BRITISH STUDY ADOLF HITLER'S LATEST MESSAGE

Pres. Roosevelt Blames U.S. Senate for Aggravating Europe's Current Crisis

F. D. R. Lashes Senate Failure To Enact Law

Nation Takes Steps To Reinforce Panama Canal Zone

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—In emphatic tones, President Roosevelt told newspapermen today that the senate's failure to enact his neutrality legislation at the last session of congress was a factor contributing to the gravity of the European crisis.

At the same time, he asserted that the purpose of holding and searching the German luxury liner, the Bremen, was to make certain she could not be equipped at sea for offensive war purposes. The United States, he said, would be liable to claims for damage inflicted if that happened. He added that the same treatment would be given the merchant ships of all the potential European belligerents.

Abundant Dispatches

Dispatches on developments in the European situation poured across the desk of the president and other high officials during the day. In fact, Secretary Hull confessed to newsmen that they had become so voluminous he found it difficult to keep pace with them. Many officials expressed satisfaction that, at least, European diplomacy was keeping the dispute in the talking stage.

In the meantime, two steps of a military nature were announced by this government, both having to do with the defense of the Panama canal. In some quarters it was explained that should war come supporters of one side might conceivably seek to damage the canal to handicap the movements of the other side's merchant shipping. The purpose was to safeguard the big ditch from harm from any quarter.

Manpower Increased

So, it was announced that military guards would be placed on board all vessels passing through the canal and that the military personnel in the canal zone would be increased by 272 officers and 7,360 enlisted men. Troops will begin moving toward the canal zone next month, it was said.

Mr. Roosevelt's neutrality legislation was intended to repeal the present embargo on the shipment of war supplies to belligerents, thus opening American markets to (See F. D. R., Page 6)

Screwball? Maybe Not!

American Farmer Would Purchase Danzig for Hitler

NEW ROADS, La., Aug. 29 (AP)—A retired naval commander, turned sugar planter, today came forward with a plan and $5,000 to start a contribution to buy the Polish Corridor and Danzig as a gift for Chancellor Hitler and thereby avert war.

"This offer may sound screwball," Lieutenant Commander Alan R. Wurtele, U.S.N. retired, said, "but it isn't half as screwball as a general European war into which the United States would be dragged."

Wurtele, who also owns a factory in Minneapolis, Minn., instructed his bank there, the Northwestern National Bank and Trust company, to turn over $5,000 to "any responsible organization" formed to buy the Corridor and Danzig.

"In America this land, poor and capable of growing a little hay and some Irish potatoes, would be worth about $10 an acre," he told his bank. "It is estimated the land could be bought for not much in excess of $70,000,000."

"Apparently the world is about to spend 5,000,000 human lives and $100,000,000,000 towards chaos and complete breakdown of all democratic government over this insignificant piece of dirt."

Wurtele held that if war comes the United States will be called upon to contribute millions to relieve suffering and starvation and rebuild ruined European cities, and the fund he proposes would be good investment insurance against that.

No Compromise For Britain

LONDON, Aug. 30 (Wednesday) (AP)—Former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden declared in a broadcast to the United States early today that "the British people could not accept a compromise solution" of the present crisis "which merely postponed until six months hence another world crisis of a similar character."

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—The naturalization offices reported here today the war crisis had brought an unprecedented rush of aliens seeking American citizenship.

Peace Reached In Ottumwa's Morrell Strike

Workers To Return To Work Today After 5-Day Walkout

OTTUMWA, Aug. 29 (AP)—Officials of the Morrell Packing company plant and CIO union leaders late today reached an agreement ending a 5-day walkout that crippled the packing firm's operations here.

The men will return to work tomorrow, the announcement stated. The plant employs approximately 2,600 workers.

The agreement, signed by federal labor conciliator William Houston as well as officials on both sides, reportedly provides:

That the four workers whose discharge or suspension caused the original walkout be continued on the suspended list until Sept. 18. That the union and company agree to settle future problems by conferences of a grievance committee with company officials. That falling, both sides agree jointly to call in a federal labor conciliator. If he declares negotiations have broken down, either side then may take whatever action it sees fit.

Captured Bartender Wouldn't Blow Foam Off

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 29 (AP)—The federal bureau of investigation reported today the arrest of a man accused of shooting a Miami bartender who refused to blow the foam from a glass of beer.

William S. Devereaux, FBI agent, said John Allen Peterson, 32-year-old bookmaker, had been seized in Chicago on federal charges of unlawful flight and would be returned here for prosecution on a state charge of assault with intent to murder.

The victim, Sidney Solloway, was shot Jan. 27. The bullet lodged in his brain and he is still alive although surgeons have been unable to remove the slug.

Neutrals—

BERLIN, Aug. 29 (AP)—Germany today assured Denmark and Lithuania that in the event of a European war the reich would respect their neutrality.

DELIVERIES Pickets Fail To Stop Capital Store

DES MOINES, Aug. 29 (AP)—City deliveries from the Younger Brothers department store were resumed today, store officials said, in spite of the picket lines thrown around the store by striking AF of L building service union workers.

The deliveries will be made in the company's trucks, the officials said. Union truck drivers have consistently refused to cross the picket lines established Aug. 2 when some of the workers struck after failing to obtain a closed shop clause in a new contract.

Foreign Ships Held In N. Y.

Port Collector Orders German, British, French Boats Searched

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—The collector of the port of New York tonight ordered the German liner Bremen, the Normandie of the French line and the British Aquitania and Transylvania to remain at their Hudson river piers pending a search by customs officers satisfactory to me.

The big German ship already had been subjected to a day-long search and held many hours beyond her scheduled 5 a. m. (CST) sailing time — a detention which a North German Lloyd line official said had prompted the German embassy in Washington to protest to the state department.

(In Washington, however, the state department several hours later said it had not received such a protest.)

Collector Harry Durning's order followed by a few hours the statement of President Roosevelt at a press conference that the Bremen was being held to make certain she could not be equipped at sea for offense purposes. The same treatment, the president said, would be given the merchant ships of all potential European belligerents.

Durning said the search of the Bremen will start at first in the morning and that the other ships will be searched simultaneously. Delay in the sailing of the Normandie, scheduled to leave at 8 a. m., and the Aquitania, due to leave at 10 a. m., was likely. The Transylvania was scheduled to leave at 3 p. m.

'Everything To Gain by Talks' —German View

Louis P. Lochner Discusses Newest Berlin Developments

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
BERLIN, Aug. 29 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's answer to the British formula to prevent war over Poland was handed to British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson in the reich's chancellery tonight.

The ambassador, who brought the British proposals from London yesterday, remained with Hitler 25 minutes.

It was reported in informed quarters that, in addition to handing over the German note which the fuhrer and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop drafted carefully today, Hitler explained Germany's attitude orally at some length.

Official Secret

What the German reply was to British proposals remained a profound official secret, but hints from informed quarters and the more optimistic attitude of everyone in the German chancellery and foreign office indicated that the way was open for further negotiation.

It was reliably reported that the British communication was, from the German point of view, "conciliatory and far reaching," and that the German view now was that the reich had everything to gain by continuing the discussions.

Henderson left the chancellery, presumably to make an immediate report to London.

Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain earlier in the day had been given Hitler's general and informally stated views in a note which the fuhrer dispatched to London by plane before the final draft of the reich's reply had been formulated.

Immediately after seeing Henderson tonight Hitler called for the Italian ambassador to Germany, Bernardo Attolico, who remained in the chancellery 15 minutes.

It was presumed that the fuhrer's axis partner, Benito Mussolini, was being informed of each step of the negotiations.

