Speech Pathology, Phonetics Researches To Be Featured

Iowa Graduates Play Prominent Roles in Work

Prof. G. Fairbanks Will Direct Session At Acoustical Meeting

There's a two-way interest among workers in two American research fields—each field is vitally interested in what the other is doing.

For that reason, Prof. Grant Fairbanks of the University of Iowa speech and dramatic arts department will preside at a round table on experimental phonetics and speech pathology on the program of the meeting of the Acoustical Society of America, scheduled to convene for the first time on the Iowa campus a week from today.

The Acoustical Society has expressed great interest in vocal research, and those who delve into the why and wherefores of voice are also interested in acoustics.

Experts To Take Part Experts active in experimental phonetics and speech pathology will take part in the round table session. All of them are Iowa graduates, or are at work at Iowa at the present time, who have carried their interest in the field outside the university.

Participants will be: Prof. Milton Cowan of the Iowa German department, since January, 1938, technical director of the modern language phonetics laboratory. Professor Cowan was awarded a Ph.D. here in 1935.

Giles W. Gray of Louisiana State University, who was awarded a Ph.D. for work under Dean Carl E. Seashore in 1926.

J. C. Snidcor of the southern branch of the University of Idaho, who is at present doing graduate work under Professor Fairbanks.

Professor Strother Prof. Charles R. Strother, new member of the staff this year from the University of Washington in Seattle, who was awarded a Ph.D. here in 1935.

Abe Pepinsky of the University of Minnesota, awarded his Ph.D. here last year.

Spencer F. Brown of the University of Minnesota, who won his Ph.D. here in 1937.

Dorothy Oliver, at present engaged in graduate work at Iowa. Visiting speaker at the session will be Dr. Raymond Carhart of the school of speech at Northwestern university, who will speak in laryngeal function.

Dr. Carhart has built several models of the larynx and observed its function. That work he will describe in the meeting. With Dr. Paul Moore, he has taken motion pictures of the larynx in action, also to be discussed in the round table session.

Reviews German Work Professor Cowan's special field of work is the application of experimental techniques to the phonetic problems of the modern languages. He will review a series of recent German monographs not currently available in the literature.

These investigations by W. Trendelenburg, H. Wullstein, W. Hartmann and F. Trendelenburg deal with the mode of vibration of the vocal cords in human and calf larynx preparations and analyses of spoken sounds by means of octave filters and oscillograms.

Prof. Cowan's paper will supplement the report by Dr. John Steinberg of the Bell Telephone laboratories and offer a new interpretation of the analysis of sound waves.

Wallace States War Makes Third F.D.R. Term 'Desirable'

Congress Criticizes Secretary's Remark As Being Untimely

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)

Secretary Wallace was rebuked at the White House today for his statement that the war abroad had made plain the desirability of a third term for President Roosevelt.

Thereby, republicans and some democrats in congress, who had criticized Wallace for making such a remark at a time when the administration was asking an adjournment of politics and non-partisan consideration of neutral legislation, were given implied assurance that Mr. Roosevelt had had nothing to do with the secretary's action.

Stephen Early, a presidential secretary, discussed the matter with reporters immediately after a visit to the president's study. "Is the war going to make the president run for a third term?" a reporter asked.

Early said he assumed that the question referred to an individual who had discussed the question in an interview at San Francisco. The secretary of agriculture had made his statement in the California city yesterday.

"It would have been kind and polite of the speaker to have consulted the victim before he spoke," Early continued. "Is the victim the president?" he was asked.

"He's the third term subject of the statement," Early replied.

Nations Wiped Off The Map Worry Finns

HELSINKI, Oct. 26 (AP)

Soviet Russia's demands were declared still unacceptable to Finland by one Finnish leader tonight, while another bid the Finnish people look at the "nations wiped off the map of Europe."

It was Finance Minister V. Tanner who disclosed that Russia's proposals are still unacceptable, but who asserted, nevertheless, that "I still think we can come to an agreement."

On the other hand Foreign Minister Elias Erkkö, addressing a large patriotic rally, referred to the last two years in which "two ancient countries have been wiped off the map of Europe; both great and small states are anxiously wondering what the future holds for them and in which direction the wheels of fate will carry them."

British Report German U-Boat Wreckage Sighted

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP)

The British admiralty announced tonight that "the shattered wreck of a German U-boat was found today on the Goodwin Sands."

(The Goodwin Sands are considered exceedingly dangerous shoals in the Strait of Dover. They are just off the southeast coast of Kent, England. They are off Ramsgate and flank the southern approach to the Thames river.)

NEW SLANG?

Ohio State University Claims These

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 26 (AP) — New slang expressions springing from collegiate minds at Ohio State university!

Campus glamor boy — male with $5; campus glamor girl—co-ed with a late model car; dive—any place with a neon sign, an orchestra and a college boy; swing—organized disorganization; friend—anyone who'll loan you money; acquaintance—anyone who has loaned you money; apple polisher—anyone who earns a "B" grade in a course, and receives an "A."

Civilization? That's a collection of modern inconveniences.

Germans Build Strong Planes

Assert Aircraft Fly 3,000 Miles Non-Stop With Two Ton Load

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)

The construction of German air-planes which can fly 3,000 miles non-stop with a bomb load of two tons tends to support the argument that the reich air force intends to strike heavily not only against British warships but against shipping as well.

Censored dispatches relate that German warplanes have made a few attacks against British naval bases and warships at sea. Communications on the results have been contradictory.

Attempts To Break Blockade

Partisans of the warplane erect a good thesis for a decision by the German high command to attempt to break the blockade by the British fleet through intensive bombing operations plus submarine warfare.

Their contentions hinge first on the fact that Germany is known to have converted fast commercial trans-Atlantic planes into bombers. This type of plane was never used for the purpose for which it was built—flying cargoes and passengers nonstop between Lisbon and New York.

The flying range is not exceptional, but heretofore Germany was shy of long-range aircraft.

Anti-Aircraft Ineffective

Another reason advanced for German air attacks on enemy surface craft, if they prove to be consistent with political considerations, is that up to now anti-aircraft fire has not proved very effective. Of the planes shot down during the recent raids on the Scottish coast and on the Orkney islands, almost all fell prey to pursuit plane gunfire.

Even the largest of battleships carry no more than two batteries of anti-aircraft guns, five guns to the battery. At a speed of 250 miles an hour, an attacking bomber would be within range of a warship's guns for a maximum of 45 seconds.

German Troop Movement Seen On Dutch Border

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 26 (AP)

Concentrations of German troops sighted along the southern half of the Netherlands - German frontier caused nervousness late today in villages along the border.

The German troops were plainly visible from the hills which line the frontier from Gennep to Vaals.

This was said to be the first time there had been any noticeable troop movements, opposite the Netherlands province of Limburg although a week ago observers noted new fortifications were under construction in the Siegfried line opposite Vaals at the southern tip of the Netherlands.

Coast Aviators Break 365 Hour Endurance Mark

LANCASTER, Calif., Oct. 26 (AP)

Clay Schlieper and Wes Carroll bettered the unlimited endurance flight record today. At 2:42 p.m. (5:42 p.m. CST) their time in the air exceeded by one hour the old record of 653 hours, 33 minutes. They said they expected to remain aloft 30 days.

The Long Beach flyers took their light pontoon - equipped plane into the air from the Marine stadium there Sept. 29. They plan to terminate their flight at the stadium next Sunday.

Soviet Releases City of Flint; Administration Wins First Test; French, German Troops Clash

Fight in Snow, Sleet, Rain On Western Front

Activity Indicates Possible Offensive By Germans Near

PARIS, Oct. 26 (AP)—French and German advance guards fought in snow and sleet and heavy rain tonight along the 100-mile northern flank of the western front as the French studied Nazi outpost lines seeking information concerning a possible German offensive.

