RUSSIA, NAZIS 'BURY THE HATCHET'

Far Reaching Pact Signed at Moscow If War Comes These Six Men Will Be Leaders of Europe's Armies

Smashes Hope Of British For Soviet Accord

Ribbentrop To Make Personal Report Of Details to Hitler

In Hitler's Hands—

Louis P. Lochner Declares Fuehrer In Full Command

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER BERLIN, Aug. 23 (AP)

BERLIN, Aug. 24 (Thursday) (AP)—Nazi Germany and communist Russia, long-time ideological enemies, entered early today upon a 10-year non-aggression pact which smashed what hopes Britain and France may have held to align the Soviet in their bloc.

A day of conferences in Moscow in which Joseph Stalin took part, sufficed to reach an understanding which the government said was motivated by a "desire to strengthen the state of peace" between them.

The agreement, which was even more far reaching than many observers had expected, was signed by Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, and Vyacheslav Molotov, Soviet foreign commissar, at the Kremlin in the presence of Stalin.

Von Ribbentrop reported the conclusion of the treaty to Fuehrer Hitler at (Berchtesgaden) at once, and made arrangements to leave Moscow this afternoon for the Fuehrer's mountain retreat in order to make a personal report. The understanding in its broadest sense, was felt in political circles here to mean a definite "burying of the hatchet" as far as Nazi diatribes against communist Russia are concerned.

Article four, foreign observers immediately pointed out, ruled out the possibility of Moscow still joining the London-Paris front by stating that neither Germany nor Russia will associate itself with any other grouping of powers which directly or indirectly is aimed at the other party.

Informed persons considered article three providing for "consultation regarding questions of common interest" as especially significant in the light of the present conflict between Germany and Poland.

They cited an editorial in the well-informed Essener National Zeitung yesterday morning which remarked:

"It may be assumed with certainty that in the Moscow talks a division of the mutual spheres of interest will be arrived at which will correspond to the wishes of the German as well as the Russian nations."

This was interpreted as hinting at the possibility of another partitioning of Poland should the present dispute lead to forceful measures.

Hitler also was believed to have told Britain's Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in detailed memorandum that if Poland resisted Nazi claims and decided to fight it would mean the partition of Poland. In the event of a peaceful settlement, however, Germany would consent to a set-up which would put the Polish nation under a German protectorate.

Whether Germany and the Soviet actually got down to concrete cases in connection with their "common interests" could not be learned here.

The treaty also provided for a settlement of all differences hereafter by "friendly" discussion and arbitration.

The non-aggression clauses bound each power to refrain from any act of force against the other and to refrain from supporting any third party which might engage in war-like acts against either of the signatories.

The pact did not include the usual escape clause providing for its denunciation in case one of the contracting parties attacked a third power. This provision has been written into most non-aggression agreements signed in the past by Moscow.

An official communique announced that Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop had a three-hour conference Wednesday afternoon with Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov and Jo-

Adolf Hitler appeared tonight once again to hold Europe's fate in his hands, adhering firmly to his demands upon Poland which a reliable informant said now included acceptance by the Poles of a protectorate government.

The demands, according to trustworthy information, were dispatched yesterday to most European capitals as follows:

1. Unconditional return of Danzig.

2. Cession of those sections of Poland which were German before the World War (Posen-Pomerania—Pomorze or the so-called Polish corridor, and Polish upper Silesia).

3. Acceptance of a protectorate for the area remaining, similar to that of Bohemia and Moravia, parts of former Czecho-Slovakia.

Britain Answers

The British ambassador, Sir Neville Henderson, was said to have re-stated Britain's pledge to aid Poland as an answer to these demands in a call at Hitler's Berchtesgaden home today.

Sir Neville landed at Tempelhof airport tonight and went at once to the embassy.

The expose to other governments is said to have contained Hitler's two alternatives for a Polish settlement:

Either Poland accepts these terms and permits Germany peacefully to occupy the sections claimed, or Poland fights, with the result that Germany will see to it that her eastern adversary is partitioned once again as has been her fate in the past.

According to one version Sir Neville assured Hitler that Prime Minister Chamberlain was continuing his efforts on behalf of peace.

Too Late

"Too late" was in effect the German dictator's reply, it was ascertained reliably.

Hitler, according to the official German news bureau, DNB, "left no doubt in the mind of the British ambassador that the obligations assumed by the British government could not induce Germany to renounce her championship of national interests vital to the life of the reich."

Father Chains Four Children

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 23 (AP) — A 43-year-old jobless father was sentenced today to six months in the workhouse when he admitted chaining four of his eight children at home because "it was the only way to keep them there."

His wife escaped punishment because of a two-week-old baby in her arms.

"If you did not have that baby I would put you in the workhouse," Judge Martin Fleming said. "There is no excuse in the world to keep children like dogs."

The father, booked as Jesse Cline, stood shabbily dressed in court without benefit of counsel to answer a charge of "inhuman treatment."

J. W. Henry, superintendent of the humane educational society, told the court he found two boys, aged five and six, standing on metal beds with chains looped around their necks. Two girls, eight and nine, were confined in a small padlocked closet, he testified.

Father Chains Wayward Sons

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 23 (AP) — Because he committed a "technical assault and battery" in hanging heavy iron chains on the ankles of two 'teen-age wayward sons to keep them home and out of trouble, Joseph Naturlie, 48-year-old grave digger, was put on probation for a year today.

GENERAL PARIANI, Italy

COLONEL-GENERAL KEITEL, Germany

MAJOR GENERAL GORT, Great Britain

GENERAL SMIGLY-RYDZ, Poland

GENERAL GAMELIN, France

GENERAL SHAPOSHNIKOV, Russia

As war clouds gather again over uneasy Europe these six men stand ready to lead their nations' armies in the conflict—if it comes. Should a general European war break out, most likely two of these men, outstanding soldiers themselves, would find themselves pitted against the military skill of the other three. The two are the military leaders of the Rome-Berlin axis powers — Colonel-General Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command, and General Alberto Pariani, Italian chief of staff. Directing military operations on the other side of a European war most probably would be found Major General Viscount Gort, chief of the British imperial staff; General Marie Gustave Gamelin, French chief of staff, and Inspector-General Edward Smigly-Rydz, chief officer of the Polish army. General Boris Shaposhnikov, chief of staff of the Russian army is placed in the unique position of leading a giant army in a country that probably will be left out of the war entirely unless the European alignment again changes.

Dictator Busch Shoots Himself

'Condor of Andes' Takes Own Life, According to Aide

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 23 (AP)—German Busch, youthful Bolivian dictator whose bravery won him the title "Condor of the Andes," died today soon after Propaganda Minister Mario Flores said the president had shot himself in the temple.

Flores stated President Busch had been "mentally" depressed because of "intensive work during the past few days."

General Carlos Quintanilla, chief of staff of the Bolivian army and veteran of the Chaco war, assumed the provisional presidency by "unanimous determination of generals, chief of garrisons and members of the cabinet." Three days of national mourning was decreed.

The shooting, first officially described as accidental, occurred at the Busch residence where several friends were guests. At the instance of Mrs. Busch, an operation was performed but the president failed to rally.

The 35-year-old Busch had of ten declared to opponents that he would "only leave office dead."