Von Ribbentrop, Undersecretary of State Friedrich Wilhelm Gaus, and other advisers of the fuhrer were closeted with Hitler from (See LOCHNER, Page 6)

INTERCEPTION Admiralty Orders To Ships Heard

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—The New York Herald Tribune tonight intercepted British admiralty orders instructing all British merchant vessels to proceed to British ports and leave Italian, German and other waters.

The broadcast advised ships bound into the Mediterranean from the Atlantic to call at Gibraltar and await orders and for ships in or bound for the Red sea to proceed to Suez or Aden.

Ships were warned not to visit Italian ports and those in Italy were told to leave.

Mussolini To Be Mediator?

Rome Diplomatic Circles Hint Duce May Be Conciliator

ROME, Aug. 29 (AP)—A British effort to influence Adolf Hitler further toward a peaceful settlement of the European crisis through the good offices of Premier Mussolini was reported in diplomatic circles tonight.

Sir Percy Loraine, British ambassador, had a half hour talk with Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano this afternoon. Neither the British nor the Italians would say what was discussed, but both indicated that Mussolini was acting as an active go-between.

It was believed that Sir Percy had suggested that the Italian premier, since he openly shares a desire to avert war, use his power of persuasion on Hitler to provide London with an acceptable reply to the British government's proposals.

While Hitler's reply was being drafted, according to all indications, with the moderating advice of Il Duce, Italian preparations for possible war went ahead.

The first appeal for Italians to move out of big cities appeared as an air raid precaution and to facilitate food distribution in the event of a conflict.

Food control, without rationing such as that in Germany, was begun in Libya, the Italian territory in north Africa which adjoins French-controlled Tunisia.

Cabinet Meeting Called Today; Further Negotiations Probable

Pilot, Mother Killed When Plane Crashes

CORYDON, Ind., Aug. 29 (AP)—An Illinois airplane pilot and his mother were killed today when their ship crashed into state road 111 south of here and burned.

The pilot was identified by a license in the plane as Jack Ramsey, 30, Granite City, Ill. He and his mother, Mrs. Ollie Ramsey, 58, were en route to Shepherdsville, Ky., to attend a Pentecostal camp meeting.

Their plane, a four-cylinder cabin ship, made a forced landing in a stubble field a half-mile north of Laconia (Harrison county) to obtain gasoline.

As the plane attempted to make a take-off after refueling, it was unable to gain altitude and struck low-hanging telephone wires and crashed into the highway.

France Accepts Belgian Offer To Mediate

PARIS, Aug. 29 (AP)—France tonight accepted an offer from King Leopold III of the Belgians to mediate the European crisis jointly with Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands.

However, little hope was held for the mediation offer, which would need Adolf Hitler's assent, and French officials said Europe's critical situation was "simply stationary."

The immediate prospects of peace were understood to hang on Hitler's reply to the British note, delivered tonight to Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson in Berlin. The fact that the German fuhrer answered within 24 hours was seen by the French as keeping the situation about where it was before.

Daladier Weary—

PARIS, Aug. 29 (AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier, showing the strain of days of ceaseless French preparations for possible war, said early today "we will know today where we stand."

Britain's Viewpoint Unchanged; Nation Prepared for Anything

LONDON, Aug. 30 (Wednesday) —The British cabinet was called this morning to study a communication from Adolf Hitler which Prime Minister Chamberlain had indicated might turn the "precarious balance" between peace and war.

The fuhrer's answer to a statement of the British position, described by the prime minister as not moving "a jot" from support of Poland, was received here last night amid much activity at No. 10 Downing street.

There, at the prime minister's residence, Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax studied the German reply until early this morning.

Then leaving the foreign office about 2:30 a. m. (8:30 p. m., EST Tuesday), Halifax announced a cabinet meeting had been called for later in the morning. He did not give the hour.

There was no immediate comment on Hitler's message.

Hitler To Decide

The prime minister yesterday told the house of commons the issue of peace or war was still undecided, and that upon Hitler's answer "depends whether further time will be given to the exploration of the situation and for the operation of many forces which are working for peace."

Informed sources in Berlin said the fuhrer's message did not close the door to negotiation.

Among the officials who called at Chamberlain's residence while Lord Halifax and the prime minister scrutinized the reply was Sir Horace Wilson, one of Chamberlain's "brain trusters," who figured in last September's crisis negotiations with Hitler.

Chamberlain and his foreign minister were in conference an hour and 40 minutes.

From shortly before midnight until Halifax left Chamberlain's home at 10 Downing street about 1 a. m. (6 p. m. CST) officials were crossing and recrossing the street between the residence and the foreign office carrying papers and documents.

During the period, Sir Robert Vansittart, diplomatic adviser to the government, hurried to the foreign office and remained for a brief time.

At No. 10 also were R. A. Butler, under-secretary of foreign affairs, and Sir Alexander Cadogan, under-secretary of state.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in determined tones told a cheering house of commons today that Great Britain is "ready for any eventuality"—war in defense of Poland if need be or peaceful negotiation of the German-Polish quarrel if Adolf Hitler agrees.

Britain Firm

Britain's determination to fight at the side of Poland in event of aggression stands firm, the 70-year-old prime minister reiterated, and the issue is squarely up to the German fuhrer.

"The issue of war or peace is still undecided," he said. "We still hope and will work for peace, but we will not abate any jot of our resolution to hold fast to the lines which we have laid down for ourselves."

Frontier tension must be diminished, he said, as "the first prerequisite" for peaceful negotiation of the quarrel arising out of Germany's demands for Danzig, the Polish corridor to the Baltic sea and other concessions from Poland.

Chamberlain disclosed but little of the diplomatic exchanges that have been flying back and forth between London and Berlin because of the "extreme delicacy" of the situation in which grave issues "hang precariously in the balance." He said:

Awaits Hitler's Decision
"At this moment the position is that we are waiting for the reply (See BRITAIN, Page 6)

Poland Cheers Reaffirmation of Great Britain's Stand

Denies Rumor Of General Mobilization

WARSAW, Aug. 29 (AP)—Poles tonight received with enthusiasm the address of Prime Minister Chamberlain again affirming British determination to stand by pledges to Poland.

"Once more we have proof that Britain, like Poland and France, is ready to settle all disputes peacefully, but that all these states are firmly decided to remove the danger of future acquisitions," a foreign office spokesman declared.

Reports had spread that general mobilization was likely, but responsible Polish officials late tonight denied such action was contemplated.

Official circles took a "very serious view" of the concentration of German troops in Slovakia, however.

This concentration, it was stated, has greatly increased prevailing tension.

Poland it was said in official circles has always had friendly feelings toward Slovakia, but has now warned the Slovak nation (See POLAND, Page 6)

Iowa Robber Identified By Des Moines Men

DES MOINES, Aug. 29 (AP)—Chief of Detectives Jack A. Brophy announced today John Edward Dwyer Jr., 23, under prison sentence in Minneapolis, Minn., has been identified by two Des Moines holdup victims as the man who robbed them.

Brophy said Dwyer had been identified through pictures by Frank Gard and F. R. Stivers, both of whom were held up by a robber who forced his way into their automobiles a few hours apart on Aug. 21.

Russia Builds New Garrisons

MOSCOW, Aug. 29 (AP)—Tass, official Soviet news agency, tonight announced the Soviet high command had decided to strengthen the garrisons on the Soviet Union's western frontier.

Tension in eastern Europe was given as the reason for the military decision.

S. U. I. Student Named Iowa's 'Redhead' Girl

Margaret Leeper, Iowa's "queen of the redheads," will be a senior student at the University of Iowa this year.

