Sound in The Theater To 'Lay' Em in The Aisles!

The theory of sound in the theater so controlled that "the artist in the theater can use it to make a good show — to compel the audience to laugh and weep, knock them off their seats, lay them in the aisles, make them believe what you will" was presented at the fall meeting of the Acoustical Society of America at a luncheon meeting here yesterday by Harold Burris-Meyer, of the Stevens Institute of Technology.

"We will one day see the production of 'The Tempest' Shakespeare envisioned and a 'Gottterdammerung' which would have satisfied Wagner," the speaker declared, as he illustrated the methods used by himself and his associates in utilizing sound techniques to make "a good show."

"Nine years ago," he said, "my associates and I observed that you could exercise some control over audience reaction by controlling the sound in the show.

"Being, I hope, practical showmen, we tried to do better next time and presently found ourselves embarked on a research project, some aspects of which will, I feel certain, continue as long as the theater exists.

"Last June the Rockefeller foundation underwrote the project for a period of three years, by the end of which time I feel confident that the most useful of our findings will be available to the theater generally."

The speaker pointed out that to remove limitations on the control of sound in the theater, one must discover what sound must and can do there.

"First the actor must be heard," he said. "After that, sound can be used to establish locale, atmosphere, mood, as an independent arbitrary emotional stimulus, as an actor, to reveal character, to advance the plot."

Mr. Burris-Meyer pointed out ways in which he and his associates have utilized sound to produce definite physical reactions on the part of the audience — all of that important consideration of making "a good show."

"During the first performance of 'Control,'" he said, it was observed that the audience's posture varied directly as the sound intensity in a sequence in which recorded orchestral music was used as a background for a motion picture.

"During subsequent performances, sound intensity was varied arbitrarily in a number of sequences, and it was observed that the audience could be made to sit up straight, or move forward in the seat, relax — almost irrespective of the visual aspect of the production, by merely varying sound intensity.

"While it has long been known that audiences sway back and forth in response to variations in dramatic intensity, it was believed by observers that this was the first occasion on which it had been possible to accomplish such physical movement by anything so simple as the twisting of a gain control.

"With present day audiences hardened by much theater-going, an emotional response to a dramatic episode must be strong indeed if it is to be physiologically (See THEATER, Page 8)

Flynn Selects A Queen—

Errol Flynn, Hollywood star, above, has selected the queen for the 1940 Dolphin Follies, but the name of the favorite lady won't be revealed until next Thursday night at the field house pool, when the annual show sponsored by the swimming fraternity opens for a three-night stand. Pictures of the candidates for queen were mailed to Flynn last week, who reported that the job of selecting a queen was a "tough one."

Interne Nazi Prize Crew At Haugesund Americans Get Ship After It Anchors Without 'Valid Reason'

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 4 (Saturday) (AP) — The wanderings of the American freighter City of Flint under a German prize crew ended early today when Norwegian officials interned the nazi crew at Haugesund, on the western Norwegian coast, and released the ship to her American crew.

The Norwegian admiralty announced the ship, enroute from Murmansk, Russia, to Hamburg, Germany, anchored at the Norwegian port without "valid reason" and that it was decided to intern the German crew and that the vessel should be "given free."

This meant, one usually well-informed Norwegian source said, that the City of Flint, a prisoner of the Germans and an object of diplomatic action since she was seized by the German pocket battleship Deutschland on Oct. 9, was free to sail away whenever she wished.

This source added that the freighter may already have sailed away — once more in charge of her American crew.

The freighter, first carried to Murmansk by the nazi prize crew after her capture in the Atlantic with what the Germans said was a contraband cargo, reached Haugesund at 5 p.m. (10 a.m. CST) yesterday.

There were reports that the ship put into the Norwegian harbor to land an American seaman who was ill but as the hours wore on there was no indication that the seaman would be put ashore.

Then came the admiralty's statement which said:

"The American City of Flint with a German prize crew, was allowed to use Norwegian territorial waters from Tromsø southward. The ship, accompanied by a Norwegian warship Olav Tryggvason and one torpedo boat, arrived at Haugesund Friday evening and anchored off Haugesund without permission.

"As there was no valid reason for calling at the Norwegian port authorities decided the ship should be given free and the German prize crew interned."

Thus came a startling new turn in the series of incidents which have kept the diplomatic wires burning between Washington, Moscow and Berlin since the 1,963-ton City of Flint fell into the hands of the Germans.

Flint Flying U. S. Flag

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—The state department received an official dispatch tonight saying that the American freighter City of Flint "now flies the American flag."

The department issued the following statement:

"The American minister to Norway, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, reported at 2 o'clock Saturday morning (Oslo, Norway, time) that she had received a telephonic report from the American consul at Bergen, Maurice P. Dunlap, to the effect that the American steamship City of Flint now flies the American flag, the German prize crew having been interned and the American crew released by Norwegian authorities."

AP Query Reveals News to Germany

BERLIN, Nov. 4 (Saturday) (AP) — A query from The Associated Press today gave the German admiralty its first news of the internment of its prize crew and the freeing of the City of Flint by Norway.

