be kept in mind, however, that his passes were completed against the great secondary defenses of the professional teams, after they had reached full condition for the regular season. One of Danowski's great assets is his ability to pick out the second choice receiver. If the first choice is covered, Danowski can fire the ball quickly and accurately to the second even when he is being rushed by the defense.

During Danowski's five years with the Giants his forward passing efficiency has averaged .498 per cent. That is a magnificent record.

Danowski's effectiveness as a passer has been enhanced by the fact that he now carries the ball more frequently. In past seasons we set our defense for a forward pass or a quick kick when Danowski was in the tailback position. Those days are gone, for he now is a fine ball carrier, in addition to being a great passer and long distance kicker.

There are a number of skilled pass receivers on the Giant squad. Two ends, Jim Lee Howell of Arkansas and Jim Poole of Mississippi, are exceptionally tall and are former basketball stars. Howell is 6 feet, 6 inches and can go high for a pass. Jim Poole is six feet, 3 inches. Other adept receivers, who will help give the all-star pass defenders a busy evening are Kink Richards, Dale Burnett and Duffy Leemans. When Tuffy snags a pass he is likely to go for distance.

An effective blockage against passes by O'Brien and Sid Luckman in this aerial game will be the presence of the Giants' 225 pound center, Mel Hein. For six successive years he has been chosen all-league center. His greatness lies in his ability to diagnose plays in backing up the line. He frequently beats the runner to the line of scrimmage. His great defensive work, covering a wide range of territory, will give his fellow linemen greater opportunity to rush all-star passers.

Leonard Again Beats Yanks, 7-5

Extends Jinx Over Champs To 4 Games

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Dutch Leonard's hex over the world champion Yankees was good for a 7 to 5 victory for the Senators today even though the veteran knuckleballer had to be lifted in mid-game for a pinch-hitter.

Only pitcher in the American league who had beaten New York three times, Leonard gained his fourth triumph when Bobby Estabrooks, his pinchhitter, singled with the bases loaded in the fifth for the tying and winning runs.

The victory gave Washington the series 2 to 1, and a record of seven won out of 14 games with the champions this season.

The contest was tough and go from the start. The Senators scored a run in the first on one hit and the Yankees tied it up in the second on a double and a single. Then Washington pushed ahead with two runs on a single, a double and a single and New York again knotted the count in the next half inning on a hit base man, a single, a wild pitch and a single.

Hamlin's Slants Drop Phillies In First Game, 3-0

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10 (AP)—Shutout by Brooklyn in the opener 3 to 0 on Luke Hamlin's three-hit hurling, the Phillies crammed seven runs into the sixth inning to win today's second game, 8-3, and split their doubleheader with the Dodgers.

"Hot Potato" Hamlin was as hot as the weather in gaining his second consecutive shutout, never walking a batter and facing only 29 Phillies. The Dodgers themselves got just four hits of Be-spectacled Walter Beck, but one of these was a homer by Rookie Art Parks in the sixth. A walk for the tying and winning runs.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10 (AP)—Morrie Arnovich's batting slump caught up with the popular left fielder of the Phillies today.

Arnovich, the National league's leading hitter since mid-May, got only one hit in seven times at bat in a doubleheader against Brooklyn and led to second place one point behind Johnny Mize, of the St. Louis Cardinals. Mize now tops the league with a .346 average. Arnovich has .345.

Red Sox Sweep Series From Athletics To Extend Streak; Bridges Drops Pale Hose, 4-3

Still Coin'

BOSTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox extended their winning streak to five games today as they came from behind once more to nip the Philadelphia A's, 7 to 5, and sweep the four-game series.

The victory, coupled with a New York Yankee defeat in Washington, left the pennant-hungry Sox only five and a half games behind first place.

All of the A's runs were built on homers. Babe Siebert doubled in the first inning just before Bob Johnson dumped his 17th homer of the year into the left field screen. Again in the third Siebert reached first safely, and after Miles walked, Frank Hayes smacked his 14th into the same spot.

