REICH, SOVIET MOVE TO END WAR

Russia, Estonia Sign Ten-Year Mutual Assistance Pact

Treaty Boasts Far Reaching Trade Clauses

Soviet Given Right To Fortifications; Promises Assistance

By WITT HANCOCK
MOSCOW, Sept. 29 (Friday)—(AP)—The Soviet government early today announced conclusion of a ten-year mutual assistance pact with Estonia giving Russia the right to fortify two strategic Estonian islands and an Estonian port in the North Baltic Sea.

The pact provides for Russia to render Estonia "every assistance, including military, in the event of direct aggression or menace of aggression arising on the part of any great European power against the sea frontiers" of Estonia.

Trade Pact Concluded
The Soviet government announced simultaneously a trade agreement between Russia and Estonia providing for trade relations between the two nations four and a half times as great as at present, and giving Russia greatly enlarged transit privileges for her goods to Estonian ports.

The two agreements give Russia a firm military and economic hold over the North Baltic, particularly increasing her influence over the Gulf of Riga, where Latvia's port is situated, the Gulf of Finland, in which Finland is interested, and the Gulf of Bothnia, which is vital to the commerce of Sweden and Finland.

Provides Naval Bases
The mutual assistance pact, signed yesterday after four days of negotiations for which Estonian Foreign Minister Karl Selter came here, grants Russia the right to "maintain naval bases and several aerodromes for aviation on lease terms at a reasonable price on the Estonian islands of Saare Maa (Oesel) and Hiiuma (Dago) and in the town of Paldiski (Baltiskii).

Paldiski is a main port to the north near the entrance to the Gulf of Finland.

The pact puts Russian armed forces roughly 250 miles west of where they must remain now at the head of the Gulf of Finland.

Refute Coalition
The mutual assistance pact stipulates that both parties "undertake not to conclude any alliances nor participate in any coalitions" directed against the other.

Soviet fortification of her new bases on Estonian territory is not to affect the sovereign rights of Estonia and "in particular" not her economic system or state organization.

The pact was concluded, it was stated, "for the purpose of development of friendly relations established" by the peace treaty of Feb. 2, 1920—the treaty of Tartu, by which Russia recognized the independence of Estonia. Estonia is former territory of Czarist Russia.

Local Woman Seriously Hurt In Auto Crash

A collision of two automobiles, reported on the Rochester road last night, resulted in serious injuries to one person and minor cuts to three others.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Arn, R.F.D. 5, and their two children, occupants of one car, were taken to Mercy hospital at about 7 p.m. Mrs. Arn, according to Dr. F. L. Love, attending physician, is in a serious condition suffering from a fracture of the pelvis and injuries to the spine.

Mr. Arn and a daughter, Marilyn, 4, suffered minor scalp wounds, Dr. Love said. The other child, a baby, was reported unhurt.

The identity of the driver of the other car was not learned. It was reported that the two cars collided at the top of a hill near Iowa City.

Dr. Love said that Mrs. Arn probably will recover.

Stage Is Set For 'Big Push' On Western Front

This map gives the theater of war on the western front where French artillery is reported blasting into the German Siegfried line. German concentrations have been made on the flanks of the French Maginot line. Neutral nations Belgium, Holland and Switzerland, are thrust right into the center of the theater of war and continually are facing the threat of invasion.

British Report German Planes Driven From Scottish Coast

Britain Denies Alleged Attack On Warship

'It's All Poppycock' Admiralty Declared Of 1st Announcement

LONDON, Sept. 29 (Friday) (AP)—The British press association said today "a squadron of German bombers tried to reach the Scottish coast yesterday but the attempt was defeated."

British fighting planes took off from a number of airdromes when the approach of enemy planes was reported, the association said.

It added that the British planes "made contact with the enemy planes and succeeded in driving them off, no one getting through the defense."

Deny Reports
The attempted attack on Thursday reported by the press association came in the wake of a British denial of a report by the German high command that on Wednesday German planes had "successfully attacked" a British heavy cruiser off the Scottish coast.

The British acknowledged an attack on a British destroyer in that area which occurred on Wednesday.

The admiralty answered the German report first by stating "It's all poppycock." The British press association added that it "understands there is no truth whatever" to the report.

Tonight, however, the admiralty issued the following statement acknowledging an attempt, allegedly unsuccessful, to bomb a destroyer:

Acknowledgement
"In view of the continued and reiterated misstatement of the German broadcast to the effect that units in the British fleet in the North sea have been damaged by German aircraft, the admiralty reaffirms that in the actions referred to no British ship has been damaged nor any casualties incurred from German aircraft."

"The report of a bomb hitting a British heavy cruiser off May island seems to refer to the fact that German aircraft attempted to bomb a destroyer in that area at 11:30 a.m. Sept. 27, but failed to obtain a hit or do any damage."

French Burrow Deep Into Nazi Area; Planes Tail Western Front Drive

PARIS, Sept. 28 (AP)—The French general staff tonight reported a successful attack near the Moselle against German forces as advances reaching Paris told of raids by squadrons of French planes, including American-made Curtiss fighters, deep into German territory.

