17 Injured in Wreck Of Crack Eastern Flier

Train Leaves Rails During Heavy Storm

Three Persons Injured Seriously in Accident In New Jersey Bog

CHATSORTH, N. J., Aug. 19 (AP) — Seventeen persons were injured late today, three of them seriously, when the "Blue Comet," crack Central railroad of New Jersey's Atlantic City-New York flier was derailed in southern New Jersey's pine wilderness during a heavy rainstorm.

Most of them were in the observation car, last of five which leaped the rails, and were pitched back and forth with furniture as the cars bounced 500 feet down the ties before breaking loose from the locomotive.

No Cars Overturned

On either side was a drainage ditch for a cranberry bog. Cars tilted at dizzy angles, but none went over.

Railroadmen had no explanation to offer, but others said the water from the bog, level with the rails as the storm raged, apparently had weakened the track.

Rescue squads from a score of communities in four neighboring counties had to carry the injured three miles along the tracks to this crossroad community. Uninjured passengers, after spending two to four hours in the derailed coaches to escape the downpour, had to lug their baggage the same distance to meet a relief train, prevented from coming to them by the Blue Comet's locomotive, which was stalled with a derailed tender a mile beyond the coaches.

Forty-nine passengers were reported aboard the train. Several women and children were hysterical by the time they reached the Chatsworth station.

The downpour which apparently caused the wreck also was heavy enough to prevent possible loss of life. The train was running under "caution" orders and the crew reported to division headquarters at Long Branch that they were going only 30 or 35 miles an hour instead of double that speed.

Deraiment of the train occurred about 3:30 p.m. (CST), the time the train was due in Chatsworth.

Three Die In Sinking of Ship Near Alaska

SEATTLE, Aug. 19 (AP)—The coast guard cutter Cyane reported today Capt. George Lee and two others were lost in the sinking of the cannery tender O. M. Arnold.

The vessel sank yesterday in Chatham strait north of Ketchikan, Alaska. Five of the crew were rescued.

The Cyane, which picked up the five survivors after they had been found by a troller, wireless headquarters here bodies of the three missing men were floating on the water in life preservers.

The other victims were Andrew Lee of Angonn, Alaska, father of the captain, and Ernest Cruse of Juneau.

A message to R. R. Farish, manager of the New England Fish company, owner of the tender, told of the rescue of the five.

Heavy Rains Reach Flood Proportions In Two States, Break Drought in East

By The Associated Press

Heavy rains — reaching flood proportions in two states — last night broke the intermittent drought in most of the eastern states that had been stricken since May.

The downpour and wind severed communication lines and inundated highways in many parts of New Jersey. Camden, across the Delaware river from Philadelphia, reported traffic stalled in many streets. Several highways were closed.

Storm warnings were displayed along the Jersey and Delaware coasts. Four commercial fishing boats, with a dozen men aboard, were overdue at Wildwood, N. J. Some other sea craft sought the safety of the Delaware breakwater.

Delaware and the Delmarva peninsula suffered from wind and water. Milford, Del., streets were covered by five inches of water and power lines were disrupted.

In southern Maryland, near Leonardtown, a 70-year-old woman was killed when wind demolished her home.

The rains also reached into Pennsylvania, New York and Connecticut but had not yet ridden the north-bound Gulf disturbance as far as dry Massachusetts. Rain was forecast for the Bay state, however.

In the deep south, thousands of acres of Alabama farm land were flooded by the overflowing Alabama, Little Pea and Cahaba rivers. The Red Cross estimated 4,500 persons had been driven from their homes in that locality.

Predictions of Japanese-British Conference Disruption Made

Enters Critical Stage After England Rejects Economic Demands

TOKYO, Aug. 19 (AP) — The Japanese — British conference on the Tientsin dispute entered another critical stage with renewed predictions of its complete disruption tonight following Britain's rejection of Tokyo demands that economic questions be included in the discussions.

Observers believed the British action, announced yesterday in London, followed United States and French assurances that they were prepared to insist on their interest in economic questions affecting China.

In rejecting the Japanese demand, an informed London official explained the British view was that economic questions were not purely local issues and that if there were to be further discussions in Tokyo "arrangements must be made to take into account the views of other" interested powers.

Self Defense Skyliners Want 7-Foot Beds in Hotels

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 19 (AP)—In self defense against "a world created for midgets," 11 Kansas City cloud dusters got together and organized the Skyliners club with a goal of 7-foot beds in every hotel and size 16 shoes in every store.

It's the most exclusive club in town. If you're male you've got to be 6 feet, 4 to 6 inches; if female, an even 6 feet will do.

The five women and six men skyscrapers were so happy in their escape from the lower mortals and such quips as "You'll be a big help to mother when you grow up" it took them three hours to get down to business, name Miss Rowena Wheeler chairman, and vote to meet every Friday.

Miss Wheeler, ducking under a chandelier, moaned "When I have to stand in a bus my head thumps the top even though I bend down.

"We need longer beds and longer sheets. I have to sleep catar-corner and when I pull the covers around my neck my feet stick out. Furniture is too low. Clothes don't fit."

Only Charles Rothmeral, 6 feet, 8, saw any silver clouds.

"All that length comes in mighty handy watching a parade."

Welder Burned in Explosion At Scene of Fatal Iowa Bus Crash

DYERSVILLE, Aug. 19 (AP)—bystanders extinguished the fire. He was brought to Dyersville for treatment.

Officers still sought tonight to identify the body of a youth, burned beyond recognition, who had boarded the ill-fated bus at Dubuque with a ticket for Sioux City.

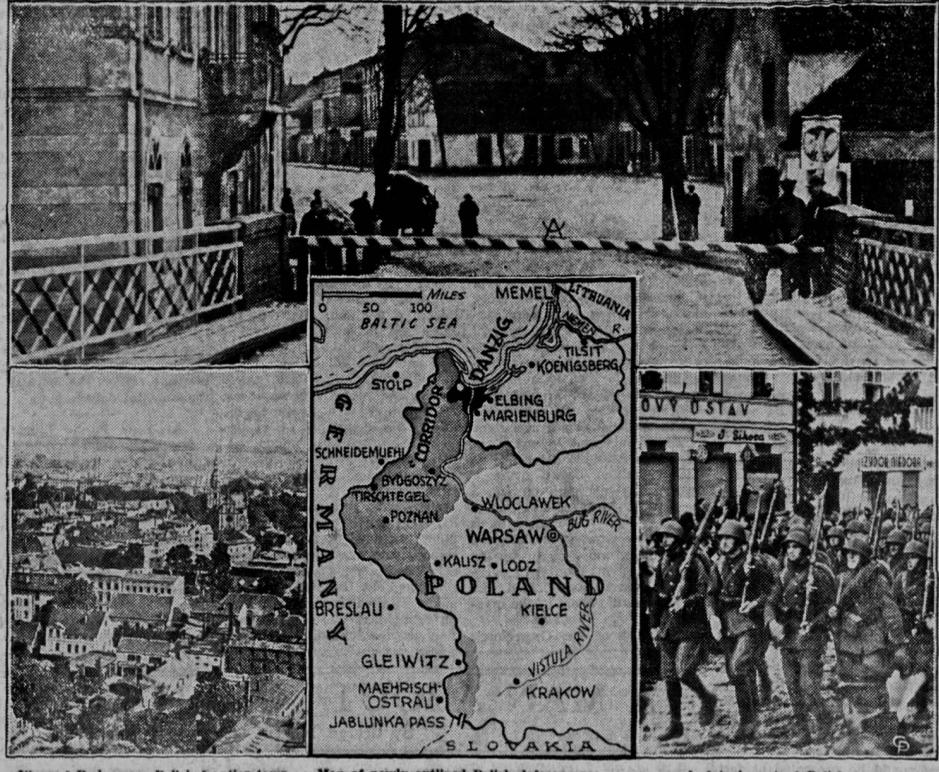

The second victim of the crash was Ollie Strickland, 57, of Chicago, who died early today.

