

Ten thousand Iowa boosters, the greater part from among the ranks of University of Iowa students and residents of Iowa City, got together last night before historic Old Capitol in honor of a football team and a coaching staff. Four of the speakers who expressed their own particular feelings about the Iron Hawkeyes of 1939 and about the coming Homecoming game with Minnesota's Golden Gophers are pictured here as they rose to speak to the throng of Iowa fans. From left to right they represent the university, the team, the coaches and the Iowa alumni. President Eugene A. Gilmore voiced the feeling of the thousands with the hope that today the sun will rise higher in the skies of Iowa football prowess. Irwin Prasse, captain of the Hawks, said he hoped the student victory celebration of last Monday might justifiably be repeated. Dr. Eddie Anderson thanked the whole bunch for splendid Iowa support, declared Iowa's team would never let them down. Master of Ceremonies Eric C. Wilson, editor of the University of Iowa news service, is shown with Dr. Eddie. And to voice the glory there was Frank G. Pierce of Marshalltown, right, who was a member of the Iowa team in 1889 — just 50 years ago. That former Iowa team was tough, too, he said — even if its uniforms were made by an Iowa City dressmaker. There were greetings from Mayor Henry Willenbrock of Iowa City, Chairman Karl Leib of the board in control of athletics, and others. Gov. George Wilson of Iowa, unable to attend the meeting, sent his best wishes. Previewed by the greatest mass meeting in Iowa history, Iowa's 28th Homecoming today will find the eyes of the nation's football fans on the Hawkeyes.

THOUSANDS JOIN 'BATTLE' THROUG

Badge Sales Hit 15,523 Mark

Alpha Xi Delta sorority badge saleswomen continued in the lead last night up to the time the mass meeting started with 6,519 badges sold since the campaign opened for the first time a week ago yesterday. Chi Omega still held second place with 4,836 and Alpha Delta Pi was third with 4,168. The total number of badges sold up to last night came to 15,523, a new record for sales as compared with former years. Prof. Louis C. Zopf, chairman of the sales, said last night that he expects many more will be sold this morning and up till game time this afternoon. He was confident last night that a sufficient number of badges would be sold to reach the 25,000 goal set for this year's campaign. The fact that this year's badge bears the portrait of Dr. Eddie Anderson, the football man of the hour and new Iowa coach, has keyed the badge in with all the pep activities that have been planned on the campus so far. This badge is only the third in the history of such campaigns to bear the picture of the current coach. Since some fans have been enthusiastic enough to send mail orders for their badges to the committee in charge of the sale, it is expected that the great number who arrive today and purchase the badge to show their loyalty to the gold and black will find results at the kick-off of the game this afternoon hitting a new peak of Homecoming spirit. The three teams are still on the job and will be until the whistle blows this afternoon at the beginning of the first quarter.

GAME TICKETS
Tickets for today's game will be available up until nearly time for the kickoff, according to Charles Galther, business manager of athletics. The crowd for today's Iowa-Minnesota football game is expected to be near capacity, only 4,500 tickets remaining last night, but Galther said he thought the remaining supply would take care of the demand.

10,000 Attend Greatest Iowa Pep Meeting

Speakers Praise Hawkeyes, Coaches, State-Wide Enthusiasm

By D. MAC SHOWERS
Daily Iowan Campus Editor
The "greatest bunch of supporters in the United States" — nearly 10,000 strong — gathered last night on the east approach to Old Capitol to set off what promises to be the greatest Homecoming in Iowa football history. Led by detachments of the university band and by the Scottish Highlanders, University of Iowa students moved onto Old Capitol from four different directions last night to join with thousands of students, alumni and Iowa boosters who had already gathered there for the most gigantic pep mass meeting ever held on this campus.

Football Anniversary
The meeting, incidentally, observed the golden anniversary of football on the Iowa campus. Before a throng of Iowa boosters extending from the steps of Old Capitol to the buildings on the east side of Clinton street a block away, speakers representing the university administration, the athletic department, the city of Iowa City, the Alumni association, the football team and the coaching staff appeared to pay their tributes to the team that Coach Eddie Anderson termed "the finest bunch of young men in the country."

As each speaker talked to the enthusiastic crowd, he faced the traditional corn monument erected at the Clinton street, Iowa avenue intersection by the engineering students.

Facing 'Minnesota'
In full view of each speaker was the word "Minnesota" on the west side of the monument.

President Eugene A. Gilmore, first speaker on the pep program, took up his view combining it with the change of place of the traditional pre-game pep meeting from the west to the east side of Old Capitol.

"Tonight we face the east," the president said. "The east is where the rising sun is seen. We no longer face a setting sun."
"Before me I see the name of Minnesota," he continued. "It is facing west. This year Iowa's sun is rising in the east; Minnesota's is in the west."

Paying tribute to the Iowa football squad, the university's chief executive concluded, "They will stick to the end and never say die."

Wilson Sends Greeting
Gov. George A. Wilson, who was unable to be present at the great meeting, sent a statement which was read to the crowd by Eric C. Wilson, director of the university news service and master of ceremonies.

Generals in The Hawkeye Camp

Chief Blames Youngsters

Declares 'Roughest' Celebrators To Be High School Students

Chief of Police Frank Burns last night, after a general observation of only small property damage by the jubilant Homecoming pep crowd, said that high school and junior high students led the troops of radiator cap and egg heavers.

"Although I can't say university students did not join in on some of the rougher 'fun,' we found our chief opposition in high school students," he said.
The only damage, besides the disappearance of several radiator caps, according to police, was the breaking of a window in the Englert theater.

Car-rockers were few. No accidents were reported.

Honor Loyal Alumni

Faculty Men Fete Graduates

By JAMES FOX
(Editor, The Daily Iowan)

Three hundred alumni, graduates and friends of the University of Iowa gathered on the eve of one of the Hawkeye institution's greatest football encounters to exchange reminiscences.

Last night the Triangle clubrooms in Iowa Union were crowded. There were judges, doctors, professors, merchants. Once they all were undergraduates—and none has forgotten those past events. Coming back to Iowa City is coming back to days when gray hairs were a darker shade, when today's achievements were dreams for the future.

With the faculty men as their hosts, these most distinguished among the "old timers" found themselves again in the atmosphere of the university they knew a decade, more or less, ago—but they weren't really so much interested in what has happened in the annals of the school as they were in what is going to happen today.

Included in the guests of Triangle Club last night were many who have come back year after year to Iowa's homecoming. As has been the long-established custom of Triangle club, these most faithful alumni were honored; but all who were there heard enthusiastic words of praise for Dr. Eddie Anderson and the Hawkeye squad from speakers on a short, informal program which preceded hours of conversation to exchange these Hawkeye alumni.

Prof. Bartholow Crawford, president of Triangle club, welcoming the alumni and friends to the club's reception, told the visitors that "the faculty is one of the continuing things in the university."

President Eugene A. Gilmore pointed out that Homecoming "means an opportunity to see you who have had an experience that has survived the years." President Gilmore in a brief talk explained the relationship of football to the entire University and spoke words of praise for Iowa coaches and squad members.

Dan Butler of Waterloo, president of the Alumni association of the university, reflected the sentiment of all who have spoken of Iowa football in these halcyon days when he pointed out the "do or die" spirit of the team and the "win or lose, we're for you" attitude of all the team's followers.

Two former Iowa coaches were introduced at last night's Triangle club reception. These were Jess Hawley, who coached Iowa squads from 1911 to 1916 and Mark Catlin, Hawkeye mentor from 1906 to 1909. Both gave their good wishes to the Hawkeye eleven which today meets Minnesota.

If you believe in lucky omens, believe in Mark Catlin. "I came back to see the Hawkeyes," asserted the former coach, "because I hoped my return might be a good luck omen."

Returning alumni are honored each year by the Triangle club for regular attendance at Homecoming celebrations. Last night the following awards were made by the group, degrees were presented by President Gilmore:

Loyal son of Iowa degree, given for 4 years attendance at Homecoming: W. W. Fay of Nevada, H. D. Kepler of Northwood, James McCabe of Williamsburg, Donald Mullan of Odebolt, D. C. Nolan of Iowa City, R. A. Rockhill of Marshalltown, J. Frederick Walter (See AWARDS, Page 5)

An Adventure In Rediscovery

THE FEELING that an alumnus has on returning to the campus is one that is wholly unintelligible to the undergraduate. Try as we may to know what that feeling is, we can only hope at best to wait on this side of the sheepskin and watch the happy expressions on the faces of those thousands who today are returning to their home campus.

We can watch these alumni stop and breathe a little deeper as they walk across the campus, as if to inhale a part of them they left here in other years.

Homecoming is something that can not be limited to words. The only real definition seems to be down inside, beyond the ordinary powers of expression. We who will someday join the alumni ranks, we who will someday stand up on our hindlegs to tell the world that the University of Iowa is the only school that matters can now only observe with respect those who have learned to appreciate the meaning of undergraduate days.

We know that it is when Homecoming arrives that we realize most fully that an educational institution is best measured in terms of its graduates and in the sum of their achievements for humanity.

Beyond this—beyond our sincerest and warmest welcome to those alumni who are here today—there is little we can express adequately about Homecoming.

Maybe it's all pure sentiment. Maybe it's mob psychology. Maybe a result of skilled propaganda. Maybe a search for the past. It could be any, all or none of these. But whatever it is, this rediscovery of something past has an appeal that awakens a universal instinct.

Headlines In World History

ON SEPT. 1, 1939, Adolf Hitler, the man who became dictator of modern Germany in 1933, broke weeks of diplomatic silence to order his troops to use force to conquer a Poland who refused to accede to his demands.

Now, Nov. 18, 1939, the world has but to read the front page streamers of the newspapers of the past 10 weeks to follow in perspective the events of the most startling pages of world history in the memory of this generation.

In the past 75 days, highly significant things have happened. We take you back to Sept. 1, to weave the story of the beginning of this second war—a story that comes only from the black banners of the front pages of America's press. Is it the story of the rise and fall of Hitler?

Following swiftly upon the heels of the fuhrer's ultimatum, extra editions of the press brought the news to a breathless world that the Polish harbor at Gdynia had been blockaded, that four Polish cities had been bombed, that air raid sirens had warned the Polish capital at Warsaw of impending air attacks.

Later on that bleak morning, the first bombs fell on Warsaw. Hitler addressed his army: "I shall carry on this fight regardless of against whom it may come."

On Sept. 2, Britain warned Germany, in one last appeal for peace, to remove her troops from Poland. France declared that she would go to war.

On that black Sunday, Sept. 3, newspapers throughout the nation tore down their front pages, bearing hopeful news that Mussolini would attempt to bring about a truce, to bring to the world news that Chamberlain had declared war on Germany.

Later that day France followed her lead. Still later the Atheneia went down, with 311 Americans on board.

The entire world was stunned. From that day, only 60 hours after Hitler broke his silence, the story was one of swiftly moving drama tinged with the horror of a new war.

Sept. 6—German army shells Warsaw, German planes drone over Paris, British planes drop propaganda barrage!

Sept. 7—British troops land in France.

Sept. 8—Roosevelt considers special session.

Sept. 9—Nazis enter Warsaw's outskirts.

Sept. 10—Canada votes support to Britain.

Sept. 11—British, French troops launch western front attack. Poles struggle to hold Warsaw.

Sept. 13—French advance.

Sept. 14—Warsaw weakens.

Sept. 15—Borah denounces embargo repeal.

Half a month was gone.

Sixteen days after that new war began, Sept. 16, Japan and Russia reached an armistice in their Manchouko-Outer Mongolian border.

The next day, Sept. 17, Russia invaded Poland!

During the next few days, Russians fought toward nazis, slicing their way through Poland. Warsaw held out, Roosevelt launched his fight to lift the arms embargo, almost 2,000 were killed in a bloody Rumanian purge of the pro-nazi iron guard.

Sept. 23—Poland, its government fled, was divided between Hitler and Stalin. The following day Mussolini reaffirmed Italian neutrality; Sumner Welles, in Panama, urged the Americas to stick together.

