Fifty thousand spectators were almost wrong yesterday as Nile Kinnick's pitching arm lengthened with the shadows to dim, and then extinguish, the flame of Minnesota's raw power in an epic struggle of the gridiron, 13-9, for the first Iowa victory over Minnesota since 1929.

In Iowa's gigantic stadium, packed with 50,000 nerve-shattered human beings, only the scoreboard could tell without emotion that the Hawkeyes had turned back the golden blizzard of the northland with two unforgettable aerial raids in the closing moments.

It was not a joyous picture that Iowa backers beheld as the Gophers thundered into the final period with a nine point margin, for Minnesota was on the march and the bruising fury of the golden horde's attack had crossed the Hawkeye goal line twice, once for a field goal and again on Sonny Franck's dazzling touchdown sprint around left end. That was the picture as the fourth quarter moved in with the Hawkeyes seemingly beaten. Even those who best knew the fury with which a trailing Iowa team can strike, feared that all was lost—that was where the 50,000 were almost wrong.

Twice the long range Hawkeye guns loosed deadly bombardments and twice Dr. Eddie Anderson's eleven scored. And, it was Kinnick, a hurling wizard, pitching passes to ron of racing catchers, who threw the touchdown passes to Capt. Erwin Prasse and Bill Green, after which he kicked one extra point.

That tells the story of the scoring and of the mighty deeds by which Kinnick again proved his all-American worth, but it doesn't tell the story that can never be told in words worthy of its greatness—the story of the Iowa team that moved through a savage hour of battle against the mighty men from Minnesota, bigger and more numerous.

There was more than one hero in the Iowa lineup, with Green and Prasse, who snatched the two touchdown passes, Buzz Dean, Bill Gallagher, Al Coupee, Ray Murphy and Ed McLain of the offensive stars sharing in the vote for immortality extended the Hawks by a mighty homecoming crowd. And, the courageous little band of iron men who make up Iowa's celebrated 60-minute line stood through the conflict, a harrassed line of tempered steel that bent but refused to break. Let it be said that yesterday's was the bitterest struggle of this year—a year of titanic conquests by Anderson and his Hawkeyes.

There were seven men who lasted the length of the struggle and six were in the forward wall that fought it out with a roaring, virtually unstopable ground attack. Mike Enich was again the "Iron Mike" who covered acres of enemy territory, made innumerable tackles and gave Iowa one of the necessary breaks in its victory march by recovering a fumbled ball. Around Enich were the other Hawkeyes of 60-minute fame, Ken Pettit, Prasse, Dick Evans, Wally (See HAWKEYES Page 3)

'Write It in Your Little Book That The Iowa Line Played A Lot of Football Yesterday'-Nile

By Staff Writer
"Write it in your little book that the Iowa line played a lot of football yesterday," Nile Kinnick told reporters last night.

The Hawkeye halfback, who has practically clinched a spot on all-American teams, called the Gopher running attack the wickedest the Hawks have faced this year, which is in perfect agreement with most fans' opinions. The vote of the 50,000 spectators would call the Gophers the nation's most powerful team and Dr. Eddie Anderson's Hawkeyes the nerviest and smartest.

"You can't beat courage," a stray spectator commented as he passed through the gates. Which practically sums up the tribute homecomers paid to the handful of men Iowa used.

Much of the dressing room talk was not of Minnesota, but of Northwestern, next week's foe. The Hawkeyes have not ended their season with any one victory and ambitions are still for a share in the Big Ten title, providing Ohio State loses next week.

Minneapolis newspaper men cornered Coach Anderson after the game. "What do you think of Van Every, Smith, Franck and Christiansen?" they queried.

Anderson's answer was that the Minnesota backs were bad people to live with on a football field, whereupon the visitors asked for a comparison of the Minnesota "Big Four" with Kinnick. "There's a ball player," was the comment Anderson made about his own backfield star.

Not only did the Hawks advance to a spot from which they might jump to a share in the conference title, but they assured themselves of finishing in second place at the very worst. No team but Ohio State can finish ahead of Iowa and the best any of the others can do is the Iowa for second place.

A prize of war rested in the dressing room last night. Floyd Rosedale, the bronze statue of a pig, came to Iowa for a year. The statue, to be given yearly to the winner of the Iowa-Minnesota game, was given to Minnesota in 1935 by the late Gov. Floyd Olson and yesterday was the first Iowa victory since then. And, according to Capt. Erwin Prasse, the pig will be polished and placed in a place of honor.

Yesterday was the sixth straight full game for Kinnick, the fifth for Mike Enich, the fourth for Prasse and Bergstrom and the third for Pettit and Andruska, while Al Coupee had his string of full games broken at two when he injured his shoulder. The extent of Coupee's injury will not be known until further examination.

The Hawkeyes came near losing a fullback when Bill Green caught the last touchdown pass. Green caught it while sprinting across the end zone and couldn't stop till he was into the edge of the crowd, which proceeded to mob him in hysterical happiness and Green had trouble getting away to finish the game.

HEARD AND SEEN ABOUT THE TOWN

Youth and age, standing before a window display showing teams of former years, prompted a little curly-headed girl to ask, "Mama, did the 1912 team really wear whiskers?"

An old lady struggled to the middle of a downtown intersection to bowl out a traffic cop for a jam "two blocks south and one block west."