State Fair Officials Can't Find Enough Superlatives

DES MOINES, Aug. 19 (AP)—Iowa State fair officials today grasped for new superlatives to describe the wonders of the 1939 exposition which opens its turnstile Wednesday morning for a nine-day run.

There was a lot of feverish activity Saturday although four days remained for preparation of the 84th showing of the resources that have built Iowa's wealth and position in the nation. The tremendous expense of this year's show, Secretary Art Corey explained, requires a constant hus-

Pilot Yells 'Help'; Lands In Street

MT. VERNON, Wash., Aug. 19 (AP)—A plane pilot who shouted "Help, I'm going to crash," wrecked his ship on a residential street and was critically injured.

Hospital attendants identified him as C. T. Hubert, 39, of Portland. His companion, Irene Courtion, 30, suffered back injuries.

Engine trouble apparently developed, and Hubert yelled to persons below, including a woman to "get out of the way" just before he hit.

Engineer Tells Of Claw Bar's Disappearance

CARLIN, Nev., Aug. 19 (AP)—Unexplained disappearance of a claw bar from beside the misplaced rail which wrecked the streamliner "City of San Francisco" a week ago tonight figured in testimony today before a Southern Pacific board of inquiry.

The hearing was closed to the public, but Engineer Edward Hecox of the wrecked train told newsmen he had been closely questioned by interstate commerce commission representatives at the hearing about the claw bar. Twenty-four were killed in the wreck and more than 100 injured.

He said he saw it lying near the fourth car of the train, which stood directly over the place where he declared a rail section had been pushed inward several inches, and held there by a tie-plate which had been respiked out of alignment.

As he started to examine the bar a man walking behind him in the darkness said, "Don't touch it! It might have fingerprints on it."

Later when he returned to the spot, the bar was gone. Because of the excitement and his agitation at the time, he did not remember who the man was that walked behind him. So far as he knew, he said, no one else saw the bar.

Officials said findings would be announced at close of the session, possibly tomorrow.

NO PIKER
Leghorn Lays Egg With Four Yolks

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 19 (AP)—Something new in eggs, says the college of agriculture at Rutgers university, was the one brought in by Morris Zirulnik, local egg dealer.

It had four yolks, the first of such to be recorded in the state.

Produced by a white leghorn, it measured five and one half inches in circumference the short way.

Estimate Result As Half Million Dollar Raise

By GEORGE S. MILLS

DES MOINES, Aug. 19 (AP)—The Iowa tax commission today paved the way for an estimated half million dollar increase in the 1940 property taxes of the state's power, gas and water utilities by lifting the taxable valuations of the companies from $57,291,000 to $75,403,000.

Average valuations boost over the 1938 figures was 31.65 per cent.

Some of the larger companies, however, faced percentage increases above that average, while the valuations were revised downward in isolated increases.

The Iowa Electric Light and Power company of Cedar Rapids, serving several east central Iowa cities and towns, was given a $2,926,000 valuations boost, more than 58 per cent above a year ago. The 1938 figure was $4,990,108, compared with $7,916,342 in the revised valuations.

Other notable increases:

Iowa Public Service company, Sioux City, $6,366,880 to $8,820,478.

Iowa Southern Utilities company, Centerville, $4,369,591 to $5,778,952.

Iowa Power and Light company, Des Moines, $4,804,648 to $6,457,909.

United Power Manufacturing company, (Davenport water system), $901,448 to $2,354,543.

Mississippi River Power company, St. Louis, Mo., (Keokuk, Ia., dam), $4,068,396 to $4,859,733.

Interstate Power company, Dubuque, $3,655,278 to $5,302,655.

Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power company, Lincoln, Neb., $1,542,537 to $2,114,104.

Using 31.60 mills as Iowa's average property tax rate, the total $18,131,000 valuations boost means approximately $572,000 added to the industry's tax bill for next year.

Tax officials said the companies have 10 days after notice in which to file protests against the increases.

The commission each year fixes the valuations of all public utilities and certifies the figures to the county auditors to be used in company audits. (See TAXES, Page 6)

2 Killed When Hit by Trains

DAVENPORT, Aug. 19 (AP)—Two men were killed when struck by trains near here today. Marshall Trout, about 45, Bettendorf, died instantly after his truck was struck by a Burlington passenger train at 6:15 p.m. in Bettendorf, and Archibald L. Eppler, 45, Kansas City, was fatally injured when hit by a train early today at Le Claire.

Trout apparently did not see or hear the train approaching and drove his truck into its path, according to a witness.

Eppler was found at 6 a.m. lying along the railroad tracks east of Le Claire business district and died at 7 a.m. in a Davenport hospital.

Pope Appeals For 'Refrain From Force'

Chamberlain Rushes Home for Meeting With 'Inner Cabinet'

By The Associated Press

Signs of a decisive turn of events soon multiplied yesterday in unsettled Europe.

While Pope Pius XII voiced a new appeal for peace, these highlights pointed to tense days ahead in the old world:

1. Germany had nearly 100,000 troops strung along the Polish border.
2. Gradual mobilization of Slovakia's army, pledged to "cooperation" with Germany, was in progress.
3. A meeting of key ministers of the British cabinet was called for Tuesday.
4. The controlled German press heaped fresh scorn on Poland, insisting that she come to terms on Adolf Hitler's demands for possession of Danzig.

Receives Farley

A short while later the pope received James A. Farley, United States postmaster general. After the audience Farley said he was convinced of the pontiff's anxiety for world peace.

Talk in high nazi circles that "England with her sense of realism will keep hands off Poland," current a week ago, apparently had changed to acceptance as fact that Great Britain and France intend to stay by Poland.

It gave way to disparagement of what help they could give.

Prime Minister Chamberlain planned to break his fishing holiday in Scotland and return to London for a meeting of the "inner cabinet" and other ministers Tuesday, to review the entire situation.

All quarters in London agreed that it had reached a dangerous (See EUROPE, Page 6)

Portugal and Great Britain Remain Friends

THE VISIT of Portugal's president to the Union of South Africa is heralded as signifying a friendship between Great Britain and Portugal that dates back more than five hundred years and is the oldest functioning political alliance in Europe.

Friendly relations have long existed between the Union of South Africa and Portuguese Mozambique. Some significance is attached to this circumstance in view of reports both before the World war and again recently that Great Britain might seek to "apease" Germany by proposing a deal with the reich over Portugal's colonial possession.

Portugal's colonial empire makes it to Great Britain's advantage to maintain friendship. In the event of trouble an unfriendly Portugal could seriously threaten British trade entering the Mediterranean. Both naval and air bases at Lisbon, and Cape Verde islands, the Azores and Madeira make for a well working triangle for British shipments.

If Portugal's African possessions in Guinea, Angola and Mozambique were to fall into hostile hands they could be used for naval raids on British maritime commerce in the south Atlantic and Indian ocean.

The Lisbon government is said to have agreed to the wartime use of Portuguese ports by the British navy but to have rejected the idea of making its empire a military camp.

Portugal, a country seemingly little concerned with the affairs of the day, is discovered as playing a mighty part in England's important position.

Baldwin, A Pessimist In Convention Talk

ADDRESSING the Congress of Education for Democracy sponsored by Columbia university and held this week in New York, Stanley Baldwin, former prime minister of Great Britain said: "There is one thing the peoples—yours and mine—have in common: freedom in the air we breathe, freedom in our blood and bones."

And then he issued a series of questions: "What are our ideals? Is democracy safe in the world? Answering them Baldwin said America was still in the process of making them into good Americans, people to whom freedom was but a name when they landed on its shores.

A democrat should work for and be prepared to die for his democratic ideals as the nazis and communists are for theirs.

