WARSAW GIVES UP

German Pursuit Planes Chase Lone French Pilot Over Saar

Polish Flier Tells Grim Tale Of Tragic Scenes in Capital

Aviator Escapes With Unhappy Story Of War—1939 Style

By ELEMER W. PETERSON
BUDAPEST, Sept. 27—(AP)—A Polish army flier who took-off from a bomb-pitted field in the heart of Warsaw and escaped through a barrage of German shells told a grim story today of tragic scenes in the besieged Polish capital.

He was Lieut. Col. Mateus Izycki, one of seven pilots who attempted to fly out of Warsaw at dawn last Monday. The makeshift plane he piloted made a safe landing somewhere in Hungary and today he made his way to Budapest.

Soviet Reports Steamer Sunk Near Estonia

By WIT HANCOCK
MOSCOW, Sept. 28 (Thursday)—(AP)—With Joseph Stalin in attendance, German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop conferred with Premier-Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov until 2:30 a.m. (5:30 p.m., Wednesday, C.S.T.) today.

The length of the session—four and one-half hours—indicated that several problems were involved. The talks were to be resumed later today.

Religion in Warsaw

"It is a city where priests say mass in wrecked churches; a city of never ending bedlam where heavy bombs go crashing through four or five floors and topple an entire building.

Des Moines Officers Witness Reenactment of Dreher Murder

DES MOINES, Sept. 27 (AP)—Charged with shooting Dreher and dumping his body from a moving automobile on busy Keosauqua way near the business district here about 1 a.m. July 27.

German Patrols Holding Vital Railroad Point

BASEL, Switzerland, Sept. 27 (AP)—German patrols were reported in French advance lines east of Wissembourg to gain control of an important railroad junction in that area of the western front.

Ribbentrop Confers, Stalin Attends Historic Meeting

By WIT HANCOCK
MOSCOW, Sept. 28 (Thursday)—(AP)—With Joseph Stalin in attendance, German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop conferred with Premier-Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov until 2:30 a.m. (5:30 p.m., Wednesday, C.S.T.) today.

Rhodes' Fate In High Court

DES MOINES, Sept. 27—(AP)—The fate of Walter Rhodes, convicted Iowa City wife slayer, was back in the hands of the Iowa supreme court today, with indications that a decision will be handed down in about 30 days.

Reich Reports Complete Surrender; Polish Hymns Replace Radio's Marches

Battle Ends After 20 Days Of War Siege

Informed Quarters Expect New Accord From Moscow Talks

BUDAPEST, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Polish telegraph agency tonight published a dispatch under a Warsaw dateline which said the Polish command for defense of the city was "indicating that resistance had been abandoned."

The Warsaw radio station had given no hint of surrender but had substituted hymns for stirring military marches to intersperse accounts of the lingering hours of German siege.

The station—silent since early Monday morning—returned suddenly to the air at 2:15 p.m. (7:15 a.m., CST) to describe the "destroyed inferno" as bombs, shells and fire tore and burned the once beautiful city into ruins. The broadcast lasted 30 minutes.

BERLIN, Sept. 27 (AP)—Be-seiged Warsaw, reported laid waste by bomb, shell and fire, surrendered unconditionally tonight, the nazi high command announced.

The German communique reporting capitulation of the Polish capital after 20 days of modern siege shared attention tonight with the expectation in informed quarters that a far-reaching German-Russian accord would result from the visit of Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop to Moscow.

Warsaw probably will be handed over to the besieging nazi army Sept. 29, the high command said, and General Johannes von Blackowitz has been ordered to arrange the terms of surrender.

The Warsaw radio, which almost throughout the siege had been on the air with exhortations to Warsaw's citizens and soldiers to resist the invaders, was heard in Budapest as late as 2:45 p.m. today (7:45 a.m., CST). Its announcer insisted the city still held out and would resist to the last.

The surrender, in the German view, marked the end of the short but furiously-fought war which started 27 days ago today.

The German high command, after the first brief announcement, issued a second communique as follows: "Warsaw has capitulated unconditionally. Formal surrender of the city to the German army command will take place Sept. 29 (Friday)."

Rumania Faces Triple Invasion

A triple threat to Rumanian independence and sovereignty is pictured in the above Central Press map. A possible Hungarian drive to recover Transylvania and the provinces of Bukovina and the Banat of Temesvar is indicated at No. 1. No. 2 illustrates the Russian threat over Bessarabia. No. 3, the rich region of the Dobruja, is coveted by Bulgaria. Loss of the latter area alone would cut Rumania off from the sea and end her status as a power.

Jefferson, Bogus Talent Scout, Convicted of Florida Slaying

Mandatory Death Sentence Returned By Twelve-Man Jury

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 27 (AP)—Charles Jefferson, bogus talent scout who confessed slaying a 17-year-old movie-truck school girl, was convicted tonight of first degree murder without recommendation of mercy. The death sentence is mandatory.

The jury, which had heard Jefferson admit killing pretty Frances Dunn of Miami with a hammer and a butcher knife, deliberated four hours and five minutes, returning the verdict at 10:10 p.m. (CST).

Jefferson smiled wanly and thanked his court-appointed counsel. There was no demonstration in the packed courtroom.

The defendant's counsel had said he would appeal to the supreme court if Jefferson were sentenced to die.

Jefferson apparently had entertained little hope. Before the jury retired he had said: "I'm ready for the worst. I can't expect anything else."

Ten married men and two bachelors received the case after the state demanded a death sentence against the 17-year-old schoolgirl's slayer and the defense claimed a capital verdict was impossible because premeditation had not been proved.

Rhodes' Fate In High Court

DES MOINES, Sept. 27—(AP)—The fate of Walter Rhodes, convicted Iowa City wife slayer, was back in the hands of the Iowa supreme court today, with indications that a decision will be handed down in about 30 days.

Legion Asks 'Well Armed' Neutrality

CHICAGO, Sept. 27—(AP)—The American Legion today demanded a well armed neutrality—but declined to take sides in the congressional struggle over the arms embargo.

Delegates to the 21st national convention of the organization adopted a resolution—insisting that congress continue in session during "the present grave crisis," that "appropriate action be taken to preserve the peace, sovereignty and dignity" of the U. S., and that "our armed forces be expanded immediately to maintain our neutrality."

Draft Dodger Spent 'Exile' In Philadelphia

Bergdoll Tells Court He Spent 7 of 19 Years In United States

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll calmly informed a general court martial today that during seven of the 19 years he was supposedly a fugitive in Germany he was actually living in his mother's home in Philadelphia.

Moreover, the World War's "No. 1" draft dodger, swore he had recovered the $105,000 in gold which he told army authorities in 1920 he had buried in a Maryland hillside. Actually, Bergdoll testified, the money was hidden in a closet in his mother's home.

Mrs. Emma Bergdoll, his aged mother, corroborated his testimony at his trial for desertion and escape and added, under the questioning of the civilian defense counsel, Harry Weinberger, that she had invested much of the money, perhaps $90,000, in liberty bonds.

His pretty blonde German-born wife, Berta, also corroborated her husband's testimony.

Bergdoll, now grown plump and middle-aged, said he visited the United States twice during the period of his self-imposed exile, staying four years the first time, and three years the second, but never venturing from the Bergdoll "castle" in Wynnefield avenue, Philadelphia.

As artfully as he dodged the military authorities, he dodged the immigration laws, he disclosed. The first time he came home was in 1929, Bergdoll said.

Britain's Taxpayers Mobilize To Finance War With Hitler

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Britain marshaled today her great army of taxpayers, rich and poor alike, to bear the heaviest tax burden ever undertaken by the nation to finance the war against Germany.

Seeking to meet an estimated 2,000,000,000 pound ($8,000,000,000) outlay in the current fiscal year, greatly increased by the costs of war, the budget presented to the house of commons called for a 35 per cent standard tax on income until next March 31, when the fiscal year ends.