British Admiralty Remains Silent

LONDON, Nov. 4 (Saturday) (AP) — The British admiralty, whose men o'war had kept an eye on the United States freighter City of Flint as she sailed southward along Norway's coast, kept silent today on hearing that Norway had interned the ship's German prize crew.

Acoustical Meetings Will Close Today

Congress Quits After Passing Neutrality Act

Lawmakers Adjourn; Roosevelt Expected To Sign Bill Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—The special session of the 76th congress adjourned at 5:35 o'clock (Iowa time) tonight after finally approving the Roosevelt administration bill to repeal the arms embargo and substitute a system of "cash and carry" sales to the belligerent governments of Europe.

The legislation, product of six weeks' fighting as to the best ways to keep America free of war, went to President Roosevelt for his signature, scheduled to be affixed at noon tomorrow. Ceremonies will accompany the signing of the measure, with members of house and senate who were prominent in the long fight attending.

From the White House, meanwhile, came word that soon after approving the bill, the chief executive would issue proclamations making it effective as applied to the war in Europe.

Final congressional action came with the approval by both branches of a conference report agreed to earlier in the day by representatives of house and senate, making one bill of the separate measures passed earlier by each. The senate approved it 55 to 24 and the house vote was 245 to 172.

JOIN US—NOV. 30? PLYMOUTH INVITES F.D.R. FOR THANKSGIVING

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Nov. 3 (AP)—Without even blushing, this town — birthplace of Thanksgiving — tonight invited President and Mrs. Roosevelt to help it observe the holiday—on Nov. 30.

Hugh R. Maraghy, head of the junior chamber of commerce and chairman of the "national Thanksgiving observance committee," sent the invitation to the chief executive, "well aware," he said, that the president had called for observance of Thanksgiving a week earlier than usual—on Nov. 23.

Remember Me? McGeoch Discusses 'Remembering,' Can't Recall Former Pal

DES MOINES, Nov. 3 (AP)—Dr. John A. McGeoch, new head of the department of psychology at the state University of Iowa, spoke at the psychology section of the Iowa State Teachers association today on "Conditions of Human Forgetting."

He told all about why people forget—and how to remember things.

Then Dr. McGeoch sat down and a fellow slid over to where he was sitting—a former colleague Dr. McGeoch had not seen in six years.

"I bet you don't remember me," the fellow said, slapping the professor on the back.

Dr. McGeoch tried, but he couldn't remember the name.

"Your face is familiar, though," he said, a little weakly.

Before this happened, however, Dr. McGeoch had explained that laboratory experiments had determined three things that cause people to forget. These are:

1. If a student studies French for an hour, rests an hour, then recites, his recitation will be better than if he studies French for an hour, then studies Spanish for an hour, then recites. Studying Spanish in this case, Dr. McGeoch calls "interpolated activity." If the interpolated activity is similar (See McGECH, Page 7)

Hearing Will Take Spotlight This Morning

Phonograph Recording, General Sessions To End Fall Meeting

The nature of hearing and hearing defects, a round table on newest developments in phonograph recording and a general session devoted to general topics of interest to acousticians will close the annual fall meeting of the Acoustical Society of America on the Iowa campus today.

Studies of acquired and inherited deafness in animals conducted at Harvard university, a discussion of selective amplification in hearing aids, and a consideration of hearing tests conducted on more than 700,000 people at the world's fairs this summer will headline the opening symposium on hearing this morning in Old Capitol.

This afternoon, those interested in phonograph recording will consider such subjects as "Stylus-Groove Relations and Their Influence on Phonograph Reproducer Design," "Application of the Buchmann-Meyer Effect in the Calibration of Phonograph Recording and Reproducing Equipment" and "Nonlinear Characteristics of Cutting Heads" in room E-6, East hall.

Subjects of technical interest will be considered at the general session.

New Violins Good As Old?

Prof. F. A. Saunders of Harvard university yesterday expressed the belief, based on studies of audience reactions to tests of tone quality at Harvard, that there can be no apparent reason for preferring an old, expensive violin to a good new instrument.

The statement sent the stock of Stradivarius, Guarnerius and other famous makers of violins down slightly.

But, the speaker added, with the performer, the possible tone differences in the quality of old and new violins may be noticed, and violinists therefore prefer old instruments.

Professor Saunders spoke at an Acoustical Society luncheon meeting, sharing the platform with Prof. Aronold Small of the music department, who spoke of "Tone Production on the Stringed Instrument."

He explained the relation of the bow of the violin to its intensity and quality of tone.

Prof. P. G. Clapp, head of the music department, presided at the meeting.

Professor Saunders will consult with students interested in his field at 11 o'clock this morning at Professor Small's studio at the music building.

The Voice Misbehaves Again!

