REICH REPORTS SWEEPING GAINS

ROOSEVELT CONSIDERS SPECIAL SESSION

'Spirit of Victory' Apparent In Berlin; Polish Forces Crumble

White House Reports No Decision Made

President Studies Advancing Prices Of Commodities

BY RICHARD L. TURNER
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt has been scounding out congressional leaders of both parties on the possibility of calling congress into special session to revamp the neutrality act, but the White House said today that no decision had been reached.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said his chief "has not decided the date of the call, the date of convening, or whether he will call Congress back."

Early summoned newspapermen to his office to make this statement after Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, had said at Salem, Ore., that he had received a telephone call from the chief executive suggesting that congress meet September 18, discuss neutrality only, and adjourn as quickly as possible. With all this, McNary agreed.

Prices Studied
This development came toward the close of a day which found the president studying advancing prices of certain foodstuffs and goods.

Enlarging his cabinet for the duration of the emergency and issuing regulations under the neutrality laws to permit the granting of short-term credits to belligerents.

All along, Mr. Roosevelt had said that if war broke out in Europe he would call a special session to revise the neutrality act and, in particular, to repeal the embargo on "arms" shipments to belligerent nations required by that law.

Although opposed to the embargo on the ground that true neutrality involves opening American markets to all warring nations impartially, Mr. Roosevelt put the arms ban into effect by proclamation on Tuesday. In addition to its repeal he wants legislation requiring that belligerents pay cash for their purchases here and take title to them before they are shipped.

Would Open Markets
In actual effect, all agree, such a system would throw American markets wide open to Great Britain and her allies almost exclusively. The British fleet, already blockading Germany, would, it is predicted, see to it that the Reich made few if any purchases here.

Besides his statement on the special session, Early revealed that "kickbacks" and complaints had been received as the result of price advances in certain lines. These, he said, were dispatched to Attorney General Murphy and Secretary Wallace.

Wallace said after a cabinet meeting, however, that while there were some instances of suspected profiteering, and some prices had risen, the price level for the most part was lower than it was from two to five years ago. Middlemen, he said, were ready to "cooperate" against any profiteering.

World Remembers
Wallace attributed some price rises and temporary depletion of retailers' shelves to a consumer demand prompted by recollection of a similar situation before the world war.

At the agriculture department, officials made known that they were looking into the sugar situation with a view to action to check advancing prices if such a step were considered warranted. Marketing quotas could be increased, they said.

The army and navy increased the tempo of their recruiting drives in view of the demands for men to take part in the new "neutrality patrol," to bring warship crews to full peace-time strength, to increase the Panama Canal garrison, and to carry out other programs resulting from the war. Five thousand new sailors are to be enlisted quickly, while the army has accelerated its program of recruiting nearly 115,000 men.

Submarine Warfare

Near Winner During Kaiser's War, It Once Again Appears

By The Associated Press
German submarine warfare, which almost won the World war for Kaiser Wilhelm, became an important element of the new European conflict last night as at least six more allied ships were attacked in the Atlantic by the universally feared U-boats.

Two of these, the British freighters Manara and Olivegrove, were reported sunk. No immediate word was received of the fate of the others, the British Pukkastan and French Tamara, also freighters.

Still another freighter, the Cunard Royal Sceptre, was added to the roll of victims by the British ministry of information, which announced also that the Corinthic had been attacked but reached port safely.

Previously listed were the Donaldson (British) liner Athenia—Berlin has denied she was torpedoed—and the freighter Bosnia.

The total loss of life to date was undetermined, but the Donaldson line reported about 128 passengers and crew members of the 1400-odd aboard the Athenia still were missing. One member of the Bosnia crew was killed; at least two of the Manara were dead and 40 were missing.

Even before yesterday's rapid-fire developments, British Prime Minister Chamberlain reported to the house of commons that "three or four" British ships besides the Athenia had been sunk by submarines and declared the "development of German U-boat attacks on our shipping" was the "most important feature" of naval activity.

Of the Athenia, which went down 200 miles off the Hebrides Sunday night, Chamberlain said, "no denials or inventions on the part of Germany will convince the public of German innocence of this crime."

A would-be submarine attack on the Dutch ship carrying Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, and his staff across the English channel was indicated by the official statement that destroyers accompanying the ship dropped depth bombs during the voyage.

One passenger said that two destroyers first turned about and then he heard three loud concussions. A half-hour later, he said, there were two explosions after the destroyers had turned back.

The ministry of information announced British naval attacks on German submarines had continued and that "in at least one case success appears probable."

Chamberlain assured commons that anti-submarine craft had been active and that steps were being taken to establish a convoy system at the earliest possible moment.

On the surface, British naval craft apparently were more successful. Three German freighters—the Carl Fritzen, Olinda and motorship Inn—were listed as having been sunk and the information (See SHIPS, Page 6)

Europe's War Hits American Dinner Tables

Despite Surpluses, Housewives Hoard, Prices Skyrocket

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—The European war hit the American family dinner table, a national survey today disclosed.

Throughout the nation, retail staple food prices soared. Sugar, flour, lard, butter, meats jumped, mostly about 10 to 25 per cent over last week, sometimes much higher.