New Issue Raised At Panama Parley

PANAMA, Sept. 27 (AP)—A proposal to eliminate from contraband lists all articles destined for the civil populations of warring nations was submitted to the inter-American neutrality conference today by the delegation from Uruguay.

The proposal got immediate widespread attention and was expected to become one of the more controversial issues of the conference.

Shippers Eye New Neutrality With Disfavor

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Ship operators fearing a sharp reduction in their business under the pending neutrality resolution, protested sharply today to congressional leaders in charge of that measure.

Their requests for changes in the resolution were met, it was said, with a firm "no" and a statement that the legislation was intended to keep this country out of war, with other considerations secondary.

The congressional leaders further told the shipping people that if, by January, when congress meets in regular session, the act should appear to be working to their serious disadvantage, legislation could be enacted then for the relief of the shippers.

Officers Raid Skelly Tavern, Obtain Liquor

Officers, believed to have been state agents, raided the Skelly tavern east of Iowa City about 11:30 last night, obtaining several bottles of liquor from patrons of the roadhouse and one slot machine, according to reports.

It was impossible early this morning to determine whether the raid was conducted by state or county officers, and details of the raid were unavailable. Both Sheriff Don McComas and County Attorney Harold Vestermark denied any knowledge of the affair.

Art W. Smith, 1607 E. Court street, proprietor of the tavern, denied knowing details of the raid, but placed the time as shortly before midnight.

Smith said there was no liquor in the tavern but admitted that there was a slot machine stored on the premises.

Last night's raid was reminiscent of raids which took place July 20 when 100 peace officers, attending the University of Iowa Peace Officer's short course, raided 18 beer taverns and nightclubs near Iowa City.

The Skelly Tavern was not included in the list of places visited by raiding parties that night, according to information given to reporters by Sheriff Don McComas at that time.

Hitler Seeks Quick Peace

PARIS, Sept. 27 (AP)—Adolf Hitler was reported tonight to be speeding concentration of his troops on the western front to be used as a club to induce France and Britain to discuss peace terms.

Soldiers Exchange 'Vesper Blessing' Shots Each Evening

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
WITH THE GERMAN ARMY ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Sept. 27 (AP)—An air skirmish 10,000 feet above a ghost city—Saarbruecken—in which six German pursuit planes chased after one French plane, the dealing of random shots known to Germans as the "vesper blessing," and artillery fire five miles from Zweibruecken to a point one and a quarter miles outside the city—these were all that happened on the western front so far as I could see today.

Today's journey took me from Trier on the Moselle river past the reich's first line of defense, then along the Saar river and the Saar valley to Kaiserslautern in the Palatinates—always following the Siegfried line.

Germans said that "desultory" shots also had been exchanged in the early morning from the French heights opposite Saarbruecken. It was certain that neither Saarbruecken nor Zweibruecken were hit by the French during our stay, nor could I detect any signs that these principle Saar valley centers had been hit previously.

Numerous German officers and privates with whom I talked, said not a single German pillbox had had to return French fire.

The Germans reported that the only fighting, outside of occasional exchanges in the air, that occurs daily, is near Zweibruecken. This the Germans call the "vesper blessing" because of its regularity about 6 p.m.

At that time the sun is at the backs of the French and the German positions are best visible to them. Not much harm is done, however, on either side, the Germans said.

Saarbruecken, an industrial city of 69,000 inhabitants, with valuable steel and iron works, is dead. The population has moved out completely. Signs on many shops read "Evacuation of this business has been completed."

Yet the French, so far as I could observe today, make no effort either to seize it—which might cost considerable loss of life because of strong German fortifications surrounding it—or to shell it directly.

With our military escorts, I entered the dead city with two other American newsmen in full view of the French. It appeared that had they desired, the French easily could have picked us for easy marks.

The German officers accompanying us made no effort to conceal their uniforms indicating their rank.

Nothing happened. We were able to press forward to a street only one mile away from the French line.

We almost felt disappointed that nothing whatever was happening when we suddenly heard the roar of motors far above us. Our military guides estimated the planes to be 10,000 feet above us. German pursuit planes were chasing one French ship.

Tracer bullets indicated they were hitting their mark. The next moment, with strong field glasses I distinctly saw a jet of fire issuing from the French plane. By a pover drive, however, the pilot managed to choke it off.

He soon disappeared from our view. Whether he landed safely behind his own lines we could not determine, but an army communique subsequently reported him "shot down."

Next On The List?

Rumania is on the spot. Unless the predictions of the expert observers are wrong, the next country to feel the tentacles of the swastika will be the often-partitioned land of King Carol, Madame Lupescu, Queen Mary and Prince Michael.

Already the "Iron Guard" has made turmoil within the borders of the rich Balkan nation. When the move against Rumania will come can not be ascertained. The observers do know that Russia may want Bessarabia back and that Germany wants Rumanian oil.

Conflict with her neighbors will be nothing new to Rumania. Her history is a history of partition and union.

In the year 105 A. D., Trajan, the great Roman soldier-emperor, conquered Dacia, after one of the fiercest wars that Rome had ever waged. He brought the savage, war-like Dacians under the sway of Rome with such good effect that their native language became forgotten and Dacia adopted the tongue of the Roman cohorts and enthusiastically took upon itself the proud name of Rome.

And after 18 centuries of warfare and turmoil—after inundating waves of invasion by men of many tribes—the country is still Rumania. Of all the Roman empire this little country of Balkans, hemmed in on every side by other races—Slavs, Magyars, Greeks, Bulgars and Turks—has alone retained the Roman name, the Roman tongue and the Roman pride.

For a century and a half Dacia remained a part of the Roman empire. But that empire decayed. The native peoples of the distant provinces rose up against the oppressor. Rumania was swept over by waves of invasion from the savage, war-like tribes that roamed over the surrounding country. There followed a thousand years of invasions. Hordes of barbarians from farther Russia and Turkestan struggled westward into the Balkans with their flocks and herds and ravished the countryside; Goths and Huns overran the Dacian highlands and their successors, the Gepids, a Gothic people and the Avars, a race of Hunnish stock, established themselves in this corner of Europe.

Then came the long migration of the Slavs, a race which has perhaps left a more permanent impression than any other invading people. With the waning of the Slav power came the first invasion of the Bulgars, a nomadic Asiatic tribe that overran practically all the Balkans, finally establishing themselves among the highlands south of modern Rumania. Further waves of aggression were inflicted upon the unhappy land by the Magyars and later by the Turks, both of which peoples finally succeeded in obtaining a permanent European residence, but fortunately for the Rumanians, south and west of old Dacia.

Through all the centuries of invasion, the Rumanian people somehow managed to keep their existence. It is one of the enigmas of history that a small people should survive such oppression and through it all retain their individuality and Roman tongue.

About the year 1300 the Rumanian principality of Wallachia first arose under Hungarian suzerainty and some 50 years later the principality of Moldavia was founded. Before that time Rumania was but the home of scattered tribes and remnants of races; but the Heroic age had dawned and all over Europe nations were arising from the ashes of the past.

There came Mircea the Old of Wallachia who fought the Turks; there came Stephen the Great of Moldavia who vanquished the Hungarians, Turks and Poles and made his state a powerful one.

Michael the Brave (1593-1601) threw off the Turkish yoke and set about consolidating all Rumania. He occupied Moldavia and Transylvania in addition to Wallachia and for one brief period all of Rumania was under one ruler, as it never was again until 1919.

Michael died at the hands of an assassin and a period of decadence set in. The Turks again oppressed the Rumanians. Russia and Austria each annexed large tracts of the country.

By the peace of Belgrade in 1739 Austria had to restore her part of Wallachia and Russia, Moldavia.

In the war of 1768-1774 Rumania again lost territory to Austria and Russia. The northwest corner of Moldavia was annexed by Austria while Russia acquired the rich district of Bessarabia, which she may now want back.