DES MOINES, Aug. 29 (AP)—Miss Margaret Leeper of Waterloo, tonight was chosen "queen of Iowa redheads" before a capacity state fair grandstand crowd.

Climaxing a parade of the 25 district winners in the redhead contest, Susan Hayward, motion picture actress, announced the selection of Miss Leeper and Paul Whitman, orchestra leader, placed the crown on the young woman's head.

Miss Leeper will be given a motion picture screen test before the fair grandstand tomorrow night and later will spend a week in Hollywood as a guest of Miss Hayward.

Johnson Leads In Mississippi Governor Race

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 29 (AP)—Paul B. Johnson, running with the political blessing of Senator Theodore G. Bilbo, today was elected governor of Mississippi on the basis of unofficial returns from nearly three quarters of the state's voting precincts.

Johnson held a majority of 14,000 votes over his rival Martin Sennett (Mike) Conner with returns tabulated from 1194 of the state's 1660 voting precincts.

It seemed certain he would go into office in today's democratic runoff primary by a majority that might touch 25,000 votes.

The democratic nomination here means election.

Conner's defeat was a blow to aspirations of Senator Pat Harrison, who backed him, and Governor Hugh White who also backed Conner and who hoped to have a friendly governor in office when he is expected next year to attempt to unseat Bilbo in the senate.

Bilbo, who advocates a third term for President Roosevelt, announced his support of Johnson.

Former Iowan Confesses To Dancer Slaying

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29 (AP)—The college campus slaying of Anya Sosoyeva, a dancer, as she was on her way last February to appear in a play was believed solved tonight by officers.

U. U. Blalock, deputy district attorney, said a former Waterloo, Ia., printer, DeWitt Clinton Cook, who is 20 and married, has confessed he killed her and that he attacked two other young women, all with a two-by-four inch club.

"I believe he is telling the truth," Blalock added.

"I don't know exactly why I did it — about the ravishing, I mean," Blalock quoted Cook. "It was some kind of uncontrollable impulse. Passion, I guess."

"But robbery was the reason I started out in each case."

Miss Sosoyeva, 24-year-old dancer and dramatic student, was bludgeoned as she walked across the Los Angeles City college campus to the auditorium, where she was to appear in a playlet. She lapsed into unconsciousness after muttering: "A man hit me over the head."

Committee Action Strikes Snag In Fund Collections

DES MOINES, Aug. 29 (AP)—A republican-controlled legislative interim committee today balked at attempting to collect expense money paid two of its members who were ruled off the committee by an attorney general's opinion.

The committee balked when it appeared the question that would be raised might invalidate all acts of last winter's general assembly as well as preceding sessions since the famous "salary grab act" of 1929.

Attorney General Fred Everett held recently that Senator E. P. Donohue (R), of New Hampton and Representative Robert D. Blue (R), of Eagle Grove, could not serve on the interim committee as the result of an error in enrolling a bill in the closing days of the legislature.

Senator M. X. Geske (D), McGreggor, today asked for an attorney general's opinion as to whether Blue and Donohue could continue to hold office as members of the legislature until they had reimbursed the state for this expense money.

Audubon Boy Wins Iowa Health Title

DES MOINES, Aug. 29 (AP)—William H. Boust Jr., 17-year-old Audubon county farm boy, today was named Iowa's 1939 4-H club health champion at the Iowa state fair.

A recent graduate of Audubon high school, the new health champion plans to enter Iowa State college this fall to specialize in forestry.

Bill, a strapping youngster, says he loves to roller skate but has no fondness for dancing.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Boust. He was selected from 53 county champions who came to the fair.

The champion weighs 153 pounds and is five feet, eight inches tall.

The runner-up in the health contest was Keith Kintart, 18, who lives on a farm near Dunlap, in Harrison county. The other two in the top four were Donald Means of Lorimer, in Union county, and John A. Moellers, 18, of Ossian, in Winneshiek county. 4-H club officials said all four boys ranked "very high."

Sanity, Tolerance And Poland

SANITY IS A rare and beautiful faculty these days when applied to the European scene. And, tolerance is the silver fox of human attitudes on the subject. In fact, the tolerant view of contemporary Europe exists only in the potential. Perhaps, literally perhaps, 100 years hence historians may attain a tolerant, if incomplete, interpretation of the crisis of Aug. 1939.

All of which introduces the proposal that injured innocence does not fully benefit Poland in her present role on the Danzig stage. True, Poland justly seeks to preserve her national integrity and existence. True, Hitler's demands go too far and could not be met without leading to further crises and "grabs."

Nevertheless, with a pinch of sanity and a gram of tolerance to season an observer's mind, he cannot help but detect an anomaly in Poland's position, submerged beneath the emphasis on Germany's Janus-faced actions.

Much is said today of Poland's resistance to Hitler's demands for Danzig. Little is said of Poland's demands on helpless Czechoslovakia less than a year ago. Polish troops were once massed on her southern border for another purpose than defense. An ultimatum was sent, too, but from Warsaw, not Berlin, to a defenseless sister state already crushed by a third party. Which seemed then very much like hitting a fellow when he's down.

Poland, in that instance, rather liked the Hitler plan and method. To be sure, only 405 square miles of Czechoslovakia, the Teschen area, was taken by Poland, but it was a forcing of a weaker neighbor regardless of the not too fruitful results.

No one remembers, either, another "grab" in Polish history. It netted 10,422 square miles. The victim—Lithuania, with some 21,000 square miles (1939) to Poland's 149,000, and 2,500,000 people to Poland's 27,000,000.

Such details make interesting ancient history, of course, with no direct effect upon today's crisis. But, if judgements are to be made, or opinions formed, sanity and tolerance must have a place despite concrete actions forced by contemporary conditions. And, sanity plus tolerance will include the Teschen and Lithuanian incidents in their interpretation of the historical Poland.

Iowa's Bridge Tolls

HIGHWAY TOLLS in the New York metropolitan region have become a nuisance of supreme court importance lately. With the likelihood that still another parkway leading into Manhattan is to be toll-taxed, even the most acquiescent Milquetoasts of the highways add their grumbles to the growing roar of complaint.

To which the Iowa motorist is directly related, even if he may not realize it. Through few corn states will ever be obliged to pay highway tolls on the New York or Connecticut parkways, they, too, have a toll ogre to battle.

Of all the bridges over the Mississippi river on Iowa's eastern boundary, only that between Daventry and Rock Island is free. Many of them charge excessive rates, an example being the $1.10 required for a car, driver and three passengers to go from McGregor to Prairie du Chien, Wis. Furthermore, this revenue goes to individuals rather than to the state, for a large number of bridges are privately owned.

Without doubt, such bridges as those at McGregor and Musca-line, for instance, have paid for themselves many times over, yet exorbitant tolls are still collected to cross old, rickety, sometimes unsafe structures.

It is questionable, therefore, whether the practice in New York and Connecticut of charging tolls for highways built with tax funds is any more reprehensible than the practice in Iowa of permitting the owners of private bridges on through state and national highways to impose ridiculously high rates on motorists who have no other means of getting into or out of this state.

Despite the offensive example provided by eastern toll highways, the interstate bridge commissions such as have been set up by New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, might profitably serve as models for Iowa and neighboring states.

At any rate, there is the old saw about people in glass houses, which applies to the Iowa motorist who gloats over the easterner's predicament in regard to objectionable highway tolls.

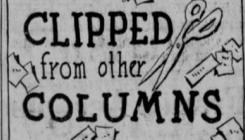

The United States army is engaged in the annual "war games." That's the way to keep it boys—just as a game.