He became president at the age of 33 when he led the army in a bloodless coup.

Quintanilla, regarded as less uncompromising than Busch, left the cabinet membership unchanged, and issued a message declaring he would follow the policies of the dead dictator.

European Crisis Raises Food Ante

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 23 (AP)—War fears in Europe have caused a great demand for Argentine wheat and beef, government sources said today. More than 180,000 tons of wheat have been sold to European buyers in the last few days, it was said, and negotiations undertaken for large sales of beef.

Iowa N. Y. A. Grants Boosted

The allocation for the coming school year will total $321,570, compared with $277,155 last year, it was announced. Sixty-five institutions will share in the fund.

The money is used to help students between 16 and 24 who are in need of financial assistance to attend school. They earn the benefits through various campus tasks.

Among the amounts allocated for next year are:

University of Iowa, $67,284; Iowa State college, $71,388; Drake university, $16,807; Briar Cliff college, Sioux City, $1,971; Clarke college, Dubuque, $4,063.

F. D. R. Returns To Washington

Cuts Vacation Short To Consider Affairs In European Crisis

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt hurried home from a suddenly-curtailed vacation cruise today while Washington wondered if it was his intention—using his own phrase for it—"fire another shot for peace" in Europe.

High officials of the state department made arrangements to go into conference with the chief executive immediately upon his return—scheduled for midday tomorrow—and also to go over the situation at once with Secretary Hull. The state department chief returned from his vacation today.

Meanwhile, state and treasury department officers were meeting to discuss America's position in case war actually developed abroad. They were concerned with the grave questions of keeping domestic business on a steady keel, safeguarding the foreign value of the dollar, and the problem of removing American citizens from war-menaced regions.

Mr. Roosevelt was aboard the U.S.S. Tuscaloosa, keeping in touch with the fast-moving European events by means of dispatches from the state department which kept the ship's radio men hard at work.

Here at the White House, however, another secretary—Stephen T. Early, said there was "nothing" (See F. D. R., Page 6).

Agreement Is Blow to Hopes For Peaceful Crisis Settlement

To Russia

Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany is in Moscow concluding a non-aggression pact with the Soviet Russian government while England and France continue to negotiate with Russia for a political and military alliance.

English Authorities Move To Put Nation On Wartime Footing

LONDON, Aug. 24 (Thursday) (AP)—Already moving to place himself on a wartime footing, Great Britain viewed gloomily but grimly the German-Soviet Russian non-aggression pact signed early today in Moscow.

Diplomatic quarters said the pact was a blow to remaining British hopes that the crisis precipitated by Germany's demands on Poland might be solved peacefully by a firm British-French stand.

In particular, it was said, article two, apparently preventing either of the signatories from supporting in any way a third power engaged in war with the other was regarded as carrying unhappy implications for British-French determination to aid Poland if she goes to war over Germany's demands.

Declines to Comment

There had been some hope that the British-French front might procure a "benevolent neutrality" from Russia with access to supplies and possibly a leeway for troop movement from the Black sea. The Russian-German pact, however, it was said, seemed to remove this possibility.

The British foreign office declined to comment immediately on the pact. It was obvious, however, that the reception was a gloomy one.

The German Fuehrer's reported statement that Poland must either yield to his demands or be partitioned came as a staggering blow to British hopes for a peaceful settlement.

(Hitler's demands were reported in Berlin to include the unconditional return of the Free City of Danzig and those sections of Poland which were German before the World War and the acceptance by Poland of a protectorate over the area remaining to her.)

The British government was said to have considered the message delivered to Hitler today by Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, as its ace card.

Parliament Meets

It had been hoped a clear statement that Britain would fight by Poland's side might cause Hitler to give serious thought before risking war.

Official circles received reports of the Hitler-Sir Neville talk in silence but diplomats took the gravest possible view.

Parliament will meet in special session tomorrow to vote the government virtually dictatorial powers to deal with any emergency.

All officers and key men in anti-aircraft batteries of the territorial army were called up along with an undetermined number of reservists in the army, navy and air force.

The home office ordered air raid precautions forces to be ready, beginning tonight, for a nationwide blackout at a moment's notice. All (See BRITISH, Page 6)

King Leopold Pleads Peace

BRUSSELS, Aug. 23 (AP)—King Leopold III of Belgium, in a dramatic appeal for peace on behalf of seven small powers of northern Europe, tonight urged the men on whom events depended to submit their conflict "to open negotiations in a spirit of brotherly cooperation."

"Under our eyes," the monarch said, "the camps are forming, the armies are grouping, a horrible struggle is being prepared in Europe."

Without making any direct offer to mediate, the 37-year-old king expressed hope that "other chiefs of state would join their voices" to his in "the same desire for peace and security for their peoples."

In The Backwash Of Fascism

MEXICO TODAY is the Spain of the first months of 1936. The omens are the same. Cardenas has been driving through social, economic and political reforms in the past five years which have stepped on the toes of many people, and now these forces are ready to strike back.

The presidential campaign with elections not due until next summer is already the main topic of discussion. Already the field is narrowing to Juan Andrew Almazan, the conservative, and Avila Camacho who is a strong supporter of President Cardenas and undoubtedly the next president if ballots rule.

Camacho is the official candidate of the revolutionary party of Mexico. To be the candidate of such a party is tantamount to election. The real battle is within the party ranks. Their candidate in 1934 was Cardenas who rode to triumph with 76 per cent of the four million votes cast.

It is a well established Mexican custom that presidential candidates be army officers, and this year is no exception. The five candidates who were in the field a few months back were all generals of the Mexican army.

General Camacho has been chosen by the liberals and progressives as well as by the communists, socialists and all who might be classed more radical than liberal. And Camacho has many points in his favor: his popularity in the Mexican army, his unwavering support of the more leftist Cardenas social and economic reforms, his known friendship with Cardenas are all with him.

Almazan has the spotlight turned upon him as being fascist. It is certain that thousands of dollars are being poured into his campaign chest by foreign investors in Mexico, as much so from Wall Street as from Germany. Not only the dispossessed oil companies favor his election, but many former wealthy land owners, especially those whose large estates have been appropriated and land distributed to the peasants want Almazan.

There was a time when the democracies were beginning to believe that the democracies would join with the socialist forces in stopping fascism. That seemed to be the natural alignment a week ago. Now that Russia has shown her independent stand, the democracies must realize that there can be but one alignment—the democracies versus the "isms."

The New York Times aptly says, "The thought that the national socialists and the bolsheviks are moving toward a natural alignment and that the great democracies, including our own, can no longer doubt where they stand in the line-up is small recompense for the danger such an alignment would foreshadow for the western powers."

Someone soon must end the game of blind man's bluff. Otherwise, we shall have another Munich as the only alternative—another Munich that historians can point to as marking the end of democratic ideals.

radical forces of Mexico are not sleeping. They have profited from the tragedy of Spain. Today one cannot pick up a newspaper which is not bemoaning the cruelties of labor to capital. What they really oppose is the policy of the labor leaders who drill, train and discipline the workers in preparation for what they know is coming. Once before in the history of Mexico workers' shock battalions retained a liberal administration and today, 100,000 Mexican workers stand ready to defend and ready to fight for rights acquired after many bitter years of struggle.

