POLES STRUGGLE TO KEEP WARSAW

British Troops Join French in German Western Front Attacks

French Report Troops Advance Into German Territory in Saar; Indicate Important Battle Near

BULLETIN
LONDON, Sept. 12 (Tuesday) (AP) — The ministry of information tonight announced that British troops have landed in France and taken part in advances on German territory.

The transport of the British expeditionary forces took several days and was accomplished without accident. No details of the units or their positions in France were given.

By TAYLOR HENRY

PARIS, Sept. 11 (AP) — The French general staff announced tonight that French troops, attacking on the Bitche plateau east of the Saar basin, had made important advances into German territory.

A communique from the usually cautious high command strengthened the impression that a major battle was approaching, with the French and Germans fighting along a 100-mile sector of the western front from the Moselle river to the Rhine.

Communique, No. 16, said:

"Despite enemy resistance our attacks continued to show serious progress on a front of some 12 miles east of the Saar."

This meant the French fought their way along the Bitche plateau, which lies between the Saar river and the Vosges mountains, on a front some 12 miles wide — despite German resistance.

The head of the French forces, Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin, concentrated his attack against the historically strategic heights held by the Germans between Zweibrücken and the Rhine along the eastern end of the northern front.

The Germans, meanwhile, thrust forward along the Moselle valley, wresting advance positions about a quarter of a mile deep from the French left wing — the extreme western end of the northern front.

Hand-to-hand fighting, with the French using bayonets to check the Germans, was reported.

The two armies were sparring with an increasing number of men from jump-off positions which at the same time would afford maximum protection for their permanent lines and fortifications if the enemy succeeded in gaining an advantage.

Behind the war front the French government was maneuvering for diplomatic position.

The French were particularly interested in Italy and Rumania.

The French watched keenly developments in Rumania, where new reservists were called up over the week end, increasing the army to 1,200,000 men.

Premier Edouard Daladier conferred this afternoon with Andre Francois-Poncet, French ambassador to Rome. The envoy was understood to have told Daladier that Italy was observing a "strictly correct" neutral attitude despite her pre-war axis alliance with Germany.

On the western front both sides rushed up heavy reinforcements and hurled fresh troops into fighting which may be known in history as the battle of the Saar river.

This is the picture of the operations as put together from authoritative French and neutral information available in Paris:

Already fighting has gone beyond the "advance guard" phase of the operation with which the French opened their campaign to relieve pressure on Poland. Units as large as divisions have been

F. R. Boosts Sugar Supply

Action Prompted by Complaints; Discards Present Limitations

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP) — Complaints that sugar was too costly and too scarce prompted President Roosevelt today to add, with one stroke of his pen, some 500,000 tons of the commodity to the potential supply available to the American consumer.

This action, expected to check the recent rise in price, was taken by signing a proclamation which temporarily discarded the present legal limitation upon the quantity of sugar which may be sold upon the domestic market this year.

In a statement, Mr. Roosevelt said his action was necessitated by the increased world demand due to the European war, by unusually heavy purchases by consumers and by "apparent" speculative activity.

"Many consumers," he said, "presumably have been purchasing sugar with the view of holding it in reserve against the possibility of a lengthy war and some speculators and other holders have apparently taken advantage of this situation to advance prices rapidly and capture windfall profits."

"A great number of complaints have been made within the past few days that the quota restrictions on sugar marketing are making it difficult and costly for housewives and industrial users to get enough sugar to supply domestic needs."

On July 1 the agriculture department reported a record amount of farm stored corn in the state, about 258,000,000 bushels. More than half of the 257,000,000 bushels of sealed corn is on Iowa farms.

German Troops Clash Briefly With French

Small Patrols Cross Border, But Return, According to Reports

BULLETIN
BASEL, Switzerland, Sept. 12 (Tuesday) (AP) — Small patrols of German troops crossed into French territory for the first time in the present war early today, but according to reports reaching Switzerland, retired to their own side of the frontier after a brief but furious clash with French troops.

The clash took place just east of Saargemines, and southeast of Saarbrücken.

The German troops apparently were not connected with any large German advance, but were merely small groups which made charges to outflank positions the French had taken.

The German policy so far has been to keep to their own side of the frontier. The frontier at this point is very irregular, however, and observers doubted the sortie tonight meant a change in policy.

Berlin Expects Warsaw's Fall

By LOUIS LOCHNER
BERLIN, Sept. 11 (AP) — The fall of Warsaw is considered imminent here, with the desperately fighting Polish army hopelessly trapped by the German high command's famous "vise" methods.

The impending annihilation of the Polish army was openly forecast in German communiques. These official statements, however, continued to mention the "stubbornly resisting" Poles.

Army advices said the bridge across the Vistula river between Warsaw and Modlin fortress — 18 miles northwest of Warsaw — was under heavy artillery fire. In several places between Radom, 60 miles south of Warsaw, and the Polish capital, Polish troops were also reported caught in the jaws of the German "vise."

There have been no figures indicating the number of casualties in the dramatic struggle over the Polish capital. Bannermen in German newspapers, however, speak of the "great battle" before Warsaw.

Indicative of the importance attached to the Polish struggle is the fact the authoritative Voelkischer Beobachter, for the first time since the undeclared war began, issued posters under its masthead saying the "great battle in Poland approached its climax."

Army advices reported that the troops advancing from East Prussia had taken Lomza, 80 miles north and east of Warsaw and had forced their way across the Narew river at Wiza, nearby.

Another section of the theater of war where Germans claimed success was in west Poland where the city of Poznan, capital of the province of the same name, was reported about to fall to German arms.

Poznan, once a German city, was considered ripe for capture. (See BERLIN, Page 6)

Germany Erects Camp to House War Prisoners

BERLIN, Sept. 11 (AP) — A mammoth camp for war prisoners, capable of accommodating 12,500 men is being erected on the outskirts of Goerlitz.

War captives are kept busy digging drainage ditches, laying light and communication wires and otherwise finishing up the new camp. It consists of fifty tents, each with room for 250 persons. A high barbed wire barricade surrounds the camp while guards patrol within. Guards also watch from towers equipped with machine guns and flood lights.

Bombing of Poland Continues

With the French and British going into powerful offensive on west front, Germany fiercely continues her bombing of Polish cities so their early capture will allow troops to be rushed to defense of the West wall. Capture by the Nazis of Sandomierz is considered a heavy blow to Poland because of the many munitions factories there.

Reason for Double Slaying Not Known

Lifts Bans Ruling Against Cars Amended

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Sept. 11 (AP) — Two of Bermuda's most widely known prohibitions—one on motor cars, the other on woman suffrage — went toppling today in the wake of European war.

The assembly passed a bill breaking the colony's famous rule against motor traffic because of "war conditions." The governor may now operate motor vehicles of all sorts on Bermuda roads for the duration of the war.

Only last April Gov. Sir Reginald Hildyard resigned because, he said, he found it impossible to carry out his duties properly "without the use of a motor car." The Bermuda legislature twice refused his requests for a car, so he quit.

Iowa City Man Robbed of $25

J. J. Ostidiek, 340 Macgowan street, was robbed of $25 in cash at 11:15 last night as he started up the front steps of his home, according to police reports.