A survey shows 25 per cent of the people don't know they pay taxes. That proves that taxes can be painless.

Havana, Cuba, we read, has more than 30 local radio stations. It must sound just like a revolution.

A writer wants to know what has become of the old-fashioned grandmother. She's still around, but, for heaven's sake, don't let her hear you call her "old-fashioned."

The man at the next desk says that treaties wouldn't need to be torn up if every sentence ended with the word "maybe."

FORCES FOR SALVATION

At the moment when the nations are strengthening their armaments for a use that inevitably involves destruction, there is a rallying of the militant forces of "salvation" throughout the world. This army, which under its constitution has a high council that represents its constituency scattered through seventy-three countries and colonies, has elected a "general" who has promised to use "democratically" whatever powers he has under the constitution.

He has served in many fields, from Australia, where he was born, to London, to Australia again, and to Canada. He succeeds General Evangeline Booth, a world evangel, who more than once has circled the earth and traveled since 1935 more than 200,000 miles in ministry to those who are "down." She recently stated on the occasion of her last visit as active head of the army to the United States that considerable advances had been made in different parts of the world but that the fear of war had been a "tremendous" handicap. She felt convinced that the time would come when international difficulties and political controversies would be settled by other measures than by the "mutilation and destruction of the best thing God has ever made." There is this pertinent word written three months ago which she would no doubt repeat at this anxious moment:

"I have talked with all classes in all parts of the world, from crowned heads to the man in the street, and I believe that the horror of war for any people, under any circumstances, is today the greatest horror known to the human heart. And I believe that, in answer to the prayers that mothers and fathers have offered, and even children, war will be kept away from our nations."

DOG DAYS

There is, after all, such a thing as poetic justice. We know that from reading what was done by James Clegg of Cleveland, Ohio. Two dog wardens came in a truck and seized an unlicensed dog belonging to one of Mr. Clegg's neighbors. Mr. Clegg demanded to see the wardens' driving licenses. They had none. And so Mr. Clegg had them arrested.

THE FOOL'S ARGUMENT!

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By George Tucker

NEW YORK — Home is where you hang your hat if you write for a newspaper in New York, and home tonight is an oak-paneled cellar two flights beneath a great New York hotel. . . . You get down here by way of a narrow, winding staircase — so narrow that it is all you can do to squeeze through, if you are as rotund as my hosts, and so winding that no sober person could wind through without wanting to shake hands as he passed himself on the curves. That's going down, remember — coming back is two other guys.

I came down here because in New York it is very hot, and down here the temperature hangs at an even 68 every day in the year, and because an atmosphere like this is conducive to good fellowship. And also because I am a studious young man on the scholarly side, and I never like to pass up a chance to learn something.

And so tonight I'm learning about bottles and labels, and contents. This is an underground cavern crammed with more than $60,000 worth of spirits. Bonded spirits. . . . Some of it is from France. . . . Some from the Island of Samos, within a prune-pit of the city of Athens, Greece. And some of it is from the bonny, bonny heathered highlands of Scotland.

We are not on the Gold standard, but here is hoarded gold that doesn't have to be declared to the government. . . . I do not mean figurative gold—but the actual metal. . . . It is in fine, minute flakes. . . . It is in bottles of liqueur, heavy, syrupy liqueur, which is expensive, but rich, and the gold doesn't hurt you at all. . . . Gold doesn't rust. Why they put it into the liqueur I am unable to state, but it certainly looks pretty when you shake it.

On two tiers of shelves are 17 varieties of rum. . . . Rum from the sugar cane plantations of the West Indies. . . . Rum from India—actually, rum from India. . . . There are Chinese rice wines, and Spanish Maderas, the Italian table wines. . . . There is brandy—rather, I should say there are brandies. . . . Perhaps 20 varieties of brandy, mostly from France.

My host's name is George, same as mine. But there the similarity ends, because he owns a hotel and a cellar, and I own the shirt on my back.

"Now here is a mighty pretty bottle," intones George, "but I wouldn't touch it if you paid me to touch it." He picked up a triangular-shaped little affair from Russia that contained a concoction brewed from mare's milk. . . . "And this is from Stockholm. . . . It was a Swedish bolt of white lightning. . . . You know, a thing like that can keep up only so long, and then you begin to see two of everything. . . . Now don't get me wrong. Not a cork was pulled. . . . I wouldn't stand for it. . . . I went down there to cool off, but to wreck my health. . . . But afterward I said, "George, let's see if we can find that crooked stairway," and he said, "George, you're looking right at it," and I said, "You got me down here, now you've got to get me out." . . . And so he said, "Okay, but let's have a few of these."

Host George then grabbed off a half dozen small bottles, wrapped them up, and handed them to me. . . . Now as I said awhile ago, don't get me wrong. . . . It wasn't what you think at all. It was carbonated water, with a pretty little hotel seal on the bottle. . . . Many hotels bottle their own water. . . . That's the soda you pay 40 cents a gill for, in case that will make it taste any better the next time you order some. But mine didn't do me any good at all. I went to sleep in the cab on the way home, and the caddy and the bottles drove off without me.

While government spokesmen emphatically don't like the Hitler-Stalin dicker on general principles, a few of them very confidentially do voice a modicum of satisfaction at the fix it has left Japan in. There's been no doubt in Washington at any time that the Japs have intended to make China as disagreeable a place for Americans as they considered the occasion ripe for it. Now, with Russia free to deal with them, it's foreseen that the islanders will be lucky to maintain any foothold at all in continental Asia.

That Stalin will lend all the aid possible to the Chinese is considered a certainty. In short, military men are mostly of the opinion that the Jap cause on the mainland is as good as lost already. If the mikado couldn't lick Chiang Kai-Shek without the Soviets helping him, what chance will he have, critics ask skeptically, to handle a Russo-Chinese combination?

Indeed there are observers who suggest that the Tokyo government may not last much longer.

That is to say if it becomes apparent to everybody in Japan that their mainland forces are definitely beaten, that all their fighting and sacrifices have gone for nothing, won't there be a terrific popular reaction? Inside information is to the effect that there's considerable undercover dissatisfaction among the Japs now.

What Next in China? Some far-seeing commentators are a bit uneasy at the prospect of a formidable Russian entrenchment in China. Having disposed of Japan, if they succeed in doing it, the surmise is that the Soviets immediately will set about communizing all the Chinese. There's a good bit of communistic sentiment among them already.

Pessimists venture the opinion that a Sovietized China might be as bad as having it run by the Japs.

It would be a matter of considerable concern to the United States, too. Most of Russia is rather remote from this country now. A communistic nation right down to the edge of the Pacific, directly opposite our own west coast, would be different.

No Assurance Of Change In Neutrality Law

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—That President Roosevelt ever will get the kind of neutrality legislation he wants is no foregone conclusion.

When congress adjourned, it appeared to be taken for granted by the administration that as soon as the lawmakers reconvened they'd vote the White House the discretion desired by its tenant. Especially was it predicted that Capitol Hill would recognize the desirability of complying with the presidential wish in the event that the European situation developed the tenacity it did develop immediately following the conclusion of the Russo-German pact.

However, the senators and representatives who have been heard from thus far in Washington don't predominantly express themselves as having been converted. If anything, they seem more than ever set upon a policy of unqualified American aloofness from overseas trouble.

Sen. Gerald P. Nye, the author of the present neutrality rule which allows the White House no option whatever, was the first to authorize an interview, standing absolutely pat in favor of 100 per cent isolation on Uncle Sam's part. In fact, he asserts that the recent trend of events across the ocean proves conclusively how imperatively the kind of law he fathered was needed.