The United States does not want another Spain on her southern border; if Mexico's pot boils over this time, America will no longer be able to go about with that placid, isolationist countenance.

Always A Winner

A FEW DAYS ago Nicholas Lymber won a set of golf clubs at an outing. Because he didn't play the game, he sold the clubs to a friend. The purchaser then raffled off a set of clubs he already owned and sold Lymber a couple of chances on them.

The next day Lymber was notified he held the winning ticket. He's probably still enjoying good luck unless he has given up in desperation and begun the game of golf in which event the chuckles he may have gurgled in ecstasy at watching his friends are now downed by the swish swish of his clubs going through empty air right over the little white ball golfers have such a difficult time directing.

Blind Man's Bluff

AS THE FIRST shock of the Russian-German non-aggression pact wears off, it appears more and more that the significance of the move, as great as it is, does not extend to the grave proportions early observers predicted.

It seems only to confirm more than ever that the checker game between the fascist nations and the democracies is being played according to the rules of "blind man's bluff."

Certainly Hitler has bluffed his way to the top. There seems little doubt now that the Western powers, too, are bluffing. This year Chamberlain seems to have decided that bluffing will be safer than outright "appeasement."

The democracies have fallen for Hitler's bluff so frequently that it seems improbable now that facing him with his own tricks will be sufficient.

Yes, the Oxford pledges "not to fight" were signed little more than two years ago. Such pledges, in the face of Hitler's unrelenting diplomatic maneuvering and territorial progress, seem futile. As much as we would like to see Hitler stopped by means short of war, all appearances are that the time when that would be possible has passed.

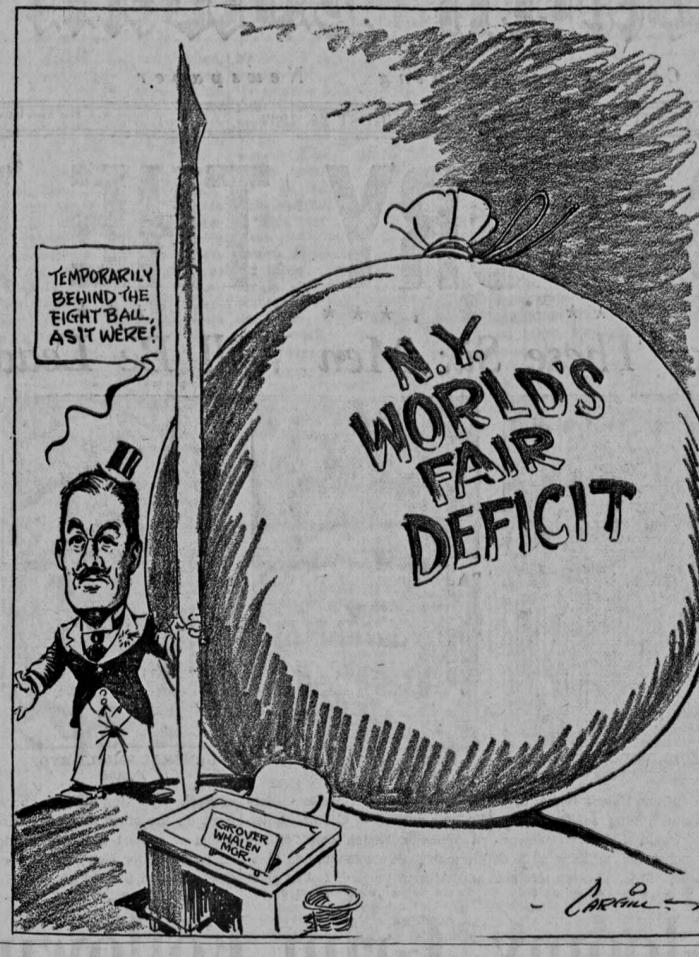

Just as the democracies and fascist powers have been playing chance hands, bluffing their way, it seems now that Stalin has decided to join the game.

There was a time when the democracies were beginning to believe that the democracies would join with the socialist forces in stopping fascism. That seemed to be the natural alignment a week ago. Now that Russia has shown her independent stand, the democracies must realize that there can be but one alignment—the democracies versus the "isms."

THE WORLD OF TODAY!

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By George Tucker

NEW YORK — The police line-up is held every morning in police headquarters, and it is a "presentation" to members of the vice squad of the crooks, criminals, and suspicious characters who have been rounded up during the night.

These assembled gentlemen are asked to stand on a raised platform with brilliant lights trained on their faces. In utter darkness surrounding them, so not to be seen, sit the detectives who study these gentlemen's faces closely. They "photograph" their features in their minds, so that they will recognize them tomorrow or years later.

Sometimes the line-up yields an interesting case. The other day, for instance, a young man who is only 23 but already has a penitentiary term for burglary behind him, appeared in the line-up. He had been apprehended in the little matter of going into competition with the government. He was making "dimes," only there wasn't any silver in this young man's dime.

What he did was use these fake dimes in cigarette slot machines.

He would drop in two "dimes," and get a package of cigarettes and 3 cents in change. The cigarettes he sold. In all, he admitted that he averaged $10 a day profit. But he's in the jail-house now for a long, long time and his days of profit were short.

A film scout I know has an answer for the repeated failures of singers to make good in motion pictures. Singing, he says, is no more like acting than building bridges. Why should an engineer be worth a tinker's you-know-what, all well, writing essays?

"Then why are you always looking for some new Garbo of the singing world?"

"That an idea," he said, "wouldn't it be wonderful to reverse the order and discover a film Garbo that would go great in opera? I'll tell you one thing, if Mary Eastman doesn't do all right for herself in the movies, may I never discover another person of talent. She's small, she's sweet, and she can sing!"

"I don't know who Mary Eastman is," I told him, "but there's a girl on the Saturday Night Serenade hour that I could listen to all day Sunday. She's wonderful."

"That's the girl I'm talking about. That's Mary!" He seemed as pleased as an Okie with a fresh roasted shooat.

I don't know whether Miss Eastman can act or not, but if you close your eyes, acting isn't necessary. The voice is enough.

Shake hands with Marty Primer, who has been running a news stand for 26 years. He is just 38 now. He left the job only once, to become a cab driver. That was when the cab strikes were on and you rode for nothing, just tipping the driver. Regulations now have cut those price-slashing duels out.

Marty has a wife and a boy three years old and a couple of berries in the bank. One of his regular customers is Walter Chrysler Jr. Another is Tallulah Bankhead. He delivers $5 worth of papers and magazines to her apartment every week. What does Miss Bankhead like to read? Well, surprisingly, editorials. Says it gives her something to argue about!

family complaint himself. Happily for my thesis he was induced to call in the professionals, and the old-fashioned Dempsey family stomach ache turned into an acute appendicitis.

Oh! Glorious hero of the canvas ring, whom I have seen knock right on their knoks many a gent whom I would not like to meet on a dark night, or even a light night, now at last that brain of yours has created a phrase that will ring down the corridors of hygiene forever!

Idea Deadly to Many "The old-fashioned family stomach ache" is the phrase used to shrug off any discomfort that may exist between the edge of the ribs and the rim of the pelvis. The idea prevails that a stomach ache doesn't amount to much; anybody knows the cause, and anybody can treat it. And that idea is deadly dangerous and the cause of many deaths annually.

