Talking Leads To Agreement

ONCE AGAIN the council table has proved its superiority over the battle field.

An auditorium full of students and townspeople gathered Wednesday evening in Macbride hall, expecting to hear a hotly-contested debate on the announced subject, "Shall the United States follow a policy of political and military isolation with respect to European nations?"

The visiting English debaters were anticipated to attempt—probably subtly, but still attempt—to show why the United States should enter the war on the British side. The Iowa team, as typical Americans, were expected to tell the English students, once and for all, why we should not go to war. It promised to be a "natural"—a debate in which the opponents, as representatives of separate nations, were poles apart in their beliefs.

No such thing happened. As the discussion proceeded, and each side presented its views—the views of its nation—it became evident that the teams agreed on the fundamental issues. The English didn't ask that the United States join in the war. Apparently, they didn't want an alliance at all. They were satisfied if they could buy arms from us. We have already lifted the arms embargo to sell them arms, the Iowa debaters agreed that this was the proper policy, and that point was settled.

The next point was almost as easy. The United States, said the Englishmen, should have the right to decide whether we would sell on a cash-and-carry basis or on credit. Congress has decided it, the English are satisfied, and there is no disagreement there.

The debate Wednesday night was good. The English debaters lived up to their reputations for flexible wit and brilliant oratory. The Iowans acquitted themselves very well. But what had been forecast as a debate of natural dissensions, was actually a discussion of essential agreements.

Those essential agreements would never have been known if the two parties concerned had not gotten together to talk the matter over. They might have called each other names at long distance for years. They might even have engaged in a private war over some misunderstood minor issue.

But they didn't. They "talked it out"—and agreed.

Wednesday night, it came to light that one of the first Englishmen to speak at Iowa as a representative of his country, now has a responsible position in the British government.

Perhaps then, it is not too much to hope, that the members of the two international teams that found the rostrum so effective in discovering essential agreement, may some day unite in substituting the council table for the battle field, as the basis for settling disputes between nations.

The 'P' Marches On

ANOTHER edition of the "I"—the Iowa corn monument—is out. The great symbol again lights up the traditions of the years.

It welcomes the old grads back to renew old friendships and make new acquaintances, returned to watch another football game, to pay their respects to their alma mater.

It leads the students, stands for something tangible about Homecoming, puts life in their blood and courage in their hearts, binds them to Iowa.

It symbolizes the devotion of the professors and university officials, encourages them to give their lives to an ideal, to educate the youth of the state and then puts a catch in their throat as the youth return at Homecoming.

The "I"—the corn monument of the University of Iowa — IS HOME COMING.

Park At The Stadium

So you want to take your car out to the stadium. Well go right ahead. You may get out first and drive straight back up to town—but the odds are a hundred to one that you won't.

There will be well over 40,000 persons at the game. There will be well over 2,500 cars parked in the parking spaces near the stadium. The streets will be jammed with parked cars for blocks on every side. You can park your car out there and take a chance on getting out—but 25 patrolmen and 56 assorted policemen are going to make you stay in line.

You can take your car out to the stadium, but you will be smarter if you leave it home and walk out. You will get out there sooner and back sooner. If you don't believe that ask someone who parked near the stadium last week.

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

WINSTON CHURCHILL

—is by all odds the most colorful, picturesque character yet to come to the fore on the Allied side of this war.

Elder son of Lord Randolph Churchill and his American wife, Jennie Jerome that was, Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill was born Nov. 30, 1874. He apparently came into the world with a love of war and warlike doings—an honest enough heritage if so, since Mr. Churchill is a descendant of John Churchill, the mighty Duke of Marlborough (1650-1722), whose four great victories at Blenheim, Oudenarde, Ramillies and Malplaquet in the wars of the Spanish Succession are among the military crown jewels of British history.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is not a warrior by birth, indeed, we've doubted since the beginning that he went willingly into this war. But Churchill is; and he has been a fighting man off and on since he attained his majority.

Entering the British Army after graduation from Sandhurst, which would be Britain's West Point, Churchill's most picturesque military service was performed in the Boer War. He pulled off a thrilling escape from some Boers who had captured him; and he didn't fail to let the folks back home know of his exploits, via war correspondence written for the London Morning Post.

Of Mr. Churchill's courage there never has been any question. Of his abilities as a tactician there has been a good deal.

But Churchill's two big exploits in the World War were egregious failures. We refer to the Antwerp expedition of October, 1914, and to the Dardanelles campaign of February-December, 1915.

Some military authorities have been kind enough to agree with Mr. Churchill's longstanding insistence that both of these strokes were soundly conceived and would have succeeded if they had been carried out in some other way. The fact remains that they were both failures, and tragic failures at that, from the Allied point of view.

Churchill resigned in November, 1915, disgusted with the way his colleagues in the Government were running their end of the war, and went roaring off to France to take command of the 6th Royal Scots Fusiliers.

After the war, he served in various British Government offices, making his best record as Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's Chancellor of the Exchequer—usually a dissenter, never a pussy-footer, always a forceful and prolific writer of memoirs, histories, biographies and newspaper and magazine articles.