Other isolationists apparently are in agreement with him, to judge from dispatches quoting them, in their various home towns throughout the country.

Dependable pro-administrationists of course, will support the president, but the last session of congress revealed the unreliability of the majority party as backers of the executive mansion's recommendations.

It will be a tight squeak anyway.

TUNING IN

with D. Mac Showers

DUKE ELLINGTON, noted band leader, will head the list of guests, while Lowell Thomas, the newscaster, will ask the questions on Dave Elman's "Hobby Lobby" at 6:30 tonight over NBC's Blue network.

Dave Elman, creator and regular conductor of the program, will return to his post the following week after a vacation that was prolonged by an emergency operation for appendicitis.

Among the other guests whom Thomas will interview are Charles Courtney, whose hobby is collecting famous locks; Margaret Goodman, who is a deep sea diver in her spare time, and Harry Lim, visitor from the Dutch East Indies, who edits a Ball swing magazine.

Duke Ellington will tell about his hobby of collecting Negro folk lore, while Courtney will describe his famous lock collection which is valued at $500,000. Included in it are such locks as a 2,100-year-old Egyptian piece, and a lock which Ivan the Terrible of Russia used to lock his wife in a tower when he went away to war.

Margaret Goodman, only woman deep sea diver, will describe some of her experiences under water, while Mr. Lim will tell how the Ball natives are going jitterbug over American swing music.

Harry Salter and his regular "Hobby Lobby" orchestra are on vacation for two weeks, and taking over will be Maestro Mark Warnow, "Hit Parade" conductor who is heard also on Gabriel Heatter's "We, the People."

A BALL PLAYER, . . . a prisoner, an actor and a telephone operator will appear with George Jessel on his "Celebrity Program" over the NBC-Red network at 7:30 tonight.

They are Pepper Martin of the St. Louis Cardinals, Warden Lewis Lawes of Sing Sing, Ezra Stone, star of "The Aldrich Family," and Florence Riley, the girl with the smile who listens in at the American Telephone and Telegraph company's demonstration long distance calls at the world's fair.

She will take part in a sketch with Jessel on the latter's telephone calls to his mother.

STAR DUST Joseph Cotten, male lead in "Career of Alice Blair," got his theatrical start through such an unromantic product as house paint. When he was graduated from a Washington, D. C. drama school he came to New York to be an actor. Much to his surprise, he learned that New York already had more actors than it could use.

In order to live he had to get a job and that job turned out to be selling house paint in Florida. He sold house paint during the boom when everybody was building something and everything built needed painting. Then the boom collapsed and Cotten tried being an advertising salesman on a newspaper. He shifted to reporting, editing and finally right out of newspaper business into organization of the Miami Civic theater.

HEALTH HINTS

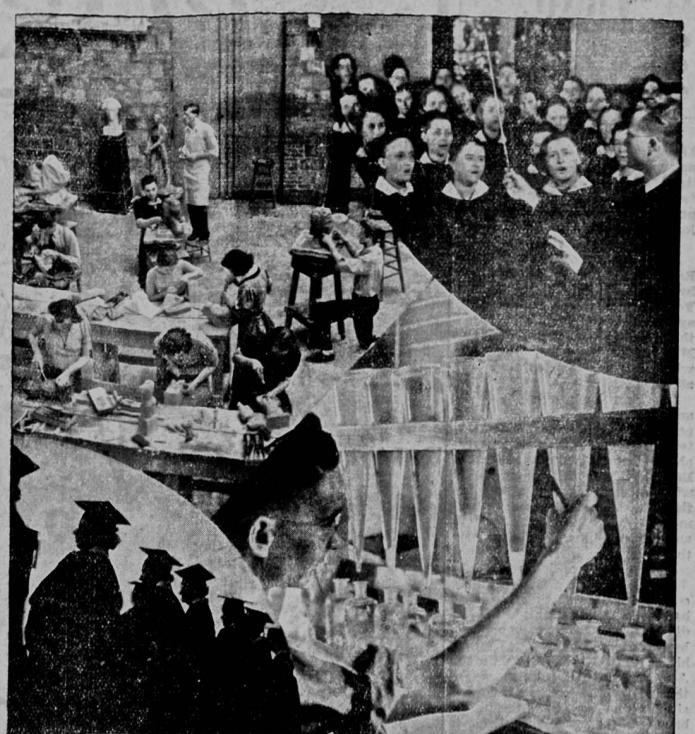

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

We have discussed two diseases that are disappearing — typhoid fever and diphtheria. They are disappearing because we know a method of prevention. It consists, in both cases, in the acceptance, on the part of all parents, of the responsibility of producing active immunity by inoculation. That is, it consists in every individual's making a special and personal effort. It is remarkable that in a comparatively short time the public could be educated and persuaded to adopt this responsibility; remarkable that it has been carried out almost universally. Today we are going to consider a disease that, instead of being on the decrease, is on the increase — smallpox. And the shame and tragedy of it is that it is just the same kind of a disease as the others. It is a disease that can absolutely be prevented and one that can be prevented exactly as diphtheria and typhoid are prevented—by individual inoculation for immunity.

This Photographic Mural Depicts S.U.I. Activities for State Fair Visitors

This large photographic mural, 30 inches high and eight feet long, is the centerpiece of the general university booth at the University of Iowa state fair exhibit on the second floor of the grandstand and educational building at the fair. One booth in the exhibit is devoted to pictorial and model displays of work in the healing arts at the university — medicine, pharmacy, dentistry and nursing — and the other is devoted to displaying the work of the general university — engineering, fine arts, student life and publications. Nearby moving pictures of the university buildings and life on the campus are being shown regularly, with movies of the other four institutions controlled by the Iowa state board of education — Iowa State Teachers college, Iowa

State college at Ames, Vinton school for the blind and school for the deaf at Council Bluffs. On the outside wall of this moving picture studio hang three large murals each nine feet long depicting physical education and athletic training at the University of Iowa. In the above mural as on the Iowa campus, Old Capitol is the centerpiece of a work designed to show both student living, recreation and study. At the lower inside corner of each outside panel are photos representing registration and gradution; the lower outside pictures show recreation and research; the upper outside corner views on the two show social and religious life, and the upper inside corner pictures are typical of student living quarters and classroom work. As can be seen, the mural is designed to picture contrasting phases of student life at the state university. All these photographs were taken by Ruth Weller Nelson, especially for use in the state fair mural. The mural itself is made of greatly enlarged pictures, no painting or drawing having been done. Visitors to the Iowa booth have expressed interest in the display. Many university publications of general interest are being handed out to visitors at the Iowa booth.

Iowa in Review--That's University's State Fair Presentation

Engineering Display Shows Popularity

University Theater, Healing Arts Booth Attract Fair Visitors

By D. MAC SHOWERS Daily Iowan City Editor

DES MOINES, Aug. 29 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—A working model of University theater, a classroom model used in instruction of elementary water flow principles, a factory model and floor plan designed by a senior student in mechanical engineering and the X-ray and foreign bodies display in the healing arts booth — these hold the center of interest at the University of Iowa display booths at the Iowa state fair.

Popular also with fair visitors are the moving pictures shown throughout the day in a specially constructed studio near the university's booths. In this are shown pictures of student life and activities at all schools under the Iowa state board of education.

Films from the university include two news reels of campus activities and classroom work, pictures of the 1939 Governor's day review presented by the military department, pictures of Iowa's Scottish Highlanders in New York, Washington and West Point and pictures of some of Iowa's football encounters of the past year including the marching exhibitions presented between halves.

