

The Nationally Famous Fighting Irish And Four of Those Sensational Iowa Hawkeyes

ELMER LAYDEN
(Fighting Irish Coach)

AL COUPEE
('Dictator' Quarterback)

With the midwest's classic of the month approaching rapidly, the Irish of Notre Dame and the Hawkeyes of Iowa made their last preparations yesterday. At the left, the Notre Dame team that meets the Hawks is shown as it went through its workout at

must beat Anderson and his powerful Hawkeyes. While the Irish prepared, the Hawks were also taking their last workout and the drill was a fiery one, with Al Coupee, to Layden's right, fast-rising sophomore quarterback furnishing his usual share of the spark. And, at the right, three Iowa veterans go into a huddle during the course of their workout. Capt. Erwin Prasse, fleet-footed pass receiving star,

rugged Iowa line that bottled Purdue's speedy backs last week. The headline game will begin at 2 p.m. this afternoon in Iowa stadium, with at least 45,000 fans on deck to witness the fray. Iowa spirit is at its peak after sensational Hawkeye wins.

Armistice Day—Memories, Apprehension, or Just A Holiday? Both Teams Display Power, Speed in Last Minute Workouts

By F. C. DANIEL
WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Before the tomb of the unknown soldier, where President Roosevelt will lay a wreath for the nation tomorrow, stood a solemn boy of 20-odd, a boy just old enough to fight. Head erect, he scanned the inscription on the face of the tomb: "Here rests in honored glory an American soldier known but to God." Then he closed his eyes. Three girls in his party hushed their voices to a murmur. Behind the boy, a graying man with a family almost grown, a man who might have fought side by side with that nameless hero, let go his son's hand and stiffened to attention with his hat over his head. . . . Around those two moved some of the 1,500 pilgrims and sightseers who visit the tomb these chill autumn days while a new war grips Europe. To one group, a guide droned his spiel: "The tomb was carved from a solid piece of Colorado marble weighing 70 tons. . . . Another guide continued: "It's supposed to be the most perfect piece of marble in the world. Weighs 20 tons. . . . And another: "It weighs close to 55 tons. Who lies here nobody knows, but every mother whose son did not return from France can believe that it's hers. Three white-haired women turned to look at the young soldier pacing his post in front of the tomb on a long rubber mat. "He walks four hours and is off two," one of them said. "No, he walks two and is off four," said another. "Imagine," said the third. "That's been going on all these years. Some job." A bride and groom, letting go of each other's hands only long enough to snap pictures, strolled by. Someone giggled. A guide translated for two Chinese girls the inscription on a golden Chinese statue sent to the tomb by the Chinese republic. In the cold, sunny amphitheater, hung flags for tomorrow's armistice celebration, electricians tested a screeching loud-speaker system. "Okay. That's all right," the amplifiers roared. Another guide led in a straggling group. "These stands," he said, "were placed here for the photographers. They will take newspaper pictures. . . . The boy opened his eyes, stepped back from the tomb, and led the girls away. The middle-aged man put on his hat, took his son's hand again, and strolled off through the flame-touched trees. . . .

Separated by a scant 60 miles of roadway, two men, both graduates of the famed Rockne school of football coaching, looked on as their squads limbered dynamite laden muscles for the last time before their meeting in 1939's classic of the cornbelt, the Iowa-Notre Dame game. Schooled in the craft of Notre Dame's immortal Rockne, Dr. Eddie Anderson and Elmer Layden worked the Iowa and Notre Dame squads in Iowa City, scene this afternoon of the nation's headline gridiron conflict, and Davenport, 60 miles to the east. There was no sign in the actions of either man of the worry that must be present and the two powerful elevens worked with the same fiery aggressiveness. It was only among the over 50,000 football followers who plan to attend the game that there seemed to be signs of unrest. The invading Irish, already established as a leading contender for the mythical national championship, bristled with lightning-fast power, as they stepped through a short drill before a crowd of nearly 2,000 of Davenport's curious. There was, beyond doubt, speed to spare and the sparkle that has made the Irish ramblers America's most feared crew was not missing. Hawkeyes the Same Almost identical was the workout of the Hawkeyes, those enterprising charges of Anderson, the coach who turned the Big Ten and Iowa into a football madhouse. With Nile Kinnick again tossing passes with rifle-like precision, the Hawkeye offensive gave promise of scores and the 60-minute line that smashed Purdue was there in full force. It was in that handful of full time heroes who wear the black and gold of the tall corn state that much of today's puzzle rested—the line that smashed Purdue's "Three B's" and Coupee, (See BIG GAME, Page 5)

Consul To Advise Americans To Evacuate The Netherlands

Dutch Flood Low Section Of Water Line

By MAX HARRELSON
AMSTERDAM, Nov. 10 (AP)—An authorized statement tonight said The Netherlands would ask Germany to investigate last night's fatal border incident which it referred to as a "serious crime." The statement was made public as the United States consulate announced that Americans would be advised to leave The Netherlands, which like neighboring Belgium was speeding precautionary measures against invasion. The official account of the events near the Venloo border station said a group crossed the frontier from Germany, killed one man, wounded another and took the victims and several companions in a Netherlands automobile back to Germany. Censorship Tightens The government meanwhile tightened restrictions on news transmission out of The Netherlands as a result of stories in the last few days on military preparations. Authorized sources at The Hague warned foreign correspondents they must confine their dispatches on defenses to details published in Netherlands newspapers. The United States consulate said Americans would be told that "now is a good time to get wives and dispensable American members of their staffs out of the country." The action would be taken, it (See HOLLAND, Page 5)

Ameche Almost Arrives by Plane

By ART GOLDBERG
Exactly 47 people beside me shoved up against the rail inside the hangar at Iowa City airport last night, the rail bearing a "No Admittance Here" sign. Exactly at 6:39 the United Airlines plane came down on a landing field lit sparingly with hand flares—the fuses had blown. The breathless women who made up most of the 47 swallowed their gum and leaned more heavily on the rail. He got out of the plane showing his large white teeth in a typical Don Ameche smile. He wore a red feather in his dark green hat, and a green overcoat hung on his broad shoulders. A popular weekly magazine stuck out of his coat pocket. But he wasn't Don Ameche, he was Ring Walt of Omaha, Neb. It seems as though Ring is somewhat of a football fan, and decided to take time off from his insurance business to fly in for the Iowa-Notre Dame clash today. The thing he couldn't understand is "why all these girls are so interested in Don Ameche when I'm here." But Ring is a married man. The growing crowd wouldn't believe the stewardess, though, when she told them Don Ameche was not on the plane. They hung around and when the steps were rolled up to the airplane door again, the women did a repeat performance of their gum-swallowing, breath-taking act. This time another passenger got on. Then the plane left. Anyhow, Ring Walt told me, all Omaha will be pulling for the Hawkeyes today. Not only because they're proud of Nile Kinnick, I guess, but because they like good football as well as any of us. This is his first trip here and he expects to enjoy the potential Iowa victory with the rest of us. Dr. and Mrs. Eddie Anderson last night said they were not expecting Ameche to come in for the game. Dr. Anderson said "I haven't heard a word from him, and I don't expect him." Mrs. Anderson said if he came at all he would probably arrive about noon today and not by plane.

Men's Week Beard Winners Named; Razors Get Workout

By LAYTON HURST
Electric razors joined their old-fashioned straight edged cousins in a grand harvest of whiskers last night that left several hundred university men with their bare faces hanging out and brought the second annual observance of Men's week to an end. Winners of the five day whisker-growing contest open to all university men were announced at the pep rally last night. Loy Julius, A2 of Cherokee, came through with "the softest collection of fuzz." Bill Eastman, A3 of Douglas, Wyo., sported the longest beard. Dick Halsey, A1 of Lake Geneva, Wis., was winner of the heaviest growth division. Carl Ettinger, A4 of Cedar Rap-

Badge Sales Hit 7,134 Mark

Alpha Xi Delta's Lead Homecoming Pin Selling Race

With a record-breaking total of 7,134 Homecoming badge sales at the tabulations of first day selling, the opening of the campaign for the badges yesterday zoomed upward to set results 20 per cent ahead of any first day sales in the last 10 years. These figures were those available up to 9 p.m. last night. In the lead are the Alpha Xi Delta's with a total of 2,640; closely trailing for second place are the Alpha Delta Pi's with 2,395 and in a close contest are the Chi Omegas in third place with 2,099 total sales. The narrow margin between the three teams and the fact that the second place Alpha Delta Pi's were last year's leaders after the first day while the Alpha Xi Delta's will strive to retain their winning record for last year is expected by the faculty committee in charge to bring further record slashes today before sales close at 1:45 p.m., preceding the Iowa - Notre Dame game. The sale will not be continued until the opening of the second division of the campaign next Thursday morning at 7 a.m. when it will continue until the kick-off for the Homecoming game. Gridiron victories so far this year and the widening enthusiasm of alumni and friends as well as the student body may boost the total sale to a new all-time high in the history of the projects. Money realized from the sales go to support all Homecoming activities on the campus for both alumni and students. The traditional corn monument which will be erected on the campus this week is only one of the things supported by the fund. Others include smokers, the "T" club luncheon and various decorations and stunts.

Armistice At S. U. I.

