KINNICK NATION'S BEST IOWA STAR WINS HEISMAN AWARD

1939 Heisman Award Winner

'Nile Truly Great,' Says Eddie As Hero Enters Hall of Fame

Coach Congratulates Kinnick on Receiving Heisman Memorial

"Nile is one of the truly great football players."

That was the word passed out to the nation's football public last night by Dr. Edward Anderson, the coach who had directed Nile Clarke Kinnick Jr. to the highest honor ever given to gridiron heroes—the Heisman memorial trophy.

Anderson's tribute to the nation's outstanding gridder was short, but all-inclusive. Reached by phone as he attended a football banquet at Newton, the Hawkeye mentor was one of the world's happiest men as he heard that his own star pupil had mounted to football's topmost pinnacle.

"Happy for Nile and proud and happy that I could coach him," came as an added praise as Anderson received the flood of congratulations that poured in upon him for his part in Kinnick's achievement.

One of Anderson's first acts upon hearing the news that sports writers and broadcasters had voted the trophy to Kinnick was to notify his star pupil to talk over the newly acquired honor. Kinnick, visiting at Adel, was almost too elated to talk, but it wasn't necessary to tell his coach of the pleasure the announcement had brought.

Open Forum Discusses Student Rule

Students, Faculty Members Air Views Of Campus Problem

Should the University of Iowa have student government?

A student, faculty forum in the chemistry auditorium last night discussed this question which has risen in most colleges and universities and has been answered in a variety of ways.

Prof. Ethan Allen of the political science department pointed out there were two issues that must be answered before such a policy can be adopted. The first is the question "Is there a real desire here on the campus for student government?" And the second thing is to make an analysis of this campus as to its needs.

Adding a note of humor to his remarks Professor Allen remarked, "The best way to convince the faculty that you are capable of student government is to prove to them that you can stay awake in class."

Marshall Clinard of the sociology department discussed student government as he knew it when he was an undergraduate at Stanford. There, he said, student government has worked well. He spoke of the importance of alumni influence and said contacts with other student bodies was facilitated by student government.

Pat Sleezer, A3 of Freeport, Ill., stressed the small part university students play in the administration of the social life of the campus. Student participation in the administration of their own affairs is an integral part in an education, she declared. Our colleges and universities should be "laboratories for democracy."

William Applegate, G of Sidney, Ohio, who was familiar with the policy adopted by Ohio State, reported that the success of such an experiment was based on two things—continuity and ability of its leaders.

Kinnick Gets News in Adel

Congratulations Pour In by Telephone To King of Gridiron

America's number one gridder may have been surprised when he heard that he had won the Heisman trophy, given each year to the nation's outstanding player, but Nile Kinnick had already heard the news when reached at Adel last night.

The congratulations were arriving, Kinnick was sitting on the throne of football's mightiest and the successor of Jay Berwanger and Davey O'Brien was thanking a well-wisher at every ring of the phone.

"I'll see you Friday at Iowa City," he told Iowa Citizens. The Hawkeyes' sterling triple-threat halfback will return to the university and take up his books for a few days before he and Coach Eddie Anderson journey to New York City, where the trophy will be turned over to its newest owner Dec. 6.

He will return here to a city made happy at the latest honor bestowed on a member of its fast-traveling Hawkeyes. It will be Nile Kinnick, all-conference, all-American and now America's outstanding player, coming back to the scene of his triumphs.

The word was passing about the town last night. Local followers, still gasping at the startling football season that plumed Kinnick and his teammates into national gridiron glory, gave many a cheer, silent or otherwise, at the news.

They never saw a man who could play more football than Nile Kinnick, and those who have seen him rise to the top are getting ready to see him Friday.

25 Attend First Meeting Of Chess Club

Twenty-five persons, inducted as members of the university's new Chess club, gathered at Iowa Union last night and decided to have a second meeting Tuesday, at the same place and time.

Henry Teicher, A2 of Newark, N. J., was unanimously elected executive secretary, with instructions to arrange for future tournaments and games within the group.

Members of the new club, which includes faculty as well as students, divided themselves into three groups according to their abilities as chess players, and played games to determine the standards by which they were to rate themselves.

A committee to supervise instruction of persons beginning to play the game will be appointed at next Tuesday's meeting, it was decided. The personnel of this committee will change from time to time.

The organization of the new Chess club marks the first such club on the campus since a strong Chess club disbanded 35 or 40 years ago. Recent interest in the game indicates a permanent organization, committee members say.

Capture Nazi Vessels
PARIS (AP)—The French command last night announced two German cargo boats, the 4,627-ton Santa Fe, and the Trisels, 6,000 tons, had been captured at sea by French warships and brought into French ports.

Finnish-Russian Situation 'Most Critical'

Nonaggression Pact Torn Up By U. S. S. R.

HELSINKI, Nov. 28 (AP)—Finland stiffened her resistance tonight to powerful pressure from Soviet Russia who today tore up the seven-year-old Soviet-Finnish nonaggression pact.

The foreign office called the situation "most critical." At midnight the Finnish government drafted a still secret answer to the Soviet government and gave quick denial to Russian assertions that Finnish troops had crossed the border behind an artillery barrage.

"With denunciation of the non-aggression pact, there no longer is any formal obstacle against the Russians coming over," a foreign office spokesman said.

"The next few days may be decisive." Finnish military authorities also denied Russian broadcasts that Soviet troops had repulsed a Finnish detachment attempting to invade Russian soil and had taken three Finnish prisoners.

A Soviet broadcast said the incident occurred at Vedlita. The village is north of Lake Lagoda and not in the disputed area of the Karelian isthmus where the Russians reported a fatal clash last Sunday.

Roosevelt Reported To Be Considering Postponing, Shortening Conventions

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 28 (AP)—Suggestions that the 1940 democratic and republican national conventions be postponed and the political campaigns shortened were reported on excellent authority today to have been a topic of discussion between President Roosevelt and some of his recent callers.

A number of persons who have seen Mr. Roosevelt lately, it was learned, have recommended that the conventions, ordinarily held in June, be deferred for a month or a month and a half.

Their contention was that there would be scant interest and little could be accomplished in the early months of campaigns starting in July and running into November, particularly during a period of international crisis.

New Chief Says 'Forgotten Men' May Telephone

DES MOINES, Nov. 28 (AP)—Chief of Police Floyd Hartzer announced tonight he had given all police captains verbal orders to allow city jail prisoners use of a telephone upon request.

The move was one of the first official acts of Hartzer since he was appointed chief yesterday to replace H. A. Alber, who was suspended by the city council pending investigation of the case of the "forgotten men" in the city jail.

One of the major points in the "forgotten men" case is Alber's orders that communication privileges be denied prisoners held "for investigation."

Nazis Claim U-Boat Victory

BERLIN, Nov. 28 (AP)—The German high command tonight announced that a British heavy cruiser had been "destroyed" by a German submarine while the German press already was celebrating the claim of naval authorities that the reich had won mastery over the north Atlantic.

"A British heavy cruiser of the London class," said the announcement, "was torpedoed and destroyed east of the Shetland islands by Lieut.-Capt. Prien, the victor of Scapa Flow."

(Official quarters in London said nothing was known of the German claim of destroying a heavy cruiser.)

Report Border Clashes After Russian Note

MOSCOW, Nov. 29 (Wednesday) (AP)—Shells exploded and bullets whizzed across the Finnish-Soviet border frontier last night — according to the midnight broadcast of the Moscow radio — as strained relations between the two countries took a decided turn for the worse.

Three new incidents occurred, the radio said, at points scattered along the 600-mile frontier from the gloomy Arctic ocean to Lake Lagoda north of Leningrad.

But no blood was reported spilled, as on Sunday, when Russians charged a Finnish cannon-adding caused death and wounds to 13 red army men.

The clashes were reported just after Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov had handed to the Finnish minister a caustic note denouncing the 1932 non-aggression pact with Finland, and the red army organ, Red Star, had declared new "provocations" would be answered with fire "until those who have created the incident are exterminated."

With the Soviet believed by observers to have close to 1,000,000 men in position along Finland's borders, the next move from the Kremlin was awaited with considerable tensely.

Sports Writers, Broadcasters Vote Honor to 'Cornbelt Comet'

Nile Polls Grand Total of 651 Points To Outrank Competitors for Football's Highest Honor; Will Receive Trophy Dec. 6

Nile Clarke Kinnick Jr., the Cornbelt Comet who made Iowa's golden number 24 blaze brilliantly before the national football public, was yesterday acclaimed the nation's outstanding player of 1939.

America's sports writers and broadcasters voted Kinnick, a durable, triple-threat halfback who starred through over 400 minutes in seven major games, the John W. Heisman memorial trophy, awarded each year by the Downtown Athletic club of New York City to the outstanding college football player in the United States.

Kinnick, who has heaved 11 passes for touchdowns, scored six touchdowns, drop-kicked 11 points after touchdown and maintained a brilliant punting average, was announced as winner yesterday by Chairman Willard B. Prince of the Heisman trophy committee.

A Toast To The Coaches!

Des Moines Men Honor Hawkeye Gridiron Mentors

DES MOINES, Nov. 28 (AP)—Iowa university's gridiron staff is both glad and proud it came to the Hawkeye campus just a year ago on the heels of one of the most dismal football seasons in the annals of Old Gold athletics.