The demonstration of manners in which the vocoder could change the human voice was not enough! Prof. F. A. Firestone of the University of Michigan added his contributions to the meeting of the Acoustical Society of America last night by presenting a public demonstration of other (See ACOUSTICS, Page 8)

Dolphin Queen, Attendants Are Selected, Gerber Reveals

By GENE CLAUSSEN, Assistant Sports Editor

Errol Flynn, popular motion picture idol, has made his selections of the 1940 Dolphin Queen and her four attendants, it was revealed yesterday by Ed Gerber, president of the Iowa Dolphin fraternity.

Flynn made his selections from among 25 campus beauties who were chosen from the various women's organizations on the Iowa campus. The identity of the queen and her attendants will be withheld, however, until the opening night of the Dolphin show, Nov. 9.

The task of selecting one representative from the array of beauties was a more difficult task than many of us realize — even though the judge may be one of the more popular men about Hollywood.

Some of the difficulties he encountered while pondering over his final selection Flynn related to Bob Sebastian, Dolphin representative, who managed the contest and arranged for Errol to do the judging.

Lawyer Works For Release Of Al Capone

CHICAGO, Nov. 3 (AP)—Al Capone, through his attorney, cleared the path today for his release from Terminal island prison where he is finishing an 11-year term for income tax evasion.

Attorney Abraham Teitelbaum paid to Hoyt King, clerk of the United States district court, two checks totaling $20,000. This amount, plus the $37,692.29 paid Jan. 4, 1939, represents the total fines and court costs assessed against the former gang leader when he was convicted.

Teitelbaum, who paid the checks through the Chicago City Bank and Trust company, said $15,000 of the total was being paid under protest since Capone was convicted on only five of 22 counts and Teitelbaum felt he should be required to pay only five-twenty-seconds of the court costs.

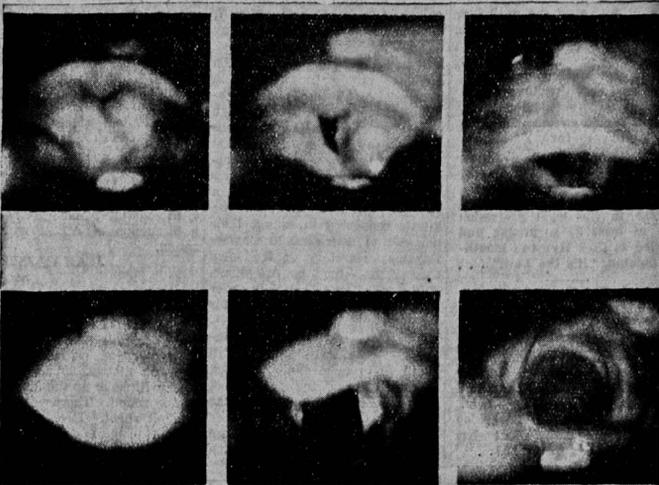

If granted maximum time off for good behavior, Capone would be eligible for release from the federal prison Nov. 19.

Soviet's Manners Poor, Roosevelt Tells Reporters

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt ascribed poor manners to Russia today, answering a press conference invitation to comment on the recent suggestion of Representative McCormack (D-Mass.) that the United States withdraw her ambassador to Russia, he said he never had believed poor manner should beget poor manners.

McCormack was indignant over Premier Molotov's criticism of President Roosevelt for "intervening" in behalf of Finland in the latter country's dispute with Russia.

This Is A Human Cough—

This, ladies and gentlemen, is that simple human vocal reaction known as the cough, photographed for the first time by means of ultra high-speed cameras which take pictures at the rate of 4,000 per second. These pictures, and others depicting the reactions of the vocal cords during breathing and speaking, were shown at the University of Iowa yesterday as the Acoustical Society of America opened its fall meeting on the Iowa campus. At the top left above, the vocal cords are constricted and the air passage is shut off as the cough is about to begin. Succeeding stages show the cords opening. At the bottom left, the epiglottis, leaf-like structure which shuts off the windpipe during swallowing, is flat, covering the passage. The last two pictures show the cords wide open, permitting the blast of air to come out. For more than 130 years, scientists have attempted to photograph the vocal cords in action, but have met with failure. The problem was to reflect sufficient light for photography into the throat by means of mirrors concealed behind the tonsils, but when sufficient light was obtained, the accompanying heat was so intense that the patient was burned. Recent experiments in commercial laboratories (Bell Telephone) have permitted scientists to eliminate the heat waves by means of special filters, and for the first time the cords have been photographed in action. John C. Steinberg of the Bell telephone laboratories presented the pictures in motion and one of the leading papers at the Acoustical Society meeting here yesterday morning.

Nazis Execute U.S. Citizen Unknowingly

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—The state department announced tonight that Germany, apparently without knowing he was an American citizen, had executed Josef Sadowski of Chicago in Warsaw for concealing arms and ammunition.

Sadowski, whose widow, Mrs. Stefania Sadowski, lives in Chicago, was executed by German authorities in Warsaw, Poland, Oct. 20, the department said, after having been found guilty by court martial of having concealed a considerable quantity of arms and ammunition.

Political Interests Of Students Are Encouraging

THE OTHER day we were asked this question: What student opinion would you say impresses you as being entirely NEW this fall—one that has not in other years been apparent?