Rumania became but a name. In 1854-56 when Russia, which had acquired most of Rumania, was defeated in the Crimean war, Rumania asked for independence. A conference of great European powers established a joint protectorate.

Now a great wave of patriotism flooded the re-established principalities. Rumania became a nation again in 1857, indeed an epoch year for the ancient principalities, when Moldavia and Wallachia united.

So if Russia and Germany are to partition Rumania again, it will be nothing new to the staunch race that began as Dacia.

Let Germany talk about natural boundaries—no country has a clearer boundary than Rumania. She is hemmed in by mountains, river and sea. That will mean little to men bent on conquest. It will mean more to Germany that Wallachia is a great wheat producing country, a land of vineyards and orchards, of fruit and wine.

One writer has stated "the mineral products of Rumania will do much to develop the country." Ironically, these very minerals will but attract the conqueror. Rocksalt and copper, and great deposits of oil that have hardly been touched may soon be Hitler's.

Greater Rumania is the outcome of the first World war. Before this war and after 1866, various provinces that had been filched at different times had never been restored. She then regained Bessarabia, Transylvania and other provinces, bringing many Rumanians back under their own flag. She also has the districts of Banat, Bucovina and Crisihana within her borders now, although they once were Hungarian or Russian, and now seem once more to be threatened by the same powers that filched them centuries ago.

Next on the list? We hope Rumania can escape the fate of Poland, and Bucharest the fate of Warsaw.

In Europe during these war rations times it not only is uncomfortable to be too fat but downright dangerously unattractive.

Fall Hits Iowa City Mercury Dips To Sub-Normal Level In Wednesday Low

Fall weather has set in at Iowa City, temperature readings indicated yesterday.

The high mark for the day, while it was four degrees above the normal mark of 70, was only 74, bringing "cool" weather to Iowa City.

Low reading for the day was below the normal low, yesterday's reading of 41 degrees comparing to a normal of 45.

Temperatures a year ago yesterday, reported by the university hydraulics department weather station, were 73 degrees, high, and 50 degrees, low.

Though Iowa City has been ahead of rainfall throughout most of the summer, the year's total at present is one-half inch below the normal for the year. The total amount of fall this year so far is 27.77 inches and the normal amount up to Sept. 27 is 28.27 inches, the weather station reported.

No rainfall was recorded by the weather station yesterday.

"OVER THE RAINBOW A BLACKBIRD FLIES"

Stewart Says War Seems To Make Renomination Of President Franklin D. Roosevelt Likelier

One of my readers, out in the Midwest, writes in, mildly reproaching me for my conclusion that overseas warfare improves President Roosevelt's chances of becoming a White House third term.

"It would seem to me," he says, "that there is no logic whatever in permitting war conditions in Europe to cause the American people to approve of the violation of one of the most important traditions as to the length of a president's tenure in office. How can it be argued that we in America should abolish essential traditions of our democracy merely because of war hysteria or war sentiment or because the president at the time happens to be obligated by his office and authority to protect America, so far as possible, from being involved in war?"

"Personally I see no reason for adjournment of what I believe to be the overwhelming sentiment of the American people against a third term for Mr. Roosevelt or any other president. I should hope that newspaper writers would think this thing through and not lend themselves to such a type of political propaganda."

Merely a Prediction Where my critic errs is in taking it for granted that I was advocating a third Rooseveltian

Coons Sees Bromfield's 'The Rains Came' As One of Hollywood's Better Productions

"The Rains Came." Screenplay by Philip Dunne and Julien Josephson from the novel by Louis Bromfield. Directed by Clarence Brown. Cast: Myrna Loy, Tyrone Power, George Brent, Brenda Joyce, Nigel Bruce, Marie Ouspenskaya, Joseph Schildkraut, Mary Nash, Jane Darwell, Marjorie Rameau, Henry Travers, H. B. Warner, Laura Hope Crews.

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—Louis Bromfield, who wrote the best-selling novel of this title, has expressed himself as pleased with the screen version. Author Bromfield should be pleased.

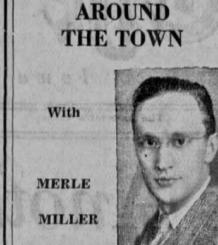

"The Rains Came" is as intelligent and satisfying a translation from printed page to celluloid as has come from Hollywood in many miles of footage. It is remarkable, incidentally, in its restraint: catastrophes of nature, necessary to the plot, are not permitted to overpower the human element in the story's unfolding.

To the Indian principality of Ranchipur, where an enlightened maharajah and his venerable maharani have selected Major Saffi (Power) to rule after them, come Lord and Lady Esketh (Loy). His Lordship (Bruce) is a pompous boor, but his wife—ah, there's a one! She's disillusioned, mercenary, and freely romantic—first with ne'er-do-well Tom Ransome (Brent), her old flame and a sentimental cynic. But that is before she meets Major Saffi, the JohnsHopkins-educated Indian doctor of highest caste. After that meeting, being a woman without morals, Lady Esketh sets her net for him, but makes no catch. The prayed-for rains have come by now, in torrents, and there is a major earthquake, almost too realistic in the new manner of screened catastrophes. The earthquake kills or injures thousands, cracks a huge dam which floods the valley. The flood brings plague, and the plague necessitates the burning of whole sections of the city. Calamity and its aftermath of human suffering do their work in the unregenerate hearts of Lady Esketh and Tom Ransome. The latter forswears brandy, assists in the crisis, finally returns the love of Fern Simon (Joyce), unsophisticated missionary's daughter. In Lady Esketh regeneration follows the same course: mental service at Major Saffi's hospital until she wins his heart. But here the Maharani and her plans are at stake. When Saffi wishes to forsake his future, Lady Esketh forbids his sacrifice by refusing to fight against the plague which has claimed her.

The picture projects an interesting modern India against the traditional background of ancient mysticism. In Brown's direction, understatement and an even, inevitable pace are much in evidence. The performances are convincing, Power's evincing new ease and credibility, and Miss Loy and Brent projecting the spirit of their roles throughout. Miss

AROUND THE TOWN

With MERLE MILLER

Neutrality and Allied Subjects I'm no more neutral in this trouble than the rest of us. . . I want England and France to win; I hope Adolf Hitler and his thugs collapse—and soon.

I want to be as un-neutral as possible and still keep out of war. . . Which is exactly what 82 per cent of us want unless the Gallup poll is wrong.

I want to penalize Germany, if penalizing is to be done. . . I want to lift the arms embargo because that is exactly what will happen then.

Democracy, I'm quite aware, has nothing to do with it. . . Poland was fascist, and Spain was democratic. . . Moscicki is an international double-crosser, and Edouard Benes is a great democrat.

I still prefer English Tories to Nazi-ism and the British fleet on the Atlantic to the kind of armed isolation the Tom Girdlers and Stephen Chadwicks advocate.

I'm rather inclined the J. Van der Zee way though. . . He thinks if we're going to have to save the British Empire every 25 years we might as well let those little islands go to pasture.

Populate Stefansson's Alaska with Englishmen. . . They'll like the climate; it's much like their own. . . And the Eskimos don't like foreigners.

Better mark down tonight's graduate talk-fest as a not-to-be-missed event. . . I'll be the first of the series, and Kirk Porter is the star performer. . . Old Cap. 8 p.m.

Personal Appearance Yesterday's mail from Joe Lash'll be about the campus come Oct. 25. . . He's on his way to the Grinnell Foreign Relations conference and will stop here over night for a student forum appearance.

Better mark that date down. . . The chem auditorium'll be packed from door-to-door for Lash's appearance. . . He's the 28-year-old exec secretary of the American Student Union, one of the staunchest democracy supporters in New York, one of those who saw Spain's battle for life and Austria's death.

All Hamilton of the isolationist Youth Committee Against War may be on the campus for the same forum, 's well as two undergrads. . . That's the 25th.