Today, flushed with pride in the 1939 Hawkeys, conquerors of Notre Dame, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, Purdue and South Dakota, the staff headed by Dr. Eddie Anderson heaped praises on the "heroic handful," runners-up for the Big Ten title by virtue of Saturday's bruising 7-7 deadlock with Northwestern.

Dr. Anderson, Frank Carideo, backfield coach and Jim Harris, towering line coach, were guests at a testimonial luncheon attended by nearly 200 Des Moines business men who presented Carideo and Harris with automobiles. The head coach recently received a similar gift from Davenport followers of the university.

The 1939 Hawkeys, the coach declared, will "never be replaced. You'll never see as game a squad as that."

Peering a little into the future, Anderson said Hawkeye teams would continue to "win some games."

"I've even been asked," he said with a smile, "what I'm going to do after this season when the most ardent supporters think Iowa should even play double-headers the same day."

The headmaster didn't delve into Iowa's 1940 grid prospects but spent most of the time praising his assistants, and Glenn Devine, of Des Moines, assistant to the Iowa athletic director, E. G. "Dad" Schroeder. Anderson liberally thanked Iowa supporters of the team and the Iowa newspapers and their football writers.

Harris, in turn, said the sturdy Iowa line was the "finest I ever worked with."

"You could kill them on Thursday and kiss them on Saturday," he heeded with a chuckle.

Carideo told the group the 1939 squad "had it on the rest of them." Both men, roundly applauded, said they never regretted coming to the Iowa campus.

The only squad member present was Buzz Dean who kicked the tying point against Northwestern and scored Iowa's one touchdown against Michigan. He was given an ovation.

Senator Clyde L. Herring, introduced by Walter "Stub" Stewart, Des Moines member of the athletic board, laughingly recalled that he had given "Floyd-of-Rosedale" prize money to the winner of the Minnesota-Iowa game several years ago with the (See COACHES, Page 3)

EDDIE AND NILE

DES MOINES, Nov. 28 (AP)—Nile Clarke Kinnick, Iowa's candidate for All-American football honors, has played his last game for the Old Gold but he's still very much in the thoughts of head coach Eddie Anderson.

Though he had to keep an engagement tonight in Newton, the headmaster found time after an extended meeting here to drive from Des Moines to see Kinnick, recuperating from severe shoulder injuries that sent him out of the Northwestern game Saturday.

coast experts picked Kenny Washington of U.C.L.A. for third place behind Kinnick and Christman.

Iowa Immortal

Already an all-American choice, Kinnick adds his newest success to a record that saw him an all-conference back as a sophomore in 1937, a star dimmed by injuries in 1938, and finally, the mightiest all-around back in Iowa's list of football immortals.

The trophy will be presented to the Iowa star Dec. 6 in New York. Kinnick and Coach Eddie Anderson will make the trip to receive football's highest honor.

An All-American Record—

Ending his college career with the Heisman trophy added to the list of honors of his senior year, Nile Kinnick can point to an imposing record achieved this season. The record, in black and white, is hereby presented.

Kinnick has played all but a few minutes of the last seven games, his string of straight minutes of play totalling over 400. He played the entire 60-minutes in each of six successive games, including Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Purdue, Notre Dame and Minnesota, and he played the first three periods of the Northwestern game.

During that time the Hawkeye halfback scored 41 points by slammering over for five touchdowns and dropkicking 11 points after touchdown. He carried the ball 106 times for a net gain of 374 yards and completed approximately 35 passes for a gain of over 600 yards and 11 touchdowns. Add to that a punting average of 38.5 yards for 80 kicks and an average of 19 yards run-back of punts and kickoffs.

The Missouri Waltz Has A Birthday

SOME MUSIC seems to win its popularity by its simplicity.

Such a tune is the "Missouri Waltz" which, some people say, is 25 years old this year.

The story of "Missouri Waltz" is interesting, no matter how you hear it told. Some people claim that John Valentine Appel, who wasn't himself a composer, brought the melody to light. There seems to be some confusion as to whether the tune is original with him, but the more romantic story is that Appel first heard an old Negro playing it over and over on his fiddle in a Missouri village.

Taking Appel's melody, Frederick Knight Logan composed the "Missouri Waltz" that we all are familiar with. Published in Oskaloosa, "Missouri Waltz" failed to become popular.

Then, in 1914, Fred Forster, who was a Chicago jobber and publisher ran across the sheet music published by Logan. Forster failed in attempts to market it in New York, so published it himself. He worked more than a year in the face of rebuff and ridicule before the "Missouri Waltz" was finally converted into a sensational hit. In two years it sold more than three million copies and has continued a steady seller since.

With Missouri Waltz at an anniversary and once more looming as a "hit tune" Iowa can take a bow for giving the nation one of its most beloved of waltz melodies.

Here's A Hard Nut To Crack!

WHOSE responsibility is it to solve the world's problems? We had always thought that the educators would probably solve educational problems, the politicians, political problems, and the doctors, medical problems.

The other day one man said, "I'm just a laborer, not supposed to know anything. The labor problems must be solved. It's up to the college people."

Is it up to the college people—professors of economics, sociology and the rest—to solve the problems of labor and capital? It never seemed quite that way to us. When Roosevelt installed the brain trust there were many who decided problems of national government should be solved by those engaged in government.

Frankly, we are not sure that college professors should be expected to know everything and be able to do all sorts of mystic tricks. It's quite a challenge to educators, that is the task being laid before them.

As much as we admire most college professors, we've never seen one yet that looked like a cross between the Oracle of Delphi and the Wizard Merlin.

The Day Of Thanks Giving

TOMORROW is Iowa's turn to celebrate Thanksgiving. We can give thanks for many things. Farmers can be thankful that they have had one of the most profitable harvests in years. The merchant and the laborer can be thankful that the farmer is thankful. It's really one big "thanks" made up of many little ones.

There is one to which we give unified support. We are thankful that in this country we have the opportunity and are really able to be thankful. In other countries, they are not!

FATAL RISKS IN FOOTBALL NO GREATER THAN OTHER SPORTS

Football claimed the life of a freshman boy at the University of Nebraska last week. The managing editor of the student newspaper editorially asks the question, "Is it worth the chips?" And then concludes, "what a useless way to die!"

But the broken hearted father, who had lost his only son, had no condemnation for football. With the same spartan courage that inspired his boy to play football, the father responded, "the game serves a useful purpose. Doug played football because he liked the game."

And there is the answer to the Nebraska editor's denunciation of football. A philosophical father, stung with grief, still refuses to condemn the sport which intrigued, yet killed, his son. This father, looking back on younger days knows that boys like to rough and tumble. He knows that football is rough but clean. He knows that it develops physical, mental and rugged qualities. He knows that comparatively few boys meet fatal accidents in this American game.

Like thousands of other boys Doug liked the feel of the cleats under his shoes, the straps under his chin, the pads on his shoulders and the helmet on his head. He relished the feel of bodily impact—the crash of man against man. He enjoyed the fleeting pulsations that accompanied running, dodging, booting and tackling on the gridiron. Only a boy who has played the game, and an understanding father, really know why there is a thrill and lure about this rugged game.

No, Doug did not have to play football but he did because in it he found a personal satisfaction in playing a man's game. He played because he liked it. Only a growing lad whose muscles are resilient, whose wind is good, whose heart is strong, whose courage is boundless, can really understand and feel the thrill and exhilaration that goes hand in hand with this major sport.

Physically fit and mentally alert the football boy feels rough and tough. His hardened body is a dynamo of force, power, action. And so he likes to test his brawn, his speed and his wits with his fellows. He drives toward a precision that will coordinate his action with that of his fellows and in his team play he acquires a spirit, a determination and a courage that modifies his character through life.

Doug died on the gridiron but Doug ran "his last mile" on the field of his own choosing. He will be one of 15 to 25 boys who will meet death on the gridiron this season, for that is the average. Still the percentage is small in view of the thousands who participate in the game through the grades, the high schools, prep schools, colleges, universities and professional classics. Usually more deaths occur on the sandlots where the boys are neither equipped nor trained, than under supervised play.

"Is it worth the chips?" There is a gamble with casualty in nearly every sport. Shall we abandon swimming because of drownings? Shall we abolish hunting because of accidental shootings? Shall we quit baseball because of an occasional bean ball? Shall we abolish the joyride because of automobile crashes? Shall we abandon our homes because more accidents occur there than anywhere else? Shall we quit all sports and recreation because of risks involved?

Death in football togs may be a "useless way to die," but that view depends upon your philosophy of life. Death lurks around the corner on every avenue of life. We devote our energies to the prolongation of life ever mindful that death will someday overtake each one of us. Life is man's sweetest possession but in the end the time and circumstances of passing are less distressing to the individual than to those who remain to mourn. Be assured that if Doug's time had come, his greatest concern would have been the tragic sorrow of his loved ones left behind.

It is not our purpose to condone or condemn football, except to say that its fatal risks are no greater than many other activities which combine to give zest and recreation to life.

—Red Oak Express

"Football" walls an old-time player, "isn't what it used to be." That's right. We saw six games this season and not once was a coonskin coat visible.

Stewart Says Democratic Senator Alva Adams Hints Demo Executive Regime Extravagant

SENATOR ALVA B. ADAMS of Colorado is not the only senator who has expressed himself in favor of closer congressional control over government expenditures. However, he's a Democrat, which adds somewhat to the significance of his implied suggestion that maybe quite a few of our national executive departments and other agencies have been a bit excessive in their demands for public money.

By CHARLES F. STEWART Central Press Columnist

All the departments and miscellaneous agencies are mixed up in the same fashion.

