Iowa's Hawkeyes raced through a light drill in Iowa stadium last night and the battle lines were drawn for the 1939 Big Ten opener against Indiana here this afternoon. The game, with a Dad's Day crowd of over 20,000 expected, may be a contest of major import in the western conference.

That this afternoon will see brilliant football seems assured. The Hoosiers, tied by Nebraska's Cornhuskers, have been rated as the Big Ten's most improved team. In the Hawkeye eleven, they meet an outfit that is also in the ascendancy.

Indications were last night that neither team will leave any scoring source untapped. Both possessed of versatile and speedy backfields, the Hawks and the Hoosiers can be expected to attack both by land and by air.

Kinnick vs. Hursh With Nile Kinnick's right arm to match the tosses of Harold Hursh, most deadly of Indiana passers, a part of the Big Ten puzzle may find its answer in the gridiron airplanes, but, again, the issue might be decided on the ground.

Kinnick, who legged his way to three touchdowns against South Dakota last week, is one of the Midwest's hardest running backs. The remainder of Iowa's starting backfield, Russell Busk, veteran speedster, along with the fleet-footed Bill Green and the sparkplug signal-caller, Al Couppee, both sophomores, gives Kinnick a supporting cast that is streamlined for speed.

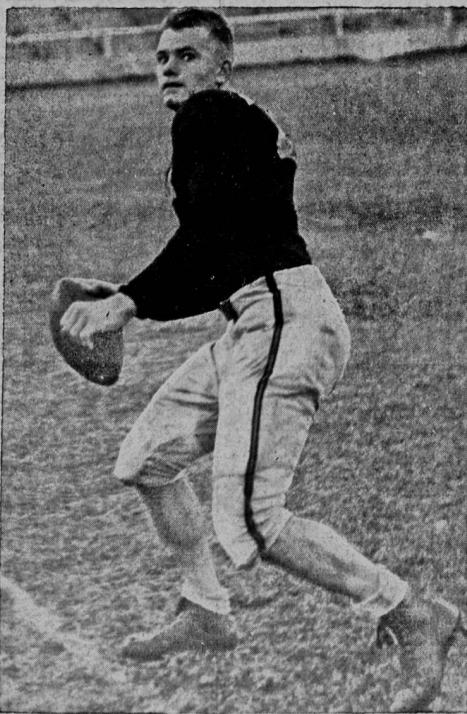

Behind this combination Coach Anderson has a contingent of fast reserves led by Burdell Gilleard, Ray Murphy, Jack McKinnon and Hank Vollenweider.

Walker, Enich To Appear Besides Couppee and Green there will be two other Hawkeyes making their Big Ten debuts on the first string lineup. Jim Walker, Mike Enich's tackle partner, and rangy Bill Diehl at center will take their places again in the Hawkeye forward wall.

With Evans and Prasse at the flanks, and Ken Pettit, John Maher, Joe Moore, Jens Norgaard and Bob Kelley for reserve strength, Iowa has both defensive and added pass offensive power to dangle before the red shirted invaders.

Busk vs. Zimmer Besides the similarity between Kinnick and his rival, Hursh, there is another curious parallel in the opposing elevens. Russell Busk, diminutive Hawkeye right halfback, will have an enemy halfback, Red Zimmer, 145-pounder with the same pass (See HAWKEYES, Page 4)

Dinner in Iowa Union Tonight To Close Dad's Day Program

Robert Osmundson To Be Toastmaster; Gilmore To Speak

Concluding the university celebration of Dad's Day week end will be the Dad's Day dinner tonight in Iowa Union. Robert Osmundson, LI of Forest City, will be toastmaster.

Others on the toast program will be Judge Ben F. Butler, president of the Dad's association, "An Iowa Father;" Eulalia Klingbeil, A4 of Postville, "An Iowa Daughter;" F. Robert Bokorney, E4 of Cedar Rapids, "An Iowa Son," and President Eugene A. Gilmore.

The dinner, as well as the other week end events, is being sponsored by A. F. I., honorary senior men's organization.

Pep Meeting Opens Dad's Day Activities

The annual Dad's day activities on the University of Iowa campus were formally opened last night at a pep meeting south of Iowa Union.

Jane Levine, A3 of Shenandoah, one of the 1939 Hawkeye beauties; opened the program by lighting the huge bonfire as the university band struck up the lively tune, "Happy Days Are Here Again."

Speakers on the program included Harry Langland Sr., vice-president of the Dad's Day association; John Evans, LI of North English, and Robert Sandler, A4 of Des Moines.

Iowa songs and cheers were led by the regular cheerleaders. The band closed the program by playing several Iowa songs.

Pre-War Time German Envoy To U. S. Dies

GENEVA, Oct. 6 (AP)—Count Johann Heinrich von Bernstorff, one-time gay German ambassador whose diplomatic assignment in Washington ended with the United States' entry into the World War in 1917, died today of heart disease, a refugee from his own country since the rise of the Hitler regime.

Von Bernstorff, the last ambassador to represent imperial Germany in the United States capital, would have been 77 years old Nov. 14.

At his bedside when death came was the count's American-born wife, the former Jeanne Luckemeyer of New York. She had gone to the United States only last February to regain the American citizenship she renounced upon her marriage to von Bernstorff 52 years ago.

He saw few old friends and kept strictly out of politics, working on the memoirs which he published in 1936, and pottering about in his garden. For the past 18 months he had been ill.

Tip Makes Iroquois 'Safest U.S. Vessel'

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—Persons in close touch with the White House suggested tonight that the American steamer Iroquois would be one of the safest vessels plying the Atlantic as a result of publication of a German tip that she would be sunk and ensuing provisions for her protection by United States warships.

Naval vessels and a coast guard cutter were sent speeding to the Iroquois, now three days out of Ireland, after the government received the German warning, with its implication that England or France would sink her as she and her 584 American passengers approached the United States coast.

White House officials said President Roosevelt had received no definite reports on the Iroquois today and that it seemed safe to assume that "no news is good news." They said that the radio on the ship, a coastwise liner recruited by the government to bring home stranded Americans, doubtless was being kept silent.

And if the president, who came to his country home to check up on the damage done to his spruce trees by the drought, knew where the Iroquois and the ships to accompany her were to meet, or whether they had met, he kept it to himself.

He intimated at a press conference today that it might be some time before there would be any further official word about the Iroquois, adding that in the absence of bad news, which would be disclosed immediately, relatives of those on the vessel could assume the ship was safe.

Individuals who have access to the summer White House got the impression the government felt that if there had been any plans to sink the Iroquois they would have been dropped by now.

Senate May Force 'Test' Vote

Tobey Would Return Bill To Committee

Cloakroom Conferees Confident They Can Kill Such Action

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—The senate leadership decided today to take advantage of a republican parliamentary maneuver and force a test vote next week on the administration neutrality bill.

After a series of cloakroom conferences, administration lieutenants said they had agreed tentatively to demand a vote Monday on a motion by Senator Tobey (R-NH) to send the bill back to the foreign relations committee. They were confident they could defeat the motion.

Would Split Bill Tobey has suggested that the committee should split the bill into two parts—one carrying out President Roosevelt's recommendation for repeal of the present arms embargo and the other embodying restrictions on American shipping and travel to belligerent zones.

Tobey contends congress should act quickly on the second part, in order to keep America out of trouble, and discuss the first part later.

After checking on sentiment for Tobey's motion, strategists for the embargo bloc made it plain they would prefer that the senate delay action on it indefinitely. They said it was certain to be defeated and that its defeat would be regarded as a clear-cut victory for the administration.

Privileged Motion They were handicapped, however, by the fact that the motion is privileged and may be called up for action by any member of the senate.

A "gentleman's agreement" between Tobey and majority leader Barkley (D-Ky) would permit a vote on the motion Monday. Administration senators indicated they would call for a vote if the opposition failed to do so.

While debate on the neutrality legislation continued, the administration picked up two new commitments for repeal of the embargo. Senators Bailey (D-NC) and Barbour (R-NJ) joined the repeal group.

Mother, Removed From 'Iron Lung' To Give Birth, Dies; Baby Doing Well

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (AP)—Doctors watched tonight over a newborn baby girl for any possible signs she had contracted infantile paralysis from her mother in one of the most unusual births in medical history.

The mother, Mrs. Gertrude Epstein, 22, died this morning in Mt. Sinai hospital twenty hours after giving birth to her 8 1/2 pound child during a brief period in which she was removed from an "iron lung" respirator.

The mother's lungs became paralyzed Tuesday shortly after she was admitted to the hospital. It was not possible for her to give birth while encased in the tube-like full length "iron lung."

Just before delivery the mother was taken out of the lung. A corps of doctors then assisted at the birth. The mother was returned to the "iron lung" and appeared at first to be doing well. Her death was described by Dr. A. I. Dokotorsky as due to "heart paralysis." The doctor said the baby was doing nicely today but it was too early to tell if she had escaped contracting the disease.

Convict Maytag Strike Leader

Sentner Faces Term For Advocating Criminal Syndicalism

MONTEZUMA, Oct. 6 (AP)—William Sentner, CIO union leader who directed the Maytag Washing Machine company strike at Newton 18 months ago, tonight faced sentence on a charge of advocating criminal syndicalism.

Sentner, organizer for, and international vice-president of, the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America, was convicted today by a Poweshiek county district court jury here after it had deliberated only 20 minutes.

The charges against him grew out of disorders at the Maytag plant where the strike, affecting about 1,500 workmen, tied up the huge washing machine factory for more than three months and resulted in establishment of martial law in Newton until order was restored.

Criminal syndicalism is defined in Iowa law as the doctrine advocating crime, violence or terrorism in industrial or political disputes. It carries a maximum penalty of a 10-year prison sentence and a $5,000 fine.

Sentner, whose home is in St. Louis, Mo., was active during the labor dispute, one of the bitterest chapters in Iowa's labor history.

According to testimony read by the prosecution in his trial here, he told a national guard military commission he assumed full responsibility for direction of the strike.

Break Up Plot To Assassinate Rumanian King

BUCHAREST, Oct. 6 (AP)—A plot to assassinate King Carol and other government leaders was asserted by police to have been broken up today with the arrest of two men and two women alleged to be members of the outlawed nazi-inclined iron guard.