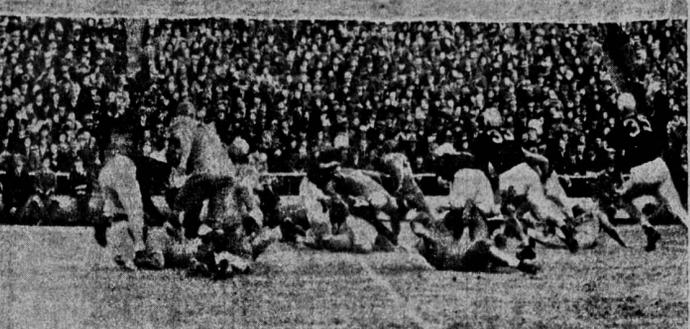

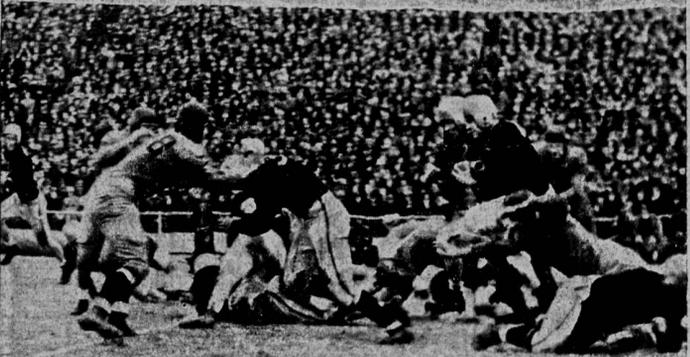

Street sweepers reportedly all went to bed early last night.

A bewhiskered old gent still ringing a cowbell from the afternoon battle yawned as he trudged northward on Clinton street with 28 feet of "lavatory ticker tape" dragging behind him.

Downtown hotels didn't resemble Grand Central station in the least. You can walk through Grand Central station.

Bell Injured In Auto Crash

Carl Bell, Iowa City, was seriously injured late yesterday afternoon when the car in which he was riding overturned on highway No. 1 near Sharon Center after hitting and killing a calf standing in the car's path. He was brought to University hospital where he was said to have suffered a basal skull fracture, fractured breastbone and several broken ribs.

These three photos tell, in part, the victory of the Hawkeyes over Minnesota yesterday afternoon in Iowa stadium. In the upper photo Van Every's pass, intended for Bruse Smith (54) was incomplete. Dick Evans is shown in the foreground blocking Paschka, Badger guard. Captain Erwin Prasse, Ray Murphy and Wally Bergstrom are attempting to knock the ball down. The middle photo shows Bill Green charging into the center of the Iowa line for a short gain in the third quarter. Ken Pettit is leading the interference by taking out Bob Bjorcklund, Gopher center. The lower picture was taken as Merik tried the Iowa line for a two yard gain in the second quarter. He was stopped by Bill Green, Iowa fullback and Bruno Andruska, Hawk center.

Patrolman Injured by Hit-And-Run Driver

Highway Patrolman Harry Cloud, Red Oak, narrowly escaped death about 6 p. m. yesterday when he was knocked to the ground by a hit-and-run driver into the path of a second car. Witnesses said the driver of the second car, whose identity was not disclosed, applied his brakes in time to halt his machine just a few feet short of Cloud. Cloud was taken to Mercy hospital where attendants reported he suffered bruises and cuts on the right shin and thigh.

Open Sesame

On The Embargo

THE NEUTRALITY act passed with the waving of banners and with the huzzas and bravos of a nation. And, almost simultaneously, the country's financiers, shippers and political observers scanned the act for possible evasions—and many outside possibilities were found—without violating the letter of the neutrality act of 1939.

The first loophole in a group of five that a Washington, D. C. political weekly reveals is that involving the registration of eight American freighters under Panama's colors. The American flags and American citizens in the crews are removed, thus complying with President Roosevelt's neutrality measure, which forbids American ships and citizens to enter combat zones.

When the neutrality bill was still in the deliberative stage in congress, one of its supposed strong points was its cash-and-carry proviso, for it was then believed this would prevent the extension of credit to warring factions. Observers now see the possibility of American merchants selling on credit to neutral countries near the battle zone, which countries might easily resell to Germany, France and Great Britain.

Whether a debt owed the United States by these three countries would be harder to collect than one by small European neutrals is a matter open to conjecture. It is certain, however, that the effects of the war on American business will be unfavorable, for cash payment for merchandise will still be wanting. Current compilations of shipping figures to Scandinavian countries show that more than twice as much goods went to Denmark, the Netherlands, Norway and Sweden than was shipped during the same time last year. That these countries are buying more than they need is apparent.

Another loophole, revealed by the United States News, is one which permits government corporations to make loans to belligerents, even though the law forbids the making of such loans by individual citizens within the United States and the Johnson act of 1934 prohibits loans to European countries that have defaulted on their debts of the last war. In an attempt to lop off possibilities for neutrality infractions in this direction came Representative Wolcott's (R-Mich) amendment, which would have prevented federal reserve banks and other from making such loans. But the amendment failed to pass.

Again, an opening in the act permits Americans and American agencies to sell on credit and make loans to private citizens of warring nations. Nothing is to prevent these individuals from aiding their governments in this time of stress, and as citizens, they will get the full protection by their governments, especially when they render such aid. That American moguls will be willing to take the chances of heavy losses is somewhat of a balancing factor, however, for repayment by private citizens might be difficult to secure.

A fifth loophole permits belligerents to set up dummy agencies in the United States which could buy on credit and sell their stocks and bonds in this country, so long as such belligerents refused to admit any connection with these agencies. How governments and shippers involved in the crisis will react should be interesting, if not disastrous.

Why Not Opera?

AS UNIVERSITY theater opens another new and promising year, there is recalled a venture of two years ago which stands out as an all time high in university stage entertainment: the presentation of the one act opera, Cavaleria Rusticana, by the school of music.

The success of Prof. Herald Stark, director of the group, the cast and the orchestra in presenting a type of art so difficult should have encouraged more frequent attempts at opera production than have been made in the past.

The last presentation of an opera prior to Cavaleria Rusticana in 1938 was in 1927, a lapse of eleven years. This is much too long. The school of music has proven itself capable of venturing further.

The University of Iowa's school of fine arts has gained a national reputation to be envied. And, while the school of music has contributed much to Iowa's fame as a center of art in the middle west, a repetition of its success in the field of opera could not but enhance still further its fame.

