F. C. C. Reveals Conclusions On Hearing

Station's Application For Power Increase Received Favorably

Carl Menzer, director of WSUI, yesterday revealed statements received from the Federal Communications commission at Washington, D. C., of the commission's proposed conclusions based on its findings in an investigation of the application of WSUI "to increase power from one kilowatt day and 500 watts night to one kilowatt night and five kilowatts day, unlimited time on 880 kilocycles, move transmitter to a new site locally, install new equipment, and employ a directive antenna both day and night."

"1.—The operation of the applicant, as proposed," said the commission, "will not involve a substantial increase in interference to any existing station as now operating or as proposed in any pending application, while the granting thereof would enable the applicant to extend its service to a large additional population."

"2.—The detriment to the public resulting from depriving the relatively small number of persons of service from stations WLS and WENR will be outweighed by the benefits to the public resulting from the proposed extension of the service of WSUI."

"3.—The interests of stations WLS and WENR, Chicago stations, will not be adversely affected by reason of electrical interference from the applicant's station operating as proposed in the pending application."

"4.—That upon consideration of the entire record the granting of the application would serve public interest, convenience and necessity."

Permission already has been granted to move the site of the antenna locally. The new antenna will be located west of Iowa City near Coralville. Construction is being delayed, pending permission for increased power.

If this permission is granted new equipment will be installed including a directive antenna which will send WSUI programs to all parts of Iowa and will protect the WLS and WENR audience area in territories surrounding Iowa.

All parties have an opportunity to file exceptions to these proposed findings within 20 days after the findings are made public. The commission announced its findings Oct. 3. If no exceptions are filed, the board will be free to act on the application after the 20-day period is up.

Canada To Be War Air Base

OTTAWA, Oct. 10 (Canadian Press)—Canada bid fair tonight to become the wartime air capital of the British empire.

The increasing importance of her place in Britain's war preparations was stressed today in the announcement of a cooperative air training program upon which she has agreed along with the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand.

Hoover Warns U. S. Against All Barbarism

Would Permit Nations To Buy Instruments For Civilian Defense

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Former President Hoover tonight urged the United States to "raise a standard against barbarism" in warfare by prohibiting the sale of bombing planes, poison gas and submarines to any nation at any time, whether neutral or warring.

"I do not like to think of the day when bombing planes, engaged in the killing of women and children, on both or either side in this war, will be identified as the product of American manufacture," he said in a statement which he described as a response to requests for advice on the neutrality bill from several senators and congressmen.

"Whichever country it may be, the news will be transmitted to the American people that this killing has been done with the products of American industry."

"We should therefore permit the sale of pursuit airplanes, light observation planes, anti-aircraft guns, and any other instruments of defense against attacks on civilians."

Overdue Films Arrive for Club, So It's 'On Iowa'

Worries of sponsors of the "On Iowa" club vanished last night as this week's pictures, to be shown tomorrow night, arrived by air express from Chicago where they had been sent for development.

Originally, the Iowa-Indiana colored movies had been scheduled to arrive early yesterday, but failed to come. Lee Cochran and Vernon Putnam of the visual education department of the extension division became worried and sent queries about the films, which were finally rounded up and rushed to Iowa City where a preliminary examination last night proved them to be satisfactory.

Apprehension Evident Over Moscow Talks

Finns Ask Question: Will Soviet Demand Additional Concessions?

HELSINKI, Oct. 10 (AP)—Thousands of Finnish women and children began leaving the nation's capital for the less populated northland country today as Soviet Russia massed thousands of troops and heavy naval forces on the frontiers of neighboring Baltic states.

The whole of Finland, whence came the flying feet of Paavo Nurmi and the flying music of Jean Sibelius, concentrated its attention on the forthcoming conversations between a Finnish delegation and Soviet Russian officials in Moscow. The delegation was expected in Moscow tomorrow.

Many Finns were asking whether the Russians, who ruled Finland in the days of the czars, would demand military and economic concessions such as they have gained from Estonia and Latvia.

If so, one responsible Finnish source said, the nation would resist, reluctantly but with determination. Thus a nation whose population was estimated in 1937 at 3,334,662 persons would be arrayed against the estimated 170,000,000 population of Russia.

The fleeing women and children crowded transportation lines in their voluntary exodus. At the same time, the interior minister, Urho Kekkonen, appealed to all who could do so to leave Helsinki and Viipuri, a port city, as soon as possible.

The Finnish delegation will discuss unannounced economic and political problems with the Russians. In similar conferences with Estonia and Latvia, Russia has gained sweeping concessions of naval and military rights and her troops were ready to march into those nations to make the agreements effective.

Fuehrer Says Allies Liable If War Lasts

BERLIN, Oct. 10 (AP)—Adolf Hitler declared today that "Germany is determined to take up the battle and fight it through" if the western allies rebuff "our readiness for peace."

If the war goes on the western allies will be to blame, he said in a speech opening the Nazi winter relief campaign, but they never will "see any sort of German capitulation."

"We do not know what the future will bring," he said, "but we are clear about one thing—no power on earth will again bring Germany to its knees. They will not defeat us militarily, nor destroy us economically, nor break our spirit. Under no circumstances will they live to see any sort of German capitulation."

The decision regarding peace or continuance of the war, he said, "no longer lies with us, but the other side."

Fugitive Georgia Lifer Crosses Five States To Plead for 'Texas Mercy'

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 10 (AP)—Slight Richard Gallogly, fugitive Georgia life-timer, strode into the sheriff's office today, surrendered and calmly pleaded for the "Texas mercy" he sought in a five-day flight across four southern states.

