Mexico

Faces

A Dilemma

THE SITUATION below the Rio Grande is becoming progressively worse, in spite of American efforts at assistance, and because of the topsy-turvy that the European war caused.

Because of the prominence of the European war news and the spotlighting of the other Latin-American nations in the Panama conference, Mexico has almost dropped out of the news picture. But her situation should concern us even more now than it did before European hostilities broke into open warfare.

Mexico has been placed in a miserable position by the English blockade of Germany. There are some who will unthinkingly pass this situation off with the rejoinder that Mexico brought it upon herself. That can not be denied, but if the situation grows so acute that Mexico becomes a danger spot on our border again, we will look back regretfully on the time when we could have prevented collapse of the government.

After taking over the oil wells and refineries of American, British and Dutch owners, the Cardenas government found it impossible to market the oil in its old points of consumption. Necessity more than any particular feeling of amity caused Mexico to market her oil with the nazis. Now that Germany is blockaded, the oil market is again gone. We have subsidized Mexico by paying her premium prices for silver, but even this is not sufficient to relieve the pressure on the Cardenas government in the present situation.

The finances of the government in Mexico are vital. Financial collapse, followed by a collapse of the government, might mean revolution and the undoing of much of the progress that has been made. With the elections to choose a successor to Cardenas less than nine months in the offing, stability becomes vital.

Capitalistic Americans, interested in the exploitation of Mexico, assert that Mexico's dreams of self-sufficiency are impossible. They urge the return of "stolen property." They forget that foreign capital has not given Mexico breathing room so far. They forget that foreign capital has been strangling Mexico for years. They deny her the right to catch her breath in this period, hoping that they can get back the hold that will win for them their lost prize.

If Mexico resists the capitalists, refuses to return to control by Wall Street and the capitalist interests of European powers, she is faced with the possibility of internal dissolution. We pray she has the courage to face the gamble involved in the latter course. Success would be to her glory.

If the United States, as is so often professed, has lost her imperialistic character and is anxious to see the small nations independent and internally strong, she will do whatever is possible to secure Mexican national solidification and the friendship and trust of the system which results.

The Balkan

Pot Still

Bubbles

DEVELOPMENTS in the Baltic are being watched with interest in London, because if this present conflict continues for any length of time one of the best points of attack for Great Britain would be in the Balkans, either by troop attacks on that side of Germany bordering the Balkan states, or more probably, by cutting off the Balkan highway as a funnel through which supplies can be filtered to Germany.

Currently Turkey and Italy appear to be ready to bury the hatchet in efforts to build a neutral bloc on Europe's old battleground. Naturally, London looks with favor on such a development. If Turkey and Italy do work together, it will not be hard for them to obtain guarantees from Russia and Greece. Those two Balkan states stand to lose if Germany or Russia force the war into that area, which has been a sword of Damocles over the heads of these nations since the nazi-soviet encroachments on the North-eastern nations began.

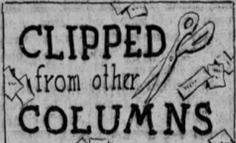

There are complications in the picture, however. Turkey would like to have Italy's assistance in building up the bloc but would like to keep Italy out. Italy wants to be a partner if she is going to assist.

What appears to us to be a more serious complication is the favor with which Turkey regards Bulgaria's claims for parts of Rumania and Greece. Quivering amid nations gone mad, Rumania and Greece have not been determined in their efforts to prevent such pieces of their land as Bulgaria claims being taken from them. They are especially anxious to give in on this point if it would mean that Russia would forget about the Balkans — which it probably does not mean.

Bulgaria, which somehow has gained Turkish sympathy, is at the same time leaning toward Russia. There is something familiar in Bulgaria's claims on Rumania at a time when Rumania is at the mercy of Russia, and the claims Poland made on Czechoslovakia when Hitler crushed that nation. Bulgaria may find herself meeting the same fate as Poland after Russia and Germany have finished with Rumania.

Bulgaria, it has been explained, is afraid that she would fare badly at a peace conference and is therefore intent in getting as much now as possible. It will do her little good to gain territory now if she is to become a vassal of Russia.

The ultimate position of the Balkans in this conflict is far from being determined at this time.

THE SENATE VOTE

At a time when it is highly desirable that this country should present as nearly united a front as possible on questions of foreign policy, the large vote by which the amendments to the Neutrality Act were approved in the Senate last night is doubly reassuring. The most noteworthy fact about this vote is that it came at the end of four weeks debate in the best traditions of democratic process, a debate during which every member of the Senate was wholly free to express his views to his heart's content and every possible argument for or against the proposed changes was explored.

The Pittman resolution was passed because the weight of evidence was overwhelmingly on its side and because every objection made to repeal of the arms embargo — the most controversial point involved — was met with a convincing answer. It was argued (1) that it would be unpractical to change the law after war had broken out, (2) that it would be immoral to sell abroad "the instruments of death" and (3) that repeal of the arms embargo would necessarily constitute an initial step toward taking this country into war.

The first argument was met by convincing proof, not only that the Administration had given official notice long before the war began of its intention to seek the same changes which the Senate has now approved, but that the opponents of the repeal of the embargo were themselves ready to vote other changes in the law after war had actually broken out, notably by approving the new and much stricter cash-and-carry sections. The second argument broke down when it was pointed out that the opponents of repeal were themselves willing to sell abroad all the materials with which "instruments of death" are made — a fact which limited their argument at this point essentially to a technical objection. The third argument, the argument that repeal is necessarily a step toward taking us into war, was met by the answer that this was an interpretation made solely by the opponents of repeal, an interpretation which was sharply repudiated by the President, and an interpretation which could not possibly carry real conviction in the face of the position taken by such members of the Senate as George Norris.

The fact of the matter is that by voting to repeal the arms embargo the Senate has taken the most effective action that could be taken to prevent this country from becoming involved in war. For the greatest risk of our involvement lies in a long war, threatening the destruction of the democracies of Europe.

THE 'HAM' IN HAMLET!

'Why All The Delay,' Asks Mr. Stewart, 'Over The Appointment of A New Secretary of Navy?'