French military observers believed the renewed German activity was designed to cover final preparations for an offensive in force, either a frontal assault on the Maginot line or a flanking attack through Switzerland or The Netherlands.

While some French militarymen still expressed doubt that final orders to launch a German offensive would be given this late in the year, new attention was riveted on the possibility of a flank attack as a result of developments in neutral countries protecting the wings of the French armies on the western front.

Reports reaching Paris from Holland, Belgium and Switzerland said the Germans had suddenly established a rigid control of communications to those countries shortly after noon.

Telephone calls to both Belgium and The Netherlands, these advisers said, were interrupted for more than four hours and communication was re-established only under strict supervision. Dispatches from Berne, Switzerland, said Swiss calls were placed under the same control at the time.

Dispatches from Amsterdam told of "important" troop and plane concentrations along the German coast east of The Netherlands.

(The German government announced in Berlin new restrictions on communications with points outside Germany. Private calls to foreign countries will not be accepted without a special permit and telegrams are to be censored. Newspaper correspondents were reported exempt. No reason for the restrictions was given.)

French scouts, who slashed through ice-coated barbed wire and dropped into shell holes filled with icy rain water to watch movements of the Germans, reported shock divisions all the way from the Luxembourg border to the Rhine in jump-off positions.

Each division was said to be flanked by squadrons of tanks and protected by special anti-tank guns.

Neutrality Bloc Forces Defeat Of Amendment

Senator Downey's Embargo Proposal Outvoted 55 to 27

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—Administration forces won by a two to one majority today the first test of strength on the crux of the president's neutrality program, repeal of the arms embargo.

The vote, 55 to 27, came on an amendment proposed by Senator Downey (D-Cal) which would have forbidden munitions sales to foreign nations, neutrals or belligerents, in peace time or war, except states of the western hemisphere at war with non-American nations.

Controversial Matter Since the scope of the Downey proposal extended beyond the present war in Europe it contained some controversial matter not essentially involved in the neutrality debate. These extraneous issues cost the proposal the vote of Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) and possibly one or two others.

However, with these exceptions, both sides agreed that the vote was a test of strength and that, when the senate ballots on the question in another form — that of a motion to strike the repeal clause from the pending legislation — the roll-call tally list would look very much as it did today.

Confident of Winning

Administration forces, although they received but 55 votes on the Downey amendment, or 57 including two that were paired, were still highly confident of amassing a final total of 65 or so.

The final ballot may come tomorrow. Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky) announced that he would ask for an agreement to vote on the bill and all amendments at 5 o'clock tomorrow.

Senator McNary, the republican leader advised him, however, that there would be objections to such a proposal, and suggested that he seek instead, a stricter limitation of debate. By agreement, each senator now is limited to speaking 45 minutes on the bill and 45 minutes on each amendment.

Before Downey arose with his embargo amendment, the senate had adopted only one amendment — by Senator Tobey (R-NH) to forbid the use of the American flag by belligerent merchant ships — and rejected another — by Senator Danaher (R-Conn) to forbid the sale of poison gas or flame throwers to the European belligerents.

Back in Death Row

WALTER H. (DUSTY) RHODES

Dusty Rhodes Nears Gallows

Allowed 30 Days To Seek Rehearing; May File New Petition

Walter H. (Dusty) Rhodes, 32, former Iowa City tavern operator, was a step nearer the gallows in his Fort Madison penitentiary death row cell yesterday after the Iowa supreme court reversed a previous decision granting a new trial, now affirming the decision of the Johnson county district court that Rhodes must hang for the dynamite murder of his wife Mabel.

Rhodes was given 30 days in which to file intention to seek a rehearing and 30 days more in which to file a petition to the effect. If those steps fail to produce still another court reversal, the case will be in the hands of Gov. George A. Wilson.

Although no official comment was made by the governor yesterday, even close observers decline any opinion of his action since this would be the first case of capital punishment to face Wilson as governor.

The supreme court's reversal of the Johnson county district court resulted from an appeal contending that Juror J. A. Zenishek had formed an opinion before hearing the evidence of the case.

In yesterday's 6 to 3 opinion, the high court held that the Johnson county court did not err in allowing Zenishek to serve.

Rhodes is accused of filling a shotgun with dynamite and tricking his wife into pulling the trigger Feb. 9, 1937. The explosion killed her instantly.

He was originally sentenced to hang April 29, 1938.

Attorney Will J. Hayek, who defended Rhodes in his trial in district court, could not be reached last night for a statement concerning future intentions of the defense.

County Attorney Harold Vestermarck said last night he is "pleased and satisfied" with the court's decision. He added, "The facts bear out the result as indicated by the supreme court's opinion."

Britain Partly Excuses Russia Of Polish Deal

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP)

Britain today partly excused without defending Soviet's part in the partition of Poland while new pleas were made in parliament for another try to gain Russian friendship for the British-French allies.

Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax told the house of lords that Russia would never have occupied eastern Poland if Germany "had not started it and set the example."

Flies U. S. Flag As She Sails From Russia

Uncertainty Whether American Sailors Command Freighter

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—Reports from Moscow tonight that the freighter City of Flint had been permitted to sail from Murmansk under the American flag raised hopes here that the United States had won a victory in a tense diplomatic struggle.

However, officials were keeping their fingers crossed, especially in view of German news agency dispatches implying that a German crew was in command of the American freighter when she departed from the Russian port.

Flying U. S. Flag

There was believed to be a possibility that the ship might be flying the American flag, and still be in the possession of the Germans. There would be precedent for the German crew raising the American colors under such circumstances. It was recalled that in the World war, formal instructions to the United States navy said that in case a neutral ship was taken by an American vessel, the flag of the neutral should be kept flying until a competent court adjudged the vessel a lawful prize.

Secretary of State Hull had formally demanded today that Russia turn the vessel over to this government, while Germany marshalled arguments to show that the craft was legally a German prize of war.

The nub of the dispute was whether the German raider which captured her violated international law by sending her to the Russian Arctic port of Murmansk. Hull, in his formal demand on Russia, took the position that a prize of war could be sent into a neutral port only in case of unseaworthiness, stress of weather or want of supplies.

'Sea Damage' The reich came right back with a claim that the vessel had suffered "sea damage." That was the reason she was taken to Murmansk, said a memorandum presented by the German foreign office to Alexander C. Kirk, American charge d'affaires.

Asked what the damage consisted of, the foreign office replied informally that it lacked details on that point, but that such damage would include lack of charts aboard of the City of Flint with which to navigate the waters through which she had to proceed.

Charis Lacking When Kirk reported this last observation to Washington, there was some raising of eyebrows here. The view was expressed that the City of Flint undoubtedly had charts to find her way to her original destination in the British isles, that she could not be expected to have charts of the Arctic ocean, and that presumably the raider had charts which might have been used.

There appeared to be no argument about Germany's action in stopping the ship and taking possession of her. Berlin announced that a quantity of contraband was found aboard; Hull has acknowledged this.

F. D. R. Calls War Policy's Critics 'Fakes'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)

President Roosevelt, striking out at critics who charge that his foreign policy may lead the United States to war, accused them tonight of perpetrating "one of the worst fakes in current history."

In and out of congress, he said, crators have been "beating their breasts and proclaiming against sending the boys of American mothers to fight on the battle fields of Europe."

This, he asserted in a radio address, is "a shameless and dishonest fake." No person in any post of responsibility anywhere in the United States, he said, has ever suggested that American boys be sent to fight abroad.

The Problem Of Broadcasting Student Opinion

AMERICA has been noted in the years since Hitler came into power for her lack of a youth movement. We doubt if young people trained in a democracy and with no great stimulus behind them could ever be merged into a youth movement such as the totalitarian states have experienced. Yet, the lack of organization among the young people of the United States is no indication that there is a lack of political feeling on their part.

In the years that have become history, practically no expression of the youth point of view on political questions was made outside the "young" groups in the political parties. Even these groups have had comparatively insignificant influence. Youth action on any political issue has appeared ineffectively and the interest of young people has been only intermittent.