Goldwin Smith, in case you didn't hear it, thinks Canada's man-power won't be called on or needed. . . This is a battle of economics, he points out.

The Canadian recruiting station won't take college grads or Americans—not yet anyway.

M. Spann is said to have a tidy collection of Hitler jokes. . . Wonder if it includes that immortal statement said to've been made to an American correspondent.

"Oh, yes, I'm fond of conversation. Everybody listens to me, and I talk to them."

Mark down that Dod Carlson'll probably be back on the campus for the "Maebeth" production. . . Who else for Lady M?

Fred Krachel was in town last week end, fresh with Washington stories and predilections regards 1940's politics.

Fred says they aren't asking "Will he try a third time?" but "Wonder what the majority'll be this time."

That day at the Press conference was the day after Robbie Taft had announced he'd try it in '40. . . "What do you think of Mr. Taft's saying no sensible man'd want to be president after '40?" one newsmen asked.

Roosevelt twirled his cigar for a moment, grinned and quipped, "Hope he wasn't referring to his own candidacy."

The newsmen guffawed—all except one. . . His name, as if you hadn't guessed, Mark Sullivan.

TUNING IN

with D. Mac Showers

RUDY VALLEE'S last air show will be tonight. Following 10 years of continuous broadcasting for the same sponsor, tonight's show will come and go with no special ceremony. It's heard over NBC-Red at 7. Then next week, the Wednesday night show, "One Man's Family," and a new dramatic program, "Those We Love" will take over the hour, each being half-hour shows. ANOTHER LAST program tonight will be that of the Toronto Promenade symphony orchestra heard over the NBC-Blue network at 8 o'clock. Tonight they will present Brahms' symphony number one. Muskegon, Mich., will be the honor city tonight on Major Bowes' amateur hour heard over CBS at 8 o'clock. BING CROSBY while other stars are presenting their last program tonight, will return to the Kraft Music hall for his first broadcast of the fall series. Other stars on his show will be Bob Burns, who will return to the rank of comedian after spending the summer as master of ceremonies, Ken Carpenter as announcer, with vocals by the Music Mads and music by John Scott Trotter's orchestra. ANOTHER FEATURE about the last Rudy Vallee broadcast tonight will be the appearance as guest star of Jimmy Durante. Durante was first introduced over the air by Vallee and will again appear with Rudy on the latter's last broadcast. "The Fall of the City" by Archibald MacLeish will be the drama to be presented tonight on the Columbia Workshop festival drama hour on CBS at 9 o'clock. A cast of 100 persons will participate in the program. EDWARD TOMLINSON world-famous authority on Latin-American affairs, will present on-the-spot reports of political and economic conditions in eastern South America on the "Other Americas" program over the NBC-Blue network at 5:15 this afternoon. NBC is starting a series of recitals by Vickie Chase, soprano, and Thomas L. Thomas, baritone. First show will be on the Blue network a week from today at 8 p.m. The show replaces the Toronto Promenade symphony. THE THREE networks and more than 200 other stations will cooperate in the observance of Better Parenthood week, Oct. 23 to 29, with special programs. GLENN MILLER is reported to be receiving offers from a certain cigarette sponsor. Wonder why the cigarette makers always get the good dance bands and how they pay for them. ON THE OTHER hand, one of the sponsors, namely that of T. Dorsey, had to drop his show and even cancel the contract a month before it was up—just on account of a lack of the necessary bucks. THE SIX HITS and a Miss are the latest addition to the weekly Bob Hope show. They'll be heard regularly from now on. BURNS AND ALLEN will have a 57 station line-up when they open on CBS at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 4. ANDRE KOSTELANETZ and his 45-piece orchestra have been renewed by their "Tune-Up-Time" sponsor over CBS. They will continue to be heard Monday nights at 7 p.m. FOR FIVE WEEKS, starting Oct. 2, the series will emanate from Hollywood and then returns to its original New York studio. Heard with Kostelanzet are Tony Martin as master of ceremonies and the Kay Thompson singers. Also featured is David Laughlin, tenor find of the maestro. AMONG THE BEST For Thursday 6:30—Joe E. Brown, CBS. 7—Rudy Vallee's hour, NBC-Red. 7:30—Strange as it Seems, CBS. 8—Good News of 1940, NBC-Red. 8—Major Bowes' amateur hour, CBS. 9—Columbia Workshop festival, CBS. 9—Kraft Music hall, NBC-Red. 10—Dance music, NBC, CBS, MBS.

Coyotes Ready for Saturday's Tilt

Signals, Passes Occupy Hawks

Dr. Anderson Makes Changes In First Team

Signal drills and a long passing session were the major items Coach Eddie Anderson gave his Hawkeye gridders yesterday afternoon as the squad began final preparations for the season's opener against South Dakota Saturday afternoon.

Anderson, not content with a regular backfield as yet, shifted his backs around considerably. Nile Kinnick was the only member of the former "regular" backfield to keep his position at left halfback. Teaming with Kinnick were three sophomores — Bill Green at fullback, Burdell Gilliard at right half, and Gerald Ankeny, at quarterback. Ed McClain was used at right half later on in the practice as Gilliard left the field with a slight leg injury.

Ray Murphy and Russell Busk, former first string backs were working with the third team along with Bill Gallagher and Carl Sullivan.

The first string line remained the same, with Ham Snider, still holding down the left guard position in place of Chuck Tolleson who was moved to the second team Monday afternoon.

Kinnick and Pettit had their usual good form in the passing drill with Green and Captain Prasse clinging to most of the heavens. Green particularly showed much improvement as he hung on to Kinnick's bullet-like passes all afternoon.

Anderson stressed the importance of every man knowing the signals by making every player who made a mistake take a lap around the field.

The Hawkeyes will have one more regular practice session this afternoon before they taper off for the first game of the season. The entire squad is in good condition, the only injury resting with Gilliard. The New London flash should be ready for action Saturday, however.

Upset Features Tennis Meet

Bob Jensen, Seeded Second, Loses Match To Al Butterworth, 6-3, 6-2

A great upset featured the first day of real activity on the tennis front as Bob Jensen, seeded second in the annual all-University tennis tournament, fell before Al Butterworth 6-3, 6-2, in the feature match of yesterday's play on the University asphalt courts.

Butterworth's ability to keep the ball in the court was the deciding factor in the upset, as Jensen drove ball after ball out of the court. Butterworth will meet the winner of the Bob Johann-Roger Schmidt match in the second round.

Norm Sandler, favorite to win the tourney, easily won his match from Paul Houghton 6-0, 6-3, and will meet Paul Mathis in a second round battle today. Earnest Grady was the third seeded player to come through the first round, as he won from Neil Johnson 6-2, 6-3.

Charles McLaughlin won the closest match of the afternoon when he defeated Hoyt Carrier, 6-4, 6-4. Bob Bundies defeated Vic Smith 6-1, 6-1, to complete the afternoon activities.

The first round matches must be completed by tonight, with the deadline on the second round set at tomorrow night.

First round matches to be played today:

Clifton Horne vs. Leo Sweeney. Dutch Zuelke vs. Charles Marshall.

Roger Schmidt vs. Bob Johann. Louis Wurl vs. C. Bowman.

George Stiel vs. Earl Crain. Earnest Gerson vs. O. Tuckerman.

Second round matches to be played today:

Norman Sandler vs. Paul Mathis.

Bob Wollenweber vs. Charles McLaughlin.

Bob Bundies vs. John Paulus. Earnest Grady vs. Bob Monroe.

U-High Preps For Tilt With St. Patrick's

The U-High gridmen have been drilling strenuously this week in preparation for their home opener against St. Pat's, Friday afternoon, and the entire team is free from injuries.

Coach Brechler has revamped the Blue and White line-up to a great extent for Friday's contest. Only four men are scheduled to start in the positions that they handled in the Kalona game. Just three new men are included in the new set-up, however, as the rest of the first-stringers have been interchanging positions.