There may be, admittedly, many kinds of stomach ache. But the stomach ache that comes up suddenly out of a clear abdomen and keeps getting worse for 12 or 24 hours is serious. If accompanied by diarrhoea and if the "ache" is a series of cramps of the intestines, it probably is an "old-fashioned," caused by something you ate. But if not accompanied by diarrhoea it is much more likely to be appendicitis than anything simple.

Appendicitis Treacherous Anyway, the diagnosis and treatment of acute belly ache is something for the very most skillful professional advice. Appendicitis is one of the most treacherous diseases.

I saw a man the other day who, right after Dempsey's experience had been spread all over the newspapers, where he could read it for days, nursed what he called "just a sore stomach." It was sore for two days, and then he said it "gave way" and he felt better, only he was still kind of sore. It

Cheaper Electricity Versus Tax Loss Creates Problem

By CHARLES F. STEWART Central Press Columnist

Wendell L. Wilkie, president of the Commonwealth & Southern power interests, has given advocates of the governmentalization of natural monopolies quite a problem to figure on.

One of Commonwealth & Southern's subsidiaries was the Tennessee Electric Power company. Some years ago Uncle Sam's Tennessee Valley authority broke into competition with this latter outfit and began underselling it. "That," said public ownership's apostles, "is illustrative of public ownership's advantages to power - consumers" — meaning, directly or indirectly, nearly everybody.

T. E. P. Sells Out Well, the T. E. P. company couldn't stand the gaff indefinitely. It had a big plant, however, which it proposed to sell to Uncle Samuel, then getting out of business in T. V. A.'s favor. The other day this transaction was consummated. Wilkie complained that T. E. P. wasn't paid enough. Most folk thought he was pretty liberally compensated.

Let that pass, though. The nub is this:

As he scooped in the government's money, Wilkie grouchy remarked:

"In the last decade T. E. P. has forked out more than $25,000,000 in local taxes. T. V. A., being governmental, will be tax-free. In the next decade, where will you get that $25,000,000 in taxes?"

The conclusion seems to be that, while power will be cheaper, other taxation will have to be a darned sight higher.

Possibly there'll be an economic margin in favor of cheaper power versus higher local taxes. Nevertheless, the calculation calls for some figuring. Anyway, they say the Tennessee tax office is worried.

Another Tangled Reckoning

Furthermore, it isn't hard to see why erstwhile American owners of oil claims in Mexico aren't overly satisfied with President Cardenas' plan to compensate them for the southern republic's seizure of their properties on his side of the Rio Grande. I've always had a suspicion that our oil and other capitalists in Mexico have taken undue advantages — that they've unduly (perhaps financially) influenced earlier Mexican governments. Still, their holdings were nominally legal, as per Mexican regulations.

All the same, the Cardenas regime expropriated (governmentally confiscated) these American lands (and other foreign-held) oil lands. Time was when we'd have gone to war about it, but not under our present good neighbor policy. Instead, we've negotiated diplomatically.

President Cardenas inclines to be accommodating. His scheme is to have Mexico extract the oil from the expropriated foreign lands and pay off the foreign ex-owners from the price of the oil that Mexico extracts until they're paid off in full.

In other words, if somebody expropriates a suit of your clothes, he lets you have back the vest; that cancels the obligation.

Changing Thanksgiving Day

To the United States chamber of commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers, President Roosevelt's change of the date of Thanksgiving day implies more than a mere whim. They're sore about it—no fooling.

The U. S. of C. and the N. A. M. are generally anti-Roosevelt undisguisedly.

The National Association of Retailers likes the new deal, in the main.

I don't think that the U. S. C. of C. or the N. A. M. originally would have thought of a Thanksgiving day change as hostile to them, but, as advertised, it's so that they interpret it.

It's ritualized, of course. The little retailers versus comparatively big business! For instance: "What day is 'Ground Hog Day'?"

Surely, it was a mistake to make that issue? Thanksgiving? Christmas? January 1? April Fool! But Thanksgiving Oh, my!

How time flies! Only six more weeks and half of the nation's football coaches will begin "rebuilding for next year."

took all my powers to persuade him he had appendicitis.

The reason he was so hard to convince was that the pain was in the center of the abdomen and he thought it ought to be over the appendix. The pain can be anywhere, even in the back (in retro-caecal appendicitis). The causes of bad results in appendicitis are: first, ignoring the seriousness of the symptoms of belly ache; second, the self-administration of cathartics. I congratulate Mr. Dempsey on not purging himself to death,

Johnny Kraft Leads in Iowa Open; Art Bartlett Scores Ace

DES MOINES, Aug. 23 (AP)—School Teacher Johnny Kraft, the Olweine, Ia., amateur, gave the boys a lesson in the Iowa open golf tournament here today.

Durable Johnny, who specializes in iron shots, fought a treacherous cross wind and tricky greens, to finish the first 18 holes of the meet with a sub-par 71, sufficient for first position among a starting field of 204 players.

Kraft was the only contestant to conquer the Country club's stubborn par 72. He sliced one stroke from par on the first nine as he stroked his way to a 35 and exhibited marvelous control with his irons as he came home with a 36 to post his leading 71 total.

A stroke behind the Denver, Col., school teacher was veteran Art Bartlett of Ottumwa, seven times winner of the Iowa amateur and a two-time open champion. Veteran Art plopped in a hole-in-one on the 156-yard 17th hole as he stroked his way to an even par 72.

Johnny Jacobs, the 18-year-old state amateur champion from Cedar Rapids, and Vic Bass, the little Fairfield professional, were locked in a tie for the third position with 73s, a strategic position for the 36-hole finish tomorrow.

Joe Brown, the dapper Country club professional, who is defending his championship on his own course, and Clarence Yockey, a diminutive shot-maker from Kansas City's professional ranks, were back in the fifth spot with 74s.

Champion Joe was off to a spectacular start, racking up birdies on three of the first five holes, but found trouble where least expected on the rest of the par and finished two over par.

Seven sharpshooters posted 75s. They included bulky Pat Wilcox, Waterloo professional and one of the favorites for the title; Sid Richardson, Creston amateur who twice won the western conference title; Herman Keiser, lanky Springfield, Mo., pro; Leland Gibson, Kansas City, professional and Charles Burkhardt, who teaches at the Kenmore club, Cedar Rapids.

Following Kraft's lead, the amateurs made the professionals like it in the first round. Seventeen of the lads who play only for fun qualified for the final 36 hole battle. All professionals, however, are eligible for tomorrow's competition no matter what their first round score.

Today's round was a delayed start in the thirteenth annual tournament. Heavy rains yesterday forced officials to cancel the scheduled first 18 holes and slice the tournament to a 54-hole encounter.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

- For Future
- Sent South
- Eases Pressure

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—Eddie Mead, his usually florid face changing hues like a colored fountain with each new blast, continued to spout 57 varieties of "We wuz robbed" today as an aftermath of the defeat of his fighter, Henry Armstrong, by Lou Ambers last night.

We may be a little thick, and we don't mean through the chest, but we can't quite follow Mead's reasoning. In other words, to coin a phrase: "What's all the shooting for?"