Why President Roosevelt has been so slow about naming a successor to the late Claude A. Swanson of the navy is by no means clear. During the months following Swanson's death Charles Edison has been acting secretary. For that matter, he was, in effect, head of the department throughout the period of his superior's long last illness. It's the consensus that he's handled the job very efficiently. When Swanson died the general assumption was that Edison would be appointed to fill the vacancy. But he hasn't been. He's remained simply "acting."

Today it's reported that the White House will make a selection "after congress adjourns." Why afterward? Why not now? If Edison were picked it's a foregone conclusion that the senate would conform him in short order.

The conclusion's unescapable that he won't be the presidential choice — that F. D. R. has in mind somebody he likes better, but who, perhaps he thinks, won't be so popular. But just why Edison shouldn't be 100 per cent satisfactory to him is a puzzle. Between him and the executive mansion there never has been a hint of the slightest friction.

There's been talk of other cabinet changes, but they don't look probable. Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring and Assistant Secretary Louis Johnson supposedly don't agree worth a cent, and it frequently is surmised that the administration would be pleased to wish Woodring out in favor of Johnson. That, however, would create a smell that wouldn't be pleasant.

State Secretary Hull couldn't be dislodged with a charge of dynamite. Ultra-protectionists growl about his trade treaties, but there's no substantial fight against him. In fact, if he were a little younger, he'd be good democratic presidential timber.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau isn't adversely criticized. No great amount of fault is found with Attorney General

Frank Murphy.

The mail service has been terrible under Postmaster General James A. Farley, but it already had begun to degenerate under his republican predecessor, Wallace Brown. Possibly Farley has made it a little worse, but not appreciably worse.

Of course Roosevelt and Farley have been rumored to be at odds, but if so, their squabble apparently has been liquidated.

Illness and Things Commerce Secretary Harry L. Hopkins can't be eliminated. He's sick. It would be inhuman to tie a cabinet man on him at the present juncture.

Agriculture Secretary Henry A. Wallace's farm program is described as a "proved failure." Yet nobody has offered a very convincing substitute.

Heaven knows that Commerce Secretary Harold L. Ickes' economic book doesn't take you anywhere.

And Labor Secretary Perkins is as solid as Gibraltar. Let anybody question with her influence — and reckon with feminist sentiment! But I don't know what her hope is. She may be as belligerent as anybody.

AROUND THE TOWN

Dictated—Not Red

On smoky afternoons, like yesterday, university life is at its worst. The world, on such afternoons, is meant for walking through crisp leaves, for watching the flow of the Iowa over the dam, for an hour at football practice—not for books.

Someone might some day institute a three-hour course in "Leisure" in the liberal arts college. Its purpose would be, frankly and openly, wasting your time. There are a good many classes unofficially in that category already.

The semester's grade might well be given for the most perfectly leached afternoon. Come to think of it, the course might be included in the school of fine a. s. s. It is that.

On such an afternoon as yesterday, I can understand—not condone—the ones who're impatient to get "over there"—and in a hurry to. Somehow, studying the building of civilization seems a little anti-climatic when men are spending 24 hours daily tearing it down.

Here we are, explaining it away, finding that 56 per cent of right is on one side, 44 per cent on the other. Oh, that's important too, I suppose. But when the electricity is gone, we'll still be studying the reasons, by candlelight.

The whole is ever so much like that cartoon in this week's New Yorker. A lady in the florist shop is turning away from a bunch of cacti. "I don't like cactus," she's saying, "They don't DO anything."

Yesterday's was one of those afternoons when everyone ought to have been doing. Ivory towers are cold and damp on such days.

At such time too it's easier to understand if not condone those undergraduates who 22 years ago, on such an afternoon, were volunteering service to make a safer world for democratic ideas.

As the ones who have become substantial community pillars have told me often enough, there wasn't much idealism about it. Pure boredom is a better description of the thing they felt.

Some deanships are a little like the old star-system of the theater. Walter Hampden and Kay Cornell are alike accused of the failing, filling the cast with a mediocre company so their star will shine the brighter.

Lots of dep't big-wigs won't get the best teachers, or the most scintillating lecturers. They want to be alone in their glory. Only trouble, a 50-watt bulb is still only 50-watts, even after turning off all the other lights.

RECOMMENDED FOR IMMORTALITY — Monday's Press-Citizen headline: THREE KILLED, NONE DIE OVER WEEK-END

The rest are doing nicely, thanks.

P. E. P. has awakened from its long winter's nap and is peeping about again. Next week is "Men's Week" again. Swell idea, only they've mis-named it. Why not be more accurate and call it "Boys' Week" instead?

I once thought a beard would establish my virility, but now I have a beard.

One of my favorite secretaries plans to write a book about her experiences. Probably she'll never get around to it, but if she did, it'd be called, "Dictated But Not Read."

Simpson Interprets The War News

Says Italy's Cabinet Shakeup May Clarify Rome-Berlin Relation

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press Staff Writer A sudden and dramatic shake-up by Premier Mussolini of Italy's cabinet and army high command overshadowed the restrained warfare in western Europe yesterday. It provided the first hint of an early clarification of relations between Italy and her axis partner, Germany. It came also at a time of widespread speculation over what the Moscow meeting of the supreme Soviet council might be hatching in the way of new Russo-German cooperation or possible military alliance. At first blush, the Italian reorganization seems to indicate that Mussolini intends to keep out of the war by surrounding himself with a "neutrality government." It was pointed out that two of the officials affected by the shift were known to have pro-nazi tendencies. These were Lt. Gen. Achille Starace, relieved as secretary of the fascist party, and Dino Alfieri, minister of popular culture. The belief was evident in some informed quarters that the shake-up reflected an increasing strain on the Rome-Berlin axis because of Russo-German cooperation and Russian moves to exploit that cooperation in the Baltic and the Balkans. Moscow is stepping heavily on Italian toes in reaching out to extend Soviet influence in the Balkans. Until some more authoritative explanation appears, the Mussolini move is being widely interpreted as a direct warning to both Moscow and Berlin that they views their partnership with deep suspicion.

Michigan Gains No. 2 Spot In Writers' Poll

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — The field is starting to close in on Tennessee's powerhouse in the fight for the nation's football honors, and apparently it's the schedule maker's fault.

Although the Vols received 67 of the 128 first-place votes cast in The Associated Press' third weekly poll of the season, and compiled a total of 1,120 points to lead the pack, they had no such overwhelming majority as put them on top a week ago.