On Sept. 28, Warsaw surrendered. Germany and Russia moved to end the war, to bring England and France to peace. Hitler warned the world to keep hands off the Balkans.

The first month ended—two years of intense diplomacy, sudden warfare—in 30 days.

The war speedily took a turn toward the quiet side. Life returned to normal in Paris and London, movie houses opened. Everyone became realistic, called the conflict a new "bore war."

Germany's warning to keep hands off the Balkans was unnecessary. Mussolini moved in and began to unite, southeastern Europe.

Russia got busy, signed "mutual assistance and trade" agreements with Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia—began work on Finland.

She was drawing a very definite ring around Nazi Germany.

The Balkans moved toward unity under Il Duce. Il Duce, the anti-comintern pact blown to bits, moved toward unity with the allies.

America repealed the arms embargo.

Turkey signed a pact with the allies—but refused to fight against Russia.

It is now Nov. 18. Is it another Aug. 30?

What's going on in Europe? The spectacular trend of events leaves the world in a murky, muddled, undetermined state of affairs.

But a few things are becoming plainer every day:

1. The pro-communist leftists of Britain, France, and America received a terrific set-back by Russian unity with Nazi Germany.

2. Mussolini, the cleverest statesman in Europe, is playing for stakes. His actions indicate that he has been from the beginning.

3. Communist Russia's influence has Hitler by the throat.

4. Open American markets have Hitler about the stomach.

Hitler is quiet again, and no wonder!

What next, Mr. Hitler?

Australia was discovered by white men in 1601, but was not claimed by England until 1770, after Captain Cook discovered the continent.

McCloy Delivers Health Lecture

Prof. C. H. McCloy of the men's physical education department, who has lectured at several important teachers' meetings in surrounding states this fall, spoke before physical education majors and members of the faculty yesterday morning in the "Y" club room at the field house. He discussed the working of the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation and affiliated organizations.

A H-L OF A THANKSGIVING!

Nation's Tax-Conscious Consumers Expected To Raise Cain With Congress Over New Levies

By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist

Tax conscious consumers will be heard from when congress takes up farm money bills at the session opening Jan. 4. Strong resistance by the keeper of the family purse will be aimed at any revenue raising scheme which advances the cost of living. Consumer interest is increasing daily.

Practically all the women's organizations have programs designed to cover needs for information and guidance. Study forums have been devised to give club women more knowledge on buying, to discuss labeling and standards, to inquire into prices.

Tax consciousness is becoming acute, and vocal and written resistance will flow congressward against any revenue measure which tends to cut down the supply of essential foods on the daily table.

Immediate targets for the club women and consumer groups to shoot at already are before congress. Bills left over from the last regular session will come up for early consideration in 1940.

Foremost on the calendar will be food and clothing processing tax measures, affecting wheat, rice and cotton. They're called processing taxes. They camouflage as wheat, rice and cotton-certificate allotment plans. All levy on the manufacturer. He can't absorb the cost, so that the levy is passed on to the bread, the pudding and the garments that the consumer eats and wears.

Club women, as such, may be well enough off to meet the additional tax cost, but how about their fellow Americans whose pocketbooks are less copulent? A spirit of fraternity between the lowly and the better-off is growing.

The ultimate consumer. Now let's see what confronts the ultimate consumer at the coming congress.

At the last regular session there was appropriated out of the federal treasury something in excess of $750,000,000 for farm benefit payments. Two-thirds was earmarked for soil conservation. The balance is required for crop control and other farm aid, payable during the current fiscal year, ending next June 30.

Agriculture department economists admit that farm prices have improved since the war's outbreak. They predict continued improvement in 1940—but only on the supposition that "the war will continue for at least a year."

They express doubt that congress will be as generous with the people's money at the next session, so methods to raise a portion of the funds through taxing the commodity are being explored. Direct taxation schemes have been evolved by Senator Wheeler of Montana as to wheat; by Senator Ellender of Louisiana as to rice; by Senator Lee of Oklahoma as to cotton.

The three measures authorize the agriculture secretary to fix the allotment that wheat, rice and cotton farmers may grow, and to pay these producers by certificates on the amounts they market. The certificates, in turn, must be paid for by flour and rice millers and cotton manufacturers when they sell the processed goods to the ultimate user. Thus the certificate becomes a tax on each pound of flour and rice and each yard of cotton which finds its way to the consuming public. The burden is limited only by the needs of the consumer.

Hundreds of Millions. When the original processing tax scheme was tried in NRA days (1934-36) the government's collections reached the sizable sum of $960,720,400—all out of the American citizen's food and clothing budget. Flour's contribution was the largest item. Cotton was a close second. Rice eaters were the least affected.

The wheat flour millers' National Federation calculates that 155 pounds of flour are consumed annually by each of America's 130,000,000 people. The Food Research Institute of Stanford university estimates that we get away with about 103,000,000 barrels of flour annually. This is put at equivalent to something like 475,000,000 bushels of wheat.

It makes the human brain reel to distinguish between pounds, bushels and barrels, but it's an expert reckoning.

The certificate plan envisions a tax on each bushel of wheat milled into flour. If Secretary Wallace fixes the tax at only 30 cents per bushel, this means that the ultimate consumer is confronted with an annual levy approximating $142,500,000.

If the proposed tax applied to their household flour requirements only, regardless of rice and cotton, it would seem that the club ladies are amply justified in their prospective protest to congress against such a market basket impost.

TUNING IN with D. Mac Showers

"BATHYSHERE," the story of two scientists locked in a diving bell one-half mile under the sea, will be the title of tonight's drama on the Arch Oboler play program over the NBC-Red network at 8 o'clock.

The subject was suggested by the New York Geographical society. The leading role will be played by George Zucco, English actor, in his first radio appearance in America.

DEL COURTNEY and his orchestra will play one of the winning songs in Radio Guide's national song search when the band broadcasts over the NBC-Red network at 4:30 this afternoon.

WAYNE KING and his orchestra will be heard in one of the band's regular weekly broadcasts over CBS stations at 7:30 tonight. Buddy Clark will be featured on vocals.

VIVYAN DONNER, fashion expert for 20th Century Fox news, will be the name constant on the Cal Tynes "Youth vs. Age" program over the NBC-Blue network tonight at 7:30.

WATSON DAVIS, director of Science Service, and Dr. F. B. Jewell, president of the National Academy of Science, and two other prominent scientists will discuss the role of science in this war-racked world on the "People's Platform" program tonight at 6 o'clock over CBS.

VINCENT TRAVERS' orchestra will be heard on Milton Berle's "Stop me if You've Heard This One" program tonight at 7:30 over NBC-Red stations. Tommy Riggs is the guest gabster.

ARTURO TOSCANINI, the greatest figure in contemporary music, will conduct the NBC symphony orchestra tonight at 9 o'clock on the Blue network. The orchestra will play a Beethoven cycle consisting of "Lendore Overture No. 1," "Symphony No. 7" and "Symphony No. 8."

There's been an impression that "Chico's Love Song," Spanish number with an American idea, has been banned from the networks; however, this is not true and the Andrews Sisters' recording of the tune is making it one of the biggest request numbers on the air.

THE MUTUAL broadcasting system including WGN, Chicago, will carry the second half of the Iowa-Minnesota game today. WHO, Des Moines and other Iowa stations will also carry the game.

AROUND THE TOWN. With MERLE MILLER. NOTES OF LIMITED INTEREST. Nile Kinnick's almost certain to get a big-time offer for professional football, and he's almost certain to take it. He'll be all-American, and that means the professional stakes will be high.

That means he'll average around $10,000 for a single season of play. "Whizzer" White did that—and better.

"Whizzer" and Nile have more than intelligence in common, of course. Both sport Phi Beta Kappa keys. (Nile will get his in the spring, probably.)

Nile would be a perfect nomination for a Rhodes scholarship as well. He could take it after the war is over.

The point is, friends say, professional athletics aren't to be snubbed any more. They're led by college grads in more than half the cases, and baseball leads the crew. They paper the training quarters with B.A. degrees.

Just one passing note. I hope Nile quits at the end of the season. It's a poor profession to grow old in.

I'd never consulted Webster on "Armistice" until yesterday. There's more truth than definition in what he says. "A brief cessation of arms; a temporary suspension of hostilities."

Yesterday's mail contained a letter from Cedar Rapids and an invitation to meet and hear Lin Yutang of the "My Country and My People" Yutangs on Nov. 27. Also a reminder that his "Moment in Peking" will be the December book-of-the-month choice.

N. Dealer. Dean Lloyd K. Garrison, who will be here to talk on "The New Deal" for the December student forum, may be a supreme court justice by that time. He's on the list of possibilities.

It's hard to believe, but there are hundreds on the campus who never attend a football game. They're working, in the main; a few are studying by choice.

Most of them want to go but haven't the time—more especially the money. Not that anyone remembers on a Homecoming afternoon.

These are the last Englishmen incidents. But we had quite a time explaining the Washington difficulty over the Panama ship-leasing. Bean thought if Roosevelt hadn't agreed with Secretary Hull, Hull'd have been honor-bound to resign.

It was necessary to explain that we don't take our politics—or our honor—as seriously over here.

And both debaters could understand Washington's not-favorable reaction to "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington." It was their hunch that not an Englishman would get the strong plugs for democracy in the picture, instead would merely remember that the United States senate is graft-ridden, top to bottom.

An idea that's not all poetic fancy, of course.

"It may not be a general dictum, but one prof put it best. 'If we win on Saturday,' he said, 'I'll see you Wednesday; and if we don't win on Saturday, anybody's a sucker to come to class on Monday.'"

Coach Anderson's tight-lipped, of course, but the best authorities heard him say, in an off-guard moment. "If we win from Purdue, we're bound to win the next three games."

We won from Purdue, you know.

Permanent Duck Exhibition First Located In Macbride for Hunters. It's been fine weather these days—fine weather for ducks, especially. That is what hundreds of Iowa duck hunters will tell you—and they know! But there are ducks to be seen at the University of Iowa, too. They are a part of the bird collection in the museum here and can be seen at any time on the second floor of Macbride hall. Fifty-one species of ducks made up the exhibit which was established, according to Prof. Homer Dill, museum director, for the benefit of people "who like to hunt." Included in the exhibit are various outline maps of the United States on which are diagrams showing the breeding and migratory ranges of the various species of ducks. All ducks in the collection were shot down in Iowa, although many are rarely seen here. Common to most hunters are the Mallard ducks and large-billed shovellers. Most peculiar in the group are the large canvas back ducks seldom found in this region. Ring-necked ducks and pintails are other interesting types included in the showing. Pintails, a river duck or pin-tailed sound grouse, are a native of Europe and Asia but subspecies are found in America. The museum will be open today and Sunday to Homecoming visitors. An attendant will be on hand to explain the various exhibits and direct sight-seers Professor Dill explained. Meat packers, we read, contemplate converting overflow turkeys into sausage. Golly, maybe we really need three Thanksgiving days instead of two!

An Old Fued Forgotten for Homecoming

The ancient rivalry between the Laws and the Engineers was temporarily forgotten yesterday as they practiced on the victory whistle which they will pull together following the Iowa-Minnesota game this afternoon. Leading exponents of the theory that one and one makes two, and that two can make more noise than one, are Henry F. Grant, L3 of Beacon, N. Y., president of the Associated Students of Law (left foreground) and John May, E4 of Cedar Rapids. Backing them up are (left to right) R. D. Sykes, E4 of Des Moines; C. J. Kippenhan, E4 of Middle Amana; Bob Frederick, L3 of Cedar Rapids, and Frank Elwood, L3 of Elma.

The iron monster in the center, new voice of Iowa's recent victories, is located on the top of the engineering building from where it bellows forth announcements of Friday night pep meetings and Saturday afternoon gridiron touchdowns. A recent gift of the Rock Island railroad, it was initiated at the Iowa-Notre Dame game last week.