Police declared they held a professor, his daughter and another woman, who had just returned from Berlin.

With the arrests, the police declared they found a prepared list of victims including King Carol, Premier Constantine Argetoianu, Minister of War General Gabriel Marinescu and Victor Iamandi, the new minister of justice.

Fuehrer Spoke To Neutrals, Say Officials

Germany Believes France, Britain Would Welcome Mediation

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

BERLIN, Oct. 6 (AP)—The head of any neutral state, preferably President Roosevelt, could achieve a lasting peace in history by mediating the European war now, informed sources said tonight after Adolf Hitler offered peace or a fight to a finish.

Hitler's reichstag speech today in which he made his peace overture to Britain and France, these sources said, really was intended for neutral powers.

His words near the close of his hour and 20 minute address, "May those peoples and their leaders who are of the same mind now make their reply—and let those who consider war to be a better solution reject my outstretched hand," were a direct appeal to neutrals.

It was emphasized tonight that now is the time for any potential peacemaker to step in and mediate before, rather than after what promises to become the bloodiest contest in history has begun in earnest.

(Informed circles in Washington said Mr. Roosevelt was unlikely to propose an armistice in the European conflict unless he was assured Great Britain and France would accept.

"Mr. Roosevelt has sent five appeals to Hitler in one year, the third of which was rejected by the fuhrer in a bitter speech. It was said in Washington also that the German press and some nazi officials have accused the president of war-mongering and un-neutrality.)

Grand Admiral Erich Raeder's warnings to the American naval attaché here that conspirators had plotted the sinking of the United States liner Iroquois, now enroute to New York with American refugees, was taken as further evidence of a desire to appease American public opinion.

Hitler's offer in his speech today to attempt to find a solution to the Jewish problem likewise was considered a bid for the favor of Americans.

Rightly or wrongly, official Germany believe France would welcome mediation at this time.

In his reichstag speech Hitler declared that if Germany's opponents continued the war the nazis would put up a fight in which "I do not doubt for a single moment that Germany will be victorious."

Daladier Rejects Hitler's Peace

By TAYLOR HENRY

PARIS, Oct. 6 (AP)—Premier Daladier tonight gave France's answer to Adolf Hitler's peace proposal with a blunt declaration that the European war would be fought until "the victory which alone will permit assurance of a regime of real justice and lasting peace in Europe."

Only two hours after Hitler outlined his peace formula in his speech before the reichstag Daladier pounded out the assertion to the French senatorial foreign affairs committee that:

"France and Great Britain will never lay down their arms until that peace has been effectively assured."

As though to give emphasis to the French-British determination to fight, General Maurice Gustave Gamelin, commander-in-chief of the French and British armies, conferred today with Major General Sir Edmund Ironside, chief of the British imperial defense staff.

They were accompanied by their air commanders as well as Major General Alphonse Joseph Goerges, French army group commander who is in general charge of French operations on the northern flank of the western front.

Fighting at the front today still was bogged down by bad weather, which hampered scouting planes and consequently artillery, which in modern warfare uses planes as target spotters.

Tonight's high command communique, however, showed a new stirring of activity on the front which has been relatively quiet for the past four days.

The communique said that light units such as infantry patrols were skirmishing in numerous sectors of the northern flank.

One German operation which the communique thought worthy of being mentioned as an "attack" was reported repulsed west of Wissembourg in the Haardt mountains where the French lines are scarcely over the frontier into German territory.

This Will Be a Familiar Scene—They Hope

Five mechanical engineering seniors are shown here testing the locomotive whistle atop the engineering building yesterday afternoon after they had installed it for use at last night's pep meeting and for other games and pep meetings to come. One of the men will take a radio this afternoon and sit by the whistle. At each touchdown the Iowa team scores, he will blow the whistle and if Iowa wins the game, he will "tie it down." This locomotive whistle was sent to the college of engineering by Fred Sargent, retired president of the Northwestern railroad, who graduated from the University of Iowa college of law in 1901. It is from a freight locomotive. Students also installed on the roof of the building a floodlight which casts a red beam. This will be used to illuminate the steam from the whistle. Left to right, the senior engineers in this picture are Bob Miller of Iowa City, R. B. Roessle of New Orleans, La., J. A. Fay of Bellevue, C. J. Kippenhan of Amarna and R. B. Sykes of Des Moines.

What's Behind It

SMALLPOX in Iowa during recent years has been the mild type for the most part. Compared with the number of cases, deaths from this disease have been relatively few, but they offer a clue to the deep-rooted fear which is behind the drive for widespread vaccination during "Smallpox Prevention Days" in October and November.

This disease is of cyclical nature. At periods of about every five years, its prevalence mounts to a peak point and then recedes to a low number of cases, climbing to a high point again during the next period. This tendency is clearly displayed in statistics of the Iowa state department of health which show that during the present decade, reports fell from a peak of 3,044 cases in 1930 to 166 in 1934 and since have increased to 1,170 last year.

Public health officials have plotted the history of smallpox and, on the basis of their graphs, apparently they can determine with quite some accuracy when to expect increased prevalence, but it must be remembered that they have been dealing with mild cases of smallpox.

The deaths which have occurred, on the other hand, usually have been caused by a different type of this disease—the malignant form which is often fatal, the virulent brand of smallpox which caused 505 deaths in Minnesota in the winter of 1924 and 1925 and which took 18 lives in Cedar Rapids during the same winter.

Public health officials and the medical profession cannot predict when this severe form of smallpox will recur. It is their fear that an epidemic of this type will break out sometime in the future during a cyclical rise in prevalence of the disease, and it is this they wish to prevent with vaccination during the early weeks of November.

The U. S. Gets The Benefits!

THE economists who for many years had advocated the expansion of foreign markets as a means to recovery, may soon have the opportunity of seeing how this theory works in practice.

Reciprocal trade agreements made by the U. S. before the outbreak of war have to some extent proven valid. Industrial wheels have begun to rumble, employment throughout the nation has risen rapidly, and recovery to the 1937 level is not far in the offing. The facts are obvious. Gaining markets abroad means a rise in production which in turn means an increase in labor right down the line, from heavy industry, transportation, to business as a whole.

Even though the European war may cut off some of our markets in that particular sphere, nevertheless, this loss may be fully replenished as a result of the Pan-American conference.

Germany's foreign trade has depended a great deal on South American markets. Now that England and France control the seas preventing merchant marine from leaving or entering German ports, our southern neighbors will have to depend largely on the U. S. for exports and imports. Both hemispheres stand to gain by trade agreements made as a result of the Pan-American conference.

The South American countries need our exports, but they also need the U. S. as a market for their products. There is no doubt but that the U. S. will have the balance of trade. If a satisfactory arrangement can be reached by the U. S. and the South American countries pertaining to exports and imports, complete recovery may be a reality in the near future.

The resultant cementing of the western hemisphere countries may not only serve as an economic benefit, but may also be a safeguard against political and economic encroachment by European powers. All depends now on astute diplomatic action.

Armistice Day Is Not Dead!

FRANK R. KENT, who writes a daily column from Washington for many newspapers, manages to devote an entire day's output to discussion of the emptiness of this year's Armistice day.

Says Columnist Kent: "... to celebrate Armistice Day, even in this country, which is neutral in the war now raging between our former allies—England and France—and our former enemy, Germany, does seem more or less ridiculous.

"... Armistice Day appears about as untimely and inappropriate a thing to celebrate as well could be imagined.

"Actually it seems downright silly. What sort of speech, for example, can an Armistice Day orator make on Nov. 11?

"Armistice Day is a peace celebration, and to celebrate peace in time of war—even for us who, though not in it, are preparing for war—is about the limit of absurdity.

"... There no longer exists an excuse for observance of the day. It isn't even useful to impress people with the horror of a new war."

Perhaps Mr. Kent is right. We think he's wrong.

For those who were too young to remember, the last war is little more than an Armistice celebration. These young people have heard a lot of things and thought a lot of things.

They will find a purpose in an Armistice day celebration.

You may expect to hear on university campuses such as our own phrases like these:

"War has broken out. It is the war which mankind enters with few illusions and a heavy heart.

"Hitler made this war, but the judgment of history will be equally severe on the Chamberlains who made Hitler, and on the system of greed and empire, which has produced them both."

You may expect to hear dedications such as this: "The war has broken out; irrespective of our opinions as to how this war might have been prevented, the student body this Armistice day has one supreme concern—to keep our country out of war. Armistice day must be a solemn consecration by a united campus to the end that there shall be no blackout of peace for America."

And you may expect to hear affirmations such as this: "The most important guarantee that our country will remain at peace is the preservation and strengthening of American democracy."

We don't know whether men like Mr. Kent will like the sound of such phrases. We feel, however, that Mr. Kent should know that Armistice day is not as sick a holiday as he thought. There is much reason to remember Nov. 11.

With His Boots On!

DEATH—even though romantic—can not be very welcome to a vigorous human being. It is one of those odd quirks of human nature that forces adventurous men and women to exclaim that when they die, they want to die "with their boots on."

Will Rogers died that kind of death. So did Amelia Earhart. Now we can add to the list the name of Richard Halliburton, author-adventurer, last heard from in March before a typhoon hit the Chinese junk Sea Dragon, in which he hoped to sail from Hongkong to San Francisco, Wednesday he was declared legally dead.

The rollicking adventure that Richard Halliburton dug from secluded corners of this world must have given him a great yearning to live. Yet in the very pursuit of more adventure, he died—with his boots on.

A VOLCANIC island recently arose above the waters off the coast of Greece, and then promptly plunged beneath the surface again. Torpedoed, no doubt.

"You won't catch me going to France to fight," says Yawn Yawnson, an ex-doughboy, "and have congress take away my beer again."

Those European government communiques are masterpieces of writing. They are news items which never contain any news.

'THE FIRE-BUG!'

Stewart Says State, War, Navy Departments Believe Hitler's Peace Proposals Sign of Fear

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

AMERICAN STATE, war and navy departmental folk can't get it out of their heads that Herr Hitler proposes a peace with Britain and France less because he's so peaceable than because at bottom he's afraid of a long war. And they agree that they believe they discern three serious weaknesses in the Fuehrer's position, not yet very obvious but likely to become so presently if hostilities drag out long.