By JACK HAGENS
By a piercing shrill of a steam whistle, Iowa City was awakened at 2:30 in the morning on the day peace was declared—Nov. 11, 1918. Young and old tumbled out of bed and immediately began one of the greatest spectacles ever witnessed in Iowa City. Equally joyous of the Armistice, were the university students. For months the University of Iowa had been virtually converted into a military encampment. All able-bodied men were put under military discipline and organized into the Student's Army Training corps. According to the draft laws, the age of these men made them eligible to go to war next. However, forgetting the past and the hardships of the S.A.T.C., the students were happy, almost hysterical. Co-eds, dressed informally, milled out of Currier hall and rushed down town. All over the city, people began to gather. Bonfires were lighted and processions were organized. All the rest of the night "re-joining" ruled and the streets were filled with boisterous people. Taking time off for breakfast, the girls and men of the S.A.T.C., came back in the morning to the liberal arts building, now Schaeffer hall, and danced in fervor—waving cornstalks and screaming. It was bedlam! S.A.T.C. men coming to classes were met by the janitor with a sign announcing "No school for today" and immediately military formation and discipline were forgotten. For the rest of the day no one went to classes. Professors arriving for their classes found the rooms empty, left. At 1 o'clock one of the biggest (See ARMISTICE, Page 5)

They had fought the blaze along a five-mile front to keep it from reaching Huron, a town of 245 inhabitants.

Chuck Irvine Most Eligible Of Bachelors

Charles Irvine, C4 of Ames, was presented last night as the most eligible bachelor on the university campus at the annual Spinners Spree in the main lounge of Iowa Union. Joe Lebeda, C4 of Belle Plaine, and Dick Feddersen, A3 of Iowa City, were the two eligible bachelors, who were also presented by Eulalia Klingbell, A4 of Postville, chairman of the Spree committee. Presentation took place on the balcony of the main lounge before a screen of black velvet on which was a large gold top hat. After Miss Klingbell had announced the name of the most eligible bachelor, Josephine McElhinney, A2 of Iowa City, and Helen Berlau, A3 of Newton, knelt before the pedestal on which Mr. Irvine was standing and presented him with a gold top hat and gold cane. The backdrop behind the orchestra also carried out a similar theme depicting the bachelor standing in the center with two girls, one on either side handing him cane and top hat. Ray Herbeck and his orchestra played for dancing. . . . of the nation and the world at large will be found on page 6.

Who Chopped Down That Cherry Tree?

THERE WAS a time when most every little American boy was told that he could become president. All he had to do was to work hard. If that failed to get him into the white house, the next best thing was to hack down a cherry tree, tell papa he did it, and a smoothly paved road would lead to Washington as a reward.

But times are changing. It takes a little more than a fallen cherry tree to make a chief executive. Jersey City's Mayor Frank (Boss) Hague realizes this. Why work hard? Why chop down cherry trees when with lesser effort one can become mayor? Why go after a job which only lasts four to eight years when you can get one which can last indefinitely? The "Boss" knows whereof he speaks for he has "held" his job for more than twenty-five years.

The formula for achieving a Hague-like position is simple. Just follow the road of least resistance. When considering a future mayoral job, the following should be done: steal, break windows, and play hooky. This will do for a starter.

In addressing a group of Jerseyites the "Boss" admitted breaking the law in his boyhood "thousands of times."

"Why, Doctor," said Mayor Hague addressing one of his aids, "I done that when I was a boy. . . I know that is a natural thing for boys to do in the poor sections of the city when they haven't anything else to do."

Nothing, we think, is as admirable as straightforwardness.

Here's The Answer Of The Scientist!

THE PAGE headline in the Chicago Tribune's sport section last Tuesday was, "Revived Iowa Team Menaces Notre Dame." Thursday the Iowa football team was considered important enough to be again the subject of the main head with, "Iowa Rooters Expect Victory Over Irish."

Many Iowa students probably had a certain self-satisfied feeling as they read these two headlines in the Chicago paper. A glow of pride was probably felt by many upon realizing that the Iowa team was Number One news in the sport section of a large metropolitan paper. Why is this the case? Why does the average fan feel so good when he sees "his" team making the headlines?

For an answer to such questions you are merely referred to the work of a certain sociology professor. This professor believes that in one sense of a person's conscious life, in so far as it is related to his active experience, as a series of wish manifestations. He set up four general classifications and they are: (1) the desire for new experience, (2) the desire for security, (3) the desire for response, (4) the desire for recognition.

Suppose now the rabid Iowa football fan reads a favorable headline about the team. It is certainly a "new experience" for him considering the plight of the Hawkeyes during the past three years. He probably feels a kind of "security" in not being fearful of his team's chances in coming games. And the "response" and "recognition" are both inherent in the very actuality of the headline.

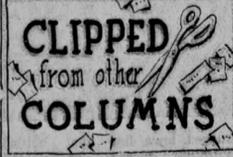

If you feel like shouting for joy the next time you read about an Iowa victory don't think yourself undignified. It's just an urge caused by the "fundamental wishes."

Prevention Is Better Than Cure

AN UNUSUAL type of organization is the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness. It is unusual because its activities are concerned with the control, and, where possible, the elimination of the causes of blindness, impaired vision and eyestrain—not with the activities on behalf of those already blind.

While supported by voluntary contributions, much as are America's other great humanitarian organizations, the society operates in a peculiarly unique field and does a much needed service to society.

It is Christian to care for those who are blind; it is Christian, equally, to save the sight of those who would otherwise lose it through disease, accident or careless misuse.

The school system in this country has gone a long way since the days of the raw-boned, fossilized schoolmaster who ruled with a stern countenance and a hickory stick. Nowadays, the pupils have almost as much to say about the running of the classroom as the teachers themselves—in some things, at least.

For most normal small fry, school will never be quite as much fun as sandlot baseball or hop-scotch. But education in the lower grades is a lot easier to take these days than it was 30 or 40 years ago. More important, youngsters in public schools are getting a rough idea of what democracy means. The word is beginning to mean more to them than just something they find in their history books.

To find out how far democracy in education has gone, the Educational Policies Committee of the American Education Association is conducting a survey among public schools in the United States. The results of this study will be used to advance still further the teaching of democracy in a practical, comprehensible way.

There was a time, not very long ago, when the schools' total contribution toward building patriotic citizens was to teach youngsters the American's creed, the "Star-Spangled Banner" and the Pledge to the Flag. If that didn't make good Americans out of them, it was generally conceded there wasn't much hope.

It has been only with the introduction of streamlined educational systems that children were given a shot at this thing called democracy. They were permitted to organize clubs, elect their own officers, frame their own rules of conduct. Safety cadets were elected and finally student councils were formed. These councils, when they are properly set up, give elementary and high school students about as generous a part in the management of the school as can be safely given without having the pupils vote themselves a permanent vacation.

The Education Association's committee, after it has completed its research, will select a few representative schools and will experiment with even more progressive ideas in the matter of student democracy.

These youngsters, unlike their forbears, are going to grow up with the idea that democracy means more than just casting a vote for president every four years. They are getting so used to having a voice in the affairs about them that they won't be able to get rid of the habit when they become full-fledged citizens. They are learning not only the meaning of democracy but of Communism and Fascism as well—and how to tell all of them apart.

Flag-waving isn't enough, and reciting the American's Creed doesn't necessarily make a good citizen. But getting democracy mixed in with reading, writing, and arithmetic will probably show results in the future management of this country.

The Henry Sabin Parent-Teacher association will have a meeting Tuesday at 2:45 p.m. in the gymnasium of the school building. All parents and friends are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

In Defense of the Freedoms

Once again Iowa can look to her laurels. In these days of the "second world war" an editorial has been written by an Iowa alumnus and former editor of The Daily Iowan's predecessor, in defense of the four freedoms guaranteed in the United States Constitution,—an editorial which has been acclaimed to be the most outstanding advocate of freedom of the press, speech, religion and assembly.

Jesse Lyle Kinmonth, formerly of near Columbus City, Iowa, son of John Taylor Kinmonth and Henrietta Atherton, has been awarded the Four Freedoms award of the New Jersey Press association. This recognition was given to the state newspaper whose editorial was deemed to have contributed most to the preservation of the four basic rights of American democracy. Mr. Kinmonth won the award over state-wide competition for "distinguished contribution."

The Asbury Park Press, Asbury Park, New Jersey, has been published and edited by Kinmonth since 1886. He was graduated from the State University of Iowa in 1895, with Ph.D. degree, and studied at the University of Pennsylvania on a scholarship a year before taking over the New Jersey paper.

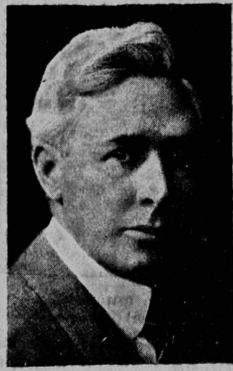

He was president of his senior class, while at Iowa, and was a member of the Zethagathian Literary society, and editor of the Vidette Reporter, now The Daily Iowan, for two years. He married Luella Swisher of Iowa City in 1898. She was an Iowa graduate, class of 1896.

Besides being an outstanding editorialist and publisher, Kinmonth has also been prominent in club work in Asbury Park. He organized and was first president of the Asbury Park Rotary club (1910-1920) and was the district governor from the third district, New York and New Jersey, 1921-22. He is a past president of the Asbury Park chamber of commerce, and is present public grounds commissioner of that city.