Clapp Relates Musical Theme Descriptive Work in Berlioz' Composition Inspired by Unrequited Love

"Symphonie Fantastique in C Major," the outstanding number on the university symphony orchestra program for Wednesday night at Iowa Union, is a descriptive work inspired by the composer's unrequited love for a beautiful actress, Prof. P. G. Clapp, head of the music department and director of the orchestra, said yesterday.

Berlioz, a poverty-stricken young Frenchman of 25, was working as kettle-drummer in a theater orchestra when he fell in love with the beautiful Harriet Smithson.

She was acting in a Shakespearean play at the theater at that time and, although he did not know her, Berlioz was completely charmed as he watched her on the stage. Audiences often commented on the fact that, though he played very well, the young kettle-drummer never watched the conductor—he always watched Miss Smithson.

Berlioz tried to arrange a meeting but the actress said she "couldn't be bothered" with a struggling rather unattractive young musician of whom nobody had ever heard.

It was after this disappointment that Berlioz wrote his symphony. It tells of a young artist, who, unsuccessful in love, tries in all sorts of ways to forget his beloved. At first he resorts to dancing, then he goes away and finally he attempts suicide by drinking opium. The opium does not kill him however—it only brings a dream in which he thinks that he dies and that his loved one comes to haunt him even after death.

In 1930, Berlioz made arrangements for a first performance of the work with himself conducting. Through friends, he arranged for Miss Smithson to be at the opening.

The symphony made an instant hit with the public and, sensing the fact that Berlioz would soon be a celebrity, the actress sent word that she would be glad to meet him. Harriet Smithson was a clever woman—and she had foresight. She realized that she was getting a little plump, that she was beginning to "slip" on the stage.

Berlioz, however, was ignorant of her mercenary motives. Still very much in love with her, he asked her to marry him soon after they met. And so they were married.

And so, as Professor Clapp humorously concluded yesterday, "they lived together very unhappily ever after."

Nothing Like Burning Things Up Early!

VILLANOVA, Pa., Nov. 17 (AP)—Villanova college students were "burned up" today over a midnight bonfire.

While they slept, someone touched off a three-story heap of odds and ends they piled up to light in celebration before the Villanova-Temple football game. But the bonfire wasn't scheduled until tonight.

Iowa Falls. Two freshmen, Janet Davenport of Neola and Mildred E. Anderson of St. Louis, were also selected to play.

The first meeting of the alumni association will be held at 10:30 this morning. The members present will vote on a constitution which was drawn up by alumni members who attended summer school here this year. Officers will be elected and a discussion of the establishment of a loan fund for needy students will be held, according to Esther French, chairman of the plans for the association's first meeting. The association will lay plans for the establishment of sports clinics which will be conducted for the purpose of keeping the alumni in touch with new sports skills and techniques, it was said. The first clinic, at which time badminton and basketball will be discussed, is scheduled for after Christmas, Miss French announced.

General Library Exhibits Honor Youth

Children's Books Dating Back to 1774 Make Up Collection

By MADELYN MILES

What would a modern young miss say if on opening her Christmas presents, she found a book entitled "Letters on the Improvement of the Mind Addressed to a Young Lady?"

And what would Junior think if the teacher handed him a small two-by-four-inch book with these words printed on the title page, "Wisdom in Miniature or the Young Gentleman and Lady's Pleading Instructor. Being a collection of sentences, divine, moral and historical collected from the writings of many ingenious and learned authors, both ancient and modern. Intended not only for use of schools, but as a pocket companion for youth of both sexes."

Yet these very books are on exhibit at the general library in honor of children's book week celebrated throughout the nation during the past week.

Modern educators would lift their hands in horror at "A Child's Geography," the oldest book in the collection with a copyright date, 1774. The type is very small; the language is difficult to understand.

"Wisdom in Miniature" was written in 1785 and "Letters on the Improvement of the Mind Addressed to a Young Lady" has the copyright date of 1809.

The only colored one of the old books is "Whittington and His Cat." The cover of this small book has an orange border and a black line drawing of the celebrated Dick.

Representing the middle 19th century is a collection of Randolph Caldecott pictures. Caldecott is remembered because of the annual Caldecott prize offered each year for the best illustrations in children's books.

In sharp contrast are the large gaily colored modern children's tales displayed in the same case. The type is large and the reading content is interesting and easy to read.

A story of the evolution of children's books is contained in that small class case in the university general library.

the public address microphone with an enthusiastic "I want to take my hat off to this coaching staff."

He pointed out that this will be the 26th time in 32 years that Iowa has met Minnesota. "It will be the 13th time they've played them at a Homecoming," he said, and if number '13' has any unlucky significance, we'll let Minnesota take it home tomorrow."

As official representative at the golden anniversary observance, Frank G. Pierce of Marshalltown, a player on the first Iowa squad 50 years ago, spoke to the gigantic meeting.

"It's the right mental spirit behind this Iowa team that is counting this year far more than the physical," he said.

Many of Iowa's outstanding alumni and prominent figures in Iowa football history were present on the speaker's stand and some were mentioned by Master of Ceremonies Wilson.

Jewell Returns

Chief among these was John J. Jewell of Helena, Mont., who played football in 1907 and is known as Iowa's greatest little man in football. This is his first return to Iowa City for a Homecoming event since his graduation in 1908.

"I just couldn't resist the temptation when I heard that Notre Dame score last week," he said. "I went right home and started packing my things to come to Iowa City." He drove 1,541 miles for the game.

Both mentioned by Wilson was Marc Catlin, one of Iowa's outstanding coaches and coach of the Iowa squad the year Jewell played.

Bill Glasgow of Cedar Rapids, captain of the 1929 Iowa squad, the last to defeat Minnesota, appeared to tell the Iowa boosters that, as a football player himself, he knew that "this Iowa team has the heart to win." Glasgow was named all-American in 1929.

Prasse Speaks

Next came the Iowa football captain of a decade later, Erwin Prasse of the 1939 Hawkeyes. He spoke briefly promising that the team would "give its all" today.

Climax to the meeting and the presentation which brought the greatest cheer was the introduction of Dr. Eddie Anderson.

"Hello, Everybody," was the happy greeting from the coach named "the greatest in the world" by Iowa's freshman coach, Glenn Devine.

"I want to give you all a great big thank you," he said.

"I don't know whether or not you have the greatest football team in the country, but you are surely the greatest bunch of supporters in the United States."

"They'll Never Quit!"

"Every last one of you is a part of that team. I only wish that I could put every one of you in that game tomorrow. You've each worked just as hard toward this game as every team member," he told the enthusiastic thousands.

"We have one of the finest bunch of young men in the United States and they have asked me tonight to thank you all for your support and encouragement. They'll never quit on you."

Closing the meeting, Wilson listed the five Homecoming games out of 12 played in which Iowa teams have defeated Minnesota—1918, 6 to 0; 1920, 28 to 7; 1922, 28 to 14; 1924, 13 to 0, and 1929, 7 to 6.

With the mass meeting last night as a preview, it will be a wildly enthusiastic 50,000 Iowa boosters and students who will be in Iowa stadium this afternoon to encourage the 1939 Hawkeyes to make today's game the sixth on the list.

Last Time At The Helm 'Director' Wellstead Ends Band Career At Stadium Today

PARLEY WELLSTEAD

The University band's senior drum major, Parley Wellstead, A4 of Ottumwa, will make his final home appearance as drum major of the Iowa band in Iowa stadium today.

Wellstead has been drum-major of the band for three years and will now terminate his membership to study medicine. He has led the band through three football seasons and on many special occasions. During the present season he has been assisted by Junior Drum-Major Jean Hedlund, A2 of Cedar Falls.

Iowa's two drum majors this year have fulfilled a unique assignment. With the introduction of Professor Charles B. Righter's "double-header" band this year, Wellstead and Hedlund have shared responsibilities. With a leader at each end of the band, involved turns are eliminated. Wellstead leads the band in one direction, Hedlund in the other.

Miss Magaret won the Mary-Anne Griswold Ran Renaler prize, was runner up in the world's fair poetry contest and was awarded the American association of University women fellowship for one year.

She has published two books of narrative poetry, "The Trumpeting Crane" and "The Great Horse." Her poems have been published in "Harpers," "Atlantic," "Forum," "Saturday Review of Literature," "Poetry," "American Prefaces" and other well known magazines.

Miss Magaret is now writing a biography of Pierre John deSmet, a Jesuit priest who worked among the Flat Head Indians of Montana.

'Reserves' Will Meet

Organization Plans Bi-Monthly Conclave For Monday Night

Members of the Reserve Officers association, who are organized "to back the initial protective force" of the nation, will hold their bi-monthly meeting Monday night in the medical laboratories building.

Describing the functions and activities of reserve officers organized throughout the country Lieut. John Goltman, vice-president of the local chapter, explained "The reserve officers would be in command of the citizen army in case of war, backing the 'initial protective force,' or the regular army and national guard, whose duty it would be to cushion the blow while civilian army was being formed."

"The reserve officer," he said, "has been and is the man who works and studies and gives up time and spends money in preparation for this possible task."

The only remuneration, Lieutenant Goltman said, is when the reserve officer is ordered to active duty. This has been very seldom during the last 10 years, he added, due to lack of congressional appropriations.

In order for the reserve officer to retain his commission, according to the lieutenant, he has had to put in 25 hours of active duty service without remuneration.

Many members of the reserve officers organization consist of ROTC graduates from the university.

Drzycimski Named Iowa Drug Trustee

Judge Gaffney Issues Written Approval Of Summerwill Report

Ben S. Summerwill yesterday was discharged as trustee of the Iowa Drug store in a court order by District Judge James P. Gaffney, who named A. F. Drzycimski, present store manager, succeeding trustee.

At the same time Judge Gaffney issued a written approval of Summerwill's final report, target of objections filed by Mrs. Alice Goza, owner and operator of the store.

Both the appointment of a successor as trustee and the hearing and approval of his final report had been previously asked by Summerwill in a petition filed in district court.

The judge's announcement "finds that the trustee has fully and completely accounted for each and every item of property taken over by him in said trust."

"Finds that under all the facts and circumstances disclosed by record the trustee did continue said trust in equally as good if not a better manner than the Iowa Drug store was carried on prior to the trust."

Sincerely yours,
Geo. A. Wilson.
Tributes

Other speakers on the program of the meeting officially opening the 1939 Homecoming activities paid high tribute to the Iowa team and to the pep meeting and earnest enthusiasm displayed by the student body.

"Second to none" was the statement by Iowa City's mayor, Henry F. Willenbrock, regarding the 1939 Hawkeye team.

"An old tradition on the Iowa campus" is how Prof. Karl E. Lieb, chairman of the athletic board, termed the Minnesota game for Iowa's 1939 Homecoming contestant.

"It's the one game of the season we're willing to go out and fight for," he said.

"We're proud of those boys on that Iowa team," he told the cheering thousands. "They're fighters. They're going to go out on that field tomorrow and surprise the so-called experts."

Troops Arrest Large Number Of Bohemians

Colleges Focal Point Of Popular Outbursts Against Government

BERLIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—Nine students of Prague universities and academies were executed by German firing squads today as ring-leaders in a series of rebellious demonstrations which began Wednesday in the Nazi protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia.

The shooting of the nine was reported by DNB, German official news agency. Other news filtering into Berlin provided sketchy details of the events in the capitol of the former Czecho-Slovak republic.

One definite fact established was that there were no disorders in Prague and that the population knew nothing of the executions before a radio announcement early in the evening said merely that "nine were shot."

Communication haphazard Telephone communication with Prague was haphazard and few details were available.

It was established during one call, however, that reports in informed Prague circles were that the executions followed revelations made after a raid on an illegal printing establishment in the home of a former Czech government official. This call was interrupted.

Another connection established with an American official in the former Czecho-Slovak capitol disclosed that the city was quiet and that the general population heard about the executions hours after they occurred.

Berlin officials and other usually well-informed quarters were tight-lipped and said nothing was known beyond the DNB communication.

DNB said that extraordinary measures were taken after the students, described as "Benes followers" assaulted Germans. Dr. Eduard Benes, last president of Czecho-Slovakia, now is living in exile in Paris.