The Flame That Must Not Die

LOOKING across the Atlantic it is only too easy to believe that the lamps of reason are slowly being extinguished. The very virtues which have served so long and well in the binding of man to man, and nation to nation, seem now to be ignored as if non-existent. Faith in the integrity of nations, in their determination to live up to the promises they have made, has slowly given away to a scepticism which will, if not checked, ultimately wreck the world's morale.

It seems as if it is no longer possible to decide with cool and deliberate reason the course of action of nations. Not that nations have ever acted logically, or that nations have not betrayed trust, but, until a few months ago, it looked as if nations might, at last, be seeing the light, that they might be trying reason instead of force.

The nations who have been our allies in a previous war are now reengaged in war. They have given us their reasons for fighting. But, and this is a reason for gloom, it is difficult to believe their statements of policy. Is it true that England and France are fighting for democracy? Certainly we would like to believe so; it is difficult to believe so. We are blood-relatives of the English and French, they are very dear to us, we want them to win this war. But—what is it they are REALLY fighting for?

Should Germany win this war who can predict the length of time it would take Europe to regain life, if she could regain life? There are certain writers who believe that Europe has been in her death throes for a number of years, that this is but the last, the most violent, gasping for certain life. But of this we are certain, living is not living under dictator-controlled governments. We in America have not lost faith in the power and efficacy of reason. We believe that men and their well being are the only reasons for the existence of government. We believe that men make government, not governments make men.

One hundred and fifty years ago there was a flame lighted in America, a flame lighted by Americans dying that their ideals of the freedom of men might be preserved. We have held that fire aloft to the world, we have believed that it might lighten the way of other nations, we have believed in our destiny, we have never lost faith. No matter what course Europe may now pursue, we must be constantly vigilant lest that flame of democracy grow dimmer here.

John Mason postcards that he once knew a never-losing bookie who was, naturally, known to his intimates as the "Wizard of Odds."

Japan we read, now exports 11,000,000 gallons of beer annually. Hm—trying to foment better relations.

State Secretary Cordell Hull, Says Stewart, Ought To Be in Running for '40 Presidency

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

State Secretary Cordell Hull is mentioned as a possible democratic presidential nominee in 1940, but there hasn't yet developed any very formidable drive in his behalf—nothing comparable to the Paul V. McNutt campaign or to the boom which now is being inflated for Vice-President John N. Garner's benefit.

It's rather odd. Hull generally is recognized as one of the ablest statesmen in this country. He also ought to be a first-class compromise candidate. He never has been a sufficiently radical new dealer for democratic old dealers to object to. In fact, if he hadn't served so long in a new deal cabinet he'd class as a moderate old dealer himself. Yet the very circumstance that he HAS been President Roosevelt's prime minister throughout the entire length of the latter's term surely ought to make it hard for new dealers to object to him.

He's a trifle old, but not as old as "Cactus Jack." He's a southerner, but Tennessee isn't as far south as Texas. He isn't as violently handsome as McNutt, but it's more of a liability than an asset for a presidential aspirant to have his good looks over-advertised. It tends to give the impression that they're his sole stock in trade.

AROUND THE TOWN With MERLE MILLER

NOTES HURRIEDLY JOTTED DOWN! —Or How It Looks to a Columnist—

That lusty cheer from the 45-yard line, west press box, had a familiar air. . . It should, it belonged to Pierre Andre, the NBC man, who'd come to see a football game and saw history recorded as well. . .

The alums were the happiest, of course. . . The alums who came back, who wore prosperous-looking coats and new shoes and had a jaunty air. . . The ones who'll have to pay the first installment on their clothes come Monday. . .

Bill Seiler's WSUI close said it best. . . "It's like something in a play," he said, "like something somebody imagined and someone else rejected because it was too unrealistic for anybody to believe." . . .

Perfect madness at the end. . . Grown men jumping up and down and trying just to touch Nile Kinnick's boot, just to see him. . . Trying to kiss Bill Green. . .

A dignified old lady sitting on Old Capitol steps, shouting, "On Iowa! . . . I Don't Believe It!"

A professor in his later 60's—dancing merrily down North Dubuque, accompanied by friends, and singing. . . "We Won't Be Home Until Thursday! . . . We Won't Be Home Until Friday! . . . We Won't Be Home at All!" . . .

A blonde young waitress at the Huddle, thinking, "Homecoming, hell!" . . . Meaning 12 hours on your feet, meaning more people shouting, more hurried orders. . . Meaning more roads keep straight. . . She was sorry they'd won. . . After all, lose and they'd have gone home early. . .

Then this quiet guy who demanded so much service. . . She felt like shouting until she went to pick up the dishes. . . There, nestled behind the butter plate, was a crumpled bill. . . It looked like a dollar at first, and it took all of 45 seconds to see that it was $10. . .

"Hurrah for Iowa!" she shouted, right there in front of everyone. . .

The alums of last year, the ones who haven't got jobs, not being able to think of new ways to say it—and subtly. Most of them ending with, "I'm having a vacation just now, without pay!"

Wonder what Kinnick thought as they carried him off the field. . . Wonder if he remembered what they said in the Hometown, how they'd advised him to go any place but to Iowa. . .

How for three years sports writers have been saying, "Kinnick'd be All-American if he had a decent team!" Wonder if he knew the men who respect him most haven't any admiration for football at all. They teach the classes and as one of them put it, "I can forget he plays football, because there aren't any grades better than 'A'."

Queer guy, wants to know something besides the way to make touchdowns. . . Wants to make other history than grid-iron.

And then a word for a man who's not being mentioned, who's possibly forgotten just today. . . A word for a swell guy, a man who did a job that needed doing—but didn't quite make it. . .

He's around, now, watching, big enough to cheer. . . Uhuh, his name is Irl Tubbs of Mt. Vernon. . .

The janitors who, cleaning up in Macbride hall, found a small, crumpled note, unsigned. . . The content was simple, "Please let us win," it said. . .