Kinmonth calls attention to the fact that when censorship and propaganda supersede the judgment of the editor and when freedom of utterance degenerates into the empty right to repeat the official communiques of government, liberty is gone. "It is human not to fully appreciate the sunshine until after the rain and it is also human to regard too lightly the value of the plight of those to whom it is denied. Now that war has emphasized the darkness and oppression in which most of the peoples of Europe have been plunged millions of Americans have been made conscious, perhaps for the first time, of the bountiful benefits that our heritage of freedom confers upon us. Hitherto they have read the uncensored truth in their newspapers without contemplating the advantages of a free press; they have worshipped

And, since this is the day, I'll tell my favorite Rockne story again. . . Maybe you've heard it. . . The team hadn't been doing so well the first half, but Knute was a spell-binder at the break. This time he didn't appear, and the boys began to get worried. . . No word from their coach, either encouragement or condemnation. . .

As the bell to hurry to the field rang out, Rockne stuck his head in the door. "Anybody seen the Notre Dame team?" he sweetly inquired. . .

(Added Note—They won the game.)

The crack goes around the campus. . . "Know what Hitler'd say if he found out his mother was a Jew?" . . . "Probably that he was Jesus Christ."

One of the reasons Nile Kinnick's not only popular with football fans is what his professors report. . . He hasn't skipped a class this year and hasn't forgotten a single test. This is college, meaning classes come first.

The current "Look" takes university life for a ride with considerable realism. . . But Northwestern's $700 a year average isn't typical. . . There are people going through the university on $5 a year and guts.

Zimansky of the English department's pro-English. . . That may be the reason he quipped, "America'll fight to the last Englishman." . . A paraphrase of the Hitler crack regards England-France.

A little difficult for a corn-tassled farm boy to play a Paris role. . . Mable decided not to try it.

Ethan Allen's "Man's Adventure" dedication is swell. . . "To My Wife," he's written, "Who Wants Me To Be Definite." . . Not a bad idea at that.

Allen's recent forum contribution was a radio masterpiece. . . The German-English staff are WSUI'ing a discussion of Thomas Mann's works. Allen was representing the political Mann. . . But the others got so heated in discussion, Allen's contribution was cut.

In the full half-hour his sole comment was, "No."

The Iowa City "F.M." who's quoted in Harold Ickes not-good "Lords of the Press" is an old newspaper man himself. . . His epistle refers to a local situation with some pungence. . .

The writer's not Frank Mott. I hasten to add.

A Legend Begins. . . There's a good deal of legend growing about this man Anderson, the beginning of a tradition, perhaps. . . But my favorite story is about the son who goes to St. Mary's. . .

They were praying the other day, and the sister spoke to the boy. . . "Aren't you going to ask God to let your dad's team win on Saturday?" she asked. . .

Shipstead Favors Moderate Pan-Americanism, But He's Worried About American Agriculture

By CHARLES P. STEWART

"When," says Sen. Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota, "congress passed our present law, authorizing the state department to conclude reciprocal trade bargains with foreign countries, it was represented that these dickers would enable us to swap off our various surpluses for other stuff that we, in the United States, haven't enough of, or maybe not any. Now, how's the system working out in practice?"

The senator was referring especially to the scheme's application to agriculture, Minnesota being notably a farm state. He was referring super-especially to dairy products, since they're particularly conspicuous in his commonwealth's output. He also was dwelling with much emphasis upon our pending deal with Argentina.

"Because," he said, "Argentina is almost exclusively an agricultural and pastoral realm, with crops and animals and dairy edibles practically identical with our own."

"What's bound to follow if we encourage these alien industries to come in and compete with us in our home markets?"

Imported Cattle It isn't proposed to admit Argentine cattle. It's well established, though denied by the Argentines, that they are diseased, and there's a sanitary embargo against them. But the "critters" are shipped in from Canada. They're redundant on this side of the border already, asserts Senator Shipstead.

"For two or three generations," he points out, "the American farmer has taken it for granted that the fertility of his land was eternal. He's beginning to find out that he was mistaken—that the fertility which he took out in the form of grain must be restored in the form of humus, phosphate, potassium and nitrates. The manure from his barns serves this purpose. Destroy or reduce the dairy industry and you destroy the fertility of our fields."

The senator seems a bit jealous of the development of Dixie's dairying. Government policy there, as well as in the northland, has been to take as many acres as possible out of cotton production, thereby stimulating milk and its by-products. He remarks that such costs are lower in the south than farther north, giving the southerners an advantage.

Not that he wants to discriminate internally, but he does draw the line on international competition.

He indorses Pan-American neighborliness, but only in reasonable moderation.

Overseas Purchases Moreover, he suggests, "We've repealed our embargo law."

"The Allies will want huge quantities of our war supplies. That speedily will boost prices of our manufactured goods. But the Allies already are pretty well stocked up with our farm and dairy king. Consequently our manufacturers' and their employees' prices and wages will skyrocket, but agricultural figures will stay stationary, for quite awhile anyway."

Of course, this will sting agriculture and dairying.

"Much," remarks Senator Shipstead, "has been made of the fact that the farm-mortgage debt has been reduced by $2,400,000,000. But how? It's been reduced by foreclosures on farm mortgages. When a farm mortgage is foreclosed and the farmer is taken from the land, the debt is wiped out. That's how farm-mortgage indebtedness has been reduced."

According to Senator Shipstead our number of independent farmers has been cut by about 30

Thousands Cheer Hawks At Pep Meeting

Part of 60-Minute Line

PRESSBOX PICKUPS
By OSCAR HARGRAVE

The baseball season for Iowa is months past and the next one is months away, but to Otto Vogel, coach of the Big Ten champions of last spring, goes a vote of thanks—for a tipoff he gave quite some time ago. The tipoff was originally on the subject of baseball, but applies to football as well.

Leading the Hawk griders is Erwin Prasse, a 190-pound end who is capable but not especially noticeable most of the time. But, Prasse was all-conference end last year and he has scored three touchdowns this season on passes from Nile Kinnick. It is also a matter of history that Prasse's brilliant catch in the closing minutes gave the Hawks their victory over Indiana.

It is quite well known that Prasse played second base on Vogel's baseball team and was considered capable by Iowa followers. But, while fans considered Prasse capable, Vogel went a little bit farther and named Prasse as one of the best infielders he ever coached—that in the face of Prasse's only ordinary batting average.

It is not that anyone considered Prasse a bad man to have on second base or that he was weak with the stick, but he made occasional blunders and was not an especially good hitter on paper. Digging farther into the records, however, it can be discovered that Prasse had a funny habit of doing his hitting at most opportune times. He ranked toward the top of the team in runs batted in, in fact.

A check of the memories from last spring follows the same general rule. We can't remember Prasse getting any hits when the Hawks led by 20 runs. A weak hurler who was getting his lumps from other hitters usually found the Iowa second baseman as his softest touch, while such decidedly Iowa games saw occasional fumbles marked against Prasse.

We can also remember a close game that was broken up when Prasse walked to the bag with two men on base. With the chips down, Prasse clouted and the ball is probably the property of some small boy down near Kalona.

That probably had quite a bit to do with Vogel's choice of Prasse as one of the best, for Vogel is another of those who realize base hits don't win ball games, unless the hits end up as runs. Agreeing as to the importance of victories as opposed to statistical advantages, we agree that Vogel wasn't passing up a phony tip when he said Prasse was good enough for his ball team. And, the football team depends, too, on money players who produce when the game is still going on.

Loras Defeats Norsemen, 13-0

DUBUQUE, Nov. 10 (AP)—Two punts into the coffin corner by Tim Linehan gave Loras college a 13 to 0 homecoming victory over Luther of Decatur, here today and knocked the Norse out of the running for the Iowa conference football championship.

Both kicks went out of bounds at the one foot mark, and both led to Loras touchdowns.

Hot Action in Georgia Tech-Kentucky, Tulane-Bama Contests

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Notre Dame needing a lot of its "luck o' the Irish" in taking on Eddie Anderson's rough, tough Iowa Hawkeyes. The Irish are unbeaten in six starts. Iowa has four wins, one defeat.

Headlining the eastern play are the top intersectional tie parties of the day, both in New York. Missouri and New York university get together in Yankee stadium for a promised pitching duel between whisperin' Paul Christman and big Eddie Boell. Indiana goes after Fordham in the Polo Grounds, and the Ram, back on the right offensive track again, looks like the real thing.

Pittsburgh's Feud
Also ranking high on the eastern program are the Pittsburgh neighborhood feud between Pitt's Panthers and Carnegie Tech's Skibos, neither of which is undefeated this year, and the always close Princeton-Dartmouth duel. The Indians take an unbeaten, one-tied record to Tiger-ton. Undefeated, untied Colorado Mines figures to be a breeze against Western State in the chief Rocky Mountain conference feature.

of play, forced Skale to punt from behind his goal line. Guter blocked the kick and Loch recovered, inches from the goal line. Linehan dove over on the next play and Baltes kicked the extra point.

In the fourth quarter, Linehan booted a similar effort, and a little later returned Skale's punt 21 yards to Luther's 9. He went over on four plays. Baltes' placement failed.