Hawklets Win Hard Struggle From East Des Moines, 13-12

Red and White Spoils Visitor's Clear Record

Ted Lewis, Jack Hirt Lead Inspired Local Team to Victory

By JOHN PAULUS
Daily Iowan Sports Reporter
Led by the vicious line thrusts of Ted Lewis, and the brilliant defensive play of Jack Hirt, the City High football team ended the season in a blaze of glory, as they played their best football of the year to defeat the hitherto unbeaten East High team from Des Moines, 13 to 12.

It was a battle for individual honors and a birth on the all-state team, as Iowa City matched Hirt and Lewis against Paul Mitckoff, Al Beckham, and Dean Thomas of the Des Moines eleven. Mitckoff was always dangerous, as the 190 pound cannonball smashed the strong Red and White line. Beckham was the offensive star of the East attack, with his passing and running accounting for all of his team's points, and his timely punting putting the locals in many tough spots.

First Blood
East High drew first blood in the second quarter, when Beckham faded back from his own 35, and fired a pass to Bob Newell on the City High 40. The lanky Des Moines end sprinted the remaining 40 yards for the tally. Mitckoff attempted plunge for the extra point and was stopped by the ever-powerful Red and White line. The score remained 6 to 0 until the half ended.

City High tied the score in the early minutes of the half, when Bill Voelchers pulled an East fumble out of the air, and went 35 yards to the double-stripes untouched. Fetig's kick for extra point was blocked.

East launched a drive shortly after the score was knotted, and Beckham finally romped over the goal from the City High 7 yard stripe. Mitckoff attempted a place kick for the extra point, but it was wide and low.

Ted Lewis came to life in the fourth quarter, and the burly Hawk speedster finally crossed the goal after a series of straight line plunges. Fetig's kick was good, and the game ended 13 to 12.

See-Saw Battle
The first quarter was see-saw with both teams playing conservative football. Several brilliant punts by Beckham kept the Little Hawks deep in their own territory, but the City High line kept Mitckoff from making a single first down.

In the second quarter, East realized that the center of the Red and White line would not yield ground, and began to skirt the ends. A double reverse with Lucas, flashy negro trackman, ending up with the ball, netted the visitors 30 yards. A few plays later Beckham ran off to the left, received a lateral and took plenty of time to fire a touchdown pass to Newell.

Fumble
Lewis kicked to Lucas to start the second half, and the colored speedster fumbled the ball on his own 25 yard line. Hirt recovered for Iowa City, but Lewis could not make a first down through the East line. Beckham punted out of danger. Lucas tried his famous reverse several plays later, but was nailed by Jack Hirt behind the line of scrimmage. The pigskin sailed out of the negro's control, and Voelchers gathered it in with an open field in front of him.

Beckham and Mitckoff led another East drive down the field, with Beckham going over on an off-tackle smash. Mitckoff missed the all-important placement, as the third quarter ended.

City High threatened early in the fourth quarter, but Bert Miller fumbled a completed pass on the 15 yard line, and East recovered. Beckham kicked out to the 40, where the final Red and White drive started. Miller passed to Lewis for 15 yards, and a first down on the 25. Lewis made 7 yards on a power play through the middle of the line, and made another first down on another center smash. The burly fullback made 8 more off tackle, and put the Little Hawks in scoring position with another plunge for a first down on the 5. Lewis hit with all his remaining energy, and finally reached pay dirt after three mighty thrusts.

Fails To Score
East drove deep into Red and White territory, as Beckham continued to run and pass like a madman. Beckham finally reached the Little Hawk 3 yard line, but a 5 yard penalty pushed East back to the 8. Beckham failed to score as the game ended.

Although Lewis and Hirt were the individual stars, it was the strong center of the Red and White line that gave the locals the victory. Virgil Parker, Bob Caywood, Bob White, and Ken Bright finished their prep foot-

Contracts To Be Let Nov. 28 For Highway Project

Contracts will be let at Ames Nov. 28 for the grading, surfacing and erection of bridges on seven miles of road which borders the Iowa-Johnson county line, County Engineer Raymond H. Justen said yesterday.

The project will include 110,000 cubic yards of excavation, and will require 8,371 cubic yards of crushed stone. Two 1-beam bridges, one truss span, one approach span and one reinforced concrete box culvert, will be built, the county engineer said.

The farm-to-market road fund will stand the expense for the project, he added. Starting date for the project has not been announced.

Germany Put On America's Trade Blacklist

Goods From Nazi Territories Must Pay Tariffs of 1930 Act

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Germany and all the territories Hitler has acquired in the last few years were lumped together today in the United States economic blacklist.

In proclaiming the recent trade agreement with Venezuela, President Roosevelt excepted Germany and the territories under her control from the tariff concessions granted the South American country.

"Because I find as a fact," Mr. Roosevelt said, "that the treatment of American commerce by Germany is discriminatory, I direct that such proclaimed duties (in the Venezuelan agreement) shall not be applied to products of Germany. Products of territories now under the de facto administrative control of Germany

Officials Charge Senator Violated Wage-Hour Law

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The wage-hour administration said today that a charge of violating the wage-hour law had been filed against Senator Byrd (D-Va.).

Major Arthur Fletcher, chief of the enforcement section, said the complaint alleged that the senator had refused to comply with terms of the wage-hour law in his apple packing and processing business near Winchester, Va.

shall be regarded as products of Germany for the purposes of this paragraph."

Consequently goods coming from the Germany of the Versailles treaty, plus the Saar, plus Austria, plus most of former Czechoslovakia, plus most of Poland, must pay the tariffs of the 1930 tariff act, and may not receive the benefits of reductions in duties made under the trade agreements that the United States has concluded with 20 nations.

Under most-favored nation policy, the reductions apply to all the world aside from Germany.

Vessels Sink After Collision; Ten Drowned

BEAUFORT, N. C., Nov. 17 (AP)—At least 10 persons drowned tonight in the collision of a tugboat out of New York and a fishing boat out of Morehead City.

The drowned were aboard the Menhaden vessel Southland, proceeding from Ocracoke to Morehead City with 300,000 Menhaden fish aboard. She went to the bottom after colliding with the tugboat Especo of New York, towing the barge Espee No. 4, which coast guardsmen said belonged to the Solway Process company of New York. W. F. Dunbar was captain of the Especo.

Roosevelt Gets Big Kick From Speculation About Third Term

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt still is keeping his intentions secret, but with almost impish amusement he disclosed today that on one recent occasion he had invited speculation about a third term.

And, he said at a press conference, everybody bit.

What they bit on was an off-hand remark he made in a speech in Washington Wednesday at the laying of the cornerstone for the Jefferson memorial.

It was, he said then, the second time he had come to the memorial in an official capacity. By January, 1941, he added, he hoped to be able to come to the final dedication of the memorial itself—scheduled for that month.

The mention of 1941 interested the politically-minded because the president's second term ends on January 20, 1941. They wondered whether he wanted to come back to the memorial a third time, either before or after that date, in an official capacity or as a private citizen.

The position to be filled is in the fifth region, civil aeronautics authority with headquarters at Kansas City. Final examination date was set as Dec. 4.

Lindley Fines 4 Corporations $5,000 Each

Violators of Sherman Anti-Trust Act May Appeal Court Ruling

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 17 (AP)—General Motors corporation and three affiliates convicted with it of violating the anti-trust act were fined $5,000 each today by federal judge Walter C. Lindley.

Judge Lindley imposed the fines after overruling motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment.

John Thomas Smith, New York attorney for the corporation, was granted 90 days to file exceptions on which an appeal may be made to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago.

The trial judge assessed one-half of the prosecution costs—estimated by government attorneys at approximately $100,000—against General Motors and the remaining half against General Motors Sales corporation, one of the affiliates convicted. The other ers convicted are General Motors Acceptance corporation and General Motors Acceptance corporation of Indiana.

The jury's split verdict, convicting the four corporations of violating the Sherman act by forcing dealers to place installment financing of automobile sales with GMAC but acquitting 17 officials who were individual defendants, was returned last night.

The University of Cincinnati recently received a sandstone fragment bearing amphibian footprints 250,000,000 years old.

Dewey Witness At Kuhn Trial

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—With District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey as one of its chief witnesses, the defense in Fritz Kuhn's trial for the theft of funds from his German-American fund made a last, extraordinary effort today to prove that the prosecution was based on "politics" and "hatred."

Testifying for the first time in his life in a criminal case, Dewey conceded that he once had called the accused bundsfuehrer a "common thief."

Badminton Club To Have First Meeting Tuesday

Recreational badminton for university men, women and faculty members will begin Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock when the first meeting of the Badminton club is held in the women's gymnasium, it was announced yesterday by Carol Dunger, A3 of Aurora, Ill., chairman.

Instruction for beginners and advanced players will be offered by Prof. Elizabeth Halsey, head of the women's physical education department, which furnishes the equipment for the players.

Students are asked to wear tennis shoes during competition. Men students are required to present their gymnasium fee receipts if lockers at the women's gymnasium are wanted, Miss Dunger suggested.

Badminton tournaments will follow later in the year as a part of the intramural athletic program.

Chest Drive Suffers From Football Spirit

Proceeds from the annual Iowa City Community Chest drive raised little yesterday, probably due to prevailing football spirit relating to the Iowa-Minnesota Homecoming grid battle to be held today according to Jack J. Swaner, campaign director.

Yesterday's subtotal of $16,192.30 stands 9.3 per cent under the $17,850 goal.

Business solicitors so far report collections amounting to $4,541.75; public schools, $365.50; professional, $884; university $4,348; college of medicine and University hospital, $1,408.50; employees, $1,737.30; residential, $1,225, and national firms, $1,906.

The drive is expected to end next week, Swaner said.

Allies Decide To Pool Men, Resources

LONDON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The allied supreme war council decided today to pool the economic resources as well as the manpower of Britain and France in a united drive for victory over Nazi Germany.

In the third meeting since the war began Sept. 3, the council announced the prospective establishment of coordinating committees to use the buying power of the two nations as one.

To avoid competition from each other in buying goods abroad, the council decided to draw up joint import programs.

Simultaneously, Britain's home defenses were stirred to action by the first air raid alarms of the war on England's west coast.

Red Cross Goal For Johnson County 20 Per Cent Attained

Zoologist Will Speak To Campus Group

Dr. Francis O. Schmitt of the zoology department of Washington university, St. Louis, will come to Iowa City December 8 to address a meeting sponsored by the graduate college.

Included in the joint session are the university zoology seminar and the physiology department of the college of medicine.

Gov. Wilson Urges Iowans To Volunteer

Homemaking Group Under Mrs. Clark Sews For Refugees

Dale Welt, chairman of the Red Cross Roll Call yesterday announced that the goal set for Johnson county has been 20 per cent attained.

The first unit to report 100 per cent enrollment, Welt said, is the Iowa State Bank and Trust company. Approximately 400 memberships to date have been reported, Welt said. The quota for Iowa City has been set at 2,100.

Gov. George A. Wilson has issued a statement calling attention to the necessity of the Red Cross Roll Call volunteer work.

"I urge every Iowan who can devote several hours on a voluntary basis on Nov. 11 or on one or more days immediately following to offer his services to his or her local chapter of the Red Cross," he said.

"Because Iowa can always meet its quota in anything good, I know that Iowans will respond to the call and contact the local chapter of the Red Cross to pull together to maintain Iowa's fine record in this humanitarian progress," he concluded.

Among the work being carried on by Iowa Citizens is that of the homemaking committee under the direction of Mrs. L. E. Clark. Committee members are making sweaters and dresses for Polish refugees.

Mrs. Martin Peterson announced that yarn has been received for about 10 more dresses. Mrs. Thomas Abbott is in charge of the committee making all the woolen articles, except the sweaters which is under the direction of Mrs. James Herring. Volunteers have been asked to get in touch with Mrs. Clark, 1508 S. Lucas street.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Hefte of Tracy, Minn., are Homecoming guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Odin Blehrud, 126 N. Clinton.

Northwestern university has banned the use of portable radios in the stands during football games.