Murray Dawson will hold down his regular end post, while Chuck Means will be tried at the other wing.

Two different faces will be seen at the tackles, Harry Seelman, a newcomer, and Eugene Bridenstine, a converted guard. Bob Bender, regular, and Jack Canny, will probably have the guard assignments. Bob Bowery, absent from the squad until this week, will add a lot of power at the pivot spot. The one biggest change in the backfield is the conversion of Owen Morgan, two year veteran tackle, to the full-back position. Dunn will be at his regular quarterback post with Clarence Hightshoe and Cy Beyre rounding out the backfield.

City High Meets Clinton In First Conference Tilt Friday

and victory in the first contest. Pitcher Bill Swift collapsed in the tenth of the second game, yielding five hits and four runs. It was the seventh straight loss for Pittsburgh.

Unbeaten Hawklets Show New Spirit In Final Drills

When Iowa City high invades Clinton Friday night, one thing will be certain — the Hawklets, at full strength, will be out to win. It looks like one of those make-or-break, do-or-die conference clashes, with traditional rivalry serving as wood to feed the flames.

Practice-Wednesday night showed the Red and White in good spirit, as they ran through a tough scrimmage, with the first team running plays off punt formation for consistent gains. Coach Herb Cormack tapered off the drill with a review of all his game-breaking, razzle-dazzle plays, preparing for a break which may mean the game.

Eddie Crossett, first team end, was on the sidelines for most of the practice with a leg injury. Clark, a glue-fingered, but inexperienced wingman took his place. Another shakedown saw Bob Towell, diminutive speedster, take over Dick Martin's fullback post for much of the drill. Crossett will probably be in shape for Friday night, along with Don Montgomery and Bob White, regular guards, who have been nursing minor hurts all week.

Cubs Win Two Over Pirates; Climb To Third

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 27 (AP) — The Chicago Cubs climbed into third place in the National league today by slapping down the Pittsburgh Pirates twice in a wild-hitting double header, 9 to 8 and 9 to 5, each time with tenth inning rallies.

The double triumph left the Cubs two percentage points ahead of the idle Brooklyn Dodgers. The two teams made 26 hits, including 14 doubles, 8 triples and 4 home runs.

Hank Leiber's double and singles by Glenn Russell and Bobby Mattick gave the Bruins two runs

Grid Practice Begins For Freshman Squad

94 Report On First Day

Willard 'Bill' Hofer Takes Over Duties As Frosh Mentor

Coach Bill Hofer was greeted by 94 freshman football candidates last night as the first practice session of the current year got under way.

Eight all-state players were among the men who reported for practice. They included Al Eddy of Cedar Rapids, Lee Fitch of Logan, Ross Anderson of Mason City, Bob Bender of Davenport, Ben Trickey of Marshalltown, Bill Strick of Creston, Bill Parker of North Des Moines, and Tom Farmer of Cedar Rapids.

The squad list:

Ross Anderson, Mason City; Ted Allen Ballard, Iowa City; Edward Bednek, Cedar Rapids; Robert J. Black, Chicago; Francis L. Brady, Anamosa; Richard Brecunier, Waterloo; Wilford B. Burkett, Independence; Joe H. Byrd, Dallas, Tex.; Duane Carlson, Iowa City; Clarence A. Dunagan Des Moines; Tom Farmer, Cedar Rapids; N. Burt Feldman, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Robert Feller, Victor; Lee L. Fitch, Logan; Margaret C. Flanders, Des Moines; George W. Gable, Cedar Rapids; Leon E. Grand, Waterloo; Manley A. Grand, Moline, Ill.; Billy Henry, Ladora; Paul H. Hessing, Quincy, Ill.; Louis B. Hurst, Leon; Norman B. Kohnke, Bancroft; Charles A. Loux, Dover, N. J.; Robert A. Lauterback, Sac City; William Lundquist, Des Moines; Arthur Johnson, Fort Dodge.

Cross-country running makes its comeback at the University of Iowa tomorrow afternoon, and twice weekly thereafter, but it won't be trackmen doing the running.

Mike Howard, with hopes high for a successful season for his mat squad, is going to send a contingent of wrestlers loping over Finkbine field at least twice a week for the rest of the fall.

Things haven't been so hopeful for Howard's team for several years, so the matmen will go into training early.

The question mark Iowa football team has many a little question mark hanging inside the big one. Coach Anderson, who stated last spring that no man was sure of a spot, still looks on things that way. He says he may pick his starting lineup while the squad warms up Saturday afternoon.

Although the first team has remained nearly the same, there are some changes going on regularly. Especially uncertain are a couple of the backfield posts and one guard.

Evans and Prasse are working most of the time at ends, Enich and Walker at tackles, Bill Diehl at center and Henry Luebecke at one guard, but otherwise, things shift considerably from day to day.

Ham Snider yesterday took a turn at the guard post everyone thought Charles Tolleson had grown up with and Bill Green, "Oops" Gillear and Gerald Allen, all worked in the first string backfield along with Nile Kinnick, who is about as necessary to Iowa football as goal posts.

And, there are any number of possibilities floating around among the backs. Al Coupee, nursing a sore leg, worked with the second string yesterday, but doesn't look like the man to sit on the sidelines for long. Ray Murphy, replaced temporarily by Green, will have his uses at fullback, and Russell Busk, Ed McLain, Buzz Dean and Roger Pettit remain for halfbacking duty. Bill Gallagher also is expected to break in at the quarterback post.

It's just another way of admitting we don't know the probable starting lineup, especially in the backfield.

Tribe Wins; Move Nearer Third Place

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP) — Cleveland's Indians, bidding for third place in the fast closing American league race, knocked Johnny Rigney from the box and defeated Chicago's White Sox 5 to 2 today in the first game of their afternoon-night double-header.

Harry Eisenstat, Cleveland southpaw, allowed 10 hits, one more than his mates got off Rigney and Bill Dietrich, but the Indians took advantage of Rigney's wildness. Two walks figured in Cleveland's first two scores. Two more and an error came in the fifth when Rigney was forced to the showers as the Indians clinched victory with three runs.

Cleveland takes Cleveland's Indians made a sweep of their afternoon-night double-header with Chicago tonight and swept past the Dykes clan into third place by winning the second game, 7-5. Bob Feller won his 23rd game.

Irish Drill For U-High

Father Harry Ryan last night drilled his St. Patrick's gridders on passing and a variety of plays for Friday's game with University high at University of Iowa practice field.

Lean years have made a consistent winner seem an impossibility to Ryan but he is working to win his only home game of the season.

Charging, kicking and passing took most of Wednesday's practice session. Hogan and Miller are doing the brunt of the flinging with Hogan also taking the call to kick.

Don Black, shifted to the backfield from center and Ryan's hope to strengthen his offensive, failed to report for Wednesday's drill claiming a leg injury. This again altered Ryan's plan of strategy but he had a lineup intact when closing time came.

Bill McGee Stops Leaders At Four Hits

Bucky Walters Loses In Crucial Battle; Moore Hits Homer

CINCINNATI, Sept. 27 (AP) — Fiddler Bill McGee stopped the Reds cold today, beating the leaders 4 to 0 on four scattered hits, and as a result, the scrapping St. Louis Cardinals retained their slim chance of winning the National league flag.

With four games remaining to be played by each team, including the final of their present "crucial" series tomorrow, the Rhinelanders led by two and one-half contests. They still had a chance to clinch the pennant tomorrow, but their failure to hit in their last two games had thrown this town into a tailspin.

To make matters darker, the man the Cards licked today was heroic Bucky Walters, who had won 27 victories, including his last six in a row. The Gas-Housers made the most of their seven hits, one of which was Terry Moore's 16th home run of the season.