Ostidiek had just returned home and put his car away when he was accosted by two men. One of the men, Ostidiek said, was about 21 years old, five feet nine or ten inches tall, and weighed about 150 pounds. He was wearing a "loud" plaid shirt or jacket. Ostidiek was unable to get a description of the second man.

The men slugged him over the head and wrestled with him on the ground. He was not seriously injured, however.

Sheriff Gives Two Theories About Murders

Sheriff Don McComas advanced two possible theories last night into the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. George Novotny, elderly farm couple, who were found shot to death in their 120-acre farm home one-half mile east of Shueyville Sunday night.

Sheriff McComas, after searching the home yesterday for additional clues, opined that the double murder was committed either with the intention of stealing money the Novotny's were reported to have hidden in their home, or by a mentally disordered person.

Harold Gesell, fingerprint expert of the state bureau of investigation, arrived at the scene of the murder yesterday afternoon to check fingerprints found on a beer bottle, one of the three clues found.

The other clues consist of two 38-caliber bullets, one lying on the floor next to Mr. Novotny's body, the other taken from his body, and a revolver holster, found behind a chicken house about 25 yards behind the farm home. The beer bottle, its contents half gone, was found close to where the holster was discovered.

Although the beer bottle denoted the same brand as beer found in the basement of the house, relatives said the murdered couple never carried beer out of the house and never threw empty bottles out in the yard.

Expert Checks Fingerprints In Creston Robbery

CRESTON, Sept. 11 (AP) — Harold Gesell, identification expert of the Iowa Bureau of Investigation, today checked fingerprints for clues as to the identity of the person or persons who robbed the Union county treasurer's office of $2,815 over the week end. Gesell obtained the fingerprint records yesterday.

Investigators said four vault and safe doors were opened in reaching the money. At least one of the doors was battered but not badly damaged, they added.

Polish Radio Station Says Nazi Forces Forced To Retreat From City as Fortunes of War Turn

BUDAPEST, Sept. 12 (Tuesday) (AP) — Declaring the German invaders had been halted "dead in their tracks," the Polish radio station at Warsaw early today said the capital's besiegers had been forced to retreat and the Poles were resisting attacks "on all fronts."

Warsaw's energetic defense in the fourth day of siege forced the Germans to retreat, the announcer said, and signalled a turn in Poland's war fortunes.

The radio said the Polish army had established itself in prepared positions along the east bank of the Vistula and had stopped the Nazis.

The front of resistance was described by the announcer as running through Warsaw along the Vistula, south to the river San, thence along the eastern bank of that river to a point near the Slovak frontier.

North of Warsaw the Polish troops were said to be holding on the Vistula, Narew, and Bug rivers in a fan-like spread.

Warsaw, shattered by constant shelling and bombing, was described by the announcer as a spearhead of what he said was the beginning of real Polish resistance after more than a week of steady retreating.

The Polish troops were said in earlier Polish radio reports to have pushed the Germans from "some suburbs."

By The Associated Press
Stubborn Polish armies checked the German invaders at two points yesterday in the bloodiest fighting of the European war.

Between 50,000 and 60,000 Poles trapped in a 24-mile wide pocket 60 miles west of Warsaw still were battling between 30,000 and 35,000 Germans who were driven back for several miles Sunday in a furious onslaught near Lodz when the Poles attempted to break through the trap.

In Warsaw itself the Poles declared they drove the Germans in retreat from the suburbs in heavy fighting, and at the same time extended their resistance to "all fronts."

An Associated Press dispatch from the German front said the German spearhead driven to Warsaw had retired to the city's outskirts.

The Poles said they were standing firm on a line running through Warsaw up the Vistula and along the San river through Poland and southeastward to near the Slovak frontier.

The Germans predicted the big battle would end by the fall of Warsaw and the "annihilation" of the Polish army.

The Warsaw radio said "Warsaw cannot be captured; Warsaw and Poland will score the final victory."

All indications were that casualties were extremely heavy; there were no estimates.

German bombers flew all day long over the Polish forces, dropping explosives methodically and returning for more; the Warsaw radio said the capital itself was a battlefield, with "many houses aflame — women and children killed and wounded."

The Associated Press correspondent with the German army reported he "drove through one bombed and burned town after another behind the front line."

Adolf Hitler himself flew to the battle area in the vicinity of Lodz, going beyond advanced artillery positions to get a first hand knowledge of the battle.

Polish advices received in Budapest, Hungary indicated the Poles were hopeful of consolidating their forces along the Bug-Vistula-San river line for a defense across central Poland.

On the western front both French and Germans rushed up reinforcements for what was expected to become a major battle, perhaps to go down in history as "the battle of the Saar river."

The French declared they were making "serious progress" on a 12-mile front east of the Saar river.

West of it, they were reported holding off German counter attacks with bayonets.

French and Germans were battling along a 100-mile fighting line.

Italy Preparing?

ROME, Sept. 11 (AP) — Reports that Italy is sending troops to Libya were circulated today after long columns of soldiers in olive gray, with kakis sun helmets arrived in Naples.

In diplomatic circles the question at once was raised whether Premier Mussolini might be contemplating a sort of "back door" war, once France is engaged in a desperate struggle on her western front, and attempt to seize Tunisia in North Africa.

Canada Acts

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 11 (Canadian Press) — Canada's parliament speedily placed a $100,000,000 war chest at the dominion's disposal tonight after forestalling amendments that would have prevented use of the money by an overseas expeditionary force in Europe's war.

Freighter Sinks

HORTA, The Azores, Sept. 11 (AP) — Twenty-four survivors of the British ship Gartavon reaching here last night reported the ship was sunk by a German submarine which attacked it 300 miles off Ushant, France.

The Gartavon sailed from Gibraltar with a cargo of iron ore. The survivors reported the German submarine appeared on the surface, fired a shot over the ship and ordered the crew to board lifeboats.

Hoover

For President?

THE SPECULATION over 1940 presidential nominees becomes increasingly interesting with the addition of the war issue to the many domestic problems which concern American voters.

If we are to have a president with experience, the choice must be between the new deal's F.D.R., or the G.O.P.'s Herbert Hoover.

The subject of a third term for Roosevelt has been nearly exhausted. The possibility of another term for Mr. Hoover has not been sufficiently considered.

If the outbreak of war in Europe increases the probability of Roosevelt's renomination, it must also give added weight to the prospect of Hoover's selection by the republicans for 1940.

Hoover's experience in the first World War gives him a background that enhances his value as the republican candidate for 1940.

His writings on the subject of neutrality have been increasingly numerous. Fellow republicans have seen to it that these writings have been widely circulated.

Repeatedly Hoover has taken a stand against new deal policies which tend toward entanglements. Not an isolationist, he still does not believe in going up to the point of "methods short of force."

Whether Hoover will be selected by the republicans is, as we have said, as much a matter of speculation as is Roosevelt third term talk.

Sense And Nonsense on The Subject of War

SOME nonsense has been talked about war since 1918; a few men have preached good sense, but mostly people generally have been too absorbed to listen.