Rationing of supplies to housewives by retail grocers was common practice in many cities. Some cities reported a sudden, temporary shortage of basic staples.

The housewives complained to officials—in New York Mayor LaGuardia received 5,000 individual complaints in two days. Many city, state and national officials ordered investigations to check profiteering. But wholesale grocery men blamed housewives themselves.

Emergency Supplies
Week-end war news sent them scurrying to put away emergency supplies of storable food, it was said, and the sudden rush precipitated local shortages.

Many national, state and city officials, and wholesale food dealers said there was no reason for a general price rise. There are ample supplies of food of all sorts, they said, plenty for all demands and more.

Chiefly in the case of sugar, some said, there appeared to be definite underlying reasons for a price increase. In sugar trade circles, it has been reported for some time that refiners were holding off offerings. Some whole salers said they were informed only after receiving new orders that the price had been substantially raised.

There's A Sugar Surplus!
In Washington, Dr. Joshua Bernhardt, chief of the sugar section of the department of agriculture, said the nation actually has a surplus of sugar and that it was possible a "synthetic" shortage was being created. He said the department might raise marketing quotas if processors and refiners persisted in holding supplies off the market. Domestic and Puerto Rican producers, he said, had on hand 800,000 tons of sugar in excess of marketing quotas which may be placed on the market.

There apparently were no general increases in the prices of shoes and clothing in the nation, despite the rising hide and wool prices. It was pointed out that most autumn buying by retailers was done before the rise, and that subsequent retail price increases might not be necessary until after Christmas, normally a time for bargain sales.

City Survey
Reports from key cities on retail food price rises included: Middlewest: Cleveland, Ohio: All staples higher; grocers blame housewives; Ohio mayor asks governor for legislation against "profiteering."

Cincinnati, Ohio: U. S. attorney threatens investigation.

Duke of Windsor Back to England

CANNES, France, Sept. 7 (AP)—The duke of Windsor and his American-born duchess, for whose love he abdicated the British throne, will return to England tomorrow, a spokesman announced today.

It was reported an important special "duty" awaited the former monarch who has not seen his homeland in almost three years of self-imposed exile. The nature of the task to be given the duke in Britain's war-time government was not disclosed.

Americas Open Markets to U. S.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Argentine government, feeling the need of products formerly imported from European nations now at war, tonight issued a decree which partly reopened the doors to United States trade closed last December.

The decree, which may foreshadow the conclusion of a mutually satisfactory trade treaty now under negotiation, permits the entry of such North American merchandise as fuels, electrical appliances, chemicals, drugs and newsprint which under the import licensing system in effect since December could find no market in Argentina.

Britain, U. S. Exchange Staples

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—The United States will go through with its agreement with Great Britain for the exchange of 600,000 bales of cotton for 175,000,000 pounds of British rubber.

The state department announced tonight that President Roosevelt issued yesterday a proclamation of the agreement between the two countries for the exchange of cotton and rubber signed at London June 23, 1939.

New 'Frozen Sleep'

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—A new method of "frozen sleep" for human beings was demonstrated today to the American Congress of Physical Therapy.

Instead of packing naked bodies with ice, it is done with an air-conditioning chamber by Dr. Dibraei Kobak and Dr. Louis B. Newman of the Presbyterian and Cook county hospital, Chicago.

Market Regulation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—The federal reserve board disclosed tonight that the 12 federal reserve banks bought $168,000,000 of government securities in the last week in an effort to regulate the declining government bond market.

The purchases included $109,000,000 of federal bonds and $59,000,000 of federal notes.

New Support For 'Cash and Carry'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—Cash-and-carry sale of arms to Europe's warring nations appeared tonight to have gained additional support since congress adjourned in August without making any change in the neutrality act.

Much sentiment along this line was disclosed in a survey of congress members here and at their homes, after it was learned that President Roosevelt was conferring with congressional leaders on the possibility of calling a special session to revise the neutrality act.

'Weak Economy Will Ruin Reich'

OMAHA, Sept. 7 (AP)—Dr. Walter A. Weisskopf, Viennese economist whose appointment to the University of Omaha faculty was announced yesterday, believes the present European war cannot last as long as the World war because of weakness in the German economy.

"Already under the Nazi regime the economic situation in Germany is nearing the point where it collapsed in 1918," Dr. Weisskopf declared. "Rationing has been going on for months, but in the first World war it didn't begin until after 1915."

Old Heat Records Fall in Iowa

DES MOINES, Sept. 7 (AP)—A record-shattering September heat wave held Iowa in its torrid grip again today as a brassy sun in cloudless skies sent thermometers rocketing past the 100-degree mark in many parts of the state.

For the second consecutive day Iowans sweltered in the blistering heat.

Atlantic registered 103 degrees. Des Moines and Ft. Dodge today shared a 102-degree maximum that shattered all September records in the weather bureau's history in Iowa's capital city.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering told his air force: 'Mastery of the air in the east is yours. No enemy plane was able to touch the defense of German air space.'