More than 25,000 fans burned almost silently as the fiddler did his stuff. The young right-hander with the blazing fast ball was in rare form. Two of the four widely-scattered blows he permitted were scratched through the infield, Walters contributing one of them.

Only once did the Reds threaten to score on him, in the third inning when an error by Stu Martin on a perfect double-play ball helped the locals fill the bags with two out. Then Bill bore down and made Frank McCormack pop weakly to short.

Series of Graduate College Lectures, Forums Begins Tonight in Old Capitol

Prof. Porter Will Speak At Opening

Neutrality Problems To Be Subject Of First Forum Lecture

"Problems of American Neutrality" will be the subject of the first in a series of graduate college lecture forums to be tonight in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Prof. Kirk Porter of the University of Iowa political science department, a well-known authority on neutrality and international law, will be discussion leader at the opening forum tonight. Dean George D. Stoddard of the graduate college will be forum chairman for the series.

Prof. C. W. de Kiewiet of the history department, chairman in charge of the series, said, explaining the purpose of the forums, "The quick taking of sides, or the sudden flare of emotions, do not belong to a community which is training itself in the arts of thought and reason."

During the first two weeks of the university's first semester, it has been evident that students on the campus are seriously concerned with the conflict in Europe. These forums will enable students to meet with faculty members and authorities and discuss the situation and its various aspects.

Usually the early school period is

Discussion Leader

PROF. KIRK PORTER

devoted entirely to problems of settling down on the campus, but this fall these tasks have been interrupted by arguments and informal debate on such questions as repeal of the arms embargo, probable fate of the Balkan states, the meaning of Italian neutrality and the objects of Russia.

This graduate college series will carry on these discussions but in a way interesting and understandable to all who wish to attend.

This is the schedule for all the forums planned on the series:

Oct. 10 — "Propaganda and Common Sense."

Oct. 24 — "The Diplomacy of the War of Nerves."

Nov. 8 — "Freedom of the Seas."

Nov. 21—"Men and Materials."

Dec. 5—"Strategy of the War."

Jan. 9 — "Psychology in the War."

Feb. 6—"Threats to Civilization."

Feb. 20 — "War and Social Structures."

March 6—"A Rational Peace."

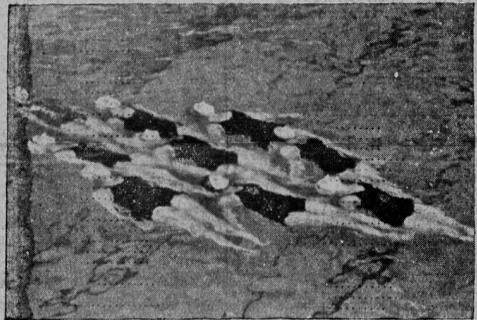

Assisting Professor Porter this evening in leading the discussion will be Prof. Howard R. Bowen of the college of commerce, Prof. H. J. Thornton of the history department, Prof. P. H. Bordwell of the college of law, Prof. Stephen H. Bush, head of the romance languages department, Prof. Orvic C. Irwin of the psychology department and Prof. W. T. Root, head of the history department.

Prof. L. C. Zopf To Speak At Drug Meetings

Prof. Louis C. Zopf, director of the university drug service, will be a speaker on the programs of two district meetings of the Iowa Pharmaceutical association this week. His talks will deal with some phase of drug store merchandising.

Today he will appear at the meeting in Ottumwa and tomorrow will speak at the Burlington convention.

Seals Club Invites University Women to Orientation Meet

University of Iowa women interested in swimming as a recreational activity are invited to attend the orientation meeting of Seals club, honorary swimming organization for women, to be held at 4:15 this afternoon in the pool at the women's gymnasium.

The purpose of the club is to provide an interesting program in extra-curricular swimming as well as aid the members in improving their skill, according to Fern Newcomer, A3 of Iowa City, president.

Seals club is open to all women who are able to pass the requirements for entrance. Those who pass the requirements of the probate test are then eligible for active membership, the president said.

Tryouts for the organization will be held on Oct. 5 and 10 at 4:15 p.m. in the women's pool. The test includes speed and form swimming and diving. It is run on a point system, each woman being required to earn at least 12 points. The test to be given to probates is as follows:

- Speed swimming: Swim 20 yards in 17 seconds or less.
- Swim 100 yards in 2 minutes using any stroke.
- Form swimming:

Required — Front crawl and back crawl in at least 7 point form.

Optional — Any other two standard strokes including breast, side, trudgeon and side-over arm.

Diving:

Required — Running front and plain back dive.

Optional — Two dives for additional points.

Plans for the club this semester include an open swim for prospective members today, tryouts for the club Oct. 5 and 10, a banquet at Iowa Union for probates on Oct. 19 and an exhibition to be given for physical education majors and interested public on Dec. 7, according to Miss Newcomer.

Regular scheduled swims with the Dolphins, men's swimming fraternity, have been made, she said. Speakers who are particularly interested in swimming for health and recreation will be presented at the club's meetings.

Seals' officers include Miss Newcomer, president; Susan Runner, A4 of Iowa City, vice-president; Kay Hrusovar, A2 of Moline, Ill., secretary; Ruth Summy, A2 of Des Moines, treasurer, and Annabelle Hinkle, A3 of Valparaiso, Ind., probate sponsor. Marjorie Camp of the women's physical education department is the faculty advisor.

5 Little Secret Agents in every bottle of Quink

cleanse your pen as it writes

How a new and revolutionary writing ink by Parker—ends about 65% of the pen troubles!

Quink owes its existence to the discovery by Parker experts that about 65% of the troubles in pens are due to ordinary inks that clog the feed, gum the point and corrode the mechanism. Hence Parker resolved to develop an ink that would protect the famous Parker pens from ordinary pen-clogging inks.

Parker chemists spent 3 years and created 1022 formulas before finally perfecting what they sought—an ink—called Quink—that is not only harmless, but more—an ink that actually cleanses your pen as it writes—a Parker or any other pen. It contains 5 Secret Agents—not imaginary but actual secret ingredients that make a pen work like a charm.

Quink is made two ways—(1) PERmanent, for everlasting records—it's as permanent as the paper; (2) WASHable, for home and school—an ink that washes out without trace if spilled on hands, clothes or rugs. Get Quink at any store selling ink—small bottles 15c and 25c, up to pints, quarts, 5 gal. jugs and 50 gal. kegs.

Don't accept a substitute if you want these results. Let nothing stop you from trying Parker Quink. The Parker Pen Co., Janesville, Wis.

James Hilton's GOODBYE, MR. CHIPS

SYNOPSIS
Before the fire in the grate, Mr. Chips, "Chips" as he was affectionately known by the boys at Brookfield School, now 84, and retired 15 years before as a master at the school, falls into a coma, recalling his first appearance as an instructor at Brookfield in 1870, 58 years before. They had ragged and bedeviled him to an extent such a racket, hurling missiles at each other, pretending all the while to be defending the new master, that Dr. Weatherly, the Headmaster, had come in demanding to know what was going on.

Chapter Three

THE CRICKET MATCH

The boys, shame-faced and apalled, retired to their desks. Chips, bewildered, battered, breathless, stared at Dr. Weatherly. He passed a trembling hand across his face. "I'm sorry, sir," he said in a shaking voice. "I'm afraid I... His voice trailed off into silence. Dr. Weatherly, his black, spade-like beard trembling with the anger that consumed him, addressed the pupils in a terrible voice. "It is 18 years ago this term since I had occasion to cane the entire Lower School. The young gentlemen of that day came honestly by their punishment. I think I can say the same for you. You will present yourselves at my study tomorrow afternoon, in alphabetical order, at intervals of three minutes, starting at three o'clock. I believe I can promise you I have lost none of my vigor."