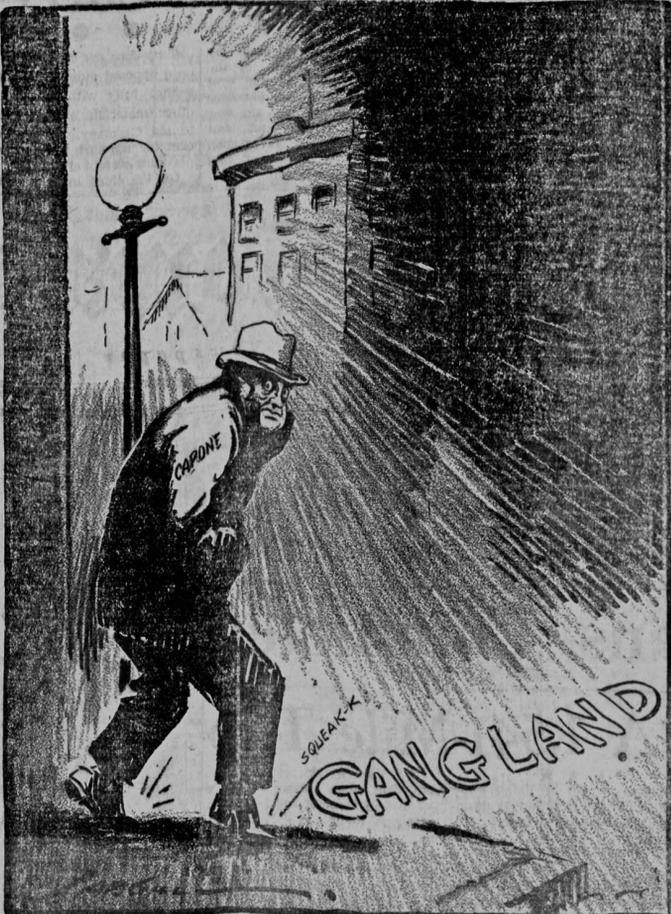

When the second European war in twenty-five years broke out, there seems to be no room for doubt that Churchill welcomed it. He had been calling for months for an end to Chamberlain's appeasement policy.

Back in his old job at the Admiralty, he set about re-establishing the British blockade, and seems to have done an excellent job up to now. It may well be that this war will settle down to one of starvation, since, from the bleachers at least, it looks as if the Allies would be fools to start an offensive against the Westwall and as if Hitler would be a jack-ass to start one against the Maginot Line.

Where Churchill will finally rank in British history we don't know. He's a fire-eater, and he is rapidly edging Chamberlain out of the limelight. We distrust fire-eaters and extremists as a rule; but in times of excitement most people go for them, and sometimes they make good.

'PRISON SHOES'

Stewart Says Chief Justice Hughes' Judgment Wasn't 'Punk,' But History Is So Eccentric

By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist

To read the state department's current account of it, Charles Evans Hughes, now chief justice of the federal supreme court, but state secretary in 1924, appears to have made a great mistake then, in discouraging Brazil from strengthening its navy, as it wanted to do. If the Brazilians had gone ahead with their program, the conclusion is that today they'd have been in much better shape than they are, to help the United States in the latter's patrol of Pan-America's Atlantic neutrality zone.

It's a sound conclusion all right, but it does Justice (and ex-Secretary) Hughes considerably less than justice. Times aren't now what they were in 1924. Charles Evans would have needed to be a good bit of a prophet to see ahead 15 years in this rapidly changing era.

In 1924 I was just back from a prolonged residence in Brazil and Argentina and know, therefore, something of what I'm talking about.

How It Happened: It happened like this: Brazil and Argentina are Latin-America's two major republics. They never have been very friendly. They adjoin and there long had existed more or less of a war threat between them.

The world conflict of 1914-19 had recently ended. "Never again" was the watchword in this country. The air here was saturated with disarmament sentiment.

At this juncture Brazil took a notion to reconstruct its navy. It needed experts to boss the job. It appealed to Uncle Sam to provide them. The prospect looked like a favorable one for us to make a barrelful of money by taking on the contract. Accordingly, we sent a naval mission to Rio de Janeiro to supervise the undertaking.

However, at that precise moment we were exerting ourselves to the utmost to persuade ourselves and other nations to cut down on war preparations. It certainly seemed inconsistent in us, just then, to have a naval mission in Rio, helping Brazil to arm against Argentina. There was a plenty of Yankee criticism of such a policy. It assuredly was justified in the light of 1924's calculations.

In 1924's Light Secretary Hughes evidently thought so.

He told Brazil that we'd recall our naval mission if it proceeded with an obviously belligerent policy.

This correspondence wasn't made public. It would have been un diplomatic.

Only in the last few days has the state department opened its files, and revealed it, presumably with a view of putting Charles Evans Hughes "in bad," considering 1939's conditions.

Brazil was squelched, anyway. It would have been better for Justice Hughes, in the long run, if he'd told his story earlier, but it wouldn't have been popular then. He'd have given the impression that he was choking off a big South American warship-building program—with the United States getting the profits. He'd have been accused of being an anti-profiler. Now he's accused of having made a poor 1939 neutrality bet.