Such a difficult question is impossible to answer satisfactorily. But this we know: the majority of students are anxious about international problems this year for the first time.

There seems to be at this time, some confusion of thinking among American University students. That is natural now. Not even our greatest statesmen and diplomats agree upon individual points being discussed in Washington.

Benito Juarez Mussolini, son of the anarchist blacksmith, was born the year that Karl Marx died. Second of the modern revolutionists who instituted collectivist totalitarianism in place of typical regimes of the 19th century.

These aims are important. Never before have students been so firmly convinced of the necessity of American neutrality.

We believe most students will agree on these points: 1. America must not go to war. 2. A permanent peace must emerge at the time of armistice in the current European conflict.

Neither communism nor fascism nor any political philosophy which is a modification of these "isms" has a place in America.

Such trends as have been observed on American campuses must be encouraged. The salvation of a system of government which is being attacked by alien forces consistently is too important to have those who are most vitally concerned with it discouraged by those who are lethargic to examination.

We have no doubt but that the fundamentals of democracy can stand up under the closest of scrutiny. With students agreed that America must not go to war, must find a means of permanent peace for the world and must preserve democracy, there is great cause for optimism.

We Recommend Walking For Health, Too

NOTHING is so gratifying to Iowans as the continued increase in University of Iowa grid successes. But that increased interest brings about new problems, ones which Iowa Citizens and students can do much to assist in solving.

The traffic problem connected with Iowa football home contests is one that is practically insolvable. With the cooperation of the Iowa highway patrol, the problem of feeding post-game traffic out-of-town highways in a steady, safe stream has been solved.

The problem that remains is that of finding parking space for all the automobiles of spectators at the game. There is a great deal of parking space available for these cars, but not enough to provide for the cars which will bring spectators to the Notre Dame and Minnesota games. The Daily Iowan makes this plea: if you are a student or an Iowa Citizen, leave your automobile on the East side of the river and walk to the stadium, or take a taxi or bus across the river. It will be more convenient for you, and will assist the athletic department in solving the parking problem.

Where Are We Headed?

A MAN without a country is a wanderer. A man without a purpose is a wanderer too.

Today men without a country are wandering the world; men with a country are wandering too. Where are we headed?

A group of young Americans from all parts of the United States recently admitted they don't know. "The greatest lack in our educational structure," they say, "is its failure to establish goals." These young people are obviously confused not about the goals of education but of life itself.

Is it the function of education to give life a goal? Is it the function of religion? Of political systems?

Born in American homes, sent to American schools, employed in American work, conformed in American politics, entertained by American play, assembled in American churches, Americans ask, "What lack I yet?"

What this country needs now is integration. Otherwise we may be like the man of whom Stephenson said, "He mounted his horse and rode off in all directions."

Holidays are on the rapid increase. Now we have two Thanksgivings, and when this war ends we may have a couple of Armistice days to celebrate.

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

THE STARTING GUN!

Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Dies Get One Another's Goats in This Question of 'Red' U. S. Workers

Representative Martin Dies of Texas, chief investigator of un-American activities in this country, seems to be in for a mean fight with the Roosevelt administration over his release of the names of 563 government employees on the membership roll of the American League for Peace and Democracy, which Dies says is of Communist origin.

By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist. These utterances by President Roosevelt and Attorney General Murphy obviously have aroused Representative Dies' ire, and the answers he's made to the president and to the attorney general, in interviews and by radio, have been a plenty.

S. Bush's never liked Dos Passos' "Three Soldiers" — which some critics think is the best war novel yet written. Bush was teaching Dos Passos at the Sorbonne during the period the book covers, and he says it never could have happened.

Presumably what particularly stung the White House was the fact that several prominent New Dealers were on the scroll. Of course it doesn't follow that all or any members of the league are Communists. The outfit has a commendable enough name.

Earl Browder's case enters into the equation. Earl, as an out-and-out Communist, has admitted that he traveled in Europe with faked passports.

A swell Armistice day program might be to get Harrison Thornton, Bush and Eric Funke gathered around a microphone to look back at the trouble from three sides.

Unlike his former fanatic and visionary partner, Hitler, who has enjoyed the uncanny cunning so often characteristic of inspired crackpots, Mussolini has always been a student of the forms and dynamics of government.

Earl, as an out-and-out Communist, has admitted that he traveled in Europe with faked passports. That's indictable. Earl was indicted.

Some of the local political observers are pretty sure there'll be an Iowa City democrat running for congress in 1940. Probably not the same democrat who ran for congress last time.

Cromwell's one great failure was that which has cursed Caesarism in all ages — the succession of power. Vainly the Lord Protector sought to perpetuate his power in his son, "Tumble Down Dick," whose brief reign gave way to civil war between Cromwell's generals. Had it not been that the House of Stuart remained as a crystallizing point for a new if weaker regime, Cromwell's death would have been followed in Britain by the same sort of chronic civil wars between generals that followed the deposition of Porfirio Diaz, successor and executor of Mussolini's namesake in Mexico.