Their theory is that Adolf must be asking himself these questions: 1. Won't Dictator Stalin double-cross him on his eastern frontier? 2. Won't Signor Mussolini double-cross him on his southern border? 3. Won't he have increasing discontent to deal with at home unless he disposes of the Anglo-French combination in short order?

From Hitler's standpoint of course it will be scandalously dirty work if Stalin does dump him, but I don't find anybody who doesn't consider the Soviet leader quite capable of it.

Can't Antagonize Stalin In fact it's pointed out that Adolf can't be overly pleased with the Russo-German trend of conditions already in Poland, along the Baltic and in the Balkans. But what's he going to do about it?—he simply can't afford to antagonize Boss Stalin in the face of the situation on his west front and at sea.

True, it isn't indicated that he's been hammered very hard yet on the west but it's predicted that he will be. There's been talk to the effect that France and Britain have been pulling their punches. American military men, however, don't pay much attention to it. They say it takes a bit of time to get three or four million Franco-British troops into action.

Germany admittedly was better prepared but experts are of the opinion that the democracies will catch up soon, especially with the American arms embargo lifted. They outlast the Fuehrer as to basic resources, anyway—unless she can get 'em from Russia. So he positively must give Stalin what the latter demands, however excessive he may think it.

Germany's Back Door The Anglo-French back door into Germany (disregarding the Siegfried line) is through northern Italy. Now, Signor Mussolini, as we know, has had an axis with Herr Hitler. Yet nobody surmises that Benito would be any more hesitant than Joe Stalin to double-cross Adolf, if it were sufficiently to the Duce's interest—and it's conceivable that it might be.

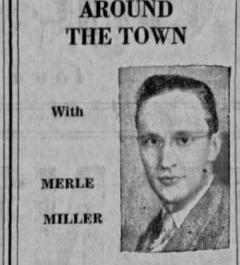

Italy doesn't stand to profit from a German triumph. Whatever Der Fuehrer gets he'll keep, possibly somewhat at Benito's expense. Let the Anglo-French, on the opposite hand, promise the Fascist chieftain part of what he wants—security in Ethiopia, a trifle more of northern Africa, a few Mediterranean islands, maybe an ex-German colony or two?—then what?

It should be a decided temptation to the Duce to sell out to the Anglo-French allies.

Problem No. 3 We've discussed Adolf's problems Nos. 1 and 2. Now No. 3. German discontent with Hitlerism!

We hear precious little of it, due to the censorship. Nevertheless there are reports that Adolf isn't 100 per cent popular in the Fatherland. There appear to be three kinds of Germans: 1. Hitlerites. 2. Just ordinary Germans, like the German-Americans we know here—nice people. 3. The junkers, the military aristocracy. They're warlike, but they're the nobility, which presumably resents the upstart leadership of a plebeian such as Hitler.

AROUND THE TOWN

With MERLE MILLER

You may have noticed her around the campus yesterday afternoon, that thin, very woman dressed in bright brown and orange. She looked like somebody, and she was... That was Mrs. Jack London...

She started back to her California ranch late in the afternoon. But before that time she had time to talk about "Jack" and herself.

She hopes you haven't read the Irving Stone biography of her husband, "Sailor on Horseback". She hasn't and won't... What she's read about it doesn't make her think it's the kind of book she'd want to read.

She's written her own biography of her husband, and she's writing more about him now... There are a million anecdotes, all filled with rare humor, the complete charm and the gusto of "The Sailor". That's what she calls London sometimes...

As for this Iowa, it's lovely, she told us... Beautiful and romantic—but not as beautiful as "The Valley of the Moon." That's the place Jack London wanted to find and write a book about, and he did... That's the place they lived together before he died, and that's where Mrs. London is returning to do her writing and take care of her horses... She has one of the biggest private stables on the west coast...

She's glad she got to come back to Iowa... There are pleasant memories here such as the time she and Jack were down at Grinnell for a speech he was giving... The hotel dusted up the bridal suite for them, although they weren't newlyweds at the time... The suite was, she reports, a little like a faded valentine...

"Jack took one look at it, and—"... She just laughed the rest.

That reminded her of the wedding itself... It was in Chicago; Jack was on a lecture tour... He got a special Sunday license, he'd been busy every other day... And a one-legged justice of the peace did it, in Chicago's south side...

She's in Iowa on her way home from New York City... She'd flown across the continent for a brief appearance on NBC's "We The People" program... Three minutes on the air and all expenses paid.

There've been so many things like that... Such as that day in Australia when Jack London was having some stitches cut. He asked her and a nurse to hold his hands and close their ears because he was going to let loose...

And he did, and they didn't... But they both laughed, although he was in agony at the time...

"He thought it was as funny as we did," Mrs. London reported... "Jack never missed a joke"... And neither does she.

MILDRED BAILEY "Queen of the Blues" will be the first visitor and will be introduced on tonight's show.

The wife of Red Norvo, the band leader, with whose musicians she has made many appearances in cabarets and on the stages of the country's leading motion picture theaters, Mildred Bailey is related to music on her brother's side too.

MILDRED IS known as the "Rocking Chair Lady" because of her popularizing of that tune, but also has put over such other songs as "Week End of a Private Secretary" and assorted blues numbers.

TED PEARSON, the man who probably knows more about the band than any other non-musician in America—the man who has been responsible for more innovations in the music business than any other layman—will become a member of the Benny Goodman caravan crew starting tonight.

THOUGH HE WILL do no singing, Pearson will be to the Goodman band what Johnny Mercer is to the Bob Crosby band—a sort of emissary of jive.

It was Pearson who first gave Earl Hines the title of "Father" and it was Pearson who coined the expression "swing it." Just back from Hollywood where he has been making pictures, Pearson is already hard at work thinking up new swing terms to describe the king of swing.

THE SPONSOR OF Benny Goodman, Bob Crosby and Blondie is buying two more shows this week, both regional. They are "Grand Ol' Opry" and "Casey at the Mike," the former originating from Nashville, Tenn., and the other from Boston.

MILTON BERLE's new program which replaces "Dick Tracy" on the NBC-Red network starting today will be titled "Stop Me if You've Heard This One." It is aired at 7:30.

COL. LEMUEL Q. Stoopnagel is picked to be the first guest gabguster on the new weekly program. Deviating from the usual quiz program, this one is concerned primarily with gags.

BERLE, as master of ceremonies, will read various gags and a Board of Gabgusters, composed of Col. Jay C. Flippen, Harry Hershey and a guest gabguster, will attempt to stop Berle with the gag payoff before he finishes telling it.

"HAPPY YEAR" is the drama selected to be presented over tonight's Arch Oboler play program at 9:30 on the NBC-Red network. It is the realistic love story of love in Noisville-on-the-Hudson.

MARIA CORONEL, the legendary "woman in blue" who 300 years ago spread Christianity among the Indians in the southwest, will be the subject of tonight's drama over the "Death Valley Days" hour at 5:30 over the NBC-Red network.

"HIT PARADE" is heard tonight at 8 o'clock over CBS featuring Bea Wain, Lanny Ross, the Merry Macs and Mark Warnow's orchestra.

The World Series broadcasts continue this afternoon over MBS at 12:15. Grantland Rice, Rob Elson and Red Barber will report this game.

Tucker Traces History of 1331 Madison Ave., Home of The Former Mrs. Wallis Warfield

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This is no secret; it has been printed, and people are supposed to know things that have been told. But I didn't know it, and I will admit that it sort of startled me, and caused me to turn and gaze with interest at the apartment building at No. 1331 Madison avenue, which is at the corner of Ninety-fourth street. I gazed at it a long time, and even now I could tell you how many windows are in the face of that building, and perhaps the color of the curtains in some of the windows.

The first Mrs. Ernest Simpson lives there, in a three-room apartment. It was her husband who married Wallis Warfield, of Baltimore, who in time became the woman for whom Edward VIII renounced his throne. They say Mr. Simpson first met Wallis in this apartment, where Mrs. Simpson had invited her to dinner. I wouldn't know. In any case, the former Mrs. Simpson still lives there, and she is a busy and a successful business woman. She is, in a sense, an arranger. She will arrange a wedding for you. Or a six-month cruise to the south seas. She is an interior decorator. If you want to know what kind of flowers are appropriate for special occasions, she will tell you.

People who know her (I have never seen her) say she is a strikingly handsome woman. Her hair is prematurely white. She has grey eyes, and her voice is soft and warm. The floors of her apartment have Persian rugs which are grey and rose. The walls are white, the furniture old French. This apartment is her home and her office, and also her castle.

SIDE NOTES: Millions of pounds of fish are handled by the New York markets a year. You can always find at least a hundred varieties at the Fulton Street fish market, where Al Smith got his start in life. If you can stand the odor, it's an interesting place to visit. Early morning hours are best, say from 5 to 8 a. m. The sidewalks are wet and slippery from fish, and the bins are laden with a slimy, silvery cargo. Manhattan is noted for its great hotels, but it has none comparable in size to the St. George in Brooklyn. The St. George is the second largest in the world—second only to the Stevens in Chicago. What makes the St. George a delight in summer is that it has the only natural salt-water swimming pool, for an "inland" hotel, in the world. Engineers discovered this quite by accident while drilling a fresh water well. The water is only about half as salty as sea water, and comes in at a temperature of 41 degrees. I AM told that New York has more than 1,200 nightclubs. I have been in perhaps 75. I could not name more than 25 if I were going to be shot. There could be twenty or twenty thousand, and only a few names would stand out. Most nightclub owners who are successful are graduates from the speakeasy era. They came up from the hard-bitten school of prohibition, and have prospered. Sherman Billingsley, a former Oklahoma drug store man, and John Perona, a swarthy-browed Italian are outstanding proprietors in this field. Both rose from nothing to affluence by catering to the right sort of people. Billingsley today owns the world famous Stork club; Perona the El Morocco.

Announce 1st Ground School Class for Pilot Training Course

C. A. A. Plans First Meeting In Physics Building Monday

Qualified Students May Still Apply For Special Work

The first meeting of the ground school class for students in the C. A. A. civilian pilots training course will be held in room 311 of the physics building at 5 p. m. Monday, it was announced yesterday by the university committee on student pilot training. All individuals who have filled out application blanks and all others who wish to apply for registration in aeronautics are to attend the first class on Monday.