The silence that met the Headmaster's words could be felt. He looked briefly almost incoherently at the distraught new master. "I think, Mr. Chips, you had better come to see me—after Prayers." "Yes, sir," said Chips. The Headmaster's words, uttered to Chips in the dead of their interview long remained in the new master's memory, for there was real emotion, perturbation even, in Weatherly's voice. "Our profession is not an easy one, Mr. Chips. It calls for something more than a University degree. Our business is to mould men, to demand character and courage... That caning of a whole class did not endear Chips to the pupils, although they were aware that their own outrageous ragging of the new master had brought it upon themselves. It was but a few weeks later that another incident occurred which further estranged the boys and the new master.

Dr. Weatherly was addressing the boys in the big dining hall: "Before we leave, I want to wish our Cricket Eleven the best of luck against Sedbury this afternoon. We have now won the match three years in succession. It is sending us the finest team that ever came out of a very fine school. Well, we shall give them a hearty welcome. We shall give them a big tea, but I venture to predict we will not give them—the Cup."

Instead of the expected applause, the hundreds of boys sat in silence, eyes obstinately fixed upon their plates. Dr. Weatherly was astonished. "What does this silence mean?" he asked of the masters grouped around his table. "Something has happened! What is it?" "Well, sir, it's really no business of mine—began the master he addressed, but Chips interrupted. "I think perhaps, sir, I can explain. I'm keeping my class in this afternoon."

"But that means Colley!" said Shane, the master who coached the team. "He's our best man." "Please, Mr. Shane," said Dr. Weatherly, "leave this to me. Mr. Chips, if I may say so, you have scarcely chosen a very happy occasion for the exercise of disciplinary measures." "As a matter of fact, sir, I had entirely forgotten about the cricket match, and my attention was drawn to the fact by the class in such an insolent manner, I thought it inadvisable to go back on my decision."

"You observe the effect on the entire school?" "I do indeed, sir. It is most regrettable." "Surely, sir, in the circumstances," suggested Bingham, "you might exercise your personal authority."

"Mr. Bingham, you forget that the traditions of this school are inexorable. However hasty and ill-advised be the judgment of one of its preceptors, he must at all costs be supported by myself."

"I thank you, sir," said Chips feebly. "We need not assume, gentlemen, that the game is lost before it is played. In any event, I do not consider a victory in the playing field worthy the sacrifice of a principle. The long windows of Chipping's classroom were open and the boys, sullen looks bent on their tasks, heard applause and shouts from the cricket field. "School! School!" came the cry of their excited mates watching the game. Amid resounding applause from the onlookers came sudden cries distinguishable in the classroom. "What a swipe!" "Good old Wiggs!" "Run, sir, run!" "Several of the pupils sprang to their feet, among them Colley. One went to the open window; others quickly followed. They stared out at the game, and resuscitated wildly. "It's Wiggs!" "Only six to win!" cried another pupil. "Go on, run it out!" he yelled to the distant player. "No! No! Get back, you ass!" shouted another boy at the window. This cry was repeated by others, there followed a sharp crash of wickets, with the shouting of many distant voices: "How's that?" "Out!" The voice of the umpire came to them clear and sharp like the crack of a whip. The boys at the window turned to face the class. "We've lost!" muttered one of them. They returned slowly to their seats. One of them, Moran, spoke over his shoulder to Colley. "Tough luck, Colley."

"Morgan!" came the low voice of Chipping. Morgan swung about to face the master, his features twitching. He spoke rapidly almost incoherently. "Oh, all right, sir! Sedbury's beaten us. We've lost the cup! It's not just us—it's the whole school. We know you don't care how the fellows feel! Perhaps you don't want to be liked. Perhaps you don't mind being hated—" Chipping stood, white-faced, his hands gripping the side of his desk, giving no sign that he had even heard Moran's outburst. "You may hand in your papers." He paused, and then as though forcing himself to make the effort, said: "I should like to tell you that when I imposed your detention this afternoon I had forgotten our game with Sedbury, but the make-up which you drew this to my attention left me no alternative but the course I followed. I would like you to know, too, that my judgment in the first place was—hasty and ill-advised, and that no one regrets more than Dr. Weatherly the fact that my authority had to be upheld. You must understand that, if I have lost your friendship, I have little left that I value, and I say this from the bottom of my heart." The silence continued. "Has anyone anything to say?" No one spoke. "You may go," said Chipping in a dead voice.

Chipping, despite his good intention, his earnest desire to be the friend of his pupils, had got off on the wrong foot. He was probably the most disliked of all the masters, not only for that, his first year at Brookfield, but for the nineteen years that followed. Dr. Weatherly died in 1888 and his bust now stood with that of the other headmasters about the Quadrangle. The boys were going home for the summer holidays. A youngster, running past Chipping, going down the school steps, stopped to pull up his stockings. Chipping placed a hand on the boy's shoulder. "Have a good holiday, Matthews." "Thanks awfully," said the boy ill at ease. Looking about he spied a fellow, shouted: "Hi, Johnson, wait for me," and was off at a run. "That was the way all of the boys felt about Chipping. Would he ever be able to change their attitude? A man fell in step at his side. "Mr. Chips, do you remember me?" Hargreaves. "Of course I remember you. But you've grown, you know!" "Remember the first day we met in the train and I nearly drowned you in my tears?" "I was my first term as well. If you hadn't started first, I should have done the crying myself." "I heard a few years ago you were leaving Brookfield." "Yes—er—I was going to leave. It just didn't happen, though... Perhaps I shouldn't mention it, but I rather expect to be House-master here next term. Woodward is leaving. "That's splendid. Congratulations. Well, I suppose I'm keeping you from packing. Goodbye, Mr. Chips." Even Hargreaves, after 19 years, seemed in haste to leave him though Chipping, as he murmured: "Goodbye. Glad to have seen you."

Employment Office To Place 100 Idle Workers Next Week

Will Start Grading, Paving Improvements On Highway No. 261

One hundred unemployed men will have jobs within the next two weeks, Nyle W. Jones, manager of the local Iowa State Employment office, announced yesterday. He said that most of these hundred men, chosen carefully from applications in his office, will start repair work on highway 261 between Newport and Solon early next week. Work remaining on the road consists mostly of grading and paving, Jones said, adding that five miles have already been paved out of the eight mile stretch. The office is placing half skilled and half unskilled labor, he said, taken from the local area. The Ryan Construction company is in charge of the grading, and the Sani Construction company, the paving. Jones said that his office can place any experienced farm hand looking for work in the surrounding area.

Rev. R. Hamill Ordained By Bishop Magee

The Rev. Robert H. Hamill of Iowa City was ordained into the ministry of the Methodist church Sunday by Bishop J. Ralph Magee of the Des Moines area of the church. The service was performed at the conclusion of the Upper Iowa conference at Clinton. The Rev. Mr. Hamill has been a resident of Iowa City since 1937, during which time he has acted as assistant pastor of the Methodist church and as student counsellor in the Wesley foundation on the campus. Besides being ordained into the rank of elder in the church Sunday, he was again assigned as student minister in the foundation for another year. The Rev. Mr. Hamill graduated from Northwestern university in 1933 and later received his degree in theology from the Yale Divinity school in 1936. He came to Iowa City the following year. Not only is the Rev. Mr. Hamill an active associate of young people on the campus, but he also gives attention to current problems of youth from all over the world. During the summer he spent three months bicycling through England, Germany, Italy, Switzerland and Holland, finally attending the World Youth conference in Amsterdam for two weeks immediately preceding his return to the United States. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hamill and sister, Jean, a student at the university.

Baptist Groups Give Parties For Students

Baptist student organizations have planned a series of parties and mixers for this week, including a hike, a mixer and a women's get-together. Last evening the Red Bandana hiking club, a group connected with the Roger Williams club, took an after dinner hike beginning at 7 p.m. All new and old Baptist students will meet at the student center, 230 N. Clinton, at 8 p.m. tomorrow for a mixer. Theta Epsilon, Baptist women's organization, will entertain new women students at a meeting in the student center Monday, Oct. 2, from 8 to 10 p.m., it was announced.