As of 1924, Hughes was a bad better in 1939. As of 1939 he was a bad better in 1924. It isn't because his judgment was punk. It's because history is so eccentric.

AROUND THE TOWN

ALL POSSIBLE WORLDS: If the big-shots of the world only drank more coffee. We hadn't been cofeing half an hour Wednesday night when we discovered we agreed on issues, Britishers and Iowans.

Vic Parkinson was telling about this fight. It's not as serious as the American newspapers say, not in a military way. The English have a slogan, he said, "Trust in Gort and keep your pamphlets dry." Gort's the propaganda man.

The thing he's watching most hopefully is only indirectly connected with the fighting. He wants to know what'll happen to those thousands of children taken from London's east side to the country.

Kids who've lived in a one-room flat, played in alleys and gutters now in the country drinking milk and eating buttered bread. What's going to happen when they go back and, more important, when they start growing up and remember those months (maybe years) in the country and recall that everybody doesn't have to live as they do?

"It may have all sorts of interesting social reverberations."

From there the talk drifted to politics, a slightly more common drift in English universities than in our own. Bean, who's 25 and who, someone said, looks like an English Abe Lincoln, confessed he doesn't belong to a political party yet.

If he did, it would be the British Labor party. I confessed my own leanings were "liberal new deal."

Then we got down to business. I agreed that had I been a Britisher I'd have supported Neville Chamberlain's war declaration on the morning of Sept. 3.

He'd opposed every other Chamberlain action for three years. He'd been to Spain, and he agreed in terming it the "greatest sellout of democracy in a hundred years."

He defied the Austrian giveaway, and he wept at the demise of Czechoslovakia a year ago in September.

He agreed this is Chamberlain's war as well as Hitler's.

Yet when Bean returns to Europe (possibly via the Atlantic Clipper) it'll be to the Maginot line. Bean believes this is a double-war for Englishmen who think it's a fight against the kind of barbarism Hitler represents, and it's a war against the Chamberlain and Daladier reactionaries who'd sell democracy out for a counterfeit ha'penny piece.

The reactionaries may win both ways. Bean has no more hope than the rest of us that a permanently peaceful Europe will come out of this scrap. Restoring Czechoslovakia minus Sudetenland, giving national freedom to Poland—minus the slice Russia took back, and providing for the gradual independence of Austria, those are mere geographic adjustments.

Mussolini and Francisco Franco will still be around waiting for war.

Probably, Bean and I agreed, there's more chance for justice with a victorious England than a winning Germany.

Is it possible to win both fights? That, to all minds around the restaurant table, is the dilemma of modern democracy.

It's a tough question. Roosevelt is right. "Our generation may nobly save or nearly lose the last best hope on earth."

In the United States we're lucky. We have a geography that lets us breathe for a time.

Bean and Parkinson agreed that probably the United States will not need to go to war—unless we bring it on ourselves. We will, if we recognize our place as a world power, need to go to peace.

A pretty dark picture, probably—and yet. Well, this year's English debaters were happier than last year's. As one of them put it, "The war was a kind of relief. It was

TUNING IN with D. Mac Showers

GRANTLAND RICE... will give another of his famous football forecasts tonight on the Cities Service concert over the NBC-Red network at 7 o'clock.

SO FAR this season, his batting average on Iowa has been low. He's predicted them to win only one when they did and named them the loser in the Michigan game.

OTHER GAMES: he's favored the other teams just as he did last week when he said Notre Dame would win by a hair. But they didn't.

Maybe it wouldn't be fair to the man, but our hopes might be raised if he picks Iowa to lose the Minnesota game here tomorrow. That might end in a reversal, too. We all hope so. It'll mean another all-day pep meeting Monday.

LUCILLE MANNERS: on the same program will sing "Sweet Song of Long Ago," "Alleluia," "Can't Help Loving that Man" and, with Ross Graham, "Some Day." Graham will also sing "There Is a Layde" and the chorus will sing "Viking Song."

FRANK BLACK'S orchestra will offer other instrumental arrangements for both ensemble and entire orchestra.

ABE LYMAN: on his "Waltz Time" program over the NBC-Red network at 8 o'clock, will feature Frank Munn singing "Tomorrow Night," "Two Hearts are Better than One" and the choir will sing "On the Trail to Home Sweet Home" and "I Can't Tell Why I Love You."

THE ORCHESTRA will offer "The Touch of Your Hand," "Fresh Flowers," "Where Was I" and "Loveland in the Winter Time."

ELEANOR HOLM, star of the recently closed Aquacade at the New York world's fair and two-day bride of Billy Rose, the showman, will make her first guest appearance before a microphone in many months when she appears as a guest on the George Jessel "Celebrity Program" over the NBC-Red network tonight at 8:30.

Others to chat: with Jessel will be Ray Perkins, popular radio comedian, and Peter the Great, who eats nails, pulls automobiles with his teeth, and does many other strong man tricks. Music is by Peter Van Steeden's orchestra with vocals by the Merry Macs.