The 29-year old member of a prominent Georgia family, prison-bound for 10 years in one of the state's most sensational criminal cases, told Sheriff Smoot Schmid he had traveled night and day since escaping from two prison guards Friday night.

Britain To Enlarge Empire's Air Fleet

Plan To Beat Enemy by Air

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP)—An empire-wide air force building program centering in Canada was announced by the government today as Britain noted Adolf Hitler's renewed challenge to choose war or peace and warily watched Russia's moves in the Baltic.

While Hitler was declaring in Berlin that "no power on earth will again bring Germany to its knees," Air Minister Sir Kingsley Wood told the house of commons that the empire was marshaling planes and fliers in a mighty plan to "beat the enemy and ensure once and for all that aggression and tyranny are ended."

A direct answer by the government to Hitler's peace proposals made last Friday was postponed on Wednesday to give the dominions full voice in added consultations.

The Prime Minister Chamberlain will state Britain's position in his weekly war report to parliament.

The massing of Soviet troops on the Finnish frontier and the concentration of Russian naval strength at Kronstadt naval base near Leningrad on the Gulf of Finland drew only guarded comment from government sources and the press.

French Premier's Talk Spurs Hitler's 'Peace'

PARIS, Oct. 10 (AP)—Premier Daladier tonight gave the signal for the European war to go on, with a refusal of Adolf Hitler's peace formula based on Russian-German partition of Poland.

In a nation-wide broadcast the French premier made the first formal reply to the Friday reichstag speech of Hitler by spurning the "German peace" as one which would not prevent preparation for new conquests.

Troops Active
As the premier spoke the French general staff announced that French troops on the western front were repulsing surprise German attacks by "quite large numbers of men" along a 35-mile stretch from the Moselle river, on the extreme northern flank, to Saarbruecken, center key to the Nazi advance lines.

The general staff's night communique said that German patrol activity throughout the entire sector was "very great."

Daladier, who spoke after consulting with his British allies, declared France and Britain would "continue to fight" until they force Germany to give definite guarantees for a "lasting peace in Europe."

Speaking in measured tones at his desk in the war ministry, Daladier did not repeat previous French and British declarations that Hitlerism must be destroyed but left no doubt that unsupported promises such as he said Hitler had given in the past would be unacceptable as a basis for peace negotiations.

He characterized the peace offered by Hitler as one "which would only consecrate conquests by deceit or violence and would not prevent preparation for new ones."

"What, in fact, does the latest speech before the reichstag amount to?" he demanded.

"This! I destroyed Poland, I am satisfied; let's stop the combat; let's hold a conference to consecrate my conquests and organize peace."

The premier suggested that if France accepted Hitler's present proposals and "demobilized under vain promises" in a few months time she would have to face "abrupt aggression."

France and Britain, he said, were "obliged to fight because Germany wanted to impose on them her domination over Europe."

"We are determined not to submit to the dictates of violence," he shouted, adding:

"We have taken up arms against aggression. We lay them down only when we have certain guarantees of security—of security which may not be put into doubt every six months."

3 Baltic States Conclude Pacts With Russians

MOSCOW, Oct. 10 (AP)—Soviet Russia tonight concluded a series of three mutual assistance pacts with Baltic states by signing a treaty with Lithuania which gave the red army the right to establish several garrisons at unspecified places within the country to guard its frontiers.

Steady military and naval activity by the Soviet forces, indicated the Kremlin's program in the north Baltic was not complete and that Finland would be next to hear Russian suggestions for her "protection"—and for the consolidating of Soviet strength in the north Baltic.

Hundreds of thousands of red troops were concentrated along the frontiers facing the Baltic states and in the Leningrad area within 225 miles of the Finland border.

While dispatches from Kronstadt, the big naval base near Leningrad in the Gulf of Finland, said "a whole armada of battleships" was concentrated there.

Sailors were said to be studying their geographies of Finland and the Baltic states, as well as the habits of the people, and reports from the frontier said "military trains go daily to the Baltic sea."

In the Lithuanian treaty, Russia gave her little Baltic neighbor an important concession by agreeing to cede Vilna (Wilno) and a surrounding area.

Vilna is the ancient capital of a once-powerful Lithuania. The Lithuanians never have ceased to regard the city as their capital, despite the fact it has been in Polish hands since 1920 when a "rebel" Polish general seized it for Warsaw.

Administration leaders replied that voting on these restrictions, and on the remainder of the bill, could begin at once if Tobey would persuade the foes of repeal to end the debate and agree on immediate action. Dividing the bill would lead only to more delay, they argued.

In the vote that followed, seven republicans—Austin of Vermont, Barbour of New Jersey, Gibson of Vermont, Gurney, of South Dakota, Hale of Maine, Taft of Ohio and White of Maine—joined 57 democrats and Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) to defeat the Tobey proposal.

Jubilantly, Chairman Pittman (D-Nev) of the senate foreign relations committee hailed the outcome as a sure sign that the chamber would vote, probably before the end of next week, to repeal the arms embargo.

S.U.I. Symphony To Open 1939 Season Oct. 18

The university symphony orchestra will give its first concert of the current season at Iowa Union next Wednesday night, Oct. 18, Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department, announced last night.

The program will consist of six short numbers from "Water Music" by the German composer, George Frederick Handel, and arranged for modern orchestra by Sir Hamilton Harty; four excerpts from "Psyche and Eros" by Franck, a 19th century Belgian composer, and Beethoven's Third Symphony, "Eroica."