House, inferentially, has recommended. So, in that form, the application goes to congress. It's referred to the senate and house naval affairs committees. The navy naturally wants all the dough it can get. The budget bureau acquiesces. The congressional committees also consist of navy enthusiasts.

Congress Doesn't Know Thus the item gets to congress substantially as originally called for by the navy department. The rank-and-file of congressmen, not knowing anything about the subject, vote as per the findings of the supposed experts. It's the same way relative to all the other executive items.

Congress Versus President The theory, then, as urged by Senator Adams, is for congress to set up a committee of the members of both houses to consider ALL proposed expenditures of ANY executive origin. It should go without saying that this notion is 100 per cent contra-White House wishes.

Suppose the navy department, illustratively, makes an application for a financial allowance. It's a department which is answerable directly to the White House. Therefore it's presumable that its plea has presidential endorsement. The budget bureau likewise is of presidential creation; it isn't a bit likely to find much fault with what the White

IDLE THOUGHTS ABOUT THINKING

There may not be more happening now than at any other historical era, but we who are in it know more of what is going on.

Maybe this is an unorthodox view for 1939, but, really, of all the times I know, I'd rather be living now.

I realize a new ice age may be upon us, and the blackness soon to appear may make the Dark Ages look like the football field at Evanston on Saturday afternoon.

Still and all it's an exciting time to be struggling for a place in the world of affairs. More important, Dorothy Thompson notwithstanding, I'm anxious to get my hands on a problem or two.

Must be dull to live in an age when everything's solved. (Not that I could mention one.)

President-emeritus Jessup may never have said it, but if he didn't, someone should have.

There's a well-worn campus rumor that Mr. Jessup once said, "I don't care what a man knows as long as he can teach. This is a university for students."

Seems especially appropriate this late afternoon. It's grey outside, and it's been a grey day, although the sun was shining.

I mean, somehow, it was a boring day. Maybe that's my fault, but I go to class to listen. I expect the man on the other side of the desk to have something to say—and to say it interestingly.

I learned more wisdom from the most superficial man on the campus than the university's best scholar. Perhaps that's a personal indictment.

Maybe not, though. Maybe just goes back to that old idea. Which comes first the institution or the people in it. No question in my mind.

Course I'm a slightly irregular in-mate.

A number of comments for the notebook on the football season just passed. The best was Monday's Des Moines Tribune editorial, "Iowa Fights" was the head line. The body, "By Golly, that's Right!" And Bert McGraw's splendid tribute to Dr. Eddie of yesterday morning's Register. Read it.

Clarence Langerak, who sings with Earl Harrington's Avations, has the pleasantest popular voice in town. Chick Lang is his voice-name.

A bunch of withered daisies to the Quad-Hillcrest Newsmen who wrote, "Around the Clown." Nice piece of satire on local clunings.

A brief sentence of praise, too, for the Hillcrest dining service of Sunday last. Hillcrest as a whole, of course, being the most powerful anti-Greek material any barb could mention.

The wage-hour bill was a recovery measure in the main, you know. Passed to force overtime pay for too-long hours or the hiring of new men who need jobs.

A little out-of-the-spirit, then, the local institutions doing neither, just closing earlier, opening later.

Verlin Cassil, who's one of the really promising undergraduates of the campus, has helped plan one of the first dual student exhibits this art school's had. Along with Don Anderson—also good, I hear—Cassil has picked their best work for public showing.

Opens Sunday, and the Iowa Student League is sponsor. Cassil himself is a writer as well as painter, has already published in American Prefaces and took on Robert Frost for one of the most stimulating arguments I've ever heard.

Cassil, I think, won. He's 20, may I add.

Among the treasures in the Athenaeum, Boston, Mass., is the biography of an English outlaw, bound in his own skin.

Frat Cagers Battle Through Five Contests

Texas Aggies, Trojans First

Tennessee Drops To Fourth; Bucks Take Twelfth Spot

By BILL BONI
NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—A wave of support as powerful as their own attack and as solid as their own defenses today sent the University of Southern California Trojans into a first-place tie with Texas A. and M. in the Associated Press football ranking poll.

The Trojans, leaders in the race for the Pacific Coast conference title and the right to play in the Rose Bowl, looked so impressive in beating Notre Dame last Saturday that they were boosted past Cornell and Tennessee. Thus a team that has played one tie with Oregon in the first game of the season—was placed on even terms with one unbeaten-untied squad and ahead of two others.

First Deadlock
In producing the first deadlock in the four years the poll has been taken, this seventh survey of the 1939 season found Cornell winning a plurality of the first-place votes. The Ithacans, who in routing Penn on Saturday finished their first all-winning campaign since 1923, were ranked first on 34 of 111 ballots.

But the Texas Aggies and the Trojans got better all-around backing for their total of 939 points each to Cornell's 909. The Aggies, who finished their schedule against Texas Thursday but already have won the Southwest conference race, were ranked No. 1 on 27 ballots, second on 37 and third on 24. Southern Cal got 25 firsts, 33 seconds and 26 thirds.

With the Trojans and Cornell moving past them, Tennessee's Volunteers dropped down to fourth place with 871 points. Fifth place, as last week, was held by undefeated, once-tied Tulane, with 670.

The biggest advance of the week was made by Duquesne. The Pittsburgh Dukes, a predominantly sophomore team that has come through eight games without defeat or tie under a new coach, Aloo (Buff) Donelli, jumped back into the first ten at sixth place and, if they can get by their final obstacle, Detroit, on Saturday, should have a top-ten berth when the final returns are in.

Iowa Tops Bucks
In addition to Texas A. and M., two other conference leaders and a runner-up made the grade. Duke's Blue Devils, one-point losers to Pitt, finished their Southern conference schedule unbeaten and tied with Clemson for first place. Duke got seventh place and Clemson 14th. Missouri, the Big Six winner, placed eighth and Iowa, nosed out by Ohio State in the Big Ten race, finished three levels above the Buckeyes in the rankings in taking ninth. Tenth place for the week went to Holy Cross, which plays its last game against Boston college Saturday.

With Cornell, Duke, Missouri and Iowa already through for this year, all of the few games left for the big-tenners will be major ones. Texas A. and M., Texas and Tennessee-Kentucky will be two of Thursday's headlines, with Southern California-Washington, Tulane-Louisiana State, Duquesne-Detroit and Holy Cross-B.C. providing a major share of Saturday's fireworks.

Beyond that, Tennessee and Southern Cal each will have one more to play—the Vols with Auburn, a team that appears to have got going after a slow start, and Southern Cal with U.C.L.A., its Los Angeles neighbor and lone remaining rival for west coast honors. Both contests are scheduled for Dec. 9.

Standing of the teams (points figured on 10-9-8, etc., basis, first-place votes in parentheses):

Team	Points
1. Tie between Texas A. and M. (27)	939
2. Southern California (25)	939
3. Cornell (34)	909
4. Tennessee (18)	871
5. Tulane (4)	870
6. Duquesne (2)	831
7. Duke (2)	827
8. Missouri (1)	827
9. Iowa (1)	827
10. Holy Cross (1)	827

Second ten—11—Notre Dame, 105; 12—Ohio State, 95; 13—U.C.L.A., 75½; 14—Clemson (1) 46; 15—Michigan, 40½; 16—North Carolina, 40; 17—Georgetown, 33; 18—Nebraska, 30; 19—San Jose (Calif.) State, 29; 20—Santa Clara, 22.

Also ran—Georgia Tech, 19; Boston college and Princeton, 15 each; Fordham, 12; Oregon State, 9; Penn State, 4; Oklahoma, 2; Kentucky and Syracuse, 1 each.

Tech Mentor Hopes for No Rule Changes

By KENNETH GREGORY
ATLANTA, Nov. 28 (AP)—William A. Alexander, a man who has been in the football business for a long time, thinks the fumble rule is the "worst in the book."

The Georgia Tech coach, now in his 20th year as director of football at the Atlanta institution, holds to the opinion a fumble should become a free ball and not dead at the point of recovery, but he'll probably be the last to suggest modification.

"Somebody might learn the rules if we leave them alone," he remarked. "I have always believed that the less changes we have the better off will be the game. The rules are involved enough as they are."

Alexander, rules committee member for the third district, comprising the southeastern states, predicted few, if any, changes for the 1940 season despite the "usual howl" from many quarters.

"I doubt seriously anything will be done about the fumble rule," he said, "but to me it's the worst in the book. There are many coaches who fear their team will make a lot of first downs only to have an opponent scoop up a fumble, run for a touchdown and get the victory. They don't figure that some day they might win a game the same way."

While advocating that the national committee quit "tinkering" with the rules, Alexander said he had heard little agitation in his district for changes aside from the annually-expected suggestions such as moving the goal posts back to the goal line and requiring six men on the line of scrimmage on defense.

"I don't think the posts will ever be returned to the goal line," he said, "having them there is all right for the professionals but for the younger high school and college players it's too dangerous."

As for requiring six men on the scrimmage line on defense, Alexander said such a suggestion would continue to come up but he doubts that move would help any team. The argument, he said, was that this would help balance the game.

"But," he asked, "what is to prevent players dropping back out of line quickly the moment the ball is snapped?"

Glenn Sparks Wins Annual Hawk Run

Glenn Sparks yesterday gobbled up a 10-pound turkey in winning first prize in the annual Hawk Run, staged around the two-mile cross country course. In addition to the dressed turkey, Sparks found himself the temporary holder of the Hawkeye traveling trophy. Glenn's time for the race was 10 minutes and one second. He finished well out in front of Carl Schnoor who placed second, with George Vackik taking third place.