Now, what business was that of the grand jury? Dies committee might have subpoenaed her to explain herself, on national principles. But how was it any of the grand jury's affair?

Tom Martin's apparent inconsistency on neutrality isn't that at all. He this time voted against the idea he supported during the regular session. But not to support the administration measure, rather to make the arms embargo stiffer and heavier all around.

TUNING IN with D. Mac Showers

THIS COLUMN... was to have been devoted to a review of a half-hour's radio broadcast heard the other night by Dick Barrie and his orchestra.

THE SAME DEAL... has been pulled by MCA before, so it was nothing new to university officials, however, and they calmly tore their hair and went about hiring a better band from an apparently better agent.

ALSO guesting on the gag show will be Ward Wilson, comedian, known as "Beetle" on the Phil Baker program. Milton Berle conducts the quiz and comedy show.

ANOTHER "to have been" was Dick Barrie's orchestra playing for the annual Spinsters' Spree on the Iowa campus next Friday evening.

AND, INCIDENTALLY... you'll be hearing Herbeck and his band over WGN, Chicago, just after the university party here. He opens immediately afterwards at Aragon ballroom in Chicago where Dick Jurgens is closing.

WAYNE KING'S... orchestra will be heard over CBS stations this evening at 7:30. Buddy Clark is featured on the vocals with the "waltz king" and his band.

BUT NOW... there will be neither. Dick Barrie has cancelled his engagement here, so the praising review of his music is worthless.

BUT for today's radio schedules — probably the highlight of the evening will be Benny Goodman's musical program over the NBC-Red network at 9 o'clock.

AMONG THE BEST... For Saturday 6—People's Platform, CBS, Red. 8—Arch Oboler's plays, NBC-Red. 8:30—Death Valley days, NBC-Red. 8:45 — Saturday night serenade, CBS. 9—Benny Goodman's orchestra, NBC-Red. 10 — Dance music, NBC, CBS, MBS.

IT MIGHT BE, however, interesting to know why there will be no Dick Barrie's melodious music for the party. Orchestras, of course, are now hired and fired entirely through the booking agents who are in turn strictly governed by the musician's union.

"YOUNG MR. TROUBLE"... is the drama to be presented tonight over the Arch Oboler drama program at 8 o'clock on the NBC-Red network. The drama stars Billy Hallop.

Everyone should have plenty to eat this autumn, provided they have relatives living in another state celebrating a different Thanksgiving date.

SO MAESTRO BARRIE... is not at fault, but the Music Corporation of America, his booking agent, commonly known as MCA, had agreed to send the band here and the contract was in the hands of university officials when MCA phoned out the excuse that they had already booked Barrie in Cleveland and didn't know about it.

"MORNING in the Desert" will be dramatized over the "Death Valley Days" program tonight at 8:30 over the NBC-Red network. It's the story of an anonymous poem by that name found tacked on the door of a deserted "dobe shanty in Nevada.

War is like a game — says noted historian. Not this one! Who ever saw a game which began with a long time-out taken for both sides?

And Ray Herbeck has been hired for the dance now, but he is hired through Consolidated Artists of America, not MCA.

DEL COURTNEY... and his orchestra will

AROUND THE TOWN

Every once in a while I have to repeat to myself a hundred times, "This is the Athens of Iowa." Such as yesterday when I heard about the community chest worker who went home to sleep for hours over some remarks passed her way by the Ph.D.'s of one dept. . .

This year's chest drive has hit a new high for low wit from slackers. . .

The Finns apparently have frightened the Russians pink. . . So it appears they'll have to be taken over, for their own good, of course. . . That's certainly carrying the fight to the Finish. . .

And it's going to take a mighty glib speaker to tell me the difference between German and Russian aggression this time. . . The Russians do it ever so much better. They don't bother to explain.

Sunday night's "Waiting For Lefty" plans have met with plenty of opposition, but they're doing the show as Odets wrote it come what may. . .

One local man has quite a reputation as a pedant and a scholar. . . He's put on more committees because he's such a "smart man." . . Only thing his quotes are all from Shakespeare and all from one play.

That book "Doctor's Oral" has several faculty folk laughing, although it never could happen here, they say.

S. Bush's never liked Dos Passos' "Three Soldiers" — which some critics think is the best war novel yet written. Bush was teaching Dos Passos at the Sorbonne during the period the book covers, and he says it never could have happened.

A swell Armistice day program might be to get Harrison Thornton, Bush and Eric Funke gathered around a microphone to look back at the trouble from three sides. . .

Some of the local political observers are pretty sure there'll be an Iowa City democrat running for congress in 1940. Probably not the same democrat who ran for congress last time. . .

Tom Martin's apparent inconsistency on neutrality isn't that at all. He this time voted against the idea he supported during the regular session. . . But not to support the administration measure, rather to make the arms embargo stiffer and heavier all around.

Tom's talking on the floor the other day was an event. . . It's a rarity for a freshman congressman to speak at all during his first term.

Martin's military affairs committee is just now the second or third most important of the house.