Then going over to the other side of the fence, Baldwin asked, "But what is the danger from the extreme right?" It is different in its origin and in its appeal. Dictatorship of the right in Italy and Germany has been an aftermath of the success of fascism would be as the result of an open fight with communism.

The world is not safe for democracy today. We cannot make our own countries safe for democracy by letting things slide nor can we educate the peoples by holding up our hands in horror at the actions of totalitarian states. Only when the totalitarian country tries to impose its system on a people outside its borders does its action then become a concern of all free men.

In this convention Baldwin was speaking as an individual, not as the representative of any government nor as a delegate from Great Britain in which country he served as prime minister for 15 years. Despite any enthusiasm the former British minister attempted to engender it seems Baldwin is more than pessimistic about the future of the world. Unspoken words of his tend to echo not so much his dissatisfaction with affairs in England but more the inescapable fact the world is in the throes of a terrible conflict.

What the sponsors of this convention thought after hearing Stanley Baldwin cannot be ventured but it does seem they might be saddened over the realization Baldwin did not produce some of the "tangible results" Dean Russell of the committee expected from the venture.

United States, Freedom For Propaganda

THE UNITED STATES has the "greatest propaganda density" of any country, Prof. Harwood L. Childs of the School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton university, told the recent Institute on Propaganda and Public Opinion at the University of California.

By "propaganda density" Professor Childs meant the ratio of the volume of propaganda to the size of a population, the quantity of ideas projected by means of various kinds of symbols divided by the census figures for population. Childs said "there is more propaganda in this country even than in such propaganda ruled countries as Germany, Russia, and Italy. "Democracies believe" in propaganda, believe in having lots of it with plenty of variety."

Professor Childs urged more instruction in logic in schools today in order that propaganda can be assimilated for what it is worth. It is his belief that if individuals and groups are allowed to propagandize freely the best opinions will survive.

Related to the movie industry it is difficult to recognize propaganda because not everyone reacts in the same way to a given stimulus. In discussing propaganda in moving pictures Walter Wanger, producer of "Blockade" told the same institute that significant pictures would be presented as fast as the people can absorb them. He also predicted that the "new sociologically significant pictures will probably run longer than the average film of today and thus supplant the present double feature."

Whenever propaganda is confined to one or to a few powerful sources, the United States will run into great danger. Propaganda is healthy only in a nation where freedom of speech for everyone is a prime principle.

A Moral Embargo For Japan

DURING THE past several days the state department has been giving serious consideration to invoking a "moral embargo" against Japan to prevent the shipment of raw materials which could be put to use in war. It would be the same type of embargo which Secretary of State Hull last year imposed on the shipment of airplanes to Japan.

The suggestion for the embargo which was made by Senator Schwellenbach met with approval by state department officials who believe that a "moral embargo" on the shipment of raw materials to Japan could be made as effective as it has been with the airplanes—practically complete.

This new statement by Schwellenbach recalls Hull's of last year in which he stated that the department would issue only "with great regret" licenses authorizing the export of airplanes to a country engaging in the bombing of civilians.

If such a plan as the proposed "moral embargo" were put into effect it is certain the government would not stop short of the complete enforcement of it. That is right. And it seems that at the moment such an embargo would be the most effective manner of making known the attitude of the United States. It would be much more significant than any treaty, any negotiations, and so much more powerful as an expression of the will of the people of the United States against the ruthlessness of all of Japan's activities.

As for the effects of the embargo itself, the results would be keenly sensed in Japan. With Japan dependent for many of the necessities of victorious war upon the country most able to supply those needs, the United States holds the answer as to whether Japan should be allowed to continue her destruction.

It is keenly hoped that the suggestion of Senator Schwellenbach will burst into reality.

THE BOOK PARADE

'Ararat' Is A Powerful Novel

THE BOOK... "Ararat" which promises to be one of the season's best novels. To be published Friday in New York by Carrick and Evans at $2.50. THE AUTHOR... Elgin Groseclose has written about problems largely unfamiliar to most readers, yet among the most vital of our day. THE REVIEWER... Helen McMahon.

In a book very different from the usual contemporary novel, Elgin Groseclose digs deep into the philosophies of creativeness and growth, of death and destruction. Briefly, Ararat is the story of a portion of the American people in their struggle to preserve the identity of their race, of their conflicts with the Turks in 1895, of their attempts to establish a community in Russia, of the subsequent failure of that enterprise, of further attempts to carry on, and of renewed aggressions of the Turks. But though Mr. Groseclose is fundamentally interested in the survival of the race, he believes that that survival is made possible by individuals, and he gives breadth to his story by portraying other individuals whose lives were connected with the Armenians. In fact, the two men whom he has chosen to represent the conflicting philosophies of faith in God and of dependence on individual will, the struggle of which is the key to the book, are Amos Lyle, a Texas missionary, and Paul Markov, a Russian officer.

Lyle has no desire to scale Ararat, this mountain on which the ark of Noah rested, but is content to dwell in faith without crossing the Araxes; Markov, the Promethean, must climb to the top and "put his foot on its everlasting snows and behold the world from the heart of the mystery."

The scope of Mr. Groseclose's novel is sufficient to allow him to introduce a variety of problems of special contemporary interest. There is the effect of the European scientific schools and nationalistic spirit upon Turkish leaders; there is the pointed questioning of what makes democracy; there is a brilliant discussion of the Russian revolution dealt with from the point of view of the officer Markov; there is the suggestion of the problems of volatile elements within a national population; there is the educational philosophy underlying Amos Lyle's City of Children. Through all these varied topics the reader has a feeling of confidence that here is an author who knows whereof he writes. And though this confidence grows naturally from a recognition of the author's intellectual stature and from his straightforwardness of presentation, it is borne out by the biographical facts of his experience in Persia and Russia, and of his background in the study of economics in this country.

In spite of the diversity of problems, characters, and events, Mr. Groseclose ties his novel closely together by his artistic pointing of these conflicting philosophies toward a solution. Each of his characters plays a part in that pointing, and although he seems sometimes to guide and select their actions, they are never mere mouthpieces for his ideas. Instead they give depth to his thesis. He secures his effect also by the skillful use of minor conflicts of will and faith, of will and compassion before the culminating conflict when Paul climbs Ararat, "arrogantly challenging the mountain." But though he sets his foot upon the summit, the great mountain sets a "mark upon his soul."

Throughout the book the elements of creativeness have been pitted against those of destruction as the author has traced growth in the fundamental concept of the harem, in Lyle's work with the children, in the love of Miriam and Emmanuel, of Paul and Sirani, and as he has found death in the spirit of armies, in fierce nationalism, and at last, as it bears directly upon his story in the destruction of Kars and the approach of the Turks toward Bartzan. As Paul sees his work with these two thousand children threatened, he asks, "Was this—to die—the hopeless destiny of man?" The author has struggled with this problem honestly and penetratingly, and he concludes that death is not the answer. But in his effort to show that races survive through individuals he does not grasp the fact that the truth of his thesis does not hang on the physical survival of Paul, Sirani, Lyle, or even of the two thousand children. His own faith has led him to weight the issue, to stack the cards, and he loses ground both philosophically and artistically in so doing.

However, he has made a courageous attempt to solve a great problem, and he has reached his answer that "in love are the will of God and the will of man united." He has written a novel of real power, and even those who prefer not to grapple with its philosophic aspects will find it a dramatic narrative of good brilliance. It is a book so good that one regrets the more its one fundamental defect.

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By George Tucker

NEW YORK — After 1940 — kiddy, who probably will be disappointed, hurdy — gurdies being the enchanting things they are, and when were kids calm anyway.

Funeral note: In the metropolitan area there are two cemeteries which have no headstones or monuments. From the driveways they look like well kept lawns. Burial is by underground vault, with a bronze plaque lying on the ground.

Funeral note No. 2: Only in rare instance are names on graves in Potters field. When the city incinerates unclaimed and unidentified bodies, it gives them a number.