There was a group that was certain, not many months back, that war had become so horrible that humanity, knowing its horrors, would refuse ever again to lay down its best on the battlefield.

Another illusion died when the George Gallup poll revealed on Sunday that the Ludlow amendment is losing favor with thousands of Americans daily.

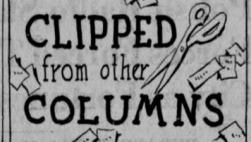

Somehow, too, it's a little pathetic just now to remember the Oxford pledge. Remember those hundreds of thousands of young Englishmen (and Americans) who pledged they would never again fight on foreign soil?

The "guilty nation" idea ought to have gone out long ago, but, alarmingly, there are still people about who say that, when this war ends, Germany ought to be placed under military guard—

"she's been a fighting nation since she had a history." Yesterday afternoon Anthony Eden was reviewing the warring history of the Germans. True, the Germans have been fighters—almost as often as the English, nearly as much as the Russians, and a little more than the United States.

And about "centralizing Europe?" Well, the long story of the fight for independence by the Poles, the Czechs and even the Germans themselves ought to prove that "national minorities" can't be dismissed with a border drawn by a cartographer.

Probably the whole matter is simpler than any of these—and more complex. It may be as simple as the fact that there are differences between nations, just as between individuals.

THE ECONOMIC ASPECT

IT IS natural that in attempting to appraise the economic effects of the war both on combatants and neutrals men's judgments should be deeply influenced by what happened in the last great war.

But the differences in the situation now and 25 years ago may prove as important as the similarities. In 1914 it was inevitable for many reasons that the first shock to world markets should be far greater than today.

At that time international trade was far freer than it is now, and the world's markets were hence much more interdependent. Today most of the world's great nations have rendered themselves—at what cost we need not at the moment ask—more self-contained. The ties of international trade had already been cut in many places by tariffs, quotas, exchange restrictions; nations accustomed to shocks, and expecting more of them, had already developed equalization funds and elaborate governmental controls.

The war of 1914, in other words, came upon a world almost completely unprepared for it. The present outbreak has been definitely feared not merely for months but for years, and experience had shown what sorts of government protection were necessary, so that both psychologically and from the standpoint of organization the world today had built its financial Maginot and Siegfried lines against assault.

On the other hand, the jaunty assumption that America as a neutral may now repeat the war boom of 1915 and 1916 is a highly dubious one. Precisely to the extent that the nations now at war have moved toward self-sufficiency not only in armament but in many other war needs, they will have less need to turn to the outside world.

Moreover, under the Johnson act the governments of France and Great Britain, or organizations acting on their behalf, cannot buy on credit in this market or raise loans here as they did in the early years of the war.

Even if the Johnson act were repealed, Americans are likely to be much more cautious than in the past in making loans abroad. The French and British governments can resell us American securities, or send us gold. But these resources are limited; and we already have most of the world's monetary gold stocks and would rather see some of it flow out than more come in.

The warring countries could pay for imports from us of essential war materials (apart from those direct implements of war ruled out by our neutrality legislation) by exports to ourselves or other countries.

In other words, instead of abandoning the manufacture of linen or perfumes or other luxuries to turn the labor and capital involved to war needs, they may regard it as more practical to continue to produce these for export and to use the proceeds to purchase from neutral countries goods needed for war.

The net effect of such a policy on our own foreign trade would be difficult to gauge in advance. It is clear, at all events, that the war will disrupt the previous channels of trade. We will no doubt supply Latin-American and other countries with some goods previously supplied by England, France and Germany, but, on the other hand, certain kinds of exports which we have been sending to the present belligerents will be cut off.

What can be said with certainty is that in terms of human welfare the drastic net balance will receive a double effect if not catastrophic economic setback from this new war; but it is still much too early to foresee the exact incidence of the gains and losses for special groups or particular countries.

—New York Times.

A MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By George Tucker

NEW YORK — To newspapermen who have no special assignment but who rove the town and write of whatever strikes their fancy, the days and nights in New York mean very little.

So many things happen during the night that after awhile your routine gets turned around, and without realizing it your day will begin at three in the afternoon and carry through until five or six the next morning.

There is a gradual change in this like the earth working nearer to the sun, until after awhile you are all straightened out again and live, for a little while at least, a perfectly normal life.

I was thinking of this the other day because one of the boys on a New York paper asked me to go with him down to the German-American pier and watch the German liner Bremen come in.

This was the day when she came hurrying through the harbor after fleeing blindly for two days and nights ahead of radioed messages, urging her to return to Germany. She was crammed to her bulwarks with Americans, jittery with war-sear, tickled to death to get home.

But I was sleepy. It was my bedtime, although the sun was high, and so I begged off and went on home. What did this cost me? What did I miss? Well, I missed one of those extraordinary events that take place with startling suddenness in moments of international unrest.

U. S. government inspectors boarded the Bremen. They searched every nook and cranny of her. Coast guard members were on hand, and they lowered the Bremen's lifeboats and rowed around just to see if they were okay.

You probably read about the search. A government official, whose name can't be used, told me they were searching for big guns. There was a confidential message to the government that the Bremen was equipped with big guns, and that in the event war broke out while the Bremen was at sea, she would mount these guns and attack allied shipping.

By allied I mean British and French and the shipping of other governments not friendly to Berlin. The government said it was doing this to ensure American neutrality. Its inspectors also searched a French liner in the harbor.

These events give a slight indication of what might happen to shipping in the port of New York in the event of hostilities in Europe. They make you think of the sudden seizure of the German vessels lying in berth at Hoboken, on the other side of the Hudson during the war.

When America went to war in 1917 the declaration wasn't five minutes old before every German vessel in every harbor in the United States was seized. Some of those vessels were used later as transports to carry the AEF to France.

HEALTH HINTS

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

I understand an extension of the operation of some of the provisions of the new federal pure food, drug and cosmetic act has been granted until January, 1940.

On next New Years day then, the people of the United States will have re-enforced protection on products that they purchase largely on faith.

The new law is a substantial revision of the act of 1906. Its most striking feature is the inclusion of cosmetics. Hitherto cosmetics were manufactured and marketed without governmental supervision.

That they could do harm was evidenced in the widely-publicized cases of blindness caused by eyelash beautifiers and poisoning of various degrees from various cosmetics.

Strong Opposition When this column first began to advocate the passage of a revised law, nearly the whole profession of pharmacists and patent manufacturers, as well as patent medicine vendors, was solidly against it.

I was surprised to find that the most respectable and conscientious manufacturers were as much opposed to it as the cynically indifferent hawk of dishonest nostrum. I was bombarded with protests from low and high. One or two senators who had fortified themselves against the displeasure of the electorate by putting away the securities of drug firms were confirmed obstructionists to the bill in committee.

At one time it appeared as if an emasculated form of the bill would be allowed to pass. I am happy, therefore, to be able to express the opinion that the present act is really a splendid law, much stronger, I fancy, than some of its opponents suspect.

To begin with, it extends the scope of protection not only to cosmetics, but to diagnostic drugs, therapeutic devices, fat reducers, vitalizing belts, contraceptives and other gadgets intended to alter the structure or function of the body.