Schnoor's time for the test run over hill and dale in a temperature of under 40 degrees, was 10 minutes, 13 seconds; Vackik was two seconds behind. Arnold Carlson finished fourth, Ed Lewis fifth and Len Fuller sixth.

The second place winner received a goose, third a duck and fourth a hen.

Sparks, Schnoor and Carlson are varsity runners in the distance events while Vackik is a promising freshman distance runner.

Coach George Bresnahan was in charge of the meet.

Delts Annex Frat Touchball Championship

The championship of the Class A fraternity touch football league and second place in the co-operative league were decided yesterday afternoon on the intramural football fields.

Delta Tau Delta defeated Delta Upsilon 25-13. The game picked up from where it was called Monday on account of darkness. The score was 18-13 in favor of Delta Tau Delta with six minutes left to play.

Neither team was able to score until the last few minutes when the Delts scored on a pass from Art Manush to John Collins. The extra point was converted to bring the score up to 25-13 as the game ended.

Wilson took second place in the Co-operative league by edging out Chesley 13-6. Chesley opened the scoring on a pass from Vining to Carlson. The try for the extra point was not good, and the score stood at 6-0.

Wilson soon broke into the scoring column, however, when Scott followed his interference and shook loose to score. The extra point was not converted and the score was tied. Wilson scored again in the next few minutes to take the lead 13-6. The touchdown was made on a pass from Crum to Richman. Both teams played hard ball the remainder of the game, but neither could crack the other's defense and the score remained 13-6 as the game ended.

Iowa City high rose to the heights last night, working with precision, and passing and shooting its way to an upset victory over a powerful Washington five, 36 to 22.

The Little Hawks showed a complete reversal of form in the game, substituting fast and accurate passing for rough house tactics, and scoring on well-earned setups instead of long shots.

Paced by rangy Dick Culbertson and steady Bud Lemons, the Red and White shot away to an early lead, and were never headed. Culbertson, who played really outstanding ball both on offense and defense, rang up 12 points. Lemons, who kept a checkrein on the Hawklets whenever they started to turn wild, also garnered 12 points for Iowa City, while turning in an outstanding floor game.

Keyed up to climax point in anticipation of a tough ball game, City high broke loose repeatedly for setups in the first quarter, building up a 10 to 0 lead before the Demons scored. Iowa City held an 18 to 5 advantage at the quarter, with Culbertson accounting for eight and Lemons four of the markers.

With most of the Iowa City third team playing the second quarter, Washington still could not appreciably whittle down the Red and White lead. Even the scrubs played good defensive ball, holding the highly touted Orange and Black to a 5-point total for the period. City high led at the half, 18 to 5.

Iowa City's first string came back in the third stanza, and immediately made it evident that they were the better ball club. It took Lemons, Culbertson, and Co. just eight minutes to run away to a 32 to 18 lead, and from there on in, Coach Francis Merten depended on his defensive reserves to bring home the 36 to 22 bacon.

Washington showed flashes of being a real ball club, however, despite the lopsided score. Credit must be given to Iowa City for beating a good team. While they worked hard, and deserved to win, the Hawklets had to play cautiously and steadily to keep the Demons off their tails. Bobby Lowe looked like a future star for Washington, scoring eight points to lead them in scoring, while Bob Lewis was another standout at his guard post.

In the preliminary battle, Coach Herb Cormack's freshman-sophomores kept undefeated by rolling over the Washington yearlings, 22 to 14. Danner poured in eight points to lead Iowa City in scoring, while Bill Sangster and Bob Roth took care of the defensive end adequately.

Bluejay Back Ready
OMAHA, (AP)—Creighton University physicians said late today Johnny Knolla, the Bluejay's outstanding running and passing back, will be able to play against the San Francisco Dons on the Pacific coast Saturday. X-rays disclosed injuries that Knolla suffered in last Saturday's Oklahoma Aggies game were not serious. He will remain in the hospital until Wednesday night. He will leave with his teammates Thursday morning.

Sprint, Distance Meets Next Week

One of the most important series of track events will begin next Tuesday, Dec. 5, when the annual sprint-sextathlon and distance quadrathlon will be held on the field house track. This series of runs will cover four days, two in each of the next two weeks and will conclude the pre-season schedule of events billed by Coach George Bresnahan.

The events in the sprint portion of the meet will be the 30, 40, 50, 60, 70, and 80 yard dashes. The distance yardages will be the 220, 330, 440 and 660.

Two or three men will be allowed to run at the same time in each event and each of their times will be recorded and added in both the sprint and distance events. The man totalling the lowest score of times in each class of events, in both freshman and varsity groups, will be awarded prizes.

Officials: Williams (Wisconsin), Davis (Iowa).

The opening game Saturday night will be played at Mason City and will be the first time in many years that the Hawkeyes have opened up their season away from home. The game will feature the dedication of a new high school and junior college gymnasium.

This opening game will give Coach Williams a chance to see how the sophomore members react under fire. In recent scrimmages, sophomores have predominated on the first and second teams, although there are seven major lettermen from last season. It is unlikely that Erwin Prasse or Dick Evans will be ready for the Carleton game as they have not yet reported to the squad.

Dizzy Outlines 1940 Program in 'One Word-Work'

CHICAGO, Nov. 28 (AP)—Dizzy Dean, whose $185,000 salary has been a baffling puzzle to the Chicago Cubs for two seasons, had his 1940 program outlined in one word today: work.

Owner P. K. Wrigley of the Cubs did the outlining. Convinced that Dean's injured arm is completely healed, Wrigley said the big right handed pitcher would be expected to start pitching himself into shape as soon as the team goes to spring camp at Catalina island next March.

Wrigley believes Dean, who was purchased from the St. Louis Cardinals in April of 1938 for $185,000 and three players, can win plenty of games "if he makes up his mind to begin from the bottom once more, follow instructions and get himself in shape to give his arm a fair trial."

Wrigley said the Cubs definitely were not in the market for Joe Medwick, Cardinal slugger.

"I'm not sure Medwick would help us any," Wrigley said. "Stars haven't done so well with us in the past. Then too, Medwick has been stamped with the character of the Cardinals."

"I think we made a mistake last year when we gave the Giants Frank Demaree and Bill Jurgens, who belonged to Chicago, for two others, Dick Bartell and Hank Leiber, who were identified so long with New York. Those things seldom work out."

thought" it would improve Minnesota's livestock."

"Now get from the pig has won national livestock honors," he added.

"Floyd" went to Minnesota that year but this fall a bronze replica of the porker was returned to the Iowa campus when the Hawks licked the Gophers 13 to 9. All he has left of the pig now, Herring said, is a parchment pedigree "which I expect to place in a vault for safe keeping because it surely wouldn't otherwise last long enough for Minnesota to win it back."

The gathering applauded motion picture in color of the 1939 Minnesota game and heard Dr. Anderson say the Hawks may have lost the Michigan game, the lone upset, because the "boys were too intent upon winning."

Hawk Cagers Sent Through Stiff Drills

Carleton First Foe for Williams' Men Saturday Night

Coach Rollie Williams continued to drill his cagers on offensive and defensive tactics as the approach of the Carleton game gave his charges something to think about yesterday afternoon.

Last night's scrimmaging found the veteran Tommy Lind playing both at forward and at guard but for the major part of the practice he was kept at guard with Vince Harsha and Paul Giffin alternating at the other guard spot. The forward positions were held down by Angelo Anapol and Vic Siegel, with several of the other forwards being shoved in from time to time.

Both Rollie Williams and his assistant "Pops" Harrison criticized the poor ball handling of the teams and warned the cagers that bad ball handling would not be tolerated.

The opening game Saturday night will be played at Mason City and will be the first time in many years that the Hawkeyes have opened up their season away from home. The game will feature the dedication of a new high school and junior college gymnasium.

This opening game will give Coach Williams a chance to see how the sophomore members react under fire. It is unlikely that Erwin Prasse or Dick Evans will be ready for the Carleton game as they have not yet reported to the squad.

Johnson County 4-H Girls' Club Initiates 83

Members of the Johnson county 4-H girls' club initiated 83 farm girls into the organization Saturday at a ceremony conducted by Vlasta Frus, county president, in the Iowa City Light and Power company assembly room, Emmett C. Gardner, county agent announced yesterday.

Gardner and Wilman Lee Hudson; two marimba solos by Shirley Sherburne, Lone Tree; several songs by the 4-H club trio of Sharon, which includes Emily Yoder, Alice Wenborn and Marilyn Pieper, and the county girls' creed, given by Florence Prybil.

The serving committee included Mrs. Lloyd Burr, Lone Tree, county 4-H president; Rose Reed, Tiffin; Mrs. George Frus, Lone Tree; and Mrs. Grover Hudson and Mrs. Bion Hunter, both of Iowa City.

Paintings Serve as Key To Display Of Student Home Decoration Project

Furniture arrangements for a living room, dining room and bedroom, have been made by a home economics class of 17 university girls and are now on display at the Avery furniture store on Dubuque street.

Using as a starting point three paintings by Mrs. Louis Pelzer, 127 Ferson, wife of a university professor, the home economics students selected suitable colors and types of furnishings from the store and arranged them according to principles they have learned in the home decoration course this year.