Both Michigan, which climbed into second place, and Cornell, whose victory over Ohio State boosted it from seventh to third, were a lot closer to the Vols than the runner-up and "show" teams of last week.

The rest of the top 10 is made up of five unbeaten but tied outfits — Oklahoma, Southern California, Tulane, North Carolina and Nebraska.

Thinclads Forced Indoors Because Of Bad Weather

The track squad has been called indoors the past few days to start practice on the 220-yard oval covering the dirt floor of the spacious field house. The weather has become too uncertain to continue regular workouts on the outdoor field and track.

Coach George Bresnahan and his runners have their difficulties to contend with, finding it a tough job to run about the track and dodge the baseball players and basketball men who too hold a portion of the field house space.

The track is slowly getting into shape and will be in good condition soon with the work being done on it daily.

Cormack Will Find Passers --- 'Or Bust'

Coach Herb Cormack of City high sent his charges through another long passing drill last night at Shrader field, resolved to find a passer "or bust."

The weakness of the Iowa City team can be put into one sentence. They have no passing attack. Accordingly, the opposing teams play out of position to stop the running game, and the Hawkslets have no weapon to bring them back into orthodox formation.

Last night Cormack had John Schuppert, Bob Towell, Bert Miller, and Jim Swaner heaving the ball, and connecting regularly to Bill Voelckers, Don Laughlin, Jack Fetig and Howard Clark.

Schuppert had the most success in the drill, but Swaner, a former end, looked good on short passes and may prove to be a surprise performer for the Hawkslets.

Marion will be the opposition of the Cormackmen Thursday night at Shrader field. Last week, Marion took a 12 to 0 wallop from Manchester, and have yet to take a game from a Mississippi Valley foe.

The Marionites, boast a small, but inexperienced eleven, with the chief threats being speed and a good passing attack. They have shown plenty of stuff all season, but seem unable to penetrate opponent's defense after reaching the 10-yard stripe.

Cormack has been shaking up his team in drills this week and the possibility of a changed lineup may become a fact Thursday.

Phi Eps Beat Sigma Chi, 7-0

Only three of six scheduled games were played yesterday afternoon as the fraternity touch football league swung into its fourth week of play.

The Phi Epsilon Pi team won a close, hard fought game from Sigma Chi 7-0. The only score of the game was made on a long pass from Norman Sandler to Abe Rosenberg. The try for the extra point was good. Several times during the game Sigma Chi came close to scoring, but the Phi Ep team tightened each time and all threats were stopped.

The Phi Ep team was also within scoring distance of the goal many times but were held off by the good Sigma Chi defense. The passing and running attack of Sandler stood out for Phi Epsilon Pi while Bob Beck and Dick Goenne stood out for the losers.

Phi Psis Win, 24-6
Phi Kappa Psi of class A downed Sigma Nu by a 24-6 score. The scoring was initiated by Phi Kappa Psi on a 35 yard run by Jim Hoak. A few minutes later another Phi Kappa score was made on a pass from Hoak to Hertzler. Before Sigma Nu could break into the scoring column, Phi Kappa pushed across another score, this time on a pass from Hoak to Konklin. Sigma Nu drew its only score on a pass from Makon to Sieh. The final score came late in the game when Hertzler returned a kickoff for a touchdown to bring the score up to 24-6.

Theta Xi Defeats Delta Theta Xi won from Delta Tau Delta in a class B game by the score of 14-6. It was the passing of Harry Joho that again helped to win the game for Theta Xi. Theta Xi's second consecutive win started as Joho threw a pass to Tom Neashan for the first touchdown. The second touchdown by Theta Xi was made by a pass from Joho to Bundies. A safety by Bundies accounted for the other two points made by Theta Xi. The only score made by the class B Delta Tau Delta team was when Trey threw a pass to Walt Brown.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — Around the sports world in two minutes:

Eddie Anderson has Iowa football fans holding up their heads with his Hawkeyes gambling for victory. They beat Indiana by risking a pass instead of playing for a tie via the field goal route. Minnesota played for a tie against Ohio State, and lost. From all reports Nile Kinnick is plenty of halfback.

Add father-son football combinations: Coach Jake Todd and Halfback Charley Todd of Eskine. Large Ernie Lain is doing all right if the Rice team isn't. He completed 41 of 81 passes in the first four games for a 503 average. Ralph Guldahl, disgusted with his inability to hit the cup, gave Vic Ghezzi the battered, 15-year-old putter with which Guldahl won three Western and two National Open tournaments. George Weiss, Yankee farm boss, has been peppered with offers for Walt Judnich of Newark and Priddy and Rizzuto of Kansas City. Bill Terry was informed there was no price on Judnich, and Connie Mack's agents offered $100,000 for Priddy, but Weiss couldn't hear a thing.

Little Bill Miller of Tulsa, daddy of the Missouri Valley A.A.U. basketball league, rates Jack McCracken, now with Denver, as the best player he's seen since the league was formed in 1927. He selects as his all-time all-star league team McCracken and Paul Burks, forwards; Tom Pickell, center, and Bart Carlton and John Callahan, guards. His second team includes Chuck Hyatt and Joe Rieff, forwards; Bob Gruenig, center, and Jay Walsten and Herman Fischer, guards.

Setting Pretty
Edward Cochem of Madison, Wis., a Badger star shortly after the turn of the century and later an outstanding coach, tried to put foot football into all major league baseball parks, with the baseball clubs operating the teams. That was when the pro game first showed signs of sprouting. The club owners he contacted took the proposal "under advisement," and are they sorry! Ernie Lanigan, the International league's walking baseball encyclopedia, figures that any team drawing over a season the equivalent of the population of the town it represents is sitting pretty. Particularly if it were a New York club, it might be added.

They'll be picking up the pieces for miles around when the Oklahoma and Nebraska football teams collide at Lincoln, Nov. 25. Both are picking up speed and running on the same track — the Big Six title. And speaking of intersection contests, how about the Pimlico special tomorrow bringing together the Maryland owned Challeidon, the New York-owned Kravak, and the California-owned Kayak II.