The entire university display consists of two booths, the motion picture studio and a display on the outside wall of the studio. Pictures of campus work and activities feature all displays.

These pictures include work in the colleges of medicine, dentistry, pharmacy and engineering, the school of fine arts, the school of nursing, various departments in the college of liberal arts and campus social, religious and recreational views.

The university exhibit is situated at the west end on the second floor of the education building under the grandstand. Persons who have visited exhibits of all schools — county, consolidated, parochial and board of education — in Iowa as they pass along the corridor extending the length of the grandstand building, come to the university exhibit last and are immediately attracted by a large display of braces and supports exhibited in the healing arts booth by the orthopedic department of the University hospital.

50 Correctional Features
This collection of models demonstrates about 30 different types of correctional fixtures for both children and adults, displayed on a large rack in the center of the healing arts booth. As visitors leave the orthopedics display, they find the exhibit of lighted X-ray pictures, showing foreign bodies in the lungs and throats of patients, of exceptional interest.

Near this is a large glass case displaying 50 of these same foreign bodies after they were removed from patients.

Other exhibitions which have proved of great interest in the healing arts booth — that installed to display the work of the colleges of medicine, dentistry and pharmacy and the school of nursing — are the cast model displays of tooth correctional work in the college of dentistry, models showing procedure of false tooth construction and models showing tooth filling and repair.

Student Work
The college of pharmacy shows, by means of pictures, the work carried on in the student laboratories, the manufacturing laboratory and the hospital dispensary.

Similarly, the school of nursing illustrates with pictures its instructional program.

As the fair visitor passes from the healing arts booth to the general university booth, the 27-foot panel display of physical education and athletics at the University of Iowa hanging on the outside wall of the motion picture studio catches his eye.

Here, again by pictures, are shown the university field house, stadium, practice fields, recreational facilities including tennis courts and golf course and the women's physical education buildings and classes.

A feature of this panel display is a large picture of the University of Iowa 1938-39 baseball team—Big Ten champions.

First noticed in the general university booth is the working model of flowing water from the college of engineering hydraulics department. It is one of many models used in classroom instruction and holds interest for many visitors.

Factory Model
Near the hydraulics display is the factory model displayed in a glass case. This is a factory for the manufacture of clutches and transmissions. In addition to the building model, on the wall above is the floor plan and equipment arrangement plan. The model was designed by W. D. Fowler, who graduated from the university mechanical engineering department last June.

In the center of the general display booth is the working model of University theater designed by Prof. Arnold Gillette of the university dramatic arts department. The model is lighted in the fashion of the theater, and the stage revolves illustrating the method by which several scenes may be constructed on the stage at one time. By having one side out of the model, the seating arrangement, the control booth, the beam lights, the stage set construction show and the dressing rooms are shown.

Fine Arts Panel
Interesting to all are the numerous pictures about the booth. Along one entire side of the general university booth is a large panel depicting work in the school of fine arts. It is divided into three sections — music, drama and art. At the top of each section is a picture of the respective buildings of the department with about 15 scenes from each beneath the building picture.

In addition to the classroom views, the art department also has on display three woodcuts made of walnut by Nels Johnson who did the work for his masters degree, an oil painting by Martha Rusk, also work for a masters degree, and a color sketch of the E. O. Dietrich memorial mural made by Richard Gates, the completed work of which now hangs in the physics department library.

Mural Centerpiece
Centerpiece of the general university booth is a large photographic mural eight feet long and 40 inches high. It is prepared to show all phases of university life and, in keeping with the campus scheme, the mural employs Old Capitol as its centerpiece.

On a table below this large mural are various university publications of general interest for distribution to visitors. At each end of the table hangs a large panel of views about the campus. Most of the hundreds of pictures used throughout the entire Iowa exhibition were taken especially for the display. Those in the large photographic mural were all taken for the mural by Ruth Weller Nelson.

This is the first time in several years that the University of Iowa and state schools have exhibited at the state fair, but before 1932 displays at the fair were installed each year. Officials, however, have found that the extensive use of pictures and self-explanatory displays as in this year's booth, prove to be of much greater interest to fair visitors.

This interest brought about the simplicity of pictures has brought hundreds of visitors hourly to the university's booth, where they spend considerable time.

NYA For The Nation's Youth

Next to the University of Iowa booth at the Iowa State fair is a small but attractive booth installed by the Iowa National Youth Administration, a federal plan providing work for graduate, college and high school students as well as other youth of the country.

Federal allotments are made to each state annually. These amounts are in turn apportioned to counties, colleges and schools of the state.

Youths not in school, work in the NYA workshops for 60 hours a week at 30 cents an hour. Besides furnishing employment for the young men and women, it provides training in their own special fields according to their interest.

School Expenses

Those who take advantage of the government aid while going to school are provided with work about the schools and are paid amounts averaging from $10 to $20 monthly. This money is applied on board, room and tuition expenses.

Girls and boys of high school age or those not in colleges who take advantage of the plan produce various useful articles which are not sold but are used in state supported office and education buildings.

On display at the state fair booth is a cork-topped office desk and a large glassed-in bookcase, both made by NYA workers.

Girls receive training in office work, sewing, painting and many other useful fields. Boys working in the shops also are provided with a complete line of occupations from which to choose.

According to the state NYA report recently issued, county and school allotments for Iowa are generally higher for the 1939-40 year. This will provide for more youths and will allow higher wages to be paid, where it has been necessary.

Work Explained

Booklets being handed out at the booth at the state fair explain the work of NYA in all the universities and colleges of Iowa and others tell of NYA provisions for the rural youth of America.

Pictures mounted on large panels about the booth show NYA work in Des Moines and in schools about the state.

Batting Slump
Improvement

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—The team which has been doing pretty well by itself considering its chief assets are an infield and two pitchers visions history repeating itself next month after 20 long years.

Back in '19
Sept. 16, 1919, the Cincinnati Reds clinched their last pennant by defeating the Giants at New York. Next Sept. 16 the Reds again will be meeting the Giants, this time at Cincinnati, and Bill McKechnie's boys hope the game will mean as much as that 1919 affair.

Checking back over its trials and tribulations, it is realized the performance of the Cincinnati team this year has been remarkable. Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer have done most of the winning pitching, and a fine infield has been together as a unit most of the year, but the outfield and catching have been largely on the debit side.

Batting Slump
In fact, Cincinnati followers are convinced that if Ernie Lombardi had been hitting this year as he did last the Reds now would lead by a dozen games. The leading hitter of 1938 is flirting with the .260 mark. He's hitting late at the ball, with the result the opposition pulls over, drops the infield back into the outfield, as Ernie is so slow he can be thrown out from anywhere, and the erstwhile slugger is just another out.

Seldom has the outfield been intact. Ival Goodman, Harry Craft and Wally Berger all have been out of action for prolonged periods. In fact, Berger left for Cincinnati today to have a lame back fixed up. He hurt it a couple of days ago in batting practice.

All in all, it has been a hectic year for the Reds, but there is financial balm to soothe the wounds. The club has been doing quite well at the gate, thank you. So well, in fact, that it was necessary to refund $30,000 worth of ticket orders for the recent series with St. Louis in Cincinnati. A squad of seven employees worked 12 hours at the distasteful task.