The Group Theater will return to the Kate Smith hour to present a radio adaptation of their new Broadway success, "Thunder Rock," over CBS tonight at 7 o'clock.

"A PLAN FOR Murder," an original story by Max Marcin, will be dramatized as another in the "Perfect Crime" series over the "Johnny Presents" over CBS tonight at 8 o'clock. Music will be provided by Johnny Green's orchestra with vocals by the Swing Fourteen and Beverly.

GUY LOMBARDO and his "sweetest music this side of heaven" will present another in his series of radio shows tonight at 9 o'clock on the NBC-Red network.

SAMMY KAYE: and his orchestra may be heard tonight over CBS stations from 10:30 to 11 o'clock. He's recommended here as one who'll give you a half-hour's good entertainment simply because we think he has a really good band.

AMONG THE BEST: For Friday 6:30—Professor Quiz, CBS. 7—Cities Service concert, NBC-Red. 7—Kate Smith, CBS. 8—Johnny Presents, CBS. 8—Plantation party, variety show, NBC-Blue. 8—Waltz Time, NBC-Red. 8:30—George Jessel's variety show, NBC-Red. 9—Grand Central station, drama, CBS. 9—Guy Lombardo, NBC-Red. 10—Dance music, NBC, CBS, MBS.

The contest between the New York and the San Francisco world's fairs is ended, it seems, in one of those disappointing ties. They both lost money.

Medical magazine predicts 200,000,000 colds in the U. S. this winter. Get your sniffing over early and avoid the rush.

And then there was the fellow who married an expert interior decorator because he thought that meant she was a swell cook.

Beau and Parkinson agreed that probably the United States will not need to go to war—unless we bring it on ourselves. We will, if we recognize our place as a world power, need to go to peace.

East Eleven Invades Hawklet Camp Tonight

Visitors Take Favorite's Role

Powerhouse Line, Fast Backfield, In Unbeaten East Team

East high of Des Moines invades Shrader field, the nest of the Hawklets, tonight, and old man hawk, Coach Herb Cormack, has prepared his brood to repel any invasion, whether by air or on the ground.
 A triumph over the Raiders would just about make an otherwise disappointing season a successful one for Cormack. East is billed by high school critics as the outstanding prep eleven in the state. Undefeated so far this year, East has only one blotch on its record, a 7-7 deadlock with Dowling.

Hoosiers Take In A Movie

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 16 (AP)—Indiana university's football team got in a bit of practice today that should be invaluable to the boys who hold down the bench in the Hoosiers' game with Michigan State at East Lansing Saturday. Coach Bo McMillin took his squad to a movie in Indianapolis.

Maroons Work On Offense

CHICAGO, Nov. 16 (AP)—Chicago polished its offensive for the Oberlin game with a dummy scrimmage against the freshmen today. Lou Letts handled the passing assignment while Johnny Davenport and Bob Wasem took charge of the running attack.

Buckeye Squad Takes Scrimmage

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 16 (AP)—Coach Francis Schmidt had his speediest reserves trying to break through the Ohio State varsity line today in preparation for meeting here Saturday an Illinois backfield composed of one of the fastest quartets in the Western conference.

Delts Win Over Betas 25-19 In Touchball Tilt; Whetstone Wins

Two championship games in the fraternity league, one in class A and the other in class B, were played yesterday afternoon in the intramural touch football tournament.
 In the class A division, Delta Tau Delta won a close game from Beta Theta Pi 25-19.
 Beta Theta Pi was in the lead at the half as Lind completed two touchdown passes to Clark for its first 13 points.
 In the second period, the winners started a rally by Manush heaving a long pass to Collins to tie the game at 13-13. In the closing minutes of the game, Manush passed to Youker to win the game for Delta Tau Delta.

Nile Kinnick In Running For Trophy

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—Tom Harmon's last two games for Michigan this season, against Pennsylvania at Philadelphia Saturday and against Ohio State the following week, will give the Michigan halfback a chance to get back in the running for the Heisman memorial trophy. The trophy is awarded each December by New York's Downtown athletic club to the outstanding football player of the year.

Petersen Will Start for Badgers

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 16 (AP)—Coach Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin announced today that Bob Petersen definitely would start at left halfback in Saturday's football game here with Purdue. Half a dozen men have been used at the position this season. John Doyle also was listed as a definite starter at center.

End Careers as Hawklets

Invade Hawklet Track Tomorrow

The Iowa track squad will play host to a group of Minnesota distance runners tomorrow morning in an exhibition two-mile team race. Coach Bresnahan points out that this is but an exhibition

Run and is not a scheduled inter-university contest.

For weeks now the men on both varsity and freshman teams have been preparing for this, their first feel of Big Ten competition, and have been working hard at the distance test to be in top condition for the exhibition, a part of the Homecoming day celebration.

Run and is not a scheduled inter-university contest.