British golf authorities have served official notice cancelling the 1939 Ryder Cup matches. Before they were only "postponed." If the matches are held next year it will be in the fall. Tournament pros this year have played before 500,000 spectators, and for purses totaling $175,000.

For the first time the winter tournament program has been completely lined up in advance. The $10,000 Miami Open starts it off. And as a warning to those who think the hill-billy will go back to the hills after his unfortunate experience in the National Open, Sammy Snead can be expected to cart away his share of the sugar.

Canzoneri In Ring Again

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — Old Tony Canzoneri bounces back on the boxing big time tomorrow night in a 10-round welterweight fight with young Al Davis, hard-hitting pride of New York's Brownsville section.

It will be Canzoneri's first appearance in Madison Square Garden, scene of many of his greatest triumphs, since he began his comeback campaign 18 months ago.

Canzoneri's record since returning to the wars is 16 wins, four defeats and two draws in 22 fights. While Tony's hundreds of admirers are hoping he'll upset Davis, the youngster is a 5-11 choice. Betting is light.

Harmon Injures Ankle in Practice

ANN ARBOR, Oct. 31 (AP) — Coach Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler overhauled Michigan's pass defense today in preparation for the western conference game with Illinois. Crisler said he expected the Illini to take to the air for their major gains in the contest Saturday at Champaign.

Tom Harmon, sensational junior halfback, gave the coaching staff some anxious moments when he twisted his ankle by stepping in a hole during signal drill. Trainer Ray Roberts said he did not believe the injury would keep the crack back on the sidelines. A week ago Harmon turned the ankle in a similar workout.

Lorenz To Captain Badgers Saturday

MADISON, Oct. 31 (AP) — Coach Harry Stuhldreher today nominated Al Lorenz, junior end from Oak Park, Ill., as captain of the University of Wisconsin football team for its game against Illinois a week from Saturday. It was the first time this year a junior had been selected to captain the team.

Gophers In Stiff Workout

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 31 (AP) — Back at full strength for the first time in several weeks, Minnesota Gophers went through an intensive passing and pass defense drill outdoors today in preparation for their game with North### western next Saturday; after dark Northwestern running plays received attention in the field house.

Two more hard practices are scheduled for tomorrow and Thursday with a light tuneup Friday before the game which is expected to draw a crowd of 55,000.

Purdue Returns From West Coast

Haman To Lead Wildcat Team

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 31 (AP) — John Haman, star center, was selected today to captain the Northwestern team in Saturday's game with Minnesota. Haman reached stardom two years ago in a long drill on their offensive. Nile Kinnick, Al Coupee, Ed McLain and Ray Murphy were used by the Iowa mentor in the first string backfield with Capt. Erwin Prasse, Russell Busk, Dick Evans, Bill Bergstrom, Max Hawkins, Bruno Andruska, Chuck Tollefson, Mike Enich and Dick Evans in the forward wall.

Hoosiers Work On Fundamentals

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 31 (AP) — Indiana university's football squad drilled on tackling and pass defense today, then worked on its attack for the Ohio State game at Columbus Saturday.

Gene White, sophomore guard who kicked the winning point after touchdown in the Hoosiers' 7-10-6 victory over Illinois, suffered a side injury and was replaced by Mike Buchliani.

Tipton Provides Foe for U-High Gridders Today in Final Game

St. Pat's Have Last Chance For Victory Today

A rejuvenated St. Pat's football team will journey to West Branch this afternoon to meet the Polar Bears in what should prove to be a close battle.

Still untamed and unsuccessful the fighting Irish put in a bid for the last chance of a win this season. To go through a schedule without a victory is too much for some of the Irish and as a result the personnel of the small squad has taken new life.

West Branch went down before U-High last Friday 19-0. In spite of defeat, Jacobs, West Branch fullback, was a standout on the field. He hit the U-High line for consistent gains. Southpaw W. Anderson kept the U-High defense guessing with his passing. Polar Bear captain and right guard Bowers, is the bulwark of the West Branch line and shows up well with his hard tackling.

The only change in the St. Pat's lineup will be Miller, regular quarterback who has been moved back to a halfback post, and Rohner coming into the lineup to fill the quarterback vacancy.

Will Be Final Tilt For 15 Blue Players; Rivermen Favorites

U-High gridders complete their 1939 football activities this afternoon when they battle Tipton, an Eastern Iowa conference foe, at 3:30 on the Freshman practice field.

The tilt will be the last high school grid clash for 13 U-High seniors. Two reserves and all of the first team except Bob Bender, guard, are included in this group. These players include: Murray Dawson, Chuck Means, Fuzzy Fuhrmeister, Eugene Bridenstine, Harry Seelman, Hank Pelzer, Jack Canny, Bob Bowery, Duane Dunn, Clarence Hightshoe, Cy Beye, Owen Morgan and Hugh Ribble.

U-High is favored to win today's contest through a comparison of the season records of the two schools. Tipton has won only one of their five conference games, while the rivermen have captured three of their four tilts, and earned a tie in the other. However, the northsiders have been hard-hit by injuries, and they can not possibly be up to their usual form.

Bob Bowery, stellar center, may be able to play with the aid of a special guard to protect his

Anderson Puts Team Through Signal Drill

Diehl Still Out With Injuries—Not Likely To See Action Saturday

Iowa's Hawkeyes turned their attention toward improvements in their running and passing attack yesterday afternoon as they romped through an intensive signal drill in preparation for Saturday's stiff battle with Purdue.

Many of the Hawks are still nursing bruised spots and have been kept from participating in any contact work so far this week.

Bill Diehl will not likely face the Boilermakers it was revealed last night. The stellar center is still laid up with a partially separated shoulder, a sprained knee, and a badly bruised hand.

Jim Walker, however, showed promise that he may be able to see some action Saturday but will probably be kept on the sidelines merely as a precautionary measure to enable him to be ready for the remaining three games on the schedule.

Walker appeared on the field for the first time in two weeks and had a smile of satisfaction on his face as he jogged around and went through a few limbering-up exercises.

With the exception of Walker and Diehl the Hawks appeared in good physical condition considering the rough battle they went through Saturday at Madison.

Chuck Tollefson and Wally Bergstrom remained on the first string but were forced to limp slightly as they went through signal drill with their mates.