A general staff communique said an undisclosed number of prisoners were taken in the attack which inched into the German-held area along the eastern bank of the Moselle river, near the French and Luxembourg borders at the extreme northern end of the western front.

An earlier communique merely said there was "activity of our scouting aviation" during last night. Military circles reported however, French bombing planes were carrying out missions of "capital importance" every night against German military objectives.

At the same time scouting planes were said to be following railroads and rivers hundreds of miles into Germany, searching out information on the movements of Nazi troops from Poland to the western front.

First Lecture-Forum Favors Repeal of War Arms Embargo

University Speakers Ask America To Stay Out of Europe's War

That America should stay out of war but help the western allies by lifting the arms embargo was the consensus of the majority of the participants in last night's graduate college lecture forum in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Prof. Kirk Porter of the political science department, well-known authority on neutrality and international law was the discussion leader of the first forum.

There are three possible interpretations of neutrality, he said. The first of these, he explained, is isolation, which means keeping out completely. By this interpretation passports would be denied to those wishing to travel abroad, and the United States would have to accept the belligerents' definition of contraband and their definition of war zones.

The second interpretation rests on international law. "This is not a neutrality policy at all and wasn't designed for that," said Professor Porter.

The legalistic interpretation of international law is the third course, he said. This is based on international law as understood by all countries. The basic principle involved is that

'Americanism Comes Before Republicanism'

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the republican national committee, tonight flatly rejected any idea of a "coalition" government but said in the present limited emergency "we are Americans first and republicans second."

The GOP chieftain, addressing the New York county committee, and other party workers, disclaimed any republican - democratic truce for the 1940 presidential election.

"Nothing would be more disastrous to this nation than an adjournment of politics which would permit a blackout of urgent domestic problems."

"We are told that we are facing an emergency," he continued. "In fact, a state of 'limited emergency' already has been proclaimed. But what is the nature of this emergency?"

"No guns are levelled at this nation. No threatening demands have been made upon us. No ultimatum has been delivered. And none will be delivered. We are a nation at peace and not at war."

Krall Objects to Vestermark's License Revocation Suggestion

Supervisors' Session Will Occur Today

Vestermark Urges Withdrawal of Six County Beer Licenses

Frank J. Krall, chairman of the Johnson county board of supervisors, last night issued a statement in partial objection to an opinion rendered yesterday by County Attorney Harold Vestermark urging the "revocation of beer licenses of certain Johnson county tavern owners."

"Any tavern where the county board of supervisors has issued a permit," Krall declared, "and has operated according to the Iowa beer law, should not have its beer license revoked."

Vestermark has asserted that certain taverns are illegally operated on grounds not located on a platted village as required by state law. Records on file in the courthouse reveal conflicts of opinion as to what constitutes a platted village.

The records reveal the Newport tavern, north of Iowa City, applied for a beer license last summer, but the county attorney rendered an opinion that the place was not legally platted. As a consequence, the board did not issue a license.

Two weeks later the county attorney reversed his opinion recommending that the board of supervisors grant a license on the grounds that it was legally platted.

Later, it was learned, County Attorney Vestermark issued another set of opinions again recommending to the board of supervisors that beer licenses be granted to the Rivera and Skelly taverns near Iowa City because, he contended, they were legally platted.

Yesterday's statement from the county attorney included a reversal of this opinion.

The general store at Curtis, according to an earlier opinion of the county attorney, was not legally platted, and the Johnson county board was asked at that time not to issue a license.

The board did not grant the license and the store does not now hold a license.

Opinion Changed
According to yesterday's statement, County Attorney Vestermark said, "Since said original opinion was rendered, I have had the occasion and the opportunity to make additional observations, findings and examinations as to this particular plat of ground in question, which in my judgement justifies me at this

Angry Murphy's Department To Move Against 'Foreign Agent Nuisances'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—Displaying signs of anger, Attorney General Murphy made known today that his justice department was preparing to proceed against certain "conspicuous foreign agents who have made a nuisance of themselves."

He declined to name the agents, or to say what action was contemplated, but did assert that it would be taken at the "appropriate time."

His remarks were made at a press conference. When one of the reporters asked: "Do you mean the German-American fund?" the attorney general replied "I cannot say."

The agents, he asserted, "have made the country sick and tired of their activities, and they are mistaken if they think we will not be prepared to act. There will be no repetition of the experience of 20 years ago when this country was unprepared for the activities of foreign agents."

Neutrality Bill Reaches Floor Of Senate Ready for Debate

A.F.L. To Call For Opposition To Profiteering

CINCINNATI, Sept. 28 (AP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor voiced the opinion tonight that the AFL convention next week would call for "drastic" laws against war profiteering and support repeal of the arms embargo if assured it would not draw this nation into war.

Neutrality and profiteering, he said, were among the major issues up for convention action, and added that much consideration probably would be given the question of labor representation on emergency government agencies.

Committee Previously Pigeonholed Similar Legislative Action
By RICHARD L. TURNER
WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—The administration's neutrality legislation passed the previously insurmountable barrier of the senate foreign relations committee today and reached the long-awaited stage at which it was ready for a momentous debate in the senate itself.