The address was more surprising. . . "To God," it said, "Heaven!" . . . Apparently delivered. . . And then the story that's crack-

Buckeyes Roll Over Illinois 21-0; Badgers, Purdue Tie 7-7

Bucks Clinch Share of Title In Fifth Win

Illini Unable To Penetrate Tough Buckeye Forwards

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Nov. 18 (AP)—Ohio State's rampaging Bucks, picked by pre-season dopsters to lose three games, clinched a share of the Western conference championship today with a 21-0 victory over Illinois before 46,643 rain-drenched homecoming fans.

Recover Fumble
The battling Illini, perpetrators of the season's biggest upset two weeks ago when they swept Michigan from the heights, had only one chance today. They nearly pay dirt on a thrilling "break" on the opening play by recovering a Buckeye fumble on the Ohio seven yard line. After going to the three, Illinois lost the ball on downs.

After halting that threat, Ohio immediately marched 93 yards for a touchdown—the first of three long jaunts into the Illinois end zone.

Halfback Jimmy Strausbaugh climaxed the first Ohio surge by firing a 27-yard touchdown pass to quarterback Don Scott, who kicked the extra point.

73-Yard March
Five minutes later Strausbaugh wound up a 73-yard march by breaking over tackle for 19 yards and another touchdown, and again Scott booted the point.

The third "sleeper-jump" trip, a 75-yarder, came in the third period as Scott tossed a 23-yard pass to end Esco Sarkkinen who was all alone in the end zone. Tackle Charley Maag added the 21st point.

Maag a few minutes before had missed a field goal placement from the 26-yard line.

It was Ohio's fifth Big Ten victory and its sixth in seven games this season.

Illini Overpowered
Although Ohio had only 14 first downs to Illinois' ten the Bucks rolled up 228 yards from rushing to 80 for the invaders, and also outgained them 73 to 59 yards at passing.

Illinois, unable to crack the huge Buckeye line, resorted to the air in a desperate but futile attempt to score. The Coach Bob Zuppke called 20 aerials, completed seven, while Ohio intercepted four.

The Bucks completed five of 13 heaves, two for touchdowns and two others were muffed due to the slippery condition of the ball.

Fullback Jim Langhurst, Big Ten scoring leader a year ago, was forced to drop from the Ohio lineup when he suffered a knee injury early in the first period.

Hawkeyes

Bergstrom and Bruno Andruska, a blond demon at the center spot. Ham Snider and Charles Tollefson held the seventh spot between them, a tremendous assignment, considering the flood of power that smashed into that part of the line. The other man to last through the game was, of course, Kinnick, the "Durable Doc" playing his sixth successive full contest.

The game opened with a display of the dynamite that the Golden Gophers carried as Harold Van Every whipped a long pass to John Mariucci, pass snatching end, for a 38 yard gain on the third play of the contest, and the Gophers followed up their advantage with a furious drive that carried to the Iowa 10 where their attack bogged down before a stiffening Iowa line and a 15-yard penalty.

Taking the ball, the Hawks fought back, but it was all Minnesota as the Gophers drove repeatedly into Iowa territory. Once Iowa moved across the midfield tripe when Sonny Franck downed his own punt, a high, wobbly boot that traveled but 12 yards, but it was mainly Minnesota, with a driving ground attack and an assortment of Van Every-inspired aerials, driving for the scores that finally came.

A second drive ended fruitlessly when Mernik's attempted placekick from the 19-yard line went wide, but the flood couldn't be stemmed forever. Taking the ball on their own 47 shortly after the second quarter opened, the Gophers moved into scoring territory on a series of crashing power plays, with Franck and Van Every carrying the mail for successive gains of between three and six yards.

Again it was a placekick which the Gophers fell back on as the Hawkeyes braced and held on their own 10-yard line. This time, Mernik split the uprights squarely to put the Gophers out in front, 3-0.

Shortly afterward, though, the Hawkeyes moved into scoring ter-

These three Hawkeyes, Mike Enich, Nile Kinnick, and Captain Erwin Prasse, were three of Iowa's 60-minute men in the conquest of Minnesota's Gophers yesterday afternoon. Enich, living up to his title of "Iron Mike" was again a bulwark in the Iowa defense, stopping the hard charging Gophers on play after play and playing his usual good game while the Hawks were on the offense. Kinnick, candidate for All-American honors, personally accounted for all of Iowa's points by firing touchdown passes to Prasse and Bill Green and dropping one extra point. Prasse climaxed his collegiate career in Iowa stadium by snagging the first of Kinnick's touchdown passes and playing a good defensive game.

Play-by-Play

FIRST QUARTER
Prasse kicked off for Iowa to Mernik on the Minnesota 19 yard line and he returned to the 27 before he was snatched down by Goupee. Iowa took time out as Goupee was injured. But he stayed in the ball game. Minnesota—Mernik gained three over his right tackle. Van Every threw a long pass to Mariucci which he caught off his 32 yard line. Bruce Smith failed to gain at the center of the line. Swager gained four to the Iowa 27. Van Every failed to gain at right tackle, where Bergstrom stopped him cold. Smith turned Iowa's right end for a first down just shy of the Iowa 15. Van Every gained two at his right tackle. Swager crashed over right end for two yards but there was a penalty on the play, and the Gophers were penalized 15 for holding, putting the ball on Iowa's 28. A pass by Bruce Smith failed to Mernik, and Van Every punted over the goal line, Iowa taking over on their own 20.

Van Every cracked Iowa's left tackle for another first down on the Iowa 15. Vanthull was injured on the play.

Olsen replaced him at right tackle. Van Every gained one at the center of the line. He was stopped by Snider. Christiansen was only a yard and a half at Iowa's right tackle. Franck was good to the Iowa ten through his own left tackle. Mernik placekicked from the 16 and it was Iowa's 15.

Iowa-Gopher Milers Tie In Exhibition

The Gophers from Minnesota lost a football game yesterday afternoon but they tied the Hawks in a duel two-mile team race earlier in the morning. The race was an exhibition and not a scheduled inter-university contest which wound up with 18 points for each team and Cameron Campbell of the Iowa squad the individual winner. He ran the distance in 9:53.9. Liljegen of Minnesota was not far behind to cop the second spot adding needed points to his team's score.