Within these later years, American young people have been probed into serious thinking by their economic reverses and the increasingly ominous nature of the foreign situation. Since Britain declared war and American neutrality is threatened, these same young people have found a motivating power for organization. Many of them began to believe that there was need for an instrument through which they could make themselves heard.

Since the first day of September, we have been intrigued by watching an unusual phenomenon—the sprouting of innumerable organizations designed to crystallize student opinion into action. Of course there must have been forerunners in this mushroom movement. The "Veterans of Future Wars" and the organizations which pushed the "Oxford" movement have not been forgotten.

But now the goldfish gulper hasn't a chance—not when American campuses are facing the tide of "student peace societies."

Organizers are aware that students actually are thinking on subjects of international politics. The students' fear of having to carry a gun is sufficient motivating power to enable these new groups to obtain members.

The bull session always seemed to be illuminating to student minds, in spite of the fact that it results in nothing but more discussion. But now that "der tag" has arrived for students, we are told that organization is necessary that student opinion is made effective. Now is the time, if we can believe the publicity blarney that Uncle Sam brings in, for students to let Washington and the world know that youth has no desire for war.

If we seem to be impatient with these upstart peace groups, it is not because our ideas on American neutrality are so different from theirs.

We agree with the large number of students who do not want to go to war, who want the arms embargo lifted, who want this war's armistice to mark the beginning of a lasting peace. We believe, however, that if students are to organize to be heard, there is no strength to be found in spreading out thinly into dozens of groups. If there is any unity in student opinion at all, there may be no need for more than one group. We can see no need for more than two groups, patterned on the broad, general lines of the major political parties. And, frankly, we doubt if there is need for any organization.

When we are asked within a week to unite with the American Student Union, the Union of Collegiate Newspapers for American Peace, the Front for Peace, the Youth Committee Against War and the Committee on Mobilization we begin to wonder if some individual or group sponsor is not interested most of all in personal notoriety.

Of all the above groups, the only one that shows any great amount of sincerity and concreteness is the American Student Union. We hold no brief for the ASU, but the type of clear thinking shown by the executive of the ASU who spoke Wednesday on this campus appeals to us.

It happens that the ASU's point of view on questions involving American foreign relations is similar to that expressed within the past weeks in these editorial columns. It is not that which has appealed to us so much as the honesty the ASU has demonstrated. When Joe Lash, officer of the Student Union, refuses to answer a forum question because "we have learned that it is impossible to predict what we will be saying tomorrow," that appeals to us.

It is impossible to make predictions in these times. Those who signed Oxford pledges now realize that great changes in an individual's opinions are possible within a few months time. Those who dogmatically announce that they have the answers all figured out can not expect a great deal of sympathy from others who have found the issues in today's international scene too confusing to bring into sharp focus.

The Daily Iowan can not approve of any organization that sets out on a program of peace with no more assets than a proclamation signed by some unknown student on another campus.

We agree with almost all the ultimate aims of programs that have been presented by these organizations. We would like, however, to see some semblance of sanity in their hastily mailed pleas for membership.

The American Student Union, we believe, is the only group deserving of support because of its bonafide nature. Those students who do not feel inclined toward affiliation with such an organization or who do not agree with its views, will still find, it is our belief, that informal discussions such as midnight bullsessions in which the information gained in classrooms, from reading, and from campus events is digested, will be sufficient.

Student opinion will make itself known without the use of a megaphone. It may now be time for students to act, but unless we miss our guess almost all of these indigenous peace groups will wither as quickly as they have bloomed, and long before they have accomplished their stated purposes.

There's Still Need for Campus Leaders to Lead

EVERYONE is acquainted with the fact that the campus of the State University of Iowa, like every other college campus, is flooded with honorary organizations.

It is supposedly true that membership in any one of these is an honor. The theory is that only the most capable, the most intelligent, the leaders on the campus are elected to these groups.

What usually happens is that after these leaders are elected to membership, too many of them rest on their laurels.

Every member of an honorary group would do well to consider himself continuously challenged. There are many worthwhile causes on this campus that need his thoughtful consideration and action. This is a far cry from the smugness that is all too common.

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

As every American knows, Finland's record among our debtors has been one of pleasant singularity. Amid the universal defaults of her greater neighbors, Finland has laid down her payments on the line; so that there is a special sadness in the news from Helsinki that the Russian crisis has had its evil way with Finland's budget. On Sunday, while its delegation was on a second fateful trip to Moscow, the cabinet submitted the new budget to the Diet. Although every appropriation had been cut to the limit, the diplomatic emergency, which may become military as well, has already imposed an excess of expenditures over present revenue of 418,000,000 Finnish marks (about $7,400,000 in our money).

Finland's treasury depends on customs duties. Customs duties are levied on imports, and a nation can't import unless it exports. But the war has already swept much neutral shipping from the sea, and impeded much more of it. Finland's most valuable

SPEAKING OF WAR SCARES—!

Japanese Acceptance of Grew's Attack Queer, Stewart Says; Speech Had Official Sanction

Of course Joseph C. Grew, Uncle Sam's ambassador to Japan, didn't make his extraordinary diplomatic speech in Tokio a few days ago without State Secretary Hull's approval—and that necessarily means President Roosevelt's back of it.

Parentetically, if anybody missed reading reports of his talk, Grew told the Japs that America is "profoundly shocked" by their military men's disregard of Yankee rights, by their bombings, and by their general conduct on the eastern Asiatic mainland.

Ordinarily a foreign representative who expressed himself with such candor in the country he was assigned to, immediately would make himself "persona non grata" and his government would be asked to recall him.

But Grew evidently threw a scare into the Japanese. He was just back at his ambassadorial post from a visit in the United States, his hearers realized that he was speaking directly from Washington; also that he had chatted with plenty of his countrymen and was in up-to-date touch with sentiment on this side of the Pacific. Moreover, he spoke warmly; not threateningly. His whole tone was to the effect that we want to be friends with the Japs, but that their army, navy and aviation potentes are making it very difficult for us.

Jap Feelings Hurt His listeners undoubtedly were hurt; yet Grew doesn't seem to have made them so much angry as pained.

Instead of making a sassy answer to the ambassador, Japanese Foreign Minister Nomura promptly announced that he'd

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

"explain" to the former, in the hope of convincing him that Nippon is as anxious as we are to be friends, that we've misunderstood them if we think otherwise, and that in future they'll see that their military nabobs are more careful.

In short, Grew knows his Orient and did a classy job of oratory. He was forcible enough to attract lots of attention, but he steered clear of saying anything that would have been impossible for the mikado to swallow without "loss of face"—the worst thing that can happen to anybody in the Far East.

Not only Premier Abe and Foreign Minister Nomura have taken his strong talk in excellent part, but the Jap press has voiced outright appreciation of it. The Tokio newspaper Nichi-Nichi even remarks that the islanders are under obligations to Grew for letting them know candidly just how his home folk feel about the Japanese militarists' methods in China.

Now there's something very queer about all this. If isn't queer that Japan's diplomats are the last word in politeness. Their courtesy always has been perfectly exquisite. No informed person ever has found a particle of fault with the amiability of the country's civil officialdom's intentions.

The queer thing is that civil officialdom and press are so free now to admit, by implication, that maybe the nation's militarists' behavior has been open to just criticism.

Samurai a Hard Lot The Japs' military setup is entirely independent of the rest of the government. It's dominated by the Samurai, a hereditary fighting class. The Samurai are anything but nice people to deal with. If a civil functionary, from the premier on down, annoys them the Samurai's custom is to assassinate him in short order, and they can't be called to account for it, either.

How does it happen, then, that Foreign Minister Nomura and Nippon's newspapers have the nerve to take the attitude that they do take toward that speech by Ambassador Grew?