In a quiet three-hour session the committee decided, 16 to 7, to report the measure to the senate. This action contrasted with the 12 to 11 vote by which the group pigeonholed similar legislation in July over the vehement protest of President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull.

But, before it acted today, the group approved amendments to strengthen the bill's restrictions on credits to belligerent nations and to ease its effect upon airplane and steamship lines flying between the United States and South and Central America.

There was no extended fight in the committee on the most controversial issue involved in the bill—repeal of the present embargo on the shipment of arms to nations at war. Opponents of repeal said they preferred to make their case in the senate itself so that all might hear or read, rather than tie the measure up further in the committee.

Break in Session
There was one break in the committee session. Senator Barkley (D-Ky), the democratic leader, and several other members left at noon to attend a brief meeting of the senate.

While all was quiet within the committee room, that was not the case outside its door. A swarm of newsmen and photographers attracted many sightseers and tourists, and all milled about awaiting the end of the meeting.

Smith To Open S.U.I. Lectures On October 5

Prof. Thomas V. Smith of the philosophy department of the University of Chicago will address the University of Iowa student body at 8 p.m. Thursday, the first speaker to appear on the university 1939-40 lecture series.

Smith is a graduate of the University of Texas. He taught literature and philosophy at Texas Christian university before coming to the University of Chicago.

After serving a full term as state senator in Illinois, Smith was sent to Washington as democratic congressman-at-large from that state.

Admission to the lecture will be by ticket. Tickets will be available at Iowa Union next week.

Nations Solve Questions Over Polish State

Will Move Toward Bringing England, France to Peace

BERLIN, Sept. 29—(Friday)—(AP)—Germany and Soviet Russia have agreed to cooperate in an attempt to bring Great Britain and France to peace with Germany, DNB, official German news agency, reported today in a dispatch from Moscow.

The report was coupled with an announcement by DNB that Germany and Russia had "definitely solved questions resulting from the disintegration of the Polish state."

In interest of all

As part of the agreement between Germany and Soviet Russia, the agency reported:

"They unanimously voice their opinion that it would be in the interest of all nations to bring to an end the state of war presently existing between Germany on one side and England and France on the other.

"Both governments therefore will concentrate their efforts, if necessary in cooperation with other friendly powers, toward reaching this goal.

"Should, however, the efforts of both governments remain unsuccessful, the fact would thereby be established that England and France would be responsible for continuation of the war, in which case the governments of Germany and the U.S.S.R. will consult each other as to necessary measures."

Foundation for Peace
The DNB report said Russia and Germany had signed a treaty last night, and that the solution of questions concerning conquered Poland had "established a secure foundation for permanent peace in eastern Europe."

The treaty, it said, capped negotiations in which German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop participated in Moscow with Joseph Stalin, Russian Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov and other Soviet leaders.

CIO Chalks Up Third Victory
DETROIT, Sept. 28 (AP)—The CIO-United Automobile Workers, campaigning for exclusive bargaining rights in the auto industry, won its third major triumph by being returned the victor tonight.

Only in one instance—at Evansville, Ind.—did the rival American Federation of Labor emerge ahead in results announced by the National Labor Relations board, and in all but one of its victories the CIO majority was overwhelming.

'Mercy Deaths' Advocated
SACRAMENTO, Cal. (AP)—"Mercy" deaths for convicts sentenced to life imprisonment were suggested yesterday by Warden Clyde I. Plummer of Folsom prison, in a talk before the Sacramento Rotary club.

Reich Seeks British Checkmate

BERLIN, Sept. 28 (AP)—Germany concentrated attention tonight on her air challenge to British sea power and her campaign to checkmate British diplomacy.

Adolf Hitler in a visit to the Wilhelmshaven naval base gave his personal attention to the submarine and air forces which Germany asserts have been successful in damaging the powerful British fleet.

The diplomatic offensive against Britain was being carried on by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop in Moscow under conditions which his undersecretaries at the Berlin foreign office said were highly favorable.

Informed quarters intimated von Ribbentrop would come home with an accord not only freezing out of eastern Europe but affecting English interests in far-flung quarters of the world.

The supreme army command, announcing for the second day a success for its air force, said a "heavy British cruiser was successfully attacked off theisle of May" at the mouth of the Firth of Forth.

(A British admiralty spokesman termed the German claim "all poppycock.")

With Grand Admiral Erich Raeder at this side, Hitler met and congratulated the crews of submarines which had returned from "successful expeditions."

Later the fuhrer gathered the officers and men around him to hear a recital of their adventures.

The offensive against England is raising the question of how effective planes can be against heavily armored surface vessels, and German aviators and submarine commanders have been vying to prove the effectiveness of their weapons.

Hitler was described as intensely interested in the matter while German opinion on the whole was moving, on the basis of official

German reports of sea successes, toward the belief that Germany has the means of challenging Britain's sea supremacy.

German naval circles stuck to the official report a British aircraft carrier was hit by a 500-kilo (1,100-pound) bomb Tuesday in the North sea. Official quarters asked whether the vessel was the Ark Royal, Britain's newest aircraft carrier.

(The British press association said the Ark Royal was "safe and sound at her allotted station.")

First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill yesterday declared no hits had been scored by 20 German planes which raided British naval units in the North sea. He asserted three German planes had been put out of commission).