'39 Corn Crop Estimate High

DES MOINES, Oct. 10 (AP)—Iowa's 1939 corn crop today was estimated by the federal agricultural department at 484,554,000 bushels—the same as the September figure—in spite of heat and drought damage in localized areas last month.

Leslie M. Carl, federal agricultural statistician, said that except in two districts, the south central and southwest, where anticipated yields are smaller than a month earlier, average yields per acre now are higher than last month's estimates.

Faculty Forum Recommends Defenses Against Propaganda

By IRENE SUTTON
Eight faculty members in a panel discussion in Old Capitol last night on propaganda and common sense suggested ways of clarifying the meaning of propaganda and methods by which the American people could defend themselves against it.

Prof. Clyde W. Hart of the sociology department introduced the discussion by defining propaganda as "any systematic attempt by an individual or a group to influence the action of another individual or group by influencing their feelings and thinking."

Prof. Ernest Horn of the college of education advocated social knowledge as the only protection against propaganda, and that the key to solving the question of "how to think correctly" is the establishing of the proper background.

Prof. H. C. Harshbarger of the speech department made the reassuring statement that the American people could depend upon both their radio and their newspaper to supply them with facts about war news of today. European correspondents have been instructed to make clear the exact source of their news before they transmit it, he said.

With regard to this fear held by the people that they can not believe anything that they hear or read, Prof. Frank L. Mott of the school of journalism declared that newspapers and the radio of today distinguish between rumor and fact by labelling the sources of their news.

False Report Of Armistice Stirs Germans

BERLIN, Oct. 10 (AP)—The German population experienced an emotional letdown tonight after a day in which false reports of an armistice swept the nation.

Hopes that the war was ending, which followed rumors that the British government was crumbling and that the western powers wanted to lay down their arms, were dashed when it was learned there had been no apparent change in the war aims of Britain and France.

The conviction that hopes for peace were no better than before increased tonight after Premier Daladier's broadcast to the French nation which seemed to be a rejection of Adolf Hitler's peace proposals made in his reichstag address last Friday.

Morning newspapers in Berlin, made no mention of Daladier's speech.

Work was interrupted in many offices. Friends telephoned each other and there even were the beginnings of impromptu celebrations.

Why He Hitler's Foil?

THERE HAS been growing speculation since Hitler's Reichstag speech about President Roosevelt becoming a mediator in the European war.

Who is asking the president to involve himself by such an obviously foolish move? Surely those who preach isolation would not have the United States intervene.

The unbaited trap the German dictator has set is a clever diplomatic maneuver. He knew that democratic peace groups would provide bait for his trap.

If there are men in the senate who are not aware of it, certainly President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull remember that Hitler never keeps a promise.

Roosevelt's silence is wise. Apparently he knows that this is just another diplomatic maneuver by the Fuehrer to gain the support of his followers who see him as the great dealer in justice.

Hitler wants peace. After he has completed his conquest of Poland, after he has discovered that Britain and France are not as stupid as they were at Munich.

Hitler wants peace. So he calls two more classes of reserves to the colors. So his ally in plunder, Russia, consolidates the gains Hitler has made possible for her in northern Europe.

Hitler wants peace—on Hitler's terms. They say he wants the American chief executive to step in to make the peace.

They say he wants the American chief executive who has asked a frenzied conqueror to listen to reason at five different times; the same chief executive who has been either ignored or insulted when he attempted to intercede for humanity.

To those who say that Roosevelt overstepped his bounds before in intervening and should not now be reluctant when "a peace bid would be timely and sound and the world would applaud," we point out that the current situation is different.

Senator Johnson has proposed that the congress adjourn for three days to allow the president an opportunity to step into the conflict; Representative Ludlow has backed Johnson's statement in the House.

Haven't these men learned the Hitlerian psychology? It is entirely possible that President Roosevelt may at some later time be a logical mediator of the conflict; to step in because of a veiled hint from Hitler would be to insult American diplomatic intelligence.

Editorial says European statesmen should use "mature judgment" in considering international affairs. Maybe it wouldn't help—but it would be a refreshing novelty.

How to start an argument in 11 words: "Of course, I want us to stay out of it, but—"

Warfare—Civilized

AND OTHERWISE

EVERY ONE in Europe carries a gas mask, yet so far as is known, the warring nations have not yet resorted to the use of gas warfare.

Instead, it arouses the outraged emotions of the world. Germany, trying to convince the world that she is fighting for her own defense, is wary of such opinion.

The nazis bombers could have wiped out the entire population of Warsaw with ease had they so desired.

If Germany is bent on impressing the world that she is capable of civilized warfare, as has been proclaimed, she will do well to avoid a repetition of a siege such as that to which Warsaw was subjected.

Mobilization For Human Needs

THE militarists of the world have mobilized armies for the war god's needs.

The humanitarians of the world now are mobilizing human needs.

There is little justification for the former; there is much justification for the latter.

Within a week you will be aware again that the drive for funds for the Iowa City community chest is nearing.

Just as it is impossible to debate the subject of war, because it is so apparently wrong, there is no opportunity to debate the subject of charity, because it is so apparently right.

We can spend money on wars when the world is torn by wars. We can not forget, however, that the fight to build men who are above WAR, is a fight that must be kept up constantly.

In all the days of the modern world it has never been so apparent as now that "charity must begin at home."

THOUGH the British and French governments have not accepted Hitler's proposal for an armistice, there is a truce on the Western Front so far as major battles are concerned.

However, these solons had the thing completely digested and were talking and arguing about it. Some of them did it with a certain amount of intelligence.