Post Office Closes So That Employees May Attend Game

The local post office will close at noon today to allow employees to attend the Iowa-Minnesota homecoming football game, officials announced yesterday.

No rural deliveries will be made Thursday although the city deliveries will be carried, it is announced. There will be no city deliveries Nov. 30 but rural deliveries will be made on that day. (Nov. 23 is the holiday designated by President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving proclamation for rural mail carriers.)

Social League Worker Asks For Donations

Rev. Jones To Talk At Church Service To Announce Needs

A special Thanksgiving day community church service with the Rev. Iton T. Jones presiding is scheduled to be held in the Presbyterian church at 10 a. m., Nov. 30, it was announced yesterday by the Rev. R. E. McEvoy.

The Rev. Llewellyn A. Owen of the First Congregational church will be the speaker at the service, to be sponsored by Iowa City churches and student organizations, which is to provide food and supplies for the Social Service league to assist them in caring for their Thanksgiving day needs, the Rev. Mr. McEvoy said.

"This service is a continuation of a custom which has begun some years ago," he said. "It is a special effort to get response to the needs of the league. Those who would like to make contributions are requested to take them to the Social Service league, 19 E. Market street."

Staple foods such as vegetables, fruit, canned goods, sugar and other articles which may be kept over a period of time are needed, the Rev. Mr. McEvoy said. There is also a need for food which might be classed as "extra," such as cranberries, plum pudding, grapes, nuts and fresh fruit, he added.

Cow Suit

Herlein Asks for $105 From Harmsen

Suit of John Herlein against John Harmsen for judgment of $105 because of a cow that allegedly did not meet the requirements of a sale was taken under advisement yesterday in district court by Judge James P. Gaffney.

Herlein told the court that he bought the cow for $140 from the defendant for use in his dairy. The cow however, he said, has not lived up to expectations and was only actually worth about $35 at the time of the sale.

Iowa City Reports Increase Of Pneumonia Deaths in 1938

Iowa City was among 11 Iowa cities of over 10,000 population which reported an increase in pneumonia deaths in 1938 compared with the previous year, the Iowa state department of health said today. The department announced that 49 pneumonia deaths were reported here in 1938 and 41 in 1937. These totals include University hospital figures.

The pneumonia death rate, estimated by the department's vital statistics division on the basis of deaths reported in Iowa City, was 259.3 deaths per 100,000 population last year compared with 227.5 per 100,000 in 1937. For urban areas of the state as a whole, using the same population estimate, the rate was 86.4 deaths in 1938 and 91.8 the year before. Including rural areas, there were 1,645 pneumonia deaths for the entire state last year compared with 1,745 in 1937.

The health department and its advisory committee on pneumonia control stated, "With adequate public understanding of pneumonia and cooperation in fighting it, Iowa City should obtain a reduction in its death toll from this disease during the approaching winter season."

"Development of new methods of treatment during recent years has given the physician powerful weapons for control of this disease which he has not had before. With modern pneumonia serum, sulfapyridine, or a combination of both, the pneumonia death rate in the state might be cut 50 per cent."

During the past three years, the state health department has established 140 pneumonia typing stations in Iowa, providing them with the necessary diagnostic serum for typing without cost. The department also distributes curative serum for underprivileged patients.

Iowa City ranks twelfth in the number of pneumonia deaths among 21 cities in Iowa with a population of over 10,000 according to a report of the state department of health. The 49 pneumonia deaths for 1938 and 41 for 1937 include University hospital figures.

Tough Season Ahead For Swim Team

Sophomores Expected To Balance Losses Through Graduation

Iowa's swimming team, still a bit weary as the result of efforts in the Dolphin Follies, will forge the show business for the next few months and will make ready for the coming campaign in the conference.

Coach Dave Armbruster is giving his men a week's rest before he sets them about the task of preparing themselves for the long season ahead.

Prospects for the team this year look very promising, but whether or not the Hawks will be in the thick of the conference race will depend upon the development of a host of sophomore candidates who are likely to be on the team.

Veterans Return

The big share of the work, however, will fall upon a number of veterans who were standouts on the team last year.

Included in this list are Tony Bremer and Al Armbruster, co-captains of the 1939-40 team who take to the backstroke for their specialty. Armbruster may also be used as a distance man if the depth in that department falls below expectations.

Another pair of veterans who are expected to do great things for the Hawkeye cause are Carl Ahlgren and George Poulos. Ahlgren, midwest A. A. U. champion in the 220 and 440-yard distance events, is a sophomore. Poulos, another midwest champion, is a junior breast stroke veteran.

Ed Gerber, another veteran, is back to bolster the distance events along with Ahlgren and Bill Eagen.

The Hawks, who finished in fourth position in the conference last year behind Michigan, Ohio State, and Minnesota, are well fortified in all departments save the sprints.

Strong in Backstroke

The backstroke will be taken care of by Armbruster, Bremer, Ed Mahoney and Jack Nichols. Mahoney and Nichols are a pair of untried sophomores but have been showing plenty of promise in their pre-season drills.

Bright spot in the Iowa team appears to be in the diving and in the breast stroke. Nick Connell, Vic Vargon and Leo Biedrzycki, all sophomores, will team with Frank Brandon to make Iowa a potential threat to all comers in the diving event.

The breast stroke will find Poulos, surrounded by another trio of sophomores—Cyril Noon, Nick Karaffa, and Dwight Johnson.

Sprints Offer Problem

The sprints offer another problem for Coach Armbruster to solve before the Hawks can become a conference contender. Although plenty of strength is seen in the

By OSCAR HARGRAVE

Daily Iowan Sports Editor There used to be panic in Iowa City when the sullen rumble in the north became a roar as Minnesota's golden horde descended on Iowa stadium—a giant "off" of the northland, bent on fearful destruction to Hawkeye football fortunes. Those days of unpleasant anticipation have passed.

The Gopher army of 1939 is no less menacing and no less dangerous, but all Iowa feels that in the first Hawkeye eleven of Dr. Eddie Anderson there is a fighting force equal to any. The Hawks of this year are not cannon fodder, but an outfit equipped the best in guns and with barricades that have stood the test of Indiana's long range air armada, Wisconsin's crushing George Paskvan, the lightning of Purdue's three B's and, lastly, they outfought the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame. Only Michigan was able to outscore the Hawkeyes and that defeat came at a time when vital units of the Iowa machine were crippled, and before Mechanics Eddie Anderson, Frank Carideo and Jim Harris could polish the repaired portions.

Boni Picks Gophers Over Iowa

Believes Irish Better Than Wildcats; Sooners To Down Missouri

By BILL BONI

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Oklahoma and North Carolina, charter members of this season's college football "top ten," will have everything to gain and even more to lose tomorrow as they clash with natural rivals in the day's two biggest "naturals."

The Sooners, who have battered their way past six rivals since Southern Methodist tied them in the opening game, can sew up the Big Six title for the second straight year and virtually clinch another bowl bid by knocking down Paul Christman's passes to knock over Missouri. Carolina, which came from behind with aerials to tie Tulane and has won its seven other starts, runs up against Duke, the club it's been pointing for all fall.

For each game, there will be capacity houses—51,000 at Durham for the Southern conference duel; 28,000 at Columbus, Mo., for the Big Six battle.

But interest will not be restricted entirely to these two games. Unbeaten and untied Cornell, hopeful of repeating in the Ivy league, will battle Dartmouth up in the New Hampshire hills; Northwestern against Notre Dame; Minnesota against Iowa and Illinois against Ohio State should furnish mid-western fireworks; Tennessee and Georgia Tech, two of the Southeastern conference's tied leaders, will take on Vanderbilt and Alabama, respectively; the potent Texas Aggies will be heavily favored over Rice, and unbeaten but tied U.C.L.A. should have a west coast war on its hand with Santa Clara.

Going out on its favorite limb, where the company is sparse but very choice, this corner's predictions are (probable attendance figures in parentheses): Iowa-Minnesota (50,000)—Off scores of their Michigan games, the Gophers are five touchdowns better. Hardly that, but still Minnesota.

Duke-North Carolina (51,000)—This may develop into something extra-special in the way of back-field battles, with the McAfees on one side and Stirnweis and Lallane on the other. Taking the McAfees and Duke in full knowledge that those Tarheels are terrorists.

Missouri-Oklahoma (28,000)—Those smashing Sooner ends will be leaders in the campaign to prove that Christman "can't pass sitting down." Oklahoma.

Dartmouth-Cornell (16,000)—Cornell.

Tennessee-Vanderbilt (25,000)—The substitution of Johnny Butler for George Cafego probably will make very little difference in the Volunteer strength. Tennessee.

Notre Dame-Northwestern (56,000)—The Irish beat Purdue, 3-0; Purdue beat Northwestern 3-0, and Notre Dame should be just about those six points better.

U.C.L.A.-Santa Clara (40,000)—Well-rested U.C.L.A. by a shade.

Rice-Texas A. and M. (30,000)—The Aggies appear to be over their highest hurdle and coming down the straightaway.

Alabama-Georgia Tech (25,000)—Because it's more tricky and resourceful, Georgia Tech.

Penn-Michigan (45,000)—The choice is Michigan.

Oregon State-California (25,000)—Oregon State.

Yale-Princeton (40,000)—Princeton, and it might be a runaway.

Army-Penn State (15,000)—State to upset the Soldiers.

Ohio State-Illinois (50,000)—Ohio State.

Louisiana State-Auburn (20,000)—L.S.U.

Columbia-Tulane (30,000)—Tulane.

Pitt-Nebraska (30,000)—Looks like too many injuries at Pitt. Nebraska.

Texas-Texas Christian (25,000)—A long shot on T.C.U.

Fordham-St. Mary's (30,000)—The Gaels talk a good game, but Fordham.

Wisconsin-Purdue (30,000)—Purdue.

Syracuse-Colgate (28,000)—Syracuse to cut lose with one good one.

Michigan State-Indiana (20,000)—A toughie, Indiana.

Stanford-Washington State (20,000)—Stanford hasn't won yet. This book doesn't show why they should start now. Washington State.

Iowa-Gopher Milers Meet This Morning

Starting this morning at 11 o'clock a squad of Minnesota distance runners will meet an Iowa team here in a two-mile team race. This race is an exhibition event held for the Homecoming day celebration and is not a scheduled inter-university contest.

The Gopher group numbers four men: Kenneth and Kermot Gill, Liljegen, and C. Rasmussen; while the Hawkeye team carries seven varsity and freshmen, including Glenn Sparks, Cameron Campbell, Arnold Carlson, Carl Schnoor, Merl Erickson, George Vacik and Leonard Fuller.

Liljegen and Rasmussen are old-hands at the distance test for Minnesota and have seen much competition in the conference. Campbell and Erickson are two of the Hawks best in the longer routes and have seen considerable action in these events in the Big Ten.

The exhibition run has been planned for the indoor 220 yard track, which would give the men 16 laps; but it is very likely that the meet will be held on the outdoor cinder track if the weather and the early stadium crowds permit. The cinder oval is 440 yards around and is located just east of the stadium.

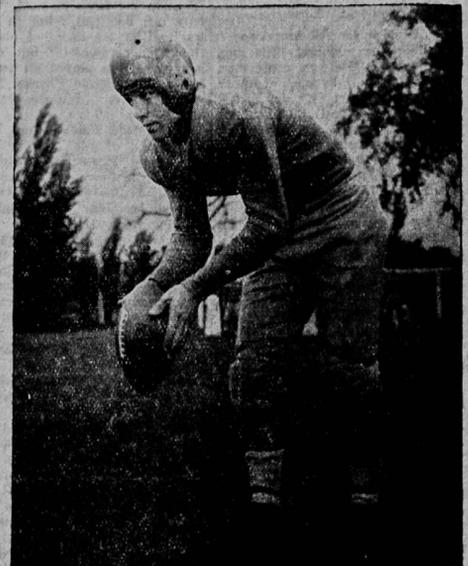

The run will begin at 11 o'clock this morning and there will be no admission charge.

Hockey Player Wears Glasses NEW YORK (AP)—Chuck Shannon, New York American hockey goal defender, wears shatterproof glasses which he fastens to his head with adhesive tape.