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

BERLIN, Sept. 7 (AP)—A spirit of victory was in the air in Berlin tonight as the result of German army reports of sweeping gains against a crumbling Polish adversary.

German armies had clamped Polish forces in three great vises, one of which was reported inexorably clamping down on Warsaw with the main jaw of the advance only 20 miles from the capital's northern limit.

Official reports said the army of Adolf Hitler was converging from three sides upon the city of Poznan, a city of 275,000 population and farthest west of any Polish-held territory. The towns of Wargowicz, 28 miles northeast, and Obornik, 18 miles north of Poznan had been captured, as had the town of Koxmin, 43 miles south. To the west of Poznan the Germans also were declared to be progressing.

In the advance on Lodz, 80 miles southwest of Warsaw, the Germans were reported to have captured the town of Rawa-Mazowieck.

Even the Westerplatte, the tiny Polish munitions station in Danzig harbor, had fallen after six days of assault.

(No direct word has been heard from Warsaw since 12:25 p.m. Wednesday—5:25 a.m., C.S.T.—when it was reported the Poles were "fighting like lions" 330 miles north of Warsaw to save their capital.

(It was believed that the Poznan and Warsaw radio stations had been abandoned. Those at Krakow and Katowice have been taken by the Germans.

(Budapest reported that a broadcast from Lwow, the only remaining Polish station, in southeastern Poland about 125 miles from Warsaw, today appealed to the populace to "stem the new march of barbarism and anti-christianity in Europe."

(It referred to Poland as "the bastion against German barbarians seeking to conquer the world in a new pagan crusade.")

German officialdom felt that Germany could be well pleased with the results of exactly seven days of the undeclared war.

At the same time, there was no report here in Berlin of any action on the French frontier.

From parts of western Germany, however, came reports from relatives and friends indicating large scale withdrawals of the civilian populace from such cities as Saarbruecken, Trier, Aachen (Aix-La-Chapelle), Boon and Karlsruhe.

Officials are apparently prevented from revealing to inquiring foreigners just what cities, towns and regions are being cleared, but there is no ban on mentioning such places as one can establish for oneself.

Officials also say frankly that of course Germany does not propose to have her men, women and children mowed down by enemy cannon in case major operations begin in the west.

It is known, for instance, that large areas of the Saar valley have been cleared of civilians and the inhabitants taken to the region around Bad Homburg.

It is further known that the inhabitants of the evacuated regions received orders to leave their homes unlocked. They have been assured that soldier guards will see that nothing happens to their homes unless, of course, enemy shots destroy them.

The spirit of victory which swept through Berlin tonight was the most buoyant feeling evidenced here since Reichsfuehrer Hitler on Sept. 1 gave his order: "Meet force with force!"

The buoyancy was based on three developments which Germans insisted had been established:

1. The efficiency of the German war machine in its relentless drive into the very heart of Poland;
2. The reported arrival of the liner Bremen in some port where it is beyond the reach of belligerents (still not borne out by reports from any place but Berlin);
3. Berlin's insistence that there had been no actual acts of war on the western front.

No one in authority will commit himself regarding the whereabouts of the Bremen except to say with a proud glint in the eye: "She's safe. She's beyond the reach of captors."

One hears rumors that she ended her dash from New York, which she left eight days ago, in some Russian port, and there is speculation that it probably was Murmansk. (Murmansk lies at the head of an estuary of the Barents sea, just east of Finland. In 1918, the allies held Murmansk against the Bolsheviks.)

An explanation of how Germany's relentless drive in Poland apparently had been far less difficult than expected was offered in a German account of how a strong box, taken in the capture of the Polish seventh division, yielded a full set of general staff plans for defense against Germany's powerful army and air force.

The commander of this division was General Gosiorowski, one of the oldest collaborators of the late Marshal Jozef Pilsudski of Poland and until 1936 chief of the general staff. Gosiorowski now is captive in some unrevealed German military prison.

A German authority said that, even after the capture (See LOCHNER, Page 6)

Canada Takes Preliminary Steps To Aid Britain

OTTAWA, Sept. 7 (Canadian Press)—Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general of Canada, told an emergency session of parliament today the dominion government would be asked to approve measures for national defense and for cooperation with Britain in her war with Germany.

Following the governor-general's speech from the throne both houses adjourned until tomorrow without learning the details of the government's plans for Canadian assistance to Britain.

The dominion's policy is expected to be clarified when Prime Minister Mackenzie King addresses the second day's session of the assembly.

caused by the state of war which now exists," Lord Tweedsmuir told parliament.

Announcing the militia, naval and air forces were on active service and provisions made for coastal and internal defenses, the governor-general added:

"My ministers are convinced that Canada is prepared to unite in a national effort to defend to the utmost liberties and institutions which are a common heritage."

Prime Minister King explained later that the governor-general's reference to the existence of a state of war did not change Canada's position in relation to the European conflict.

"The speech from the throne made no change in the position of Canada as it has been since the proclamation under the war measures act was issued," the prime minister said.

"A formal statement defining the position of Canada will be issued following action by parliament."