Students who are above freshman classification who are in good physical condition, have at least "20-20" vision without glasses and have the $40 laboratory fee may make application for this special work which culminates in a private pilot's license issued by the Civil Aeronautics Authority. All students must have the consent of their parents before actual flying instruction is received.

Instruction in civil air regulations, navigation, meteorology, parachutes, aircraft theory, engines, instruments and radio is to be offered by the university in a new first semester course called "aeronautics one." This course will be taught by E. A. Lundquist, M.S., and will be required of all student pilots.

After preliminary ground school training, dual instruction in flying will be given at the Iowa City municipal airport under direction of Lain Guthrie and Paul Shaw, flying instructors licensed by the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

The successful applicant receives text books, personal insurance, ground school instruction and sufficient flying lessons to receive the private pilot's license.

The civilian pilot training program was made possible by an act of congress for the express purpose of promoting flying among private citizens. Enrollment in this work entails no military obligation.

Applications for this work are still being received. Those interested and qualified should fill out application blanks in the office of the dean of the college of engineering at once.

The advisory committee of the university includes Dean F. M. Dawson of the college of engineering, Prof. G. W. Stewart, head of the physics department; Prof. S. L. Miller; Dr. J. H. Allen (flight surgeon) and Prof. H. O. Croft, head of the mechanical engineering department.

Prof. Corcoran Publishes Text On Engineering

Prof. George F. Corcoran of the college of engineering, in collaboration with Prof. Henry R. Reed of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, has recently published a textbook entitled, "Electrical Engineering Experiments - Theory and Practice."

General information and instructions pertaining to laboratory technique, report writing, the theory of instruments, etc., are presented in the introduction of the book. The material covered in the fundamentals section is that which is usually given to the sophomore year or early in the junior year.

Catholic Dance To Be Tonight

Bartleys To Chaperone Foundation, Newman Club Affair at Union

A combination mixer and dance, the first in a series of social events for Catholic students, will take place from 9 to 12 o'clock tonight in the river room of Iowa Union. The affair is part of an extensive program planned by the Catholic foundation and Newman club.

Herbert McHugh, C4 of Chicago, president of Newman club, has announced that tag dancing and novelty numbers are planned. Music will be by Len Carroll's orchestra.

An introduction committee is part of the program. Members are Mary Condon, G of Cedar Rapids; Lela Quires, A2 of Iowa City; Dick McMahon, A3 of Ft. Dodge; Marian Greenwood, A4 of Charles City; Mary Jane Eggenmayer, A4 of Elliott; Audrey Laugel, A3 of Breda, and Clarence Kemp, C4 of Waterloo.

Chaperons are Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bartley.

Ethel Martin Will Speak

Historical Society Official To Speak Over WSUI Today

Ethel Martin, executive secretary to Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, and assistant superintendent in the State Historical society, is the first to be interviewed on the "Careers in Review" program heard the first and third Saturday of each month at 10 a. m. over WSUI.

Miss Martin will be interviewed by Nona Seberg, A4 of Mt. Pleasant, at 10 o'clock this morning.

While in New York, Miss Martin served as secretary to the Equitable Life Insurance society of the United States. Except for this short leave of absence, she has been employed by Professor Shambaugh since her freshman year in the university.

She has the distinction of serving the longest time on this campus in the field of executive secretaries.

Miss Martin is especially interested in young girls beginning secretarial training.

Mrs. R. W. Neff Accepts Position

Mrs. Ruth W. Neff, dietician and house manager of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority house in Iowa City in 1935, has been appointed dietician and house manager of the girls' dormitory at Wagner Memorial Lutheran college, Staten Island, N. Y., President Clarence C. Stoughton of the college announced yesterday.

Mrs. Neff will be in charge of the student and faculty dining rooms in Cunard hall at the New York City school.

Small footballs bearing Iowa and Indiana on them are balanced on a pair of scales marked 1939 with a large question mark.

The window was installed by five members of the college of pharmacy, Leonard Thompson of Webster City, George Peterson of Creston, Raymond John Hanshar of Remo, N. Y., Keith McVurden and Fred Inns, all members of the second year pharmacy class.

Against a background of black and gold stands a set of black and gold goal posts. "Dads' Day" is spelled out in large gold letters along the top of the crossbar while below this is a large portrait of E. G. "Dad" Schroeder, director of athletics. On the right supporting bar are the pictures of Coach Eddie Anderson and Frank Carideo. On the left side are pictures of Jim Harris and Captain Erwin Prasse.

Large placards on either side of the window contain the program for the Dads' day week end and an estimated expenditure for a year in the university.

U. Engineers Publish Article

Dawson, Kalinske Outline Cure For 'Water Hammer'

Dean F. M. Dawson of the college of engineering and A. A. Kalinske, research engineer of the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research, are the authors of an article, "Water Hammer - Cause and Cure," appearing in the current issue of the magazine, "Plumbing and Heating Business."

As the introduction to the article states, "The purpose of this paper is to describe the use of air chambers in eliminating water-hammer troubles, and to present a simplified method of determining the proper size of air chambers for any type of installation."

Water hammer is due to a sudden stoppage of flow, thus creating excess pressure, Dean Dawson explained yesterday.

'Education in America Must Be Made Democratic' - Counts

By STAFF WRITER

"Democracy is being challenged," George S. Counts told the 26th annual educational conference of school administration and supervision yesterday afternoon in Macbride auditorium. "The past few decades," he said, "has seen the rise of new and vigorous despotisms. We can no longer take democracy for granted."

Speaking on the topic "Education for Democracy in the United States," Counts pointed out that our school system was not equal to our democratic system. "We borrowed our school system from across the Atlantic," he said, "and, as a result, it is better fitted for a monarchial form of government rather than a democratic one."

The dynamic Columbia university professor outlined his conception of education for democracy. "First of all," he said, "we will have to abandon the idea of neutrality in our educational program, and organize our progress around democratic values. Secondly, we will have to organize the life and work of the school to develop in our American youngsters a democratic mentality, as well as knowledge, insight and understanding."

The professor - author - lecturer reaffirmed the faith he expressed for the democratic system in his latest book, "The Prospects for American Democracy." "The common people," he stated, "are the best judges of their own interests. If the ordinary people cannot rule themselves, then no individual or class can do it."

Democracy, he emphasized, must answer two questions: "What kind of an education does a democracy require?" and "What is the knowledge a free man must have?"

Counts praised the work of the Iowa child welfare institute in its studies of the effect of environment upon intelligence. These studies, he said, show that the power of man over his environment is not limited, and therefore, the institute's work is "the most important work of its kind in the world."

Make Big Ten Debut

BILL DIEHL, CENTER

AL COUPEE, QUARTERBACK

JIM WALKER, TACKLE

Pictured above from top to bottom are Bill Diehl, Al Couppee, and Jim Walker, three sophomore standouts on Dr. Edward N. Anderson's Hawkeye eleven. These three men, along with Bill Green, will make their Big Ten debut this afternoon when the Hawks tangle with the highly touted Hoosiers from Indiana. Diehl handles the center position, Couppee is the No. 1 quarterback in the Iowa camp, and Jim Walker makes the left tackle position on the Hawk eleven a pretty tight place for opponent ball toters to squeeze through.

Hawkeye-Hoosier Clash Today Becomes Prominent Contest

The result of this afternoon's gridiron tilt between the universities of Iowa and Indiana is important for several reasons. 1. It will have much to bear on the outcome of the Big Ten conference title race. 2. If Iowa wins it will be the first time the Hawkeyes have won over a conference opponent in Iowa stadium since October 21, 1933. Since that time Iowa has scored 25 touchdowns to 9 and 169 points to 59 in winning eight and tying three.

3. This game is also important according to the Iowa-Indiana record book. During the past 11 times the Hawks and Hoosiers have met they have each won four games and tied three. The Hawks hold an edge in total points however - 143 to 54.

Here are the records:

Year	Ia.	Ind.

Rewards As in last week's game, Iowa gridders will win awards from local merchants. The list includes a pair of pajamas to the player making the first tackle, an alarm clock to the first Hawkeye intercepting a pass, a shirt and tie for blocking the first kick, six pairs of socks for the first touchdown and a shirt for the first fumble recovered.

Boni Picks Hawks Over Indiana

Iowa Given Edge Because of More Offensive Punch

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP) — The world series, in two games, has produced rookie stars in Charley Keller and Buck McCormick. Tomorrow football sends four standout sophomores into action and, as luck and the schedule-makers would have it, pairs them off in two of the day's principal battles.

At Evanston, Ill., it will be Northwestern against Oklahoma, and Bill De Correvont against Jack Jacobs. At the Polo grounds in New York, it will be Fordham and Blackie Blumenstock against Alabama and Jimmy Nelson.

All but De Correvont already have had their varsity baptism. Jacobs in Oklahoma's tie with Southern Methodist, Blumenstock and Nelson in warm-up games with Waynesburg and Howard, respectively. Therefore it will be De Correvont, the most highly-touted schoolboy player ever, who will draw most of the attention — and according to reports from the northwestern camp, the 185-pound halfback is ready to live up to his advance notices.

By tomorrow night, all of the country's top teams, including the members of the Big Three, the "Ivy league" and the more formal conferences, will have played at least one game. Peak crowd of the day, 65,000, is due at Berkeley, Calif., for California's battle with St. Mary's the "big" game for the west; 40,000 each are expected at Northwestern-Oklahoma and Fordham - Alabama; Tulane's clash with Auburn should be the south's chief battle, and the Texas Christian-Arkansas conference game is tops in the southwest.

Here are this corner's predictions (probable attendance in parentheses):

Northwestern - Oklahoma (40,000) — Northwestern, which appears better manned all along the line (and that includes the backfield).

Fordham - Alabama (40,000) —

By BILL BONI

Alabama's linemen are big and Fordham's backs are fast. Disregarding mental warnings about the tortoise and the hare, Fordham in what should be a close one.

California - St. Mary's (65,000) — The golden Bears, toppled by the College of the Pacific (or unspecified), were expected to be high up in the coast conference race. There must be power there, California.

Cornell - Syracuse (25,000) — There are backfield injuries on both sides. Bill Orange is out to prove last year's victory was no fluke. Syracuse by a shade.