Sharpshooter

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP)—Mrs. A. B. Clift, mother of Harland Clift, the St. Louis Browns' infielder, holds hunting honors in the Clift family. She bagged a five-point, 650-pound elk with a bullet through the neck. She also bagged a buck deer during the recent hunting season.

Floyd "Buzz" Dean

One of the unheralded men on the Iowa team this year is Floyd "Buzz" Dean, senior right half-back from Atlantic. Although "Buzz" limits his activities on the gridiron to blocking and running, he is perhaps one of the finest kickers on the squad. He has been alternating at right half position with Ed McLain and has been hindered part of the season with a back and shoulder injury. However, you will probably see plenty of him before the afternoon session is over.

Plunging Fullback

Ray Murphy, Iowa fullback who played his prep days for Ida Grove high school, has been catching the eyes of the gridiron critics lately for his work in ripping through opponents' lines for consistent gains. Ray is a junior and boasts the best average of any Hawk back in average yardage gained from scrimmage. A rare feature of Murphy is the fact that he wears glasses, strapped to his head, when he plays. He is the probable starter at fullback for the Hawkeyes today.

Here Are Today's Opponents--Minnesota's Golden Gophers

Marty Christianson

With their usual surge of late season power, the Gophers of Minnesota meet Iowa's Hawkeyes this afternoon at Iowa stadium. We present here the Gophers most likely to make trouble.

CAPT. WIN PEDEREN is the bulwark of the University of Minnesota line that must carry the Gopher's defensive burden during 1939. Durable and untiring, he hopes to equal last season's record of having been in action seven full games out of eight. A senior from Minneapolis, Win plays left tackle on the offense, switches to the right side on defense. He is six feet, three inches in height, weighs 210 pounds.

HAROLD VAN EVERY, whose synchronized passing is the best seen on the Minnesota campus in many seasons, will carry a major portion of the Gopher's 1939 offensive plans. Stationed at left half, key point in the backfield, Van Every not only passes, but runs and punts with equal facility. With a blocking quarterback in the lineups, he will call signals for the Gophers. Out of action most of last season because of an ailment, he is again in top condition. Van Every is a senior from Minnetonka Beach, stands five feet, 11 inches, weighs 191 pounds.

Sonny Franck

BRUCE SMITH seems to be one of those sophomores every football coach is looking for. A rugged, graceful type of player, he is expected to be Minnesota's regular right halfback through the 1939 season. His presence in the Gopher backfield along with Van Every will give the Gophers a pair of triple-threat backs. He is from Fairbault, Minn., stands six feet, one inch and weighs 188 pounds.

GEORGE FRANCK, veteran Minnesota left halfback, is counted upon to give a touch of unusual speed to the Gopher backfield. A 9.7s 100-yard dashman on the Gopher track team, Franck moves nearly as fast on the gridiron. He is a long distance punter and was the regular left halfback through most of 1938. From Davenport, Ia., Franck stands five feet 11 inches, weighs 173 pounds.

MARTIN CHRISTIANSEN is the 1939 candidate to carry out the University of Minnesota's tradition for fine fullbacks. The rugged Marty served as alternate for Larry Buhler for two seasons and now hopes to step into the regular fullback's job. A senior from Minneapolis, Christiansen stands six feet, one inch, weighs 195 pounds.

JOE MERNIK, stocky little Minnesota sophomore halfback, seems to be another Gopher sophomore destined for recognition in his first year. Remindful of Rudy Gmitro, Mernik packs both power and speed into his compact frame. He is a fine passer and competent kicker. From Minneapolis, stands five feet, nine inches, weighs 176 pounds.

PHIL BELFIORI holds the seniority rights among Minnesota quarterbacks, but may be called upon frequently to play fullback also during the 1939 season. A capable strategist and a fine line blocker and blocker, Belfiori provides steadiness for the Gopher backfield. A senior from Kinross, Minn., he is five feet, 11 inches in height and weighs 190 pounds.

BOB PAFFRATH is one of Coach Bernie Bierman's set of multiple duty backs. A promising halfback during 1938, Paffrath is a fine ball carrier. His blocking ability has caused him to be shifted to blocking quarterback this season, with the possibility that he will alternate between the two positions. Paffrath is a junior from Redwood Falls, stands five feet, nine inches and weighs 180 pounds.

ED STEINBAUER won his letter at fullback for Minnesota last season, but he may be playing end during 1939. Powerfully built and rangy, Steinbauer fits in well at end. He is a junior from Owatonna, weighs 198 pounds and stands six feet, two inches.

JOHN MARIUCCI is one of the three veteran regulars on the 1939 Minnesota eleven. A fine blocker, he also is adept at catching passes, but has yet to catch a touchdown pass. Mariucci is a senior from Eveleth. He stands a fraction under six feet, weighs 190 pounds.

BILL JOHNSON is in line to inherit the vacancy at right end in the 1939 Minnesota lineup. As a sophomore last season he won his spurs for frequent relief duty. His principle contribution as a sophomore was to snare a pass that put Minnesota in position to score the tying touchdown against

Capt. Win Pedersen

Michigan. A junior, he is from Slayton, Minn., stands six feet, two inches and weighs 193 pounds.

BOB BJORKLUND was considered a pretty fair end at Minnesota last season. He won his letter at that position as the result of frequent service. This fall, shifted to center, he is expected to be one of the key men on the squad in that position. He is a junior from Minneapolis, stands six feet, one inch, weighs 215 pounds.

HELGE PUKEMA didn't quite see enough action as a Gopher last season to win his 'M' but he is expected to be in more than enough games to earn a letter in 1939. A husky, fast charging guard, he is one of the top men score the tying touchdown against junior from Duluth. He stands five feet, 11 inches. Weighs 211 pounds.

MERLE LARSON is the oldest guard from the point of service on the Minnesota squad and one of the two lettermen at that position. A senior from Iron Mountain, Mich., on the Upper Peninsula, Larson hopes to make his first team bid in his final season. He is five feet, 10 inches, weighs 190 pounds.

CARL MAGNUSSEN is one of the huskiest of the group of sophomore tackles who have been added to the Minnesota roster this season. Magnusson, a resident of St. Paul, stands six feet in height, weighs 227 pounds.

Hawkeyes--

nation's most powerful outfits, both rolling along with terrific momentum, meet here at 2 o'clock this afternoon and the Big Ten title may depend on the outcome.

Although the Gophers have no chance to retain their championship of last year, they are under way at least and a Minnesota team that is rolling ahead under full steam is a powerful juggernaut. Last week, despite the reputation of Michigan and its flashy Tom Harmon, the Gophers thumped to an impressive 20-7 victory.

Iron Men of Iowa
Somewhat different is the case of Anderson and his Hawkeyes, a band of iron men who overshadowed the dope bucket in a rise to national football prominence. Iowa's past fame is so far distant that it was nearly lost, but there is now an Iowa future, and no one will deny the present.

There is, in spite of the one defeat marring the Hawkeye record, a chance for Iowa to top the Big Ten heap this year, with Minnesota and Northwestern still to meet. Ohio State would have to lose one of its remaining two titles to make that possible, but that isn't the question today.

Hawkeye Immortals
It's an old question of a rivalry that reaches back past the days of the Devine brothers, Aubrey and Glenn, Duke Slater, Gordon Locke, Bill Glassgow, Narny Pape, Pete Westra, Joe Laws, Zud Schammel and other Iowa immortals. And, it has not been since the days of all-American Glassgow and Pape who led Iowa to victory over the Gophers in 1929, that the Hawkeyes can boast a win over the Norsemen.

And this year, Hawkeye followers feel that there is a chance. Under the leadership of Anderson and his coaching aides a new crop of Iowa stars has climbed into the football skies that all-American picking astronomers scan.

Kinnick for All-American
Upon the mightiest little man around the Western conference, Nile Kinnick, falls much of Iowa's offensive burden. Kinnick is not the nation's fastest back, nor probably the greatest passer, but he does everything with the ball except eat it, and he rates high in any department of football.

As proof of any statements in Kinnick's behalf, we need only to offer the statements of coaches, sports writers and other experts, who, to the man, call Kinnick one of the nation's best. If that evidence doesn't satisfy, there is a pro-Kinnick story in the statistics, which say that the "Corn-belt Comet" has a marvelous punting average, that he has dropped 10 out of 15 points after touchdown, that he has thrown nine passes for scores and that he has crossed enemy goal lines on a number of occasions. That, in short, is Nile Kinnick, the durable slingshot a mere David of a Hawkeye football squad will turn on the Goliath of the Western conference.

To mention Kinnick calls for a review of the Iowa offensive in general, and the offensive this year depends plenty on Albert Coupee, Iowa's "Dictator" quarterback. Big and tough at 190 pounds, Coupee, all-state back in high school at Council Bluffs two years ago, is riding toward the top in the Iowa chariot, which shows signs of Coupee handiwork in its style.

Al Coupee, The Dictator

For, colorful and aggressive as the Hawkeye eleven is under the miraculous hand of Eddie Anderson, one of its brightest sparks is Al Coupee, who calls signals like the first mate on a pirate ship shouts his orders. Even as a sophomore, Coupee, also a fierce blocker and tackler and a deadly pass catcher, has drawn tributes as a crafty field general. With two years yet to go under the tutelage of Frank Carideo, Anderson's backfield coaching aide, Coupee should continue to rise.

In the dazzling offensive that Kinnick sets off and Coupee directs there are still others who play a big part. Ray Murphy, long-striding junior, slashes powerfully from a fullback spot, while Bill Green, who shares the spot with Murphy, is one of the fastest of the Hawkeyes and a savage defensive player. At right halfback Ed McLain and Buzz Dean, two seniors, share most of the work, with diminutive Russell Busk filling in occasionally.

Dean Gets A Chance
Held back as an understudy for Kinnick until this year, Dean, a better than average kicker and passer, has been getting his chance for the first time, and has been an effective ground gainer.

That takes care of the backfield, but does not finish Iowa's offensive. With Kinnick heaving passes to intersperse his crashing runs, the ends have scored five Iowa touchdowns this year. Capt. Erwin Prasse, one of the fastest men on the Iowa squad, has raced over the goal line three times after dragging Kinnick's passes out of the sky, while Dick Evans, Prasse's running mate, and Bill Kelly, sophomore reserve have each scored once.

Thin Line of Steel
Between, and including, Evans and Prasse, is that collection of thin, but tempered, steel, the 60-minute line that has held the mighty men of Purdue and Notre Dame to a scant six points in the last two games. Of those seven in the Iowa forward wall, only one has had relief in the last two battles, and that player Ham Snider, saved-off, but fearless guard, has played all but a few minutes while Charles Tollefson and Max Hawkins staved off the foes in his place.

An Odd Combination
The rest of the line, besides Evans and Prasse, the pair of seniors who have been smashing down end runs in late games, is the odd combination of Snider working with two former all-state backfield men and a man who never played football until last spring. "Iron Mike" Enich, of course, whom Coach Anderson calls America's best tackle, made the switch from backfield to line last year. A full time man for the last four games, Enich is striding steadily toward the top and all-star honors, behind his teammate, the sensational Kinnick.

Ken Pettit, the other former back, took over a guard position shortly after Henry Luebecke was torn from the squad roster by an operation. The hole left by the gigantic Luebecke was a big one, but Line Coach Jim Harris went to work in a hurry, put Snider to work, and made a big-time guard out of Pettit. Pettit, like Wally Bergstrom, who began his football career in practice last spring, hasn't missed a minute of play since he took over his spot. Bergstrom, called into action since the powerful Jim Walker injured his knee, learned his football the hard way on the field, and knowing that Big Ten games depended on how well he learned his job.

Andruska Comes Through
The center spot also has its tale of a stand against the heaviest odds. To begin the season, Bill Diehl, a cagy and brilliant sophomore, held down the pivot post. Coach Anderson had faith in Diehl and said he wouldn't trade his new man for any opponent Diehl had met. But, an injury in the Wisconsin game sent Diehl to the sidelines for the rest of the season, and Bruno Andruska took over. Andruska, a veteran, has plugged the gap for 60 minutes in each of the past two games and it was his jarring tackle of Steve Sitko that set up the Iowa score against Notre Dame.