There has been considerable argument over the question whether a declaration of war by the united kingdom automatically brings Canada into war, but the feeling here among observers is that parliament will be asked to take definite action in this connection.

In a speech broadcast Sunday to the people of Canada the prime minister said:

"In what manner and to what extent Canada may most effectively be able to cooperate in the common cause is, as I have already stated, something which parliament itself will decide.

"All I need to add at the moment is that Canada, as a free nation of the British commonwealth, is bringing her cooperation voluntarily. Our effort will be voluntary."

An order-in-council proclaiming the war measures act of 1914, to which Mackenzie King referred, was dated Sept. 1—two days before Britain went to war with Germany.

It declared that "a state of apprehended war exists and has existed since Aug. 25, 1939.

Under the war measures act a proclamation that a real or apprehended war exists enables the governor in council to take extraordinary powers to "do such things as he may deem necessary or advisable for the security, defense, peace, order and welfare of Canada."

Meanwhile, an order-in-council providing for emergency expenditures of $8,918,930 for the military, naval and air services was read to the house of commons.

It was passed Aug. 24 and signed by the governor-general the next day.

Another order-in-council created a wartime prices and trade board with power to seize any supply of food, fuel or other necessities it deems "unreasonably withheld from the market."

When Is A Neutral Not A Neutral?

ONE OF THE particular ironies of that tragic exhibition in Europe is the effect of neutrality. Mussolini, for example, until last Saturday stood by Adolf Hitler's every demand, signed a military alliance with Nazi Germany. Yet Mussolini is neutral. The irony comes from the fact that Italian neutrality doesn't aid the allies at all but is particularly helpful to Germany. If Italy were warring, French and English soldiers could get at Germany through the Brenner pass and could bottle up the Mediterranean. Both are impossible now.

Undoubtedly, neither of these facts is unknown to Il Duce or Der Fuehrer. That is the reason the Allies may ask Mussolini to renounce his German military alliance.

The situation is nearly the same in Spain. No one now believes, of course, that Francisco Franco was actually fighting "bolshivism" in the civil war; yet there is no doubt the Soviet non-aggression pact was a source of considerable embarrassment to the dictator of Spain. So he too has declared neutrality. That means Spanish goods and the recently acquired American cotton can go directly to Hitler. It's a strange kind of "neutrality."

As for Hungary, her neutrality is avowedly pro-German, and the possibility exists that German troops may pass through Hungary if the war is extended.

It's really not quite true to say then that Hitler is alone against the world. Recent experience has shown that any neutrality helps either one side or the other.

In America, MacKenzie King, premier of Canada, left little doubt in his listeners' minds when last Sunday he supported Chamberlain's war declaration a hundred per cent. He is maintaining technical neutrality simply to make use of the law. Franklin Roosevelt wants to revise, allowing "neutral" nations to purchase all arms and munitions but denying them to belligerents. It's a simple matter for planes to get from California to Canada, from Toronto to London.

That's why it is particularly important for the United States to think the matter of technical neutrality through. Do we want the democracies to win? If we do, it is not difficult to see reasons why the arms embargo should be repealed. Then our markets would be open to everyone but to the particular advantages of the Allies. Keeping our head doesn't mean shutting our eyes to reality.

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

THE ITALIAN ENIGMA: Hitler and Mussolini are allies. They are fellow members of the famous anti-communist pact. They are further bound together by a defensive, and probably also by an offensive, agreement. They are supposed even to have worked out a united command. These things are known. Then why, today, with Hitler crashing into Poland, and Britain and France in arms against him, is Italy neutral? The answer to this question is not known. The answer not being known, surmises are permitted. It was, it perhaps still is, Hitler's plan to crush Poland, then patch up a peace with France and Britain, on a basis of the accomplished fact, before the French and British are really ready to take the offensive. Did he accordingly inform Mussolini, in his self-assurance, that he would not need Italian help? And is that why Mussolini is remaining neutral? And if Hitler changes his mind, and claims Italy's aid under the alliance, must Italy fight for Hitler?

Or were relations already secretly strained between the two dictators? Hitler took Austria, then Czechoslovakia, for himself. What has he done for Italy? Italy's claims are in the Mediterranean. What has Hitler done to help Mussolini achieve them? Is it not conceivable that when Mussolini was informed of Hitler's intended assault on Poland, Mussolini protested, was given scant hearing, was treated already like a poor relation? Is it not possible that Hitler made his recent deal with Stalin without even consulting Mussolini? Has not Stalin already replaced Mussolini as the second fiddle to Hitler's first violin? And if so, how does Mussolini like that? Has he not perhaps told Hitler that, in the circumstances, the war on Poland must be exclusively a German war, with Germany alone taking the consequences?

Whatever the explanation, Italy today is neutral, and seems bent upon remaining neutral, at least until it becomes clear which side is going to win. There is little glory, and no profit, in espousing a losing cause. Nobody knows that better than the cynical, shrewd and pompous Caesar on the hills of Rome.