They'd heard the speech, too. Adolf delivered it too late for the morning papers on this side of the Atlantic to print, and yet it was too early for the first afternoon editions.

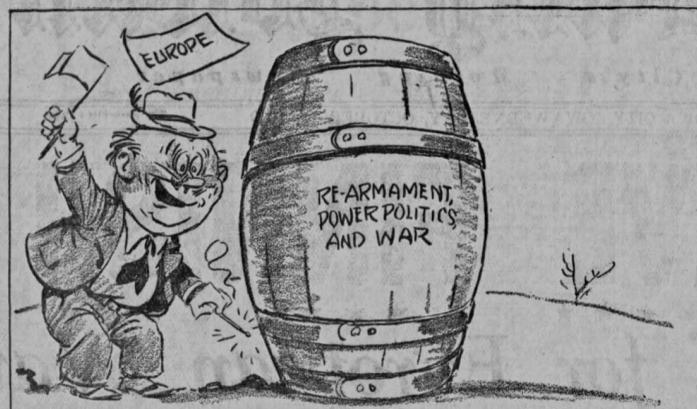

Some of the dispatches report a "supreme confidence" in government circles in Germany that the terms which Hitler proposed in his Reichstag speech will be used either by the Allied Powers or by a neutral mediator—in this connection, the name of President Roosevelt is persistently mentioned in Berlin—as a basis of negotiations to end the war.

It is possible that this confidence is genuine; Hitler has always been tempted to misjudge the strength of British and French purpose. It is also possible that confidence in this score is a fictitious article, manufactured for home consumption; for if the war is to go on, Hitler must justify its continuance to the German people as a war of self-defense, and it is now his cue to maintain that he has proposed terms so fair that a prompt peace must follow automatically.

As matters stand, the Reichstag speech gives the British and French governments an opportunity to clarify their own conditions of a just peace. This is an appropriate occasion to define, in more specific terms than they have hitherto employed, and in the light of what has happened since hostilities began and Russia intervened, the essential purposes to which they have pledged their people and for which they are prepared, if need be, to carry on the war.

EVOLUTION OF THE EUROPEAN 'POWDER KEG'

Stewart Says Government Executives Criticize Vagueness of Hitler's Latest Radio Speech

Undoubtedly more senators, representatives and officials of the executive government were out of bed at 6 a.m. on Oct. 6 than ever before in all Washington's history.

They were not very early risers. Usually they don't convene until noon, and it takes something more emphatic than a mere rooster's crow to terminate their slumbers before 10 or 11 o'clock.

But this was a special occasion. They wanted to hear that speech of Herr Hitler's as it came in over the radio.

That a lot of them did hear it thus, I know for a fact. Having arisen myself at the unearthly hour mentioned for the same purpose as the lawmakers, I got down to the capitol—I hadn't any other place to go—much ahead of my customary time for getting there.

Even Field Marshal Goering, who introduced the Fuehrer and postscripted the latter's speech also, was referred to rather more kindly than his boss was.

The British and French, however, haven't overpopulated themselves by announcing that they can't acquiesce in a Pan-American neutral zone as far out at sea as the one we have scheduled. There's a deal of capitol sentiment to the purport that allied warships had better keep out of that zone, or they, too, may get into trouble with the American maritime police force.

personally as unpopular on Capitol Hill as Hitler is.

The former's been described here as a pretty good fellow individually—but not Adolf Goering, they say, drinks beer and is a genial chap.

While the gabble concerning the speech still was in progress in the capitol offices and corridors, radio bulletins began to come in to the effect that London and Paris were turning thumbs down on the Fuehrer's alleged peace overtures.

All our legislative commentators immediately declared that that was exactly what they'd expected—and they didn't blame London and Paris.

AROUND THE TOWN

After yesterday's excellent Des Moines Register editorial on the Sentner sentence and the Sioux City civil liberties violation, I needn't comment on the following item. . . You'll know what all small-d' democrats feel. . .

The paragraph is from the weekly mimeographed screed of the Iowa City Lions club. . . "Well it's a wonderful thing to live in Iowa where they can convict these fellows that come into our state and try to run our unions. It took a jury just 20 minutes to convict Sentner at Monicuzma; if a few more states had Iowa's law there would be fewer strikes and violence."

I'd like to add, incidentally, that the item's one man's thought and not representative of the Lions I know.

Of course, I'm a believer in service club principles myself—if they're principled. . . But last August I attended one in the home town that made my blood boil. . . After my 20 minute harangue they initiated a new member into the ranks of brother Rotarians.

And one of the basic creeds of the initial ceremony was, as the reader put it, "to help the unfortunate families of our community." . . . It just occurred to me that here were the editor of the local paper, the town's largest employer, three department store owners, and a farmer with a dozen tracts of land. . .

I thought it might be a better thing for the men there assembled to keep the unfortunate from being unfortunate. . . They could do it. . .

Elisabeth Halstein—the girl from Norway who still writes to Frivol Editor McCloy—is now back there and a first-rank secretary to America's Norwegian ambassador.

"Tonight at 8:30"—three of the nine Noel Coward one-acts—seen to be in definite line for production here this winter.

One of the local visitors of the week end was Peter Maurin, a Frenchman and columnist for the Catholic Worker. . . He was visiting Father Hayne of the school of religion and called up for a talk. . .

He was an anti-Francoite as to Spain (although many of his fellowchurchmen disagreed) and denounced Father Coughlin from one side to the other. . .