That line, three veterans who have seen dismal seasons, two former backs, a newcomer to football and Ham Snider, a watch charm guard, is a forward wall that has stopped the last two opponents and which doesn't plan to give ground before a powerful Minnesota line which outweighs it by over 10 pounds to the man.

It is easy to see why the pre-season dope favored Iowa opponents, but Minnesota has its biggest day of the season ahead. The strength on pre-season paper doesn't win the ball games, for here is contrary evidence that can't be laughed off.

NEW YORK (AP)—A three-year survey shows that professional booters convert 81 per cent of their extra point attempts, a figure nearly 20 per cent over that shown by college teams. Only three times in the last four years has a team lost because of failure to kick the point after touchdown.

Hawkeye Diamond Team Holds Big Ten Title

"The Yankees of the Big Ten" is the title often given to the Iowa baseball team by sports writers. Co-champions in 1938 along with Indiana and undisputed champions in 1939—such is the record of Coach Otto Vogel and his ball players.

But "Otts" doesn't intend to let it go at that for he is already preparing for the 1940 season by having his team work out from time to time this winter. Faced with the loss of such outstanding players as Art Manush and Bill Vogt, last year's co-captains, Ken Reid, the southpaw hurling ace, and Elmer Bratten, Vogel is going to have a hard time finding suitable replacements.

Returning lettermen who will be available include Harold Haub, Iowa co-captain who was unbeaten in conference play last season and Jim George, voted as the most valuable player in the Big Ten in his sophomore year and co-captain of the 1940 team. The Hawk infield will find the veterans Erwin Prasse at the key-stone sack, Andy Kantor at short and Frank Kocur cooling off the hot corner with Norman Hankins behind the plate. Fred Hohenhorst will replace Ken Reid on the pitching staff.

Followers of Big Ten baseball will recall how last year the Hawks won the undisputed title after they had dropped two of their first three conference games. They won eight of their nine remaining games to nose out Indiana in percentage ratings.

Jimmy George played consistent baseball again last spring and came through with a batting average of .452 to lead the conference. He also took first honors in total hits, total bases, and tied with Manush for second place in total runs scored. Bratten tied with Mackiewicz of Purdue and Smith of Wisconsin for second in total bases. The Iowa first sacker also tied for second in runs batted in. Other Iowa players who hit above the .300 mark were Bratten, 381; and Manush with a .327 average.

Harold Haub was the leading pitcher in the conference. He finished a perfect season by winning four games and dropping none. Haub had an earned run average of .50, struck out 35 men, allowed but 30 hits and walked only fourteen men.

Haub's baseball prowess didn't stop with his pitching as he was at the plate 21 times and connected safely nine times to give him a percentage of .429. Iowa's Frank Balaz, who confined his hitting to the pinches, also had an average of .429.

All winter long the Hawkeye baseball team will be working out from time to time and when March 17th rolls around there will be some 18 or 19 ball players leaving for the deep south where they will get in shape for the Big Ten season.

If Santa Claus will present Vogel with a couple of good outfielders and two or three pitchers you can be sure that the Vogelmen will again be the top team in the Big Ten if not in the country.

They said at the start of the 1939 season that Iowa would be weak in the line. There were few reserves and no big names, although "Iron Mike" Enich, Jim Walker, Bill Diehl and Capt. Erwin Prasse appeared to be quite capable. The first few games saw the line having its troubles. First Henry Luebecke was lost to the squad because of an operation and Iowa went into the Michigan game with the guard posts poorly fortified, for Coach Eddie Anderson and the Line Coach Jim Harris had not as yet been able to develop replacements. In the Michigan game Walker, a mighty tackle, was injured and is just now getting back into shape. With both tackle and guard posts poorly fortified, the task looked big, but Wally Bergstrom, who had never played football until last spring, took over Walker's tackle post and held his own, while Max Hawkins, Charles Tollefson and Ham Snider alternated at guards. After Wisconsin was whipped, the Hawks went to Purdue as underdogs and with experts predicting that Iowa's undermanned line would be riddled by fleetfooted Purdue backs. The Hawkeyes went into the game with Capt. Erwin Prasse and Dick Evans at ends, Mike Enich and Wally Bergstrom at tackles, Ken Pettit and Ham Snider at guards

Meet Iowa's Far-Famed Coaching Staff; Eddie Anderson, Frank Carideo, Jim Harris

By a Staff Writer

Who are these miracle men who have so suddenly transformed the University of Iowa football team from a combination that didn't know how to win to one that doesn't know how to lose?

Are they modern Merlins, their little black bags filled with black magic to be released only on the day of the game?

The answer to these questions might be yes, to a prejudiced observer who sees only what goes on on the football field every afternoon, and can't connect what he sees with what he reads.

But to those who know these Iowa coaches, Dr. Edward N. Anderson, eye, ear, nose, throat and football specialist; Jim Harris, who can take a piece of string, a bottle of glue and several yards of football player and transform it into an uncrackable line; Frank Carideo, the "playing coach" who was an all-American for two years at Notre Dame and who has taught so many of his gridiron tricks to Iowa's willing pupils, to these persons, the answer is no.

Not that the coaches are not deserving of the title "Miracle Men," far from it. But their methods have been more fundamental than whispering secrets of gridiron magic into players' ears and sending them onto the field. Their method is hard work, work made easier by the high respect in which they are held by Iowa's "Hardy Handful."

They meet you more than half way, these Iowa coaches, and the results are shown by the results of the season's first six games. Cold statistics will never put across the story of just what these coaches are, the type of men that each one of them is. But neither could the warmest words ever spelled out on the most enthusiastic typewriter.

Here are their records, in cold pany with all-American candidate Nile Kinnick and "Dictator" Al Coupee of the backfield, while Snider, who stood through the fury of charges by the powerful Milt Piepul, played all but a few minutes of the bitter battle. All told, it's still an iron wall, with few replacements, but it has fought through the toughest of seasons and held its own, even while losing three heroic members in Luebecke, Walker and Diehl. And, while Minnesota might pierce the thin wall of steel today, it won't do so without battle, not while these seven iron men stay on their feet.

Cornell Stops Carleton 20-6 In Final Tilt

MOUNT VERNON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Cornell college stopped the Carleton eleven from Northfield, Minn., 20 to 6 here today in the last game of the season for the two teams.

Dick Raiter, fleet little Carleton back, led his team to a first period score with a flash of speed that made it look as if the Purple eleven was in for trouble. Johnson, right halfback, made the touchdown.

However, in the second period Jim Sprague, senior quarterback, and Oswill Fais, senior fullback, sparked a drive that ended when Fais plunged over the goal line.

In the third period Fais broke into the clear and ran from his own 29-yard line to the Carl's 20, where he was tackled. However, as the tackle hit him, Fais shot a lateral to Tackle Charley Harris, who raced the remaining distance to the goal to complete the 71-yard scoring thrust.

Gene Torquist scored the final marker for Cornell in the last period after Fullback Bill Watson had paved the way with a series of plunges through the line. Sprague kicked the two extra points.

Hofer Works Iowa Freshmen

First Year Squad Shows Some Promise With 60 on Roster

With all eyes focused on the present edition of the Iowa football team, it comes to our mind the fact that when the fall of 1940 rolls around gridiron fans will not see those familiar present stars out on the field.

Captain Prasse, Nile Kinnick and the other graduating Iowa veterans will take their turn and watch some fellow, perhaps unknown and unnoticed in his underclassman days, take the glories that were once theirs.

This brings us to the question mark squad — the freshmen. It seems that freshmen are always a question mark and it certainly holds true in football. The break between his freshman days and the time he checks out equipment for a try at the varsity usually determines whether he will make good or just be "another ball player."

Some go through their freshman days on the scrub teams but when they strut out with the varsity they turn out to be the most valuable men on the squad.

This year 96 men reported to Coach Bill Hofer for the yearling team. Perhaps 30 will be out for the varsity next year. Among these, however, will be some who enjoy the game, who showed promise during their freshman drills and who are expected to take a place in the future Iowa teams.

At the present time we can pick out a few among the candidates and safely say that they will find their place on the Hawkeye squad next fall.

Among the backfield men who warrant special attention are Bob Bender, Tom Farmer, Bernard Mertes, Bill Parker, Jim Youel, Bill Staus, Al Eddy and Ben Trickey.

All are fast, pack plenty of drive and show the spirit that is characteristic of potent backfield material.

The linemen also show plenty of promise and gave the varsity all they wanted several times this year in scrimmage drill. Standouts among the linemen include Henry Miller, end; Ross Anderson, guard; Francis Curran, guard; Delmas Dickerhoof, tackle; George Cable, tackle; Manly Graflund, guard; Bob Penaluna, guard; Paul Podmajersky, tackle; Charles Snyder, guard, and Albert Urban, end.

Coach Hofer and his assistants, Glenn Devine, Ted Swenson and Bob Allen, will continue to work with their present squad of 65 men until the end of the season.

Buned was played during the evening. Beatrice Nelson won the high score prize and Miss Lindsey won the low score award.

Guests included Adria Landis, Mrs. Cleone Nelson and daughter, Beatrice, Mrs. Jack Dysart, Mrs. George Leonard, Mrs. William Grandrath, Mildred Sweeting, Viola Petzel, Adelaide Kadlec, Mrs. John Doss, Mrs. Fred Brown, Mrs. Ralph DeArmand, Mrs. Zelpha Brown, Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. Leo O'Meara, Margaret Jones, Rose Marie Wenninger, Gertrude Reardon of Oakdale, and Miss Lindsey and Miss Brown.

Wesleyan Wins 12-0 Victory

MT. PLEASANT, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Iowa Wesleyan eleven scored twice in the fourth quarter to defeat Simpson college of Indianola, 12-0 in an Iowa conference football game here today.

After the two teams had battled on even terms through three periods, Hatfield and Krieger started an Iowa Wesleyan drive that carried the ball to the four-yard line, where Hatfield swept around end for a counter. Harden's kick was blocked.

Late in the period Joe Boyle intercepted a Simpson pass on the visitors' 46. Hudson, Pillar and Krieger alternated at carrying the ball to the Simpson six-yard stripe in six plays. Simpson was penalized five yards, placing the ball on the one-yard line, where Boyle took it over on a dive through center. Harden's try at placement again was blocked.

The second touchdown was made with only 10 seconds left in the game.

Simpson threatened seriously only once. That was in the first quarter when they were stopped on the Wesleyan five.

Girls Exempt
ROFF, Okla. (AP)—Twenty-seven of the 30 boys enrolled at Roff high school are on the football squad. Two others are kept from playing because of doctors orders. But what about the other one? He already has passed the age limit set up by state inter-scholastic rules.

What Do Fans Think of Hawks? Here's A Follower's Opinion

(Editor's Note: This is a copy of a letter written to a Minneapolis newspaper by an Iowa football follower. It is, we think, a good sample of what Hawkeye backers think this year. At least, it was accepted as such by the Minnesota paper to which it was originally sent.)

"I have been following football for 35 years and, during that time, I never saw or heard of a team like these Hawkeyes.

"Anderson has instilled a fighting heart into these boys unequalled in the past history of this school. And with that they have poise. Not a man was excited last week; nor are they this week. All other teams put their pants on just the same, one leg at a time, and are just another ball club to these boys. Newspaper stories have no effect. They just go out there and put on the pressure all afternoon.

"In the Michigan game, they made errors; and every error was a Michigan touchdown. Sophomore quarterbacks usually make them. But since then it would be hard to put your finger on an error. Wisconsin—a beautiful game to see. Purdue—fought Purdue all over the lot for three quarters and then forced two safeties in the fourth. Did you ever hear of such a thing before? I saw Minnesota and Purdue tie this year and knew Purdue had a good team.