Coach Anderson stressed the need of an improved passing and running game as he ran his first, second and third teams through a long drill on their offensive. Nile Kinnick, Al Coupee, Ed McLain and Ray Murphy were used by the Iowa mentor in the first string backfield with Capt. Erwin Prasse, Russell Busk, Dick Evans, Bill Bergstrom, Max Hawkins, Bruno Andruska, Chuck Tollefson, Mike Enich and Dick Evans in the forward wall.

The gridders also got a taste of defensive drill but it was restricted to passing and no contact work was allowed.

The third team was busy part of the afternoon working on Purdue plays which they will work against the first and second teams the remainder of the week.

Cornhuskers May Try Air Lanes

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 31 (AP) — A hint the Nebraska Cornhuskers may work the air lanes overtime next Saturday against Missouri came today as Coach Lawrence Jones stressed passing for his gridiron crew.

After another look at motion pictures of last year's Missouri game, the Huskers went against the freshmen using Missouri formations in a dummy scrimmage. Fullback Vike Francis, hurt in the Baylor game, continued to improve and may be ready by Saturday.

nose which he broke in the West Branch contest. This is doubtful, though, as he also has some broken blood vessels in his nose. Owen Morgan, veteran fullback, will probably see but very little action. Glen Stimmler is scheduled at the center post, if Bowery is unable to play. Stimmler got considerable experience at that position when he played the entire Kalona battle.

The remainder of the Blue personnel is in readiness for today's clash. Starting the game will be Dawson and Means, ends; Seelman and Pelzer, tackles; Bridenstine and Bender, guards; Stimmler, center; Dunn, quarterback; Hightshoe and Beye, halfbacks, and Canny, fullback.

AT THE HALFWAY MARK: SUCCESS: Already the 1939 season has been proved successful in more than one way.

This year's Hawkeyes have won more games than anyone dared predict for the entire season and are only half through. It is interesting to note that in the several systems used to rate the nation's grid teams, Iowa rates at places between 25th and 30th. The Hawkeyes, in a couple of the ratings, hold a place above such mighty teams as Pitt and Fordham.

ALL — AMERICAN BAND WAGON: The list of sports writers who call Nile Kinnick the best back they have seen this year includes exactly all of those whose stories we have read. The list of such writers laces in Tait Cummins, Bert McGrane, Leo Kautz, Johnny O'Donnell, Roudy Coughlin, Henry McCormick, of Madison, Wis., John Carmichael, of the Chicago Daily News, and others too numerous to mention. And, some claim the cover picture on Collier's this week is Kinnick.

IF YOU'RE FROM MISSOURI: A check of the statistics shows exactly what Kinnick has done and the figures are impressive to even a banker. The Iowa halfback has completed 21 of the passes he has tossed this year, nine for touchdowns. The pass gains have totalled 473 yards, with a catching staff of seven doing the receiving from football's number one pitcher of the year. Capt. Erwin Prasse, despite a horde of enemies who chase him on pass plays, has caught three. The others are Russell Busk, Dick Evans, Bill Bergstrom, Max Hawkins, Bruno Andruska, Chuck Tollefson, Mike Enich and Dick Evans in the forward wall.

The gridders also got a taste of defensive drill but it was restricted to passing and no contact work was allowed.

The third team was busy part of the afternoon working on Purdue plays which they will work against the first and second teams the remainder of the week.

IT WAS UNUSUAL: Dr. Eddie Anderson went to extremes when he replaced the biggest guard Iowa ever had with one of the smallest. Henry Luebecke, a 265-pound Gibraltar before an operation took him from the squad, left a gap in the line. The empty spot was filled by Max Hawkins, who weighs 180 pounds after he eats three steaks, puts his, or someone else's, little brother inside his overcoat and stands on a generous scale that gives three extra pounds. Max, from down in Mississippi, has been giving a good account of himself.

IT MIGHT BE CHANGED: Iowa hasn't scored on Purdue in the past three games. Purdue won two of the tilts by 13-0 scores and the third was last year's scoreless tie. The Hawks are behind in the Purdue series, nine games to seven, but lead in points, 166 to 155. The Hawks, incidentally, haven't downed the Boilermakers since 1933.

Students Will Hear Music by Barrie At Spinster's Spree

Dick Barrie, pictured above, and his "Music of the Moment" will provide the musical background for the Spinster's Spree, annual university "vice-versa" party, Nov. 10 from 9 to 12 p. m. in the main lounge of Iowa Union. One of the most versatile band leaders, Dick Barrie not only directs his orchestra, but plays the trumpet, sings and dances. Many of the arrangements he uses are of his own devising, and he often burns the midnight oil to give some standard dance number, a new twist that makes it seem different.

His music has been proclaimed "sweet music of the best type that still doesn't ignore the lovely swing trend of the day." Before forming his own band three years ago Barrie was a featured trumpet player with Kay Kyser's band. Featured with the Barrie band are Blanche LeBow, charming songstress; Eddie Metcalf, romantic tenor, and Burt Rogers, baritone.

Members of the University of Iowa Dames will attend a radio broadcast in the new Engineering building this evening at 7:30. It is necessary that everyone be on time to watch the broadcast. A short business meeting will follow.

American Acoustical Society Plans Friday Luncheons, Dinner

Music, Theater Sections Meet Friday Noon

Prof. Arnold Small, H. Burris-Meyer, Saunders To Speak

Two 12:15 p.m. luncheons, one for musicians and the other for those interested in the theater, both of them open to the public, have been arranged for members of the Acoustical Society of America and the Iowa chapter of the American Institute of Architects as a part of the program of their joint meeting opening on the campus Friday.

The arrangement has been made to serve the best interests of the two special groups among the acousticians.

The luncheon in the private dining room of Iowa Union is arranged principally for local and visiting musicians, but it is also open to all members of the societies and guests.

Saunders To Speak
Prof. Frederick A. Saunders, chairman of the physics department at Harvard university, will address the meeting on "Studies of Old and New Violins."

LECTURE TICKETS
Tickets, free of charge, to the demonstration tomorrow night of the new telephonic "vocoder" at 8 p.m. in Macbride auditorium are still available to students and faculty members at Iowa Union desk. Homer Dudley, vocoder inventor, will demonstrate the phenomenal possibilities of the new device.