Further Than Before The public health features go much further than anything we have ever had before. As a result of the elixir of sulfanilamide disaster, the manufacturer will no longer be able to toss a new drug into the market without first testing it adequately to see that it is safe for use as prescribed in the labelling.

No drug product can go into interstate commerce until the secretary of agriculture is satisfied that it has been so tested. Perhaps the casual citizen may suppose that such a provision is only rarely required. Note then that this is one provision that went into effect immediately on the signing of the bill, June 27, 1938.

In the first year of enforcement over 1,200 applications with respect to such new drugs were received, an average of four a working day. About half the applications were granted. Which will give some idea of what the situation must have been like before.

Bans Dangerous Drugs Another section that went into effect immediately bans drugs which may be dangerous when used as prescribed. During the year the department of agriculture seized 47 shipments of such products, mostly plain killers containing aminopyrine. Fifty-seven shipments of dangerous therapeutic devices have been seized.

Thanks to Rees, of Kansas; Mapes, of Michigan; Chapman, of Kentucky, and the late Senator Copeland, the joker that the apple growers got into the bill, which provided for a type of court review which would hold up enforcement indefinitely, has been stashed up so that review is held before the Circuit Court of Appeals. Several reviews on food standards have been held and the downtrodden consumer takes great satisfaction in standing up and cross-examining the manufacturers about their methods. It's real democracy at work.

Stewart Says-

FDR's Problem Is Simplified By Actual War

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

With the war actually on, President Roosevelt's problem in a certain sense is somewhat simplified. There's a widespread national sentiment in favor of getting behind him regardless of interparty politics and of intra-democratic differences of opinion.

Press comment reflects it. It's reflected also in the expressions by public men throughout the country. Alf M. Landon already is on record, as an outstanding republican spokesman, in support of country-wide unity. Anti-new deal democrats likewise have hushed up noticeably.

If the war of nothing but nerves had strung along indefinitely, White House difficulties undoubtedly would have continued to multiply, but a war of shot and shell is a different proposition.

Doctors can disagree as to the proper treatment of a merely nervous complaint, but when the patient breaks out into a violently dangerous and contagious disorder they haven't much choice but to concentrate jointly on the job of quarantining against him, as the president put it in that celebrated quarantine address of his quite a while ago.

The howl then was that the mere suggestion of a quarantine might precipitate an epidemic. Now, however, here's the epidemic. Critics may say the quarantine talk helped to bring it on. That's immaterial. At this stage of the game, a quarantine's essential, anyway.

Allegorical Situation Try another allegory. Suppose a building owner has a fire trap next to his premises. He says so and wants it safeguarded against. The fire trap proprietor insists that it isn't necessary. They dispute about it like everything. Owner No. 1 has some stockholders who hold that the fire trap's no serious danger. They'd prefer to have their property's manager quit disturbing neighborly relations by his everlasting screaming.

Well, the fire trap bursts into flames ultimately. In that event it's up to the adjoining owners to squirt water onto their structure, to keep it from catching. If they have some water left over, it's permissible for them to squirt it on the blazing fire trap, but their essential consideration's to prevent the conflagration from spreading their way.

Possibly the No. 1 premises' stockholders contend that their stockholder helped to set the fire trap afire by looking cross-eyed at it. No matter. Their interest is to keep their place from catching fire.

Europe's on Fire I like my allegory better than I liked President Roosevelt's quarantine allegory concocted as it may seem in me. He foresaw a fire. Today he's got it — not his fire, but one next door.

Statesmen like Senators Nye, Borah and Johnson reason that it could have been staved off if they had their way as to preventive measures and their precautions didn't work.

Around my vicinity in Washington we have fire inspection regularly. The idea is to prevent fires from breaking out. If they don't break out I think they have done a good job. If they do, I think they've bungled, but I still hope they'll be headed off before they get to my shack.

Maybe President Roosevelt's preliminary inspection has been faulty. Or maybe it's been faulty because the premises, to be inspected, refused to submit to inspection.

The latter's why. Around by neighborhood an apartment house owner HAS to submit to inspection. This isn't international. It's simply municipal.

Yeah, ships are inspected. But not international policies. A third term? It looks like it to me.

A cabled dispatch from Australia says that continent is suffering from a shortage of honey. There's also a notable lack of sweetness in Europe, at the moment.

AS IOWA'S HAWKEYES OPEN FALL FOOTBALL TRAINING

Just A Spectator?

Smackin' 'em Over

It's Like This—

The Large and the Small

An interested spectator at yesterday's opening of fall football practice was Willard Hofer, former Notre Dame football star, Hofer stopped in Iowa City on his way to his home in Rock Island after playing with an all-star team against the St. Louis Gunners, professional grid team, in St. Louis last week.

Robert "Tarz" Herman holds the tackling dummy while "Chuck" Tollefson takes a smack at it. Herman, apparently completely recovered from a knee injury that kept him on the side lines for the better part of last year, is expected to bolster the Iowa line. Tollefson, a fleet guard, is expected to see much service.

Carl Sullivan listens intently to Backfield Coach Frank Carideo as Rockne's favorite quarterback gives him a few tips on the right way to execute a pivot. The 185-pound Chariton candidate is back in school after being forced out with a series of injuries last year.

"Size means little in football" is an old adage. Paul Powell, standing between Floyd McDowell and Henry Luebecke, largest men on the squad, was out with the largest fellows yesterday to prove that the adage is so. Smaller than Russell Busk, previously acknowledged the smallest man on the team, Powell is fast and willing.

Little Hawks Appear Sluggish in Grid Drill

Striving to make his 1939 Little Hawk grid machine a more perfect eleven, Coach Herb Cormack sent his Red and White charges through their hardest drill of the year yesterday afternoon on the practice field east of the new school building. Many fumbles and poor blocking and tackling marked the workout, and Coach Cormack worked his men extra hard in an attempt to overcome these faults. The first team offense made few gains through the second team line during the first half hour of drill, but they later became more efficient and pierced the substitute line for long gains. The return of Bob Caywood greatly strengthened the Red and White line, and gave the Little Hawks at least four men for each line position, Caywood, a letterman last year, is expected to be in shape for the league games. Jack Felig appears to be the Little Hawk punter for the year, as the burly junior sent many long spirals booming down the field during the drill. John Schuppert and Johnny Graham continued to handle the passing assignments. Coach Cormack is still hunting for an adequate defense to handle the offensive power of such teams as Davenport, Dubuque, and Clinton. Ted Lewis was shifted from tackle to guard during the workout, while Ed Crosett was shifted back to his regular end position. Ken Bright was moved to the tackle post, with Virgil Parker remaining at end. Jack Hirt and Bob White worked in the forward wall, at tackle and guard, respectively. Jim Swamer and John Graham formed a double safety back combination to be used by Coach Cormack this year. Dick Martin and Bob Towner were at the wing back positions, with Jack Felig backing up the line. The Little Hawks open their 1939 season against DeWitt on Shrader's field Friday night.