Funeral note No. 3: Almost every day on the Staten Island ferry you see black draped hearses of the city taking unidentified bodies to Potters field. These are the remains gathered at the morgue, that house of shadows near Bellevue, after careful scrutiny fails to reveal any clue as to their identity.

Since the New York ball clubs finally permitted play-by-play broadcasts every day, two baseball announcers have made great hits with the local audiences. One of these is Arch MacDonald, who has something of the Will Rogers-Bob Burns homeliness to his comments that has won wide favor with the rank and file of metropolitan listeners. The other is Red Barber, a crack announcer who formerly broadcast games for the Cincinnati Reds. Red is a convivial southerner who seems to have more fun than the players themselves. Both Red and Arch know baseball backwards.

Both New York clubs, the Giants and the Yankees, are unalterably opposed to night baseball, but local observers say it is certain to come to Manhattan. Those large night crowds at Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and other national league towns, talk. Only recently Bill Terry, of the Giants, said he thought from a business point of view, night baseball was all right, but from an artistic standpoint he has nothing but sneers for it. The Yankees recently played a night game in which they were defeated, and returned to New York bitterly denouncing the game under the arc lights. So far the Giants have turned down all appeals from other clubs who would entice them into after-dinner contests.

HEALTH HINTS

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

The smoking of marihuana in the United States has increased until it is a real problem. In 1937 congress made the sale or use of marihuana, except by qualified persons illegal. But in spite of this and of acts by the states, making marihuana sales punishable by imprisonment, the sale and use still go on.

The drug is a product of the flowering tops of the American hemp plant. It is also called muggles, reifers, Mary Warner, Indian hay, the weed tea, The hemp plant is a tall bush which grows wild in the United States over most of the inhabited parts.

The method is to roll the dried flowering tops into cigarettes. There is an oil of unknown composition on the leaves and tops. This probably produces the effects, which are similar to those of hashish, or cannabis indica.

Effect on Mental State The alleged frequent occurrences of crime, assault, murder, rape, robbing and suicide after its use make the study of the mental state of marihuana addicts important. From Bellevue hospital, New York, comes such a report.

Two conditions are recognized. 1. Acute intoxication. This is the condition after a full dose, in a first user or beginner, before the habit is fixed. There is excitement, much moving around, confusion, talkativeness, easy falling in love and a great feeling of well-being.

A curious symptom is the sensation of enormous prolongation of time. One man of my acquaintance who took it for experimental purposes, sent for a doctor because he felt poisoned. He sat in the window waiting for the doctor. It seemed years. He saw the doctor get out of his car and walk up to the door, and this appeared to take a lifetime.

The subject thinks he is witty, even brilliant, but when analyzed his statements make no sense. There are a great many literary and scientific men of accomplishment who are marihuana users.

Crime naturally follows this state of mind. Reports from India would indicate a high incidence of marihuana addiction among habitual criminals there.

Garner's Chances For 1940 Nomination Improving Daily

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

John N. Garner looks every day a better bet for the democratic presidential nomination next year. That he can be elected in November of 1940 isn't so much of a probability, but the political consensus unmistakably is that prospects of his selection to head his party's ticket are improving right along.

John L. Lewis, intending just the contrary, gave the Texan's chances a tremendous boost when he referred to the latter as an "evil old man." That utterance evidently was widely unpopular, turning out to be favorable advertising instead of just the opposite. Subsequent primary voting, in Kentucky at least, seemed to prove it by giving a majority against C. I. O.-backed candidacies, plainly implying an anti-new deal tendency on the electorate's part, since Lewis and his C.I.O. generally are rated as strongly pro-new deal. This need not necessarily have been taken as a Garner endorsement if John L. hadn't turned the limelight upon the Texan—but he did. Therefore the ballot was something of an expression of confidence in the Lone Star statesman.

There was nothing doubtful about Representative Sam Rayburn's declaration for John N., anyway. Not only was Rayburn unequivocal in his support of "Cactus Jack"; it's difficult to interpret his accompanying remarks otherwise than as having been deliberately intended as a dirty dig against President Roosevelt himself.

Who's a Conservative? F. D. had just informed the Young Democrats, in convention in Pittsburgh, that he'll "take a walk" (to quote Al Smith) if his party nominates a conservative or lip-server in 1940.

Now, the White House tenant never specifically has called Garner a conservative, a lip-server or a straddlebug. Nevertheless, the whole country knows that that's his estimate of his understudy, Sam Rayburn knows it as well as anybody. All the same he says he's for Garner. He also says out-and-out that Garner's a liberal. He doesn't say he's against a third term for Roosevelt, but he must be if he's pro-Garner in 1940.

Senator Glass or Senator Byrd or Senator George or Senator Tydings or Senator Bailey could have said what Representative Rayburn said and nobody would have paid much attention; all hands are aware that they're anti-new dealers.

An ordinary, humble democratic representative could bolt (and some have bolted) the new deal without stirring up a deal of excitement; the administration's split and there's no argument about it. Rayburn's a Texan and so is Garner. All that's natural.

Rayburn a New Dealer But Rayburn is different. He's new deal leader in the house of representatives. He's plugged for new deal legislation. He's done it pretty faithfully.

When he says, in effect, that he's through, he says it as a notability. Incidentally, by implication, he gave an incidental kick in the pants to Paul V. McNutt's candidacy. Paul (unless he gets the next nomination) is a pro-third termier. In default of that he wants first place on the ticket. Rayburn prefers not; he prefers Garner.

But if Garner gets the nomination, can he get any farther? There may be two so-called democratic tickets. One or the other of them will have to hump itself to beat the republicans. Possibly we'll have one of those cases in which the decision is thrown into the house of representatives. And maybe it will be hard to get a majority-over-all in the lower congressional chamber.

It's going to be a good election—not to mention the conventions. In this country, in New Orleans, also, the incidence for major crimes is said to be high. But there are racial differences in reaction to the drug. Anglo-Saxons do not show the excitement or hysterical symptoms of Orientals and other races.

It is probable that the relation of marihuana to crime over the northern United States is exaggerated. Of 200 chronic offenders and drug addicts studied in the Court of General Sessions, New York, 67 were found to use marihuana. Most criminals who are drug addicts use morphine and heroin.

Average Intelligence High 2. In chronic marihuana addiction, with actual mental disease, it is difficult to link the use of the drug with the psychosis. Most users are neurotic personalities. They are either maladjusted adolescents or subversive adynamic types. None was found to be mentally defective. The average intelligence of a group of addicts was high. Th chronic toxic psychoses of marihuana were present before its uses and were simply touched off by its influence.

"THE MAD HERMIT" is the title of the story to be presented tonight over "Armchair Adventures" from CBS at 8:45. The show originates from the Inter-Tribal Indian ceremonial in Gallup, N. M.

Jose Castaneda and Edwin MacArthur will be the conductors of the symphony orchestra concert over NBC-Blue at 6 o'clock this evening.

D'ARTEGA'S orchestra with Jimmy Shields, the Norsemen quartet and fashion commentator Rosamund Ames make up the cast of a new NBC-Red network show beginning today. The show was formerly heard over WABC in New York.

The new show will be heard at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Its listing name is Enna Jettick Melodies and was a popular show of a decade ago and promises to make a hit now.

MEMBERS OF the Grouch club will suffer all the agonies of life in the open today at 4:30 over NBC-Red network when they attempt to build a summer camp at the "Croak Canyon" site.

Sneer-leader Jack Lescoulle will be master of ceremonies to an aggregation of sourpusses as he goes about their cheerless labors.

BETH WILSON will introduce an appropriately titled tune, "Blue Evening," and Leonard and the orchestra will render "A Concert in the Park" and other tunes.

One of the best Sunday afternoon programs yet is the "Hall of Fame" heard over NBC-Red at 2 o'clock. Featured performers are Frank Jenks, Richard Lane, Cliff Edwards (Ukulele Ike), Frances Hunt, vocalist, and Gordon Jenks' orchestra.