German naval sources declared 14 German planes made the attack and all returned to their bases.

Von Ribbentrop's Moscow visit was reported in Germany to be proceeding "speedily and effectively."

"I would not be surprised if negotiations were concluded as early as tomorrow," an associate of the foreign minister said.

With Hitler away, no one in Berlin seemed to be informed of details of the negotiations but the expectation grew that a formal accord, probably with military features, would be the result.

Questions as to whether Poland would be wiped out completely by partition and what attitude Germany and Soviet Russia would take toward the Balkans remained without authoritative answers.

Germans were saying, however, that both Rumania and Turkey had been drawn from the British sphere of influence. They said satisfaction with the course of the Bucharest government was indicated by the fact the German Heinkel works had delivered eleven warplanes to Rumania.

Reds Win, 5-3; Finally Clinch League Flag

First League Crown In Twenty Years For Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Sept. 28 (AP)—There was joy on Vine street tonight for the Reds finally staggered through to a 5-3 victory over the tenacious Cardinals at Crosley field today and won for this city its first National league pennant in 20 long years.

In qualifying to tackle the Yankees in the world series starting next Wednesday at New York, Deacon Bill McKechnie's boys increased their margin over St. Louis to three and one half games, with only three contests remaining to be played at Pittsburgh, starting tomorrow.

It was a weird victory the champions scored today before 17,421 exultant fans. Big Paul Derringer, ringing up his 25th triumph, was slugged for a total of 14 hits while the Reds were collecting eight safeties off three Cardinal marksmen. Only amazing dumb base running prevented the Gas-Housers from at least tying the score in the late innings.

And, stranger still, Derringer would have allowed only one run if he had received perfect support. Shortstop Billy Myers made three errors, and two Cards who received a life on his misdeeds reached home. Four Cardinals hit safely in succession in the seventh inning, yet did not score.

So when Paul wound up his afternoon of miraculous escapes by striking out Joe Medwick and Johnny Mize to end the game and nail down the pennant, it was small wonder that his jubilant teammates fell upon him and maulled him all the way to the locker room. Happy Redland fans burst upon the field while whistles in nearby factories were tied down and left that way.

The annual all-University tennis tournament will be completed for the first time since 1921, according to indications to date, as the first and second rounds of the annual affair went off as scheduled during the last two days.

Bob Wollenweber, Earnest Grady and John Paulus reached the quarter finals yesterday, with all other second round matches to be played today. Wollenweber advanced into the round of eight by easily winning from Charles McLaughlin 6-3, 6-1. Grady defeated Bob Monroe 6-3, 6-4, in a much closer battle, with Paulus going through Bob Bundies to the tune of 6-0, 6-1.

Hawk Lineup Named

May Start For Hawkeyes Sophs To Play On First Team

Herman 'Ham' Snider, 185-pound junior guard from Iowa City, may get the starting assignment at left guard tomorrow afternoon when Iowa opens the grid season against the University of South Dakota.

Gillard Injured; Will See Opener From The Sidelines

Coach Edward N. Anderson announced yesterday afternoon the lineup that will start the season's opener for the Hawkeyes against the Coyotes of South Dakota Saturday afternoon in Iowa stadium. This was the first time this year that Anderson gave any set information as to what the first team would be. In some positions — the left guard and the half-backs — there were still 'probable starters.'

Burdell Gillard, who seemed destined to start at right half, will probably be kept on the sidelines Saturday afternoon because of a pulled muscle in his left leg.

Anderson had his entire squad working on signals and devoted part of the practice session acquainting the gridgers with the South Dakota plays and formations. The Hawks will work out in the stadium this afternoon for the final practice before the opening game.

Hawklets Journey to Clinton For League Opener Tonight

The Hawks will work out in the stadium this afternoon for the final practice before the opening game. Here is how the two teams will face each other Saturday afternoon:

Table with columns Iowa, Wt., Wt., S. Dakota. Rows: Prasse, Walker, Tollefson, Diehl, Luebcke, Enich, Evans, Coupee, Gallagher, Kinnick, McLain.

Net Tourney Nears End Fourteen Players Remain in Running For All-U Title

Red and White battles Red and Black tonight as the Mississippi Valley conference schedule opens with a bang, shoving Iowa City and Clinton into the limelight contest at Clinton. The winner of tonight's battle is billed as the co-favorite with Davenport to cop the conference title.

Both Iowa City and Clinton are primed for tonight's game, Clinton bent on revenge after a long losing streak against Iowa City and Iowa City intent on taking its fourth conference title in five years. Coach Herb Cormack has been driving his charges through long drills all week, and last night practiced off his squad with a concentrated signal drill and play review. Preparedness for any situation arising will no doubt be half the battle at the River City tonight, and Coach Cormack does not intend to be caught napping.

The 'River King' offense is paced by McRoberts, a brainy quarterback, and Lohendorf, reputedly a tough nut to crack, at the fullback post. McRoberts is the touchdown man against St. Ambrose academy last week, while Lohendorf paved the way with his blocking. Kincaid, a former punt-blocking end, has been converted into a tackle in the green Clinton forward wall, and is the mainstay of the team on defense.