At least a dozen campus groups are pooling facts and experiences for the student government talk that's brewing. . . They'll range from the Pan Hel groups to the "Y" organizations, all interested in finding out if and why not. . .

Frank Messer's stories about quirks in the legal profession are at least as surprising and varied as Dick Hyman's monthly column, "It's the Law." . .

There's one faculty member who makes frequent and varied cracks at his students about what's happening Europewards.

"If I were only 20 again," he sighs, "I'd not be here, drolling away, while wars are being fought." . . Well, if I were 60 I'd be drolling away about what I'd do if I were only 20. . .

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP) — The reading of a series of frank, and apparently embarrassing, father-and-son letters produced evidence before the monopoly committee today that leading iron ore merchants had consulted in recent years on the base price of this major raw material.

Hearing Indicates Ore Monopoly

Committee Airs Embarrassing Letters Dealing With 'Big Four'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP) — The reading of a series of frank, and apparently embarrassing, father-and-son letters produced evidence before the monopoly committee today that leading iron ore merchants had consulted in recent years on the base price of this major raw material. The letters were between Emmett Butler, brother of Associate Justice Butler of the supreme court and head of an iron ore company at St. Paul, Minn., and his son, Patrick Butler. Patrick wrote his father that he had consulted the "big four" of the iron ore industry before submitting a bid to supply ore to the Ford Motor company. "Then you did consult with the 'big four' on ore prices?" a committee attorney asked young Butler. "Evidently I did," he said with a wry smile, after identifying a number of letters to his father that justice department agents had taken from their company files. Butler identified the "big four" as a quartet of Cleveland iron ore companies whose four representatives were at the hearing. There is a town in North Carolina named Thanksgiving.

Mural Forms Design for Huddle Decorative Scheme

Using a decorative mural and three bronze football figures as a theme, the "Huddle," Iowa City's newest food room, was opened this morning by the Hotel Jefferson. Richard Gates, a graduate of the university and now a member of the art department faculty, painted the decorative mural on the mirror which is shown in the two pictures above. The mural does not resemble the usual paintings found in public buildings because it has been conventionalized and is primarily a matter of design. The mirror on which the mural was painted is floodlighted from the ceiling of the Huddle and the colors of the motif blend with the room's color scheme. The mural design is used in the menu covers and the place doilies.

Grant Wood Will Present Gallery Talk

Will Discuss Work Of Jean Charlot In Arts Building

Admiration and friendship of Grant Wood and Jean Charlot for each other will be given an opportunity for expression when the former presents a gallery talk tomorrow afternoon on the retrospective exhibition of paintings, lithographs and drawings by Charlot in the exhibition lounge of the art building.

When Charlot came to Iowa last summer as a guest instructor on the staff of the art department, he and the Iowa painter renewed an acquaintance that had begun years before. It grew out of a common respect for the development of home-grown art in preference to the imported European brands.

Jean Charlot, although French by birth and early training, "returned" to Mexico, as one writer put it when he first set foot on Mexican soil. About 1820, his great-great-grandfather moved to Mexico City from France, so that Mexico was in the blood of Jean Charlot when he took up residence with an uncle south of the Rio Grande.

He developed a consuming interest in the life of the common people of Mexico, and the ancient American art of the Mayans and Aztecs. With Rivera, Orozco and others, he did monumental frescoes on the walls of new government buildings. Through all of these runs the theme of the continual struggle of the peasant farmers against domination.

His exhibition at the university this month, with a few exceptions, is Mexican in subject matter and spirit, but in a lighter vein than his frescoes.

The program tomorrow afternoon will begin at 4:15 with a short concert of chamber music by a string quartet from the music department. The personnel will be Evelyn Thomas, first violin; Jean Opsstad, second violin; Miriam Boyson, viola; and Rollo Norman, cello. They will play the first two movements from Franz Schubert's Quartet in A minor. Professor Wood's talk will follow.

Prof. Tirelli Here for Visit

Italian Biologist Will Inspect S. U. I. Zoology Laboratories

Professor Tirelli has been called from Cuba, where he has been working on agricultural problems having to do with insects, to Italy because of the European war.

Professor Tirelli is one of the outstanding biologists in Italy. Prof. J. H. Bodine, head of the zoology department, said in making the announcement of Professor Tirelli's visit.

In Italy, he has become known because of his work with silk worms. In Iowa, he is interested in the work in insect physiology being done in the zoology department.

extension division, and F. W. Kent, university photographer, have taken pictures of Arnold and his Egg Tempera paintings for the article.

Color in Egg Tempera is handled with definite restrictions that come down to us from 15th century tempera painting. The paint used is pigment ground in water to about the consistency of oil paint.

Although, as the article points out, this particular method of painting with tempera sounds slow and tedious, the end results have a surface quality and a crispness of technical handling that can be obtained in no other way.

Aden Arnold has done many very fine works with this process and finds it one of the most successful ways of gaining certain effects yet offered.

8 Extra Trains, Several Buses Will Bring Game Crowds Here

Officials Expect Huge Number of Visitors For Notre Dame Tilt

At least eight special trains and several chartered buses will add more spectators to the huge crowds already expected to attend the Notre Dame-Iowa football game here next Saturday, officials announced yesterday.