THE PROGRAM furnishes loads of laughs and plenty of good music. Gordon Jenks' "Slap-happy" orchestra is another novelty worth tuning in for.

A good late Sunday afternoon musical program is the Aragon-Trianon dancing party from WGN. It begins at 5 o'clock with a half-hour of music by Dick Jurgens and then features music of Griff Williams from 5:30 to 6 o'clock.

HOWARD BARLOW conducts the Columbia Broadcasting symphony over CBS at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

A father-son tandem bike combination will be entered in the big annual bicycle race during the broadcast of "The Aldrich Family" over the NBC-Red network this evening at 5 o'clock.

THE SENIOR Aldrich will find himself torn between family pride and personal self-respect when he gets inveigled by son Henry, played by Ezra Stone, into becoming one member of a tandem bicycle team.

With the day of the race at hand, Mr. Aldrich attempts to get out of the deal and save himself embarrassment. After examining the antique bicycle and discovering that it has no brakes, the father is more determined than ever not to make a public spectacle of himself.

EZRA STONE will direct the new play starring Milton Berle, the comedian, "See My Lawyer." The play will open Sept. 27 and was written by Richard W. Maibaum and Harry Clark.

MAIBAUM, incidentally, graduated from the University of Iowa in 1931 and received his M.A. in 1932. Several of his plays have been produced at University theater.

DAGWOOD AND Blondie are host to Dagwood's boss and the boss' wife at the weekly Blondie broadcast tomorrow evening at 5:30 over CBS.

Mrs. Dithers, the wife of Dagwood's employer, who is an amateur astrologist, convinces Dagwood that he's in the wrong business leaving all concerned in a seemingly inextricable tangle. Billy Artyz' band will play for the program.

FRANK MUNN, appearing on the "American Album of Familiar Music" show tonight at 7:30 over NBC-Red, will sing "Trees," "The Night is Young" by Romberg and, with Jean Dickenson, "If I Love Were All" by Coward and "If I Forget You" by Caesar.

Miss Dickenson will also sing "Marie Antoinette's Song" and the Buckingham choir will offer "Dear Heart, What Might Have Been" by Spomer. The orchestra will play "Scarface" by Chamade and "Dark Grows the Sky" by Simpson. The ensemble will play "Thousand and One Nights" by Strauss.

DONT FORGET to listen to Andre Kostelanetz' "Tune-Up Time" program which comes back to the air tomorrow night at 6 p.m. Tony Martin will be the singing master of ceremonies and will offer the maestro's current hit "Moon Love" as a special feature of the program.

The 45-piece band which Kostelanetz had when he left the air earlier this year will again be featured on the program which will be heard every Monday at the same time.

AMONG THE BEST For Sunday 12:30 — University of Chicago Roundtable, NBC-Red. 4:30 — Gateway to Hollywood, CBS.

The Boston Bull, commonly known as Screwtail Bull, is the ideal house pet because of his short sleek coat and miniature size. Although this breed is noted for its friend-

"Hi" also has a famous mother that won national recognition in the Madison Square Garden show last year. This breed of dogs is known as the friendliest and most beautiful of all dogs.

University Faculty Members To Attend Pharmacy Meeting

National Convention To Begin Aug. 20 At Atlanta, Georgia

Three University of Iowa college of pharmacy faculty members will participate on the program of events at the annual national convention of the American Pharmaceutical association and allied bodies in Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 20 to 26.

Dean Rudolph A. Kuever, Prof. Zada M. Cooper and Prof. Louis C. Zopf are the Iowa persons attending the meeting. Allied bodies included in the convention at the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, the National Association of Boards of Pharmacy, the Plant Seminar and several conference groups which are subdivisions of the association.

This will be the 40th national meeting of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy of which Professor Cooper has been national secretary for the last 17 years. Dean Kuever is vice-chairman of the house of delegates for the national association convention.

Professor Cooper will attend in her official capacity as association secretary and will present her report.

Professor Zopf will participate in the program for the 7-day meeting twice. Monday evening, Aug. 21, he will take part in a panel discussion with three other delegates. The general topic of the discussion will be "Professional Relations" and the Iowa faculty member will speak on "Relationship With Hospitals and Nurses."

He will also serve as secretary on the section on "Practical Pharmacy and Dispensing."

Dean Kuever also appears on the program two times. He will lead a discussion on "The Function of Teachers of Pharmacy Toward the Retail and Manufacturing Fields" in the conference of teachers of pharmacy Monday, Aug. 21.

He will also present a paper before the scientific section of the convention on "Ointment of Mercuric Nitrate." This is a report on the continuation of research work by graduate students who were directed by Dean Kuever. The first report on the work was

New Tricks With Salads

Cold Two-in-One Treat Saves Energy In Late Summer

By LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER AP Feature Service Writer Have you tried the new salad-dessert idea — making one course do for two? It's a smart way to save energy and cut down on calories without sacrificing necessary nourishment during wily late-summer days.

A salad-dessert should be so cold it fairly crackles when it leaves the refrigerator. There should be no loafing on its journey to the table. Use a little extra care in selecting and arranging greens to set off the salad itself.

Here is a man-sized salad to climax a luncheon or dinner menu. Stuff medium-sized peeled tomatoes with yellow cream cheese, mixed to a paste with a little mayonnaise, add chopped celery, cress and finely minced cucumbers. Blend in some chopped green olives, chives and pimientos. Chill almost to the freezing point. Mix in a few capers with more mayonnaise. Spread over the filled tomatoes and transfer to grape leaves on serving plates. Pass toasted, buttered crackers with this one.

This jellied, chilled surprise will bring compliments. Stiffen chopped celery, figs, nuts and crushed pineapple with gelatin. Pour an inch deep in a shallow pan. When chilled, cut in cubes and pile on top of sliced peaches and pears that have been set on crisp lettuce. Pass creamy dressing, thinned with whipped cream.

It's the dressing that puts this Rockland Salad across. Mix equal portions of chili sauce, catsup and French dressing. Add a little lemon juice and horseradish. Serve very cold poured over fresh vegetable salad placed in halves of green peppers. Or serve in those clever little individual wooden bowls.

If avocados come within your budget, take two of them, split them in halves, lengthwise and discard the seeds. Spread all the cut surfaces generously with a thick French dressing, then chill for a couple of hours at least. Avocados need this treatment to bring out their best points.

When ready to serve fill the avocado halves with cantaloupe balls which have been mixed and chilled with mint leaves (discard the old leaves when serving and stick in some fresh ones). Arrange on cress and pass more French dressing. You will need a small fork to eat the cantaloupe but use a spoon for scooping out all the avocado goodness.

You might fill the avocados with honeydew, cubes mixed with seedless grapes and seeded white cherries, blended with mayonnaise.

For another avocado hit do this — alternate slices of avocados and grapefruit around small halves of peaches stuffed with cottage cheese mixed with chopped chives and parsley. Top with French dressing. Pass "pulled" bread — very fresh white bread broken raggedly into large chunks, then sprinkled with melted butter and

Sellars Invited To Michigan Event

W. Sellars of Iowa City is among former Michigan men now living in Iowa who have received invitations to the Michigan homecoming, in connection with the celebration of the nineteenth anniversary of the Michigan State fair.

Greenberg Hits Homer To Beat Browns, 9-3

Rowe on Hill For Easy Win

Earl Averill Clouts Double With Bases Filled for Bengals

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 19 (AP)—Big Hank Greenberg came out of batting slump with a bang—a home run with the bases loaded—as the Detroit Tigers defeated the St. Louis Browns today, 9 to 3.

Bounced last Sunday, Hank returned to the lineup and struck out in the third inning with three men on. The bases were loaded again when he came up in the fourth, and Hank delivered his telling wallop, big punch of a 7-run inning. Earl Averill doubled with the sacks filled in the same round.