Alderson, Walters Lead Upper Iowa Scoring Drives

WAVERLY, Nov. 10 (AP)—A smooth, powerful Upper Iowa university football team rolled over Wartburg college 41 to 13 in an Iowa conference game here today.

Upper Iowa started its scoring spree right at the kickoff. In five plays the visitors had returned the ball to the Wartburg 26, where Alderson passed to Walters in the end zone for the first counter. Chamberlain kicked the extra point.

A few minutes later a pass from Alderson to Krumrey after a 50-yard drive down the field brought another touchdown for the winners.

In the second period Leesberg recovered a Peacock fumble on the six-yard line and two plays later Schafer plunged over for Wartburg's first score. Emmons went through the line for the point.

Upper Iowa next drove 80 yards in a series of ground plays, with Spatcher finally going over for the counter.

At the beginning of the second half Walters of the Peacocks scored 70 yards on the kickoff to race. Wartburg came back to add another touchdown.

In the last period Upper Iowa power drives netted two touchdowns, Walters and Harder carrying the ball. Peacock attempts for the extra point were successful on the last four touchdowns.

Team of '94 Tore Trousers For Secretary

Among the deeds performed by Hawkeye heroes of the past was the tearing of the trousers from an American secretary of war, the late George Dern.

The incident, long hidden, came to light last night with the announcement of a reunion of the Iowa team of 1894 at the Homecoming next week, announced by Judge M. L. McKinley of Chicago.

The living team members, the Rev. Herman P. Williams of Etna, N. Y., Ex-Senator Joe Allen, Des Moines, Richard Kepler, Sidney, Neb., Dr. Prince Sawyer, Sioux City, will all be present, with the exception of Iver Iverson, Tyler, Tex., who explains his absence in a letter to McKinley and also tells about the removal of Dern's pants, which follows in this excerpt from the letter.

"In that game you may remember when Prince Sawyer tore off the pants of one of the Nebraska boys. The officials had to call time out to allow repairs to be made. In the meantime Prince politely apologized to the man for having handled his pants so roughly. Since then I have found out to whom these pants belonged. A few years ago I noticed in our local paper the picture of a man whom I knew played on the Nebraska team in '94. I wrote him a letter, referring to this game. He replied that he remembered that game more distinctly than any other he ever played, for two reasons: First, because he was the captain of the team and that was his last game of college football; secondly, as he stated, 'You boys tore off my clothes, so that both teams had to huddle around me while emergency repairs were made.' This letter was from George Dern, secretary of war."

Dolphins Play Before Another Packed House

The Dolphin water show, "The Dolphin Follies of 1940," played to a packed house of 2,500 last night in the second run of its three night billing. Tomorrow evening will be the last performance in what has proved to be the greatest show in Dolphin history.

Records show that a Dolphin carnival has never played to a packed house on all three nights of the show. A larger crowd is predicted tonight, with out-of-town football visitors expected to swell the gate to around 3,000 persons. Ed Gerber, president of the Dolphins, said last night that extra bleachers may be put in to take care of the overflow.

Several adjustments in the lighting of the beautiful "Rain-bow Fountain" proved to heighten the effect of the water drills which revolved around it. The trapeze act was again a big hit of the show, winning the acclaim of the audience.

Tickets were still available last night for tonight's performance, Gerber stated, but added that those who wish to attend the carnival should purchase their duets as early as possible. Members of the Dolphin club will be selling tickets on the campus tomorrow.

Boni Picks Notre Dame 'In A Close One'

Favors Texas A & M, Tulane Over Bama, Cornell To Win

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Texas A. and M., Notre Dame and Cornell, three of the four first-line eleven's still unbeaten and untied, carry their handsome records into action against dangerous opposition tomorrow to furnish the high spots on the national college football program.

Each will be favored, but each will also be meeting a team strong enough to toss a monkey wrench into the works and another upset into the picture.

Records at Stake
The Aggies, riding hard on the Southwest conference, will try to bring the tough Southern Methodist Mustangs into their private corral; Notre Dame, bruised but still equipped with ample backfield material, will try for seven straight against Iowa, and Cornell, sluggish last week against Columbia, will have to snap back into stride to get by a Colgate team well rested and set to "shoot the works."

While Tennessee runs through signals against the Citadel and Southern California, other member of this week's "big five" takes on sub-par Stanford, there will be dangerous collisions elsewhere on the grid map. Michigan's comeback try against Minnesota will draw 60,000 into the Wolverine stadium; unbeaten Dartmouth will see a "Big Three" clean sweep against Princeton, and Tulane will stack its power plays and 200-pound lines against Alabama in the Southeastern conference headliner.

Forecasts
From a half-punt formation, which means you can cut and run if necessary, herewith this corner's forecasts for the morrow (probable attendance figures in parentheses):

Texas A. and M. - Southern Methodist (33,000)—S.M.U. lacks a strong passing attack and a team apparently must have everything to cope with the Aggies. Therefore, Texas A. and M. in the game of the day.

Iowa-Notre Dame (50,000)—Hawkeye rooters still are remembering their 1921 win over an unbeaten Notre Dame team. Nile Kinnick will do them more good tomorrow, but still Notre Dame in a close one.

Tulane-Alabama (50,000)—Tulane, which aims to dispel the idea that Tennessee is the only team in the Southeastern conference. Cornell-Colgate (15,000)—Andy Kerr is a wily coach, and he may have some extra tricks up his sleeve for this one. But the choice is Cornell.

Southern California - Stanford (55,000) — Hardly the spot for the Trojans to stumble. Southern Cal.

Tigers To Lose
Princeton-Dartmouth (35,000)—The Hanover Indians, they say, haven't faced a line like the Tigers' nor a passer like Allerdice. If they click as they did against Yale, though, that shouldn't make much difference. Dartmouth.

Kansas State-Oklahoma (18,000) — Probably the Sooners' toughest since the S.M.U. tie. However, Oklahoma.

Carnegie Tech-Pitt (50,000) — Toss the records out the window, the neighborhood children are at play. If they can shackle Muba and Condit, Pitt.

Michigan-Minnesota (60,000) — Recovering from that Illinois haymaker, Michigan.

Georgia Tech-Kentucky (25,000) — Little to choose. Kaintuck. New York U.-Missouri (40,000) — Despite the rising tide of Violet sentiment, Missouri.

Over 10,000 Gather Before Old Capitol

Prasse, Enich Speak To Cheering Crowd; All Await Game

Enthusiasm reached an all-time high on the Iowa campus last night, when over 10,000 Iowa students, alumni, and townspeople gathered at the west approach of Old Capitol in a mass pep meeting.

The program was topped by speeches by Capt. Erwin Prasse and "Iron Mike" Enich of the football team.

The continuous cheers of the crowd made it almost impossible for the speakers to make their voices heard—even though a public address system was used throughout the program.

Several other Iowa notables appeared on the program including Glenn Devine, present member of the Hawkeye coaching staff who played against Notre Dame in that famous 1921 battle; Barney Dondore, cheerleader from 1919 through 1921, and Happy Felsch, baseball comedian who starred with the Chicago White Sox several years ago.

Felsch, rigged out in his old baseball uniform, put on a slow-motion demonstration of a pitcher in the act of delivering a ball before the fans.

Dondore added his bit to the program by leading the howling fans in an old Iowa cheer.

The pep and enthusiasm demonstrated last night has been gradually gathering momentum in Iowa City all week, as Iowa fans patiently await the clash between the Hawkeyes and the Irish from Notre Dame.

The kangaroo court, which had its second inauguration on the campus this week, was another huge success—in more ways than one. It has helped instill pep and spirit among the Iowa students and has given more than one fellow a break when the weaker sex were given popular sentences by the kangaroo judge.

The climax of this week's festivities will be reached this afternoon at 2 o'clock when Iowa's fighting band of Hawkeyes meet unbeaten and untied Notre Dame in Iowa stadium.

Famous Illinois 1919 Team Honors Foe—Chic Harley

CHAMPAIGN, Nov. 10 (AP)—The University of Illinois' great football team of 1919, in reunion here tonight, paused long enough to pay tribute to an old and respected foe, Chic Harley, Ohio State's one-time brilliant star.

It was just 20 years ago that the Illini defeated Ohio State, the only losing game in which Harley ever played. Harley now is receiving treatment in the U. S. Veterans' hospital at Danville, Ill.

The reunited Illinois team sent him a telegram which read: "The Illinois football team of 1919, holding its 20th anniversary reunion tonight, takes time out to send a message to a great player, a gallant leader and a true sportsman, Chic Harley of Ohio State."

"We cherished our victory, of course, but we regretted that it was you we had to beat in the only game your team lost in your playing career. Twenty years after we recall your exploits in that great battle and send you our best wishes."

The wire was signed by Bill Kopp, 1919 Illini captain.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

- Not So Dumb
- Just The Yanks
- Natural Rivals

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Larry MacPhail's 16-team world series suggestion was greeted with loud guffaws and "that Larry, ain't he the card" expressions in most quarters, but there are some open-minded individuals who believe that, with modifications, the general idea isn't so bad.

Not So Dumb
In the first place, Mr. MacPhail's success with so-called crack-brained ideas has made them quit laughing when he sits down at the piano, figuratively speaking, and if he proposed periscopes for sinker balls they'd hesitate before grinning.