Washington inclines to the view that the militarists have fallen into such disfavor with the Jap masses that it's beginning to be safe to defy them.

It's the militarists who launched the campaign in China against the advice of many authorities in non-military governmental departments. If the militarists had made a quick cleanup on the mainland doubtless they simply would have enhanced their prestige. But the war has strung out tremendously and Japan can't stand the economic strain of it.

When Russia seemed to be pulling out of the situation it was surmised even here that the Chinese speedily would be finished. Instead, they won a notable victory right afterward. Now the Russians show signs of starting to help them again.

It wouldn't be much better to have Russia dominant in China than to have Japan dominant there, but it might be the death knell of the Samurai. With that crowd eliminated the Japs would be much easier to get along with.

AROUND THE TOWN

Apparently the "Waiting for Lefty" cast gave one of the best amateur performances Iowa City has seen. Now they're making plans to give a repeat performance Nov. 5, Macbride auditorium, admission free.

Elmer Davis, one of the best writers and worst broadcasters I've heard or met, writes an intelligent appraisal of the radio's place in the news picture. It's in the current Harper's.

On the subject of censorship Davis has what should be, I think, the last word. "It would be a pity," he writes, "if after a hundred and fifty years of self-government the American people are still not old enough to be allowed to hear what there is to be heard. The American people are not boobs."

My favorite dean's most successful graduate isn't one of the Gallup polls would choose. He has his M. A. degree, but he's farming. He owns his land, 200 acres of it, has a library, wife, radio, and a Ford. He's earned it all himself, and he's completely happy.

The dean puts it right. "He knew where he wanted to go, and it wasn't too far."

The people who plan their lectures are holding their breath. What with a poet who got his dates mixed, a scientist who went to war, they're a little worried about Billy Phelps who, at 79, isn't the most robust fellow imaginable.

There's a local book being considered by publishers which isn't one of the little flowers of the valley. No long-haired artist is involved. A local Negro girl wrote it, writing it longhand in her spare hours. She's a maid by day.

Ross Livingston doesn't like to talk about it himself. But he's had a recent check from the Canadian government. It seems Prof. Livingston was working on a book, had been for a good while. And much of the material had come from a Canadian library. A chap up there had been very helpful.

Then, not many months back, this helpful fellow published a book of his own. It was the same material, same subject on which Livingston had been working. Then the librarian died.

There was a quiet to do about it. The whole thing was a plain case of literary piracy. So the government intervened, and sent Professor Livingston a check. Plus a handsome apology.

But even that can't quite make up for the months of painstaking research that preceded the incident. It's one of the things that happens in the world academic, I guess.

Although writing a book at all has its unusual prospects, if you're a faculty member that is. So many refer enthusiastically to the magazine article they wrote in 1913.

The whole business of academic publication is a racket in itself. You couldn't count on both fingers the list of faculty members whose names on the title-pages of volumes mean simply that their graduate students did the research. They may have gone over it with an evening's editing and reaped the credit.

It happened last year that way. One among us was being publicized to the right and the left of us for the research he had done. Come to find out he hadn't lifted a finger. A graduate student had completed the whole business.

This particular graduate protested publicly and loudly. He's now with a big firm in Syracuse. The professor hasn't mentioned that particular piece of research in months.

TUNING IN with D. Mac Showers

- SWING AND SWAY with Sammy Kaye will be the by-word at the New York Hotel Commodore beginning tonight as the popular singing song title band moves into the hotel for a winter engagement. With regular network broadcasts over both CBS and MBS, single export is timber and the pulp and paper which are timber derivatives are the next largest item. But timber, as a source of cellulose, used in munitions, is accounted contraband in the greatly extended contraband lists of modern warfare; and the special difficulty of Finland's position is shown by the fact that her greatest export market for her products is Great Britain, and her next greatest, Germany. But decline in foreign trade exerts direct pressure upon internal business, which in one form or another yields all revenue outside of customs. And internal business has already been dislocated by universal mobilization. Finland's new budget estimates show again that war is universally impoverishing, affecting neutrals as well as belligerents. -The Baltimore Sun
- A FAMED SINGER, a movie comedian, a flagpole sifter and a well-known writer comprise the star quartet to appear on the George Jessel NBC-Red network tonight at 8:30. THEY ARE Paul Robeson, noted concert baritone who is making his first public appearance since his recent return from Europe; Henry Armetta, one of Hollywood's funniest men who has appeared in numerous hit pictures; "Shipwreck" Kelly, whose flagpole sitting has made newspaper headlines, and Princess Kropotkin, whose articles are featured in major magazines and newspapers. MUSIC IS under the baton of Peter Van Steeden with vocals by the Merry Maes. George Jessel's "Celebrity Pro-
- gram" has risen into the class of shows for which it is most difficult to obtain studio passes. The Songbird of the South will, as usual, have the assistance of Abbott and Costello, the Jack Miller orchestra, Snow Village Sketches and the Kate Smith singers during the hour. Ted Collins presides as master of ceremonies. HERALDING THE nearness of the football season, Frank Black has arranged a "College Overture" for his Friday night concert series over the NBC-Red network tonight at 7 o'clock. Included are "Boola-Boola," "Maine Stein Song," "Far Above Cayuga's Waters," "Down the Field," "Old Nassau," "Harvardiana," "Grim, Grey Palisades," "Rambling Wreck," "On, Brave Old Army Team" and "Anchors Aweigh.

Hawklets, Blue Devils Meet in Crucial Game

Around The BIG TEN

Training Camps

Bierman To Scout At Evanston

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 26 (AP)—Coach Bernie Bierman of Minnesota today decided to go to Evanston, Ill., to personally scout the Northwestern-Illinois game Saturday. Minnesota has an open date Saturday and Northwestern will be the Gopher's next foe here Nov. 4.

Today's Minnesota practice was devoted chiefly to perfecting a defense against forward passes.

Illini Depend On Veterans

CHAMPAIGN, Oct. 26 (AP)—Coach Bob Zuppke apparently will rely on a veteran backfield against Northwestern Saturday. The quartet he has kept intact all week included Ralph Ehni at quarterback, Chuck Purvis and Don Elting at halfback positions and George Rettiger at fullback. The Illini ended practice today with a passing drill and will depart for Evanston tomorrow.

Hoosier End Injures Leg

Other left flankers, Russ Higginbotham, Archie Harris and Jim Ellenwood, are expected to recover from their injuries before

West Branch Will Trouble Faltering Blue Eleven Today

Phi Psis Down Theta Tau Team By 46-6 Score

Wet grounds failed to stop the game in the intramural fraternity league in touch football between Theta Tau and Phi Kappa Psi although all other games were canceled.

Phi Kappa Psi trounced over Theta Tau yesterday afternoon by the score of 46-6. The spectacular play of Hoak, Wolf and Humphry enabled the Phi Kappas to do all their scoring. The first two touchdowns were made by passes from Hoak to Wolf for the victors. Later in the first period, chances for a score by the Theta Tau's were spoiled as Wolf intercepted a pass and ran it back for the third touchdown of the game. Just before the half ended, Hoak again passed and Humphry was on the receiving end in the end zone.

During the entire second period it was the passing combination of Hoak to Wolf that accounted for all the scoring for the Phi Kappas. After the first touchdown for the Phi Kappas, the Theta Tau's opened a passing attack and finally scored with a pass from Zweifer to Butterworth. Then Theta Tau kicked off and the following play saw Phi Kappa Psi score its sixth touchdown with a pass from Hoak to Wolf. The last score of the game was again by that passing combination of Hoak and Wolf. The all-around playing of Stillier was outstanding for the losers.

Sigma Phi Epsilon forfeited to Sigma Chi of class B and all other games scheduled to be played yesterday will be played at a later date.

Sixto Escobar Vacates Title

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—The National Boxing Association announced today that Sixto Escobar, bantamweight champion of the world, had formally relinquished his title and would hereafter campaign as a featherweight.