Yanks Split With Athletics

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—Home runs decided one half of a doubleheader in favor of the world champion Yankees today and the other for the Philadelphia Athletics. With Oral Hildebrand pitching six-hit ball in the first game, the Bombers blasted three home runs and triumphed, 8-4. In the nightcap Sam Chapman smacked a homer in the ninth inning to win for the A's, 5-4. Two of the circuit clouts in the opener were by Joe Gordon, his 27th and 28th of the season. The second came with two on in the fifth. George Selkirk hit his 21st and Wally Moses his third.

Irish, U-High Meet On Gridiron Today

St. Patrick's and University high elevens will each be seeking their first '39 gridiron victory this afternoon when they meet on the Iowa practice field at 3:30. Neither team can boast of a back record as the Irish have suffered two defeats, to Wellman and Mt. Vernon, and U-high lost its opener to Kalona. However, both teams have worked to ready themselves for this contest.

In last night's practice Coach Father Ryan drilled his St. Pat's boys on passing to counteract the heavier line of the Blue and White. The Irish gridgers showed new enthusiasm and drilled willingly for today's game. The U-high squad held a long, light practice to conclude the week's preparations for this afternoon's battle. The extended drill covered everything from kick-off formation to pass defense, with a review of all the team's plays taking up most of the session. The first string staged a dummy scrimmage against the reserves who used St. Pat's plays, and the starting eleven seemed to have little difficulty in stopping the second's passing attack. A place-kicking star was uncovered in the person of Hugh Riddle, reserve end, who was given a chance to show his stuff in the place-kicking tryouts.

Coach Brecher seems to be more pleased with the Blue and White's workouts this week, and intends to start his new lineup. St. Pat's: Robinson, LeBeau, Dawson, Beasley, Seelman, Red, Bender, Glasco, Bowers, Billick, Canny, Loney, Bridenstine, Kelley, Means, Miller, Dunn, Hogan, Highshoe, Black, Beyne, Daly, Morgan.

Freshman Gridder Goes to Hospital

John Zeisemer, All-Suburban center from Maywood Proviso high school, Maywood, Illinois is listed as the first casualty on the freshman squad. When John complained of pains in his side, he was taken to the University hospital where an appendectomy was performed under local anesthesia. Zeisemer was resting comfortably yesterday afternoon but he was lamenting the fact that he could not get out to the practice field.

Bues Lose Pilot

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Harold (Pie) Traynor, one of baseball's greatest third basemen and manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates for five years, resigned yesterday as the sixth-place Buccaners neared the end of their poorest season since 1917. ARCHIBALD WINS WASHINGTON (AP)—Joey Archibald, featherweight champion of the world, successfully defended his crown last night by winning the decision in a 15 round fight with Harry Jeffra of Baltimore.

Iowa City should be in top shape tonight, with all minor injuries of several Hawklet players practically healed. Coach Cormack indicated that he is not altogether satisfied with the play of a few regulars, and may start some new faces in the Little Hawk lineup. A squad of 33 men will make the trip. The linemen are Swanner, Hirt, Caywood, Hubbert, Parker, Newlin, White, Kincaid, Bright, Radziejew, Crosssett or Swanner, RE, Martinson, Voelckers, QB, McRoberts, Martin, LH, Obermiller, Lewis, RH, McLaughlin, Fetig, FB, Lohendorf.

'On Iowa' Club Will Attend Five Previews

Football and football fashions take the spotlight in Iowa City tomorrow, despite the approaching 'World Series', as the University of Iowa takes the field for the 1939 opener before an anticipated first game crowd of near 20,000. And, while fans check up on the latest offerings in overcoats and blankets for the chillier gridiron days, Hawkeye players have something to look forward to — something besides the uniforms that make their debut against South Dakota. Harry Bremer, one of Iowa City's sports following merchants, will see to it that at least one of the Hawkeyes wears a hat after tomorrow's contest. Bremer came forth yesterday with the offer of a five-dollar lid to the Iowan who first crosses enemy goal lines. That takes care of the scoring department. The local fans want a balanced team, so Punch Dunkel will hang neckties, not a Christmas present pattern either, about the lucky necks of all fumble recovering Hawks. The defensive portion of play comes in for its share of the attention by Bob and Henry's desire to stop the Coyotes cold on the opening kickoff. They will give a two-dollar shirt to the man making Iowa's opening tackle of the season. (Watch the first ball-carrier go down). Back to the fans again, there are a few new football accessories to make fandom easier, pleasanter and more informative. A colored 'Albert Richards' football map listing every major football school and conference in the country is being given away at Bremer's. It combines football information with decoration as equipment for a room. There are, of course, the old standbys, pennants, gaudily colored team schedules and other minor additions, to give crowds the same 'Ready for Action' feeling that a golfer experiences on arriving at a driving range with 18 clubs. The press boxes, too, are filled with the latest inventions. There is a new device by which play-by-play accounts are made easy to keep, the only drawback being that they are too easily kept, no one caring enough about a grid contest to decipher what looks like the combined efforts of the treasury department and the census bureau. Only the coaches have nothing new. They will suffer from the same old troubles and take the same old remedy. The trend toward modernization of football, it appears, will never displace aspirin.