ALL IS FORGIVEN— SOPHIE BACK TO WORK

The sweet concord so appropriate there seems to have descended at last upon the A. F. of L. amusement sector. Miss Sophie Tucker is to be unconditionally forgiven; her show, "Leave It to Me," was opened on schedule, with Sophie playing her wonted role of faintly indelicate exuberance. The proposed nation-wide strike in theater, movies, radio, night clubs, opera and burlesque shows has been put aside as the majestic nightmare which it clearly was from the beginning. Looking abroad, the actors and stagehands of America have concluded that peace indeed is wonderful.

The outline of a complicated situation in the amusement unions will be remembered to have been approximately as follows: Miss Tucker, as president of the American Federation of Actors, led that group in revolt against its parent body, the Associated Actors and Artists of America. The 4-A's, which was immediately adopted by the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees (stagehands), Actors' Equity, controlled by the 4-A's, suspended Miss Tucker, which meant she couldn't open last night in "Leave It to Me." The stagehands said they would strike if she couldn't, and all the amusement unions said they would strike if the stagehands did.

Now the stagehands seem to have surrendered unconditionally, not merely their present position but their ambition of some years to edge into the actors' field. And, though President Gillmore of the 4-A's speaks of the war as a stimulus to union peace, it is probable that influences less remote have entered. For it was common rumor that the C.I.O. proposed to move into the amusement field through the breaches opened by this fratricidal warfare. The United Studio Technicians' Guild, financed by CIO groups, had made headway in Hollywood. Faced by the CIO threat and frontal assault and penetration in the construction trades and elsewhere, the A. F. of L. people doubtless saw their amusement differences in a rather better perspective. And they can hardly have overlooked, even in the moments of greatest heat, the effect on public opinion of the strike by which they proposed to deny commercial amusement to pretty much the whole population.

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—The name of this column is Man-About-Manhattan, and boy, am I glad I don't write Man About Rome. . . Look what I just read in the papers — a dispatch from Rome, from Rome, Italy. . . It says no coffee. . . It says the civilians can't drink any coffee anymore. It's all being saved for the army. . . Roman newspapermen can't duck across the street and say, "Joe, gimme a cup of coffee." . . Well, they wouldn't say Joe anyway. They would probably say Tony.

But one of the joys about writing a New York column is that you can go out and drink coffee at odd hours. . . Hours are very odd here anyway. And frequently the coffee is too. But not if you know your way around. Like bankers and lawyers, you've got to know which restaurants to place your faith in, too. A lot of people think you are off-balance if you place too great a premium on the quality of a simple, every day beverage. But people like that have a twisted sense of values. I am convinced that only heroes and poets and people who have understand-

Stewart Says - Hitler Personality Highly Unpopular Among Americans

By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist

Adolf Hitler isn't at all popular among Americans who have come in contact with him. In the main these include ambassadorial and consular officials. Now and then one or another of these functionaries has visited the United States on leave during the period of der fuehrer's incumbency and I've talked with several of them quite recently. One was a relative of mine, who expressed himself to me very freely. Naturally these chaps all have had a vehement "passion for anonymity." If any one of them were quoted by name, Germany would be too bilious for him to go back to, while Adolf remains on the job.

But General Field Marshal Hermann Goering, just appointed head of the ministerial council in defense of the reich, and generally regarded as No. 2 nazi, is pretty well liked — that is to say, personally; not necessarily politically.

However, Herr Goebbels, Hitler's propaganda minister, usually rated as No. 3 nazi — until Hitler named Rudolf Hess as next in line to Goering — seems to have even fewer well-posted American friends than Adolf himself. When I asked how it happens that some anti-nazi German (a Jew, for instance) hasn't already tried to bump the present fuehrer off, the answer invariably has been that everybody has been afraid Goebbels, instead of Goering, might succeed him. And it's the consensus that Goebbels would be worse than Hitler.

Hitler a Genius

That Hitler's a downright genius is unexceptionally agreed. The complaint is that, though a genius, he's abnormal, if not actually insane. He's assessed as homicidal in his peculiarities, too. Apparently he isn't companionable, either. He doesn't drink beer, as an orthodox German should. He has no-smoking signs stuck up all over his premises. He's a vegetarian.

They say he's abusive in conversation; he raves and rants; he's personally insulting to his visitors.

In short, the verdict is that, as an individual, he's a darned sight worse than the ex-kaiser ever was. The kaiser had some of the superficialities of polite society. Der fuehrer is accused of being an unqualified barbarian — not only intrinsically, but in his manners.

Some of the folk I've talked with, who have met both of the two, have compared Hitler with Mussolini. They've concurred that Benito, while a dictator, is a rational, human type of one — a bird who can be talked with reasonably. Not so Adolf, according to these authorities.

Such critics don't believe that Adolf and Benito basically have much in common. They calculate that Benito is pretty tired of Adolf now — that he considers the latter dangerously cuckoo.

Goering a Semi-Good Guy

Marshal Goering is classified as intrinsically a nice German — like our own old-time German-Americans.

He's represented as a "good fellow."

He slushes beer, eats "weanies" — and you like him.

They had sanger — buns and hand-buns in those days, and nobody found any fault with 'em — in fact, sympathized with 'em.