Jack Kramer and Roxie Lawson, pitching for the Browns, issued a total of 13 bases on balls. Their generosity and the Tigers' slugging made the victory easy for Schoolboy Rowe.

Reach Final Round
SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., Aug. 19 (AP)—Morey Lewis of Texarkana, Ark., Canadian singles champion, and Ted Schroeder, 17-year-old Glendale, Cal., player, today reached the final round of the Seignior club invitation tennis tournament.

Lewis whipped Bob Kamrath of Austin, Tex., 6-4, 6-4, in the semifinal after eliminating the last Canadian survivor, Ellis Tarshis of Montreal. Schroeder upset top-seeded Frank Guernsey of Orlando, Fla., 2-6, 6-3, 6-2, then staged another comeback to defeat Bill Talbert of Cincinnati, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1.

National Meet Mere Workout For Australians

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 19 (AP)—The status of the National doubles tennis championship round was reduced to that of a routine workout for the Australian Davis Cup forces today at Longwood.

That team's brightest stars, Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich, completed the route of America's outstanding pairs by humbling Bobby Riggs, of Chicago, and Elwood Cooke, of Portland, Ore., the Wimbledon and supposedly world champions, 6-1, 6-4, 6-0, in the last of the semi-finals.

By so doing, Quist and Bromwich forced this tourney to accept the first all-foreign windup in its 58-year history, for their teammates, Jack Crawford and Harry Hopman, qualified for the title action tomorrow by drubbing top-seeded Frank Parker, of Beverly Hills, Cal., and Don McNeill, of Oklahoma City, Okla., yesterday.

Quist and Bromwich, runners-up last year to Don Budge and Gene Mako, were favored to become the first Australian winners in this event since Norman Brookes and Gerald Patterson triumphed 20 years ago.

When Riggs and Cooke started play, their chances for an upset victory depended entirely upon their ability to prevent the Australians from plugging them at the net. They tried hard but their best was only a feeble gesture.

England's beautiful Kay Stammers and Mrs. Freda James Hamersley won the dubious honor of competing in the women's doubles finals against the invincible Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabry, of Brooklyn, and Alice Marble, of Beverly Hills, winners for the past two years. The British girls qualified by defeating Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., and Dorothy Workman, of Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-2.

Two of the tourney's six finalists were played. R. H. and Gardner Mulloy, of Coral Gables, Fla., gained the father-son title by winning 6-4, 6-1 from A. C. Nielsen Sr. and Jr., of Chicago, and Eleonora Sears, of Boston, and Mme. Sylvia Henrotin, of France, deposed the defending titlists in the small women's veteran's field. Mrs. Betty Corbiere, of Southboro, and Mrs. Henry R. Guild, of Nahant, 0-6, 6-4, 6-2.

50 Expected To Qualify For Fairview Meet

Three qualifiers for the Iowa city open golf tournament posted scores at Fairview yesterday, burning to 37 the number of participants ready for the opening of hostilities scheduled for the middle of the week.

Pairings will be announced tomorrow after the heavy number of qualifiers expected to test the course today has posted scores.

Bucs Tie Phils' Losing Streak

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 19 (AP)—Handcuffed by the six-hit pitching of Big Bill Lee, the Pittsburgh Pirates tied the longest losing streak of the current National league season today by bowing to the Chicago Cubs 5 to 0.

It was the Pirates' 11th consecutive defeat and tied the record previously held by the Philadelphia Phillies. The victory was Lee's 15th of the season.

Augie Galan and Manager Gabby Hartnett personally accounted for all the Chicago runs. Galan homered into the right field stands with one aboard in the third and Hartnett drove in runs in the fifth and seventh, then scored in the seventh on Stan Hack's single.

England's beautiful Kay Stammers and Mrs. Freda James Hamersley won the dubious honor of competing in the women's doubles finals against the invincible Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabry, of Brooklyn, and Alice Marble, of Beverly Hills, winners for the past two years. The British girls qualified by defeating Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., and Dorothy Workman, of Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-2.

Two of the tourney's six finalists were played. R. H. and Gardner Mulloy, of Coral Gables, Fla., gained the father-son title by winning 6-4, 6-1 from A. C. Nielsen Sr. and Jr., of Chicago, and Eleonora Sears, of Boston, and Mme. Sylvia Henrotin, of France, deposed the defending titlists in the small women's veteran's field. Mrs. Betty Corbiere, of Southboro, and Mrs. Henry R. Guild, of Nahant, 0-6, 6-4, 6-2.

When Riggs and Cooke started play, their chances for an upset victory depended entirely upon their ability to prevent the Australians from plugging them at the net. They tried hard but their best was only a feeble gesture.

Bosox Divide Twin Bill With Nats, 2-1, 8-6

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—The Washington Senators ended a season-long jinx today by beating the Boston Red Sox 2 to 1 in the second game of a double bill for Washington's first victory at home over the New Englanders.

Ted Williams homered with the bases loaded in the ninth to give Boston the first game, 8 to 6. The split left the Red Sox still seven and a half games behind the New York Yankees, who were rained out.

Ken Chase did a masterful job on the mound for the Senators in the nightcap. He yielded a run in the first inning on a single by Jimmy Doerr and Jim Fox's double, and thereafter gave up only two singles.

Washington got its two runs in the third after Buddy Lewis and Johnny Velaj walked. Bobby Estalella singled, scoring Lewis, and Velaj came home on an infield out by Pinch-Hitter Cecil Travis.

The big boy, however, will have to lick a good field to win. Brown figures to be a very tough customer on his home grounds and there'll be a squadron of other low-shooting professionals and amateurs gunning for top honors.

Presnell Halts Boston, 4 to 0, To Even Series

BOSTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Tot Presnell baffled the Boston Bees with his knuckleball again today to bring the Brooklyn Dodgers a 4-0 victory and even their series.

It was the veteran right-hander's second shutout against the Bees, who have provided him with three of his seven victories this season. He allowed only two hits for the first five frames.

The Dodgers got to John Lanning for two runs in the first inning.

STOCKTON, Cal., Aug. 19 (AP)—Rallying to score five runs in the last half of the eighth inning, the McDevitt post team of Okanah, Neb., defeated Topeka, Kan., 9 to 5, today in the first game of the American Junior League western sectionals.

Armstrong Reigns as Favorite To Retain Lightweight Boxing Crown
NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP)—Henry Armstrong, the only three-time champion in pugilistic history, today was firmly established as a 5-8 choice to successfully defend his lightweight title in his 15-round clash with former Champion Lou Ambers at the Yankee stadium, Tuesday night.

All those bear stories about Armstrong's bad hands and the trouble he is having making his 135-pound lightweight limit have failed to take hold. The fight faithful laughed them off as ballyhoo and went right on betting on the little two-fisted Los Angeles Negro to repeat his triumph of last Aug. 17 when he took the title away from the Herkimer Hurricane.

Mize Gets 2 for 2 And Moore Homers For Card Cause

CINCINNATI, Aug. 19 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds battled the St. Louis Cardinals for nine innings to a 3 to 3 tie today, the weatherman finally winning the chips.

Rain started to fall just as the Reds were making a final desperate effort to end the duel. Unprotected fans took cover. The drizzle increased to a downpour and the day's efforts went in vain.

The 16,728 disappointed fans saw Johnny Mize, league leading slugger, who had a perfect day at the plate, double in J. Martin, who had singled for a run in the first inning. Morton Cooper fanned the first three Reds up.

Terry Moore slammed the first ball pitched by Paul Derringer in the second for his eighth home run of the season, giving the battling Cards a two-run advantage.

After Derringer hit a pop-up which Cooper converted into an unassisted double play in the third, Werber and Joost walked and Goodman doubled both home to knot the count.

Sox Increase 3rd Place Edge To 3 1/2 Games
CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (AP)—Southpaw Thornton Lee pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 6-5 victory over Cleveland today, building the winners' third place margin to three and a half games over the fourth place Indians.