The man expected to give the Minnesota boys their biggest fight and who has every chance of taking the individual winning honors is Cameron Campbell, who is returning to track this season after an absence of a year. Campbell is a varsity letterman who has turned in many fine two mile races in the past and should do well tomorrow. Merlin Erickson, another letterman entered is a big threat for the first place spot.

PRESSBOX PICKUPS
 By OSCAR HARGRAVE
 For those who decry the building of good football teams on the grounds that athletics, especially big-time athletics, take the book from the student, the student from the classroom and the player from the student body, there might be an answer in the results here on the Iowa campus.

It is agreed, with nary a dissenting voice, that Dr. Edward Anderson, a medico with the reputation of a football genius, has definitely put Iowa on the football map. He has turned out a team with all the stuff we've ever seen hereabouts and enough extra to drive the average coach and team insane. But, lest anyone feel that scholastic averages fall with each boost to Iowa's spot in the Big Ten standings, we take a firm stand here and now and state that we can see no appreciable decline in the intelligence ratio of the school or of the team.

The view that has been often conjured up of a football coach with a winning complex is probably something like this — an immense figure of a man who shouts loudly every time a player is forced to take an exam, who sends orders to instructors to pass his star fullback and who gathers a squad of semi-professional bruisers who collect their pay weekly.
 Now, take a look at the Iowa squad that has won five of six games. There is one member of the some 30 members who will probably rate among the top three per cent. There are others who rate far above the average and none rate very far beneath the middle of the student body in the matter of grades. They can't and still be eligible.

This rating doesn't come about through the medium of gift grades either. We haven't yet found Anderson putting on the pressure to have a player slide over the doubtful courses. If there is any pressure, it is applied to the opposite end — to send the player to the library that he may pass the course. In fact, the coaches have spent some amount of time insuring that team members actually do study, and class schedules are respected — even to the extent that practices start with much less than a full squad.

It's not entirely beside the point either to quote Anderson to the effect that every player on his team should be a quarterback. That much can easily be gathered by viewing a couple of Iowa games. There is no place on an Anderson team for a player who can't add three and three. It takes a student to play the football you see around here these days and, if the records are checked, Anderson is trying to develop students.

Iowa disappointed the west coast, the Los Angeles Herald says. Southern Cal, pride of the entire far west, meets Notre Dame Nov. 25 and coast fans wanted an unbeaten and untied Notre Dame to meet the Trojans. They think, in view of Southern Cal's victories on the coast, that the Irish are in for a whipping by Howard Jones' eleven and it would be a greater honor to whip an unbeaten outfit.

Lone Girl-Student Gets First Flying Lesson

'Thrilled - Scared to Death,' But Stick of Gum Breaks Airplane Fright

By BETTY DAUGHTON
"I'm so thrilled—and I'm scared to death!"
With this excited exclamation at the Iowa City municipal airport yesterday morning, Betty Johnson, A3 of Red Oak, became the first of the students in the new civilian pilot training program to receive a lesson in actual flying. Miss Johnson is the only girl enrolled in the course.

PAUL SHAW BETTY JOHNSON

Having been "up" only once before in her life, she confessed to a touch of "airplane fright." However, a stick of gum which one of her fellow students thoughtfully gave her just before she and her instructor, Paul Shaw, "took off," gave her something to concentrate on besides her fright, she remarked afterwards.

A transfer from Red Oak Junior college, Miss Johnson says she decided to enter the course on the spur of the moment. She and her 49 "club" companions have been attending preliminary ground training lectures for several weeks. It was not until yesterday that permission for actual flight instruction was received from Washington.

About 20 students are starting training this week and the additional 30 will probably begin very soon, Prof. H. O. Croft of the college of engineering and director of the program, said yesterday.

The first assignment of students to Mr. Shaw for training includes: J. A. Collinge, A4 of Beloit, Wis.; C. D. Spangler, A4 of Mt. Pleasant; J. W. Welt, A3 of Iowa City; B. L. Hoien, A2 of Ringsted; J.

D. Keil, G of Williamsburg. J. Frederickson, E3 of Clear Lake, and Lester Mellin, A4 of Rock Island, Ill.

Each student receives eight hours of dual instruction, followed by one additional hour of dual instruction and three hours of solo flying; then four hours of dual instruction and seven hours of solo. The course is concluded with a minimum of four hours of dual and eight hours of solo, ending when the student obtains a private pilot certificate or has received a total of 50 hours of flying time.

bridge and the interurban crossing.

Firearms Exhibit
A constant attraction throughout the morning will be the modern and antique firearms on exhibit in the armory museum.

The Scottish Highlanders will bring social activities in the armory to a climax following the game when they serve coffee and doughnuts to the university band, the Minnesota band, the pontoniers, the Homecoming committee, and the Pershing Riflemen.

'Iowa's Turpentine Forest' Window Display in College of Pharmacy Symbolizes Gridiron Schedule

A novel and appropriate way for the college of pharmacy to observe the Homecoming week-end is demonstrated in the display installed yesterday in the window of the college.

A background of painted trees, labeled "Iowa's Turpentine Forest," symbolized the seven games on the Iowa gridiron schedule this year. On the five games that have been played there are signs telling that the yield or harvest has been of good quality and collected excepting that of Michigan when it was not collected and of poor quality, reflecting the Hawkeyes' one defeat this season.