In those times this country was full of German immigrants who were here because they were in exile to get away from the Fatherland's military conscription. In that era, a fat chance Germany would have had to develop a nazi-bund in America! Militarism then was what our Germans were dying to get away from.

Marshal Goering, then is a German we think we more or less understand.

Not so, as I understand it, Herr Hitler's.

And Herr Goebbels, from all accounts, is as crazy as Herr Hitler, without being a genius also.

When statesmen close their minds to all argument it isn't long before their countries are forced to close their borders, too.

It now appears that the world wants everyone but Adolf Hitler to keep his promises.

The man at the next desk says good times must be back. A theater box-office employe was snooty toward him.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. S. H.: "I have been advised by my doctor to take vitamin B, but find it hard to digest."

Answer—Vitamin B should not be difficult to digest. Milk, eggs, oatmeal and many fruits and vegetables contain it. These are not indigestible.

Frances Hauser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Hauser, 846 Kirkwood avenue, became the bride of Clark G. McGaughey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. McGaughey of Moline, Ill. The Rev. Herman Strub performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a white chiffon floor length gown made over taffeta. It was fashioned with a long train. Her white tulle lace edged veil fell from a halo cap which was trimmed with seed pearls. Her shower bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Robert Beyer of Davenport, who was matron of honor, wore a similar floor length gown of white chiffon. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and wore a wreath of the same flowers in her hair. Thomas Diver of Chicago was best man.

After the ceremony the bridal party and about 100 guests were entertained at a reception in the Jefferson hotel. A large four tiered bride's cake decorated with a miniature bride and bridegroom centered the bride's table. A pastel yellow green and white color scheme was carried out in the beauty baskets of yellow marigolds, asters and green ferns and in the yellow tapers and pastel mints.

Barbara Bouchard, Margaret Chittenden and Kay Dee of Chicago presided at the table.

After the reception the couple left for a wedding trip to an unannounced destination. They will make their home in Ann Arbor, Mich., where Mr. McGaughey will enroll in the college of medicine of the University of Michigan.

For traveling the bride wore a black crepe frock with a tiny white collar and rhinestone trim. With it she wore a black hat and black accessories. Her going away corsage was of yellow roses, lilies of the valley and gardenias.

Mrs. McGaughey was graduated from the Iowa City high school. She later attended the university and Irish's business college. She was affiliated with Alpha Delta Pi sorority while she attended the university.

Mr. McGaughey was graduated from the Moline high school and received his B. A. from Beloit college in Beloit, Wis., where he was a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity. He was graduated from the University of Michigan law school. This past year he attended the university here.

Out-of-town guests who attended the reception included

Bands Ready For Fall Drills

New Maneuvers Planned This Fall By Prof. Righter

New spectacular maneuvers, together with different marching techniques, have been mapped out for the University of Iowa band by Prof. Charles B. Righter, director of university bands.

The football band of about 100 pieces will be organized as soon as the university opens Sept. 21 and work will begin upon the formations to be used at the four home football games and the official student trip to Madison, Wis.

Prof. Righter is being assisted by Stanley Wilson and Hugh Gunderson, while the 1939 drum majors will be Jean Heiland of Cedar Falls and Parley Wellstead of Ottumwa. The band will have many new instruments and new marching music.

Additional honors for his water color on a circus theme which won the sweepstakes award at the Iowa State fair will be sought next winter by Charles Okerbloom Jr., of the University of Iowa art department.

Okerbloom said yesterday that he would send the painting to the Mid-Western art exhibition at Kansas City, Mo., and the national water color show in New York City. The work now is being shown at Iowa State college along with other prize-winners from the fair.

The painting, entitled "Mired," is that of a huge circus wagon sunk hub-deep in mud, while elephants heave forward with their heads against it in an attempt to free the heavy vehicle.

Okerbloom, a circus fan, said he would send the scene from memory after watching similar incidents on circus lots. In addition to being the water color sweepstakes winner, the picture was first in the state fair water color and pastel class.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

- Old Rivals
Hard Hitter
Youngsters

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP) — Possibly it was as unpremeditated as a slice into a bunker, but the fact remains the U. S. G. A. has arranged a repeat performance of the 1932 final in the qualifying round of the national amateur at Glenview, Ill., next week. This time it will be medal instead of match play.

Old Rivals
Johnny Goodman, the stocky Omahan, and C. Ross Somerville, the four-foot Canadian, will tee off together, and we recall that 1932 meeting with exceptional clarity because we were in Omaha at the time, draped over a printer and whooping or moaning at every shot. The headline: "Goodman Wins," set up when he had a two-up lead at 27 holes, leered at us for some days afterward from a rack in the composing room. They finally used it for the 1933 open.

Anyway, we are particularly interested in this pairing because Goodman is our gilt-edged choice to repeat his triumph of 1937, the choice being made despite the warning of Joe Dey, U. S. G. A. secretary.

"Anybody who tries to pick a national amateur winner is just crazy. Anything can happen in those 18-hole matches."