It appears we have been misjudging fight managers for 10, these many years. They are an altruistic lot, placing truth and fair-dealing above the almighty dollar. Perish the thought there is the shadow of mercenary motive in their words and deeds.

Sure He Would

For instance, here is Mead, facing the alluring prospects of another fat gate for a third Armstrong-Ambers meeting Nov. 1, this time for the welterweight title. Yet he would toss that money to the four winds by having the New York state athletic commission reverse the decision of last night's fight.

The welterweight bout hinged on an Ambers' victory. Had Armstrong won, the bout would have been off, and little Henry would have had no logical opponent in either the lightweight and welterweight ranks, and he and Mead, while not exactly being forced into a bread line, nevertheless would not be ordering new yachts.

But better starvation than dishonor, so Mead sings high, sour notes, which, if heard, would have the same effect as him picking his own pocket.

Fair Enough

Personally, we thought Ambers won the fight, regardless of the epidemic of fouls which cost Armstrong five rounds. That they were fouls is undeniable, and whether they were harmful to Ambers does not enter the question. A rule is a rule, and you can't make exceptions without breaking down the whole system of rules.

If you did, it would be the same as an umpire ruling a ball hit into the left field stands that was foul by a few inches a fair ball because the other team was so far ahead it wouldn't make any difference anyway.

Sincere Enough

However, in Mead's favor it must be said that if he is not sincere in his shouting he is a better actor than Rin Tin Tin. He fairly breathed wrath in the dressing room after the fight. He dripped threats, and even said he would have no part of the welterweight title fight.

Through all this fire and brimstone Mike Jacobs stood unperturbed, thumbing a handful of tickets and probably patting himself on the back mentally for another promotional four-bell show. He merely shrugged when Mead's words were called to his attention, gave that thin, cagey smile and reckoned "Eddie will cool off."

Mead has done all the talking to date. Now it's up to the commission to either act or talk about the weather. Its integrity has been challenged by the big guy who thinks only of the principle of the thing, not the money.

He is Armstrong's manager, but no pal of the commission. In brief, to be punny, one man's Mead is another man's poison.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23 (AP)—The league-leading Cincinnati Reds advanced their margin by a full game today by making hay with the Phillies 3 to 0 while the Brooklyn Dodgers were defeating second-place St. Louis, 8-3.

At the outset, the Phillies kept nibbling at Paul Derringer's baffling stuff, getting at least one safe hit in six of the first seven innings. But that's all it meant. None of the hit-makers could get far enough around to score, although they collected 10 blows in all off Derringer.

Ostermueller Halts Browns With 4 Hits

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 23 (AP)—Fritz Ostermueller, a southpaw, set the St. Louis Browns down with four hits—two of them in the ninth inning—as the Boston Red Sox took the second and final of a short series today by a score of 9 to 1.

The Browns bunched their first two singles and a sacrifice to put over one run in the fourth inning. From then to the ninth Fritz allowed only one man to reach first base.

While the Sox battered three Brownie pitchers for 16 hits, most of the first was in the bats of Jimmy Foxx and Jim Tabor. Each had a perfect day with four for four.

DETROIT, Aug. 23 (AP)—Three Philadelphia batters found the range on Freddy Hutchinson, high-priced Detroit rookie, here today and as a result the Athletics took a 7 to 6 decision in 11 innings to split the two-game series.

Bob Johnson, Dick Siebert and Dario Lodigiani each nicked Hutchinson for a double and a home run, between them accounting for six of the Philadelphia runs. Johnson's homer was his 20th.

Siebert's homer, a single and Lodigiani's double scored two runs for the A's in the 11th. Earl Averill's 10th circuit blow in the Tiger half left the home club still a run short of a tie.

Charlie Gehring hit two home runs, his 11th and 12th of the season, and Rudy York got his 13th, to pace the Detroit attack. Henry Pippen scattered 14 Tiger hits in going the full game for the A's, who nicked Hutchinson for nine safeties.

Hawk Swimmers All-Americans

The medley relay team, fifth in the National Collegiate, is the University of Iowa's sole representative on the 1939 all-American swimming selections.

Iowa's trio of Al Armbruster, George Poulos, and Ray Walters was ranked as the fifth best in the selections listed in the new issue of the intercollegiate swimming guide. Only five places were given in each event although in past years 10 choices were made.

The booklet also carries an article by Coach David Armbruster on the use of underwater windows in pools for taking motion pictures of swimmers' technique.

Clean Sweep

BROOKLYN, Aug. 23 (AP)—The unpredictable Dodgers completed a sweep of their three game series with the St. Louis Cardinals today by taking an 8 to 3 victory behind the steady eight-hit hurling of Lefty Al Hollingsworth.

Turning in his first win since joining the Dodgers, Hollingsworth had a no-hitter for four innings in leading Brooklyn to its fourth straight victory.

The setback just about ended any immediate Cardinal threat on the National league lead.

Moving Fast

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs moved a game nearer second place in the National league today by belting three pitchers for a dozen hits to trounce the Giants 8 to 3 in the odd match of their three-game series.

Paced by Hank Leiber, who collected a double and homer, who sparked a four-run fourth inning rally with a four-bagger, the Cubs drove Harry Gumbert to the showers in the fifth and continued their hitting at the expense of Japh Lynn and Dick Coffman.

So Close

BOSTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—A bounding grounder to deep short that Pep Young beat out robbed Sailor Bill Posedel of a no-hitter today as the Boston Bees captured two games from the floundering Pittsburgh Pirates.

Posedel turned in a one-hit, 1-0 shutout in the opener for his 13th victory of the season, while the veteran Danny MacFayden stymied the Bucs, 3-1, in the second game.

The lone hit off Posedel came when Young led off the fifth inning with a roller that Rabbit Warstler had to fade back to field. The Rabbit came up with the ball cleanly but his whip failed by inches to nip Young, a fairly fast runner.

Yanks Win Two

Maul Chicago 7-2 and 16-4

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP)—Behind steady, effective pitching by Rookie Atley Donald and Veteran Red Ruffing, the New York Yankees paraded to a doubleheader victory over the White Sox today 7 to 2 and 16 to 4 before some 25,000 cash customers.

The champions collected a total of 28 hits, 19 of them in the nightcap, when Joe Gordon smashed a homer with the bases loaded and Joe DiMaggio bashed his 20th four-bagger of the season. Gordon's blow was his 21st.

The double win, achieved over a pair of left-handers, boosted the Yanks' American league lead to eight full games.

Donald, who had tried four times previously for his 13th win of the season, after his record run of 12 in a row had been broken, finally found the combination in the opener. He tossed a one-hitter through the sixth. The Yanks landed on Ed Smith for two runs each in the second, third and fourth frames. White Sox manager Jimmy Dykes was tossed out of this game by the umpires for arguing over a decision.

Red Ruffing posted his 19th victory against four defeats in the nightcap. Although he was tagged for 10 hits, he was never in serious trouble. Every man in the starting lineup except first baseman Babe Dahlgren hit safely at least once. Charley Keller collected four hits, DiMaggio had two singles in addition to his homer.