In accordance with a unanimous resolution of the 1939 N.B.A. convention, the Association recognized George Fike, of Cleveland, as world's bantamweight champion.

Apostol Saves Life

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—Fred Apostol, formerly recognized as middleweight boxing champion in New York and California, stepped into a life-saving role yesterday. With his necktie he applied a tourniquet to the arm of a window washer who had severed an artery in a fall.

City High Has Title Hopes

Davenport Relies On One of State's Fastest Backfields

The lid will pop off the Mississippi Valley conference championship race tonight when the Hawklets of City high take on the Davenport Blue Devils at Davenport. Both elevens are possible contenders for the crown, with elimination the price of defeat.

Coach Herb Cormack sent his charges through their final drill last night, preparing them for one of the toughest games of their schedule. The Little Hawk mentor whipped his men through an intensive signal drill, meeting out a few new tricks which may come in handy in the clutch.

Davenport has the reputation of being a tough team to beat, although their record is far from impressive. The Blue Devils have shown plenty of steam in all their games, but do not seem able to produce in the clinches. Moline and Dubuque hold decisions over the Red and Blue, while Rock Island and Moline have held them to ties. Davenport boasts a win over the West Waterloo powerhouse, however, indicating hidden ability.

Led offensively by Ronnie Baker, a pony speed merchant, the Davenport eleven boasts one of the fastest backfields in the state, operating behind a big line. Garrett, a Negro flash, and Porter, an end, are on the receiving end of most of Baker's passes, which make up most of the Davenport offensive threat. Baker is especially billed as a pass interceptor, and has accounted for a number of touchdowns runs off these interceptions.

The big Blue Devil line is led by Capt. John Staak, a potential all-star. Staak seems to be the center of action of a line that is tops on defense, but lacking in steadiness on offense. The Davenport forward wall has one strong point offensively, however, and that is directly over center. If the field is wet, the game will probably turn into a plunger's battle, with Davenport trying the center of the Little Hawk line, and Ted Lewis and Jack Fetig carrying on for Iowa City.

Cormack has been giving the City high squad a new bunch of plays all week to try against Davenport, and has been scrimmaging them hard for a tough game. A possible starting lineup for the Little Hawks will find Howard Clark and Dick Martin at ends; Jack Hirt and Kenny Bright at tackles; Ralph Edler or Bill Voelckers and Bill Bothell at guards; Vark Parker at center; Ted Lewis at quarter; Bob Towell and Johnny Graham or Bert Miller at halves, and Jack Fetig at full.

Dawson and Means at ends, Seelman and Pelzer, tackles, Bender and Bridenstine, guards, Bowers, center, Dunn, quarterback, Hight-shoe and Beye, halfbacks, and Canny, fullback.

Wolverines At Full Strength

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 26 (AP)—At full strength for the first time since the opening of the season, Michigan completed drills today for its intersectional combat with Yale here Saturday. Halfback Paul Kromer and end Ed Frutig, both of whom have been out with leg injuries, told Coach Fritz Crisler they were ready to play. Crisler got a scare today when Tom Harmon, his star back, twisted his ankle but the injury was found to be superficial.

Cubs Claim They'll Have Prize Rookie Ball Crop Next Spring

By EARL HILLIGAN
CHICAGO, Oct. 26 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs, admittedly tired of hearing about all those bad deals they allegedly have made, came right out today and claimed they'll have the best rookie crop in the team's history at spring training camp on Catalina island next March.

"All you hear about is the bad deals the Cubs have made, their collapse in the 1938 world series and the old men on the team," sighed Charles Drake, assistant to President P. K. Wrigley. "But you never hear anyone talking about our younger players. Well, we've got them coming up next year—when we hope they'll help make everyone forget about what the Cubs did in 1939."

The three rookies of whom the Cubs are particularly proud are Dominic Dallesandro, purchased from San Diego for $17,500; Julio Bonetti, who won 20 games and lost only five for Los Angeles in 1939; and Bob Collins, a 30-year-old catcher who was an outstanding backstop for Los Angeles, where he hit .306 last season.

"We have those players already signed," Drake said, and we will have first call on two others—Lou Stringer, a second

Football Rules Again Target for Fans

Moving Goal Posts Back on Goal Line Suggested This Year

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—College football rules, annually a target but usually escaping with only minor wounds, again are the bullseye for fans who are sure they could improve the game, although possibly not Tennessee's game.

In the past, except on scattered occasions, the rules committee has looked with baleful eye on revolutionary innovations, made a few minor alterations, and called it a day, although it is true the piling up of these minor changes, combined with such radical departures as the moving back of the goal posts and the fumble rule, have made the game what it is today.

Frankly, the only radical change suggested this year that seems to have a fair chance of being adopted is the returning of the goal posts to the goal line, and this can be traced to the pros' success with field goals.

There are any number of suggestions for means of scoring the extra point so that a team's margin of superiority does not rest on the blunt toe of some kicking specialist.

For instance, Roy Mueller of San Antonio would give the team which scored the touchdown the ball on its opponents' 10-yard line, with a series of four downs allowed to score the extra point, which could be done by passing, running, or field goal.

He would have regular rules prevail during the try, during which time would be out. For instance, an intercepted pass, field goal failure, or fumble recovered by the defending team automatically would end the attempt.

Mueller also suggests that a successful effort by running or passing count two points, and a kick one point, just as a touchdown counts twice as much as a field goal.

A football addict, addressing the sports editor of the Pawtucket, R. I., Times, suggests a change which virtually would tear the game to pieces and put it back together bit by bit.

This fan bemoans the prolonged periods of inaction during which the clock is counting seconds, and he thinks a change in timing rules would help standardize the amount of action in games, and also would eliminate stalling by a team trying to turg a lead.

He suggests that time be "in" only when the ball actually is in play, or from the time ball is snapped until the play is completed.

The length of the periods necessarily would be sliced to the number of minutes a survey would show would approximate the time a ball actually is in play now. In that way, the grid student asserts, the spectators would be assured of a certain amount of action each quarter.

With the activity standardized, he points out, and time not "in" until the ball is snapped, a team couldn't kill a half-minute calling signals, cheerfully accept a five-yard stalling penalty, and keep the ball out of the hands of the trailing opponents.

To show the manner in which the amount of action differs in the present standardized game, the writer says he charted two games. In one game 132 plays were run off. In the other there were approximately 160 plays.

It's all good, clean fun, this practice of devising systems for improving the game. Most of them have about as much chance of being adopted as an over-the-fence-is-out rule applied to baseball, but it doesn't mean a lot of them don't have real merit.

Too many coaches have enough trouble trying to teach their squads how to play football under the present rules.

Some Fun

Bolshevik Trio In Dolphin Show

World politics will enter into the "Dolphin Follies of 1940" to be held in the field house pool Nov. 9, 10, and 11, as the "Bolshevik trio" will paddle along the tranquil waters of the pool, and sing in their native tongue.

The "Vulgar" boatmen will furnish some of the comedy in the all-star water show, as they appear in long beards and perform many stunts along the way.

The boys will forget the unrest across the sea, and will give out with all they have. When they grow weary of their melancholy Russian songs, they will step lively in "Flat Foot Floogie" or "Well All Right" and dunk their beards in the wash.

Leo Biedrzycki, Vic Vargon and Ed Mahoney will be the "Reds" in the act, which will be the "Foreign Legion" of the show.

The act is one of the original parts of the show, with most of the acts taken from water carnivals in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, and Miami. Freshman drills, Varsity drills, and many feature stunts will occur during the show, with comedy taking its place along with skill and precision.

Cunningham Sets Pace
MOUNT VERNON, (AP)—The Cornell college cross-country team, midwest conference champion, was paced on its afternoon run here Wednesday by Glenn Cunningham, world's champion miler. Glenn is spending a couple of days here. The Purple Harriers are training for a midwest meet at Beloit Saturday.