"And Saturday, the pressure was on Notre Dame every minute. Not an error by Iowa on which the Irish could capitalize. They waited all afternoon and waited in vain. Only once did the tired Iowa line ease up a little. That was enough for a touchdown, then they bottled up the Irish again. It would have done your heart good to see one man smash an interference of three and then follow from behind to get the ball carrier. End runs nor forward passes, neither gained much ground when the gain was needed.

"And this man Kinnick's foot. Boy, what a kicker. Believe it or not, twice he sent punts over the safety man's head for long rolls. Those were not accidents. Twice again out of bounds in the coffin corners. And he can pass with the best, block with the best and carry the ball. Watch an all-American Saturday, his last game at home.

"But ahead of him are some iron men. Only 14 or 15 men available here, and nearly every one is a 60 minute player. Notre Dame put in man after man, looked like they had five teams, even a Boston bull dog and a cottontail rabbit. Everything but the water boy. And when they sent out eight fresh men late in the fourth quarter to battle that tired Iowa 60 minute bunch, the crowd boomed and yelled 'rasberries.' Seemed like too much. They certainly never let up trying to win.

"Minnesota folks who want to see a game regardless of who wins, better be here Saturday about 1 p.m. Hope you bring the band."

Cage Outlook Still Uncertain

Iowa Hopes Rest On New Talent; Season Approaches

Basketball Coach Rollie Williams has a job on his hands this year. Twenty-eight men answered the call for the initial practice session of the season.

Among those reporting were returning lettermen, Angelo Anapol, Tommy Lind and Fred Hohenhorst at the forwards, Ken Bastian and Chuck Plett at the center position, and Howard Irvine at guard. Robert Jenkins, a minor letter winner last year also was on hand for the first practice.

The rest of the cagers are all sophomores with the exception of Erwin Prasse and Dick Evans who will not have more than a week's practice before the first game which is scheduled for Dec. 2. It is these sophomores, however, who are getting a lot of attention from Coach Williams. He is drilling them to work in with the veterans and it looks like the starting lineup is just one of those things that you cannot tell about until the teams actually take the floor.

Practice sessions are being held daily at the fieldhouse and offensive and defensive strength of the various combinations is being tried out and Coach Williams with the assistance of Popsie Harrison is ironing out the mistakes and putting added punch into the cagers as the football season fades and the basketball season looms up before Hawkeye fans.

Several new faces will be found in the Iowa lineups this year. Among the forwards you probably will see Bill Wheller of Newton, Vic Siegel of Davenport, Arthur Smith of Ft. Madison, Tom Chapman of Storm Lake, George Knight of Dubuque, Wendell Hill of Cambridge, Ill., and Joe Gaeta of Lone Tree. Among the sophomore centers, Milt Kuhl of Ida Grove, Dick Hein of Erie, Ill., Bruce Fountain of Missouri

PRESSBOX PICKUPS
By OSCAR HARGRAVE

Dr. Eddie Anderson, we find, is not a hard man to get news out of, except one kind. He is not overly talkative, nor yet secretive — he isn't worried about games and he is neither a pessimist nor overconfident, so we find one thing hard to do — to find from his conversations just what chances are in coming games.

It's probably the most foolish thing one could do to ask the Iowa mentor what would happen in the next game. The answer would probably come in the form of a question, "What do you think about it?"

Which leaves you at exactly the starting point. You might answer Anderson's question in a voice unfavorable to Iowa, to which he would grin in a manner discomfiting to the guy who was sucker enough to bet against him, while to predict victory for Iowa would bring out a statement something like this. "Good, I knew we had one backer."

That, mind you, is Eddie Anderson, the coach who has no excuses, no sorrows of public nature and no pre-arranged schedule of events, at least not that he will talk about. If there is the least sort of doubt about the unpredictability of the Iowa games, to all but Anderson, at least, we point to the record books. The Hawkeye offensive in early games was a furious, wide-open type, but just when it was catalogued, the Hawks became a smart, well-poised outfit and proceeded to clamp down on Purdue and Notre Dame, meanwhile failing to turn loose any of their famed aerials. That leaves even the most informed sources as much in the dark on what is on deck today as the residents of South Africa. The Hawks have a lot of guns and they might use any and all, or they might concentrate on one.

And therein lies much of the drawing power of those Hawkeyes, who try everything and anything, and of Anderson, who has a habit of making an Iowa follower out of every sports reporter who comes his way.

Yesterday we found another sign of Hawkeye fame. A nationally-known newsreel outfit took a series of shots of the team, as well as some of Nile Kinnick. The company will be represented again at today's game, along with several others. Things are happening about this town, and the nation watches, along with Iowa students and alumni.

Valley and Wayne Putnam of Iowa City, are showing up well. The guard positions are really flanked with former high school stars in such men as Norman Sander of Des Moines, Paul Siglin of Cedar Falls, Rudy Soderquist of Rapid City, S. D., Bernard Duffe of Wilton Junction and Vince Harsha of Oxford.

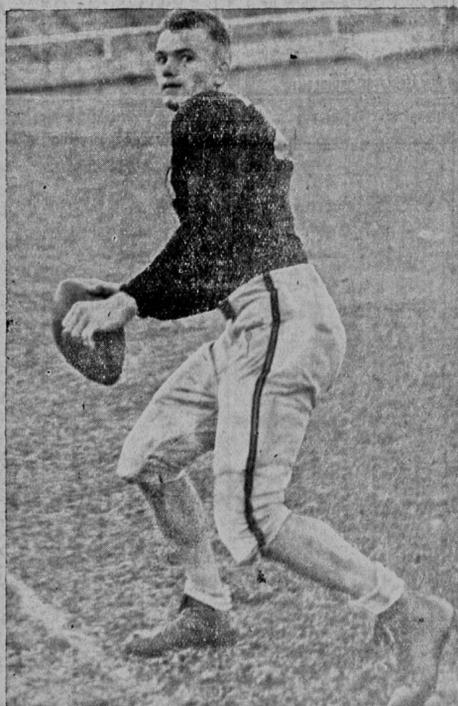

The 1939-40 Hawkeye cage squad faces the following 21-game schedule:

Triple-Threat Star

Leader of Iowa's offense and heralded as possible all-American candidate is Nile Kinnick, sensational left halfback on Eddie Anderson's Hawkeye football team. Nile is considered one of the finest passers in the nation, completing over 24 tosses this year with 9 going for touchdowns. He leads the Hawks in ground gaining, has averaged 40 yards for his punts, has kicked 10 out of 14 drop kicks for extra points and has gone over for 5 markers himself.

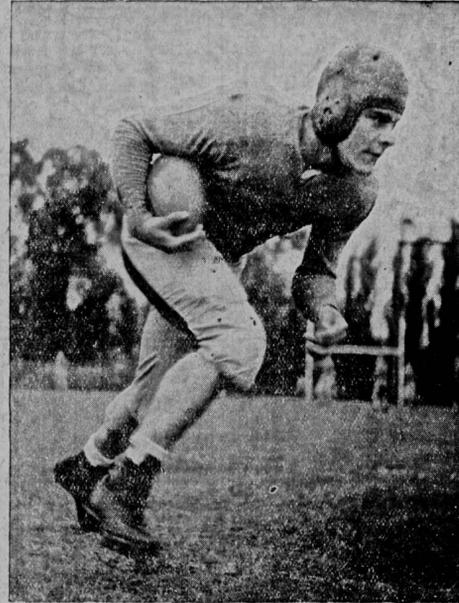

Hawkeye Halfback

Ed McLain, senior right half back (above) will be the probable starter at that position tomorrow in his last appearance in Iowa stadium. Ed stands 6 feet and weighs his 190 pounds to good advantage in crashing through enemy lines. He has been alternating at the right half position with Floyd Dean throughout the season and has been playing the best ball of his college career. An injury in the South Dakota tilt kept him on the shelf for a short while, but since then Ed has been one of the main cogs in the Hawkeye backfield.

He Runs The Team

Iowa's "Dictator" quarterback, Al Coupee, is finishing his first year of varsity competition. Al was an all-state back in his prep days, hailing from Thomas Jefferson high school in Council Bluffs. Although only a sophomore, he handles the team like a veteran. A demon for blocking and loves to back up the line. Al has already caught the attention of fans and writers and it is expected that he will have more than his share of the glory before his collegiate career comes to an end.

Athletics for Every Student Is Physical Education Slogan

The intramural program for this year has already become a highlight in sports activity on this campus. Many new sports have been inaugurated and have given students who are unable to participate in varsity competition a chance to improve their physical skills.

The intramural program is the basis of the physical education department program. All sports taught in the physical education classes are used as a part of this intramural program. Intramural competition enables those who cannot compete in varsity play to use that skill that they have learned in high school or in the physical education classes.

This intramural set-up includes all men enrolled in the university. Each man is automatically a member of a group in one of the five leagues which include fraternities, Quadrangle, Hillcrest, co-operatives and town students. All these leagues are of equal standing and an equal standard of competition is furnished to each. The highly organized groups take full advantage of their opportunities.

Touch football started this year's intramural competition and is now coming to a close. Fifty-nine six-man teams were entered in the five leagues. These leagues were divided into 11 sections and the winner of each section will meet each other. To date, approximately 169 games have been played this season in touch football.

Touch football is the fall sport on the intramural calendar. Winter sports includes basketball, volleyball, handball, badminton, squash, relays, swimming, wrestling, boxing, fencing and ping pong. Soft ball, track, tennis and canoeing are the spring activities in the intramural sports program. In the winter sports, winners of the various five leagues meet to determine the champions of the university. It is quite difficult for this to be done in the fall due to

Dubuque Takes Season's Final From Penn, 15-7

DUBUQUE, Nov. 17 (AP) — Dubuque university closed its Iowa conference football campaign by defeating Penn of Oskaloosa 15 to 7 here today, but it was a costly game for Emmett Evans, Penn back, who sustained what doctors said was a concussion of the brain in a third period accident.

Evans was taken to a hospital here. His home is in Oskaloosa. Penn scored the first touchdown on a pass by Bainbridge from the Penn 49 to Roe, who ran 25 yards for the counter. Gammon kicked the point.

The Spartans scored in the second period on a 22-yard pass, Schiers to Lussow, but Sells, Schiers' placement for the point was wide.

Two plays later, the Spartans gained the lead when Sells, center for Penn, made a pass from the 25-yard line, and Evans recovered in the end zone for a safety.

The final Dubuque counter came in the third period after Lussow recovered a fumble on the Penn 13. Schiers hit the line five straight times before going over. Sells converted.

The intramural program for this year has already become a highlight in sports activity on this campus. Many new sports have been inaugurated and have given students who are unable to participate in varsity competition a chance to improve their physical skills.

It is essential that every student has a program of exercise as well as a program of study and it is up to the student to take advantage of the courses available to him in the physical education department and in the intramural sports program. It is now possible for every student, no matter where he lives, to take an active part in either team or individual competition with the other students on the campus.

The department of physical education carries on its work endeavoring to prepare the individual for the future, improve his physical skills, and offer a complete sports program for him to choose from in physical education and a wide field of sports in competitive intramural play.

Razors Turn In Upset Win Over S. M. U.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 17 (AP) — The University of Arkansas Razorbacks said it in touchdowns today as well as statistics and drove to a 14-0 upset victory over the highly favored Southern Methodist Mustangs before 8,000 fans in the Little Rock high school stadium.

The Razorbacks stormed down the field on the opening gun. Repulsed on the 13-yard stripe, they came back after a punt with a sustained 55-yard drive for a score when Eakin passed 12 yards to Estes McDaniell on the SMU one. Eakin went over standing up on the first play of the second quarter. Simington, converted with a placement.

The porkers clinched it in the third period with an 80-yard march featuring Atwood's long dash which carried to the Mustang 32. Eakin and Atwood ran for a first down and then Aubrey Neal, substitute back, threaded his way around left end for the touchdown, eluding five would-be tacklers. Miller, sub tackle, converted from placement.

Southern Methodist came to life in the final minutes to go 80 yards to the Razorback one with Johnnie Clements completing passes right and left. A fumble put the ball back on the Arkansas 11 as the game ended. Arkansas made 18 first downs to 10 for SMU.