In the second place, they have the idea that Mr. MacPhail is asking for something he knows he won't get, like a panhandler asking a quarter for a cuppa coffee and willing to compromise for a nickel.

Mr. MacPhail proposes that the first two teams meet for the world championship, the second two teams meet for runner-up honors, and so on down the line until the last two teams meet for no particular reason.

Obviously the plan has its weak points. For instance, a large telephone booth probably would accommodate the huge throng which would assemble to watch the Phillies and Browns play to determine which was the worst team in the two leagues.

Just The Yanks

Also, as has been pointed out, the National league, whose only solace in recent years has been the claim that it is just the Yankees, and not the American league that is better, might be deprived by that solace if by chance the other American league teams started toppling over. National league clubs like tennins.

One observer has figured out a modification of Mr. MacPhail's idea that has some logic as its basis.

He would have the first two, or maybe the first four, teams in a league meet the teams which finished in corresponding positions in the other league.

Natural Rivals
The remaining teams in each league would play rivals from the other league, but the pairings would be made from a geographical angle rather than the positions in which they finished. This would in some instances bring together natural rivals, and in any event would cut down traveling expenses.

Anyway, when the club owners meet come winter Mr. MacPhail will see to it that they hear more about this idea, and if he doesn't get everything he asks for maybe

Bulldogs Kept On Run By Hurricanes

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 10 (AP)—A powerhouse Miami attack crushed Drake 33 to 6 in an intersectional football game before a crowd of 16,415 tonight with fullback Terry Fox leading the stampede.

Miami loosed its crushing offensive early in the game after recovering a Drake fumble, smashed 30 yards to its first touchdown and kept the Des Moines team on the run all the way.

Drake saved itself from complete humiliation by scoring a spectacular touchdown against Miami's reserves late in the game. Orbin Hanks flipped a short pass to Thell Fisher, who threaded his way 64 yards through the Miami defense.

After Mike Corcoran had smashed tackle for the opening Miami touchdown, Drake moved 63 yards in three plays with Fisher, Wilbur Harvey and Bill Stipe carrying, but lost the ball on downs.

From then on Miami had command. In the second quarter Johnny Noppenberg hurled a 12-yard touchdown pass to Michael (Lefty) Schemer after an interception had placed the Hurricanes in position.

The Miami second team marked up the final touchdown on a 37-yard sweep after intercepting another Drake pass.

he'll get as much as he expected. What that is, only Mr. MacPhail knows.

All Dressed Up And Goals To Go

These university women are all ready for an exciting afternoon at the Iowa-Notre Dame game today and judging by their appearances they do not appear to have any doubts about Iowa's chances against the "Fightin' Irish".

Jini Strauger, A2 of Atlantic; Dorothy Garrett, C4 of Manly, and Virginia Franquemont, A4 of Des Moines, (upper left) are appropriately clad for the stands. Miss Strauger (left) is wearing a tailored beige camel's hair coat, a brown felt snap brim and matching brown and tan pigskin gloves. She carries an I-Blanket for extra warmth during the game. Miss Garrett, (center) will make herself heard with a genuine Missouri fox horn. She is wearing a brown tweed boxy coat and a matching felt snap brim hat. Miss Franquemont is anticipating a windy game so she tops her ensemble with a beige sueded cloth hood lined in green. A rust-colored polo coat, fuzzy green mittens and sheepskin lined suede boots complete her costume.

Virginia DeButts, A2 of Melbourne, and Doris Jean Replage, A1 of Des Moines, are ready for this afternoon's kickoff (upper right). Miss DeButts is wearing a maroon fur coat over a simple black wool dress, and Miss Replage has selected an English tweed green suit to wear under her muskrat chubby. A definitely active outfit is what Rosetta Ahrens, A1 of Marengo, (lower left) has chosen for today's big game. Her teal blue wool sports dress is topped by a tan camel's hair polo coat. Her velvet snap brim is of the same teal shade. It's off to the game and a cheer for the Hawkeyes as Shirley Kauffman, C3 of Jefferson, and Kathryn Heppeler, A3 of Rockwell City, start for the stadium. Miss Kauffman, who is wearing a tan polo coat, has chosen a plaid skirt and angora sweater, rust hat and scarf and pigskin gloves. Miss Heppeler is wearing a black princess style sports coat, a black snap brim hat, black kid gloves and a wine velvet ascot scarf. Under her coat she is wearing a wine colored skirt and sweater.

Armistice--

parades ever staged in Iowa City was displayed.

Previous to the Armistice, the campus was under strict military control. Professors could not enter buildings without a pass; people could not enter the campus without giving reason to a military sentry.

The S.A.T.C. had ended all social life on the campus except for the regular noon dances which were held in the liberal arts building. Eating in one general mess hall, the men ate the amazing amount of 900 loaves of bread a day. The Quadrangle, men's dormitory, originally built as an army barracks, was converted, following the Armistice, into living quarters for thousands of the men who have since attended the university.

Thus, with the greatest enthusiasm, Iowa City and the University of Iowa celebrated the Armistice of the "war to end wars and to further the ideals of democracy."

That night, exhausted from a day of noisy celebration, the university band played the national anthem, and that same night thousands of university men laid their heads on their pillows and thanked God that the war was over.

Three Nuptials Announced By Iowa Alumni

Former Students Tell of Marriages During This Month

News of the marriages of former university students and alumni has been received here.

Liesman-Klein

The marriage of Ruth Ann Liesman, daughter of Mrs. B. Liesman and the late Dr. Leisman of Des Moines, and the Rev. Herman Des Moines, Hanow, Clerk, took place Nov. 5 in the Trinity Lutheran church in Des Moines.

The Rev. George Vogel officiated at the ceremony. Members of the family were entertained at an informal reception after the ceremony.

The couple left for Pueblo, Colo., where they will be until the first of the year, when they expect to sail for China.

Mrs. Klein was graduated from the university and has been employed at the Bankers Life company in Des Moines. She is a member of Beta Sigma Phi sorority, the American Association of University Women and the women's department of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Rev. Mr. Klein was graduated from Concordia seminary in St. Louis, Mo., and has been a missionary in China for the last 18 years.

Jones-Duncan

Marie Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Jones of Coter, became the bride of Lyle Blair Duncan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle E. Duncan, also of Coter, Nov. 4 in the country home of the bride's parents.

After the ceremony a luncheon was served the relatives and guests. Later in the day the couple left on a wedding trip to Des Moines.

When they return they will live with the bridegroom's parents until spring when they will move to a farm northwest of Coter to establish their home.

Mrs. Duncan is a graduate of the Coter high school and of Brown's business college in Iowa City. She has been employed since then in the office of the Louisiana county agricultural administration at Wapello and will continue her work there until the first of the year.

Mr. Duncan is also a graduate of the Coter high school. Later he was graduated from the university. He is associated with his father in farming.

Dawson-Dolly

Virginia J. Dawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dawson of Farmington, Ill., became the bride of Attorney Edward Lee Dolly, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Dolly of Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 3 in the rectory of St. Mary's Catholic church in Peoria.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to members of the families at the Jefferson hotel.

Later the couple left by motor for a wedding trip through the Ozarks. They will return to Rock Island today where they will make their home.

The bride, a graduate of the high school at Farmington, attended Knox college at Galesburg and was graduated from the university. She has been teaching in the high school at Maquon, Ill.

Mr. Dolly was graduated from Rock Island high school and the university. He received his law degree from DePaul university in Chicago and is practicing law in Rock Island.

Directories Get New Feature

The 1939-40 student directories are now on sale at all book stores, Iowa Union, the publications office and men's dormitories, and will be sold on the campus starting Tuesday.

The new directories have black covers with gold lettering as they did last year. A new feature is the design of a compass on the front cover to indicate "direction." They will be sold for 35 cents.

Former University Student To Join Army Air Force Crack Fighting Unit

Photograph by U. S. Army Air Corps DONALD L. CLARK

Lieut. Donald L. Clark, student in the university from 1936 to 1938, has been ordered to one of the army air force's crack fighting units at Barkdale field near Shreveport, La.

Lieut. W. C. Mills of the air corps base headquarters at Shreveport announced yesterday.

Clark, 23, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Clark of Alta and attended Iowa State college at Ames from 1933 to 1936 before coming to the university.

Clark applied for entrance as a flying cadet while at the University of Iowa. He won a lieutenant's commission in June, 1939, after finishing work at Randolph and Kelly fields in San Antonio, Texas.

At the present time he is studying technical and administrative subjects in addition to daily tactical flying, the announcement said.

Hitler's Picture 'Victim' of Attack

BERLIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—A missile apparently aimed at a huge picture of Adolf Hitler today smashed a plate glass window in the Berlin store of Heinrich Hoffman, the fuhrer's personal photographer.

The incident came as Nazi authorities prepared a state funeral tomorrow for the seven victims of the Munich beer cellar explosion.

Hoffman was one of the Nazi veterans who attended Wednesday's celebration of the 1923 putsch and like Hitler escaped by minutes the blast which wrecked the Munich party shrine.

Belgian Cabinet Holds Vital Session

BRUSSELS, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Belgian cabinet tonight held a meeting at which diplomatic observers believed the government decided its attitude in the event the Netherlands were attacked.

It was the fourth cabinet session in as many days. Prime Minister Hubert Pierlot, Belgium Border Would Close

It was understood that if there should be any German action against The Netherlands, the Belgian border would be closed.