Tulane - Auburn (30,000) — Tulane to get rolling. Holy Cross - Louisiana State (25,000) — They say Ronnie Cahill, with a good press, would be rated the equal of Baugh or O'Brien. Holy Cross.

Notre Dame - Georgia Tech (25,000) — The rambling wrecks expect to score on the Irish. The Irish won't be standing still. Notre Dame.

Texas Christian - Arkansas (12,000) — Texas Christian. Vanderbilt - Kentucky (12,000) — Vandy, off its conquest of Rice.

Yale - Columbia (30,000) — It might be "hail, Columbia," but we mistrust that extravagant weeping out of New Haven. No team can be as bad as Yale is painted. Yale, in a toss-up.

Ohio State - Missouri (60,000) — The Buckeyes haven't lost an opening game in 44 years. That, as the late Cal Coolidge might have said, is a long time. This should make it a year longer. Ohio State.

Temple - Carnegie Tech (20,000) — Tech, with Muha and Condit.

Oregon - Stanford (20,000) — Looks like another bad afternoon for the Indians. Oregon.

Southern California - Washington State (40,000) — Southern Cal.

Duke - Colgate (25,000) — Hardly the spot for an upset. Duke, without too much difficulty.

Navy - Virginia (15,000) — Frank Murray is supposed to have Virginia clicking, but the Navy should have too many guns.

Army - Centre (10,000) — After last week's surprise by Furman, this one shouldn't catch the Kaydets unprepared. Army.

Wisconsin - Texas (25,000) — Dana Bible's five-year plan should be taking hold by now. Texas, in a close one.

IOWA - Indiana (20,000) — Iowa, on what looks like more offensive punch.

Nebraska - Minnesota (33,000) — Minnesota, again heavy on material.

Pittsburgh - West Virginia (30,000) — The Mountaineers haven't scored in this one for 10 years. They may this time, but Pitt should win.

Elsewhere:

East-Penn over Lafayette, Princeton over Williams, Harvard over Bates, New York U. over P. M. C., Dartmouth over Hampden-Sydney, Penn State over Bucknell, Brown over Amherst, Manhattan over St. Bonaventure.

Mid-west — Michigan over Michigan State, Chicago over Washburn, Creighton over Tulsa.

South — Mississippi State over Florida, Tennessee over Sewanee, Mississippi over Southwestern (Tenn.), Clemson over N. C. State, Richmond over W. and L., V. M. T. over Davidson, North Carolina over V. P. I.

Southwest — Southern Methodist over Denton Teachers, Rice over Centenary, Baylor over Oklahoma A and M., Texas Tech over Gonzaga.

Far west — U. C. L. A. over Washington, Utah over Wyoming, Utah State over Colorado, Oregon State over Idaho.

U-High Wins Loop Tilt, 19-7

Blues Break West Liberty's Win Streak

By NED WILLIS

Daily Iowan Sports Reporter

Vicious tackling, blocking, and running earned the spirited U-high eleven a hard-fought 19-7 victory over the highly touted West Liberty crew in the opening Eastern Iowa conference game for the two schools at Iowa practice field yesterday afternoon.

The victory gave the Blue and White sweet revenge for last year's defeat as it was West Liberty's initial loss in 11 contests. West Liberty put up a stubborn fight all the way, and U-High wasn't certain of victory until the closing minutes of the fourth quarter when the northsiders went over for their third touchdown.

The opening score of the game came late in the first quarter after U-high had worked the ball to the West Liberty 17 with a series of long runs by Morgan, Beye, Hightshoe and Means. On the next play Hightshoe, with perfect interference, hit off tackle for a touchdown. The try for extra point failed, and the score stood 6-0 as the quarter ended.

West Liberty opened its offensive after receiving the kickoff, and toted the ball to the U-high 20 on plays sparked by John Heasley. However, the Blue and White's line tightened and with the help of a 15 yard penalty set West Liberty back to the 35 yard line. Morgan lateraled to Beye for 15 yards on the next play. Then came the most spectacular part of the game. Heasley intercepted Morgan's lateral and with a clear field ahead of him romped 52 yards for West Liberty's first and only counter of the contest. Phelps went over right guard for the extra point, making the score 7-6.

Neither team threatened for the rest of the half, leaving U-high on the short end of the score as they came out for the third quarter.

It didn't take the Blue and White long to remedy the situation when the second half got underway. Morgan took the kickoff to the U-high 35 and immediately the northsiders' offense went into action. Dunn rifled a pass to Chuck Means, who lugged the ball to the West Liberty 35. After two short thrusts Hightshoe on a spin-

High School Runners To Compete Today

Thirty-two high schools will be represented in the annual state interscholastic mile team race to be held on the university's 440-yard track at 11 o'clock this morning. Defending champions in classes A, B, and C will be on hand to defend their titles. Oskaloosa won the class A crown last year while University high captured the class B title, and Cantril walked home with the class C prize.

Arrangements for this race have been under the supervision of Coach George D. Bresnahan.

ner took the ball off left tackle to the 12 yard line. Cy Beye bucked through the line for five, and on the next play Hightshoe again went off tackle for a first and ten. West Liberty's line held the Blue and White for two downs, but Owen Morgan hit pay dirt on his next thrust. The count stood at 12-7, when Morgan failed to convert on a line plunge.

Hightshoe kicked off to the West Liberty 16. A beautiful quick kick by Heasley sent the ball clear to the U-high 30, where it was downed. West Liberty gained on two exchanges of punts, and on the last U-high kick, Walker caught the ball and scampered 20 yards, leaving the pigskin on the U-high 38 at the end of the third quarter.

Long runs by Beye and Hightshoe took the northsiders down to the West Liberty 15 in the final quarter. On the fourth down Dunn passed to Beye for a first and ten on the four yard line. Two plays gained but three yards; then Morgan crossed the line for U-high's third counter with a line plunge. Another line plunge by Morgan was good for extra point, and the score was 19-7 as the game ended seconds later.

Lee's Hurling Helps Bruins Trim Sox, 4-2

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (AP) — Big Bill Lee pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 4-2 victory over the White Sox today, giving the National leaguers a one-game lead in their battle for the city championship.

After splitting the first two games, the Cubs went ahead in the series today behind Lee's effective hurling and the timely hitting of Gabby Hartnett's men. The Sox got away to an early two-run lead. In the first inning Joe Kuhel rapped a double to right field and scored on Luke Appling's single. Eric McNair's walk and Gerald Walker's single to center field.

Held to two hits in the first four innings, the Cubs got to fourth base Thornton Lee for their first tally in the fifth. Bill Lee drew a base on balls, stole second and came scampering home on Hack's single to center. Augie Galan's single in the sixth, Carl Reynolds' double and Glen Russell's infield out tied the score at two-all.

The Cubs knocked the southpaw out of the box in the seventh. After Lee fled out, Hack doubled to center and scored on Bill Herman's single. Bill Dietrich took over the mound duties for the Sox, retiring the side without serious trouble.

The Cubs added their final tally in the eighth when Hartnett singled to right, went to second on an infield out and scored on Dick Bartell's single to right field.

Angott Whips Day

CHICAGO, (AP) — Sammy Angott, the Louisville whirlwind, punched his way to a 10-round decision over Davey Day, Chicago welterweight, last night in Chicago stadium before 8,185 spectators.

Georgia Loses

GREENVILLE, S. C., (AP) — A stubborn Furman university football team upset the University of Georgia last night before a crowd of 7,500 by blanking the southeastern conference club 20 to 0.

Parsons, Penn Tie

FAIRFIELD, (AP) — Battling on even terms throughout, Parsons and Penn college elevens fought to a 6 to 6 tie here yesterday afternoon in their first Iowa conference encounter.

Drake Trips Grinnell, 13-0

Thell Fisher Scores Opening Touchdown For Bulldog Team

PRESSBOX PICKUPS

By OSCAR HARGRAVE

DES MOINES, Oct. 6 (AP) — Drake kept the sparkle of its offense under cover tonight and used straight football to defeat Grinnell, its traditional rival, 13 to 0, in a slow game here.

The Bulldogs counted in the first quarter when Thell Fisher dashed off tackle for the first of his two touchdowns. His 5-yard gain culminated a march which started on the Drake 43.

Drake counted again in the final period on Fisher's dive over from the one-yard line, Wilbur Harvey slid off tackle for the extra point.

Jay Cox, Drake tackle and the Bulldogs' outstanding lineman of the evening, set the stage for the final scoring thrust by intercepting a Pioneer aerial on the Drake 49.

Fisher, Harvey and Bud Stipe, Drake fullback, piled up a lot of yardage but the fighting Pioneers aided by two fumbles at critical moments, succeeded in warding off all other threats.

Hawkeyes--

snatching genius and deceptive running ability that makes Busk a constant threat.

Summed up, the possibilities for the game can include almost anything, with considerable scoring probable, although both teams have spent considerable time on defensive work during the past week.

Iowa, depending on Kinnick, Busk, Couppee, Green and Prasse for its points, might possibly be conceded a slight advantage in scoring punch, while the Hoosiers, with more capable reserves, are probably stronger defensively.

Both squads are, apparently, in the best of condition, although the Hawkeyes, who came through their tenebrous contest with only the temporary loss of Ed McLain, probably have the edge here.

Hoosiers Work Out On Coe Field

The Hoosiers arrived in Cedar Rapids yesterday afternoon and took a workout on Coe field. The Indiana squad is scheduled to arrive in Iowa City shortly before noon.

Erratic Irish Meet St. Joseph's

Predicting the success or failure of St. Pat's football team is like trying to figure out whether the first day of March will be hot or cold but two-thirds of the time it's cold.

One night they look like the fighting Irish they are called and the next practice finds them looking like a grade school choosie up.

It's this unpredictable outfit that travels to Rock Island Sunday to meet St. Joe.

In last night's practice they looked as though they might close the odds against a win. The lads from the south side practiced with some determination. It was supposed to be a light workout but they ran through play after play, up and down the field with more fire than they've shown all season.

Coach Father Ryan has been trying all week to get some fire out of his outfit but they didn't come out of the coma until last night.

The only replacement in the line-up for Sunday's game will be at the tackle post where Billick takes over Jim Red's job.