This Family Keeps Class Fitzpatrick Cousins Elected to Offices At Local High School

The Fitzpatrick cousins, Jack, Glen and Agnes, have the supervision of the senior class at St. Patrick's school in their hands—duly given them by election. Jack, a second cousin to the other two, is president; vice-president and the treasurer, Glen and Agnes, are first cousins through their fathers, L. C. and Ed, respectively. The junior, sophomore and freshman classes, however, follow the general rule of varied family representations. President of the junior class is Merle Miller, and the other officers include Ruth Dvorsky, vice-president; Betty Seydell, secretary, and Thomas O'Leary, treasurer. Leo Nolan will serve as president of the sophomore class with Kathleen Lynch as vice-president, Ned Billick as secretary and Pat O'Neil, as treasurer. Officers of the freshman class include Lester Duffy, president; Francis Leeney, vice-president; Earl Murphy, secretary, and Edward Budreau, treasurer.

Argue Points Of Neutrality

The first forensic forum program of the year, scheduled for tomorrow over WSUI, will deal with the present neutrality controversy, Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of debate, announced yesterday. The forensic forum is a discussion program presented every Friday afternoon during the school year by members of Professor Baird's classes in public discussion and debate, as well as members of the varsity, women's and freshman debate teams. Participants in tomorrow's discussion on neutrality will include Roland Christensen, Merle Miller, Loren Hickerson, John Fishburn, Bill Rivkin, Marvin Chapman, David Sayre and Robbins Fischer. All have been members of the men's intercollegiate debate teams. Malvin Hansen, graduate assistant in speech, will be chairman and Professor Baird will direct the program.

1939 Poll Tax Deadline Set For Saturday

Saturday will be the final day for the male residents of Iowa City to pay their 1939 poll tax, City Clerk Grover Watson said yesterday. All male residents between the ages of 21 and 45 with the exception of municipal employees, war veterans and members of the national guard must pay the $2 tax, Watson pointed out. After the lists are certified to the county treasurer's office by the city clerk Oct. 1, a $2 penalty will be assessed on late payments, he said.

Attorneys Sue City Officials For Back Fees

City Attorney Larson Replies With Counter Action Against Firm

After Iowa City lost its newest chance to secure a municipal electric light plant at the polls Tuesday, action in the form of a writ of mandamus against the mayor, city council and city clerk to force payment of $6,270 to the law firm of Stipp, Perry, Bannister and Starzinger of Des Moines for their part in the legal battle was issued by district court yesterday.

City Attorney Robert L. Larson retaliated by filing a special appearance petition in the city's behalf charging that no original notice of commencement of the suit had been filed by the plaintiff and that no original notice has as yet been served.

The plaintiff states that they were employed by the city of Iowa City in 1935 to act as the city's attorneys in matters involving the proposed establishment of a municipally owned electric plant in the city, and to represent the city in law suits which had been instituted against the city.

The petition states that the city originally owed $11,270, but that $5,000 was paid in December, 1936, leaving $6,270 unpaid. The defendants in the action include Mayor H. P. Willenbrock, Aldermen J. J. Ostdiek, John Grady, John F. Reilly, Samuel Whiting Jr., R. J. Phelps, C. E. Beck and City Clerk Grover Watson. The name of Alderman E. R. Means was omitted.

Licenses To Be Suspended For Speeding

Iowa City's police traffic school for speeders has been abolished and in its stead has been set up a "new policy" which will call for the suspension of drivers' licenses for a set period of time dependent upon the seriousness of the charge. Police Judge Burke N. Carson said that all motorists except out-of-town residents and those who make their living by driving automobiles will come under this decree. He also stated that the reason for discarding the traffic school

Doctor Flies To Mason City

As Iowa City goes air-minded more and more each day, cross-country business trips are coming into popularity. Typical in this new trend is Dr. George H. Scanlon, right above, shown at the local airport yesterday afternoon shortly before he departed for Mason City in a plane flown by Paul Shaw of Iowa City. Dr. Scanlon flew to Mason City to speak before a district meeting of physicians and surgeons being held there today. Following his engagements at the meeting, Dr. Scanlon will spend a short time visiting before returning home.

Radio Programs of New Fall Series Will Be Inaugurated by WSUI Today

Today marks the beginning of several of the year's series of broadcasts over WSUI. Bill Senner initiates a program entitled "The Future Developments in the Educational Uses of Radio" at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Today's program stresses the technical phase.

Mayzee Regan will conduct a course in elementary French this afternoon at 4:30. The Thursday's broadcasts for each week are designed for those who have had little or no training in reading French, while the Friday's broadcasts present more advanced work. These courses are coordinated with correspondence courses in French. "The Roman Letter and Story," conducted by Prof. Dorrance S. White begins today at 5 o'clock. Letters by Cicero and Pliny the Younger and Roman stories give an insight into the life of the Romans during the first century B. C.

Recordings For Studios Lovers Of Good Music

Are you interested in good music? Did you know that on Sunday afternoons in campus course library in Schaeffer hall you can hear your favorite classical numbers and without admission, too? Some students bring along their books and others have found that in addition it is a good opportunity to write that letter home. The selections are recordings and begin at 4 o'clock.

Debaters Will Try Out For Big Ten Team

Varsity Speakers Will Be Selected By Prof. A. C. Baird

Dates of tryouts for the intercollegiate women's and freshman debate squads have been announced by Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of debate at the university.

First tryouts will be Oct. 10, when candidates for positions on the 1939-40 varsity debate team will present speeches on the question, "Resolved, That the federal government should own and operate the railroads." This question will be used in western conference debates this fall.

Women trying out Oct. 12 may choose their own subjects, but freshmen, at their tryouts Oct. 19, will be limited to the question, "Will Germany win the present European war?"

All tryouts will be held in room 7, Schaeffer hall. More information on the procedure can be obtained at room 11 in the same building.

The debate program for the year will be outlined for interested students at the annual debate mixer scheduled for Oct. 3 at room 221A, Schaeffer hall.

F. R. Kuhns Promoted To Cincinnati

F. R. Kuhns, Des Moines city passenger agent of the Rock Island lines, has been promoted to district freight and passenger agent at Cincinnati, Ohio, effective Oct. 1, next Sunday, succeeding Fred Anzer, retired, according to a joint announcement made yesterday by A. Mackenzie, freight traffic manager, and A. D. Martin, passenger traffic manager of that railroad in Chicago.

Mr. Kuhns is 48 years old and has been in active railroad service for 32 years. He began his active railroad career as an operator at Kellogg and entered the passenger department in 1908. Since that time he has filled various assignments throughout Iowa at Alamosa, Brooklyn, Exira, Newton, Iowa City and Des Moines. He was born at Pleasant Valley, Ill.

Dr. James Greene, Guest Speaker, Explains Local Malaria Cases

Dr. James Greene of the college of medicine is apparently not worried about the four recent malaria cases in Iowa City.

Speaking before the weekly luncheon meeting of the Lions club yesterday in Reich's pine room, Dr. Greene said that although malaria cases this far north are extremely rare, there is no active danger in the four involved. He pointed out that malaria is an active danger only in the remote, primitive parts of the world where the disease goes untreated.

"There is not much chance of this disease spreading in a modern, advanced community such as Iowa City," he added. He explained that malaria is caused almost wholly by the bite of certain mosquitoes, most of which are found in Iowa City. Once inside the blood stream, the malaria germ enters a red blood cell, and multiplies until it bursts the cell, thereby releasing the poisons which cause the malarial chills and fevers, he said.

The best and, until recently, the only treatment for malaria was quinine. He said that this treatment on an ordinary malaria patient takes about a week. The speaker for next week's luncheon meeting will be Prof. Hubert Bowen, of the college of commerce school, whose subject will be "War Finance." O. H. Shade of the Mitchell S. D., Lions club was a guest at the meeting.