Rock Island railway officials announced the following special trains and their times of arrival and departure:

The train from South Bend, Ind., carrying the Notre Dame football squad, will stop near the stadium at 12:30 p.m. Saturday and leave at 6 p.m. for Chicago.

The Gould party from Chicago, numbering 175 persons in 10 cars, will arrive at the stadium at 1 p.m. and leave at 5 p.m.

A five-car train is scheduled to leave Omaha, Neb., at 6:35 a.m., arriving near the stadium at 1 p.m., leaving at 4:35 p.m. and arriving back in Omaha at 11:30 p.m. This party will consist of 125 persons.

Another five-car delegation, 225 persons in the Knights of Columbus group, will arrive at the depot at 12:55 p.m. from Hannibal, Mo., and leave the depot after the game at 7 p.m.

Two special trains are scheduled from the Tri-cities, the first leaving Rock Island at 11:50 a.m. Saturday and arriving here at 1:15 p.m. The second will leave Moline at 11:40 a.m., stopping here at 1:25 p.m.

Two trains are also expected from Des Moines, one arriving here at 1:30 p.m., the other at 1:35 p.m., just before game time.

F. E. Meachem, manager of the local office, said that even more "specials" are expected for the Minnesota game, scheduled for Nov. 15. Fifty-five cars have already been spoken for in Minnesota alone, he said.

Robert McComas, manager of the Iowa Union bus depot, said bus service will probably be doubled for both the Notre Dame and Minnesota games although no definite schedules have yet been arranged.

Several chartered buses are expected for both games, he said, although plans are not forwarded to this depot when the cars are chartered in another town.

It's Almost The Ultimate!

New Invention Talks, Listens, Does All But Wash Dishes

Someone has finally invented a machine that will do practically everything but wash the dishes and put the baby to bed.

This versatile machine is a radio, microphone, phonograph, public address system and a record-maker all combined in one cabinet to look like a console radio.

Besides being able to tune in national and foreign radio stations with it, you can add to your collection of phonograph records by making your own with the recording apparatus.

Symphonic orchestras, Bing Crosby, performances of your favorite radio comedian, all can be duplicated for repeated enjoyment.

And you don't have to be an engineer to do this. Just place a record on the phonograph disk, press a button, and whatever the radio is playing will be recorded.

With the microphone you can make records of other things too. Ten years from now you'll get a thrill from hearing the voices of your friends, recorded at reunions and parties this year. And imagine the pleasure of having a lasting record of Baby's first words!

The public address system can be used 100 feet away from the machine, the volume being controlled by the radio.

The Recordio is a product of the Wilcox-Gay company, and is on display in Iowa City at the Jackson Electric company.

It will demonstrate its own ability during the Iowa-Purdue game this afternoon in front of the Jackson store.

lar to the material originally learned the forgetting will be greater than if such activity is dissimilar.

2. If a student goes to France, learns to speak French, then returns to America, he forgets how to speak French—he may remember his French on returning to France. Forgetting, Dr. McGeoch said, may be caused by "a change of the stimulating environment."

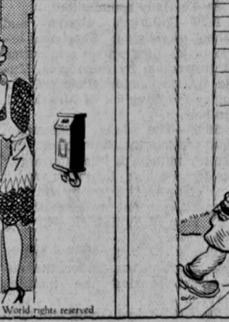

3. If Dr. McGeoch could have remembered where he had last seen the forgotten friend who greeted him Friday, he might have remembered that friend's name. A person may forget something, Dr. McGeoch said, because he doesn't know where to look for it—he fails to look at the proper set of associations.

"And," concluded Dr. McGeoch, "if there were no interpolated activity, no changed environment, and if we could look always at the proper set of associations, the evidence is very strong that we would never forget."

Community Solicitors Redouble Efforts In Attempt To Reach Goal

Community Chest solicitors yesterday doubled their efforts in an attempt to reach the $17,850 goal before the middle of next week. With only 29 per cent of the quota yet to be attained, Jack J. Swamer, campaign director, said yesterday that no means of reaching that end is being neglected.

Yesterday's subtotal was reported as $12,734. Of this amount business firms have contributed $2,648.25; employes, $849; college of medicine and University hospital, $1,390; national firms, $1,760.50; professional, $634.50; public schools, $365.50; residential, $861.25, and university $4,225.

The drive started Oct. 23.

Mystery Auto Lends Second Murder Clue

New information of an automobile believed to have been parked near the scene of the Novotny double-slaying was disclosed yesterday by Sheriff Don McComas as a possible new lead into the solution of the mystery.

Authorities said they learned the car was parked near the driveway of the Novotny home about 8:30 p. m. Nov. 9, when the murder is believed to have occurred.

The car was said to have been abandoned and its lights and those inside the house turned off.

The "couple's" bodies were found by neighbors in their farm home near Shuetteville Sunday night, Sept. 10.