In the center front is a large actual specimen of a rosin tree properly tapped for the flow of sap and fully explained by a large placard below clearly outlining the several steps in the gathering, preparation of various types, forms of rosin and the uses for it.

The Northwestern and Minnesota games, not yet played, are labeled "to be collected," a reflection of the pharmacy college's enthusiasm for victory.

On the left of the display is a large gold "I" carrying the welcome, "Hi, Homecomers, Hi." On the right is another "I" that declares "We're out to collect." On the floor of the showcase are various labeled forms of resin and on cards are the badges for Homecoming dating back to 1924.

These labels indicate that Iowa has played Minnesota eight times on Homecoming, counting this Saturday's game, and has won but one game; that in 1924, though the scores for other opponents have not been so discouraging.

Those who installed that case were John Houth, Max Memler, J. Blaine Beardsley, Eldred Maloney and Norman R. Johnson.

Dean Kay Sees 32 Homecoming Games Says Past Games With Minnesota, Notre Dame, Illinois Most Vivid

By HELEN HAMILTON
For the last 32 years, each Homecoming game has found Iowa with a 12-man team for none of the players are more enthusiastic, more determined to win or more loyal to the black and gold than Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts, who has maintained a perfect attendance record at the Iowa Homecoming games since coming to the university.

Nor has Mrs. Kay missed a game; and the two are eagerly looking forward to the clash with the Minnesota Gophers tomorrow, tomorrow.

Vitaly interested in all the athletics at Iowa, Dean Kay retains some vivid memories of the great games he has seen through the years. Three in particular stand out. The game we won from Minnesota in a spectacular try for the extra point after the hard fought clash was tied 6 to 6. Coach Howard Jones, now at University of Southern California, but then mentor for the Hawkeyes, after the late Oran Pape made the touchdown, sent in Irving Nelson for the kick. In a tense moment with the stands breathless, Nelson kicked and the point was good! He was immediately retired from the field and that one kick was the only thing he did in the whole game but it proved to be the margin between victory and a tie.

Iowa Booster

George F. Kay

The 1921 game, the last Notre Dame game before last Saturday's tilt, was another thriller when the valiant Hawkeyes charged through to defeat the mighty Irish in an amazing upset. This was the team that was captained by one Eddie Anderson, now popularly known as the Hawkeye coach.

The third game the Dean remembers was the time that Iowa beat the thundering Illini when the mighty Red Grange was their driving spirit. "Less than two minutes after the kick-off, Red Grange had run the entire length of the field for a touchdown, yet we finally beat them!" the Dean recalled with a smile.

From his personal observation, the Dean would say that the three players he remembers most vividly are Aubrey Devine, Gordon Locke and Joe Laws. Though he hastened to add that these three have many other Hawkeye compatriots, who were just as outstanding, these three seem to have remained with him the longest.

The unflinching loyalty that the Dean has displayed is a challenge to the other Iowa fans and when the boys trot out onto the field tomorrow, he'll be rooting for them with increased vigor.

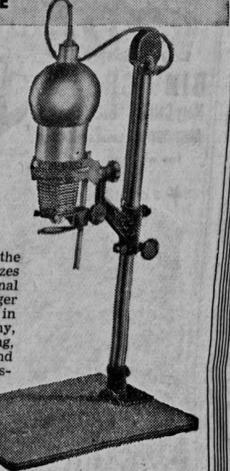

The inevitable question about the prospects for the Minnesota game brought out an emphatic approval of the team as he said, "To be sure, I'm hoping that Iowa wins tomorrow and my confidence is based on the fact that we have a remarkably well-trained, integrated, cooperative team of iron men, poised and alert, which will play better than Minnesota's best!"

Can any fan say more?

Hawkeye Highlights

Minnesotans report that the delegation from the Twin Cities will be the largest contingent ever to follow the Gopher football team . . . upwards of 6,000, along with the crack Minnesota band, which will join with the Iowans in spectacular halftime maneuvers.

Iowa never has beaten a Minnesota team coached by Bernie Bierman . . . the last Iowa win, in 1929, was over Gophers tutored by Doc Spears.

Some of the stations of the Mutual network will take the second half of the Iowa-Minnesota game . . . last week the same plan was followed . . . officials report that the broadcast last week from WOR in New York city resulted in sidewalk traffic jams, as fans listened over store and taxi radios.

Radio, newsreel, and newspaper coverage for the Minnesota game will be practically as large as last week . . . there will be six different radio versions . . . two newsreel companies . . . writers from about 20 large midwestern papers . . . as well as 40 of the 46 Iowa dailies.

Every member of Minnesota's probable starting lineup is from Minnesota . . . except "Sanny" Franck of Davenport. . . Iowa has scored 110 points in opponents' 75. . . Minnesota has 112 to 63 . . . but Gophers made more than half of their points against weak Arizona.

Knotholders won't be disappointed. . . Iowa officials decided it wouldn't be fair to bar them. . . so look for 7,000 to 10,000 enthusiastic young folks of high and elementary schools.