In winning their sixth straight engagement the Sox lost temporarily the services of first string catcher Mike Tresh, who suffered a badly bruised shoulder when he collided with outfielder Bruce Campbell, who tried to score from second on a single to right field.

Mize Sets Pace In Senior Loop Batting Race
NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP)—Johnny Mize's annual stretch spurt for that princely bauble, the National league batting championship, looks like it might be successful this season.

Since taking over the lead from Morrie Arnovich of the Phillies a week ago, the St. Louis Cardinal slugger has boosted his mark another seven points to .353 and shown no signs of slackening.

Always a slow starter, Mize did not break into ranks of the 10 leaders until late in June. On the 23rd of that month, he had a percentage of .317.

Mize always has set a furious pace at the close of the season. Last year, he finished just five notches under Ernie Lombardi's winning .342. The year before, he was only 10 points behind the .374 figure of Joe Medwick.

Arnovich managed to brake his skid during the week, but saw his average go from .344 to .341. Zeke Bonura of the New York Giants and Frank McCormick of the Cincinnati Reds, tied for third last week, also slipped and preserved Arnovich's second-place margin.

Smart Trick Wins Beverly Handicap
CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (AP)—Smart Trick, speedy brown filly owned by Morris Vehon of Chicago, won the $5,000 added Beverly handicap over a mile and 70 yards route at Washington park today with Flying Lill second and Torch Stick third.

Smart Trick's winning margin was six lengths in a race which saw the odds-on favorite, Flying Lill hold a contending position from the start and then fail to match Smart Trick's stretch speed. The winner's time was 1:44 4-5.

The Woolford farm's Unerring, which has been battling Flying Lill for western filly honors this season, was scratched because of a sloppy track.

The victor paid $10.40, $3.60 and $2.80. Flying Lill, owned by Charles Cleary of Chicago, paid $2.80 and $2.40. Torch Stick, from the Old Fox stable, paid $3.20 to show.

With five starters the race grossed $5,600 with $3,730 going to Owner Vehon.

250 Entries Expected for Iowa Golf Meet

DES MOINES, Aug. 19 (AP)—Tournament officials said tonight they expected approximately 250 entries for the thirteenth annual Iowa open golf meet starting at the Des Moines Golf and Country club Tuesday.

Although the first 18-hole lap on the 72-hole championship route will not get underway until Tuesday morning, the customary preliminary functions have been arranged for Monday. There will be a special open two-man best ball event and the annual slugging for the state driving championship.

Merle Lint of Des Moines, who recently announced he has turned professional, will defend his driving title against such hefty clouters as the Wilcox brothers, Pat and Don; Billy Cordingley of Des Moines and Joe Brown, the Des Moines Golf and Country club professional who won the 1938 open championship with 287 strokes.

Pat Wilcox, who handles the professional duties at the Sunny-side club at Waterloo and who has banged out booming wood shots to win the driving honors three times, is ranged as one of the leading threats to Brown's open crown. Although he has been close, big Pat has yet to take his first open title, and he is determined that this will be his year.

Cavalry Troop Now at Camp

Colonel Hayek To Be Chief Range Officer For First Four Days

Fifty-nine enlisted men and three officers of Troop 1, 113th cavalry left at 4 o'clock this morning for the annual 15-day training and camping period at Camp Dodge near Des Moines.

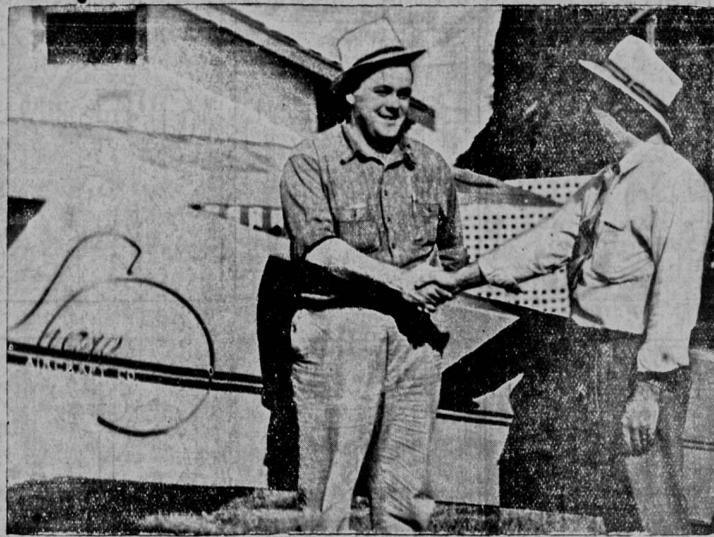

Col. Will J. Hayek, executive officer of the 113th cavalry regiment, will attend the annual encampment as chief range officer during the first four days of camp directing machine gun, rifle and pistol shooting of the regiment on the range.

Governor's day at the camp will be a week from Thursday instead of at the end of the first week of camp as has been customary in the past, according to plans for this year's encampment.

There will be only one overnight hike, this Wednesday and Thursday of the second week, Capt. Elmer M. Hay, who is in charge of the local group, said yesterday. The rest of the camp period will be taken up with maneuvers near the camp. The five-day hike taken last year will not be included in this year's program.

Gen. Ray Yenter, formerly of Oxford and commanding officer of the Iowa national guard, will conduct the brigade review and inspection Saturday. In addition to Captain Hay, other officers of Troop 1 are First Lieut. Glenn Schmidt and Second Lieut. Arthur B. Baldwin.

Mt. Pleasant Man Solos at Iowa City Airport

Shown here is Paul Shaw, Iowa City flying instructor of the Shaw Aircraft company, with Joe Virden of Mt. Pleasant who soloed at Iowa City airport last Thursday. Virden took his first lesson July 27. He drove to Iowa City from Mt. Pleasant every morning to take his regular lessons here. Virden made his first cross-country flight Friday when he took a pleasure trip to Davenport and back to Iowa City. Mr. Shaw has been instructing flying in Iowa City since the fall of 1928. He came to Iowa City from Cedar Rapids. He estimated that since he has been in Iowa City he has taught between 200 and 300 persons to fly. He has accumulated in excess of 3,500 flying hours during the time he has been here and now holds an instructor's rating in a commercial flying license, this being the highest rating possible in the commercial license. He also holds both an airplane and engine repair license permitting him to make major repairs on both the motor and structure of planes. In all his teaching experience, Mr. Shaw has never had a student injured. During last May, there were 44 University of Iowa students receiving flying instruction from Shaw and he has 53 students at present.

Britain May Enter Dispute Over Danzig

Chamberlain Plans To Break Holiday For Meeting Tuesday

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP)—British ministers watched the German-Polish dispute with increasing concern tonight and were expected in political quarters to decide Tuesday whether the government should intervene now to attempt a peaceful settlement.

Prime Minister Chamberlain planned to break his fishing holiday in Scotland Monday to return for a meeting of ministers the next day to review the entire European situation which was regarded in all quarters to have reached a dangerous stage with peaceful solution daily becoming more difficult.

Great Britain, pledged to stand by Poland in resisting any aggression threatening her independence, has stood aloof from the German-Polish quarrel over Danzig. Prime Minister Chamberlain has declared it was a matter to be settled between the two countries involved.

Poland Holds Self Ready

WARSAW, Aug. 19 (AP)—Armed Poland held herself in readiness tonight for developments generally expected in Warsaw to bring a decisive turn soon — possibly within a week — in European affairs.

Feeling grew that "pressure" by the Rome-Berlin axis would be intensified in the dispute over Germany's demands for the Free City of Danzig, which Poland holds to be a "lung" of her economic organism.

"The forthcoming week," read a headline in the evening Warsaw newspaper Czas, "will be a week of crisis — to decide peace or war."

The German propaganda campaign already has been described by the Polish press as "bordering on madness."