Professor Saunders, former president of the Acoustical Society, has for many years investigated violins for the purpose of determining on a scientific basis precisely what makes a good violin good.

With this knowledge, he reports, it should be possible to construct violins with the desired characteristics — to duplicate such fine instruments as those made by Stradivarius.

Prof. Arnold Small of the Iowa music department, whose researches have been along a similar line, will be the second speaker. His topic is "Tone Production on the Stringed Instrument."

Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department, will be chairman of the discussion session.

Theater Luncheon
Harold Burris-Meyer of the Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, N. J., will be the speaker at the second luncheon, scheduled to meet in the foyer of Iowa Union. Arranged principally for those interested in the theater, it also will be open to members and guests.

The speaker's subject, "Sound in the Theater," will be of immediate interest to students and faculty members working in Iowa's university theater. Burris-Meyer has a wide and varied background in the New York theater, and is at present carrying out an extensive research program financed by the Rockefeller foundation on the use of sound effects in the theater.

Prof. E. C. Mabie, head of the speech and dramatic arts department and director of University theater, will be chairman of the discussion session.

Tickets for both subscription luncheons are now available at the offices of the psychology, physics, music and speech departments.

Exhibition by Jean Charlot Opens Today at Art Building

French Artist Was Member of S. U. I. Instructional Staff

A large exhibition of the art of Jean Charlot, including 40 paintings and a number of lithographs and drawings, will be opened to the public today in the art building. Some will hang on the walls of the exhibition lounge on the first floor and some in the auditorium in the basement.

Jean Charlot, familiar to Iowans because he was one of the guest artists at the fine arts festival last summer, was a member of the university art department, teaching classes in fresco painting and lithography during the summer session.

Founded Mexican Trends
Anita Brenner, in her book "Idols Behind Altars" devotes an entire chapter to Charlot, whose Parisian birth did not prevent him from becoming one of the founders of modern Mexican painting.

She tells of a great-great-grandfather in the Charlot history who migrated from France to Mexico about 1820. One of the descendants, Jean Charlot's grandfather, returned to Paris, bearing the best wishes of the ill-fated Emperor Maximilian of Mexico.

"By the time Charlot was born," Miss Brenner writes, "his immediate family was again Parisian. He early asserted this fact by studying Greek vases minutely; by composing rigidly classical quatrains; and by adopting the almost discarded traditional nightcap. He spent his time in art galleries, and strained his eyes on medieval books, he worked for Poiret, won prizes for abstract sculpture and a Via Crucis series of woodcuts.

In Germany
"When the war came along to teach Charlot something about death, Charlot's university class volunteered. The end of the war found him in Germany with the army of occupation, absorbed in Mathias Grunowald."

After the war, Charlot left the Paris of Picasso, Matisso, Modigliani to live with an uncle in Mexico. "When I came to Mexico," as Miss Brenner quotes him, "I had a stage country in my head; many feathers, blue, green and tropical pantomime."

Meeting the artistocracy did not satisfy his curiosity about the adopted country of his grandfathers. Instead he went out on the streets at 6 a.m. to watch the peasants and laborers at their early morning chores. What he saw pained his mind with impressions that came forth later in many powerful paintings, some dark and rich in tone, and some light, delicate color harmonies. Always he built his pictures carefully with dynamic constructions that seemed to grow from the old Mayan sense of architecture and to carry the smoldering passion of the ancient Americans.

Charlot's paintings will be on exhibition throughout the month of November.

Prof. Homer R. Dill, director of the university museum, will be interviewed over station WSUI today at 12:30 on the weekly scheduled program, "The Professor on the Campus," by radio commentator, Merle Miller, A4 of Marshalltown.

The origin and development of the local museum together with facts concerning the courses offered in museum methods will be topics discussed in the interview.

F. Firestone Will Address Dinner Meet

Michigan Professor Will Sing Quartet Without Vocal Cords

Participants in the joint meeting of the Acoustical Society of America and the Iowa Chapter of the American Institute of Architects will dine and be entertained at a subscription dinner at the Jefferson hotel beginning at 6:30 p.m. Friday.

Immediately following the dinner, the "edifier and entertainer," Prof. F. A. Firestone, who in daily life is the head of the physics department at the University of Michigan, will step to the console of his electric organ and begin to unfold the wonders of what is announced as "A Demonstration of How One Person Can Give A Public Speech or Sing A Quartet Without Using His Vocal Cords."

Simple to Complex
Professor Firestone starts with the simple and proceeds to the complex. Without using his vocal cords he illustrates various public address techniques from Roosevelt to Coughlin. He then sings the parts of both the "fair young maiden" and "Barnacle Bill" with the greatest of ease.

Warming to his work, he sings a duet with himself and then in full stride sings his one-man quartet. If encouraged, he will expand this to a quintet.

The secret of Professor Firestone's success is an artificial larynx which he recently perfected. This instrument is an electrical sound generator which duplicates the voicing of ordinary speech or song.

Variable as Human Larynx
It is as variable as the human larynx in both pitch and loudness, which are manually controlled. This sound is conducted to the back of Professor Firestone's mouth through a small tube. In order to speak, he must whisper and at the same time operate the voicing mechanism.

His duet is produced by using his own larynx and the artificial larynx at the same time. The quartet is accomplished by feeding the output of the electrical organ into the artificial larynx.

The after-dinner speaker will be Elmer Jensen, president of the Chicago Building congress and past president of the Illinois Society of Architects.

Prof. F. R. Watson of the physics department at the University of Illinois, until recently the editor of the Journal of the Acoustical Society of America, will be the master of ceremonies.

Tickets for this subscription dinner are available at the office of the psychology department, C-106, East hall.

1941 Hawkeye Sales Higher

2,500-Book Goal Set By This Year's Staff

"Sales for the 1941 Golden Anniversary are higher today, Nov. 1, than they have been around Christmas time in former years," it was announced yesterday by Deming Smith, A3 of Toledo, business manager of the university yearbook.

Smith announced that nearly 1,150 books have been sold, almost half way to the 2,500-book goal set by this year's staff. Subscriptions in former years have reached about 1,700, he explained.

"Sales are being carried on by a total of about 50 students who are aiming to cover the campus and contact everyone who would want to get a Hawkeye," the business manager said.