Wildcats In Good Shape

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 16 (AP)—Expressing satisfaction over the excellent physical condition of his squad, Coach Lynn Waldorf put his Northwestern football players through a long drill on pass defense today in preparation for Saturday's game with Notre Dame at South Bend. Tackle Alf Baum, suffering from a tooth infection, is the only player not in shape for the Irish battle.

Trip Home--

In the end, "I did my only grandstanding that day," Jewell said, "and according to the rules, I couldn't do it today."

He explained how he knocked down a punt from the opposing team, then picked it up and ran the length of the field for a touchdown.

In those days, Jewell explained, the teams changed goals after every touchdown. There was a strong wind from the north that day blowing down across Old Iowa field.

"We were against it," he said, "when I made that touchdown which changed the score from 12 to 13, Iowa's favor, to 12 to 19. Then we changed goals and the final touchdown was easy."

He's looking forward to a great game tomorrow. "I want to see that Iowa team win," he said, "especially from Minnesota."

"I've got a ticket right on the 50-yard line," he said, "and I'll be right out there rooting for that team."

So if the Notre Dame defeat did anything for Iowa, it at least will make the 1939 Homecoming a huge success so far as attendance is concerned.

And John J. Jewell of Helena, Mont., will be among the best supporters of the Iowa team.

'On Iowa' Born Back in 1904

When several thousand students and alumni join in one of the largest mass meetings in university history tonight, the chances are that the radio air waves will carry out to the ears of an Iowa grad of 1904 in Texas a lusty version of the university rouser song he did so much to put across on the Iowa campus.

It was exactly 20 years ago this Homecoming that "On Iowa," the university's most popular rouser song, went on sale for the first time in Iowa City. It was then two years old. Written by a Waterloo lawyer for a $250 contest prize offered by the Chicago Alumni association of the university for the "best strictly University of Iowa song," it had lost to the now comparatively little-known "Iowa, University Iowa."

Of the mass meeting before the Iowa-South Dakota game in 1919 at which the song made its debut, The Daily Iowan said, "It was not well attended." The song, which was destined to ring from the lips of Iowa grads for years to come, was pronounced "good." Although the "Iowa Corn Song" is often mislabeled the official song of the university, this, according to Prof. C. B. Richter, leader of the university band, is Iowa's most representative rouser song.

On Iowa,
On Iowa; Proudly at the fore,
On Iowa, on forevermore.
Ev'ry loyal son will give a rousing toast to you

By LAYTON HURST

Ev'ry loyal daughter loves you true,
On Iowa, with your wealth untold
A heritage to us you did unfold,
Love of family, love of friend,
Love of country too,
Makes us proud for what we stand,
Our dear Old Gold.

Who, wah, wah; Who, wah, wah,
IOWA! IOWA!
Who, wah, wah; Who, wah, wah,
I-O-W-A.

"Iowa Fights," another of the university's most popular pep songs, was written by Law at approximately the same time and published for Homecoming in 1919.

Iowa Fights
Iowa fights for the strength of our nation,
Iowa fights with the brave and the true,
Iowa fights for this great university,
Iowa fights for her sons and daughters, too,
Iowa fights when the wrong is prevailing,
Iowa fights when she must preserve her rights,
And when we hear the call,
We will answer, one and all,
IOWA FIGHTS! IOWA FIGHTS!
IOWA FIGHTS!
"Iowa, On to Victory," Iowa's third popular rouser song, was written by J. E. Kultti, director of Premiere School of Music in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1936, at the time when he entered it in a contest sponsored by the board of directors of the State University of Iowa Alumni association. Fifty-three songs had been entered for the $100.

Last but not least of Iowa's songs and the first to be written was "Old Gold," which is symbolic of the school to its students in a quieter and more deeply emotional way than any rouser song. The words were written by the late John C. Parish, professor of history at the Los Angeles extension of the University of California, as a senior in the college of liberal arts.

Set to the tune of "Fair Harvard," it won a $20 prize offered by President MacLean on April 3, 1905. Its words call back memories to every alumnus:

Oh, Iowa, calm and secure on thy hill,
Looking down on the river below,
With a dignity born of the dominant will
Of the men who have lived long ago,
Oh, heir of the glory of pioneer days,
Let thy spirit be proud as of old,
For thou shalt have honor, and blessing, and praise
In the daughters and sons of Old Gold.

NO JUSTICE! Judge Will Go Home, Trades Bench

There ought to be a law against it, but Judge James P. Gaffney is going to miss the Iowa-Minnesota football game when he leaves tomorrow morning for his hometown of Marengo to trade judicial benches with his colleague, Judge H. D. Evans.

Judge Gaffney has been presiding over district court here during the September term. Judge Evans will arrive in Iowa City Monday to preside during the November court term which begins at that time.

Lions, Kiwanis Clubs To Judge S.U.I. Exhibits

Homecoming Cups Will Be Awarded Fraternity, Sorority

A sorority house and a fraternity house whose Homecoming decorations are judged best by committees representing Iowa City business men will be awarded the traditional cups again this year by the Lions and Kiwanis club, the Homecoming committee announced yesterday.