The Iowa group of combined varsity and freshmen did well in fighting off the more experienced Minnesota men; Glen Sparks, Carl Schnoor, Arnold Carlson, Merl Erickson, George Vaick and Bob Fuller were members of the Hawkeye team.

The Minnesota runners numbered but four; Ken and Kermot Gill, Liljegen and C. Rumesen and they were all close at the finish to bring their team to a tie.

Both coaches pointed out that this race was but a major workout and that the boys were brought together in the contest to give them an early feel of the competition to come and to provide added thrills for the Homecoming celebration.

The teams will meet in regular conference encounters later in the year.

Michigan State, Indiana, Battle To 7-7 Deadlock

EAST LANSING, Mich., Nov. 18 (AP)—Michigan State's Spartans and Indiana's Hoosiers, meeting for the first time in 12 years, traded passes on almost even terms today and ended with a 7 to 7 tie which failed to satisfy the victory-hungry followers of either team.

The Spartans got the jump on their bigger opponents early in the game with Wymann Davis and Eddie Pearce passing and running their way to a touchdown in the first quarter.

Coach Bo McMillin then sent his passing artist, Hal Hursh, into the game and Hursh tossed beyond the Spartan ramparts in the third period to even the score. A homecoming crowd of 18,000 saw the two teams struggle through he remaining time on almost even terms.

Phelps Will Present Second University Lecture Thursday

To Be Given In Macbride Auditorium at 8

Free Tickets To Be Handled at Union Tuesday Morning

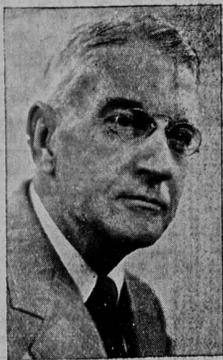

Dr. William Lyon Phelps, professor emeritus of Yale university, will present the second university lecture in Macbride auditorium Thursday at 8 p. m., it has been announced by Dr. Benj. F. Shambaugh, chairman of the senate board on university lectures.

Phelps' years at Yale were marked by what then appeared to be an extreme academic heresy. His most notable departure from the existing college curriculum was the organization of an undergraduate class to study the modern novel. This was at a time when most universities refused to acknowledge that current literature was even a matter of serious interest, much less academic significance. Most of his associates considered the idea a dangerously radical innovation but the course immediately became popular with the students and today similar instruction in contemporary literature is given in virtually every college and university in America.

Phelps is celebrated not only for his ability as a critic but also as a wit. He has remarkable faculty for extracting the ultimate ounce of humor out of any situation and to quote from the world's literature with instant pertinence.

He received his B. A. degree in 1887 and his Ph. D. degree at Harvard in 1891. Honorary degrees which have been conferred upon Phelps include Litt. D. degrees from Brown, Colgate and McMaster universities, an L. H. D. degree from New York university, Columbia university and Mecklenburg university, an L. L. D. degree from Kalamazoo and Yale universities and a D. S. T.

University Lecturer

degree from Syracuse university in 1930.

Some of Phelps' more recent books are "What I Like in Prose," "What I Like in Poetry," "Essay on Things," and his "Autobiography." From 1910 to 1927 well known publications of Phelps include "The Beginnings of the English Romantic Movement," "Essays on Modern Novelists," "Teaching in School and College," "The Twentieth Century Theatre," "Essays on Modern Dramatists," "As I Like It," and "Adventures and Confessions."

In addition to being a member of American Academy of Arts and Letters and American Philosophical society, Phelps belongs to Fellow American Academy of Arts and Sciences and Fellow American Geographical society. Admission to the lecture will be by ticket. Tickets can be secured by students and faculty members Tuesday and Wednesday. Any tickets still remaining on Thursday will be available to the general public.

Quad Now Has Whiffenpoof-As A Permanent Possession

When the designer of the Homecoming monument and the creator of the Homecoming badge design get together to build an eight-and-one-half foot statue of a "Whiffenpoof," the result is likely to be original, if not startling.

The "Whiffenpoof" is the collective symbol of the 700 men living in the Quadrangle, and it was the task of Karl Roseberg and Howard Emerson to design their conception of the creature for the Quad's Homecoming decorations.

First, the two Quad artists designed a seven-inch model for the bird-like creature which resembles nothing ever found in biology.

On the 12-foot pedestal in the center of the Quad court a wooden frame was covered with chicken wire and this covered with muslin dipped in plaster. The eight-and-one-half-foot statue was then finished up with a coat of plaster.

The "Whiffenpoof" will be preserved for future Quadrangle functions.

Roseberg, G of Vinton, was the badge design winner while Emerson, A3 of Iowa City, had this year's corn monument to his credit.

Alpha Xi Delta Wins Badge Sale Contest

22,834 Sold; Chi Omegas Place Second

Winning Group Sells Most Badges For Second Year

Lead in total sales by Alpha Xi Delta sorority, the 1939 Homecoming badge sale campaign closed yesterday afternoon with a new record for Homecoming badge sales established.

The record-breaking total number is 22,834 badges and the sorority leading sales finished with 9,906 badges sold. Chi Omega finished second with 6,705 and Alpha Delta Pi was third with 6,223 badges sold.

In addition to the record number of sales during the entire campaign, yesterday's sales of 7,311 for the day was the largest number of badges to be sold on a Homecoming day.

The second largest number of badges ever to be sold was in 1929, 10 years ago and the last time until yesterday that an Iowa football team defeated a Minnesota squad.

Prof. Louis C. Zopf, chairman of the badge sale committee, last night stated, "I want to congratulate all the groups cooperating in the sale. They all certainly did a fine job."

This is the second consecutive year that the Alpha Xi Delta sorority sold the largest number of badges. There will be no prize or award made for the leader in the sale, but each sorority will receive 10 per cent of what it took in on badge sales.

Professor Zopf last night said that the 1940 badge design contest would be announced soon after the first of next year.