Hayes' homer regained the lead for Philadelphia, for the Sox had gone ahead with a three-run burst in the first, but Boston went ahead to stay with another three-run cluster in the sixth.

Landis, at 72, Still Boss

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—Club owners and league presidents may come and go, but the old man of the mountain goes on forever.

In January, 1921, with the echoes of the 1919 world series scandal booming against their ears, major league owners hit upon the happy idea of establishing the office of high commissioner of baseball, an office which would have the last word in the conduct of the game.

Their choice was a slim, white-haired federal judge, Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who had zoomed to fame on the wings of a $29,000,000 fine imposed on an oil company.

The club owners, and the fans at large, perhaps visioned a few years of service for the stern justice, and then retirement brought on by the weight of years.

And what happens? Commissioner Landis, at 72, rules organized baseball with an iron hand. He is hale and hearty, and in appearance much the same as the sharp, curt, white-thatched, felt-hatted figure who started 18 years ago to tell the Giants, for instance, that no, they couldn't take that third baseman from the Keokuk club.

The roster of club presidents who either were in office in 1921 or have come and gone follows:

- National League
Chicago—William Veeck, William Walker.
Boston—George Grant, Christy Mathewson.
New York—Charles Stoneham.
Philadelphia—William Baker, Charles Ruch.
Pittsburgh—Barney Dreyfuss.
Brooklyn—Charles Ebbets, Wilbert Robinson, Frank York, Stephen McKeever.

Cincinnati—August Herrmann, C. J. McDiarmid, Sidney Weil.
American League
Boston—Harry H. Frazee, J. A. (Robert) Quinn, now president of Boston Nationals.
Chicago—Charles Comiskey, J. Louis Comiskey.
Cleveland—James Dunn, E. S. Barnard. (Later league president).
Detroit—Frank Navin.
New York—Col. Jacob Ruppert.
Philadelphia—Thomas Shibe, John Shibe.
St. Louis—Phil Ball, Lewis von Weise.

And the old man of the mountain goes on and on, and when his millenium comes he can lift his chin from a box seat rail after the final out of an honest world series between the White Sox and Cincinnati Reds, pull on his sloppy old felt hat, and say:

"This is where I came in; thanks for the use of the hall."

Iowa Champion Fires Sub-Par Golf in Victory

Meets Mrs. Mann In Semi-Finals of Meet At Detroit Today

DETROIT, Aug. 10 (AP)—The youngsters had their inning in the quarter-finals of the 39th annual western women's closed golf championship at Oakland Hills country club today and when the firing was ended two 18-year-olds, a girl of 22 and a veteran of 28 had qualified for the semi-finals tomorrow.

Heading the march of youth was 18-year-old Edith Estabrooks, of Dubuque, Ia., daughter of the owner of a public links course, who overwhelmed 21-year-old Harriet Randall, of Indianapolis, 6 and 5, as she shot two under women's par golf for the 13 holes of the contest.

The others to reach the semi-finals were Mrs. Russell Mann, of Milwaukee, the former Lucille Robinson who won the title in 1933; Elizabeth Hicks, 18-year-old Southern California champion from Long Beach, and Ellamae Williams, 22-year-old daughter of Eddie Williams, Chicago professional. In the semi-finals tomorrow Miss Estabrooks plays Mrs. Mann and Miss Hicks opposes Miss Williams.

Miss Estabrooks, runner-up to Patty Berg in the 1938 championship, lost only one hole in her rout of Miss Randall.

Mrs. Mann played steadily after losing the first two holes as she conquered Mrs. Tim G. Lowry of Chicago, 3 and 2.

Miss Hicks, who has been playing competitive golf only two years, scored a 5 and 4 rout over Mrs. Hayes Dunsingburg, of Minneapolis, the Minnesota champion.