Hard Hitter
However, Goodman always has been a steady player. He is reported to be driving longer than ever, which should help him on the 7,022-yard course, and on top of that he will be playing the course over which he won his open championship. It's true he sneaked into the title by the back door, with a 76 for his final round, but it's also true he had a 66 and a 70 sandwiched in there.

The odds against any one man coming through to win in a field that includes so many golfers about on a par are prohibitive. There are six former champions competing, in addition to the present champion, Willie Turnesa, but with the exception of Turnesa, Goodman, and possibly Johnny Fischer and Somerville, the champs don't constitute the major threat.

The major threat comes from the long list of youngsters who have the shots, the poise and the experience, in fact, everything except a record which includes the title.

Youngsters
Marvin "Bud" Ward, Charley Yates, Bill Holt, Bobby Dunkelberger, Pat Abbott, Frank Stracof, Don Schumacher, Glenn Oatman, Ted Adams, Dick Chapman — the list of possibilities is endless. Wilford Wehrle certainly would be up near the top had not his appendix eliminated him. There will be no such controversy this year as last, when the U. S. G. A. dodged spears for some time after a last minute decision on the number of players eligible for the second qualifying round, with the result Chick Evans was squeezed out.

This year the 130 low scores, and ties, will continue play in the second 18 holes. The long, rather flat, track-placed North Shore course places a premium on accuracy, another factor in Goodman's favor. When he is clicking, as he did in the recent Arcola, N. J., tournament, he can make the ball jump through hoops. All of which means Goodman probably will lose. The amateur is that kind of a tournament. Some unknown kid always is bobbing up to out-sprint a favorite for 18 holes. Goodman knows all about that. He was the unknown kid 10 years ago.

Little Hawks In Defensive Drill

Coach Herb Cormack drilled his men from the defensive angle yesterday afternoon as his Little Hawk gridders went into their last week of practice before the opening game next Friday against DeWitt.

Many changes have been made in the forward wall of the Red and White machine, as Coach Cormack continues to seek a fast charging line. Ted Lewis, hard driving back, will probably be changed to tackle when the Little Hawks go into their defensive formation. Bob White has been shifted back to guard, and Virgil Parker, scrappy center, will probably play defensive end.

With Bob White back at his guard post, Coach Cormack has four reliable guards. Bill Bothell, Don Montgomery, and Bob Caywood are all experienced men at the position, and give the Little Hawks two men for each position.

Navy Team Large, Fast

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 7 (AP) — The marine has landed, and the football situation at the United States Naval academy is under control.

The new head coach is Major Emery E. (Swede) Larson, a tough leatherneck "who can whisper two blocks." Navy is going in for rearmament under his command with an accent on the heavy guns. The Swede has been a naval academy legend for 20 years because he never played on a team that lost to army in three years of competition that won him national rating in football and lacrosse. Now he's back, and Navy figures he's a guaranteed goodluck charm to sink the Army.

The unlicked Viking himself figures it's a Navy year but he's counting more on a 200-pound line and a set of powerhouse backs than on voodoo to turn the trick. Despite the loss of the whole left side of his line and Lem Cooke, rated close to Columbia's Sid Luckman and Texas Christian's Dave O'Brien as a passer, Larson has material. Sixteen lettermen, plus 14 sub-varying numerical winners and 15 standouts from the '38 plebe team, form the nucleus of his squad.

Ermert "Doc" Wood, 180-pound, saved-off projectile built on the general lines of a moving van, is the top ranking back, assisted by Cliff Lenz, a 200 pounder who also passes, John Gutter, 175, a sweet plebe, is another mail carrier.

For clearing the way there are a flock of burly blockers headed by Ed Gillette, Sammy Boothe, plebe punter, and Lou Gray. Navy is four deep at the guards and has three top centers. Capt. Al Bergner, 215, is the only veteran tackle but Dick Opp, up from the plebes, is nobody to keep his coach awake nights. A couple of guards may be converted into tackles.

Larson also has three lettermen ends, headed by 225-pound Harold Hansen. He could field a team weighing 200 from end to end and 185 pounds in the backfield, and he probably will, because the leatherneck likes the big, tough boys who can go 60 minutes.

His announced strategy is a squadron of dreadnaught-type gridders with plenty of tonnage, running most of their offensive plays from punt formation. Less passing, more blocking, booming line play—that's the Larson prescription for the Army and the Middies' eight other opponents.

"We expect to have a Navy team that won't have to bow its head to anybody," said the Swede. "We'll be tough all the way."

Look out Army. That's feed-back dope from the guy you never could lick. The schedule: Sept. 30, William and Mary; 7, Virginia; 14, Dartmouth; 21, Notre Dame; 28, Clemson; Nov. 4, Pennsylvania; 11, Columbia; 25, Princeton and Dec. 2, Army.

Hawkeye Highlights

Notre Dame football players already have picked Captain Erwin Prasse, end, and Nile Kinnick, halfback, as two of the finest players they will face all season... and they haven't seen them in action, all they know is what they have read... the Notre Dame publicity department says: "Iowa, off last year's record, appears to be the least powerful of the Irish foes. But hopes are high again at Iowa City, with Dr. Eddie Anderson, Rockne pupil, in charge. Hawks have known strength... and restoration of morale is Anderson's chief problem."