Official comment was lacking on military moves in Slovakia, German protectorate over which the nazis have established "military possession."

Iowa City's Flying Plumber

Don Fairbanks, 18 E. Burlington street, Iowa City, soloed at the Iowa City airport Friday afternoon and has been captioned the "flying plumber." He is employed in the plumbing department at the local Montgomery Ward retail store. He received his flying instruction from Lain Guthrie, Iowa City flight instructor. Mr. Guthrie operates three planes out of the Iowa City airport, one of them being the latest model Stinson 105. A number of Iowa Citizens who have learned to fly now own their own planes, illustrating how popular flying has become in the last few years.

stage with a peaceful solution growing more difficult each day. Despite Chamberlain's declaration that the Danzig quarrel was a matter for Poland and Germany to settle, some political quarters felt that the situation had become so grave he might decide on some move to try to break the deadlock.

Hungary's position also was a matter of concern in the British capital after the visits of Count Csaky, Hungarian foreign minister, to German and Italian officials.

Local Archers To Shoot Today At Muscatine

Six Iowa City archers along with representatives from four other eastern Iowa towns will meet at Muscatine this morning at 9 o'clock for a "tuneup" shoot in preparation for the state archery tournament to be in Iowa City Sept. 3 and 4.

Besides Iowa City, archers from Muscatine, Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Davenport will compete today in two American rounds using 30 arrows each from 60, 50 and 40 yards.

Both men and women will compete with the four high scores being computed for each team. This tournament has been in progress since this spring and at present Iowa City is leading in points.

Iowa City archers who will shoot today are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dysart, Prof. and Mrs. C. J. Lapp and daughter, Eloise, and Prof. Arnold Gillette.

Funeral Rites Set for 2:30 This Afternoon

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon for Mrs. May I. Thompson, 60, who died in the home of her son, Merton H. Thompson, 930 N. Dodge street, Friday night.

Mrs. Thompson was a life-long resident of Johnson county and until three years ago lived near Kalona.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Nellie Burkett; two sons, Merton and Glen Thompson of Iowa City; a brother, Harrison Frank of Sharon, and three sisters, Lillie Frank of Sharon, Mrs. Rose Robertson of Wellman and Mrs. Ida Moore of Windham.

Funeral services will be at the McGovern funeral home and burial will be in the Sharon cemetery.

Johnson County 4-H Band To Appear at Iowa State Fair

The Johnson county 4-H band will be featured in the all-Iowa music festival to be held at this year's Iowa State fair, Aug. 23 to Sept. 1, according to plans received here yesterday from the state fair management in Des Moines.

The local musical organization will be one of 28 bands, orchestras, choruses, drum corps and similar groups to play in this year's music festival which will be in progress during eight days and nine nights of the 1939 exposition. This provides the most elaborate musical program in the history of the fair.

Headline musical feature at the State Fair this year will be the personal appearance of four of

Patrick W. Roe Funeral Rites To Be Monday

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock for Patrick W. Roe, 77, resident of Morse who died at Mercy hospital Friday night.

Mr. Roe was born in County Kilkenny, Ireland and lived there 25 years before coming to this country 52 years ago. He married in Ireland to Katie Bridget O'Neil.

Surviving Mr. Roe are his wife, five sons, Andy H. of Iowa City, John F. of Waterloo, Edward W. of Milan, Ill., Paul of Waterloo and Thomas of Waterloo. Three sons and three daughters preceded him in death.

Services will be in St. Mary's church at Morse and burial will be in the Cedar Valley cemetery.

Damage of $25 Result of Stop

About $25 damage was done to a car driven by Robert Scheetz, 1527 Muscatine avenue, last night when he stopped for the stop light on Burlington street near the Nall Chevrolet garage.

After Scheetz stopped, another machine, driven by Don Huffman, 1030 Muscatine avenue, stayed behind him. A third car, the driver of which was not learned and for whom police were searching last night, pulled up behind Huffman bumping his car and pushing it into Scheetz' auto resulting in the damage.

Temperature Stays Below Normal As Skies Clear

Iowa City temperatures again yesterday failed to reach the normal high set for the day, although the sky was clear and the sun shone throughout the day.

Highest temperature recorded for the day was 81, three degrees under the normal of 84. The low recorded for the 24-hour period at the University of Iowa hydraulics laboratory was 64, two degrees above the low of 62 set as normal.

No precipitation was recorded for the period.

Iowa City Firms Get Tax Boosts

Included in a table compiled by The Associated Press showing how 69 public utility and service companies furnishing service to Iowa cities and towns fared in the state tax commission's order boosting the total assessed valuations of power, gas, water and street railway utilities, these figures were given for the Iowa City companies.

Iowa City Light and Power company — 1939 assessed value, $838,706 as compared to $837,324 in 1938. This represents an increased valuation of $1,382.

Iowa Water Service company of Iowa City — 1939 assessed value, $255,705, as compared to $254,822 in 1938. This is an increase of $883.

A. D. Hensleigh Named Principal Of Horace Mann

A. D. Hensleigh of Hamburg has been named principal of Horace Mann grade school in Iowa City succeeding Willis P. Porter who resigned after serving as principal of the school for three years, Supt. Iver A. Opstad announced yesterday.

The newly appointed man has been a member of the faculty of the Hamburg schools for the last seven years and has had 16 years of teaching experience. He graduated from the University of Iowa receiving his M.A. degree this summer.

Hensleigh attended the Kingsville, Texas, normal school and the Tarkio, Mo., college. He attended high school at Blanchard.

puting the local tax levies for the following year's collections.

Today's order also cut approximately $3,500,000 off the valuation of railroads in Iowa, the drop reflecting abandonment of lines. The other changes were incidental. The taxable value of the utilities will be added to local real estate values by the county governments and next year's levies figured on the combined base. Iowa's assessed valuation base is a little over $2,900,000,000.

Valuations of the Iowa power, gas and water utilities have been a disturbing element in state government politics for several years. Last year C. F. Green of Sioux City, a republican and present commission chairman, attempted to hike the utility tax base but was voted down by his fellow commissioners.

Last fall Gov. George A. Wilson let out a hint as to what was in store for the companies when he asserted in campaign speeches that farm land valuations had been boosted while the utilities were allowed to continue along on the same approximate level.

Green in 1938 issued a statement saying he considered the values "set on these companies much below their actual value, resulting in a shift of a part of their share of taxes to other classes of property."

He declared the other classes, "amounting to nearly two and a half billion dollars of value, are paying at least two per cent of their taxes to make up for the portion of taxes unassessed against some of the power, water and gas companies."

Green was out of the city on a vacation today, but Commissioner David L. Murrow (D-Corydon) said the three tax board members were in agreement on the revisions. Fred W. Nelson (R-Nevada) is the third commissioner.

Methodist Church Services Begin At 9:30, 10:45

Today's services at the First Methodist church in Iowa City are at 9:30 and 10:45 this morning.

The first will be church school for all departments, this to be followed at 10:45 by the worship service. The Rev. Robert H. Hamill will preach on "Is God An American?"

Mrs. Dwight Curtis will sing a soprano solo, "Hear My Prayer" by Hamblen. Mrs. Maude Whedon Smith will play the organ for prelude, "A Southland Song" by William Lester; for offertory, "Air Tendre" by Lully, and for postlude, "Grand Choeur" by William Faulkes.

Business Better

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—A retail trade gain of one billion dollars topped entries on this week's ledger of business conditions in the nation.

The upturn — scored in the first six months of the year over the like period of a year ago — was attributable in no small measure to a 40 per cent rise in motor car sales, the commerce department said.

Nye To Run?

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—A "favorite son" boom for Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota for the republican presidential nomination was reported in the making today.

Friends of Nye said they expected the movement to come to the surface at a rally at Minot, N. D., next month at a time when several other prospective republican presidential candidates, more or less inactive since congress ad-