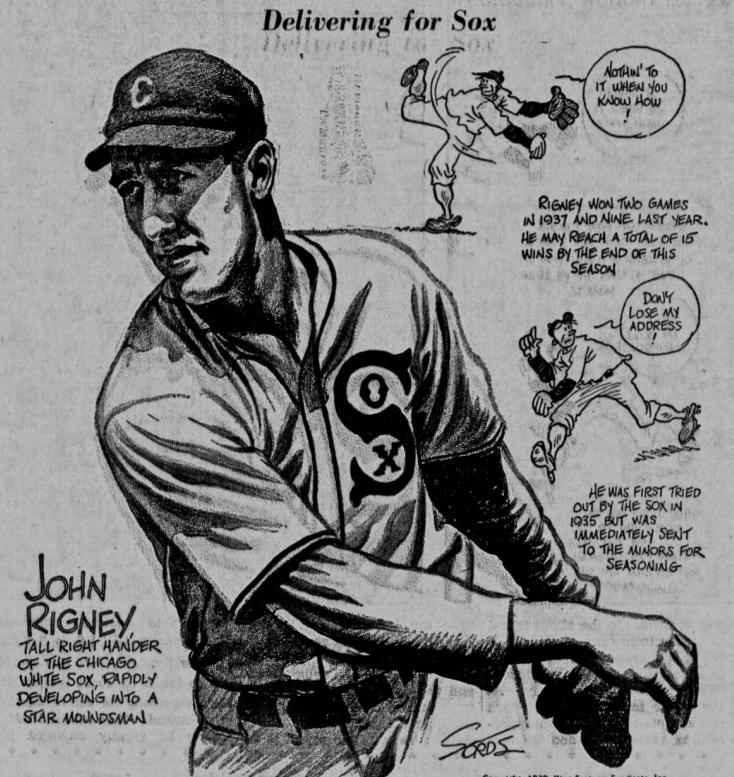

Permanent Improvement
A crowd of 65,000 could have been expected if it could have been accommodated. The Red park holds about 30,000. Decks are being put on sections of the stand (not for the world series, understand, but as a permanent improvement) to accommodate about 3,100 more, and eventually the park, including the standees, will hold close to 36,000.

The home attendance is nearly 750,000 to date, approximately the total of the entire 1938 season, and with the race hot and games with St. Louis in the offing, Red officials see the year's total reaching the million mark. Not alone at home have the Reds proved a magnet. They have set season's attendance records in all National league parks and are looking forward to Sept. 16 and the possibility of history backing up for a fresh start.

Delta Delta Delta Sorority Members, Rushees Entertained At Buffet Supper Last Night

70 Guests Feted By Gamma Phi Beta At Lake Macbride

Twenty-five active and alumnae members and rushees of Delta Delta Delta sorority were entertained at a buffet supper last night in the recreation room of the home of Mrs. George Scanlon, 220 Lexington avenue.

Varied entertainment was provided for the guests after supper. Out-of-town visitors who shared the courtesy included several from Cedar Rapids.

The members of the local committee in charge of arrangements for the party were Jean Opstad, Jean Livingston, Eileen Coche-nour and Jeannette Bryan.

About 70 active and alumnae members and rushees of Gamma Phi Beta sorority were entertained at a bridge, swimming and supper party yesterday at the summer home of Mrs. George Stoddard at Lake Macbride.

Guests from Cedar Rapids, the Tri-cities, Ft. Madison, Monticello, Clinton, Burlington, Tipton and Marshalltown shared the courtesy.

Arrangements for the affair were in charge of a committee headed by Mrs. Harold Schuppert.

Assisting her were Florence Rohrbacher, Betty Lou Voigt and Harriet Ludens.

Iowa Alumna Wed Recently

Vows Solemnized For Miriam Harrison, Dr. John McGraw

Miriam Harrison of Colorado Springs, Col., and Dr. John McGraw, son of Mrs. Irene McGraw of Estes Park, Col., were married recently at St. Mary's church in Colorado Springs, with the Rev. John Scannell officiating.

Attending the couple were Mrs. Joseph Brady of Colorado Springs and J. Allen Scott of Denver, Col.

Mrs. McGraw is a graduate of the university school of journalism and a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority.

She has lived in Colorado Springs for a number of years and has been associated with Aircraft Mechanics, Inc.

Dr. McGraw is a graduate of Regis college and the University of Colorado college of medicine.

He is an interne at Colorado general hospital and a member of Phi Rho Sigma medical fraternity.

After the ceremony the wedding party was entertained at a wedding breakfast at the Antlers hotel.

Mrs. Brady, who was matron of honor, is the former Wilma Bailey, a daughter of H. L. Bailey, 312 S. Governor street.

all nations involved in war, provided they paid cash and took title to their purchases before shipment.

In the event of a European war, such a system would, it is conceded, operate to the advantage of Great Britain because the British fleet would control the seas.

In that way, the plan was also intended to act as a deterrent upon any warlike action by Hitler or Mussolini.

Senate Lashed
When a reporter asked today whether he thought the senate's postponement of action on this legislation contributed to the present crisis, Mr. Roosevelt replied that a great many people felt that to be the case.

He emphasized, as he has done before, that the postponement decision was reached and enforced by a solid republican minority and a minority of the senate's democratic membership.

Undoubtedly, he continued, notice of the postponement was taken in all the capitals of the world and the opinion runs from the conclusion that it was a minor contributing factor. He added that he thought everybody considered that it was a factor in some degree.

"Do you think it was a factor," he was asked.

President Agrees
The president replied that he did, and asserted there was no escaping that fact because the senate's action was noted in all the capitals involved.

During the day Senator Thomas (D-Utah) member of the senate foreign relations committee, told reporters that if Europe went to war congress would "act impulsively and throw the existing neutrality act out the window."

On the other hand Senator Bridges (R-NH) said he had seen no indications that senators who opposed the Roosevelt foreign policy in the last session would change their position at the next session.

We certainly dread the time when the younger generation will start speeding around in jalopy airplanes.

School Board Approves Two New Teachers

L. D. Greenawald Will Be Principal At Roosevelt School

The appointment of Lawrence D. Greenawald as principal of the Roosevelt school, and of Lela Van Engen of Webster City as fourth grade instructor at the Longfellow school have been approved by the Iowa City school board.

The new principal, formerly superintendent of schools at Morley, replaces R. J. Gewerth who resigned to accept a position in Des Moines.

Miss Van Engen succeeds Evelyn Benda in her position at Longfellow.

A graduate of Monticello high school and Coe college, Mr. Greenawald received the M.A. degree from the University of Iowa in 1933. He was superintendent at Morley for four years.

Miss Van Engen, who taught in a rural school near Webster City for three years and at Jesup for one year, is a graduate of Webster City high school and Iowa State Teachers college.

Only two vacancies remain to be filled in Iowa City teaching positions before the school year begins.

Induction Set For Sept. 21

School Year Opens Immediately After Traditional Ceremony

The new year at the University of Iowa officially will be opened Thursday, Sept. 21 by the traditional induction ceremony, occurring just before first classes convene.

Started in 1923 by President Emeritus Walter A. Jessup, the ceremony is attended by thousands of students, members of the teaching staff, and other employees of the university.

President Eugene A. Gilmore will give a short address, climaxed by the administering of the oath of fealty. The affair will occur some 15 minutes before classes for the first semester of 1939-40 meet.

Date of the university's fall opening, earliest in some years, also is unusual in that for the first time classes do not start on a Monday morning.

Letters Mailed Asking Parents To Dad's Day

Nearly 5,000 letters to parents of University of Iowa students will be mailed in September inviting the fathers — and mothers, too — to attend the Dad's day events of Oct. 6 and 7.

Dr. E. E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts who is chairman of the Dad's day committee for the second year, has announced that the tentative program includes more than a half dozen events.

One of the earliest Dad's days in the series, the affair will be featured by the Indiana - Iowa football game, first Big Ten contest for an Anderson-coached team.