About 50 additional students are contacting juniors to sell picture space in the yearbook. Picture-taking for the 1941 book was started about two weeks ago and must be completed by Dec. 1.

This year's staff will attempt to have the book completed and in the hands of subscribers by May 1, 1940, Smith said. In former years it was not completed until near the end of May.

"Students working on the Hawkeye staff have volunteered their services and are not representative of any sorority, fraternity or dormitory."

Bus Company Is Defendant In $13,375 Suit

Georgia Marlas filed a petition at law in district court yesterday against the Iowa City Coach company asking damages of $13,375 for injuries allegedly received when she was thrown to the floor of one of the company's busses as it started up. The accident happened March 6, 1939.

After the plaintiff had deposited her fare, the petition states, the bus left the intersection of Grant street and Sheridan avenue, started with a jerk and then suddenly stopped. The plaintiff was thrown upon the floor and was seriously injured as a result, it contends.

The petition asserts the end of the vertebral column was fractured, and that the plaintiff suffered "great physical and mental anguish."

Besides the demand of $13,375, the plaintiff is seeking interest on the amount from March 6 and costs. Her attorney is Will J. Hayek.

Two Contracts Let for Station WSUI's Extension Construction

State Must Approve $15,005 Bids

Russell Is Awarded Transmission Line Project at $10,930

Two contracts totaling $15,005 providing for construction of a transmitter house at the site of the new out-of-the-city antenna for WSUI and for installation of transmission lines from the WSUI studio building in Iowa City to the site of the transmitter have been approved by University of Iowa officials and sent to the state board of education for final approval.

L. L. Klippel, PWA officer in Iowa City, announced last night that bids were opened yesterday afternoon for the construction of the transmission line. This project was awarded to W. P. Russell of Iowa City who submitted a bid of $10,930.

Work To Begin Monday
Klippel said that work on the transmission line would begin Monday as the contract must be fulfilled within 60 days, before the ground is frozen. Approximately 25 men will be employed in digging a ditch from the engineering building to the transmitter site. Underground cables will be laid in this ditch.

The contract for the construction of a $4,875 transmitter house at the site of the new antenna was awarded to O. H. Dunlap and Son, Iowa City contractors, it was revealed.

This contract provides for the erection of a one-story, four-room building which will house all transmitting equipment at the antenna site. The contract also includes installation of fixtures such as heating, lighting, plumbing and a well.

Part of $100,000 Project
These contracts are a part of a $100,000 project, including the erection of the new antenna with a directional radiator. The directional radiator will send WSUI programs all over the state of Iowa with less interference. It will also cut out much of the interference which WSUI now causes on radios in and near Iowa City.

Awarding of further contracts for the completion of the project is being held up at present pending definite approval by the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D. C., for an increase in power for station WSUI.

Other base bids for the transmission lines to the transmitter were submitted by Electric Motors company of Cedar Rapids, $15,333; Electric Equipment company of Des Moines, $14,836; Olds Electric company of Davenport, $10,998, and Carstens Brothers of Ackley, $11,980.

Jury Ponders Trial Evidence In Truck Suit

Insurance Company Asks $840 Damages Of Local Trucker

Suit of the Great American Insurance company of $840 against Eldon Miller, local trucker, went to the jury late yesterday afternoon after a two-day trial in district court before Judge James P. Gaffney.

The insurance company alleged that Miller was guilty of negligence in an accident in which a shipment of goods was destroyed which he was hauling to Iowa City from Chicago for the White Lane motor company. The accident happened near Mendota, Ill., in 1937.

It was the assertion of the plaintiff, during the closing arguments of the case, that Miller fell asleep at the wheel of the truck. The defense attorney, on the other hand, said that this was hardly possible since Miller had testified that only ten minutes before the accident he had stopped for a cup of coffee and a sandwich.

Miller himself told the jury that he was not asleep at the time of the accident, but that he did not know what caused the accident.

The jury will return a sealed decision in open court when they reach a verdict.

79 Local Teachers Will Hear Addresses, Music at Capital City

City high schools will be closed Friday while 79 Iowa City junior and senior high school teachers attend the state teachers' convention at Des Moines.

Prominent among the speakers to be heard at the convention are Jan Masaryk, former Minister from Czechoslovakia to England; Ella Enslow, lecturer and author of "The Little Schoolhouse in the Foothills;" and Rabbi Mannheimer, of Temple B'Nai Jeshurun in Des Moines.

Ruth Bryan Owen, former minister plenipotentiary and envoy extraordinary to Denmark; Governor Wilson; Mary A. Baker, president of the I. S. T. A., and Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam, resident bishop, Boston, Mass.

Furnishing music for the general session meetings will be the Boone high school band, the Shrine Chanters and a chorus of the Iowa music educators directed by Dr. Walter Aschenbrenner.

The convention opens officially today and closes Saturday noon.

Motley Ghosts Parade Streets

Tarzan, Green Goddess Turn Tables; Hob-Goblins Thrilled

The ghosts, the witches, the devils and the goblins got together last night for a parade.

The ghosts fumbled nervously with their pillow cases.

The witches' brooms were too long to be carried comfortably.

The horns on the devils were working loose.

"But the tin man turned to the bum next to him and hollered, 'Oh boy, some fun!'"

The pretty drum major for the Iowa City high school marching band blew her whistle. A flag detail of Sea Scouts started to march. The band started to play. The paraders surged forward. A ghost started to lose his sheet, and the witches' brooms trailed along the street.

The annual Halloween parade for school children had begun. Through the city business district they marched and down Market street to the junior high school gymnasium, where the grand march around the gym and the awarding of prizes to the 35 outstanding costumes took place.

Four hundred youthful voices shook the rafters of the old gym as Don Mallett, assistant dean of men, led the mass sing. With more enthusiasm and volume then harmony, the Hallow'en celebrants started out with the "Iowa Corn Song" and went through a list of old and new favorites as the words were flashed on a large screen at one side of the gym.

Then came the feature attraction of the evening with the showing of "Tarzan and the Green Goddess." Thrills and chills came fast as Tarzan escaped both savage natives and Guatemalan jungles to get the secret of the ancient Malayan idol.

As each celebrant left, kindergarten and high school seniors and everyone in between, he or she received an apple, the gift of an anonymous donor.