Cormack Paces Gridders in Long Session

Walden Returns To City High Hopes for a good team at Iowa City high school soared last night with the announcement by Jay Walden, all-city fullback in his sophomore year in 1937, that he would return to the City high fold this term. Jay had planned to attend Atalissa high school this year. "Walden's return will help us in punting and passing," Coach Herb Cormack said last night. "He's a pretty good runner, also."

Willard Hofer, Rambler Ace, in Iowa City

Willard Hofer, one of Notre Dame's former football stars, stopped in Iowa City yesterday to watch the Hawkeyes open their fall grid drills. Hofer was on his way to his home in Rock Island from St. Louis where he played with a group of all-stars last week against the St. Louis Gunners, professional football team. He also appeared briefly in the recent all-star game in Chicago when the all-stars were downed by the New York Giants. On the Irish squad for three years, Hofer failed to find the limelight until the next to last college game of his career which was against Northwestern. All he did in that game was score all of Notre Dame's points in the 9 to 7 defeat handed the Wildcats last November. In the second period of the game, Hofer intercepted a pass and raced it back 65 yards for a touchdown. In the third quarter, with the Irish trailing 7-6, Hofer booted a 20-yard placement for the points that won the game and kept the Irish the nation's No. 1 team, an honor later relinquished when Southern California dropped them from the slot with a 13-0 beating.

Morning And Afternoon Drills At Iowa State

AMES, Sept. 11 (AP) — Two light but thorough workouts today opened football practice at Iowa State college. The Cyclones will drill twice daily this week and then will practice one day in preparation for the opening game with Coe college of Cedar Rapids, Sept. 23.

U-High Football Team Given Set of New Plays by Brechler

A steady downpour failed to stop the enthusiastic U-High gridgers, as Coach Paul Brechler continued to drill his forces yesterday morning for the opening game against Kalona a week from Friday. Many new plays were attempted during the damp workout, and most of them were successful. A majority of the plays start with an unbalanced line, with the two tackles located on the right side. From this formation plays are executed around either side of the line, or through the middle. Hugh Ribble was shifted to end during yesterday's drill, while Paul Furmeister continued to hold down the other end position. Hank Pelzer and Capt. Owen Morgan played at the tackles, with Bob Bender and Eugene Bridenstine in the guard positions. Glenn Stimmel was at the pivot position, due to the absence of Bob Bowery. Chuck Means continued to work in the tail back position, with Jack Canney at fullback. Duane Dunn and Dick Evans were the blocking backs. The Blue and White will practice every morning this week, and after school next week in preparation for the opening game.

Released

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP) — The New York Giants handed Dick Coffman, veteran right-handed relief hurler, his unconditional release today and called in three newcomers. Secretary Eddie Brannick announced Babe Young, promising first baseman with Nashville, and John Gorman, young southpaw with the Giants' Clinton, Iowa, farm club, will join the Giants tomorrow in Pittsburgh.

Majority Report for Opening Session in Good Condition

It was a plenty tired bunch of football players that trailed off the field yesterday after Dr. Eddie Anderson and Co. had given the "works" to the lads in one of the longest, toughest opening-day drills in Hawkeye athletic history. Flash bulbs boomed all over the place all during the afternoon and morning as the boys stepped up to be mugged, but as fast as an individual or group stepped out of line for picture taking ceremonies others filled the gap and practice went on as usual. Most of the men appeared in good condition, apparently convinced that chances of being among the eleven selected as the starting squad depended for the most part on their condition and ability to stand the gaff. Despite the intensity of the drill, coaches and players went about the business at hand with an informality that astonished many of the old-timers out for a look at Anderson's material. Unlike last year's opening practice session when the thermometer soared high in the nineties, yesterday found the boys working under pleasant conditions. Rain which fell during the morning failed to annoy the players as it made the field soft but not soggy. It became obvious during the course of the drill that speed must become more than a word in the dictionary to those players expecting to make the squad. The speed merchants seemed to have the edge on their less fleet brethren in what appeared to be the early first string selection. Capt. Erwin Prange, who's no sluggard with his dogs, held out at left end. Dick Evans did his stuff at the other end of the line. Henry Luebecke, looking like a shadow of his former self—the Pig Boy has put in a summer of hard work to reduce the waist line—bore the brunt of work at tackle, ably supported by Jim Walker, husky negro sophomore prospect from South Bend, Ind. Charles Tollefson, 195-pound

Margaret Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Anderson of Sac City, became the bride of Howard Westing of Grand Rapids, Mich., in the home of the bride's parents in Sac City. The ceremony was performed at high noon.

The bride was dressed in white moire princess style gown made with a long sleeved jacket edged in ruching. Her finger-tip length veil fell from a small round cap, tiara effect, covered with seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet.

Mrs. Westing was graduated from the Sac City high school and the university where she received her degree in music. Since then she has spent a year in New York City and a year teaching music at Alden.

Mr. Westing received his B. A. degree from Calvin college in Michigan and his M. A. degree from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich. He is at present time working on his Ph. D. degree and doing research work at the University of Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Westing will make their home in Ann Arbor, Mich., after a trip to the Black Hills.

Gorman-Castello

Bette Jeanne Gorman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Gorman of Reasnor and Herman Castello of Newton, son of Mrs. Erminia Castello of Newton, were married in the Little Brown church near Nashua Sunday at 3 p. m. The Rev. William Kent officiated at the single ring ceremony.

Mrs. Carl Peterson and Kenneth Nelsen, both of Nashua, attended the couple.

The bride wore a Pacific blue three piece wool ensemble with black accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of white roses.

Mrs. Castello was graduated from the Newton high school. Mr. Castello was graduated from the Madrid high school and the university. He is employed as superintendent of Maytag homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Castello will make their home in Newton.

Carrier-Kinnan

In a quiet ceremony Thursday in the home of the bride's parents in Vinton, Betty Carrier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe C. Carrier of Vinton, became the bride of Robert N. Kinnan, son of Mrs. E. L. Kinnan of Muscatine. The Rev. Floyd Weed, pastor of the Methodist church, read the ceremony in the presence of a small group of relatives.

Mrs. Kinnan attended the university where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Mr. Kinnan, who is a graduate of the university, is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

The couple will live in Muscatine where Mr. Kinnan is athletic coach at the high school.

Eby-Greedy

Frances Louise Eby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moray L. Eby of Cedar Rapids, and Johnston Colton Greedy, son of Mrs. E. D. Greedy, also of Cedar Rapids, were married Sat. evening in the First Presbyterian church in Cedar Rapids. Dr. Harry Morehouse Gage of Coe college officiated.

After the ceremony and a reception at the Cedar Rapids Golf and Country club, the couple left for a wedding trip to the Ozarks. Upon their return they will be at home at 1432 1/2 Third avenue, S. E. in Cedar Rapids.

Mrs. Greedy attended Coe college and the university where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Mr. Greedy also is a graduate of the university and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

University Will Train Civilian Pilots During Coming Year

Student Flyers In Nation Will Total 11,000

Iowa State, Drake, Coe, St. Ambrose Also Get Approval

The University of Iowa has been officially privileged to train a portion of the 11,000 new civilian airplane pilots throughout the country during the coming year, it was announced yesterday in Washington, D. C., by Robert H. Hinckley, chairman of the civil aeronautics authority.