NEWS-OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

London Explosions Blamed on Irish

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP) — Three sharp explosions, blamed by authorities on members of the outlawed Irish republican army, tonight shook the Piccadilly circus area—London's Times Square.

Theater goers were thrown into confusion but police said no one was injured, apparently because of the small crowds as a result of nightly blackouts.

Nazis Execute 3 More Czechs

PRAGUE, Nov. 18 (AP)—Nazi Germany used the firing squad again today and then added martial law to its stern measures to stamp out anti-German moves in the protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia.

The execution of three more persons, two policemen and an unidentified Czech, brought to 12 the number shot to death in 48 hours. Nine students were executed yesterday.

Germans Increase Hours for Labor

BERLIN, Nov. 18 (AP)—Nazi Germany increased the laborer's working day in essential industries today from eight to ten hours.

Robert Ley, leader of the Nazi labor front, announced the longer working day and said that pay for the ninth and tenth hours, although at the same rate as for the first eight, would be tax free.

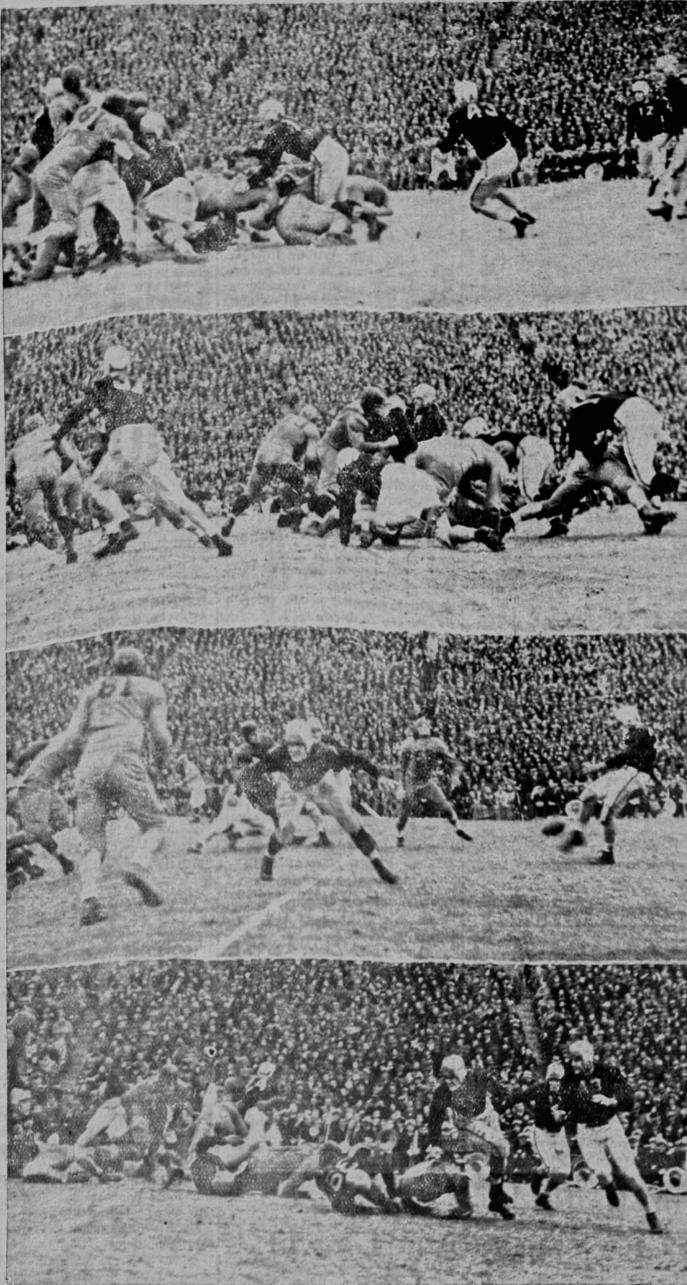

Women will not be asked to work nights and an extra pay rate will be established for night and holiday work.

Norris Will Oppose Defense Increases

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—Senator Norris (Ind-Neb), who usually supports administration legislation, said today that he would oppose increased defense appropriations at the next session of congress because he believed the money could be spent more wisely for relief of unemployment and agricultural distress.

Voicing the opinion that enactment of the present neutrality statute had minimized the chances that this country would become involved in the European war, the veteran Nebraska legislator said he thought congress should give its attention primarily to domestic problems.

Watch Those Amazing Hawks

A Gopher line play was met by Iowa's "Iron Men" for no gain in the upper photograph as Ken Pettit, Bruno Andruska and Ham Snider stop Sonny Franck at the line of scrimmage. The second picture was taken just as Franck started an end run in the third quarter of the game. The third shot was taken as Nile Kinnick, Iowa's triple-threat back, got off one of his fine boots in the second quarter of the Homecoming tilt. Gerald Ankeny (11) is ready to take care of Earl Ohlgren, (81) Gopher end. John Mariucci, the other Minnesota end, is shown charging in to block the kick. The lower photo shows Buzz Dean starting a five yard jaunt around his right end in the third quarter of the game.

Bill Green (43) and Gerald Ankeny (11) are running his interference. The Hawkeyes won over the Gophers 13-9 in the Homecoming game.

Auto Collision Reported To Local Police

A collision of two automobiles at the intersection of Linn and an alley in the 100 block south was reported to police at 5:30 p.m. yesterday.

Carl Webber, Des Moines, driver of one of the cars, told police he had turned right onto Linn off Washington and was traveling south looking for a parking space when the second car, driven by Harry L. Graham, 518 S. Lucas, came out of the alley.

Damage to Webber's car was estimated at $5, and to Graham's, $25. Neither was reported injured.

Dutch Liner Strikes Mine; Fear 140 Dead

British Accuse Nazis; 260 Survivors Landed; Many 'Badly Injured'

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP)—The Netherlands passenger liner Simon Bolivar sunk in the North sea with a possible loss of 140 lives today after striking a mine which the British admiralty charged the Germans had laid without notifying neutral shipping.