Membership in the club may be secured for the season by purchase of a membership card for 25 cents, at the extension division office in east hall or the alumni office in Old Capitol. First of the series will be, of course on the South Dakota game of tomorrow. The films will be ready for the 'On Iowa' club's first meeting next Wednesday evening at 7:30. The movies will include a running account of the game accompanied by appropriate music and a commentator, probably one of the WSUI announcers, along with pictures of the crowd and the field performances during the half. After the showings will be the opportunity for football followers to ask questions on the games. Coach Eddie Anderson, or one of his staff members, will take charge of a question and answer program to explain the details of the game in question and to settle any doubts as to different parts of the contests. Besides the series of five grid games, there are plans to extend the 'On Iowa' club into other university sports. Later possibilities include basketball, wrestling, swimming, track and baseball, with the membership requirements remaining the same as during the club's gridiron beginning. Game pictures which are planned for the club and the dates of the 'On Iowa' meetings are: South Dakota—Wed. Oct. 4, Indiana—Thurs., Oct. 12, Wisconsin—Wed. Nov. 1, Notre Dame—Thurs. Nov. 16, Minnesota—Wed. Nov. 22. There will be no single admissions for pictures, members being required to secure a regular card at the 25 cents purchase price which includes all of the five games. Leonard Puzzles Bases WASHINGTON (AP)—Dutch Leonard won his 20th game of the year yesterday when Washington beat Boston, 6-1, in the second game of a doubleheader. In the first game the veteran Lefty Grove captured his 15th game as the Red Sox tripped up the Senators, 4-2.

Local Classic Starts at 3:30 This Afternoon

Coach Charles Kennett announced Thursday evening that Hawkeye lettermen had elected the two senior stars to the honor. Hoak reached his peak performance in the National Collegiate tourney and in the Iowa amateur. He defeated the Big Ten champion, Sid Richardson, in the Iowa affair. Pittman played good golf most of the time in 1939 and according to Coach Kennett has fine possibilities for 1940. The Iowa coach said that 15 men now are working on the varsity squad in fall drill, and will continue to do so as long as the weather is good. Personnel of the squad follows: Ralph Bohlin of Michigan City, City; David Collison of Marshalltown; David Foerster of Iowa City; Robert Gustafson of Council Bluffs; William Jenks of Des Moines; Owen Hintz of Osceola; Jim Hoak of Des Moines; Charles Maplethorpe of Toledo; Martin Everson of Havre, Mont.; Robert Lattig of Nevada; Harold Olinsted of Mt. Airy; Clayton Pittman of Mt. Pleasant; John Trevathorn of Knoxvile; and Richard Norton of Algona.

Dodgers, Bees Divide

BOSTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston Bees battled through two tight pitching duels today to a draw, the Bees winning the first, 3-1, and the Dodgers the second, 3-0. Giants Drub Phils

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28 (AP)—Ganging up on Ray Harrell for three runs in the sixth and five more in the eighth, the New York Giants took the second game of a doubleheader, 8-3, for a sweep of the day's business with the Phillies after winning the opener, 4-3. # The University Band Inaugurates A New Year In Iowa Stadium Tomorrow- Professor Righter's 'Double-Header' Unit To Make Debut

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of stories dealing with the University of Iowa band, one of the top flight marching organizations in the Big Ten. The band, under the direction of Prof. Charles B. Righter, opens a new season on the Iowa gridiron tomorrow afternoon, when Iowa's Hawkeyes meet South Dakota.)

By STAFF WRITERS
"The two most important notes of any song are the first and last, so let's hear them," shouted Prof. Charles B. Righter, director of university bands, as he supervised the rehearsal of the football band preparing for the Iowa-South Dakota football game here tomorrow afternoon.

eight-foot director's tower situated on the edge of the practice field between the field house and stadium, directs both music and marching of the 120-man band. In addition to the band, Professor Righter plans and directs the movements of the Scottish Highlanders, the Pershing Rifles crack squad and the Pontoniers crack squad, divisions of the Iowa R. O. T. C. unit.

Only band members and their directors, whose moments of glory come at the brief half-time moments at Iowa games, appreciate the effort that brings a coordinated and impressive ceremony of a Saturday afternoon.

If football games have heroes off the gridiron — frequently unsung—they are the members of university bands.

Professor Righter this year begins his third year as director of Iowa bands. His marching aggregation began rehearsals Wednesday afternoon. Yesterday's rehearsal and one today will conclude the practice for the week's appearance tomorrow.

When the band appears tomorrow, fans will see in action for what is believed to be the first time at any university, what Professor Righter calls his "double-ended" band.

Convinced that more time has been lost in changing the direction of a marching band from north to east, for example (and equally convinced that that difficult maneuver is too often sloppily done) Professor Righter this year will inaugurate a band strikingly similar to the famous "pushmi-pullyi," the two-headed animal Dr. Doolittle discovered in Africa way back in your childhood days.

The Iowa band this year will have two heads. There'll be a drum major on each end. There'll be a row of trombones on each end, and the rest of the instruments will be organized symmetrically about the central bass drum.