The university was approved as one of the 166 schools, representing 41 states, to participate in the expanded flying program authorized by the last congress.

It is expected that 300 schools will be declared eligible by Sept. 18, Hinckley said. Dean Francis M. Dawson of the college of engineering said yesterday that the university will rate among the highest in proper training, conveniences and equipment. In anticipation of the ultimate federal approval, he said, a committee, appointed last July, has been laying only general plans for flying courses.

"No definite plans will be made until we find out how many students we will be allowed to train," Dean Dawson said.

Besides the university, Iowa State college, Drake university, Coe college and St. Ambrose college will participate in the civilian pilot training program.

The program, according to Hinckley, has two main objectives. The first is to insure the country of an adequate reserve of pilots who might serve military or naval units in time of national emergency. The second, he said, is to stimulate private flying in the country as a means of promoting commerce and contributing to the progress of the United States.

Local students will receive 72 hours of ground school instruction and from 35 to 50 hours of flight instructions at the Iowa City airport, it was revealed.

The expanded program, officials said, was prompted by a successful venture of training during the 1938-1939 school year at 13 colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Although the training of civilian pilots at the university will take place in the college of engineering, students in any college of the university will be privileged to attempt the various written and medical examinations of admittance, Dean Dawson pointed out.

Actual plans will be underway as soon as the university is notified of its student quota, Dean Dawson said.

Alumni Office Seeks Addresses of 401 Liberal Arts Grads

"Address Unknown" is the official classification of 401 alumni of the University of Iowa liberal arts college.

And the alumni office, in an attempt to gather information as to the whereabouts of these "lost" persons, has appealed to other alumni, through the University News Bulletin, for assistance.

The list begins with Mrs. Elizabeth Hempstead of the class of 1861 and ends with Lester Cottrill and Wilbur Dallenbach of the class of 1937. Greatest number of missing, 30, are from the class of 1925.

Bruce E. Mahan of the alumni office has announced that names of alumni of other colleges for whom no addresses are on file will be printed in later issues of the News Bulletin. The university has an alumni body totalling about 34,000.

History Repeats as German Submarines Again Sink Allied Ships

Beginning with the sinking of the Athenia, many allied ships have been sent to the bottom by raiding German submarines. This indicates that Germany is following the sea tactics she used so devastatingly in the first World War, during which the above graphic photos were taken. Top, left, a German submarine stands by as an allied freighter slowly goes down by the stern after the explosion of time bomb, used to save expense of a torpedo. Bottom, left, a lifeboat filled with survivors leaves the ship with the usual five-minute grace. Above, a torpedo, deadliest fish in the sea, speeds towards its target.

Red Clover Clipping Harmful

Discovery Is Result of Six-Year Study By Dr. Robert W. Poulter

Clipping or heavy pasturing of red clover after Sept. 1 will bring 50 to 95 per cent of diseased plants the following summer, it has been discovered by Dr. Robert W. Poulter of the University of Iowa.

The result of six years of study of red-clover fields in Iowa, during which the scientist travelled 30,000 miles, the study will benefit clover production in many states. Dr. Poulter did his work under supervision of Prof. Robert B. Wylie, head of the botany department.

Now it will be possible to extend the life of one seedling into three or possibly more years, unless winter-killed. Formerly, it was widely believed that red clover was a biennial plant. Dr. Poulter made his discovery when doing research upon wound healing of herbaceous stems. He found that the healing process slows down at the close of the growing season and during autumn months healing tissues rarely develop.

Unprotected junctions of the hollow stems are attacked by organisms in late autumn and early spring, the plants cannot wall off these diseased parts in the spring, and the crown and upper part of the tap root are decayed.

White clover and alfalfa do not suffer seriously from mowing, because of difference in stem structure, although alfalfa may be damaged if cut after Oct. 1, according to Dr. Poulter.

The French operations there have reached a stage known in military terminology as "reinforced advance guard action." That means units up to the size of regiments are holding extended positions in the front lines first taken by separate platoons and companies.

Behind the lines French troops are moving up in a steady stream. Air scouts have reported that on the German side, too, roads are congested and railroads are bringing up an almost continuous line of troop trains.

French fliers said their attacks against German concentration centers and communication lines were hampering the movement of Nazi reinforcements.

The German drive is designed to thrust the French off of German soil — out of the triangle of which the Moselle and Saar rivers form two sides. It opened

Science Makes New Vitamin K In Laboratory

BOSTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—First laboratory production of vitamin K, nature's blood-clotting agent, was disclosed today by Dr. Louis F. Fieser, of Harvard, who said the road now seemed clear for its quantitative manufacture and application in medicine and surgery.

By a coincidence, Fieser made his report to the American Chemical society's 98th meeting at virtually the same time that Dr. Edward A. Doisy, of St. Louis university who first isolated natural vitamin K from alfalfa announced to the same gathering that he had determined its chemical structure.

The two investigators had worked independently and used entirely different methods, but their formulae were identical, giving science a double-check on a development long sought toward controlling and preventing hemorrhages.

The structure, which, in technical terminology, is "2-methyl-3-phytyl, 4 naphthoquinone" is built essentially from "quinone," an organic compound used in the tanning industry, and "phytol," an alcohol occurring in the green coloring matter of plants. Vitamin K is present in spin-

Radio Chains Agree on War

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—Neville Miller president of the national association of broadcasters, announced tonight that three major radio chains had reached an agreement on conduct of broadcasting during the war in Europe.

Among the provisions were these: Efforts will be made to avoid "horror, suspense and undue excitement."

Broadcasters will try to be temperate, responsible and mature in selecting the manner in which they make the facts of war and its attendant circumstances known to the public."

Radio audiences should be clearly informed whether news is censored.

Broadcasts from Europe should be by Americans as far as possible.

News broadcasts will remain in strict control of the broadcaster regardless of whether sponsored or unsponsored.

Miller said the agreement was reached in New York last Thursday but had not been made public until Chairman James Lawrence Fly of the federal communications commission had been informed of it.

He added that while the agreement applied primarily to the nationwide networks, the general principles involved would be presented to the NAB directors at a meeting in Chicago Wednesday.

Borah Vows To Fight F.R.'s Neutrality Bill

Says New Deal Plans Would End U. S. Peace

White House Remains Undecided on Date For Special Session

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—Senator Borah (R-Idaho) promised President Roosevelt a bitter battle and "no compromise" today if he calls a special session to enact the administration's neutrality program.

Meeting with other senate republicans to discuss the controversy, the Idahoan told reporters that above all, he would oppose any hasty consideration of the program. The administration program, he asserted would "inevitably bring us into war."

At the same time, the congressional discussion, just beginning, brought from Senator Thomas (D-Utah) a statement that the country should base its neutrality policy on "the fundamental rights of a nation to carry on its peaceful pursuits even during a war without being a party to the war."

He said in an address prepared for the radio (NBC) that the present neutrality law was based on a "theory of impartiality" which "in a practical sense is utterly impossible."

From the White House, meantime, came word that the situation regarding the convening of a special session remains unchanged—that is, that a special session of congress is to be called, but that the president has not decided upon a date.