Miss Williams qualified for the semi-finals by taking the most spectacular match of the day from Mrs. Dan Chandler, of Dallas, Tex., 1 up as she dropped a 35-foot putt on the final green for victory. Miss Williams had canned a 12-footer for a birdie two on the 17th to square the battle, which was a ding-dong affair from the start. On the 18th holes Miss Williams had 13 one-putt greens. Both players in this match had 75's, three under women's par.

It Had To Come

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10 (AP)—For the first time in major league history—the Cleveland Indians believe—they're staging a night baseball game Sept. 4 as part of a double-header.

Cleveland meets the Chicago White Sox in the big lakelot stadium at 3:30 Labor day afternoon, and the floodlights will be turned on for the second clash at 8 p.m.

The management said this was a bona fide bargain bill—both games on one ticket if you don't mind the two-hour wait between them.

Gillette Announces Program for Annual State Archery Meet

Two-Day Event In Iowa City Starts Sept 3.

Competition Planned In Three Divisions; Will Be at Airport

Complete program for the third annual State Archery association tournament to be held in Iowa City Sunday and Monday, Sept. 3 and 4, was announced last night by Prof. Arnold Gillette, secretary of the Iowa City Archery association.

The two-day meet will take place at the Iowa City municipal airport with over 100 archers from all parts of Iowa participating. There are 14 members in the Iowa City association.

The program as announced by Professor Gillette has three divisions, the different ones being for men, women and juniors. The junior division is limited to children under 16 years of age.

Program for Sunday, Sept 3

- 8 a.m.—Registration, airport hangar.
- 9 a.m.—First part of York round, 72 arrows at 100 yards.
- 1:30 p.m.—York 80 and 60 yard competition, 48 arrows at 80 yards and 24 arrows at 60 yards.
- 3:30 p.m.—Clout shoot, 36 arrows at 180 yards.
- 6:30 p.m.—Banquet, Jefferson hotel.

Events for Women

- 8 a.m.—Registration, airport hangar.
- 9 a.m.—National competition, 48 arrows at 60 yards, 24 arrows at 50 yards.
- 1:30 p.m.—First Columbia competition, 24 arrows at 50 yards, 24 arrows at 40 yards and 24 arrows at 30 yards.
- 3:30 p.m.—Clout shoot, 36 arrows at 120 yards.

Junior Competition

- 8 a.m.—Registration, airport hangar.
- 9 a.m.—Junior National competition.
- Program for Monday, Sept. 4
- 8 a.m.—Flight shoot.
- 9:30 a.m.—First American competition, 30 arrows from 60, 50 and 40 yards.
- 1:30 p.m.—Second American competition.
- 3:30 p.m.—Team shoot or fun round.
- 4:30 p.m.—Presentation of awards, prizes and trophies.

Events for Men

- 8 a.m.—Flight shoot.
- 9:30 a.m.—Second National competition.
- 1:30 p.m.—Second Columbia competition.
- 3:30 p.m.—Team shoot or fun round.
- 4:30 p.m.—Presentation of awards.

Junior Competition

- 9:30 a.m.—Second junior national competition.
- 1:30 p.m.—Second junior Columbia competition.

For the most of the competitive events the ordinary upright target will be used with varying numbers of arrows being shot from different distances.

The Clout shoot, however, does not use this upright target. For this event, which occurs for both men and women Sunday afternoon at 3:30, a target is marked out on the ground. This horizontal target is 48 feet across and arrows are shot from a long distance falling onto the target at about a 45-degree angle.

The Flight shoot which comes at 8 a.m. Monday, Sept. 4, is another event in which the ordinary archery target is not used. This contest is only for distance. Archers use a special bow and shoot to send their arrows the farthest distance possible. The state record in this event for men is held by Harry Wells of Oelwein with a distance of 332 yards. Eloise Dysart of the Iowa City club holds the women's state title with 234 yards.