Then, when the Iowa band turns a corner, the process becomes a simple one. The band executes a "to the rear" march, and what formerly took two minutes to head the front rank in the opposite direction by means of a couple of right or left turns is accomplished almost instantaneously.

Drum majors have many a time been forced to walk faster than the band to assume their positions after a turn. The new Iowa system will fix that, too, because when Iowa's double-header band turns around, there's a second drum major, walking at what had been the rear of the organization, now ready to take over at a suddenly created new front of the band.

used as far as we know," Professor Righter explained.

In keeping with the new idea, right and left flank movements will replace the old-style right and left turns for the band this year, speeding up maneuvers and adding snap to appearances.

The two drum majors who will lead the 120-man organization's 1939 maneuvers are Parley Wellstead, A3 of Ottumwa, and Jean Hedlund, A2 of Des Moines.

Tomorrow's drill will start the 1939 Hawkeye season with the traditional flag-raising ceremony, followed by two formations of "Hello" for the benefit of Iowa fans and visitors from South Dakota.

mations will be one commemorating the opening of Iowa's new WSUI studios.

Between halves the band, playing "Down the Field" march, will move from the west sideline onto the field to form "SO. DAK." as a salute to the visitors. Facing the Iowa stands and playing "On Iowa," they then will form the word "HAWKS."

As a tribute to the university radio station now in its new quarters in the engineering building, both the band and the Highlanders will form "WSUI," following with a replica of a radio tower which will extend across the field. In this formation they will play "Stand Up and Cheer," after which they will break formation, playing the Notre Dame "Victory March."

A special drill with appropriate Scotch music will be presented by the Highlanders in midfield.

Both groups will leave the field, the band from the south and playing "Our Director" march, and the Highlanders crossing the field from east to west playing a Scotch folk song.

Those who watched the Iowa band last year will remember that the organization's class was widely publicized. After a summer's work, Professor Righter and his assistants, Hugh Gundersen and Stanley Willson, have promised that the coming season will find the band "blowing its top" with brighter, snappier marching maneuvers than ever before.

Their coats discarded because of Iowa City's unpredictable fall weather, which yesterday turned exceedingly warm after several cool days, University of Iowa bandmen prepare for their opening appearance of the fall marching year on the practice field west of the field house. Tomorrow will see a more colorful outfit in action, when the band takes the field in uniform. Iowa bandmen wear red coats with black and gold trim, black trousers with gold stripe and gold gloves. Black and gold military caps are their headgear. Heading the Iowa marching units tomorrow will be Iowa's Big Ten banner bearers and trumpeters—a new unit of the organization added last year. Players of important parts in the half-time maneuvers with the band are the Scottish Highlanders, Pershing Rifles and Pontoniers—units of Iowa's R.O.T.C.

Introducing The Drum Majors—

Parley Wellstead, A4 of Ottumwa, right, and Jean Hedlund, A2 of Des Moines, will be at the "two helmets" when the University of Iowa band takes the field tomorrow afternoon for the opening appearance of the year for the Hawkeye marching organization.

Inaugurating a new idea this year, the band will be a double-header outfit, enabled speedier and snappier turns in the midst of execution of maneuvers. The two drum majors coordinate their work—each leading the marchers from time to time.

James Hilton's GOOD BYE, MR. CHIPS

ADAPTED FROM THE METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER PICTURE BY LEBBEUS MITCHELL

Charles Edward Chipping had been a master at the Brookfield School for boys for twenty years. Of a shy and diffident nature he had got in wrong with the boys at the start of his career as a school teacher, and had never won the friendship of his pupils. He had unfortunately, detained the class on the afternoon of an important cricket game in which one of his pupils was to have been a star player. The game had been lost, and with that bit of disciplinary measure, the first possibility of winning the friendship of the boys.

Chapter Four

INVITATION TO AUSTRIA
Chipping continued on to the masters' common room. They, too, would be departing for the summer, and he wanted to tell them goodbye. He found Herr Max Staefel, the German master, a healthy comradely Viennese, cutting up cake which his class had given him, and sharing it with the other masters. "Mind if I borrow this book to read on the train?" asked Hudson. "Go ahead," replied Staefel. "H. G. Wells," said Hudson. "Never heard of him."

"It's his best. He'll never come to anything. It's too fantastic. Ah, Chipping, where are you going for your holiday?" "Harrogate," replied Hudson for him. "He always does. Aren't you fed up with it, Chipping, after 20 years?" "It's a nice, quiet hotel and I'm used to it."

The school porter came in and Staefel invited him to have a piece of cake. "Thanks, but I've got work to be done. The 'Eadmaster's compliments, Mr. Chipping, and I'd like to see you in 's study right away."

Sudden silence followed as the porter left. Chipping's face lighted up involuntarily. "I say, I'll bet that's about taking over Woodward's house," said Hudson. "Congratulations, Chipping."

The other masters chimed in. "Yes, indeed." "You certainly deserve it after all this time." "So glad, old man."

"It's quite a surprise, if so," said Chipping somewhat incoherently. "I had rather hoped you know, Well, I think I'd better go."

"See, Chipping," cried Max Staefel. "I knock on wood for you!" "Charteris, the Headmaster, a handsome, kindly man of about 45, seemed slightly embarrassed as Chipping entered his study. He hurriedly said:

"I suppose you have guessed why I wanted to see you Mr. Chipping."