However, the general expectation here is that eventually congress will be summoned back to deal with the neutrality situation. The president's dislike for the embargo on arms shipments to belligerent nations, imposed under the present neutrality act, has been stated repeatedly.

Wants Embargo Repeal
The president proposes that the embargo be repealed. He would give access to American markets to all the belligerents on equal terms, with a proviso that they must pay cash for all purchases and take title to them before they are sent across the Atlantic. In practice, it is generally acknowledged, such a plan would permit Great Britain and her allies to make purchases here, to the virtual exclusion of Germany, because of British dominance on the seas.

Borah and his associates are firmly opposed to the administration plan. They argue that it amounts to taking sides in Europe's conflict and thereby promises involvements which eventually will pull the United States into the war. On the other hand, administration leaders have contended that the embargo is un-neutral, and one of them said recently it amounted to giving Germany an Atlantic fleet.

Wants Delay
Borah issued a formal statement today saying: "Speaking for myself, I have no intention of debate in order to kill time, or merely for the purpose of delay. But I do feel that a matter of such great importance is entitled to be considered, to be discussed and debated, in a sincere and honorable way, and I have no doubt in the world but that it will be.

"We hear and read rather strange things these days, although we are supposed to be neutral and not yet openly participating in the war. Nevertheless, there is constant suggestion about the censorship of the press, curtailing public discussion and shutting off debate.

"There is no time when fair and open courageous consideration and discussion of public questions are more essential for the protection of public interest than when we are under the sway of emergency sentiments."

was believed to have taken battle positions. Paris had its fourth air raid alarm, attributed to a German scouting raid in which the planes failed to reach the capital.

Germany suggested that Poland surrender. There were hints in informed quarters that Poland might yet obtain a "decent, sensible peace" if she would "raise the white flag of surrender."

This was predicted, however, on the supposition that Britain and France would call off their war against Germany.

These two western powers, meanwhile, dug in for a long war. The British people themselves were anxious "to get on with" the war. They wanted more proof of immediate accomplishment, growing restive under lack of official news of major air or naval action by British forces.

The Canadian government announced new measures to place the dominion on a war footing following her declaration of war against the reich.

The government prepared to spend up to $100,000,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31 for naval, military and air operations in that period. The house of commons approved the spending measure on a second reading.

President Roosevelt prepared to call a special session of congress possibly for early October, for revision of the neutrality law. The president wants the arms embargo eliminated.

Soviet officials expressed the view Polish resistance had been smashed by the Germans and attributed the situation to "absence of effective aid on the part of England and France."

One authoritative commentator even went so far as to say Britain encouraged Poland, merely to have an excuse for entering, on Poland's side, a war of world dimensions.

Despite Britain's determined attitude, peace feelers seemed to continue. They apparently were directed especially at France, of whom Goering said Germany wants nothing.

There were suggestions in informed quarters that Poland might yet obtain a "decent, sensible peace," if she would "raise the white flag of surrender."

This presupposed, however, it was stated emphatically, that Britain and France also would call to the war off. It was freely admitted that Rome and Berlin, the axis partners, were in constant touch on the situation. This indicated to observers that Premier Mussolini is carrying the main burden of still attempting to localize the conflict.

One immediate reaction to the British three-year slogan was a flat announcement by inspired commentators that Germany would do all possible to prevent articles declared contraband by Britain to reach that country.

"What they try to cut us off from," one official said, "we will in turn try to prevent reaching England."

Submarines, according to informed quarters, will determine if sink any ship attempting to carry to England, articles on Britain's contraband list. These submarines, it was added, would always proceed strictly according to internationally accepted rules.

or capitulation tonight. It is the farthest west of any Polish-held city and in a great pocket formed by encircling German troops.

Reported successes in the south, caused further joy in Wilhelmstrasse. The German army was at Jarclaw on the San river and was reported by informed sources to be virtually at the border of the Polish Ukraine, in the southwest.

The Germans felt certain there would be no sniping in this area such as they have encountered in other parts of Poland. On the contrary, the nazis expected the Ukrainians would hail the Germans as deliverers.

The Polish port of Gdynia, across the harbor from Danzig, was still in Polish hands. How long it would hold out, nobody was willing to predict. Its resistance has prevented Germany from gaining complete control of the disputed corridor.

There was an ominous quiet regarding the western front. Wilhelmstrasse officials said they had no knowledge of military activity there beyond minor skirmishes.

They also mentioned attempts by French aviators to bomb the Saarbruecken airdrome, from which the Germans had withdrawn, in the course of which the Germans said three French planes were down.

To requests for further information, the stock answer was to the effect: "You must decide for yourselves from our reports or those of the French. We feel certain a comparison of these two shows we are speaking the truth."

Persons close to the foreign office saw in Britain's readiness for a war of three years or more, not only an answer to the peace offer of Field Marshal Herman Goering last Saturday, but also proof that Britain had been preparing for war for a long time.

One authoritative commentator even went so far as to say Britain encouraged Poland, merely to have an excuse for entering, on Poland's side, a war of world dimensions.

Despite Britain's determined attitude, peace feelers seemed to continue. They apparently were directed especially at France, of whom Goering said Germany wants nothing.

Barnstormer Brings Boeing Here

Tri-Motored Bi-Plane Carries 24 Passengers, Crew of Three

Iowa Citizens will have an opportunity to fly on local sight-seeing trips about Iowa City again this week, this time in one of the large tri-motored Boeing bi-planes which United Air Lines operated through Iowa City on their coast-to-coast route before placing the twin - motored monoplane into service.

The large Boeing Clipper ship is operated by the Inman Flying circus and piloted by Arthur Inman of Coffeyville, Kan.

Pilot Inman has spent the last 16 years barnstorming about the United States and flew for a while in Mexico. He declined to estimate how many passengers he has carried in the time he has been flying but said that he carried between 60,000 and 70,000 a year for the past four years.

The large plane which Mr. Inman is operating at Iowa City carries 24 passengers and three crew members — two pilots and a stewardess, the latter being Leona Inman, wife of the head pilot.

Because of the national air progress week observance at the local airport, the large plane is not flying from there, but Inman has had a special airport constructed on the Charles N. Showers farm one mile south of Iowa City on the sand road.

His special airport really provides better flying facilities for his needs, Inman explains, because he carries his own lighting equipment with him about the country on a special truck and trailer outfit. Besides field lights and floodlights, he has a 46 million candlepower searchlight of the same type now employed in anti-aircraft service in Europe. He reports that the light is so powerful it has been seen as far as 102 miles distant.

As for the plane itself, it has a cruising speed of 120 miles per hour and a top speed of 140 miles per hour. It consumes 120 gallons of gasoline every hour in the air and the fuel tanks have a 400-gallon capacity.

He is now nearing completion of a tour of principal cities in Iowa and will be in Iowa City for at least a week and possibly longer. He spent three weeks in Des Moines and during two weeks at Waterloo he carried 4,000 passengers. In addition to the lighting system he also has a very powerful public address system on his truck. The light system operator, Carl Hall, also performs often during visits as parachute jumper. Dates and time of jumps at Iowa City will be announced later, Inman said.