In the team shoot or fun round the four high point members of each club form a team, each man shooting 96 arrows at 60 yards. The state title for this event is held by the Iowa City Archery club with a total score of 1,787. This event comes at 3:30 p.m. Monday for both men and women.

Other state records which contestants will attempt to break at this year's meet are the Single York now held by Ellis Bachman of Burlington with 472 points, the Single American now held by Bill Jenson of Sioux City with 610 points, the Single National now held by Mrs. C. J. Lapp of Iowa City with 386 points, the Single Columbia now held by Eloise Dysart of Iowa City with 487 points and the team shoot and the men's and women's Flight shoot.

Professor Gillette stated that it is expected all present state records will be broken at the meet next month. He based his conclusion on the fact that in many club competitions about the state, individuals have surpassed the established marks.

William J. Desert

Only by expert maneuvering of his parachute did William J. Desert, professional 'chute jumper, escape being electrocuted when he fell into high voltage wires at a power station at Santa Ana, Cal. Desert slipped through safely but the 'chute caught on the wires as can be seen in the photo. A gust of wind blew him off his course.

Frank P. Rogers

Suit for $300,000 has been filed against Walter P. Chrysler, the automobile magnate, by Frank P. Rogers, Mamaroneck, N. Y., builder, who charges breach of contract. Chrysler at the moment is seriously ill at his Long Island home. In the suit, Rogers charges that Chrysler discharged him from the position as manager of the Chrysler building in New York, which he helped build.

John B. Wenzler

Making a one-man protest against failure of the Massachusetts legislature to adjourn, Representative John B. Wenzler, Boston democrat, appeared at the house session in a brightly-hued bathing suit. Wenzler, given the "bum's rush" by the police, later couldn't find his pants, and he denounced republicans for preventing adjournment and also for making away with his trousers.

Preview Of Fall Weather Local Temperatures Wednesday Fail To Rise Over 76 Mark

Iowa City had an August preview of fall weather yesterday as temperatures hovered in the low 70's while a brisk fall wind from the southeast blew steadily throughout the day.

Highest recorded temperature for the 24-hour period from 7 o'clock Wednesday night to 7 last night was 76 degrees while the low mark for the period dipped to 57.

The sky was overcast most of the day with the sun breaking through occasionally during the afternoon. Slight showers fell in some parts of the county but the university hydraulics laboratory recorded very little precipitation for the day.

Cool weather has prevailed in Iowa City since the rainfall earlier in the week. The cool but comfortable weather will probably continue throughout today with temperatures rising again by tomorrow, according to weather bureau reports.

An intermittent rainfall that started early last night and continued through the night added an appreciable amount to the August rainfall total which is already well over normal as a result of the heavy fall of Tuesday night.

No readings were available from the hydraulics weather service laboratory early this morning, but it was believed that last night's rain will equal that of Tuesday night.

Blame Weather For Accident

Poor visibility due to cloudy and rainy weather was reported the cause of an accident at College and Linn streets Tuesday morning when the auto of Malcolm Ean, 602 Rundell street, collided with another car resulting in about $91 damage to the Ean machine.

No report of the accident was made by the other driver and police have announced that they will file charges against the motorist if he fails to make a report of the collision.

War--

war-threats, political maneuvering and propaganda but all agree the present tension is explosive.

Germany and Italy allied themselves because both were dissatisfied with the last war. After Germany absorbed Austria, Czechoslovakia in two bites and Memel, and after Italy had taken Albania, Great Britain aroused herself. With France she sought the aid of Soviet Russia's great army and air force. Russia hasn't signed a contract but the three countries' general staffs are working together as a starter.

Fear German Move
Germany has said repeatedly she doesn't expect to take Danzig by force but apparently Britain and France fear she will in some manner nevertheless.

Mussolini in Italy, likewise, has said he wasn't planning any war and didn't expect one. Both Germany and Italy, however, have built big military machines and plainly told England and France they were ready if war came.