Military measures proceeded apace in the two lowland countries, although still without official explanation.

In The Netherlands they included the flooding of sections of the nation's vital "water line," the summoning of ambulance units to duty at The Hague—presumably against possible air raids—and requisitioning of buses.

Many trains were held in readiness to remove civilians from flooded areas and possible border danger points.

Canals Re-Open Military authorities in Brussels announced, however, the reopening of certain northern canals, a move taken as an indication that the Belgians did not consider the international situation critical.

The canals lie between the Albert canal and The Netherlands border and form a direct route to Germany.

The tense feeling in The Netherlands was increased by the fact that no official explanation yet had been made to lift the mystery of a strange shooting incident last night on The Netherlands side of the German frontier near Venloo.

Negro Choir Will Sing At Cornell College

The famous Eva Jessye negro choir will appear in the Cornell college chapel Tuesday at 8 p. m. to present a program including examples covering the entire field of negro composition.

Three numbers for the program will be taken from the folk-opera "Porgy and Bess," from which the distinguished negro singing ensemble was chosen by the late George Gershwin.

It was in this role that the group received its greatest acclaim, both in the New York run and in tours of the country.

Miss Jessye, leader of the group, well-known authority on folk music, is a graduate of Western university in Kansas and Langston university in Oklahoma, and recently received her M. A. degree from Wilberforce university.

College Deans Will Give Out Medal Honors

24 R. O. T. C. Students Merit Highest S. U. I. Military Achievement

Twenty-four R. O. T. C. students will be awarded the military scholastic medal and clasp, "the highest honor that is awarded to a military student in this university," according to Col. Homer H. Slaughter, head of the military department.

The medals and clasps will be presented by the respective deans of the colleges of liberal arts, engineering and medicine.

The following men qualified for the award by maintaining throughout the last semester a disciplinary "A" rating and a final semester grade of "A" in military, and a three-point grade average, or higher, in their academic work.

Big Game--

Bill Green, and Buzz Dean, with Ray Murphy, Iowa's "Man in the Iron Mask," as an added treat.

Notre Dame Powerful Notre Dame is unquestionably a powerful outfit, with the legends of Irish power as proof of its traditional danger-laden lust for battle.

Against these Irish, Anderson, a fighting medico, sends a team that is reputedly undermanned, but with a record that is indicative of what might befall the enemy who invades Iowa's home grounds.

Indiana and Wisconsin, both victims of the Hawkeyes of 1939, have already tasted the deadly power that rests with Kinnick's passes to a host of fleet-footed receivers, led by Capt. Erwin Prasse, while the ground game of the Hawks bested Purdue's Brock, Byelen, and Brown in a bitter conflict last week.

Starters Indications were that Anderson would start the same eleven that faced the Boiler-makers. Prasse and Dick Evans, a pair of 190-pound seniors, will hold down the end posts. Mike Enich, "Iron Mike," and Wally Bergstrom will play at tackles, while Ken Pettit and Ham Snider at guards and Bruno Andruska at center will complete the forward wall outmanned but not outplayed in games to date.

Behind this combination will be Couppee, a Hawkeye great in the making; Ed McLain, and Ray Murphy, with Buzz Dean and Bill Green awaiting the chance to enter the game.

Layden's Best For opposition, the Hawkeyes will find the best Layden can offer in Biagi and Capt. John Kelly of the Irish at ends, Brutz and Lillis at tackles, Riffle and DeFranko at guards, Finneran at center, Sitko at quarterback, Thiesing and Crimmins at the halves and Stevenson at fullback.

Also expected to enter the fray are one of Iowa's favorite sons, Bobby Sauggau, and Zontini, a pair of speedy backs.

Thus prepared, Anderson and Layden gave last night and awaited the test of their eleven. Anderson, all-American end in 1921, and Layden, member of the immortal "Four Horsemen of Notre Dame," are ready for the meeting of their teams, and the middlewest awaits, with varied feelings, the resumption of a gridiron rivalry that raged furiously through one afternoon in 1921.

Time and place: 2 p. m.; Iowa stadium.

Officials: Referee: James Masker (Northwestern); Umpire, John Schommer (Chicago); Field Judge, Lyle Clarno (Bradley Tech); Head Linesman, E. C. Krieger (Ohio U.).

Tickets: On sale today at field house, Whetstone's No. 1, and stadium. Positively available up to game time.

Coaches: Iowa, Eddie Anderson; Notre Dame, Elmer Layden. Probable attendance: 48,000.

Broadcasts: WHO, Des Moines; WMT, Cedar Rapids; KSO-KRNT, Des Moines; WSUI, Iowa City; WOC, Davenport.

Hostesses For Tuesday Tea Named

Thanksgiving Motif To Feature 'Tasty Tog' Affair

Hostesses for the Tasty Togs tea which will be given in the river room of Iowa Union from 3:30 to 5 p. m. Tuesday have been announced. They are Mrs. Clyde Hart, Mrs. R. A. Kuever, Mrs. Earl Harper, Mrs. W. F. Bristol, Mrs. George Easton, Mrs. Rufus Putney, Mrs. Vance Morton and Mrs. Fred M. Pownall.

A Thanksgiving motif will be carried out through table decorations. The Tasty Togs tea is a part of the freshman orientation program and concludes the series of freshman lectures.

To Read Over Radio Station

T. Scherbeck Will Discuss Works Of Helene Magaret

Thomas Scherbeck of the English department will read and discuss the published poems of Helene Magaret, graduate student, on the Time Out For Poetry program this afternoon at 5.15 over station WSUI.

Miss Magaret won the Maryanne Griswold Ran Renner prize, was runner up in the world's fair poetry contest and was awarded the American Association of University Women fellowship for one year.

Her poems have been published in "Harpers," "Atlantic," "Forum," "Saturday Review of Literature," "Poetry," "American Prefaces" and other well known magazines.

She has published two books of narrative poetry, "The Trumpeting Crane" and "The Great Horse."

Miss Magaret is now writing a biography of Pierre John deSmet, a Jesuit priest who worked among the Flat Head Indians of Montana.

Amazing! Report No Accidents In Game Rush

University of Iowa football boosters apparently are saving their strength for today's game with Notre Dame. At least that is what reports from last night's activities indicate.

The police department last night said they received no reports of accidents either in or near the city.

The only mishap was said to be a crushed radiator of an automobile cornered in the downtown district after the pep meeting.

Navy Man Admits Development of Faults in 'Certain Cruisers'

Destroyers Overweight, Lack Stability

Acting Secretary Reports Steps Taken To Correct Troubles

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—The navy officially admitted today that some of its newest destroyers lacked sufficient stability and that faults had developed in the construction of certain cruisers.

However, Charles Edison, acting secretary of the navy, said in response to an inquiry from Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) that measures already had been taken which are fully adequate to correct the unsatisfactory features.

The destroyers, Edison said, were found to be overweight and to lack the stability "considered necessary for satisfactory service operation." The steel stern posts of several 10,000 ton heavy cruisers of the Louisville-Chester class cracked, but they were replaced years ago, he explained.

Speaking of the destroyers, he said:

Peacetime Service

"It can be stated without reservation that they will be superior to the earlier types and that they will give years of valuable peacetime service and greater reliability and effectiveness in time of war."

The navy department's bureau concerned with shipbuilding and design have been revamped to "minimize future recurrences" of the difficulties, he added.

The statement was evoked by a letter from Vandenberg exposing an editorial in the Grand Rapids, Mich., Herald. This article referred to reports that the destroyers were so topheavy that they were in danger of capsizing when fuel oil was removed from the hulls.

The newspaper also noted reports that the new cruisers "shimmied" so violently that the stern-posts cracked. It called for an official statement to clear up rumors.

Not Serious

Contending that the "difficulties" are less serious than have been described, Edison said the last of these defective casings was replaced in 1934 on the cruiser Louisville, which since has often been used by President Roosevelt.

The difficulties developed during a tremendous warship building program that followed a period after the 1922 Washington naval treaty when shipyards were idle, Edison noted. Under these circumstances they were inevitable, officials have contended.

The destroyers to which Edison referred where 1,500-ton vessels of the Anderson class, official circles understood. Three out of 12 of these ships have been launched. They were planned as improvements over the previous Craven class which British experts had pronounced superior in many respects to the comparable intrepid class of the British navy and Japan's Sigure class.

With German armies along their borders, European observers visualized an imminent invasion of the two lowland countries, the Netherlands and Belgium. Should a new blitzkrieg be launched in that direction (indicated by black arrows in above map) it is also believed the German high command would create a diversion of exerting pressure against the Maginot line (indicated by white arrow). This might prevent France from rushing huge numbers of men to the defense of the lowland countries. Establishment of submarine and air bases on Holland's coast would be one of the objects of such a German drive.

'Wife Swap' Brings Prison

Two Men, Woman Convicted As Alabama Bigamists

RUSSELLVILLE, Ala., Nov. 10 (AP)—Two men and a woman were sentenced to prison terms for bigamy today for their parts in a wife swapping agreement under which two farm couples exchange, three to three-and-one-half children.

An appeal was filed immediately and all three were released under bond.