The living room arrangement is being used as the window display and the other two rooms are inside the store. Prof. Lulu Smith teaches the class and managed the project.

Explosion Kills Founder

COLUMBUS, O., (AP)—An explosion in the Columbus imperial Fireworks co., powder mixing shed killed the firm's founder, Joseph Caccavello Sr., 60, yesterday and caused damage estimated at $2,300 by firemen.

Indict Fire Fighters

SUNBURY, Pa. (AP)—Five members of a forest fire fighting organization were indicted yesterday on charges of purposely igniting a woodland. Assistant District Attorney Carl Rice said they plotted to start fires, then collect pay for putting them out.

Rally Falls Short

The Delta Sigma Delta team downed Sigma Alpha Epsilon 15-11. It was Delta Sigma Delta all the way through, with S.A.E. coming up strong towards the end of the game. Heisman and Miltich notched four points each for the winners, with Nixon and Foster starring for the losers by sinking five and four points respectively.

All games scheduled for this evening have been canceled due to the Thanksgiving holiday. They will be played at a later date.

Shut-Ins Need Toys

R. E. Neff Requests Gifts for Kids At Children's Hospital

This is a story without any new facts. There is nothing unusual about it.

But it's a mighty important story to 100 small patients in the children's hospital at the University of Iowa, for upon the response of Iowans to what they are reading now depends Christmas happiness.

Robert E. Neff, administrator of hospitals, yesterday made his annual reminder to Iowans that all contributions would be gratefully received.

No Disappointments

Children who have to fight back the tears of disappointment won't be present if Iowans come through with their usual abundance of toys, games, books, magazines and clothing.

The Christmas committee will learn the wishes of each patient and, depending upon the variety of gifts from Iowa citizens, will try to fill each child's desires. And their goal is no apologies to any child.

100 Cannot Leave

It was pointed out by Mr. Neff that every child who is able will be sent home for Christmas, but still there will be at least 100 confined to the hospital. They represent practically every section of the state.

S.U.I. Women Continue WSUI Radio Series

The next to the last of a series of women's radio discussions will be broadcast over radio station WSUI this afternoon at 8:45. The subject of the forum will be "Can a Policy of Suppression be Safely and Justifiably Adopted by the United States?"

University women debaters who will participate are Bernice Moore, A4 of Davenport; Alice Montgomery, A2 of Memphis, Tenn.; Kathleen Newman, A2 of Clear Lake; Starr Hacker, A3 of Beaver, Pa.; Lorna Denmore, A3 of Edgewood; Betty Nissen, A4 of Cedar Rapids, and Helen Evans, A2 of Davenport.

Two important questions to be discussed are (1) What specific methods of suppression of anti-democratic groups might be expected? and (2) What would be the probable effects of adopting such methods?

Confessed Murderer Awaits Arraignment in County Court

Becicka Jailed Last Night By Sheriff, Agent

Search for Revolver Near Novotny Farm Home Unsuccessful

Charles Becicka, 28, Des Moines restaurant employee, confessed slayer of Mr. and Mrs. George Novotny, aged Shueyville farm couple, was confined to the county jail early last night by Sheriff Don McComas and State Agent Bob Gregson, who returned him from Davenport by the way of Cedar Rapids and Shueyville.

County Attorney Harold Vestermarck said last night Becicka will probably be arraigned before Judge Harold Evans today although no other indications were forthcoming to supplement the statement. Judge Evans was out of the city last night.

Sheriff McComas, after his return with Becicka to Iowa City last night, said an unsuccessful search was made at the Shueyville farm premises for the revolver Becicka told authorities he threw into a cornfield after the shooting of the Novotny couple Sept. 9.

Becicka was surrendered by federal officials yesterday to Johnson county authorities to stand trial for murder. He had been held by federal authorities on a charge of attempting to extort $200 from Wesley Novotny, of Curtis, administrator of the George Novotny estate.

District Attorney John K. Valentine, of Des Moines, said that in spite of approval of the arrangement will state authorities to try Becicka for murder, the extortion case will be presented to the federal grand jury in Des Moines next week.

The program is scheduled to open with an organ prelude of favorite old-time hymns. The program is divided into seven scenes of which a cast of 175 persons will take part.

Scene 1, "The Gospel Enters Iowa City with the Surveyor's Chains," is directed by Mrs. H. D. Brice.

Scene 2, "First Preaching Service a Century Ago," directed by Mrs. A. C. Harmon.

Scene 6, "Our Church Gives A Century of Service," Mrs. L. G. Lawyer.

Scene 7, "Church Departments For All Ages," directed by Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Spear, Mrs. Oathout and Mrs. Ricketts.

The grand finale is to be a presentation of flags and a revue of the entire cast. Following is an organ postlude of "Jesus Calls Us" and "America, The Beautiful."

The script for the revue was written by Mrs. Emmet C. Gardner, Mrs. H. V. Cherrington, and Dr. Edwin E. Voigt. The historians for the script were Dr. Ruth A. Gallaher, Dr. C. Ray Aurner and Mrs. Edward H. Weber.

Education in United States Too Specialized, Says Wellek

In continental colleges and universities, "Each person is supposed to become a scholar, as a scholarly doctor or a scholarly lawyer," Rene Wellek, lecturer in the English department, said last night to a group gathered in Iowa Union library for a Union Board library talk.

"There is little attention paid to what is called individual culture," he said of the European systems in his talk, "Universities: American and European."

"There is a strict line drawn between scholarly subjects and the skills like cooking and stenography. Today subjects have come to be looked at from the political view. Even math and physics and the sciences have been invaded by racial considerations," he continued.

Turning to American universities, Wellek, an authority on the European novel, pointed out that the danger of most graduate courses is that they limit the scholar to an almost superficial specialization.

He cited the examples of some subjects on which American students have received Ph.D. degrees. Examples were "Trends in Hosiery Advertising," "The Origin and Nature of Common Annoyances," "Clog Dancing," "Time and Motion Comparison in Four Methods of Dishwashing," and "Duties of the School Teacher," which included duty No. 586, "to provide the quiet march of the pupils to drinking fountains."

Undergraduate courses, on the other hand, require a smattering of a number of subjects which will be forgotten when the student has finished the course, he emphasized.

Wellek, a Czechoslovakian, came to the United States for the first time in 1927. He has been student and instructor at Princeton university, instructor at Smith college, and is now an instructor at Iowa.

The next library talk, scheduled before Christmas, will be given by Prof. Wilbur Schramm of the English department.

Sullivan Rites Tomorrow at 9

Funeral service for James Sullivan, 71, 510 Ronalds street, who died early yesterday afternoon after a short illness, will be held at 9 a.m. tomorrow at St. Wenceslaus church. He will be buried in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Mr. Sullivan resided all his life in Graham township until 1932 when he moved to Iowa City. In 1898 he married Rose Hradek and the couple resided on a farm until moving to Iowa City.

Survivors include his wife and several nieces and nephews. The body is at the Hohenschuh mortuary.

Alums Observe Ohio State Day At Party Friday

Townpeople and university students who are alumni or former students of Ohio State university will join in a world-wide observance of Ohio State day Friday with a dinner and informal get-together at 6 p.m. in Iowa Union.

Welt announced the university returns are now complete. Prof. H. R. Bowen, chairman of the university committee, has turned in a total of $399, it was reported.

The only other districts that have reported so far are the university hospitals, Westlawn nurses home and the schools. Lois Corder, chairman of the hospitals section has reported $307.35, and W. E. Beck, chairman of the schools has reported collections totaling $78.50, an incomplete figure.

"This being the last week of the drive," Welt said, "we hope to fulfill our quota by Thanksgiving day, when the drive officially ends."

Social Service League Gives Iowa City Chance To Aid Needy

Christmas Board Collects, Distributes Donations Of Food, Clothing, Toys, Money, Baskets From Townspeople, Students

Iowa Citizens will again be given the opportunity to brighten the Christmas of needy families of the community through donations of food, clothing, toys and money for Christmas baskets which will be distributed by the Christmas board of the Social Service league.

The committee, under the direction of Mrs. Minerva S. Knight, chairman, met Sunday at the league headquarters, 19 E. Market street, to discuss plans of distribution of Christmas baskets and suggestions for other methods of aid. Representatives of the local lodges, women's organizations, churches and university were invited. Mrs. Knight said, so that this year's appeal may result in another success for "Iowa City's 1,000 Neediest Cases."

Other Committee Members
Other members of the committee working with Mrs. Knight are Mrs. Thomas Farrell, Mrs. F. B. Olsen and Mrs. Grace Kendall. Last year 300 families were aided by the league and cooperating committees at Christmas time. This was an increase of 35 cases over the previous year.

"We would like to make even more persons happy this year," Frances Wilson, executive secretary of the league, said.

Miss Wilson discussed several other methods by which needy families could be helped. "Some may like to sponsor a family either by making a cash donation to the family who can plan their own Christmas, or by going with the mother on a shopping expedition for the children," she said.

Able To Secure Necessities.
Many families, she explained, either through WPA wages or with help from the agency, are able to secure the necessities of life such as food, shelter and clothing, but they lack the resources to take care of miscellaneous needs or to buy Christmas gifts and toys for their children.

Other articles making suitable gifts, she suggested, are toys of all kinds—sleds, wagons, dolls, bicycles, mittens, scarfs and caps, household supplies such as cooking utensils, linen, bedding and furniture, a subscription to a magazine or newspaper, plants for shut-ins, Christmas trees and ornaments and all types of food.