Both the German-Italian and the British-French sides use much the same language. Each says it is endangered and each is willing to fight—in defense of its rights. Both sides disagree on whose "rights" are what. Germany asks "living room"; Italy wants land; Britain and France want to keep what they have.

The reason Britain and France defend Poland, Rumania and Turkey is because, they say, if Germany should take those countries she might get around to British and French property later. That is the territorial aspect. The high moral plane on which the two sides pitch their tents is "security."

Germany says she seeks "security" by building a tremendous greater Germany; Britain and France say they seek "security" in the right of all nations to remain independent and free from any sort of aggression, military or otherwise.

Signs of the Times
Some of the signs of the times are:

For war: Germany on maneuvers is making a survey of all civilians from 5 to 70 years old as a part of "preparedness."

Most of Europe is having more war maneuvers than ever before. Japan is struggling to decide whether to make a military alliance with Germany and Italy.

Britain, also on maneuvers, is devoting so much of her resources to war preparations that the Imperial Airways can't get enough planes and pilots and must curtail its service.

British and French staff officers arrive in Russia to discuss war plans.

For peace: Danzig offers to negotiate her latest customs squabble with Poland.

Mussolini Steps Out
Mussolini steps out of the limelight at army maneuvers in favor of King Vittorio Emanuele, who was in one war and doesn't want another.

Premier Daladier of France, who likes to command, is extending his vacation.

Czechs have revived their old secret "mafia" society to undermine German rule which is a symbol of the anti-German unrest in what once was Czechoslovakia.

Franco is so busy restoring order in Spain that he wouldn't welcome a war in which Germany and Italy would expect him to threaten France.

Hitler is showing all Germany a movie of the "west wall" or Siegfried fortifications along the Rhine to convince them Germany is safe from France.

Moderation
Mussolini preaches moderation to Hitler. May 14 Mussolini said "there are not at present in Europe problems big enough to justify a war." Thursday he sent Ciano to confer with Hitler's foreign minister on Danzig and other questions which the Italian thinks can be settled without fighting.

Italy is building her 1942 world's fair, expecting peace.

Only last month Mussolini announced and already has started his ten-year plan to break up large Sicilian estates into 20,000 small farms for poor families.

War was in the making for a year before 1914, but peoples didn't realize it. This time the problem is in every mind, which may make a difference. Statesmen have had practice in sacrifice and they know both sides will suffer. All know the price they must pay and all may be reluctant to pay it.

Bids Awarded For County Road Work

The Iowa state highway commission yesterday announced the awarding of contracts to low bidders on 14 Iowa road projects including paving, grading and culvert installation on 3.8 miles of Johnson county roads.

The Johnson county paving will be an addition to the new paving recently opened from Iowa City to Newport and will extend on toward Solon on Iowa highway 261. The Sani Construction company of Des Moines submitted the low bid of $86,484 on this job, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Grading on the 3.8 miles of road was awarded to R. J. Ryan, Inc., of Ottumwa who submitted a bid of $25,241. The L. Peterson company of Cedar Rapids was given the contract for installation of eight culverts on the stretch of road to be paved at a cost of $4,032.

The project will be completed this fall, the highway commission announced.

PARIS, (AP)—The French government was disclosed yesterday to have clamped a censorship on newspaper and news photo shipments into France by air.

Those who make an art of living depend on this world famed hotel as the very embodiment of gracious service, true refinement and dignified hospitality.

Under the same management as The Carlton and The Drake, The Blackstone is the finest hotel in the city. The Blackstone is a landmark in the city.

A dashing and lively romantic comedy is the co-starring vehicle for Ginger Rogers and David Niven. They frolic through "Bachelor Mother," the plot of which has been based upon the vague parentage of a founding child which Ginger is compelled by circumstances to foster. Charles Coburn, Frank Albertson and E. E. Clive are featured in the cast of this RKO Radio picture, which starts at the Englert Saturday.