Lefty Gomez Hurls For Yanks Today

Rookie Thompson Likely Starter For McKechnie's Boys

By SID FEDER

CINCINNATI, Oct. 6 (AP) — Only two games away from humiliating erasure from the 1939 world series, and faced with the prospect of meeting the third member of the New York Yankees dreaded "sore arm" pitching squad, the Cincinnati Reds came home today stubbornly refusing to admit they were whipped yet.

And the Rhineland fans agreed with them, despite a Yankee display of hitting dynamite at a lengthy batting drill in Crosley field and the news that Lefty Gomez, injured side and all, would be the world champions' choice to do the hurling chores in tomorrow's third game against the Reds' freshman find, Junior Thompson.

Several thousand of the more wide-eyed fans in this baseball-rabid town turned up at the railroad station pulled in from New York, where the National league champions dropped the first two games of the current fall set. They cheered their heroes on with such figurative back-slapping roars as "you're home now boys; let's go," and "we'll show 'em up out here."

Hundreds more of the faithful were jammed on the sidewalks all around the hotel that housed baseball headquarters, and they added their greetings to those of the horde at the station.

The Yankees, arriving only a few minutes after their foes, also received a noisy welcome, with the loudest recognition of all going to Joe DiMaggio, who hasn't been altogether a ball of fire at bat so far in the series; Monte Pearson, who turned in a two-hit performance in yesterday's game to equal the best elbowing job ever done in world series history, and big Charley-the-Red Ruffing, whose four-hitter Wednesday sent the Yanks off to a victorious first-game start.

DiMaggio, however, gave promise of enjoying himself during the games at Crosley field, particularly over the left and right field walls.

(After tomorrow's third game, the fourth and fifth, if necessary, also will be played here Sunday and Monday.) Deadpan Joe, the American league's batting champion this year, faced Spud Chandler in the batting drill and whacked a fast one clear over the center field wall, 384 feet away. "That's a real nice wall," he commented. Then he turned his attention to the left field barrier, and banged one against the upper rim of that fence.

"I must be losing my power," he gaged. As a result, he spent 20 minutes after his teammates left the field in a private drill to "regain" his artillery sights. And he did. He exploded three balls over the wall before he was through, the last one landing on the roof of the laundry across the street.

Joe Gordon, twinkletoes George Selkirk and Jake Powell joined DiMag in boosting the cost of the club's upkeep. They, too, parked a couple of pitches out of the lot. Surprisingly, the Reds didn't even look at their home field. Manager Bill McKechnie called them all to the park shortly after arriving, gave them a "skull" session in their dressing room for a few minutes, then dismissed the squad with a brief "see you tomorrow," and the boys went home without appearing on the diamond.

Hawklet Sophs Meet Wilson

Bent on avenging Thursday night's defeat of the varsity by Franklin, Iowa City high freshman-sophomores will travel to Cedar Rapids this morning to meet the Wilson yearlings at 9:30 on the Wilson practice field.

Coach Bob Campbell has had the benefit of four weeks practice, and last week his charges showed their strength by trouncing the varsity third team.

Recreational Center To Be Open Monday

Game Room Finished; Director Announces New Hours Schedule

The Iowa City recreational center, located in the community building, will open its fall program Monday night, Eugene Trowbridge, director, announced yesterday.

The game room, recently completed, will be open week days from 3 to 5:30 p.m. and from 7 to 9:30 p.m., he said. The center is scheduled to remain open all day each Saturday.

Six university NYA students will assist the director in organizing the activities and supervising the games, it was disclosed.

Dr. I. Jones Says Mexico Nearing Strife

Heated political strife is in store for our Mexican neighbors, Dr. I. Jones, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, told the members of the Masonic service club yesterday noon at the weekly luncheon meeting in the Masonic temple.

"There has been a basic economic struggle going on in Mexico for the last six years, and there's a major election coming up next year," he explained.

Outlining his impressions of a recent trip to Mexico, the Rev. Mr. Jones assured Masonic club members that, contrary to popular belief, the Mexican works hard, "but he has mastered the art of relaxation."

Guests at the meeting included J. A. Colony, A. R. Hensleigh, Verl Jones, Corwin Burdine, Robert L. Larson and W. W. Sumner.

Women's Club To Have Party

The Business and Professional Women's club will have a dinner party Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at Youde's inn. There will be initiation. Dancing will follow. Reservations must be made by Monday evening with Mrs. Hubert Smith, 4153.

Mrs. W. R. Griffith To Entertain Club

Mrs. Webster R. Griffith, 401 Brown street, will entertain the Book and Basket club in her home Monday at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Albert Betz will serve as assistant hostess for the meeting.

Mrs. J. B. Dalton To Speak to Church Group Tomorrow

Speaking on Indian Life on the Cattaraugus reservation in New York, Mrs. J. B. Dalton will be guest of the C. E. organization of the First Christian church which will have an open air meeting from 4 to 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Stephen Sumner farm on the Dubuque road.

The speaker, dressed in typical Indian paraphernalia, will relate experiences and stories of the Seneca tribe of Indians of which she is an honorary member. The evening's program for the outdoor meeting will be centered about the Indian's ideals of the Great Spirit. The group will gather around a large camp fire which will be kindled with appropriate Indian ceremonies. Games will be played in the afternoon followed by supper around the camp fire, it was planned.

All Eyes on The Iowa Band-

By Staff Writer
Keep your eye on the Iowa band this afternoon!

Advance dope from Director Charles B. Righter indicates certain significant things will take place as Iowa plays Indiana and students of the university honor their dads.

Professor Righter went over the routine of the bandsmen with us yesterday, step by step.

"But," he said, "don't mention this," and he pointed to one particular maneuver. "We won't," we said.

And we won't. It's a surprise. But we will tell you about the rest of the show.

Highlighting the "on the record" moves by the band this afternoon is a maneuver of the slow, sweet type that's brought fame to the Iowa marchers in the past two years. It's dedicated to Iowa dads and mothers.

The band will form a huge heart on the gridiron, its tip facing the Iowa stand. While the musicians play Victor Herbert's "Sweethearts," the Scottish Highlanders will form an arrow and move into this, and he pointed to one particular maneuver. "We won't," we said.

On the program too is a "Hi Dad" formation. The Highlanders will contribute a drill of their own, playing "Lovall," the song played at the changing of the guards at the place at Edinborough, and "Will Ye' Na Come Back Again," directed at the Indiana stands.

Early in the halftime program the marching units will form a great diamond, with a block "I" in the center, as they play "Indiana" and "Iowa Corr Song."

Then there'll be the usual "Hello" formation at the beginning and the impressive flag raising ceremony.

But the surprise formation is expected to be the hit of the day. You'll have to see the game to see that, we're afraid.

66 Residence Building Permits Issued During Last Year

City Inspector Harold Monk announced yesterday that 66 residence building permits have been issued during the past year. Last year, according to Monk, 52 permits were issued.

June was the big building month this year when 14 residences were started at an estimated cost of $68,900. The number of dwellings that were begun each month and the estimated cost of construction are as follows: March, four buildings, $21,100; April, 10 buildings, $33,000; May, 12 buildings, $61,600; June, 14 buildings, $68,900; July, eight buildings, $37,600; August, 14 buildings, $66,400; September, four buildings, $17,050. February no residence building permits were issued.

The building boom in Iowa City corresponds with that which has been evident all over the country this year. During the months of July and August building construction has led all other industries to new highs in the pre-war boom, statistics reveal.

Modernistic Coffee Shop Will Be Most Unique in Middlewest

"The Huddle," a coffee shop different from any other eating place in the middlewest, will be opened within a few weeks by the Hotel Jefferson in the hotel building, E. C. Kuenzel, manager of the hotel has announced.

Featuring the best of foods with efficient service, the "Huddle" will offer to Iowa Citizens a place to meet and eat in comfort.

The exterior of the "Huddle" will be finished in black glass. On either side of the doorway will be a panel of bronze curved in an "S." Plate glass windows curved similarly will be set in these panels.

On the half-circle marquee above the entrance will be three sheet-bronze figures designed and made by J. Archer Speidel of the university art department. These figures, representing football players, will form a huddle. Silhouetted above the figure group against the black glass will be a Zeon sign.

Swedish red will be the predominate color in the interior finish of the "Huddle." Complimentary colors of grey and yellow will be used.

The seating capacity of seventy persons is distributed between five seat groups (booths grouped together), tables and a counter. All of the upholstery will be done with Air-Foam cushions.

Three different types of lighting will be used: direct, indirect and fluorescent. The fluorescent lights will be in white and gold colors. All of the lights will be equipped with dimmer switches so that the intensity of the lights may be changed.

All of the food served in the "Huddle" will be prepared in the room — a feature entirely new to Iowa City. This will enable the "Huddle" to give extremely fast service to those patrons who desire it. All of the cooking units will have electric heating elements.

The "Huddle" will connect with the hotel lobby through doors beside a combination cashier's counter and cigarette stand. The counter will be open to both the coffee shop and to the hotel lobby.

All-year air conditioning equipment has been installed to insure dining in comfort at all times.

Good Workmen
Require The Best Of Materials

Even the best of workmanship when combined with poor building materials can not produce good results. All building materials being used in the Hotel Jefferson's "Huddle" are from the Packman Lumber Company.

Bring your building or remodeling ideas to us. We will be glad to assist you in estimating their cost.

"Upholstering and Floor Covering by McNamara's"

The Hotel Jefferson manager, wanting distinctive upholstery and floor coverings to carry out the unique design of the "Huddle," came to McNamara's. The vari-colored deep-upholstered seats which will be a predominate feature in this unusual coffee shop were built in the shops of the McNamara Furniture Company by master craftsmen.

The rubber-tile floor coverings in the lobby entrance-way and in the Huddle itself were purchased from and installed by the McNamara Furniture Company's expert linoleum mechanics.

Johnson-Stark, Hobbie-Galvin Reveal Marriages

Among alumni news received here today are the marriages of six former university students.

Johnson-Stark
Phyllis Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Johnson of Muscatine, and Ivan Leigh Starke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Starke, also of Muscatine, were united in marriage Oct. 1 at the First Baptist church in Muscatine.

After the ceremony and reception Mr. and Mrs. Starke left for a trip through the south.

Mrs. Starke is a graduate of Muscatine high school and Stephen's college at Columbia, Mo. Mr. Starke was graduated from the Muscatine high school and the university. He is now office manager of the Goodyear store at Marshalltown where the couple will reside after Nov. 1.