About 400 high school coaches have received invitations to enter runners in the University of Iowa's interscholastic one mile team race Oct. 7 and the cross country run of Oct. 21... these annual events are being held earlier than usual this year... three races will occur in each, for A, B, and C class schools.

Practically all of Iowa's football practices will be closed to the public, Dr. Anderson declares... bona-fide newspaper men, however, will be welcome... it's possible that an open drill will be staged this month for the benefit of students.

Dr. Anderson is mighty proud of Bill Omskanski, his Iowa freshman coach... he can't say enough about Bill's talents... he thinks the former Holy Cross captain will make a fine teacher for the yearlings.

Giants Take 2nd All-Star Game, 10-0

Crowd of 38,667 In Polo Grounds For 'Air Fund' Contest

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP) — The well-balanced power of the New York Giants, champions of the National league, put the clincher tonight on the professionals' argument that a good "play-for-pay" team has it all over a crack collegiate football combination.

Before 38,667 fans in the Polo grounds, they belted the eastern college all stars, who boasted virtually the entire Pittsburgh powerhouse of 1938, 10 to 0 in the fourth annual game for the Tribune fresh air fund.

Achieved by the flying feet of Tuffy Leemans, the ball-carrying flash late of George Washington; the pass-pitching of the veteran Ed Danowski, and the kicking toe of Ken Strong, this triumph, added to the Giants' 9-0 victory over the national all stars in Chicago last week, just about wound up the argument for this year.

The battle, a tough, bruising tilt played in weather little cooler than summer heat, was decided in the first two minutes of the second quarter. Leemans, fresh in the game, cut loose for 31 yards to the all-stars 14, but, just as he broke into the clear, he stumbled and fell. Then he tossed a pass to Chuck Gelatka, one-time Mississippi State end, for the touchdown.

Ken Strong added the extra point and later supplied the other three points with a tough angle-shot placement goal.

Nearing End
NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP) — The world champion Yankees clicked again today for a 5-2 conquest of the Boston Red Sox, inflating their margin over the challengers to 16 1/2 games.

Monte Pearson and Oral Hildebrand collaborated in a three-hit pitching job which successfully strangled the Boston power attack while Joe DiMaggio led New York's 11-hit offensive with his 27th home run and a single.

Pearson lost a shutout by walking four batters in the fourth, forcing in one run and setting up another that scored on a double play. He was replaced at the start of the sixth after allowing only one hit and got credit for his 11th victory.

The Red Sox played without Ted Williams, their sensational rookie fielder, who bruised his left hand on the rightfield wall yesterday chasing a hit by Jake Powell. Lou Finney substituted and went hitless.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7 (AP) — Kendall Chase's five-hit pitching and his mates' 16-hit assault on two Philadelphia pitchers gave Washington a 10-1 victory over the Athletics and Chase his tenth victory of the season today.

The Senators blasted Nelson Potter off the mound in the third inning and continued their assault on Lester McCrabb, rookie up from Williamsport's eastern league team. Taft Wright pounded out four hits including a home run with Sam West on base in the fourth inning.

The Athletics' run came with two out in the third.

Bee Stung
BOSTON, Sept. 7 (AP) — The veteran Carl Hubbell weakened in the ninth inning today to let the Bees come from behind and beat the New York Giants, 4-3.

Held to seven hits in the previous innings, the Bees got four singles in the ninth to score one run and fill the bases before the Hub was replaced by Walter Brown. Then Joe Sullivan tapped easily to Brown, but Catcher Harry Danning dropped the throw which would have started a double play.

Sullivan spaced nine hits, two of them going to Hubbell, who scored one run and batted in another.

The setback ended a five-game winning streak for New York.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (AP) — George Halas, owner-coach of the Chicago Bears professional football team, said today he would telephone tomorrow to Bill Osmanski, fullback star from Holy Cross, about a contract. Osmanski is in New York.

Halas said he had talked to Osmanski previous to the college all-star - New York Giant game in which Osmanski played a prominent role. Osmanski earlier indicated he would forego pro football for a coaching position.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP) — The Yugoslavs had a hard time of it today at Forest Hills, when two of their favorite sons were slammed out of the National tennis championships by a pair of long-winded American youngsters.

Frank Guernsey Jr., the National Intercollegiate champion from Orlando, Fla., pulled the biggest upset of the tennis day's play by eliminating Franjo Puncce, ace and seeded foreigner, 6-1, 3-6, 2-6, 6-3, 7-5, in a marathon match that went into almost pitch darkness.

Cub Catcher Given Scroll Signed By 2,500 Loyal Fans

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (AP) — Manager Gabby Hartnett of the Chicago Cubs was presented with a scroll signed by 2,500 fans today as he established the all-time major league record of catching 1,727 games, but his good luck ended there.

The Cubs spoiled his party with errors which contributed to three unearned runs and permitted the St. Louis Cardinals to carry off a 10-inning triumph, 4-2.

White Sox catcher, who set the old record 10 years ago, presented Hartnett with the scroll today.