Newcomers Lead Open

DARIEN, Conn., Aug. 23 (AP)—Elizabeth Hicks, five-foot California miss who has been playing golf for little more than a year, and Charlotte Glutting and Maureen Orcutt, two strapping New Jersey girls who have been top-fighters for several seasons, stole the show today in the 43rd U. S. Women's golf championship.

Among them, they put the three prime favorites on the ropes and thereby boosted themselves into the quarter-finals that will be played at the Wee Burn club tomorrow afternoon.

Miss Hicks matched husky Fay Crocker of Uruguay yard for yard off the tees and beat her on the 20th hole, 1 up. Miss Glutting came on to turn back Pam Barton, the British champion, 1 up, with a birdie on the first extra hole. Miss Orcutt kept on the pressure all the way to defeat the 1937 champion, Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Greensboro, N. C., 3 and 2.

Miss Hicks' victory was the four-star special, for this was only her second national championship, and a year ago she didn't even qualify for match play. After whipping Mrs. William Hokenjos, former metropolitan titleholder, she played the first nine against Miss Crocker in even 4's to be 4 up going to the 10th. Right there Miss Crocker put on a rally which just fell short. All square with Miss Hicks playing for the 18th, she missed an 8-foot putt for the win. And after they halved the 19th in birdie 4's, lost the match

College Women, Mothers Get Preview of Campus Styles for Coming Year

By ANNE MARIE SHEELY
Daily Iowan Society Editor

New fall styles ranging from bustle bows to woolen knee length socks — the clothes the well-dressed college woman will wear this autumn on the campus, in classes, at parties, on dates and for sports — were modeled yesterday afternoon by a group of university women in a "Back-to-School" style show and tea at the Jefferson hotel.

Included in the showing were suits, sweater and skirt combinations, afternoon frocks, evening and dinner dresses sports jackets, coats and evening wraps.

Highlights of the fashionable parade revealed that plaids will again be very popular, that short fur jackets of both the bolero and chubby types will be seen worn over both afternoon and evening dresses, that green is one of the newest and most popular shades, that the bustle influence is evidenced in both afternoon and formal gowns and that knee length woolen socks are a new note for campus and sports wear.

First on the program were the campus and class models. The new "serape" raincoat was modeled in red by Mary Carolyn Kuever and in yellow by Mary Helen Taylor. Reversible raincoats were worn by Helen Ries who modeled an English tweed one and Beth Browning, whose coat had a detachable hood.

The same hood style was carried out in the "butterball" sheepskin jacket which was worn by Jean Leimbach. Miss Leimbach also appeared in a "little boy" or "gob" coat of blue chin-chilla lined with red flannel and worn over a light weight red plaid skirt and blouse with "push-up" sleeves. With it she wore a red snap-brim hat.

Jayne McGovern's "Dutch girl" frock was made with a full green jersey skirt, grey jersey blouse and red belt. Over it she wore a red and green plaid imported coat of fitted reefer type.

Something very new, different and attractive was the sagebrush green two piece chiffon suede dress which Miss Taylor modeled. With it she wore a green snap-brim hat, flat-heeled tan shoes and matching anklet host.

More plaid was worn by Georgene Keller who appeared in a clan plaid skirt and green jersey blouse with a wide belt and high-crowned green hat. Over it she wore a fitted beige camel's hair coat.

The new knee length hose of natural color were worn by Miss Ries with her casual campus ensemble of natural sweater and cranberry colored skirt in soft woolen material.

Jean Strub also modeled a plaid skirt Brooks type slip over sweater of beige. Her red corduroy jacket and plaid lined hood completed her sports ensemble.

A cranberry skirt, natural sweater and plaid "Jacoat" were worn by Miss Kent. This outfit was a Mademoiselle number.

Afternoon frocks and "date" dresses were shown next. Miss Kuever modeled a red and black wool costume suit with black fox fur collar and pocket trim on the red jacket. With it she had black accessories.

A costume necklace highlighted the neckline of Miss Kent's "chuchu" crepe frock, a Vogue dress. A removable fur bolero was the outstanding feature of Miss Kent's coat which was fashioned on fitted lines. The bustle back was used in the frock. Chestnut colored accessories completed her ensemble.

Strictly Formal

Formal evening wear for autumn was modeled at the "Back-to-School" style showing and tea yesterday at the Jefferson hotel. Beth Browning (above) wore a quaint black velvet gown with a small hoop, ruffled net edged sian lamb coat over a light blue velvet fitted dress. White lace trimmed the collar and cuffs of the dress.

Fall Sports

When it's time to attend a Big Ten football game, Jean Strub (above) will probably don the jacket, hood and skirt she is shown wearing. Miss Strub was one of nine university women who appeared in a style showing yesterday at the Jefferson hotel. Local university women and their mothers attended the fashion parade and tea which followed.

A bustle back and side pep- self-belted coat. With it she had bitersweet accessories.

Small wine-colored bows accented the shoulder line of the moonstone blue stitched taffeta gown which Miss Taylor wore. A wide band of the same wine colored velvet edged the bottom of Miss Taylor's skirt. Her evening wrap was of the same wine velvet.

Fuchsia and purple taffeta was combined in the gown Miss McGovern wore. It was highlighted by a bustle bow. Over it she wore a chubby jacket of silver fox fur.

Elbow length sleeves, a white lace collar and a low bustle bow were combined in the black velvet dinner dress which Miss Ries wore under her black velvet evening cape.

A novel number in dinner dresses was Miss Kent's plaid wool skirted gown. It was made with a red wool jersey blouse with a gathered neckline and a wide belt with a large buckle. Her wrap was a black velvet fingertip length jacket.

The military note was struck in Miss Strub's black wool coat with gold applique. Under it she wore a fuchsia taffeta formal with red and blue applique flowers.

A hood and ermine trim were features of Miss Leimbach's black velvet wrap. Her white satin evening gown was made with the rolled neckline and small shoulder straps.

All the dresses, coats, shoes and accessories worn by the models were furnished by Strub's department store.

The committee in charge of arrangements included Miss Ries, chairman; Miss McGovern, Miss Kuever, Miss Browning, Miss Kent, and Miss Strub.

After the showing tea was served to the guests by Jean Livingston, Dorothy Welt, Florence Rohrbacher and Bonnie Bates.

Sidney C. Howard Dead After Mishap

Famed Author Crushed Under Tractor Wheel

Was Pulitzer Prize Winner, Playwright For Stage, Screen

TYRINGHAM, Mass., Aug. 23 (AP) — Crushed under the wheels of a tractor with which he was tinkering, Sidney Cole Howard, leading American playwright and Pulitzer prize winner, died today on his summer estate.

The 48-year-old writer had left the tractor in gear as he cranked the motor, and it started up so suddenly he could not scramble out of its path. An ambulance was summoned from Pittsfield, but he was dead before it arrived.

Howard was an outstanding as an adapter of literature. Sidney Howard came to the stage and screen, as well as creator of original plays. His first play was "Swords," produced in 1921 and starring Clare Jenness Eames, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Won Pulitzer Prize A year later he married Miss Eames, and in 1925 his serious play "They Knew What They Wanted" won the Pulitzer prize. Critics at that time hailed the play as an indication American playwrights had outgrown a "self-conscious" stage. The play was, they said, neither arty nor high-brow.