Hobbie-Galvin
The marriage of Ann Elizabeth Hobbie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hobbie of Hampton, and Richard Galvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Galvin of Hampton, took place Oct. 1 in the home of the bridegroom's parents.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the Coonley hotel. The bride was graduated from the Hampton high school and was employed in the office of the Connecticut Mutual Insurance company at Waterloo.

The bridegroom was graduated from the Hampton high school and the engineering department of Iowa State college at Ames and took post graduate work at the university. After a wedding trip they will live at Michigan City, Ind., where he is employed as an electrical engineer with the Hays corporation.

Direcks-Willhite
At a tea Oct. 1 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Direcks of Muscatine, announcement was made of the marriage of their daughter, Miriam Direcks to Kenton R. Willhite of Hollywood, Calif., son of Mrs. Ivy Willhite of Muscatine. The marriage took place March 6, in Redlands, Calif.

The announcement tea was also in the form of a farewell courtesy for the bride, who left Oct. 5 to join her husband in Hollywood.

The bride was graduated from Muscatine high school and has been employed by the Stanley Engineering company in Muscatine. Mr. Willhite attended the university and is now connected with the Randall Motor company in Hollywood, Cal., in which city the couple will reside.

Kroese-Pippinger
The wedding of Jeanette Kroese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kroese of Sanborn, and Rex Pippinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Pippinger, also of Sanborn, was announced recently by the bride's parents. The couple were married in Worthington, Minn., on July 3.

Mr. Pippinger is a graduate of the Sanborn high school and attended the university.

Dermody-Anderlik
In a ceremony in St. Mary's Catholic church in Iowa City, Oct. 2, Mary Dermody, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dermody of Parnell, became the bride of Ralph Anderlik, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Anderlik of Iowa City.

Following the ceremony the immediate families of the couple and the bridal party attended a wedding breakfast at the Parks tearoom. The couple left immediately after the breakfast for a trip through Wisconsin.

The bride was graduated from the Parnell consolidated high school and from the university school of nursing in 1936. She was employed at the University hospital before her wedding.

The groom was graduated from the Iowa City high school and from the university, college of commerce, in 1939. Since graduation he has been working at the American Machine and Metals incorporated in East Moline, Ill.

Co-Op Council Elects Officers

New officers for the inter-cooperative dormitory council elected Wednesday evening include John Williams, A2 of Des Moines, representative from Kellogg house; Jeanne Howorth, A4 of Atlantic, representative from Russell house, vice-president; George Willoughby, G of Des Moines, secretary, and Kenneth Crist, C4 of Clarence, representative from the Gables, treasurer.

Historical Society To Meet Monday

The Athens Historical society will meet Monday at 3 p.m. for a Kensington tea in the home of Mrs. O. H. Carpenter, 623 E. College street.

The committee in charge will include Mrs. C. S. Meardon, Mrs. W. E. Shields and Kate Wickham.

Iowa's International House Proves A Claim

Seven Chinese Students, One Dutch and One American Become S. U. I. Campus Brothers

By JESSIE LOU KING
Can the life of a normal, average American home be explained to a foreigner? International House claims it can, and furthermore International House proves its claim. For in a large frame house at 19 Evans street, seven Chinese, one Dutch, and one American student are living in close comradeship.

Only one woman invades the masculine calm of the house. She is Mrs. W. F. Waldrop, who, with Mr. Waldrop, G of Mt. Vernon, Ill. manages International House. And it is from Mrs. Waldrop that a general picture of life in this unique university establishment may be gained.

"It's very much like a dormitory, and they're very much like American students," says Mrs. Waldrop. "Except for one thing. It's much quieter here than in any place where Americans are staying."

All of the students of International House are graduate students working for degrees in such widely differing departments as political science, mathematics and physical education. They do not include all the foreign students on the campus, many of whom are staying in private homes. Housing facilities have necessarily limited the number admitted into International House.

"We could have taken care of twice as many students if we'd had the room," states Mrs. Waldrop. "This is just the second year that International House has existed and already applications for entrance have had to be refused. I'm only sorry that we couldn't have room for more people, because we would all enjoy having more nationalities represented."

Yet the lives of the foreign students of International House present in themselves a mirror of the world's activity. Only recently come to the United States is Mr. Yih, who saw America for the first time Sept. 9. The other Chinese students have been here longer.

"They all hope to go home," says Mrs. Waldrop. "They are tremendously interested in the European war because of the effect it may have on Russian-Japanese relations and so on their own country. And they follow the embargo debates closely, for China is depending on the United States."

That most of the students have become well Americanized is agreed by both Mr. and Mrs. Waldrop. The students are themselves most enthusiastic about university life.

"But there is not much difference between universities in the United States and in China," declares Mr. Wei of Shanghai, who has taught mathematics at St. John's University there. "It is in the social life that the difference may be seen."

The Chinese students admit that the student life here is different, that American students are without the class and social distinctions that other countries have. "I was surprised," said Mr.

Wei, "that so many of the students are earning their education by themselves. Another unusual thing is that I so often see old people here. That is very rare in China."

Names of the Chinese students, which are long and difficult for American ears, have been simplified by common consent. The students are known as Mr. Chan, Mr. Chang, Mr. Wei, Mr. Li, Mr. Ma and Mr. Yin. They are all members of the campus Chinese club, and occasionally they entertain other members at dinners of their native food.

John Timmerman is the student from Amsterdam in the Netherlands. He is working in the physical education department.

"We like to have an American student living in the house too," states Mrs. Waldrop. "This year it is John Morris, G of Diamond, Mo."

One of the first questions always asked foreign students is why they chose the University of Iowa. Mrs. Waldrop admits that the long conversations of the members of International House taught her the place the university holds

He Collects Silk

Pictured above is Mr. Yih, one of the residents of the International house, with his silk collection. Mr. Yih arrived in the United States for the first time Sept. 9. Six other Chinese students, one Dutch student and an American student are the residents of the International house, 19 Evans street.

T. M. Metzger To Talk Today

Sigma Delta Chi Will Hear Speaker At Luncheon Meeting

T. M. Metzger, Des Moines bureau manager of The Associated Press, will speak at the luncheon meeting of the undergraduate and professional members of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, at 11:30 today on the sunporch of the Triangle club-rooms of Iowa Union, James Fox, A4 of Boone, president of the group, announced last night.

Several sports reporters from out-of-town, who will be here to cover the Iowa-Indiana game, will be guests at the luncheon. John von Lackum, A4 of Waterloo, has been in charge of arrangements.

Tomorrow from 3 to 5 p.m. members of Chi Omega sorority will entertain at a tea at the chapter house honoring Mrs. Carrie Brown, new Chi Omega house mother.

Invitations have been issued to alumnae of Chi Omega, sorority house mothers, and sorority presidents. Lois Lippold, A3 of Wauwau-tosa, Wis., is in charge of arrangements. Assisting her are Iva Gavey, G of Springfield, Ohio, and Judith Johnson, G of Sioux City.

Fi Batar Kapper is the name of the mock honorary fraternity at West Virginia university.

They Live At International House

Here are a group of residents of International house, 19 Evans street, the place where foreigners learn American customs and where an American learns foreign ones.

versity and Mr. Timmerman is from the Netherlands. International house was presented to the university by Prof. G. W. Stewart and Dr. Zella White Stewart.

practical mathematics than I was getting at the University of Pennsylvania, where I took my Masters. We need more practical men since the war."

The most typical answer of all the answer that expresses the thoughts in the minds of these young Chinese, was supplied to Mrs. Waldrop by an engineering student.

"When your country's at war," said the student, "you need good roads."

COO-BYE, CHIPS

SYNOPSIS
For two-score years, Chipping, "Chips," has been Master in Brookfield School for boys. Shy and diffident, he has been unable to make friends with the boys until his marriage, at the age of 40, to the young and beautiful Kathie Ellis. She died in child-birth, and Chips, humiliated by her influence, for the next 20 years won and kept the friendship and affection of the boys, but he was old-fashioned in his methods, rather aloofly in his dress, and the new Headmaster suggested that he retire on pension. He refused and the Board of Governors upheld him, but he could remain at Brookfield until he was a hundred, if he wished, they told him.

Chapter Eleven

"REMEMBER ME SOMETIMES"
After five more years, Chipping himself was ready to retire as a master at Brookfield School. Baleson, the Headmaster, and Chips' fellow instructors gave him a farewell supper in the school dining hall. Sir John Colley presided at the high table which sat the other Governors and the faculty. Below them the whole school was assembled.
Baleson was concluding his address on the occasion:
"Five years ago this summer, when I was new to Brookfield, I ventured to suggest to Mr. Chipping that it was time for him to retire. I was as new as that!" He waited, smiling, for the laughter to subside. "Well, we know each other better now. Mr. Chipping's loyalty has been equal to my every demand. I am persuaded him to replace the venerable garment that had become another Brookfield tradition." Renewed laughter interrupted him. "Today no one regrets more sincerely than I do that he finally feels himself compelled to retire—take my hat, I invite you all to join me in a toast: To Chips of Brookfield!"

The toast was drunk in silence, followed by three cheering cheers in which those at the high table were as vociferous as the pupils themselves. When seats had been resumed, Wainwright, 19, captain of the school, got nervously to his feet.

"We all know," he began hesitantly, "that Mr. Chipping's retirement is a great loss to Brookfield, but we hope that he will have many long and happy years. I'm not going to tell Mr. Chipping what we paid for the present because that's rude. But I believe he'd like to know that every boy in the school subscribed to it, and every subscription was collected without force of any kind." Applause and laughter broke out.
"Mr. Chipping, we want you to accept this little token of esteem from the boys of Brookfield. It's meant to keep his name in." Wainwright handed to Chips the oak biscuit box, handsomely trimmed with silver mountings. Amid loud cheers and shouts, the Captain sat down, and Chips, greatly touched, arose and bowed to him.
"Mr. Wainwright, boys of Brookfield, I am afraid Wainwright has been guilty of exaggerating in speaking of my services to the school, but then he comes from an exaggerating family. I've seen a good many changes at Brookfield. I remember so much that I sometimes think I ought to write a book. What should I call it? 'Memories of Rod and Lines?' 'Laughter and Cheers, Cries of "Yes!" and "Hear! Hear!" interrupted the speech.