Those sentenced were: Will D. Johnson, 36, accused by the state of "instigating" the exchange, three to three and one-half years; Mrs. Della Brand, attractive 29-year-old brunette, two to two-and-one-half years; and Odell Brand, 32-year-old WPA worker, two to two-and-one-half years.

Mrs. Annie Fay Johnson, 29, the fourth principal, entered a plea of guilty at the start of the trial. Her sentence will be deferred until appeals have been heard in the other cases. She was a witness for the state.

Capone's Name Linked With Slaying of Race Track Head

CHICAGO, Nov. 10 (AP)—The name of Al Capone was injected today into the investigation of the slaying of Edward J. O'Hare, affluent president of the Sportsman's park race track.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief of the state's attorney's police, said there might have been some relation between the killing and reports that men engaged in enterprises once dominated by Capone had been solicited for contributions toward payment of the $20,000 balance of the former gang chief's $50,000 fine.

The $20,000 sum was paid to the clerk of the federal court here last week. It assured Capone's release from prison on Nov. 19 provided he received time off for good behavior.

The captain told reporters it was possible that O'Hare refused to contribute to the reported fund.

Capone was the original owner of the Sportsman's park track. At one time O'Hare managed the Hawthorne dog racing contest, another Capone venture. O'Hare became interested later in the Sportsman's track and dog ovals in Massachusetts and Florida.

Members of the Capone syndicate were hunted for questioning concerning the shotgun assassination of O'Hare late Wednesday.

Smith Spikes Rumors Of Arms Boost

By IRVING PERLMETER
WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Budget Director Harold D. Smith appealed today for "common sense" in resisting "extravagant" increases in national defense expenditures as a result of war hysteria.

He spiked as "wild" estimates emanating from some congressional sources that the United States might boost its defense spending next year at $3,000,000,000.

He said a moderate increase in the defense budget was to be expected, especially because of the cost of neutrality measures, but urged that the outlays be considered from a "common sense" viewpoint.

While declining to elaborate this idea, his remarks were interpreted to suggest gearing defense spending to "defense" needs instead of preparing for the remote possibility of being drawn into the war.

New Conflict Rise Over Ship Transfer

'I'm Opposed to It,' Declares Pittman; F.D.R.'s O. K. Expected

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—The proposal to transfer eight United States lines vessels to the Panama flag caused new disagreements in Roosevelt ranks today, but White House callers predicted that the president ultimately would approve the plan.

Meanwhile Mr. Roosevelt disclosed that he was working on far reaching program to afford relief to many of the thousands of seamen whose livelihood is threatened by the fact that the neutrality act bars American ships and American crews from the war zones. The program includes sending the seamen to training schools at government expense, giving them unemployment insurance and other relief.

Pittman Opposes

The flag transfer proposal, made by the United States Lines, drew from Rep. Rayburn, of Texas, house democratic leader, the flat statement "I'm opposed to it." Senator Pittman (D-Nev.), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee and leader of the fight for the new neutrality act, asserted that "our government should be supercautious in subjecting itself to any criticism, or even suspicion, of evasion of neutrality."

Previously Secretary Hull had opposed the plan, which would enable the ships to carry on trade with areas forbidden to American-flag vessels. The maritime commission has favored the proposal but has held up a final decision pending a verdict by Mr. Roosevelt.

No Legal Objections

Today the president called in three men for a discussion of the human elements of the problem after announcing that he saw no legal objections. The three were leaders of maritime labor—Joseph Curran, head of the National Maritime union (CIO), Joseph Ryan, of the International Longshoremen's association (AFL) and Matthew Dushane, of the Seafarers International union. After the conference, Curran, brawny former forecandle hand, said:

"There is a definite indication

Starnes Reports Acute Need For Coast Defenses

Rep. Starnes, (D-Ala.), who has just completed a 26,000-mile tour of army establishments, reported today "an acute need" for coast and anti-aircraft defenses "all along the Atlantic and gulf seaboard."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Rep. Starnes, (D-Ala.), who has just completed a 26,000-mile tour of army establishments, reported today "an acute need" for coast and anti-aircraft defenses "all along the Atlantic and gulf seaboard."

As a member of the house military appropriations subcommittee, Starnes has visited more than 100 army posts in the United States, Hawaii and Puerto Rico in the last 15 months.

The president "still thinks the transfer is the right thing to do," Ryan said, "and will o.k. it after satisfying himself" that to do so would not impinge upon the spirit of the neutrality law.

Heavy Corn Crop Spells '40 Reduction

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—An official estimate today that the United States corn crop would total 2,591,000,000 bushels made it virtually certain, federal farm officials said, that growers in the mid-western corn belt would be asked to reduce next year's plantings about 10 per cent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—An official estimate today that the United States corn crop would total 2,591,000,000 bushels made it virtually certain, federal farm officials said, that growers in the mid-western corn belt would be asked to reduce next year's plantings about 10 per cent.

The corn estimate, made by the agriculture department's crop reporting board on the basis of conditions on November 1, was 48,825,000 bushels larger than its forecast of a month ago. A crop of this size is 2 per cent larger than the 1938 production of 2,542,238,000 bushels and 12 per cent larger than the 10-year average of 2,309,674,000 bushels.

There already is a surplus of 561,000,000 bushels from previous years.

Officials said that to avoid accumulating additional surpluses, a smaller crop next year would be necessary.

Iowa's Estimate—
504,236,000 Bushels

DES MOINES, Nov. 10 (AP)—With most of the husking completed, Iowa's 1939 corn crop today was estimated at 504,236,000 bushels, the second largest of record.

Leslie M. Carl, federal agricultural statistician, said the average per acre yield was 51.5 bushels, a two-bushel jump over that of a month ago.

"The Private Lives of ELIZABETH AND ESSEX"

A Warner Bros.-First National Picture Starring Bette Davis and Errol Flynn. Screen Play by Norman Krasna and Aeneas Mackenzie. From the Stage Play by Maxwell Anderson. Produced by the Theatre Guild, Inc. Directed by Michael Curtiz.

Serialized by HARRY LEE

THE STORY THUS FAR: London, 1596. The Earl of Essex and his subordinates, Sir Walter Raleigh and Lord Howard are summoned before the Queen on their return from the successful storming of Cadix in Spain. Essex, with whom the Queen is notoriously infatuated, enraged when she elevates Raleigh and Howard instead of himself, protests angrily, and Elizabeth strikes him across the face. He leaves London, but when her armies are defeated in Ireland, she sends Bacon to recall him. When Bacon explains the intrigues going on in the court, Essex returns. He angers Raleigh and the two are crossing swords when Bacon parts them. Elizabeth pleads with Essex not to take command of her new army and go to Ireland to be killed, but his foes dare him and he vows to go. Elizabeth gives him her ring at parting to be used by him for her forgiveness if they wake up some morning and find themselves enemies.

CHAPTER V

"YOU'RE STILL ESSEX'S FRIEND, are you not, Master Courtyer!" the Queen asked, the moment that her wily courtyer had entered her room and shut the door.

"Why... yes, Madame!"

"He's a dangerous man to follow! He's no longer in my favor! Forget him! All friends of his are going straightway to the Tower! Are you... still... his friend?"

"Yes, Madame."

"You don't believe me, do you! ... Why?"

"If you intended to imprison me in the Tower, Your Majesty," he replied with a grim smile, "I'd be there now, and no talk about it!"

"Shrewd, aren't you! It's honesty I'm looking for! Oh, if I could only be sure of one honest voice! Tell me, Bacon, Essex couldn't fail me, could he? ... No. Then why hasn't he written me? I've written him my love time and time again! Tell me truly, bitter or not, why hasn't he answered?"

"Have you angered him?" asked Bacon softly, knowing he was treading on thin ice. "Have you sent him unwelcome orders? He is proud, you know!"

"I've cut off all revenues and supplies," she cried defiantly. "Ordered him to disband his forces! But I'm Queen still, and that he shall never take from me! I'm not broken yet, am I, Bacon?"

"No your Majesty, nor ever shall be!"

Again the name of Essex was on the frantic lips of London. He was even now riding toward Whitehall, followed by the remnant of his unfortunate army, and a shouting host of new retainers. "Up with Essex! Down with Elizabeth!" was the cry. "The Queen is dead! Long live the King!"

Elizabeth's courtiers informed her with great concern of the preservations that had been taken for her safety. Essex was all but at the castle gates, they told her. She laughed scornfully. "About which," she asked, "are you more distressed, your hides, or me? Dismiss the guards! Bid Essex enter!"

"They told me, Madame," Essex said, bowing low, "you would not see me!"

"I will see you!" she replied sharply, not daring to let her eyes rest upon him. "State your grievances if you have any! You bring an army with you, I understand! Didn't you receive my orders to disband?"

"I wrote you..."

"Yes, masterly letters!" she retorted, her face flushing with anger. "Brief... to the point... wasting no words! In short, nothing!"

"That is not true! I wrote you many times, giving you all details, asking your aid, your trust and love, and in return got nothing! No arms, no men, no money, no food! If you'd backed me up as I asked, I'd have beaten Tyrone and forced peace in Ireland in a month!"

"You wrote to me!"

"Not once but many times..."

"And had no letter from me?"

"None!"

"By heaven!" stormed Elizabeth. "If our letters were tampered with, there'll be heads lopped off in plenty here! ... My lords, I wish to speak to my lord Essex... here... alone!"