His first wife died in 1930, and in 1931 he married the daughter of Walter Damrosch, New York conductor and music educator.

One of Howard's most recent successes was "The Ghost of Yankee Doodle," a play he wrote for Ethel Barrymore.

The rather thin, high-shouldered playwright was engaged in recent years in screen adaptations but was quoted recently as saying "I don't like Hollywood — you become part of a manufacturing process."

New Play Scheduled Howard, who was one of the founders of the Playwrights company, had been spending much time in New York of late preparing for opening this fall of his play "Madam, Will You Walk?"

Howard's son Sidney and Mrs. Howard were at the farm home when the accident occurred. The playwright had bought the 460-acre estate in 1935 and rebuilt a 1790 shaker meeting house into a home.

He was born in Oakland, Cal., June 26, 1891, and was graduated from the University of California in 1915. He did special dramatic work under George Pierce Baker at Harvard's "47 Workshop" and

Decorator Brings Bedroom 'Wrinkle' Into Prominence

The personality dressing table is the latest decorative wrinkle for smart bedrooms. Evolved by a clever New York decorator, the idea is one that can be adopted by any woman at little expense. The idea is to make your dressing table as expressive of your own individuality as possible. If you are the tailored type, then your dressing table should be streamlined and draped with restraint. The new striped chintzes and linens are a wise choice for this type of dressing table. Use a plate glass mirror top in a shade of the new colored glass to match the stripes in your chintz. Keep the mirror over your dressing table either unframed or in a modern frame that foregoes chi-chi.

But if you are the very feminine type indulge in all the ruffles and decorative frou-frou you desire. One of the new frames ornamented with bas-relief flowers would be charming. Eyelet embroidery, wide ribbon bows and three or four tiered skirts are all in good taste for this type of table.

Junior Drum and Bugle Groups Meet at Shrader Field Sept. 7

Exhibition To Include Over 400 Musicians

'Battle of Champions' To Bring Together Seven Junior Teams

Over 400 young musicians will be in Iowa City the evening of Thursday, Sept. 7 to take part in the second annual "Battle of Champions" drum and bugle corps and band exhibition.

The event will be held at Shrader field beginning at 8 p.m. and will provide about two and one-half hours of entertainment by Iowa's finest drum corps and bands.

The Iowa City Grenadiers drum corps will be hosts to the six other visiting organizations as the third in a series of round robin tournaments among the seven drum corps participating.

Other organizations which will participate in the event are given here in their respective classes.

Class A
Sons of Legionnaires drum corps from Des Moines, national champions in 1933, 1934, 1937 and 1938.

Newton V.F.W. drum corps, national champions in 1936 and state champions in 1935, 1936 and 1937.

Chariton band, national champions at the American Legion national convention in 1936 and the Iowa state official American Legion band.

Cedar Rapids Musketeers drum corps, state champions in 1933, 1934 and 1937, Chicagoland Music festival champions in 1934.

Class B
Boone Spanish Musketeers, all-girl drum corps.

Cedar Rapids Cavaliers drum corps, all-girl group in competition for the first time this year.

Iowa City Grenadiers drum corps.

Class A organizations are those that have been organized for four years or more and class B those that have been organized less than four years, officials explained.

Other contests in the round robin tournament have been at Cedar Rapids July 26 and at Chariton Aug. 15. Others will be at Des Moines Sept. 13, at Boone Sept. 21 and at Newton, the date of which has not yet been set.

The Iowa City Grenadiers group now has 56 members and is led by Drum-Major Bob Roth. A recently added feature of the corps is the four-girl color guard — two flag bearers and two rifle guards.

The corps is directed by Jack Fromm who directs all other groups participating except the Chariton band.

Ray Kaufman is manager of the Iowa City Grenadiers and Dave Thomas is chairman of the "Battle of Champions" contest in Iowa City.

Originally it was planned to have the bands parade through downtown Iowa City preceding the contest at Shrader field, but since some organizations will be unable to arrive until shortly before the meet, each group will parade by itself upon arrival if there is time, Mr. Kaufman announced.

Each corps and band will be allotted 15 minutes on the field and will be judged on five points by six judges. There will be a judge for inspection, two field judges for marching ability, a judge for cadence, for bugle playing and for drumming. In addition there will be two timekeepers.

Judges' decisions will be announced after the last competitive event and preceding the massed group exhibition. This massed playing will include all organizations entered in the meet. They will line up on the field and will be directed in several selections by Mr. Fromm.

Heat Comes After Cold

Mercury Soars, But Tuesday Night Saw Chilly Weather

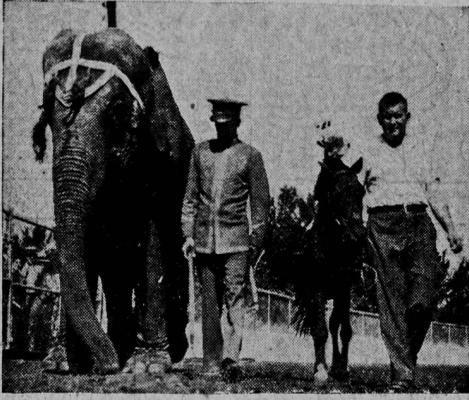

Iowa City temperatures climbed higher yesterday but Tuesday night saw a low which approached frost level—maybe not quite, but within 14 degrees of it.

The low mark for the day was 49, 11 degrees below the normal low of 60 and really quite chilly for mid-August when some of the hottest weather of the year is traditional.

The high for the day was 79, still below the normal high of 84, but warmer than has been customary for several days.

No precipitation was recorded for the 24-hour period ending at 7 o'clock last night.

Children's Day at Fair Tomorrow

Thirty thousand boys and girls are expected to be free guests of the Iowa State Fair in Des Moines tomorrow at the fair's annual children's party and entertainment for youngsters under 15 years of age, according to final plans announced yesterday. The plans include a special program in front of the grandstand in the morning featuring rodeo acts, circus acts, band music and the annual birthday party for "Mine," Iowa boys' and girls' own baby elephant. Above is shown "Mine" with her trainer and the performing pony which is her constant companion.

Iowa City Schools To Open Monday, Sept. 11 This Year

U-High Opens Later; Parochial Schools After Labor Day

Iowa City senior and junior high schools and the grade schools, Horace Mann, Henry Sabin, Longfellow, Lincoln, Roosevelt and Kirkwood, will open their doors to pupils Sept. 11, the Monday following Labor day, Supt. Iver A. Opstad announced yesterday.

University high school registration will take place the week of Sept. 11 and the school will officially open Sept. 18, Principal M. W. Stout has announced. Classes in University Elementary school will begin Sept. 25.

St. Patrick's parochial school will open two days after Labor day, Sept. 6 and St. Mary's will resume classwork the day after Labor day, Sept. 5.

Redecoration work has been carried on in all schoolrooms and school buildings in Iowa City and, of course, students enrolling in Iowa City senior high school will be greeted by a new and very elaborate building which includes all modern improvements a school can provide from a complete air-ventilating system to a two-way loud speaker system to every room.

A formal opening for the new building will be held soon after school opens, it has been announced.