Both Town and Gown Aid
Last year both town and gown responded to the league committee's appeals in different ways. Several sororities and fraternities gave food and clothing, two groups gave cash, Currier hall residents gave a party for 25 children. Eastlawn residents gave a basket of toys, and the Home Economics club gave a box of clothing and toys.

Elks lodge prepared and delivered 49 baskets to poor families whose names were provided by the Social Service league.

Other groups to respond included the White Shrine, Past Matron's club of the Eastern Star, Federated Women's club, Iowa City Business and Professional Women's club, P. T. A. of Oxford, Coralville heights, Sub Deb club at Iowa City high school, E. O. S. club, Rotary, Kiwanis and other organizations, including all Iowa City churches.

Lampert and Packman-Wagner lumber yards and W. A. Lee donated trucks for the distribution of baskets which was largely handled through a central delivery system.

Emphasize Christmas
"Since Thanksgiving is so near to Christmas," Miss Wilson said, "it is customary to put more emphasis on the Christmas donations, although some needy families will be helped also on Thanksgiving."

A free movie for Iowa City children was shown on Saturday, the only charge of admission being some article of food. These contributions were turned over to the league for distribution in Thanksgiving baskets.

You Can't Burn It Up!

Shops Show Candles That May Be Handed Down Through Years

By BARBARA BISHOP

You can buy your Christmas candles to last for a lifetime this season. The foot and a half tall mystic candle, which comes in assorted colors, will burn steadily for 1,800 hours.

If this candle was burned for six hours on each Christmas day, it could be handed down in the family for generations to come because it would last for 300 years. Or if this candle was lighted on Easter and allowed to burn steadily, it could still serve as the centerpiece for your Christmas dinner.

Another Lifetime Candle
Another lifetime candle which will grace many holiday table this year is the cube candle. Made of solid wax and shaped like a cube, this candle will burn for 90 hours. This candle does not drip. Instead it is hollowed out and glows like a lantern.

A novel Christmas decoration for a coffee table is the water lily candle. Molded in the shape of a water lily, this candle can be lightened and then placed in water, where it will look almost real.

Candles which will carry out the traditional Christmas motif are those in the shape of Christmas trees and Santa Claus.

Our Table Decoration
These come in assorted shapes and sizes, and can be used to grace the Christmas tree or as distinctive table decorations.

A candle which gives off the actual odor of the fruit when burned is the apple candle. Resembling the old fashioned wax fruit, it will hollow itself out when burned instead of dripping.

Don't neglect the candle when decorating your house and table this Christmas.

'Quintuplet' Boiler Excellent Kitchen Gift

A kitchen gift suggestion, whether for holiday giving or for the December bride, there's a tricky "quintuplet" double boiler on the market. The vessel is of steel, the bottom of copper. It starts out as a double boiler. But there's a lid, a saucepan and a pan with two handles that fits over the saucepan. The saucepan may be used as such or as the bottom of a double boiler. The top pan may serve innumerable purposes—from ice bucket to baking dish.

Does She Write Long Letters?

Why Not Get Her 'Air-Mail' Stationery For Christmas?

By LEONA KECKLER

Stationery is always a useful and much appreciated Christmas gift. Everyone has letters to write, and attractive stationery lightens the drudgery for those who find hard work to keep up correspondence. Others take pride and genuine interest in writing their letters on stationery to fit their personality or the personality of the receiver.

For the individual with the ability to write long interesting letters which grow into many pages, a gift of "Air-Mail" paper would be appropriate. This paper is extremely light weight yet of a good consistency to write on. The envelopes are lined assuring the sender that a third party can not read words or phrases from his private letters.

Three Finishes

The three finishes to pick from are velum, which is a plain, smooth paper; laid, which has a pressed-lined effect; and ripple, which is rough and ripply as the name implies. The ripple finish is more decorative and should probably be sent to a feminine individual or one with extremely artistic tastes, or a liking for something different. Velum with its plain surface is a good type to send to anyone, although it is especially good for men or women with conservative tastes. The laid finish has a distinct personality and should be used or given to the person with a taste for the dignified and unusual or one who is especially conscious of what is right.

Stationery can be bought in many sizes including the large 8 by 12 inch, the regular 6 by 8 inch and the small note sizes. Also there are the correspondence cards which some writers prefer.

White Is Popular

White and shades of white is the color which is demanded by many, but the brownish-tan papers are very smart. Blue is an individual color for those who like color in their stationery. There is also white paper with edgings which may be obtained in colors.

Printed stationery, with the name and address of the writer, makes a lovely and personalized gift. Monogrammed stationery is the ideal of almost every writer. Writing paper with insignia of some social connection of the writer is appreciated. These can be bought with university seals, sorority seals, lodge seals and specific insignia of other organizations.

Witty Sayings

For the person who likes to be original there is the "witty-saying" stationery. This has illustrations and bright sayings at the top of the first page, to suit the writer's taste.

As gifts for the children stationery is highly prized. This comes in all sizes and colors, and with plaid-edges, plaid finishes and designed tops. Fairy stories, pets or names are often found here.

It is well to remember as you buy stationery that after the stationery is used there is always a box left. For this reason many companies put out their stationery in small cedar chests, or in boxes, which later turn out to be book ends or some in designed boxes later desirable for jewelry for jewelry cases.

It's Never Too Early for Christmas Shopping!

So Doris Bone, AI of Grand River, puzzles over her gift list (left). "Let's see now, is that everyone?" she wonders. After everyone has been included and a present for each one has been decided on, there's an exciting afternoon or two to spend shopping for the necessary gifts. "I think that's just what Cousin Bobby would like," she declares (center) as the clerk holds up a baby panda. The final step in the "preparing for Christmas" process is wrapping the packages in gay tissue and ribbon (right). It's a task but a very pleasant one, Doris thinks as she finishes tying the last red satin bow.

New Necklaces as Brilliant, Colorful As Gay Christmas Tree Decorations

By YVONNE RILEY

For the woman who delights in novel jewelry—and what woman doesn't this year?—no gift could be more appropriate than any one of the new necklaces which offer as much variety in form and color as the brilliant decorations of the Christmas season.

Costume jewelry is being shown to suit the personality of every woman on your shopping list, whether she is young or old, frivolous or conservative. With the right type of necklace, the beauty of any costume, from formal wear to sports wear, may be enhanced.

For formal wear, the most popular necklace is the heavy bib type, of gold or antique gold, to harmonize with any color scheme. A gold link chain, with cascades of smaller chains hanging from it or a wreath-like necklace of delicately fashioned gold flowers, is certain to please the most style-conscious woman.

Informal Necklaces
A limitless variety of necklaces for more informal wear is being shown. A striking effect is achieved by bright red jewelry, made in heavy twisted chains, strings of carved leaves and flowers, and bulky balls and pendants.

Transparent "bubble" jewelry of "unbreakable" glass is made in every color. There is also an unusual necklace made of amber flowers and leaves hanging from a heavy gold chain.

Coral is back in fashion's favor this season, alone or in combination with tiny colored shells, bunched together on chains.

Knick-Knacks
For the woman with a "taste for knick-knacks" in jewelry, an ideal gift is a charm necklace, which is supplanting the charm bracelet in popularity. In this type of necklace anything goes—

'A Caroling We Go!'

When you plan your holiday entertainment, why not include an evening of old-fashioned carol singing? Revive the old favorites and top the evening off with hot chocolate or coffee and your favorite Christmas cookies.

Greetings!

Grant Wood Influence Evident in Cards

Grant Wood, Thomas Benton and other contemporary artists are responsible for a very definite change in Christmas greeting cards this season. For while the same angels and candles and snow-covered hamlets are still with us, the newest cards are reproductions of recent American prints and etchings, proof of an ever-increasing interest in life in the United States.

Dubonnet and unusual blues are the featured colors for 1933. One freak style of card varies from the rest; it is an importation from Finland and is a flat card with a blank face, the only European influence in either color or subject.

Angels on The Mantel

For decorating your mantel this Christmas, you'll find the shops are showing tiny angels made of raffia or cord. These with several tall white tapers will lend a truly seasonal touch to your living or dining room.

What To Get HIM For Christmas

Here are 16 Suggestions for Gifts for the Masculine Half of Your List

What to get HIM for Christmas? It's one of those awful problems that come every year... just like a cold. One can only go so far in padding the bank account and still the gift has to be of the finest quality. Then there are brothers and fathers to think of. Not quite so important, perhaps, but they must be remembered too.

So, in between classes, exams and "cokes" you rack your brain for ideas. If only men would wear and use all the tricky little novelties that girls do, it would be so simple!

First, you go over the list of old reliables. Clothes may not make the man but his wardrobe is still more than just his closet. How about a tie? There is really a great variety in ties and it's not easy to pick one to suit him. If he's a "Joe College," a bright Scotch knit or a colorful Irish homespun is sure to please him. For the more conservative male, try a silk-wool mixture which has wool fibers on the top side and silk ones as backing, producing rather unusual color effects. Crochet ties — rich, crunchy and shape-holding — are back in style. Get them striped or with geometric designs.

By MARY KATHERINE HURN

Speaking of smoking, have you seen the three-compartment leather cigarette-cases? Their crowning feature, of course, is that he can keep cigarettes in the side spaces for "moochers" and keep his own favorite brand in the center. They will never know the difference and it's the accepted way to get rid of stale cigarettes.

Backgammon Sets

If you're interested in getting him out of the way for a while, give him one of those crocodile backgammon sets with a cork playing surface and composition men. It's very good-looking and if he doesn't like the game, he'll learn to when he sees it.