Javelin Throw Will Continue This Afternoon

Due to unfavorable weather conditions, yesterday afternoon, the second day of competition in the Rotary javelin throw was postponed until this afternoon, at 4 o'clock, weather permitting.

Milt Kuhl leads all the contestants thus far with a toss of 146 feet 8 inches with Hy Booth in second place ahead of Youel and Lowell Baker, who hold third and fourth positions.

The event is open to all university men. All those wishing to compete for the Rotary club's travelling trophy should be on the field east of the stadium this afternoon.

Irish Hope For Victory Over West Branch

With a full squad at practice for the last three nights Coach Father Harry Ryan is looking forward to a win for his St. Pat's eleven against West Branch next Wednesday.

What looked like the second broken nose of the season on the Irish squad turned out to be a badly bruised one. A doctor's report showed the cartilage in Ned Billick's nose to be shoved out of place. Billick will probably be back for the West Branch tilt.

In Ryan's six years at St. Pat's the Irish eleven haven't scored against the West Branch outfit. It's the last game for the southsiders and to be awarded letters the fighting Irish must come through with a win. So far this season the Green and White, along with one tie, have suffered four defeats.

St. Pat's have failed to score except in one game this season and have run up more points than any other team under Ryan. In spite of this there is no victory record.

Badger Guard Out of Game

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 26 (AP)—Bob Holloway, Wisconsin's regular left guard, still is confined to the infirmary with a leg infection and will not play here Saturday against Iowa, Football Coach Harry Stuhldreher announced. Holloway has started every game this season. Don Kolbusz, sophomore from Green Bay, was advanced to Holloway's varsity job.

Today's workout was given over to passing, and brought praise from Stuhldreher.

Bergstrom To Start At Tackle Post Instead of Walker

A Hawkeye team that moved with a sparkling aggressiveness last night raced through its last home workout before Saturday's invasion of the Badgers' den at Madison, Wis. The Hawks, a small traveling squad of 28, will board the Rock Island "Rocket" at 9:16 this morning, work out tonight at Milwaukee, and continue on to Madison tomorrow morning.

Although the Badgers are reputedly a powerful team, backed by far more reserves than Dr. Eddie Anderson has at his call, there was no sign of pessimism among the Hawkeyes, despite the news that Jim Walker, colored powerhouse, would not make the

SEE THE TEAM OFF

Iowa's football squad of 28 men will leave from the Rock Island station at 9:16 this morning for Madison, Wis., for the third Big Ten game, against Wisconsin tomorrow afternoon. The Daily Iowan urges students not in class at that time to be at the station to see the team off.

Walker's lame knee has healed all too slowly and he will not be ready before the Purdue game at the very earliest. His regular tackle spot will go to Wallace Bergstrom, sophomore reserve, who has been coming along rapidly of late.

Against the Badgers, a rugged eleven that averages nearly 200 pounds to the man, Coach Anderson will depend on nearly the same team that has played most of the Iowa games to date. Mike Enich, of course, will hold down his old tackle post opposite Bergstrom. Bill Diehl will be at center, Charles Tolferson and Max Hawkins at guards, Capt. Erwin Prasse and Jens Norgaard at ends. Al Coupee at quarterback, Nile Kinick and Russell Busk at halfbacks and Ray Murphy at fullback, will probably complete the starting eleven.

Members of the traveling squad: Ends: Capt. Erwin Prasse, Dick Evans, Jens Norgaard and Fred Smith.

Tackles: Wallace Bergstrom, Carl Conrad, Mike Enich, Matt Miletich and Bob Otto.

Guards: Max Hawkins, John Maher, Kenneth Pettit, Charles Tolferson and Herman Snider.

Centers: Bill Diehl, George Frye and Bruno Andruska.

Quarterbacks: Al Coupee, Gerald Ankeny and Bill Gallagher.

Halfbacks: Nile Kinick, Russell Busk, Buzz Dean, Burdell Gilreard and Ed McLean.

Fullbacks: Ray Murphy, Bill Green and Henry Vollenweider.

First Pica Queen To Reign At Journalism Dance Tonight

Carlson's Band Will Entertain At Pica Ball

University Women Plan To Wear Long Dinner Dresses

A Pica queen will reign for the first time in history tonight at the Pica Ball, annual party sponsored by the Associated Students of Journalism, in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

The queen, chosen by secret ballot by members of the Pica Ball committee on a basis of beauty, scholarship and activities, will be presented just before intermission.

University women will wear long dinner dresses to this second all-university party of the season, as they dance to the music of Bill Carlson and his orchestra from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Loren Hickerson, A4 of Iowa City, chairman of the committee, will escort Martha Lois Koch, A3 of Evansville, Ind. Miss Koch will wear a black silk dinner dress with a long-sleeved, fitted jacket trimmed with colored beads. Black rhinestones will trim her accessories.

Constance Clark, N4 of Los Angeles, Cal., who will attend the party with James Fox, A4 of Boone, will wear a royal blue satin dress made with a full skirt and fitted bodice and trimmed with wine-colored velvet ribbon. Her accessories will be silver.

A plaid taffeta dress with bustle bow and jacket of black velvet is the choice of Dale Kohn, A2 of Chicago, who will go dancing with Art Goldberg, A4 of Iowa City. Miss Kohn's accessories will be silver and rhinestone.

Mary Elizabeth Higgins, A4 of Burlington, will dance with Morty Tonken, A3 of Hartford, Conn., in a dress of black moire taffeta trimmed with erise velvet, made with a bustle bow and a short matching jacket.

D. Mac Showers, A3 of Iowa City, will attend the dance with Patricia McVicker, A1 of Iowa City. Miss McVicker has chosen a dress of teal blue satin made with a square neckline and elbow length puffed sleeves. She will carry gold accessories.

Betty Gilliland, A3 of Des Moines, who will be escorted by Art Bellaire, A4 of Sioux City, will wear a semi-tailored maroon satin dinner gown made with a quilted collar. Her accessories will be of antique gold.

Rows of tiny buttons will trim the dress of Jessie Lou King, A3 of Adel, who will go to the party with John Mueller, A3 of Iowa City. Miss King's dress will be of henna taffeta with a gold jacket and gold accessories.

A dress reminiscent of grandmother's day is the choice of Lorraine Beneke, A4 of Palmer. She will wear a full black taffeta skirt with a bustle back and a lace-trimmed white flowered blouse with long puffed sleeves.

Miss Beneke's escort will be Paul Lawhead of Des Moines.

Dubonnet accessories will set off the blue taffeta dress of Madelyn Miles, A4 of Clear Lake, who will be escorted by Carl Ahlgren, A3 of Des Moines. Miss Miles' dress is made with a flared skirt and puffed sleeves.

Chaperons for the party will be Prof. and Mrs. Frank L. Mott, Prof. and Mrs. Edward Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Earl English, Mr. and Mrs. Winston Allard and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bartley.

Announces Engagement

Mrs. Genevieve Regan, 431 E. Market street, is announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, to T. Francis Murray, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Francis Murray, 315 N. Van Buron street. The wedding will be at 8 a.m. Nov. 11 at St. Mary's church here in Iowa City.

Miss Regan was graduated from the university in 1939 with a B.S. in commerce. She was affiliated with Pi Omega Pi, honorary business education fraternity, and Newman club. Mr. Murray was graduated in 1932 from the university in electrical engineering. He was affiliated with Triangle fraternity. He is now a member of the American Association of Engineers and the American Institute of Electrical Engineering. For the past six years, Mr. Murray has been employed as engineer in the appraisal department of the United Light and Power company in Davenport.

The committee awards unanimously selected Mr. Hammerschmidt's paper which was presented at the 1939 meeting of the natural gas section at Tulsa. His paper was described as "one of several contributions which he has made toward the solution of an extremely difficult technical problem in the transmission of natural gas at high pressure."

Mr. Hammerschmidt is chief chemist of the Texoma Natural Gas company at Fritch, Tex.