The university's first major event of the new academic year occurs only two weeks after classes start.

School Board Rejects Bids

The bids of three companies for special lighting equipment for the new high school building and grounds were rejected at a special session of the Iowa City school board Monday night.

The board, it was announced, will readvertise for new bids on special lighting equipment for the auditorium, little theater and main hallway of the school, and for the grounds and exterior of the building.

Poland--

"not to permit itself to be deceived" by its own government.

There was high indignation over a bomb explosion in Tarnow which took 17 lives with 30 injured very seriously.

The two men arrested were established to be German citizens. Two others were arrested.

The Polish government tonight informed Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands and King Leopold of the Belgians that it would consider their offer towards mediation of the European crisis.

Poland's reply said, however, that no final answer could be made to any mediation proposal pending determination of Germany's attitude.

Germans Arrested
The official Polish news agency reported tonight that eleven Germans of the German minority and two German citizens have been arrested at Lodz charged with belonging to subversive organizations.

The Germans were arrested following a search of their premises which revealed, the agency said, 34 pounds of dynamite and eight pounds of nitro-glycerine in cans labelled as food.

The agency said the Greek captain of the Greek steamship Johannes Carrs, which arrived at Dnya today with a load of scrap iron from Philadelphia, reported the vessel had been stopped and searched in the Kiel canal.

The Polish report said "German soldiers and armed Hitlerites" stopped and searched the vessel and threatened the captain in an attempt to prevent him from taking the cargo to Dnya. The ship was allowed to proceed after several hours' delay.

A foreign office spokesman tonight said that "Poland, like Britain and France, is ready for peaceful settlement, but any aggression will be resisted by all possible means."

Situation 'Grave'
It was officially stated, however, that the present situation must be considered "as very grave."

It was stated that the Polish government has information that "the mobilization and concentration of German troops is now completed and that this 'presents too serious a situation to remain without consequences.'"

Poles declared tonight their borders were further encircled by German troops moving eastward through Slovak areas along Poland's southern frontier.

Overland outlets now remaining to Poland are through the Baltic states, Soviet Russia and a narrow passageway into Rumania.

German troops in the past few weeks have spread along the Polish boundaries to the west and poised in east Prussia on the north.

Lochner--

late forenoon into the evening while the reply was being drafted.

Under strict agreement between London and Berlin, officials said, "absolute discretion" would be maintained as to the contents of both the British note of last night and the German reply.

This much, however, was divulged: That the Hitler response would not close the door to further negotiations.

Poles Are 'Out'
The Poles, however, are not on these negotiations as far as Berlin is concerned.

The Polish ambassador in Berlin, is not in contact with the German government nor is the German embassy in Warsaw in contact with the Polish government, it was officially stated.

If, therefore, the Poles are agreeable to the plan of crisis solution on which Chamberlain is working, they are not making their position known directly to the German government.

Pessimists among political observers believed in fact, that the Poles might yet form a stumbling block to the joint efforts of Chamberlain and Hitler.

The official view here tonight was that "it is to be hoped that reason may yet prevail."

By "reason," however, every commentator means the acceptance of the German viewpoint.

LONDON, Aug. 29 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax crossed Downing street from the foreign office to the residence of Prime minister Neville Chamberlain at 11:05 p.m. (4:05 p.m. CST) tonight raising immediate speculation as to whether he had received Adolf Hitler's reply to Britain's statement by telephone from Berlin.

Model plane Contest, Flying Features To Highlight Air Progress Week Here

Demonstrations and instruction in the various types of light airplanes, with a model airplane contest and an afternoon of air games and exhibition flying as a climax, will highlight National Air Progress week from Sept. 11 to 17 in Iowa City, according to an announcement made here yesterday.

The local celebration is a unit of the national observance. Iowa City aviation enthusiasts will play a major role in the activities, with some visiting flyers expected to come to Iowa City for the day.

According to plans, a "dawn patrol" of local aviators, flying in formation, will appear over Iowa City each day of the national week. The local airport will hold open house between 6:30 and 8:30 each night. Airships of various types will be on display with owners and pilots on hand to explain the advantages of each.

These prizes will go to the top four contestants in the model airplane event—a gasoline model motor, a model kit, an airplane trip to Cedar Rapids and return and a 15-minute ride over Iowa City.

Contests in dead stick landing, bomb dropping, balloon bursting and other events will feature the closing afternoon of games.

John Piper is general chairman in charge of the celebration. Other committee chairmen include Roland Smith, open house; Henry Linder, dawn patrol; Al Ellis, window display; Paul Shaw, air games; Ed Freund, model airplane contest; Mrs. John Piper, women's committee; Lain Guthrie, aircraft exhibition.

Richard Sidwell, publicity; Prof. Huber O. Croft, educational aspects; Harold Ruppert, prizes, and Homer Spield, organization.

Walter Good, past winner of the national model airplane contest, will be the judge of the model plane contest here, according to announcements. Good is a graduate assistant in the physics department of the university.

of Herr Hitler to our communication (delivered to Hitler by Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson last night in response to the fuhrer's communication opening the exchange).

"On the nature of that reply depends whether further time will be given to the exploration of the situation and for the operation of many forces which are working for peace."

Chamberlain's 16 - minute address informed the crowded house that there had been little change in the situation since the house met last Thursday, despite the flurry of diplomatic maneuvers, and that the danger of war had not "in any way receded."

Discussion Points
The "main points" of the discussions with Hitler, he indicated, were these:

1. Hitler left "no doubt as to the urgency of settling Polish-German questions" but "was concerned to impress upon his majesty's government his wish for an Anglo-German understanding of a complete and lasting character."

2. Britain "would naturally welcome an opportunity of discussing with Germany the several issues" looking toward a "permanent agreement."

3. "Everything turns upon the manner in which the immediate differences between Germany and Poland can be handled and the nature of the proposals which might be made for any settlement."

4. "We have made it plain that our obligations to Poland, cast into formal shape by the agreement signed on Aug. 25th, will be carried out."

5. Britain has repeated that German-Polish differences should be capable of solution by peaceful means and "an equitable settlement . . . reached by free negotiation . . . might in turn lead on to wider agreement which would accrue to the lasting benefit of Europe and the world at large."

6. First, however, "tension created by frontier clashes and reports of incidents on both sides of the border, should be diminished."

University Orientation Events Scheduled To Begin Sept. 15

15 Events Planned To Guide Freshmen Through First Steps

First steps of some 1,500 freshmen into University of Iowa life will be guided carefully by faculty members and upper-classmen in a program of 15 orientation events.

All freshmen are required to report Friday, Sept. 15, Prof. Harry Barnes, the new university registrar, has announced, and attendance at most of the orientation events is compulsory.

Before the new student attends his first classes, he will have been given a good idea of the general course content by a series of subject orientation meetings. This was tried for the first time a year ago and was found to be successful.

First meeting of the new students will occur at 9:30 a.m. Sept. 15 when the all-freshman assembly will be held. Qualifying and placement examinations are other events of the first two days.

Formal registration, preceded by an explanatory session, is set for Sept. 18 and 19 for liberal arts freshmen. With these details cared for, the students will be free to attend other orientation assemblies, as well as several recreational sessions, according to Registrar Barnes.

A system of faculty advisors has been set up to handle all questions about selection of courses. At assemblies, faculty and student leaders will outline the facilities of the university. Classes are scheduled to begin Thursday, Sept. 21.

Judge Evans ordered that pending the youth's good behavior and payment of the fine, he will be paroled at the end of six months to Sheriff Don McComas.