"I may write it one day," Chips continued, "I may forget some things, but I'll never forget your faces. I'll remember you as you were now! In my mind you remain boys, just as you are this evening. Well, I mustn't go on all night. Although I am resigning, I shall still be near the school. I shall live at Mrs. Wickett's house, just opposite the Main Arch. Remember me sometimes. I shall always remember you. Hate o'm memuisse jwabut—I need not translate."
When it was all over the Headmaster strolled with Chips out to the iron gate. "Glad you won't be too far away," he observed.

"If you need me any time..." "I shan't hesitate. And—er—Chips, when you write that book of yours remember that, in addition to all these boys you taught, you managed to teach something to at least one Headmaster. Good-bye."
They shook hands warmly and separated. As he approached Mrs. Wickett's, Chips heard neighbors crying: "Extra! Extra! Austrian Archduke assassinated!"
Then came the war which, continued in Chips' prediction that it would last but a few weeks, continued year after year until many of the boys just out of Brookfield, and then others who had not finished the course, enlisted and went to France to face mutilation and death. The roll of Honor at Brookfield grew longer and longer as the second year rolled into the third and the third into the fourth. The younger masters enlisted, and then some of the older ones. Brookfield was short of masters.

One day Peter Colley slipped into the pew in the Chapel where Chips remained seated after a service in memory of those Brookfield boys who had sacrificed their lives on the field of battle.

"Chips, extending a welcoming hand. "I wanted to see you. I'm off for France on Friday. You know I got married last year."
"I know, Colley. I'm very glad." "Helen's a Canadian girl—hasn't had time to make many friends over here. She could have lived with my father while I'm away—but, of course, you heard about that."
"Yes," nodded Chips, thinking of Sir John.

"When the firm went smash," continued Peter, "other people were ruined, too. It was the thought of that that—killed him. So, you see, Helen's going to be rather lonely while I'm out there... I say, this is an awful thing to ask you."
"Please, go on," urged Chips. "She's going to live at Charborough—the kid will soon be a year old... I'm just wondering, Chips, whether you'd mind over once in a while to see her—it's not far. I'd feel terribly happy if there were someone she could see now and then."

"You're a fine one, Chips," Henderson greeted him, shaking hands. "You retire because you're too old, and spend the whole day running about the school?" Chips shook hands with Colonel Morgan, and Henderson continued: "Morgan's to be chairman of the Governors, in place of poor old John Colley."
"Yes, poor old Sir John. I just saw his boy, Peter. Won't you sit down?"

A short silence fell, and then Colonel Morgan said: "We're going to give you a shock, Chips, so you'd better hang on to your chair. We're going to be in a bad hole next term. You know that half of the masters here have joined up and the substitutes are a pretty dreadful lot."
"I know. It's difficult..." "And now the Head wants to go himself. Baleson's only 39, you know, and it's unfair to hold him. We had a meeting of the Governors last night and came to a decision. If you're equal to it, Chips, will you come back?"
"Me?" exclaimed Chips incredulously.

"Yes. There's no man living who knows the school like you do. We'd like you to take over the Headship and hold the fort until the war's over."
"The—Headship?" Chips was so astonished that he stammered.
"Will you, Chips?" "Yes," said Chips, after a breathless pause. "I'll come."
So, at last, Chips' dream—and Kathie's dream for him—was fulfilled: he was Headmaster of Brookfield.

One of the first of the unpleasant duties that confronted him as Head was to cane a boy who had placed tacks in the chair of a new and young master.

"Sit down," said Chips. "I want to know why you do this sort of thing."
"I do it because the whole crowd of masters here are a lot of weak-kneed old fellows. They're not in the army because they're not fit to be, or too old or too frightened. And they get back on us by being tuppenny tyrants."

"It didn't amuse me to cane you, Burton. Very soon now you'll be an officer in France. You'll need discipline from your men and to get that you must know what discipline means. You despise the masters here because they're not young enough or strong enough to fight. Every one of them has done his best to join the army. We take no man unless he has done that. Can you imagine their humiliation when a boy despises them for not doing things beyond their power? Remember that I am one of them. I'm Headmaster, because every man fit to be Headmaster is fighting in France. I'm a temporary officer—risen from the ranks. I didn't know that about the masters, I'm sorry, sir. I'll remember now, sir."

Farm Bureau Officers, 4-H Leaders Plan Meeting Today

Noon Luncheon Affair Occurs at Iowa City Community Building

A meeting and noon luncheon for all farm bureau officers, committee members and leaders of all 4-H and Home Project clubs in the county will be held in the Iowa City community building today.

The purpose of the meeting is to start off the county farm bureau program for 1940 and to acquaint everyone interested in the program with its leaders. There will be group singing and a short address on "Re-discovery of America," it was announced.

After the general conference there will be a meeting for 4-H Girls club officers and leaders. Plans for making next year's work successful will be discussed, and instructions will be given.

As each leader's name is called, she is to respond with some favorite verse or quotation, which will be written into the new manual. The 1940 4-H Girls' club manual will be given to all leaders, officials said.

George Kost Begins Serving Jail Sentence

George Kost, 525 Fourth avenue, who was tried and sentenced 10 years for forgery last week, was taken to Ft. Madison yesterday by Sheriff Don McComas to begin the sentence.

Kost pleaded guilty to having forged the name of Robert Sook, 530 E. Brown street, a contractor, to a check for $15.60. Kost pleaded guilty to a similar charge in 1938.

Judge Carson Tries Eight In Police Court

Police Judge Burke N. Carson yesterday tried eight peddlers in police court on the charge of attempting to sell without a permit. He continued the case indefinitely to permit them to leave town.

Permits are required of all peddlers as a health precaution. The law requires a health and physical examination before a permit is issued.

Raymond Mace, 308 Lafayette street, reported to the police yesterday that the rear window of his car was broken and four packages of cigarettes and two light bulbs were stolen early yesterday morning. Mace said his car was parked in a lot behind his house.

Kloos Rites To Be Sunday

Dr. Edwin E. Voigt Will Officiate At Funeral Services

Funeral services for Albert L. Kloos, 55, who died at the Harding home in Cedar Rapids yesterday morning, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Beckman's funeral home with Dr. Edwin E. Voigt, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Mr. Kloos was a conductor on the Cedar Rapids and Iowa City Railway company for 33 years and was a resident of Iowa City until 1933, when he moved to Cedar Rapids. He was born here in 1884. His wife died in 1937.

He was a member of the local Pythian Sisters, the Knights of Pythias lodge of Iowa City, and was a past chancellor-commander of the lodge; the A.O.U.W. of Cedar Rapids and the Methodist church here.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Margaret Kloos, and a brother, Fred Kloos, both of Iowa City.

Unique Coffee Shop To Be Opened Soon By Jefferson Hotel

"The Huddle," a coffee shop different from any other eating place in the middlewest, will be opened within a few weeks by the Jefferson hotel in the hotel building, E. C. Kuenzel, manager, has announced.

The exterior will be finished in black glass. On either side of the doorway will be a panel of bronze curved in an "S." Plate glass windows curved similarly will be set in the panels.

On the half-circle marquee above the entrance will be three sheet-bronze figures designed and made by J. Archer Speidel of the university art department. These figures, representing football players, will form a huddle.

Swedish red will be the predominant color in the interior finish of the "Huddle." Complementary colors of grey and yellow will be used.

The seating capacity of 70 persons is distributed between five seat groups, tables and a counter. All of the upholstery will be done with Air-Foam cushions.

Three different types of lighting will be used: direct, indirect and fluorescent. The fluorescent lights will be in white and gold colors.

The "Huddle" will connect with the hotel lobby through doors beside a combination cashier's counter and cigarette stand.

All-year air conditioning equipment has been installed.

Divorce Action To Continue

Divorce action by Dorothy Grolmus against James Grolmus will resume at 9 o'clock this morning, Judge James P. Gaffney continued the case yesterday after telling the counsel for both parties that he would refuse to sign the divorce decree containing such a small alimony stipulation.

The amount asked was $3 a week for support of the plaintiff and her minor child.

Junior Farm Bureau Will Have Meeting In Bayertown Hall

Members of the Johnson county junior farm bureau will attend a business meeting in Bayertown hall at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Emmett C. Gardner, county agent, announced yesterday.

After the meeting two plays, "Eighty Acres of Love" and "Bachelor's Baby," will be presented. A dance will complete the program.

Members of the committee in charge of the meeting include Dorothea Dunn, chairman; Wilfred Knebel, Lawrence Lacina and Robert Hora. Play chairmen are Clement Knebel and Ed Kasparek.

Scholarship Dinner By Pi Beta Phi Planned for Monday

Pi Beta Phi sorority will have its annual scholarship dinner at the chapter house Monday evening.

After the dinner there will be a short program and recognition awards will be given to those girls who maintained their three point averages during last semester. A scholarship ring will be given to the girl with the highest average for both semesters.

Mrs. Ethan Allan, alumnae scholarship advisor, will be a guest.

School Children Turn Firemen Will Observe Fire Prevention Week By Inspecting Own Homes

Local school children will do their part in observing National Fire Prevention week when the 10 public schools of Iowa City begin their activities Monday.

Weather permitting, all schools will have fire drills to put into actual practice the instructions for getting pupils out of the buildings the quickest and safest way in case of fire, principals have announced.

Art classes have been busy for the past week making posters depicting the tragedies of carelessness, common causes of fires in the home, fire hazards and preventative methods.

The bulletin boards will bear slogans and pictures to catch the eye of the student and increase his consciousness of the dangers of fire.

In some schools an intensive study of fire prevention will be incorporated into the regular health and safety programs. Teachers will talk to their classes about the campaign to decrease the number of fire disasters. Pupils will be urged to look about their homes for fire hazards and to find means of eliminating those they discover. Personal precautions, such as not playing with matches, will also be stressed.

During the week all the schools will be carefully inspected by local firemen.

The primary grades will not be ignored. The smaller children will play games and hear stories which will help to understand the necessity for continuous carefulness.

Fire losses in Iowa City have been comparatively low, and it is believed that by teaching the young people of the city good fire prevention habits this record can be made even lower.