If he's a camera fiend, give him a camera. If he's a bookworm, give him a book. A gift for every man and a man for every gift. "It's more blessed to give than to receive" but if you give you're pretty sure to receive. Right?

Costume jewelry is a Christmas gift your fair lady might like. Necklaces, bracelets, clips, pins, lockets, rings and lapel ornaments, are being worn in abundance this year by every feminine individual. Smart sets of these can be bought and they make lovely gifts.

There is jewelry that is conservative and that which is extremely decorative. Both are being shown this year although the decorative and highly ornamental are the more popular.

The "bib" necklaces are the most popular style and those which are heavy are finding favor in fashion displays. These are made in brilliant stones, of one or all colors, black, white or gold. Gold and old gold jewelry is considered good this year, and since it harmonizes with any color, it enhances any costume. Also because of the dignity which gold gives an outfit, many women prefer it to all others. Gold lockets and crosses are in style, and these find favor as a sentimental gift.

Hocus Pocus! Presto! End Table Becomes Neat Sewing Cabinet

When you're looking for a gift for mother or grandmother don't neglect the furniture store. While you're there be sure and have the salesman show you the newest thing in sewing cabinets. It looks like a small end table until you lift the lid and then—behold! There are rows and rows of spools of all colored thread and darning cotton fastened to the top. And underneath you'll discover compartments for every necessary piece of sewing equipment and your mending as well. It's attractively finished, and it's extremely useful.

All Dressed Up

When it's a gift for a man who smokes that's puzzling you, don't forget that his favorite brand of cigarettes is probably wearing a special holiday package. Get him a carton and you'll be selecting a useful gift that will be appreciated.

What's New in Decorations? Here Are Ideas for The Tree!

Christmas just wouldn't be Christmas without a tree! Of course it does start "shedding" about two days after you put it up, and by New Year's you are picking pine needles out of everything but the food. In spite of it all, it seems that folks never get too old to enjoy a Christmas tree.

This year, in tree decorations, cellophane moves into top favor. Whether you are looking for wreaths, stars, icicles or background for tree lights, you can always find it in cellophane.

The wreaths of red or green cellophane come in a variety of sizes. Some are wired for electricity and when the light is turned on, that cellophane really shines!

No longer does the background of your tree lights have to be plain silver or gold in color. Red, green, blue or silver cellophane in any one of many shapes, adds more color to the tree.

Cellophane Peppercorns are replacing the tinsel ones that you used to make the tree glisten last year. Stars of every size and in every color, also made of cellophane, can be wired on the branches.

The patterns of the blown glass ornaments vary little from year to year. Since the finest of these are imported, they are somewhat scarce and a great deal of such products are being manufactured in this country. The same is true of the figures used in making up a "Christmas crib," which is now being made of metal instead of the paper mache used in the imported figures.

Most of the novelties this year are found in the Christmas tree lights. Some are made of clear glass, in the form of stars, and others are of red, blue or green glass. To delight the children, there are bulbs representing Mother Goose characters. Winkles, Blinkens and Nods, Old King Cole, Humpty Dumpty, Little Red Riding Hood, Little Boy Blue and the Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe can all be on your tree.

Candles on Every Tree

Back to "the good old days" with candles on the tree! For those who can have lights that are more appealing than bulbs, you can have lights that are made in the shape of candles, about an inch and a half tall, tapered off at the top and any color that your heart desires.

Other ideas in lighting effects to greet St. Nick are bells with tiny light bulbs inside, electric stars or an illuminated white cross.

To put on the very top of your Christmas tree, get a radiant, aluminum star in whatever color you wish and turn it on. They are fireproof and insulated so that you can use them in the yard or in the house with perfect safety.

Tinsel Old Stand-By
The old stand-bys, tinsel, angel

hair and mica snow are good in decorating. The blown glass ornaments with a string of tinsel hung down the center, made to look the same color as the glass, are new and different.

Of course, you don't have to stop decorating when you finish the tree. The rest of the house might profit by a bit of touching up too. Bells, made of tinsel over cardboard, and strung together with little glass bulbs make the doorway look so much better. Little white celluloid reindeers can be tucked in any spot of the room and red wax candles, made in the shape of a Christmas tree, will add the finishing touch to your Yuletide decorations... Merry Christmas!

The parent, birthstone of January, is the badge of friendship and brotherly love.

Clothes for Christmas Will Be Cheerily Colored

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor

Lots of frocks which gather around turkey-laden dinner tables this Christmas will be all wool and a yard wide—at the hem at least.

For holiday fashions feature scores of sheer wool frocks in soft light shades that make strangely colorful splashes on a sober winter fashion landscape.

They have come to life—and are going places—in such shades as mauved grey blue (a favorite), muted aquamarine, light greyed green, dusty rose, amethyst amber, gold and silver grey. After one startled look at colors so unusually light for winter wear many New Yorkers have added one or more to their wardrobes and expect them to do duty not only for holiday daytime parties, but through the spring as well.

The light wool frocks are designed with soft skirt fullness, a number being about a yard wide at the hem. They generously have simple bodices which serve as backgrounds for a bit of costume jewelry. (Not much is needed, or liked, with these lighter hues.)

There are also a lot of sober wools, crepes and velvets—dark green, wine, grape, plum, brown and deep grey—which are going to be seen at many Christmas day family dinners. More than half are touched with some bit of glitter—sequins, bead embroidery, shining buttons and such—which will shimmer under Christmas tree lights.

Many a chic American, however, is going to choose black in a suave slim crepe or a swish-ing faille, and give it zip with costume jewels and a colored chapeau. Costume jewels never made a braver glitter than they do this year. They shimmer in ears and on wrists, swathe necklines like great brilliant bibs and gleam in brooches and clips worn over fur coats and muff.

Colored chapeaux are everybody's love this winter. Newest are turbans of wool lace in such colors as pale grey blue, green and red, sometimes spattered with a few gold sequins, draped suavely about the head and finished with two ends that cross under the chin. More are made of velvet or furry beaver felt in such hues as turquoise, old rose, amber or bronze green.

The glitter that sounds like lilted notes throughout Christmas daytime fashions bursts into a whooping theme song when night comes. It shimmers everywhere from the gold and silver threads woven in a number of laces and brocades to the metal and sequin embroideries on evening wraps and dinner clothes and the jewels which are worn with every gown. Indeed there is so much glitter to be found that one

New York shop is advertising "gowns without a touch of glitter." But it promises to hold its own strongly throughout the holidays, for the best of it is used with good taste and restraint.

Most of the frocks which are going to be worn at the holiday evening parties reflect the strong vogue for the covered-up look. Dinner dresses and suits, designed for theater as well as dinner parties, have long sleeves and high necks. Their skirts are nearly always slim giving them a sleek, suave air. They are made of black or richly colored wool, velvet or crepe and have one glittering exclamation point in embroidery, bright buttons or a jewel.

The covered-up look appears again in the dance frocks, many of which are either designed with sleeves or topped by jackets to cover shoulders and arms. Most of these have full swishing skirts which add to the grace and beauty of dancing. Many combine at least two colors. Hip-shelving Spanish Infanta frocks have skirt insets of contrasting color—snuff brown on black for instance—while swishing silver grey taffeta frocks are topped with citron yellow or green velveteen jackets.

Frothy full-skirted net frocks, inspired by the ballet are going to dance under the mistletoe, too, their bodices of shimmering brocade or sparkling sequins cut to a low décolletage contrasting with the covered look.

White, black, red, silver greys and blues, gold and copper shades, rich plums and deep greens and pinks are favorite dance frock colors.

The glitter which marks evening frocks appears again in wraps. Many long fitted ones of rich-hued wools are embroidered in metal threads while the cuffs of short fur ones are touched with shimmering paillettes.

Perfume To Suit Varied Personalities Available for Milady's Christmas

A whiff of scent on the crisp air of a snowy night. What sort of a girl does it suggest? The answer is in the kind of perfume that she uses. Honeysuckle, Oleander, Safari or "Sui-vee-moi." For each name carries a meaning as distinct as its fragrance.

Although manufacturers announce that toilet waters and colognes will reach new popularity this winter, there are many women who will always prefer older and more heavy scents. For them there are several new creations, Reflection, Safari, hinting of jungles and the tropics; Shalimar and Shanghai, as exotic as their names.

Deserving special mention is "Rouge et Noir" very new and very satisfactory for any occasion. Sharing honors are two Bermuda importations, Oleander and Easter Lily. The three are spicy and never, never cloying yet they are among the longest lasting of all scents.

Flower scents, light and delicate as spring, have undoubtedly staged a comeback. Appleblossom and Blue Grass and Honeysuckle are only a few of the new cologne and toilet water fragrances; while the early American spices enjoy even greater popularity, this year in powders, sachets and bath oils as well as perfumes.

Picture the new containers that these bottles are sent in. There are Christmas bells and round woolly snowballs and hob nail ware and Gainsborough miniatures. There is even a sachet that comes in tiny "gunny" sacks. All are ready for Christmas, waiting for the day when they will glitter beneath a glittering tree, waiting for the woman whose personality fits theirs.

Table Triad Makes Useful Yuletide Gift

An interesting gift in the furniture line is the nest of three tables, all of identical shape, finish and design, but of graduating sizes which is being shown by several dealers. The tables can be pushed under each other or pulled out and used separately according to the room available and the need for table space.