Church Plans Centennial For Methodists

Prof. Herald Stark Will Direct Choir In Modern Oratorio

In commemoration of the first sermon preached in an Iowa City Methodist church, in 1839, officials yesterday announced plans for a Methodist centennial celebration here from November 26 to December 3.

The presentation of the contemporary oratorio, "The Evangel of the New World," by the Methodist choir will be the featured event on the first day. Prof. Herald I. Stark of the music department will direct the choir.

Guest speakers for the week include President Nelson P. Horn of Baker university, Baldwin, Kan.; the Rev. Harry D. Henry, pastor of the First Methodist church at Winona, Minn., and Bishop J. Ralph Magee of Des Moines.

Chairmen announced yesterday by Dr. Jacob A. Swisher, general chairman in charge of the event, include Dr. Earl E. Harper in charge of music, and Prof. Homer V. Cherrington, head of the program committee. The co-chairmen for the all-church night, Nov. 28, are Mrs. Roy A. Ewers and Mrs. Harry L. Segar. Plans for "education night", Dec. 1, are in charge of Attorney Dan C. Dutcher.

A centennial booklet concerning the local church history is to be published soon by the state historical society, Dr. Swisher said.

Extend Community Chest Deadline; Goal Not Yet Half Reached—Swaner

Iowa City Community Chest donations totaled less than half the $17,850 goal yesterday as volunteer solicitors worked at a faster rate in an attempt to complete their reports and bring the campaign, previously dated to last night, to an end.

Jack J. Swaner announced the extension of time Monday in view of the fact that several divisional directors reported that contacts with certain donors were not yet made.

The goal of $17,850 was set this year in order that five local organizations might receive adequate benefits to help administrative costs for the coming year.

Students Attend Special Peace Mass This Noon

Mass will be celebrated at 12:10 this afternoon at St. Patrick's church in observance of the feast of All Saints, a holy day of obligation in the Catholic church.

As there will be no sermon, students who might otherwise be unable to attend mass are assured of sufficient time to assist at the mass and have lunch during the noon hour, it was announced.

The mass is to be offered for peace. The Catholic foundation, sponsor, has invited all "who believe in the power of prayer to come and join their private prayers to the Holy Sacrifice in petition for the divine gift of a just and everlasting peace."

Regular morning masses will be celebrated at St. Patrick's church at 5:45, 7 and 9 o'clock this morning; at St. Wenceslaus, 6, 7:30 and 9; and at St. Mary's, 6, 8 and 10 o'clock.

Reserve Officers Will Hear Speech By Colonel Hinman

Col. J. J. Hinman will speak on "Defense against Chemical Warfare" at a meeting of the Reserve Officers' association Monday night, it was announced yesterday.

The local chapter of the R. O. A., in close contact with the national office, will sponsor a Defense Day program in this city in February, it was announced.

Paper Bullets Win Wars!

Prof. C. Hart Says War Propaganda Defeated Germany

"The last war was won with paper bullets."

That was the way Prof. Clyde W. Hart of the sociology department described the importance of propaganda in war time to the members of Kiwanis club at their weekly luncheon meeting in the Jefferson hotel yesterday noon.

"The modern war," explained Professor Hart, "is fought on three fronts—the military front, the economic front and the propaganda front." It is this last front, Professor Hart said, which would play the decisive role in the present war in Europe.

Any war propaganda, to be successful, must accomplish three things, according to Professor Hart. First, building up and maintaining morale in the civilian and military population. Second, demoralizing the enemy public, so that they lose faith in their own government and acquire a defeatist complex. Third, winning the sympathy and possibly, the aid of neutral publics.

"Each of these three publics requires a different approach," according to the speaker, "and a thorough knowledge of the mind and attitudes of each one."

Propaganda techniques usually follow a definite pattern, Professor Hart pointed out. "There

2 Professional Dental Groups On Iowa Campus

It was incorrectly stated in The Daily Iowan of Tuesday morning, Oct. 31, that Delta Sigma Delta, professional dental fraternity, was the only such fraternity with a national organization.

There are three national professional dental fraternities, two of which are represented by chapters on the University of Iowa campus.

In addition to Delta Sigma Delta, there is an Iowa chapter of Psi Omega located at 108 McLean street. This fraternity has been on the Iowa campus continuously since 1902 and now maintains 36 active chapters in the United States, 61 alumnae chapters and seven foreign chapters.

is the device of the selection and arrangement of news, which is sometimes known as news coloration. The atrocity stories during the last war were a good example of this. Propagandists go to great lengths to give the impression of authenticity, and finally there is the idea of reiteration, which works on the principle that "a lie repeated often enough will be believed."

An examination of our sentiments, attitudes, beliefs and prejudices is the best defense against being taken in by propaganda, according to Professor Hart.

Guests at the meeting included Nathan Hicks, Marshalltown, and Hugh DeWees, Cedar Rapids.

High School Forensic League Convenes Nov. 25 for Meeting

Prof. A. Craig Baird Announces Schedule Of Debates, Speeches

The annual fall High School Forensic league non-decision debating meet will be held Nov. 25 in Iowa City. Prof. A. Craig Baird, of the speech department, chairman of the league, announced yesterday.

Professor Baird is in charge of a debate round table at 10 a.m. with the discussions lead by speech department assistants including Ted LeVander, G of Rock Island; Pross, G of Columbus, Ohio; Wilson Paul, G of Carthage, Ill.; Orville Pence, G of Seattle, and Herbert Curry, G of Ft. Collins, Colo.

A Western conference debate between Purdue university and Iowa will take place at 2 p.m. in Macbride auditorium. Subject of the debate, as well as the 8 to 10 a.m. discussions, will be "Resolved, that the federal government should own and operate the railroads." Admission is free to visiting high school students and 25 cents to all other persons.

Baptist Groups To Hear Report At Family Night

The Baptist church will hold its monthly church family night at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by the Rev. Elmer E. Dierks, pastor.

There will be a pot-luck supper sponsored by the Junior Baptist woman's group. Family groups are asked to bring covered dishes and table service.

After the dinner short talks are to be given by Mrs. C. G. Mullines, a delegate to the recent state Baptist convention, and Virgil Copeland, president of the mid-eastern Iowa men's brotherhood.

The name "Australia" was first applied to a group of South sea islands.