"As an announcer, he's too much of a denouncer," says Peter, who's on his way to the west coast for a farm meeting. . . He's at one with our own Father Liguori in thinking the real answer to our rural troubles isn't in scientific farming. . . Peter wants to get back to the old way. . .

His own family, still living in southern France, has the ideal way, he thinks. . . They've been on the same farm for 15 centuries, and they always have managed to make a living. . . That's because they plant the wheat, harvest it, make bread and eat it. . . "We're not too complicated," Peter thinks. . .

To show you the kind of fellow he really is, Peter dashed off a few lines of "rhyming prose" to remember him by. . . "They say I've got rhythm," he reports. . . I submit it here. . .

"They say that I am crazy, because I refuse to be crazy the way everybody else is crazy. So I persist in being crazy in my own crazy way, and I am trying to make other people crazy my way."

The Ethan Allen book (which those who've read it like) will be along in about a month now. . . Midland House, with this inaugural volume, will be distributing its books from New York west. . .

About all of the local professors seem to think that this is just what the local situation needs to make the flowering of the valley come forth with crystalline evenness. . . It's difficult for them the best Iowa book to get much consideration in the east unless the author is the friend of the publisher. . .

I like Ethan Allen's "I believe in the common man, the man on the street. . . I believe in him because that's us, here, you and I. . . Because we're fundamentally decent and ashamed when we're not."

TUNING IN with D. Mac Showers

BERT LAHR: the cowardly lion in the motion picture, "The Wizard of Oz," evidently has tapped unsuspecting sources for courage for he will match wits with Fred Allen when he guests on the new "Fred Allen Hour" tonight at 8 o'clock over the NBC-Red network.

Remembered for his association with another radio star, Kate Smith, in the musical comedy "Flying High," Bert LaHR also is a long-time fellow-performer of Fred Allen's in bygone vaudeville and musical comedy days.

IN ADDITION: he trouped with Jack Donaghy, the dancer, who until his death was Fred Allen's closest friend in show business.

In addition to the guest star, other new features that will be heard for the second time on the streamlined Allen program are the audience quiz spot to which will be added a "question box of the week," Wynn Murray, songstress, and Peter Van Steeden's orchestra with its new style music.

FRED ALLEN'S: sketch on tonight's program will be a satire on listener surveys and popularity polls. Fred will play Dr. Scallup, head of the Institute of Public Suspicion.

The Luther-Layman singers start a new Wednesday night series of "Songs of America" over the NBC-Red network this week and will be heard at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

PATRIOTIC: organizations all over the country have endorsed this program as one which does much for Americanism. We might suggest Congressman Dies as master of ceremonies for the show.

GRACE GEORGE, recreating in the same role which originally starred her on Broadway, will be co-starred with Claude Rains in "Kind Lady" tonight at 8 o'clock when the Star theater program is broadcast over CBS stations.

ALICE MARBLE: American tennis queen and currently the country's number one glamour girl, will guest with Ken Murray on the Hollywood originated half hour of the program which features Frances Langford, Kenny Baker, Irene Kobbette and David Brookman's orchestra.

AMONG THE BEST For Wednesday: 6:30—Burns and Allen, CBS. 7—Hollywood Playhouse, NBC-Red. 7:30—Avalon Time, NBC-Red. 7:30—Paul Whiteman, CBS. 8—Fred Allen, NBC-Red. 8—Texaco Star theater, CBS. 9—Kay Kyser's musical class, NBC-Red. 10—Dance music, NBC, CBS, MES.

RECORDINGS: of Bob Knight's specialty solos, "Pagan Love Song" and "To You Sweetheart," with Horace Heidt's orchestra, will be released later this week.

When Horace Heidt's "Pot O' Gold" orchestra leaves the Biltmore hotel in New York for a road tour which will take them to the coast, Phil Spitalny will succeed at the hotel.

KAY KYSER: and his "Musical Class" will present their regular Wednesday night show tonight over the NBC-Red network at 9 o'clock.

Luebcke Lost to Hawk Squad; Gridder Undergoes Operation

Pettit, Maher, Hawkins Work At Guard Posts

Vollenweider, Busk Used at Quarterback On First Eleven

Another blow was dealt the Hawkeye football camp yesterday when Henry Luebcke, giant guard on Dr. Anderson's grid team, underwent a hernia operation in University hospital—keeping him from action for the remainder of the year.

Despite Luebcke's loss from the Iowa eleven Anderson immediately began to drill men to fill his position, which has been woefully weak in reserve power the entire season.

Max Hawkins, who played a brilliant game during the last half Saturday afternoon, may get the nod this week end but is a trifle light to play an entire contest.

Ken Pettit and John Maher, formerly reserve ends, worked on guard plays during yesterday's workout and may see action this week at Ann Arbor. Both men are big, rugged, and should develop rapidly in the guard posts.

Jens Norgaard was used by Anderson opposite Captain Er-

It's A Tough Break, Henry

HENRY LUEBCKE

Hawkeye Gridders Will Miss Luebcke in Saturday's Game

"We're going to miss Luebcke Saturday, but the men will play all the harder on that account," Dr. Eddie Anderson said yesterday afternoon.

Anderson, coach of an Iowa team that will do its best to the man to make up the loss, had been to the hospital not long before and admitted that his biggest sorrow at the moment was not for the team, but for Luebcke, the man who wanted to play football and couldn't because an operation had ended his season after only two games.

That Luebcke will be missed is certain and that he will miss the football team is just as sure. For the 260-pound giant has had more than his share of the tough breaks around the Hawkeye camp and has always come back, primarily because he wanted to play football.