The best decorated fraternity will be awarded a cup by a committee headed by George Koser of the Kiwanis club. Other members of the Kiwanis committee are Paul Ruth and Dr. E. W. Paulus.

For two consecutive years the Delta Upsilon fraternity has won this prize, and should they win this year, will be given permanent possession of the prize.

The sorority house which the Lions club committee will judge to have the most appropriate Homecoming decorations will send representatives to a meeting of the club to receive the cup after the week end celebration.

Last year the Alpha Xi Delta sorority took first place. Headed by Dr. J. D. Wells of the college of dentistry, the Lions club committee includes G. R. Griffith and Attorney Robert L. Larson.

Judging will take place both tonight and tomorrow morning, to enable the judges to see electrical and day-time displays.

Affirmative Bows To Indiana Here; Iowans Take Minnesota

University of Iowa varsity debating teams won and lost in the opening rounds of the fall western conference intercollegiate debate series last night—Iowa defeated the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis and lost to Indiana university here. Roland Christensen, A3, and Marvin Chapman, A2, both of Iowa City, were the successful debaters who defeated Minnesota university.

Arguing the negative side of the question, "Resolved: That the federal government should own and operate the railroads," two juniors from the University of Indiana won a decision over Iowa's affirmative speakers, William Rivkin, A3 of Davenport, and David Sayre, A3 of Ames, last night in the radio debate broadcast over WSUI.

Winning speakers were William Spray and Marvin Miller, who argued that the greater tax burden and political abuses in the selection of personnel under federal control were important factors which would result from a change in railroad ownership. Three hundred million dollars in state and local taxes contributed today by railroad companies would be eliminated if federal control were adopted, the visiting team emphasized.

The local affirmative debaters spoke of the high capital costs, duplication of railroad lines and transportation competition as present existing conditions which would be done away with under the suggested governmental control operation.

Establishing one integrated system of railroads under public control, the factor of "service to the community" would be the all-important objective of the industry rather than the motive of "private profit" now existing under the present control, the first affirmative speaker, Sayre, declared.

The local intercollegiate debate was judged by Prof. Martin Holcomb of Augustana college in Rock Island, Ill. Chairman was Prof. C. Woody Thompson of the college of commerce.

The president of Argentina must be a native of the country and a Roman Catholic. His term is six years.

Phi Beta Kappa Fall Election To Be Monday

Scholars Selected Will Be Notified By Special Delivery

Members of Phi Beta Kappa, oldest honorary scholastic fraternity, will hold their fall election Monday in the senate chamber of Old Capitol, Prof. H. J. Thornton, secretary, announced yesterday.

The Phi Beta Kappa society elects twice a year from qualified members of the senior class in liberal arts. Not more than five per cent of the seniors are elected since the society requires certain high scholastic standing. A scholarship list of seniors with highest standing is prepared by the office of the registrar, and is used by the committee to make its selections.

The general requirement for election to Phi Beta Kappa requires a grade point average of 3.2 or more on all work undertaken at the university. No student is elected short of senior standing, and must have completed 105 hours in the college of liberal arts by the beginning of this semester. To be eligible the student must be carrying sufficient schedule to graduate in February.

The constitution requires that at least 45 hours of the 105 hours shall be earned on this campus and that the B.A. degree shall be conferred by this university.

Following the meeting Monday, those students who have been elected to Phi Beta Kappa will be notified by special delivery letters. All members of the Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa in the university and living in town should be present at this election.

Jahn, Baconian Lecturer, Discusses Electrical Phenomena in Organisms

Research work on crickets and cockroaches has shown that they have certain small hair-like structures which are more sensitive to low frequency sounds than the human ear, Prof. Theodore L. Jahn of the zoology department said in last night's third Baconian lecture at Old Capitol.

Discussing the origin and function of bioelectricity, Professor Jahn explained that two main factors are responsible for bio-electric forces—unequal rates of ionic diffusion and metabolic processes.

During the past five years, action potentials of the brain of man have received much attention, the zoologist said. Studies of these action potentials may become an aid to the diagnosis of brain tumor, he added.

Covering the subject relative to hearing, seeing and medical application, Professor Jahn said of the bioelectric work with sight, that the increase in sensitivity of the eye to dark when entering a dark room from a brightly lighted one can be measured quantitatively by means of the electrical response of the eye.

Professor Jahn declared that a great deal of research on electrical phenomena in living organisms remains to be done.

Seven Firms Report Chest Drive Results

Stores Respond 100 Per Cent To Plea For 1940 Campaign

Jack J. Swaner, director of the 1940 Community Chest campaign yesterday announced a list of seven more local firms reporting 100 per cent response to the Chest drive.

Yesterday's reported subtotal represented 90 per cent of the $17,850 goal.

The campaign, now in its third week, is expected to close next week, Swaner said, as soon as nearly 200 solicitors complete their canvassing reports.

The Recreational Center, Social Service League, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and city rest rooms will benefit from this year's Community Chest proceeds.