"Yes, sir," replied Chipping in an anticipatory voice. "You are the senior master and normally the vacancy would go to you. Charteris has died on at the apprehension that dawned in Chipping's face: "That is why I felt in fairness I should explain to you personally why the Governors and I have decided to appoint Mr. Wilkinson. We—er—felt that with your unusual gift for getting work out of the boys, you would prefer to concentrate upon teaching and leave the rather tiresome job of Housemaster to someone with special gifts in that direction."

"I understand, sir," said Chipping, anxious to end the interview and to get away and conceal his disappointment. "Though I doubt," continued Charteris, "that Mr. Wilkinson will ever turn out as many minor Latin poets as you have."

"I quite understand, sir." "I felt sure you would... well, I suppose you're off for the Holidays?" "Er—yes—to Harrogate."

"Well, have a pleasant time, and goodbye." Chipping walked rapidly to his rooms. Twenty years he had been at Brookfield; he was first master and the Housemaster should have gone to him. He knew why it had not—his unpopularity with the boys. It was quite dark when there came a knock at the door. He did not respond, and the door was opened and Max Staefel asked: "May I come in?"

"Yes, do. It's got dark, hasn't it?" He pulled the chain of the gas light and the flame flared up full. Max closed the door and came up to him. "Chipping, I hear... Is it true that Wilkinson..." "Yes, it's true," said Chipping curtly.

"I'm sorry." "That you, Staefel. I don't say I'm not disappointed because I am. But there it is. Do you mind if we talk about something else?" He walked over to his desk and sat down.

A silence fell. Staefel broke it, feeling his way. "I have planned a walking tour... to my own country... through the Tyrol, the Salz-kammergut, to Vienna. I would be happy for you to come with me."

"Me go abroad?" said Chipping, really startled. "You will like it. I am sure." Max went on eagerly. "You like to climb, you say—the country is beautiful, and—"

"It's very good of you, Staefel, very good, but really it's quite out of the question." "But why? Tell me that."

"For one thing, I've booked my rooms at Harrogate and—"

"Ah! Harrogate! That is a place for old ladies! Not for gay young fellows like you and me!" "I dare say I do need a change," said Chipping, and hesitated.

"But you do not care for my company?" suggested Max. "I should be glad of it, Staefel, very glad. As for the matter of fact, I'm often—er—quite lonely, but—"

"Then there is no more to be said," cried Max triumphantly. "It is settled!" "But, my dear Staefel, I—"

"I arrange everything. We take the London train, tonight. Pack yourself, Chipping. We have not much time."

"Wait, Staefel, please—"

But Max had already left and shut the door. Outside Chipping could hear Max and Mason, another master. Apparently they had run into each other.

"Ah, pardon, Mason, and goodbye." "Bye, Schnitzel. Have a good time."

"Thanks, I shall and Chipping is coming with me."

"What!" shouted Mason, incredulous. "Old Chipping going abroad?" Chipping stiffened at the words. Why should he go abroad? The look of uncertainty and bewilderment on his face, gave way to something that portook of grow-up excitement and pleasure.

"To the Tyrol—we shall climb." "The Tyrol—my dear fellow, you heard Max's distant voice call. 'Don't break your necks!' answered Mason."

Max Staefel in formal dress, for he had just returned to the Tyrol, walked out from a nearby town, walked out on the terrace. The valley below was flooded with sunshine. Across the valley and its misty lake rose the mountains. Somewhere on one of the summits was Chipping, unless he was ready down and on the road back to the inn.

Max looked through the telescope, and saw something that made him call the landlord: mist was forming on the mountain side.

"What do you make of this?" he asked. "After a look through the telescope, the landlord responded: 'Mists come up unexpectedly, but so heavy a mist so early in the year is strange.'

"I hope my friend Chipping gets back before the mist gets thicker." Chipping stood on a broad, sloping ledge beating his arms about him to keep warm. The collar of his Norfolk jacket was turned up. Rolling below him was a white wall of mist, shot through with a strange, menacing yet beautiful light.

"This is a nice business," he muttered grimly to himself. "I could be here all night!" he cupped his hands and shouted a long "Hel-lo-o-o!"

There was a lonely ring to his voice in the mist now enveloping him. There was neither echo nor answer to his call. Turning in the opposite direction, he called again and listened intently in vain for response. With a gesture of impatience he started to sit down, and loosened the pebbles and some stones under his feet and began to slide downward. He caught at a bush and sat down heavily.

"Confound it!" he exclaimed, then listened intently to the ominous thundering far below of the dislodged stones. When the sounds had died away, he reached in his pocket for his pipe. He lit it and struck a match. As he held the flame to the tobacco he heard a distant, very call that seemed to come out of the white clouds above him.

"Hel-lo!" The cry was in a woman's voice. "Hel-lo!" "Good heavens! A woman!" The match burned his fingers and he tossed it away. He stood up, shouted: "Hel-lo! Hello! Are you in danger?"

There was no response. "Well, upon my word!" he muttered, plucked up his spiked stick and started to scramble cautiously upward.