It was in his sophomore year, after he had played a great game in the season's opener and was already receiving mention as a coming star, that misfortune first struck Henry, in the form of a broken ankle. Lost to Iowa in his sophomore year and unable to get into shape last season,

Iowa Captain After Record

Prasse's 18 Points Starts Him on Way To Big Ten Title

Iowa's football captain, Erwin Prasse, is on his way toward a new Big Ten scoring record—that is, if he can average 11 points a game for the remainder of the year.

The Hawkeye left end scored 18 points last Saturday in the conference opener against Indiana on three touchdown passes from Nile Kinnick, one of the finest passers in the nation.

If Prasse keeps up the pace he set in last week's encounter he will break the conference scoring record in a single season that is now held by Gordon Locke of Iowa.

Locke established the record in 1922 when the Iowa fullback scored a total of 72 points for a single season against conference competition.

The Kinnick-Prasse combination is one of Iowa's most potent scoring threats and will probably be relied on heavily during the remainder of the season.

If Prasse can hang on to those bullet-like heaves of Kinnick's he has an excellent chance of dethroning Locke from the record books—a feat that has not been accomplished in 18 years.

Kinnick, who has scored 31 points this season, is the Hawks' leading ground gainer. In the 27 times he has carried the pigskin he has covered 223 yards, or an average of 8.26 yards per try.

Kinnick scored eight points in the Hoosier battle—one touchdown and two extra point conversions. He has been responsible for 61 of the points Iowa has scored this year.

Sooners Prep for Texas NORMAN, Okla., (AP)—Oklahoma's Sooners took another look at Texas plays yesterday and smashed into one of the season's roughest and most spirited scrimmages. Ralph Harriss gave Coach Tom Stidham a bad scare when he was knocked out, but the linesman soon was revived and proved unhurt.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

- Mother Hen
- Rose Bowl
- They Scored

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—He lets them pick their own neckties, but otherwise Lou Little takes care of about everything in the lives of his football players. It is this meticulous attention to detail which enables Columbia, with possibly the poorest material of any large school, to play a big time schedule with at least average success year in and year out.

Mother Hen

A mother hen clucking over her chicks is the only rival in solicitude to this suave, polished No. 1 Lion who, with his gentle, bedside manner, could pass as a family physician in the public eye, but is a driver from away back when drilling his rather thin material for its fall battles.

Oddly enough, both sides of his nature bring an identical response from those with whom he comes in contact. He runs the legs off his football players—and they'd do anything for him. He makes a softspoken banquet speech—and his listeners would let him borrow their wallets.

Football writers who make trips with the Columbia squad can tell you story after story of Little's almost fanatic attention to detail; of how he will go into a dining car and peer into each bowl of oatmeal before he will let the players eat; of how he counts the bubbles in the soup.

Rose Bowl

They will tell you of that Rose Bowl game in 1934, when a supposed-to-be so-so Columbia team was chosen to meet Stanford with resulting indignation walls from numerous other sectors.

They will tell you how, on the morning of the game, after a heavy rain, Little had his assistants galloping up and down the field until their tongues hung out, trying to determine the best type of cleat to use in the soft sod.

The result of that game—an astounding upset as Columbia defeated the Stanford powerhouse, 7 to 0—probably was more than a little due to that morning exercise, which was just another incident in Little's detailed life.

They Scored

The Columbia mentor is frankness itself in discussing his team. For instance, he was describing a scrimmage the Lions had with Penn in addressing a recent meeting of football writers.

"They're better than we are," he admitted. "They had the ball on our three-yard line when they were stopped by a clap of thunder. After the weather had cleared the ball on the 25-yard line. That was our biggest gain."

He was asked if Penn scored. "Yes, they scored a touchdown," he admitted.

"Just one?" he was asked. "Well, no, more than one," he conceded.

Columbia is possibly the largest school in the country from an enrollment standpoint, but there are so many graduate students, and so many of the others have no time for anything but study, that the number of candidates for the football team, as well as the quality, could be matched by many so-called minor colleges.

It is Little's gigantic task to take this material and make a team which can give a good account of itself in any company, and year after year he does it.

"Sometimes it's a little thin," he said, "so I have to do what you newspaper men do when you have to write a couple of columns have to pad it out a little."

with only a little material. I his fullback post on the first team, the Badgers drove 90 yards in three plays for a touchdown against the freshmen.

Frats Open Schedule

Phi Eps, Delts, Pi Kappa A's Win Openers

Intramural touch football play was resumed yesterday afternoon as twelve fraternities swung into action after a day of rest.

Phi Epsilon Pi inaugurated its season by downing A.T.O. 13-0. The Phi Eps scored their initial touchdown when Ed Glazer recovered a fumbled kick over the goal line. Their only other score was made when A. Rosenberg pulled down a pass by Sandler in the end zone.

Pi Kappa Alpha ran roughshod over a hapless Gamma Eta Gamma team 38-12. Pi Kappa Alpha was sparked by the brilliant passing of Baskins, and the receiving of Lowell and Carlson.

Delta Tau Delta and Beta Theta Pi played a see-saw game which finally ended in a 22-28 victory for Delta Tau Delta. Every Beta Theta Pi touchdown was scored on passes thrown by Tom Lind, who really kept Beta Theta in the thick of the fight. Manush was the sparkplug of the Delta Tau Delta team.

Phi Kappa Sigma outgouted Sigma Nu 15-0 in a rough and tumble game. Phi Kappa Sigma scored their initial touchdown on a pass from Dunagan to Peterson. Their second score was made on a short flat pass over the goal-line. Neither of the extra points were converted after the touchdowns.