And A Riot Began—'Primitive' Art Turns Missouri Fair Into Uproar

SEDALIA, Mo., Aug. 23 (AP)—A college professor gave first prize in the state fair art show to a Negro woman's "Primitive" and started the biggest row in Missouri art circles since Thomas Hart Benton painted the murals at the state capitol.

The prize went to "Farm Life" by Mrs. Percy Lewis, who painted on muslin because she had no canvas and used big dabs of aluminum shellac as well as oils.

Carefully trained Kansas City and St. Louis artists who lost out to Mrs. Lewis grumbled that her work was "primitive art."

"Exactly," replied Austin Faricy, professor of esthetics at Stephens college for women, Columbia, Mo. "It is the finest piece of primitive art I have ever seen."

Then, as he took his leave: "If any riots start, you know where to find me."

Faricy's fear of a riot was almost borne out when visitors were admitted to the gallery. The crowds gathered in front of Mrs. Lewis' picture. And how they did argue! The museum is doing the best business at the fair.

One of Tom Benton's students, Robert Graham of Kansas City, won second with a picture of a reclining nude. The visitors said it was "a sensation, but not enough of a sensation."

Benton was sketching "some-where in the Ozarks" and could not be reached for his opinion. Mrs. Lewis couldn't be reached either. She has no telephone.

Wife of a veterinarian, she lives in a battered farm-house on a country lane near Marshall, Mo. The lack of perspective of her picture is startling. Cats and dogs roaming the barnyard are all the same size. It appears she painted

Local Farm Bureau Women's Chorus Will Compete at State Fair Friday

Forty Johnson county women, members of the Johnson county farm bureau women's chorus, will compete at the Iowa State fair in Des Moines Friday. The group will compete with 12 other similar choruses.

The local group will sing four times Friday and will also present a radio broadcast over station KSO at 2 p.m.

During the tournament at the fair, two choruses will sing daily and will be judged by Rosalind Cook of the Iowa State college music department.

The Johnson county chorus won first place in a district meet at Cedar Rapids several weeks ago entitling them to compete at the fair. Mrs. M. M. Crayne is director of the organization and Mrs. M. F. Sullivan is chairman of the chorus. Accompanist for the group is Mrs. Maude Whedon Smith.

'Lucky Strike' Wins Second Honor; Entered at State Fair

"Lucky Strike," 16-month-old Angus steer and winner of two grand championships within the past two weeks, has been entered in the Iowa State fair competition seeking similar honors there.

The prize-winning animal is owned by Howard Yoder, brother of Cleo Yoder who showed the grand champion steer at the International Livestock exposition in Chicago in 1935. Yoder's steer was selected as grand champion at the 11th annual Johnson county 4-H club show here last week and was also named grand champion of all classes at the West Liberty fair.

"Lucky Strike" weighs about 900 pounds and is a calf from a purebred Angus heifer shown by Cleo Yoder at the state fair in 1934.

Delay Hearing On Petition

The hearing originally set for today on a petition for a writ of mandamus filed in district court by Atty. Ingalls Swisher and naming the mayor, city council and city as defendants has been postponed until Atty. Will J. Hayek returns from the national guard encampment at Camp Dodge.

Attorney Hayek was appointed by the council to help represent the city in district court when the petition came up for hearing. The petition, filed Aug. 12, seeks action by the city council on a letter submitted to the council June 19, 1939, according to the petition, asking permission to move the "Airport Lunch" building from its present location on the airport parking grounds.

Atty. William R. Hart represents Attorney Swisher in the hearing.

Lochner--

Everyone's lips as they met today on the streets, in restaurants or in society:

1. Will the fuhrer strike on Friday, as it has generally been assumed by Germans in all walks of life as well as those in the foreign colonies of Berlin?

2. Might he even decide to press the button for a showdown with Poland tonight, in the hope of completing his coup before the British parliament can get together tomorrow?

Will he succeed in persuading the Poles that their position is hopeless, thereby ensuring another bloodless conquest for himself?

Those who still believe Hitler would have his way without bloodshed pointed to assurances attributed to the British prime minister that he was doing his utmost to persuade the Poles to negotiate.

They also pointed to rumors current in financial circles that Mussolini was pressing upon Poland to meet the German demands.

That the British and the French take a serious view of the situation was attested by the fact that all except five British and one French correspondent have left the capital.

Besides these newsmen, only the embassy and consular staffs are still in Berlin; all other French and British citizens have departed.

The German government, too, has a more serious view.

The anti-aircraft guns on public buildings, for instance, which peeped forth so conspicuously during the September crisis, were again in place in the capital.

Advices from various reliable sources indicated that since yesterday, from the high Tatra mountains to the Baltic, the German armed forces along the Polish corridor have been placed in a state of "highest readiness."

Troops Called
At Cologne, reservists generally and soldiers on leave, were being called from homes, theaters and cafes or wherever they could be found.

Automobiles, motorcycles and trucks were being commandeered. Gasoline has become more

Entry Marks Already Broken In State Fair Departments

Annual Event Will Be Formally Open To Public Today

The Iowa State fair will formally open its gates to the public today with entry records already broken in several departments, the largest entertainment program in its history, and prospects for a new attendance record if favorable weather holds.

So many events have been crowded into this year's actual program that the fair is actually opening one day earlier than usual, with first judging of livestock classes in progress today, and the annual state fair rodeo opening tonight.

Here are some of the highlights among the 200 acres of educational features, as the fair opens today: nearly $2,000,000 worth of livestock in the national stock show, hundreds of exhibits of farm produce, a statewide hybrid corn show, a women's exposition occupying two buildings, a fish and game exhibit, Iowa art salon, international photographic art salon, state flower and garden show, honey and bee show, auto show, 40-acre farm machinery show, state 4-H club congress with nearly 3,000 farm youngsters competing for state championships.

Among the entertainment headliners scheduled for the eight days and nine nights are nationally known dance bands to play for nightly dances on the plaza including Paul Whiteman, Don Bestor, Abe Lyman, and Cliff Williams, three days of national circuit auto races, three days of horse races, two afternoons of "thrill" events, three nights of the seventh annual state fair rodeo, six nights of the musical extravaganza "Show of a Century," world's fair fireworks every night, a 20-act circus each afternoon and evening and a 10-acre midway.

Fair officials announced yesterday that tomorrow will be children's day, with all boys and girls under 15 admitted free and guests at a stamitee children's party in the grandstand starting at 9 a.m.

Jury Asks Smashing Of Turf Network

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP)—A special federal grand jury urged congress and the states today to smash by legislation M. L. Annenberg's international turf news network on the ground that it nurtures illegal gambling.

Although the jury held that Annenberg's interests have enjoyed a monopoly on racing news since Jan. 2, 1935, it did not indict him on anti-trust charges, holding the laws were not intended "to apply to activities which by their very nature are illegal."

Instead it reported a presentment recommending dissolution of the alleged monopoly and indicted the wealthy Philadelphia publisher and three others on charges of conspiracy to bribe a witness who appeared before the jury. They were accused of conspiring to pay $100 to a Philadelphia detective to influence his testimony.

Annenberg, indicted for the third time by federal grand juries in 12 days, issued a statement terming the presentment "simply one more step in the plan to besmirch me." He contended witnesses before the grand jury included "anybody and everybody whom the government agents believed... would be willing to make wild charges against me."