Gas Industry Awards Medal

University Graduate Receives Recognition For Technical Paper

Elmer G. Hammerschmidt, a graduate of the university, was awarded the Beal medal at the meeting of the American Gas association in New York City on Oct. 12.

The Beal medal, the highest technical recognition that the gas industry can bestow, is given for the best technical paper presented at any meeting of the association. The award marks the first time that the medal has gone to a natural gas engineer.

Mr. Hammerschmidt received his B.S. degree in chemical engineering from the university in 1923.

The committee awards unanimously selected Mr. Hammerschmidt's paper which was presented at the 1939 meeting of the natural gas section at Tulsa. His paper was described as "one of several contributions which he has made toward the solution of an extremely difficult technical problem in the transmission of natural gas at high pressure."

Mr. Hammerschmidt is chief chemist of the Texoma Natural Gas company at Fritch, Tex.

U. of Missouri Invites Gilmore To Centennial

President Eugene A. Gilmore has been invited to attend a University association conference on the campus of the University of Missouri from Oct. 30 through Nov. 1.

Thirty other university and college presidents will also be at the conference. The meeting is being held at the same time as the centennial celebration at the University of Missouri and the visiting presidents are also invited to participate in that.

In connection with this conference, the Missouri Student, the university weekly newspaper, is running a series of personalized human interest stories on the conference delegates.

Group Selected To Plan Law Of Y.W.C.A.

Two committees to re-vamp the constitution of the Y.W.C.A. have been selected by the "Y" cabinet, Lucile Mullen, A4 of Davenport, president, announced yesterday. The plans worked out by these committees will be presented to the Y. W. C. A. at an all-Y meeting to be announced later.

Mary Ellen Hennessy, A3 of Council Bluffs, is chairman of the constitutional amendment committee, and will be assisted by Mary Jane Huber, A2 of Cedar Rapids, and Betty Johnson, A3 of Red Oak.

Jo Sidwell, A4 of Iowa City, will head the committees on the phrasing of goals and purposes. Others working with her include Dorothy Smith, A1 of Iowa City; Virginia Franquemont, A3 of Des Moines; Evelyn Mitchell, A4 of Emmetsburg; Ruth Subotnik, A4 of Cedar Rapids; Miss Mullen, and Anne McPhee, executive secretary for the local Y. W. C. A.

Women Confer In Des Moines

"Consumer Problems" will be the subject of a conference of the Iowa League of Women Voters in Des Moines Nov. 16 and 17. The conference is being sponsored by the Des Moines league.

All sessions of the meeting will be at the Hotel Fort Des Moines. Mrs. Joseph Baker, president of the Iowa City League of Women Voters, has requested that all members who are interested in attending the conference take note of the dates.

Delegates Go To Des Moines For Sessions

Collegiate Press To Voice Opinions In 'Bull Session'

Loren Hickerson, managing editor of The Daily Iowan, left yesterday afternoon and Prof. Frank L. Mott, director of the school of journalism, and L. K. Norris, shop superintendent of the university printing service, will leave today to participate in sessions of the National Collegiate Press association which opened in Des Moines yesterday.

Professor Mott will speak before a meeting in Cedar Rapids tonight before going on to Des Moines tomorrow morning.

Feature "Bull Session" A feature of the convention will be the presentation of the air of "Bull Session", national network program of the Columbia Broadcasting system. This is the first time that the broadcast has been heard outside the Chicago studios and will be presented to the nation from Des Moines tomorrow at 9 a. m.

"Bull Session", a student opinion program, has been moved to the Des Moines studios to allow the broadcasting of the program in conjunction with the convention.

"Write or Right" The seven students to appear on the program from four middle-western universities are to have breakfast on the stage of the Hotel Fort Des Moines ballroom tomorrow night. At approximately 8:40 a. m. the group will begin discussion of "Shall We Write or Right," so that the program will be in progress when switched to the coast-to-coast Columbia network through radio station KRNT.

The Drake university journalism department and its chapters of Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi, men's and women's journalistic fraternities respectively, are acting as hosts to the convention.

Wheatley To Referee Parker Wheatley, associated with Northwestern university, will be referee of the discussion which will deal generally with the part college presses should play in propagandizing the peace front being organized on college campuses.

Since the broadcast will originate from the Hotel Fort Des Moines, the delegates will be invited to "sit in" on the broadcast. This will be the first time that a large student audience will be permitted to view a "Bull Session" broadcast.

Honorary Group Pledges Women In Journalism

Theta Sigma Phi, honorary and professional fraternity for women in journalism, initiated one and pledged six new members in two formal ceremonies last night at 7:30 in the women's lounge of the journalism building.

Maxine Burke, A4 of Cedar Rapids, is the new active member of the society. Pledges include Yvonne Riley, A4 of Mason City; Betty Gilliland, A3 of Des Moines; Betty Daughton, A3 of Mt. Airy; Shirley Lamb, A4 of Little Falls, Minn.; Jeanne Specht, A4 of Clinton; and Lorraine Beneke, A4 of Palmer.

Organization Will Entertain

Cavaliers To Play At Hallow'en Dance Tomorrow Evening

Plans for a Hallow'en party at which the University club will entertain tomorrow from 9 to 12 p. m. in the clubrooms of Iowa Union have been announced by Tacie Knease, chairman.

Reservations must be made at the main desk of Iowa Union by Friday night as the party is limited to 60 couples.

The Cavaliers will play for dancing. Anyone interested in the club is invited to attend, for the party is not limited to members.

Past Presidents Dine at Youde's

Members of the Past Presidents' club of the Woman's Relief corps met for a 7 p. m. luncheon yesterday at Youde's Inn. Hostesses were Mrs. Walter Bradley and Mrs. William Weber. Thirteen members were present.

Refugees Plan Housewarming At Scattergood Hostel Saturday

Coast House, Currier Win Volleyball Title

Currier hall's team I, and Coast house's volleyball teams emerged victorious in the women's annual intramural volleyball tournament completed last night after four weeks of competition.

Tying for second place were teams representing Pi Beta Phi and Zeta Tau Alpha, with both groups losing but one of the eight scheduled games. Alpha Chi Omega, team I, placed third.

Announcement is made of the coming mixed volleyball tournament, which will get under way next Tuesday evening. Teams will be composed of three men and three women students. Games for the mixed tournament will be played regularly on Tuesday and Wednesday nights for the next four weeks. All entries must be turned in at the main desk of the women's gymnasium before Monday at 5 p. m.

Three Men Elected As Representatives To All-Dorm Group

Three people were elected representatives to all-dorm council from the inter-cooperative council at a meeting of the group Wednesday evening in the Quadrangle dining room. They were John Williams, A2 of Des Moines; Robert Day, L1 of Brighton, and Cecil Porter, G of Littleton, Me.

West Branch Group Invites All Visitors To Open House

Scattergood, hostel founded two miles north of West Branch for German refugees, will hold its housewarming Saturday with an open house from 2 to 10 p. m.

John Kaltenbach, director of the work, has sent invitations to several Iowa City residents who have lived as members of the hostel or who have aided its work. Other persons who wish to go are invited, it was announced. The hostel, started in April this year, has housed some 25 German refugees from time to time. At present, 12 live there, helped by 10 Americans also in residence at Scattergood.

The hostel, founded by a Quaker church group, houses men and women who have come to the United States without immediate prospects of jobs or homes.

Perhaps representative of them is one man who took over a shop which had not been showing profits, ran it for three months, and made it pay.

Other of the younger men have accepted scholarships to Cornell and Penn colleges and Drake university. Kurt Shaffer, one-time resident of the hostel, is now an instructor in the college of commerce in the university.

Professor Martin Attends Inauguration

Prof. Herbert Martin is attending the inauguration of John Benjamin Magee as president of Cornell college in Mt. Vernon today. Professor Martin is representing the American philosophical association and Yale university.