The final score of the game came late in the last half. With the ball deep in their opponents' territory Phi Kappa Sigma could not put the ball over for a touchdown and on fourth down elected to try for a field goal. Sieck dropped back and booted the ball squarely between the uprights to bring the score to 15-0.

Delta Chi and Theta Tau fought a hard battle which ended 26-13 with Delta Chi on the long end. The passing combination of Van Heel to Grawe were the standouts of the game. It was a long pass by Van Heel to his partner Grawe that started the scoring of the game. Then a little later Grawe caught a punt and raced back for another marker that brought the score to 13-0.

Theta Tau then took to the air as Stiller threw a long pass to Arnold who later scored. It was Stiller again passing to Arnold as Theta Tau kept marching down the field but the half ended before scoring was possible.

Van Heel started the scoring again for Delta Chi as he ran down the field for the first touchdown in the second half and made the score 20-6. Again Stiller took to the air for Theta Tau and Arnold, on the receiving end, scored the last touchdown for the Theta Tau's. Grawe ended the scoring of the game as a pass intended for him from Van Heel was interfered and the touchdown was made. This brought the final score to 26-13.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon defeated Phi Kappa Psi by the margin of 13-0. Jacques Nixon starred for SAE in the defensive as well as offensive. Nixon was on the receiving end of the passes thrown by Ward Willman which gave SAE their first touchdown.

The second touchdown came late in the first half as Howard Bales intercepted a pass and raced back for a touchdown. The second half saw both teams fighting hard, neither one able to score. SAE took to the air but to no avail. The passing and blocking of Bill Humphrey and Jim George were the standouts for the losing team.

Irish Gridders Drill for Keota Battle Friday

Coach Father Harry Ryan went patiently to work with what he had in the line of football players last night at the St. Patrick practice field. The Ryanites meet Keota's eleven Friday afternoon.

Only eight men reported for practice but Ryan took it in stride with the rest of the jolts he has had in his seven-year regime. With his eight-man football team he worked chiefly on passing. The Irish passing in the St. Joseph game, which they lost, 26-14, was instrumental in one of the touchdowns and counted for the other.

Chief casualty of Sunday's game was a broken nose suffered by Quarterback Red Miller. Coach Ryan has purchased a nose protector for Miller believing that he will be back in the lineup for the Keota tilt.

In spite of the 26-14 score at Rock Island Sunday the St. Pat's line showed real flurries of defense with Beasley and Robinson driving through to get the St. Joe backs down for heavy losses.

Coach Ryan has been able to make little progress with the ironically named "fighting Irish" and the champions of indifference have dropped the first four games of the schedule. Two nights before a game the lads from the southside all show up for practice and work as though they really wanted to win a game. The pessimistic views of onlookers turn a little toward optimism for it looks as though there is going to be a new reckoning at St. Pat's, but the scoreboard on game day tells a different tale.

The Iowa City team did show real Irish spirit in the St. Joe game until Miller left the game with a broken nose in the first quarter. Here the spirit bogged down and didn't show itself again until the last period when the score was 26-0. After these terrific odds had been set up the fighting Irish spirit appeared again and the southsiders scored 14 points.

Bucks Work in Mud
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio State Bucks had their first mud workout of the season yesterday. Coach Francis Schmidt sending them onto the slippery turf between showers and drilling them indoors during the rain. Wet ground for the Northwestern tilt here Saturday would be such a contrast to the hard turf and heat experienced so far that Schmidt might have to do considerable juggling of his line.

Prof. Lampe Says Religion Is Part of True Education

"Since religion is an essential sense of security on the part of all true education, there should be a way to teach it, not surreptitiously or indirectly, but unapologetically and comprehensively, even in an American state university."

This is the basic idea of the University of Iowa's school of religion, as set forth by its director, Prof. M. Willard Lampe.

Professor Lampe, in bringing the 18-year history of the idea up to date in his annual report, said "prudence would suggest that we should not look upon the idea as inevitable or the story as self-perpetuating."

He pointed out that the idea always will have to fight its way against many enemies—prejudice, misrepresentation, cynicism and indifference, and against a false

School - - - It's A Privilege

Half A Million Children Now Attend Public Institutions in Iowa

Fully half a million children attend the public schools of Iowa. They may trace this privilege back to Jan. 1, 1839, when Gov. Robert Lucas approved an act of the first legislative assembly authorizing the establishment of schools which should be "open and free for every class of white citizens between the ages of four and 21 years."

The county board was directed to form districts when petitioned to do so by a majority of the voters residing within a proposed district. Three trustees, a clerk, a treasurer, an assessor, and a collector were to be elected at the annual meeting which was also responsible for building a schoolhouse and levying a school tax.

The trustees were required to examine and hire the teacher, lease the land belonging to the district, report the number of children in the district and the number sent to school, and keep a record of the "actual time" the school was in session and the probable "expense of the same."

The school tax was not to exceed five mills on the assessed value of the property in the district, or more than $10 a year for any one person, payable "either in cash, or good merchantable produce at cash price."

The law of 1839 seemed adequate to develop a system of free public schools. Indeed, Governor Lucas expressed the opinion that the law "might appear to be in advance of the times."

Dubuque organized a school district in 1839 but no record of the establishment of similar public schools in other towns has been found. Two rural areas in Lee county were organized as school districts in February, 1840. By 1838 Iowa contained 4,873 school districts, 21,156 members of boards of education, and 26,215 teachers.