The members of the court filled solemnly from the throne room.

"What did you write to me, Robert?" Elizabeth asked tenderly.

"I wrote my love at first; then, when I didn't hear, I wrote you angrily... but always I ended by telling you I loved you! ... And you?"

"I, too, wrote my love... and God keep you safe; then, receiving no answer, I wrote heaven knows what madness, because I... I thought you faithless!"

Then, angrily, "You should never have gone to Ireland... I... I hated you... planned to put you to the tortures..."

"I have been tortured enough..."

"I can't think yet, darling..." she whispered, her eyes wet with tears. "Can't breathe... Put your arms around me..."

"Dearest one..."

"Can we ever believe again, Robert... Can it be as it used to be... Do you love me still?"

"Yes... but I must be honest with you! I brought my army here, partly from anger... mostly from love... but what made me do it really was something else... something stronger than myself..."

"I know... ambition... thirst for power..."

"The throne is yours by descent and possession, but if this were a free time... I'd sweep the country before me!"

"So... this is your love... You've never wanted me..."

"I do want you! I want power... yes... but not without you!"

"It has taken me many years of ruling England, my Essex," said the Queen bitterly, rising and clapping her hands four times, "to discover that a ruler must be friendless... without mercy... without love!"

When Captain Armistead appeared with six of the Royal Guard she said coldly:

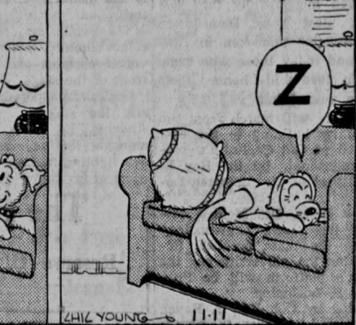

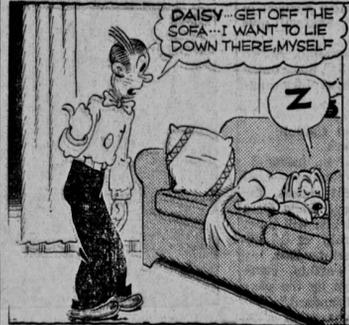

"Arrest my lord of Essex! Take him to the Tower!"

Twenty-First Armistice Day To Be Feted by Public Service

Frank Miles Will Be Main Speaker Today

Parade Will Start At 10:30 in Front Of Community Building

The Armistice of World War No. 1, celebrated 21 years ago today even more wildly than last night's "Beat Notre Dame" pep rally, remains unbroken in America, and today those who came back in 1918 will honor their buddies who didn't.

A parade will march from the Community building to the east approach of Old Capitol for services sponsored by the Roy L. Chopek post of the American Legion.

Frank Miles, Des Moines, editor of the "Iowa Legionnaire," will be the main speaker. Representing the university on the speaker's platform will be Prof. Walter F. Loehwing.

Headed by Col. Will J. Hayek and escorted by police, the parade will start at 10:30. Marchers will be the university band, the Iowa City Grenadiers junior drum and bugle corps, Pershing Rifles, American Legion, American Legion Auxiliary, Daughters of the Legion and the Red Cross.

From the Community building the parade will go north to Washington street, west to Clinton, and north to the east approach of Old Capitol.

While the colors are advanced, the band will play "America." Frank J. Mezik, chaplain of the local Legion post, will then offer the invocation.

Dr. George Maresh, Legion post commander, will preside at the services, in which the Legion, its auxiliary and the Veterans of Foreign Wars will take part.

At 11 o'clock a bomb will be the signal to face east in memory of the war dead. A minute later another bomb will be the cue for taps. A squad of national guardsmen will fire three rallies.

At the end of talks by Miles and Professor Loehwing, the band will play "The Star Spangled Banner," and the chaplain deliver the benediction.

After services American Legion members and their guests will dine in the Community building.

'A Midsummer Night's Dream' To Be Given in New Auditorium

The large auditorium in the new Iowa City high school building will have its first big production Tuesday when "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be presented.

Completely modern in every respect from acoustics to lighting, the auditorium will accommodate 1,047 persons. The acoustics were designed by John Leonard Hamilton, and enable one to hear clearly and distinctly from any part of the room.

The walls are neutral ivory color trimmed with blue. Blue velvet curtains are hung at the front of the stage.

Under the supervision of teachers, the stage is managed by students, Ed Oldis being stage manager this year and Bob Paraden lighting manager.

The stage is reputed to have the finest switchboard in any high school in Iowa. Designed by H. D. Sellman, it resembles the switchboard at the University theater. Besides the regular stage lighting, there are six white spots in the ceiling. These can be made any color by the use of colored crepe paper. They are reached by a catwalk.

From backstage to the catwalk and to the moving picture projection room above the rear of the auditorium is a telephone by which instructions can be given.

Serving double duty the front curtains can be either raised or drawn apart. Asbestos curtains and air vents assure aid in fire prevention.

Reserve Officers' Association Plays Role In National Policies

"Having a large percentage of the men connected with the Reserve Officers' association means a great deal in shaping national policies, especially in times of peace."

That, in the opinion of Capt. John C. Brauer of the college of dentistry, is one reason why a reserve officer should be connected with the Reserve Officers' association.

Captain Brauer, formerly connected with the Atlanta, Ga., branch, and latest member of the growing local organization, contended that every officer should be familiar with the modern military trends and developments. "This," he said, "can be effectively accomplished by active membership in an organization such as the Reserve Officers' association."

The Iowa City association was formed in 1935 and is an active chapter of the national organization which was formed 17 years ago. The national association functions through departments and chapters in every state and all the territorial possessions of the United States.

Dr. E. C. Patton, secretary of the chapter, explained that the object of the R. O. A. is to support and assist the United States in the development and execution of a military policy that shall provide for adequate defense.

Dr. Patton pointed out that the association believes this to be the surest and most economical insurance against future wars.

Any man holding a reserve commission in the army of the United States is eligible for membership. All former regular officers of the army who had honorable discharges may become associate members.

The Iowa City chapter has a membership of 50. The chapter meets on alternate Mondays at the medical laboratories building. A guest speaker at each meeting usually deals with pertinent topics of national defense.

The national organization keeps in touch with new innovations through its monthly magazine, "The Reserve Officer." The magazine keeps the officer informed of changes in the army regulations, current military topics and war department policies. It is the only publication devoted entirely to the interests of the Officers' Reserve corps, members claim.

The local chapter will sponsor a defense day program in Iowa City in February. Each year the association presents a saber to the outstanding man in the university R. O. T. C.

Maj. Alden Jacobson is the president of the Iowa City chapter. Lieut. John Goltman is vice-president.

Judge Gaffney Gives Schedule For Session

Judge James P. Gaffney issued the fourth district court law assignment for the September term yesterday. Four cases comprise the assignment, scheduled for hearing next week.

The cases will include James Lacina against Henry Willenbrock, Tuesday at 9 a.m.; John Herlein against John Harmsen, Wednesday at 9 a.m.; McGillan against Roberts, Thursday at 9 a.m., and the Rettenmeyer-Baldwin case the same day at 2 p.m.

Volunteers Needed Now Red Cross Wants Knitters To Make Sweaters For Poles

Mrs. Martin Peterson, executive chairman of the Iowa City Red Cross, announced yesterday that volunteer knitters are needed on the production committee for its work in Europe. Members of the committee, headed by Mrs. L. E. Clark, are at the present time knitting sweaters for the Polish refugees.

Six members of the committee are knitting 20 sweaters for men, women and children and a dozen dresses for women and children. All the work is done at home.

Mrs. Peterson pointed out that all the knitting must be finished by Dec. 20, ready for shipping to the midwestern headquarters at St. Louis, Mo., where they will be sent abroad by Jan. 1. Volunteers are asked to contact Mrs. Clark, 1508 S. Lucas street, it was announced.

K. McGuire Files Divorce Petition

Kenneth McGuire filed a petition in district court yesterday asking for a divorce from Claire McGuire on the grounds of desertion.

They were married at Cody, Wyo., in August, 1937.

Thomas Rowley Files Petition Asking Damages

Thomas O. Rowley filed a petition in district court yesterday asking for judgment of $19,233 against the Rock Island Motor Transit company for injuries received when he crashed into the rear of the parked truck of the defendant.

Negligence on the part of the truck driver is charged in the petition. The truck was allegedly parked on a main traveled portion of the highway.

The accident occurred near West Liberty last March.

Company Files Motion To Set Aside Verdict

Great American Insurance company, which brought suit against Eldon Miller and lost their request for judgment of $800, filed a motion in district court yesterday asking that the jury verdict be set aside and a date set for new trial.

The petition charges that the evidence shows that the defendant was guilty of negligence in the operation of his truck.

Miller's truck turned over and burned, and goods insured by the Great American Insurance company was destroyed.

Bernice Huntsinger Files Divorce Suit In District Court

Bernice Huntsinger filed a suit for divorce in district court yesterday from Alvon Huntsinger on grounds that the defendant was guilty of such "cruel and inhuman treatment as to endanger the life and health of the plaintiff."

The couple was married May 29, 1935, at Marengo. Mrs. Huntsinger is also asking to be awarded the care and custody of her minor child, according to the petition. She also seeks alimony for the child's maintenance, "and further equitable relief as may seem just to court."