The 8,309-ton vessel carried 400 persons, including women and children. A total of 260 survivors, of whom 140 were said to be crewmen, were landed on an unnamed British port.

Many of the rescued were reported "badly injured."

Official sources here expressed fear that all those missing were dead.

Aside from British naval losses, it was the worst sea disaster of Europe's current war.

The heaviest loss to a non-fighting ship previously was in the sinking of the British liner Athenic, northwest of Ireland Sept. 3 the day Britain and France declared war on Germany.

The Athenic's loss was reported at 112 persons.

A British admiralty communique said: "The mining of the Dutch passenger ship Simon Bolivar off the east coast of England is a further example of the utter disregard of international law and the dictates of humanity shown by the German government."

"The mines were laid without any notification in the channel followed by merchant shipping, both British and neutral, and there is no doubt that they were laid for the specific purpose of destroying such shipping."

(Lloyds Register lists the Simon Bolivar as an 8,309-ton vessel whose home port was Amsterdam. She was 410 feet long and was built in 1927.)

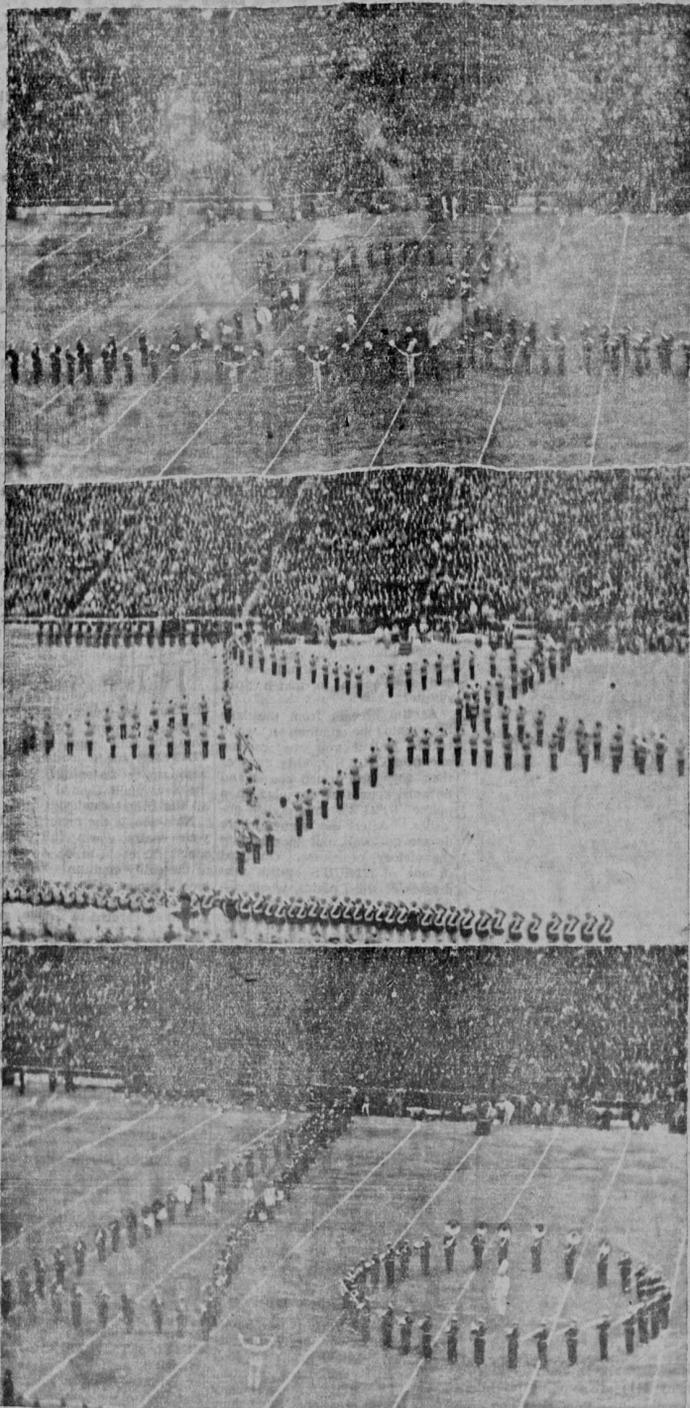

The vessel belonged to the royal Netherlands Steamboat company.

Doctors and ambulances waited at the quayside as the injured were brought to shore at the unnamed British port.

The gravely injured were hurried to hospitals while others were given first aid at the dock.

Of the 260 rescued, 140 were said to be members of the crew.

There Were Bands and Bands--

It was a field day for bands at the game yesterday. Minnesota's maroon aggregation joined the ranks, and the half-time was filled with music, classical, semi-classical and popular. There even was a display of fireworks (above) as the Minnesota band played

"The Anvil Chorus." University of Iowa bandmen formed a giant star (center) in honor of Minnesota. The famous trilon and perisphere of the New York world's fair was outlined (below) by Minnesota. Scottish lassies danced the Highland Fling during an act by the Highlanders and the University of Iowa band played Hoagy Carmichael's "Stardust" while a wee tot danced a star dance. And University of Minnesota bandmen were good sports about the Gopher loss. They left the field at the end of the game playing "On Iowa."

Alpha Chi Omega, Delta Upsilon Groups Win Decoration Contest

DU's Win Permanent Possession of Cup For 3-Year Showing

The Alpha Chi Omega sorority and Delta Upsilon fraternity won firsts for the best 1939-40 homecoming decorations, it was announced yesterday by the judging committees of the Lions and Kiwanis clubs, representing two groups of Iowa City business men.

Third successive winners of the best homecoming decorations, the Delta Upsilon fraternity will be given permanent possession of the loving cup award. The Kiwanis club will award the Homecoming cup prize to the fraternity at their annual dinner to be given for the football team Tuesday, Nov. 28.

Alpha Tau Omega fraternity ranked second and Sigma Chi fraternity ranked third in the fraternity division. Honorable mention went to the Sigma Nu fraternity.