Controversy Dogs Benton

Criticized Artist's Works Go on Display At Art Building Today

Thomas Benton, painter, muralist, and lithographer, must have been born a child of controversy for it follows him wherever he goes," says a 1937 issue of the "Art Digest."

The university art department opens an exhibition of Benton's oil painting, water colors, lithographs and drawings in the exhibition lounge of the art building today.

Benton has ridden the storm of protest and misunderstanding that follows in the wake of his famous murals, his book, his canvases and his life.

Probably the most famous controversy was that provoked after the City Art museum of St. Louis banned the painting, "Susanna and the Elders." Critics reacted rather strenuously to this modernized version of the Bible tale that Rembrandt and Titian told centuries ago. Benton interpreted the legend directly and in terms of today.

The famous American artist was born in the Missouri Ozarks. He

Women's Orientation Groups To Meet This Week for Series of Parties

Leaders of freshman and transfer women's orientation groups have planned a variety of parties for this week's orientation program.

Pat Sleezer, A3 of Freeport, Ill., will join her freshman group for a bridge and coke party tomorrow at 4 p.m. on the sunporch of Iowa Union.

Two groups of transfer women, led by Lorraine Benekke, A4 of Palmer, and Mildred Jensen, A3 of Council Bluffs, will join for a hiking and biking party tomorrow at 4 p.m. They will meet at the east approach to Old Capitol. Miss Benekke will lead the biking group and Miss Jensen the hiking.

Another bicycle hike has been planned for the transfer group headed by Anne Mikulasek, A4 of Newton. The hike will take place tomorrow with the group meeting on the east steps of Old Capitol at 4 p.m. on Oct. 22, this group will join that of Miss Benekke for a Sunday night supper downtown.

A fireside party was given last night for the freshman group headed by Wilma Kelly, A3 of Davenport, at the home of Mrs. Joseph J. Runner, 205 Hutchinson avenue. All joined in singing college songs, and popcorn, fudge and marshmallows were served. This group will meet for a luncheon at noon Saturday at Iowa Union.

fought family resistance to his desired art career and ran away from the military academy to which they had managed to send him for a year. He studied at the Art Institute in Chicago, beating up the neighborhood kids who dared ridicule his flowing hair and artist-attire. Then rebelling against academic studies of the Institute he went to Paris.

Returning to New York four years later, disillusioned and broke, he designed stage sets, taught and illustrated to earn a living. Following the war he executed murals for the New School of Social Research and the Whitney Museum of American Art, and completed a historical mural for the Indiana state exhibit at the Century of Progress. From then on, his fame was assured.

It is said he began regionalism in American art and that he put America on canvas. All of his work rouses endless discussion.

Hearings on Tavern Owners' Petitions for Injunction Writs Open Today in District Court

Three File Protest Against Revocation of Beer Permits

Hearing on petitions filed recently by Mrs. Ellen Stimmel, Victor Oliva and Arthur Smith, tavern operators, asking for a temporary writ of injunction restraining the Johnson county board of supervisors from revoking their class B beer permits, will be conducted in district court at 9 o'clock this morning by Judge James P. Gaffney.

All three operators filed similar petitions in protest to revocation of their beer permits as a result of a resolution passed more than a week ago by the board of supervisors. The board's action was prompted by a recommendation of County Attorney Harold Vestermark, contending that the taverns are not located on a legally platted area as required by state law.

County Auditor Ed Sulek mailed letters to the three operators Monday notifying them of the action taken by the board of supervisors. The letter read:

"You are hereby notified that the board of supervisors of Johnson county did on Oct. 2, 1939, pass and adopt a resolution revoking your beer permit under which you are now operating. This was done pursuant to an opinion of the county attorney. You are hereby requested to surrender your beer permit under which you are now operating and to file claim for a refund of money to which you may be entitled."

The permit of the Green Gables tavern expired Friday. Application for renewal was filed by the owner, Don Alberhasky, in September but the board has taken no action on the application.

Prof. Croft Talks to Club

Foresees Recognized Aeronautical School On SUP's Campus

The establishment of a recognized and authorized school of aeronautics for the university was forecast yesterday noon at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club by Prof. Huber O. Croft, head of the mechanical engineering department.

Professor Croft, director of the new civilian pilot training program, described the pilot training course as it is being tried out at the university, and said that eventually it will probably grow into a full-fledged aeronautics school.

The present $6,000,000, two-year program, Croft said, will train at least 15,000 private pilots a year. "This country," he added, "is woefully lacking in civilian pilots. While very few of those trained under our program will actually enter into military aviation, it does form a reservoir for pilots who might later be called upon for military work."

In addition, he pointed out, the program will have the effect of stimulating plane buying and the aircraft industry as a whole.

The course at this university will be made up of 50 persons, five per cent of whom may be outside the university, two per cent women and the remaining university students above freshman rank. Six women were among the 105 who turned out for the first class meeting Monday evening.

Prof. F. L. Mott, president of Kiwanis, announced the annual Kiwanis sons and daughters banquet will be held on the evening of Nov. 7.

Stalin Over Europe by DEMAREE BESS

The Persian Rug

Splendid upon my floor it lies,
A rug of Eastern colors blent,
And as I tread its lustrous pile,
I dimly glimpse the Orient:
Strange dusky fingers at their loom,
In some far tent of fair Iran,
Weaving their ageless patterns there,
Weaving a fabric for my room.

Mosque, minaret and gay bazaar,
A press of people—then a while
A strange and lonely way that shows
A caravan in slow defile.
Romance is mine to call at will,
For often, as I look upon
This outspread opulence I feel
The spell of distant Ispahan.