The forerunner of the clarinet, a single-reed musical instrument, was the ancient chalumeau, from primitive Russia, India and Greece.

When You Look for Presents, Don't Forget Handkerchiefs

By JOANNA HUTTENLOCHER

You can always be sure that your gift will be received with warm welcome if it's a handkerchief you're giving. And this year—especially there are such a variety of kinds to suit every costume and occasion that any girl would be proud to receive this finishing touch to her costume.

This year the "hanky makers" have run riot with ideas. And they have made the once uninteresting handkerchief as popular as the chunky jewelry everyone's wearing these days.

When you are purchasing a handkerchief, it is helpful to buy with a certain costume or occasion in mind. It's more fun and the gift is sure to please.

Print Handkerchiefs
If your gift is for the friend who loves color, why not give her an attractive print handkerchief? They come in bright shades or subdued tones and in small or large figures. One especially attractive one is covered by a huge dahlia plant which bursts into bloom at the corner of the linen square. Another print in glorious shades of purple and cyclamen is decorated with bunches of prickly pine cones, and is trimmed with a hand rolled hem.

Just new this year are the handmade drawn-work linens. A shadowy pattern is worked into the weave, giving a mystic effect to the design. A dainty chain of flowers twines around the edge to make a trim handkerchief that would work well for any costume or occasion.

French Linen
For sports wear French linen squares trimmed with a handsome wide hem are still very popular and practical, too. The initialed handkerchief is another to retain its popularity. But even they have been streamlined, the letters are highly stylized now and new colors are being used.

Applique work is still adorning the best of handkerchiefs. And such a variety of designs that are flowers, fish, animals, whatever you want is applied on white or colored linen. It's nice to think of your friend's interests when purchasing one of these, as there is sure to be a pattern representing her hobby.

Plain Colors
In new fall and winter shades the plain linen squares come back to us. Wide hems, rolled hems, dark or light shades, they're the finishing touch to any wardrobe in matching or contrasting colors.

Silver Will Sprinkle Gift Packages Under Christmas Tree This Season

By JESSIE LOU KING

Silver will sprinkle your gift packages this Christmas, for it dominates the new designs that paper manufacturers are bringing out. Conservative folk will gasp at the first sight of some of the other new colors and patterns and perhaps murmur of the good old days when Christmas gifts were always dressed in white tissue and tied neatly with red ribbon.

But this year's paper offers a chance for original wrapping, whether you have talent for it or not. There is no need of a greeting card when you send paper stamped with "Greetings To You" or "Good Luck" around that lamp for Aunt Isabelle. And Christmas cards themselves are proudly displayed in all their color and freshness in another new pattern.

And the colors! Blue bells are set against silver stripes; bronze scotties frolic against scarlet and snow-covered hills. Stylized skiers glide down holly slopes, all to provide more and more brilliance. Above all silver predominates in trim and background and signs point to a silver and blue Christmas.

Cellophane, either for ribbons or wrapping, is in an even larger assortment of shades than ever before. Ribbons have progressed until they now offer as many de-

Gloves Offer Solution to Gift Problems For This Season's Shopper

By MARY E. HIGGINS

If you are looking for something really different as far as a covering for the hands goes you won't have any trouble this season. Novelty appearance, as well as warmth and comfort, seems to be the predominating feature.

The cleverest idea yet for gloves is the muff glove. The glove part is of bright red leather and lined with wool, then there is a big cuff of black dyed rabbit fur. The fur is on both sides of the cuff, you just turn down the cuff and there are your hands in a cozy fur muff. Almost anyone who likes her hands as well as her toes kept warm would love a pair of these.

Speaking of fur cuffs the grand standbys—pigskin gloves—have developed a new wrinkle. You can now buy white, natural or brown pigskin with fur cuffs of the same color. If you aren't shopping for gifts for someone else—you could just drop a hint that you yourself could very easily be on the receiving end of such a pair.

Fabric Gloves

There are always the conventional fabric, suede and kid gloves but they too have been dressed up and modernized. In kid there is the new finger free style. An extra strip of leather of a different color usually is inserted with lacings between and on the side of each finger. This means extra finger spread and more comfort for the fingers.

In suede you couldn't go wrong with a pair in one of the glorious new shades of moss green, stop red or pacific blue which are the most popular just now. Matching suede bags are in vogue also in the shocking new coral and turquoise shades.

Extremely popular with the young college woman are the luscious white bunny mittens. Soft white rabbit fur mittens and also those fluffy, cotton candy, white angora mittens that seem to melt in your hands, are worn for formal and very special wear.

Soft and Smooth
Mentioning things soft and smooth, have you felt the luxurious doekskin gloves that come in white or natural. White is by far the leading color this fall as you have probably already noticed.

Good warm, practical gloves or mittens are the regular wool knitted. Made in all the most attractive, bright colors, you can get them in the plain, novelty weave or embroidered styles.

show us in the sweater department, however, was a wonderful jersey blouse in fire-engine red. Its color is exciting and its white Peter Pan collar and tiny gold stud buttons make it demure. She would love this under her Christmas tree!

Formal Sweaters

And if you are looking for something which would make a really individual gift, have you thought of giving her a formal sweater? We saw in a shop the other day a black one with the Midas touch of gold embroidery, very regal and svelte as it topped a long black skirt.

And a red flannel sweater-jacket for evening (yes, really!) which boasts gold taid military shoulders and a smart, zippered front, will make her really appreciate the holiday season.

How could she resist? How can we resist? Quick, let's get out before we buy ourselves a Christmas present!

Nuts to You!

When roasting nuts for holiday use, work with one kind at a time; different nuts require different cooking periods. Also try to work with nuts of uniform

Why Not A Sweater?

Buttoned Cardigans, Jersey Blouses Make Attractive Gifts

By JULIE WEAVER

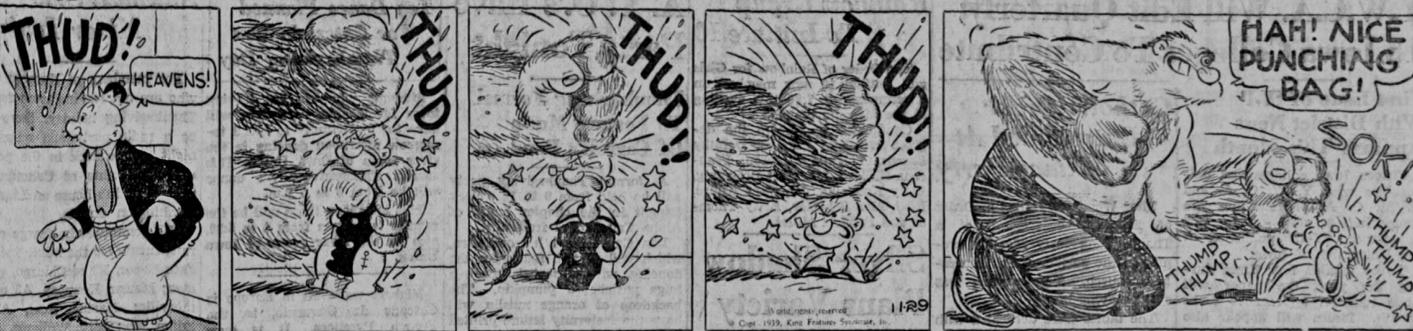

It won't be long now! If you're stumped before you start on this problem of a Christmas gift for her, there is one thing you know you'll never go wrong on—one thing that never misses the mark. To a college girl, it is one of life's necessities. She never has enough.

Sweaters. And such beautiful ones are being shown for Christmas suggestions: that even the masculine eye can't fail to appreciate their worth.

Pearl Button Cardigans
First there is the eternally popular pearl-button cardigan, in either "Sloppy Joe" or "Smooth Fit" styles. Some of the new ones have clever little detachable hoods. They are all shown in bright new jewel-tones, as well as the rich stability of brown and black.

The newest thing they had to size.

ENJOY THE POST THIS WEEK...

Isn't "Rush Week" Exciting?

• Yes, being "rushed" by the big sororities was to be Judith's most thrilling experience. She was young. She was beautiful. And definitely eligible. But who was to know she was bucking a business, highly organized and heartless? A poignant short story that may be resented by the few who are chosen... Turn to page 12 of this week's Post and read Many Are Called.

by MARGARET WEYMOUTH JACKSON

"Music is a brutal business!" says ARTIE SHAW

Why did Artie Shaw quit last week? "Politics, corruption and a system of patronage aren't the only things a musician has to fight," says the King of the Clarinet. "What's worse are one-night stands and long, brutal jumps that wreck a man's health." Here's his fantastic rags-to-riches climb... from 47¢ cash a year ago to $6,000 an afternoon, and what it did to him!

AND... in the same issue—George Halas, coach of the Chicago Bears, tells you what makes pro football faster than college football in Hold What Line?... Booth Tarkington brings you a hilarious new short story, The Jabjam Motor Trip... Demaree Bess shoots a timely radiogram, Why Hitler Wanted Peace... ALSO short stories, articles, poems, editorials, cartoons—all in this week's issue of The Saturday Evening Post

CAN THEY BOMB US?

Why is it that with the least effective anti-aircraft system in the world today we are still immune to attack? A military expert in the Post this week reports on our present air defenses, brings you news of the greatest single military secret in the world today, which allows U. S. pilots (and them alone) "to drop a bomb accurately into a pickle barrel from 18,000 feet up!" An important article, by Fletcher Pratt, in your copy of the Post.