Theater--

observable or measurable. Any device by which it is possible to achieve an obviously strong emotional response may constitute a powerful tool for the artist in the theater.

The speaker listed ways in which the apparent distance from which the sound comes may be controlled. He pointed out plays in which the sound of an airplane had been made to circle above the audience, an unseen crowd to charge out across the footlights, a flute to play an airy strain above the audience, and the ghost of Hamlet's father to speak in a sepulchral voice apparently from nowhere.

"We are putting a celestial orchestra which fills the theater in Sidney Howard's 'Madam, Will You Walk' which opens in Baltimore a fortnight hence," he said. "We propose one day to make Ariel conform to Shakespeare's definition for the first time—an airy spirit which flies and sings in flight."

"Read O'Neill's stage directions in 'Lazarus Laughed,' particularly in the last scene, and you will see the principal reason that the play has never had a professional production."

"You just can't get laughter such as that out of the normal human voice; but you can out of a good sound system."

Sometimes, he pointed out, good sound will overcome an otherwise bad production.

"In one very bad production of that bad play, 'The Ghost Train,'" he said, "the railroad trains were good enough to save the play from its just fate at the hands of the audience."

"A major problem which is a source of unending irritation," he said, "is the inability of many theater people to understand that all reproduced sound in the theater has to be reproduced so well that the audience will never suspect the existence of a sound system. The producer will often use the cheapest equipment he can get and then wonders why it doesn't sound right."

Acoustics--

ways in which the voice may behave and misbehave.

He used his newly-perfected artificial larynx—a sort of double voice.

He took the platform with Roosevelt's famous "My friends" phrase.

He repeated things the vocoder had done on Thursday night—with apologies to Homer Dudley and his own speech synthesizer. He sang a duet with himself.

The 900 persons who heard the demonstration, many of whom also attended the vocoder demonstration, were convinced of one thing:

The human voice is a remarkable thing—assisted by mechanisms like the vocoder and Professor Firestone's artificial larynx!

Then Mrs. F. R. Peterson demonstrated the novachord. She started with an imitation of a full church organ.

Then she did an imitation of "Johnny on the Cornet," accompanied by his mother, who also was not a musician!

And she closed her program with a demonstration of the Iowa Highlanders coming across Iowa stadium at the half time of the game.

New Developments In Acoustics

Discussing such important considerations as the best shape of a room and the most advantageous distribution of absorptive materials in a room on a basis of scientific planning, Dean Vern O. Knudsen of the graduate college at the University of California at Los Angeles appeared yesterday afternoon before a joint symposium on architectural acoustics.

The Iowa chapter of the American Institute of Architects joined the Acoustical Society of America in the meeting.

George L. Horner, University of Iowa architect, discussed the acoustical problems involved in the construction of Iowa's University theater, and spoke of acoustical treatment of buildings, auditoriums and classrooms in general on the campus.

Other speakers at the meeting were J. Woolson Brooks, Des Moines architect; J. P. Maxfield and C. C. Potwin of Electrical Research Products Inc. in Chicago, Hale J. Sabine of the Celotex corporation and John S. Parkinson of Johns-Manville Research laboratories.

Wallace Waterfall of the Celotex corporation led the discussion.

Vocal Cords Photographed

Vocal cord photography, newest development in the field of study concerning the actions of the human speech mechanism, took the spotlight at the opening session of the fall meeting of the Acoustical Society of America here yesterday.

J. C. Steinberg of the Bell Telephone laboratories presented the pictures, taken at high speed by cameras which make as many as 4,000 exposures per second.

Prof. Grant Fairbanks of the University of Iowa discussed studies of the past four years here dealing with studies of pitch and measurements of the fundamental sound wave frequency from phonograph records.

Wilmer T. Bartholomew of the Peabody Conservatory of Music emphasized the importance of work in vocal cord action in music and presented a picture of vocal cord action as a whole.

Prof. E. R. Watson of the University of Illinois welcomed some 100 delegates to the conference and introduced the speakers.

H. K. Dunn and S. D. White of the Bell laboratories presented statistical measurements on conversational speech. The paper was read by Mr. Dunn.

Changes In Building Materials

Significant changes in the numbers and types of building materials of this, as compared with earlier ages, were stressed last night by Elmer Jensen, president of the Chicago Building Congress and past president of the Illinois Society of Architects, who addressed architects and acousticians at a dinner meeting in the Jefferson hotel last night.

He illustrated such trends in building as the growth of prefabricated materials, the downward trend in costs, the increased emphasis placed on research in manufacturers' laboratories.

He outlined the newest methods man has used to combat Old Man Winter and Old Sol in his building, and stressed the fact that the knowledge of architects who use a new and more varied abundance of materials is an important factor in the advancement and growth of architectural development.

Fire Department Answers Two Minor Alarms

The fire department answered two minor calls yesterday. The first was to 16 E. Prentiss street where Bert White reported that leaves were burning out of control in his back yard.

Paris cleaners summoned firemen to check on odor behind their establishment on Iowa avenue that was thought to be free gas. Investigators found the heating tar on the roof responsible for the smell.