Mr. Inman holds a commercial pilot's license of the highest rating for flying land planes in the United States. He has over 5,000 hours to his credit and boasts that in his 16 years of passenger flying he has never injured or so much as scratched a passenger.

Dean Gilmore is co-pilot and head mechanic with the outfit and Ralph Mickey is second mechanic.

Morgenthau Return to Peace

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., is pictured with his family at New York on their return from war-torn Europe. Morgenthau, himself, returned to U.S. by plane. Left to right are Henry III, Mrs. Morgenthau, Secretary Morgenthau, and Robert, Daughter, Joan, also returned with the family.

Father, Baby Die in Crash With Hearse

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Sept. 11 (AP)—Edward Bremer, living on route one Council Bluffs, and his one-year-old daughter, Shirley, died instantly tonight when the Bremer car and a hearse, both headed east, crashed after, authorities said, the hearse sideswiped a parked truck on which repairs were being made.

Mrs. Bremer and Richard Burnison, 25, Coburg, Iowa, driver of the truck, were seriously injured while F. H. Raynor Glenwood, not believed seriously hurt. All are in a Council Bluffs hospital. The accident occurred on highway 275 about a mile from Council Bluffs and near the entrance to the south Omaha bridge approach highway.

Authorities said the hearse and car, which was being driven into the cafe and filling station of Ed Cody, father of Mrs. Bremer, collided, then the hearse sideswiped the truck, knocking Burnison and Otto Middaugh, 17, Coburg, his helper, to one side, Middaugh was not believed seriously hurt. He and Burnison were repairing a rear light on the truck.

The hearse at refdis. The hearse, after sideswiping the truck, struck a barn, tore off one corner, then halted in a farm yard.

Statistics show that today there are 375,000 American citizens dwelling in other parts of the world—and wishing they didn't.

An American just naturally can't take too gloomy a view of the news when he realizes that wheat cakes and country sausage are only weeks away.

'War Babies' Shoot Up as Effect Of Speculation Strikes Market

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP) — "War babies" were hurled upward by a new blast of speculative buying in the stock exchange today, many up $1 to more than $10 to highest prices in the past year or two.

A stream of small buying orders from all over the country, brokers reported, indicated that the public was in the market again on a scale not seen in years.

Adding fuel to the flareup was the iron and steel institute's estimate that steel mill operations had jumped this week to 70.2 per cent of capacity, highest rate in two years.

Commodity markets, as late last week, proceeded more soberly, but wheat at Chicago pointed upward again, rising 1-8 to 1-5-8 cents a bushel, and cotton at New York improved $1.15 to $1.45 a bale. Livestock prices again receded, however, with hogs dipping 25 to 75 cents a hundredweight.

In the bond market, speculative issues bounded up with stocks, but high-grade liens continued to decline, as investors still looked for higher interest rates, and diverted funds in speculative channels.

Selling was resumed in the U. S. treasury issues, which accounted for two thirds of the turnover of $34,424,550 in the bond section of the stock exchange. Dealers said the federal reserve system was again in the market with buying orders, but several issues declined around $5 per $1,000 bond.

The violence of the advance in stocks since Aug. 31, which has carried many high-priced issues up $10 to $50 a share, and doubled, even quadrupled prices of a few low-priced shares, led some market analysts to warn that the situation was highly speculative, that buyers were gambling on a large volume of "war" business, which was not yet on the books.

Nevertheless, it was pointed out that the changed business outlook, with war an actuality, had prompted large-scale buying in several industries, in anticipation of price rises and to replenish inventories, a buying wave which in itself has given such lines as steel and textiles fat order books.

The rise in steel operations, to 70.2 per cent of capacity from 58.6 per cent the Labor day week, and 63 per cent two weeks ago, was explained by steel men as reflecting a "tremendous wave" of orders, evidently in an effort to get steel at present prices, for fourth quarter quotations are to be announced within the next few days.

The return of the public to the stock market prompted the better business bureau to state "stock frauds have by no means been eliminated in this country" by new federal and state laws, and add that the days of the stock promoter had been brightened by the reawakening of public interest.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced $1.10 to $52.20, within $1.20 of the year's high, recorded last January.

"Neutrality Dishonorable" CAPETOWN, South Africa (AP) — General J. C. Smuts, new prime minister of British South Africa which joined England last week in a declaration of war against Germany, said yesterday "neutrality would have been dishonorable."

Johnson County Red Cross To Plan Aid for War Victims

Meeting Scheduled for 7:30 Tonight at Jefferson Hotel

Chapter Will Join National Committee In Relief Work

The advisory board of the Johnson county chapter of the American Red Cross will meet at 7:30 tonight in the public library to lay cooperative plans with the national central committee in relieving immediate needs in war-scarred Europe, Don Davis, chairman of the local chapter, announced yesterday after an organization meeting in the Jefferson hotel.

Every chapter in the United States will take similar action to that of Johnson county at the instruction of the central committee, which met Wednesday in Washington, D. C., Davis said.

Chapters with production units will be asked to make surgical dressings, bandages and hospital garments for immediate shipment to Europe, it was announced.

The Johnson county chapter is classified in the productive class, Davis said.

Other chapters, not yet so completely equipped, the central committee decided, will be asked to start making garments for refugees and clothing for war-suffering children.

George Hubert and Ralph Bain, both national representatives of the Red Cross, attended yesterday's meeting and will remain in Iowa City until plans are completed, Davis said.

The local advisory board is composed of a university and town committee, headed by Prof. Elmer W. Hills of the college of commerce.

The university committee, appointed by President Eugene A. Gilmore, consists of Professor Hills, Prof. Edwin B. Kurtz of the college of engineering, Prof. Harrison J. Thornton of the history department, Prof. Ralph H. Ojemann of the college of education, Prof. H. K. Newburn of the college of education and Prof. Roscoe Woods of the mathematics department.

The town committee is comprised of the heads of four local organizations. They are Prof. Frank L. Mott, Kiwanis club; J. H. Simmen, Lions club; Leroy S. Mercer, Rotary club; and Dr. George Maresh, American Legion.

TRUE EXPERIENCE OF HOME LIGHTING ADVISORS No. 2

The Lady Was Amazed!

"In one home recently the light in the kitchen was changed and a pin-it-up added over the sink. I converted the old hanging chain fixture in the breakfast nook to indirect lighting with an adaptor and silver bowl lamp.

"The dining room was reconditioned from bare flame colored bulbs to shades and proper bulbs.

"In the living room I converted one reading lamp with cups and proper sized bulbs, also changed shades and bulbs on two other lamps. I equipped the center fixture and side brackets with ivory bulbs. I rearranged the furniture and lamps for proper distribution of light and comfort and then turned on all the lights to get a complete picture.

"The lady was amazed to see the change and offered to pay for the service. When informed there was no charge except for the merchandise used, amounting to $6.30, she said, 'I never knew there was such a service or so much to Better Light for Better Sight and Comfort. I never open the door to anyone who resembles an agent but this teaches me a lesson. I might have missed this wonderful service and enlightening information. I feel I am indebted to you for all.'

"She then suggested I call on a friend and help her."