Honorable Mention
In the sorority competition, honorable mention was given to the Alpha Xi Delta, Phi Mu, and Pi Beta Phi sororities by members of the Lions club judging committee.

The Delta Upsilon decoration displayed a large reproduction of the first sports page of the Chicago Tribune, featuring the Andy Gump cartoon. Sixty feet long and 24 feet high, the decoration showed a large cartoon of Andy Gump and his wife Min with the banner line "Andy's Iowa Defeats Minn."

It displayed Andy reaching for a pie labeled "Minn's Meat" with Min spying on him from the background. The following picture showed Andy with an electric iron in his hand and the names of the Iowa players listed on the cord, captioned "Andy Has the Gumption to 'Iron Minn'."

Andy was shown in the final picture devouring the pie, with the maid bringing in a bowl of victory broth saying, "Soup's On."

Winning Sorority
The winning sorority decoration portrayed a large Hawk in flight with several smaller Hawks underneath. The large Hawk represented Dr. Eddie Anderson and the small Hawks, the Iowa team, intent upon frightening the Minnesota Gophers into their holes.

"Dr. Eddie Hawkeye Swoops Again" was the theme of the decoration.

Headed by George Koser, the Kiwanis club committee included Paul Ruth and Dr. E. W. Pauls. The Lions club committee consisted of Dr. J. D. Wells of the college of dentistry, chairman, C. R. Griffith and Attorney Robert L. Larson.

John Howard, as the young medical student, is the one who has to face the question. The poignant picture of a doctor's private life opens TODAY at the ENGLERT Theatre for 3 days!

A. B. Marcus' Stage Show Opens Wednesday at Englert

Opens Today For 'Disputed Passage' Three-Day Run

Things being as they are it would not be believable that the display of feminine charms would act as a detriment to box office solvency. Nor do they. Visualization of comely femininity is the best buckler against apathy of the ticket-buying public. Doubting Thomases may be convinced after consultation with A. B. Marcus, who brings his world toured Marcus show to the Englert theater for two days, Wednesday and Thursday.

For nearly four decades impressario Marcus has been operating opera in which the prime ingredient has been pretty girls. From modest genesis, the Marcus Show has evolved into the largest of the girl-song-and-dance organizations in the world. And the world is the Marcus playground. The company has but recently returned from a three-year tour that embraced eastern and western hemispheres and both sides of the equator.

Iowa Theater Features Picturization Of S. Maugham's 'Of Human Bondage'

Philip Carey (Leslie Howard), a crippled medical student of refinement and high sensitiveness, is held in the grip of an unrequited love for Mildred Rogers (Bette Davis), a selfish promiscuous girl of no breeding nor grace. She spurns Philip's attention until she discovers he can buy her trinkets and champagne.

On successive occasions Mildred leaves Philip for other men—Emil Miller (Alan Hale), a gross foreigner; then Griffiths (Reginald Denny), Philip's classmate. Philip invariably takes her back. The tie is so firmly knotted that he remains infatuated with her even after the birth of Griffith's baby, and provides her with money and shelter.

Seeking an antidote for his obsessing love, Philip turns to Nora (Kay Johnson). She offers him understanding, intelligence and compassion, but his strange bond to Mildred persists. Eventually Nora despairs Philip's indifference and marries another man. Soon Philip meets Sally Athelny (Frances Dee), at the bedside of her father in the hospital where he is now an interne. He loves the soothing happiness she invites, but he feels himself still chained to Mildred despite the hopelessness and incongruity of the attachment. Meanwhile Mildred degenerates from flirt to trollop, and finally dies, an out-cast, with Philip attending her at the hospital.

The film is Hollywood's answer to the public plea for an action film based on the adventurous exploits of men courting danger for the sake of the thrill it gives them.

Philip's martyrdom ends with Mildred's death, and he decides to leave the scene of his soul-torture and roam the world to forget. He obtains a position as ship's doctor on a steamer bound for Australia. When Sally comes to the pier to bid him goodbye, Philip offers marriage, but warns her that they must leave the country. Loyal Sally does not let this be a bar to their romance.

'Jesse James' Brings Most Colorful American Bad Man to Pastime Screen

Once he's safely dead, there's no more popular hero than a man with a price on his head.

And, certainly, there's no better movie material. For every conscientious picturegoer will agree that most of the good films he has seen have been about "bad men." Recall "The Thief of Bagdad," "Robin Hood," "The Black Pirate," "Scarface," "Public Enemy," "Little Caesar," "The Cisco Kid," "Morocco."

And of all the "bad men" in history none has a stronger hold on the American imagination than America's own Jesse James, who is now appearing on the screen of the Pastime theater in Darryl F. Zanuck's production, "Jesse James," 20th Century-Fox Technicolor epic, starring Tyrone Power, Henry Fonda, Nancy Kelly and Randolph Scott.

The real desperado gathered legends about himself even while he lived, helped, perhaps, by sympathetic neighbors.

Few people know much about the real Jesse. The chances are that producer Darryl F. Zanuck, after a year's research prior to filming "Jesse James," knew much more about the outlaw than anyone else.

Tyrone Power, Henry Fonda, Nancy Kelly, Randolph Scott and all the other players who worked in "Jesse James" agree that their lines and actions, as dictated by the script, fulfilled their ideas of Jesse, his life and associates. They also agree they had a lot of fun.

did pace set by the preceding productions.

Told entertainingly, the story is of how Judge Hardy almost faces ruin through being mugged by crooked promoters and how young Andy falls romantically in love with his dramatics class teacher. The Judge finally manages to regain his money and Andy returns to his old sweetheart, Polly Benedict, before the last reel is over.

Again Lewis Stone is splendid as the Judge, Fay Holden as Mother Hardy, Sara Haden as Aunt Milly, and Cecilia Parker as the sister, Marian.

Are the lives of ten men worth risking against certain death that one woman might be avenged? This weighty question finds a powerfully dramatic answer in a thrilling screen story of the old west, "Badlands," the companion feature.

The gripping film has its background in southeastern Arizona in 1875, principally the arid wastelands.