Tavern Cases To Get Hearing

Court To Prosecute 3 Local Operators On Trial Wednesday

Hearing on the cases against the three local tavern operators whose establishments were raided last July by state and county agents has been set for Wednesday by District Court Judge James P. Gaffney.

The three defendants are John Agnew, Ivan Schmidt and Charles Gillam. Agnew is charged with operating a liquor nuisance and with illegal possession of gambling devices. He is proprietor of Club 88 at Tiffin.

Schmidt is charged with maintaining a liquor nuisance, and Gillam, with illegal possession of gambling devices. The state will prosecute the cases against the three defendants.

Seventeen other taverns which were raided at about the same time are scheduled for hearing after the first three cases are disposed of.

Petit Jurymen To Report For Duty Monday

Petit jurymen for the September term of court have been excused from further duty until Monday morning when two cases come up for hearing, Judge James P. Gaffney announced yesterday.

First case to be heard Monday will be the suit of the Great American Insurance company against Eldon Miller, a local trucker. The plaintiff is asking for a judgment of $840.23 against Miller.

A second case to be heard Monday concerns an action filed by Mrs. Anna Olney against the trustees of the estate of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad company, Frank D. Lowden, James E. Gorman and Joseph B. Fleming.

Mrs. Olney is seeking a $7,735 judgment for injuries she allegedly received when she was knocked into Ralston creek by a cow said to have escaped from a car which was being loaded.

Phyllis Gehlbach's Entry Wins Drake Creative Writing Contest

Former City High Girl Given Award For Book Review

PHYLLIS GEHLBACH

Phyllis Gehlbach, 21 of Iowa City, was awarded first place in the state-wide Drake university contest for creative writing for high school students, it was announced yesterday.

Miss Gehlbach's entry, a book review of "The Return" by F. Olesov, received championship ranking.

The review, written when Miss Gehlbach was a senior at Iowa City high school, was published in the Nov. 4, 1938, issue of the Little Hawk Weekly.

The manuscript was one of 15 submitted from City high having been selected by Erna Hansen, journalism instructor. Prof. R. E. Wosely of the journalism faculty of Northwestern university, judged the entry.

Sponsored by the Iowa Association of Journalism Directors of Secondary Schools and the Drake university department of journalism, the contest is now in its seventh year. Its expressed purpose is to stimulate and encourage creative writing among Iowa high school students, all of whom are eligible to compete.

The contest has two divisions: literary and newspaper. The former includes essays, poetry, book reviews, short stories and character sketches. News stories, news and humor columns, sports stories and columns, editorials, features and interview articles and cartoons constitute the newspaper division.

The five best entries in each of the 13 divisions of the Drake creative awards will be published this fall in volume VII of the "Drake Creative Awards" series, edited by Prof. Emery H. Ruby, head of the journalism department at Drake university, it was announced.

Michigan Professor Honored at Dinner By Iowa Chemists

Dr. W. E. Bachman, professor of organic chemistry at the University of Michigan, was honored last night at a dinner given by Alpha Chi Sigma, professional chemistry fraternity, at the chapter house last night. Later in the evening, Dr. Bachman gave a graduate college lecture in the chemistry auditorium.

Other guests were Dr. Petersen and Dr. Wendell, chemistry professors at Coe college.

Staff members of the chemistry department of the university also attended the meeting and dinner.

Walker Urges Tight Defense

Tells Rotary Club Strong U. S. Navy Insures Protection

Myron J. Walker, a former lieutenant - commander in the United States navy, who spoke to the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary club in the Jefferson hotel yesterday noon, emphasized a well trained personnel of strong defense units as the most effective feature to keep the United States out of war.

"We cannot put faith in international law or in treaties since this law is built merely on precedent, and it is only enforced by the interpretation of the individual who is subjected to a certain situation at a certain time," Walker said. "There is no real enforcing body for this type of law."

Walker compared the present international law situation to the pioneer family who, because there were no law enforcement agencies, had to protect their own property with the traditional market.

"Isolation would not work out very well for the United States today and would certainly be no answer to our problem," Walker said. "We must have a strong and a very complete naval setup to protect our coast and possessions."

In pointing out the need for a large navy, Walker explained, "Battleships may cost $70,000,000 but 84 per cent of this sum goes to pay the labor which would be more than 11,000 men per ship for a four year period. The labor hired to build a naval fleet would go a long way to solve our unemployment situation at the present time, to say nothing of the amount of materials it would utilize from every state in the union."

Judge Gaffney Sets New Date

Date of appearance of Ben S. Summerville in district court to answer petitions filed by D. W. Bates, superintendent of banks of Iowa, in connection with two bank receivership matters, was changed yesterday from Nov. 1 to Nov. 20 by Judge James P. Gaffney.

Attorney R. S. Milner, Cedar Rapids, acting for Summerville, asked for the cancellation of the previous order of appearance. Attorney Milner stated that if the date were changed and appearance will be made to the petition of the plaintiff, and a pleading filed in the matter by Summerville without requiring any new notice to be served.

One of the petitions filed by Bates asks for orders in connection with indebtedness of Orville Simmons, Mattie Simmons and the Simmons Motor company. The

$300 Set Aside; Poor Children To Have Milk

Health Association Budget Committee Makes New Plans

The board of directors of the Johnson County Tuberculosis and Health association at a meeting last night in Reich's pine room, unanimously passed a motion to set aside $300 to the budget committee to be used to supply milk to needy school children in the smaller communities of the county.

A second motion to set aside money for X-rays for indigents in the county for tuberculosis testing was also passed. A committee of one, Dr. Pauline Moore, was chosen to ask Mercy hospital officials to use the funds set aside for carrying on a drive to immunize needy Johnson county people.

Members of the association that met last night are all to act as board members of the association, it was announced. Each year more will be chosen until their number is 36. The members chosen as board members will serve for three years.

After the business meeting a film, "On the Firing Line," was shown.

Members of the new board include Dr. E. W. Paulus, president; Dr. Moore, Irene Hradek, Alice Stewart, Margaret Cannon, Edward Greene, Mrs. H. S. Simmons, Mrs. Cloyd Shellady, Mrs. Vincent Thomas, Frances Wilson and Robert Hogan, all of Iowa City.

Members from other parts of the county are Mrs. Lloyd Burr, Lone Tree, and Mrs. Ronald Kessler, Solon. William Morrison, Iowa City, was the only absent member of the board.

Intensify Drill Of Cavalry Unit

Machine Gun Units Tripled in Size By Washington Bulletin

Capt. Elmer Hay, at a meeting of the cavalry unit, troop 1, of the national guard last night, announced that henceforth the unit will meet twice weekly instead of once until Jan. 31, 1940.

He said that his announcement other petition seeks the reopening of the receivership of the Farmers Loan and Trust company.

was prompted by unexplained orders from Washington, D. C. Another change to be effective in the near future, according to Captain Hay, is the increasing of the machine gun unit from one squad to a platoon.

Indefinite plans were also disclosed that a seven-day field drill will be held either in consecutive days or two days a week for successive weeks.

Jury Awards Judgment

Mrs. F. McCarthy Given Court Verdict In Negligence Suit

Judgment of $7,000 was granted Mrs. Freda S. McCarthy, administratrix of the estate of John McCarthy, in her $20,250 suit against Charles Mandery and the Watson Brothers transportation company. The jury returned a sealed verdict to open court yesterday morning after five hours deliberation.

McCarthy was killed in an auto-truck collision on a highway near Wilton Junction in 1938. The plaintiff's lawyer based his argument on negligence on the part of the truck operators. He alleged that a section of the truck's trailer became disengaged as the McCarthy car passed and that it was directly responsible for the accident.

The plaintiff was represented by the law firm of Dutcher, Ries and Dutcher. Attorney Will J. Hayek and the firm of Miller, Huebner and Miller, of Des Moines, represented the defendant.
